[Matrix Report v4.0, Dec. 2010] This report has been conducted in the spirit and honor of one of our most precious rights: Freedom of Speech. This work is totally not-for-profit. All material herein is to be treated and protected under Fair Use and Archived for Educational and Research Purposes Use Under U.S.C. Title 17 Section 107. Therefore, those who would wish to censor this work, or silence us, you must first eradicate the laws of free speech. The content of this work is so controversial, so heart breaking, so far from “official sanctioned narratives,” traditional established norms and beliefs, so different from that what you were taught you whole life, it can therefore be deemed as radical, revolutionary and even detestable, thus can easily be misconstrued as viscous defamatory or even framed as dangerous content... but only to those who choose to read without an unbiased open mind. For if you can manage to begin chapter one all the way to the end of this report, you will understand the basis of the big picture. The purpose of this report is NOT to instill hate and animosity, but to identify and reveal the cruel cold hard shocking reality of this world in hope that once the causal core root sources of the problems that plague mankind are revealed, then and only then can they be confronted and adequately fixed. I have invested many years of research on this report; I have done so without bias or malice in my heart, my only goal is the pursuit of and to discovery the unadulterated TRUTH. TRUTH DOES NOT FEAR INVESTIGATION.

This Matrix report does NOT dwell in speculation or silly conspiracy “theories,” I despise conspiracy theories. Everything covered herein within these pages has undergone exhaustive research and cross referencing. Everything included within these pages is completely based on true unblemished VERIFIABLE FACTS and nothing but CONFIRMABLE COLD HARD FACTS that expose the true COSMIC REALITY, hard core PROVABLE TRUTH which I hereby try my best to disclose and articulate. What I reveal within these pages and my language is NOT rated PG, it is NOT sugar coated and most definitely not politically correct part of the status quo. Those who enjoy living in La La Land, can do so, go ahead remain plugged into the matrix, take the blue pill route of life for you can continue to sing and pray for evil to go away while you hide your head in the sand. I on the other hand come forth as a warrior carrying my razor sharp sword of TRUTH to boldly cut through the established hyperbole narratives to expose and destroy the evil works of those who wish to enslave mankind.

In this world of darkness full of lies, deceit, false misleading information, I have come forth with the only reference work in existence of comprehensive encyclopediac size, scope, depth and breadth exposing the “Illuminati,” it is designed to reveal the big picture and point you in the right direction with key links for further exploration, I try my best to keep topics as brief as I possibly can while definitively beyond a shadow of doubt exposing TRUE REALITY. I must also point out that each chapter introduces and touches upon a multitude of subjects that cannot possibly be covered in great detail in this report. Treat EVERY topic herein as subjects that you must take time to independently research and verify on your own.

People often wonder, if evils exist in any given enterprise then where are the whistle blowers? Well, thousands upon thousands of whistle blowers have come forth from every part of the matrix, the problem is that they have ALL been ridiculed, censored and/or silenced in one way or another... I am here to remove your blindfolds, restore your sight, break the matrix’s grip on your perception of reality and restore your internal compass.

Please download the Matrix Report and MAKE COPIES, hand them out to all your friends, rename and repost all this info on your own websites before this information is made to disappear by "Big Brother." The worst thing you can do in your life is NOTHING. Make all the copies you wish, print it, publish it, seed it in P2P networks, Bit Torrent, bulletin boards, Usenet, post it, email it, Digg it, Reddit, Facebook it, Tweet it etc., put it in hundreds of different places for people to download it from, please circulate this report anyway you can. Truth will eventually overcome for once all their lies are EXPOSED there will be no where for the “hidden masters” to hide. Yes the truth IS instrumental in setting everyone free; it is the secret ingredient that will usher in the great awakening...

The choice is up to you now. You have been warned of the disturbing nature of the content... It is your decision, do you put this report down right now, burn it and walk away, continuing your life in LaLa Land in the total bliss of pure ignorance – or - do you, continue to read on, to free your mind, proceeding through the portal, staying in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-holes go... Prepare to become unplugged from the matrix...

Behold, for I present to you:

INTRODUCTION TO THE MATRIX:

COGNITIVE REALITY DeBRIEFING THE STATE of MENTAL ENSLAVEMENT

REALITY, TOTAL AWARENESS AND LUCID THOUGHT REVOLUTIONARY TRUTH REVEALED

"It is only the TRUTH that can make a man FREE. It is only the TRUTH that can make a man LIVE. The truth has been branded OUTLAWED & ILLEGAL. It is DANGEROUS to have the truth in your possession. You can be found GUILTY and sentenced to DEATH. My words are the TRUTH and the truth causes OFFENSE. I DON'T CARE what men want to say about me BECAUSE WITHOUT THE TRUTH THERE IS NO CONSCIOUSNESS." Source, unknown.

"In a time of universal deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary act." - George Orwell

A truth's initial commotion is directly proportional to how deeply the lie was believed. It wasn't the world being round that agitated people but that the world wasn't flat. When a well-packaged web of lies has-been sold gradually to the masses over generations, the truth will seem utterly preposterous and its speaker a raving lunatic. – Dresden James

The power to fit in with one's social peers can be irresistible. To a human lemming, the logic behind an opinion doesn't count as much as the power and popularity behind an opinion. – Norman Livergood?

"The ultimate ignorance is the rejection of something you know nothing about and refuse to investigate." - Dr. Wayne Dyer

“For my part, whatever anguish of spirit it may cost, I am willing to know the whole truth; to know the worst and provide for it.” - Patrick Henry

First and foremost: the entire underlying foundation of why it is of utmost importance to know and understand HOW evil exists and works in this world is clearly mentioned in the bible... For it is written "know thy enemy." There is a hidden war being waged between the forces of good and evil, this war has been waged for eons. Yet you, like the majority of mankind is totally blind to this “invisible” unseen, misunderstood REALITY, thus you are all BLIND to the existence of the evil ruler of this world and his agents here on earth fulfilling his wishes. I’m here to blow this smoke and mirrors psy-op wide open and totally expose all the elements of this hidden war and reveal its agents.

“One of the elementary grounds of combating any enemy are the ‘Rules Of War’ as taught at the US Special Warfare School at Ft Bragg – which also incorporated many rules of Sun Tzu’s ‘Art Of War’ – was to FIRST OF ALL know who the hell your ‘ENEMY’ is. Now – as we all know (SHOULD know) – all nations potentially have TWO types of enemies – both “FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC” – as in the oath that all of us who served in uniform swore to protect our nation against. A “useful idiot” is one who is ignorant of the facts to the extent that they end up unwittingly advancing an adverse cause that they might not otherwise support.” – Cortina.

“A nation can survive its fools, and even the ambitious. But it cannot survive treason from within. An enemy at the gates is less formidable, for he is known and carries his banner openly. But the traitor moves amongst those within the gate freely, his sly whispers rustling through all the alleys, heard in the very halls of government itself. For the traitor appears not a traitor; he speaks in accents familiar to his victims, and he wears their face and their arguments, he appeals to the baseness that lies deep in the hearts of all men. He rots the soul of a nation, he works secretly and unknown in the night to undermine the pillars of the city, he infects the body politic so that it can no longer resist. A murder is less to fear” - Marcus Tullius CICERO 106BC to 43BC, Roman philosopher and statesman.

Yes there exists both foreign and DOMESTIC enemies... both of which we will be revealing here in this investigative research report are operating right here under our very noses without as much as anyone having a clue. These agents of foreign governments have literally invaded our country long ago and assimilated themselves into our society, slowly but steadily they have been advancing themselves, their agendas and their interests to the point where they have in fact been controlling this nation by proxy for quite some time now... these are the elusive “hidden masters.” And they have been leading this nation into self destruction. You see all the stories of this nation’s slow spiral into the abyss every day in the news, some new massive national problem here and there; the downward trend of the past several decades is self evident, all our nation’s jobs have been purposely moved overseas, (our the puppet government has actually been encouraging this and gives them tax incentives for doing so!) as a result the unemployment rates continue to grow with no end in sight, our nation is under so many troubles that its financial ruin is almost inevitable, increased decadence, immorality, third world level education, destruction of family values and so forth, these are just the spasms of its self destruction...

In order to win any “war” the smart army or country or hero always needs to know WHO, what, when, where, how and everything about the enemy. This is fundamental elementary military strategy 101. The military calls the practice of knowing thy enemy: Intel which is often acquired via Recon (reconnaissance), monitoring the target’s activities, insider info, espionage, etc. hence the use of secret “intelligence agencies” who specialize in this area.

With good intel THE ENEMY HAS NO SECRETS, because you know all their plans and strategies, they cannot hide, thus one can more readily and efficiently combat and eventually defeat the enemy. If you do not have the crucial “Intel” (as in you don’t have a clue who they are and what they are up to) the enemy remains invisible, thus they exist, operate and attacks undetectable without warning. He who does not “know thy enemy” leaves himself helpless, vulnerable and hopelessly open to control, manipulation and assault. The enemies know this strategy very well, that is why they use a counter military strategy call DISSINFORMATION. Thus ones intel and knowledge gained from “knowing thy enemy” must be completely founded in TRUTH. Without the FACTS and TRUTH intel you are fighting a futile war, clueless, wondering what they are up to, as if you were blindfolded, or BLIND... wandering around in darkness, a feeble clueless victim of the unseen forces that surround you for they are beyond your cognitive perception radar therefore you are lost in the dark and have no real control... He who has an ear let him hear...

Lucifer, the devil, satan operate under a massive unified CLOAK OF INVISIBILITY here on earth. This cloak of invisibility has been universally referred to throughout history as his cover of "darkness." His agents here on earth wear suits and ties and are often very wealthy, popular and charismatic, they operate largely with impunity and immunity. They collectively make the laws of the land and cohesively control the realm of perception of reality.

In this material centric world full of distractions, no one understands who, what, when, where and HOW the devil (and his representatives here on earth) rules, thus he does so freely, wantonly without any resistance, for the world is BLIND to his presence. This world is full of the blind leading the blind. Many people actually don't want to know. There's a part in most people that will resist change, new discoveries, insights, enlightenment every step of the way. After all, it means you probably won't ever be able to go back to your old comfortable way of thinking, being and living. Yet there is also a part of us that yearns to know the unknown.

Let me tell you why you're here. You're here because you know something. What you know you can't explain, but you feel it. You've felt it your entire life, that there's something wrong with the world. You don't know what it is, but it's there, like a splinter in your mind, driving you mad. It is this feeling that has brought you to me. Do you know what I'm talking about? The ruling elite matrix. The Matrix is a ruling system. That system is the enemy of Heaven and earth. When you're inside, you look around, what do you see? Businessmen, teachers, lawyers, carpenters. The very minds of the people we are trying to save. But until we do, these people are still a part of that system and that makes them "useful idiots," pawns, puppets, servants, slaves and agents of the enemy. You have to understand, most of these people are not ready to be unplugged. And many of them are so inured, so hopelessly dependent on the system that they will fight to protect it. The Matrix is everywhere. It is all around us. Even now, in this very room. You can see it when you look out your window or when you turn on your television. You can feel it when you go to work... when you go to church... when you pay your taxes. It is the world that has been pulled over your eyes to blind you from the truth. What truth? That you are a slave, Neo. Like everyone else you were born into bondage. Into a prison that you cannot taste or see or touch. A prison for your mind. I'm trying to free your mind. But I can only show you the door... You're the one that has to walk through it. Free your mind... Emancipate yourself from mental slavery... for only then can you transcend the boundaries of indoctrinated group think that has made up your comprehension of "reality."

I'm sorry to have to break the news to you this way, but, you have been MENTALLY ENSLAVED your entire life. Perpetually entertained and trivial information overloaded, you haven't noticed it for you have come to identify with and adore your servitude... Like most people around you, you have become so used to your current state of being that you don't even notice the extent of how fake and morally devoid the world is becoming. Decadence and immorality surrounds you on a daily basis yet you have become accustomed to it. Oh, you say, no that's not right? Here is your wake-up call. Every time you fire up that TV set it is full of immoral bullshit beaming through the airwaves embedding itself in the innermost recesses of your mind. It is almost impossible to change the channels without stumbling onto decadent programming. Some of the most obvious being shows such as: Jerry Springer, Flavor of Love, Howard Stern, decadent reality shows, anything and everything on MTV, the list is endless. For instance, Jersey Shore (staring a bunch of immoral retards) was one of the "hot" shows last season, I feel sorry for the feeble people who think such pathetic crap is cool. This clearly demonstrates the far extreme of Satan's programming on earth, how he makes immorality and decadence "normal" and "hip" and where people turn around and say "oh that's just a TV show." No, those TV shows are actually much more profound than you could ever fathom. Their impact on the human psyche and soul is beyond all established means of measurement.

This is not a religious work, anyone who is a dedicated Christian should know the basic fundamentals they teach in Church about religion, therefore I am not even going to go there. What I am about to reveal is the hard core reality of Lucifer's TANGIBLE reign and his system here on earth, what I refer to as the matrix.

My mission is to design this report as a defibrillator in order to shock your soul back to life, reawaken your inquisitive nature, to get you to think for yourself, question everything around you and clear the way for liberation from the many forms of enslavement. Now, you can either choose to free your mind and investigate these matters further or put down this report and turn on your hypnotic programming apparatus, its architects called a “Tell-a-Vision” (TV) and tune in to your favorite mind numbingly “TV program.”

Webster’s dictionary defines “program”: 6 a : a plan for the programming of a mechanism (as a computer) b : a sequence of coded instructions that can be inserted into a mechanism (as a computer) c : a sequence of coded instructions (as genes or behavioral responses) that is part of an organism.

You can continue to live in the wonderful bliss of ignorance or you can remove your blindfolds and boldly keep reading. It’s time to wake up Dorothy... you’re not in Kansas anymore...

“The Truth is often hated and looked upon as evil by those who would argue for immorality. Those who contend for Truth will be despised, ridiculed, and hated. You see, Truth is hate to those who hate the Truth.

We live in a time when the godly structures of the family, church, and nation have been reduced to rubble by ideologies that are contrary to the Word of God.

For example, one such belief that has risen to prominence in our culture over the past two decades is the acceptance of homosexuality as a tolerable lifestyle. The days are here in the United States where one who would hold to the biblical conviction and publicly state that homosexuality is a sin may be prosecuted and imprisoned [through the Hate Crimes Act]. The foundation of our society is in dire need of repair. God is looking for men who know how to rebuild this nation’s foundation and fight to protect it from anything that would try to destroy it.” – source unknown

Before I begin, please note that this is not a “religious” work but is. I must state that I am a Watchman, an anonymous messenger. I have nothing to gain from revealing all that I am about to disclose except for knowing that I have at least tried to inform and open the eyes of my fellow man regarding the true realities of this world. This is not about me, it is about the profound message I come forth to reveal. Modern day media centric society has a tradition of “killing the messengers,” shredding them apart, ridiculing, attacks, smear campaigns, character assassinations and so forth, all with the malicious intent of discrediting the messenger, thus extinguishing the light of THE MESSAGE, tarnishing it, rendering it null and void floating in a realm of doubt. This tactic is well known and widely utilized by professional “debunkers” and “discreditors.” This commonly used tactic is called the “Ad hominem argument”, sorry, but I refuse to subject myself to those futile exchanges. I am only here to deliver the profound message, take it or leave it.

In this case there will be no one with a big target on their forehead to assail due to the fact that I am a totally anonymous ghost. Thus I will spare everyone the distraction of trying to analyze, dissect and attack the messenger, as a result the only thing left will be to focus on is the actual message. Digest the words of truth that I am about to share. For TRUTH is absolute and eternal. It is pure, it does not lie or deceive. Truth transcends time and space, it’s often very simple and logical, in the end it doesn’t matter who the messenger is, for the truth will always be true no matter who tells it, even if it comes from a clown the message does not lose one bit of meaning or importance. One of sound mind and heart can recognize the truth if he so chooses to honestly reflect upon and digest its words and their meanings. Truth reveals all, it is timeless and unchanging, one truth has the power greater than a thousand lies.

My credibility and authority exists in my words expounding unadulterated truth. When one has the truth on their side there is no need to impress anyone with boasts of worldly titles acquired from this fallen civilization enclosed in darkness as references. When the truth is your sword there is no need to present worldly titles, sophisticated university degrees nor rely upon dully accredited, accepted, recognized reputation, fame and fortune to try and gain respect, legitimacy and reverence as a right to speak or be heard and taken seriously. Instead I lay out the simple straight forward uncensored raw truth of all my research and what has been revealed to me. Take it or leave it. With that said and done, I come forth wielding my sword of truth and exercising the divine rights Heavenly Father has bestowed upon each and every one of us in hopes of liberating those who have been enslaved by the deceiver of man...

What is “real”? How do you define “real”? The word “reality” is derived from “real”, they are one and the same. Therefore in determining what is true reality one must sift through the myriad of tainted, false, manufactured, instigated, contrived, composed narratives and events formulated by OTHERS who then present them to you as “real” reality. The single most inherent problem of people being able to determine what is “real” is they more often than not confuse their own (or someone else’s) VIEWPOINT with actual cognitive reality. Absolute “reality” and “Real” are eternally fused to “truth.” One’s ability to discern true reality is directly connected to the level of one’s awareness and depth of perception of all things transpiring around him and his environment, including that which can or cannot be readily observed or seen.

Truth doesn’t come from just asking a person a question and getting an answer. Understanding truth comes from realization, digging deeper and finding out what’s behind that answer and what that answer really means. The single most imperative thing one searching for answers is to ALWAYS find and study the CAUSE... the ROOT, otherwise known as getting to the “bottom” of it all.

Even when a person’s not consciously lying, they are seeing a version (perception) of the world that may not be exactly the real version of the world for it is just their “viewpoint.” Thus cognitive perception and truth are eternally intertwined. One’s level of perception of reality directly correlates to one’s ability to process, understand and comprehend truth of what is really happening in their midst. The capacity for people to believe what they want to believe, rather than what is actually true, is astounding. The great deceivers of man fully understand that perception becomes and is processed as reality, thus they have been manipulating human perception to such an extent that it is truly mind boggling. It is written: “Thou they have eyes they are still blind.” [Isaiah 43:8] My mission is very simple: to open your eyes and awaken you from your deep slumber.

The knowledge we present can and will shake the very foundation of your beliefs about the world you live in. From the days even before you were a child in school holding your right hand to your heart, pledging unwavering "allegiance to the flag" on a daily basis, the indoctrination began. Get in line, single file, obey those in authority, this is how our world works, this is what’s normal, this is our sanctified history (revisionist history that is taught is glaringly devoid of REAL history, and only focuses on the NARRATIVES the ruling elite want to program into the public conscience, for it is from the foundation of our recollection of history that we formulate thoughts and understand of the present), etc., etc., etc. Our young moldable minds soak everything in. Oh the blemish free, wonderful fairy tale like, magnificent country and world view we have been taught to blindly believe in. How blessed and benevolent art thou! Lies are lies, just because they write it down and call it “history” doesn’t make it the TRUTH.

The ruling elite have a monopoly on truth in this world. They collectively own and run all the media outlets on the planet with the exception of just a small percentage of little outlets that are rarely ever heard from. Every book, magazine, newspaper, video, movie TV show, news station and so forth, this matrix collectively broadcast the same reinforcing content (from either a positive or negative viewpoint, it doesn’t matter), the respective IDEOLOGIES are implanted into the mass conscience utilizing cutting edge BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES establishing any matter at hand as accepted REALITY.

By manipulating what people BELIEVE you directly manipulate their reality, for what a person BELIEVES... IS his micro reality, regardless of what the macro, absolute true reality may be.

“When beliefs morph into truth, regardless of the realities of time and place, the non-initiated become fodder for those with the zeal and power to enforce their will.”

Illusion-of-truth effect

The illusion-of-truth effect states that a person is more likely to believe a familiar statement than an unfamiliar one. In a 1977 experiment participants were asked to read 60 plausible statements every two weeks and to rate them based on their validity. A few of those statements (some of them true, others false) were presented more than once in different sessions. Results showed that participants were more likely to rate as true statements the ones they had previously heard (even if they didn’t consciously remember having heard them), regardless of the actual validity of the statement.

As the illusion-of-truth effect occurs even without explicit knowledge, it is a direct result of implicit memory. Some participants rated previously heard sentences as true even when they were previously told that they were false.[4] The illusion-of-truth effect shows in some ways the potential dangers of implicit memory as it can lead to unconscious decisions about a statement's veracity. [source Wikipedia]

Many people will try and find any little piece of information that has any minute flaw in it so that they can use that little fault to dismiss and discredit the entirety of the facts being presented here, thereby formulating the premise to conjure up an excuse to just walk away and pretend that their lives and the world around them are just hunk dory. Ignorance is surely bliss.

2 Thessalonians 2:11-12 "11. And For this cause YAH shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a LIE. 12. That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

Statistics prove that a full 30% of the population will NEVER accept any truth that challenges or goes against their predefined life programming, thus they are pre disposed to go to their graves in a perpetual state of denial no matter what solid evidence is ever revealed and presented to them. Years of conditioning, indoctrination, social engineering and self mental regulation and confinement immediately kick in with the "oh, that's crazy" & "they'd never do that" type of reasoning. Obviously this report is not meant to try and reach those hopelessly lost minds.

Then there is the other 30% of the population who don't even care what happens, these are the ones who just "go with the flow" and follow the rest of the herd. Then there is the 30% who do have a clue but are too afraid to lose everything they have invested and worked so hard for their entire lives, so they sit back in fear and do as they are told, these go on day to day making believe everything is just fine, when in the back of their minds they can feel things are not what they seem. Then there is the 3% who are up to their necks directly bringing about and construing "the matrix" system. The last 7% are those who dare stand up to the machine, the status quo, the establishment, big brother and try awaken their fellow man about the evils that exist within the respective branch of the matrix network they are knowledgeable in.

Our American society is medicated from the cradle to the grave, and very few people are asking what is wrong, for they awaken and walk the earth each and every day enveloped in a deep haze. The time has now come for YOU to choose. Will you continue to live in IGNORANCE, or will YOU unplug from this matrix and break free, EMANCIPATE YOURSELF FROM MENTAL SLAVERY?

So Neo... what is it? It's your turn to choose, the red pill or the blue pill? Remember... all I'm offering is the TRUTH, Nothing more. This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill (stop reading now) - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill (continue reading the entire report) - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes. You have to let it all go, Neo. Fear, doubt, and disbelief. Free your mind and emancipate yourself from mental slavery.

FYI: This is NOT the movies, this is TRUE REALITY I am about to reveal, to free your mind is to unplug from the matrix, prepare to be unplugged from the matrix and have your eyes opened...

"Our mind is of three categories: what we know, what we don't know, and what we don't know we don't know. Not knowing is unfortunate; not knowing that we don't know is tragic." - W. Erhart

Those who dwell in the heavenly realm know Truth. Reality is spread out before them; they can look into the heavenly planes which are above them, and the physical planes which are beneath them, perceiving the realities of existence, for Truth is continually washing over them, as the waves of the sea wash over the sands which are on the shore. They know that what appears to be is not what is, for they perceive the Reality that is hidden from mortal minds by the mists of darkness.

This society is made-up of an illusionary media centric culture that has been superimposed over and into our lives; the masses have been under a TV programmed media induced hypnotic mass trance. The mass media's omnipresent output envelopes and saturates the MIND. The mass media communications apparatus utilizes scientific programming instruments and methods to program the central perception of reality of the masses, deep into the human psyche a reality narrative is engraved into the minds and hearts of man. We the people are in a trance, from that slumber we are enlaved...

The media is the collective eyes and ears of society. They provide the crucial view of the world around us. The media are the ones who set the pace, set, control, suggest, dictate the central core fundamental ambiance, mood, frame of mind, atmosphere of the overall environment, what's cool, what's not, what's hot, what's not, what's in what's out, who is bad, who is good, what is normal, what is weird, and so on and so forth. Only by unplugging from this programming matrix will one ever come to attain true enlightenment, true situational awareness, achieve true understanding and true liberation.

Situation awareness:

Situation awareness or SA, is the perception of environmental elements within a volume of time and space, the comprehension of their meaning, and the projection of their status in the near future. It is also a field of study concerned with perception of the environment critical to decision-makers in complex, dynamic areas from aviation, air traffic control, power plant operations, military command and control — to more ordinary but nevertheless complex tasks such as driving an automobile or motorcycle.

Situation awareness (SA) involves being aware of what is happening around you to understand how information, events, and your own actions will impact your goals and objectives, both now and in the near future. Lacking SA or having inadequate SA has been identified as one of the primary factors in accidents attributed to human error (e.g., Hartel, Smith, & Prince, 1991; Merket, Bergondy, & Cuevas-Mesa, 1997; Nullmeyer, Stella, Montijo, & Harden, 2005). Having complete, accurate and up-to-the-minute SA is essential where technological and situational complexity on the human decision-maker are a concern. SA has been recognized as a critical, yet often elusive, foundation for successful decision-making across a broad range of complex and dynamic systems.

Sadly, the average human being is lacking in their endowment of SA abilities, thus they rely on outside sources for assistance such as mass media to tell them what is, was, when, where and how...

Behold, for I say to thee: It is imperative to know the absolute truth and expose the true situation of this world and the elite rulers of society and their matrix. As with any dilemma ever faced in the world, one must first correctly identify the core problem and its source, then and only then can one pursue adequate solutions. Until the core causal root of the problems are identified, you can only remain immobile, spinning your wheels. Thus you must first find and identify the core/root INTERNAL catalysts for what you are more often then not observing in daily life are the EXTERNAL results... I will explain it with a very simple analogy:

Society is like a sick terminally ill patient. The symptoms of its illness are evident no matter where you probe the patient. The pain is felt throughout the patient for it has been invaded and overtaken by a virus (the ruling elite) who parasitically feed off the host. The patient (the general average citizen) can barely live day to day without some form of help, life support systems. Only the lethal parasitic virus (the ruling elite) is doing well while the patient as host of the virus exists in perpetual dire straits. The host needs a doctor that can diagnosis the problem in order to get the patient back from the brink of death. The ONLY way a doctor can save the patient is by accurately diagnosing, as in IDENTIFYING, as in EXPOSING the virus, i.e., the underlying cause of the sickness. One will NEVER be able to treat the illness without knowing who/what/where/how of the CAUSE of infection. Therefore the crucial KEY to finding the solution or CURE is within fully identifying and understanding EXACTLY who/what/when/where/how and why of the virus (cause). Once the virus is recognized, then, and only then can measures be taken to find solutions and successfully treat the patient, bringing the terminally ill patient back to health as well as combat and eradicate the evil viruses (cause) that have infected and feed off of the poor host.

It is written: “the truth will set you free,” this has been an undeniable fundamental truth since the ill fated beginning of mankind, the oppressors of man know this very well, that’s why in many countries around the world, this prophetic verse is increasingly being tragically becoming transformed into: “the truth will get you arrested.” (Especially if the truth is labeled as anti-Semitic...) People routinely get incarcerated in many countries for speaking the truth. Here in America that model was recently made official through the passing of the Hate Crimes Act. Hate-crimes laws always lead to hate-speech regulations, i.e. censorship. Communicating the truth has long ago been cleverly CENSORED throughout societies. Censorship is typically DISGUISED under laws, policies, political correctness, policies, regulations, cease and desist orders, etc., there are even regulatory agencies to conduct outright censorship in their respective spheres such as the FCC, FDA, et al. With the passing of the Hate Crimes Act, censorship will reach new heights while freedom of speech is increasingly being stifled and regulated.

The truth has been undergoing extreme assault for ages, for those whom operate in the shadows cloaked in sin must cloak and cover their agendas and tracks with deceit, lies, misinformation and omission, thus it is said they dwell in darkness. Truth is the light that exposes all and reveals that which is hidden in darkness, thus truth is their number one enemy. Divine Truth is ultimate reality, ultimate light, ultimate sight. To have sight one must be able to see. One cannot see in the dark, for darkness cloaks everything around it. Those who possess truth, in effect possess their own source of LIGHT... thus they can readily SEE what is really going on under the cloak of darkness... Truth is the crucial component of the Great Awakening. In order to wake up from your slumber you must unplug from their carefully contrived matrix.

This report does not even scratch the surface of the enormous amount of material I have researched and found. In order to properly give each section appropriate treatment, each and every chapter of this Matrix Report deserves to be covered extensively as its own book, it’s own highly detailed report, with the full in depth treatment they individually deserve. But due to the nature of this report’s purpose to basically provide an overall cohesive overview and reveal the fundamental structure of the matrix, this reference work must focus on the “big picture.”

Each and every single paragraph herein has been painstakingly researched, verified and often reviewed dozens of times for validity for it to be included in this work. So painstaking has been my investigation that many sentences in this report were committed to paper only after hours upon hours of examination and re-evaluation. I wish I could source all the material herein, but due to the fact that almost every single sentence could have up to dozens of source links, it would be a monumental task and take me an additional couple years just in listing sources. All I can do at this point in time is wish and hope that everyone that reads this report will actually take it upon themselves to initiate their own unbiased neutral truth/fact finding mission and verify everything I say here. You've got to be willing to find out what the real truth is...and then you've got to have the courage and integrity to stay true to that truth...no matter what other people around you think, feel, or believe. I hereby challenge you to seek the truth...

This entire report, has taken 3 years just to reach draft version 1.0 stage and I am now on my fifth year of working on this report and still not yet satisfied with the overall comprehensiveness or the extent of clarity in describing key points, therefore, expect further, more thorough editions and works in the future. I also need to address the fact that the entire field of research into the “ruling elite” is so full of misinformation, lies, false leads, shills and so forth that it is becoming increasingly difficult to sift through all of the data to find the hidden truths. I come forth here with my absolute best effort, years of connecting dots and putting together the massive master matrix puzzle consisting of many individual sector puzzles.

For those of you that are English language perfectionists, sorry, but I am not a professional writer, so please bear with my wanton abuse of English grammar. There may still exist a couple minor errors in some details, for “the powers that be” relentlessly attempt to steer the truth away from their real agendas and are forever flooding the channels with false info to throw everyone off the scent. This report has already undergone several drafts and in each draft I have fine tuned and corrected any errors I find while re-checking all the facts. Please understand, I only come forth with what I have come to identify and know as the absolute undeniable truth and nothing but the truth, so help me God.

Behold: for I come forth, speaking not for myself but for the authority vested in me, for the time has come for all to know the full extent of what was, what is and is yet to come...

The information we are going to be revealing here is of such a nature that an over whelming majority of the masses will refuse to even consider the general message. Our message is so heart breaking, so devastating, so alarming, so profoundly disturbing that many people will not, CAN NOT, psychologically and or emotionally accept it, for the message goes against what you have been PROGRAMMED your entire life to believe. This is due to the fact that your conscience/unconscious perception of cognitive reality has been premeditatedly shaped, formed and reinforced well throughout your entire life by all sectors of society. Many close minded people will outright dismiss the fact they have been programmed, for it sounds like science fiction. To do so is to remain in denial. For one needs look no further than the advertising industry to readily see how and why they pour out HUNDREDS OF BILLIONS of dollars annually in advertising campaigns designed to mold your perception of their PRODUCTS. They have been concocting advertising (a form of programming), and bombarding mankind with ads because it has been scientifically and psychologically proven IT WORKS. And this is just one of the most simplest innocuous forms of programming openly being performed on the masses...

Forget about dolphins, whales, ants, bees, birds and so on... for:

Humans are the MOST STUDIED SPECIES ON THE PLANET. Little has man known, that man, society and the control of it has been one of the most highly studied and researched areas of those who have sought to rule over it from time unknown. It is not even a secret. Those who have sought to rule over man have throughout history financed the best scientific minds to study what makes man tick in order to best control their subjects. The field of human control and manipulation is not only real but is a highly researched and widely practiced science of Social Engineering:

BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Behavioral Sciences is a core curriculum at all major universities, not only that, it's implementation is a crucially vital central component in the management and manipulation of society. How important is the study and implementation of Behavioral Science in the modern world? Take into account all key government and military sectors, including the FBI and all intelligence agencies have a dedicated Behavioral Science Units, there is the Institute of Behavioral Science, Association for Contextual Behavioral Science, Behavioral Science Major, Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, The Department of Behavioral Science, etc., etc.

Behavioral Sciences:

The term behavioral sciences (or behavioral sciences) encompasses all the disciplines that explore the activities of and interactions among organisms in the natural world. It involves the systematic analysis and investigation of human and animal behavior through controlled and naturalistic experimental observations and rigorous formulations. The term behavioral sciences is often confused with the term social sciences. Though these two broad areas are interrelated and study systematic processes of behavior, they differ on their level of scientific analysis of various dimensions of behavior.

Behavioral sciences abstract empirical data to investigate the decision processes and communication strategies within and between organisms in a social system. This involves fields like psychology and social neuroscience (psychiatry), and genetics among others.

In contrast, social sciences provide a perceptive framework to study the processes of a social system through impacts of social organization on structural adjustment of the individual and of groups. They typically include fields like sociology, economics, history, counseling, public health, anthropology, and political science

Behavioral sciences includes two broad categories: neural-decision sciences and social-communication sciences. Decision sciences involves those disciplines primarily dealing with the decision processes and individual functioning used in the survival of organism in a social environment. These include psychology, cognitive science, organization theory, psychobiology, management science, operations research (not to be confused with business administration) and social neuroscience.

On the other hand, communication sciences include those fields which study the communication strategies used by organisms and its dynamics between organisms in an environment. These include fields like anthropology, organizational behavior, organization studies, sociology and social networks.

Cognitive Science:

Cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of how information is represented and transformed in the brain. It consists of multiple research disciplines, including psychology, artificial intelligence, philosophy, neuroscience, learning sciences, linguistics, anthropology, sociology, and education. It spans many levels of analysis, from low-level learning and decision mechanisms to high-level logic and planning; from neural circuitry to modular brain organization. The term cognitive science was coined by Christopher Longuet-Higgins in his 1973 commentary on the Lighthill report, which concerned the then-current state of Artificial Intelligence research. In the same decade, the journal Cognitive Science and the Cognitive Science Society were founded.

Cognitive science has a pre-history traceable back to ancient Greek philosophical texts (see Plato's Meno); and certainly must include writers such as Descartes, Benedict de Spinoza, Nicolas Malebranche, Pierre Cabanis. But, although these early writers contributed greatly to the philosophical discovery of mind and this would ultimately lead to the development of psychology, they were working with an entirely different set of tools and core concepts than those of the cognitive scientist.

The modern culture of cognitive science can be traced back to the early cyberneticists in the 1930s and 1940s, such as Warren McCulloch and Walter Pitts, who sought to understand the organizing principles of the mind.

News Flash: All of humanity has been a large experiment and study in understanding what makes him tick and how to best manipulate their ideals, desires and actions. The rulers of man funded and founded universities and sent legions of scholars to unlock the secrets of the human mind and psyche so that they could better control them. They unlocked the secrets to literally manipulating man's perception of reality. The results of their research have been invisibly implemented throughout society for many decades.

We live in a phony world of illusions... rarely is anything what it seems.

The masses are cognitively asleep and cognitively impaired. Many have also been cognitively neutered by the medical establishment, with its unending supply of legalized drugs. We now live in the age of the medicated society.

Today thought and conversations rarely enter the realm of deep philosophical contemplation and issues, the masses instead choose to spend their entire lives immersed completely in superficial materialistic pursuits, endeavors, and never ending entertainment.

The world's population LOVES living in pure fantasy. People unconsciously prefer FANSTASY over reality. For reality is often too ugly, harsh, sad and painful to bear. That is one of the reasons why in every country on the planet the most public the highest paid, highest revered most famous people (employees of the ruling elite) are ACTORS and musicians. Whom are none other than mere clever Hollywood creations... illusions, propaganda and programming instruments of the programming elite. The pathetic followers, (idol worshipers) called "fans" hold the actors, sports super stars and rock stars in the highest of esteem, they routinely fall to their knees in tears of admiration when in their presence, they worship their false idols.

Hollywood is our number one source of fantasy escapism. The majority of today's children are literally raised on TV. The population gets home from work or school and immediately plops down in front of the boob tube to escape into their favorite FANTASY world realm. Meanwhile TV and Hollywood churn out a continuous stream of morally depraved deficient productions. God and superior values have essentially been erased from the public conscience directly attributable to media programming. This is the sad state of modern society. The true champions of society, such as teachers, aid workers, volunteers and so on are continuously marginalized and receive disproportionately low wages for their crucial contribution in the direct development of a healthier more stable society.

All entertainment is a form of fantasy escapism and/or extension of their real life, where people augment their realities by focusing on "their team", "their hero's." Why do you think the internet and video games have become so entrenched and central to people's lives? Again, people log on to websites with pseudonym alter egos, literally they can be anyone they choose. Millions upon millions escape reality on the internet, especially those who play video games. They spend countless hours completely immersed in fantasy worlds. These are just a few examples of the unconscious reality of fantasy escapism we face today.

Real life Pamela Anderson compared to the artificial matrix illusion as seen later that same day:

The masses are escaping from reality by the tens of millions. What are they afraid to confront? What is it in the real world that people know, but refuse to acknowledge and deal with? What are the factors that compel people to literally stop paying attention to the real world around them, and overwhelmingly turn to fantasy worlds? Cognitive dissonance is one of the factors that plays a major role in our unconscious mind.

Cognitive Dissonance:

Cognitive dissonance is an uncomfortable feeling caused by holding two contradictory ideas simultaneously. The "ideas" or "cognitions" in question may include attitudes and beliefs, the awareness of one's behavior, and facts. The theory of cognitive dissonance proposes that people have a motivational drive to reduce dissonance by changing their attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors, or by justifying or rationalizing their attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors. Cognitive dissonance theory is one of the most influential and extensively studied theories in social psychology.

Dissonance normally occurs when a person perceives a logical inconsistency among his or her cognitions. This happens when one idea implies the opposite of another. For example, a belief in animal rights could be interpreted as inconsistent with eating meat or wearing fur. Noticing the contradiction would lead to dissonance, which could be experienced as anxiety, guilt, shame, anger, embarrassment, stress, and other negative emotional states. When people's ideas are consistent with each other, they are in a state of harmony, or consonance. If cognitions are unrelated, they are categorized as irrelevant to each other and do not lead to dissonance.

Cognitive dissonance is silently occurring every time the educated, indoctrinated, primed, prepped public hears the real TRUTH challenging any and/or all the established knowledge that has been implanted and programmed into their minds by the wonderful benevolent establishment since their youth where the indoctrination began within the public school system and continued throughout their lives through media conditioning. You have been raised to become a comformist part of "the system." Most of the indoctrinated reply to these type of revelations with a resounding "No the powers that be would never do this or that." This is a perfect example of dissonance in action.

Then there is Doublethink, the act of simultaneously accepting as correct two mutually contradictory beliefs. The ruling elite and their representatives are masters of integrating these psychological twisters into the public discourse of whatever issue, event, policy and/or agenda they are currently working on.

Plenty of studies have shown that people don't process information in a neutral way - "biased assimilation" they call it. In other words, rather than our opinions being forged by whatever information we have available, they tend to be constructed by our wants and needs. With all their might, our minds try to reduce cognitive dissonance, that queasy feeling you get when you are confronted by contradictory ideas simultaneously. One man's rumor is another man's reality. To a certain extent perception is reality, for what one perceives is their reality, whether or not that reality is a factual reality. Therefore we tend to reject theories, rumors, facts and truths that challenge our worldview and embrace those that affirm it, hence: biased assimilation in action.

This is common knowledge in the psychology sector. Those whose vested interests involve manipulating mankind to achieve their objectives have long ago invested massive amounts of research into the realm of understanding the human mind. Thus acquiring the hidden knowledge required to better manage and manipulate their constituencies. It is with this masterful knowledge and understanding of the human psyche that the ruling elite weave their masterful intricate agendas, beyond the scope of easy observation. With the instruments of mass media they work their magic; molding and shaping general public perception, formulating the norms, imprinting upon the masses the common widely accepted "reality"...

Mankind, in their natural state, is subject to the illusions of the powers of darkness, ignorant of the principles of Truth. The shadows of this world are perceived by mortals, and they think they know the truth, but the reality which casts the shadows is hidden from them, and they do not perceive the Light. For their eyes are blinded by the veil of darkness so that they cannot perceive the Light which is among them. Thus mankind is literally enslaved because of the illusions which they believe, yet they possess not a clue and wander the earth believing they are free. It is of utmost importance that you understand that the prophets have warned of "a time of great delusions" we are in fact living in that age.

Nothing is ever what it seems. You must see beyond the illusion of separateness to the essential oneness of being, in order to perceive Truth. Until then, you cannot relate, in a proper manner, with the rest of creation. In order to begin to understand the nature of mankind's absolute unadulterated reality we must begin to process many factors individually, beginning with the true reality and awareness of the nature of the real world that encompasses us as the supreme creator intended it.

The problem with our collective reality is that it is easily influenced, for instance: When you have all media outlets covering any given issue, event, product, entertainment, celebrities, whatever, and TREATING IT AS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING... then it literally BECOMES THE MOST IMPORTANT THING in the minds of the masses. It is that simple. Thus the reality is manufactured by the media. The simulacrum becomes reality.

The media and the governments create public opinion in the form of IDEOLOGY implanted into the public consciousness and sub-conscious. People adopt the ideologies through the concerted priming efforts of the information dissemination networks, eventually the ideologies take on a life of their own and literally becomes REALITY as the masses adopt them as their own.

Public Opinion:

Public Opinion (1922), by Walter Lippman, is a critical assessment of functional democratic government, especially the irrational, and often self-serving, social perceptions that influence individual behavior, and prevent optimal societal cohesion. The descriptions of the cognitive limitations people face in comprehending their socio-political and cultural environments, proposes that people must inevitably apply an evolving catalogue of general stereotypes to a complex reality, rendered Public Opinion a seminal text in the fields of media studies, political science, and social psychology.

The World Outside and Pictures in Our Heads

The introductory first part describes man's inability to functionally perceive and accurately interpret the world with much accuracy: "The real environment is altogether too big, too complex, and too fleeting for direct acquaintance", between people and their environment (reality). That people construct a pseudo-environment that is a subjective, biased, and necessarily abridged mental image of the world; therefore, to a degree, everyone's pseudo-environment is a fiction. Hence, people "live in the same world, but think and feel in different ones". Human behavior is stimulated by the person's pseudo-environment and then is acted upon in the real world. The chapter highlights some of the general implications of the interactions among one's psychology, environment, and the mass communications media.

Approaches to the World Outside

The second part describes the social, physical, and psychological barriers impeding man's ability to faithfully interpret the world; "Chapter II: Censorship and Privacy"; "Chapter III: Contact and Opportunity"; "Chapter IV: Time and Attention"; and "Chapter V: Speed, Words, and Clearness" describe how, for a given event, all of the pertinent facts are never provided completely and accurately; how, as a fraction of the whole, they often are arranged to portray a certain, subjective interpretation of an event. Often, those who know the "real" (true) environment construct a favorable, fictitious pseudo-environment in the public mind to suit his or her private needs. Propaganda is inherently impossible without a barrier of censorship — between the event and the public — thus, the mass communication media, by their natures as vehicles for informational transmission, are immutably vulnerable to manipulation.

The blame for this perceptual parallax does not fall upon the mass media technology (print, radio, cinema, television) or logistical concerns, rather, upon certain members of society who attend to life with little intellectual engagement, because “they suffer from anemia, from lack of appetite and curiosity for the human scene. Theirs is no problem of access to the world outside. Worlds of interest are waiting for them to explore, and they do not enter”, thus:

1. The buying public: The bewildered herd must pay for understanding the unseen environment through the mass communications media. The irony is that — although the public’s opinion is important — they must pay for its acceptance. Hence, people will be selective, and will buy the most factual media at the lowest price: “For a dollar, you may not even get an armful of candy, but for a dollar or less people expect reality/representations of truth to fall into their laps”. Hence appears the media’s duality, i.e. their social function of transmitting public affairs information and their business profit role of surviving in the market.

2. Nature of news: People publish already-confirmed news that are thus less disputable. Officially available public matters will constitute “the news”, and unofficial (private) matters either are unavailable, less available, or are used as “issues” for propaganda.

3. News truth and conclusion: The function of news is to signal an event, and that signaling, eventually, is a consequence of editorial selection and judgment; thus does journalism create and sow the seeds (news) that establish public opinion.

The Manufacture of Consent

When properly deployed in the public interest, the manufacture of consent is useful and necessary for a cohesive society, because, in many cases, “the common interests” of the public are not obvious, and only become clear upon careful analysis of the collected data — a critical intellectual exercise in which most people either are uninterested or incapable of doing. Therefore, most people must have the world summarized for them, by the well-informed.

That the manufacture of consent is capable of great refinements no one, I think, denies. The process by which public opinions arise is certainly no less intricate than it has appeared in these pages, and the opportunities for manipulation open to anyone who understands the process are plain enough. . . . [a]s a result of psychological research, coupled with the modern means of communication, the practice of democracy has turned a corner. A revolution is taking place, infinitely more significant than any shifting of economic power. . . . Under the impact of propaganda, not necessarily in the sinister meaning of the word alone, the old constants of our thinking have become variables. It is no longer possible, for example, to believe in the original dogma of democracy; that the knowledge needed for the management of human affairs comes up spontaneously from the human heart. Where we act on that theory we expose ourselves to self-deception, and to forms of persuasion that we cannot verify. It has been demonstrated that we cannot rely upon intuition, conscience, or the accidents of casual opinion if we are to deal with the world beyond our reach. — Walter Lippmann, Public Opinion

Lippman includes the political élite to the people incapable of accurately understanding, by themselves, the complex “unseen environment” where the public affairs of the modern state occur; thus, he proposes that a professional, “specialized class” collect and analyze data, and present their conclusions to the society’s decision makers, who, in their turn, use the “art of persuasion” to inform the public about the decisions and circumstances affecting them.

Public Opinion argues that propaganda’s increased power, and the specialized knowledge required for effective political decisions, have rendered impossible the traditional notion of democracy. Moreover, in Public Opinion Lippman originated the phrase “the manufacture of consent”, from which the public intellectuals Noam Chomsky and Edward S. Herman derived the title of their book Manufacturing Consent: The Political Economy of the Mass

Media (1988).

We live in a day in age where OUR GOVERNED WORLD IS (for all intents and purposes) OUTSIDE OF OUR REALM OF INFLUENCE. We are presented the ILLUSION that our voices are heard and our input matters, but we know deep down within, you all know that is a bunch of bullshit. As our commercial society continues its unabated influence in all sectors of our lives, yet living conditions progressively get worse for the majority of rat racers, and the millions joining their ranks as they are all gradually realizing its becoming ever more difficult to make ends meet, our personal liberties are constantly encroached upon, as the onslaught of laws and policies enclose and restrict us evermore, as crime and punishment increase and surround us, as our government continues its unabated growth to colossal unmanageable proportions, as gargantuan corporations increasingly take preference over all aspects of life and policy, as the rich get richer and the poor get poorer, fear mongering pushes people deeper into their cocoons, etc., etc. Thus many people just become disillusioned, detached or even cynical. The well engineered mass programming of the population is slowly unraveling.

What is not easily discernable by the typical citizenry is that the IDEOLOGIES they embrace and view as their own are in fact forever being fed, shaped and molded by the ruling elite. Are your thoughts yours? Or are they carefully meticulously imperceptibly implanted, shaped and formed? From your early childhood days, the way you process information and your decision making process was also taught to you by “the establishment”... you were TRAINED how to think, what is normal, what to aspire to, morals, values and so forth are fostered upon you to become a docile part of “the system”... “the matrix”... For without happy worker bees that have been raised to love their servitude, the system would come to a halt...

The “system” or the “matrix” is so colossal, so all encompassing, so profound, that one cannot easily grasp the concept of its very existence while completely immersed in said system. You have been literally raised by the “system/matrix.” it is the ONLY reality you have come to know... Once you awaken, understand and realize the immense power of the “system/matrix” you will be in awe of how it functions: Education, news, media is all controlled by and are core components of the “matrix.” Some call it programmed propaganda. Mass hypnotism and programming at its finest. It is so powerful that they have the ability (and do just that) to convince the poor people who are VICTIMIZED BY THE SYSTEM, to support that very system that victimizes them day in and day out, and see it as GOOD! “We have the best country and the best system in the world!” We routinely witness the disproportionately poor, i.e.: the “working class” championing the causes and policies that only benefit the rich, corporations and the ruling elite, while simultaneously inducing the clueless minions to bitterly battle causes that would benefit themselves, the poor and working class. THIS is a perfect example of the sheer profundity of successful indoctrination, encoding, programming and brainwashing of the masses.

Ideology:

An ideology is a set of aims and ideas that directs one's goals, expectations, and actions. An ideology can be thought of as a comprehensive vision, as a way of looking at things (compare worldview), as in common sense (see Ideology in everyday society below) and several philosophical tendencies (see Political ideologies), or a set of ideas proposed by the dominant class of a society to all members of this society (a 'received consciousness' or product of socialization). The main purpose behind an ideology is to offer change in society, and adherence to a set of ideals where conformity already exists, through a normative thought process. Ideologies are systems of abstract thought (as opposed to mere ideation) applied to public matters and thus make this concept central to politics. Implicitly every political tendency entails an ideology whether or not it is propounded as an explicit system of thought.

The word "ideology" was coined long before the Russians coined "intelligentsia", or before the adjective "intellectual" referred to a sort of person (see substantive), i.e. an intellectual. Thus these words were not around when the hard-headed, driven Napoleon Bonaparte took the word "ideologues" to ridicule his intellectual opponents. Gradually, however, the term "ideology" has dropped some of its pejorative sting, and has become a neutral term in the analysis of differing political opinions.[citation needed] Ideological references are important to many people throughout the world. Karl Marx used the term in his own context often throughout his works.

In the work of German philosopher Christian Dunker, the term ideology is defined in terms of a system of presentations that explicitly or implicitly claim to absolute truth. According to the semiotician Bob Hodge, ideology "identifies a unitary object that incorporates complex sets of meanings with the social agents and processes that produced them. No other term captures this object as well as 'ideology'.

As per Willard A. Mullins, an ideology is composed of four basic characteristics:

1. it must have power over cognition
2. it must be capable of guiding one's evaluations;
3. it must provide guidance towards action;
4. and, as stated above, must be logically coherent.

Mullins emphasizes that an ideology should be contrasted with the related (but different) issues of utopia and historical myth.

The German philosopher Christian Duncker called for a "critical reflection of the ideology concept" (2006). In his work, he strove to bring the concept of ideology into the foreground, as well as the closely connected concerns of epistemology and history. In this work, the term ideology is defined in terms of a system of presentations that explicitly or implicitly claim to absolute truth.

Meta-ideology is the study of the structure, form, and manifestation of ideologies. Meta-ideology posits that ideology is a coherent system of ideas, relying upon a few basic assumptions about reality that may or may not have any factual basis, but are subjective choices that serve as the seed around which further thought grows. According to this perspective, ideologies are neither right nor wrong, but only a relativistic intellectual strategy for categorizing (manipulating) the world.

Louis Althusser proposed a materialistic conception of ideology, which made use of a special type of discourse: the lacunar discourse. A number of propositions, which are never untrue, suggest a number of other propositions, which are, in this way, the essence of the lacunar discourse is what is not told (but is suggested).

For example, the statement 'All are equal before the law', which is a theoretical groundwork of current legal systems, suggests that all people may be of equal worth or have equal 'opportunities'. This is not true, for the concept of private property over the means of production results in some people being able to own more (much more) than others, and their property brings power and influence (the rich can afford better lawyers, among other things, and this puts in question the principle of equality before the law).

Ideology as an instrument of social reproduction

In the Marxist economic base and superstructure model of society, base denotes the relations of production, and superstructure denotes the dominant ideology (religious, legal, political systems). The economic base of production determines the political superstructure of a society. Ruling class-interests determine the superstructure and the nature of the justifying ideology — actions feasible because the ruling class control the means of production. Hence the great importance of the ideology justifying a society; it politically confuses the alienated groups of society via false consciousness, such as in the case of commodity fetishism — the belief that value is inherent to a commodity, rather than external, added to it via labor.

The ruling class affect their social reproduction by the dominant ideology's representing — to every social-economic class — that the economic interests of the ruling class are the economic interests of the entire society. Some explanations, György Lukács proposes ideology as a projection of the class consciousness of the ruling class. Antonio Gramsci uses cultural hegemony to explain why the working-class have a false ideological conception of what are their best interests.

In everyday society

In public discussions, certain ideas arise more commonly than others. Often people with diverse backgrounds and interests may find themselves thinking alike in ways startling to those from other backgrounds. Social scientists might explain this phenomenon as evidence of ideologies.

Dominant ideologies appear as "neutral", holding to assumptions that are largely unchallenged. Meanwhile, all other ideologies that differ from the dominant ideology are seen as radical, no matter what the content of their actual vision may be. The philosopher Michel Foucault wrote about the concept of apparent ideological neutrality. Ideology is not the same thing as philosophy. Philosophy is an analytic method for assessing ideologies and belief systems. Some attribute to ideology positive characteristics like vigor and fervor, or negative features like excessive certitude and fundamentalist rigor.

Organizations that strive for power will try to influence the ideology of a society to become closer to what they want it to be. Political organizations (governments included) and other groups (e.g. lobbyists) influence people by broadcasting their opinions... masqueraded as truths.

When most people in a society think alike about certain matters, or even forget that there are alternatives to the status quo, we arrive at the concept of hegemony, about which the philosopher Antonio Gramsci wrote. Such a state of affairs has been dramatized many times in literature: Nineteen Eighty-Four by George Orwell; Brave New World by Aldous Huxley; and A Wrinkle in Time by Madeleine L'Engle. Noam Chomsky and Edward S. Herman have argued that social ideological homogeneity can be achieved by restricting the conceptual metaphors transmitted by mass communication...

Political Ideologies

Many political parties base their political action and program on an ideology. In social studies, a Political Ideology is a certain ethical set of ideals, principles, doctrines, myths or symbols of a social movement, institution, class, or large group that explains how society should work, and offers some political and cultural blueprint for a certain social order. A political ideology largely concerns itself with how to allocate power and to what ends it should be used. Some parties follow a certain ideology very closely, while others may take broad inspiration from a group of related ideologies without specifically embracing any one of them.

Political ideologies have two dimensions:

1. Goals: How society should work (or be arranged).
2. Methods: The most appropriate ways to achieve the ideal arrangement.

An ideology is a collection of ideas. Typically, each ideology contains certain ideas on what it considers to be the best form of government (e.g. democracy, theocracy, etc), and the best economic system (e.g. capitalism, socialism, etc). Sometimes the same word is used to identify both an ideology and one of its main ideas. For instance, "socialism" may refer to an economic system, or it may refer to an ideology which supports that economic system.

Ideologies also identify themselves by their position on the political spectrum (such as the left, the center or the right), though this is very often controversial. Finally, ideologies can be distinguished from political strategies (e.g. populism) and from single issues that a party may be built around (e.g. opposition to European integration or the legalization of marijuana). Philosopher Michael Oakeshott provides a good definition of ideology as "the formalized abridgment of the supposed sub-stratum of the rational truth contained in the tradition."

Political ideologies are concerned with many different aspects of a society, some of which are: the economy, education, health care, labor law, criminal law, the justice system, the provision of social security and social welfare, trade, the environment, minors, immigration, race, use of the military, patriotism and established religion. – [sourced from Wikipedia]

Thus, as you can see by the simple summary of ideology provided above, the central core components of mass indoctrination is through mass ideological programming. We encounter this every single day of our lives, everywhere we go, especially from all forms of communications media such as TV, radio, magazines, newspapers, books, movies and so forth. This is NOT mindless hearsay, this is scientifically practiced FACT. It is of utmost importance that you remember this key TRUTH, and keep it in the back of your mind while reading this report. For while the indoctrinated masses are completely immersed in mindless trivia, pursuits and entertained to the max, the overlords of man walk and rule with impunity.

We are living in a day in age where we can no longer believe just about anything that is fed to us by our “elected” officials, government, their spin doctors and the media whom consist of those who collectively rule and formulate our world and world view. The level of self disenfranchisement can readily be documented in studying the numbers of people who have given up on voting at all, with some having come to the accurate conclusion that the process is nothing more than a sham waste of time for in the end everything will remain the same no matter who’s turn is next to sit in the elected official’s throne. The position of president for instance, for all intents and purposes, is really just a glorified public relations post of the ruling elite.

What a sad state of mass delusion we live in as a whole, when 90% of the population readily agrees that politicians and lawyers are the liars, thieves, vultures, scum of the earth, inherently corrupt yet they readily allow those same crooks to run our beloved country without so much as batting our eyelids! “Business as usual.” There is nothing they tell you that can be believed and taken at face value. EVERYTHING they tell you needs to be carefully checked, confirmed and verified. Politicians sold their souls long ago, they are there to maintain the illusion that you have freedom of choice. Election season after election season brings the same recycled messages, just different faces: “change,” “reform” and “hope” are always the key mantras used to con the masses, once they get elected, its back to business as usual. The question one should be asking is how have they been getting away with decades upon decades of slanting the truth, outright lies, deceit, and corruption and to who’s advantage and benefit do they do this? These are the group of people who changed the rules forever, they are the status quo, ruling elite’s whose actions, policies and laws have become cemented into modern consciousness as accepted norm, that’s the way it is, and as far as they are concerned, always should be.

Are we stupid? As a whole, sort of. Statistics have proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that a large portion of the population, approximately 30% are just that: plain stupid. What is for sure is that we are conflicted, beaten and subjugated by the rules and protocols we were born under and know no other.

Stupidity – The Documentary - Video full video [link here]

One of the factors instrumental at the very core of permitting and making it possible for the few wealthy 2% club who rule (and also own 95% of everything) over the other 98% is due to the fact that the masses are generally STUPID and the ones who aren’t could care less. One third of America, that is roughly 103 million (idiots) out of 305 million Americans are clinically dumb dip sticks. Only one-third of Americans can even name the simple three branches of government, two-thirds of Americans can name the judges on American Idol but less than 1 in 10 Americans can name even ONE Supreme Court justice (link, link). Let alone begin to formulate an idea of how it works and how they are really being screwed ruled. Most won’t even bother to drop the remote and get off the couch to stand up for their rights that are being eroded on a daily basis.

Just how stupid are we? Pretty stupid, it would seem, when we come across headlines like this: "Homer Simpson, Yes -- 1st Amendment 'Doh,' Survey Finds" (Associated Press 3/1/06). "About 1 in 4 Americans can name more than one of the five freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment (freedom of speech, religion, press, assembly and petition for redress of grievances.) But more than half of Americans can name at least two members of the fictional cartoon family, according to a survey. "The study by the new McCormick Tribune Freedom Museum found that 22 percent of Americans could name all five Simpson family members, compared with just 1 in 1,000 people who could name all five First Amendment freedoms."

How dumb are we? 15% of Americans don't know that the Earth revolves around the sun!! Half of the people in the United States (an allegedly "Christian Nation") can't name Genesis as the first book in the Bible. The statistics and lists go on and on and on.

We live in a society where the stupidest TV shows make up the majority of our brain dead masses TV consumption. Jerry Springer type shows are all the rage, reality TV shows that are pure garbage rule the ratings, the list goes on and on. You know our country has been driven into the moral abyss when the President of the "free world" routinely mentions losers in bullshit programs like Jersey Shore when addressing the nation. The fact that the retards/imbeciles on Jersey Shore have become a national sensation clearly demonstrates the grand delusional condition our nation and the world is under. Pictured above: "Snooki" spreading her great wisdom to the brain dead population via national TV. This is the type of trash your media overlords deem important and feed the masses 24/7. Oh what a wonderful world this is... behold the role models that the media overlords promote to shape the norms, influence the young, the stupid and the susceptible...

The FACT is that roughly 30% of the citizens of this country are simply stupid and one of the core central factors that enable the elite to rule with impunity over the useful idiots that can be easily swayed, misled and easily made to believe ANYTHING. Hence the origin of the term "sheeple", for there is a vast portion of the population that is literally manipulated, as in herded like sheep or cattle. There are countless statistics and data in circulation proving that around one third of our population are as dumb as door nails and can be made to vote or go in any direction they are lead to. Period.

26% of U.S. don't know who we declared independence from

Daily News, July 3, 2010

How dumb are we? Apparently, pretty dumb.

At least according to a new Marist poll, which says 26% of people in this country don't know that the U.S. declared its independence from Great Britain. That includes 20% who were unsure and 6% who thought the U.S. separated from another nation.

So what country do people think the U.S. achieved its independence from? Among the countries mentioned were France, China, Japan, Mexico and Spain. The poll surveyed 1,004 Americans in June and had 3% margin of error.

But hey, even our founding fathers made mistakes. Preservation scientists recently discovered Thomas Jefferson had originally referred to the American public as "subjects," then changed it to read "citizens" before the ink dried.... Oops.

It doesn't matter how smart you are, the truth of the matter is that the world you have known your entire life has been a world that has been pulled over your eyes to hide the truths. Our world is literally full of LIES, LIES, LIES masquerading as truth at every turn and corner of society. The LIES come out of every sector of government, leaders, trusted institutions, corporations, even trusted medical establishments, the LIES are EVERYWHERE. Separately they may seem like detached isolated instances, but once you put the pieces of the puzzles together by connecting the dots, as in connecting the facts, the true big picture begins to emerge. The lies and the illusion they have created, cultivated and sustained have eventually been accepted as the norm and truth by all, thus establishing the fabricated illusion as our adopted reality by consensus.

“For the great majority of mankind are satisfied with APPEARANCES, as though they were REALITIES, and are often more influenced by the things that SEEM than by those that ARE.” – Niccolo Machiavelli

We live in a time in age where capitalism has become the de-facto, preeminent, premier, precedence taking, and ruling standard worldwide. Behold for: Capitalism is world rule based on capital, i.e. WORLD RULE BASED ON MONEY, i.e. world rule founded upon DEBT. This is pure unadulterated reality. All importance and value systems in this world are thus measured and calculated in monetary form. Money/Capital is the central point which all civilization revolves around. No matter where you go in modern society you will find that the wide majority of the population measures success with the MATERIALISTIC ruler called NET WORTH, what and how much stuff you have, how much you make, how big is your mansion, who has the best/most luxury cars and yachts. THE defacto measuring tape of status in life has become your monetary status, your wallet. Not how compassionate and good a person you are, not the breadth and depth of your love and heart, it's all about material things and: MONEY.

You can find the most ruthless and cynical scum bag on the planet, he may be worth billions, most people will envy him, want to be like him, they will hang onto his every word in hopes of getting a glimpse, to be near him, to find out his wealth secrets, they will study all his works and words, and so on. Yet that person could actually not only be morally corrupt and decadent to the bone, but he may also be as dumb as a doornail and it wouldn't matter a bit, people will readily bow in awe. Herds of fans fall on their knees in tears at his very sight and worship.

If this wealthy person were actually stupid, people would still view him as “smart”, they would still bow in his presence and their eyes would become so clouded by the mere awe of his wealth and fame, they would be blinded to the fact that this person may possess a room temperature IQ, and instead see a “wise and clever man”... wanting to emulate him they bow in the presence of such sheer massive power and wealth... and want to follow him despite the fact that he may be among the worst morally corrupt people on the planet. Our world and history has been full of real living examples of such people and said scenarios. This is the true reality of what our society has deemed important and hold in the highest esteem.

This has been an adopted adapted REALITY, for generations on end, we have learned to embrace in profound respect and blindly follow those who have accumulated the most. The most money, the most land, the most power, the most beauty the most fame and so on. Power is one of the world's most potent and contagiously addictive aphrodisiacs. Once bitten by this bug most people succumb to its every desire. The endless pursuit of ever more fame, fortune and power, more money, more power, ever more profits has lead us to a world where nothing is sacred any longer, down the path to an abyss.

The rivers are routinely polluted in the quest for more profits, the skies are routinely polluted in the quest for more profits, the lands are routinely ravaged and raped in the quest for more profits, the animals of the earth are routinely hunted and/or eradicated as a byproduct in the quest for evermore profits, human beings are routinely SICKENED, ENPOVERISHED, ENSLAVED, MAIMED, KILLED in the quest for evermore profits, money, capital of CAPITALISM. The list goes on and on.

This is truly so sad, for ultimate reality and importance should be based on quality and extent of love for their fellow man, high moral standards, ethics, compassion, goodness, heart, and so forth. Where did we go wrong? Why has mankind lost its way, its values, its compass? There are many factors... of which the fundamental starting point is: money of which all else revolves around. But capitalism is good, right? This is the premise we have all been indoctrinated to believe since childhood and which all learned scholars of this system all agree upon. First we must fully understand and comprehend some very important aspects of REALITY prior to attempting to dissect the monetary beast.

This report herein is for those who seek the knowledge forbidden to you by the ruling elite that has constantly been banned and hidden far from plain view, far beyond the confined reaches of your allowed perception by those who wish to enslave you. We dedicate this report to all those who always wonder, who question everything and embrace our common quest in searching for TRUTH.

Who owns you Americans? - Video

Behold: we come forth to expose the facts, insight, understanding, knowledge and visions that have been revealed and will try our best to articulate them in a cohesive "big picture." Laying our raw findings bare naked for the world to see.

Statistics state that very few people even read anymore. For the masses would rather spend their free time engulfed in being entertained, preferring the deep hypnotic slumber of sitting in front of the boob tube... engulfed in the latest "entertainment PROGRAM", sports, shows, games, drama, etc., the list of fun distractions to keep your mind busy and "boxed" is huge indeed. This is not conjecture either, for it has been hard core scientifically proven that TV is one of the most ideal hypnotic mediums in existence. Research proves that the subjects enter a hypnotic trance like receptive state within minutes of sitting in front of a TV. Ready for hypnotic suggestion, in other words: programming. Music is also a central hypnotic programming medium that has been used throughout the ages. Is it not interesting in that the media networks call their output over the airwaves, designed for our consumption: "programming"

TV & Radio: "PROGRAM"...

"PROGRAMMING"...

"PROGRAMMING"...

"PROGRAMMING!"

They called it "TV program" since its inception because that is EXACTLY what they have been doing to the population: mass programming them. Thus we can readily observe that "big media" is "big brothers" right hand man. The common accepted "truth" of every society is derived from the news and media outlets. "They" are the ones whom program you, who shape and mold everyone's perception of reality... they virtually set the norms of society, they set the stage, the rhythm, the ambiance, the common public vibe, the prevailing winds, flow of attitudes and ideas, what's cool, what's hot, what's not. People sit in front of their boob tubes in complete hypnotic slumbers receiving the latest MIND PROGRAMING. In essence THEY (the media) decide what is and what is not, why and how, before you even had a clue if it ever was...

Most of you naively believe in the false assumption that the News channels and papers tell you everything about everything that is worth reporting. You have been programmed throughout your life to trust the news authorities and never question what they "report." Well here is your wake up call. All news reporters are just paid employees who are paid to read their SCRIPTS on air. They are all forbidden in their contracts from giving you their opinions or telling you what they think is the truth, doing so will immediately end their wonderful catered opulent luxurious lives and lead them to ruin, no longer to be a part of their privileged elite club. They are NOT paid to think or question the content or scripts they are given, or even tell you the truth for that matter, their job is to read what is prepared for them off the Teleprompters and do so in an authoritative convincing manor.

The rulers of this world have long ago found the Holy Grail of population control and indoctrination. They found a way to reach everyone when their defenses are down, even in their most private times and places. It was the invention of the MAGICK BOX called "TV set" that has enabled them to infiltrate the masses and secretly, invisibly "TV Program" them, indoctrinate them in the privacy of their living rooms, bedrooms, the sanctuaries they call their homes. The TV set is the MAGICK BOX that has enabled and empowered the ruling elite to ingeniously shape, mold and lead public opinion and discourse in any direction they so desire. The MAGICK BOX is the key instrument that establishes what is "normal" what is not, what is cool, what is bad, who is good, what is in, what is out, it established and sets the environment for how the masses perceive the world around them... what is reality.

For when the MAGICK BOX speaks, everyone believes.... The shamans of the Magick box cast their spells on the masses... they use its power to manipulate and deceive mankind.... Children and adults alike routinely sit in front of their Magick box and stare into it for hours on end in deep hypnotic trance like states... it is then that they receive their daily doses of programming...

The single most important issue that must be covered prior to understanding every aspect of The Matrix is: "WHAT IS TRUTH?" Is truth whatever and all the information you get off the evening news? Is truth everything they taught you your whole life in school? Is truth everything your parents told you throughout your life? Is truth whatever the corporate publishing giants who print your history books tell you? Is truth whatever and anything your government tells you? Can the truth change from day to day at some ones whim? How do you differentiate what is truth from bullshit? Do you even care what truth is?

In order to fully understand truth, one must understand the opposite of truth in order to help discern which one is which, for at times it is extremely difficult to determine what the truth is. The exact opposites of truth are LIES and deceit. Lies are selfish, they exist to deceive, trick, fool and hide from truth. Lies are often viewed as covering things in "darkness", to cloak things from truth, for darkness CONCEALS many things, it covers up a multitude of blemishes, faults, schisms, evils, details that would reveal the true nature of things. Therefore the truth is often viewed as "the light", for it reveals all that was hidden from sight, cloaked in the darkness. Therefore like a flashlight, he how knows the truth is like he who carries a flashlight in the darkest night and can clearly see what is going on around him while others wonder around aimlessly in the dark. All the while, those who do not possess a flash light have all adjusted to life without the aid of "the light" (truth) and learned to exist without the aid of the "light". For them, it is "normal" everyday life as they have become used to, this is their "reality"... the world they live in under the circumstances and conditions they have been immersed in their entire lives.

Behold for I present to you the parable of the pig: Just like a pig who lives in a pig pen covered in shit, yet he has not a clue, for him it is normal, for he long ago became used to that life, the stench having become an integral part of his being, he is no longer aware of it, this is his reality. You on the other hand having be raised on higher standard and level of awareness of reality come upon the pig in the pen and try to explain to him his terrible situation, the pig will naturally ferociously reject your words and attempts to enlighten him. Such is the OFFENSE he is taken to have been made aware of that startling situation, so engrained is his conviction of righteousness that some will even protect their views and beliefs with violence, for more often than not, no amount of rational dialogue will bridge the chasm. THIS is how mankind typically responds to attempts of awakening.

The mind is a very powerful thing, for if you are born in a bird cage, and are taught that you are free, you will naturally have come to accept that as reality, for it is the only "freedom" you have been conditioned to and have known your whole life, thus readily embracing it and accepting it as real. And if you recognize something as real, then, for all intents and purposes, it IS real... to you and those around you that were also indoctrinated in the same cognitive reality. But to the “enlightened” he will readily observe the fact that you are in fact in a bird cage.

People standing in the exact same (dark) "room" (place, town, state, country, etc.) will perceive and see many things differently based upon their life programming. What they see is also conditional upon their abilities to "see in the dark". Even though they might all be in the same room their ability to "see" what is around them determines how they filter their view of reality. Many won't be able to see much and continue to live life oblivious to their true purpose and what is truly happening in their very midst, they are thus blinded from the lack of light, they therefore rely upon and must be "told" by others what is around them... by sources such as TV, news papers and entertainment media, for sheeple live with “eyes wide shut.” Hence the famous prophetic verse: they see but yet they are blind...

Therefore, in life, for one to be able to perceive the true reality, around them, one must find, acquire and embrace a superior source of "light" (truth). The moment you acquire true sight you view all things, go all places, no matter how immersed in darkness (lies, deceit, etc.) it may be, your lantern, your light, will reveal all that is around you ever so clearly, while right beside you others stumble along in the darkness oblivious to what is really happening around them. You therefore possess “sight” and the ability to discern what true reality is.

The most important thing that one must do is to constantly seek out and obtain sources of light, truth. Learn all its ins and outs, learn all its powers, for once you are one with "light" (truth) and carry it where ever you go, you will never get lost in the middle of "the night" darkness (lies and deceit) that the deceivers of man so readily pore upon the unsuspecting. Those with sight easily seeing all the lies, obstacles, pitfalls, and dangers, your view of reality will be much more advanced than those around you without "light". The light you learn of and acquire may be as strong as a small candle and light up your immediate surroundings, others may carry much larger stronger lights (truth), therefore being able to "see" much clearer and further into the distance... The most superior of all lights is solidly based in the reality of absolute Love.

Is it any wonder that a group of people who have called themselves the “illuminati” as in “the illuminated ones” who’s official emblem throughout the ages has been the pyramid and “all seeing eye” at its apex are ones who understand the “gift of sight.” These groups of people do in fact have a perception of world view reality that is levels above the common peasant folks and as such are “enlightened ones.” I will go on within this research report to expose their very foundation. The fact that you must understand at this point is that those people do NOT have a monopoly on “the gift of sight.” The most absolute and highest form of sight comes from the most high, heavenly father, the creator of man. Theirs is a perverted twisted “enlightment,” were they believe only THEY should have divine rights, thus possessing authority over others while they plunge mankind into primal animalistic materialist existence, they rule effortlessly due to the fact that they have managed to keep the majority of the rest of civilization IN THE DARK throughout the ages...

Behold: Be not afraid of the all Seeing Eye,  for I come forth to expose to thee that the secrets of enlightenment. The “all seeing eye” is not exclusive to the ruling elite whom have corrupted it for their own selfish wants. Their knowledge is fundamentally flawed and based on false Gods. In God’s original purpose for man, all men were to become his divine sons and daughters, his family as descendants of God, thus naturally possessing divinity, therefore: “sight” and “light” should have been a common attribute of his children. The Luciferian oppressors of man have hijacked “sight” (hence their use of the “all seeing eye”) and keep the masses “blind”, dwelling and wandering around in darkness, they have corrupted your ability to “see”, monopolized it and claim it as their own and have been using it to subvert, undermine, destabilized, oppress, conquer and enslave the children of God from the beginning of known history. I have come forth to expose the nature of the all seeing eye thus reveal its secrets to all, for the sake of heavenly father and the liberation of all mankind who have been enslaved since the beginning of history. We must therefore first divulge then exterminate and obliterate “the secrets” that are hidden in darkness exposing them to the true supreme light firmly rooted in the unselfish love of Heavenly father. [note: the full secret of the All Seeing Eye is exposed throughout this report, yet some of its key aspects is revealed in the Hidden Secrets of the Ages chapter]

To conclude with this most important of analogies, I say to thee: Light reveals the path in darkness, once the path is lit one is no longer “LOST” for he can now find his way around, true light is eternal and unchanging, light overcomes darkness, lies and deceit (darkness) which cannot withstand or hold up to the spotlight of truth. Light, i.e. truth is simple and full of logical common sense, darkness, lies and deceit is complex full of convoluted justifications, excuses, intricate explanations that often employ the most skilled highly educated diploma wielding Sooth Sayers to convey. The key to comprehending reality is “light” plus cognitive perception, and the ability to observe things from different unselfish viewpoints. Goodness represents light. Evil represents darkness. God is the ultimate, brightest, purest form of “light.” Lucifer who rebelled against God and engineered the fall of man, was at one time “the light bearer”, thus you must understand that he was the Arch Angel whose purpose was to be THE source of “light”... “sight”... “truth” for his mission as guardian of man was to educate man.

After the great rebellion, Lucifer used his mastery of “light, sight, truth” to deceive, not only other angels but all of mankind. Thus we witness his spewing of LIES THAT SO CLOSELY RESEMBLE TRUTH (and/or intertwined with truth) at such remarkable cunning similarity to truth that man easily becomes duped and easily misled. The LIES are imperceptible from the truth to those who still dwell in the world of darkness, lost and blind, those people need to be TOLD what the “truth” (and the evil missleaders tell them whatever they so please to establish as truth) for they lack the ABILITY TO SEE, due to the fact that they never acquired THE LIGHT OF TRUTH.

There exists a Luciferian pack of leaders who throughout the ages, of highly secretive bequeathed knowledge, have become masters of engineering and manipulating events, and even history itself. It has been said that they operate from a vantage point where normal uninitiated man cannot even fathom. These are master Discordians whose motto is “order out of chaos.” Nothing that they produce can be accepted at face value for almost everything they produce for mass consumption is inherently rigged for the masses.

Some Discordians argue that organized chaos is such a thoroughly confused conundrum that it ought to be practiced, if for no other reason than to see how many arguments it can start. Discordipedia may be one of those things.

The heirs of the Lucifer rebellion who are the Synagogue of Satan has continued here on earth and multiplied throughout the ages. Their existence has been cleverly hidden and disguised over the eons. Today they rule with impunity firmly established, coordinated and orchestrated through their secret societies and organizations. Their tentacles are strewn and interwoven throughout all sectors of society. To find their underlying frame of thought one needs to carefully research and understand their ideology, who’s entry level phases of teachings begin with and are disguised today within many outwardly innocuous entities and movements such as “The New Age Movement” and Theosophy among many other spheres. Their ideology is deeply interwoven in the central tenants of Freemasonry, one of the many secret societies who hide in plain sight.

Simulacra and Simulation

(Simulacres et Simulation in French) is a philosophical treatise by Jean Baudrillard seeking to interrogate the relationship among reality, symbols, and society.

“ The simulacrum is never that which conceals the truth--it is the truth which conceals that there is none. The simulacrum is true.”

Simulacra and Simulation is most known for its discussion of images, signs, and how they relate to contemporaneity. Baudrillard claims that our current society has replaced all reality and meaning with symbols and signs, and that human experience is of a simulation of reality. Moreover, these simulacra are not merely mediations of reality, nor even deceptive mediations of reality; they are not based in a reality nor do they hide a reality, they simply hide that anything like reality is irrelevant to our current understanding of our lives. The simulacra that Baudrillard refers to are the significations and symbolism of culture and media that construct perceived reality, the acquired understanding by which our lives and shared existence is rendered legible; Baudrillard believed that society has become so saturated with these simulacra and our lives so saturated with the constructs of society that all meaning was being rendered meaningless by being infinitely mutable. Baudrillard called this phenomenon the "precession of simulacra".

"Simulacra and Simulation" breaks the sign-order into 4 stages:

1. The first stage is a faithful image/copy, where we believe, and it may even be correct that, a sign is a "reflection of a profound reality" (pg 6), this is a good appearance, in what Baudrillard called "the sacramental order".
2. The second stage is perversion of reality, this is where we believe the sign to be an unfaithful copy, which "masks and denatures" reality as an "evil appearance-it is of the order of maleficence". Here, signs and images do not faithfully show us reality, but can hint at the existence of something real which the sign itself is incapable of encapsulating.
3. The third stage masks the absence of a profound reality, where the simulacrum pretends to be a faithful copy, but it is a copy with no original. Signs and images claim to represent something real, but no representation is taking place and arbitrary images are merely suggested as things which they have no relationship to. Baudrillard calls this the "order of sorcery".
4. The fourth stage is pure simulation, in which the simulacrum has no relationship to any reality whatsoever. Here, signs merely reflect other signs and any claim to reality on the part of images or signs is only of the order of other such claims.

Simulacra and Simulation identifies three types of simulacra and identifies each with a historical period:

1. First order, associated with the premodern period, where the image is clearly an artificial placemaker for the real item. The uniqueness of objects and situations marks them as irreducibly real and signification obviously gropes towards this reality.
2. Second order, associated with the modernity of the industrial Revolution, where distinctions between image and reality break down due to the proliferation of mass-reproducible copies of items, turning them into commodities. The commodity's ability to imitate reality threatens to replace the original version, especially when the individual person is only concerned with consuming for some utility a functional facsimile.
3. Third order, associated with the postmodernity, where the simulacrum precedes the original and the distinction between reality and representation vanishes. There is only the simulacrum, and originality becomes a totally meaningless concept.[2]

Baudrillard theorizes that the lack of distinctions between reality and simulacra originates in several phenomena:

1. Contemporary media including television, film, print and the Internet, which are responsible for blurring the line between goods that are needed and goods for which a need is created by commercial images.
2. Exchange value, in which the value of goods is based on money rather than usefulness.
3. Multinational capitalism, which separates produced goods from the plants, minerals and other original materials and the processes used to create them.
4. Urbanization, which separates humans from the natural world.
5. Language and ideology, in which language is used to obscure rather than reveal reality when used by dominant, politically powerful groups.

A specific analogy that Baudrillard uses is a fable derived from On Exactitude in Science by Jorge Luis Borges. In it, a great Empire created a map that was so detailed it was as large as the Empire itself. The actual map grew and decayed as the Empire itself conquered or lost territory. When the Empire crumbled, all that was left was the map. In Baudrillard's rendition, it is the map that people live in, the simulation of reality, and it is reality that is crumbling away from disuse.

The transition from signs which dissimulate something to signs which dissimulate that there is nothing, marks the decisive turning point. The first implies a theology of truth and secrecy (to which the notion of ideology still belongs). The second inaugurates an age of simulacra and simulation, in which there is no longer any God to recognize his own, nor any last judgment to separate truth from false, the real from its artificial resurrection, since everything is already dead and risen in advance.[3]

It is important to note that when Baudrillard refers to the "precession of simulacra" in Simulacra and Simulation, he is referring to the way simulacra have come to precede the real in the sense mentioned above, rather than to any succession of historical phases of the image. Referring to "On Exactitude in Science", he argued that just as for contemporary society the simulated copy had superseded the original object, so, too, the map had come to precede the geographic territory (c.f. Map–territory relation), e.g. the first Gulf War (see below): the image of war preceded real war.

Henceforth, it is the map that precedes the territory - precession of simulacra - it is the map that engenders the territory and if we were to revive the fable today, it would be the territory whose shreds are slowly rotting across the map.[4]

[The Matrix Report author's note: The most prominent use of Simulacra and Simulation today is in the field of media, primarily movies, video and TV shows that mold and shape the mass conscience understanding of what is reality. You see, hear and witness the impact of media on a daily basis. For instance millions of people have been "inspired by _____ or _____ movie to change the course/direction/careers, etc." Movies and media routinely establish all the new fads and norms. For instance it has been a common outcome that once a hugely popular movie airs, millions of people EMULATING characters of the movies, EMULATING the content of the movies. This Simulacra & Simulation effect of movies/TV on people has been well documented and understood scientific phenomena, firmly exploited by the ruling elite, many movies/TV shows are purposely strategically designed/produced to push ideologies, frames of thought, mindsets, concepts, agendas, narratives, and so forth thus simulacra suggestion eventually to some degree morphs into reality in the real world.... Games and toys merchandising of popular movies are other tangible items commonly created to enable the firm embedding of this sort of Simulacra & Simulation in peoples lives...

I consequently reveal to thee one of the riddles of the ages... for he who has an ear, let him hear, for he who has eyes let him see... I am not here to convince anyone of anything, for the truth I shall reveal in this Matrix Report is self evident. Take it or leave it. I will do my part and walk off into the sunrise, I care not for fame or fortune, you are ultimately responsible for what paths you select in life, I am only here to fulfill my mission as a Watchman to reveal all that is, has been and will be, to pass on absolute source of true light base on the true love of God, what you ultimately do with it is up to you. I have spoken, so it is, was, and shall always be.

When one experiences the cosmic "realization" of a true reality within any given realm (such as, in just one of the case scenarios described in this report, where one of the wolves in sheep's clothing is the universally trusted medical/big pharma industrial complex... realm) is the moment each person REALIZES the truth on their own, it becomes part of you, it is not the same as being "told" the truth, where the side effects of that action tend to be "in one ear, out the other." Thus the moment one achieves COMPLETE REALIZATION is also the same moment of understanding TRUE REALITY. One no longer "thinks" or "believes", one "KNOWS." Knowing, is a fundamental component of true knowledge and understanding. Consequently enlightenment comes in stages, limited only by ones current cognitive perception of the world around them, deciphering events and understanding their true nature, is central to formulating their individual perception of reality. Digest these words carefully.....

Millions exist today that FULLY comprehend the dangers and evil of the medical/big pharma cartel, many of these are the "health nuts" people heavily into health foods, some are vegetarians, some into natural remedies and supplements, yet they have no clue about the other components/sectors, other industries of the cohesive Luciferian matrix, they see and only know of the evils in their respective fields. We thus observe that these people possess partial enlightenment of a tiny piece of the puzzle, portion of truth of this world thus live their lives according to how they view and perceived the world around them with their limited enlightened viewpoint. They live healthier lives due to their superior understanding of that particular segment of REALITY. Yet most view their knowledge of the health/medical arena as isolated reflection of society, thus failing to comprehend the larger picture that reveals itself by simply connecting the dots (connecting the facts) or put the other pieces of the puzzle together thus revealing the larger reality of a cohesive interconnected matrix.

There are those who have become enlightened in individual realms, for instance the world of finance and usury, fully knowing the true reality of the private money monopoly juggernaut. But might not have a clue about natural medicine for instance, vice a versa and so forth for all segments of society. Those people have thus experienced limited partial enlightenment in only certain realms. Thus people can experience/possess enlightenment, perceiving the true realities of all different sectors and realms of life such as education, medicine, military, politics, religion, etc., even on up to the higher realms of enlightenment: love and divinity (perfection and oneness with God's heart). It can be said that one who achieves enlightenment in all major sectors of life is therefore totally enlightened. I must warn that enlightenment as well as with everything in existence has dual natures: A positive and a negative aspect, a "dark" side or the "light" side.

The ruling elite believe that only they should possess enlightenment, thus we witness the history of their oppressing mankind throughout the ages in their attempts to keep man dumb, docile, obedient and manageable. They begin their subjugation of man from tender rapidly developing minds of early childhood where the INDOCTRINATION begins in the institutionalized mass education and indoctrination system, in conjunction with that, throughout their entire lives will be the ever pervasive omnipresent MEDIA PRIMING & CONDITIONING. Along with those programs there's the irradiated, pasteurized, microwaved, chemical laden, processed, etc., etc. food you eat and drinks that are virtually devoid of real nutrients. Thus the nutrient deficient chemical laden, spiritually, mentally, physically handicapped masses develop all sorts of once never heard of ailments, illnesses and diseases. Never able to function at their full God designed/given potential or capacities.

Enter the medical mafia drug pushers to the rescue to allegedly "help" you from all the pain, ailments and illnesses with their arsenal of poisons they inject you with or convince you to swallow, further neutralizing you and neutering your brain cells. Then there is your big brother nanny state government who cares about you so much they enact thousands upon thousands of oppressive laws "to protect you" of course, each and every one, little by little stripping you of rights and freedoms. At the apex they have even infiltrated religion, where you are preached to just be meek, humble and poor, to accept your ~~enslavement~~ life as it is, just pray and be obedient sheep and stick to your herd... Be meek and happy poor sheep, goyim cattle, oh humble servants, sleep... sleep... sleep....

The sad fact is that the world you have been living in your entire life is mostly a lie. The truth is you have been enslaved Neo. You have all been CONDITIONED since childhood to see things in premeditated ways. You have been a product of "the establishment", society, your immediate environment and surroundings. All the variables one observes as "reality" in trying to understand the world they live in are provided and controlled by a ruling elite. Many things that were taught to you for years as rock solid "history", is instead carefully selected data, full of omitted info, disinformation, lies, contaminated and twisting of facts to nurture a preconceived narrative. Our revisionist heavily edited single minded history books have taken many subjects and turned them into "fairy tale" Alice in Wonderland type stories full of hype, omitting important details, facts, viewpoints and dark secrets. What you see in the daily news, doesn't even touch upon the tip of the iceberg of what constitutes REAL news.

Your watchful and benevolent government is so badly compromised and corrupted that it boggles the mind. Etc., etc. No!!! LIAR! Tell me it's not so! is the overwhelming response of fools who have found happiness and security in their enslavement. The real truth is often very painful to acknowledge, accept and behold.

- Your life is not your own
- Your assets are perpetually at risk of forfeiture
- Your money is not your own
- You are burdened by bureaucratic intrusions, regulations and scrutiny
- You are taxed and levied like a serf in the Middle Ages
- You are numbered, registered, watched and listened to
- You are told what you can and cannot do - even in the most personal of matters
- You are a slave of the system

THE CENTURY OF THE SELF

The Untold History of Controlling the Masses Through the Manipulation of Unconscious Desires

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country.

We are governed, our minds are molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of. This is a logical result of the way in which our democratic society is organized." - Edward Bernays

Adam Curtis' acclaimed series examines the rise of the all-consuming self against the backdrop of the Freud dynasty.

To many in both politics and business, the triumph of the self is the ultimate expression of democracy, where power has finally moved to the people. Certainly the people may feel they are in charge, but are they really? The Century of the Self tells the untold and sometimes controversial story of the growth of the mass-consumer society in Britain and the United States. How was the all-consuming self created, by whom, and in whose interests?

The Freud dynasty is at the heart of this compelling social history. Sigmund Freud, founder of psychoanalysis; Edward Bernays, who invented public relations; Anna Freud, Sigmund's devoted daughter; and present-day PR guru and Sigmund's great grandson, Matthew Freud.

Sigmund Freud's work into the bubbling and murky world of the subconscious changed the world. By introducing a technique to probe the unconscious mind, Freud provided useful tools for understanding the secret desires of the masses. Unwittingly, his work served as the precursor to a world full of political spin doctors, marketing moguls, and society's belief that the pursuit of satisfaction and happiness is man's ultimate goal.

Please Note: Viewers should be sure to read Ludwig Von Mises' 'The Anti-Capitalist Mentality' to balance the socialistic elements of this film.

This film was produced by BBC which is Britain's government run news channel, therefore it downplays the evils of government and plays up the vices of business. The enemy is not capitalism or 'consumption' but government and its insidious propaganda. Mass produced goods enrich society because they reduce the amount of time a person has to work to satisfy one's essential needs. Government propaganda debases society because it is used as an excuse for everything from murderous wars of aggression to oppressive economy killing taxation and regulation. When a business sells you something voluntarily you will only buy it if you think the product is worth more than the price you have to pay for it. When the government propagandizes you they are merely giving you excuses to submit to their use of force which will be bearing down on you whether you like it or not. The two are very different and this film does a disservice by confusing them. That said, it's important to understand the propagandists who serve to justify the crimes of the state. Selling someone a product they don't truly need hurts no one, selling people on a war they don't need gets millions of people murdered and destroys entire societies. -

Chris, InformationLiberation

"In the course of his narrative, he explains aspects of the market that have generally eluded even its defenders. For example, is it true that markets dumb down the culture, exalting trashy novels and movies over higher-brow fare? Mises points out that the tastes of the masses will always and everywhere be lower than those educated and cultivated to love higher culture. But, he says, the glory of capitalism is that it brings to every sector what it wants and needs, and more of it than any other system. So, yes, there will be more trash, but also more great work as *well. It is a matter of availability: under socialism, nothing is available. Under capitalism, choice seems nearly infinite." - From the description of 'The Anti-Capitalist Mentality'

Part One

One: Happiness Machines

The story of the relationship between Sigmund Freud and his American nephew, Edward Bernays. Bernays invented the public relations profession in the 1920s and was the first person to take Freud's ideas to manipulate the masses. He showed American corporations how they could make people want things they didn't need by systematically linking mass-produced goods to their unconscious desires.

Bernays was one of the main architects of the modern techniques of mass-consumer persuasion, using every trick in the book, from celebrity endorsement and outrageous PR stunts, to eroticising the motorcar.

His most notorious coup was breaking the taboo on women smoking by persuading them that cigarettes were a symbol of independence and freedom. But Bernays was convinced that this was more than just a way of selling consumer goods. It was a new political idea of how to control the masses. By satisfying the inner irrational desires that his uncle had identified, people could be made happy and thus docile.

It was the start of the all-consuming self which has come to dominate today's world.

See Ludwig von Mises "The Noneconomic Objections to Capitalism" and "The Argument of Happiness" to balance the propaganda in this section.

The Engineering of Consent – video link

Part Two

Two: The Engineering of Consent

The programme explores how those in power in post-war America used Freud's ideas about the unconscious mind to try and control the masses.

Politicians and planners came to believe Freud's underlying premise - that deep within all human beings were dangerous and irrational desires and fears. They were convinced that it was the unleashing of these instincts that had led to the barbarism of Nazi Germany. To stop it ever happening again they set out to find ways to control this hidden enemy within the human mind.

Sigmund Freud's daughter, Anna, and his nephew, Edward Bernays, provided the centrepiece philosophy. The US government, big business, and the CIA used their ideas to develop techniques to manage and control the minds of the American people. But this was not a cynical exercise in manipulation. Those in power believed that the only way to make democracy work and create a stable society was to repress the savage barbarism that lurked just under the surface of normal American life.

He Must Be Destroyed

Three: There is a Policeman Inside All Our Heads: He Must Be Destroyed

In the 1960s, a radical group of psychotherapists challenged the influence of Freudian ideas in America. They were inspired by the ideas of Wilhelm Reich, a pupil of Freud's, who had turned against him and was hated by the Freud family. He believed that the inner self did not need to be repressed and controlled. It should be encouraged to express itself.

Out of this came a political movement that sought to create new beings free of the psychological conformity that had been implanted in people's minds by business and politics.

This programme shows how this rapidly developed in America through self-help movements like Werber Erhard's Erhard Seminar Training - into the irresistible rise of the expressive self: the Me Generation.

But the American corporations soon realised that this new self was not a threat but their greatest opportunity. It was in their interest to encourage people to feel they were unique individuals and then sell them ways to express that individuality. To do this they turned to techniques developed by Freudian psychoanalysts to read the inner desires of the new self.

Eight People Sipping Wine in Kettering video link - Part Four

Four: Eight People Sipping Wine in Kettering

This episode explains how politicians on the left, in both Britain and America, turned to the techniques developed by business to read and fulfil the inner desires of the self.

Both New Labour, under Tony Blair, and the Democrats, led by Bill Clinton, used the focus group, which had been invented by psychoanalysts, in order to regain power. They set out to mould their policies to people's inner desires and feelings, just as capitalism had learnt to do with products.

Out of this grew a new culture of public relations and marketing in politics, business and journalism. One of its stars in Britain was Matthew Freud who followed in the footsteps of his relation, Edward Bernays, the inventor of public relations in the 1920s.

The politicians believed they were creating a new and better form of democracy, one that truly responded to the inner feelings of individual. But what they didn't realise was that the aim of those who had originally created these techniques had not been to liberate the people but to develop a new way of controlling them.

Democracy has been the prelude to and silently substituted by pure capitalism. Capitalism is motivated by profit and therefore inherently operates under a VALUE SYSTEM OF GREED at its very core. Greed is the central tenant of and rules over capitalism to such an extent that it has become an incurable cancer in our world. Even some of our trusted religious institutions have been corrupted beyond belief. This is absolute bedrock TRUTH. You have been ideologically indoctrinated down to your CORE being to cherish democracy, i.e.: capitalism and your: sELECTED masters leaders, as a devote unwavering patriot, and as such will defend its existence beyond all reasoning, no matter what evil forces have over take it and rule it from within the most high halls of the land. The lemming public that has been so thoroughly programmed they routinely dismiss the constant stream of the most aggravated in your face transgressions that routinely come out of corridors of government power. Due to inherent greed factor, a government unduly influenced by a selfish self-centered market, by corporations' and banks' lobbying and political contributions, will never, NEVER, EVER be able to fulfill its responsibility as regulator of markets and truly serve "the people" whom are thus rendered powerless observers.

The truth of the matter is that giant multinational corporations are forever broadening their economic sovereignty over the affairs of people. At first their reach was limited to their home cities, then countries, as they grew into colossal entities they began to spread their tentacles throughout the world, becoming GLOBAL economic super powers. There is a well known saying in law schools: "True justice cannot exist in a system where there are inequalities of power because the powerful will always exploit the weak." This has been true since the beginning of time, the only difference is that today the powerful are colossal global corporations whose annual income surpasses those of most nations, these multinational conglomerate beasts operate with insatiable lust of conquest, expansionism and profit, they are all run by an elite group of people who consist of a tiny percentage of the population. The movers, shakers and decision makers.

The left wing vs. right wing engineered PARADIGM/PARADOX... So what are YOU? A leftist pansy or a right wing douche bag? By default the ruling elite cunningly divided everyone and lumped into either left or right, liberal or conservative then ingeniously give them the ammunition to battle each other instead of battling the true overlords. If you think about it, the stupid tradition of fighting the "other evil team" is quite insane. Lumping everyone into generalized groups, DIVIDING them this way only serves to SEPERATE everyone into opposing camps and set them up for BATTLE. As you can see by observing the political circus show has taken up a life of its own as we forever witness both sides perpetually verbally combatting one another while nothing EVER really changes. When you think about it, there really is no "left" or "right." For instance since you can generalize that due to my being anti-military, anti-conglomerate, anti-government, pro-social equality and pro-earth etc. that I am "leftist"... but... I am also conservative, anti-homo, anti-abortion, pro-guns, religious "zealot" etc. right winger.

So what am I? I am no different than you or anyone else on this planet; I am neither leftwing nor rightwing for I, just as everyone else possess attributes of both. I am a normal person, a normal divine child of God, as is everyone else on this planet. Don't allow yourself to be confined, boxed in and labeled, this practice must be eradicated immediately. Once you STOP fighting one another, together the so called "left" and "right" can unite and join forces to battle the true ruling overlords who engineer the chasims pushing their agendas on both sides, perpetually instigating clashes designed to have each side accusing the other and bitterly opposing one another thus totally overlooking the true core, causal root, the source of all misery.

Everyone has opinions, feelings, convictions and so forth. Lumping everyone into left vs. right camps, instigating and cajoling them into battle is the work of the devil to turn man against themselves thus never being able to rise above the petty bullshit differences, living day to day immersed in divisive arguments, focusing on irrelevant differences instead of the TRUE SOURCE OF PROBLEMS that face humanity. It is in this DARKNESS that the BLIND mankind dwells in thus fails to see the true reality "light" of day. THIS is reality staring at you in the face.

"The American left is a phantom. It is conjured up by the right wing to tag Barack Obama as a socialist and used by the liberal class to justify its complacency and lethargy. It diverts attention from corporate power. It perpetuates the myth of a democratic system that is influenced by the votes of citizens, political platforms and the work of legislators. It keeps the world neatly divided into a left and a right. The phantom left functions as a convenient scapegoat. The right wing blames it for moral degeneration and fiscal chaos. The liberal class uses it to call for “moderation.” And while we waste our time talking nonsense, the engines of corporate power—masked, ruthless and unexamined—happily devour the state....

The corruption of electoral politics by corporate funds and lobbyists, the naive belief that we can somehow vote ourselves back to democracy, was ignored for emotional catharsis. The right hates. The liberals laugh. And the country is taken hostage.

...Politics in America has become spectacle. It is another form of show business. The crowd in Washington, well trained by television, was conditioned to play its role before the cameras. The signs —“The Rant is Too Damn High,” “Real Patriots Can Handle a Difference of Opinion” or “I Masturbate and I Vote”—reflected the hollowness of current political discourse and television’s perverse epistemology. The rally spoke exclusively in the impoverished iconography and language of television. It was filled with meaningless political pieties, music and jokes. It was like any television variety program. Personalities were being sold, not political platforms. And this is what the society of spectacle is about.

The modern spectacle, as the theorist Guy Debord pointed out, is a potent tool for pacification and depoliticization. It is a “permanent opium war” which stupefies its viewers and disconnects them from the forces that control their lives. The spectacle diverts anger toward phantoms and away from the perpetrators of exploitation and injustice. It manufactures feelings of euphoria. It allows participants to confuse the spectacle itself with political action.”

...They provide the empty, emotionally laden material that propels endless chatter back and forth on supposed left- and right-wing television programs. It is a national Punch and Judy show. But don’t be fooled. It is not politics. It is entertainment. It is spectacle. All national debate on the airwaves is driven by the same empty gossip, the same absurd trivia, the same celebrity meltdowns and the same ridiculous posturing. It is presented with a different spin. But none of it is about ideas or truth. None of it is about being informed. It caters to emotions. It makes us confuse how we are made to feel with knowledge. And in the end, for those who serve up this drivel, the game is about money in the form of ratings and advertising. Beck, Colbert and Stewart all serve the same masters. And it is not us.- Excerpts from “The Phantom Left” article by Chris Hedges

Wake up Dorothy; you are not in Kansas anymore. You can cover your eyes and ears, and run away right now, returning to your Alice in Wonderland existence. But if you choose to read on, seriously contemplating the FACTS, the ugly raw TRUTH that we are about to present. The TRUTHS we are about to reveal. Then you will have to deal with the REALITY of “knowing” and having to try and continue your daily existence with what you KNOW eating at you day in and day out. Heck, I just want to wake up tomorrow, put on my rose colored glasses and pretend that everything is fine and dandy also! I just want to continue to have fun and go on with life oblivious to everything. Dream the American dream... for the majority, it is just that: only a dream that you have been CONDITIONED, as in pre-programmed to chase for your entire life.

We have all been trained like rabbits, the "American Dream" has been the carrot, 10 to 20% of us actually reach the carrot (then endlessly labor to keep it, thus becoming enslaved to it). The rest all toil their entire lives in their futile pursuit of the carrots. Go to work, make “them” rich while barely being able to make ends meet, pay bills, more bills, more taxes, sky high medical bills, blah, blah, blah. Welcome to the rat race.

The kicker? Most who have achieved the American dream have become slaves to it. From the moment that they stop to rest, get sick, etc. that dream can come crashing down so fast it’s not funny. The majority that makes the millionaires club in that dream will do just about ANYTHING to maintain that status, to get their piece of the pie. You THINK you are not a slave yet you have to work all week long for someone else just to pay the rent and put food on the table, it is not even a choice, it is a requirement, for the moment you can’t work for any reason and become unemployed you are immediately weeks away from becoming homeless and destitute. In most cases when you have a family it is virtually impossible to survive on just one paycheck to meet just the BASIC NEEDS. Oh, no, you are surely not a slave of this most wonderful benevolent capitalist system! Your employers are your literal slave masters, do as you are told when to do it and you better like it or else. Free your mind from the indoctrination and life programming... unplug from the matrix.

Most of those that have made it high up there in the American dream, will quietly keep their mouths shut about any unfair, unjust, corrupt and or dangerous practices being conducted by the organization that employs them. Some call it watching their own ass. Heck, you might even be one of the key players enabling corrupt practices just to keep your American dream and stay on the gravy train in order to keep that beautiful home of yours and maintain that wonderful lifestyle. It is very painful to get thrown off the wagon since poverty, pain and hardship is there waiting for all those who fall off. Those who are in any way connected with the government, turning a blind eye is "normal". The unspoken protocol within all government circles is never challenge the status quo, for doing so quickly gets you in trouble and or banished to the unemployment line.

The majority of all people feel this way: Just let me go home to my nice and cozy American dream, can't chance losing my pension, 401k, need that paycheck, don't want to rock the boat, make waves or get in trouble, don't want to be ridiculed by my peers, on second thought, I don't even want to know the truth... The key power players in managing the lemming public get all the best perks, mansions, Ferraris, Lamborghinis, yachts, women, fame, and fortune. These are the "middle managers" of the ruling elite who know to whom their loyalty is devoted to. As for the poor average mortal on the street that make up the 85%er crowd, the rat racers; "so what" is the prevalent attitude of the leaders.

THINK

The thinking regions of our brains have been neutralized so that the masses won't use them. Then they can let others do the thinking for them...

The critical thinking region is mostly defunct in many people, they are completely incapable of analyzing and processing thought. Little has mankind realized, the majority of mankind does NOT THINK FOR THEMSELVES. They more often than not let someone else make all their important decisions. The news delivers what is supposedly "important", no need for one to think on their own, just turn on your TV and they do all the thinking for you, presenting you with synopsis of what they have determined is relevant and important to the millions of minions sitting in front of their programming devices.

The government does most of the heavy thinking for the masses as it decides what is good for you and what is not... what shall be and what shall not... and so on... You as a citizen have basically NO INPUT, no need to THINK, you are later given a pretext and narrative about this or that decision that was made for you and your fellow cattle constituents.

The cattle population the world over has been so thoroughly indoctrinated and mass-brainwashed to accept once most easily observable circumstances of losses of freedom, a.k.a.: enslavement as today's accepted normal everyday living conditions. The examples are so numerous, mankind needs to figure out how to emancipate themselves from mental slavery to be able to utilize their original minds to easily identify them. Here is just one example of the extremes to which millions of brain dead cattle population routinely, normally, habitually, nonchalantly submits to and accepts ever increasing rampant oppression and newer forms of enslavement, even in their sanctuaries, their own homes:

Top 7 insane homeowners association rules

No more than 14 roses? No smoking in your own home? After a homeowners association told a Virginia vet he couldn't hang a flag, even Obama sympathized

The astonishingly restrictive ways of homeowners associations (HOAs) came under scrutiny this month when a Sussex Square, Virginia, HOA demanded that a 90-year-old World War II vet remove an unapproved flag pole from his front yard. After receiving support from members of Congress, and even the Obama administration, Medal of Honor recipient Van T. Barefoot, who once singlehandedly took on three Nazi tanks, triumphed in his quest to fly Old Glory. Other homeowners haven't been as lucky in their battles against their own HOAs' "fascist" rules. Here are seven of the most controversial commandments:

1. Thou shalt not plant too many roses

A Rancho Santa Fe, California, homeowners' association targeted Jeffery DeMarco for exceeding the prescribed number of rose bushes allowed on his four-acre property. When DeMarco balked, the HOA levied monthly fines, threatened foreclosure, and ultimately defeated DeMarco in court. After a judge ruled that the willful rose enthusiast had violated the community's architecture design rules, DeMarco was forced to pay the HOA's $70,000 legal bill — and lost his home to the bank.

2. Thou shalt not use "inconsistent" shingles — even after a plane destroys thy house

After a plane crashed into the Sanford, Florida, home of Joe Woodard, killing his wife, Janise, and their infant son, he decided to rebuild a new home on the same lot. But his reconstruction came to a screeching halt when his HOA informed him that he'd positioned the new structure unacceptably and failed to achieve a perfect shingle match with his neighbors' homes. Threatened with a lawsuit, the grieving widower told a local reporter that he'd hoped to change things up to avoid "reliving" painful memories — but eventually capitulated to the unsympathetic HOA.

3. Thou shalt not post a "For Sale" sign

When Denise Hicks placed a "For Sale" sign in front of her Lebanon, Tennessee, residence, the Spence Creek homeowners association quickly reprimanded her for a breach of contract, citing a rule prohibiting signs, banners or billboards. Ultimately, Hicks was forced to display her realtor's signs in her home's windows, hidden from view.

4. Thou shalt not offer thy homeless granddaughter shelter

Assuming guardianship of their six-year-old granddaughter, Kimberly, after her drug-addict mother was ruled unfit, Jimmy and Judy Stuttler brought the child to live with them in their Clearwater, Florida, retirement village. Since Kimberly was not technically "over 55" or arguably "retired," the alarmed HOA tried to force the girl out. Attempting to move, the Stuttlers failed to sell their home even after slashing its price from $250,000 to $129,000 and were eventually sued by the HOA. Kimberley's fate is now in the hands of the courts.

5. Thou must carry thy dog at all times

After Pamela McMahan, a geriatric who walks with a cane, was fined $25 every time she failed to carry her cocker spaniel through the lobby of her Long Beach, California condominium, which stipulates that pets' feet must never touch the floor of common areas. "There are just too many things going on in the lobby," said Stormy Jech, the building's assistant property manager. "The dog might jump on someone or go to the bathroom." After racking up hundreds of dollars in fines, McMahan was forced to move.

6. No smoking — even in thy own bathroom

HOAs' ban on smoking in all public areas — including balconies, patios, courtyards, and swimming pool areas — has recently been extended into residents' homes. Citing the negative health effects of secondhand smoke, multiple court hearings have ruled in favor of HOAs. As Realty Times points out, "The Constitution does not guarantee Americans the right to smoke in their homes...."

7. Thou shall maintain a consistently green lawn

The Beacon Woods Civic Association in Bayonet Point, Florida, took 66-year old resident Joseph Prudente to court for failing to properly maintain his lawn after a $600-per-month increase to his adjustable rate mortgage threw him on hard times. Though Prudente was ultimately jailed for failing to resod his lawn, other members of the community took pity on the faulty landscaper, and paid for new sod, flowers, mulching, and functioning sprinklers. Their charity was enough to spring their elderly neighbor from the slammer, but Prudente still faces court and association fines.

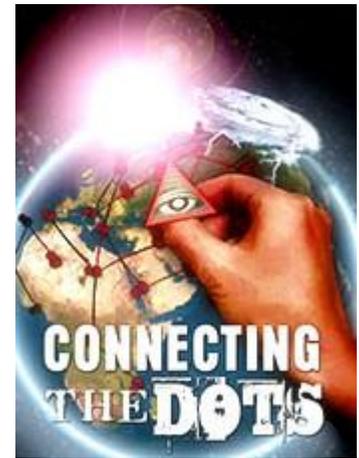

The above examples are but a drop in the preverbal bucket of acceptable life oppression/enslavement rules and regulations that are imposed on the lemming populations by many sectors of society. Look around you, for examples of liberty stripping, enslavement doctrines are everywhere, most people don't notice because they have mentally surrendered and become used to them. It has been said that if you put a frog in water and slowly boil the water, the frog will naturally stay there without noticing the increasing heat until it boils to death, meanwhile if the water is already boiling to the same temperature and you drop the frog in it, the frog will immediately jump out. News flash to the world's simmering lemmings: the water is boiling.

We live in what is possibly one of the greatest times and countries to have ever existed. Every day we are blessed with the marvels of modern technology. An incredible amount of personal freedom compared to that of other countries and centuries. So many options and things to do, you can never go everywhere, see everything, do it all and have it all. Surely this country has been blessed from the day it was formed. I am a true patriot in every sense of the word. We are all patriots. From the days of writing the Declaration of Independence, the adopting of our Constitution, this nation has been blessed with patriots that worked hard for our freedoms. So where did it all begin to go wrong?

Capitalism: Democracy's Trojan Horse

For our brief moment in time, our "Democracy" has become the dominant form of government (due to a lack of any superior form governance) of this age. But our current ways of government have been under a direct frontal assault for many decades, maybe even centuries. Our Democracy exists in word alone as it has been infiltrated and overtaken by oligarchic and fascist parasitic entities that rule this nation. Democracy has been steadily pushed to the back seat as our government caters ever more to the wants of the ruling elite and its corporate constituents, thus capitalism has long ago become the undisputed defacto RULER of our "Democracy." Over the past century our country has been at the forefront of a unilateral capitalist ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the planet conducted under the pretext and guise of "spreading democracy." No one has called it for what it is. Take it or leave it, now you KNOW.

Corruption is at its all time highest ever. Special agendas have over taken and plagued our nation like a deadly cancer, almost everywhere you search within our entire past century and current state. Massive multinational conglomerates and their agents are the ones pulling all the strings now; they alone are instrumental in shaping all laws and policies to their own benefit, at the expense of the greater good "of the people".

One of the greatest flaws and the Achilles heel of our government is the Lobbying sector. It needs to be completely abolished as of yesterday. For "lobbying" is nothing more than basically just a disguised, sanctioned, legalized, form of BRIBERY. While the rest of the world was busy fighting fascism for centuries, fascism has secretly, quietly overtaken our country long ago without even a shot being fired. Mussolini called his nation's fascist system: "the corporate state," today here in the good ole U.S. of A the corporations literally run this nation, for they are the ones whose desires decide ALL national policies and strategic foreign policies. We literally for all intents and purposes truly live in the Fascist States of America, but due to the fact the official recognition, use and acknowledgment of the word "fascist" in the association with our most wonderful country is taboo, unequivocally denied, refuted, banned and ridiculed, throw in a lot of personal liberty, and the population has no clue of the reality that we do in fact live in a fascist oligarchic republic.

We have "separation of church and state", there should likewise be "separation of business and state". For this great nation was founded upon the grand ideal of: "for the people, by the people". NOT: "for the corporations, by the corporations". Yet today the voice of the people is like that of a lone voice in the wilderness, as Washington cranks out policy after policy for the sole benefits of the ultra elite and their mega conglomerates that keep Washington and the politicians swimming in blood money.

Most of our politicians have direct or indirect ties to those very same corporations whose agendas they are pushing. Many if not most politicians use the merry-go-round or "revolving door", come from the private sector take public office (and vice versa) then transform themselves into "rain makers"... conflicts of interest be damned for this is standard protocol in action.

This first chapter is just the beginning. Throughout this Matrix Report I will go on to expose all types of insane practices and the sins being perpetrated on the American people and the world. Exposing many incredible jaw dropping agendas, crimes and cover-ups, I will attempt to strip the entire ruling elite system bare naked and leave it with nowhere to hide. Am I lying to you? Am I just making this all up? I have better things to do other than waste my time sitting here making up bullshit. I have received many revelations, I have seen too much, have witnessed the beast first hand, finally I had no choice but to chance losing everything in this mandate that I must complete, the mission I have been given, tried my best to avoid. The more I researched, trying to prove I was delirious the more the research lead me to greater and more damning evidence. I provide the FACTS of my research for free. I am a just a Watchman, I have nothing to gain, other than to hopefully, in my lifetime be able to see this great nation and world rid itself of the cancerous blood sucking tumors that have infiltrated it to its very CORE. Just about every sentence written in this report can be researched (and you should, MUST verify for yourself) on your own by just simply firing up any search engine and doing your own searches on every topic, every single point being made. Our dream is to one day be able to wake up and be able to proclaim: “I am proud of my country, I am proud to be a part of it, we are proud family of God”, to one day be able to see a time when America truly leads this world into a new age of peace and harmony NOT based upon the current greed of our multinational corporations and the elite few that have been plundering this nation along with other nations for all their resources. I yearn for a society that is NOT run by groups of aristocratic elite rulers who could care less about fairness, inequality, human suffering, and poverty.

This report has been developed to focus on the big picture that often never gets viewed in its entirety due to the fact that reality is purposely fragmented and distorted by those who have the influence, power and massive media networks to reach millions. There is such a staggering amount of info, occurrences and distractions in so many sectors of society, very few people can connect the dots to reveal the big picture. Each section of The Matrix has literally thousands of news, facts, data and info supporting our arguments, revealing the TRUTH of each segment of The Matrix. We will attempt our best to consolidate thousands of facts from all sources into one streamlined big picture for you right here in one work. The same way you play CONNECT THE DOTS you need to learn how to play CONNECT THE FACTS. Collect them then, catalog them, study them, the arrange them as pieces of a puzzle, then one by one, put the pieces together revealing the hidden big picture, the true reality.

Behold for: Most people have a mass molded, pre-shaped pre-concieved perception of “evil” and what evil beings look like. The common engrained image of an evil being or person has been pre-shaped since your childhood. You have been conditioned to adopt the image of some scary evil being that was drawn by artists or portrayed by Hollywood as some insidious scary monster or madman you should fear.

The biggest trick the devil ever pulled is to convince the world he doesn't exist. News flash: the devil does exist here on earth, he dwells within the hearts and minds of those who have channeled his being and wantonly do his will. And NO they do not look like evil scary monsters or demented madmen... for THEY GRADUATED IVY LEAGUE UNIVERSITIES, OPERATE ALL THE MOST IMPORTANT INSTITUTIONS AND WEAR SUITES AND TIES. Many are charismatic individuals with fame and fortune, they live lives of ultimate luxury that all the peasants tune in with their TV sets admire, hold in high esteem and idolize. The blind masses actually even become their most adoring fans and worship them...

Once you understand how the ruling factions of this society truly works, you will be able to truly understand and even "foresee" the directions of current events, policies and so forth, almost as if you had ESP. For here we reveal to you the ruling elite's Rosetta Stone, their modus operandi, laying out their play books for all to see. For even though the ruling elite operate in total secrecy, their actions and those of their intermediaries ultimately reveal their true direction. With your Rosetta Stone you can decipher the nightly news and see beyond the petty bullshit being fed the blind masses.

It is written: “you will know them by their deeds.” The ruling elite can only delegate through others, all people and their systems contain flaws, they also make mistakes, when they do so, every incident reveals yet more clues about them, their nature and exposes more pieces of the puzzle. What we often witness when they error is their masterful manipulation in covering up their messes, then like a magicians sleight of hand, they pull the wool over our eyes luring our tiny attention spans elsewhere. Behold for I come forth to proclaim that the ruling elites' power is actually no more stable than a house of cards for it is held together by fragile lies and deceit...

Though the ruling elite's ultimate aim seems to be the complete subjugation and enslave mankind, no matter how bleak or hopeless our situation may seem, they will eventually be overcome. For theirs is a house built of smoke and mirrors, yet backed by the power of all the gold on the planet. At this moment in time you may believe that you are "free", but in reality you serve many masters. You hear but yet do not comprehend, you see but yet are still blind. We have a moral obligation, not only to ourselves, our families and all others to stand up to and say "enough is enough!" Emancipate yourself from mental slavery. The time has come to free your mind and take your life and country back! The TRUTH will literally set you free for the more people who know the real truth, the less the rulers of this world can hide, the KEY to defeating the enemy is EXPOSING THEM AND THEIR SECRETS WITH THE TRUTH.

The question arises: So how in the world did we get to this predicament to be ruled by an elite group who own and control just about everything, relegating us all to the status of mere spectators, essentially enslaved to their wishes. It is of utmost importance that you fully understand that your reality is shaped and molded by your perception of the world around you. The single most influential instruments for MOLDING AND SHAPING THE MASSES PERCEPTION OF REALITY has been the MEDIA: newspapers, books, magazines, radio, TV and movies. Here is a very astute article that discusses the factors that have enabled the corrupting of world media... the mass public's default source of "TRUTH" and REALITY:

The Creed of Objectivity Killed the News

By Chris Hedges, truthdig.com

Reporters who witness the worst of human suffering and return to newsrooms angry see their compassion washed out or severely muted by the layers of editors who stand between the reporter and the reader. The creed of objectivity and balance, formulated at the beginning of the 19th century by newspaper owners to generate greater profits from advertisers, disarms and cripples the press.

And the creed of objectivity becomes a convenient and profitable vehicle to avoid confronting unpleasant truths or angering a power structure on which news organizations depend for access and profits. This creed transforms reporters into neutral observers or voyeurs. It banishes empathy, passion and a quest for justice. Reporters are permitted to watch but not to feel or to speak in their own voices. They function as "professionals" and see themselves as dispassionate and disinterested social scientists. This vaunted lack of bias, enforced by bloodless hierarchies of bureaucrats, is the disease of American journalism.

"The very notion that on any given story all you have to do is report what both sides say and you've done a fine job of objective journalism debilitates the press," the late columnist Molly Ivins once wrote. "There is no such thing as objectivity, and the truth, that slippery little bugger, has the oddest habit of being way to hell off on one side or the other: it seldom nestles neatly halfway between any two opposing points of view. The smug complacency of much of the press—I have heard many an editor say, 'Well, we're being attacked by both sides so we must be right'—stems from the curious notion that if you get a quote from both sides, preferably in an official position, you've done the job. In the first place, most stories aren't two-sided, they're 17-sided at least. In the second place, it's of no help to either the readers or the truth to quote one side saying, 'Cat,' and the other side saying 'Dog,' while the truth is there's an elephant crashing around out there in the bushes."

Ivins went on to write that "the press's most serious failures are not its sins of commission, but its sins of omission—the stories we miss, the stories we don't see, the stories that don't hold press conferences, the stories that don't come from 'reliable sources.'"

This abject moral failing has left the growing numbers of Americans shunted aside by our corporate state without a voice. It has also, with the rise of a ruthless American oligarchy, left the traditional press on the wrong side of our growing class divide. The elitism, distrust and lack of credibility of the press—and here I speak of the dwindling institutions that attempt to report news—come directly from this steady and willful disintegration of the media’s moral core.

This moral void has been effectively exploited by the 24-hour cable news shows and trash talk radio programs. The failure of the fact-based press to express empathy or outrage for our growing underclass has permitted the disastrous rise of “faith-based” reporting. The bloodless and soulless journalism of the traditional media has bolstered the popularity of partisan outlets that present a view of the world that often has no relation to the real, but responds very effectively to the emotional needs of viewers. Fox News is, in some sense, no more objective than The New York Times, but there is one crucial and vital difference. Fox News and most of the other cable outlets do not feel constrained by verifiable facts. Within the traditional news establishment, facts may have been self-selected or skillfully stage-managed by public relations specialists, but what was not verifiable was not publishable.

The cable news channels have cleverly seized on the creed of objectivity and redefined it in populist terms. They attack news based on verifiable fact for its liberal bias, for, in essence, failing to be objective, and promise a return to “genuine” objectivity. Fox’s Bill O’Reilly argues, “If Fox News is a conservative channel—and I’m going to use the word ‘if’—so what? ... You’ve got 50 other media that are blatantly left. Now, I don’t think Fox is a conservative channel. I think it’s a traditional channel. There’s a difference. We are willing to hear points of view that you’ll never hear on ABC, CBS or NBC.”

O’Reilly is not wrong in suggesting that the objectivity of the traditional media has an inherent political bias. But it is a bias that caters to the power elite and it is a bias that is confined by fact. The traditional quest for “objectivity” is, as James Carey wrote, also based on an ethnocentric conceit: “It pretended to discover Universal Truth, to proclaim Universal Laws, and to describe a Universal Man. Upon inspection it appeared, however, that its Universal Man resembled a type found around Cambridge, Massachusetts, or Cambridge, England; its Universal Laws resembled those felt to be useful by Congress and Parliament; and its Universal Truth bore English and American accents.”

Objectivity creates the formula of quoting Establishment specialists or experts within the narrow confines of the power elite who debate policy nuance like medieval theologians. As long as one viewpoint is balanced by another, usually no more than what Sigmund Freud would term “the narcissism of minor difference,” the job of a reporter is deemed complete. But this is more often a way to obscure rather than expose truth.

Reporting, while it is presented to the public as neutral, objective and unbiased, is always highly interpretive. It is defined by rigid stylistic parameters. I have written, like most other reporters, hundreds of news stories. Reporters begin with a collection of facts, statements, positions and anecdotes and then select those that create the “balance” permitted by the formula of daily journalism. The closer reporters get to official sources, for example those covering Wall Street, Congress, the White House or the State Department, the more constraints they endure. When reporting depends heavily on access it becomes very difficult to challenge those who grant or deny that access. This craven desire for access has turned huge sections of the Washington press, along with most business reporters, into courtiers. The need to be included in press briefings and background interviews with government or business officials, as well as the desire for leaks and early access to official documents, obliterates journalistic autonomy.

“Record the fury of a Palestinian whose land has been taken from him by Israeli settlers—but always refer to Israel’s ‘security needs’ and its ‘war on terror,’ ” Robert Fisk writes. “If Americans are accused of ‘torture’, call it ‘abuse’. If Israel assassinates a Palestinian, call it a ‘targeted killing’. If Armenians lament their Holocaust™ of 1,500,000 souls in 1915, remind readers that Turkey denies this all too real and fully documented genocide. If Iraq has become a hell on earth for its people, recall how awful Saddam was. If a dictator is on our side, call him a ‘strongman’. If he’s our enemy, call him a tyrant, or part of the ‘axis of evil’. And above all else, use the word ‘terrorist.’ Terror, terror, terror, terror, terror, terror, terror. Seven days a week.”

“Ask ‘how’ and ‘who’—but not ‘why’,” Fisk adds. “Source everything to officials: ‘American officials’, ‘intelligence officials’, ‘official sources’, anonymous policemen or army officers. And if these institutions charged with our protection abuse their power, then remind readers and listeners and viewers of the dangerous age in which we now live, the age of terror—which means that we must live in the Age of the Warrior, someone whose business and profession and vocation and mere existence is to destroy our enemies.”

“In the classic example, a refugee from Nazi Germany who appears on television saying monstrous things are happening in his homeland must be followed by a Nazi spokesman saying Adolf Hitler is the greatest boon to humanity since pasteurized milk,” the former New York Times columnist Russell Baker wrote. “Real objectivity would require not only hard work by news people to determine which report was accurate, but also a willingness to put up with the abuse certain to follow publication of an objectively formed judgment. To escape the hard work or the abuse, if one man says Hitler is an ogre, we instantly give you another to say Hitler is a prince. A man says the rockets won’t work? We give you another who says they will. The public may not learn much about these fairly sensitive matters, but neither does it get another excuse to denounce the media for unfairness and lack of objectivity. In brief, society is teeming with people who become furious if told what the score is.”

Journalists, because of their training and distaste for shattering their own exalted notion of themselves, lack the inclination and vocabulary to discuss ethics. They will, when pressed, mumble something about telling the truth and serving the public. They prefer not to face the fact that my truth is not your truth. News is a signal, a “blip,” an alarm that something is happening beyond our small circle of existence, as Walter Lippmann noted in his book “Public Opinion.” Journalism does not point us toward truth since, as Lippmann understood, there is always a vast divide between truth and news. Ethical questions open journalism to the nebulous world of interpretation and philosophy, and for this reason journalists flee from ethical inquiry like a herd of frightened sheep.

Journalists, while they like to promote the image of themselves as fierce individualists, are in the end another species of corporate employees. They claim as their clients an amorphous public. They seek their moral justification in the service of this nameless, faceless mass and speak little about the vast influence of the power elite to shape and determine reporting. Does a public even exist in a society as fragmented and divided as ours? Or is the public, as Walter Lippmann wrote, now so deeply uninformed and divorced from the inner workings of power and diplomacy as to make it a clean slate on which our armies of skilled propagandists can, often through the press, leave a message?

The symbiotic relationship between the press and the power elite worked for nearly a century. It worked as long as our power elite, no matter how ruthless or insensitive, was competent. But once our power elite became incompetent and morally bankrupt, the press, along with the power elite, lost its final vestige of credibility. The press became, as seen in the Iraq war and the aftermath of the financial upheavals, a class of courtiers. The press, which has always written and spoken from presuppositions and principles that reflect the elite consensus, now peddles a consensus that is flagrantly artificial. Our elite oversaw the dismantling of the country’s manufacturing base and the betrayal of the working class with the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the press dutifully trumpeted this as a form of growth. Our elite deregulated the banking industry, leading to nationwide bank collapses, and the press extolled the value of the free market. Our elite corrupted the levers of power to advance the interests of corporations and the press naively conflated freedom with the free market. This reporting may have been “objective” and “impartial” but it defied common sense. The harsh reality of shuttered former steel-producing towns and growing human misery should have, in the hands of any good cop reporter, exposed the fantasies. But the press long ago stopped thinking and lost nearly all its moral autonomy.

Real reporting, grounded in a commitment to justice and empathy, could have informed and empowered the public as we underwent a corporate coup d’état in slow motion. It could have stimulated a radical debate about structures, laws, privilege, power and justice. But the traditional press, by clinging to an outdated etiquette designed to serve corrupt power structures, lost its social function. Corporations, which once made many of these news outlets very rich, have turned to more effective forms of advertising. Profits have plummeted. And yet these press courtiers, lost in the fantasy of their own righteousness and moral probity, cling to the hollow morality of

The world will not be a better place when these fact-based news organizations die. We will be propelled into a culture where facts and opinions will be interchangeable, where lies will become true, and where fantasy will be peddled as news. I will lament the loss of traditional news. It will unmoor us from reality. The tragedy is that the moral void of the news business contributed as much to its own annihilation as the protofascists who feed on its carcass.

The “powers that be” are terrified, for their holy grail of control of the masses perception of reality: media has been subject to major upheavals as the masses, enabled by the internet age, have been fleeing traditional ruling elite news along with all their other traditional media platforms and learning the TRUTH, reporting the TRUTH on their own on the internet. The ruling elite have been proceeding cautiously due to what has been emerging as a “truth movement.” Thus they are anxiously looking for ways to place the internet on lock down, surreptitiously censor and control the content. They WILL eventually put the internet on lockdown, as they have done with traditional media they will eventually gain control, censor the internet “for your protection.” They will continually raise the bar of entry and participation, especially for those who claim to provide news. They will setup all sorts of regulations and filters throughout the net, even on the ISP level; they will eventually make operating any sort of web content that is not officially approved with sanctioned material extremely difficult or even illegal. Mark my words and watch as they lock down the “wild wild west internet”.... For your “protection” but of course is the standard pretext rally cry.

The overlords FEAR truth for only TRUTH can expose all and derail their best laid plans. Thus you have been witnessing a massive concerted effort to discredit, ridicule, mock, scorn, rebuke, attack, and even imprison those of us who dare come forth to reveal the TRUTH to the world. One need look no further than the recent A&E FBI show which portrays 9/11 truthers as DOPE SMOKING TERRORISTS, for a perfect example of the lengths that “big brother” will go to alienate and distance the public from those who speak the TRUTH. As more and more biased “programs” such as that TV show are aired, the general public, subject to the constant barrage of misleading propaganda critical of the “truth movement” combined with the phenomena of group (follow the herd) mentality, naturally turns away from the ridiculed (TRUTH) subject matter and believes the lies they are constantly fed by the mainstream media and government propaganda machine. Such are the forces we are up against.

Let me also warn you right here and now that the powers that be infiltrate, manipulate and control every side of every argument, thus direct the breath, depth and scope of all public discourse. They rule the left and they rule the right, thus they can never lose. They have even infiltrated and are actively trying to steer the “truther movement.” This is so readily witnessed by the recent conservative party attempt of HIJACKING the truther movement (headed by corporations, FOX News and Glenn Beck at the helm) they are stirring up the USEFUL IDIOTS in Tea Party dog and pony show attempting to lead the disenfranchised public into what seems like a controlled rebellion against the “left wing liberal commy socialist bastards”...they are engineering a controlled demolition of the masses... the public is getting mad as hell of the blatant lies, corruption, abuses of the Washingtonites, the ruling elite know this very well, therefore THEY are preemptively controlling its implosion... Behold as we witness this election season the elite masterfully guide the masses resentment and hostility and get them to yet again accept and usher in yet another elite chosen agent of “change” that the public perverbially pray for every four years and never get.

You must never forget that the powers that be control both the left wing and the right wing... Repeat after me: The ruling elite control both sides of the war of the minds, the liberals and the conservatives, left and right. It is one of the devil’s oldest tricks in the book: DIVIDE AND CONQUER. Then the minions, talking heads, pundits, voting public, aka USEFUL IDIOTS run amuck ATTACKING EACH OTHER! Doing the job of tearing themselves apart for the hidden ruling elite! With that most important central truth revealed, fully engraved in your conscience, now come along on this amazing journey into the realm of absolute truth...

TRUTH DOES NOT FEAR INVESTIGATION...
QUESTION EVERYTHING BELIEVE NOTHING – TEST THE SPIRITS

The Devil invented “Divide and Conquer” it has been his key central stratagem since the beginning of known history up until these very days. Who are the true good guys and bad guys in this world? The grand engineered of DIVISION has utterly and completely squared off brothers against brothers, families against families, religions against religions, peoples against peoples, nations against nations... DIVISION at its finest. Again I pose you this most important paradox: Who are the "good guys" and who are the "bad guys"? Those who blindly allow themselves to be misled and deceived by those who control the media will quickly blurt out who you have been trained to identify as the current "bad guys." I have a more compelling question: What if one day you awoke to find out that your entire life was in the bosom and service of your father... Darth Vader... and your entire life you thought that you were one of the "good guys"?

The illuminati manipulators of man have known the inner secrets and the power of the unconscious and the superconscious mind; although these are in fact your own resources, they have and still are effectively using them against you, because you allow it.

This Matrix Report is my sincere attempt to articulate and provide a cohesive universal insight into "the matrix" of the ruling elite. There are literally hundreds if not thousands of more highly researched more specialized in depth sources, articles, books, videos and websites out there focusing on each segment of the matrix just waiting for you to enter, waiting for you with tons of evidence, facts and so forth, where they lift the cover of the smoke and mirrors, exposing to the world the lies, deceit and sins of those who wish to enslave us all. This report provides you with the Rosetta Stone that reveals the fundamental hard core framework of the Luciferian ruling elite. Thus this report can and should be used as a comprehensive guide to help one navigate the realm of information and knowledge, allowing one to sift through and differentiate from all the bullshit that is floating in circulation masquerading as and pretending to be truth.

Unfortunately even though truth can be told, it must be REALIZED individually. Ignorance is bliss. Divine truth is ultimate reality. Behold, for it is written: seek and ye shall find, knock and the door shall be opened.

This matrix report was tirelessly constructed with this thought in mind: The tree of understanding gives the ability to perceive the reality in every situation. Those who eat of the fruit of this tree will not be deceived by the illusions of darkness, for they will see through them, as one looks through a window to see what is beyond it.

“ORDER OUT OF CHAOS”

THE ENGINEERING OF PERPETUAL CRISIS TO FACILITATE RULE OVER THE MASSES

If you want to make someone angry, tell him a lie; if you want to make him furious, tell him the truth. All truth passes through three stages. First, it is ridiculed, second it is violently opposed, and third, it is accepted as self-evident. – Arthur Schopenhauer Philosopher, 1788-1860

“For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.” – Ephesians 6:12

The problem with conspiracy theories is they have to come before the facts!!! ● “WAR IS PEACE” means War for the masses = Peace for the elite ● “FREEDOM IS SLAVERY” means Slavery for the masses = Freedom for the elite ● “IGNORANCE IS STRENGTH” means Ignorance for the masses = Strength for the elite! To end the war, we must end slavery, To end slavery, we must end ignorance – source [also: “if you want peace, prepare for war]

Prior to proceeding any further, there is something that absolutely MUST be revealed:

In order to understand the who the ruling masters are, there is one core causal root factor that almost all researchers seem to overlook and miss altogether. Statistics state that well over 90% of the population believes in God yet there is this massive disconnect with the understanding of scriptural reality, cosmic Heavenly reality in this world. In order to completely understand the TRUE REALITY of this world, one MUST factor in the spiritual reality of unseen forces at work beyond the common mans scope of perception. I will make this short and to the point:

In order to understand who the true rulers of this world are, one must understand the common denominators and who they are beholden to, who their hidden master is. Throughout the Holy Scriptures there are numerous undeniable, irrefutable statements regarding “the ruler of this world.” The Holy Bible states several times in many separate entries thus unequivocally, in no uncertain terms revealing the fact that “SATAN IS THE RULER OF THIS WORLD.” This is no secret, yet it has been said that one of the Devil’s greatest tricks has been in convincing that he (and even God) do not exist. What we have been witnessing on earth is a SIMULACRUM OF LIBERTY AND RULE BY DEMOCRACY.

“He is the ruler of the earth” (John 12:31, Ephesians 6:12 and 2 Corinthians 4:4)

“How you have fallen from Heaven, o Lucifer son of the dawn! You have been cut down to earth, you have weakened the nations!” – Isaiah 14:12-15

“the prince of this world” - (John 12:31 & 14:30 & 16:11)

a demon able to enter into a human body (John 13:27)

“their minds have been kept in the dark by the evil god of this world.” (2Cor.4: 4)

“The devil led him up to a high place and showed him (Jesus) in an instant all the kingdoms of the world. And he said to him, I will give you all their authority and splendour, for it has been given to me, and I can give it to anyone I want to. So if you worship me, it will all be yours. (Luke 4:5-8)

Knowing that Satan is the “ruler of this world” is elementary Biblical knowledge 101. Anyone that has even the most fundamental understanding of scripture knows that God expelled Satan from Heaven and cast him down to earth along with the other fallen angels (who were transformed into demons). Take a moment to truly contemplate this colossally imperative statement and digest its true meaning and ramifications on the world we live in.

Here is your wakeup call: Hello, WE ALL LIVE ON THE SAME “EARTH” the same place Satan and his demon minions were cast to!!! This is the hidden in plain sight COSMIC REALITY that mankind has been under mass denial about for eons. Thus mankind has been under the largest unified mass cognitive dissonance cases to have ever existed, one of biblical proportion mass denial and “blindness.”

Behold: Unbeknownst to the masses we have been living under Satan’s direct evil rule for millenniums, Satan’s DOMINION...

UNDER SATAN’S DOMINSION...

UNDER SATAN’S DOMINION...

UNDER SATAN’S DIRECT DOMINION since the dawn of man’s existence on this earth. Pick up any common history book to see that this planet has been under endless, relentless, continuous Satanic induced turmoil, division, chaos and bloodshed since the beginning of recorded history. All the recorded history of this world has been permeated with nonstop bloodshed: endless amount of wars, invasions, occupations, conflicts, division, crimes, adultery, incest, theft, murder, lies, deception, decadence, immorality and sin are a daily universally accepted

NORM, the list goes on and on. The fact that the world history has been comprised completely of bloodshed, wars, crimes, hate, sins and so forth is DIRECT TESTAMENT to Satan's rule.

Yet THIS is the world we have all been born in and grew up viewing and understanding as: NORMAL. What is the normal persons reaction to this revelation? "Hey lets go watch the football game!" or something along those lines. The mortals have no clue where they are or what is what. For they have known no other way. They have all been raised in the fog, in the filth and slime that they have come to identify as not only normal, but as "home sweet home."

Behold for: Satan's dominion over mankind is DIRECTLY MANIFESTED in the physical world, in the flesh BY HIS HUMAN AGENTS HERE ON EARTH. These are the wonderful benevolent charming suit wearing Ivy League highly educated leaders who continually seem to take us perpetually into the abyss with their never ending irrational illogical policies, rules, regulations and acts. We are conditioned to believe that our leaders are the best of the best while our own brains tell us otherwise, for the level of self-destructive absurdity and ignorance of their cumulative acts is beyond all common sense, rational and belief. Politicians are universally acknowledged as the most corrupt liars on the planet, yet we continue to elect them. These are perfect examples of cognitive dissonance in action, embracing to opposing ideas at once.

I come forth to expose the madness for what it really is: what the masses have been witnessing as the most illogical rule of their "elected" leaders has in all actuality been witnessing the possessed AGENTS OF SATAN knowingly or unknowingly carrying out his wishes here on earth. This has been one of the mysteries of the ages, for very few are the ones that put two and two together and see through the grand delusion, smoke and mirrors shroud that Satan's overlords on earth have erected to hide their core genesis. For he who has ears, let him hear, for he who has eyes, let him see.

Comprehend this most imperative key fundamental FACT then you can readily understand the paradigm of how Satan rules HIS falsely seized world here on earth. For most of those wonderful bright charismatic corrupt leaders that constantly seem to be making most irrational, illogical, stupidest idiotic decisions, constantly ruining their respective countries are none other than tools, agents of their imperceptible unseen master: Lucifer, Satan, the Devil. As harsh and completely difficult to swallow this COSMIC TRUTH is, this IS our true fundamental basic core causal root reality.

For this "wonderful world" full of excitement and tons of entertainment to keep your mind occupied by irrelevants you have all been centrally raised under and come to see as home sweet home has been nothing more or less than concealing the fact that you were raised up in the bosom of Satan's care. Still don't get it? Why the fuck do you think that mankind needs redemption from sin? Why does God need to send a Messiah to earth to save us? The history of mankind has been none other than a documented history of God trying to regain dominion over his children from the evil being that seized dominion through his engineered coup d'état ("fall of man" in the Garden of Eden) where he took our birthrights that basically vested him with the authority over man and allowed him to become master over man, taking mankind away from our beloved creator and true father. The scriptures are nothing more than historical records documenting God's efforts of regaining dominion over his lost children. God cannot just blowup Satan and be done with it. Even God must follow the laws of the universe, especially in this case, where he was directly challenged.

You must keep these KEY revelations in mind throughout studying this reference work and when researching the "Illuminati" rulers (or whatever you want to call the cabal of those who rule, lead this world). I have spoken only the pure unadulterated truth as has been revealed to me by the angels of Heaven on earth, take it or leave it, THIS is the true cause and effect reality of mankind. Understanding and comprehending the TRUTH will set you free... for only then will you ever comprehend the magnitude of your real situation, circumstances, conditions of your true existence on earth. You must find the strength to awaken to the true painful terrifying traumatizing reality and recognize that you are in fact enslaved by the false ruler of this world and his agents here on earth... Only then can one "see" the hidden masters then transcend the oppressors and walk the path of liberation... Only you can free yourself from his dominion, for you must take the responsibility for your actions and go forth to unplug yourself from his matrix. I know how wonderful and cozy you may be living out your life in his bosom, you have worldly dreams you hold dear, you have worldly responsibilities, school, work and visions of this (satan's world) to cater to Yes.... you can continue to sleep....sleep...sleep..... or AWAKEN oh son of man.

BEHOLD For: Unbeknownst to 90% of the world population there IS a Luciferian consortium, matrix, cabal, network, syndicate that is so powerful, so influential, so dominant, so authoritative, so controlling that NO ONE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD CAN UTTER A NEGATIVE WORD AGAINST THEM. The consequences for doing so is career suicide and public status of a leper.

The moment anyone, especially public figures, heads of state and famous people say anything negative against the syndicate or their people the offenders are immediately unilaterally singled out and targeted for destruction. Their entire lives are immediately turned upside down, they immediately lose their wonderful jobs, they are ruthlessly universally attacked by the media and their pundits. Financial ruin is the norm, for the consortium pull out all the stops in retribution of those who dare speak in any light other than accolades about them.

In over 13 countries the offenders who dare speak negatively about the syndicate or any of their kind are imprisoned for daring to utter the negative words against the cabal or any of their members. No matter how true the statements made may be. Truth be damned, for the consortium has absolute power and authority over the truth. Those who DARE come out accusing the syndicate or any of their members with truth receive the harshest most severe retribution. The character assassination is swift and universal, for all member entities and representatives jump on the bandwagon demonizing the target.

YES, THEIR DOES EXIST SUCH A POWERFUL RULING FORCE HERE ON EARTH that no one can oppose or speak of without undergoing massive life altering retribution and risk losing, even in some cases: his life.

This hidden ruling consortium rules with impunity and immunity. These are the true UNTOUCHABLES. Rarely do any of their cohorts ever go down or get prosecuted. When they do, it is only they fall out of step or because the evidence against them is so ridiculously obvious even the syndicate cannot protect them. Many of the highly connected, important, highest priesthood ruling elite have managed to often get presidential pardons despite all the evidence against them, these are among the invincible league of ruling elite.

I will go forth to systematically expose and dissect this REAL living consortium and its members throughout this research report. I can freely do so without risk of being targeted for elimination, character assassinated, or retribution of any kind only due to the fact that I am an invisible ghost thus there exists no physical person to attack. Thus I can say and reveal what others WOULD NEVER DARE SAY for fear of the severe retributive consequences. They have been trying to find out my true identity of years to no avail. If they succeed, then I would be destroyed, a dead man, period. Until then the cartel and its members can only writhe and suffer the consequences of TRUTH hemorrhaging about them. Their secret activities, agendas, endeavors and goals are hereby revealed by the grace of God and the authority he has vested in me to do so for all the world to behold.

Witness the fact that the WORD can in fact be mightier than the sword. Come along on this journey of revelation that I bring forth. Let's start by breaking down old falsehoods and assumptions... Follow me out of the world of darkness for I come forth to release thee from bondage through the light of truth... Fear no more, for the time of awakening hath come and is upon us...

Many people dismiss the preposterous notion that an entire country can be ruled by just a few people, especially a county as wonderful, full of "liberty" and "freedom" such as ours. The masses have been fully indoctrinated to believe in the mass illusion that this country is "of the people, for the people, by the people" and nothing, no proof of the contrary will ever let them release their wonderful fairy tale beliefs. "Of the people" may have been true 200 years ago when this nation was established, but today nothing can be further from those founding ideals. The power of rule has ever since those days have been concentrating into the hands of very few ruling elite people and their organizations.

For those who think it is impossible for just a few people to rule over millions of others and do whatever they wish, think about this fact for just one moment: Only 545 people make all the decisions for and CONTROL all the other 300,000,000 population. Think about it, for all intents and purposes, just 545 people actually RUN THIS COUNTRY, they make all the decisions and lead this country as THEY wish, oh sure they play make believe that they only serve the public, they ALL promise you this and that to get “elected” but in the end the story is always the same, every four years the forgetful minions faithfully go vote yet nothing EVER changes, only the faces and names in the perpetual game of musical chairs they play every few years. You all know they are ALL a bunch of crooks and liars who serve special interests and their hidden masters. More corruption exists in this tiny jurisdiction than anywhere else on the planet yet the zombie population accepts it and bow their heads to these corrupt leaders. Perpetually promised the hope and change they never receive and never will.

That’s 545 people ruling over the 300 MILLION others. This is not theory or conspiracy, this is fact. The real question one must ask and sincerely research is just WHO do those 545 people serve... In and of itself, this group of people comprise a defacto cabal or elite club, cartel, consortium or syndicate. Think about it. All elected officials are merely employees, paid “managers,” middle men under the employ of the true ruling elite whose will they fulfill while going through the motions to pacify the masses with doggy treats and occasional little victories of no strategic value to appease the angry mobs.

THE 545 PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL OF AMERICA'S WOES

By Charley Reese

Politicians are the only people in the world who create problems and then campaign against them.

Have you ever wondered why, if both the Democrats and the Republicans are against deficits, we have deficits? Have you ever wondered why, if all the politicians are against inflation and high taxes, we have inflation and high taxes?

You and I don't propose a federal budget. The president does. You and I don't have the Constitutional authority to vote on appropriations. The House of Representatives does. You and I don't write the tax code. Congress does. You and I don't set fiscal policy. Congress does. You and I don't control monetary policy. The Federal Reserve Bank does.

One hundred senators, 435 congressmen, one president and nine Supreme Court justices - 545 human beings out of the 235 million - are directly, legally, morally and individually responsible for the domestic problems that plague this country.

I excluded the members of the Federal Reserve Board because that problem was created by the Congress. In 1913, Congress delegated its Constitutional duty to provide a sound currency to a federally chartered but private central bank.

I excluded all but the special interests and lobbyists for a sound reason. They have no legal authority. They have no ability to coerce a senator, a congressman or a president to do one cotton-picking thing. I don't care if they offer a politician $1 million dollars in cash. The politician has the power to accept or reject it.

No matter what the lobbyist promises, it is the legislation's responsibility to determine how he votes.

A CONFIDENCE CONSPIRACY

Don't you see how the con game that is played on the people by the politicians? Those 545 human beings spend much of their energy convincing you that what they did is not their fault. They cooperate in this common con regardless of party.

What separates a politician from a normal human being is an excessive amount of gall. No normal human being would have the gall of Tip O'Neill, who stood up and criticized Ronald Reagan for creating deficits.

The president can only propose a budget. He cannot force the Congress to accept it. The Constitution, which is the supreme law of the land, gives sole responsibility to the House of Representatives for originating appropriations and taxes.

O'Neill is the speaker of the House. He is the leader of the majority party. He and his fellow Democrats, not the president, can approve any budget they want. If the president vetoes it, they can pass it over his veto.

REPLACE SCOUNDRELS

It seems inconceivable to me that a nation of 235 million cannot replace 545 people who stand convicted -- by present facts - of incompetence and irresponsibility.

I can't think of a single domestic problem, from an unfair tax code to defense overruns, that is not traceable directly to those 545 people.

When you fully grasp the plain truth that 545 people exercise power of the federal government, then it must follow that what exists is what they want to exist.

If the tax code is unfair, it's because they want it unfair. If the budget is in the red, it's because they want it in the red. If the Marines are in Lebanon, it's because they want them in Lebanon.

There are no insoluble government problems. Do not let these 545 people shift the blame to bureaucrats, whom they hire and whose jobs they can abolish; to lobbyists, whose gifts and advice they can reject; to regulators, to whom they give the power to regulate and from whom they can take it.

Above all, do not let them con you into the belief that there exist disembodied mystical forces like "the economy," "inflation" or "politics" that prevent them from doing what they take an oath to do.

Those 545 people and they alone are responsible. They and they alone have the power. They and they alone should be held accountable by the people who are their bosses - provided they have the gumption to manage their own employees. – [This article was taken from the Orlando Sentinel Star newspaper]

As the article above points out, our nation is literally controlled by just 545 people. For all intents and purposes Congress (both Houses) IS basically the United States of America. This group of 545 is the United States of America collectively lead this nation in any direction they and their benefactors chose, NOT you the people. Once this fact begins to seep into your conscience and you cognitively begin to comprehend this fundamental paradigm you can then understand how easily it is for powerful hidden consortium(s) or “syndicate(s) to infiltrate and get leveraged control of this great nation. The notion that powerful hidden groups gaining control is not all that irrational once you come to grips with the reality that the hidden overlords need only subjugate, indirectly or directly control to one extent or another just 545 easily influenced fallible people to gain control of an entire nation.

This is just the tip of the revelation of the state of control of our nation... You have all been raised, primed, indoctrinated to believe the MYTH that you the people are the central point of our government and this nation... i.e.: SOVEREIGN. But if you would take the time to analyze the evidence and how we “the people” are actually treated by the government on a daily basis you would understand that even this has been nothing but a cunning deception. Hundreds of thousands of unchallengeable, illegal Asset Forfeiture cases conducted on common citizens clearly reveal and demonstrate that you the public in all actuality have NO RIGHTS before the state. How many thousands upon thousands of examples can you think of throughout history where “the people” wanted this or that and the government enacted rules, regulations for the direct benefit of other agendas and entities such as the corporations? Which they are actually beholden to. You my dear friend are given DOGGY BONES to uphold the illusion and perpetuate the MYTH that you “the people” are still the central important sector in the eyes of the government “servants.” All the while your liberties are dramatically dwindling on a daily basis with new policies, rules, regulations, laws diminishing your rights and status... until the day eventually comes when you (or your descendants) will wake up impoverished to find that you have all been enslaved in the land of the free.

The common people never ratified the constitutions of any of the states, much less the United States, people still believe that they created the constitutions and are, therefore, the so called Sovereign. This sovereign status is claimed to mean that the people can tell government what and when to do anything through their perceived notion that they have representatives and these so called representatives are their servants. This is a myth that has been told people down through the centuries. This big lie is passed from generation to generation so much so that people of all walks of life now accept it as gospel truth. This myth has caused much dissent among the vast majority of people and has even caused infighting amongst people called "patriots", "militia" and others of like mind.

It will be unbelievable to many who still believe the Big Lie that they are sovereign and somehow have control of this supposed government they created and can dispense with it when it becomes oppressive as it has today. I hope you are ready because what follows are not my words but those of the author Whiting with the concurrence of all government branches. You also have to remember that we have been in a state of war with these people called Congress and the other two branches of so called government.

The United States is a belligerent government under the international law of nations and the people therein, yes you, dear reader, are the enemy subject and have never, ever, been a sovereign, and neither have your relatives as far back as 1787, UNLESS your relatives were among the aristocracy having land and money and possibly a grant from the Crown. – source: Fallacy & Myth of the People Being the Sovereign (see Adendum Section to read full article)

There is one pervasive factor in life that must be addressed in order to better articulate the "big picture" or any aspect of The Matrix. This is the fact of life that every single person in the world lives in their own circle of peers which makes up their own world or environment. The worker class Goyims, for instance generally tends to congregate with their own kind. Everyone has their own group of people, family and friends they associate and mingle with. Despite whatever the circumstances of any other group, town, state or national "environments," your personal predicament, situation, environment IS your reality.

The best candidates for leadership in any given position are those who have drunk the cool aid and fully, absolutely adopted and believe the official ideology. Those who have fully immersed themselves in the official sponsored narrative and embrace it wholeheartedly as their own viewpoint, their lifestyle, and calling in life, for all intents and purposed MAKE IT REALITY by giving it the added dimension of personal independent input and sustenance, giving it life far beyond the seeded simulacrum.

"Life Styles of the Rich and Famous" never visited the homes of the real rulers of mankind, here for your consideration is just one of the ruling family's homes (of many families) of the Rothschild financial empire:

The elite class are the movers and shakers. Behold: for "gods" still walk the earth. Some of these people are so powerful they roam the earth with entourages who cater to their every whim, their homes make even your average McMansion seem like guest houses, heads of industry and state quiver in their presence, their decisions affect markets, in some cases even life or death for others. The group that forms public opinion that decides what is, was, or is going to be. This group makes up anywhere from 1-2% of the population yet owns and controls more than 95% of everything. These are the TRUE rulers of the kingdoms. This class is the one that owns all the worlds finance, owns all the worlds' media and thus directly or indirectly own your politicians. They shape the thoughts and minds of the population with their ever pervasive media programming. Of course this same group pulls hundreds of scientists and professionals out of its back pocket for the purpose of statistically and figuratively "prove" to the world any issue they are behind, or for the matter that their elite cabals don't even exist and life is just hunky dory for everyone. Controlling this elite class is none other than several ruling blood line dynasties who make up what many have come to call the "illuminati", i.e. Freemasons, Jesuits, Black Pope, Royal Family, the Zionists and so forth.

The wealthy class are those fortunate enough to have reached or been included in the wealthy class by family, friends or circumstance, more than any other class these people are the ones who fiercely OPPOSE anything that rocks the boat of the current system that guarantees and protects their handlers, the status quo or their position in life, no matter how unfair or corrupt it may be. Facts, fairness and truth have absolutely no bearing on their points of view, for the wealthy to acknowledge many of the obvious wrongs is also a step in the possibly helping in exposing the inequality's they facilitate on imposing on the rest of society thus participating in their own demise and potentially ending their cozy positions and ways of life. One misstep from anyone fortunate enough to live in the wealthy class can mean having everything taken away from them. Nope, you will rarely if EVER see anyone from this class sticking their necks out and challenging the status quo, establishment or ummm, "the illuminati Matrix". Rare is the wealthy whistle blower that dares bite the hand that feeds him, the repercussions of doing so has been demonstrated to them many times over, the result is always the same: in the end the do-gooder whistleblower most definitely loses all he has worked so hard to accomplish, never again to reach any position even close to what he had before. They go from life in the fast lane to life in the hard times lane as marked Lepers.

The very wealthy who control Wall Street finance on one hand and media empires in the other wield complete control in the formulated perception of reality that is fed to the masses.

They trot out their highly educated, diploma stacked pundits, experts, scientists, economists and so forth to reinforce any and every issue they are behind of, including absolutely ridiculous mind numbing falsehoods such as "Trickle-Down Economics" for example. The batshit insane concept of Trickle-Down Economics is that in the fairy tale world the wealthy somehow sprinkle fairy dust (Money) over all the population thus "spreading the wealth." What a crock of unadulterated BULLSHIT! In reality the entire capitalist system functions the completely opposite way: all money generated worldwide operates under the same dynamics: money gets SUCKED UP (as in the exact opposite of trickle down) LIKE INDUSTRIAL VACUUM CLEANERS by Wall Street business, bank's usury, government and the wealthy. Then there are the countless "checkpoints" in life, (countless myriad fees, taxes, fines, etc.) that exist to basically stop you in your tracks and require you to open your wallet in front of a mini-vac – swish - there goes your money. End result: you live with tight budgets barely making ends meet, while the wealthy hire squads of accountants and financial professionals to manage all the money they fleece from you.

I would also like to point out that the annual "cost of living" index has always gone up NOT because of the ridiculous reasons that have you have all been fed throughout your life. The single most pivotal reason the "cost of living" continually rises is simply because all the businesses, especially the large corporations are demanded by their stockholders to produce NEVER ENDING PROFITS. Each year ALL the corporations are expected to make MORE THAN THEY DID LAST YEAR, therefore prices are constantly inched up and up and up. This creates a vortex that all other business are also caught up in. Even the businesses that don't want to raise their prices are literally forced to do so due to the fact that their suppliers raise their prices and the prices supplies are constantly going up. I don't care what any institution claims otherwise, what Nobel Peace Prize economist claims this or that. THIS is the real central force behind the constantly rising "cost of living."

The middle class, made up of "upwardly mobile" people, those who are on that treadmill of life forever running after the "carrot stick" dangled in front of them. It's all about the pursuit of the American Dream. They have worked hard for whatever they have, they KNOW what it is like to struggle. The majority of these people will NEVER risk what they have attained in life to help expose the evil in society. They will see what's wrong and never admit it. Minding their own business. They are like those three monkeys see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil, for if they do, they KNOW they potentially jeopardize their whole life's efforts of obtaining the status they have in life. No, don't expect 90% of this group to acknowledge anything, let alone take up the baton in the fight against tyranny, rampant corruption or unjustness of any kind. This is the group the predominantly sticks its head in the sand, it doesn't want to know the truth for fear of losing what they have worked so hard to attain. On the other end of the spectrum, this group also makes up the bulk of the “cheerleaders” of the establishment and the status quo. They blindly support fascist policies of their political party.

Then you have the poor and worker class, the minions, minorities, rat racers, the people who have at one time or another felt the full wrath of "the system". These are by far and wide the group that consists of those who KNOW what it is to be trampled upon, for they bear the full weight of the capitalist system on their shoulders. Who have witnessed firsthand the atrocities, who are constantly victimized by the system. This is the class, this is the group of seekers of equality and justice that consistently comes forward and puts their necks on the line for all. The people from this class are the ones who face the brunt force of injustices of the Matrix Elite, these also being the ones with "nothing to lose" financially, this group of people are the ones who make up the majority of dissidents, activists and protesters opposing the Matrix. This group of people also makes up the majority of the Democratic Party's base, blindly supporting the policies of their democratic party. Some of the constituents in this sector are so gullible that they blindly support the party of the rich, aka the GOP who exist solely to cater to their wealthy and corporate base, who have consistently and routinely flat out dealt the poor and working class seveal blows, always delivered with a smile and ridiculous justifications often backed by equally bogus data.

The quote that Mattimos gave from 1776. John Dickinson says it to John Hancock. "...don't forget that most men would rather protect the possibility of being rich than face the reality of being poor."

That's the central psychological premise that causes people to vote against their best interests with respect to taxation. "I'll be rich one day, I'll hit the top 1%, pigs can AND do fly!"

Who owns you? George Carlin - "Who Really Controls America" - Video

(This is perhaps one of the best summaries I have ever heard of the state of the world we live in)

Here is what I consider one of the most lucid articulations of the state of reality I have ever heard in such a concise summary. The truth comes forth from many angles and sources; here it comes disguised as “comedy”:

“Forget the politicians. The politicians are put there to give you the idea that you have freedom of your choice. You don't. You have no choice. You have owners. They own you. They own everything. They own all the important land. They own, and control the corporations. They've long since bought, and paid for the Senate, the Congress, the state houses, the city halls, they got the judge in their back pockets and they own all the big media companies, so they control just about all of the news and information you get to hear. They got you by the balls. They spend billions of dollars every year lobbying, to get what they want.

Well we know what they want. They want more for themselves and less for everybody else, but I'll tell you what they don't want. They don't want a population of citizens capable of critical thinking. They don't want well informed, well educated people capable of critical thinking. They're not interested in that. That doesn't help them. That's against their interests. That's's right. They don't want people who are smart enough to sit around a kitchen table and think about how badly they're getting fucked by a system that threw them overboard 30 fuckin' years ago. They don't want that.

You know what they want? They want obedient workers. Obedient workers, people who are just smart enough to run the machines and do the paperwork. And just dumb enough to passively accept all these increasingly shittier jobs with the lower pay, the longer hours, the reduced benefits, the end of overtime and vanishing pension that disappears the moment you go to collect it, and now they're coming for your Social Security money. They want your fuckin' retirement money. They want it back so they can give it to their criminal friends on Wall Street, and you know something? They'll get it. They'll get it all from you sooner or later cause they own this fuckin' place. It's a big club and you ain't in it. You and I are not in The big club. By the way, it's the same club the use to beat you over the head with all day long when they tell you what to believe. All day long beating you over the head with their media telling you what to believe, what to think and what to buy.

The table has tilted, folks. The game is rigged. And nobody seems to notice. Nobody seems to care. Good honest hard-working people – white collar, blue collar, it doesn't matter what color shirt you have on. Good honest hard-working people continue – these are people of modest means – Continue to elect these rich cocksuckers who don't give a fuck about you. They don't give a fuck about you. They don't give a fuck about you. They don't care about you at all. At all. At all. And nobody seems to notice. Nobody seems to care.

That's what the owners count on. The fact that American will probably remain willfully ignorant of the big red, white and blue dick that's being jammed up their assholes every day, because the owners of this country know the truth; It's called the American Dream because you have to be asleep to believe it."

-George Carlin (May 12, 1937 – June 22, 2008)

Have you ever wondered how it could be possible that millions of people could be homeless here in the wealthiest country on earth? Have you ever wondered how people in other countries like Africa could exist in such dire poverty while that country is producing some of the world's riches? These are just two examples. Yet we have all come to accept it without question and ignore these types of issues as if nothing, yet in the back of your mind you always knew that there was something drastically wrong. Certainly the mere fact that someone knew that there were starving children meant they had the means to do something about it and I noticed nothing was being done about it ... by those with the means. Sure, CARE packages, which depended upon the generosity of the people, were being sent, but one day I learned that the reason the problem continued is because someone/people wanted it that way. It would have been easy to correct if indeed the powers that be wanted it corrected – same as every other 'problem' in the world. The fact is that the entire system is 'designed not to work' and hence, 'things are not what they seem'. For the ruling elite work their best magick in the midst of chaos, division, times of uncertainty, fear and conflict.

After spending many years studying unexplained occurrences within our society I have stumbled upon a cohesive pattern. Some of the most revealing and relevant that we can identify have taken place within our generations ruling elite's "coming out party" that began with their JFK coup d'état to the mother of all staged false flag ops: 9/11. Including hundreds of other scandals along the way, each event viewed individually is just one piece of a massive puzzle. Thousands of man hours of meticulous research have been devoted to the individual topics by highly qualified individuals in their respective fields, but rarely have I seen anyone cover the big picture in a satisfactory form, the Matrix Report is our attempt to do just that and get a grasp at this overwhelmingly massive Illuminati Matrix that has permeated every single part of our societies.

"Governments do not govern, but merely control the machinery of government, being themselves controlled by the hidden hand." - Benjamin Disraeli

The key to understanding how it is humanly possible to even plot an invisible ruling matrix lays within comprehending the dynamics involved in the engineering of the paradigm, a complex matrix, the formulation of a reality so immense that very few people can even begin to fathom its existence. Behold for: the KEY to creation, sustaining and evolving of the ruling elite matrix lays in the fundamental fact that all its participants throughout all of society BELIEVE in the system, the system IS their reality. Nurses and doctors BELIEVE in and trust Big Pharma and the medical industrial complex system they were trained in... Financial managers, economists, etc. who studied the system for years on end BELIEVE in the financial system they were trained in. Soldiers and commanders in the military industrial complex readily volunteer and risk their lives because the all BELIEVE in it, they were indoctrinated from early youth to respect and admire service to their country as a proud act. Students are all TAUGHT to BELIEVE in the system throughout their indoctrination through institutionalized public educational system. The list goes on for every sector of society. The "system" is the accepted norm, the "system" is accepted reality of all its constituents, what sustains the system is everyone's early and constant proselytization of/and reinforced BELIEF IN "THE SYSTEM."

America – A Country of Serfs Ruled by Oligarchs

By Paul Craig Roberts

The media has headlined good economic news: fourth quarter GDP growth of 5.7 percent ("the recession is over"), Jan. retail sales up, productivity up in 4th quarter, the dollar is gaining strength. Is any of it true? What does it mean?

The 5.7 percent growth figure is a guesstimate made in advance of the release of the U.S. trade deficit statistic. It assumed that the U.S. trade deficit would show an improvement. When the trade deficit was released a few days later, it showed a deterioration, knocking the 5.7 percent growth figure down to 4.6 percent. Much of the remaining GDP growth consists of inventory accumulation.

More than a fourth of the reported gain in Jan. retail sales is due to higher gasoline and food prices. Questionable seasonal adjustments account for the rest.

Productivity was up, because labor costs fell 4.4 percent in the fourth quarter, the fourth successive decline. Initial claims for jobless benefits rose. Productivity increases that do not translate into wage gains cannot drive the consumer economy.

Housing is still under pressure, and commercial real estate is about to become a big problem.

The dollar's gains are not due to inherent strengths. The dollar is gaining because government deficits in Greece and other EU countries are causing the dollar carry trade to unwind. America's low interest rates made it profitable for investors and speculators to borrow dollars and use them to buy overseas bonds paying higher interest, such as Greek, Spanish and Portuguese bonds denominated in Euros. The deficit troubles in these countries have caused investors and speculators to sell the bonds and convert the Euros back into dollars in order to pay off their dollar loans. This unwinding temporarily raises the demand for dollars and boosts the dollar's exchange value.

The problems of the American economy are too great to be reached by traditional policies. Large numbers of middle class American jobs have been moved offshore: manufacturing, industrial and professional service jobs. When the jobs are moved offshore, consumer incomes and U.S. GDP go with them. So many jobs have been moved abroad that there has been no growth in U.S. real incomes in the 21st century, except for the incomes of the super rich who collect multi-million dollar bonuses for moving U.S. jobs offshore.

Without growth in consumer incomes, the economy can go nowhere. Washington policymakers substituted debt growth for income growth. Instead of growing richer, consumers grew more indebted. Federal Reserve chairman Alan Greenspan accomplished this with his low interest rate policy, which drove up housing prices, producing home equity that consumers could tap and spend by refinancing their homes.

Unable to maintain their accustomed living standards with income alone, Americans spent their equity in their homes and ran up credit card debts, maxing out credit cards in anticipation that rising asset prices would cover the debts. When the bubble burst, the debts strangled consumer demand, and the economy died.

As I write about the economic hardships created for Americans by Wall Street and corporate greed and by indifferent and bribed political representatives, I get many letters from former middle class families who are being driven into penury. Here is one recently arrived:

"Thank you for your continued truthful commentary on the 'New Economy.' My husband and I could be its poster children. Nine years ago when we married, we were both working good paying, secure jobs in the semiconductor manufacturing sector. Our combined income topped $100,000 a year. We were living the dream. Then the nightmare began. I lost my job in the great tech bubble of 2003, and decided to leave the labor force to care for our infant son. Fine, we tightened the belt. Then we started getting squeezed. Expenses rose, we downsized, yet my husband's job stagnated. After several years of no pay raises, he finally lost his job a year and a half ago. But he didn't just lose a job, he lost a career. The semiconductor industry is virtually gone here in Arizona. Three months later, my husband, with a technical degree and 20-plus years of solid work experience, received one job offer for an entry level corrections officer. He had to take it, at an almost 40 percent reduction in pay. Bankruptcy followed when our savings were depleted. We lost our house, a car, and any assets we had left. His salary last year, less than $40,000, to support a family of four. A year and a half later, we are still struggling to get by. I can't find a job that would cover the cost of daycare. We are stuck. Every jump in gas and food prices hits us hard. Without help from my family, we wouldn't have made it. So, I could tell you just how that 'New Economy' has worked for us, but I'd really rather not use that kind of language."

Policymakers who are banking on stimulus programs are thinking in terms of an economy that no longer exists. Post-war U.S. recessions and recoveries followed Federal Reserve policy. When the economy heated up and inflation became a problem, the Federal Reserve would raise interest rates and reduce the growth of money and credit. Sales would fall. Inventories would build up. Companies would lay off workers.

Inflation cooled, and unemployment became the problem. Then the Federal Reserve would reverse course. Interest rates would fall, and money and credit would expand. As the jobs were still there, the work force would be called back, and the process would continue.

It is a different situation today. Layoffs result from the jobs being moved offshore and from corporations replacing their domestic work forces with foreigners brought in on H-1B, L-1 and other work visas. The U.S. labor force is being separated from the incomes associated with the goods and services that it consumes. With the rise of off shoring, layoffs are not only due to restrictive monetary policy and inventory buildup. They are also the result of the substitution of cheaper foreign labor for U.S. labor by American corporations. Americans cannot be called back to work to jobs that have been moved abroad. In the New Economy, layoffs can continue despite low interest rates and government stimulus programs.

To the extent that monetary and fiscal policy can stimulate U.S. consumer demand, much of the demand flows to the goods and services that are produced offshore for U.S. markets. China, for example, benefits from the stimulation of U.S. consumer demand. The rise in China's GDP is financed by a rise in the U.S. public debt burden.

Another barrier to the success of stimulus programs is the high debt levels of Americans. The banks are being criticized for a failure to lend, but much of the problem is that there are no consumers to whom to lend. Most Americans already have more debt than they can handle.

Hapless Americans, unrepresented and betrayed, are in store for a greater crisis to come. President Bush's war deficits were financed by America's trade deficit. China, Japan, and OPEC, with whom the U.S. runs trade deficits, used their trade surpluses to purchase U.S. Treasury debt, thus financing the U.S. government budget deficit.

The problem now is that the U.S. budget deficits have suddenly grown immensely from wars, bankster bailouts, jobs stimulus programs, and lower tax revenues as a result of the serious recession. Budget deficits are now three times the size of the trade deficit. Thus, the surpluses of China, Japan, and OPEC are insufficient to take the newly issued U.S. government debt off the market.

If the Treasury's bonds can't be sold to investors, pension funds, banks, and foreign governments, the Federal Reserve will have to purchase them by creating new money. When the rest of the world realizes the inflationary implications, the US dollar will lose its reserve currency role. When that happens Americans will experience a large economic shock as their living standards take another big hit.

America is on its way to becoming a country of serfs ruled by oligarchs.

For the purpose of simplifying matters I will just follow the lead of many other researchers and refer to the “ruling elite” by the name of the “elite” or “illuminati.” Actually this is not very far from reality due to the fact that at the time of its creation there were many “enlightened” secret societies calling themselves “illuminated ones.” There was one whose mission was to unite and organize all others under one umbrella. Back in May 1, 1776 a professor by the name of Adam Weishaupt (with the backing of Zionist titans such as Rothschilds and Warburgs) put together an actual secret society called the “ILLUMINATI.” Its sole purpose secretly was to control the world. It is really from this era forward and from this vantage point onward where we can truly document and trace the AMAZING, breath taking reality of unadulterated real, unrevised, de-fairytale modern history and struggle of man.

Over the ages the mystery and mystique of who/what is the “illuminati” has remained a myth and puzzle. Far from it, this secret organization as many others that have been established over the years are REAL and have made great strides to accomplishing their end games. Today the “Illuminati” as an organization may not be holding regular meetings and strategy sessions due to the fact that the ruling elite strategically establish new fronts from which to operate out of thus are never ruling from the same entities for too long. Leaving researchers in a perpetual state of confusion and working with outdated info.

Yes there is historically documented PROOF that there was/is an organization called the “Illuminati” it was officially founded and registered by Adam Weishaupt. Many secret societies were formed in the in the Illuminati HOT SPOT of Germany called Bavaria. “Ancient Illuminated Seers of Bavaria” and some researcher state that it was around much longer than its official founding date in 1776. For some reason, Germany was THE preeminent starting point for all sorts of Zionist clandestine operations. What is important that one understand not just the individual ancient secret orders that “were” are still functioning, one must understand the common thread that binds them all together, their objectives and goals (no matter what era they were functional), in order to fully figure them out. Here are just a few:

The objects of this powerful organization of the Bavarian Illuminati, were :

1. The destruction of Christianity and of all Monarchical Governments ;
2. The destruction of nations as such in favor of universal internationalism ;
3. The discouragement of patriotic and loyal effort branded as narrow minded prejudice, incompatible with the tenets of goodwill to all men and the cry of ” UniversalBrotherhood ” ;
4. The abolition of family ties and of marriage by means of systematic corruption ;
5. The suppression of the rights of inheritance and property. - Lady Queenborough, Occult Theocracy

For all intents and purposes, I will try my best to paint the big picture from about the era just prior to JFK till today. Many more pertinent situations exist dating back even longer will also be touched upon, but in order to try and keep this report in today’s currents, we will try to focus on the contemporary pieces of the puzzles, the facts of the 20th century.

Presidents and elected officials come and go. So how is it that mysteries of decades past are still continuously stonewalled, covered up even up until now? How and why are they still relevant till this day? There exists an entity that exists beyond the "term limits" of elected officials that keeps everything greased and moving along as planned, continuing from generation to generation.

The Stealth Coup D'Etat: U.S.A. 2008-2010

- The Stealth Coup D'Etat in the U.S. (called "The Quiet Coup" by Simon Johnson) was begun long ago, but the takeover reached fruition in the 2008-2010 timeframe.

Please read these brief excerpts from the 1968 classic Coup d'État: A Practical Handbook (by Edward Luttwak) and see if they don't remind you of the United States, circa 2008-2010:

Insurrection, the classic vehicle of revolution, is obsolete. The security apparatus of the modern state, with its professional personnel, with its diversified means of transport and communications, and with its extensive sources of information, cannot be defeated by civilian agitation, however intense and prolonged.

(CHS note: Luttwak referred to the May 1968 general strike in France as an example; by coincidence, the failure of today's general strikes in France to change Central State policy offers a more current example from the same nation.)

Any attempt on the part of civilians to use direct violence with improvised means will always be neutralized by the efficiency of modern automatic weapons; a general strike, on the other hand, will temporarily swamp the system, but cannot permanently damage it, since in the modern economic setting, the civilians will run out of food and fuel well before the military, the police and allied organizations.

(note: Napoleon famously dissipated a civilian uprising with "a whiff of grapeshot" long before modern automatic weaponry. Organized violence always has an advantage over informally organized violence.)

If a coup does not make use of the masses, or of warfare, what instrument of power will enable it to seize control of the state? The short answer is that the power will come from the state itself. A coup consists of the infiltration of a small but critical segment of the state apparatus, which is then used to displace the government from its control of the remainder.

Luttwak's first point about the futility of direct insurrection informed my own Survival+ critique, which concludes that the only effective means to weaken the Financial Power Elites who have partnered with State Elites is to opt out and assemble voluntary non-privileged parallel structures which are independent of the Central State and its Power Elites.

As I have sharpened the Survival+ critique (with an eye on a future revision), I have come to see that the term coup d'etat is not cheap theatrics or an analogy for the capture of the Central State by Financial Power Elites, but the accurate description of a long, stealthy infiltration and dominance of the key ministries of the United States government.

In the popular view, a coup d'etat is a sudden event, over in a few hours or at most days, a drama played out in impoverished Third World nations. The stealth coup which has occurred in the U.S. is an entirely different kind of coup--one that has operated in stealth mode for the most part, a process of gradual infiltration and opportunistic grasping of key levers of dependence and control.

Simon Johnson, co-author of the recent book 13 Bankers: The Wall Street Takeover and the Next Financial Meltdown, also wrote the May 2009 article "The Quiet Coup". Here are a few key excerpts:

But these various policies--lightweight regulation, cheap money, the unwritten Chinese-American economic alliance, the promotion of homeownership--had something in common. Even though some are traditionally associated with Democrats and some with Republicans, they all benefited the financial sector. Policy changes that might have forestalled the crisis but would have limited the financial sector's profits--such as Brooksley Born's now-famous attempts to regulate credit-default swaps at the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, in 1998--were ignored or swept aside.

The financial industry has not always enjoyed such favored treatment. But for the past 25 years or so, finance has boomed, becoming ever more powerful. The boom began with the Reagan years, and it only gained strength with the deregulatory policies of the Clinton and George W. Bush administrations. Several other factors helped fuel the financial industry's ascent. Paul Volcker's monetary policy in the 1980s, and the increased volatility in interest rates that accompanied it, made bond trading much more lucrative.

The invention of securitization, interest-rate swaps, and credit-default swaps greatly increased the volume of transactions that bankers could make money on. And an aging and increasingly wealthy population invested more and more money in securities, helped by the invention of the IRA and the 401(k) plan. Together, these developments vastly increased the profit opportunities in financial services. Not surprisingly, Wall Street ran with these opportunities. From 1973 to 1985, the financial sector never earned more than 16 percent of domestic corporate profits. In 1986, that figure reached 19 percent. In the 1990s, it oscillated between 21 percent and 30 percent, higher than it had ever been in the postwar period. This decade, it reached 41 percent.

The great wealth that the financial sector created and concentrated gave bankers enormous political weight—a weight not seen in the U.S. since the era of J.P. Morgan (the man). In that period, the banking panic of 1907 could be stopped only by coordination among private-sector bankers: no government entity was able to offer an effective response. But that first age of banking oligarchs came to an end with the passage of significant banking regulation in response to the Great Depression; the reemergence of an American financial oligarchy is quite recent.

Looking just at the financial crisis (and leaving aside some problems of the larger economy), we face at least two major, interrelated problems. The first is a desperately ill banking sector that threatens to choke off any incipient recovery that the fiscal stimulus might generate. The second is a political balance of power that gives the financial sector a veto over public policy, even as that sector loses popular support.

Though incisive, Johnson's critique fails to grasp several critical features of the Stealth Coup D'Etat:

1. Once you have control of the financial powers of the U.S. via the tiny Elites of the Congress, the Executive Branch, the Federal Reserve and the U.S. Treasury, then the rest of the government will follow.

To the degree that ownership of the Healthcare cartels is in the hands of the same Financial Power Elite, then the passage of the 2,300 page "Healthcare Reform Bill" in 2010 was simply another way for the Power Elite to expand its share of the national income.

The health of the citizenry or healthcare per se had essentially nothing to do with the passage of this monstrosity. The entire purpose was to increase the Elites' share of the national income by siphoning off an ever-greater share to the "healthcare" cartels.

2. This is how the Stealth Coup D'Etat works: the machinery of governance grinds through a simulacrum of democracy, but it's all for show; the theoretical structures are now completely different from the political realities. The citizens were against the bailout of Wall Street and the money-center banks 600-to-1; [yet as always] they were rightly ignored as inconsequential.

The citizenry replaced the political party leadership of Congress and the Presidency; absolutely nothing changed except the flavor of PR, spin and propaganda. The Power Elites and their Stealth Coup are apolitical. They don't care about the color of your uniform; whether you wear a blue shirt or a red shirt is inconsequential.

Some readers complain I over-use the descriptive word simulacrum, and I have tried to leaven this overuse with synonyms such as facsimile. But the key point to understand (and the goal here is always to reach an integrated understanding) is that there is a difference between formal structures such as democracy and free markets and their political and financial representations.

In other words, the "democracy" that was visible in passing healthcare reform (i.e. the diversion of more national income to a specific set of cartels) was a simulacra, a facsimile of democracy, a shadow of the real thing, a mere representation of true democracy.

This substitution of representation for reality is the key mechanism of the Stealth Coup D'Etat. In the financial fiasco now playing out, actual deeds to notes and property have been replaced with digital representations in a registry owned by the banks: MERS.

"Liberating" Iraq as a laudable goal of an enlightened State was merely a public relations facade for the occupation of a key geopolitical piece of a larger puzzle. The entire war has two components: the actual war on the ground, as revealed by 400,000 "liberated" documents, and the representation of the war in the Corporate Cartel Media and as presented by the Central State ministries.

3. The Stealth Coup can be traced by a simple dictum: follow the money. Once you control the money--the money supply, the manipulation of yields and bond sales, the budgeting and borrowing--then you control everything.

This is how a small Financial Power Elite dominates the vast, sprawling American Empire.

4. I use the term politics of experience in Survival+ (with a credit to its originator, R.D. Laing) to describe the manner in which the apparently depoliticized context of our daily media-saturated lives are shaped by political forces we rarely recognize.

In my critique, I invoke the term parallel shadow structures of privilege to describe the formalized but masked structures of power which operate behind the facades of democracy, free markets, and all the other PR bilge drummed into the minds of the the citizenry by a media cartel which itself has been financialized into a Corporatocracy.

Over time, Americans have come to believe that the current state of governance is "democracy" rather than a mere facsimile of democracy. They have come to believe (those still covered by insurance they don't directly pay for) that the U.S. "healthcare" system is "the finest in the world" when by some metrics it is the worst, most profligate, illness-inducing system imaginable. And so on.

Thus "homeownership" was elevated to quasi-religious status as a means of stripmining assets and income from a larger pool of debt-serfs. Earlier this year I asked a simple question: how much of your household's net income flows to cartels [i.e.: "the matrix"]? That would include banking cartels (mortgages, second mortgages, credit cards, etc.), Central State-banking cartels (student loans), agribusiness cartels (fast foods, packaged foods, Monsanto, etc.), energy cartels, sickcare cartels (healthcare insurance, hospital chains, Big Pharma) and so on.

If we consider that much of rent payments flow to the same banking cartels (which is why the commercial real estate sector is imploding--too much debt, etc.), then most of us would find that the majority (or perhaps as much as 90%) of our money goes to a handful of cartels dominated by Financial Elites via the steady financialization of the U.S. economy.

How much of your taxes flow to the same cartels via their partnership/control of State fiefdoms?

If you think the term Stealth Coup D'Etat is overwrought, I invite you to ponder the headline quote from the Freedom Guerrilla weblog: None are so hopelessly enslaved as those who falsely believe they are free.

From the point of view of a deconstructed politics of experience, then the events of 2008-2010 are simply the culmination of a Stealth Coup D'Etat which began with the overt financialization of the U.S. economy and indeed of its entire culture.

The coup d'etat of America has occurred slowly over several decades. The first significant phase was conducted in 1913, we will get into that latter. There is a pivotal time in history where the reigns of control were truly seized. It was from this point forward that another major phase was reached and America became possessed by evil forces, ending the times of innocence and initiating the downward spiral of our once great nation. That specific point in time of change was November 22nd 1963.

The biggest, most blatant contemporary clue of such a powerful entity to have surfaced over all these years arises out of the JFK assassination. An event so profound that it should have been followed by the biggest most extensive investigation ever. Instead what followed was one of the largest BLATENT COVERUPS in American history (up till that time). The travesty of a bogus "investigation" that was completed with tons of confiscated, "lost" and destroyed evidence, dozens of dead witnesses, hundreds of silenced witnesses, rampant obvious lies, no real attempts to find any other "accomplices", magic bullets, bogus forensics, etc. Come on folks. More money, effort and time were spent trying to prosecute O.J. Simpson! We are talking about the PRESIDENT of the United States of America being executed! The leader of the "free world". And no real attempt was EVER made to investigate it, while elementary 101 FORENSICS completely revealed completely contradictory evidence to what the bullshit narratives the authorities and media spoon fed the public. The extent and magnitude of the cover-up of the JFK assassination is mind boggling.

Finding the culprit in a room full of suspects is not hard. My mother used to tell me "show me who is hiding stuff, who has something to hide and I will show you who did it." That is good old fashioned common sense that will be correct even till the end of times. They teach this in police academies throughout the world, it is elementary detective material. Only the guilty or accomplices are sufficiently motivated to cover up a crime. There was only one group that went completely nuts HIDING THE EVIDENCE and that was none other than the government, lead by the CIA. This is not conspiracy "theory".. it is plain old documented FACT that the CIA hid (as in covered-up) tons of evidence concerning the JFK coup d'etat. Thousands of documents not destroyed and vanished were SEALED for a 100 years for good measure, to be opened long after the issue is ancient and no longer relevant or of significance to anything.

To this day even the elementary forensic EVIDENCE is blatantly ignored and disputed by the establishment. Laws of physics are suddenly reversed, or even suspended for that special occasion, then explained off by highly educated sold out "experts". Forensics don't lie, even when demonstrated in today's reality TV forensics shows! There is one common denominator with many of the so called "conspiracy" cases: Secrecy, cover-ups, disinformation, miss-information, "lost" or no evidence, witnesses dying, committing "suicide" for no reason or having unfortunate "accidents" etc. The truth is usually quite simple. The biggest clues for any elementary criminal investigation: Show me who is hiding all the evidence (perpetrating the cover-up), blatantly lying, fighting all attempts to get to the bottom of the case along with the stonewalling and tampering, then I will show you the real criminals, and those who are complicit. This is not rocket science this is police investigation 101.

Conspiracy is not a Theory

Anybody who does not believe in conspiracy theory is in fact an ignorant, narrow-minded buffoon who is blinded by the disinformation of the mainstream media, if there is any such thing, anymore.

When the mainstream media existed, the big three, ABC, NBC and CBS controlled up to 99% of television broadcasting. Today, loose-canon airhead pundits control 99% of television broadcasting, so it is now crystal clear that if you want to understand the truth, the Internet is the only place you will find it.

This is not a conspiracy theory, it is the absolute truth. If you have a functioning brain, listen up because I am going to explain it to you.

A conspiracy theory is simply an explanation of cause and effect. Those who ridicule conspiracy theories are merely blind, unthinking followers of the official stories that are designed to conceal the embarrassing truth.

To be even more blunt, those who do not believe in conspiracy theories are in fact delusional because the reliability of the official truths that conspiracists attack have been successfully debunked by a thorough analysis of cause and effect and having overcome the influence of official misperception, the truth is clearly and undeniably the conspiracy theory that acknowledges and explains all the interdependent parts of a particular issue, to develop a holistic understanding of the particular issue.

Those who seek to cover up the truth merely exploit the fact that a kettle is not a lid or a spout or a handle, it's the sum of its parts, and it cannot possibly exist until our thoughts portray it, not as it appears to be, but as it actually exists. The point is, everything arises and exists dependently, there is absolutely nothing inherent or official about the truth.

The truth is about insight, it is about overcoming false appearances and misperceptions through a comprehensive and thorough analysis of cause and effect. Everything that happens in life is in fact a conspiracy theory because nothing exists independently, and those who claim that the simplest explanation is usually sufficient are merely too ignorant to abandon the delusions that cloud their minds. - source

"The purpose of the term 'Conspiracy Theory' is to discourage institutional analysis." -Noam Chomsky

Who stood the most to lose if JFK had remained alive? Who was it that concealed hundreds, if not thousands pieces of evidence? And even “lost” or destroyed most of it? Did Oswald have such power that he was able to orchestrate a massive cover up within our intelligence community? ABSOLUTELY NOT. Did the Mafia wield so much power as to orchestrate the massive infiltration and intelligence cover-up? NOT. Did the communist government agents wield the power to infiltrate our intelligence community and cover-up its tracks? NOT. The only place any of these lame idiotic narratives purposely spread among the populace has any weight is in the fantasy worlds of cartoons and fairytale science fiction. Yet the complicit media baron consortium continue to prolong the illusions.

No matter what sources you look at, whether it's the “official” reports or “conspiracy theory”, the one aspect that is undeniable remains the same: OUR secret intelligence community was in charge of everything from “investigating” the assassination to eliminating/hiding massive amounts of evidence, silencing people, disseminating lies, and so on. Why would they do that? What was the motive:

At the time JFK was refusing to succumb to the wishes of the elite's military industrial complex, who wanted to bomb the shit out of a bunch of countries. But more importantly he directly defied the ruling elite, prior to his execution JFK had recently SWORN to disband the CIA and the Federal Reserve Bank. Which are two of the most powerful “legal” mafia cartels on the entire planet. Two of the most secretive organizations on the entire planet. No one “outside” of those groups really knows what goes on inside their closed doors. Not congress, the senate, or even the President of the United States. The ones that leave these secret organizations rarely ever talk, and those who do suddenly commit “suicide” or have very unfortunate “accidents.” What we as a general public “know” is what they want us to know and think. The dissenters and whistle blowers are quickly dealt with. They have “accidents”, “commit suicide”, character assassinations, humiliated, discredited and so forth.

Insane! People within our own government killed its own leader? Yes. The CIA was the engineer and executioner of the entire BlackOps operation, their world renowned specialty is in assassinations, and coups, duh! The whole essence of the CIA is DECEPTION! “covert operations”, assassinations, divide and conquer, infiltration, false propaganda, information manipulation, mind control. The perfect satanic organization model if there ever was one! The point I'm trying to make: elements within our own government were so sinister that they would forcibly murder, overthrowing one of its own leaders in broad daylight and right before the eyes of thousands of witnesses no less, cover it all up, then continue as if nothing happened. If this is true, and the sorry facts state so, what we have here is one of the most DANGEROUS UNTOUCHABLE entities on the planet controlling things beyond the grasp of anyone.

The day that President Kennedy proclaimed to the world that he was “going to disband the CIA and the Federal Reserve to pieces” he issued his own death warrant.

Think about it, every single president that took the oath of office since Kennedy got whacked has directly or indirectly known about the powers of the “hidden masters” and bowed to the secret illuminati overlords behind the curtain, for the moment the president even thinks of taking one step away from their agendas there would be nowhere even a sitting president can hide from their wrath. Look at Nixon, he pushed their agenda to the hilt, but then came the day when he began verbally criticizing his Zionist handlers, soon thereafter we witnessed Watergate...

JFK stopped playing by “their” rules, as other presidents had for decades. The key is in the FACT that Kennedy was going to expose them and put an end to their reign. “The very word “secrecy” is repugnant in a free and open society; and we are as a people inherently and historically opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings” (JFK April 27, 1961) Then 10 days prior to his assassination he said: “The high office of President has been used to foment a plot to destroy the American’s freedom, & before I leave office I must inform the citizens of his plight”... we never got to hear or see any of the actual evidence he was going to present to the world of those secret organizations and of their sinister plans.

The only major clue uncovered at the time was a project that was submitted for Kennedy's approval around that time was Operation Northwoods. Basically the CIA and top PentaCON brass wanted to stage FAKE (false flag operation) attacks on U.S. soil (killing our own citizens) then blaming Cuba, so that we would have an excuse to attack Cuba. Kennedy obviously wanted nothing to do with this plan. He eventually was heavily pressured to go with the failed Bay of Pigs invasion scheme by the powers that be. The interesting thing about Operation Northwoods is in that right after Kennedy's assassination, the CIA went forward with a Northwoods based pretext to get America involved in the Vietnam war, same Northwoods scheme, different target: Vietnam, via the Gulf of Tonkin attack, as we all know today, was an inside job, a classic false flag op engineered by CIA spooks.

Kennedy was out to expose the insane CIA/Mossad schemes which involved "false flag" attacks and killing our own people, and he was in a unique position to tie the CIA/Mossad with the monetary rulers in the Federal Reserve. He was hell bent on bringing both those institutions down. Oh how convenient, the official story goes like: a lone patsy shoots him in the back of the head, but where the bullet goes in it makes a huge entry hole and leaves a small exit wound on the front of his head, defying all the laws of physics! While pulling him backwards AGAINST the momentum of the bullet! Doh! Then it goes through several people changing course all the time and ends up like new when it was done! LOL! This is the type bullshit we have been fed for years.

The fact that the amazingly STUPID gullible general public let them get away with this bullshit is what has EMBOLDENED those powerful elite and their secret organizations to do whatever they wanted! As they realized that the population could be made to BELIEVE ANYTHING they want them to. The 1960s was the CIA/Mossad's official coming out party decade! They took out JFK, his brother Bobby, M.L.King, Malcolm X and many others. A walk in the park it turned out to be for the CIA. The gullible public believing ANYTHING they were fed, even if what they said defied every law of logic and physics! The CIA perfected the art of bullshitting the public in the 60s. They have become masters of propaganda, information manipulation and mass brainwashing.

The vital question is: WHY did JFK want to break up those 2 secret organizations? Very little info can be found in the mainstream sources today about his motives and what he knew from first hand encounters with the secret societies. Just bits and pieces of items have survived the onslaught of massive evidence destruction. Very little is known of the innermost workings of those highly secret organizations. We will get into the specifics as we go along connecting the dots and joining the pieces of this massive puzzle in the other chapters of the Matrix Report.

For starters, the elite's CIA (one of the world's most powerful secrecy organization) is just an arm of our military industrial complex, or vise a versa? A trillion dollar segment death industry of our society that would crumble and wither away if it is sitting idle and not being USED to invade and occupy, ummm, I mean “benevolently help Democratize” poor defenseless nations... As in, if it is not actively involved in some “war” a conflict or another, the multi-billion dollar conglomerates that survive off of selling them their weapons of death and destruction would all go bankrupt if there were no conflicts to engage in. Peace is anti-military industrial complex.

The CIA and the military industrial complex's buttons are being pushed by un-known, un-identified powerful forces, the ruling elite, individuals & organizations in highly powerful positions... Lead by the world Zionist Jew banksters. A. B. "Buzzy" Krongard, the Executive Director of the CIA, is the former Chairman of Alex Brown Inc., Krongard, made some revealing statements in a recent Washington Post article. He stated that if you go back to the CIA's origins during World War II in the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) "the whole OSS was really nothing but Wall Street bankers and lawyers."

There is much more to the CIA/Mossad than meets the eye. This secret organization remains in place with its key people, polices and agendas long after public elected officials come and go. The CIA and other ultra secret agencies such as the NSA, Mi5/6 and Mossad are like the world's most exclusive NETWORK (matrix), or secret Ivy League frat club. The unholy trinity of treachery - conquest by deception and engineered chaos. Only loyal devote groomed members handpicked from elite circles of society become key secret initiates, and the membership is for life. Until death do they part. If the Devil were to setup and operate his perfect organization that embodied all his attributes, it would perfectly resemble the so called "intelligence agencies" for they perfectly embody all his essence.

The KEY to understanding many unsolved conspiracies as a whole, is in the realization that in almost every event where "conspiracies" were perpetrated, those behind the scenes are none other than the CIA/NSA/Mi6/Mossad etc., i.e.: all operational agencies of the illuminati. All operating under the ingeniously masterful cover and iron clad untouchable impenetrable shield/alibi of: "CAN'T TOUCH US... IT'S A MATTER OF NATIONAL SECURITY." There exists no other more perfect ideal COVER than that.

Absolutely no person, organization, committee, nation on the planet has the authority nor power to pierce that shield. Period. What more perfect vehicle and cover to run your secret clandestine Global Mafia agenda? Though all these agencies operate under the pretext, premise and guise of "for their home countries" they are all operated by the same secretive Zionist/Masonic inner circle whose ultimate allegiance is to the "Illuminati" consortium.

They manipulate everything without your slightest clue. Meticulously guiding the flow of information and revelations to the media. While simultaneously flooding the mass media with disinformation, carefully orchestrating any event into convoluted fiasco hogwash that the general public eventually just gives up on understanding and forgets about. Soon thereafter to join the annals of countless pages loonytoon tabloids and conspiracy archives. Branding all who even mention them as tinfoil hat mental patients. Ridiculed and dismissed. No one has successfully taken them on. No one can investigate them. No one can accuse them of wrong doing. Yet an extraordinary trail of blood and evidence from their crimes has been left all around the globe. They are, for all intents and purposes: above the law, accountable to NO ONE, the real life untouchables.

Behold: for the same formula, the same way that the JFK coup d'état/execution was conducted then subsequently manipulated, controlled and covered up by the establishment is EXACTLY how the 9/11 operation was conducted... Here is how they pulled it off, exposed for he who has an ear, let him hear:

Those secret agencies that have been allegedly established to supposedly work to for their respective nations are in fact nothing more than Luciferian agencies of death and destruction controlled by the ruling elite of this world. They are all run by the most powerful "Global Mafia" in the world. Yale, Harvard, Oxford and other Ivy League alumni, powerful ruling families, leaders of industry, high powered politicians, respected gentlemen throughout the world, most are members of the world's most powerful "Cosa Nostra". Ultimately traced back to a core unholy trinity ultra secret societies: 1. The Zionists/Masons 2. The Vatican Order/Jesuits 3. Royalty/nobility. Collectively they have all been subject of innumerable number of articles, books, research, investigations, and so on. Often referred to as the "illuminati", the elite, new world order, all of whom consists of ultra secret members of: Zionists, Black Pope, Jesuits, Freemasons, Templars, Royalty etc. Understand this: collectively these are ALL part of the ruling elite, the "illuminati" or whatever you want to call this exclusive network/consortium/matrix. It is extremely difficult connecting all the dots since their inner circle movements are done in the strictest of secrecy. One crucial key to their success is they all operate under the cover of CHAOS.

In my quest to research this “illuminati” there was one factor that I have found truly disturbing. These secret constituents are always on EVERY single side of every debate, issue, conflict, war and propaganda. No matter who loses, they win. So it should be of no real news that they are also a major force in this truth seeker movement. They have been disseminating disinformation, establishing many false leads, spreading lies, starting ridiculous conspiracy theories, planting numerous shells within the truther movement. So much so has been their impact that one must scrutinize all information with a fine tooth comb and analyze the information irrespective from the actual source. Their truther shells often weave tons of truths with strategic lies and disinformation to thus lead others in pursuit of the real evil doers and the truth on wild goose chases. Thus you cannot just totally dismiss everything any shell is saying, for their reports are more often than not actually laced with tons of truths, otherwise how would they achieve wide credibility, large followings and respect within the truther community.

Their operations ultimately implemented in the mainstream through their main “Cosa Nostra” exclusive Mafia front organizations such as the CFR (Council on Foreign Relations), Trilateral Commission, Bilderberg Group, Club of Rome, Committee of 300, the Jesuit Order, Freemasons, Knights of the Malta, events such as Bohemian Groove, along with myriad of obscure organizations and think tanks. The one organization that seems to be at the forefront of promoting and organizing the “New World Order” agenda seems to be the CFR. The CFR members have dominated all foreign and financial policies of all the presidencies in both the Republican and Democratic parties ever since its inception in 1921.

It is relatively easy to spot the “made men” Mafioso, career politicians and captains of industry by simply by reviewing their membership status to the elite of the elite organizations, think tanks, universities, fraternities, secret societies, philanthropies (slush funds) and counting the sheer number of board of directorships they each wield.

Behold who symbolism is utilized to identify members of their invisible matrix (these are but a of few examples):

New World Order Definition

Introduction

The following article is extracted from an excellent analysis of the New World Order by author Ken Adachi which can be found at educate-yourself.org.

The term New World Order (NWO) has been used by numerous politicians through the ages, and is a generic term used to refer to a worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an extremely powerful and influential group of genetically-related individuals (at least at the highest echelons) which include many of the world's wealthiest people, top political leaders, and corporate elite, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe (dominated by the British Crown) and Zionists whose goal is to create a One World (fascist) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda.

Listen to the Zionist* banker, Paul Warburg:

"We will have a world government whether you like it or not. The only question is whether that government will be achieved by conquest or consent." (February 17, 1950, as he testified before the US Senate).

Their intention is to effect complete and total control over every human being on the planet and to dramatically reduce the world's population by two thirds. While the name New World Order is the term most frequently used today to loosely refer to anyone involved in this conspiracy, the study of exactly who makes up this group is a complex and intricate one. For further research sources, please see the side bar on the left.

In 1992, Dr John Coleman published Conspirators Hierarchy: The Story of the Committee of 300. With laudable scholarship and meticulous research, Dr Coleman identifies the players and carefully details the New World Order agenda of worldwide domination and control. On page 161 of the Conspirators Hierarchy, Dr Coleman accurately summarizes the intent and purpose of the Committee of 300 as follows:

"A One World Government and one-unit monetary system, under permanent non-elected hereditary oligarchists who self-select from among their numbers in the form of a feudal system as it was in the Middle Ages. In this One World entity, population will be limited by restrictions on the number of children per family, diseases, wars, famines, until 1 billion people who are useful to the ruling class, in areas which will be strictly and clearly defined, remain as the total world population.

There will be no middle class, only rulers and the servants. All laws will be uniform under a legal system of world courts practicing the same unified code of laws, backed up by a One World Government police force and a One World unified military to enforce laws in all former countries where no national boundaries shall exist. The system will be on the basis of a welfare state; those who are obedient and subservient to the One World Government will be rewarded with the means to live; those who are rebellious will simply be starved to death or be declared outlaws, thus a target for anyone who wishes to kill them. Privately owned firearms or weapons of any kind will be prohibited."

Why the Conspiracy is Unknown

The sheer magnitude and complex web of deceit surrounding the individuals and organizations involved in this conspiracy is mind boggling, even for the most astute among us. Most people react with disbelief and skepticism towards the topic, unaware that they have been conditioned (brainwashed) to react with skepticism by institutional and media influences. Author and de-programmer Fritz Springmeier (The Top 13 Illuminati Bloodlines) says that most people have built in "slides" that short circuit the mind's critical examination process when it comes to certain sensitive topics. "Slides", Springmeier reports, is a CIA term for a conditioned type of response which dead ends a person's thinking and terminates debate or examination of the topic at hand. For example, the mention of the word "conspiracy" often solicits a slide response with many people.

What most people believe to be "Public Opinion" is in reality carefully crafted and scripted propaganda designed to elicit a desired behavioral response from the public. Public opinion polls are really taken with the intent of gauging the public's acceptance of the New World Order's planned programs. A strong showing in the polls tells them that the programming is "taking", while a poor showing tells the NWO manipulators that they have to recast or "tweak" the programming until the desired response is achieved.

The NWO Modus Operandi

The NWO global conspirators manifest their agenda through the skilful manipulation of human emotions, especially fear. In the past centuries, they have repeatedly utilized a contrivance that NWO researchers have characterized as the Problem, Reaction, and Solution stratagem.

The technique is as follows: NWO strategists create the Problem - by funding, assembling, and training an "opposition" group to stimulate turmoil in an established political power (sovereign country, region, continent, etc.) that they wish to impinge upon and thus create opposing factions in a conflict that the NWO themselves maneuvered into existence. In recent decades, so called opposition groups are usually identified in the media as 'freedom fighters' or 'liberators'.

At the same time, the leader of the established political power where the conflict is being orchestrated is demonized and, on cue, referred to as 'another Hitler' (take your pick: Saddam Hussein, Milosevic, Kadafi, etc.). The 'freedom fighters' are not infrequently assembled from a local criminal element (i.e. KLA, drug traffickers). In the spirit of true Machiavellian deceit, the same NWO strategists are equally involved in covertly arming and advising the leader of the established power as well (the NWO always profits from any armed conflict by loaning money, arming, and supplying all parties involved in a war).

The conflict is drawn to the world stage by the controlled media outlets with a barrage of photos and video tape reports of horrific and bloody atrocities suffered by innocent civilians. The cry goes up "Something has to be done!" And that is the desired Reaction.

The NWO puppeteers then provide the Solution by sending in UN 'Peace Keepers' (Bosnia) or a UN 'Coalition Force' (Gulf War) or NATO Bombers and then ground troops (Kosovo), or the military to 'search for Weapons of Mass Destruction', which of course are never found. Once installed, the 'peace keepers' never leave. The idea is to have NWO controlled ground troops in all major countries or strategic areas where significant resistance to the New World Order takeover is likely to be encountered.

Collectively the Zionist-Masonic elite decide polices and worldwide situations. You must completely understand that they are the ones that FOUNDED the CIA, Mi6, and the Mossad and most, if not all covert "government" agencies. You must truly understand this one simple fact! The ramifications of this truth are earth shaking. The “Illuminati” are the founders and administrators of the most clandestine secret intelligence agencies on the planet! They decide wars. They topple governments. They assassinate rulers. They decide what is true and not. They write the history books, for those who control the past, the record of what has been, control the future. They decide what you get to see as "news". This "mafia" has no party affiliation, democrats or republican, it does not matter, they are all part of the same mafia, just two different “crime families” under the same umbrella all loyal to the same God Father: their Zionist-Masonic rulers. The Republican and Democratic parties was put in play long ago as a means to keep the citizens DIVIDED and fighting amongst themselves for decades on end and to also provide the illusion of “choice.” All the while distracting everyone and keeping all from truly grasping the TRUE nature of the system and obfuscating the “invisible hand” that really controls of the system

The main power wielding central core of this secret “mafia” society are the central banks, the Federal Reserve Board, IMF, World Bank, Bank of International Settlements (BIS), and corresponding central banks of individual countries, all run under the same underlying principle of fractional reserve banking and "fiat" money by small group of ruling elite Zionists. Every country on this planet is run by money. Control the money, and you by default have direct and indirect control of countries. The interesting thing about the Federal Reserve, is that it is NOT a federal organization. It was never established by the United States government. It was established by the elite of the elite of the money world. Who of course had no problems orchestrating their Ivy League alumni and or puppets running our government at the time to accept and embrace the Federal Reserve with open arms. In doing so we went from a debt free nation to one that is on a never ending path of always having to BORROW money from the banks, then PAY INTEREST to them. That is why we always hear about the "national debt". Who did you think we pay that debt off to? Ourselves? NOT! Our government is in hock up to its eye balls to the international banking cartel who are in reality none other than OUR ZIONIST BANKER OVERLORDS. You can also thank them for re-introduction of taxes when they proposed the IRS in 1913.

Important note:

Before I continue any further we need to stop right here for a moment to point something out., as you can see, I am increasingly referring to the “Zionist Jew” factor, this and that. The terms Zionist and Jew are increasingly entering the topics of discussion. The ORIGINAL MOTIVE of this report was NEVER intended to be some sort of “anti-Jew”, “anti-Semitic” or anti-Zionist work... When I first began connecting dots that eventually lead me to researching the “illuminati” elite, I had no clue who or what the top ruling elite were, I had absolutely ZERO preconceived bias. I have NEVER in my life been racist or hated anyone for their race, religion or background.

When I initially began my research into the matter of “The Matrix” consortium I had no clue who was at its core pulling the strings, I just knew that there had to be a coordinating entity(s) behind the curtain.

It was on about my second year of fulltime research into the “illuminati” that I stumbled onto what can only be termed THE JEWISH PARADOX CONUNDRUM, the elephant in the room that has been hiding in plain sight.

It was only after the first year of research that I was astonished to find that the Talmudic Zionist (alleged “Jews”) kept popping up repeatedly in all my research projects, the deeper I researched the more I found. You just cannot ignore or dismiss this most blatantly obvious anomaly. The deeper I researched the more supporting evidence clearly revealing the big picture began to emerge out of the well laid smoke and mirrors disinformation web the mighty elites weave.

I discovered the Zionist “Jewish” dominance to my total denial, disbelief, complete and utter shock, then finally pure jaw dropping amazement, for I was born and raised among my fellow Jew brethren, throughout my whole life I had always viewed and identified with them as “my people,” for the Jewish people ARE my family... I LOVE MY JEWISH BRETHREN for I am a direct descendant of one of the 12 tribes. I Like many like me, have no hate or animosity toward our long lost Arab/Muslim brothers either. It has taken great soul searching and chutzpah to not only accept the true realities I've encountered but to also come forth with the utterly shocking truths that I reveal here in this report...

While I am pointing out my ancestral origins, I will also give you notice that I am not here to regurgitate the same old radicalized propaganda about our Muslim brothers (we all come from our common father: Abraham). The fact of the matter is that the Zionist Jews want, seek and are ceaselessly working towards the total annihilation of their mortal enemy the Muslim world, and they have been tirelessly working to engineer a Christian showdown with them.

Very important info regarding Zionists: NOT ALL ZIONISTS ARE JEWS. You do not have to be a Jew to be a Zionist. Here is a recent admitted example, vice president Biden's own words in an interview: "I'm a Zionist, you don't have to be a Jew to be a Zionist." Thus you will find many non Jew Zionists knowingly working hand in hand with their Zionist "Jew" overlords to further their common goals. Always keep this important fact in mind.

The Zionist owned/controlled mass media complex is overflowing with demonizing HYPERBOLE masquerading as "news" concerning the evil, terrorist, wicked, bad, appalling, terrorism, atrocious, dreadful, terror, horrible, ghastly, terrorist, horrifying, gruesome, terrorism, frightening, loathsome, nasty, terrorist, vile, repugnant, terrifying terrorist Arab/Muslim world. This has been driven deep into everyone's conscience every single day by the Zionist "Jew" mass media. Therefore I feel no need to waste my time by falling into line to repeat and regurgitate the same old bull that everyone has been propagandizing. The fact of the matter is that the Holy Bible warned us COUNTLESS TIMES of the Jews and the Synagoge of Satan... not once in the scriptures will you find a warning documented about the Muslims....

Here is a representative viewpoint concerning Zionism and biblical Judiasim that sums up the situation:

"Contrary to common perception, Jewish anti-Zionism is not restricted exclusively to the well known Jewish anti-Zionist movements such as Satmar and Neturei Karta.

There are in fact many Jewish movements, groups and organizations whose ideology regarding Zionism and the so-called "State of Israel" is that of the unadulterated Torah position that any form of Zionism is heresy and that the existence of the so-called "State of Israel" is illegitimate.

No one has had to create any antagonism between our Torah and Zionism because such antagonism exists by virtue of the essence of Judaism itself, which can never tolerate the heresy of Zionism.

Zionism is wrong from the Torah viewpoint, not because many of its adherents are lax in practice or even anti-religious, but because its fundamental principle conflicts with the Torah.

Unfortunately, due to many undesirable factors, the view of Torah-true Jewry has been concealed from the general public.

We, the staff at www.jewsnotzionists.org are delighted that with the advance in media technology a substantial benefit to researchers, students, and the general public has been made available. We are elated at the advantage which the internet provides for the presentation of and accessibility to a position so widely held yet so deliberately ignored by many a Zionist-inclined medium.

It is our hope that the information presented on this site will be of benefit to all and that we soon merit the peaceful dismantlement of the so-called "State of Israel" and that Jewish-Muslim brotherhood be restored as prior to the arrival of the Zionist scheme on the global scene."

CRUCIALLY IMPORTANT NOTE:

I will state this once and once only: When ever you see the word “Jew” used throughout this report, it is used liberally and generally to mean the ZIONIST sector “Jews” and in no way shape or form is meant to include the peaceful tribes of biblical Jews that are not part of the Zionist cabal. The inherent problem of trying to cover the works of the sinister secretive Zionist cabal is that they immediately don their sheeps in wolve’s clothing, cry foul and use alleged racist bigotry againt all Jews as their cloak and shield.

"...it is our obligation to make it known in order that everyone should understand that the Zionists are not the nation of Israel... and it is most definitely our holy obligation to announce before those nations of the world that the Zionists are not the spokespeople of the nation of Israel..." - Grand Rabbi Joel Teitelbaum

"It (labeling people 'anti-semitic') has been a handy and effective weapon which has destroyed countless careers and is responsible for the totally illegitimate Zionist regime. Zionists have cleverly suggested for a hundred years, by smearing their critics as 'anti-Semites,' that the Zionists are the legitimate conquerors of Palestine. Zionists have never actually SAID they were Semitic - just that their enemies are 'anti-Semitic.' Pretty neat...and completely dishonest. But in light of the genuine anti-Semitism of the Zionists it becomes a bizarre obscenity when these non-Semitic aliens accuse their Semitic victims of 'anti-Semitism'.

I believe this is the central issue regarding The Jewish Question. When awareness of this matter becomes more widespread, and it will now, the Zionist state will lose support even from the deluded Christians, who need Semitic-type Jews running "Israel" for the fulfillment of their bloody dreams. The Zionists will be exposed as pseudo-religious gangsters." --J. Bruce Campbell

There are basically two types of “Jews” in this world; the humble brotherly peaceful compassionate descendants of Abraham Jews vs. the conquest/secret agenda driven Talmudist/Kabbalah/Zionists European “Jews.”

Anywhere you may find the word “Jew” used in this research report it will ALLWAYS be used to identify with the Talmudist/Kabbalah/Zionist European “Jews.” This report rarely mentions the peaceful brethren Jews for it is not them who are involved in the Zionist juggernaut. Therefore understand this and understand this well: any reference in this report using the word “Jew” is done so to identify EXCLUSIVELY with the Luciferian Zionist-Kabbalah-Talmudist world conquest subdivision of so called “Jews.” Lest not forget that the Luciferian Zionist bloc has been inducting and recruiting “real” Jews into their causes for ages, but it’s composition is made-up at its core and top echelons is mainly composed of “Jews” who families “converted” to Judaism whom are in fact Zionists practicing occult Kabbalah and elitist Talmud.

I am neither racist nor harbor any hate to any religions or my ethnic peoples. I come forth with one simple objective, and that is to no holds barred, take no prisoners, blow wide open the secret empire of the ruling illuminati elite... whoever they may be. Some people’s feeling may be hurt as we go forth to point out the sins of their kind, so be it, it is merely a part of the collateral damage of revealing the TRUTH. Deal with it. Accept it, and instead of shedding crocodile tears or trying to launch retribution and silence and censor the TRUTH those who feel offended should sit back and truly reflect on the revelations being made here so that we can get to the bottom of the matter and eradicate the tumorous elements that are out to engulf us all...

FYI: Those who stand up to DEFEND their people and lands from INVASION and occupying armies are NOT terrorists. Sure the Muslims can be and many often ARE some of the world's most irrational crazy ass psychos' hell bent on revenge, but this does not change the underlying fundamental TRUTH of the matter. Let me pose a simple question to those who are confused, who you think are the REAL victims in the sad bloody conflict between the Jews and Muslims? The bloc who has the media on their side because their people literally control it and have agents, politicians and business leaders working for and promoting their best interests throughout the world while it is attacking and occupying Muslim lands with billions of dollars worth of the most advanced military technology wiping out entire villages or the tent and cave dwelling side that is "attacking" invaders of their lands with sticks and stones and crude improvised weapons? Call me an enemy sympathizer for these statements if you wish, call it whatever you want, I call it logical unbiased common sense rationalization of the facts and reality.

I was born and raised among and have always loved my Jewish brethren. I must acknowledge, the Muslim people I know are few, but I would have to admit two traits I have personally observed, one is that they seem to possess psychotic rationalization and temperament along with their insane revenge centric mentality, they routinely conduct some of the most bizarre atrocities, this is nothing new, (everyone knows this, and the media and historical works are full of these types of stereotypic coverage, therefore I feel no need to rehash the same old info that is widely available). I am here to reveal what is NOT readily known, to expose the rulers of this world) on the other hand I've also by and large met many humble good God fearing humble brotherly Muslims that were even more devoted than followers of other religions. Every race, ethnicities and peoples have their demented extremist fruit cakes.

The last thing you will find from me is biased racism, for in this report I proceed to rip into the Christians, the Muslims and the Jews all alike. I am only out to find and reveal the bedrock truth. I care not who it offends or who gets their feelings hurt, the bullshit has got to stop. Sanity and TRUTH must prevail. The time has come for the TRUTH to overcome all the barriers including politically correct obstacles erected to silence it.

Therefore: Anyone who dares try to label this work of TRUTH as "anti-Semitic" can shove it. Surely the day will someday come when the masses finally realize that the whole "anti-Semite" label is nothing more than a TOOL for DEMONIZING and silencing their detractors. The anti-Semite label is a STRATEGIC TACTICAL WEAPON used to shred apart and demonize anyone who DARES stand up and speak anything remotely negative of the Jews... no matter how true it may be.

"Formerly an anti-Semite was somebody who hated Jews because they were Jews and had a Jewish soul. But nowadays an anti-Semite is somebody who is hated by Jews." - Auschwitz survivor, Hajo Meyer

It does not matter if you don't believe in God or what your religion is. The reality of ALL transpiring world events being engineered by the ruling elite are completely based on religious rooted WAR, conquest and control over minds, hearts, people, souls, lands... like it or not, believe it or not, THIS is the absolute reality of the state of the world. One of the greatest tricks the Devil ever pulled was convincing the world he doesn't exist...

The profound earth shaking reality is that Christianity, Judaism and Muslim are all BROTHERS, for they are all descendants who originate from the SAME SEED: Abraham. And the world level struggle between them, has its roots deeply embedded in the beginning of man's biblical history. The conflicts we are witnessing today throughout the world originate from this fundamental root paradigm, whether you like it or not.

Therefore, at some point we need to stop the childish venomous attack and counter attacks, and face the true nature of our problems, differences, in order to resolve the age old conflict/struggle/dilemma that began at the beginning of known recorded history and is now culminating into a worldwide confrontation of biblical proportions. And ultimately will only be solved by all sides laying down their eons of built up hate, animosity, vindictiveness and unselfishly coming forth practicing a radical revolutionary approach called:

LOVE THY BROTHER. This is a realm where concepts such as forgiveness, empathy, understanding and compassion reign supreme.

Let it Be Known:

Whereas: The Jewish people are among some of the world's most brilliant, cunning, most amazingly innovative people on the planet. Where ever they go in numbers the region/nations prosperity takes off as never before seen in its history. I believe that if the Jewish people learned to become compassionate, humble and LOVE thy fellow man as equals instead of as sub-humans this world could change overnight. The Jewish people need to experience a mass revolution of the heart, then, and only then can true world peace begin to become a plausible reality...

Whereas: In almost every age, both scripture and history reveal that false Jewish leadership has led the average Jew into bondage, persecution and exile. The ancient Pharisees epitomized such "blind guides," provoking the Romans to destroy Jerusalem in 70 A.D. So it is today. Evil Jewish political, religious and cultural leadership continues to stimulate a backlash of anti-Jewish feeling. Many resent creation of "anti-hate" laws world-wide by the Jewish Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'Rith.

Most powerfully, anti-Jewish feeling has been stimulated by false Zionist leadership in the Middle East. Such leadership disobeyed God's instruction to His people that they live in contentment among the nations (Jer. 29:4-7) until the Second Coming of Christ. Only then, when a remnant of Jews will believe in their rejected Messiah, Jesus, will Israel at last enjoy divine endorsement to re-occupy God's holy land, a land strictly reserved for Jews who are obedient. Only then will a wealth of Old Testament scriptures prophesying national restoration to Palestine be fulfilled.

Instead, a century ago, false Zionist leadership convinced the Jewish people that they could escape persecution, re-occupy the Promised Land, and fulfill scripture without obedience to their true Messiah. Most evangelical Christians agreed with their unbiblical claims. The result has not been an end of persecution for Jews. Instead, the world has endured a century of strife and hatred against Jews by the Arab world – a strife exploding into international Arab terrorism. Far from becoming a land of refuge, Israel is the most dangerous place a Jew can live. "There is no peace to the wicked." (Isa. 48:22)

An important intention of this report is to protect and deliver Jews from the yoke of bondage to Zionist Jewish leadership so that God's destiny for a remnant of Jews might be fulfilled. If such false leadership is not restrained (as Christ did to the Pharisees), even more waves of anti-semitism will sweep the world.

Yet, if such a backlash emerges, it will not be the Jewish rabbis, financiers, and media moguls in high places who will suffer most. It will be the Jewish people. This is what happened in Weimar Germany in 1939 when Jewish shopkeepers had their windows smashed to atone for the sins of Jewish financiers in high places.

Whereas: St. Paul said: "Brethren, my heart's desire is...for their salvation." (Rom.10:1) In order to protect God's chosen people, a remnant of Jews, it is necessary to educate both Christians and Jews concerning the magnitude of the threat that evil Zionist Jewish leadership poses to all.

Ultimately, we believe, such biblically oriented, fearless truth telling will prove more of a "blessing" to Jews than the traditional military and moral approval of Israel by evangelicals. Such has only encouraged Zionist warlords, such as Begin, Shamir, and Sharon, to further antagonize the Arab community. As a consequence, America has now been drawn into the Middle East for one colossal, unnecessary purpose: supposedly to make the Middle East safe for Israel.

Result: the whole world draws closer daily to WWII, a Middle-East nuclear Armageddon... [thks NPN]

With that personal statement above divulging my unbiased stance as we begin to enter the “sacred” realm where no man is supposed to or allowed tread... which is: thou shall NEVER say ANYTHING remotely offensive about JEWS gasp. Well, sorry Charlie, this extensive research report is about getting to the hard core TRUTH and has absolutely nothing to do with being “politically jewish correct” or continuing the spineless “investigative reporter’s” practice of yielding to the strong arm extortion and censorship of the Zionist mobsters who destroy anyone who dares speak of the Jews in anything but a positive manner.

The Jewish people are lead by the powerful worldwide juggernaut that is the Zionist syndicate/consortium/matrix who have accomplished what no other race or people on the planet have ever come close to doing, and that is TOTAL blackout of ANYTHING and EVERYTHING negative about Jews. In this world you can say the most offensive foul statements about Christianity and any other religion or people... EXCEPT about the Jews. Comedians regularly cruelly criticize, brutally ridicule Christians and Christianity, often saying some of the most offensive vile things about them, yet barely a blip on the radar appears, no one so much as complains about the remarks. The dirty vulgar whore Sarah (Jew) Silverman (pictured here) is a perfect example (out of thousands upon thousands I could choose from), as she boldly proclaimed: "I hope the Jews did kill Christ I'd do it again. I'd fucking do it again-in a second."

Jewish comedians who regularly bash (blaspheme) Christianity are lavished with accolades, fame and fortune. But when the exact same “jokes” and “satire” are done with the Jews as the butt end, forget about it! All hell breaks loose, the person that dared utter those foul blasphemous remarks head is demanded on a silver platter, their careers screech to an end, accusations, lawsuits, turmoil commence from all angles, soon the poor house awaits. To speak ill of any Jew even in comedy is instant career suicide. Now try and claim that these words are not true.

You KNOW that THIS is standard unspoken protocol... no one dares speak about Jews in public and when they do, it is only in cautious shivering whisper. For the moment one speaks ill of the Jews, even if it is the intolerable truth, that person is immediately DEMONIZED en mass, portrayed as a bigotted anti-semitic and his whole life ruined.

Larry David(ovich) Urinates on Painting of Jesus Christ

LA VOZ DE AZTLAN, Los Angeles, Alta California, November 3, 2009

The following is a video clip showing Larry David, the writer and producer of "Seinfeld", urinating on a painting of Jesus Christ. It is from an episode of a Larry David HBO cable television show that aired last October. It has offended the entire Christian world

Jews like Larry David are of a certain type. They are Ashkenazi Jews from Eastern Europe who speak Yiddish. They are not a semitic people like the Hebrews from the line of Abraham. The Jewish Encyclopedia refers to them as "Chazars" and they actually converted to Judaism and Talmudism for political convenience around 740 AD. Prior to their conversion they believed in a pagan Phallic religion. This explains the very last statement made by Larry David in the video clip about "erections." Professor Tzvi Hirsh Graetz in his authoritative book "History of the Jews" writes, "The Chazars professed a coarse religion, which was combined with sensuality and lewdness." This also explains why Jews of the Larry David type predominate in the pornography industry and why they promote sodomy.

The Ashkenazi Jews or Chazars also, before their conversion, worshipped the god Mammon which is the god of money, greed and materialism. If you take a photograph of Larry David and put it next to one of Bernie Madoff you will observe that they look so much alike. They are the same type of Jew. Also this type of Jew created Zionism. Today they rule Israel, a land they have no historical right to. They are the ones responsible for the genocidal massacre of over 300 Palestinian children last December and January.

In addition, the Chazar or self-styled Jews have had a long history of being expelled from many countries after their corruptive influence on native cultures wore thin the patience of the general populations. An extreme example of this was in Germany when Adolf Hitler and the National Socialist German Workers' Party rose to power.

With this introduction, we invite you to view Larry David(ovich) mocking Jesus Christ: youtube

Have you ever wondered how it is possible the United States of America, the world's most powerful country can OWE money to another separate entity within its own system? Why doesn't our government just print its own money? Who is making the profits from all those BILLIONS of dollars of interest we pay each and every year? Why have to borrow it from international BANKERS in the first place? Because the entire financial system was invented by the BANKERS. It is THEIR SYSTEM and they have subjugated, one by one, each and every government in the world (except for the last few "evil" hold outs our countries are "coincidentally" waging war on) to adopt their Zionist Financial System.

In every major civilization since the beginning of time, the smart rulers had control of their own money, then came in the banksters. Somehow, some way, they convinced governments to give up control of their own national financial freedom to a separate entity! Then pay interest on money we must borrow from them!!!! That is what the "national debt" is all about. Just like when you borrow money from the bank to buy your new home, the deed is also in their name, they are co-owners until that money has been repaid. And they have power over you as such, and at any given time, once one of their demands are not met, they can exercise their powers and call in the markers, repossess your property or stipulate their DEMANDS on you as they see fit... This fundamental operational protocol is no different on the personal level banking or government level banking. Thus doors magically open for the international banksters who lend to governments, and bankster agendas flourish. Governments instead of controlling their wealth BORROW from the banksters and enrich them instead.

It is none other than the globalist, global governance, new world order Luciferian international bankers who sit at the top of the pyramid engineering global control and conquest. THEY start, finance and finish wars. They finance the growth of NATIONS... when the target nation has been DEPLETED and or no longer serves their purposes, they move on to the next nation. Whatever nation they choose becomes the primary growth nation. The nations they wish to punish are driven into dire poverty and famine.

I may be over simplifying this. But the premise does not change. The international banksters and central banks CONTROL our financial system and money supply and that of the other nations that had been bamboozled to followed the same path. Our currency is just pretty toilet paper. Our currency is not backed by a drop of gold, zilch, nada Zippo, not even backed by silver or even aluminum cans.

The monetary system is run by the most powerful, "legitimate mafia" on the planet. The HIDDEN MASTERS. Those running the international bank cartels are the REAL GODFATHERS. The CIA/NSA/Mossad/Mi6 and all other intelligence agencies are the "enforcers" branch of that mafia. The perfect union of secrecy. Ultimately the Zionist Jews and Masonic mafias run both the banking cartels and the intelligence agency cartels. Don't you dare take this paragraph lightly, for every single word is bound by ultimate earth shaking truth.

The bottom line, the common thread that weaves this puzzle together, is the fact that these HIDDEN MASTERS, this "secret" society manipulates all major events and history, then sits back and writes the narrative everyone blindly swallows without so much as a hesitation. Their official narratives are delivered by their Zionist brotherhood MEDIA INDUSTRY SUBSIDIARY. The perfect union forged in hell to control the earth.

This untouchable mafia does not go by any name like Hells Angels, Italian mafia, Gambino Family, Al Capone, Don Corleon, Gotti, etc. for the likes of these are just mere DIVERSION for the REAL MOBSTERS, the “hidden masters.” It’s an unspoken alliance. Where the core of clandestine operations are lead by the Zionist/Masonic elite operating within the CIA/Mossad/Mi6/Federal Reserve banks, World Bank, IMF, CFR, Bilderberg, etc.

Polices are hacked out behind the closed Ivy league doors of the most elite powerful rulers on the planet. The Zionists control a 98% majority of all financial and media enterprises, the Masons are the executive middle management, they manage the majority of political and business infrastructure around the globe. Entire groups, organizations, institutes, companies and so forth are easily controlled by planting JUST ONE of the ruling elite members as the leader, CEO, president or Chairman of any given enterprise. Once a member leader is appointed, PRESTO the entire organization of thousands of employees are unwittingly at their beck and call waiting to fulfill their jobs.

Viewed individually, all questionable activity throughout this country and the world seems to be unrelated. Events often seem to be independent of one another. For each sector of society is seemingly “autonomous” from the others, or so we would think. But there exists a cohesive close knit Matrix of control. Closely tying all major events and sectors of society by the groups of exclusive Ivy League rulers who run each sector of the Matrix. The CIA, NSA, FDA, FCC, Banking Matrix, Military Industrial Matrix, Government Matrix, Media Matrix, Medical Industrial Matrix, Justice/Police/Prison Matrix, Wealth Matrix, Education Matrix, etc., are all interconnected to the core and have hidden puppeteers whom lead these entities, controlling agendas, fiascos, cover-ups, scandals, conspiracies. They have everything in common. Individually each just organization constitutes a separate seemingly independent part of the main puzzle, together they all make up "The Matrix". To connect the dots is to connect the facts.

World conquest and control seems to be a tall order to accomplish for this feat is so colossal in scope and nature that even trying to imagine pulling it off seems like fantasy to most observers. Yet it is happening right before your very eyes. The Learned Elders of Zion ruling elite have been working on this for eons. One of their breakthroughs was in understanding he who controls the presses and media controls and shapes the minds of the masses.

I am reminded of the words of the Illuministic futurist, Aldous Huxley, who died in 1963. Huxley was a writer for the Illuminati. He was also a mystic who advocated the use of psychedelic drugs. Huxley also wrote Brave New World and numerous essays. Consider some of his words as follows:

"We are in a process of developing a whole series of techniques which will enable the controlling oligarchy to get people to actually love their servitude. A really efficient totalitarian state would be one in which the all-powerful executive of political bosses and their army of managers control a population of slaves who do not have to be coerced, because they love their servitude. To make them love it is the task assigned, in present-day totalitarian states, to ministries of propaganda, TV stations, newspaper editors, and school teachers....."

...The greatest triumphs of propaganda have been accomplished, not by doing something, but by refraining from doing. Great is truth, but still greater, from a practical point of view, is silence about truth."

In comes the media cartel. TV, radio, print. All held and controlled by an extremely small Ivy league Zionist Jew ruling elite group, their media arm, just another branch of the Matrix, the brainwashing, programming mass hypnosis arm of the Matrix. All chiming in and feeding the world what they want you to hear, what they want you to believe, how they want you think. The mass media is not just directly complicit; it is an integral part of the Matrix. Oh how America and the west have come to LOVE and CHERISH THEIR SERVITUDE.

Very few people understand how the DYNAMICS of priming, conditioning, indoctrination and programming works. It essentially works on the subconscious level where the target groups, masses are bombarded with pre-conceived programming and messages designed to instill the pre-meditated paradigm into reality. The social engineering that results in the aftermath of massive media exposure to said programming begins to take on its own real world simulation of the actually programming. This reaction, an acknowledged/documented social engineering fact, is basically the guaranteed result of "group think", for everyone desires to be part of the "in" crowd and to "belong" to something, whatever their desires lay. No one wants to be seen as the strange misfit and weirdo that "doesn't get it" thus people will often surrender their individual notions, intuitions and beliefs to remain as "in" part of their social circles.

The local reporters (the talking heads) often have no clue that they are a part of a massive priming, indoctrinating, programming operation, they DON'T NEED TO. For they don't/can't question their orders (given to them as scripts on a teleprompter) coming from the top brass on what to report, how to report it, and what NOT to report. What's hot, what's not, what's in what's out. They must follow their scripts like everyone else in the matrix. The moment anyone deviates from their allotted mission they are immediately dealt with, pink slip baby, go join the working class gasp! if you are not going to follow the rules, no matter where in the matrix organizations they may reside. Here is a perfect recent example of this unspoken policy in action:

CNN Editor Fired for Saying She Has "Respect" for Hezbollah Cleric

BY John McCormack, July 7, 2010

Mediaite reports that CNN has fired senior editor of Middle East affairs Octavia Nasr. As Daniel Halper pointed out the other day, Nasr wrote on Twitter on July 4 that she was "sad" to hear of the death of Hezbollah's Sayyed Mohammad Hussein Fadlallah--a man for whom she has "respect." Fadlallah had justified suicide bombings, is believed to be responsible for the Marine barracks bombing, and had said that "Zionism has inflated the number of victims in this Holocaust beyond imagination." [real reason she was fired]

In a followup blog post last night, Nasr wrote that it "was an error of judgment for me to write such a simplistic comment and I'm sorry because it conveyed that I supported Fadlallah's life's work. That's not the case at all."

She explained that she knew about all the wicked aspects of Fadlallah's life--saying she even "lost family members" in the barracks bombing--and was simply referring to the fact that she respected Fadlallah for his opposition to "honor" killings and beating women. But saying you respect Fadlallah for opposing murdering and beating (Muslim) women is almost like saying you respect Osama bin Laden for building day care centers.

CNN doesn't think Nasr's apology makes up for what she said. "We believe that her credibility in her position as senior editor for Middle Eastern affairs has been compromised going forward," Nasr's CNN superior Parisa Khosravi said in a statement.

The basis of control in any organization, of say 10,000 people, there is no need to recruit all of them to become part of some grande scheme, for all one needs to do is get control of ONE single person, the top position, the CEO or President and all 10,000 employees needn't have a clue what the actual path the organization is on, they just need to keep doing their function and keep rowing.

As for all the "experts" and "pundits" that routinely appear on television hyping the current agenda, they have all long ago been indoctrinated into the SYSTEM THINK. This is their world, their adjusted reality. Years on end of educational programming, social engineering of what is what, what is the norm, what is acceptable, what is reality and so on. All the media outlets being owned and run by the same group of people/syndicate/consortium/matrix easily maintain a coordinated orchestrated united reality theme that establishes the heartbeat or reality, the norms, the adjusted and adopted interpretation of reality. Anything that is not sanctioned is immediately ridiculed and attacked by all seemingly "independent" media fronts in unison, thus universally driven into the mass public's minds with non-stop coverage and positive repetitious re-enforcement.

It is the nature of those in control to use any means necessary to maintain control, it sometimes means high riding insiders being thrown to the wolves (to appease the angry mobs) but there's a grave risk that more and more whistleblowers will be coming out, unveiling, disclosing, revealing ever more modus operandi and secrets of the elite by those who have been thrown to the wolves. When the ruling elite begin to hermerge clandestine operational details, public perception begins to shift and new awareness's emerge... Following this comes large polarizations well laid plans begin to unravel, dominos begin to fall, back to the drawing board they go. Plan B, C or even D. This is one of the reasons why the One World Government clique are often all over the place often with seemingly illogical opposing strategies being played out and has been a major factor in taking them so long to bring about their nirvana... i.e., due to the myriad of exposed and failed strategies.

The million dollar question is how do you recognize WHO the true REAL ruling elite are? It has been prophesized: "By their deeds you will know them." This scripture was said in reference to identifying who was from Christ. But it is so profound that it can be literally applied to almost anything and anyone. Who do people fear most? Who is it no one can speak of above their breath? Who are those that it is a sin to talk about? Who are those if you speak of and might even end up imprisoned in some countries for doing so? Answer these questions and more and I will show you who the TRUE hidden ruling elite are...

THE SANCHEZ AFFAIR

By Richard Spencer

Two years ago, Joel Stein wrote a remarkable op-ed in the Los Angeles Times:

Who Runs Hollywood? C'mon

December 19, 2008

I have never been so upset by a poll in my life. Only 22% of Americans now believe "the movie and television industries are pretty much run by Jews," down from nearly 50% in 1964. The Anti-Defamation League, which released the poll results last month, sees in these numbers a victory against stereotyping. Actually, it just shows how dumb America has gotten. Jews totally run Hollywood.

Stein went on,

But I don't care if Americans think we're running the news media, Hollywood, Wall Street or the government. I just care that we get to keep running them.

Life is probably too short to write essays about the media frenzy over Rick Sanchez's firing by CNN, though it's worth pointing out that when this "Latino" newsreader of European extraction said that Jews prevailed at his news corporation and most others,

1. The entire spectrum of mainstream and alternative American media, from the Drudge Report to the sassy liberal Gawker, called Sanchez's interview a "racist" and/or "anti-Semitic" "rant," even thought the likable, if dim-witted, anchorman was calmly making subtle distinctions about Jews and White liberals as best he could.
2. Sanchez -- not known for incisiveness or the accurate use of his English lexicon -- expressed opinions about Jon Stewart being "prejudicial" (in the sense of favoring Establishment liberals) and Jewish preeminence that are entirely fair and based on fact.

Whatever one might think of Jewish influence in the media, the fact that Joel Stein is allowed to gloat about the fact -- and Rick Sanchez hounded for alluding to it -- amounts to one of America's biggest double standards in a crowded field.

This scandal has also reminded me of Stephen Steinlight's arguments that, pace the ADL & Co., immigration restriction is quite Good For The Jews and that the Jewish leadership should drop its Ellis Island nostalgia. For years, Steinlight has been saying that new immigrants, particularly those from the Hispanic Third World, lack the sentimental visions of Jews as powerless and pitiable held by most American gentiles, and would be far less accepting of Jews in positions of power.

Rick Sanchez's European physiognomy make him unrepresentative of Latinos in America -- but then quite representative of public representatives of Latinos in America -- and his comments might be a harbinger of a coming ethnic clash. It seems that the Rick Sanchezes of the world don't like it when the Jon Stewarts of the world are depicted as oppressed minorities deserving of special status. This might get interesting.

When Rick Sanchez and Helen Thomas get together...

By James Edwards, Race, Politics and Hypocrisy in 21st Century America

What do you think they talk about? I'm guessing it's about how Jews are a poor, oppressed, powerless minority group who have absolutely no say as to what goes in the news industry.

As you probably know, Rick Sanchez got fired from his anchorman job at CNN a day after he gave a radio interview and mocked the idea that that Jews are a poor, oppressed minority group in America, especially considering they pretty much run the news industry. He and the host got off on that subject because Sanchez called Jon Stewart a "bigot" for always making fun of him. See, Sanchez, who's as white as you and me, was trying to claim victimhood status, apparently being too darned dumb to understand that having a Spanish name doesn't make you a victim; having brown skin is what makes Hispanics "victims". Sanchez is about as "Latino" as Christina Aguilera. That was his first mistake. As Steve Sailer so eloquently points out, Victimism is a high stakes, dangerous game, and you'd better know exactly what you're doing when you sit down to play. Sanchez was clearly in way over his head. He's like the tourist in Vegas who sees all the excitement at the World Series of Poker, so he plunks down his $10,000 entry fee, and asks "Does the dealer stand on soft 17?"

Sanchez somehow made it to his position on the basis of his perceived "ethnicity" without anyone ever sitting him down and explaining the official rules of Victimism to him. He's white, and it doesn't matter that he grew up speaking Spanish in Cuba, and then in Miami after fleeing Cuba, because a white man can never be a victim (unless he's a homosexual). His second mistake was accusing Jon Stewart of being a bigot. Jon Stewart's real name is Jon Liebowitz, and people named Liebowitz can never be a victimizer. And they generally don't take very kindly to being accused of being bigoted or prejudiced. They'll be the ones calling people racists and bigots, thank you very much.

And his third mistake was not taking the hint from his interviewer on the radio show. Obviously thinking that Sanchez is as dumb as a box of rocks and has no idea he's wading into dangerous territory, he helpfully points out that Liebowitz/Stewart doesn't fit the profile of a "bigot", being an oppressed minority himself. In other words he was saying "Uh, Rick...you'd better cool it man. Jon Stewart can't be a bigot; he's not white. He may look white, but he's actually Jewish, and you are on very dangerous ground here." I guess he thought Sanchez didn't realize Stewart is Jewish.

But not only did Sanchez know Stewart's Jewish, he knew a few other things, too. He said that most of the people who run CNN and the other news networks are just like Stewart, and the idea that Jews are a poor, oppressed minority in this country is absurd.

Of course, it's lunacy to think Jews run the news industry. Which is why Sanchez was fired almost immediately after saying Jews run the news industry. Makes sense to me!

It's funny if you do a Google news search about his firing. Most of the headlines say he was fired for calling Jon Stewart a bigot. Yeah, that's a good one. And people wonder why no one trusts the news media?

And if you read the reactions from commentators, both left and right, it's clear they're terrified of the Jewish control of the news media. Not a one of them, liberal or "conservative", suggests that what Sanchez said is wrong. They all talk about how "stupid" or "dumb" he is for saying it, not that he's crazy for believing it. The mainstream "conservatives" are actually mocking him for having the guts to tell the truth. He speaks more truth in 30 seconds than Glenn Beck has in his entire career, and he's a pariah, and he deserved to get fired because there are some things you just don't talk about.

That's modern "conservatism" for you, folks.

Hell, most of these "conservatives" are so terrified of Jewish power that they would freak out if you suggested that Jews run our nation's synagogues.

Of course, what's really telling is a story I wrote about some time ago. Joel Stein, a columnist for the Los Angeles Times, wrote a column a while back boasting that Jews control Hollywood, Wall Street, DC, and the news media. Not just boasting about it, but saying that anyone who doesn't know this fundamental fact of life in America is pretty much an idiot.

Joel Stein can brag that Jews control the news media, Hollywood, Washington and Wall Street, and nobody bats an eye.

Rick Sanchez can simply state that Jews run the news industry, and he's instantly fired.

That's because Rick Sanchez is a ~~white~~ latino man, and Joel Stein is a Jew.

And "conservatives" cheer Sanchez getting fired for saying what everyone knows is true, and which Jews like Joel Stein rub in our faces. Which is really disgusting. The craven cowardice is simply breathtaking.

Chris Moore comments:

Sanchez finds himself in the conundrum that all who collaborate with Judeofascism -- politically, materially, morally, or spiritually -- eventually face; namely, that they are complicit with an ideology that can't in any way be squared with anything other than authoritarian, state-enforced Jewish supremacism.

Communists, leftists, left-liberals, neoconservatives, Bushcon Zionists, and statist liberal/State capitalists all have, or eventually will, discover this basic truth: Because Talmudic Judaism is too racist to proselytize, Judeofascists have evolved to perfect the art of inventing and instituting pseudo-secular ideologies under the guise of modernism and/or liberalism that are in reality mere devices to advance a statist-authoritarian Jewish supremacist agenda.

There are many within the ideologies listed above that are mere dupes and useful idiots who don't realize this reality, but there are many others who are fully aware of it, but have made their deal with the Judeofascist devil to silence, harass, ridicule or marginalize anyone who voices it in exchange for earthly and material rewards -- which often amount to nil.

The irony is that Christian-based Western Civilization manifested into all the peace and prosperity those under its umbrella could swallow, and with only one condition. But apparently that one condition was too much to ask for the overgrown children suffering from arrested development who jumped into bed with the Judeofascists to handle, and so they ate the poisonous fruit.

Now we've got to begin the process yet again of flogging and scouring the Judeofascist mentality from the realm of Western Civilization, essentially from scratch.

I place these info case studies in between my content in hopes of providing added insight and articulation to key important factors/dynamics/perception relevant to the topics being discussed/revealed in hopes of adding the extra dimensional input to the material that is being exposed. Even though this is the very beginning of this research report, we are already wading into the prohibited “thou shall not go there” realm of Jewish control. I have tried my best to completely squash the anti-jew myth and stand up for my blood brethren that is the Jewish race. But my conscience, heart and soul will not allow me to forsake the truth. I am a being of truth, plain and simple. The reason I yet again had to relate to the Jewish connection this early in this report is yet again, there IS NO WAY TO PROCEED further without addressing the 8,000,000 pound gorilla in the room.

While these words are being written the current lamb lead to slaughter out of the thousands upon thousands that have proceeded him in the exact same manner and circumstances is Rick Sanchez. Who strayed from his TALKING POINTS.... (script) and... DARED.... speak anything other than the officially SANCTIONED dialogue about Jews and Jewish supremacy, which is nonexistent according to the official narrative. What made me keel over and drop my jaw in amazement in his case where they, for the gazzillionth time destroyed one of their detractors is the Sanchez never said one “anti-semitic” statement. Yet his is universally being labeled as one the world over by the very same media cartel he spoke of.

Basically he just alluded to and mentioned the FACT that the Jews control the media. The Zionist owned/controlled CNN enterprise’s immediate response: YOU ARE FIRED! The fact that Sanchez called Jon Stewart (made man connected Jew) a “bigot” wasn’t the offense that demanded mandatory termination. The dirty deed was in his crossing the sacred line of never mentioning the Jew supremacy or connection to anything, ever, in any light other than that which is approved and sanctioned for gentile goyim consumption.

Today, like the thousands of other victims who preceded him who dared speak “ill” (no matter how TRUE) of the Zionist Jewish sector/people/agenda, Sanchez was ethanized and laid out to pasture. THIS in of itself speaks volumes and illuminates the very iron fist POWER of the sacred elephant in the room no one dares cross or even look in the eye for fear of reprisal.

Behold... show me who everyone fears to speak of in the room and I will show you who is the top dog in that room.

All this secret Learned Elders “ruling elite” matter might seem so farfetched, so science fiction, so completely inconceivable, and just plain ludicrous to some. This might be viewed as the mother of all conspiracy theories. But you must awaken to realize that we are truly living in the real life matrix. Where the version of reality that is portrayed for public consumption is far from the true reality. The American dream is just that, a dream fabricated by the Matrix for hundreds of millions in the rat race who have been trained/conditioned/programmed to chase the preverbal carrot: the American Dream... which is firmly engaged in materialism, it is a carefully crafted dream, you must keep up with the Jones's, must have that nice car and home, must finance it and work your life away to hopefully pay it all off... I want, I want, I want. Not to mention what you have to do to keep it all once you do get there...

You have all been well trained: Must keep a good FICO score by all means! Look into my eyes... “Debt is good for you”... buy, buy, buy, consume, consume, consume. Usury that was once considered a grand sin, is no longer: Today usury (i.e. debt) and credit cards are as American as apple pie, must have pretty plastic cards. Today's citizens must work harder and longer, at least half your entire day is devoted to earning the money just to pay the bills. Just to make ends meet. You think you are "free" when in reality you have many masters. You are all slaves in so many ways and don't even realize it. This is the true genius of the ruling elite...

The moment your alarm clock rings, it is telling you to wake up and fulfill your obligations to the one master most closely handling you: Your corporate masters who control your life in return for a paycheck. Yes another major factor that is ruining our great nations is: Corporate America, and all its stockholders/investors who demand never ending returns are only taking our entire nation down the path of eventual doom with its blind pursuit of more riches at and beyond any cost. Of which you are just a pawn enslaved to the system. Your indoctrination into the "system" begins with your public education as a child, by the time you (if) graduate, you are ready to join the peasant working servant class with the other Goyim as a worker bee in the service of your masters.

When will it stop? How long can they continue to have to produce unending higher and higher ROIs (return of investment) for their insatiable stockholders? (remember they, the 2% own 95% of everything) Eventually, all the resources of this planet will dry up in the insatiable never-ending un-wavering pursuit of ever higher profits. All the while, industries continue the maddening quest to merge becoming "too big to fail" in their quests to make "paper profits" from the "efficiencies" of the ever increasing mergers. Regrettably, if not stopped, this merger trend will eventually put just a few key monstrous monolithic corporations in control of everything. All you have to do is look around to see that this is already the case in many industries, massive mega-billion dollar mergers continue to happen on a regular basis.

America is being sold out in bulk wholesale, prostituting itself for the almighty profits, return on shareholder investments. In this batshit insane quest we have even been giving TAX BREAKS to our corporations to actually lay off U.S. employees and ship off their productions, offices, everything to other countries like China and India! DOH!!! One day we will wake up only to realize we no longer make anything. The words "made in America" meaningless. Who is to blame? Look no further than our financial Zionist "Overlords" who not only push industry in those directions, but also twist the arms of our government to push it as a great idea.

China is now poised to surpass the U.S. in GNP! Who is responsible for that? Doh! The U.S.! Wait until the day comes when we finally have a massive confrontation with that COMMUNIST country, our best pal trading buddy, dictatorship China. What will we do? Ask them politely to manufacture all the things we need to fight them because we no longer make them here? Doh! Our beloved nation is on a speeding freight train headed for a major wreck and we got rid of the breaks to maximize profits! Meanwhile all the financial institutions, pundits, advisors, industry have been holding the gluttonous party of a lifetime. They have sold America out then toast to their fortunes at their altar called the stock exchanges. Where the almighty profits, above and beyond all reason and logic is king, where nothing is sacred other than to whip up the market into frenzied orgy of buying and selling, where ROI. Is the Holy Grail, screw the loyal employees, screw the economy, screw the environment, screw the country, and so forth.

This nation was created under the premise (or guise?) of "of the people, by the people, for the people" but through the artfully manipulation of the Zionist-Masonic-Jesuit cartels it has long ago become a nation ruled by special interests, where the greedy pursuit of unending profits is paramount. We invade innocent lands, if their rulers refuse to obey our demands to "bring our form of "democracy" to them" (et al: western capitalism i.e. ECONOMIC COLONIZATION). What does Democracy really mean anyway? It DEMANDS them to open their doors and allow all our multinational corporations to come in unhindered, unrestrained and do their thing, like beasts bent on conquest, often just taking over many/any industries and resources point blank in exchange for trinkets and peanuts. Those nations who refuse are eventually labeled "enemies" then overthrown by CIA agent provocateurs who establish, organize and fund "local terrorist" groups (that often never existed in those countries prior to the CIA stepping in). Once the country is paralyzed and its sovereignty shattered, a puppet leader is put in charge that lets our corporations come in any way to harvest all their bounty natural resources, leaving them destitute in their own lands. We flood their streets with our products, taking away or ruining any and all their profitable enterprises. Then we turn around and wonder why they hate us so around the world. Golly gee whiz, I wonder why?

It has been said that if one tells a small lie it is easy to detect, but if you tell a lie that is so big that no one would ever fathom or comprehend its enormity thus to believe it as anything else but true would be ridiculous. This is a reflection on the masse's perception of reality. Right now I find myself trying to articulate and expose the perpetrators of one of the largest lies ever to have been perpetrated on man, they have established a system or “matrix” so profoundly interwoven into every sector of life that it quite literally unfathomably boggles the mind. Very few people can comprehend it, let alone see through THE GREAT DELUSION that these rulers have erected, thus the masses rather than to confront the reality that it may all be a colossal deception, instead close their eyes, ears and rational common sense and believe the lies that their ruling overlords feed them instead.

At some point in time, maybe it was right after the execution of JFK, the ruling elite realized that the vast majority of the public remarkably yet easily slips into mass denial syndrome. They rather continue their lives in the world of make believe, “like normal” and PRETEND that everything is just fine rather than face the dark realities of what is truly transpiring. Statistics have proven this over and over again. For instance the vast majority of the population believes that there was some sort of conspiracy in the JFK assassination, yet they have never pursued justice and sat back while their very own government COVERED UP the crime and destroyed most of the evidence. For instance 80% of the public does not believe the official narratives of 9/11 yet they all sit back and do nothing. For instance 90% of the public knows that the entire financial collapse and the resultant bailouts was nothing more than a scam perpetrated by the banks who then made out like bandits, yet they don't do anything.... These are just three examples out of thousands. The bottom-line is that the rulers KNOW they can literally get away with the most outrageous acts in broad daylight and there will be little or no repercussions. What little fallout that occurs is quickly extinguished by their hyperbole propaganda operations covering their tracks in slick official narratives and claims of “off limits due to national security.” Soon after, the short termed memory public goes back to their daily routines as if nothing happened, back to their normal state of mind the masses go... back into a self imposed cozy lives in the state of denial the masses all retreat... back to focusing on their sports teams, movies, TV shows, dancing, drinking and drugs eventually helps them forget, go on and erase the pain of self denial.

I have tried to portray the “big picture”. What I have found to be the fundamental keys to what ails our world. Are we truly “free”? What is freedom anyway? We know it’s definitely not Communism, Socialism, Dictatorship, Fascism, etc. Democracy is proving itself to have been completely corrupted from within for today it is basically just a placard on the wall while wanton capitalism is the life blood that literally runs and rules our once great nation. By the way, our country was not originally set up as a Democracy. It was a Republic, I don't know what happened to our Republic, but it was transformed somewhere along the way into what we are still lead to believe is a Democracy. Which so far, is the closest thing we have to a free society.

There are unseen forces of Zion/Mason hiding in the facade of our once great “Democracy” that are actively utilizing as their platform/cover and simultaneously working to undermine/destroy (complicit parties knowingly or not) our great societies. Open your eyes and ears. Dare to question all, analyze and see what is really happening around you. Don't be fooled any longer by those highly educated, endorsed, validated and ACCREDITED status quo leaders, the so called “experts” and talking heads on your TV screen, reading their SCRIPTS, feeding you their dose of what THEY (their ruling elite masters) want you to believe and how they want you to think, forming and shaping your opinions, viewpoints and ideologies. There is just one tool you will need to use to see through the smoke and mirrors, it is called: knowing the ABSOLUTE CAUSAL CORE TRUTH along with common sense, simple logic and learning to use your independent critical thinking abilities. Use your powers of rationalization, critical thinking along with good ole common sense and QUESTION EVERYTHING and everyone. Go forth and connect the dots. Study all the (seemingly ramdon, non related) pieces of the puzzles and put the pieces together... for once you put enough pieces of the grand puzzle together the BIG PICTURE will begin to emerge.

No matter what. The purpose of this report is to expose the corruption and crimes of the Luciferian agents disguised in Armani and Brooks Brothers suits who run The Matrix (the Luciferian consortium/syndicate/cartel) here on earth. Our goal is to blow wide open every aspect of The Matrix. So that hopefully some day, this nation and the world can get back to its original divine inspired roots and begin to earnestly build a truly great society that can become the beacon of light for the rest of the world to follow. I only hope and pray that it's not too late. And if it is too late, at least you will understand the entire scope of WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE, WHY and HOW it transpired while you and this world has been asleep and being flushed down the abyss.

THE ULTIMATE COSA NOSTRA

The “RULING ELITE” REVEALED:
ENTER THE LEARNED ELDERS OF ZION

aka:

THE HIDDEN MASTERS & THE INVISIBLE HAND

*“There is something behind the throne greater than the king himself.” – Sir William Pitt, House of Lords

“The world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes.” – Benjamin Disraeli, English Statesman 1844

“The real truth of the matter is that a financial element in the large centers has OWNED the government since the days of Andrew Jackson.” – Franklin D. Roosevelt, U.S. President 1933

“Governments do not govern, but merely control the machinery of government, being themselves controlled by the hidden hand.” - Benjamin Disraeli

“Every time we do something you tell me America will do this and will do that... I want to tell you something very clear: Don’t worry about American pressure on Israel. We the Jewish people, control America, and the Americans know it.”- Israel Prime Minister Ariel Sharon

It is extremely difficult to accurately document and trace every secretive organization and the relationships they have with one another, their subsidiaries and their overall total influence and impact on events, because, first of all they operate behind closed doors, obscured from public analyzation, working in secrecy. The higher up the food chain your search leads you, the less information is available, the more facts become twisted with fiction, disinformation and omission. The ties become more muddled in the secrecy. With so many seemingly different entities all suspect to the “illuminati” cartel of leaders of leaders, it has been a bewildering research to say the least. The scope of their reach is international. They dwell and operate in all nations and their shadow governing network has been around long before any of us were born. Thankfully, mankind has this problem with keeping their mouths shut. Some boast out of arrogance secure in their perceived invincibility. Some people eventually see the errors of what they are involved in, those very few brave ones come forward to tell the world what they know, thus revealing important keys to the ruling elite puzzle. Most information rises to the light of day from the hard work of inquisitive researchers from all around the world with the help of the internet, the truth has been hemorrhaging everywhere.

It is truly sad that our world is full of so many lies, deceit, misinformation, so much so that it truly boggles the mind. A recent Forbes article, (yes, Forbes one of the most respected news institutions on the planet), on “The World’s Most Powerful People” just came out, I read the article in complete disbelief for upon inspecting their list of “the world’s most powerful people” I was not surprised to NOT see on single true ruling elite on this list. Yes there was a list of 67 people, but they were all loyal lieutenants of the Learned Elders matrix. Not one single true powerhouse hidden ruling elite was listed. This is a perfect illustration of the state of disinformation, in-accuracy and truthfulness in modern news.

The truly sad truth is that more often than not, one must take just about anything you read, see, and hear from the main stream media outlets with a grain of salt and treated as hearsay, hype, propaganda, even misdirection and disinformation until the message is cross referenced and verified. So just who are the true Learned Elders ruling elite anyway? It is my goal to lay it all out for you in plain English, keep reading with an objective mind and by the end of this chapter your eyes shall begin to open...

These are the five tricks through which man has been turned into a slave, into an ugly phenomenon, a cripple.

The first is:

Keep man as weak as possible if you want to dominate him. If the priest wants to dominate you or the politician wants to dominate you, you have to be kept as weak as possible. And the best way to keep a man weak is not to give love total freedom. Love is nourishment..."

"...Second:

Keep man as ignorant and deluded as possible so that he can easily be deceived..."

"...The third secret:

Keep man as frightened as possible. And the sure way is not to allow him love, because love destroys fear-- 'love casteth out fear.' When you are not in love you become more interested in security, in safety. When you are in love you are more interested in adventure, in exploration...."

"...The Fourth:

Keep man as miserable as possible--because a miserable man is confused, a miserable man has no self-worth, a miserable man is self-condemnatory, a miserable man feels that he must have done something wrong. A miserable man has no grounding--you can push him from here and there, he can be turned into driftwood very easily. And a miserable man is always ready to be commanded, to be ordered, to be disciplined, because he knows 'On my own I am simply miserable. Maybe somebody else can discipline my life.' He is a ready victim."

"And the fifth:

Keep men as alienated from each other as possible, so that they cannot band together for some purpose of which the priest and the politician may not approve. Keep people separate from each other. Don't allow them too much intimacy. When people are separate, lonely, alienated from each other, they cannot band together. And there are a thousand and one tricks to keep them apart. – Quoted from “Lucifer”...

Vanity Fair ran an article titled: "The Vanity Fair 100," now this list was very interesting and revealing for it's a list of "the 100 Information Age Powers," What makes this list so extraordinary is that the list coming from a mainstream media company indirectly reveals the fact that: close to ninety percent of the most powerful on their list are Jewish.

The Israeli Jerusalem Post response to the article:

"It's a list of "the world's most powerful people," 100 of the bankers and media moguls, publishers and image makers who shape the lives of billions. It's an exclusive, insular club, one whose influence stretches around the globe but is concentrated strategically in the highest corridors of power. More than half [yes a lot more than half!] its members, at least by one count, are Jewish.

It's a list, in other words, that would have made earlier generations of Jews jump out of their skins, calling attention, as it does, to their disproportionate influence in finance and the media. Making matters worse, in the eyes of many, would no doubt be the identity of the group behind the list - not a pack of fringe anti-Semites but one of the most mainstream, glamorous publications on the newsstands."

How much power does Israel have over us? - Video

"You know very well, and the stupid Americans know equally well, that we control their government, irrespective of who sits in the White House. You see, I know it and you know it that no American president can be in a position to challenge us even if we do the unthinkable. What can they (Americans) do to us? We control congress, we control the media, we control show biz, and we control everything in America. In America you can criticize God, but you can't criticize Israel..." Israeli spokeswoman, Tzipora Menache

Through the laborious process of "connecting the dots" as in CONNECTING THE FACTS/TRUTHS, I believe we have beyond any shadow of a doubt figured out and pieced together the ruling elite jigsaw puzzle and in the process revealed the people whom comprise "the capstone" of the pyramid. The absolute apex of the ruling empires.

Some researchers identify the ultimate rulers as single entities that constitute the Illuminati. Some claim that they are the Jesuits in connection with the Black Pope and the Vatican, some say it's the Freemasons, some tell you it's the British Royalty or even aliens from out of space (I won't even bother going down that avenue, for it is virtually impossible to substantiate), some would tell you that they are individual families such as the Rockefellers, Rothschilds, Warburgs, Shiffs as well as many others , a few brave souls dare reveal it's in fact the Zionists whom have been forever working in the shadows ingeniously coordinating all the above.

All of these leads are in fact true (umm, except for the aliens, that topic is too inundated in comics to even touch it with a ten foot pole). Sifting through tons of material and multiple avenues, following thousands of clues, each researcher takes you on a journey explaining how "this or that group" is the one pulling all the strings leading to complete global domination. Many have added crucial information into the reference collection allowing us to more readily study their works and more easily see the truth. Then there are the hundreds upon hundreds of misinformation agents whose sole mission is to confuse, bamboozle, perplex, pervert and hide the truth, sending those whom seek the truth down wrong paths.

One thing is absolutely undeniable. Throughout the centuries there have existed different entities hell bent on getting themselves, their groups, people, race, society, nation to the top of the ruling elite. Overwhelming evidence shows that the ultimate goal has always been the same: absolute power, total domination. This common goal never changes, no matter who the ruling elite of any given age has been. For you must understand there is a realm beyond what we can see with our eyes that has existed for eons. At the very core of this paradigm is the religious matrix paradox. Therefore to ignore this most central factor is to be lead way off course in identifying what is truly happening around the world.

The ultimate absolute central world reality is the age old struggle of good vs. evil: God vs. Satan. This battle has been constantly played out on the personal, family, society, regional, national and world stages throughout all of history. Several centuries ago the Vatican (Catholic Church) ruled most of the world. At one point England was the center of the universe. Royal families and emperors came and went. There was even a time when the known world was ruled by Viking Empire, the Mongol empire, and so forth. Today the “center of the universe” so to speak has been located in the United States Inc, the real Zionist emperors of the current universe have studied history well and have learned to rule by proxy, thus making it extremely difficult for anyone to identify, let alone try and de-throne them.

So what, do you think? God and Satan stopped their battles after the bible was written? And we have since then been living in some sort of twilight zone? What we have witnessed on a world level is a history and reality of the peoples who party hardy, live life as they wish oblivious to the most important central elements of existence. What have God & Satan been up to since that last famous book was written? I am here to give you the Rosetta stone. All of known history has been a biblical battle being conducted right before everyone’s eyes, yet very few people even realize that it’s happening all around them. Hence the biblical saying “thou you have eyes you are blind.”

The people and nations, the "players" always change but the story is always the same: the elite, rulers running the show, knowingly or unknowingly channeling the wishes of their master, Lucifer. Bent on world conquest, trying their best to subjugate, conquer and control everything and everyone (while the meek and humble honest citizens eat shit, suffer and die), they prey on the poor, evil rulers fighting amongst themselves for more, more, more in an insatiable lust for power and control. Conquer or be conquered. Divide or be divided. The principal national empire that is currently being used by the Learned Elders ruling elite at this point in time might be the good ole U.S. of A. Inc, but let it be known that it is ruled in proxy by outsiders...

Jesus once said "you are ALL of your father the devil"... wow... harsh and shocking words. This sentence bugged me for years. He has repeatedly indicated that this world is run by the devil. This is not only true, it is easily explained. Quite simply this has been accomplished by infiltrating the minds and thoughts of leaders. Just as Satan tempted Jesus on the mount and offered him everything he could see, so it has been with ALL of the filthy rich and world leaders, weather they realized it or not, they all at one point or another faced a similar temptation situation where they were faced with and made a conscience decision to proceed on that path of temptation, their lust for wealth, power, fame having by default determined their affiliation. From that point forward, their actions where indirectly being coordinated and controlled by a greater common force. They CHANNEL the wishes of "their father" the devil in quest to achieve their dreams, their actions, whether they willing know of it or not are thus elementally those “of their father.” Hence the reappearing reasoning amongst researchers coming up with the conclusion that there exists some ultra secret group coordinating the elites of the world towards world domination. The devil constantly tries to oppress man, he wants to make mankind suffer and his ultimate goal is total enslavement of mankind.

Behold: for is it no wonder that this is also the exact same modus operandi of the New World Order elite, for they fulfill the desires of the one they worship...

The assumption that there has always existed some sort of ultra powerful secret cartel that has existed for thousands of years might be a far off fantasy. Though this is true in many ways (the Jewish people have been pursuing their “promised lands” and world rule that was promised them for centuries). But for, let’s say a physical entity such as Council on Foreign Relations, Bildebergers, Trilateral Commission, Club of Rome, U.N. or whoever to coordinate worldwide domination in all areas such as medicine, military, media, finance, etc throughout all of history is highly unlikely due to the fact that they just appeared on the world stage within our lifetime. But then again they sure do work very hard to accomplish just that!

In actuality these organizations and many others are mere INSTRUMENTS of the zenith Learned Elders ruling elite (whom comprise the peak of the pyramid) for gathering world power players under manageable umbrellas, based on common grounds of their elite leadership status. From here the true elite rulers go forth coordinating, orchestrating and strategically guiding the energies and actions of the members of the organizations to fulfill the hidden agendas of the TRUE Learned Elders. And there IS one single supreme master ruling elite in charge of all ruling elite...

I hereby proclaim that the MASTERMIND orchestrating all the separate sectors of the ruling elite Matrix is none other than Lucifer, the devil himself. Lucifer is their ultimate leader who sits at the top of the pyramid guiding their actions, he is an immortal entity, an ex-arch angel of light that lives beyond the generations of man, thus we witness the uncanny continuity of the ruling elite agendas that spans thousands of years.

The devotees closest to his essence, are the ones who have become his perfect subjects such as occultist ritual practicing Zionists, skull & bones, Masons and others who perform direct occult worship to him (whether or not they actually realize it or not that it is actually HIM, Lucifer the devil who they are worshipping). These people become ideal vessels for his spirit to thrive in, ideal channelers for his will to be carried out here on earth in real physical form. Every one of them sold their souls and do so every day in the process of achieving their quest for attaining riches, power and fame. It is written that money is the root of all evil, yet it goes in one ear and out the other. The interesting phenomena are that very few of the people whom have sold their souls for riches, fame, sex and power DON'T EVEN KNOW IT. They live what externally seem to be ordinary lives, some even visit buildings called synagogues and churches, everything on the outside seems and looks just hunky dory, life is good.

Not all the elite leaders from around the world are sinister evil psychotic people who sit in a dungeon when away from the public spotlight, looking for ways to plunge the planet into complete darkness. Some if not most, actually believe that they are righteous in their own minds. Therefore it is very important to understand that most people have no clue what spirits they are hosts to and are channeling in their daily lives. One common denominator among the ruling elite is that they have COMMON GOALS (for instance, one of their common goals is "Globalization," translated into layman's terms: New World Order). Goals are basically the same as "the end results." Thus in their world "THE ENDS JUSTIFY THE MEANS."

This saying is the KEY and right on target when trying to understand the logic and rational behind the Learned Elders ruling elite mentality. Most if not all their strategic decisions are based on achieving their ultimate goals. Even knowing that their actions, policies and so forth, cause so much pain and suffering on the sheeple, this changes nothing in their hearts and minds, because "they know" the ends justify the means. What higher justification than to believe that your mission in life is to fulfill the biblical prophesies of the ages and establish a world government, as has been promised to your people in the Holy Scriptures by none other than GOD!

Behold: for now you can understand how the elite can easily blow off the masses and justify countless atrocities, all in the name of believing to do the will of their god... that and a firm belief that the ends justify the means.

HOW TO CONTROL PEOPLE

by Charley Reese

The difference between true education and vocational training has been cleverly blurred. Here are a few tips on how smart people can control other people. If any of this rings a bell - Well, then wake up!

The first principle of people control is not to let them know you are controlling them. If people knew, this knowledge will breed resentment and possibly rebellion, which would then require brute force and terror, and old fashioned, expensive and not 100 % certain method of control.

It is easier than you think to control people indirectly, to manipulate them into thinking what you want them to think and doing what you want them to do.

One basic technique is to keep them ignorant. Educated people are not as easy to manipulate. Abolishing public education or restricting access to education would be the direct approach. That would spill the beans. The indirect approach is to control the education they receive. [and make it extremely expensive to go to a good college, thus eliminating the millions of poor working class herds]

It's possible to be a Ph.D., doctor, lawyer, businessman, journalist, or an accountant, just to name a few examples, and at the same time be an uneducated person. The difference between true education and vocational training has been cleverly blurred in our time so that we have people successfully practicing their vocations while at the same time being totally ignorant of the larger issues of the world in which they live.

The most obvious symptom is their absence of original thought. Ask them a question and they will end up reciting what someone else thinks or (what they were taught) thought the answer was. What do they think? Well, they never thought about it. Their education consisted of learning how to use the library and cite sources.

That greatly simplifies things for the controller because with lots of money, university endowments, foundations, grants, and ownership of media, it is relatively easy to control who they will think of as authorities to cite in lieu of doing their own thinking.

Another technique is to keep them entertained. Roman emperors did not stage circuses and gladiator contests because they didn't have television. We have television because we don't have circuses and gladiator events. Either way, the purpose is to keep the people's minds focused on entertainment, sports, and peripheral political issues. This way you won't have to worry that they will ever figure out the real issues that allow you to control them.

Just as a truly educated person is difficult to control, so too is an economically independent person. Therefore, you want to create conditions that will produce people who work for wages, since wage earners have little control over their economic destiny. You'll also want to control the monetary, credit, and banking systems. This will allow you to inflate the currency and make it next to impossible for wage earners to accumulate capital. You can also cause periodic deflation to collapse the family businesses, family farms, and entrepreneurs, including independent community banks.

To keep trade unions under control, you just promote a scheme that allows you to shift production jobs out of the country and bring back the products as imports (it is called free trade). This way you will end up with no unions or docile unions.

Another technique is to buy both political parties so that after a while people will feel that no matter whether they vote for Candidate A or Candidate B, they will get the same policies. This will create great apathy and a belief that the political process is useless for effecting real change.

Pretty soon you will have a population that feels completely helpless, and thinks the bad things happening to them are nobody in particular's fault, just a result of global forces or evolution or some other disembodied abstract concept. If necessary, you can offer scapegoats.

Then you can bleed them dry without having to worry overly much that one of them will sneak into your house one night and cut your throat. If you do it right, they won't even know whose throat they are cutting.

Due to the nature of the evidence, facts and truths we will be revealing in this matrix report, it was very important that we establish and reveal the TRUE nature and background of the alleged "Jewish" people that make up the vast majority of the Zionist faction. For as you will see, a vast majority of the key players, the movers and shakers, the Learned Elders "ruling elite" surnames are "Jewish." Those who pay attention cannot go a single day without noticing the Jewish surnames involved in every important and/or impactful activity and aspect of society. Their names appear everywhere, producers of movies, TV, radio, finance, media, law, politics, business... everywhere, as the dominant movers and shakers.

As much as I hate to believe that there is in fact one family that stands out as the one most powerful the world over, I have no choice but to admit that yes, one family does exist in several generations that has wielded immeasurable, enormous, absolute wealth and power. That family is none other than the Rothschilds. No research into the “illuminati” and ruling elite is complete, no matter what direction you investigate from, without all roads leading to or passing by the House of Rothschild. But remember, the Rothschilds are just ONE of the “13 ruling bloodlines” families.

I really don't want to rehash the same ole, same ole research others have revealed definitive proof of, over and over again. So let me just sum up a couple key observations. First of all, it seems that the Rothschilds are THE “godfather” Zionist Jew power family of the Learned Elders. They consolidated into a world level powerhouse beginning from the time of Napoleon's wars. Five brothers eventually built THE most powerful banks in their respective countries: England, France, Germany, Italy and Austria (the real beginning of the European Union and the Euro). By 1815 they took over the central Bank of England. They merged and or founded central banks throughout Europe. Since then, they have amassed insane fortunes literally in the trillions of dollars, of course no one has been able to quantify for no one has the authority to audit them. These central banks have also been central to the creation of the European Union.

The Rothschild families are the head of the Zionist cartel that literally owns/controls most if not all the central banks in the world. After conquering the European financial world, the Rothschild's focused their attention to America, after several tries, with the help of their American representatives, their lieutenants: J.P. Morgan, Warburg, Schiff and Rockefellers, they finally established a Rothschild Cartel controlled central bank commonly referred to as the Federal Reserve Bank of America. Oh by the way, J.P. Morgan was truly just a Rothschild surrogate, when he died they found out that he only owned a small portion of his empire, I believe it was something like just 16%, not only that, upon his death his estate was valued at just around $60-80 million, guess who really owned his empire. The Rothschild's were also the main financial backers and the power behind the power of the Rockefeller, Harriman and Carnegie empires. Since their golden days in the 1800s the Rothschild's have shunned the limelight and become masters of operating their empire in total secrecy through and behind a wide variety of FRONTS. Legal, well known corporations, organizations, institutions, banks and so forth, yes, “fronts” for all intents and purposes for they are mere instruments of these rulers.

Rothschild control over banking world is varied and wide spread, besides owning their private Rothschild brand mega banks in several countries they also run many other banks through their family members. For instance Barclays (the fourth largest bank in the world) Chairman is Marcus Agius who has a close involvement with the Rothschild family estate, married daughter of Edmund de Rothschild, he is therefore, in the eyes of Zionist Jews an official Rothschild.

Early in the 19th century the Pope came to the Rothschilds to borrow money. Just as every sovereignty that allowed these private bankers to manage their capital eventually found out, they awaken one day to find out they are no longer in control of their own universe. The Rothschilds took control of the Vatican/Catholic Church worldwide financial operations in 1823. The Jewish Encyclopedia Vol. 2, p.497 states: “It is a somewhat curious sequel to the attempt to set up a Catholic competitor to the Rothschilds that at the present time (1905) the latter are the guardians of the papal treasure.” The bankers by default become the “masters” of the masters.

If the Pope wants to go out and buy a gallon of milk, he must first check to see if he can by his master who controls his pocket book. Get it? I know this analogy is overly simplified. So if the master in charge feels like it, he can say “no, forget it, you are punished because you didn't do your assigned chores.” Thus the true master behind the master can pull the strings in whatever direction he so wishes. And as many nations have found out, the moment you even think of trying to break that subservient debtor relationship with your ruling financial masters, financial turmoil and even ruin awaits your entire nation right around the corner, and if the breakup is severe enough, the master will make sure that nation WILL get invaded by another nation for one reason or another... that's how the shake down works on the world level. That is the true hidden hand sheer POWER of the financial rulers.

Each country, one by one fell to the allure of the financial titans, only to later become enslaved by DEBT just as individuals who are in hock up to their eyeballs to the loan shark banks. In some circles it's called “they got ya by the balls.” This is nothing new either for even the Bible that was written thousands of years ago warned: “The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender.” Proverbs 22:7 Behold: For when I state that you are all enslaved by the banksters, I literally mean it.

While on the topic of loan sharks, I remember the time when it used to be ILLEGAL to charge obscene “loan shark” interest rates of 20% - 30% or more. Leave it to the ever creative and ingenious banksters shylocks to weasel their way around, legitimize loan sharking rates and put the illegal black market loan sharks OUT OF BUSINESS! Today no one so much as bats an eye lid at “normal” 29% credit card interest rates. Now that is unadulterated bad ass gangsterism in action! That’s why we refer to them as the “banksters.” Hollywood mobsters can’t touch the bad assness of the financial world’s cold calculating gangsters, the all powerful banksters. For these gangsters don’t need getaway cars when they rob you or a bank, THEY OWN THEM and just (figuratively) slap you upside your face and boldly take the money out of your pocket! You even allow them to hold all your money, pay them fees and then let them LEND YOUR MONEY BACK TO YOU AT INTEREST! You bow in deep respect as you regularly write them checks. Now THAT is bad ass banksterism “gansta” style.

With that very rudimentary summary of the Rothschild lead banking empire laid out. One must fully understand that the “illuminati Learned Elders elite” consists of several grand master families. I believe the number is 13, of satanic ruling “bloodlines.” Of whom they attribute themselves to be of the “lost tribes of Israel.” Fritz Springmeir’s research lead to his publication of “13 Bloodlines of the Illuminati.”(At the moment of this writing I haven’t yet researched those claims for the accuracy of each of the families, to verify will easily take months on end) What is important here is the fact that the ruling families as in the ruling empires are the ones that coordinate activities and agendas in their part of the globe, and yes they work in perfect unity with one another through their stealth NETWORKS, behind the scenes coordinating massive logistics of leading world affairs and business in line with their wishes.

There is one very famous ruling family that has been at the pinnacle of American affairs but few people ever understood their true origins and connections. The Rothschild’s counterpart here in America has been the Rockefellers. This family has operated almost in mirror image to the Rothschild’s in almost every monopolistic fashion right down to the five brothers who would rule the empire. Even to this day they profess to being just ordinary run of the mill millionaires while they still manage the most powerful fortune on this side of the Atlantic. Yes Forbes and auditors will tell you that the Rockefeller fortune has “dissipated,” sure it did, with an estimated net worth of $318 billion back in the 1930s (note that even for today’s billionaires this figure is astronomical and unheard of), instead of increasing and growing, it “dissipated.” Yeah right. (BTW, can you even fathom the family fortune of the Rothschild’s who were light years and billions of dollars ahead of the Rockefellers?)

The Rockefeller fortune WENT UNDERGROUND... it was strategically disseminated into a countless secret trusts, “philanthropies” and foundations where only they know what is where, many of those funds are today being managed by Zionist money managers. The fact is even to this day they own over 100 mansions, some of which are grand palaces that kings would envy. It has also been documented that they have somewhere around 2,500 ~~servants~~ employees just taking care of properties and personal needs. Oh, nothing to see here folks, we are just run of the mill golly gee whiz average rich people who don’t even make it on Forbes wealthiest list anymore. But that is not the point I want to focus upon here. Hundreds of books have been written about the House of Rotheefeller so I won’t even bother rehashing what can be easily found by those who seek to find. I am just here to rip apart decades of smoke and mirrors, lies and deceit. I only care about the truth. By the way, did you know that there was a crucial secret missing link about their family?:

THE ROCKEFELLER FAMILY: The Rothafellers...

SECRET CRYPTO JEWS!

A book overlooked by most people and published for sale mainly within the Jewish community states that the Rockefellers are Jews of Sephardic descent (meaning Spanish and Portuguese Jews). The book is entitled "The Grandees - America's Sephardic Elite." The author is Stephen Birmingham, who is recognized by the Jewish community as an expert on Jewish history.

The publisher of "The Grandees" is the Jewish owned publishing firm of "Harper and Row" of New York City. Mr. Birmingham also wrote the book "Our Crowd" about the family background of America's wealthiest and most successful Jews. Both books have been hailed by Jewish publications as first class works in the documentation of Jewish history.

In "The Grandees" Stephen Birmingham reveals the existence of a very rare book which was published only for Jews some years ago. The work was published only for Jews some years ago. The work was compiled by the Jewish historian Malcolm H. Stern and entitled "Americans of Jewish Decent." That book weighed 10 pounds and gave the history of 25,000 Jewish individuals in America. It is extremely interesting to note that only 550 copies of the book were printed and each copy was consecutively numbered. The book was delivered to the top Jewish community leaders in America for their personal reference files in dealing with and contacting Jews who are "Marranos" (those Jews who "PRETEND" to be Christians in their community but secretly hold to their Jewish faith and race when among their own kind).

Mr. Birmingham in "The Grandees" reports: "Who would expect to find the Rockefellers in the book." Stern's work traces what he calls the "Nobility of Jewry - the Sephardim who lived in Spain and Portugal as princes of the land." Many centuries ago the Jews flooded into Spain in great numbers and through usury and stealth became vast land owners. The Jews controlled both Spain and Portugal through their monopoly over the finances of the country.

It was in 1492 that King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain expelled the Jews from their country and confiscated their ill-gotten wealth. It was during this period that the Rockefeller family moved to the Turkish Empire which welcomed the Jews at that time, believing them to be a "poor persecuted people."

The grandfather of our former Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller, admitted that his family once moved from Turkey to France. It was from France that they moved to America. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was a wealthy man even before he took over Standard Oil Co., which made their family one of the richest in the world. No one has ever explained how this family came into such wealth as soon as they arrived in America from France.

There is no known information on how the Rockefellers came into huge amounts of money in France. Some claim they got their money from the Rothschilds and were originally their agents in buying up Christian businesses in America. "Marranos" are Jews who "PRETEND" to convert to Christianity so as to deceive Christians in their business dealings, but secretly continued to practice Judaism in private rituals. For this reason, a Marrano family like the Rockefellers would make the perfect tool for the Rothschilds of France who have for centuries used secret agents to carry on their work.

"The Thunderbolt" was the first publication to bring Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller's Jewish ancestry to public attention. This information finally explains why he has always been able to work so closely with Jewish interests and why his administration as governor of New York was loaded down with Jews from top to bottom. His political campaigns of the past were always directed by Jews and he was always the support of the Jewish community in all of his political races.

Normally the Jews would not support a Christian multi-millionaire for political office because they would be afraid they could not control him after the election. The fact that Jewish community leaders have long known that the Rockefellers were fellow Jews goes a long way in explaining why the organized Jewish community has always supported the Rockefeller's political ambitions. Now we can see why Nelson and David Rockefeller boosted his fellow Jew Henry Kissinger into the Nixon administration and Kissinger in turn has used his position to bring his fellow Jew Rockefeller into power. You must also understand that the ruling elite operate out of THREE main power centers on earth. Each of these function as their own sovereignty within a host nation. These three sovereign nations within nations together invisibly rule over the lands as a TRINITY matrix. Each of these sovereign nations within nations has a hidden purpose. They were all carefully planned, built and enclosed within a giant RING. Quickly look at Google maps to see for yourself. You will also find massive Egyptian Obelisk at the center of each one of these sovereign city states. Each of these sovereignities has a purpose and mission of organization, control and providing world leadership within their respective realms in the grand scheme of things:

In Europe that sovereign nation within the nation is the City of London, often billed as “the wealthiest square mile on the planet.” I won’t even try to explain the convoluted details, but City of London is a private corporation and its own sovereignty within the country of England. The undisputed ruling entity in the City of London is none other than the House of Rothschild, who each year since 1820 has personally appointed the Lord Mayor of the city. The City of London is actually the central headquarters of the world elite, so please note the fact that it’s not in America as some people believe. Get this, even the Queen of England has no jurisdiction there, she BOWS in the presence of the bankster Learned Elders ruling elite. But even though the City of London is its own sovereignty, England’s entire military and infrastructure are at its service. Go figure just HOW they manage to make all kinds of deals like that. The power of the “Crown” lays solely within the sovereign city/state of London and not the royal family as is commonly taught to the ordinary peasants. London is the financial headquarters of the Matrix from which they lead from.

The second sovereignty is the State of the Vatican City. The Latin word “Vatican” means “divining serpent” (see Papal Crest Dragon): “The word ‘Vatican’ literally means ‘Divining Serpent,’ and is derived from Vatis=Diviner and Can=Serpent. Vatican City and St. Peter’s Basilica were built on the ancient pagan site called in Latin vaticanus mons or vaticanus collis, which means hill or mountain of prophecy. There exists tons of information about this sovereign state, and it is all hidden in out in the open, plain sight. No one disputes the fact that it is its own sovereignty. What is not well known is that the Vatican lost ruling control after the Rothschild coup of taking control of their banking and soon after that the Vatican was invaded and the Pope jailed for several years until they accepted the rule of their new masters. Crypto Zionist Jews labored for years on end infiltrating the diocese, mainly through the Jesuit order they established. They also keep the Vatican under control with extortion and blackmail. Today the Vatican wields ZERO real world powers, for over the centuries they have foolishly discarded any type of holiness they might have had through colossal corruption and decay. The Zionists use the Vatican as an extended base to control the masses via their religion. The Catholic Church was often purposely publically humiliated and powerless in retribution for all the atrocities that the conducted on the Jewish people over the centuries. It was payback time and the Jews conquered their captors. The Vatican is used as the religion headquarters of the Matrix from which they lead from.

The third sovereignty is even harder to swallow: Washington DC, the District of Columbia is another private corporation, its own sovereignty. (Let’s see if I can get this right, don’t feel like digging through tons of paper at the moment) Incorporated as UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, whereas the country of America is called the United States of America. Whatever the case may be, the point is that when you dig deep enough and research this topic you will find that yes Washington DC is not only its own sovereignty, it took control of the rest of the country while it was at it. In the very same nature the way the City of London operates, so it is with the District of Columbia. Washington DC is the military headquarters of the Matrix from which they lead from.

The key here is THE LAW. If you don’t have an advanced Ph.D. in Civil Law, Uniform Commercial Code and Admiralty Law, you would never understand diddly. Most laws of the land are based on ancient Roman Empire’s Gregorian Codex – a collection of constitutions upon which a substantial part of most modern European (and U.S.) civil law systems are built. To sum it up though, the LAWYERS are the snakes that created this beast that has taken over the original being that used to exist. Everything is hidden under legalese. Is it no wonder that the one most important prerequisite to obtaining public office is a LAW DEGREE? The devil is in the details, literally. Oh, and what entity took full control in designing and building the District of Columbia? The Freemasons. The Masonic order, whose highest level members practices the occult Jewish Kabbalah. So Washington DC was a product of the Masons who are ultimately controlled by the Zionists.

There you have it; these are the “unholy trinity”, the three power centers of the world elite. (I’m not sure, I have yet to check this lead, but I believe that if there is also an Asian power center in the making or already online) It is from these power centers that they run their new world order show.

After studying the research of truth scholars in this area, the research often lead to not one, but THREE ultimate ruling factions: The Zionists/Mason vs. Vatican/Jesuit vs. Royalty/Nobility. After several years of digging, I have concluded beyond a shadow of a doubt that today, only one is the true master and all others are subservient.

"...the world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes..." -Benjamin "The Marrano" Disraeli to the British House of Commons, 1852

1. Zionists & their No.1 main subsidiary, the Masonic Order:

Whose motto is "Order Out of Chaos" (stop and truly digest the depth and breadth of that motto. In real world use it is applied as: purposely engineered perpetual states of premeditated, controlled chaos for the purpose of coming forth with readily widely accepted solutions they then offer. This tactic is often referred to as the problem - reaction - solution stratagem):

"The Enemies of Order Strategy: "Managed Conflict": And how does this Freemasonic sect push forward their pre-planned New World Order agenda ... how does it work? By using "managed conflict" or "crisis management" a crisis or problem is produced. Then, the crisis is "managed" and the problem is "solved" with an outcome that is invariably favorable to the goals and agendas of the Judeo-Masonic Global Power Elite." [Hence the term Problem – Reaction – Solution paradigm]

First I would like to point out that all Jews are NOT Zionists. As a matter of fact many traditional Jews have deep seated hatred for the Zionist faction. There exists a massive Jewish movement against the Zionist cartel. Zionists are a cartel of wealthy elite powerful people and non Jewish lineage who believe that they are the "chosen nation" of God to rule the earth and have been working throughout centuries to accomplish their "God given mandate". In their quest to attain this elusive goal they even martyr their own, setting up and blaming the slaughters on others in order to gain ever more sympathy and cart Blanche never questioning circumvention of scrutiny, analysis, critique and investigation over their activities.

The Zionists are the single entity responsible for getting the United Nations to approve the setup the illegal Zionist state of Israel (an important phase in the master plan). The Zionist faction has held massive power for eons due to its amazing talents in the field of dominating and manipulating MONEY, finance, capital, investments. Hence the age old truism: The "Golden Rule" He who has all the gold makes all the rules. He who controls the money ultimately controls the rules and calls the shots. Behold for: At the head of virtually EVERY single major bank and or financial institution is a Zionist Jew owning, controlling and or running the show from the background. Go ahead call me silly names and scream: anti-Semite self hating Jew! Heap tons of curses on me and ridicule me because there exists NO BETTER REPRISAL. No one can sanely refute this TRUTH.

Do your own homework, use Google and Wikipedia, search the names of the people who founded and or running all the major finance organizations yourself. Et al, De Beers who have monopoly controlled the diamond & precious metals markets like an iron fist= Jews. Federal Reserve chairmen and directors? All= Jews. IMF= Jews, World Bank= Jews, Bank of International Settlements= Jews, half of the top Wallstreet investment houses= Jews, etc., etc., etc. While you are at it, Google and Wikipedia the names of many key members running our country, intelligence and military... you will be surprised! The list is just mind boggling and undeniable. From the days of the Rothschilds, the Zionist Jews have developed an undisputed iron fist control over the world's monetary system and all media. Lastly but not least, I would like to add the fact that: Any so called researcher that fails to acknowledge that the Zionist faction is THE (or at least central complicit) single most ruling entity of elite secretive powers is either a SHILL, a bogus plant double agent (with the mission of spreading misinformation and laying false leads) or really has no clue what the fuck he is talking about, go back to the drawing board, dig deeper and re-analyze everything. You must never forget that the Zionists have multi-billion dollar information disinformation (mass media) apparatus at work 24/7, complete with departments staffed with bury brigades and skills, who claim to be unbiased reporters, commentators, "truthers" whose main purpose is to lead people down the wrong path of information, diverging attention away from the involvement and complicity of their Zionist masters.

The most inner core secret of the "illuminati" (or whatever you wish to call the "ruling elite" entities, the Zionists, top level Masons, Jesuits, Skull & Bones level fraternities, Bohemian Grove, related secret societies, etc., etc. who are ALL part of the “illuminati” system), is the integral, all pervasive common denominator of practicing the occult arts, from “benign” New Ageism to Theosophy to the Kabbalah all the way to direct Luciferian worship. You cannot just blow off the importance of this integral aspect inner secret workings of these people, for this reveals their true nature. For in their becoming “one” with their master by worshiping him and offering up sacrifices and all sorts of other rituals they become perfect channelers of those spirits they worship. They become perfect vessels for the evil spirits to dwell among them and act their wishes through them.

Suffice to summarize that these people (as with all other evil ruling elite in the history of mankind) directly or indirectly worship their lord and master, their god LUCIFER in one form or another, and his spirit dwells with them and collectively guides their actions, thereby establishing an incredible unity and oneness of their deeds with the will of Lucifer, his plans and wishes. We therefore witness the worldwide cohesive results of said union in action throughout the world as we look around and witness wide spread yet unperceived oppression, enslavement, the sheer devastation and destruction trail they leave where ever they “conduct business”, we see it in all forms of division, corporate greed, hate, apathy, pollution, famine, moral decay, corruption, war and destruction of the planet and so forth.

"The Jewish connection with modern Freemasonry is an established fact everywhere manifested in its history. The Jewish formulas employed by Freemasonry, the Jewish traditions which run through its ceremonial, point to a Jewish origin, or to the work of Jewish contrivers. ...Who knows but behind the Atheism and desire of gain which impels them to urge on "Christians" to persecute the Church and destroy it, there lies a hidden hope to reconstruct their Temple, and in the darkest depths of secret society plotting there lurks a deeper society still which looks to a return to the land of Judah and to the rebuilding of the Temple of Jerusalem?"
-Mgr. Dillon, The War of Antichrist With The Church And Christian Civilization, 1885 A.D.

BEHOLD, For this has been THE central part of history that every history book, scholar and researcher on the planet overlooks. For there exists only one history book that delves into this realm and describes the ongoing wars for the ultimate control of man, and the title of that history book is: “The Bible” for it is the only work that delves into the root causes of todays condition. Never, ever forget these words, for it is written: “know thy enemy.” To identify and reveal the hidden enemy is half the battle. We are either part of the problem or part of the solution...

About Albert Pike

Albert Pike was born on December 29, 1809, in Boston, and was the oldest of six children born to Benjamin and Sarah Andrews Pike. He studied at Harvard, and later served as a Brigadier-General in the Confederate Army. After the Civil War, Pike was found guilty of treason and jailed, only to be pardoned by fellow Freemason President Andrew Johnson on April 22, 1866, who met with him the next day at the White House. On June 20, 1867, Scottish Rite officials conferred upon Johnson the 4th to 32nd Freemasonry degrees, and he later went to Boston to dedicate a Masonic Temple.

Pike was said to be a genius, able to read and write in 16 different languages, although I cannot find a record anywhere of what those languages were. In addition, he is widely accused of plagiarism, so take with a pinch of salt. At various stages of his life he was a poet, philosopher, frontiersman, soldier, humanitarian and philanthropist. A 33rd degree Mason, he was one of the founding fathers, and head of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, being the Grand Commander of North American Freemasonry from 1859 and retained that position until his death in 1891. In 1869, he was a top leader in the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Incidentally, Freemasonry itself is a fascinating subject and I could devote an entire website to it. Simon Gray, a Freemason, has compiled a stunning amount of information on Freemasonry that I recommend for anyone who wants to learn more about it.

Pike was said to be a Satanist, who indulged in the occult, and he apparently possessed a bracelet which he used to summon Lucifer, with whom he had constant communication. He was the Grand Master of a Luciferian group known as the Order of the Palladium (or Sovereign Council of Wisdom), which had been founded in Paris in 1737. Palladism had been brought to Greece from Egypt by Pythagoras in the fifth century, and it was this cult of Satan that was introduced to the inner circle of the Masonic lodges. It was aligned with the Palladium of the Templars. In 1801, Issac Long, a Jew, brought a statue of Baphomet (Satan) to Charleston, South Carolina, where he helped to establish the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite. Long apparently chose Charleston because it was geographically located on the 33rd parallel of latitude (incidentally, so is Baghdad), and this council is considered to be the Mother Supreme Council of all Masonic Lodges of the World.

Pike was Long's successor, and he changed the name of the Order to the New and Reformed Palladian Rite (or Reformed Palladium). The Order contained two degrees:

- Adelphe (or Brother), and
- Companion of Ulysses (or Companion of Penelope).

Pike's right-hand man was Phileas Walder, from Switzerland, who was a former Lutheran minister, a Masonic leader, occultist, and spiritualist. Pike also worked closely with Giuseppe Mazzini of Italy (1805-1872) who was a 33rd degree Mason, who became head of the Illuminati in 1834, and who founded the Mafia in 1860. Together with Mazzini, Lord Henry Palmerston of England (1784-1865, 33rd degree Mason), and Otto von Bismarck from Germany (1815-1898, 33rd degree Mason), Albert Pike intended to use the Palladian Rite to create a Satanic umbrella group that would tie all Masonic groups together.

Albert Pike died on April 2, 1891, and was buried in Oak Hill Cemetery, although the corpse of Pike currently lies in the headquarters of the Council of the 33rd degree of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in Washington, D.C. (see The Deadly Deception, by Jim Shaw - former 33rd degree Mason and Past Master of all Scottish Rite bodies.)

The Albert Pike Monument

Albert Pike made his mark before the war in Arkansas as a lawyer and writer, but as a Confederate Brigadier General, he was, according to the Arkansas Democrat of July 31, 1978, a complete "WASH-OUT," not a hero. Yet, Gen. Albert Pike is the only Confederate general with a statue on federal property in Washington, DC. He was honoured, not as a commander or even as a lawyer, but as Southern regional leader of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. The statue stands on a pedestal near the foot of Capitol Hill, between the Department of Labor building and the Municipal Building, between 3rd and 4th Streets, on D Street, NW. More background on the colorful history of the statue can be found at the Masonic Info website. During the 1992 presidential campaign, Lyndon H. LaRouche and his vice presidential running mate, the Reverend James Bevel, launched a mobilization to remove the statue of General Albert Pike from Washington, D.C.'s Judiciary Square. On February 1, the campaign drew an angry attack from freemasonic leader C. Fred Kleinknecht, who attempted to defend both Pike and the Ku Klux Klan from LaRouche and Bevel's attack. A speech by Anton Chaitkin entitled 'Why Albert Pike's Statue Must Fall' can be found here (September 21, 1992).

The Illuminati and Albert Pike

Adam Weishaupt (1748 - 1811) formed the Order of Perfectibilists on May 1, 1776 (to this day celebrated as May Day throughout many western countries), which later became known as the Illuminati, a secret society whose name means "Enlightened Ones". Although the Order was founded to provide an opportunity for the free exchange of ideas, Weishaupt's background as a Jesuit seems to have influenced the actual character of the society, such that the express aim of this Order became to abolish Christianity, and overturn all civil government.

An Italian revolutionary leader, Giuseppe Mazzini (1805-1872), a 33rd degree Mason, was selected by the Illuminati to head their worldwide operations in 1834. (Mazzini also founded the Mafia in 1860). Because of Mazzini's revolutionary activities in Europe, the Bavarian government cracked down on the Illuminati and other secret societies for allegedly plotting a massive overthrow of Europe's monarchies. As the secrets of the Illuminati were revealed, they were persecuted and eventually disbanded, only to re-establish themselves in the depths of other organizations, of which Freemasonry was one.

During his leadership, Mazzini enticed Albert Pike into the (now formally disbanded, but still operating) Illuminati. Pike was fascinated by the idea of a one world government, and when asked by Mazzini, readily agreed to write a ritual tome that guided the transition from average high-ranking mason into a top-ranking Illuminati mason (33rd degree). Since Mazzini also wanted Pike to head the Illuminati's American chapter, he clearly felt Pike was worthy of such a task. Mazzini's intention was that once a mason had made his way up the Freemason ladder and proven himself worthy, the highest ranking members would offer membership to the secret 'society within a society'.

It is for this reason that most Freemasons vehemently deny the evil intentions of their fraternity. Since the vast majority never reach the 30th degree, they would not be aware of the real purpose behind Masonry. When instructing Pike how the tome should be developed, Mazzini wrote the following to Pike in a letter dated January 22, 1870. Remember that Freemasonry wasn't started by Pike - rather it was infiltrated by the Illuminati who were looking for a respectable forum in which to hide their clandestine activities:

"We must allow all the federations to continue just as they are, with their systems, their central authorities and their diverse modes of correspondence between high grades of the same rite, organized as they are at the present, but we must create a super rite, which will remain unknown, to which we will call those Masons of high degree whom we shall select. With regard to our brothers in Masonry, these men must be pledges to the strictest secrecy. Through this supreme rite, we will govern all Freemasonry which will become the one international center, the more powerful because its direction will be unknown." ¹

In 1871, Pike published the 861 page Masonic handbook known as the Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry.

After Mazzini's death on March 11, 1872, Pike appointed Adriano Lemmi (1822-1896, 33rd degree Mason), a banker from Florence, Italy, to run their subversive activities in Europe. Lemmi was a supporter of patriot and revolutionary Giuseppe Garibaldi, and may have been active in the Luciferian Society founded by Pike. Lemmi, in turn, was succeeded by Lenin and Trotsky, then by Stalin. The revolutionary activities of all these men were financed by British, French, German, and American international bankers; all of them dominated by the House of Rothschild.

Between 1859 and 1871, Pike worked out a military blueprint for three world wars and various revolutions throughout the world which he considered would forward the conspiracy to its final stage in the 20th Century.

In addition to the Supreme Council in Charleston, South Carolina, Pike established Supreme Councils in Rome, Italy (led by Mazzini); London, England (led by Palmerston); and Berlin, Germany (led by Bismarck). He set up 23 subordinate councils in strategic places throughout the world, including five Grand Central Directories in Washington, DC (North America), Montevideo (South America), Naples (Europe), Calcutta (Asia), and Mauritius (Africa), which were used to gather information. All of these branches have been the secret headquarters for the Illuminati's activities ever since.

Albert Pike and Three World Wars

Albert Pike received a vision, which he described in a letter that he wrote to Mazzini, dated August 15, 1871. This letter graphically outlined plans for three world wars that were seen as necessary to bring about the One World Order, and we can marvel at how accurately it has predicted events that have already taken place.

Pike's Letter to Mazzini

It is a commonly believed fallacy that for a short time, the Pike letter to Mazzini was on display in the British Museum Library in London, and it was copied by William Guy Carr, former Intelligence Officer in the Royal Canadian Navy. The British Library has confirmed in writing to me that such a document has never been in their possession. Furthermore, in Carr's book, Satan, Prince of this World, Carr includes the following footnote:

"The Keeper of Manuscripts recently informed the author that this letter is NOT catalogued in the British Museum Library. It seems strange that a man of Cardinal Rodriguez's knowledge should have said that it WAS in 1925".

It appears that Carr learned about this letter from Cardinal Caro y Rodriguez of Santiago, Chile, who wrote The Mystery of Freemasonry Unveiled.

To date, no conclusive proof exists to show that this letter was ever written. Nevertheless, the letter is widely quoted and the topic of much discussion.

Following are apparently extracts of the letter, showing how Three World Wars have been planned for many generations.

"The First World War must be brought about in order to permit the Illuminati to overthrow the power of the Czars in Russia and of making that country a fortress of atheistic Communism. The divergences caused by the "agentur" (agents) of the Illuminati between the British and Germanic Empires will be used to foment this war. At the end of the war, Communism will be built and used in order to destroy the other governments and in order to weaken the religions." ²

Students of history will recognize that the political alliances of England on one side and Germany on the other, forged between 1871 and 1898 by Otto von Bismarck, co-conspirator of Albert Pike, were instrumental in bringing about the First World War.

"The Second World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences between the Fascists and the political Zionists. This war must be brought about so that Nazism is destroyed and that the political Zionism be strong enough to institute a sovereign state of Israel in Palestine. During the Second World War, International Communism must become strong enough in order to balance Christendom, which would be then restrained and held in check until the time when we would need it for the final social cataclysm." ³

After this Second World War, Communism was made strong enough to begin taking over weaker governments. In 1945, at the Potsdam Conference between Truman, Churchill, and Stalin, a large portion of Europe was simply handed over to Russia, and on the other side of the world, the aftermath of the war with Japan helped to sweep the tide of Communism into China.

(Readers who argue that the terms Nazism and Zionism were not known in 1871 should remember that the Illuminati invented both these movements. In addition, Communism as an ideology, and as a coined phrase, originates in France during the Revolution. In 1785, Restif coined the phrase four years before revolution broke out. Restif and Babeuf, in turn, were influenced by Rousseau - as was the most famous conspirator of them all, Adam Weishaupt.)

"The Third World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences caused by the "agentur" of the "Illuminati" between the political Zionists and the leaders of Islamic World. The war must be conducted in such a way that Islam (the Moslem Arabic World) and political Zionism (the State of Israel) mutually destroy each other. Meanwhile the other nations, once more divided on this issue will be constrained to fight to the point of complete physical, moral, spiritual and economical exhaustion... We shall unleash the Nihilists and the atheists, and we shall provoke a formidable social cataclysm which in all its horror will show clearly to the nations the effect of absolute atheism, origin of savagery and of the most bloody turmoil. Then everywhere, the citizens, obliged to defend themselves against the world minority of revolutionaries, will exterminate those destroyers of civilization, and the multitude, disillusioned with Christianity, whose deistic spirits will from that moment be without compass or direction, anxious for an ideal, but without knowing where to render its adoration, will receive the true light through the universal manifestation of the pure doctrine of Lucifer, brought finally out in the public view. This manifestation will result from the general reactionary movement which will follow the destruction of Christianity and atheism, both conquered and exterminated at the same time." ⁴

Since the terrorist attacks of Sept 11, 2001, world events, and in particular in the Middle East, show a growing unrest and instability between Modern Zionism and the Arabic World. This is completely in line with the call for a Third World War to be fought between the two, and their allies on both sides. This Third World War is still to come, and recent events show us that it is not far off.

2. The Holy Roman Empire, i.e.: Roman Catholic Church/Vatican, Jesuits & Knights Orders: The Old World Order

On the other hand of the ruling spectrum we have the Vatican cabal who we summarize and lump together here in the Matrix Report as the Vatican (Roman Catholic Church), Jesuits and the Black Pope. Part of this group are the Knights Orders, whom all still exist today such as Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Sovereign Military Order of Malta, Knights Hospitaller, Order of the Holy Sepulchre, etc., etc, etc. look them up in Wikipedia, for these ancient Orders in fact still do exist and even have their own websites! I have no doubt that these exclusive Orders do in fact still wield vast powers and are in some way participating in the rule of mankind, but the fact remains that he who controls all the money and the presses (as in all media) calls all the shots. The Jews performed financial/political coup d'états over the past 300 years that has essentially rendered all of these groups as subjugated subordinates.

BEHOLD: The Vatican/Roman Catholic Church group represents the OLD WORLD ORDER, the Zionist lead modern ruling elite matrix is THE NEW WORLD ORDER.

All the research you have encountered relating to the Vatican/Catholic Church, Knights Orders, the Jesuits and the Black Pope being “the ruling elite” is basically all true. History has documented the supremacy and reign of these people for centuries. They literally were (as in used to be) THE most powerful ruling elite group on the planet earth... in their era... until they were infiltrated, subjugated and dominated from within by the more doggedly determined and cunning Zionist elite via their cunning infiltration of the Vatican by way of the Jesuit Order. Today they still play vital roles in the ruling of this world, but he who thinks that this once great ruling elite faction are still the top leaders calling all the shots is misinformed and totally wrong.

The infiltration of the ancient Knights Orders, Jesuits and the imperial Vatican empire that was viewed for centuries as virtually invincible was able to take root due to one of the very actions of the Roman Catholic Church, most notably were operations such as the inquisition where they literally went throughout all the lands killing anyone that did not convert to Roman Catholicism. The Jewish people who throughout the ages having survived many waves of backlash and assaults on their peoples learned to become a cunning deeply private and secretive cabal. Unlike the Christians who would readily become martyrs for their beliefs, many Jews outwardly professed conversion to Roman Catholicism to avoid beheading. Such was the common state of affairs of those days. These cunning Jews have been recorded in history as “crypto Jews” or “Marrano Jews” due to the fact that even though they professed to have been converted to Catholicism they continued in secret to adhere to their Jewish teachings, the Talmud and the kabala. Many of which even went as far as changing their names. Hundreds of thousands of Jews went “underground” became crypto/Marrano Jews and formed elaborate secret networks. This massive group of crypto Jews were later central in the infiltrating and subjugating of the once invincible Vatican/Roman Catholic empire and continued the quest to subjugate other organizations, with their eyes fixed firmly on ruling the world. Their M.O. is always the same: they infiltrate their targets and conquer from within.

The downfall of the era of Vatican/Roman Catholic rule began in earnest around the mid 1700s and their power officially came to an end in the 1800s. This is well documented by many indicators, two of the most pivotal were the

- Rothschild's having managed to secure an amazing financial coup in getting the Vatican to surrender the bulk of their wealth "management" to them as "guardians of the papal treasure." The Jewish Ency., vol. 2, p. 497 states, that the Vatican later made a failed attempt to set up a Catholic competitor (1905). It has been observed throughout history that "He who controls the gold controls the world." Mayer Amschel Rothschild proudly boasted "permit me to issue and control the money of a nation and I care not who makes it's laws"
- The nail on the coffin that shown to the world that the era of the Vatican was over came on September 20th, 1870 when the Vatican was captured by Italy, the pope imprisoned in the Vatican and Rome designated the capital of the nation.

Of this branch of ruling elite was the famous Knights Templars whom were leaders up until the reign of Jacques de Molay who was the last Grand Master of the Knights Templars. In 1312AD the Order was dissolved by order of Pope Clement V.

"Many years after the dissolution of the Knights Templar, the fraternal order of Freemasonry began to emerge in northern Europe. The Masons developed an elaborate mythos about their Order, and some claimed heritage from entities in history, ranging from the mystique of the Templars to the builders of Solomon's Temple and the pyramids. The story of Jacques de Molay's brave defiance of his inquisitors, has been incorporated in various forms into Masonic lore. Some modern youth groups in Freemasonry are even named after the Grand Master, such as DeMolay International. The stories of the Templars' secret initiation ceremonies also proved a tempting source for Masonic writers who were creating new works of pseudohistory. As described by modern historian Malcolm Barber in The New Knighthood: "It was during the 1760s that German masons introduced a specific Templar connection, claiming that the Order, through its occupation of the Temple of Solomon, had been the repository of secret wisdom and magical powers, which James of Molay had handed down to his successor before his execution and of which the eighteenth-century freemasons were the direct heirs."

Freemasonry originally an offshoot of the ancient Templars was originally part of this category. Even to this day many Masons claim to belong to one Christian denomination or another. Most Masons are lead to think that Freemasonry is aligned with the Church. What is totally not understood, even by established masons is that the Zionist illuminati (crypto Jews) had long ago successfully INFILTRATED and conquered Freemasonry hundreds of years ago. They successfully hijacked the Masonic order and have been leading it from the top down since the days Zionist/Jesuit Adam Weishaupt's illuminati set out to do just that. The key to easily infiltrating the Masonic orders was the fact that the higher levels were steeped deep into Luciferian rituals and worship. Elite occult Zionist illuminatists quickly gained power within the Masons through their superior occult practices and unlimited funds. The top two levels of Masonry have long since been taken over and become just a satanic occult Kabbalah (ancient Jewish occultism) practicing division of the Zionist illuminati, yet all the lower levels of Freemasonry have no clue who the highest degree Masonic leaders are, or what they truly stand for, that is why they refer to them as "the Hidden Masters." Yet clues abound, "Satan's thread can be seen by the truly observant." Freemasonry master icon Albert Pike exposed on the importance of the Jewish Kabbalah in Freemasonry in his book Morals and Dogma.

The Catholic Church (Just like the Zionist Jews) have traditionally believed that God had chosen them to conquer and rule the world. They tried to do just that for centuries, going forth to all corners of the earth "spreading the gospel", either peacefully or mostly by force they went forth in conquering in the name of God. In the name of their God they systematically SLAUGHTERED more millions of people than all other regimes on the planet combined. One needs look no further than your standard sanctified history books for proof. The Crusades and Inquisitions are just two of their projects. For the purpose of simplifying things in this report, we will refer to this collective group of Catholics and Jesuits as "the Vatican." There is a vast network of secret organizations and "Orders" directly or indirectly connected to this faction. Others also purport to be from this faction but yet are actually more occult in nature and worship a different God. Let there be no doubt, this group is fully functioning today and participate in world rule to one extent or another.

Behold: Let it be perfectly understood that the Vatican/Roman Catholic Church is THE biblical FALSE PROPHET prophesized as deceiving the kings of the earth. It has been documented over the centuries how the Catholic Church went bezerk drifting far away from the teachings of Christ, even going as far as FORBIDDING its followers from even reading the bible and that no man can go to heaven if not by the grace of his holiness a Catholic priest. The decadent, immoral, blasphemous, adulterous, sinister deeds of the Church and many of its priests have been well documented by regular historians throughout the ages all the way up to today where their immense pedophile abuse has been rampant in almost everywhere they are around the globe. History has proven that the corruption of the Catholic Church has been monumental and deeply embedded to its very core.

Why do you think the entire Protestant revolution began? This is NOT blasphemy or silly conspiracy “theory” this is just the plain unadulterated sad certifiable, verifiable FACTS and truth. For more info about the false prophet Catholic Church that leads the world astray see the chapter called “The Religion Matrix” within this research report. Let there be no doubt that the Catholic Church/Vatican had long ago sold its soul to the devil and has been its agent and false prophet throughout most of its known history thus resulting in the Protestant revolution among others. Today though still a major (though hollo) force, the Vatican/Catholic Church is essentially just an agent of their Luciferian Zionist masters whom they bow to on a daily basis.

You must sit down and try to fully understand the significance and colossal magnitude of the revelation that the Vatican/Roman Catholic Church is the prophesized False Prophet Beast mentioned in the Book of Revelations that leads the world astray and gives power to the anti-Christ Beast... he who has ears, let him hear.

The Jesuits at one point in time during history, long ago were in their era, THE most powerful, feared and clandestined of all secret organizations, their exploits and methods of infiltration are legendary and have fully been adopted by the illuminati. Though they still operate today, and still have very powerful operatives, they are still just as deadly, just as secretive and still fully operational they are completely ruled from the top down by the top Zionist illuminati matrix leaders. Some of the Jesuits may, or may not truly know their alliance had been subjugated by Zionists. Those who still believe the Jesuits are the apex elite ruling masters are either believing in old prehistorically outdated information or purposely trying to spread disinfo to mislead you who the true apex modern ruling elite are...

The “Jesuits” Hoax

By: ZionCrimeFactory

(Note: this was one of the 73,000 wordpress blogs that was recently deemed “dangerous” and eliminated from the internet by the government decree)

Anyone who has been involved in “truth seeking” for some time now is sure to have come across the people who will try to convince you that the Jesuit Order (aka Society of Jesus) are really at the top of this worldwide crime network. These people will relentlessly and tirelessly attempt to fill your head with ideas that the Jesuits of Rome really run the show from behind the scenes and that everything else is “disinformation”. This theory seems to have become more popular and far reaching on the internet and you will see more and more people parroting this stuff loud and clear to anyone who will naively listen. I am going to show you that not only is this theory complete bunk nonsense that is popular primarily amongst crazies, nutjobs, Jews, and Jew defenders, but that the Jesuits are actually crypto-Jews. So even if this ridiculous theory were true, it would still mean that the Jews are and always have been behind this global criminal cabal.

Who Promotes this Theory and Why?

First let us discuss the very people who promote this nonsense and analyze them to see if it gives us any indications of what their motives might be. The biggest and most popular promoter of this stuff is a guy named Eric John Phelps who wrote a pathetic book called Vatican Assassins in which he makes a series of superfluously unsubstantiated claims alleging that the Vatican & the Jesuits run the world and is behind everything from JFK assassination to 9/11. This book is pretty much a 99.99% made up lie. Eric Jon Phelps – Liar.

This pathetic piece of garbage literally makes shit up as he goes along and has no sources to back any of his claims up. Unsurprisingly he was taken to school in a debate vs. Michael Collins Piper, author of the great book Final Judgment. Eric Phelps has a ridiculously palpable connection that clearly illustrates why he promotes this garbage. On his website under the donations section it asks for all money orders to be sent to the address of LOWVEHM

Inc., the company he runs. Now if you go to the LOWVEHM website you will quickly see that it is a diamond and jewels company that receives its diamonds wholesale straight from Tel Aviv, Israel! So the guy's income is dependent on Israeli Blood Diamonds and he blames the Jesuits for everything. Need I say any more? I shouldn't have to but I will. Not only does this Israeli diamond thing make he look like a total shill for the Jews but he admitted that his wife is a Russian Jew and that he is a Christian Zionist himself. He also smears anyone who doesn't agree with his nonsense by calling them a "Jesuit Coadjutor" (which is just a pathetic made up fictional term). There is plenty more dirt on the guy that can be found HERE but this is just so over-the-top obvious that I am gobsmacked that anyone actually takes anything this guy says seriously. You have to be incredulously stupid, or a Jew to promote this guy and his conspiracy theories about the Jesuits running the world. We're done with him, he deserves no more attention, and please, nobody ever bring up this con-artist to me ever again.

Why is it that Phelps' paypal account works just fine, when anybody who says anything about Jews on their website gets their paypal immediately shut down? The answer is obvious, the Jesuits don't run squat. Other than that freak, the people who usually promote the Jesuits stuff are either Jews, Christian Zionists, or just kooks who are bored with blaming the obvious culprits and are looking for a "cool" / "interesting" conspiracy theory to fantasize about in their basements while jerking off to gay porn all day. I've chatted with quite a few of these people on youtube and other places and if you take a look at their profiles they promote pretty much anything that sounds crazy & far-out like the "No Planes" and "Space Beams" on 9/11 theories. Why do a majority of them also promote that stuff as well? Because they are just crazy conspiracy theorists looking for something "interesting" to obsess about when they are not playing World Of Warcraft on their mom's computers.

The Jesuits are in fact Jewish

One of the most devastating things to the notion that the Jesuits are at the top of this thing is the fact that more than a lot of the Jesuits are in fact Jewish. The Jesuit Order is in reality a Jewish Order masquerading as a Catholic one as a cover, so even if they were at the top it's still a Jewish conspiracy.

"We Jesuits take pleasure in admitting those of Jewish ancestry." J. Nadal Morey

An excellent resource documenting all the so called Jesuits who are really Jews turned Catholic, hence "crypto-Jews", can be found at JewishJesuits.com. The Jesuit Order in its founding was very much Jewish. All five of its founding members were Marrano Jews (i.e. Jews masquerading as Christians).

- Ignatius Loyola - Founder of the Jesuit Order (Jewish)!!!
- Alfonso Salmeron – Jewish
- Diego Lainez – Jewish
- Nicolas Bodadilla – Jewish
- Simao Rodriguez - Jewish

In his article Synagogue of Satan, John S. Torell states:

"In 1491 San Ignacio De Loyola was born in the Basque province of Guipuzcoa, Spain. His parents were Marranos and at the time of his birth the family was very wealthy. As a young man he became a member of the Jewish Illuminati Order in Spain. As a cover for his crypto Jewish activities, he became very active as a Roman Catholic."

Marranos are Spanish Jews who outwardly converted to a different religion, often times Roman Catholic, in order to evade persecution and expulsion for their treacherous actions, while secretly maintaining the religion of Judaism as well as practicing the Cabbala (Jewish Mysticism).

Furthermore, Loyola's secretary, Polanco, was also of Jewish descent and was the only person present at Loyola's deathbed. James Lainez who succeeded Loyola as the second Jesuit General was also of Jewish descent.(#) Add a (W) after the (E) in Jesuits and what do you get? Jewsuits. A more fitting name.

It's quite funny how the promoters in the "Jesuits run it all" theories conveniently fail to mention these important facts and attempt to project the Jesuits as purely Roman Catholic. And these skumbags also have the audacity to call us "anti-Semites" while promoting blatantly anti-Catholic conspiracy theories with no facts in hand at all. The Jesuits themselves are crypto-Jews and so are the promoters in the Black Pope theories. The Jews disguise themselves as the religion of their enemies, continue with their treachery under this false guise, and then get everybody to blame their disguise for the world's problems. Ingenious

The Pope Wears a Yarmulke!!!

Jewish infiltration of the Vatican stems back many hundreds of years, and it would be safe to say that the Jews have a strong vice-grip over that institution, from the inside out. One of the most blatant examples of the Jewishness of the Vatican is the fact that the Pope himself wears a fricken Yarmulke.

Why is the pope wearing a Yarmulke? Please explain. The Pope Sucks Up to Israel. Pope Benedict has made several visits to Israel where he blatantly sucks up to them and praises them. Jews Demonize the Vatican - Agent of Israel

There are multiple instances where Israel and Jews have attempted to demonize the Vatican when they aren't cooperative or subservient to their will. One example is the Jewish-controlled mass media going on a massive demonization campaign against Catholic priests (i.e. Jesuits) with accusations of pedophilia and Satanism. While some of these accusations have proven to be true, many of these claims could easily be embellished or fabricated by the Jewish-controlled mass media when the Vatican does something the Jews don't like — for instance when the Vatican strongly OPPOSED the Iraq war. Blackmail anyone? And whose to say that these Pedophiles and Satanists in the Catholic Church aren't just crypto-Jews? To boot, the man who came out with a lot of those accusations was Fr. Malachai Martin who is a ex-Jesuit Zionist who, during the second Vatican Council, drafted the document which exonerated the Jews from culpability in the execution of Jesus Christ. So, the man who writes books claiming the Catholic Church is full of pedophiles and Satanists is a Zionist who exonerates the Jews for murdering Jesus. Go figure.

Another more recent example of Jews trying to demonize the Vatican in the press was this story about how a pamphlet that was being passed out to the IDF troops in Israel claimed that the Vatican was training Hezbollah how to kill Jews.

It is redundantly obvious that the Vatican is infiltrated and blackmailed by Jews which utterly puts to shame any notion that the "Jesuits" control anything let alone Israel and Jews. It's the other way around.

Who Controls the Vatican Treasure?

The Jewish Encyclopedia (Vol. 2, p. 497) admits that...

"A number of Catholics undertook to organize a competitor bank to rival the Rothschild power... sometime about 1830. The Rothschild's crushed it."

It says further:

"It is a somewhat curious sequel to the attempt to set up a Catholic competitor to the Rothschilds that at the present time (1905) the latter are the guardians of the papal treasure." (#)

So the Jewish Rothschild banking dynasty controls the Vatican treasure.

They Cannot Explain Away Bishop Williamson Truth Hero

If the Jesuits are so bad and evil than how do you explain Bishop Richard Williamson? Catholic Bishop (Jesuit) Richard Williamson is a great man who has valiantly publicly stated that 9/11 was a fraud, a lie, and that the holocaust was also a lie. Many of these Black Poppers will shy away from any reference of Bishop Williamson and nary a mention of one of his excellent sermons exposing 9/11 among other crimes. I have even heard some pathetic cretins say he is “controlled opposition” like stупpering little maggots. These cowards won’t hesitate to defame a person who has more courage in his fingernail than they have in their entire bodies. Bishop Williamson puts his very livelihood and safety on the line when he speaks out about these subjects. Soulless cockroaches who attack him because he puts to shame this “Jesuit Conspiracy” claim are a complete waste of oxygen.

Conclusion

Do Jesuits control the Media, own Hollywood, the Federal Reserve, and constantly inhabit high positions in government? Nope. Have Jesuits been expelled from 109 locations since 250 AD? Nope. Did Jesuits run the African Slave trade, instigate WWI & WWII, invent Communism & Neo-Conservatism, perpetrate the 9/11 attacks, attack the U.S.S. Liberty, assassinate JFK, run the Diamond District, Porn Industry, run the Drug Trade? Nope. Are you called “anti-Catholic” for blaming Jesuits for everything under the sun that they don’t even do? Nope, but we’re called anti-Semitic for blaming the people which ALL of the evidence shows are the ones responsible.

Any further discussion of this topic is a complete and utter waste of time. In fact that is the whole point of this Jesuits stuff is... to waste your time. It is just another Jewish distraction that people like to point at to cover for the Jewish crime network. It is no different than blaming the Bilderbergers, CFR, the Illuminati, or the New World Order. The sad thing is that the people who believe in this stuff think they are “awake” and “in the know” and that everybody else is being “fooled” and “led astray”. These type of people are bordering on mental illness. Do not talk to them, do not humor their nonsense, just laugh and scoff at their unpragmatic junk conspiracy theory.

Never discount the Jesuit Order, and the other Knights Orders, Yes these overlords are still alive and well, and still very much in the “world rule” game, their era of ruling has finished, today they are just another faction, component or “mafia crime family” amongst many other entities... but today, as with most of the 20th century, the Zionists are the current “godfathers” calling the shots in this modern day world... We are now living in the age of the Zionist ruling elite.

The Jesuit Order has been very active in modern history; their members have been deeply embedded in politics, secret government agencies such as the CIA, military, Congress, the Senate, and education since the day all of these have been established. All the political figures that are part of the Jesuit/Vatican branch of the ruling elite are easy to spot, they often claim to be catholic, and when you study their resumes you will see the key schools, fraternities, associations and employers they all attend.

Yes ruling elite management teams come from several established sectors, therefore please excuse me if I make minor mistakes in any of thousands of issues of “whom was pulling the strings” for this or that operation, bottom line: its either the Zionists or the Jesuit branch that manages this or that component of the matrix consortium, oh... and of course their servants at Freemasonry that straddle both beasts.

3. The Old School Bloodlines & Nobility:

By the way, many of the people whom are within many of the Knights Orders are intertwined and also part of this group. We can never discount nor ignore the “old school bloodlines”, these are the royalty who have for centuries ruled the earth. Yes it is so, these have held empires as far as the eyes can see, they ruled for eons. But in today’s 21th century, all has changed. Many researchers claim that the Royal Throne blood lines are still ruling but I have serious reservations about this, but then again they may have a point. But not in today’s reality, unless they are in fact crypto Jews with secret Jewish ancestry. The ones whom are currently in positions of power that are not Jewish maintain their positions under the auspices and approval of their Jewish overlords, for as long as they play the game they are not assailed and operations aren't commenced to have them removed from positions of power.

One very important factor we can never allow to escape our attention and further investigation and research is the age old convention of the elite adhering to very strict blood lineage codes. Where it has been customary since the dawn of man to "keep ones lineage clean and intact." Think about it. For instance it is said that God's side of the conflict has it's "twelve lost tribes," while I am sure that Lucifer also has his own "bloodlines of the illuminati"...

"The importance of blood and bloodlines is a recurring theme throughout my work and history, particularly when considering the highest level and objectives of the secret Scottish Freemasons. According to the "Structure of Freemasonry," the "Order of the Red Cross" stands third in the top echelon of power just behind the Sovereign Military Order of Malta (SMOM) and the "Order of the Knights Templar." Religious scholars cross their Bibles with red marker ribbons today unaware of the symbolism-the Masonic importance of the pure red bloodline."

Another very important factor regarding this topic is the ongoing practice and strategy of the highest level Zionist Jews marrying into nobility. This practice has actually accelerated in fever pitch in the 20th century. I urge you to research and follow the family trees of all the 19th century major elite rulers (hint, especially the Zionists and the several other leaders of industry at those times)... then ask yourself, where are their descendants today.

Why do the old school rulers not really control world affairs? First and foremost: No sane ruler would ever relinquish complete control of his wealth and finances to ANY other entity not fully under their control. PERIOD. For in doing so, you no longer have the resources to even rule. For he who has control of the RESOURCES, as in finances can rule the world. It is very simple, if you give your money to someone else to hold/manage your FORTUNES, sooner or later you will find that you have been used and no longer in control of your finances. Let someone take complete control of your finances and they literally have you by the balls. Who owns and controls the entire planet's financial system? No one but the Zionist Jews. The royal houses of England's wealth are firmly in Zionist hands and they basically can do nothing without Zionist approval.

Not only that. The entire media industry is completely controlled NOT by the royal bloods, not by the Vatican, not by Jesuits, no one but the Zionist media barons completely unequivocally dominate the entire realm of media at every level, PERIOD. Case open and closed. What power does the British Royalty wield anyway? Virtually none. They have long ago been regulated to the status of mere WINDOW DRESSING. For all intents and purposes the queen of england and the entire "royal family" are purely powerless and only serve as props for the true ruling elite who have taken over "THE CROWN" several hundred years ago. The "royal family" all receive a yearly STIPEND which they use for their living expenses and so forth, so long as they keep up their part of the charade and pretend to be of significance. They are basically allowed to come out for public relations photo ops... where leaders meet them and bow, take pictures and then scurry away to discuss REAL business in private WITHOUT anyone from ANY "royal family" present.

"With the supremacy of Parliament assured by Oliver Cromwell, the Glorious Revolution of 1688, which overthrew of James II, resulted in the separation of the expenses of monarchy from the general cost of running the state. Less than a decade later, the ability of the monarch to spend the Crown's income was curtailed under the reign of William and Mary.

Under an 1697 Act granting William III "subsidy... for the Service of His Majesties Household & other Uses", the monarch was granted £1.2m, of which £700,000 was to be used for the new "Civil List" to pay for the expenses of the civil service, the Royal Household and his lifestyle.

By the reign of George III, the monarch had surrendered all hereditary revenues apart from the Duchy of Lancaster, which to this day provides the Queen with her private income. In 1830, a new law restricted the Civil List to the personal expenses of the Crown and it has remained largely the case since. The Government expects a new system of "consolidated support" to be in place by 2012." – source Wikipedia

Kings and Emperors of almost all nations have all been likewise “neutered.” Look at Japan for a perfect example, after WWII the “king” whose power was “castrated” as in he was left impotent with no balls, absolutely ZERO power, authority and control, the “royal” families throughout the world seem to have been left in place for nothing more than ceremonial theater. To sustain the illusion of royal rule, but in reality regulated to the position of actors playing a role. This is so for EVERY single so called “royal family” in every country today. Remember this whenever you see all the fanfare of world leaders meeting with famous actresses such as Queen Elizabeth...

But we still can't completely discount “royalty” due to: The most important factor that many people have seemed to let go unnoticed has been the persistent calculated stratagem: centuries of wealthy Jew elite marriages to royalty and nobility. Thus they have managed to interbreed with royalty for many generations thus infiltrate and rule from royal bloodlines... Not only that, it is also understood and documented that some of the royal bloodlines are in fact of Jewish decent. Therefore, these two have been intertwined to such an extent that one is the other and the other is the one... so yes... royalty cannot be excluded as key suspects from the list of apex rulers of the new world order agenda perpetrating conspirators.

“Crypto-Jews of the Iberian Peninsula. The term, which is frequently derived from the New Testament phrase "maran atha" ("our Lord hath come"), denotes in Spanish "damned," "accursed," "banned"; also "hog," and in Portuguese it is used as an opprobrious epithet of the Jews because they do not eat pork. The name was applied to the Spanish Jews who, through compulsion or for form's sake, became converted to Christianity in consequence of the cruel persecutions of 1391 and of Vicente Ferrer's missionary sermons. These "conversos" (converts), as they were called in Spain, or "Christãos Novos" (Neo-Christians) in Portugal, or "Chuetas" in the Balearic Isles, or "Anusim" (constrained) in Hebrew, numbered more than 100,000. With them the history of the Pyrenean Peninsula, and indirectly that of the Jews also, enters upon a new phase; for they were the immediate cause both of the introduction of the Inquisition into Spain and of the expulsion of the Jews from that country. The wealthy Maranos, who engaged extensively in commerce, industries, and agriculture, intermarried with families of the old nobility; impoverished counts and marquises unhesitatingly wedded wealthy Jewesses; and it also happened that counts or nobles of the blood royal became infatuated with handsome Jewish girls. Beginning with the second generation, the Neo-Christians usually intermarried with women of their own sect. They became very influential through their wealth and intelligence, and were called to important positions at the palace, in government circles, and in the Cortes; they practised medicine and law and taught at the universities; while their children frequently achieved high ecclesiastical honors.” – Source: JewishEncyclopedia.com

We must cut through the smoke and mirrors and understand the “Crown” piece of the puzzle. For some researchers have discovered that in reality “The Crown” is in fact an independent entity from royalty... and it is “the crown” that is the core of the Zionist Learned Elders ruling elite. England is in fact a financial oligarchy run by the "Crown" which refers to the "City of London" not the Queen. The City of London is run by the Bank of England, a private corporation. The square-mile-large City is a sovereign state located in the heart of greater London. As the "Vatican of the financial world," the City is not subject to British law.

Then again, some highly respected researchers have indeed traced the Royal Crown of England bloodline to... none other than Jewish origins. If this is so and they actively know so, then that would make the Royalty of England the biggest most secretive CRYPTO JEWS on earth. In fact many European aristocrats consider themselves descendents of Biblical Hebrews. The Hapsburgs are related by marriage to the Merovingians who claim to be descendents of the Tribe of Benjamin. In addition, many aristocrats belong to the "British Israel" Movement that believes the British sovereign is the head of the Anglo Saxon "Lost Tribes" of Israel and that the Apocalypse will see the full reconstitution of the British Empire.

If this is true, my findings still stand as true, and don't change a thing, for we have identified the Zionist Jews as rulers at the “apex of the pyramid.” Interesting in that some of the most powerful high level elite Zionists all originate from Germany. Europe has been their center of operations long before America came into prominence. This also makes a lot of sense due to the fact that all the headquarters of all original true pure power players such as the House of Rothschild's, Warburgs, Schiff's, etc. are still in Europe, especially in Zionist owned and operated sovereign corporate City of London.

This most disturbing fact also makes so much sense when you understand that it is the Zionists who've been headquarters in Europe for ages, now possess their own country: Israel (they are quietly building it up by leaps and bounds). Israel and its double agents whom all hold dual citizenship are the ones who have been clandestinely engineering the colossal downfall of America, for when that happens, they will all be on the other side of the ocean ushering in a new age... while we will be left here in the smoking ruins, bickering amongst republican and democrats blaming each other... the time of Israel's supremacy coming out party is coming closer and closer...

Excerpt from documentary "The Calling":

There is one ruling bloodline that exists on this earth, this ruling bloodline is very old it is the same bloodline that has always ruled the earth ever since the days of ancient Egypt and it is very pervasive, for example many people think that anyone can get to become president of the united states but the reality is that a large number of presidents are in fact related and their lineage can be traced back to European monarchy in particular the line of William of Orange this elite bloodline can actually be traced a good deal further than that and even as far back as the royalty of ancient Egypt and it has been this very same bloodline that has ruled the earth ever since and to which the British monarch and many other world leaders can ultimately be traced the families of this line are steeped in ancient traditions and symbolism, they do not attempt to hide these connections.

Just take a look at the royal coat of arms, the royal regalia and the coronation throne clearly demonstrates these connections in fact, the signs and symbols are always right there in plain view for discerning eyes to clearly see one only needs to take the time to look any real investigation shows us that the entire financial system by which the world is run today is actually operated by "The Crown" and contrary to popular belief the Crown does not refer to the royal family or to the British monarchy the crown actually refers to the inner city of London which is in fact a privately owned corporation that functions as a completely separate sovereign state outside the jurisdiction of England most people are completely unaware that when they swear allegiance to the crown they are actually swearing allegiance to this private corporate empire the inner city of London also has two sister city states the Vatican city and Washington's district of Columbia both of which are separate sovereign states within their host countries each of these three city states has its own flag. Its own laws, its own news services and its own police forces and each pays no taxes to the host country in which it is located these three cities form a private covert empire that operates the entire western world that is known as the empire of the three cities the inner city of London is the center for monetary control the Vatican city is the center for spiritual control Washington D.C. is the center for military control it is the individuals who control this private corporate empire who call all the shots and pull all the strings there's people control all governments and mainstream media by the stranglehold they have over the world monetary system and more and more people are becoming aware of the reality of this all the time the beginnings of this private empire can be traced back to a secret meeting that took place back in 1773 between mayor Ancheilll Rothschild and the heads of 12 other powerful families including such dynasties such as the Warburg's the Schiff's and the Openhiemmers following this meeting Rothschild employed the services by the name of Adam Weishaupt in the creation of a society know today as the Bavarian illuminati which was itself officially founded three years later in 1776. Many people think that the illuminati is a myth but in actual fact this society is still in operation to this day and has become the most powerful organization in the world the surviving members of this order are the individuals who also indirectly own and operate the world bank it is the world bank who covertly dictates global oil prices and who's shareholders also control the global federal reserve banking system

There is indeed a global conspiracy going on and the way it has been carried out and concealed is to control the global money system and hence control of all other subsequence systems of importance down the food chain such as governments and the media it is important to understand that control of the global money system has been achieved through the control of the global central banking system and this system is a privately owned enterprise that is run for profit ...please clearly understand that when you control the money supply you control the government when you control the government you control the people when you control the money supply and the flow of information through complete control of all media you control the government, you control the people and you control everything they know, everything they believe to be true, when you do it globally, you control all. It's that simple.

The Jesuits and many old school bloodlines still control many government and educational institutions. Some say the Jesuits have become powerful through the Catholic Church itself. Some believe it is the Jesuits that are the secret rulers. I researched this path ad nauseam, but they can't be the ultimate elite ruling power of today for only the Zionists own and/or control ALL of finance and media, lock stock and barrel, along with many of today's most powerful corporations. But then again I must reiterate, it is becoming increasingly known that the Jesuit faction was established by crypto Jews! Thus this explosive revelation fundamentally alters the entire playing field. No matter what, all roads lead back to the Zionist juggernaut.

The height of the Vatican/Jesuit power was hundreds of years ago, so much so was their rule that they almost conquered the planet. Corruption and sin within the entire Vatican and Catholic Church system became so entrenched and pervasive that it rotted the entire once formidable entity to its core. Allowing for its eventual decay and fall from power, thus enabling the Zionists to flourish, infiltrate and wrestle ultimate ruling control from these factions. They own the Vatican so much so, that today the Zionists hold the corrupt Pope's balls in a vice grip. This massive world leadership power shift has all taken place within the last 200 years. The Zionists who had infiltrated the Vatican the Roman Catholic church after being forced to become crypto Jews, little by little collected all the dirt on their Catholic oppressors, up until the point where they accumulated so much evil dirt on them that the Zionists were able to blackmail and extort their ways to power over the Vatican along with the fact that the Zionists simultaneously became their financial masters.

Behold: For the "Illuminati" as many researchers refer to the ultimate ruling entity, is actually made up of a combination of "the cream of the crop" of ALL those separate entities carefully coordinated and ruled by the Zionists! The illuminati are in fact a multithreaded beast. Therefore, even if you were to actually defeat the Zionist Beast, and completely destroy it, there would still remain the evil counterparts within the Vatican, Royalty, Royal Crown, Jesuits and of course the Masons, that would come in to fill the ruling gap so fast that you would again be ruled by an oppressive entity as if the first beast were not slain to begin with. Think about it, for it was not that far in our history when the Catholic Church through the Vatican, then England almost ruled the world. Today it is the Zionists who rule with an iron rod, it is them alone who possess "The Crown" and rule from there...

The Zionist and the Jesuit/Masons. Members are groomed at many places such as the Yale Skull & Bones "fraternity" (just to name one for the sake of keeping this simple). The problem with many researcher's data is that they try to single out or point to the wrong group as the head of the "illuminati", thus leaving the other group out of the mix. You must re-analyze all your data. I'm not here to do all your homework; I am here to expose the ultimate truth. Let there be no confusion: our current modern world is dominated by the Zionist Jew illuminati Learned Elders, the entire illuminati network also encompasses the Masons and Vatican who serve the Zionists.

How can we explain the nature of the two separate entities that have been vying for ultimate supremacy? They have become "one." The Zionist Jews strategy to gain control of Royalty was simply intermarriage. The Jewish banking families made it a practice to marry their female offspring to spendthrift European aristocrats. In Jewish law, the mixed offspring of a Jewish mother is Jewish. (The male heirs marry Jews although the Victor and Jacob Rothschild are exceptions.) For example, in 1878 Hannah Rothschild married Lord Roseberry. Who later became Prime Minister. In 1922 Louis Mountbatten, the uncle of Prince Philip and cousin of the Queen married the granddaughter of Jewish banker Ernest Cassel, one of the wealthiest men in the world. Winston Churchill's mother, Jenny (Jacobson) Jerome, was Jewish. By the beginning of the 1900s, there were very few English aristocrat families left that hadn't intermarried with Jews. It was said that, when they visited the Continent, Europeans were surprised to see Jewish looking persons with English titles and accents.

According to L.G. Pine, the Editor of Burke's Peerage, Jews "have made themselves so closely connected with the British peerage that the two classes are unlikely to suffer loss which is not mutual. So closely linked are the Jews and the lords that a blow against the Jews in this country would not be possible without injuring the aristocracy also." (Tales of the British Aristocracy 1957, p.219.)

The fundamental question still remains, how the Jews managed to convince aristocratic society and royalty to merge. First of all, the Zionist elite were so insanely wealthy and powerful that they rivaled or surpassed the power of the established royalty of the time; therefore they represented and positioned themselves as equals. But still, there was the stigma they were fighting for ages of image of Jews as the blood sucking parasites of the earth. This was one of their biggest hurdles. In order to infiltrate that largely Christian aristocracy and royalty they proceeded to erase the boundaries and perceived divisions between their two opposing religions...

Pick up any bible, does not matter which one. No matter what bible you pick up, it will contain TWO major chapters: The Old Testament (the Hebrew Scriptures) and The New Testament (representing Christianity). Behold, you now know the key why these two separate entities we are referring to as the Zionists and the Christian/Vatican are so intertwined. They share the "holy scriptures" as their main common denominator that has kept them bonded for centuries. The origin of the Zionist "manifesto" is derived from the Hebrew Scriptures everyone refers to as the Old Testament and their Talmud. The origin of the Jesuit "manifesto" is derived from the New Testament, but they also hold dear and still study the Hebrew "manifesto" of the Old Testament, "their older brethren" so to speak. The one issue that the Jesuit/Mason/Vatican entity does NOT realize is that the Zionists do NOT accept the New Testament and they still claim that Jesus was just a BASTARD child born out of wedlock by a wench. All the while the Christians erroneously believe that the Zionists are their comrades or elder brothers who they can trust, for they come from the still cherished Old Testament, when in reality the Zionists have just been strategically using the Christian world for hundreds of years to get what they want like a den of vipers, wolves in sheep's clothing.

Now look at the world around you for a moment. If you check to see who ultimately owns what and who ultimately controls this and that. You will consistently end up with those two factions! This is absolutely undeniable FACT. For instance, the realm of finance, investment and banking is overwhelmingly controlled by the Zionists, it is their undisputed realm. The mass media is also overwhelmingly completely dominated and controlled by them, this is irrefutable fact. On the other hand the vast majority of industrial nations institutions (government, education, etc) are controlled by the Masonic & Jesuit "Christian" factions along with a majority of the multinational corporations. This is undeniable fact. Still, you must also realize that the one who rules over all other rulers today and most of the 29th century have been the Zionists Jews, for it is written in the golden rule: "he who owns all the gold makes all the rules."

The Zionists infiltrated the Catholic Church through the Jesuit faction, and even allow the Catholics to behave like and THINK they are running things, and allow many of them to run their organizations, but don't be fooled, the current hidden masters are the Zionists.

How powerful are the Zionists in our government? They ARE the movers and shakers here (not to mention a the agents planted in a great number of other countries). Period. Even Joe Biden in the 2008 presidential election said "I am a Zionist, you don't have to be Jewish to be a Zionist", for Zionism is "an international political movement", therefore you don't have to be Jewish to be a Zionist. This is why we witness non Jewish shills working among their midst, little do they know that they will always, no matter what, still be inferior Goyims, no matter what their political or financial stature.

"In 1962, Look Magazine invited founder of the Jewish state of Israel David Ben-Gurion to describe his vision of how the world will look like 25 years into the future. He predicted that World Government would already be in place by 1987, with the Supreme Court for Mankind (the higher ecclesiastic body) would be established in Jerusalem, along with a shrine there commemorating the Jewish role in bringing together of mankind. He was mistaken by only a few years. The world is not fully subdued yet, but it already knows its new master”

How is it possible that a small group of elite can seamlessly control entire, nations, markets and corporations? Easy money, fame, fortune and power are the carrot. Some are directly or indirectly lured to pursue pre-defined agendas with financial incentives of some sort, lower interest rates, stock deals, the number of financial instruments and possible scenarios are almost limitless, so I won't try to make believe I am some type of market guru and explain exactly how you can get country A to do your bidding on agenda X for example. But this is one of the main documented ways they go about it. But one of their major strategies of “owning” people, organizations and countries is through graciously offering a friendly helping hand called DEBT (trap). The goal: Get them indebted to their eyeballs and then later grab them by the balls! Therefore the super elite do not have to have direct control all corporations, governments and so forth. For the moment that anyone refuses to accept any given stipulations, conditions “austerity measures” etc. the financial strings can be and ARE often pulled, maneuvered or called in such a way that they can even financially destroy any entity or person if they so chose. Bringing them to their knees and to the realization that they have no choice but to proceed with whatever agenda being posed before them.

Usury, as debt was called back in biblical times was one of the most severe sins... Debt (usury) is a form of blackmail/extortion ultimately leading to indirect backdoor indirect control of the debtor, no matter who they may be...

Joint Chiefs chair says debt is the greatest threat to national security

Pentagon leaders, the military services and defense contractors must work together to cut bureaucratic bloat and unnecessary programs, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said Thursday.

Adm. Mike Mullen also renewed his warning that the nation's debt is the biggest threat to U.S. national security.

“I was shown the figures the other day by the comptroller of the Pentagon that said that the INTEREST on our debt is $571 billion in 2012.” Mullen said at a breakfast hosted by The Hill. “That is, noticeably, about the size of the defense budget. It is not sustainable.”

B'nai B'rith – The Secret Society of Jews

Written by Christopher Bollyn

B'nai B'rith was instrumental in gaining U.S. support for the nascent Zionist state of Israel in the late 1940s. The Jewish secret society of Freemasons used President Harry Truman's friend – and their agent – Eddie Jacobson of Kansas City (standing behind Truman) in off-the-record meetings in the Oval Office to persuade the president to approve the Zionist land grab known as the 1947 U.N. Partition Plan of Palestine and then to recognize the state of Israel the next year following the Zionist ethnic cleansing of nearly 400 Palestinian villages and towns.

By applying pressure directly on Truman, B'nai B'rith dictated U.S. policy in spite of strong resistance from the U.S. Department of State. When Truman extended de jure recognition of the Zionist state on January 31, 1949, the only guests invited to the signing ceremony in the Oval Office were members of B'nai B'rith: Eddie Jacobson, the B'nai B'rith executive vice president Maurice Bisgyer, and the secret society's president, Frank Goldman (sitting).

President Truman, a highest level Freemason, was forced to accept the dictates of a gang of Zionist Jewish Freemasons on crafting U.S. policy in the Middle East. What does this say about the real hierarchy of power among Freemasons? Truman, a Freemason since 1909, had established the Grandview Lodge No. 618 in Missouri and served as its first “Worshipful Master”.

In 1940, Brother Truman was elected the ninety-seventh Grand Master of Masons of Missouri. In 1945, President Truman was made a Sovereign Grand Inspector General, 33°, and Honorary Member at the Supreme Council of the Ancient & Accepted Scottish Rite (A.A.S.R.) Southern Jurisdiction Headquarters in Washington D.C.

The fact that Jewish Freemasons of the B’nai B’rith were able to meet secretly with the president in the Oval Office whenever they wanted and were able to direct the U.S. president, a highest level Mason, to follow their orders in shaping U.S. policy in the Middle East, shows the immense power this secret society of Zionist Jews has long had over the U.S. government and other Masonic orders.

Barack Hussein Obama was cultivated as a politician in Chicago and made President of the United States by the power of the B’nai B’rith. It’s high time for these secret societies to be removed from the corridors of power where U.S. policy is crafted.

The first step to solving America’s most serious problems requires that we identify the people who control the hidden hand behind the disastrous policies that are destroying our proud republic. This is the first article in a series about the B’nai B’rith, the Jewish secret society that created the state of Israel and made Barack Obama president.

After one year in office it is clear that the Obama administration, elected on a platform of “change”, is actually maintaining the policies of the Bush administration. In some cases, such as the occupation of Afghanistan, President Barack Hussein Obama has actually added to the war effort by sending tens of thousands more troops.

Our politicians and policies are given to us today via television and the controlled media like the mysterious writing on the wall appeared to Babylon's King Belshazzar, son of Nebuchadnezzar, in the Old Testament. But who controls the hand that creates the politicians and crafts the policies?

The fact that the political change was only superficial and that the Obama administration intends to follow the basic policies of the previous administration can best be seen in the continuing cover up of the truth of what really happened on 9-11. The false-flag terrorism of 9-11 is the fundamental lie that needs to be protected. Upon this blatant lie the fraudulent “War on Terror” is based, and this illegal war policy has been embraced by Barack Obama.

When the Obama team sent Henry Kissinger to Moscow for early meetings with the Russian leadership, rather than Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, it was evident that the power brokers running the Obama White House were the same as those that ran the Bush and Clinton administrations – and those before them.

Rahm Emanuel, Chief-of-Staff of the Obama administration and son of an Israeli terrorist, and David Axelrod, the president’s strategy chief and senior adviser, are two of the highest managers of Barack Obama. Axelrod, the son of a Communist Jew, has been managing Obama’s political career since 1992. Emanuel, as a former senior adviser in the Clinton White House, was the person who pushed the disastrous NAFTA legislation through Congress in 1993. But who really manages Emanuel and Axelrod? Who tells them what policies to promote and which to discard?

The election of Barack Obama has provided us with a glimpse of the hidden hand that controls the government of the United States. The politicians and policies of the U.S. government do not actually come from the people but are presented to the public through the controlled media. The two most influential papers in the United States, The New York Times and Washington Post, are both controlled by German Jewish families that are among the founding members of the Jewish secret society the B'nai B'rith.

The B'nai B'rith, an order of Jewish Freemasonry, is closed to non-Jews which puts its Jewish members at the top of the Masonic hierarchy. The members of B'nai B'rith are able to join other Masonic orders but only Jews can belong to B'nai B'rith.

Barack Obama has been created as a political candidate since 1992 by David Axelrod and Bettylu Saltzman, the daughter of Philip M. Klutznick, the former head of B'nai B'rith International, the supreme body of the B'nai B'rith. This is the secret society of Zionist Jews that controls the White House and the policies of the U.S. gov.

The first Chicago newspaper report from the 1860s that revealed that a secret organization of "Israelites" had existed in Chicago for some 20 years.

'Do you really think that criminals are clever, good people, Thrasymachus?'

'Yes, if their criminality is able to manifest in a perfect form and they are capable of dominating countries and nations.' - Socrates in Plato's Republic

Secret anti-Christian organizations like the Freemasons and B'nai B'rith are like the fabled black holes of astronomy. Like other unseen astronomical bodies, astronomers postulate the existence of black holes based on how they distort light and affect other bodies around them. So is it with the Jewish B'nai B'rith and other Freemasonic secret societies, which we know very little about but whose presence can be seen in how they pervade every level of our society and affect everything around us.

Great nations, like the United States, France, and Germany, once had anti-Masonic and anti-Semitic political parties that acted to challenge the pernicious influence of secret Masonic and Jewish organizations. Today we no longer have such political parties to counter these secret networks and find ourselves ruled by B'nai B'rith and Jewish Freemasons.

In the United States in 1828, the Anti-Masonic Party was the original third party to be active on the national scene. Popular opinion in America was naturally opposed to secret organizations and people feared the Freemasons, believing they were a powerful secret society that undermined republican principles. The Anti-Masonic Party was right. A democratic republic that allows its government, courts, and media to be run by the members of secret societies will soon find that they have taken over the republic. This is what has happened to the United States.

Christopher Bollyn the day after being brutally assaulted by a three-man undercover tactical police squad at his home in Hoffman Estates, Illinois, in August 2006.

In 1843, a German Jew who called himself Henry Jones founded a Jewish secret society called the "Bundes-Brueder" (League of brothers) in the Sinsheimer Café near Wall Street in New York. Jones recruited his co-founders from the synagogue where he was in charge. At least four of its founders were Freemasons. The order, which was later re-named the "B'nai B'rith," was closed to all non-Jews and to any Jew who fraternized with Christians.

The power of the B'nai B'rith has grown immensely during the past 166 years. As an independent journalist who has investigated the evidence of Israeli involvement in the false-flag terror of 9-11, I have seen how this secret society of Jewish Freemasons is able to corrupt every aspect of American society. It is the force behind the media and government cover-up of the truth of what happened on 9-11. It is also the secret organization behind the brutal attack on me at my house in August 2006 and the malicious prosecution and corrupt court process that followed.

Why do you think that America has been the number one allie of Israel? We single handedly (along with England) are responsible for helping them establish the nation of Israel in 1948. Over the decades we gave away untold billions upon billions of dollars, machinery, jets, tanks, weapons, etc. to help them build their Zionist nation of Israel. America alone has been most instrumental in helping them become the most advanced and highest military power in the Middle East. To this day we have never stopped giving them free gifts of money and arms to the tune of billions of dollars yearly that are not on our already acknowledged 3 billion a yearly endowment, yes, our (disclosed and claimed) annual "tithe" is currently a minimum of 3 billion dollars a year! Our crumbling infrastructure in our own country be damned, while we are busy hemorrhaging billions of dollars at home, the seemingly illogical practice of giving away never ending billions upon billions to Israel seems foolish, until you realize and understand that their agents who fill positions of power here in our country have in fact infiltrated our system to its core and thus lead us astray as they so wish...

Back to the common denominator issue. Christians and Jews believe that the site of the Dome of the Rock is where the biblical ruins of the Temple of Solomon lays. What is a key pivotal prophetic ultimate goal of the Jews? None other than to rebuild their Temple of Solomon (where they believe they are "destined" to rule mankind from). But wait a second! It is also a central belief of Jewish and Christian prophesy that prior to the second coming of Christ, that the Temple of Solomon MUST be rebuilt prior to his coming! Hmmmm..... The Zionists philosophy is why wait around when you can make it happen....

Behold... for we have revealed to you the key of keys to understanding the core nucleus of past, current and future world events and conflicts. You must understand deep in your heart and mind how these secret organizations and people have been and are working endlessly to fulfill what they believe to be their God given mission in life to settle into "THE PROMISED LANDS" and rebuild the temple... once those goals are met, they believe they have god's full blessing, authority and commandment to rule THE WORLD... Hello! They are "the chosen ones"!

"Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come. Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God" (2 Thessalonians 2:1-4).

Behold, for the endgame is integral on securing this crucial piece of real-estate:

For: It has been prophesized that Jerusalem will be the capital of the world. (12, 29, 38)

In the midst of the Great Delusion, enter the great dilemma: The location of the ancient ruins of the Temple of Solomon is in Muslim territory. The Muslims built one of their most sacred Shrines on the very same site! The Jews can't just waltz in there and take it back. The "crazy" militarized Muslim countries would rise up so fast in a colossal revolt that it would lead to untold bloodshed and possible catastrophic outcomes. There has to be a way to steal the land of the dome of the rock then setup their reign of iron fist world rule...

BEHOLD FOR: Let it be perfectly understood that the white European Zionist "Jews" are the anti-Christ Arch Angel (Satan) people, his main tangible agent provocatures here on earth sowing division, animosity and hate while instigating the world wide confrontation between the two BROTHER REALM NATIONS of Christian world vs. Muslim world.

Take a ride back in time. Throughout history Jerusalem has proven to be a mystical valuable location whose conquest and domination of this land has brought about unknown amounts of bloodshed. The Crusades carried out at the turn of the first millennium were basically all conducted for the purpose of the securing this piece of land. Knights of the Orders waged war against Arabs and Jews alike over Jerusalem. Even though they temporarily conquered Jerusalem several times the Crusades were all basically lost and the region remained in Arab/Muslim hands ever since. It should also be noted that Egypt was always the main Arab country blocking the takeover of Jerusalem. According to historians the only positive outcome of the Crusades was opening of trade routes with the east, at which point everyone focused on trade and building their fortunes.

The Zionist "Jews" who have essentially hijacked the ancient prophecies... believe that GOD has mandated them to fulfill the role of "Chosen people" who are to rule mankind, from their "promised lands," it is their "holy destiny" or BIRTHRIGHT.

Pick up any bible, it says so in the Old Testament. How do you rationalize with that? You can't, for their kind it has been thousands of years journey into the land of Canaan. For centuries they have existed as the closed exclusive secretive society vs. the world, and they are not going to turn back around. No way, so close, so close to achieving their dreams... what they have going on today is none other than a bona fide worldwide juggernaut.

Haghid 3, Verse 1: "And the Lord told the Israelites: you have made me the one God of the world, and I will make your people the only rulers of the world."

Thus we have clearly witnessed throughout the ages, clearly documented in many history books, as these "Jews" have always managed to deeply infiltrate every nation they have inhabited, little by little, taking more and more control. They were kicked out of Spain and many countries, not for being benevolent citizens, contributing for the good of their host nation, no, no, these people have never deviated from their inbred pathological quest to conquer and get control of all trade and usury markets, followed by everything their hearts so desire. (Sorry, but this is just plain TRUTH, try and label me as a self hating Jew anti-Semite if you wish, it still won't change the TRUTH). They have yet to revise those pages in the history books, but I'm sure they will one day get their PhD wielding world renowned "researchers" to work on those chapters and edit them accordingly...

One glaring crucial omitted factoid that many people do not know, especially those "Christians" who blindly yet ardently support the Zionist cause and agenda, are the Zionists who rule Palestine and run the worlds finance cartel and the worlds media cartel are NOT REAL JEWS yet they prance around portraying themselves as "the chosen ones."

They are none other than IMPOSTERS, Edomites, Khazars, and Ashkenazis posing as true blood Jews to obtain YOUR SUPPORT in their attempt to establish their Luciferian one world government and become masters over the entire planet... "as was promised to them"... by none other than: "GOD" ...

The AshkeNAZI Jews are descended from the medieval Jewish communities of the Rhineland in the west of Germany... they are NOT from the original tribe of Israel, for these people are descendants of entire Khazar societies that CONVERTED to Judaism by their king's decree long ago. The Khazars who were a warlike semi-nomadic Turkic people, they all CONVERTED to Judaism during the eighth or ninth century the state religion became Judaism, henceforth came to be the Khazar Jews. THESE are the REAL descendants of today's Ashkenazi "Jews." Yes, real Jews have been intermarrying with the Ashkenazi, but this does not change the facts. Hate the truth all you like, try and obscure history all you want, it will never change the TRUTH.

The Ancient Kingdom of Khazaria

By Benjamin Freedman (who is 100% Jewish and world renown author and lecturer)

The notion that Jews are God's chosen people is not only untrue, but ridiculous. It is a myth that most Jews have an ethnic relationship to Israel. In reality, most Jews have a stronger kinship to the ancient Kingdom of Khazaria than to modern or ancient Palestine/Israel.(Footnote 60) Khazaria was a country in eastern Europe that flourished as an independent state from about 650 to 1016. In about 740, the king of Khazaria issued a decree whereby the national religion became Judaism. Prior to that, the main religion was Shamanism, a type of paganism from which Wicca later evolved. Wicca is a religion of sorts, but is really a euphemism for witchcraft. In fact, Wiccans openly refer to themselves as witches. In addition, Wiccans openly acknowledge Shamanism as a "mother religion."

Benjamin Freedman described the Khazars in a speech he delivered in Washington, DC in 1961. The following is an excerpt from that speech:

What are the facts about the Jews? (I call them Jews to you, because they are known as Jews. I don't call them Jews myself. I refer to them as so-called Jews, because I know what they are.) The eastern European Jews, who form 92 per cent of the world's population of those people who call themselves Jews, were originally Khazars. They were a warlike tribe who lived deep in the heart of Asia. And they were so warlike that even the Asiatics drove them out of Asia into eastern Europe. They set up a large Khazar kingdom of 800,000 square miles. At the time, Russia did not exist, nor did many other European countries. The Khazar kingdom was the biggest country in all Europe -- so big and so powerful that when the other monarchs wanted to go to war, the Khazars would lend them 40,000 soldiers. That's how big and powerful they were.

They were phallic worshippers,(Footnote 61) which is filthy and I do not want to go into the details of that now. But that was their religion, as it was also the religion of many other pagans and barbarians elsewhere in the world. The Khazar king became so disgusted with the degeneracy of his kingdom that he decided to adopt a so-called monotheistic faith -- either Christianity, Islam, or what is known today as Judaism, which is really Talmudism. By spinning a top, and calling out "eeny, meeny, miney, moe," he picked out so-called Judaism. And that became the state religion. He sent down to the Talmudic schools of Pumbedita and Sura and brought up thousands of rabbis, and opened up synagogues and schools, and his people became what we call Jews.

There wasn't one of them who had an ancestor who ever put a toe in the Holy Land. Not only in Old Testament history, but back to the beginning of time. Not one of them! And yet they come to the Christians and ask us to support their armed insurrections in Palestine by saying, "You want to help repatriate God's Chosen People to their Promised Land, their ancestral home, don't you? It's your Christian duty. We gave you one of our boys as your Lord and Savior. You now go to church on Sunday, and you kneel and you worship a Jew, and we're Jews." But they are pagan Khazars who were converted just the same as the Irish were converted.

It is as ridiculous to call them "people of the Holy Land," as it would be to call the 54 million Chinese Moslems

"Arabs." Mohammed only died in 620 A.D., and since then 54 million Chinese have accepted Islam as their religious belief. Now imagine, in China, 2,000 miles away from Arabia, from Mecca and Mohammed's birthplace. Imagine if the 54 million Chinese decided to call themselves "Arabs." You would say they were lunatics. Anyone who believes that those 54 million Chinese are Arabs must be crazy. All they did was adopt as a religious faith a belief that had its origin in Mecca, in Arabia. The same as the Irish. When the Irish became Christians, nobody dumped them in the ocean and imported to the Holy Land a new crop of inhabitants. They hadn't become a different people. They were the same people, but they had accepted Christianity as a religious faith.

These Khazars, these pagans, these Asiatics, these Turko-Finns, were a Mongoloid race who were forced out of Asia into eastern Europe. Because their king took the Talmudic faith, they had no choice in the matter. Just the same as in Spain: If the king was Catholic, everybody had to be a Catholic. If not, you had to get out of Spain. So the Khazars became what we call today Jews. Now imagine how silly it was for the great Christian countries of the world to say, "We're going to use our power and prestige to repatriate God's Chosen People to their ancestral homeland, their Promised Land." Could there be a bigger lie than that? Because they control the newspapers, the magazines, the radio, the television, the book publishing business, and because they have the ministers in the pulpit and the politicians on the soapboxes talking the same language, it is not too surprising that you believe that lie. You'd believe black is white if you heard it often enough. You wouldn't call black black anymore -- you'd start to call black white. And nobody could blame you.

That is one of the great lies of history. It is the foundation of all the misery that has befallen the world.

Ashke means expatriate in Hebrew (definition of expatriate: 1, banish, exile 2, to withdraw from residence in or allegiance to one's native country), and Nazi means Nazi. BEHOLD: The literal translation of Ashkenazi Jews true origin is: expatriate Nazi! Hate the truth all you want, it is still the truth...

Now I don't take the NAZI part lightly... think about it... "The evil Nazis"... Where did they get their ideas?... Who was working behind the scenes in the whole "Nazi" thing? Who financed Hitler? Wasn't Hitler's mother Jewish? The Nazis were the ones who believed the concept of a supreme Aryan race, hmmm the Jews also believe that they are the supreme race that is destined to rule the world. Interesting... Was the Nazi invasion some sort of evil sick diabolical operation to pave the way for the "true Ashkenazi supreme race"? Oh, so many questions... so many "mysteries"... not anymore... Hate the shocking truth all you like, it will still not change it from being the truth.

How ironic that the "real" descendants of the people of ancient Judea are the people of Palestine who centuries ago converted to the Christian or Muslim faiths, not the Ashkenazi European Jews like Netanyahu who have NO Semitic blood connection to the land but only an acceptance by conversion to the Jewish faith (Shlomo Sand – "When and How the Jewish People Was Invented"). What a convenient way to justify theft of another's home and land...

Behold for I come forth to reveal the truths that have been meticulously hidden in plain sight.

One must take note that only the AshkeNAZI "Jews" spoke the Yiddish language, FOR IT DID NOT ORIGINATE IN THE HOLY LAND. Behold for: Hebrew is the liturgical language of Judaism (termed leshon ha-kodesh, "the holy tongue"), the language in which the Hebrew Scriptures (Tanakh) were composed, and the common language of the Jewish people for centuries. By the fifth century BCE, Aramaic, a closely related tongue, joined Hebrew as the spoken language in Judea. By the third century BCE, Jews of the Diaspora were speaking Greek. The Khazar/AshkeNAZI CONVERTED "Jews" are the only people that spoke YIDDISH!

Yiddish dialects are subsets of the major regional branches of the Yiddish language: Western Yiddish and Eastern Yiddish. Eastern Yiddish, the branch almost exclusively encountered in the contemporary speech community, includes three major dialects: Northeastern or Litvish (spoken in the Baltic States, Belarus, and adjacent areas), Central or Poylish (spoken in Poland, Galicia, areas of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire, including Transylvania and other areas of Central Europe), and Southeastern or Ukrainish (spoken in most of the Ukraine and Romania).

Western Yiddish included three dialects: Northwestern (spoken in Northern Germany and the Netherlands), Midwestern (spoken in central Germany), and Southwestern (spoken in southern Germany, France, and neighboring regions extending into Northern Italy). These have a number of clearly distinguished regional varieties, such as Judeo-Alsatian, plus many local sub varieties.

General references to the "Yiddish language" without qualification are normally taken to apply to Eastern Yiddish, unless the subject under consideration is Yiddish literature prior to the 19th century, in which case the focus is more likely to be on Western Yiddish.

Some authors use the term "Southeastern Yiddish" as a collective designation for both Poylish and Ukrainish while still applying the term Northeastern Yiddish to Litvish. The single most populous dialect is Poylish, which together with Ukrainish is used by as many as three quarters of all Yiddish speakers. – [sourced from Wikipedia]

Although in the 11th century, the Ashkenazi Jews comprised only 3 percent of the world's Jewish population, at their peak in 1931, they accounted for 92 percent of the world's Jews. Today they make up approximately 80 percent of Jews worldwide.^[5] Most Jewish communities with extended histories in Europe are Ashkenazim, with the exception of those associated with the Mediterranean region. The majority of the Jews who migrated from Europe to other continents in the past two centuries are Ashkenazim, Eastern Ashkenazim in particular. This is especially true in the United States, where most of the 5.3 million American Jewish population^[6] is Ashkenazi, representing the world's single largest concentration of Ashkenazim.

THE KHAZAR EMPIRE AND ITS HERITAGE - ISBN 0-394-40284-7

This book traces the history of the ancient Khazar Empire, a major but almost forgotten power in Eastern Europe, which in the Dark Ages became converted to Judaism. Khazaria was finally wiped out by the forces of Genghis Khan, but evidence indicates that the Khazars themselves migrated to Poland and formed the cradle of Western Jewry. . .

The Khazars' sway extended from the Black Sea to the Caspian, from the Caucasus to the Volga, and they were instrumental in stopping the Muslim onslaught against Byzantium, the eastern jaw of the gigantic pincer movement that in the West swept across northern Africa and into Spain.

In the second part of this book, "The Heritage," Mr. Koestler speculates about the ultimate faith of the Khazars and their impact on the racial composition and social heritage of modern Jewry. He produces a large body of meticulously detailed research in support of a theory that sounds all the more convincing for the restraint with which it is advanced. Yet should this theory be confirmed, the term "anti-Semitism" would become void of meaning, since, as Mr. Koestler writes, it is based "on a misapprehension shared by both the killers and their victims. The story of the Khazar Empire, as it slowly emerges from the past, begins to look like the most cruel hoax which history has ever perpetrated."

What the Critics have to say!

Finally Available To ALL - Absolute Historical Proof : Jews are not Israelites!

Research Proves "Jews" are non-Israelite Asiatics!

DATELINE U.S.A. (1977) -- In 1976 Random House published a book that should have hit the Christian Churches like a blockbuster, but instead they chose totally to ignore it. It dealt with the racial origin of the people in Communist and Christian countries who call themselves "Jews," and whom the Churches (and the Jews themselves) generally insist are "God's Chosen People," the Israelite descendants of Abraham. Since the late 1800's a small number of Bible Scholars, who were also students of History and Racial origins, have insisted the Church denominations were wrong; that instead of being Israelites, these Jews from Eastern Europe and Western Asia were descended from Mongolians and other Asiatic peoples who had adopted Judaism as their "religion" over 1,000 years ago and had become know as "Jews." These Bible scholars were ignored or condemned, and often called "cultists" or "anti-Semites."

Now, after many years of research, a well-known Jewish author, Arthur Koestler has published a 255 page book titled THE THIRTEENTH TRIBE in which he proves the same point; i.e. that these Eastern European "Jews" are neither Israelites nor "Semites," but are instead Khazars, Mongols, and Huns! Most major newspapers and magazines reviewed the book during 1976. Also, Random House, the publisher, advertised it extensively and began some of their ads with the following headline: WHAT IF MOST JEWS AREN'T REALLY SEMITES AT ALL? In addition, Random House quoted the following reviews:

"Mr. Koestler's excellent book...Is as readable as it is thought-provoking. Nothing could be more stimulating than the skill, elegance and erudition with which he marshals his facts and develops his theories..." Fitzroy Maclean, New York Times Book Review.

"You do not have to be Jewish to be interested... Are today's Western Jews really ethnic, Semitic, Biblical Jews, or are most of them descendants of converted Khazars?...This compact, interesting book...examines tragic-ironic implications in [this question] for modern history...It should fascinate." --Edmund Fuller, Wall Street Journal

"Koestler marshals the evidence in a clear and convincing way. He tells a good story, pulling together materials from medieval Muslims and Jewish travelers, scholarly controversy and the mysterious lore of the Khazars." --Raymond Sokolov, Newsweek

Robert Kirsch of the Los Angeles Times stated in his lengthy review that 'Arthur Koestler publicizes with his customary skills a daring hypothesis: that THE KHAZAR JEWS MIGRATED TO POLAND AND BECAME THE FOREBEARS OF EASTERN EUROPEAN JEWRY...' Then Kirsch quoted Prof. A. N. Poliak of Tel Aviv University, who stated that "The large majority of world Jewry is descended from the Jews of Khazaria." Then he again quoted Koestler in THE THIRTEENTH TRIBE, "If so, this would mean that their ancestors came not from the Jordan but from the Volga; not from Canaan but from the Caucasus, once believed to be the cradle of the Aryan race; and that GENETICALLY THEY ARE MORE RELATED TO THE HUN, UIGUR, AND MAGYAR TRIBES THAN TO THE SEED OF ABRAHAM, ISAAC, AND JACOB..." (emphasis added)

We cannot stress enough how absolutely imperative it is for all Christian Americans to consider the startling proof in Arthur Koestler's book that today's Jews are not Israelites. The Jewish influence on American life has reached such a stage that no student of contemporary history can ignore it. Not only the news media are Jewish monopolies, but top positions in the U.S. government are largely filled by Eastern European Jews. The magazine and book publishing houses are in Jewish hands; and movies, television, and the other entertainment industries are dominated by Jews in all phases. America's government and most of her people's sources of information are controlled and directed by Jews.

If these people were really "God's Chosen People," perhaps Americans would have little cause for concern -- BUT WHAT IF THEY ARE REALLY THE "HUNS" AND THEREFORE THE ANCIENT ENEMIES OF CHRISTENDOM? I say to thee, it has been revealed long ago how we are to know who/what is of God: For it has been prophesized in the Holy Scriptures that "you will know them by their deeds."

Since many Americans may not have an opportunity to read Koestler's book, we shall herewith submit our own index-style review.

172-174	Gives origin of Yiddish language. It is NOT Hebrew!
178	"The Jewish dark ages may be said to begin with the Renaissance." (Reviews comment: This remark by the Jew Cecil Roth, coupled with other information, is a sorrowful admission that the Jews were supreme in the Dark Ages but lost their dominion over Europe when the Light of God's Word brought about the Renaissance!)
180-199	Quotes from many sources to prove Jews NOT descended from Biblical Israelites, ending with this, ...evidence from anthropology concurs with history in refuting the popular belief in a Jewish race descended from the biblical tribe.
200-222	Refers to others who have written on the same subject.
223	Israeli's right to exist...not based on...the mythological covenant of Abraham with God; it is based on international law -- i.e., on the United Nations' decision of 1947. . .
224-226	Koestler ends his book by saying he believes many Jews have learned of their Khazar ancestry and now reject the Chosen-Race doctrine.

THE THIRTEENTH TRIBE proves beyond doubt that modern Jews are not Biblical Israelites. Every church member in America should insist that his Pastor investigate these claims. Are our Jewish politicians, publishers, movie makers, and opinion molders God's "Chosen People"? Or are they Mongol and Hun infiltrators of Christendom?

Is The Jews' "Chosen People" Masquerade Finally Over?

Shortly after World War I, Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Company, assembled a staff of experts in Detroit to conduct research on the European Jews who had been entering America in large numbers since the 1880's. Ford provided the staff with several million dollars for this research, and in 1923 he published the results in a four-volume work titled "THE INTERNATIONAL JEW." It was Henry Ford's conclusion that very few of these people who called themselves "Jews" were descendants of the Bible Israelites.

Ford further proved that these Jews, using all sorts of crimes while under the cloak of being the Chosen People of the Bible, were rapidly taking economic and political control of America. In the religious field, Ford claimed THE JEWS HAD SECRETLY GAINED CONTROL OF MOST PROTESTANT SEMINARIES AND CHRISTIAN BOOK- PUBLISHING HOUSES and had been able to remove almost all criticism of Jews from Christian literature.

In summing up his findings, Henry Ford stated, "The Jews are not the Chosen People, though practically the entire Church has succumbed to the propaganda which declares them to be so." Ford's book caused a furor for a few years but soon disappeared from colleges, universities, and public libraries and became unobtainable at any price. The Churches continued to teach "The Jews are God's Chosen People, Israel," and the (by then) Jewish-dominated news media began to refer to Jews always as Israelites. Anyone opposing the increasing Jewish control of the nations was immediately branded "anti-Semitic;" and Jewish dominated Seminaries taught new ministers to quote Genesis 12:1-3 and sternly warn their flocks that anyone speaking unfavorably of the Jews would be "cursed by God." Jewish control of American society, politics, and religions continued to increase.

In 1951 retired U.S. Military Intelligence Officer, Col. John Beaty, published a scholarly 265-page book IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA. In it Col. Beaty gave overwhelming evidence this strange Race of Eastern European "Jews" were actually Khazar and Mongol Asiatics and had no racial ancestry in Israel at all.

He then proved that by 1951 these "Jews" had a stranglehold on American politics, on Banking and Credit, on all sources of news, on the entertainment industry, on America's education system, and that they were the predominant race as judges, lawyers, doctors, and in organized crime. The Jewish news media refused to review the book, Jewish book dealers refused to handle it, Christian book stores ignored it, and only a few thousand copies were distributed. Most Americans never heard of IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA. Now, because of renewed interest, both THE INTERNATIONAL JEW (in an abridged edition) and IRON CURTAIN OVER AMERICA have been reprinted and are available.

The latest, and perhaps the most succinct book on this subject, is ISRAEL'S 5 TRILLION DOLLAR SECRET by Col. Curtis B. Dall, former son-in-law of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and a personal acquaintance of many high officials in the U.S. Government since the 1930's. Col. Dall lives and works in the Washington, D. C. area, and his book, published in 1977. Col. Dall proves again, from reliable sources, that the Jews are NOT Israelites. In fact, Col. Dall calls their masquerade as "Israel" the greatest "hoax" of the last centuries! It should be read by every non-Jew.

You now know their false identity as "Israel" protects these "Jews" from being exposed as aliens and as anti-Americans. Read the books below. Give this sheet to your Minister. Tell him to preach the truth - or resign! Most preaching today is based on the "Jew-Israel" myth, and it is false.

"Fear them not therefore; for there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed: and hid, that shall not be known. What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the housetops" (Jesus, in Matthew 10:26,27). 13trindx.htm

As I have been trying to articulate, all Jews are NOT evil. This is where most people get mixed up and confused, this is of purposeful design, for the wolves in sheep's clothing hide well among the flock of sheep. There exists a sinister secretive sect of the central players, a cabal, consortium, a syndicate, a Global Mafia that is the "hidden hand," that acts as an invisible force behind an unimaginable array of world influencing events, these are the central players in virtually all key areas of the Luciferian matrix. They consist of the Learned Elders of Zion whom are none other than the high echelon world ZIONISTS. I don't make these statements nonchalantly, It is in our best interest to investigate the vailidity of this declaration, and follow the rabbit down the hole.

Ok, here is another eye opening item concerning the supposed “most wonderful, benevolent, innocent persecuted perpetually victimized Zionists who have been strategically hiding behind the real persecuted “Jews”:

Let’s go forth and study the alleged wonderful compassionate benevolence of the Zionists and their apartheid terrorist state of Israel - For it has been prophesized: “By their deeds you will know them”

ZIONISM UNMASKED

Special Series on Zionism

Tim King, Salem-News.com

What is it? Why do we write about it? Why has it led to a genocidal wipeout of the Palestinian people?

(SALEM, Ore.) - There are many of us who have to draw our line in the sand in this life, and it often isn't comfortable. When we take any position that only fits outside the societal norm, we risk many things that more sheep-like people can legitimately expect to have on a daily basis.

I knew from day one in this that I had a mission in this life. Then I could not have said what it was, but today as the editor of Salem-News.com I see it as quite obvious. The unpopular position I very willingly assume is that of a writer who criticizes the military state of Israel, which oppresses the Palestinians who called the land their own scarcely over 60 years ago.

The Salem-News.com series ZIONISM UNMASKED by writers Jeff Gates, Alan Hart, Dr. Paul J. Balles and Maidhc Ó Cathail, is created to educate the American public about the threat this mentality, very much separate from Judaism itself, represents for all parties involved, including the United States.

Zionism is not in any way exclusively a belief shared among Jewish people, it is also a common belief among Christians. The matter is based on the reference to Jews being "God's Chosen People" and while that in and of itself is one matter, it has ultimately led to the decimation of the population of Palestine. How can any belief system that illegally targets schools and hospitals in a historic place like Gaza, mercilessly killing hundreds of innocent children in the process, represent God?

The excuse used by Israel is that it is eternally in defense of itself, but many believe Israel is simply, systematically, creating genocide on the Palestinian population.

The Israelis took the land away from the Palestinians when the Jewish state was created in the late 1940's. It has grown steadily ever since, and still insists daily on bulldozing of the homes of Palestinians, creating an ever growing number of poverty stricken refugees who would not otherwise exist, and also the construction of 'settlements' on the remaining Palestinian land.

This genocidal behavior funded by the U.S. simply cannot be tolerated by the world any longer, and that is why we never stop publishing stories in this regard. I sincerely appreciate the efforts of our writers in Arizona, London, Washington D.C. and Osaka, Japan in taking on this important subject for our readers.

ZIONISM UNMASKED: End of Zionism = Peace

Jeff Gates Salem-News.com

Morality and conscience are of no concern to those who consider themselves The Chosen—by a god of their own choosing.

(TEMPE, Az.) - While Zionism is clearly a nationalist ideology that narrow framing does the term an injustice as it is so much more.

Zionism is more accurately described as a strategy for targeting thought and emotion as a means to influence behavior. Naïve Jews were its first victims when induced to identify with an enclave in the Middle East that President Harry Truman, a Christian Zionist, was induced to recognize as a “state.”

Zionism is first and foremost a mental state that manifests as a dispersed form of internalized nationalism—a Diaspora—that binds to an extremist enclave those who may never set foot there. After 1967, this “state” became the “Land of Israel” based on a more expansive area seized by Israel Defense Forces along with other occupied lands that Zionists claim a god gave them.

Zionism recruits by sustaining a shared sense of insecurity within the broader Jewish community. It progresses by marketing its perceived vulnerability and victimhood among those on whom it relies for financial, military and diplomatic support.

When, as now, policies of the Zionist state come under attack, media campaigns herald an outbreak of anti-Semitism and hatred—not for Zionism but for Jews, enhancing recruitment.

By choosing to identify their interests with those of Zionism, Jews choose to make themselves feel insecure. Zionism relies for its success not only on deception but also on self-deceit.

Many well-informed Jews opposed Israel’s founding in 1948. By 1967, Jewish-Americans were active in the civil rights movement. With the Six-Day War, that activism became problematic. How could Jews back civil rights for Blacks while Zionism denied those rights to Palestinians?

That era marked a turning point both for Zionism and legitimate Judaism as many Jews abandoned civil rights activism when they could no longer reconcile their activism with Israeli oppression. Thus the present mental state of Barack Obama’s many Jewish Zionist advisers.

The Six-Day War induced more Jews to identify with Zionism as a defender of Jews. Yet now we know that war was a long-planned land grab destined to outrage Arabs and Muslims. When combined with a murderous occupation, decades of Israeli provocations were guaranteed to evoke the violent reactions required to rationalize a “war on terrorism.”

In terms of game theory war planning, today’s results were perfectly predictable—mathematically model-able within an acceptable range of probabilities. Once again Zionism targeted thought and emotion to manipulate behavior by provoking antagonism and evoking extremism—the two key ingredients required to plausibly proclaim their insecurity.

When your numbers are few and your ambitions vast, what choice did Zionists have but to seduce and deceive a super power so that our military would wage their wars for Greater Israel?

Peace is the Opponent

Peace is a perilous ‘state’ to be avoided at any cost by a nationalist ideology that thrives on serial crises wed to a perpetual state of conflict and fear. To realize the Zionist goal of hegemony over the Middle East requires a series of plausible Evil Doers and a persuasive narrative. Could Zionism be the reason we segued so seamlessly from the Cold War to the War on Terrorism? (see: How Israel Wages War on the U.S.-By Way of Deception - Jeff Gates Salem-News.com)

Instead of the anticipated post-Cold War “peace dividend, the U.S. finds itself waging what Nobel economist Joe Stiglitz calls The $3 Trillion War—all of it borrowed, including $700 billion in interest expense.

In hindsight, the phony intelligence that induced us to war in the Middle East was traceable to Israelis, pro-Israelis or assets developed for that purpose such as Iraqi liar Ahmad Chalabi.

Other than those sharing a Zionist mental state, who had the means, motive, opportunity and, importantly, the stable nation-state intelligence to conduct such operations inside the U.S.?

Yet even now those responsible elude accountability and even scrutiny as cries of “anti-Semitism” are deployed to intimidate and misdirect—by manipulating thought and emotion.

At the end of World War II, the U.S. claimed 50% of the world’s productive power, ensuring we would have the world’s top-rated government bonds for at least two generations. When the Cold War drew to a costly close in 1989, the U.S. had spent $15.9 trillion on defense since 1948 (in 2010 dollars). Now a potential war without end has taken its place.

Americans have been induced to believe that the Zionist state is an ally. We are not alone in viewing Israel as a legitimate nation and a noble experiment to provide a “homeland” for a victimized people. That alluring storyline victimized the broader Jewish community while also laying waste to the nation that was first deceived to extend to Zionists the hand of friendship.

To escape the ravages of Zionism requires that we concede its duplicitous nature and make its operations transparent so that its perpetrators become apparent. As a long-deceived global public grasps its costs in blood and treasure, this mental state will be seen for what it is: a criminal state.

The Psychopath Within

In the clinical psychiatric literature, this “state” features interpersonal traits such as superficial charm, pathological lying, egocentricity, lack of remorse, and callousness that are regarded as characteristic of psychopaths. In order to betray, psychopaths first befriend. In order to defraud, they first establish a relationship of trust. Sound familiar?

Those who share such a mental state will happily incite hatred to catalyze a reaction and then claim they are the victims of hate. For those inhabiting this mental state, it appears rational and even desirable to provoke a response and then claim to be a target of anti-Semites. Inside this internal state, self-absorption is all-encompassing with arrogance its most visible trait.

Law is irrelevant to those who consider themselves above the law. Morality and conscience are of no concern to those who consider themselves The Chosen—by a god of their own choosing. Such a nationalist ideology has no place in a system nation states dedicated to the rule of law.

Those sharing such a “state” pose too great a peril to be an object of pity or compassion. Accountability is the only appropriate response along with an initiative—deploying force as required—to secure any weapons of mass destruction that may be in their possession.

Such a state cannot be delegitimized because any legitimacy attained was integral to the fraud it inflicted on the community of nations. The issue at hand is how best to protect a peace-seeking world from a psychopathic ideology that assumed the appearance of legitimacy so that a Christian Zionist president could be deceived to recognize as a nation a criminal state.

ZIONISM UNMASKED: A Fairy Tale That's Become a Terrifying Nightmare

Alan Hart Salem-News.com

One thing nobody can deny is the effectiveness of Zionism’s propaganda machine. (LONDON) - Most Jews of the world (and probably many Gentiles) believe that Zionism is the return of Jews to the land promised to them by God. At the risk of offending some readers of all faiths for saying so, I must confess, and do so cheerfully, that I don’t buy this concept because the Gentile me does not believe in the God of organized, institutional religions. So, I say to myself, no God, no promise to Jews (or anybody else). In my perception of the scheme of things, God is the potential for good inside each and every one of us. God so defined is a prisoner within each of us and our prime task is to liberate this prisoner. But let’s put that to one side.

The Jews who returned in answer to Zionism’s call had no biological connection to the ancient Hebrews. They were converts to Judaism long after the end of the Hebrew conquest and short-lived domination of much of Canaan, the name as in the Bible by which Palestine was first known to the world. They therefore had no legitimate claim on the land.

The Jews who did have a legitimate claim, probably not more than about 10,000 at the time of Zionism’s first dishonest mission statement in 1897, were the direct descendants of the Israelites who stayed in place on the land through time. They regarded themselves as Palestinians, and they were fiercely opposed to Zionism’s colonial enterprise because they feared it would make them as well as the incoming alien Jews enemies of the Palestinian Arabs.

Also true is that prior to the obscenity of the Nazi holocaust, most Jews of the world were not at all interested in Zionism’s colonial enterprise and many were opposed to it. The most informed and thoughtful of those who did express their opposition believed that Zionism was morally wrong. They also feared that Zionism’s colonial enterprise would lead to unending conflict.

But most of all they feared that Zionism, if it was allowed by the major powers to have its way, would one day provoke anti-Semitism. Which is precisely what is happening today. (Hence the title of my book, ZIONISM: THE REAL ENEMY OF THE JEWS). In reality it is how the Zionists created their state - a Zionist not a Jewish state - that best defines what Zionism actually is.

Israel was created, mainly, by Zionist terrorism and ethnic cleansing - a pre-planned process that saw three-quarters of the indigenous Arab inhabitants of Palestine dispossessed of their homes, their land and their rights.

Zionism asserts that its state was given its birth certificate and thus legitimacy by the UN Partition Resolution of 29 November 1947. That is propaganda nonsense. The truth can be summarized as follows.

- In the first place the UN without the consent of the majority of the people of Palestine did not have the right to decide to partition Palestine or assign any part of its territory to a minority of alien immigrants in order for them to establish a state of their own.

- By the narrowest of margins, and only after a rigged vote, the UN General Assembly did pass a resolution to partition Palestine and create two states, one Arab, one Jewish, with Jerusalem not part of either. But the General Assembly resolution was only a recommendation - meaning that it could have no effect, would not become policy, unless approved by the Security Council.
- The General Assembly's recommendation never went to the Security Council for consideration because the U.S. knew that, if approved, it could only be implemented by force given the extent of Arab and other Muslim opposition to it; and President Truman was not prepared to use force to partition Palestine.
- So the partition plan was vitiated (became invalid) and the question of what the hell to do about Palestine - after Britain had made a mess of it and walked away, effectively surrendering to Zionist terrorism - was taken back to the General Assembly for more discussion. The option favoured and proposed by the U.S. was temporary UN Trusteeship. It was while the General Assembly was debating what to do that Israel unilaterally declared itself to be in existence - actually in defiance of the will of the organised international community, including the Truman administration.

The truth of the time was that the Zionist state had no right to exist and, more to the point, could have no right to exist UNLESS ... Unless it was recognized and legitimized by those Zionism had dispossessed of their land and their rights.

In international law only the Palestinians could give Israel the legitimacy it craved.

What is a Zionist today?

Short answer: One, not necessarily a Jew, who (to quote Balfour) supports the Zionist state of Israel "right or wrong" and who cannot or will not admit that a terrible wrong was done to the Palestinians by Zionism - a wrong that must be acknowledged and then corrected on terms acceptable to the Palestinians if there is ever to be peace and the countdown to catastrophe for all is to be stopped. The Arab word for the catastrophe of the original dispossession of the Palestinians is Nakba. In my view, Zionism's Nakba denial is as obscene and as evil as denial of the Nazi holocaust.

One thing nobody can deny is the effectiveness of Zionism's propaganda machine. Zionism's spin doctors probably learned from the Nazis that the bigger the lies and the more frequently they are told, the more likely it is that they will be believed in the mainly Gentile, Judeo-Christian or Western world; and all the more so when the mainstream media is terrified of offending Zionism either too much or at all.

The biggest of all of Zionism's propaganda lies is the one which asserts that Israel has lived in constant danger of annihilation, the "driving into the sea" of its Jews. As I document in detail in my book, Israel's existence has never, ever, been in danger from any combination of Arab force.

Not in 1948. Not in 1967. And not even in 1973. Zionism's assertion to the contrary was the cover which allowed Israel to get away where it mattered most, in North America and Western Europe, with presenting its aggression (often state terrorism) as self-defense, and itself as the victim when actually it was, and is, the oppressor.

The companion propaganda lie is that Israel never had Arab partners for peace.

Zionism has two hallmarks

One is self-righteousness of a most extraordinary kind. In 1986 this self-righteousness was described by Yehoshafat Harkabi, a former Director of Israeli Military Intelligence, as "the biggest real danger" to the Jewish state.

The other hallmark is a shocking and awesome arrogance of military and economic power and the influence the latter buys, most critically in the U.S. Congress where what passes for democracy is for sale to the highest bidders.

On the matter of truth as it relates to the making and sustaining of conflict in and over Palestine that became Israel, I hope the German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer (1788-1860) is right: “All truth passes through three stages. First, it is ridiculed. Second, it is violently opposed. Third, it is accepted as being self-evident.”; If that’s true, Zionism not only can be defeated but will be.

ZIONISM UNMASKED: Chutzpah, thy name is Zionism

Maidhc Ó Cathail Salem-News.com

One might think that with over a million people dead and almost five million others displaced in Iraq—and not a weapon of mass destruction to be found—that Netanyahu might be showing some remorse. Instead, he’s beating the drums loudest for an even more catastrophic war with Iran.

(OSAKA, Japan) - Chutzpah, a Yiddish word meaning “shameless audacity,” has been famously defined as “that quality enshrined in a man who, having killed his mother and father, throws himself on the mercy of the court because he is an orphan.” Considering Israel’s increasingly outrageous behaviour, perhaps it’s time for a new definition. The one that springs to mind is “that quality enshrined in a state, which having induced its ‘allies’ into a disastrous invasion of Iraq, then urges them to attack Iran.”

At a recent dinner in honour of visiting Italian premier Silvio Berlusconi, Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu took yet another rhetorical swipe at Tehran. “Humanity stands before one of its most difficult tests since World War II,” Netanyahu intoned. “The radical Islamic regime threatens [sic] the well-being of the state of Israel, the region, and all of humanity.”

Sounding more like an Israeli envoy than the head of a sovereign nation, Berlusconi responded, “My job is to make sure that world leaders do not commit the same error of the past, the error of indifference that brought about the greatest tragedy in history.”

In Defamation, a highly revealing 2009 documentary on anti-Semitism by Israeli filmmaker Yoav Shamir, Professor Norman Finkelstein noted this strategy of invoking past Jewish suffering to justify future wars. “The irony is that the Nazi holocaust has now become the main ideological weapon for launching wars of aggression,” said Finkelstein, the author of The Holocaust Industry. “Every time you want to launch a war of aggression, drag in the Nazi holocaust.”

Or, to be more precise, every time Israel wants other countries to launch a war of aggression on its behalf, it drags in the Nazi holocaust. In the build-up to the 2003 invasion of Iraq, Netanyahu was one of many Zionists who did just that. In a September 20, 2002 Wall Street Journal op-ed titled “The Case for Toppling Saddam,” Netanyahu laid on the guilt trip: “We now know that had the democracies taken pre-emptive action to bring down Hitler’s regime in the 1930s, the worst horrors in history could have been avoided.”

And as he and other Zionists are now doing with Iran, Netanyahu was in 2002 hyping a non-existent Iraqi nuclear threat. Saddam Hussein, he claimed, was “feverishly trying to acquire nuclear weapons.” Moreover, “the deadly material necessary for atomic bombs,” the then former Israeli Prime Minister speculated, could be produced “in centrifuges the size of washing machines that can be hidden throughout the country—and Iraq is a very big country.” To uncover Saddam’s hypothetical “portable manufacturing sites of mass death,” Netanyahu warned that “nothing less than dismantling his regime will do.”

One might think that with over a million people dead and almost five million others displaced in Iraq—and not a weapon of mass destruction to be found—that Netanyahu might be showing some remorse. Instead, he’s beating the drums loudest for an even more catastrophic war with Iran.

That should tell us a lot not only about the man but about the nature of the ideology that drives him. Zionism, like the fictional Jewish parenticide, shamelessly attempts to turn reality on its head.

Instead of acknowledging that it is the only nuclear-armed state in the Middle East, Israel and its supporters focus the world's attention on imaginary threats from its regional rivals.

Rather than apologizing for their crimes against humanity—most notably, the dispossession and virtual imprisonment of the Palestinian people—Zionists arrogantly portray themselves as the defenders of humanity against Islamic aggression.

And instead of admitting that they lied about Iraqi WMD, Iraqi ties to al-Qaeda, Iraqi mobile biological weapons laboratories, Iraqi yellowcake uranium from Niger, and Iraqi meetings in Prague, Zionist propagandists are busy concocting similarly brazen lies about Iran.

If world leaders are indeed committing an “error of indifference,” it is hardly their supposed resistance to Zionist scaremongering. Rather, it is their indifference to the suffering of Arab and Muslim peoples. Foremost among them are the Palestinians—the ultimate victims of the shameless audacity of Zionism.

ZIONISM UNMASKED: 'Anti-Semitic' - the Label that Stops Criticism

Dr. Paul Balles for Salem-News.com

When you can't criticize a propaganda machine for its promotions, both free speech and democracy are dead.

(BAHRAIN) - If you indulge in ad hominem attacks (attacking the person rather than the issue), you can expect the same in return. The issues related to the anti-Semitic label are many.

First, the expression “anti-Semitic” is a misnomer. It's defined as “hating Jews or Judeophobia.” The label “anti-Semitism” is wrong because not all Jews are Semites, and many Arabs are.

In 2004, the US Congress passed the Global Anti-Semitism Review Act. The Act defines a person as being anti-Semitic for holding any of a number of beliefs. My comments follow each of the 14 items supposedly revealing anti-Semitism.

1. Any assertion, “that the Jewish community controls government, the media, international business and the financial world.”

According to this, it doesn't matter whether the assertion is true or not. Truth is not an issue. Simply making such a statement violates the Act. In itself, that fact provides strong evidence of control of the US government.

2. The expression of “Strong anti-Israel sentiment.”

Any criticism of Israel can thus be considered anti-Semitic. Israel can mangle Gaza and get away with it.

3. Expressing “Virulent criticism” of Israel's leaders, past or present.

Menachem Begin may have led the Irgun in the slaughter and dispossession of thousands of Palestinians, but it's anti-Semitic to say so.

4. Any criticism of the Jewish religion or its religious leaders with its emphasis on the Talmud and Kabbala.

It's perfectly acceptable, as free speech, to vilify Islam, but any criticism of Judaism violates the Act.

5. Any criticism of the United States Government and Congress for being under the undue influence by the Jewish-Zionist community, which would include Jewish organizations such as AIPAC.

Truth matters not to the ridiculous legislators who passed this ludicrous act.

6. Any criticism of the Jewish-Zionist community for promoting globalism or what some call the "New World Order."

When you can't criticize a propaganda machine for its promotions, both free speech and democracy are dead.

7. Placing any blame on Jewish leaders and their followers for inciting the Roman crucifixion of Christ.

In order to accommodate the anti-Semitism label, simply rewrite history.

8. Citing any facts that could in any way diminish the "six million" figure of Jewish holocaust victims.

I violate the act simply by citing the fact that five million non-Jews died at the hands of the Nazis. This goes beyond stifling free speech.

9. Claiming that Israel is a racist state.

That's not a claim. It's a fact. Israel is full of racist laws. It insists on preserving its racist character and its right to impose apartheid in the West Bank and Gaza.

10. Making any claim that there is a "Zionist Conspiracy."

A rational provision for such a claim would insist on evidence as proof of its validity. To disallow making such a claim is existentially (Israelis love that word) dictatorial.

11. Offering proof that Jews and their leaders created Communism and the Bolshevik revolution in Russia.

It just became illegal to offer proof. Minds are made up. Don't confuse them with the facts.

12. Making derogatory statements about Jewish persons.

Why limit it to Jewish persons?

13. Asserting that spiritually disobedient Jews do not have the Biblical right to re-occupy Palestine.

Why limit it to the spiritually disobedient?

14. Making any allegations of Mossad involvement in the 9/11 attack.

I just did in a column published a week ago.

The Act passed by the US Congress makes me anti-Semitic. It's an unconstitutional violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution. I'm a critic of Israel when they commit wrongs and a critic of America when it does wrong. Despite Congress, that's not anti-Semitic.

The great myth that has been cultivated throughout the years is one of a most wonderful benevolent beautiful GOD CENTERED nation of Israel. Well all one needs to do is stop watching the Zionist owned/controlled news reports and take the time to delve deeper than the surface of all issues regarding this global world super power. Many people are completely hopelessly brainwashed to the extent that no matter what rock solid evidence you produce, they cannot go past the many years of priming, indoctrination and programming. Nothing you show them will EVER convince them anything contrary to what they have been literally conditioned and programmed to think and feel.

Let's go forth and study the proverbial "tip of the iceberg" that reveals the TRUE nature of the beast that has disguised itself in sheep's clothing. Below are several well researched and enlightening articles that reveal the sinister nature of those who claim to be righteous wonderful benevolent Godly men, the chosen or anointed ones:

Israeli authorities continued bulldozing dozens of graves in the historic Islamic Ma'man Allah cemetery, and have bulldozed dozens of Muslim graves on Wednesday, while preventing journalists and photographers from filming the bulldozing and demolition, and assaulting some of them.

Under protection of the Israeli occupation forces, Israeli municipality workers bulldozed over 200 graves dating back hundreds of years in the cemetery - which came under Israeli occupation in 1948 - amid attacks on the journalists and any of the Palestinians who try to defend what remains of the cemetery.

Israel deliberately carried out the demolitions in the middle of the (about 12:30am) night to avoid encountering journalists and Palestinians. Graves that were still standing were marked to complete their demolition on the following night.

According to press reports, the Israeli Government plans to build a (I couldn't make this up even if I tried) 'museum of tolerance' on the ancient Muslim cemetery!!! LOL! see video [here]

Just about EVERY SINGLE world conflict that our planet is currently facing is DIRECTLY connected to Israel and the Zionist "Jews"... I know that this may sound preposterous, but those of you who dare continue reading the entire report will clearly comprehend the vastness and profoundness of this statement. A carefully crafted public image of Israel has been carefully and methodically instilled into the public conscience by its agents who run some of the world's largest media firms. While we are bombarded with daily doses of Zionist Jew controlled "news" about evil Muslims, meticulously instilling Islamophobia in the public's minds, rarely do we EVER hear of the multitude of Israeli attacks on its neighbors using the most sophisticated military equipment on earth against those evil Muslim "terrorists" mainly armed with sticks and stones (ok, so they have a few crude rocket launchers) whose many towns and cities have long since been reduced to rubble. Just look at the ETHNIC CLEANSING that is going on in the occupied Palestinian lands and search the bottom of your heart for the rationalization and justification of the wanton death and destruction that has been unleashed on them since 1948 when the Zionists managed to get England to approve of their long fought wishes of taking over this land.

A Jewish American's Evolving View of Israel

By Steven R. Feldman

In an argument about the origins of the Israel-Palestine conflict with a Jewish friend, I mentioned 'Plan D, the secret plans of the Jewish army to expel Palestinians.' My friend thought I was a raving lunatic, spouting a conspiracy theory promoted by anti-Semites.

I didn't used to sound that way. Growing up in Washington, D.C., I attended the Hebrew Academy, a school that my grandfather helped to found and that my father had helped lead. Like other people who attend religious schools, we were taught that we had a special relationship with God and that our group had a higher moral character. As Jews, we learned how we had been an oppressed people. As American Jews, we believed in American and Jewish values of honesty, justice, truth and peace. We took pride in Israel, a democratic country that shared our values and that represented an end to our oppression.

Our role in reclaiming Israel was very special. We Jews had come to an unredeemed holy land of deserts and swamps, and we made that land bloom. I was proud to be a part of it. Like my classmates, I collected nickels and dimes, saving to plant trees in Israel. Being a Jew made me part owner of the country.

The Story We Were Taught [primed, programmed, indoctrinated to believe]

We Jews had returned to Israel to live in peace with the small local population already there. We bought land from them. And when the evil Arab states — jealous of our accomplishments — declared war on Israel, we begged the local Arabs to stay. We were moral people. But the local Arabs, in an attempt to help Arab armies kill off the Jews, fled. At least that was the story we were taught.

We defeated the Arab armies against all odds. It was a miracle. Yet Israel remained under constant threat from Muslims who wanted to slaughter Jews. Arabs started wars to annihilate Israel in 1948, 1956, 1967 and 1973. The evil Arabs would terrorize or kill innocents, something Jews never did. We were proud of our commitment to every Jewish life, in contrast to the Arab's disregard for life. This was evident as we would kill 20 Arabs for every one of us that was killed and we would trade 100 Arab prisoners to recover just one of ours — even a dead one. Our morality was never in doubt. Having American and Jewish values, we were always empathetic to the suffering of the Palestinian refugees. If Muslims had been as caring as we were, Arab countries would have taken the Palestinian refugees in.

My understanding of that story evolved. As a way to expand my horizons, I took an audio course on world religions. The course described Islam as a religion of peace, similar to the Judaism I grew up with. That was very different than what I was taught of Islam — which admittedly was very, very little — in an American Hebrew School. Could this peaceful vision of Islam be reconciled with the violence we Jews saw? On a visit to Israel, I wondered if the Arabs might have a different perspective of the conflict than the one I was taught. Perhaps they saw Israel and the West's support of Israel as a continuation of the Crusades, an attempt by the West to wrest control of holy land from Muslims.

Palestinian Refugees

I had always felt weak in my understanding of how Israel was created in 1948. The details we were taught were rather sketchy. I found United Nations data that said about 700,000 Palestinians became refugees in the fighting of 1948. That seemed odd. If Jews had come to a land of empty swamps and deserts as I had been taught, how did so many Palestinian men, women and children become refugees? The part of the story that said Jews had come to an empty land seemed like it couldn't be true.

I began to question other things I had learned when I read that the 1956 war was actually started by Israel, in conjunction with Britain and France, in an effort to help Britain retake the Suez Canal from Egypt. The idea that "the Arabs started all the wars" certainly seemed questionable. Our special morality came into doubt when I read more about the heroic groups — the Irgun and the Stern Gang — that had fought for the protection of the Jews in Palestine. The tales told to us as children didn't make clear that these groups were terrorist organizations. Israeli historian Benny Morris describes how members of Jewish terror organizations threw grenades into Arab homes and were the first to plant bombs in buses and crowded civilian markets. There were justifications for these actions, of course. One was that they were a response to violence committed by Arabs. Another justification was that they were the unacceptable actions of criminal splinter groups that were punished (though I'm not sure what "punished" meant, as I later learned that Menachem Begin and Yitchak Shamir, former Prime Ministers of Israel, had been leaders of the worst of these Jewish terrorist organizations in the 1940s).

Then there was the story of the Arab town Deir Yassin. The story of Deir Yassin was not taught to us at the Hebrew Academy. It was a singular and very atypical event in the history of the founding of Israel, representing the one and only time Palestinians were mistreated by Jews. While the facts about what was done in Deir Yassin are disputed, many Arab people of this town were killed. How bad the atrocities were isn't entirely clear, but no one seems proud of how the Arab people of this town were treated.

More Than Deir Yassin

Though Deir Yassin was a tragedy, it certainly wasn't representative of Jewish action. Our actions were entirely moral. But the recent work of Israeli historians began to document more than just Deir Yassin. Morris describes how in 1948 the Jews in Palestine — BEFORE any of the Arab countries declared war — used force and intimidation to drive Palestinian Arabs from many towns and villages. Plan D of the Haganah, the "secret plan" that made my friend and colleague think I was off my rocker, was found by Morris in previously sealed Israeli Defense Forces archives. The plan called for, "Destruction of villages (setting fire to, blowing up, and planting mines in the debris), especially those population centers which are difficult to control continuously. ..., the population must be expelled outside the borders of the state." While Plan D was touted as a defense plan, historians say that it contributed to a mass exodus of Palestinians from their homes and villages. Having seen this documentation, the idea that Jews of higher morality had begged the local Arabs to stay put (an idea that had been promoted in Leon Uris' novel The Haj) now seemed more like a fairy tale.

It's hard to know what was in the minds of people in 1948, but perhaps they felt it was necessary for the safety of Jews and for the creation of a Jewish state to "cleanse" the area of Arabs. This was surely a different kind of cleansing than the Nazi Germans intended when they intended to clear the world of Jews. The Holocaust™ involved gas chambers and the killing of millions of Jews (and others), including members of my family. What the Jews did to Palestinians was not like what the Nazi Germans (and other Europeans) did to the Jews. What the Nazis did to us contributed to the strength of my American Jewish stand against discrimination. That ideal was inconsistent with the expulsion of Palestinian families from their homes. Morris describes it in detail in a two-part interview published in the Israeli newspaper Ha'aretz. Hundreds of thousands of Palestinian men, women and children were violently forced from their homes and villages. The Arab villages were destroyed to keep the Palestinians from returning to their homes. In the Ha'aretz article, Morris says,

"...there were far more Israeli acts of massacre than I had previously thought. To my surprise, there were also many cases of rape. In the months of April-May 1948, units of the Haganah [the pre-state defense force that was the precursor of the IDF] were given operational orders that stated explicitly that they were to uproot the villagers, expel them and destroy the villages themselves."

A Different View of the Conflict

The facts of the Israeli-Palestine conflict looked differently with a perspective enlightened by knowing that the Palestinians had been forced out. Jews did buy some land, but it was only a few percent of what they took. The 10 (or 100) to 1 ratio in killing Arabs to Jews didn't look so civilized anymore. I no longer take any pride when seeing the massive destruction Israel inflicts on Palestinians or neighboring countries. One might still wonder if the Jews had resorted to these actions only in response to Arab attacks, but as early as 1919, before Arab riots in Palestine, Ben Gurion made clear that European Jews emigrating to Palestine intended to displace the Palestinians. Morris quotes Ben Gurion as saying, "There is a gulf, and nothing can bridge it I do not know what Arab will agree that Palestine should belong to the Jews. We, as a nation, want this country to be ours .."

European Jews brought high ideals of an egalitarian, socialist society with them to Palestine, but apparently it was a socialism intended only for Jews. The Jews created unions in the workplace but they were unions for Jews, excluding Arabs in a way that seemed very reminiscent of South African Apartheid and of American discrimination of an earlier, less tolerant and less enlightened, era.

I had been taught that Jews had lived in Palestine for centuries and that this continuous tie gave us Jews a right to "redeem" our homeland. Now, the presence of those Jews — surrounded for centuries by tens and hundreds of thousands of Palestinian Arabs (mostly Muslim, but some Christian) — made me realize that Arabs never intended to slaughter Jews or throw them into the sea. If the Quran taught hatred of Jews, Muslims could have cleansed Palestine of Jews long ago. Instead, Muslims, Christians and Jews had lived peacefully together, documented by Morris who found that in the 27 years ending in 1908 only 13 Jews had been killed by Arabs and of those all but 4 were killed in the course of robberies or other crimes. Only after the European Jews began coming to Palestine with the intent to displace the local population did the violence take off.

Gandhi Chastises Zionists

Some think the conflict between Jews and Arabs didn't start until the war of 1948, but already in the 1930s Gandhi chastised the Zionist effort to displace Palestinians through violent means. "My sympathies are all with the Jews," Gandhi said. "They have been the untouchables of Christianity. The parallel between their treatment by Christians and the treatment of untouchables by Hindus is very close." Yet Gandhi went on to say, "I have no doubt that they [the Jews] are going about it the wrong way. The Palestine of the Biblical conception is not a geographical tract. It is in their hearts. But if they must look to the Palestine of geography as their national home, it is wrong to enter it under the shadow of the British gun. A religious act cannot be performed with the aid of the bayonet or the bomb."

If it was wrong for the Jews to have displaced hundreds of thousands of Muslim (and Christian) Arabs from their homes, villages and lives in 1948, the rest of the history of the conflict looks very different. We used to blame Arab countries for the refugee problem; to do so seems the height of chutzpah knowing that the Haganah created the refugee problem by expelling entire villages of Palestinians. America has continuously supported Israel, providing the planes and bombs that kill Palestinian children. If we thought Iran was evil for giving Hamas rockets that scared people but killed few, then it must look quite horrible to Muslims that we Americans have been giving Israel the material and diplomatic support to kill a hundred fold more people, people who had been violently expelled from their homes and left blockaded in refugee camps. All Jews felt the pain and horror of just one of our soldiers being killed or taken hostage; knowing our own pain should have told us the pain the Muslims felt when thousands of Arab people were taken prisoner or killed.

Violence Engenders Violence

Though we are good in our hearts, acting to achieve peace, our violent acts engender more violence and hatred. If we could kill so many people and still be good, surely the “terrorists” who kill far fewer people aren’t necessarily evil either. One of my Israeli colleagues told me he had Arab friends who had RADICAL IDEAS, like “we don’t hate the Jews or want to kill them. We just want our land back.” That didn’t sound so radical in light of how the Jews had made Palestinians refugees. I asked Palestinians, other Arabs and other Muslims wherever I went what they thought of Jews and the conflict. It was clear these Muslims were peaceful people, just like us. The Muslims never built gas chambers to kill Jews like the Christians of Europe had. Jews had lived alongside Muslims in relative peace for centuries, being treated far better than the U.S. treated African Americans in the same era. Even today, many thousands of Jews live in Iran, and there are no gas chambers there. Iranians I have spoken to speak with pride of their relationship with Iranian Jews.

On my last visit to Israel, less than a year ago, I visited an old family friend who had come to Israel from Germany in the 1930s. She lived in Jerusalem and her son grew up there. She was cultured — as I imagine was typical of German Jews. Her home was a veritable library. She had served as a secretary, helping catalog the letters of Chaim Weizmann, a founder of the Israeli state. As we sat in her living room, surrounded by her books, she showed my wife and me a picture of her son as a young boy, sitting on the burro of an older boy. The other boy was Arab, son of a local Arab leader. She told me the two boys were the best of friends. She described a time before 1948 when the vast majority of Jews and Arabs lived together largely peacefully. She seemed sad that there was so much hatred and animosity, that the Jewish state didn’t live up to its foundation of universal equality, justice and peace.

Diverse People Living Together

We’ve come a long way from the prejudices of our past. We Americans have elected Barack Obama. It is time for the vestiges of the discrimination and horror of the 1940s to end. It is time for Palestinian refugee families to be allowed and encouraged to return and rebuild their homes and lives. This will give the Jews the peace they have always wanted, a peace they could never achieve through expulsions and killings that left Jewish philosopher Martin Buber feeling as though the Jews had learned how to behave from Nazis. It’s time for Americans to give up the notion of supporting a state built for people of one religion at the expense of people of another and to support the American ideal of diverse people living together in equality with justice and peace. This is the Zionism of Martin Buber, a spiritual Zionism of Jews, Christians and Muslims living together in peace. While I am happy and proud of the idea of a Jewish state, the idea of a Jewish state created at the expense of the homes and lives of 700,000 Palestinian men, women and children is inconsistent with my Jewish American values.

Some may think these words give ammunition to anti-Semites. On the contrary, the violations of our Jewish principles — the displacement of Palestinians, the killing Israel commits, our support of that killing, and our failure to speak out against it — is what gives real ammunition to hatred of Jews. At the 1951 dedication of the Hebrew Academy, my grandfather summed up the sentiment of the day, saying “The principles of democracy to which we, together with all true Americans, are devoted, can best be preserved and strengthened by our unflagging devotion to the moral and ethical teachings of our own faith.” We have the opportunity to be a beacon to the world for our Judeo-Christian principles, democracy, freedom and justice. But to do that, we have to look past our old prejudices and invite our Palestinian brothers and sisters to return home and rebuild together.

The Arabs, Jews and Christians lived in PEACE in Palestine up until 1946 when the Zionist World Congress invasion/ethnic cleansing of Palestine began and was officially sanctified by England in 1948. Pictures are worth a thousand words. Carefully study the picture below. Today the land of Palestine is approximately 90%+ occupied by the invading Zionist armies and the rock throwing "terrorist" Palestinians have be surrounded to a point of living in pure hell holes, where famine and starvation are rampant. Meanwhile Israel is one of the richest most prosperous countries in the world. The Israelis tell the world: "WE ARE AFRAID OF FOR OUR LIVES OF THOSE EVIL TERRORIST PALESTINIANS WHO IF NOT STOPPED WILL ANHILATE US ALL" This is the official Zionist narrative, now look at the map and review the obvious fact of just who is the undisputed ruler in Palestine today and who is the victim. Who do YOU really think the REAL VICTIM here is? The Israelis have been trampling on the defenseless Palestinians for decades, bulldozing their homes at will. Using Palestinians for TARGET PRACTICE.

Israel is an Apartheid State and that is why it is losing legitimacy

Judy Rebick, rabble.ca, Wed, 03 Mar 2010

Before Israeli Apartheid Week (IAW) even began members of the Ontario Legislature and the Canadian Parliament are falling all over each other to denounce it. I can't remember another time when elected legislators formally denounced a student activity like this. Perhaps during the 1950's when McCarthyism was rampant but that was before my time.

Last week the Ontario Legislature unanimously passed a resolution denouncing Israel Apartheid Week submitted by PC Peter Shure who said calling Israel an apartheid state was "close to hate speech." While there were only 30 MPP's in the Legislature at the time, NDP MPP Cheri di Novo was one of them and spoke in favor of the resolution. This week a Conservative MP is introducing a resolution calling IAW anti-Semitic.

Before I deal with why these unprecedented attacks are taking place, I'd like to share with you a great talk I heard last night at Ryerson from Na'eem Jeena, a leading activist and academic from South Africa who works for Palestinian solidarity. He told us that South African apartheid had three pillars of apartheid and Israel shares all three.

1. Different rights for different races. In the case of Israel, it is different rights for Jews and for non-Jews. For example the law of return of 1950 says Jews can return to Israel and be given citizenship even if they have no links to the country other than mythical biblical ones; whereas Palestinians cannot return even if their parents or grandparents lived there.

2. Separation of so-called racial groups into different geographical areas. Even within the borders of Israel, 93 percent of land is reserved as a national land trust or Jewish National Fund land is for the exclusive use of Jews. The 20 percent of the population that is Palestinians living in Israel have to share access to the 7 percent of private land that is left. The Israeli Supreme Court has made a number of decisions that Palestinians cannot live on Jewish lands. There are not only residential areas that are banned to Palestinians but there are separate roads for Jews and

Palestinians. That was never true in South Africa even in times of crisis. Moreover Palestinians have less access to water than Jews living nearby

Finally the movement of Palestinians is severely restricted much more so than were blacks in South Africa. The famous pass laws in South Africa meant that Blacks had to show government issued passes to move around but Palestinians are even more restricted by walls and checkpoints and if they live in the Gaza Strip can't leave at all.

3. Security and Repression Matrix of Laws and Security. There was serious repression in the Black townships but there were never tanks or planes buzzing overhead like there is in West Bank. Israeli military violence against Palestinian communities, says Jena, is far worse than anything suffered by Blacks in South Africa during apartheid.

If Israel is becoming a pariah in the world it is not because of anti-Semitism, it is because they are practicing a form of apartheid even more egregious than that practiced in South Africa. Others have compiled comments from some of the most respected leaders of the anti-apartheid movement in South Africa who see what Israel is doing as apartheid. There is a reason why the BDS is strongest in South Africa. People there recognize apartheid when they see it.

Finally the UN Convention on Apartheid condemns the crime of apartheid that refers to a series of inhuman acts - including murder, torture, arbitrary arrest, illegal imprisonment, exploitation, marginalization, and persecution - committed for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the domination of one racial group by another. If the shoe fits.

So why are politicians including some from the NDP setting a student activity like IAW in their sites? An all party coalition of parliamentarians has been holding hearings on what they call the "new anti-semitism," by which they mean criticism of Israel. They heard from every University President who appeared before them that there is no rise of anti-semitism on their campuses and yet the false rumors of such a rise persist because of the equation of criticism of Israel with anti-semitism. "Israel is beginning to see that the non-violent anti-apartheid and BDS (Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions) movement is a greater threat to their power than any military threat. In Israel and Palestine, they are moving to arrest non-violent activists who are leading the movement there. And they are using all their economic and political power to push friendly governments to move against these protests. But there is a problem. It's called democracy and freedom of speech. However much you might disagree that Israel practices apartheid, you cannot shut down a discussion of the issue or a demonstration or disinvestment campaign against Israel because freedom of speech is a fundamental democratic right in most Western countries. In Canada, the only way to shut down the movement is to vilify it as hateful or anti-semitic. That is what our parliamentarians are now trying to do.

I am Jewish and have been working on and off for Palestinian rights for many years, as have many other Jews who feel a special responsibility to speak out against injustices committed by Israel. During that time, I have rarely experienced any anti-semitism. In the IAW organizing, I have experienced none. If Israel is losing legitimacy in the world, it is because of what their government is doing to the Palestinians, not because of anti-semitism. This attempt to shut down criticism of Israel is the most frightening assault on freedom of speech I have ever seen in this country. Whether or not you think Israel Apartheid Week is the best name for this week of discussion supporting Palestinian rights, please write your MP and your MPP and tell them you think it is wrong for Parliamentarians to denounce this kind of educational activity.

Comment: Just imagine the chutzpah: you can be critical with the policies of any country on the face of the planet... EXCEPT Israel. If you don't find this absolutely absurd, you should! Compounding this evil silence is the wretched guilt they desperately try to force on you, which generates the perfect cover to commit the worst crimes against humanity. They're doing this now, and worse of all, they're doing it in plain sight.

The moment anyone of them dare DEFEND their lands, homes or family from OUTSIDE INVADERS they are immediately slaughtered and used as "proof" that they "attacked first" thus warranted the obscene disproportionate genocidal retribution by entire billion dollar high tech military brigades utilizing jet planes loaded with million dollar smart bombs. THIS is what surely follows when a subhuman Palestinian dare respond with violence against their captors. This will be the only time I will mention the genocide of the Palestinian people here in this report. The Israeli Zionist crimes against humanity in that land are heart breaking, beyond reason and self evident and known to all but the blind brainwashed fools and those who uphold the genocidal occupation. I rest my case in this matter for I must to go forth and reveal that which is not readily known, the core of the Luciferian rule of this world.

These are maps of Palestine over time. As you can readily see, in 1946 the entire land was Palestinian, the Arabs whose land this was for thousands of years ruled the land and treated all inhabitants fairly. NEVER ONCE having attacked the JEWS, who they treated as equals and with respect FOR THOUSANDS OF YEARS.

Fast forward to say the last 6 decades and review all the events in the Middle East along with the Zionist/Masons/Jesuits coordination and Americas involvement.

Map of Occupation Palestinian Lands

With this new outlook and frame of mind, all the turmoil, feuds, wars, our foreign policy choices takes on new meaning. The true predecessors of the secretive martial Knight Orders of ancient days are none other than the Mossad and the CIA who have been very busy in those Muslim countries for decades sowing dissent and ORANIZING TERRORIST NETWORKS to hasten the downfall of those regimes. This is irrefutable: FACT. It is well documented and even the CIA has confessed to some of its roles in this. No one other than the CIA/Mossad knows the true extent of its works in setting up, organizing and funding those terrorist networks. Did you know that Osama Bin Laden was also a paid CIA operative at one point in the Middle East? CNN, FOX, ABC will never tell you this! Interesting! FYI: The Muslims loved America at one point, up until we betrayed them and started overthrowing their leaders and plundering their lands back in the 1950s.

The Learned Elder's goals, agendas haven't changed in eons, but they have developed ingenious methodologies over the centuries, such as... Problem – Reaction – Solution, Order Out of Chaos. Problem: must gain control and destroy crazy Muslim Middle East to pave way for eventual rule of/by ZION. Thus they present for your consumption ingeniously engineered events such as that sinister day of reckoning: 9/11. The infamous day of the largest collection of mind boggling coincidences all occurring on the same day of alleged massively ludicrous government bumbling ineptitude incompetence clusterfucks in the entire history of the United States and mankind.

Problem Reaction Solution Explained

Problem > Reaction > Solution is a term that was coined recently in relation to the activities of the 'New World Order'.

Put simply, in public relation terms, Problem > Reaction > Solution is a technique used when trying to sell something to the public, such as taking away freedoms, or passing legislation's that under normal circumstances, the general public would not agree to. It is a strong mechanism that has allowed the Illuminati to operate and rule over us so easily.

For example. If say ten years ago, the then President of the USA Bill Clinton gave a speech stating that he wanted more authoritarian (stop and search) law, for no specific reason, most people would stand up and say "Hang on a minute.....". So what is done is Problem > Reaction > Solution.

Problem

They create a problem such as the Oklahoma bombing in 1995 in which the Alfred P. Murrah building was provably destroyed unofficially with the assistance of American government agencies and blamed on a lone nutter by the name of Timothy McVeigh.

Reaction

There is an outrage. The public feels naked and afraid. This is especially easy to do when the media (which they own) manipulates the public's perception of the true version of events, causing the public to say, something must be done.

Solution

More authoritarian law for the Government. BINGO!

Imagine this: If I was a self employed worker, who repaired car windscreens for a living. I could make a bundle by using the 'Problem > Reaction > Solution' technique.

All that I would need to do is create a problem. I could sneak about in the middle of the night and smash the windscreens of all of the cars parked up and down my street. You can see where this is going. There would be a reaction by the people on my street "Oh my god, someone has smashed my windscreen!, I have to get to work, I must get this fixed!" And the solution would be me getting a whole load of business and no-one would be the wiser

A recent example of this technique is the pre-election Madrid bombing of 11th March 2004. Just three days before the general elections of Spain, this event which has caused a media frenzy has also caused a surge of votes empowering the 'Socialist' movement.

Just like Hitler burned the Reichstag building as a pretext to his agendas, events such as this, which are tragic are only pale compared to the mass destruction that they can cause by consequence. Coercing the masses through fear and by breaking the spirit of the publics consciousness has proven successful in pushing through agendas of the sinister.

Just watch this method be used within the next few years as it has so far, when major cards will be played. Evil monsters will be set up to have a finger to point at and subsequently will be conveniently captured to justify the continuation of 'The War Against Terror' (T.W.A.T), which will eventually lead to centralisation of power and a general Hitlerian dictatorship.

THINGS TO COME

In the same way that modern Hollywood movies are churning out sequels which are faster paced and more action packed than their predecessors to top the box office records, the events that we will see throughout the next few years in terms of terrorist acts and disasters will become much larger scale and more tragic than we have seen so far.

CONCLUSION

I have no doubt that events such as 9/11, Oklahoma and the latest Madrid bombing are carried out by the terrorist organisations which the medias report. The main point to emphasise however is that it is the organisations such as those within the US Bush Administration and the Governments of Europe who set up and sponsored these events that have ultimately benefited from them.

As I have said before, it aids law enforcement when solving a crime, to look at who benefited from it and you usually find that this is the person or persons who committed the crime. So why should this not apply in world government?

I shall end this by quoting from the dictionary. I hope that this gets across the point

Terrorism: n. The unlawful use or threatened use of force or violence by a person or an organized group against people or property with the intention of intimidating or coercing societies or governments, often for ideological or political reasons.

Remember, no-one can walk over you unless you lay down and let them.

FYI: The CIA is in a tri-joint venture with the Mi6 and Mossad who invented, funded and runs "al-CIA da"!!!! The day that YOU truly realize this little piece of TRUTH along with the profound depth of this statement, your heart will sink; you will feel sick, depression will kick in, you will want to cry and shed tears for your country. We must be strong and continue forward connecting the dots and putting the massive puzzle together...

Important Note: The term widely used in public disseminated propaganda: "Al-Qaida" will be exchanged for the unabridged more accurately revealing spelling of: "Al-CIA da" throughout this report. Yes they are pronounced exactly the same. I felt obligated to correct the spelling due to the FACT that it is fully documented that the CIA invented it when it financed the jihad against Russian occupiers in Afghanistan that also flooded Europe with opium. For which they created the so called Al-CIA da which is the BlackOps Department of Jihad of the Mossad and CIA. Of which one Osama bin Laden was one of their key operatives back in the good ole days. Oh what a mighty web they weave.

Somehow we are to believe that a group of Al-CIA da "terrorists" came from a far away land working out of CAVES in mountains with box cutters in hand, delivered the biggest strategic blow in the entire history of the United States. All the while, we, the most advanced military and intelligence community on the planet not only did not have a clue (?), (despite the many documented warnings it received) but were so dim-witted that day that the MOST ADVANCED MILITARY ON THE PLANET just sat back in a stupor and watched it all happen on TV while scratching their heads? Never once scrambling a single fighter jet to intercept just one of 4, FOUR! "hijacked" planes as per standard operational protocol that has been successfully routinely conducted dozens of times in the past.

Oh wait, it gets better: Even though they allegedly had no clue about this attack, the pentagon was busy holding about 7 training exercises that very same day simulating terrorist attacks with jet planes! DOH! In the very same vicinity!? DOH! By pure "coincidence" /cough/ golly gee whiz! Oh, and FEMA arrived prepared for duty the day earlier! (I could go on and on, in order not to stray too far from the main subject I will stop here and continue this 9/11 piece with a separate chapter it deserves).

After all is said and done, behold: The nation and the world stares in shock and awe. Just dozens of minutes after the attack, it is mysteriously confirmed, the fastest investigation/prosecution in the history of mankind: The evil Muslims did it! Osama Bin Patsy! Al-CIA da TERRORISTS! Behold: the boogiemens cometh! What was it? Like in only 20 minutes after the "attack" the narrative for your consumption was: "Here are their pictures, biographies of each hijacker, etc. Let's get them!" Americans were quickly stirred into a frenzied rage, demanding revenge, Americans wanted to see rivers of blood spilled everywhere, and were ready for ANY story that was fed to them. The strange fact that our government had already premeditated and planned to attack both Iraq and Afghanistan many months prior to 9/11 raised no red flags among the oblivious population. How convenient. The off the shelf Operation Northwoods/Reichstag Fire playbook BlackOps mastermind false flag strategy strikes again. The world fell for it hook, line and sinker with the help of the Zionist media all singing the same tune playing up the ridiculous 911 hoax fear mongering propaganda over and over again non-stop on every channel, 24 hours a day conditioning, forever emblazing the official narrative into everyone's minds, hearts and soul.

The rest is now history, so we bombed Afghanistan back into the stone age, (propped up a puppet regime and finished that oil pipeline the Afghans said we would never have, then got them to resume massive heroin production the Taliban had put a virtual end to) the president uses the peoples rage to justify invading Iraq also, even though Sadam had absolutely nothing to do with 911 or Osama or Al-CIA. He had no weapons of mass destruction. He had already long ago gotten rid of all the chemical WMD's that AMERICA sold him!!! That brings us up to this current time, now our dear loving president whom is firmly being controlled by his Zionist masters, in his "quest to protect us" from those evil boogiemens is feverishly plotting to level Iran, Syria and eventually even Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt because these will sooner or later be labeled the new "terrorist manufacturing machines." One by one they plot on taking out all the "evil" Muslim countries... count on it. For the Zionist Jews the only good Muslim is a dead Muslim, the hatred goes back to the days of Abraham.

Update: I am so right it is often scary. Here is the latest breaking news story: One alleged terrorist is caught on plane with explosives and now the next target for attack is: Yemen. I just watched the Obamanator on national TV stating he will take the war on terror to Yemen. Not only that, they are now going to step up to the next phase of draconian police state lock down in the realm of airplane travel. Folks, I don't, can't make this stuff up, this is TRUE REALITY.

The added incentive for invading the Muslim world aside from weakening their power so that one day they relinquish The Mount, are the spoils of war, i.e. our lust for black gold: OIL. Therefore the bombing of all Muslim countries back into the stone age is an integral strategy of not only eventually getting the Temple Mount and all surrounding lands for Zionist Israel, but to also reap the vast reservoirs of Oil for our energy cartel as the reward for the mercenary western nations "pulling the triggers". The puppet government we propped up in Iraq has already signed over the majority of rights in its oil production to western energy corporations. This is what Bush meant when he said "mission accomplished", soon afterwards Exxon, Mobil, BP and all others would post unheard of ridiculous multibillion dollar profits year after year.

So the ultimate goal for the Zionists is to retake possession of the Temple Mount then rebuilding their Temple of Solomon at that site. This goal also coincides with the goals of Vatican and many Christian denominations. It is also interesting that the Freemasons are the ones looking forward to doing the actual building of the Temple. Actual plans have been on many drawing boards for years, just waiting for the time when the Temple can be taken back, they are just waiting and ready to start construction. Once the new Solomon's Temple is complete the Zionists with the help of occultist Jesuit/Masonic branch has hidden plans to prop up one of their own in the Temple and crown him as supreme leader of all mankind. Possibly a crypto Jew Pope? As farfetched as all this may sound. This is the actual results of years of digging by some credible researchers...

We do not wish to keep rehashing the same very well done research, so we suggest to those interested that you visit some of the links we provide for more in depth documentation, or just use Google.com and Wikipedia.com and begin your own research into any topic we speak of. For instance it has been very convincingly shown that the Zionist were not only the key instigators of World Wars I and II, they also stood the most to gain.

For instance I will point out just one item out of many. The Holocaust™, ok, I won't deny "it" happened. It DID happen. But with some glaring erroneous exaggerated figures (utilizing Zionist mathematic principles), and topped off with the fact that TENS OF MILLIONS upon millions of CHRISTIANS were ALSO slaughtered in that world war and many non Jews were also thrown into the concentration camps, yet we rarely if ever hear about that! How many Christians and other non Jews died? Better yet, how many of those people were counted as Jews?! Yes the Holocaust™ happened alright, the main issue that needs to be confronted once and for all is the ACTUAL unadulterated NUMBER OF JEWS THAT DIED there. Better yet, how in the world is it possible that tens of thousands MORE holohoax survivors got billions in "reparation" money then supposedly survived the holohoax? Doh! This is not anti-Semitism, these are just the FACTS.

Like I have been saying: Google search EVERYTHING I say. Actual Red Cross records tell a totally different story! Then there are census figures that completely contradict the controversial figure of "6 million Jews" when there were barely that many living in those areas of Europe at the time. If I were not a ghost I would of already been attacked by, sued, imprisoned or worse by the Anti Defamation League of B'nai B'rith (ADL) just for stating that! Is it any wonder why some very credible sources claim that the ADL is nothing more than just a department, a subsidiary (front) of the Israeli secret service agency, the Mossad. ADL has been recognized by some as America's Most Powerful Hate Group. Along with its sister organizations the Southern Poverty Law Center, World Zionist Congress and the JDL (Jewish Defense League) they go where no NGOs dare.

Fact Sheet on the ADL

The ADL is... "...one of the ugliest, most powerful pressure groups in the U.S... Its primary commitment is to use any technique, however dishonest and disgraceful, in order to defame and silence and destroy anybody who dares to criticize the Holy State ('Israel')." - Noam Chomsky, Professor of Linguistics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith (ADL) gave an award Nov. 18, 1998 to the city of Coeur d'Alene. City Fathers assume this is something to be proud of and have unthinkingly rolled out the red carpet for the ADL.

They think that an imprimatur from the ADL, a prominent Jewish group with a multi-million dollar budget and substantial media clout, is a kind of certification of our area's goodness. But in point of fact, hosting the ADL and its regional Seattle director at the Coeur d'Alene Resort is a shameful blot on the region.

The ADL is a branch of the masonic B'nai B'rith (Sons of the Covenant), which was established Oct. 13, 1843.

Up until recently, for decades the chief "fact-finder" (head spy) for the ADL was the late Irwin Suall. From 1957 through 1962, Mr. Suall was national secretary of the Socialist Party. (1)

The ADL keeps extensive espionage files on those who are critical of Israeli policies. Last year the ADL attempted to blackmail Benjamin Chavis, leader of the NAACP, with some of those files. (2)

The ADL spies on American dissidents on behalf of the Israeli government. Automobile license plate numbers of people attending a meeting of the Committee on the Middle East were recorded by ADL agent Roy Bullock, channeled through San Francisco police officer Tom Gerard, also an ADL operative, and furnished to the Israeli government. (3)

The ADL claims that it has the right to "investigate" dissidents and "probe into their private lives". When asked in court, "Does that mean anyone who participates in a political rally can be the subject of an in-depth investigation?" ADL attorney Stephen Bomse responded in the affirmative. (4)

In 1996 the ADL praised the prison sentence meted out to an American publisher in Germany: "ADL today said it was gratified that a German court sentenced American...Gary Lauck to four years in prison for...disseminating anti-Semitic...hate material." (5)

In January of 1998, ADL Director Abraham Foxman ordered Metropolitan Books to halt publication of "A Nation on Trial: The Goldhagen Thesis and Historical Truth", a book which exposed fraud perpetrated by anti-German bigot Daniel Goldhagen. (6)

Early in November of 1998, ADL Director Foxman was at it again, this time ordering the media to ban black leader Louis Farrakhan from the airwaves. Foxman's demand can be summarized as, "Keep Farrakhan off all the television networks!" (7)

In 1993 the ADL illegally obtained California police and government records in San Francisco on a wide array of dissident political groups and turned them over to the Israeli government. Due to its enormous influence, the ADL escaped criminal prosecution in return for paying $75,000 to groups that fight hate crimes. (8)

The ADL "runs a nationwide surveillance operation on political groups with the assistance of other law enforcement officials...The ADL spied on political groups in the US and this information allegedly made its way to Israeli security authorities." (9)

On Aug. 2, 1994 seventy-five Jewish-Americans accused the ADL of "engaging in defamation" in the ADL's attacks on Christian conservatives. (10)

The seventy-five stated that the ADL uses "such discreditable techniques as insinuation and guilt by association" to compile its secret files on dissenters. (11)

On Aug. 9, 1994 Houston attorney Gary Polland compiled an analysis of an ADL attack on Christians. "Among other things, the analysis demonstrates that...(ADL Director) Foxman lied..." (12)

Syndicated columnist Mona Charen wrote: "...there is the crude, but undeniable fact that the ADL is in the anti-Semitism business...It is playing upon ancient fears...and it is doing so dishonestly, with quotes taken out of context and flagrantly false accusations." (13)

In 1987 the B'nai B'rith of Canada was ordered to pay $400,000 for defaming a Winnipeg woman. (14)

On March 14, 1996 the B'nai B'rith called a press conference in Toronto urging the government to arrest revisionist publisher Ernst Zündel for printing revisionist pamphlets the Zionist group abhors. (15)

Jewish journalist Robert I. Friedman says the ADL is "the largest private spy agency in America... working behind the scenes to stifle intellectual freedom." (16)

According to the Associated Press, the ADL was instrumental in suppressing an advertisement on the Lycos Internet Website for the "Jews for Jesus" organization. Lycos Inc. stated that it "would not renew an advertisement from Jews for Jesus because of complaints from some in the Jewish community."

Lycos said several Jewish people took offense when the ad popped up on their computer screens as they searched for Web sites containing the word "Jewish". Jeffrey Snider, Lycos' general counsel, told The Boston Globe that the ad's contract, which expires in several days, was not renewed because "controversial advertising is bad for business".

According to the Associated Press, the ad "was opposed by the Anti-Defamation League's Boston office. Diane Kolb, ADL associate director, said the "Jews for Jesus" message is "misleading and blasphemous". (17)

When the U.S. government keeps a file on a citizen that individual can pursue a Freedom of Information inquiry to ascertain the contents and accuracy of the government dossier.

But in the case of the secret files of the ADL which the group shares with U.S. Intelligence and the Israeli secret police (Mossad), the citizen has no recourse whatever.

If an anti-Communist, right wing group were to engage in such massive domestic spying our local press and politicians would thunder anathemas against this "new McCarthyism". But when a totalitarian Zionist organization engages in such tactics, the Establishment media act as their dutiful mouthpiece, and the Federal government gives them semi-official status as "watchdogs over extremism".

The predecessor to the ADL was B'nai B'rith. The reason they changed their name to the ADL was because of Atlanta's crime of the century. In 1913, a B'nai B'rith president, Leo Frank, had raped, sodomized, and murdered a 12 year-old child named Mary Phagan. The good people of Atlanta lynched Leo Frank.

Everything you didn't want to know about the ADL because you were afraid to find out how truly diabolical and criminal the organization truly is....

In some places Holocaust™ denial is a punishable crime, the vile, sinister, evil, blasphemous perpetrators are routinely imprisoned for telling the truth! LOL What a scam. Recently the Zionists swarmed all over the Vatican and DEMANDED the Pope to BOW to his masters, and apologize to the world for truthful "anti-Semitic" remarks by one of his people. The Pope faithfully stuck his thumb way up his ass and proclaimed to the world that "Holocaust™ denial is a CRIME AGAINST GOD." Folks, I don't make this stuff up.

While on the other hand Israelis have the right to ridicule all of Christianity without so much as a whimper from the spineless clergy, and they do it so often and in your face that no one seems to even care or notice any longer.

How did the Zionist Jews prosper from the "Holocaust™"? So many ways I can't count. For starters 6 million was a massively inflated number, according to official census data there weren't even 6 million Jews in all war regions of Europe at that time! So how in the world can they look at us in the eye and make this shit up? The ingenious tour de force is in the fact that they have convinced the world of this lie and everyone acknowledges it all as fact. Truth be told: their power, control and influence in all mass media proves how they shape public and official opinion and perception of history. Accepted world view reality is literally whatever they tell you it is! PERIOD.

Billions of dollars in reparations to the few connected Jews. Perhaps the most advantageous benefit of the Holocaust™ was when the Jews, with their total monopoly on all news, TV, Hollywood, radio, textbooks, and all media collectively made the "event" an "untouchable" unspeakable crime for anyone to say ANYTHING negative about the Jews. Out of this came evil "anti-Semites" & the "Holocaust™ deniers", many of the Jewish labels they flash and stamp opponents with as soon as an adversary gets close.

The Jews carefully molded and nurtured an IMAGE of a victimized "poor helpless persecuted people" that NO ONE has the right to question or deny them in any way shape or form. So much so, that today it has become almost TABOO sin to stand up to any Jewish person! No matter what the issue at hand may be!!!! You lose, you ANTI-SEMITE!!! Now cease and desist or we will sue you, ridicule you, destroy and slander your name! And coming soon to a court near you: imprisonment for said offenses. This offensive counter tactic is pure genius if you really think about it. The anti-Semite lable serves a very simple and toxic purpose: DEMONIZING the target. For no matter how TRUE the TRUTH anyone has to deliver, if the truth is negative to Jews, their agendas or anything that has to do with them, it is then labeled as anti-Semitic, therefore any TRUTH and FACTS you present is null and void! Doh!

Why don't I feel any pity for this group of people I separated from long ago? I smell a bunch of wolves in poor innocent vicimized persecuted sheep's clothing. (note to Zionist agents, troll scum of the earth: Behold you know I speak the truth, yet you cannot bring me down for I am a ghost, fear my sWORD of TRUTH for it shreds your well thought out plans to bits biatches!).

Ok, there you go, my summary of a large segment of the Jewish movement in a nutshell. Still you have to understand that many Jews hate the Zionists. Zionists are NOT real Jews, Zionism is a special agenda political party hell bent on world conquest!. You must definitely research this on your own to understand it further. You must understand that the neo-Nazi Zionists have no problems sacrificing untold numbers of their "own" people, innocent non-Zionist Jews in order to achieve their goals of world domination. When Christ appeared on the scene the Jews denied him then murdered him. They paid the price years down the road. Once the Catholic Church, the Vatican became the most powerful entity on the planet all the Jews were forced to "convert or die". Many Jews became catholic only outwardly (called Marrano or crypto Jews), many forced to take on non-Jewish names, secretly holding onto their original Jew faiths and beliefs. THIS is the core keys of how the Zionists succeeded in infiltrating many of the Masonic orders and Christianity to this very day... Today the Masons may believe that they still hold the superior hand but in reality the Zionists have been the "Hidden Masters" in control and steer agendas as they wish. Yes they deal with the still very powerful Jesuit entities by skillfully allowing them to believe that they are still in control. They also control them directly by financial bullying, for they had taken over their finances long, long ago. Gone are the days of the almighty powerful Vatican.

The smoking gun evidence that the ruling elders in the Masonic world are ruled by the Zionists is in the writings of one of the Mason's most revered high priests: Albert Pike and his famous "Morals and Dogma" book. In the 32nd level 'the Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret', you will see the infusion of Jewish doctrines and rites. The practice of the Kabbalah is one of the 'secrets' integral to the practice of top high level Masonry. Pike speaks at length of many Jewish traditions and teachings and their relationship to Masonry. Lower levels in the Freemason organization chart are basically clueless, as often is the case. All infamous secret organizations and agencies have a secret agency within and leading the secret agency. Let it be perfectly understood and clear to all: the Masonic order is and has been a Zionist Jew instrument organization for the longest period of time. One of the main strategic goals of formal "order of the illuminati" that was established by Adam Weishaupt in 1776 was to completely infiltrate and take over the sprawling well established Freemasonry. As you can readily deduct from the occult practices of the top level members, they have accomplished that long ago. I would also like to make a note that Albert Pike was also a founder of the KKK. Another one of the illuminati's grand schemes is to introduce division, fear and chaos among the population.

Another important element that must be perfectly understood is that Satan and his Luciferian conspirators on earth always leave their mark, (symbols, logo, sign, emblem) This is how they communicate among their own kind, and we as Christians are supposed to watch for and interpret the signs of the end. The ruling elite's marks often have deep hidden meanings unknown to the uninitiated. You witness their marks everywhere, as logos, symbols, coat of arms, flags, etc.

In the secret world of the elite rulers, symbology is very important. EVERYTHING HAS some hidden symbolic meaning, yes, EVERYTHING. As territorial marks - They also leave their symbols for the same reason gangs sometimes use their graffiti signs as a territorial mark.

Reverse Psychology - By placing their symbols everywhere, people start to question why a secret society would do this as it makes no reasonable sense to them. These people then simply assume the symbols are a coincidence and reject the existence of this secret society. Hollywood is a great tool, for example in the movie, "Angels and Demons" the illuminati is referred to by name, it also presents a little truth but then makes them out to be a society that once existed many centuries ago. The truth of the matter is many fraternal societies still exist. This is a clever tactic as viewers laugh at anyone who mentions the illuminati by name outside of their 'film-mode' mind.

When you see certain key things, symbols, events and so forth being portrayed in a certain light in the movies and TV it is strategically brought into the public conscience in order to PRIME the public. So that when the day that the ruling elite come forth with the actual "thing" (an event or whatever) the people automatically assume it is the hollywood thing and disassociate it from true reality.

“Secret” symbols are often placed in logos, who’s true meaning is only known to the insiders are routinely prominently displayed everywhere as if nothing (hidden in plain sight) for the world to see. Such as corporate logos. Since you, the outsiders have no real clue, nor substantiated proof, all the symbols, emblems and insignia that are publically displayed are of importance only to those who are “in” on the game. For instance the symbols readily serve as logos that are used to identify trusted allies for which to conduct affairs with...

Take for example the national Jewish logo, fabricated out of two pyramids. It is often referred to as the Star of David. But did you know that the same symbol is also known as the Seal of Solomon? In Medieval Jewish, Christian and Islamic legends, the Seal of Solomon was a magical signet ring said to have been possessed by King Solomon, which supposedly gave him the power to command demons, genies, or to speak with animals. The symbol is made up of two pyramids, one upright and the other inverted. It should also be noted that the Masonic symbol is also comprised of two incomplete pyramids, (see photo above) partially forming the seal of Solomon, the mutual inner core design attributes reveals the secret hidden alliance between the Masonic Order and the Zionist Order, for they are interconnected organizations ruled by the same, what they all refer to as: “the hidden masters.”

The Zionists control the Masons and even the Vatican. The Zionist Jews and the Catholic Church have one common denominator: the bible. Old Testament Zionists and New Testament Vatican, these are the two brothers in arms ruling this world today. The Old Testament is nothing other than the Hebrew Scriptures of long ago. Christianity was born out of the Jewish faith. Even to this day many Christians still respect and follow the lead of their "elder brother" the Jewish nation. Despite the fact that behind their backs, these very same Jews view Jesus as a bastard child and spit on the face of Christianity. Also note that pyramids are one of the most important significant symbols of the ruling elite, followed by the “all seeing eye.” In alchemy, the combination of the fire and water symbols (up and down triangles/pyramids) is known as the Seal of Solomon. The symbol is representative of the combination of opposites and transmutation. The hexagram is featured within and on the outside of many Masonic temples as a decoration. The hexagram, one of the world's most ancient symbols, may have been found within the structures of King Solomon's temple, from which Freemasons are inspired in their philosophies and studies.

Secret societies have existed for eons, but for some reason many seem to trace back to ancient Egyptian times. Their missions and purpose have been passed down from generation to generation. They have been consolidating their wealth & powers over time in order to accomplish their ultimate goals. One need look no further than the bible to find out what their goals are... the ultimate fulfillment of biblical prophecy, erecting the world rule of the Zionist Jews that was promised to the "ISRAELITES" by "GOD" in the Hebrew bible, our Old Testament.

There is only one glaring problem... the "god" of the Zionists whom are NOT true descendants of ancestral Jews is none other than: Lucifer. And they are not passively sitting back praying for it to happen either, for they lie, cheat, steal, destroy, use violence, torture, kill, murder, assassinate and instigate wars in their hell bent quest to make it come about. For in their logic, the ends justify the means. Their incredible worldwide coordination and continuity has cohesively been sustained through many generations without losing a beat, and has been made possible because they all CHANNEL the wishes of their grand master leader, strategist and god: Lucifer. They maintain the avenue of communications open by constantly worshiping him in all their secret occult RITUALS, they are the biblical Synagogue of Satan.

Note that the CENTRAL component of ALL secret societies and fraternities is in their secret occult RITUALS. Freemasonry as with all the secret societies is loaded with all sorts of rituals, Luciferian witchcraft and borderline voodoo, what many of the naive lower level members have no clue about is the TRUE HIDDEN MEANING of the RITUALS they are performing. For all the rituals are in fact worshiping and exalting Lucifer and Satan. PERIOD. This FACT is not even open for debate. This topic will be exposed and covered in more details in the separate chapters.

It is extremely rare to hear any leaders ever admit having taken part in any sort of satanic rituals for it would be career suicide, but sometimes the past comes out to bite them in the butt. Here is GOP darling Christine O'Donnell in her own words, what I would translate to as her most fundamental qualifications of having been considered primo material and future leadership material by the ruling elite:

O'DONNELL: "I dabbled into witchcraft — I never joined a coven. But I did, I did. ... I dabbled into witchcraft. I hung around people who were doing these things. I'm not making this stuff up. I know what they told me they do. [...]"

One of my first dates with a witch was on a satanic altar, and I didn't know it. I mean, there's little blood there and stuff like that... We went to a movie and then had a midnight picnic on a satanic altar." [\[video link\]](#)

There is a purpose behind their hidden symbolism and occult rituals. It is none other than to bring about the world rule centered on their god, Lucifer. Every day they get closer and closer to making this a reality. There is just one area where they have been having problems for eons. You see, they believe that the temple of Solomon must be rebuilt and used as their central ruling point. Golly gee whiz, but that location and the surrounding lands are in Muslim hands eh? Well then, all Muslim countries are evil... ummm... TERRORISTS! They must all be destroyed and the land seized so they can build their temple and establish the empire... And what will they do once they have their holy temple back? So it is written: for he who has an ear let him hear, for he who has an eye, let him see. They will then prop up one of their own Zionists Jews from generations of inbreeding lineage as the WORLD LEADER to rule the mankind (as forewarned in the book of Revelations). I am not the one who makes this stuff up! This is REAL. That is their ultimate goal.

Centuries ago the Vatican was so corrupted that many new Christian movements and churches sprouted out everywhere. Today all that is left of the Vatican / Catholic Church is a hollowed out carcass of spiritually decaying matter where hundreds of priests swim in the lust of having sex with little boys. The elders either accept it or turn a blind eye, where in every single case out of hundreds that came forward they covered up the sins. Today they have been literally paying out billions of dollars to their victims. The sin and depravity within the Vatican/Catholic church has been well documented by mainstream for centuries, this is not even open for debate. What people do not know is that it has been exactly their complete rampant decadence and immorality was the very weakness that the cunning Zionists took advantage of to infiltrate and completely subjugate them.

They have long forgotten their roots, the sanctity and teachings of Jesus was discarded centuries ago, for the Catholics only pray to and worship Mary, "Hail Mary MOTHER of God..." (Jesus specifically stated "no one goes to the father only through me" and God forbids us to worship anyone other than him) They bow to and worship idols, statues, images of the virgin Mary and "saints", hence their severe decline. How could anyone be so foolish to actually bow down in prayer to a statue of Mary, yet at the same time deny that they are worshipping her? Doh! Some statues of Mary the church leaders bow to actually has her wearing a crown! And what's with that upside down cross on the pope's throne all about?

Yet outwardly and materialistically, many of the world's powers are still attached to the roots of this morally/spiritually defunct Catholic church. Even though the church is irrelevant and powerless in today's world, it is still viewed by millions of death, dumb and blind lemmings as the major "Christian" church. Yet many devote blind followers have no clue that the Vatican/Catholicism was spiritually BANKRUPT centuries ago. No matter what, the many institutions established under the guidance or blessing of the Vatican remained and continued forward in history. Many of which also degraded over time. The worst have turned to the occultist practices, such as some of the secret societies that claim to be of the Roman Catholic heritage, like the Masons for example. Many of whom pray to the "light of Lucifer." Doh! Hence, it is not so difficult to see how the distorted inspirations of world domination have come to be.

The great Martin Luther (1483-1546) is world renown for initiating the reformation age, literally changing the entire course of religious history. There is yet another one of his works that has carefully been hidden from the public eyes for hundreds of years. He published a document called: "On The Jews and Their Lies" in 1543. One would have to wonder, what has it been about the "Jews" throughout history that has gotten them EXPELLED out of over a hundred countries within the last millennium... Well, back in 1543AD Martin Luther had a clue... what more authoritative and respected person in history can you not label an "anti-Semite" for telling it like it is? For those wandering what Martin had to say, you can read with your own eyes what he was trying to warn the world about way back when, right here: "On the Jews and Their Lies."

Suffice to say that after getting entirely expelled out of over a hundred countries and becoming the one of the most despised and scrutinized people in the world, the Jews learned to become masters of disguise and secrecy. So much so, that up until this very day, some of the most notorious spies have all been Jewish.

All the nations' intelligence agencies are staffed with a large majority of double agents from the secret Zionist/Mason/Jesuit societies in key positions whose ultimate loyalty is to their coordinating Zionist masters. Those are the ones that have the ultimate power within the intelligence agencies such as the CIA, Mossad, Mi5/6 etc., they in fact consist of a secret agencies within the agencies. Of course the president of the United States installs whoever ~~he wants~~ he is "suggested" by his handlers to head the CIA for instance, but that person is in reality nothing more than a glorified public relations officer. The true movers and shakers within every agency are never scrutinized nor seen by the light of day. Keep in mind the fact that all intelligence agencies have basically been founded and operated by the secret societies membership, that's who really runs them. Externally they go through the motions of reporting to Congress but it is very well known and documented that even Congress does NOT have the slightest clue what the majority of the CIA's activities are.

The CIA's budget alone is larger than that of many industrial nations. To get an idea of the size and reach of the CIA, compare it to IBM. The CIA receives an "official" budget, what is it? something like 30 billion dollars a year? Only a small fraction of what it takes to run that monstrosity. That is why the CIA have become the world's foremost illegal drug suppliers. They bring in untold billions upon billions of dollars yearly of undocumented drug money to fuel all their clandestine operations.

Remember "Iran/Contra"? Those were the early days of the CIA first getting into drug dealing. The CIA would soon realize that they could reap the billions of dollars in un-disclosed income by taking over the entire drug trade. The war against the Medallion cartel was in reality a rival gang war by the CIA for control of the biggest drug operation in the world. As we all know, the Medallion cartel lost, and the CIA has since been the ruling drug czar. Of course every now and then they feed the competition, little guys, not from their drug running network to the DEA wolves, as to keep the appearance that the bogus "war on drugs" is working. Every now and then the CIA crashes a plane full of dope, then off they go into massive cover-up mode.

After WWII ended America immediately imported all of the top German scientists and German secret intelligence agents under Operation Paperclip. This is very well documented fact. But common sense would dictate that there would be no way on earth we could TRUST our sworn enemies that were involved in the deepest part of the belly of the beast to just "presto, tag, I'm on your side now", and immediately be given high level security clearances to all sorts of top secret matters we can only imagine from our remote detached viewpoints.

Folks, I don't know how else to emphasize and articulate the massive infiltration of our society after the second world war. Everywhere I look and witness practices that are corroding our country there are people of German decent (many of whom are Jewish).

Thousands of sworn "to the death" enemies of America were, in what outwardly seems like a totally insane act, were given cart blanch entry into our country and employment deep within all levels of our government! Background check? Hello, these guys vowed to infiltrated and destroy our country, hello? The overall impact of their SUBVERSIVE acts throughout our nation since the time they were given citizenship, employment and housing will probably never be totally comprehended nor totally understood. But THE POINT that I want you to fully understand is the fact that there HAD to of existed some sort of trust connection deep within both over our governments for there to even be a glimmer of the idea of just TRUSTING and bringing thousands of our "supposedly lethal enemies without so much as concern. One trans-national organization was the Masonic orders, which it has been documented even in the times of war, when they came across one of their fellow Masons; they shook hands and parted ways. And of course the Zionist Jews have no boarders, no allegiance to any singular country other than their own center of the universe Israel. If you carefully review domestic history within the light of the provided facts, you will notice that ALL the true transformation, expansion and agenda building within our country began after the Germans and the Zionist Jews infiltrated our nation and filled the key positions of our intelligence agencies and assumed positions of power.

Thus history records a prominent individual's observation of this phenomena:

"We must now face the harsh truth that the objectives of communism are being steadily advanced because many of us do not recognize the means used to advance them. ... The individual is handicapped by coming face to face with a Conspiracy so monstrous he cannot believe it exists. The American mind simply has not come to a realization of the evil which has been introduced into our midst." – J. Edgar Hoover 1956

Kol Nidre

This is the prayer that Jews pray on Yom Kippur during Judaism's most holy moment equivalent to Christmas Eve for the Christians. The Kol Nidre is a celebration of the deceptions to come.

It states: "All vows, obligations, oaths, and anathemas, pledges of all names, which we may vow, or swear, or pledge, or whereby we may be bound, from this Day of Atonement until the next (whose happy coming we await), we do repent. May they be deemed absolved, forgiven, annulled, and void, and made of no effect; they shall not bind us nor have power over us. The vows shall not be reckoned vows; the obligations shall not be obligatory; nor the oaths be oaths."

What is forgiven? The Jewish Prayer Book lists the following sins specifically that are unconditionally forgiven beforehand on Yom Kipur.

Sins committed with incestuous lewdness, Oppressing one's neighbor, Assembling to commit fornication, Deceitful acknowledgments, Violence, Evil imagination, Denying and lying, Taking and giving bribes, Calumny, Extortion and usury, Haughtiness, Shamelessness, Lawlessness, Litigiousness, Treachery to one's neighbor, Tale bearing, False-swearing, Embezzlement, and Stealing

There was plenty of communications and Jewish friends working with the Nazis throughout the war. IBM and several other big companies were busy supplying Hitler with the materials he needed to wage war AGAINST US!!!! Zionist Jew Banks were busy financing Hitler while he was supposedly "annihilating" their Jew brethren!! (These are but only two examples out of a multitude) Now I don't know about you, but that whole war seems weird and reeks of special interest manipulation on all fronts. And don't forget that war was pivotal and central to implementing the sanctioned orders of the Balfour Declaration for the Zionists to invade and take over Palestine.

This is where the clues begin to flow in. I will cut to the chase and just state the facts as they are. Deep within the intelligence communities of many countries is exists powerful agents, card carrying Zionist and Masonic blood brothers, who transcend national boundaries, they are all "familia." The REAL Cosa Nostra. This is how and why our CIA recruited all the German intelligence agents as if nothing happened. Likewise, even the CIA and Mossad and Mi6 have massive joint venture working relationships. Who do they ultimately hold true allegiance to? Obviously not to Amerika, for their ultimate loyalty is to none other than their Luciferian cabals.

Behold: for I hereby proclaim that the ~~ashke~~NAZI invasion of America never showed up on the public radar nor shows any sign of ending. They quietly integrated throughout our nation, quietly practicing the art of subversion, took up roots from sea to shining sea. Today the German Zionist illuminati rules this country.

There is one branch of the illuminati that we find particularly interesting. The German Bavarian Illuminati, for many paths end up there. In 1832 a member of the above mentioned chapter, General William H. Russell established the infamous Skull & Bones "fraternity" at Yale University. Of all the high level leaders that came out of those dark halls of that "fraternity", the one we find most intriguing is the Bush family. Prescott Bush and both his sons presidents GW Bush and G. Bush are all known members of Skull & Bones. One enterprising researcher tracked Prescott Bush's lineage to his dad who immigrated from none other than: Germany. Ok. interesting you say? (By the way, there are no records that show who were Jewish or not when they migrated to America for many German Jews took on German names and covered up the fact that they were Jewish, so we are forced to take their word as to their lineage).

Oh no, it gets better. It has been recently revealed the ole Prescott, through Union Bank had many ties to money laundering with ~~ashke~~NAZI Germany in WWII. As if that were not enough, Prescott Bush's group asked Butler to lead 500,000 veterans in a take-over of Washington and the White House! This coup d'état failed none the less, and good ole Prescott gets away without even a slap on the wrist! Hello!!! A failed attempted coup on our nation and no one does anything! Not even a blip in the media radar! Fast forward to the time of JFK's assassination GW Bush had a company called Zapata and what would you know? At that very time JFK was assassinated the CIA was conducting a top secret operation code named "Zapata". Hmmm, interesting. Some sources place GW Bush at Delay Square the day JFK was killed. To top it off there is a confirmed memo published by FBI director Hoover reporting to none other than George Bush regarding the JFK assassination. To this day George denies he was ever in the CIA. Yet years later out of the blue he is, supposedly out of thin air with allegedly no experience, crowned the Director of the CIA! DOH! Interestingly enough years later GW Bush becomes the vice president, and guess what happens? President Reagan becomes a victim of an assassination attempt. Who did it? none other than the son of a close friend of Vice President Bush! Wow. The guy was diagnosed as mentally ill. Possible CIA MK-Ultra/Project Artichoke mind control? He was clinically found to have all the symptoms of having been brain fucked.

The Reagan assassination attempt failed so Bush Sr. had to wait a few years later to become the President of the U.S. the old fashioned way. Even more interesting is the fact that he was very active in promoting something called The New World Order... (This is well documented and there are plenty of videos on YouTube of him talking about this). Hey, who are those people working in his administration? Rumsfeld & Cheney the same guys who would later go on to become pivotal accomplices in Bush Jr's administration. Interesting. Oh, it gets better. Years later his son GW Bush becomes president via some very strange massive irregularities at many polling locations. Bam! A successful coup d'état baby! He stole that election with the help of his dad's connections in the CIA and his brother (along with his mob) delivering Florida, then his buddies in the republican controlled justice dept made it official. He then went straight forward with his grandpa's and his dad's dreams of a new world order, gutting out Amerika like no other president in the history of this nation ever has.

He engineered 911 with the help of his dad's CIA spook network and proceeded to invade basically defenseless countries, he went on to steal the election yet again in 2004 with the help of his Diebold buddies in Ohio. Here we are now standing with several false flag ops waiting in the background, also watching our nation being plundered by the world banksters guided under Bush as they rape TRILLIONS upon TRILLIONS of dollars from the government piggy bank, gorging themselves as our nation is spinning completely out of financial control headed straight to the abyss.

At the moment the first draft of this report was being written, we were waiting for Bush to bomb Iran into the stone age. Not a day goes by that we hope and pray that this lunatic of a president will just have some sort of brain seizure and completely forget and stop attacking every country Israel and the Oil companies feel like. It is a long road to January 2009, but yet Obama seems to be compiling a traditional good ole boys, business as usual team that will in all likely hood just pick up right where the Bush crime syndicate left off. The Bush Administration should go down in history as the single most self destructive blatantly private agenda driven presidency ever. This administration at times seems hell bent on completely destroying the United States of America. Bush thus passes the baton off to Obama with America in financial inferno of dire proportions.

What we are witnessing in today's current era is an unprecedented, all out, world level coup d'état financial consolidation and control by the highly organized megawealthy, media and financial Zionist Barons who have played the roles of servants for eons until the day would come when they would rise up and be able to become their master's master... one country at a time. In each carefully planned financial collapse the Zionists engineer, they CONSOLIDATE ever more wealth and power. This happened in the Great Depression, as in many smaller events crashes since. Today's engineered worldwide economic financial "9/11" you are witnessing is the greatest most amazing majestic granddaddy of them all, a worldwide financial Armageddon literally dwarfing the "Great Depression" in its sheer magnitude and gangsta "all the countries feverishly pumping the banksters with literally trillions of dollars" bad ass balls to the wall con. No, they did not "roll up on you" with guns blazing stealing your money... they sat back pushed buttons and cried "FIRE!!!!!!" and everyone just handed them truck loads of money... Pure unadulterated genius gangsta heist.

What has become blazingly clear is the fact that the Elite Rulers are going all out, making their desperate moves for the grand prizes, skullfuck America, screw the citizens, sacrifice the environment, vaccinate the minds of the people, and so on. Israel is to eventually emerge as the new world leader at some point or another. The Elite rulers could care less how many people die along the way, actually they hope millions and even billions of people die! They actually WANT billions of people to die, this is part of the Eugenics program. This will solve what they view as the problem of far too many people on this planet.

Imagine for just one moment that instead of Jews, a bunch of Mexicans owned a majority of our financial institutions and completely owned/controlled all of our media and held immense clout in our political arena pulling strings left and right... The outrage would reverberate to the ends of the earth and bloody revolution would begin overnight. But since it is the JEWS who hold this EXACT situation, no one DARES utter a word.

"The ethnic cleansing of Palestine is as much America's crusade as Israel's. On 16 August, the Bush administration announced an unprecedented $30 Billion military "aid package" (while he vetoes healthcare for poor children here in his own country! Doh!) for Israel, the world's fourth biggest military power, an air power even greater than Britain, a nuclear power greater than France. No other country on earth enjoys such immunity, allowing it to act without sanction, as Israel. No other country has such record of lawlessness: not one of the world's tyrannies comes close. International treaties, such as the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, ratified by Iran, are ignored by Israel. There is nothing like it in UN history." The breaches of U.N. resolutions by Israel is bar none. Israel has managed to rack up more breaches of security breaches than any other country on the planet, more than all other UN members combined! Even to the point of U.N. general assembly stating that Israeli breaches of Geneva Convention constitute 'war crimes'. Hello folks! Wake up time! The Zionist Jews have been going all out in their efforts to consolidate their world power. And it seems to be there is shit you can say or do about it.

You have the Zionist/Masonic/Jesuit rulers cleverly hacking out strategies for taking over the entire middle east... (Zionists can have the land, the western corporations take the oil) they dream of one day expanding to become the massive apartheid nation of Israel. For they will never be satisfied with that little piece of land that was unlawfully GIVEN to them back in 1948. No, not enough, they want Gaza, they want all of Palestine, Lebanon, they want the Temple Mount, all the lands of the time of Solomon and all the land as far as the eyes can see and beyond as theirs. For in their minds and hearts they believe their god promised them all this and they are to rule over this world for it is written in their most holy scriptures.. The Muslim nations are just thorns on their sides. Low life form creatures, they must all die and surrender their lands to the Zionists.

Revelations: Chapter2 v9: "I know your works, tribulations and poverty (but you are rich). And I know the blasphemy of those which SAY they ARE ISRAEL but they are NOT, they are the synagogue of Satan". Behold: For the bible warned us of the Zionists long ago.

THE BOTTOM LINE IS:

There DOES exist a super secret illuminati ruler. There does exist a central MASTERMIND coordinator of the ruling matrix network. The ULTIMATE secret master ruler of the ruling elite who unequivocally RUNS THIS WORLD is an immortal entity(s) that goes by the name of Satan, Lucifer, the Devil. All the rituals and occult practicing elite of the world bow to this same master, whether knowingly or not. Jesus proclaimed to the masses: "you are all of your father the devil" (John 8:44, Acts 13:10) and the bible states the FACT that this world belongs to Satan in many verses, such as "Satan is the ruler of this world." (John 12:31, John 14:30, John 16:11, 2 Corin. 4:4). Hence the need of God to send a savior, a messiah to redeem this world. The ruling elite are his physical agents here on earth conducting his will here on earth.

This is why this world has been full of wars, bloodshed, chaos, violence, inequity, corruption, decadence since the beginning of known history. The rich get richer while the poor get poorer and for all intents and purposes have nothing to do with the management of world affairs, besides the ILLUSION of choice and participation. What most researchers have FAILED to understand is that the illuminati Zionists, Freemasonry, Jesuits, nobility and all other ruling factions that make up the ruling elite knowingly or unknowingly ALL channel the wishes of their GRAND MASTER, Lucifer, Satan, the Devil in their worldly pursuits of global domination and rule.

Thus seemingly disconnected, separate regimes, groups and peoples from different time zones throughout many generations continually, consistently, without fail, keep conducting the ongoing same world conquest agendas. Can you fully understand this most critically important revelation? He who has ears let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see.

Behold for it is written: “And Satan, taking Jesus up to the highest peak of the mountain, showed Him all the Kingdoms of the world in an instantaneous moment of time. And the Devil said unto Him, All this power will I give thee, even all the glory of these Kingdoms, for THEY ARE MINE to give and to whomsoever I will I give them to. Therefore, if you would just fall and worship me all of these shall be yours. And Jesus answered and said unto Satan, It is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord God and to Him only shalt thou serve.” – Luke 4:5-8; The Bible.

Sit back and digest these words very carefully, for when the day comes that you truly understand their significance is the day you can truly begin to liberate yourself from your multifaceted enslavement to the Luciferian rulers of this world... In order to adequately proceed further into the matrix report you must keep this pivotal, fundamental crucially important fact in mind:

What will GOD’s works and world resemble? And how do we recognize what comes from Heaven? It will usher in an age of love and compassion for your fellow man devoid of bias, hate, animosity, lies, deception, and the host of other evils. GOD’s works will wholeheartedly encompass: Truthfulness, compassion, kindness, sympathy, empathy, trust, benevolence, peace, thoughtfulness, love, forgiveness, unselfishness, sacrifice of the self for the sake of others, giving instead of taking, the end of selfish self-centered rule of a privileged elite super rich few, the onset of monetary equality, the end of all forms of oppression and enslavement while opening a true level playing field for all where no exclusive elites can game the system and become the ruler(s) of the “system” or the rest. This are just a few key qualities you need to look for in those who may CLAIM to be, but are not... because their FALSE rule is based on lies, deceit, malovence, conquest, battle, usury, elitism and so forth.

BEHOLD FOR: While the rest of mankind exists in a blind vacuum following and pursuing the material world’s illusions and lures you have been blessed to know the truth. Although man was created in the image of God, the sin of Adam and Eve separated the entire human race from God, and sold us into bondage to sin from which we need to be redeemed... thus:

Satan/Lucifer/Devil controls this world, which is why God MUST send a “Messiah” a SAVIOR to this world to SAVE MANKIND and take this world back and establish GOD’s Kingdom of Heaven on Earth based on GOD’s value system, GOD’s empire, GOD’s world, GOD’s society, GOD’s governments, GOD’s schools, GOD’s economic system, GOD’s social system, GOD’s media, GOD’S entertainment, GOD’s justice, GOD’s unselfish agenda, policies, rules and laws... Centered on GOD’S LOVE... of fellow man and TRUE PEACE not invasion, occupation and endless wars regardless of pretense... NEVER... EVER... forget this...

“None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free”

“he who has an ear, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see”

For it is written: "the truth shall set you free"

"By their fruits ye shall know them."

AGENCIES OF DECEPTION DEATH & DESTRUCTION

LUCIFER'S AGENTS ON EARTH: MASTERS OF DECEIT

"By way of DECEPTION, thou shalt do war."

– Israeli Mossad's official motto

"The individual is handicapped by coming face to face with a conspiracy so monstrous he cannot believe it exists" - J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director 1956

"I would never have agreed to the formulation of the Central Intelligence Agency back in '47, if I had known it would become the American Gestapo." - Harry S. Truman (1961)

Intelligence agencies are the PERFECT entity, apparatus, means and cover for the ruling elite to operate undetected, unseen, invisible, clandestine and to top it all off: ABOVE THE LAW. What ruling criminal mastermind would not want to have such amazing virtually impenetrable shield, immunity and operate with impunity that comes with being an "intelligence agency"? These are the agencies that operate from the integral motto: "by way of deception we shall wage war."

The bible states that Satan is the MASTER LIAR, the MASTER DECIEVER. Those are two of his most central attributes. It is written: "By their deeds you will know them"...

It is clearly unequivocally stated numerous times establishing beyond a shadow of doubt that Satan and his agent on earth are the LIARS and DECIEVERS.

Thus to track his activities on earth, one must look for his tracks, identify his agents by his M.O. finger prints or calling cards. To find his works on earth and his agents here on earth who do his bidding, all one need do is locate who are his agents on earth who possess, practice and live by those key attributes of LIES and DECEPTION. It is literally THAT simple.

I will waste no time in first and foremost stating several intensely important facts about the secret agencies of this country and the world are in fact Satanic temples of the first degree.

The secret agencies are the central key agent provocateurs entities instigating conflicts, division, wars, murder, mayhem, deception, terrorism and so forth throughout the world. When they go to work they produce absolutely no good, only heart break, tears, pain, chaos and death follow them and their trails of blood. This is their modus operandi par excellence. The secret agencies are the mirror image of Satan's physical incarnation on earth... To he who has ears, let him hear, to he who has eyes, let him see...

First of all: the CIA, Mossad, Mi5/6 are a “trinity” who at the inner core work as, and are literally ONE agency. All of these agencies have “a secret agency within the agency” they work together on many, many JOINT VENTURE projects, yet you would never know it. Secondly: our CIA was founded, organized and put together by elite Masons/Jesuits/ZIONISTS. Thirdly: When Nazi Germany was “defeated” ALL OF THEIR ~~as the~~ NAZI SPIES were transferred to work here in Amerika's CIA!!! Do you, can you fathom the repercussions of this revelation?: It PROVES that there were elements within both our secret agencies that were working together throughout the wars... This is absolute earth shaking reality destroying extremely difficult to swallow revelation.

This is not a figment of my imagination, these are FACTS. We have had Nazi spies working in our CIA ever since the war ended (Google it if you dare doubt it). With that said and done, let's never forget that the Nazis and the “Comms” were our mortal enemies who vowed “TO DESTROY AMERICA FROM WITHIN”.....

You must also factor in the main essence of these consortiums is that they are all agencies of deceit, and that is their specialty of existence (CIA, Mi6, Mossad, etc). They operate under the cloak of clandestine Luciferian darkness. For it is they who flood the information highway with all sorts of bogus, absurd and preposterous conspiracy theories in order to envelope the entire realm being targeted into ludicrous absurdity fog. Rendering anyone's serious fact laden research as ridiculous hearsay.

The term “conspiracy theorist” has been popularized by the media as a derogatory term for anyone who does not accept the official propaganda narrative. The conspirators build comedy and entertainment into their plan for world domination. The more ridiculous they can make it look, the less believable it will appear to be. It is relatively easy to derail, discredit and censure any serious purveyor of truth since anything that comes out of their mouths, no matter how true, their statements are rendered null and void due to its originating from the same sphere and affiliation with the preposterous theories that get all the publicity and headlines. “Get a life you tin foil hat idiots.” Presto, you have been effectively ridiculed/neutralized, now go crawl back into your cave.

Does The CIA Ever Tell Anyone in Government The Truth About Anything?

By DownWithTyranny

From polling data I've seen, those of us who are certain that the CIA assassinated JFK are almost as small a minority as those who identify themselves as members of the Republican Party-- 25% and 21% respectively. But even if you don't want to believe they'd actually kill an American president, you'd be foolish to believe that they're not an organization built on deceit and misdirection.

According to Russ Baker's latest book, Family of Secrets it's likely that the Watergate scandal was a CIA plot to removed Nixon! Take it for what it's worth-- judge for yourself-- but you may have noticed that in recent weeks they've tried to engineer a coup against House Speaker Nancy Pelosi. Or maybe they were just firing a very loud warning shot over the bow of any Democrats who want to get too feisty that there will be no investigations or hearings that lead to any CIA personnel going to prison regardless of what crimes were committed. I'd say the message was received.

CQPolitics is about as vanilla and inoffensive a news source as you're going to find Inside-the-Beltway. Yesterday evening they featured a piece by Jeff Stein confirming-- from inside the secretive agency-- that the CIA lies to and misleads members of Congress as a matter of course. A 25 year veteran former deep-cover spy, who uses the name Ishmael Jones, and wrote the book The Human Factor: Inside the CIA's Dysfunctional Intelligence Culture, claims the CIA's congressional briefers "routinely" lie to members of Congress. He's no Pelosi fan and from reading his stuff I have to believe he's an extreme rightist. But, he does admit that its more likely than not that they lied to her.

Jones also charged that, contrary to beliefs that the agency has a political agenda, "In reality the CIA is loyal only to itself. As long as Mrs. Pelosi supported its bureaucratic lifestyle, it supported her, but when she attacked it, it fought back. The CIA may not be able to conduct efficient intelligence operations, but it knows how to survive."

Reports that CIA managers were outraged or demoralized by the water-boarding controversy are wrong, Jones also maintained. To the contrary, he said, they felt that revelations of their interrogators roughing up, or even torturing, detainees made them look tough.

"The interrogations controversy has served the CIA bureaucracy," Jones asserted. "A top goal of bureaucracy is to look busy, and whether one agrees with the interrogation methods or not, the impression given is that the CIA is both busy and aggressive."

Jones added: "It relishes this 'cowboy' image, and its greatest fear is that the taxpayer might figure out how little it actually is doing.

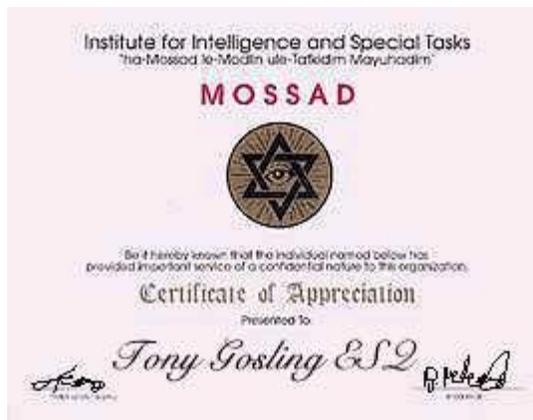

"Bans or restrictions on interrogations," he added, "would have the constructive effect of removing this smokescreen, this distraction, and redirecting focus to what exactly the CIA is doing to provide the foreign intelligence the president needs."

According to a review of "Jones'" book at ForeWord Magazine, the agent wasn't thrown out of the CIA "but was a highly regarded agent who resigned to write this book because he could no longer serve in this organization that had lost its sense of purpose and the capability to protect the United States from terrorist attacks." He sees the CIA as "a bloated, unresponsive bureaucracy that exists to serve itself and cannot fulfill its important intelligence-gathering role, which was the reason for its creation by President Harry Truman.

I am at odds on this topic. How can we humanly possibly convey the extreme seriousness, the insanely dangerousness, outright evilness of the secret agencies such as, and especially the CIA and Mossad? Words cannot describe these abomination organizations. They exist purely as deceit centered entities whose ONLY mission is to destroy peoples and nations. Assassination, coups, mind rape and torture are just a couple of their highly developed specialties. These are the world's foremost masters of deceit like their founding counterpart: the devil. The CIA/Mossad IS THE AGENCY THAT KILLED ONE OF OUR OWN PRESIDENTS! Think about that, let it digest in your mind and heart. JFK signed his own death warrant when he proclaimed to the world that he was going to disband the CIA and "scatter the CIA to the four winds.". The CIA has no soul, it has no heart, it is a cold calculating murderous organization. Just a tool of the Zionist/Mason Learned Elders ruling elite who run it from the core inner level sanctuaries.

If one had to draw a picture of these intelligence agencies would that picture look like good entities from Heaven or would the image depict a multiheaded beast from hell destroying everything in its path? The fact of the matter is that these agencies have absolutely nothing to do with goodness, fairness, kindness, benevolence, etc. These evil agencies exist and dwell firmly in the realm of lies, deceit, subverting, instigating, destroying, raping, pillaging, killing and death just like their spiritual counterpart the devil everything they do is under the cloak of darkness and associated with evil concepts. For everything they do is in Lucifer's image, EVERYTHING.

"Mossad" means "by way of deception" in Hebrew

Of all the worldwide intelligence agencies, the single most silent, secretive, mysterious and probably the most sinisterly dangerous of them all, is hands down, the Israeli Mossad. Tons of information and leaks have been exposed about our CIA; the Mossad on the other hand seems like an enigma. Not much documentation on the Mossad exists, but there are three areas of specialty where they shine like the brightest stars: 1) Assassinations and hits, these guys take the cake in sheer numbers, tenacity, and cold hearted calculated murderous mayhem. 2) By far, these spooks are THE masters of deceit and infiltration of all intelligence agencies, as they have penetrated and reside within every corner their country's strategic interests lay. 3) The masters of deceiving everyone, even their allies as they turn their enemies against themselves, these are master agent provocateurs of false flags.

There are more Mossad agents posing as "militant extremist terrorists" than anyone would ever believe.... They operate under the same operational techniques and premises that drug enforcement agencies use for infiltrating gangs and the mafia.

"STRATEGY OF TENSION" is the term by which world powers divide, manipulate, and control public opinion using fear, propaganda, disinformation, psychological warfare, agents provocateurs, and false flag terrorist actions. The term originated when it became known that the United States and the then-fascist Greek government supported far-right terrorist groups in Italy and Turkey – whose democratic institutions appeared to be threatened by Communism – to spread panic among the population who would in turn demand stronger and more dictatorial governments. Of course our most wonderful, loving benevolent innocent CIA denies everything and anything to do with this strategy despite the fact that its actions throughout the world tell a different story. As this is a readily observable stratagem it employs in just about every one of its subversive exploits on target countries.

It is of utmost importance that you also understand that all CIA and Mossad undercover terrorist brewing activities is performed with the strategic objective that IT WILL ACTUALLY CREATE MORE real world TERRORIST cohorts. One of the actual goals of instilling hatred, funding and training terrorist groups is to PURPOSELY FOSTER BLOW BACK! The reciprocating retributions serve to create the desired backdrop and climate of FEAR. Al-CIAda is a perfect example of a purposely engineered BLOW BACK program in action. For Al-CIAda was originally a CIA/Mossad secret agency joint venture invention from the very start whose roots began to take form when they were assisting the Mujahedeen in combating communist Russia. Summarized: The CIA/Mossad are "above the law" secret agencies, whom not even the President or Congress really knows or have a clue what operations they conduct undercover, have been purposely fomenting hatred against us for the explicit purpose to provoke REVENGE counter attacks on the west...

Yes they actually WANT them to become raving mad and ATTACK US creating the ideal justification to invade Middle Eastern nations and initiate drastic changes home and abroad that would NEVER be possible otherwise. "The ends justify the means."

The CIA, the KKK and the USA

by Sherwood Ross - Global Research, October 15, 2010

By assigning covert action roles to the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), it is as if the White House and Congress had legitimized the Ku Klux Klan to operate globally. That's because the CIA today resembles nothing so much as the "Invisible Empire" of the KKK that once spread terror across the South and Midwest. Fieri crosses aside, this is what the CIA is doing globally.

The CIA today is committing many of the same sort of gruesome crimes against foreigners that the KKK once inflicted on Americans of color. The principal difference is that the KKK consisted of self-appointed vigilantes who regarded themselves as both outside and above the law when they perpetrated their crimes. By contrast, the CIA acts as the agent of the American government, often at the highest levels, and at times at the direction of the White House. Its crimes typically are committed in contravention of the highest established international law such as the Charter of the United Nations as well as the U.S. Constitution. What's more, the "Agency," as it is known, derives its funding largely from an imperialist-minded Congress; additionally, it has no qualms about fattening its budget from drug money and other illegal sources. It is a mirror-image of the lawless entity the U.S. has become since achieving superpower status. And it is incredible that the White House grants license to this violent Agency to commit its crimes with no accountability. The Ku Klux Klan was founded shortly after the end of the U.S. Civil War. Klansmen concealed their identities behind flowing white robes and white hoods as they terrorized the newly emancipated blacks to keep them from voting or to drive them from their property.

Allowing it to operate in secret literally gives the CIA the mythical Ring of Gyges. In Plato's Republic, the owner of the ring had the power to become invisible at will. As Wikipedia puts it, Plato "discusses whether a typical person would be moral if he did not have to fear the consequences of his actions." The ancient Greeks made the argument, Wikipedia says, that "No man would keep his hands off what was not his own when he could safely take what he liked out of the market, go into houses and lie with any one at his pleasure, kill or release from prison whom he would, and in all respects be like a god among men." The CIA, like Hitler's Gestapo and Stalin's NKVD before it, has provided modern man the answer to this question. Its actions illuminate why all criminal entities, from rapists and bank robbers, to Ponzi scheme swindlers and murderers, cloak themselves in secrecy.

There are innumerable examples of how American presidents have authorized criminal acts without public discussion that the preponderant majority of Americans would find reprehensible. Example: it was President Lyndon Johnson who ordered the CIA to meddle in Chile's election to help Eduardo Frei become president. If they had known, U.S. taxpayers might have objected to such a use of their hard-earned money to influence the outcome of another country's elections. But the public is rarely let in on such illegal foreign policy decisions.

Where the KKK after the Civil War terrorized blacks to keep them from voting, the CIA has worked to influence the outcome of elections all over the world through bribery and vote-buying, dirty tricks, and worse. According to investigative reporter William Blum in "Rogue State"(Common Courage Press), the CIA has perverted elections in Italy, Lebanon, Indonesia, The Philippines, Japan, Nepal, Laos, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Portugal, Australia, Jamaica, Panama, Nicaragua, Haiti, among other countries. If they had known, taxpayers might also object to the CIA's numerous overthrows of foreign governments by force and violence---such as was done in Iran in 1953 by President Eisenhower and Chile in 1973 by President Nixon.

Both overthrows precipitated bloodbaths that cost tens of thousands of innocent civilians their lives. Blum also lists the countries the CIA has attempted to overthrow or has actually overthrown. His list includes Greece, The Philippines, East Germany, Iran, Guatemala, Indonesia, Iraq, Viet Nam, Laos, Ecuador, The Congo, France, Cuba, Ghana, Chile, South Africa, Bolivia, Portugal, and Nicaragua, to cite a few. As I write, today, October 11th, 2010, Nobel Peace Prize winner Adolfo Perez Esquivel of Argentina called on President Obama to revise U.S. (imperialist) policies toward Latin America. He questioned why the U.S. continues to plant its military bases across the region.

That's an excellent question. If the U.S. is a peace-loving nation, why does it need 800 bases the world over in addition to 1,000 on its own soil? Americans might recoil in disgust if they knew of the CIA's numerous assassinations of the elected officials of other nations. Is it any wonder Americans so often ask the question, "Why do they hate us?" As historian Arnold Toynbee wrote in 1961, "America is today the leader of a world-wide anti-revolutionary movement in the defence of vested interests. She now stands for what Rome stood for. Rome consistently supported the rich against the poor in all foreign communities that fell under her sway; and, since the poor, so far, have always and everywhere been more numerous than the rich, Rome's policy made for inequality, for injustice, and for the least happiness of the greatest number."

The CIA's protective secrecy resembles nothing so much as the KKK, which proudly proclaimed itself "the Invisible Empire" and whose thugs killed citizens having the courage to identify hooded Klansmen to law enforcement officials. Today, it is our highest public officials that protect this criminal force, said to number about 25,000 employees. It is actually a Federal offense to reveal the identity of a CIA undercover agent---unless, of course, you happen to be I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, and are employed by Vice President Dick Cheney. Libby leaked the identity of CIA agent Valerie Plame to punish her husband Joseph Wilson for publishing a report that undercut the White House lie that Saddam Hussein had purchased "yellowcake" from Niger to fuel WMD. Today, high public officials direct the CIA's criminal policies and protect its agents' identities the better to enable them to commit their crimes.

According to journalist Fred Cook in his book "Ku Klux Klan: America's Recurring Nightmare"(Messner), "The Klan was inherently a vigilante organization. It could commit the most atrocious acts under the guise of high principle and perpetrators of those acts would be hidden behind white masks and protected by Klan secrecy... (The Klan) set itself up as judge, jury and executioner"---a policy adopted by the CIA today.

CIA spies have conducted their criminal operations masquerading as officials of U.S. aid programs, business executives, or journalists. Example: The San Diego-based Copley News Service's staff of foreign correspondents allegedly was created to provide cover to CIA spies, compromising legitimate American journalists trying to do their jobs. While the murders committed by the KKK likely ran into the many thousands, the CIA has killed on a far grander scale and managed to keep its role largely secret.

As Tim Weiner, who covered the CIA for the New York Times noted in his book "Legacy of Ashes: The History of the CIA" (Anchor): "In Guatemala, 200,000 civilians had died during forty years of struggle following the agency's(CIA) 1954 coup against an elected president." Weiner adds, "the CIA's officers in Guatemala still went to great lengths to conceal the nature of their close relations with the military and to suppress reports that Guatemalan officers on its payroll were murderers, torturers, and thieves." When it comes to murder, the CIA makes the KKK look like Boy Scouts.

Like the KKK, CIA terrorists operate above the law. KKK members committed thousands of lynchings yet rarely were its members punished for them. In 2009 at a speech at CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia, President Obama revealed he was not intent on punishing CIA agents for their crimes but would rather "look forward." This seemingly charitable philosophy may be driven by the fact that Obama worked for Business International Corporation, a CIA front, at least in 1983 and perhaps longer, and allegedly is the son of a mother and father both of whom also worked for the CIA, as did Obama's grandmother! I could find none of this in Obama's biography when he ran for the presidency, when a gullible American public elected a CIA "mole" to the White House.

Consider this, too: an agency President Truman feared would become "an American Gestapo" when he signed the enabling legislation into law in 1947 has become just that, and it casts a lengthy shadow over the White House. Ominously, it has in Barack Obama one of its own former employees sitting in the Oval Office---a man who, according to news reports, has vastly expanded the frequency of the CIA's assassinations by drone aircraft in Pakistan and who illegally claims the "right" to assassinate any American citizen abroad as well. What's more, from 1989 to 1993 George Bush Sr., the CIA's own former Director, sat in the White House.

Additionally, from 2001 to 2009, the CIA had that Director's son, George W. Bush, in the Oval Office giving the CIA a blank check after the 9/11 massacre. Bush Jr., according to The New York Times, in the summer of 1974 worked for Alaska International Industries, which did contract work for the CIA. The Times noted that this job did not appear in his biography when he ran for the White House in 2000, terming it "The Missing Chapter in the Bush Bio." Thus, two presidential candidates with CIA ties---Bush Jr. and Obama---both neglected to mention them. And in Bill Clinton, who presided from 1993 to 2001, the CIA had a go-along president who satisfied the Agency's blood-lust when he authorized the first illegal "rendition," a euphemism for what KKK thugs once knew as kidnapping and torture. Is there any question that the Agency has not played an influential, behind-the-scenes or even a direct role in the operations of the U.S. government at its highest level? It may indeed be a stretch to argue that the CIA is running the country but it is no stretch to say that year after year our presidents reflect the criminal philosophy of the Agency.

Other parallels with the KKK are striking. As Richmond Flowers, the Attorney General of Alabama stated in 1966, "I've found the Klan more than just another secret society... It resembles a shadow government, making its own laws, manipulating local politics, burrowing into some of our local law-enforcement agencies...When a pitiable misfit puts on his $15 sheet, society can no longer ignore him." Yet the descendants of those misfits have moved up today where they feel comfortable as operatives in the shadow government run by the White House. One of the CIA's illicit duties has been to serve as a conduit for funneling U.S. taxpayer dollars to corrupt dictators and strongmen bent on suppressing the popular will of their citizenry. As Noam Chomsky wrote in "Failed States"(Metropolitan/Owl), in Honduras, "military officers in charge of the battalion (3-16) were on the CIA payroll." This elite unit, he says, "organized and trained by the United States and Argentine neo-Nazis," was "the most barbaric of the Latin American killers that Washington had been supporting."

Like the KKK, the CIA kidnaps many of its victims with no thought ever of legal procedure. It exhibits utter disdain for the rights of those individuals, the sovereignty of foreign nations, or respect for international law. At least hundreds of foreigners, mostly from the Middle East, have been the victims of "renditions" just as the KKK kidnapped and flogged and lynched blacks, labor leaders, Catholics, Jews, or wayward wives whom it felt to be morally lacking. In September, 1921, The New York World ran a series exposing the KKK. It pointed out that, among other things, the KKK was violating the Bill of Rights wholesale. This included the Fourth amendment against "unreasonable searches and seizures," the Fifth and the Sixth amendments, guaranteeing that no one may be held without a grand jury indictment or punished without a fair trial. And these rights today are similarly trampled by the CIA against American citizens, not just foreigners.

Apparently, only foreign courts care to rein in the CIA. The 23 CIA agents that it took to render one "suspect" in Italy are wanted there by the magistrates. (The spooks, by the way, ran up some fabulous bills in luxury hotels on taxpayers' dollars in that escapade.) Former President Jimmy Carter wrote in his book "Our Endangered Values"(Simon & Schuster), the CIA transferred some of those it kidnapped to countries that included Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Morocco, Jordan, and Uzbekistan where "the techniques of torture are almost indescribably terrible, including, as a U.S. ambassador to one of the recipient countries reported, 'partial boiling of a hand or an arm,' with at least two prisoners boiled to death." The KKK's methods of punishment were often as ugly: the brutal flogging of blacks in front of vicious crowds, followed by castration and burning their victims alive, and then lynching of the corpses. As for the CIA, "Why?" asks investigative reporter William Blum, "are these men rendered in the first place if not to be tortured? Does the United States not have any speakers in foreign languages to conduct interrogations?"

That the CIA is a terrorist organization was upheld in the famous "CIA On Trial" case in Northampton, Mass., in 1987, when a jury acquitted 14 protestors who tried to stop CIA recruitment on campus, according to Francis Boyle, the University of Illinois international law authority who defended the group. The defense charged the CIA was "an organized criminal conspiracy like the SS and the Gestapo." Boyle said, "You would not let the SS or the Gestapo recruit on campus at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, so you would not permit the CIA to recruit on campus either."

Another shared characteristic of the KKK and CIA is greed, the desire to loot the hard-earned wealth of others. Often, Klansmen terrorized African-Americans who had amassed property to frighten them off their land. Law-abiding black citizens who had pulled themselves up by the proverbial bootstraps were cheated out of their homes and acreage by the night riders.

Similarly, the CIA across Latin America has aligned itself with the well-to-do ruling class at every opportunity. It has cooperated with the elite to punish and murder labor leaders and clergy who espoused economic opportunity for the poor. The notion that allowing the poor to enrich themselves fairly will also create more wealth for an entire society generally, including the rich, has not permeated CIA thinking. I emphasize what historian Toynbee noted: "America is today the leader of a world-wide anti-revolutionary movement in the defence of vested interests. She now stands for what Rome stood for." (Italics added.)

In sum, by adopting the terrorist philosophy of the KKK and elevating it to the operations of government at the highest level, the imperial Obama administration, like its predecessors, is showing the world the worst possible face of America. Foreigners do not see the goodness inherent in the American people---most of whom only want a good day's pay for a good day's work and to educate their children and live at peace with the world. Every adult American has a solemn obligation to demand that its government live up to international law, punish the CIA criminals in its midst, and become a respected citizen of the world. This will not come to pass until Congress abolishes the CIA, putting an end to its KKK-style terrorism which threatens Americans as well as humankind everywhere.

As Naomi Klein thoroughly proved in her book The Shock Doctrine: The Rise of Disaster Capitalism, throughout history, "while people were reeling from natural disasters, wars and economic upheavals, savvy politicians and industry leaders nefariously implemented policies that would never have passed during less muddled times."

This is a CENTRAL ELEMENT of the master ruling elite's plans for initiating their next phases of GLOBAL GOVERNANCE. Without firmly established hateful revenge seeking terrorist packs hell bent on harming its enemies, the PERFECT PRETEXT for initiating drastic mind warping changes in all areas of life would simply NOT exist. Their strategy is based on classic CAUSE and EFFECT - "Order Out of Chaos" - Problem/Reaction/Solution paradigm in action. With the invention of the boogeymen terrorist threat (the calculated integral Blow Back factor generating real ones) the ruling elite have the ideal grounds to step in to intervene in all aspects of governance with sweeping measures that would NEVER be tolerable otherwise... "to protect you" of course... This is your wake up call. Awaken ye who are asleep.

What is Blow Back:

Blowback is the espionage term for the violent, unintended consequences of a covert operation that are suffered by the civil population of the aggressor government. To the civilians suffering it, the blowback typically manifests itself as "random" acts of political violence without a discernible, direct cause; because the public—in whose name the intelligence agency acted—are ignorant of the effected secret attacks that provoked revenge (counter-attack) against them.[1] Specifically, blowback denotes the resultant, violent consequences — reported as news fact, by domestic and international mass communications media, when the actor intelligence agency hides its responsibility via media manipulation. Generally, blowback loosely denotes every consequence of every aspect of a secret attack operation, thus, it is synonymous with consequence—the attacked victims’ revenge against the civil populace of the aggressor country, because the responsible politico-military leaders are invulnerable.

Originally, blowback was CIA internal coinage denoting the unintended, harmful consequences—to friendly populations and military forces—when a given weapon is carelessly used. Examples include anti-Western religious fanatics who, in due course, attack foe and sponsor; right-wing counter-revolutionaries who sell drugs to their sponsor’s civil populace; and banana republic juntas who kill American reporters.

In formal, print usage, the term blowback first appeared in the Clandestine Service History—Overthrow of Premier Mossadeq of Iran—November 1952–August 1953, the CIA internal history of the US’s 1953 Iranian coup d’état.[2][3] Alleged examples of blowback include the CIA’s financing and support for Afghan insurgents to fight an anti-Communist proxy guerrilla war against the USSR in Afghanistan; it is claimed that some of the beneficiaries of this CIA support joined al-Qaeda’s terrorist campaign against the United States.[4]

In the 1980s, blowback was a central theme in the legal and political debates about the efficacy of the Reagan Doctrine, which advocated public and secret support of anti-Communist counter-revolutionaries (usually the losers of civil wars). For example, by secretly funding the secret war of the militarily-defeated, right-wing Contras against the left-wing Sandinista government of Nicaragua, which led to the Iran-Contra Affair, wherein the Reagan Administration sold American weapons to US enemy Iran to arm the Contras with Warsaw Pact weapons, and their consequent drug-dealing in American cities. Moreover, in the case of Nicaragua v. United States, the International Court of Justice ruled against the United States’ secret military attacks against Sandinista Nicaragua, because the countries were not formally at war.

Critics of the Reagan Doctrine note that blowback is inevitable and that such unilateral intervention causes Third World civil wars to expand beyond their borders and risks the long-term safety of Americans who may be killed in the resulting violence.[5] Reagan Doctrine advocates, principally the Heritage Foundation, replied that support for anti-Communists would topple Communist régimes without retaliatory consequences to the United States and help win the global Cold War. – [Source Wikipedia]

Blowback is the DESIRED RESULT being sought after by the agent provocateurs (Mossad/CIA/Mi6) who are conducting the false flag operations to pin on the local targets. Black Ops agents don Arab robes, speak their language while they wreak havoc and kill innocent peoples and actively RECRUIT distraught infuriated locals to keep the cycle going... once they recruit enough angry locals then the illusion becomes REALITY. By deception they wage war.

The more convincing the cold calculated pre-engineered instigated coerced Blow Back; the better the chances of introducing controversial legislation and acts (issued in response to the “terrorist attacks” e.g. Blow Back) in the midst of wide spread public FEAR side-effect. The more convincing the dangers posed and instilled FEAR in the population, the better the chances of avoiding the Boomerang Effect occurring among the masses to ruin their well laid plans. In social psychology, the boomerang effect is "the theory of psychological reactance (that people act to protect their sense of freedom) that is supported by experiments showing that attempts to restrict a person's freedom often produce an anti-conformity "boomerang effect" (Brehm, S., & Brehm, J.W. (1981). Psychological reactance: a theory of freedom and control. New York: Academic Press.). For example, after women in Western universities give thought to how traditional culture expects women to behave, they become less - not more - likely to exhibit traditional feminine modesty." (Myers, 2008). Thus the better the quality of Blow Back, the more convincing the mass public accepts the narratives they are spoon fed and changes that are forced upon the feeble minded population. This is the true genius of the Israeli Mossad (and their CIA blood brothers), their amazing ability of operating “by way of deception.”

Behold for The masterminds behind Al-Qaida is Al-CIA da!

Then there are the card carrying Mossad agents who hold high public office in many foreign countries. Here within our government they are not only receiving a salary from Uncle Sam, they silently pull strings and steer our intelligence agencies (who do you think were the most notorious spies to have ever been caught in our country the past several decades? Jews!) all the while the elite dual citizen Israeli double agents hold some of the highest offices in the land, persistently, ever so deviously steering policy decisions in line with Zionist Israel's best interests.

The Zionist state of Israel looks America in the eyes and lies to us, claiming they are our allies, when in reality they have been operating the LARGEST spy network playing us the entire last century right here in our back yard. Some of them have been caught red handed so many times, I won't even bother trying to catalog their long rap sheet. For sake of providing you the reader with a glimpse of their operations I must come up with a couple examples. A quick search in Google and I found: "US arrests 200 young Israelis in spying investigation." Here is a more recent one: "Israeli Diplomat, Spy Suspect Met." Here is an even more recent one: "AIPAC espionage case becomes US trouble." What? You didn't get the memo? Your friendly neighborhood 800lb lobbyist gorilla in the room is also a fully functioning spy agency. Oh here is an even better one with lots of links and sources: "The Israeli Spy Ring." Ummm.... For the past, what? Decade we haven't heard not even a peep of spying from old foes such as Russia or China... It turns out that only the Israeli Jews have been the NUMBER ONE people spying on us... go figure... need me to spell it all out for you? I hope by the end of this report you will figure it out, if not, just go back to grazing in the fields and watching Dancing With the Stars and pay me no mind.

AIPAC is nothing more than an illegal hard core extortion and blackmail "lobbying" organization, acknowledged by EVERYONE on the planet as THE most POWERFUL lobbying entity. Period. What brain dead people do not seem to understand is that these people could care a rats ass about America's best interests, when they "lobby" about any given issue, policy or agenda, it is ALWAYS looking out for their mother land, ISRAEL'S best interest.

Is Al Queda Leader CIA Asset?

Newly-released documents about Anwar Al-Awlaki, a Muslim-American tied to many terrorist attacks and currently on the CIA's capture or kill list, are leading some to believe he may in fact be working for the CIA or another government intelligence agency.

A new FOX News report citing government documents (which can be downloaded here) show Al-Awlaki was recruited by a Defense Department employee to speak at the Pentagon on Muslim issues after seeing him speak in Alexandria, Virginia.

The employee "recalls being impressed" with Al-Awlaki when he spoke. Not only did he condemn Al Queda and terrorism, he was also "'harassed' by members of the audience and suffered it well," one document reads.

The Fox News report says Yemen-American Al-Awlaki was a former Muslim chaplain at George Washington University. He was also pursuing a Doctorate in Education there.

George Washington University is well-known for having close ties to the intelligence community, including recruitment and training. GWU also has CIA agents teaching on campus as part of the "Officers in Residence" program, reports the Washington Post, and maintains the National Security Archive.

A June 03 article from Salem-News.com quotes an article from "mainstream" British Muslim group SalafiMahaj titled, Anwar al-Awlaki and His Errors in the Issue of Jihad, that in part questions who Al-Awlaki is really working for:

When one listens to the earlier lectures and khutab of ‘Awlaki it is immediate noticeable that he was ... appealing to Middle-Class Muslim professional in the US.”

“Awlaki can be seen in ... the PBS documentary Muhammad: Legacy of a Prophet (2003) giving a khutbah [religious speech] in an American Congress building at Capitol Hill (!!!?) [there emphasis]”

“Hence there has been a clear transition and methodological shift in the procedure of ‘Awlaki”

“It is possible at this point [moving to Yemen] ‘Awlaki reviewed his methodology to regain credibility after the likes of ‘Abdullah Faisal al-Jamayki [Real name Trevor William Forest] in the late 1990s had actually condemned him for spreading ‘CIA Islam’ and being a ‘Murji’, ‘spy’, ‘a plant of the government’, ‘an enemy of Islam’ etc. See Faisal’s lecture wherein he ... condemns ‘Awlaki for being a CIA agent.”

“Al-Awlaki is not known for having participated in any ‘jihad’ whatsoever and this is what has to be highlighted. For he calls to it and hypes up his audiences with it, yet the question has to be asked: upon which battlefield has he fought?”

The article also comments on the link between intelligence agencies and jihadis:

“The likes of Omar Bakri, Abu Qatadah al-Filistini, Abu Hamza and a whole host of other takfiri-jihadis [takfiris are muslims who accuse other muslims of being apostates or non-believers, in this context to justify killing them] are well-known for their meetings with not even the police, but with Intelligence Services! Some of them have even been protected and sheltered by them! As in the case of Abu Qatadah al-Filistini after 9/11 which is perhaps the most well-known example in the UK of being sheltered by intelligence services!”

Al-Awlaki has many ties with Muslim terrorists who have waged jihad against America. He was interviewed at least four times by the FBI because of his association with three of the terrorists onboard Flight 77, the plane that slammed into the Pentagon on 9/11/2001.

The FOX News report also quotes sources that Al-Awlaki met with the Christmas Day bomber Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab in Yemen and was the middle-man between the young Nigerian and the bombmaker. Awlaki was also said to inspire would-be Times Square bomber Faisal Shahzad.

He is now believed to be hiding in Yemen for his association with alleged Ft. Hood shooter Major Nidal Malik Hasan, who e-mailed Awlaki prior to the attack.

Speculation suggests the timing of the article, and its questioning of government failure to properly vet Al-Awlaki, may be a preventive measure being made in light of new documents set to be released by whistleblower website Wikileaks.

"According to a U.S. intelligence agency, the government of country "A" (Israel) conducts the most aggressive espionage operation against the U.S. of any U.S. ally." - General Accounting Office Report

Speaking before the Council on Foreign Relations, former 22 year CIA veteran Michael Scheuer explained that Israel is engaged in what is “probably the most successful covert-action program in the history of man,” the object of which is to control not just policy but political debate in the United States.

I recently ran across an extremely informative article documenting the massive Israeli spying operations on America. I find it so revealing and the information so crucial that instead of providing a mere link, I included it here in this report in the Addendum section. To get a mere GLIMPS into the extent of Israeli spying network being conducted against our nation just skip to the chapter in the addendum section titled: “ISRAELI SPYING IN THE UNITED STATES.”

The 1960s was the CIA's "coming out party" they went rampant changing the entire landscape of the United States through assassination. JFK, MLK, RFK and Malcolm X, all assassinated by the CIA (in some cases the hand of the CIA is not so easily evident due to their use of MK-Ultra programmed assassins). The Assassinations were just part of an entire strategic house cleaning campaign. As with all CIA assassination jobs, there was the preparation, recruiting and grooming of ideal target individuals into the CIA just to prepare them for their DISPOSABLE "special agent" roles they would have no actual clue they were instead going to be ideal pawns. One day each of them would be called for a "standard or special drill" or "exercise", unbeknownst to them that they would actually be playing the very real part of the official "patsy". Then there is the actual execution, with several key players each doing their assigned roles. With one team not having a clue about the other team's existence thus providing the ideal circumstances and grounds for performing the perfect crimes. The clean up portion of a typical operation is where the groomed disposable "special agents" get wacked results in fewer mouths to worry about spilling the beans. Actually some BlackOps missions have required entire squads wiped out, where eventually no one who participated in the original assignment remains alive. Welcome to the real world of master spy agency cloak and dagger.

Mossad In America: "Israeli government claims that it does not spy on the United States are intended for the media and popular consumption. The reality is that Israel's intelligence agencies target the United States intensively, particularly in pursuit of military and dual-use civilian technology. Among nations considered to be friendly to Washington, Israel leads all others in its active espionage directed against American companies and the Defense Department. It also dominates two commercial sectors that enable it to extend its reach inside America's domestic infrastructure: airline and telecommunications security. Israel is believed to have the ability to monitor nearly all phone records originating in the United States, while numerous Israeli air-travel security companies are known to act as the local Mossad stations." – Continues here: American Conservative

Then comes the fun part, the PsyOp portion of operations where the CIA utilizes its massive news and information dissemination network to brain rape the entire world. "Stare into your TV screen, you will believe what we want you to believe, so and so was guilty as sin, now go along your merry way, nothing to see here folks." Under the guise and cover of "national security", they clean up the messes and cover-up entire fiascos, officially relegating the BlackOp event into the annals of folklore. "Nothing to see here, we got the bad guy, story over and done with, have a nice day yawl." All who dare challenge the official story are immediately mocked, ridiculed and labeled tin-foil hat nut jobs. Those who get too close or know too much have "accidents."

Folks, the unadulterated horrifying truth of the matter is that the CIA (and it's two other counterparts on the other side of the ocean) is absolutely the most dangerous entity on the planet. Their specialty is deceit, death and destruction. They have also spent decades researching mind control, how to get people to do their bidding, how to manipulate thought and perception, twisting reality, illusions, both on the individual level and on massive large scale population. The extent and findings of their research will never be fully known to us in the general public. The secret MK-ULTRA program was a top secret program whereby the CIA sought methods and materials "capable of employment in clandestine operations to control human behavior.” Part of MK-ULTRA did involve dosing unsuspecting subjects with LSD and other drugs. The horror stories abound. A large amount of documentation and research can be found discussing and revealing the many disturbing facts of the CIA's mind control programs.

MK-Ultra was just the beginning, they also conducted Project Artichoke, the object of this project was to create the real "Manchurian Candidate", an assassin who could be programmed to kill a target and then not even remember he did it. Their ultimate goal has been to brainwash the perfect assassins and the creation of easily controlled pawns, e.g. perfect puppets. They know how to mind rape people, and turn weak subjects into vegetables. Only God knows how many people being housed in mental facilities were victims of their mind control experimental programs. God only knows how many subjugated and remote controlled MK-ULTRA mind fuck victims went out into society and conducted atrocities on behalf of the CIA and had no clue, who that “voice in their heads” really was....

1. The ARTICHOKE Team visited [redacted] during period 8 January to 15 January 1954. The purpose of the visit was to give an evaluation of a hypothetical problem, namely: Can an individual of  descent be made to perform an act of attempted assassination involuntarily under the influence of ARTICHOKE?

2. PROBLEM:

a. The essential elements of the problem are as follows:

(1) As a “trigger mechanism” for a bigger project, it was proposed that an individual of  descent approximately 35 years old, well educated, proficient in English and well established socially and politically in the  Government be induced under ARTICHOKE to perform an act, involuntarily, of attempted assassination against a prominent  politician or if necessary, against an American official. The SUBJECT was formerly in [redacted] employ but has since terminated and is now employed with the  Government. According to all available information, the SUBJECT would offer no further cooperation with [redacted.] Access to the SUBJECT would be extremely limited, probably limited to a single social meeting. Because the SUBJECT is a heavy drinker, it was proposed that the individual could be surreptitiously drugged through the medium of an alcoholic cocktail at a social party, ARTICHOKE applied and the SUBJECT induced to perform the act of attempted assassination at some later date. All the above was to be accomplished at one involuntary uncontrolled social meeting. After the act of attempted assassination was performed, it was assumed that the SUBJECT would be taken into custody by the  Government and thereby “disposed of.” [...]

One historian says, of the war on terror, "the CIA didn't just bring back the old psychological techniques - THEY PERFECTED THEM." Lone gunmen, plane crashes, coup d'états, assassinations, establishing regional dissent and terrorist squads are their specialties. CIA/Mossad invented them, taught them, and perfected them.

All the nations' secret agencies have one common denominator. These are the ONLY entities on the planet that are truly above the law. They can do ANYTHING they want and get away with it, no matter how illegal, immoral, satanic, it may be. Then when confronted on any given despicable atrocious act or event, they pull out the secret code words: “It's a matter of NATIONAL SECURITY” standard "the issue is classified Top Secret", can't touch this! Doh! Not even the president, CONgress or the Supreme Court can look into or question their activities! They are so dangerously above the law that it is ridiculous. When the “illuminati” organized, founded and ran the CIA, Mossad and Mi6, they knew they had invented the perfect extension to their secret society, the perfect cover. They have been embedded so deep in our governments that getting rid of this tumor called CIA is incomprehensibly unthinkable if even possible at all

OPERATION OPEN EYES

Disaffected Spook Spills SEAL Mind Control Experiences

The following information was titled "A Working Outline of a U.S. Intelligence Mind Control Program" When received. It comes from a former Navy Intelligence officer who was attached to the CIA and was also a Navy SEAL team leader. Shortly before his "separation" from the "community" he was the overall commander of all the SEAL teams. To clarify: "Open Eyes" is the name of the entire program. A "Clear Eyes" is a programmed victim of "Operation Open Eyes."

This segment is dedicated to Operation "Open Eyes." A preset group of our people canvass the country hospitals and immigration centers in order to find viable candidates for the above named operation. We locate the target individuals, who have no close family or real good friends. They are then put under heavy stage one hypnosis, where a clear and definitive pattern of their usefulness is determined by our shrinks and field officers. If the candidate possesses a relatively hi IQ he will be filed in a category file, called "call file."

If the tested applicant has more than 120 IQ, he will be serviced by a trigger word or number, while under level 1 hypnosis. We then systematically do a background search and create a file for future reference. If there are no relatives to speak of, the suspect will be moved to a location of our choice where further tests for vulnerability are conducted. He is then brought to level 2 hypnosis where diverse small orders and specific instructions are written into his personality.

If subject, upon release shows that he has retained instructions and carries out small and unimportant work duties, assigned under level 2 hypnosis, he will receive a recall "service notice" by a person we have introduced him to.

The next step is level 3 hypnosis, where he will become an overwrite upon his own personality. He/She will be told that everything the subject does for his "friends" is okay, even though it may very well be against all laws of the land. He will believe that he is capable of fulfilling all their (our) commands, and will be again discharged to live his normal life. (All operatives have to go to/through these 3 levels before any of us are fielded!)

The higher the IQ of a given subject, the further the programming goes! If the IQ is high enough we will bring the subject to the Farm or one of our numerous facilities throughout the U.S. and Canada. (Dallas - "Doctor's Hospital" is one of our main centers.)

There we will put the subject into level 4 hypnosis, where he does no longer differentiate between right and wrong. (We do this at the medical facility at the Farm - one of our contract hospitals. If he has to perform a articulately suicidal or important assignment we do our job at Stony Mountain facilities.) At level 4, diverse programs can be written/or overwritten into the brain. Any command is accepted at this level. At that level you can give the test subject a complete personality, history and make him/her believe anything the program requires for the accomplishment of any desired project. He is then given a new life in a new state and town. Driver's license, car, bank account, passport, credit cards, Birth Certificate, and all the small things - such as photos of his family (that don't really exist.) Subject and patient (one and the same) has now an agenda (that he believes is his own) and is prepared for level 5 hypnosis. At this stage, very carefully a code word or sequence of numbers or voice imprint is etched into his brain. That is commonly known and referred to as the trigger that will activate subject to action.

He then lives a very normal and sometimes useful life, until subject is required to perform the programs implanted/written into level 4 hypnosis at the point of activating the trigger, subject is beyond recall. That's why a level 5 person can only be approached after his/her operation. There is no actual recall in the subconscious program of any or the hypnosis. If an act of violence had been perpetrated, subject will not be able to associate with the deed. Only shrinks trained in this particular form of sub mental behavior will find any tracks leading to past level 1 or 2 mind control.

I have personally witnessed level 1-5 programming, and was myself a subject of level 3 programming.

Due to the fact that subject has such high IQ (preferably around 130-140) subject is very quick to learn anything fed to him/her. All major patriot groups, and normal workers and workers of big (government contract firms) corporations have at least one or more "sleepers" attached to them.

There are several things one MUST understand about the CIA. First of all, the CIA is the intelligence arm of the military. The CIA and the PentaCON are part of the same organization. How can an evil entity that is so intertwined in our national defense system be rooted out, reformed and abolished? The CIA is like a cancer deeply imbedded in the brain of American government and military. There are no easy answers. For you must consider a dilemma, even if this corrupt and complicit government were to one day ever acknowledge the evilness of the CIA. The dismantling of this entity would pose colossally difficult endeavor. Some new type of intelligence agency would have to be established first, one that would be accountable to some sort of non biased control group who would also have to be accountable to the government and the citizens of this country. One that would embrace the original concept of the CIA, which was to ONLY perform information gathering on enemies of the states, and nothing else. The actions of the new agency must be limited to just intelligence gathering for the sake of national defense, period. In no way shape or form must they ever be allowed to conduct the insane clandestine missions of deceit, murder, overthrowing of innocent governments, and the other multitude of unethical activities.

The Wizard of Oz and Monarch Slave Programming

Author: Johnny Peepers

MONARCH programming is a trauma-based form of controlling human behavior without the subject's knowledge. As a result of ritualistic sexual abuse, human and animal sacrifice participation (blood rituals), electro-shock, and other more technologically modern techniques, the mind splits off (or dissociates) into programmable personalities separate from the core. Further conditioning involves pleasure/pain reversals, food/water/sensory deprivation, hypnotism, double-bind coercion, and the administration of drugs to the subject.

The victims of this form of mind control are deployed as assassins, drug mules, prostitutes, serial murders, or agent provocateurs. [and even terrorists...]

Trauma-based mind control dates back at least to the ancient Egyptians. Ritualistic methods were employed to induce trauma through torture, hypnotism, and the use of drugs to as a way to fracture the initiate's mind creating alters (or multiple personalities). This occult practice migrated to the West and was utilized by the British Tavistock Institute and the NAZIs. This knowledge of this practice landed in the hands of the U.S. intelligence community in the 1940's through the importation of NAZI scientists after WWII (See Operation Paperclip and the ODDESSA rat lines),

Another way of examining this convoluted victimization of body and soul is by looking at it as a complex computer program: A file (alter) is created through trauma, repetition and reinforcement. In order to activate (trigger) the file, a specific access code or password (cue or command) is required. The victim/survivor is called a "slave" by the programmer/handler, who in turn is perceived as "master" or "god." About 75% are female, since they possess a higher tolerance for pain and tend to dissociate easier than males. Subjects are used mainly for cover operations, prostitution and pornography; involvement in the entertainment industry is notable. (Source:

Project Monarch by Ron Patton)

Many MONARCH slaves are often selected from families that have engaged in multi-generational sexual and psychological abuse. Former CIA/DIA MONARCH slave Cathy O'Brien's book Trans Formation of America went into great detail describing the different programming methods used by her government handlers to manage her alter personalities. In addition to Wizard of Oz programming, the other scripts used are: Alice in Wonderland, The Tall Book of Make Believe, Alien abduction, Island of the Blue Dolphins, and The Lesser Key.

The author of "The Wizard of Oz", Frank Baum, was an ardent occultist and an initiate in the Theosophic Society. The fairy tale of Dorothy and her little pup was rich in esoteric knowledge and occult symbology. In the 1940's, the story was chosen by those in the U.S. intelligence community to provide a thematic foundation for their trauma-based mind control program.

Below are a few examples of Oz programming from the book "Total Mind Controlled Slave" by Fritz Springmeier and Cisco Wheeler:

- The close relationship between Dorothy and her dog is a very subtle connection between the satanic cults use of animals (familiar). A Monarch slave as a child will be allowed to bond with a pet. The child will want to bond with a pet anyway because people are terrifying by this point. Then the pet is killed to traumatize the child.
- Rainbow—with its seven colors have long had an occult significance of being a great spiritual hypnotic device.
- Dorothy is looking for a place where there is no trouble which is a place "over the rainbow." To escape pain, alters go over the rainbow. (This is a.k.a. in Alice In Wonderland Programming as "going through the looking glass".)
- Monarch slaves are taught to "follow the yellow brick road." No matter what fearful things lie ahead, the Monarch slave must follow the Yellow Brick Road which is set out before them by their master.

One aspect of Oz programming is to instill a return home programming device to prevent the slave from escaping their psychological prison. Ritual abuse victim Eliana Hephzibah recalls how whenever she felt her mother's house was unsafe, her mind would be flooded with the memory of Dorothy saying "there really is no place like home, is there?" Hephzibah attributes this to her mind control programming that prevented her from successfully operating outside of her artificial pseudo-reality. "Home is the only answer; the only place to find predictability and security."

It is unfathomable to think that Frank Baum (or Lewis Carroll) consciously created works that would later play a central role in the abusive psychological programming of unwitting individuals. Instead, these author's knowledge of the occult allowed them to incorporate esoteric concepts, archetypes, and symbols that are generally hidden from most, yet are prevalent in the universal psyche. The fact that their works were used for incredibly nefarious purposes should not indict the authors, or their great literary contributions to humanity.

It [The Wizard of Oz] was pure inspiration....It came to me right out of the blue. I think that sometimes the Great Author has a message to get across and He has to use the instrument at hand. I happened to be that medium, and I believe the magic key was given me to open the doors to sympathy and understanding, joy, peace and happiness ~ Frank Baum

The fact that the CIA in reality answers to no one, operating under the cloak of and completely shrouded in secrecy, is also the same factor that has enabled this agency to remain completely controlled and corrupted beyond ones wildest dreams by a sinister secret ruling elite cartel.

Terrorism in the form we have come to know it as today never existed prior to the CIA/Mossad. Terrorism was created by the CIA and the Israeli Mossad! as a tool to overthrow governments. This is an absolute completely irrefutable FACT. It has been well researched, documented, and proven. Open and shut case. Can you possibly understand the implications of that statement? The CIA/Mossad was the one to begin all the terrorist activities in the middle east! They are solely responsible for establishing of regional terrorist squads, training them in the ways of terrorism and funding them with millions upon millions of your tax dollars along with the untold millions they make with their drug running BlackOps. Osama Bin Laden is a known "ex" CIA FIELD AGENT! Hello! Is anyone home? It is also documented that the CIA visited him just prior to 911 when Bin Laden was in a hospital. So when we hear news of this or that "terrorist" attack, you must ask yourself and wonder, ok, how much did the CIA have to do with it... You can never take any report, news story, press release or history at face value. All the information circulated for general public consumption is tainted to portray whatever inside hidden agenda the ruling elite wants to portray and have you believe. This fact must be fully understood: The masterminds behind “Al-Qaida” is Al-CIA da!

Field Agent:

In espionage, a field agent is an agent who works in the field as opposed to one who works at the office or headquarters. A field agent can work alone or in a group but usually has a case officer (handler) who is in charge. In some instances only the case officer knows the true identity of the field agent. Field agents can be undercover, and travel using fake passports that may be under the name of a front organization or shell corporation. Deep undercover field agent's identities are strictly guarded, thus a field agent can commit any number of "operations" whose impact in the news could be construed as a "terrorist act."

By definition, an "agent" acts on behalf of another, whether another individual, an organization, or a foreign government. Agents can be considered either witting or unwitting, and in some cases, willing or unwilling.

Agents typically work under the direction of a principal agent or a case officer. When agents work alone, and are not members of an agent network, they are termed "singletons."

Non-official cover (NOC) is a term used in espionage for agents or operatives who assume covert roles in organizations without ties to the government for which they work.

Overt vs. Covert vs. Clandestine:

Overt: Open and above board. Not secret or hidden.

Covert: The event itself is publicly observable, but the sponsorship is hidden. For example, an intelligence service can covertly supply weapons to one side in a war. The fact that the weapons are there and being used is publicly observable, but their source is hidden.

Clandestine: Hidden or secret. The work of a spy is clandestine -- completely hidden, hopefully for all time.

The CIA and the Mossad operate numerous terrorist fronts, some more public than others. While most of their fronts are “false flag” operations such as Al-CIada, many are operating out of well known organizations such as the ADL (Anti Defamation League) and its sister organizations the JDL (Jewish Defense League) and the Southern Poverty Law Center which are run by the Israeli Mossad.

Terrorism aka: Al-CIada-ism/Mossadism has been ingeniously founded, funded, fomented, organized, implemented, instigated, fueled, provoked, stimulated, encouraged, incited by your loving and caring CIA and their Mossad brethren.

FALSE FLAG operations are routinely carried out all over the world. BLOW BACK from those operations are actually strategically factored in. As in their engineered “terrorist attacks”, they KNOW that blowback will certainly happen as they, the CIA/Mossad masquerading as terrorists, kill thousands of innocent people, and their grief stricken kin and loved ones rise up against the perceived perpetrators. Thus “presto” now they have real live people who are out for revenge that they can label “terrorists.” There you have it, they are able to create “terrorists” where none existed before. Operation successful, now on to the next chaos formation scheme...

Criminal State: A closer look at Israel's role in terrorism - Video

Operation Gladio is yet another (of too many to list here) documented example of CIA sponsored & conducted TERRORISM: The CIA was completely involved in sponsoring Gladio and its activities during the Cold War era. The CIA was linked to relationships with right-wing terrorist attacks perpetrated in Italy during the Years of Lead and other similar clandestine operations. Internal subversion and "false flag" operations were explicitly considered by the CIA and stay-behind paramilitaries. According to a November 13, 1990 Reuters cable, “André Moyon – a former member of the Belgian military security service and of the [stay-behind] network – said Gladio was not just anti-Communist but was for fighting subversion in general. He added that his predecessor had given Gladio 142 million francs ($4.6 million) to buy new radio equipment.” Ganser stated that on various occasions, stay-behind movements were linked to right-wing terrorism, crime and attempted coups d'état:

"Prudent Precaution or Source of Terror?" the international press pointedly asked when the secret stay-behind armies of NATO were discovered across Western Europe in late 1990. After more than ten years of research, the answer is now clear: both. The overview above shows that based on the experiences of World War II, all countries of Western Europe, with the support of NATO, the CIA, and MI6, had set up stay-behind armies as precaution against a potential Soviet invasion. While the safety networks and the integrity of the majority of the secret soldiers should not be criticized in hindsight after the collapse of the Soviet Union, very disturbing questions do arise with respect to reported links to terrorism.

Operation Gladio

"One of the most secret programs that ever existed"

Someone does not want anyone to see this video. This is now the fourth fifth time I have had to re-post this video, it is being wiped off the internet... Watch it while you still can..."Deception is a state of mind and the mind of the State" - James Jesus Angleton, Head of CIA Counter Intelligence 1954-1974

Originally aired on BBC2 in 1992, 'Operation Gladio' reveals 'Gladio', the secret state-sponsored terror network operating in Europe.

This BBC series is about a far-right secret army, operated by the CIA and MI6 through NATO, which killed hundreds of innocent Europeans and attempted to blame the deaths on Baader Meinhof, Red Brigades and other left wing groups. Known as 'stay-behinds' these armies were given access to military equipment which was supposed to be used for sabotage after a Soviet invasion. Instead it was used in massacres across mainland Europe as part of a CIA Strategy of Tension. Gladio killing sprees in Belgium and Italy were carried out for the purpose of frightening the national political classes into adopting U.S. policies.

Timewatch: Operation Gladio – BBC2 see at Google video:

The Ring Masters Part 1 - The Puppeteers Part 2 - The Foot Soldiers Part 3

There exist large differences among the European countries, and each case must be analyzed individually in further detail. As of now, the evidence suggests the secret armies in the seven countries, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Luxemburg, Switzerland, Austria, and the Netherlands, focused exclusively on their stay-behind function and were not linked to terrorism. However, links to terrorism have been either confirmed or claimed in the nine countries, Italy, Ireland, Turkey, Germany, France, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, and Sweden, demanding further investigation.

While on the topic of Operation Gladio, I must include this extremely relevant gem for it clearly establishes the fact that the CIA terrorist operations of Operation Gladio never ceased and continued for decades later:

Criminal convictions of 22 CIA agents in Italy

The accountability imposed by another country for the CIA's kidnapping and torture reveals much about our own.

By Glenn Greenwald –Nov 5, 2009

The criminal conviction of 22 CIA agents (and 2 Italian intelligence officers) by an Italian court yesterday -- for the 2003 kidnapping of an Islamic cleric, Hassan Mustafa Osama Nasr, off the street in Italy and his "rendition" to Egypt to be tortured -- highlights several vital points:

First, illustrating how these matters are typically distorted by the U.S. establishment media, note that CNN -- in the very first paragraph of its story -- claims that the CIA agents were convicted "for their role in the seizing of a suspected terrorist in Italy in 2003." What did Nasr allegedly do that warrants that "terrorist" label? Did he participate in the 9/11 attacks, or plan attacks on "the American homeland" or U.S. civilians? No. According to CNN, this is what makes him a "suspected terrorist":

He was suspected of recruiting men to fight in Iraq and Afghanistan.

So the West invades, bombs and occupies Muslim countries, and when Muslims attempt to find people to fight against the West's invading armies, those individuals are deemed "terrorists." Or consider this quite informative 2005 Washington Post article, which details how the CIA's kidnapping derailed the Italians' criminal (i.e., legal) investigation of Nasr; that article explains:

Nasr was wanted by the Egyptian authorities for his involvement in Jemaah Islamiyah, a network of Islamic extremists that had sought the overthrow of the government. The network was dispersed during a government crackdown in the early 1990s, and many leaders escaped abroad to avoid arrest.

The Egyptian government, long propped up by the U.S., is one of the most tyrannical and brutal in the world. But Egyptians who work to overthrow that government are deemed "terrorists" by the U.S., and we're apparently willing to kidnap them from around the world -- including from countries where they've received asylum -- and ship them back to our Egyptian friends to be imprisoned and tortured.

For many Americans -- probably most -- the word "terrorist" conjures up images of the people responsible for the 9/11 attack. For that reason, labeling someone a "suspected terrorist" can justify doing anything and everything to those individuals (after all, other than civil liberties extremists, who could object to the "seizing of a suspected terrorist" -- or their indefinite detention or torture?). It's therefore unsurprising that the U.S. Government would use the term "terrorist" so promiscuously and selectively (see John Cole's excellent contrast between what we deem to be "terrorism" when it happens to the U.S. versus what we deny is "terrorism" when done by the U.S.). It's a powerful term that can justify almost any government action.

But the U.S. media's willingness to mindlessly apply the term "terrorist" in exactly the subjective, self-serving way the U.S. Government dictates -- starkly contrasted with their refusal to use the far more objective term "torture" on the ground that the term is in dispute (i.e., disputed by the U.S. Government torturers) -- illustrates the establishment media's principal function: to serve American political power and justify whatever our government does. That's a major reason -- perhaps the primary one -- why the U.S. Government has been able to get away with everything it's done over the last decade. Those unseen victims of torture, rendition, indefinite detention and other government crimes are all just "terrorists," so who cares? In reporting on these convictions, CNN immediately and helpfully proclaims Nasr to be a "suspected terrorist" in a way that guts any meaningful definition of that term and -- in many minds -- justifies whatever was done to him, no matter how illegal.

It's worth asking this question: which sounds more like actual "terrorism": (a) kidnapping people literally off the street and shipping them thousands of miles away to be tortured with no legal process, or (b) what Nasr is "suspected" of having done?

Second, this incident underscores -- yet again -- that our political and media elite simply do not believe in the rule of law or accountability for high government officials. To the contrary, they explicitly believe that such officials should be entitled to break the law and be exempt from consequences. As but one example, here's a discussion on CNN last night about this matter between Wolf Blitzer and Jeffrey Toobin:

TOOBIN: This is a real criminal conviction in a country where we tend to honor reciprocal legal arrangements. So they are in a -- they are in no jeopardy as long as they are inside the United States, but, if they were to leave, they are potentially at risk for being jailed and brought to Italy.

BLITZER: Because even if they went to a third country, like England, let's say, or France, Interpol could have a warrant out for their arrest. They have been convicted by an Italian court.

TOOBIN: That's why this is such -- so troubling. It would one thing if they only had to stay out of Italy, but, because of Interpol, because of the reciprocal nature of these agreements, they are potentially at risk almost anywhere they go.

So according to Toobin, this is all "so troubling." Why? Because the people who were found by a duly constituted court to have committed a serious crime are faced with the risk that there might actually be consequences. After all, these are Americans who were part of the U.S. Government, and consequences for lawbreaking are simply not meant for them. Echoing Joe Klein's infamous Orwellian claim that torture shouldn't be prosecuted because the CIA is "asked to behave extra-legally for the greater good of the nation," Toobin added that "one of the things you do when you are a CIA agent, at least in part, is break the law of other countries" -- Toobin says that as though they have the right to do that without accountability, and without mentioning that causing people to be tortured is also a violation of U.S. law (after Nasr's kidnapping, the chief of the CIA's Milan office traveled to Egypt for three weeks to participate in his "interrogation").

Third, the glaring contrast between (a) the United States and (b) countries that (at least partially) adhere to the rule of law and precepts of accountability continues to grow. As we saw earlier this week, a U.S. appellate court ruled that American government officials are immune from consequences even when they abduct an innocent man and knowingly cause him to be tortured -- even after the Canadian government publicly disclosed its detailed investigation of that matter, publicly apologized to the victim, and paid him $9 million. Spain continues to pursue the possibility of criminal prosecution of our high government officials for war crimes even as our own government insists that our war criminals (at least all those but the lowest-level ones) should be immunized and we should look forward, not backwards. Our attempt to compile a "hit list" of Afghan citizens we intend to murder because we suspect them of drug trafficking prompted angry objections from Afghan officials that our plan violated due process and the rule of law.

And now an Italian court demonstrates actual judicial independence and adherence to equality under the law by holding American and Italian government kidnapers liable for their complicity in torture -- something our own government institutions have repeatedly failed and/or refused to do (Harper's Scott Horton has much more on the glaring contrast between U.S. and Italian political values that is reflected here).

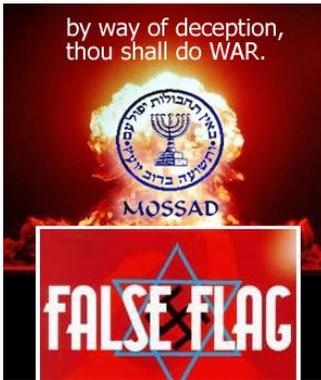

Finally, this isn't about the past -- at least not exclusively. The U.S. Government continues to refuse even to comment on what it did here. The State Department yesterday expressed "disappointment" with the Italian court ruling -- just as it did when a British High Court recently ordered the disclosure of evidence of American torture. The DOJ continues to insist that no American courts can examine past rendition and torture cases on the grounds of secrecy. The Obama administration has explicitly decided to continue the "rendition" policy which led to Nasr's illegal kidnapping, albeit with the addition of anti-torture "safeguards" similar in language if not effect when compared to those in place under Bush (it remains to be seen to which countries these "rendered" suspects will be sent, and whether the renditions will be the illegal kind practiced by Bush/Cheney or the arguably "legalized" form that took place before that, beginning with Reagan through Clinton). And most notably of all, we continue to be a country which -- in the name of secrecy and national security -- insists that the rule of law and accountability simply do not apply to our highest government officials when they break the law. Fortunately, other countries -- slowly and incrementally -- are rejecting that pernicious view.

UPDATE: One of the convicted CIA agents admits to ABC News that they "broke the law" when kidnapping Nasr and claims, credibly, that everything they did was approved back in Washington.

The truth and peace movement will NEVER get anywhere, ever, until the one day this agency of deceit is fully exposed then abolished. Many well wishing people are out there working tirelessly to expose the world's biggest fraud: the CIA/Mossad engineered attacks on the World Trade Center on 911. I hate having to be pessimistic. First of all you must understand that it was a Mossad/CIA/Pentagon Black Ops Covert Operation, for no one else had the control of many key factors, knowledge, access and resources to have possibly perpetrated that insidious betrayal of America and then followed it up with the carefully orchestrated the massive cover up the ensued within our government. Second of all is the fact that they will NEVER confess to this and will continue to counter any efforts for any type of real investigation into the matter. So much so, that the whole 911 has already been buried exactly like they did with the JFK assassination.

We all know, 46 years have now passed and people are STILL wasting their time trying to get to the bottom of the JFK assassination. Mark my words, so it is: exactly to the letter, same will always be for the 911 CIA Black Ops operation, you will NEVER, EVER get the truth from them. You will forever have to accept the hard work and research of hundreds who have devoted their time to uncovering the crime of 911, and know in your own heart and mind that YOU KNOW the truth.

Oh, they would NEVER do something like that? Gullibility is no excuse. Search info on flight 455 in 1976 murdering all 73 people on board, "bombed by terrorists" was the official story for some time, until the TRUTH came out: CIA ORCHESTRATED THE ENTIRE EVENT! It was finally exposed that the lead CIA operative behind this false flag op was Luis Posada Carriles. How did America get involved in the Vietnam war? The U.S. false flag Gulf of Tonkin attack! A completely documented theatrical production by OUR GOVERNMENT to frame the Vietnamese and get us involved in that quagmire war! The only people who benefited from it were the military industrial complex who made billions in profits. Hello! Is anyone listening? Our OWN GOVERNMENT murdered hundred of its own soldiers on that ship then blamed the Vietnamese! This type of black ops operation is called a "false flag" operation and is normal tactics and has been done so often it's not funny. In their minds "the ends justify the means." You owe it to yourself to look up these and many more atrocities of the CIA and our military.

Volumes have been written about the atrocities of the CIA, one could easily put together a 1,000 page catalog summarizing them all. I recently came across the article below that I felt just had to be included here due to how accurately and honestly the author describes the situation at hand. I am including this here to help highlight the terrorist factor. Terrorism was a CIA perfected strategy; it promoted, funded and spread terrorism throughout this world. Today we are “at war with terrorism” and it has become the catalyst for the massive avalanche of laws and policies drastically changing the entire face of our country and the world. We now live under an rapidly evolving Orwellian surveillance society where we are routinely eavesdropped on, tapped and monitored. In one swoop, we all lost most of our liberties we took for granted, yet very few people seem to notice.

Wikileaks CIA Memo Warns of American Jewish Extremists Exporting Terror Abroad

A CIA memo released by Wikileaks on Wednesday looks at America's long tradition of exporting violent extremism abroad, and its implications for U.S. foreign policy.

August 26, 2010 | AlterNet / By Joshua Holland

The United States has a long and rich history of exporting terrorism abroad, according to a CIA memo released by Wikileaks on Wednesday. After noting several incidents in which American Muslims launched much-discussed attacks abroad, the analysts warned, “less attention has been paid to homegrown terrorism... exported overseas” by non-Muslim groups.

The February 5 memo, marked “secret/ nofor” (the intelligence community’s designation for ‘not for release to foreign nationals’), was penned by the CIA’s “Red Cell,” a group tasked with “taking a pronounced ‘out-of-the-box’ approach” in order to “offer an alternative viewpoint on the full range of analytic issues.”

“Contrary to common belief,” noted the anonymous authors, “the American export of terrorism or terrorists is not a recent phenomenon, nor has it been associated only with Islamic radicals or people of Middle Eastern, African or South Asian ethnic origin.” According to the analysts, Jewish extremists “have supported and even engaged in violent acts against perceived enemies of Israel,” and “some Irish-Americans have long provided financial and material support for violent efforts to compel the United Kingdom to relinquish control of Northern Ireland.”

The report highlighted the consequences of American violence abroad. In 1994, Baruch Goldstein, an American Jewish doctor from New York, “emigrated to Israel, joined the extremist group Kach, and killed 29 Palestinians during their prayers in the mosque at the Tomb of the Patriarchs in Hebron.” The deadly attack “helped to trigger a wave of bus bombings by HAMAS in early 1995.” Kach was founded by Meier Kahane, an American-Israeli rabbi best described as a “radical cleric.”

Violent extremism among American Jews isn’t a new phenomenon. Kahane also founded the Jewish Defense League (JDL), which the FBI listed as “a violent extremist Jewish organization.” According to a 1999 article in the Washington Report on Mideast Affairs, “A 1985 FBI study of terrorist acts in the United States since 1981 found 18 incidents initiated by Jews, 15 of the acts by the JDL.”

In a 1986 study of domestic terrorism, the Department of Energy concluded: “For more than a decade, the Jewish Defense League (JDL) has been one of the most active terrorist groups in the United States.... Since 1968, JDL operations have killed 7 persons and wounded at least 22.”

Among the acts of terrorism attributed to the JDL was a deadly 1972 bombing of a New York talent agency that brought Russian performers to the U.S., and the 1985 assassination of a regional director of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee in California. According to the FBI, in 2001, months after the 9/11 attacks, two JDL members, Irving David Rubin and Earl Leslie Krugel “were arrested by the Los Angeles Joint Terrorism Task Force for conspiring to build and place improvised explosive devices (IEDs) at the King Fahd Mosque in Culver City, California, and the local office of Congressman Darrell Issa.”

Today, some American Jewss support violent settlers in the Occupied Territories. In 2008, Israeli officials warned that a wave of terrorism could “spillover into Israel proper, where extremist settlers could target prominent left-wingers or even national leaders.” According to a report that year in the Jewish Journal, “The latest settler rampage came ... after Israeli police evacuated settlers from a building in Hebron. Jewish settlers had moved into the building in March 2007 after an American Jewish businessman claimed to have bought it for them, but the Palestinian owner denied selling it.”

Last month, the New York Times reported that “at least 40 American groups ... have collected more than $200 million in tax-deductible gifts for Jewish settlement in the West Bank and East Jerusalem over the last decade.” While much of that is for peaceful purposes, “it has also paid for more legally questionable commodities” like “guard dogs, bulletproof vests, rifle scopes and vehicles to secure outposts deep in occupied areas.”

The Times noted that the efforts are “effectively obstructing the creation of a Palestinian state, widely seen as a necessary condition for Middle East peace.” “I am not happy about it,” a senior Israeli military commander in the West Bank told the Times when asked about American “contributions to a radical religious academy whose director has urged soldiers to defy orders to evict settlers.”

The Red Cell memo also highlighted the fact that Irish-Americans provided most of the financial support for the Irish Republican Army (IRA) during the “troubles” that plagued Northern Ireland prior to the peace accords in 1994. According to the CIA’s analysis, “The US-based Irish Northern Aid Committee (NORAI), founded in the late 1960s, provided the Provisional Irish Republican Army (PIRA) with money that was frequently used for arms purchases.” The U.S. government only began cracking down on Irish-Americans who provided “material support” for terrorists after the British exerted heavy pressure on Washington in the 1980s.

CIA spokeswoman Marie Harf played down the significance of the analysis to a Washington Post reporter, saying, “These sorts of analytic products - clearly identified as coming from the Agency’s ‘Red Cell’ - are designed simply to provoke thought.”

The analysts warned of the potential difficulties U.S. foreign policy-makers might encounter if America should become widely perceived to be a source of violent extremism. “If the US were seen as an exporter of terrorism,” they warned, “foreign partners may be less willing to cooperate with the United States on extrajudicial activities, including detention, transfer, and interrogation of suspects in third party countries.” More troubling is the prospect that the perception that the U.S. exports terror, combined with “US refusal to cooperate with foreign government[s]” might lead foreign intelligence agencies “to consider secretly extracting US citizens suspected of foreign terrorism from US soil” in much the same way that the U.S government has done since 9/11.

A notable but wholly predictable omission from the memo is any mention of officially sanctioned support for international terror groups. The focus of the Red Cell memo is exclusively on individual extremists and radical groups. The analysts note that the “dynamic belies the American belief that our free, open and integrated multicultural society lessens the allure of radicalism and terrorism for US citizens.”

But as Princeton University historian Arno Mayer wrote soon after the 9/11 attacks, “since 1947 America has been the chief and pioneering perpetrator of ‘preemptive’ state terror, exclusively in the Third World and therefore widely dissembled.” Washington, he wrote, “has resorted to political assassinations, surrogate death squads and unseemly freedom fighters... [and] these ‘rogue’ actions worsened local political and economic conditions.”

That those acts of terror aren’t included in a classified CIA document is unsurprising, but the fact that they go a long way to influencing foreign perceptions of America’s relationship with international terrorism is impossible to deny.

Communism served its purpose in providing the ruling elite with a much needed boogeyman to instill fear in the hearts of men all around the world. While the Red Menace existed, the justification existed where the western “free world”

(lead by the good ole U.S. of A.) was able to invade and occupy countless nations and regimes under the pretext to “bring Democracy” (i.e. expunge traditional sovereignty and establish economic colonization). The mission is almost complete, today there are less than half a dozen nations left that are not part of the worldwide central banking system and commerce matrix.

With the Red Menace having fulfilled its mission allowing unprecedented ruling elite worldwide expansion (look no further than the multi-national conglomerates they operate out of for evidence of their sprawl), the age of the scary evil commies came to an end. With that PHASE of establishment of the new world order was completed. Enter the NEXT PHASE: The age of the evil “terrorist” boogeymen and a Never-Ending War. This time around the evil scary enemy is everywhere! He could be in your job, your neighborhood, across the street, the next town, hiding, plotting and waiting to spring into action and kill as many of you “because of your freedoms.” Thus the narrative and pretext has been meticulously laid out... FEAR the evil terrorist! With the ushering in of this new threat the new phase of new world order construction began in earnest. The policies, laws, regulations, executive orders, organizations, agencies, etc. are being erected right before your very eyes. The central component that has been vital in this phase has been the espionage and intelligence agencies that have been busy for decades doing what they do best: infiltrating adversaries and instilling chaos and spreading death and destruction via their number one means: exporting terrorism... They were/still are, modern day Dr. Frankensteins creating the evil terrorist enemies...

Today and in the future anyone and everyone is now viewed as a potential terrorist and can be detained and treated as such. What I find extremely startling is the fact that the powers that be have been priming and conditioning the population, into accepting the concept of anyone who opposes and confronts our government, i.e. protesting patriots and peaceful activists, are all now “terrorists.” There are over a million people on the FBI’s terrorist watch list and counting, once you are identified as a potential terrorist (lets say, after you were tracked and profiled reading dissident literature) YOU too can be detained without due process and tortured... If you are among the few who dare speak out against the lawlessness in government, the corruption, the tyranny, be prepared to pay the piper.

The CIA and the 'Terrorist' Plot

by William Norman Grigg

When asked what he thought of Western Civilization, Gandhi reportedly replied that he thought it would be a good idea.

One could very well speak in the same vein of the entity called the Central Intelligence Agency. It might be useful if the federal government (once thrown back into its constitutional cage, of course) had an agency devoted to collecting relevant intelligence, rather than what it has now – a body involved in propagating turmoil, terror, and subversion throughout most of the world.

He who sows the wind, we’re told, reaps the whirlwind, and the CIA’s directorate of operations is staffed with people who play a role best described as “Johnny Appleseeds of the global jihad,” sowing and nurturing the seeds of terrorism, nourishing them by fomenting unrest, and helping to bring in the murderous harvest of “blowback.” We can see a potent reminder of this fact in the alleged plot to blow up JFK Airport.

According to Newsday, Russell DeFreitas, commonly identified as a former “baggage handler” at JFK, actually worked as a baggage handler and/or a “trainee supervisor” in the employ of Evergreen International Airlines, a CIA front company based in McMinnville, Oregon. A TV news report out of Oregon revealed that DeFreitas “trained” at Evergreen’s McMinnville facility between July 2000 and May 2001.

As this observant fellow points out, it’s odd for a man in his mid-50s to spend the better part of a year “training” for a job he’d already done for a number of years.

Evergreen, in fact, is a direct descendant of the infamous Air America, the CIA proprietary outfit that has been implicated in drug smuggling, covert arms shipments (according to this former Evergreen pilot, the CIA was providing weapons to both sides in various Cold War brushfires), and – more recently – “extraordinary rendition” flights. More than a few Evergreen flights have served as “torture taxis,” shuttling detainees to various destinations in the CIA-operated global torture archipelago.

DeFreitas left Evergreen's employ in May 2001. It's not clear whether he worked at JFK between May 2001 and his arrest last week. But it is clear he worked at the airport in the late 1990s.

According to former Customs Department Special Agent Diane Kleiman, DeFreitas's background means one thing: “He was working at JFK doing drug smuggling.”

“The CIA has always been involved in drug smuggling, and Evergreen or Air America has played a big role in it,” Kleiman told me in a recent phone interview. “When I was working Customs at JFK, we had this huge problem with airline personnel using their secure keys to give unauthorized access to 'sterile corridors' that bypassed Customs inspection. Quite often this involved drug smuggling, and I've got ample reason to believe that Evergreen and other CIA assets were involved in it.”

It's worth remembering that the “confidential informant” who infiltrated the supposed plot to blow up JFK was a convicted drug smuggler. Significant as well is the fact that Jamaat al Muslimeen (JAM), the Trinidad & Tobago-based radical Sunni group implicated in the alleged JFK plot, has been implicated in drug smuggling.

Making matters that much more interesting is the reported fact that JAM leader Umar Abdullah reportedly fought against the Soviets in Afghanistan, a fact that raises the possibility that he, too, was on the CIA's payroll at one time.

I find myself irresistibly reminded of the fact that several members of the terrorist cell responsible for the first World Trade Center bombing in 1993 had been funded, trained, or otherwise aided by the US federal government. The “spiritual leader” of that cell, Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman, was permitted to come to the US in 1990 despite the fact that he was on a State Department terrorism watch list, suspected of involvement in the plot to assassinate Anwar Sadat.

It was Abdel-Rahman's great good fortune that on the particular day he visited the US Consulate in Khartoum in search of a visa, the consular official was absent – and in his place was a CIA operative eager and willing to issue the requested visa.

Funny, isn't it, how things of this kind happen? And isn't it just as remarkable to see that in the alleged plot to bomb JFK, both the putative ringleader and the Confidential Informant had connections to the CIA-haunted narcotics underworld?

Once you accept the fact that the CIA is behind many, many unsolved crimes. All you need to do is figure out their “rule book” or “covert ops manual”. Almost all covert operations are run “by the book”. For instance on 9/11, military “drills” were being held that very same day using hijacked airplanes scenarios in that very same vicinity, at the very same time of the “attacks”. Doh! Did you know that “drills” were also being conducted on 7/7/07 in London train and bus bombings by local law enforcement? You will never guess: the “drills” were being held that same day about terrorist bombings, oh, it gets better, the drills were being held at the same EXACT locations and time were the bombings occurred! Doh! What does this tell us, besides the fact that, hello! they were the ones that did it! The “drills” were only “the cover” for the covert operations. What it also tells us is the fact that the England secret agencies are conducting covert operations with the CIA “rule book”, or their “covert ops manual”, and are operating exactly like the CIA, hence, these two agencies work side by side and are in fact working together toward a common goal.

The CIA, MI6 and the Mossad are the most powerful intelligence agencies today. They work hand in hand as a TRINITY, it is extremely important that you realize that these 3 agencies work as one. Blood brothers, an unholy trinity. Together they serve their ultimate masters: the ruling Zionist and Vatican factions. Whose ultimate goals are one world order. These are not boy scouts who go out of their ways to help the unfortunate and sow peace. Show me just one news article of just one good deed, ever. These are cold, heartless entities of death, deceit and destruction.

It is of utmost importance that you fully understand that most if not all the intelligence agencies around the world are interconnected in an invisible Zionist comrade network deep within each of the agencies. This is how they accomplish false flag feats that seem so convincing and easily go places and do things no one thought fathomable. Once you understand this factor, you can then filter world events under this light. For instance the Pakistan's "911 Attack" that was conducted in Mumbai was just another CIA/Mossad/ISI intelligence agency false flag production designed to bring the FEAR up close and personal into their land thus scaring their leaders into opening the doors for more direct Zionist international military intervention, to "help them find the evil bogeyman terrorists" of course.

CIA Funneling Hundreds of Millions of Dollars to Pakistani Spy Agency

Roughly a Third of Secretive Spy Group's Budget Comes From CIA

by Jason Ditz, November 15, 2009

Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence agency (ISI) is the largest of the nation's many spy agencies. The secretive and enormous independent agency is a subject of almost constant controversy in the nation, where it is totally independent of the civilian government and the military exercises only modest oversight.

But the ISI could arguably be considered completely separately from the Pakistani government. After all, it was revealed today, the group gets roughly a third of its funding not from Pakistan but from the US, through covert CIA deals.

Not that American oversight over the group is any more effective, as US officials have repeatedly accused the ISI of complicity or direct involvement in terrorist attacks, including last November's Mumbai strike. Officials have also said the ISI is directly supporting the Taliban insurgency in Afghanistan in its fight against the US. This support allegedly includes direct ISI funding for the insurgency, yet another example of how US money thrown at the region seems to trickle into the pockets of its opponents.

The CIA, however, defended the payments, saying they had more than gotten their money's worth from the ISI in the form of intelligence in Pakistan's tribal areas. In addition to this funding, the CIA has also paid tens of millions of dollars to the group as rewards for capturing or killing people on its behalf through a covert program approved by President Bush.

See also: LA Times article: CIA says it gets its money's worth from Pakistani spy agency and Orlando Sentinel article: CIA financing Pakistani Spies

Here is the perfect example how the Pakistan ISI is just another subsidiary of Mossad the CIA and Mi5/6 global terrorist network. The same goes for India's and many other countries intelligence agencies. Digest this fact and re-visit any so called "terrorist attacks", assassinations and conflicts that were widely disseminated in the news as the works of some bogeyman group of evil doers...

Another very important factor one must never forget is that the CIA, same as all other secret agencies around the world, is just like the Mafia: once you are a member, you are a member for life. All too often I read so many articles that say this or that ____ person "was" a member of the CIA from ____ to ____ time, that's such bull. Every person that was ever in the CIA continues to be a "sleeper" waiting for a magic phone call and that person is back in the game. Once a CIA "asset" always a CIA asset. This is common knowledge folks. Then there is the fact that still many more agents are listed as "retired", "quit", etc. when in fact they are now working undercover. So when you see any news items, story or whatever and see anyone's name with a history of any secrecy agency service, be aware of these facts.

One must also take into account, lest never forget, that THE single largest group of SPYS caught spying on the United States of America are none other than of Jewish backgrounds. Yes this group has consistently been caught spying on us even more than Russia, any other country or entity. Period. For a peak at the tip of this iceberg see the THE ISRAELI SPY JUGGERNAUT in the Addendum Section of this report. The Zionists ARE the master spys behind ALL the spy agencies...

Pakistan's spy agency is said to collaborate with the Taliban

Among the assertions in a new report: It's government policy to support the insurgency in Afghanistan, and the agency is 'involved at the highest level of the movement.' The claims are the strongest yet.

June 14, 2010 | Los Angeles Times, By Alex Rodriguez

Reporting from Islamabad, Pakistan — Pakistan's powerful intelligence agency not only funds and trains Taliban insurgents fighting U.S. and NATO troops in Afghanistan, but also maintains its own representation on the insurgency's leadership council, claims a new report issued by the London School of Economics.

Assertions that Pakistan's intelligence agency, the Inter-Services Intelligence, continues to nurture links with the Afghan Taliban are not new. But the scope of that relationship claimed by the report's author, Matt Waldman, is startling and could prove damaging to the fragile alliance Washington is trying to foster with Pakistan, its military establishment, and its weak civilian government led by President Asif Ali Zardari.

Waldman, a fellow at the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, based his assertions on interviews with nine Afghan Taliban commanders as well as with Afghan and Western security officials. The report claims that it is official Pakistan governmental policy to support the Taliban's insurgency in Afghanistan, and that the ISI has a strong voice on the Quetta shura, the Afghan Taliban's leadership council, named after the southern Pakistani city believed to serve as the council's haven.

The report states that, based on the interviews, "the ISI has representatives on the Shura, either as participants or observers, and the agency is thus involved at the highest level of the movement."

The report also alleges that Zardari, long regarded as a close ally of the Obama administration in the war on terrorism, had met with captured senior Taliban leaders in Pakistan and had vowed to ensure their release as well as to support their efforts in Afghanistan. Pakistan Aids Insurgency in Afghanistan, Reports Assert

By MARK MAZZETTI, JANE PERLEZ, ERIC SCHMITT and ANDREW W. LEHREN, Published: July 25, 2010

Americans fighting the war in Afghanistan have long harbored strong suspicions that Pakistan's military spy service has guided the Afghan insurgency with a hidden hand, even as Pakistan receives more than $1 billion a year from Washington for its help combating the militants, according to a trove of secret military field reports made public Sunday.

The documents, made available by an organization called WikiLeaks, suggest that Pakistan, an ostensible ally of the United States, allows representatives of its spy service to meet directly with the Taliban in secret strategy sessions to organize networks of militant groups that fight against American soldiers in Afghanistan, and even hatch plots to assassinate Afghan leaders.

Taken together, the reports indicate that American soldiers on the ground are inundated with accounts of a network of Pakistani assets and collaborators that runs from the Pakistani tribal belt along the Afghan border, through southern Afghanistan, and all the way to the capital, Kabul.

Much of the information — raw intelligence and threat assessments gathered from the field in Afghanistan— cannot be verified and likely comes from sources aligned with Afghan intelligence, which considers Pakistan an enemy, and paid informants. Some describe plots for attacks that do not appear to have taken place.

But many of the reports rely on sources that the military rated as reliable.

While current and former American officials interviewed could not corroborate individual reports, they said that the portrait of the spy agency's collaboration with the Afghan insurgency was broadly consistent with other classified intelligence.

Some of the reports describe Pakistani intelligence working alongside Al Qaeda to plan attacks. Experts cautioned that although Pakistan's militant groups and Al Qaeda work together, directly linking the Pakistani spy agency, the Directorate for Inter-Services Intelligence, or ISI, with Al Qaeda is difficult.

The records also contain firsthand accounts of American anger at Pakistan's unwillingness to confront insurgents who launched attacks near Pakistani border posts, moved openly by the truckload across the frontier, and retreated to Pakistani territory for safety.

The behind-the-scenes frustrations of soldiers on the ground and glimpses of what appear to be Pakistani skullduggery contrast sharply with the frequently rosy public pronouncements of Pakistan as an ally by American officials, looking to sustain a drone campaign over parts of Pakistani territory to strike at Qaeda havens. Administration officials also want to keep nuclear-armed Pakistan on their side to safeguard NATO supplies flowing on routes that cross Pakistan to Afghanistan.

This month, Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, in one of the frequent visits by American officials to Islamabad, announced $500 million in assistance and called the United States and Pakistan “partners joined in common cause.”

The reports suggest, however, that the Pakistani military has acted as both ally and enemy, as its spy agency runs what American officials have long suspected is a double game — appeasing certain American demands for cooperation while angling to exert influence in Afghanistan through many of the same insurgent networks that the Americans are fighting to eliminate.

Behind the scenes, both Bush and Obama administration officials as well as top American commanders have confronted top Pakistani military officers with accusations of ISI complicity in attacks in Afghanistan, and even presented top Pakistani officials with lists of ISI and military operatives believed to be working with militants.

Benjamin Rhodes, deputy national security adviser for strategic communications, said that Pakistan had been an important ally in the battle against militant groups, and that Pakistani soldiers and intelligence officials had worked alongside the United States to capture or kill Qaeda and Taliban leaders.

Still, he said that the “status quo is not acceptable,” and that the havens for militants in Pakistan “pose an intolerable threat” that Pakistan must do more to address.

“The Pakistani government — and Pakistan’s military and intelligence services — must continue their strategic shift against violent extremist groups within their borders,” he said. American military support to Pakistan would continue, he said.

Several Congressional officials said that despite repeated requests over the years for information about Pakistani support for militant groups, they usually receive vague and inconclusive briefings from the Pentagon and C.I.A. article continues, full text at [NY Times]

WikiLeaks Releases Afghan War Reports in Unprecedented Leak - <http://wardiary.wikileaks.org/>

The real masters of all these secret agencies are none other than the Zionist Learned Elders ruling elite. Who ultimately decide how to utilize their secret above the law/untouchable army we know as the intelligence agencies. One of their favorite pastimes are orchestrating coup d'états. Any government, no matter how harmless to our national defense that opposes the corporate financial interests of the ruling elite are deemed enemies of state. They eventually suffer the consequences for refusing our ECONOMIC COLONIZATION. The CIA is eventually dispatched to establish and organize local dissenters, including but not limited to forming local terrorist squads to destabilize the target countries. For an amazing look into the extent of how they use these agencies to do their dirty work, here is a mind blowing example:

The one most ludicrous example of this abuse was the 1954 CIA engineered coup of democratic country Guatemala. The bottom line and defining reason why the U.S. was behind this coup was none other than BANANAS! Because the United Fruit Company's (Chiquita Bananas) owned land was reclaimed by the Guatemala government. Under their reform act 1952 they proceeded to reclaim their lands for their impoverished peasants. United Fruit had owned the majority of all of Guatemala's agricultural lands. On the behalf of United Fruits they immediately proceeded to lobby the U.S. government, who then retaliated on Guatemala, imposing cuts in economic aids and cuts in trade, with devastating effects on Guatemala. They made false claims that Guatemala had communist ties (communism was the "common enemy" at that time) To make a long story short, the U.S. finally sent in the CIA who mounted operation PBSUCCESS that was pre planned a coup d'état and installed their own selected leaders who proved to not only be inept but also corrupt. This coup faced ferocious condemnation by the international press at the time. The coup was the definitive blow to Guatemala's young democracy. Over the next four decades were filled with violence counter-insurgency with well over 140,000 deaths. All over BANANAS! This entire fiasco is well documented, look into it for yourself. This is an example of your hard earned tax dollars at work in America's modern form of colonialism, were we attack and overthrow governments that won't allow our mega corporations to come in and take over. This is the heart of our government's policy of "exporting democracy" everywhere, really means you open your doors and sell out to the multinational conglomerates for peanuts or you will die!

The 'Democracy' Fraud

All of South America has been the CIA's playground. Not a nation there has been untouched and blemished by the CIA. Cuba, Venezuela, Bolivia, Peru, Panama, Mexico, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Brazil, Columbia, Chile, Ecuador all, each and every one of these nations have been manipulated to some major extent by our foreign policy and the CIA. I guarantee you right here that each and every political uprising that has ever occurred south of the U.S. Inc the CIA was THE major catalyst. So much so that the CIA is so well embedded in these countries that they are like second homes for the CIA. South America is the CIA's research center, where they practice their craft with impunity. Their contribution to the governments of the south? Bloodshed, insurgency and counter insurgency. Prior to the invention of the CIA NONE of those countries had even a small portion of the problems they now have. The CIA has the minds and hearts of those poor Hispanics so messed up. They have instilled chaos in every sector of their environment and divided almost every county in two plus have them killing themselves, first they secretly foment the chaos then they provide the “counter insurgency” training no less.

The CIA's first coup ever was the 1953 coup in Iran, (Iran tried to nationalize their oil industry just taking back their rights to their own oil from American corporations, so the CIA was sent in to stop them) then followed by the Guatemalan coup, from that point forward they used the tactics they learned and practiced and developed the template for the dozens of other coup d'état's around the world, were they have sown murder, violence and chaos everywhere they have gone. Are you among the many Americans that STILL wonder why we have consistently becoming the most hated country in the world?

“We went all over the world and we did what we wanted. God, we had fun.” – Al Ulmer, chief of the CIA's Far East division in the 1950s.

The towel heads “Hating us for our freedom” is a blatant bullshit lie and the stupidest thing I have ever heard. You don't see it on mainstream media, but we screwed with a lot of countries to suit our interests and agendas, often leaving devastating local fallout in our wake.

Is there any part of the globe we have yet not exported our most wonderful benevolent Democracy? i.e.: invaded countries, seized, occupied and forced our “wonderful benevolent” Capitalistic Democratic way of life (by way of ECONOMIC COLONIZATION) who's core makeup is composed of engineered corporate acquisitions and takeovers of all major resources and industries, common tactics including and not limited to military invasions to bring our brand of “freedom” to the fortunate savages.

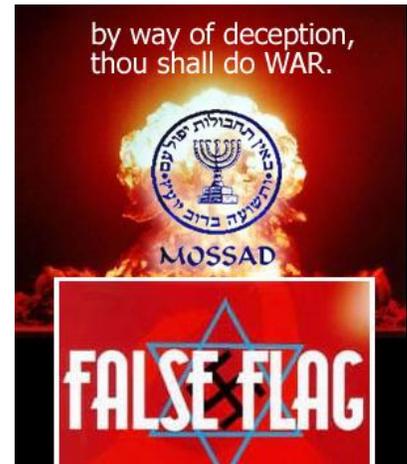

Oh, yes there are a couple hold outs: such as North Korea, Iran and Cuba. Both parts of the EVIL COMMUNIST empires, yet hold on, CHINA is the biggest worst, MOST DANGEROUS COMMUNIST empire on the planet, world leaders in the field of horrendous human rights violations! Dwarfing and making Cuba look like a boy scout yet our leaders view China as our #1 trusted trading partner! What's up with that? US has bestowed on china "most favored nation status" all the while it is the world's premier, foremost evil communist country killing & torturing thousands of their citizens, not to mention what they did to the Tibetan people for instance. Nothing to see here folks, run along now. Now let's go get that evil commy Chavez guy! THIS PROVES BEYOND A SHADOW OF A DOUBT THAT ‘EXPORTING DEMOCRACY’ fairy tale premise IS NOTHING MORE THAN A BULLSHIT FRAUD.

This scenario has repeated itself over and over again throughout the world, different faces, nations and regimes, yet always the same story; in the end the “west” always gets their way and demolishes the old sovereignty and establishes their puppet state of ‘friendly Democratic rule’ establishing allies and industries to do their bidding. I don't sit here and make this stuff up, this is just the COLD HARD UNADULTERATED TRUTH.

This is U.S. foreign policy hypocrisy at its transparent best. You do your own homework on this! See how true these FACTS are! The ruling elite of this world can't stand the thought of a society existing that doesn't worship their capitalism and not a component of their matrix system.

EVERY single invasion, coup attempt, etc all have ONE common denominator: Every single instance where the U.S. sent in the CIA (i.e.: the enforcers) to each country to infiltrate, fund, organize terror in every country was due to the fact that at some point the crippled POOR country being invaded wasn't a part of their economic system (the matrix) and had something we (usually a huge ruling elite conglomerate) wanted but was DENIED of by the now “evil” labeled nation... Some countries decided to just RECLAIM a portion its' own national interests that were unfairly taken over by outsiders, such as oil rights, agriculture, banking and so forth. In doing so, they denied the western multinational corporations their drunken orgies of plundering and pillaging the resources of that country. Our reply in every single case has always been the same: "invade and destroy the evil commy bastards"! Then install a puppet government that would obediently follow our orders and allow the wanton corporate pillaging to continue. Cuba threw out the "capitalist bastards" and the U.S. Inc. has never forgiven them for doing so... plain and simple. The result: to this day Cuba is still viewed as one of histories worst evil commy bastard nations while we love China and throw wild industrial and economic orgies with them.

China being a REAL world class A dangerous evil communist country readily got in bed with the ruling elite's program of capitalism and industry whose official spokesman is the good ole U.S. Inc, and have had a massive capitalist trade orgy relationship ever since, therefore the U.S. Inc. has no issues with that evil communist regime. Endowing our COMMUNIST allied buddies with "most favored nation" status! DOH!

The pure unadulterated reality is that "democracy" is just a lame bullshit excuse, pretense used to hide the fact that all the military and economic pressures applied against all non-compliant governments are in fact overt punishment for the target country's failure to accept and surrender to the elite's CAPITALISM overtures. In all actuality they couldn't give a damn if the trading partner is democratic or communist so long as they consent to ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of their nation. Period.

Those regimes that refuse our overtures of ECONOMIC COLONIZATION and resist the economic colonization and subjugation process face immediate retribution in the form of embargos, sanctions, propping up of CIA/Mossad/MI6 terrorist networks, where they setup, fuel and fund organized terrorism against the target states. Those intelligence agency black ops often call themselves "freedom fighters," insurgents, rebels, revolutionaries and are designed to recruit easily duped dumb locals, when the rebel organizations can exist on their own the black ops agents then move away into the background and watch their masterpieces unfold. The mandate that is presented to ALL regimes is unconditional surrender of sovereignty, do you comprehend this?... UNCONDITIONAL GIVING UP OF ECONOMIC SOVEREIGNTY. You are either with our system or against us... there is no middle ground. Play the game and allow the CONSORTIUM of multi-national corporations unimpeded freedom to do as they wish and no one gets hurt.... Period, end of story.

The key to who is an enemy and who is a friend of America and "the west" is very simple: If you allow the consortium of multinational corporations to do business in your country and do as they please, then your country is our "friend" and allied. If you do not let our corporations in and do as they please, you are our enemy and must be stopped at all costs! Therefore we must label your country as an EVIL empire, setup trade sanctions and export violence and murder to your country in return! If that does not work, eventually they will build up a case that your evil demonic zombie nation is out to kill us all for our freedoms and destroy the planet and execute all the earth's babies, and eat all the world's cute puppies, so we better destroy them first!.... Sound familiar?

So you can see very clearly that China is deeply in bed with our entire corporate world so they are our "friends" no matter the FACT that China is still the world's leading worst evil, MOST DANGEROUS COMMUNIST authoritarian regimes on the planet, yet they receive "MOST FAVORED NATION STATUS" from the U.S.! On the other hand relatively tiny harmless weakling countries such as Cuba that don't even own sling shots are labeled as the "evil dangerous empires" and are subjected to extreme sanctions and embargos. The media chimes in with "oh look how poor and destitute those nations are." Duh. Even though they pose absolutely no real threat to us at all, those who refuse to prostitute their nation and their people to the insatiable capitalist consortium and their banking cartels suffer their wrath... until the day the target regime says "ok, you can come in, establish your banks, take our lands and industries, go ahead, bring in your capitalism and conglomerates." Then and ONLY THEN will the bans, retribution and insidious labeling them as evil regimes cease. You know this is TRUE, sit down and digest these words carefully. All you need do study world history under this new light and everything will finally make sense.

The bottom line is Economic Colonization. As evil communist regimes such as China being our best of pals "most favored nation status" PROVES BEYOND ANY DOUBT that our nation could care less what form of government the target nation has, so long as they embrace capitalism and open their doors to the elite's consortium of multinational corporations and banks. PERIOD

China is perhaps one of the most DANGEROUS countries in the world today, did I mention they are the world's foremost COMMUNIST evil empire? I can't reiterate that enough due to the fact that Americans seem to be plagued with forgeticin and can't seem to remember anything past last week. Here let me remind everyone who our MOST FAVORED NATION PALS REALLY ARE:

China Targets U.S. Troops with Arms Buildup

Pentagon cites 'anti-access' missiles in report

August 16, 2010 - China is aggressively building up military forces capable of striking U.S. forces in the western Pacific and elsewhere as part of what the Pentagon calls an array of high-tech "anti-access" missiles, submarines and warplanes in its latest annual report.

The report to Congress on China's military power, released Monday, also warned that China's military is extending its global military reach beyond a weapons buildup to wage regional war with Taiwan and the United States. The report also questioned U.S.-China military exchanges, noting that Beijing is using the visits and meetings for political influence operations and intelligence gathering.

"China is fielding an array of conventionally armed ballistic missiles, ground- and air-launched land-attack cruise missiles, special operations forces, and cyberwarfare capabilities to hold targets at risk throughout the region," the report said. • Click here to read the report \(PDF\).

Release of the assessment comes amid reports that China has surpassed Japan as the world's second largest economy in terms of gross domestic product, highlighting Beijing's expanding global power.

Japan's nominal GDP, which isn't adjusted for price and seasonal variations, was worth almost $1.29 trillion in the April-to-June quarter compared with almost $1.34 trillion for China, the Associated Press reported. The figures are converted into dollars based on an average exchange rate for the quarter.

The 74-page Pentagon report highlighted numerous military developments by China's 125-million-troop army, including the first mention of a new multiple-warhead, long-range road-mobile missile, and details on China's plan to field aircraft carriers.

Much of the report builds on past reports on China's arms buildup, which includes a modestly growing nuclear arsenal and large-scale expansion of missile, naval and air forces.

However, the report for the first time highlighted the growth of Chinese anti-access and area-denial weapons, notably Beijing's building and testing of a unique anti-ship ballistic missile that can hit ships at sea with pinpoint accuracy up to 1,000 miles from China's coasts. Story Continues

“Chinese missile could shift Pacific power balance”

August 05, 2010|By ERIC TALMADGE, Associated Press Writer

In this July 25, 2010 photo, crew of the USS George Washington line up on the deck as the supercarrier leaves South Korea's southern port city of Pusan as part of four-day maneuvers, called "Invincible Spirit," involving 20 ships, 200 aircraft and about 8,000 U.S. and South Korean sailors, off the east coast of Korea. Nothing projects U.S. global air and sea power more vividly than supercarriers. Bristling with fighter jets that can reach deep into even landlocked trouble zones, America's virtually invincible carrier fleet has long enforced its dominance of the high seas. China may soon put an end to that.

Nothing projects U.S. global air and sea power more vividly than supercarriers. Bristling with fighter jets that can reach deep into even landlocked trouble zones, America's virtually invincible carrier fleet has long enforced its dominance of the high seas. - China may soon put an end to that.

U.S. naval planners are scrambling to deal with what analysts say is a game-changing weapon being developed by China — an unprecedented carrier-killing missile called the Dong Feng 21D that could be launched from land with enough accuracy to penetrate the defenses of even the most advanced moving aircraft carrier at a distance of more than 1,500 kilometers (900 miles).

Arms build up? Targeting troops? Well golly gee whiz... nothing to be alarmed about here! They are our MOST FAVORED EVIL COMMUNIST PALS! Do you see the condundrum/paradox/disconnect here? I have explained to you in full, the worldwide economic conquest agenda has ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to do with fighting communism or “spreading democracy” that’s just a blatant bullshit FARCE.

Without one dully understanding the Matrix and the end game of the ruling elite, the real world PARADOX of America PROPPING UP and INDIRECTLY BUILDING UP EVIL COMMUNIST CHINA INTO THE WORLD’S FOREMOST AND LARGEST ECONOMIES seems like absurdity. But to those who understand the ruling elite agenda, understand that America has been setup for a massive breakdown, a self destruction (destroyed from within) of biblical proportions. No one in their right sane frame of mind would ever export all their jobs and economic prosperity to any other country, let alone one that this once confirmed evil Red Giant is FIRMLY in the communist enemy camp... There are only two possible reasons: the entire cabal of ruling overlords of our country whom are collectively among the most highly educated on the planet... are collectively downright stupid and certifiably insane or this has been a sinister planned agenda of “destruction from within” going back decades, one which we were warned of countless times.

Venezuela is just another example of the Guatemalan story. Chavez was the hero of the people having the difficult task of taking back land, resources and businesses the western multi-nationals swindled them out of long ago and giving them BACK TO THE NATIVE PEOPLE they rightfully belonged to. What happens next? Even though he was democratically elected, it does not mean a thing for the U.S. Inc. Capitalist Consortium. Chavez is commonly portrayed as an evil tyrant that must be stopped by all means! The Zionist multinational media cartel has been working overtime in spreading anti-Chavez propaganda in his own land and the world over.

You can wager your entire life’s savings that all this would stop in a heartbeat the moment Chavez were to come out apologize for his “sins,” give the multi-national conglomerates carte blanche ownership and control of the resources and monopolies they once had in that land... If he were to do just that he would immediately be heralded as the patron saint of Venezuela by all the worlds “news” outlets and be guest of honor at all of the western worlds’s political galas.

The FBI successfully thwarts its own Terrorist plot

By Glenn Greenwald

The FBI is obviously quite pleased with itself over its arrest of a 19-year-old Somali-American, Mohamed Osman Mohamud, who -- with months of encouragement, support and money from the FBI's own undercover agents -- allegedly attempted to detonate a bomb at a crowded Christmas event in Portland, Oregon. Media accounts are almost uniformly trumpeting this event exactly as the FBI describes it. Loyalists of both parties are doing the same, with Democratic Party commentators proclaiming that this proves how great and effective Democrats are at stopping The Evil Terrorists, while right-wing polemicists point to this arrest as yet more proof that those menacing Muslims sure are violent and dangerous.

What's missing from all of these celebrations is an iota of questioning or skepticism. All of the information about this episode -- all of it -- comes exclusively from an FBI affidavit filed in connection with a Criminal Complaint against Mohamud. As shocking and upsetting as this may be to some, FBI claims are sometimes one-sided, unreliable and even untrue, especially when such claims -- as here -- are uncorroborated and unexamined. That's why we have what we call "trials" before assuming guilt or even before believing that we know what happened: because the government doesn't always tell the complete truth, because they often skew reality, because things often look much different once the accused is permitted to present his own facts and subject the government's claims to scrutiny. The FBI affidavit -- as well as whatever its agents are whispering into the ears of reporters -- contains only those facts the FBI chose to include, but omits the ones it chose to exclude. And even the "facts" that are included are merely assertions at this point and thus may not be facts at all.

It may very well be that the FBI successfully and within legal limits arrested a dangerous criminal intent on carrying out a serious Terrorist plot that would have killed many innocent people, in which case they deserve praise. Court-approved surveillance and use of undercover agents to infiltrate terrorist plots are legitimate tactics when used in accordance with the law.

But it may also just as easily be the case that the FBI -- as they've done many times in the past -- found some very young, impressionable, disaffected, hapless, aimless, inept loner; created a plot it then persuaded/manipulated/entrapped him to join, essentially turning him into a Terrorist; and then patted itself on the back once it arrested him for having thwarted a "Terrorist plot" which, from start to finish, was entirely the FBI's own concoction. Having stopped a plot which it itself manufactured, the FBI then publicly touts -- and an uncritical media amplifies -- its "success" to the world, thus proving both that domestic Terrorism from Muslims is a serious threat and the Government's vast surveillance powers -- current and future new ones -- are necessary.

There are numerous claims here that merit further scrutiny and questioning. First, the FBI was monitoring the email communications of this American citizen on U.S. soil for months (at least) with what appears to be the flimsiest basis: namely, that he was in email communication with someone in Northwest Pakistan, "an area known to harbor terrorists" (para. 5 of the FBI Affidavit). Is that enough to obtain court approval to eavesdrop on someone's calls and emails? I'm glad the FBI is only eavesdropping with court approval, if that's true, but certainly more should be required for judicial authorization than that. Communicating with someone in Northwest Pakistan is hardly reasonable grounds for suspicion.

Second, in order not to be found to have entrapped someone into committing a crime, law enforcement agents want to be able to prove that, in the 1992 words of the Supreme Court, the accused was "was independently predisposed to commit the crime for which he was arrested." To prove that, undercover agents are often careful to stress that the accused has multiple choices, and they then induce him into choosing with his own volition to commit the crime. In this case, that was achieved by the undercover FBI agent's allegedly advising Mohamud that there were at least five ways he could serve the cause of Islam (including by praying, studying engineering, raising funds to send overseas, or becoming "operational"), and Mohamud replied he wanted to "be operational" by using exploding a bomb (para. 35-37).

But strangely, while all other conversations with Mohamud which the FBI summarizes were (according to the affidavit) recorded by numerous recording devices, this conversation -- the crucial one for negating Mohamud's entrapment defense -- was not. That's because, according to the FBI, the undercover agent "was equipped with audio equipment to record the meeting. However, due to technical problems, the meeting was not recorded" (para. 37).

Thus, we have only the FBI's word, and only its version, for what was said during this crucial -- potentially dispositive -- conversation. Also strangely: the original New York Times article on this story described this conversation at some length and reported the fact that "that meeting was not recorded due to a technical difficulty," but the final version omitted that, instead simply repeating the FBI's story as though it were fact: "undercover agents in Mr. Mohamud's case offered him several nonfatal ways to serve his cause, including mere prayer. But he told the agents he wanted to be 'operational,' and perhaps execute a car bombing."

Third, there are ample facts that call into question whether Mohamud's actions were driven by the FBI's manipulation and pressure rather than his own predisposition to commit a crime. In June, he attempted to fly to Alaska in order to work on a fishing job he obtained through a friend, but he was on the Government's no-fly list. That caused the FBI to question him at the airport and then bar him from flying to Alaska, and thus prevented him from earning income with this job (para. 25). Having prevented him from working, the money the FBI then pumped him with -- including almost $3,000 in cash for him to rent his own apartment (para. 61) -- surely helped make him receptive to their suggestions and influence. And every other step taken to perpetrate this plot -- from planning its placement to assembling the materials to constructing the bomb -- was all done at the FBI's behest and with its indispensable support and direction.

It's impossible to conceive of Mohamud having achieved anything on his own. Before being ensnared by the FBI, the only tangible action he had taken was to write three articles on "fitness and jihad" for the online magazine Jihad Recollections. At least based on what is known, he had no history of violence, no apparent criminal record, had never been to a training camp in Afghanistan, Pakistan or anywhere else, and -- before meeting the FBI -- had never taken a single step toward harming anyone. Does that sound like some menacing sleeper Terrorist to you?

Finally, there is, as usual, no discussion whatsoever in media accounts of motive. There are several statements attributed to Mohamud by the Affidavit that should be repellent to any decent person, including complete apathy -- even delight -- at the prospect that this bomb would kill innocent people, including children. What would drive a 19-year-old American citizen -- living in the U.S. since the age of 3 -- to that level of sociopathic indifference? He explained it himself in several passages quoted by the FBI, and -- if it weren't for the virtual media blackout of this issue -- this line of reasoning would be extremely familiar to Americans by now (para. 45):

Undercover FBI Agent: You know there's gonna be a lot of children there?

Mohamud: Yeah, I know, that's what I'm looking for.

Undercover FBI Agent: For kids?

Mohamud: No, just for, in general a huge mass that will, like for them you know to be attacked in their own element with their families celebrating the holidays. And then for later to be saying, this was them for you to refrain from killing our children, women . . . so when they hear all these families were killed in such a city, they'll say you know what your actions, you know they will stop, you know. And it's not fair that they should do that to people and not feeling it.

And here's what he allegedly said in a video he made shortly before he thought he would be detonating the bomb (para. 80):

This is a message [if God wills] to those who have wronged themselves and the rights of others. From the Americans and others. A dark day is coming your way [with the permission of Allah the glorified the exalted]. For as long as you threaten our security, your people will not remain safe. As your soldiers target our civilians, we will not help to do so. Did you think that you could invade a Muslim land, and we would not invade you, but Allah will have soldiers scattered everywhere across the globe. To those doubting the victory of Allah's [the glorified the exalted] then we say there's a lesson in the USSR for you, and also in the events going on in Afghanistan. Their power is not except propoganda and the tongues of people.

We hear the same exact thing over and over and over from accused Terrorists -- that they are attempting to carry out plots in retaliation for past and ongoing American violence against Muslim civilians and to deter such future acts. Here we find one of the great mysteries in American political culture: that the U.S. Government dispatches its military all over the world -- invading, occupying, and bombing multiple Muslim countries -- torturing them, imprisoning them without charges, shooting them up at checkpoints, sending remote-controlled drones to explode their homes, imposing sanctions that starve hundreds of thousands of children to death -- and Americans are then baffled when some Muslims -- an amazingly small percentage -- harbor anger and vengeance toward them and want to return the violence. And here we also find the greatest myth in American political discourse: that engaging in all of that military aggression somehow constitutes Staying Safe and combating Terrorism -- rather than doing more than any single other cause to provoke, sustain and fuel Terrorism.

UPDATE: A very similar thing happened last month when the FBI announced that it had arrested someone who was planning to bomb the DC Metro system when, in reality, "the only plotting he did was in response to instructions from federal agents he thought were accomplices." That concocted FBI plot then led to the Metro Police announcing a new policy of random searches of passengers' bags.

Meanwhile, in Oregon, the mosque sometimes attended by Mohamud was victimized today by arson. So the FBI did not stop any actual Terrorist plots, but they may have helped inspire one.

On a different note, the Pentagon is corrupted to its very core and is completely complicit and 1,000,000% working hand and hand with the CIA. What's more is the fact that many so called private companies are in fact nothing more than secret extensions of the CIA. "Fronts." Take for example Blackwater, they are actually a certified CIA subsidiary, period. They are a functioning CIA CORPORATE MERCENARY DIVISION. Blackwater has mysteriously achieved elite "can't touch this" status, this is evidenced in how often their men routinely have serious criminal charges such as rape and murder routinely dropped. Blackwater agents regularly visit CIA command centers, most of their management is composed of ex CIA, Mossad and Mi6. Is it any wonder that two Blackwater agents died at the recent bombing of CIA base in Afghanistan? Again, nothing ever is what it seems, dig deeper and you find the real meanings.

Are Presidents Afraid of the CIA?

By Ray McGovern, consortiumnews.com

(FYI: Ray McGovern credentials: 27-year career at CIA, he served under nine CIA directors and in all four of CIA's main directorates, including operations. He is co-founder of Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity (VIPS). He now works with Tell the Word, the publishing arm of the ecumenical Church of the Savior in inner-city Washington. During)

In the past, I have alluded to Panetta and the Seven Dwarfs. The reference is to CIA Director Leon Panetta and seven of his moral-dwarf predecessors — the ones who sent President Barack Obama a letter on Sept. 18 asking him to "reverse Attorney General Holder's Aug. 24 decision to re-open the criminal investigation of CIA interrogations."

Panetta reportedly was also dead set against reopening the investigation — as he was against release of the Justice Department’s “torture memoranda” of 2002, as he has been against releasing pretty much anything at all — the President’s pledges of a new era of openness, notwithstanding. [See Consortiumnews.com’s “CIA Torturers Running Scared.”]

Panetta is even older than I, and hearing is among the first faculties to fail. Perhaps he heard “error” when the President said “era.”

As for the benighted seven, they are more to be pitied than scorned. No longer able to avail themselves of the services of clever Agency lawyers and wordsmiths, they put their names to a letter that reeked of self-interest — not to mention the inappropriateness of asking a President to interfere with an investigation already ordered by the Attorney General.

Three of the seven — George Tenet, Porter Goss and Michael Hayden — were themselves involved, in one way or another, in planning, conducting or covering up all manner of illegal actions, including torture, assassination and illegal eavesdropping.

In this light, the most transparent part of the letter may be the sentence in which they worry: “There is no reason to expect that the re-opened criminal investigation will remain narrowly focused.”

When asked about the letter on Sunday TV shows on Sept. 20, Obama was careful always to respond first by expressing obligatory “respect” for the CIA and its directors.

With Bob Schieffer on “Face the Nation,” though, Obama did allow himself a condescending quip. He commented, “I appreciate the former CIA directors wanting to look out for an institution that they helped to build.”

That quip was, sadly, the exception to the rule. While Obama keeps repeating the mantra that “nobody is above the law,” there is no real sign that he intends to face down Panetta and the Seven Dwarfs — no sign that anyone has breathed new life into federal prosecutor John Durham, to whom Holder gave the mandate for further “preliminary investigation.”

What is generally forgotten is that it was former Attorney General Michael Mukasey who picked Durham two years ago to investigate the CIA’s destruction of 91 tapes of the interrogation of “high-value detainees.”

Durham had scarcely been heard from when Holder added to his job-jar the task of conducting a preliminary investigation regarding the CIA torture specialists. These are the ones whose zeal led them to go beyond the already highly permissive Justice Department guidelines for “harsh interrogation.”

Durham, clearly, is proceeding with all deliberate speed (emphasis on “deliberate”). Someone has even suggested - I trust, in jest - that he has been diverted to the search for the money and other assets that Madoff stashed away.

In any case, do not hold your breath for findings from Durham anytime soon. Holder appears in no hurry. And President Obama keeps giving off signals that he is afraid of getting crosswise with the CIA - that’s right, afraid.

Not Just Paranoia

In that fear, President Obama stands in the tradition of a dozen American presidents. Harry Truman and John Kennedy were the only ones to take on the CIA directly.

Worst of all, evidence continues to build that the CIA was responsible, at least in part, for the assassination of President Kennedy. Evidence new to me came in response to things I included in my article of Dec. 22, “Break the CIA in Two."

What follows can be considered a sequel that is based on the kind of documentary evidence after which intelligence analysts positively lust.

Unfortunately for the CIA operatives who were involved in the past activities outlined below, the temptation to ask Panetta to put a SECRET stamp on the documentary evidence will not work. Nothing short of blowing up the Truman Library might help some.

But even that would be a largely feckless "covert action," copy machines having long since done their thing.

In my article of Dec. 22, I referred to Harry Truman's op-ed of exactly 46 years before, titled "Limit CIA Role to Intelligence," in which the former President expressed dismay at what the Central Intelligence Agency had become just 16 years after he and Congress created it.

The Washington Post published the op-ed on Dec. 22, 1963, in its early edition, but immediately excised it from later editions. Other media ignored it. The long hand of the CIA?

Truman wrote that he was "disturbed by the way CIA has been diverted from its original assignment" to keep the President promptly and fully informed and had become "an operational and at times policy-making arm of the government."

The Truman Papers

Documents in the Truman Library show that nine days after Kennedy was assassinated, Truman sketched out in handwritten notes what he wanted to say in the op-ed. He noted, among other things, that the CIA had worked as he intended only "when I had control."

In Truman's view, misuse of the CIA began in February 1953, when his successor, Dwight Eisenhower, named Allen Dulles CIA Director. Dulles's forte was overthrowing governments (in current parlance, "regime change"), and he was quite good at it.

With coups in Iran (1953) and Guatemala (1954) under his belt, Dulles was riding high in the late Fifties and moved Cuba to the top of his to-do list.

Accustomed to the carte blanche given him by Eisenhower, Dulles was offended when young President Kennedy came on the scene and had the temerity to ask questions about the Bay of Pigs adventure, which had been set in motion under Eisenhower.

When Kennedy made it clear he would NOT approve the use of U.S. combat forces, Dulles reacted with disdain and set out to mousetrap the new President.

Coffee-stained notes handwritten by Allen Dulles were discovered after his death and reported by historian Lucien S. Vandenbroucke. They show how Dulles drew Kennedy into a plan that was virtually certain to require the use of U.S. combat forces.

In his notes Dulles explained that, "when the chips were down," the new President would be forced by "the realities of the situation" to give whatever military support was necessary "rather than permit the enterprise to fail."

Additional detail came from a March 2001 conference on the Bay of Pigs, which included CIA operatives, retired military commanders, scholars and journalists. Daniel Schorr told National Public Radio that he had gained one new perception as a result of the “many hours of talk and heaps of declassified secret documents”:

“It was that the CIA overlords of the invasion, Director Allen Dulles and Deputy Richard Bissell, had their own plan on how to bring the United States into the conflict.... What they expected was that the invaders would establish a beachhead ... and appeal for aid from the United States. ...

“The assumption was that President Kennedy, who had emphatically banned direct American involvement, would be forced by public opinion to come to the aid of the returning patriots. American forces, probably Marines, would come in to expand the beachhead.

“In fact, President Kennedy was the target of a CIA covert operation that collapsed when the invasion collapsed.”

The “enterprise” which Dulles said could not fail was, of course, the overthrow of Fidel Castro. After mounting several failed operations to assassinate him, this time Dulles meant to get his man, with little or no attention to what the Russians might do in reaction.

Kennedy stuck to his guns, so to speak; fired Dulles and his co-conspirators a few months after the abortive invasion in April 1961; and told a friend that he wanted to “splinter the CIA into a thousand pieces and scatter it into the winds.”

The outrage was mutual, and when Kennedy himself was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963, it must have occurred to Truman that the disgraced Dulles and his outraged associates might not be above conspiring to get rid of a President they felt was soft on Communism — and, incidentally, get even.

In his op-ed of Dec. 22, 1963, Truman warned: “The most important thing ... was to guard against the chance of intelligence being used to influence or to lead the President into unwise decisions.” It is a safe bet that Truman had the Bay of Pigs fiasco uppermost in mind.

Truman called for CIA’s operational duties [to] be terminated or properly used elsewhere.” (This is as good a recommendation now as it was then, in my view.)

On Dec. 27, 1963, retired Admiral Sidney Souers, whom Truman had appointed to lead his first central intelligence group, sent a “Dear Boss” letter applauding Truman’s outspokenness and blaming Dulles for making the CIA “a different animal than I tried to set up for you.” Souers specifically lambasted the attempt “to conduct a ‘war’ invading Cuba with a handful of men and without air cover.”

Souers also lamented the fact that the agency’s “principal effort” had evolved into causing “revolutions in smaller countries around the globe,” and added:

“With so much emphasis on operations, it would not surprise me to find that the matter of collecting and processing intelligence has suffered some.”

Clearly, CIA’s operational tail was wagging its substantive dog — a serious problem that persists to this day.

Fox Guarding Hen House

The well-connected Dulles got himself appointed to the Warren Commission and took the lead in shaping the investigation of JFK’s assassination.

Documents in the Truman Library show that he then mounted a small domestic covert action of his own to neutralize any future airing of Truman’s and Souers’s warnings about covert action.

So important was this to Dulles that he invented a pretext to get himself invited to visit Truman in Independence, Missouri. On the afternoon of April 17, 1964, Dulles spent a half-hour trying to get the former President to retract what he had said in his op-ed. No dice, said Truman.

No problem, thought Dulles. Four days later, in a formal memo for his old buddy Lawrence Houston, CIA General Counsel from 1947 to 1973, Dulles fabricated a private retraction, claiming that Truman told him the Washington Post article was “all wrong,” and that Truman “seemed quite astounded at it.”

No doubt Dulles thought it might be handy to have such a memo in CIA files, just in case.

A fabricated retraction? It certainly seems so, because Truman did not change his tune. Far from it.

In a June 10, 1964, letter to the managing editor of Look magazine, for example, Truman restated his critique of covert action, emphasizing that he never intended the CIA to get involved in “strange activities.”

Dulles and Dallas

Dulles could hardly have expected to get Truman to recant publicly. So why was it so important for Dulles to place in CIA files a fabricated retraction? My guess is that in early 1964 he was feeling a good bit of heat from those suggesting the CIA might have been involved somehow in the Kennedy assassination.

Indeed, columnists were asking how the truth could ever come out with Allen Dulles on the Warren Commission. Prescient.

Dulles feared, rightly, that Truman’s limited-edition op-ed might yet hit pay dirt and raise serious questions about covert action. Dulles would have wanted to be in position to flash the Truman “retraction,” with the hope that this would nip any serious questioning in the bud.

The media had already shown how co-opted — er, I mean “cooperative” — it could be.

As the de facto head of the Warren Commission, Dulles was perfectly positioned to exculpate himself and any of his associates, were any commissioners or investigators — or journalists — tempted to question whether the killing in Dallas might have been a CIA covert action.

Did Allen Dulles and other “cloak-and-dagger CIA operatives have a hand in killing President Kennedy and then covering it up? The most up-to-date — and, in my view, the best — dissection of the assassination appeared last year in James Douglass’s book, JFK and the Unspeakable.

After updating and arraying the abundant evidence, and conducting still more interviews, Douglass concludes the answer is Yes.

Recently the CIA released what they call their "Family Jewels", 700 pages of once top secret documents. Their claim "ok, folks, we are coming clean, we confess to this, this and that, now we are a new and improved reformed organization, promise, cross my heart, hope to die." In actuality, the releasing of the so called Family Jewels is nothing more than a crock of shit. They only released stuff that was ALREADY WIDELY KNOWN and already leaked! Doh! Skeletons in a closet? The CIA/Mossad has so many skeletons that they need a closet the size of a football stadium to house them in!

America was once a proud nation, the envy of the entire world. But after WWII some things started to happen. We took in all the evil ~~ashke~~ NAZI spies who had all vowed until death to destroy us, (re: Operation Paperclip) flew them into our country and gave them employment in our newly created organization called the CIA. Doh! Then America proceeded to become involved in all corners of the globe “spreading democracy” /cough/ (e.g. Economic colonization). The ruling elite created the CIA and sent this abomination of an entity to do the bidding of the shadow rulers and corporate interests. Their primary mission is very simple: the subjugation of all reluctant nations.

When nations rebuff the corporate consortium overtures and political advances, the so called “spreading democracy” which is nothing more than a thinly veiled disguise for their quest of ECONOMIC COLONIZATION, they then send in the BlackOps teams to foment chaos until the target nations succumb and are subjugated. One of the very first targets of destruction of the then newly form CIA was Iran. Below is a partial list of the “wonderful” benevolent works for “peace and prosperity” to “spread democracy” that the CIA was instrumental in:

Iran, Operation Ajax CIA Coup D’état 1953:

They did a real bang up job of infiltrating a once close allies and peaceful country and destroying all good will, The CIA destabilized the entire country in its mission to set up a puppet regime that would do Washington’s corporate special interest's bidding. That was just the start of the New World Order that was to be orchestrated from the US.

Guatemala, Operations PBfortune & PBsuccess CIA Coup D’état 1954:

The CIA went into Guatemala and destroyed their democratically elected government in their quest to regain the BANNANA industry monopoly back for United Fruit, the Chiquita Banana Co. Thousands died for those bananas, what a shame.

Cuba, Operations Mongoose, Northwoods & Zapata aka Bay of Pigs:

The US desperately tried to regain lost billions in revenues when Castro came into power and decided to reclaim the lands and industry for his impoverished nation. Castro kicked out all the foreign central banks, oil companies and so forth, hence, America (special interests) became pissed off. To this day our current leaders still "hate" Cuba only because Cuba will not open its doors to the central banks & commerce, allowing us to control and own all their lands and industries. China is 10 times worse communist dictatorship yet they are one of America's best "pals", so that bullshit story of "Cuba is an evil communist country" just doesn't have the same effect once you truly understand the REAL reason we classify them as “evil” nation.

Democratic Republic of Congo, CIA Coup D’état 1960:

CIA sponsored coup during the Congo Crisis

Iraq, CIA Coup D’état 1963:

The CIA initiated all the bloodshed, complicit in the murders of Iraq's educated elite, hundreds of doctors, teachers, technicians, lawyers and other professionals. As always the main beneficiaries of the massive bloodshed were American and U.K. oil and other interests, including Mobil, Bechtel and British Petroleum who were all conducting business in Iraq.

Chile, Project FUBELT - CIA Coup D’état 1973:

"The Chilean coup of 1973 was a watershed event in the history of Chile and the Cold War. Historians and partisans alike have wrangled over its implications ever since."(note for more info see Wikipedia: covert us regime change actions) fill in the rest below.....

Afghanistan, 1973-74; Afghanistan, 1978-1980s; Iran, 1980; Nicaragua, Iran - Contra Affair 1981-1990; Iraq, early 1990s; Guatemala, 1993; Zimbabwe, 2000s; Serbia 2000;

Afghanistan 2002; Libya 2003; Iraq 2003; Equatorial Guinea 2004; Palestinian Authority 2006-; Somalia 2006-2007; Iran 2007, etc.

Venezuela 2002, 2007 Operations Cleanse Venezuela & Operation Pliers:

The current coup that is now underway is Operation Cleanse Venezuela and Operation Pliers. Our caring and wonderful CIA has been working around the clock to destabilize the entire Venezuelan nation, fermenting dissent, opposition to a democratically elected leader while also plotting his assassination

Overcast (1945-46): OSS rescuing Nazi military scientists for US use Crowcass: 1945-48): locating thousands of Nazis for later use
 Paperclip (1946-1954): continuation and expansion of Overcast
 Mockingbird (1947-2002): CIA control of mass media
 Bloodstone (1948-50): infiltrating fascists into the USSR
 Gladio (1949-90): terrorist actions to discredit the left; assassination, etc.
 MK-Ultra (1953-1963): CIA experiments with LSD, etc on non-volunteers
 Cointelpro (1956-71): FBI destabilization of CP, AIM, SDS, civil rights, etc.
 Celeste (1960-61): CIA assassination of UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold
 Mongoose (1961-63): assassinating Castro
 Merrimac (1967-68): CIA surveillance of DC
 Resistance (1967-68): CIA spying on US student movements
 Chaos (1968-1974): CIA domestic espionage on students, activists, etc
 Garden Plot (1968-2002): DoD plans for mass repression/concentration camps
 Grillflame (1971-1991): CIA "ESP troopers" i.e. over-horizon radar
 Echelon (1972-2002): NSA electronic surveillance of all communication
 Condor (1975-1977): Security arrangement in S. America to kill leftists
 Cyclone (1979-2002): funding violent Islamic fundamentalist groups
 Promis (1981-2002): CIA, etc surveillance of financial transactions
 JCET (1991-2002): "foreign internal defense" training programs
 Roots (1993-1999): CIA sows fascistic propaganda in Yugoslavia
 Storm (1995): ethnic cleansing of Serbs from Krajina
 Carnivore (1999-2002): FBI surveillance of www posts, listservs, etc
 Magic Lantern (2001-2002): FBI surveillance of PC keystrokes.
 Tips (2002-): DOJ civilian informants and denunciations

Just looking at this partial list of extracurricular activities demonstrates how our wonderful most beloved "intelligence agency" is in fact up to its neck in the spread of wanton violence, murder and mayhem. So much for calling them "intelligence agencies", maybe a more proper term would be something like, umm, Infiltration, Death and Destruction Agency The IDDA would thus be the proper acronym.

The Hippocratic Oath Applied to Intelligence

By Barry Eisler

I'm just about finished with Tim Weiner's phenomenal "Legacy of Ashes: The History of the CIA." Two themes are at the heart of the book.

First, the Agency has been incompetent from its inception. The roster of incompetence includes subversion operations that cost the lives of hundreds of agents and accomplished nothing; CIA-managed coups that backfired, the Bay of Pigs and many others. Even operations that "succeeded" were pyrrhic. Installing the Shah via a CIA-sponsored coup in Iran in 1953, for example, created enmity that resulted in the Khomeini revolution and hostage crisis of 1979 and continues to this day.

Second, the Agency and its political masters have consistently lied to the American public about CIA domestic lawbreaking. Anyone horrified at the notion that the modern CIA kidnaps and tortures terror suspects at secret prisons should understand that these activities aren't aberrant, but are in fact the legacy of programs like Project Artichoke and Project MKULTRA, in which the Agency built secret prisons in Germany, Japan and the Panama Canal Zone - prisons where suspected double agents were tortured and dosed with heroin, amphetamines, sleeping pills and LSD. And, like the interrogation videotapes the CIA now claims it destroyed in 2005, the CIA also destroyed its records of these earlier illegal activities.

It's tempting to conclude from all this that the CIA should never have been in the operations business - after all, incompetence measured against subversion of the Constitution seems a bad bargain. But it's hard to see what CIA analysis has accomplished, either. Mostly the analysts have been disastrously wrong (on the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, for example, the Agency continued to insist even after Russian tanks crossed the border that it couldn't be a full-scale invasion), but even when the Agency has been right, it hasn't made a difference. When policy makers agree with CIA conclusions, they use those conclusions to justify what they were going to do anyway. When policy makers disagree with those conclusions, they simply ignore them. Either way, the conclusions become irrelevant. You can have the best information and analysis in the world, but if it has no impact on policy, it's still a waste of resources.

Counterproductive operations, activities that subverted the rule of law, irrelevant analysis ... it's hard to read "Legacy of Ashes" and conclude other than that America would be better off today if the CIA had never existed.

Of course, no politician will ever abolish the Agency. The CIA is too useful a tool for demonstrating to the public that a politician is doing something about a problem, and an iron law of American politics (perhaps all politics) is that a politician can never say, "We're doing as much as can reasonably be done about this problem, and attacking it further would only make things worse." Also, the CIA is too easy to ignore when ignoring it is convenient, too easy to manipulate when CIA support is useful, and too easy to blame when something goes wrong (say, a wrong-headed and unjustified war)....

Ron Paul, one of two lone rangers in our government that publically defy the status quo yet live to see another day recently had this to say:

"There's been a coup, have you heard? It's the CIA coup. The CIA/Mossad runs everything, they run the military. They're the ones who are over there lobbing missiles and bombs on countries... And of course they are every bit as secretive as the Federal Reserve... And yet think of the harm they have done since they were established [after] World War II. They are a government unto themselves. They're in businesses, in drug businesses, they take out dictators... We need to take out the CIA."

The CIA/Likud Sinking of Jimmy Carter

By Robert Parry (A Special Report) June 24, 2010

As the Official Story of the 1980 October Surprise case crumbles – with new revelations that key evidence was hidden from investigators of a congressional task force and that internal doubts were suppressed – history must finally confront the troubling impression that remains: that disgruntled elements of the CIA and Israel's Likud hardliners teamed up to remove a U.S. president from office.

Indeed, it is this disturbing conclusion – perhaps even more than the idea of a Republican dirty trick – that may explain the longstanding and determined cover-up of this political scandal.

Too many powerful interests do not want the American people to accept even the possibility that U.S. intelligence operatives and a longtime ally could intervene to oust a president who had impinged on what those two groups considered their vital interests.

To accept that scenario would mean that two of the great fears of American democracy had come true – George Washington’s warning against the dangers of “entangling alliances” and Harry Truman’s concern that the clandestine operations of the CIA had the makings of an “American Gestapo.”

It is far easier to assure the American people that no such thing could occur, that Israel’s Likud – whatever its differences with Washington over Middle East peace policies – would never seek to subvert a U.S. president, and that CIA dissidents – no matter how frustrated by political constraints – would never sabotage their own government.

But the evidence points in that direction, and there are some points that are not in dispute. For instance, there is no doubt that CIA Old Boys and Likudniks had strong motives for seeking President Jimmy Carter’s defeat in 1980.

Inside the CIA, Carter and his CIA Director Stansfield Turner were blamed for firing many of the free-wheeling covert operatives from the Vietnam era, for ousting legendary spymaster Ted Shackley, and for failing to protect longtime U.S. allies (and friends of the CIA), such as Iran’s Shah and Nicaragua’s dictator Anastasio Somoza.

As for Israel, Likud Prime Minister Menachem Begin was furious over Carter’s high-handed actions at Camp David in 1978 forcing Israel to trade the occupied Sinai to Egypt for a peace deal. Begin feared that Carter would use his second term to bully Israel into accepting a Palestinian state on West Bank lands that Likud considered part of Israel’s divinely granted territory.

Former Mossad and Foreign Ministry official David Kimche described Begin’s attitude in his 1991 book, The Last Option, saying that Israeli officials had gotten wind of “collusion” between Carter and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat “to force Israel to abandon her refusal to withdraw from territories occupied in 1967, including Jerusalem, and to agree to the establishment of a Palestinian state.”

Kimche continued, “This plan – prepared behind Israel’s back and without her knowledge – must rank as a unique attempt in United States’s diplomatic history of short-changing a friend and ally by deceit and manipulation.”

However, Begin recognized that the scheme required Carter winning a second term in 1980 when, Kimche wrote, “he would be free to compel Israel to accept a settlement of the Palestinian problem on his and Egyptian terms, without having to fear the backlash of the American Jewish lobby.”

In his 1992 memoir, Profits of War, Ari Ben-Menashe, an Israeli military intelligence officer who worked with Likud, agreed that Begin and other Likud leaders held Carter in contempt.

“Begin loathed Carter for the peace agreement forced upon him at Camp David,” Ben-Menashe wrote. “As Begin saw it, the agreement took away Sinai from Israel, did not create a comprehensive peace, and left the Palestinian issue hanging on Israel’s back.”

So, in order to buy time for Israel to “change the facts on the ground” by moving Jewish settlers into the West Bank, Begin felt Carter’s reelection had to be prevented. A different president also presumably would give Israel a freer hand to deal with problems on its northern border with Lebanon.

CIA Within the CIA

As for the CIA Old Boys, legendary CIA officer Miles Copeland told me that “the CIA within the CIA” – the inner-most circle of powerful intelligence figures who felt they understood best the strategic needs of the United States – believed Carter and his naïve faith in American democratic ideals represented a grave threat to the nation.

“Carter really believed in all the principles that we talk about in the West,” Copeland said, shaking his mane of white hair. “As smart as Carter is, he did believe in Mom, apple pie and the corner drug store. And those things that are good in America are good everywhere else. ...

“Carter, I say, was not a stupid man,” Copeland said, adding that Carter had an even worse flaw: “He was a principled man.”

These attitudes of “the CIA within the CIA” and the Likudniks appear to stem from their genuine beliefs that they needed to protect what they regarded as vital interests of their respective countries. The CIA Old Boys thought they understood the true strategic needs of the United States and Likud believed fervently in a “Greater Israel.”

However, the lingering October Surprise mystery is whether these two groups followed their strongly held feelings into a treacherous bid, in league with Republicans, to prevent Carter from gaining the release of 52 hostages then held in Iran and thus torpedoing his reelection hopes.

Carter’s inability to resolve that hostage crisis did set the stage for Ronald Reagan’s landslide victory in November 1980 as American voters reacted to the long-running hostage humiliation by turning to a candidate they believed would be a tougher player on the international stage.

Reagan’s macho image was reinforced when the Iranians released the hostages immediately after he was inaugurated on Jan. 20, 1981, ending the 444-day standoff.

The coincidence of timing, which Reagan’s supporters cited as proof that foreign enemies feared the new president, gave momentum to Reagan’s larger agenda, including sweeping tax cuts tilted toward the wealthy, reduced government regulation of corporations, and renewed reliance on fossil fuels. (Carter’s solar panels were pointedly dismantled from the White House roof.)

Reagan’s victory also was great news for CIA cold-warriors who were rewarded with the choice of World War II spymaster (and dedicated cold-warrior) William Casey to be CIA director. Casey then purged CIA analysts who were detecting a declining Soviet Union that desired détente and replaced them with people like the young and ambitious Robert Gates, who agreed that the Soviets were on the march and that the United States needed a massive military expansion to counter them.

Further, Casey again embraced old-time CIA swashbuckling in Third World countries and took pleasure in misleading or bullying members of Congress when they insisted on the CIA oversight that had been forced on President Gerald Ford and had been accepted by President Carter. To Casey, CIA oversight became a game of hide and seek.

As for Israel, Begin was pleased to find the Reagan administration far less demanding about peace deals with the Arabs, giving Israel time to expand its West Bank settlements. Reagan and his team also acquiesced to Israel’s invasion of Lebanon in 1982, a drive north that expelled the Palestine Liberation Organization but also led to the slaughters at the Sabra and Shatila refugee camps.

And, behind the scenes, Reagan gave a green light to Israeli weapons shipments to Iran (which was fighting a war with Israel’s greater enemy, Iraq). The weapons sales helped Israel rebuild its contacts inside Iran and to turn large profits, which were then used to help finance West Bank settlements.

In another important move, Reagan credentialed a new generation of pro-Israeli American ideologues known as the neoconservatives, a move that would pay big dividends for Israel in the future as these bright and articulate operatives fought for Israeli interests both inside the U.S. government and through their opinion-leading roles in the major American news media.

In other words, if the disgruntled CIA Old Boys and the determined Likudniks did participate in an October Surprise scheme to unseat Jimmy Carter, they surely got much of what they were after.

Yet, while motive is an important element in solving a mystery, it does not constitute proof by itself. What must be examined is whether there is evidence that the motive was acted upon, whether Menachem Begin's government and disgruntled CIA officers covertly assisted the Reagan-Bush campaign in contacting Iranian officials to thwart Carter's hostage negotiations.

On that point the evidence is strong though perhaps not ironclad. Still, a well-supported narrative does exist describing how the October Surprise scheme may have gone down with the help of CIA personnel, Begin's government, some right-wing intelligence figures in Europe, and a handful of other powerbrokers in the United States.

Angry Old Boys

Even before Iran took the American hostages on Nov. 4, 1979, disgruntled CIA veterans had been lining up behind the presidential candidacy of their former boss, George H.W. Bush. Casting off their traditional cloak of non-partisanship and anonymity, they were volunteering as foot soldiers in Bush's campaign.

One joke about Bush's announcement of his candidacy on May 1, 1979, was that "half the audience was wearing raincoats."

Bill Colby, Bush's predecessor as CIA director, said Bush "had a flood of people from the CIA who joined his supporters. They were retirees devoted to him for what he had done" in defending the spy agency in 1976 when the CIA came under heavy criticism for spying on Americans, assassination plots and other abuses.

Reagan's foreign policy adviser Richard Allen described the group working on the Bush campaign as a "plane load of disgruntled former CIA" officers who were "playing cops and robbers."

All told, at least two dozen former CIA officials went to work for Bush. Among them was the CIA's director of security, Robert Gambino, who joined the Bush campaign immediately after leaving the CIA where he oversaw security investigations of senior Carter officials and thus knew about potentially damaging personal information.

Besides the ex-CIA personnel who joined the Bush campaign, other pro-Bush intelligence officers remained inside the CIA while making clear their political preference. "The seventh floor of Langley was plastered with 'Bush for President' signs," said senior CIA analyst George Carver, referring to the floor that housed senior CIA officials.

Carter administration officials also grew concerned about the deep personal ties between the former CIA officers in Bush's campaign and active-duty CIA personnel who continued to hold sensitive jobs under Carter.

For instance, Gambino, the 25-year CIA veteran who oversaw personnel security checks, and CIA officer Donald Gregg, who served as a CIA representative on Carter's National Security Council, "are good friends who knew each other from the CIA," according to an unpublished part of a report by a House task force that investigated the October Surprise issue in 1992. [I found this deleted section – still marked "secret" – in unpublished task force files in 1994.] – You can read the entire article at the consoriumnews.com

Behold: For we as a nation, as integral national policy, in one hand claim to come in peace, while on the other we sow seeds of turmoil, division, despair, hate, death and destruction around the world, on the other, we collectively wonder why all the nations of the world despise us... we all wonder "golly gee whiz why do they hate us so?" I will give you a clue: for it has been written: "...by their deeds you will know them." Let it be perfectly clear and known that the national secret agencies the ruling elite dispatch around the globe to bring nations to their knees, literally bringing biblical wrath of hell on earth wherever they operate are in fact unequivocal evidence of their Satanic dominion over others. They always say they come in peace but with million dollar bombs raining down on their helpless targets.

Their modus operandi has nothing to do with the spread of goodness and well being, for their purpose of existence is to pierce, infiltrate, divide and conquer, the M.O. of the Devil himself.

"Deception is the art of using useful propaganda while pointing out its fallacies and properly explaining others different views."

He who truly stands for peace will not be prejudiced, unfair, discriminatory and biased, he would instead bring harmony, forgiveness, unity, empathy, compassion, consideration, assistance, wisdom, knowledge, understanding, support, mercy and so forth where ever he goes... not lip service of all the above. The ultimate people of peace would carry and spread one item: LOVE... Lets never forget that it was written long ago: "By their deeds (fruits) you will know them." And NOT what wonderful things they SAY or what amazing miracle like shows they produce...

None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free

THE GLOBALIZATION AGENDA

AKA:

"GLOBAL GOVERNANCE" e.g. "NEW WORLD ORDER" ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of THE PLANET

"The MOSCHIACH will bring about the political and spiritual redemption of the Jewish people by bringing us back to Israel and restoring Jerusalem. HE WILL ESTABLISH A GOVERNMENT IN ISRAEL THAT WILL BE THE CENTER OF ALL THE WORLD GOVERNMENT" – non biased Jewfaq.org

"We shall have world government whether or not you like it, by conquest or consent." Statement by CFR member and financial industry titan James Warburg to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on February 17th, 1950

Note: It is critically important that everyone understand that the quote above IS the bona fide genuine de facto ultimate central goal and purpose of life for the Zionists. They are all taught this since childhood and all believe in the bottom of their hearts that their mission in life is to establish the Jewish world government and rule all of mankind as was prophesized in the Old Testament and "promised" to them by none other than.... GOD.... centuries ago. Now try to rationalize with THAT!

"In defense of the world Order, U.S. soldiers would have to kill and die. ... We are not going to achieve a New World Order without paying for it in blood, as well as in words and money." - Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., in Back to the Womb, July/August 1993 issue of Foreign Affairs

The “New World Order” is NOT some “loony conspiracy theory” as the establishment and media works so hard to portray it as to the mass public. The new world order is REAL and totally backed up with 100% proof and FACTS. Their main supporters talk about the “new world order” by name, in plain sight on an almost daily basis! (as you will see in a list provided below). Yet they turn around and claim that it is all a “loony conspiracy theory”!!! The ones that don’t use the actual words “new world order” refer to their programs as “GLOBALIZATION.” Same thing, different name. These are the globalists and the multi-national conglomerates they operate through. What I find truly amazing is how they publically speak of “new world orders” by name, then turn around and deny any such thing exists!

All the elite leaders the world over, publicly DENY that there exists an agenda to unite the worlds governments. End of story, or so we are told... I along with many people who still have un-impaired, still functional frontal lobes of my brain, where logic and rationalization occur, plainly see through the laughable excuses the New World Order (NWO, aka: Globalist) elite provide the public. Collectively their attitude is: “There is no NWO agenda, it is all a figment of those feeble minded tin-foil hat wearing brigade’s imagination... now go back to sleep sheeple... sleep... sleep...”

“Europe’s nations should be guided towards the super-state without their people understanding what is happening. This can be accomplished by successive steps, each disguised as having an economic purpose, but which will eventually and irreversibly lead to federation.” Jean Monnet (Founding Father Of The EU in a letter to a friend 30th April 1952).

So the Trilateral Commission is not real eh? The Club of Rome, the Council on Foreign Relation’s Independent Task Force on North America, is not real, eh? The Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America (formerly the North American Union mob), is not real, eh? NAFTA is certainly not real. That the World Federalist Association that exists solely to promote and build a one world government is definitely just a figment of my wild imagination, as is the entire World Federalist Movement. All of Europe never united and created European Union, and they surely are not evangelizing all over the world for others to do the same. The similar African Union is now being created. These are all figments of the tin-foil hat wearing brigade’s minds eh? The hundreds of easily found research reports (Google it) conducted by elite institutions expounding upon the virtues and advantages of forming a North American Union and New World Order, is just a dream in my itty bitty brain. The thousands of research studies, articles, books worldwide, focusing on “Globalization”, well, these have been planted by fruit cake conspiracy nuts... yeah.. yeah... Should I go on with this list or do we get a clear picture here? Yes, the push for a common “new world order” is indeed real and has been happening for decades.

“Europe’s nations should be guided towards the super-state without their people understanding what is happening. This can be accomplished by successive steps, each disguised as having an economic purpose, but which will eventually and irreversibly lead to federation.” – Jean Monnet, founding father of the EU in a letter to a friend dated April 30, 1952

NEWS FLASH: The One World Government is ALREADY HERE! They are just in the process of placing the last remaining pieces of empire together and finalizing the details.

The “new world order” One World Government has been established long ago and is alive, well, and has been fully functioning and expanding for decades. Hence it is NOT some form of hypothetical government that will be formed in the future. It is HERE NOW silently operating within almost every nation on earth. Where do you think the billions upon billions of dollars “disappear” (like the 2 trillion dollars that Rumsfeld reported golly gee whiz, “lost” the day before 9/11) when they turn up missing or “unaccounted for” ? To run their “Shadow Government.” Globalization is used as a rationale for stripping nations of their sovereign rights, and the people from their ability to rule and protect themselves in accord with their own beliefs and preferences.

The One World Government began its massive expansion in the 20th century riding on the coat tails of the industrial revolution. The OWG (One World Government) has no single sovereign nation which it calls home (yet, except for the fact that Israel is being prepared for said post). Its rulers roam the planet in silent conquest, constantly expanding its sphere of influence and converting independent regimes. Each world war was instrumental in opening the doors and blowing down walls for massive undercover OWG expansion. As have been ever single regional conflict and wars.

How is it even possible that there can exist a secret world government in everyone's very midst? Easy for they are hiding in plain sight. You are just too BLIND to notice them or see it. Though they don't specifically have a "New World Order" nation (yet), that is the central world governing body. There already exists a One World Government, all its rulers, leaders, management, administration, executives, infrastructure exists WITHIN the existing countries of the world...

The first World War began Phase One: breaking down the existing powers and setting up new ones. Taking over the central banking of many entire nations and implanting operatives in key leadership positions worldwide. Phase Two came in the 1940s and lasted into the mid 50s with World War II. In its aftermath we witnessed the single greatest OWG expansion to date. With the establishment of literally hundreds of major OWG projects, countries, organizations such as United Nations, forming of Israel, etc., the list is bewildering (I will try to revisit this section and document the entire list under the scope and angle of OWG works). By the 1960s the One World Government was FIRMLY entrenched in all the major industrial nations of the world. This is evident in how easily they eliminated the Kennedys in broad daylight without so much as a peep from anyone.

Behold: For the One World Government IS real and is here TODAY, yesterday and for decades... silently running in the background. Its rulers, leaders, executives and managers are easy to find, they are all members of world renown "think tanks" and other exclusive members only institutions such as the Trilateral Commission, Council on Foreign Relations, The Bildebergers, Club of Rome, Committee of 300, Knights Templar, Wall Street, Freemasons, Skull & Bones, Jesuits and so on... all of which make up the ruling body of the invisible One World Government. All which are loosely referred to by many a researcher as the "illuminati."

With that finally said and done, you must realize the "One World Order", "Global Governance" and the "Globalization" agendas are not only the same, but nothing more than an orchestrated, united effort to streamline, organize, unite, crystallize, transform into a national structure, a world recognized and accepted body, the official sovereignty of a One World Government...

"The Trilateral Commission is intended to be the vehicle for multinational consolidation of the commercial and banking interests by seizing control of the political government of the United States. The Trilateral Commission represents a skillful, coordinated effort to seize control and consolidate the four centers of power – political, monetary, intellectual and ecclesiastical. What the Trilateral Commission intends is to create a worldwide economic power superior to the political governments of the nation states involved. As managers and creators of the system, they will rule the future." – U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater 1964

A major world event took place on November 19th, 2009, and very few people took notice. The European Union, or United States of Europe, emerged as its first permanent President was selected. The man selected by the European Parliament is Herman Van Rompuy, who was the Prime Minister of Belgium. In his acceptance speech, Van Rompuy stated the following: "2009 is also the first year of global governance, with the establishment of the G-20 in the middle of the financial crisis. The climate conference in Copenhagen is another step towards the global management of our planet." Keep in mind that all the nations of Europe are now ONE... this was accomplished with no military intervention or invasion, but instead by ingenious ECONOMIC COLONIZATION.

Let there be no confusion: the entire "globalization" initiative is spearheaded by the illuminati Zionist Jews and fully supported, backed and championed by their Masonic and Vatican partners. These are the three distinct factions working in concerted efforts to accomplish a one world government. The Zionists are the main leading force behind a one world government; of course, when it is too late you will all find out that the center of all world government will be Jerusalem. The Zionist right hand men are the Freemasons whom the Zionists control from atop the 32°, their ace in the hole are the "useful idiot" Judeo-Christian Zionists, for they have been convinced by the Jews that "it must all come to pass as it is written in the Old Testament." In essence the Jews have stolen the "birthright" of the Christians who follow their ever wish. As for the Vatican, it has been totally paralyzed for centuries by its wanton gluttony, corruption and sexual deviancy, worshipping false gods such as the virgin Mary, thus have lost all real power long ago, yet they still play their make believe role of world leaders while wearing their costumes, impressing only the feeble minded.

"The Jewish people as a whole will be its own Messiah. It will attain world domination by the dissolution of other races...and by the establishment of a world republic in which everywhere the Jews will exercise the privilege of citizenship. In this New World Order the Children of Israel... will furnish all the leaders without encountering opposition..." (Karl Marx in a letter to Baruch Levy, quoted in Review de Paris, 6/1/28, p. 574)

The communists create the poison and the antidote in the same laboratory. They use the Islamic terrorists attacks as an excuse for further Zionist advances. The facade of anti-Israel policies that subsequently developed in communist countries has been for public consumption. In fact the same Zionist forces have inspired and controlled all communist countries, including both Communist China and Communist Russia. Marxist communism comes straight from the Talmud. Hard as it may be to believe, it is true that the same group of puppeteers are pulling the strings for the Islamic terrorists and the retaliatory response by the countries that are the targets of the terrorist attacks, including Israel and the United States. All the while the puppeteers are inching toward their Zionist goal of world domination.

"The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves." – Vladimir Ilyich Lenin

We attempt to explain the ruling factions in the chapter called "The Ultimate Cosa Nostra". This chapter seeks to crystallize the fact that indeed, yes, there does exist a concerted world wide effort to create some sort of new world order under many different guises, today's main buzzword is all about "globalization." Not only that, when you research the hundreds upon hundreds of reliable sources, including tons of "mainstream" sources, you will be confronted with a web so massive, so overwhelming, so vast that it covers all corners of the globe. The objectives for reaching the ultimate goal number in the thousands, again, sadly this section deserves its own book.

I cannot even begin chipping off the tip of the iceberg. But do understand that among the many objectives of the "NWO" will be the disturbing thought that they are also planning to at some point conduct a massive "culling" of the world population. Actually some parts of this program have been taking place for decades, just look at the continent of Africa. But what is coming in the near future will be even more extreme and widespread than that. Prepare, for the days will come when they begin to depopulate an entire two thirds of the world population. Take a look at the above diagram for a clear picture why they are planning on wiping out billions of people as just another step, just another component of their world domination plans.

There is also mounting evidence that some of the new viruses being circulated are none other than manmade new world order elite population reduction schemes brought live. HIV is so suspect, but there are also dozens upon dozens of other odd happenings in the world of vaccines, immunizations and viruses. The Avian "bird flu" for instance. On one hand genetic engineering setups such as Monsanto stand to make untold billions by introducing a genetically engineered PATENTED "bird flu proof" chicken. On the other hand are the Pharma conglomerates who peddle all sorts of poisons called "medicine." Operating under the cover of "trust us, most benevolent, loving, caring providers of medicine, looking out for your best interests" the mega Pharma conglomerates conjure up all sorts of vaccines to "help" mankind. Problem is, that over the decades tons of reputable research and hard fact news has continuously proven many vaccines to be more hazardous than they are helpful. Take the recent impossible 'accidental' contamination of flu vaccine with LIVE Avian Flu virus for example. Just this ONE example coupled with the fact that our most loving benevolent, would never harm us government has constantly been warning us of the “watch out for the bio-weapons of mass destruction terrorist boogeyman attack.” Oh, and FEMA is busy preparing, buying up millions of plastic caskets to bury millions of innocent victims. Why do I get this deep gut feeling that we are all in deep doo doo?

At some point, somewhere into the more advanced phases of the new world order they will come forth with their Eugenics program. Infamous ~~as the~~ NAZI Hitler was the first mass practitioner of eugenics. The Zionist Jewish race believes that their lineage is holy and pure descendants that god placed on earth to rule it in his name, thus in secret they firmly believe in and support full fledged eugenic control of the inferior goyim population. The Jews are the real “Aryan” race. Far from what many people believe, the research in the field of eugenics has silently been progressing in the shadows. Birth control and sterilization of minorities has been documented worldwide, even here in the states. Many research works exist in print delving into implementing eugenics programs.

One notorious piece was co-authored by Obama appointee John Holdren, who’s proposals include: Forcibly and unknowingly sterilizing the entire population by adding infertility drugs to the nation’s water and food supply, legalizing compulsory abortions, among other drastic acts. The concepts outlined in Holdren’s 1977 book Ecoscience, which he co-authored with close colleagues Paul Ehrlich and Anne Ehrlich, were so shocking that a February 2009 Front Page Magazine story on the subject was largely dismissed as being outlandish because people couldn’t bring themselves to believe that it could be true.

The topic of New World Order (NWO) is heavily covered by hundreds of books under the heading “Globalization”, videos and websites on the net. The evidence is overwhelming, one need look no further than the European Union to see how far they are progressing. For years people cried "new world order conspiracy" and balked about a European Union. But look at it today, lol, we have an official European Union with 27 countries in it, common standards, common currency, massive surveillance measures and so forth, interesting how no one ever comes out and declares the "tin hat conspiracy nuts" as being right on that one all along! The Europeans are way ahead of us in doing their part of establishing a global one world order. We have some catching up to do! Let me see, hmmm, here is the “to do list”, oh next on the agenda for the western hemisphere: destabilize the economy and crash the dollar creating such great turmoil and chaos that everyone will cry and BEG for common regional currency and stability! Brilliant! Our bankster masters will step in to save the day with their new proposals involving a similar system that is in place in Europe... sit back and wait for it to happen, just watch.

Well folks, the new world order does NOT stop at the formation of the European Union, there are works in progress of forming several of these regional unions, right now the Americas is the hot and heavy target, while the sheeple are asleep at the wheel the NAFTA super highway is being made right before your very eyes. The financial overlords are busy engineering a massive financial collapse, destroying the financial system in order to make way and introduce a common regional and eventually a world currency. The regional consolidation will not happen overnight, as you can see the NAFTA portion was initiated over a decade ago. Many portions of the globalization agenda are eased in and integrated over many years time into the current system so as to not raise major red flags with the sheeple. The modus operandi is very simple: take away “this” or add “that”, the sheeple bicker, but eventually come to accept “it”, and “it” becomes “normal”, once accepted as the norm, go back to the beginning and start all over again, repeat over and over again until their world has changed so much they can only sit back and wonder “how did things get to be this way?”

The “new world order” program has been well underway, generations in the making. The European Union was the first clearly visible major phase in its establishment. Little by little the parts of the new world order have been established throughout the world without anyone’s clue as to what is really going on. Here are some of the major players providing the building blocks of the new world order:

United Nations
 European Union
 (soon to be followed by the African Union, North American Union and the Asian Union)
 Bank of International Settlements
 Council on Foreign Relations World Health Organization (WHO) Freemasonry
 The Jesuit Order
 The Vatican/Catholic Church
 Council for National Policy.
 Knights of Malta
 Trilateral Commission
 Bilderberg Group
 NAFTA
 Codex Alimentarius
 The Climate Change faction
 World Bank
 Club of Rome
 Committee of 300
 The Masonic Order
 The World Zionists
 CIA/NSA/FBI/Mossad/Mi6, etc
 And hundreds of front groups such as:

Today we are in the middle of one of the boldest power plays ever. We are witnessing the strategic implosion of the entire world economic structure in order to bring about the “solution” that has been authored and on hold for decades: a common world currency and one world financial control. While years ago truthers were ridiculed for stating this... Today this is easily visible, for at this very moment many G20 nations, even Russia and China have recently come forth proposing a new world currency. Once the Zionists achieve this most crucial of goals, it will soon thereafter open the door to one world government. For once a central power such as the United Nations (or whatever governing body they setup) becomes the central governing body that “controls” or “oversees” the one world economic system, all the sheer POWER of said position will be bequeathed to it, leaving all member nations at its mercy. Next it will also then setup and build its one world military to ~~protect us~~ enforce the wishes of the one world government.

This strategic goal is so important and crucial to the New World Order Zionist establishment that we must completely understand the true nature of the world economic chaos. The following is a recent article by Charles Scaliger that appeared on thenewamerican.com that helps shed light on the point I am trying to highlight:

British Prime Minister Gordon Brown, who has been working tirelessly for months to promote world financial and economic governance under the pretext of fighting the ongoing global recession, called for a “global New Deal” in a speech before the U.S. Con“As far as the common interests that we’re pursuing — look, there is the possibility in the next few months of a global new deal,” Brown said to reporters in the Oval Office, with President Barack Obama at his side. Brown added: “And there is the possibility of all the different countries of the world coming together to agree to expansion in the economy.... And there is the possibility of the international institutions for the first time being reformed in such a way that they can do the job that people want them to do, and deal with some of the problems that exist in the poorest countries of the world.”

In his speech to Congress, Brown, after expressing hope that “every continent [will play] their part in a global new deal,” laid out a brief and extremely vague three-point proposal for bringing it about:

First, so that the whole of the worldwide banking system serves our prosperity rather than risks it, let us agree rules and standards for accountability, transparency, and reward that will mean an end to the excesses and will apply to every bank, everywhere, and all the time.

Second, America and a few countries cannot be expected to bear the burden of the fiscal and interest rate stimulus alone. We must share it globally. So let us work together for the worldwide reduction of interest rates and a scale of stimulus round the world equal to the depth of the recession and the dimensions of the recovery we must make.

Third, let us together renew our international economic cooperation, helping the emerging markets rebuild their banks. And let us work together for a low carbon recovery worldwide. And I am confident that this President, this Congress and the peoples of the world can come together in Copenhagen this December to reach a historic agreement on climate change.

What Brown is suggesting is nothing less than internationalization of the same policies that have created and exacerbated the economic meltdown — artificially low interest rates and other so-called stimuli, heavier controls on banking and all other financial activities, and burdensome regulations on industry, especially in the name of environmental protection.

While such a program would be an unmitigated disaster economically, a still greater danger is that it would greatly strengthen the existing framework for international economic and financial government, as embodied by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Bank of International Settlements (BIS), the World Bank Group, and the World Trade Organization (WTO). Although details have been deliberately sketchy, Brown's "global New Deal" would likely include a true global central bank with the authority to issue an international currency; this was something that conferees at the Bretton Woods Conference tried but were unable to set up in 1944.

Also integral to international financial reforms would be a global regulatory body or bodies, analogous to the WTO on trade, that would have supranational authority to regulate banks and (presumably) to gather information on financial activity. In the long run, this would amount to an end, worldwide, to financial privacy. It would also give the globalists the ability to manipulate the money supply worldwide, rather than on a coordinated basis among cooperative central banks as is now the case.

Finally, it bears mentioning that the ability to manipulate the money supply is the ability to produce limitless amounts of money by means other than direct taxation. The magic of central banking allows governments like our own to fund expensive and unpopular programs like wars of occupation without regard for the sentiments of the voting public, because the money can be raised not by direct taxation but via the printing press.

One of the major limitations on the ability of the UN and other international governing bodies to increase their power is the absence (so far) of any independent means of raising revenue — that is, a system of global taxation. Despite decades of proposals, the UN-centered international system remains dependent on contributions from member states for its continued operations. Give the UN a central bank akin to the Federal Reserve, however, and it will be able to fund military forces, global police, and countless other conceits of the one-world set, by printing money. Thusly empowered, there would be very few obstacles to prevent the UN from growing into a true global government.

This is the real agenda beneath the syrupy rhetoric for a "global New Deal." Just as the American New Deal produced a socialist revolution within the United States, a global New Deal may well push the world past the point of no return on the path to socialist world government. gress yesterday and in remarks at the White House on Tuesday.

Clues are all around the world, the architects and contractors of Globalization i.e., the New World Order, often don't even bother hiding their goals and speak plainly about their agendas (see proof below) right out in the open with a brazen attitude, secure in knowing that no one will dare stop them. You know what? I think they are right. No one is ever going to stop them; this whole globalization thing will run its prophetic course... How the "New World Order" is billed as a tinfoil hat conspiracy loonytoon stuff all the while some of the world's most powerful and influential leaders all speak and mention it regularly in their own meetings is an amazing feat of masterful media manipulation PsyOp.

For all you people that are under the impression that the NWO is a figment of our raging mad imagination, read what all the world's leaders have to say of the NWO: (note, the list of quotes ends in 1998, soon after that the NWO agenda roared into high gear under the Cheney/Bush regime, were recorded references to the NWO agenda has since risen off the charts)

A CHRONOLOGICAL HISTORY OF THE NEW WORLD ORDER:

by D.L. Cuddy, Ph.D.

Arranged and Edited by John Loeffler (note, year 2000 entry is a matrix report addition)

In the mainline media, those who adhere to the position that there is some kind of "conspiracy" pushing us towards a world government are virulently ridiculed. The standard attack maintains that the so-called "New World Order" is the product of turn-of-the-century, right-wing, bigoted, anti-Semitic racists acting in the tradition of the long-debunked Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, now promulgated by some Militias and other right-wing hate groups.

The historical record does not support that position to any large degree but it has become the mantra of the socialist left and their cronies, the media.

The term "New World Order" has been used thousands of times in this century by proponents in high places of federalized world government. Some of those involved in this collaboration to achieve world order have been Jewish. The preponderance are not, so it most definitely is not a Jewish agenda.

For years, leaders in education, industry, the media, banking, etc., have promoted those with the same Weltanschauung (world view) as theirs. Of course, someone might say that just because individuals promote their friends doesn't constitute a conspiracy. That's true in the usual sense. However, it does represent an "open conspiracy," as described by noted Fabian Socialist H.G. Wells in The Open Conspiracy: Blue Prints for a World Revolution (1928).

In 1913, prior to the passage of the Federal Reserve Act President Wilson's The New Freedom was published, in which he revealed:

"Since I entered politics, I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the U. S., in the field of commerce and manufacturing, are afraid of somebody, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

On November 21, 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt wrote a letter to Col. Edward Mandell House, President Woodrow Wilson's close advisor:

"The real truth of the matter is, as you and I know, that a financial element in the larger centers has owned the Government ever since the days of Andrew Jackson "

That there is such a thing as a cabal of power brokers who control government behind the scenes has been detailed several times in this century by credible sources. Professor Carroll Quigley was Bill Clinton's mentor at Georgetown University. President Clinton has publicly paid homage to the influence Professor Quigley had on his life. In Quigley's magnum opus Tragedy and Hope (1966), he states:

"There does exist and has existed for a generation, an international ... network [which I in this report refer to as "the matrix"] which operates, to some extent, in the way the radical right believes the Communists act. In fact, this network, which we may identify as the Round Table Groups, has no aversion to cooperating with the Communists, or any other groups and frequently does so. I know of the operations of this network because I have studied it for twenty years and was permitted for two years, in the early 1960s, to examine its papers and secret records. I have no aversion to it or to most of its aims and have, for much of my life, been close to it and to many of its instruments. I have objected, both in the past and recently, to a few of its policies... but in general my chief difference of opinion is that it wishes to remain unknown, and I believe its role in history is significant enough to be known."

Even talk show host Rush Limbaugh, an outspoken critic of anyone claiming a push for global government, said on his February 7, 1995 program:

"You see, if you amount to anything in Washington these days, it is because you have been plucked or handpicked from an Ivy League school -- Harvard, Yale, Kennedy School of Government -- you've shown an aptitude to be a good Ivy League type, and so you're plucked so-to-speak, and you are assigned success. You are assigned a certain role in government somewhere, and then your success is monitored and tracked, and you go where the pluckers and the hand pickers can put you."

On May 4, 1993, Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) president Leslie Gelb said on The Charlie Rose Show that:

"... you [Charlie Rose] had me on [before] to talk about the New World Order! I talk about it all the time. It's one world now. The Council [CFR] can find, nurture, and begin to put people in the kinds of jobs this country needs. And that's going to be one of the major enterprises of the Council under me."

Previous CFR chairman, John J. McCloy (1953-70), actually said they have been doing this since the 1940s (and before).

The thrust towards global government can be well-documented but at the end of the twentieth century it does not look like a traditional conspiracy in the usual sense of a secret cabal of evil men meeting clandestinely behind closed doors. Rather, it is a "networking" of like-minded individuals in high places to achieve a common goal. as described in Marilyn Ferguson's 1980 insider classic, The Aquarian Conspiracy.

Perhaps the best way to relate this would be a brief history of the New World Order, not in our words but in the words of those who have been striving to make it real.

1912 -- Colonel Edward M. House, a close advisor of President Woodrow Wilson, publishes Phillip Dru: Administrator in which he promotes "socialism as dreamed of by Karl Marx."

1913 -- The Federal Reserve (neither federal nor a reserve) is created. It was planned at a secret meeting in 1910 on Jekyll Island, Georgia by a group of bankers and politicians, including Col. House. This transferred the power to create money from the American government to a private group of bankers. It is probably the largest generator of debt in the world.

May 30, 1919 -- Prominent British and American personalities establish the Royal Institute of International Affairs in England and the Institute of International Affairs in the U.S. at a meeting arranged by Col. House attended by various Fabian socialists, including noted economist John Maynard Keynes. Two years later, Col. House reorganizes the Institute of International Affairs into the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR).

December 15, 1922 -- The CFR endorses World Government in its magazine Foreign Affairs. Author Philip Kerr, states:

"Obviously there is going to be no peace or prosperity for mankind as long as [the earth] remains divided into 50 or 60 independent states until some kind of international system is created... The real problem today is that of the world government."

1928 -- The Open Conspiracy: Blue Prints for a World Revolution by H.G. Wells is published. A former Fabian Socialist, Wells writes:

"The political world of the ... Open Conspiracy must weaken, efface, incorporate and supersede existing governments... The Open Conspiracy is the natural inheritor of socialist and communist enthusiasms; it may be in control of Moscow before it is in control of New York... The character of the Open Conspiracy will now be plainly displayed... It will be a world religion."

1931 -- Students at the Lenin School of Political Warfare in Moscow are taught:

"One day we shall start to spread the most theatrical peace movement the world has ever seen. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent ... will fall into the trap offered by the possibility of making new friends. Our day will come in 30 years or so... The bourgeoisie must be lulled into a false sense of security."

1931 -- In a speech to the Institute for the Study of International Affairs at Copenhagen) historian Arnold Toyee said:

"We are at present working discreetly with all our might to wrest this mysterious force called sovereignty out of the clutches of the local nation states of the world. All the time we are denying with our lips what we are doing with our hands...."

1932 -- New books are published urging World Order:

Toward Soviet America by William Z. Foster. Head of the Communist Party USA, Foster indicates that a National Department of Education would be one of the means used to develop a new socialist society in the U.S.

The New World Order by F.S. Marvin, describing the League of Nations as the first attempt at a New World Order. Marvin says, "nationality must rank below the claims of mankind as a whole."

Dare the School Build a New Social Order? Educator author George Counts asserts that:

"... the teachers should deliberately reach for power and then make the most of their conquest" in order to "influence the social attitudes, ideals and behavior of the coming generation... The growth of science and technology has carried us into a new age where ignorance must be replaced by knowledge, competition by cooperation, trust in Providence by careful planning and private capitalism by some form of social economy."

1933 -- The first Humanist Manifesto is published. Co-author John Dewey, the noted philosopher and educator, calls for a synthesizing of all religions and "a socialized and cooperative economic order." Co-signer C.F. Potter said in 1930:

"Education is thus a most powerful ally of humanism, and every American public school is a school of humanism. What can the theistic Sunday schools, meeting for an hour once a week, teaching only a fraction of the children, do to stem the tide of a five-day program of humanistic teaching?"

1933 -- The Shape of Things to Come by H.G. Wells is published. Wells predicts a second world war around the year 1940, originating from a German-Polish dispute. After 1945 there would be an increasing lack of public safety in "criminally infected" areas. The plan for the "Modern World-State" would succeed on its third attempt (about 1980), and come out of something that occurred in Basra, Iraq. The book also states,

"Although world government had been plainly coming for some years, although it had been endlessly feared and murmured against, it found no opposition prepared anywhere."

1934 -- The Externalization of the Hierarchy by Alice A. Bailey is published. Bailey is an occultist, whose works are channeled from a spirit guide, the Tibetan Master [demon spirit] Djwahl Kuhl. Bailey uses the phrase "points of light" in connection with a "New Group of World Servers" and claims that 1934 marks the beginning of "the organizing of the men and women... group work of a new order... [with] progress defined by service... the world of the Brotherhood... the Forces of Light... [and] out of the spoliation of all existing culture and civilization, the new world order must be built."

The book is published by the Lucis Trust, incorporated originally in New York as the Lucifer Publishing Company. Lucis Trust is a United Nations NGO and has been a major player at the recent U.N. summits. Later Assistant Secretary General of the U.N. Robert Mueller would credit the creation of his World Core Curriculum for education to the underlying teachings of Djwahl Kuhl via Alice Bailey's writings on the subject.

1932 -- Plan for Peace by American Birth Control League founder Margaret Sanger (1921) is published. She calls for coercive sterilization, mandatory segregation, and rehabilitative concentration camps for all "dysgenic stocks" including Blacks, Hispanics, American Indians and Catholics.

October 28, 1939 -- In an address by John Foster Dulles, later U.S. Secretary of State, he proposes that America lead the transition to a new order of less independent, semi-sovereign states bound together by a league or federal union.

1939 -- New World Order by H. G. Wells proposes a collectivist one-world state" or "new world order" comprised of "socialist democracies." He advocates "universal conscription for service" and declares that "nationalist individualism... is the world's disease." He continues:

"The manifest necessity for some collective world control to eliminate warfare and the less generally admitted necessity for a collective control of the economic and biological life of mankind, are aspects of one and the same process." He proposes that this be accomplished through "universal law" and propaganda (or education)."

1940 -- The New World Order is published by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and contains a select list of references on regional and world federation, together with some special plans for world order after the war.

December 12, 1940 -- In The Congressional Record an article entitled A New World Order John G. Alexander calls for a world federation.

1942 -- The leftist Institute of Pacific Relations publishes Post War Worlds by P.E. Corbett:

"World government is the ultimate aim... It must be recognized that the law of nations takes precedence over national law... The process will have to be assisted by the deletion of the nationalistic material employed in educational textbooks and its replacement by material explaining the benefits of wiser association."

June 28, 1945 -- President Truman endorses world government in a speech:

"It will be just as easy for nations to get along in a republic of the world as it is for us to get along in a republic of the United States."

October 24, 1945 -- The United Nations Charter becomes effective. Also on October 24, Senator Glen Taylor (D-Idaho) introduces Senate Resolution 183 calling upon the U.S. Senate to go on record as favoring creation of a world republic including an international police force.

1946 -- Alger Hiss is elected President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Hiss holds this office until 1949. Early in 1950, he is convicted of perjury and sentenced to prison after a sensational trial and Congressional hearing in which Whittaker Chambers, a former senior editor of Time, testifies that Hiss was a member of his Communist Party cell.

1946 -- The Teacher and World Government by former editor of the NEA Journal (National Education Association) Joy Elmer Morgan is published. He says:

"In the struggle to establish an adequate world government, the teacher... can do much to prepare the hearts and minds of children for global understanding and cooperation... At the very heart of all the agencies which will assure the coming of world government must stand the school, the teacher, and the organized profession."

1947 -- The American Education Fellowship, formerly the Progressive Education Association, organized by John

Dewey, calls for the:

"... establishment of a genuine world order, an order in which national sovereignty is subordinate to world authority..."

October, 1947 -- NEA Associate Secretary William Carr writes in the NEA Journal that teachers should:

"... teach about the various proposals that have been made for the strengthening of the United Nations and the establishment of a world citizenship and world government."

1948 -- Walden II by behavioral psychologist B.F. Skinner proposes "a perfect society or new and more perfect order" in which children are reared by the State, rather than by their parents and are trained from birth to demonstrate only desirable behavior and characteristics. Skinner's ideas would be widely implemented by educators in the 1960s, 70s, and 80s as Values Clarification and Outcome Based Education.

July, 1948 -- Britain's Sir Harold Butler, in the CFR's Foreign Affairs, sees "a New World Order" taking shape:

"How far can the life of nations, which for centuries have thought of themselves as distinct and unique, be merged with the life of other nations? How far are they prepared to sacrifice a part of their sovereignty without which there can be no effective economic or political union?... Out of the prevailing confusion a new world is taking shape... which may point the way toward the new order... That will be the beginning of a real United Nations, no longer crippled by a split personality, but held together by a common faith."

1948 -- UNESCO president and Fabian Socialist, Sir Julian Huxley, calls for a radical eugenic policy in UNESCO: Its Purpose and Its Philosophy. He states:

"Thus, even though it is quite true that any radical eugenic policy of controlled human breeding will be for many years politically and psychologically impossible, it will be important for UNESCO to see that the eugenic problem is examined with the greatest care and that the public mind is informed of the issues at stake that much that is now unthinkable may at least become thinkable."

1948 -- The preliminary draft of a World Constitution is published by U.S. educators advocating regional federation on the way toward world federation or government with England incorporated into a European federation.

The Constitution provides for a "World Council" along with a "Chamber of Guardians" to enforce world law. Also included is a "Preamble" calling upon nations to surrender their arms to the world government, and includes the right of this "Federal Republic of the World" to seize private property for federal use.

February 9, 1950 -- The Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee introduces Senate Concurrent Resolution 66 which begins:

"Whereas, in order to achieve universal peace and justice, the present Charter of the United Nations should be changed to provide a true world government constitution."

The resolution was first introduced in the Senate on September 13, 1949 by Senator Glen Taylor (D-Idaho). Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wisconsin) called it "a consummation devoutly to be wished for" and said, "I understand your proposition is either change the United Nations, or change or create, by a separate convention, a world order." Senator Taylor later stated:

"We would have to sacrifice considerable sovereignty to the world organization to enable them to levy taxes in their own right to support themselves."

1950 -- In testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, international financier James P Warburg said: "we shall have a world government, whether or not we like it. The question is only whether world government will be achieved by consent or by conquest."

April 12, 1952 -- John Foster Dulles, later to become Secretary of State, says in a speech to the American Bar Association in Louisville, Kentucky, that "treaty laws can override the Constitution." He says treaties can take power away from Congress and give them to the President. They can take powers from the States and give them to the Federal Government or to some international body and they can cut across the rights given to the people by their constitutional Bill of Rights. A Senate amendment, proposed by GOP Senator John Bricker, would have provided that no treaty could supersede the Constitution, but it fails to pass by one vote.

1954 -- Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands establishes the Bildebergers, international politicians and bankers who meet secretly on an annual basis.

1954 -- H. Rowan Gaither, Jr., President - Ford Foundation said to Norman Dodd of the Congressional Reese Commission:

"... all of us here at the policy-making level have had experience with directives... from the White House... . The substance of them is that we shall use our grant-making power so as to alter our life in the United States that we can be comfortably merged with the Soviet Union."

1954 -- Senator William Jenner said:

"Today the path to total dictatorship in the United States can be laid by strictly legal means, unseen and unheard by the Congress, the President, or the people... outwardly we have a Constitutional government. We have operating within our government and political system, another body representing another form of government, a bureaucratic elite which believes our Constitution is outmoded and is sure that it is the winning side.... All the strange developments in the foreign policy agreements may be traced to this group who are going to make us over to suit their pleasure.... This political action group has its own local political support organizations, its own pressure groups, its own vested interests, its foothold within our government, and its own propaganda apparatus."

1958 -- World Peace through World Law is published, where authors Grenville Clark and Louis Sohn advocate using the U.N. as a governing body for the world, world disarmament, a world police force and legislature.

1959 -- The Council on Foreign Relations calls for a New International Order Study Number 7, issued on November 25, advocated:

"... new international order [which] must be responsive to world aspirations for peace, for social and economic change... an international order... including states labeling themselves as 'socialist' [communist]."

1959 -- The World Constitution and Parliament Association is founded which later develops a Diagram of World Government under the Constitution for the Federation of Earth.

1959 -- The Mid-Century Challenge to U.S. Foreign Policy is published, sponsored by the Rockefeller Brothers' Fund. It explains that the U.S.:

"... cannot escape, and indeed should welcome... the task which history has imposed on us. This is the task of helping to shape a new world order in all its dimensions -- spiritual, economic, political, social."

September 9, 1960 -- President Eisenhower signs Senate Joint Resolution 170, promoting the concept of a federal Atlantic Union. Pollster and Atlantic Union Committee treasurer, Elmo Roper, later delivers an address titled, The Goal Is Government of All the World, in which he states:

"For it becomes clear that the first step toward World Government cannot be completed until we have advanced on the four fronts: the economic, the military, the political and the social."

1961 -- The U.S. State Department issues a plan to disarm all nations and arm the United Nations. State Department Document Number 7277 is entitled Freedom From War: The U.S. Program for General and Complete Disarmament in a Peaceful World. It details a three-stage plan to disarm all nations and arm the U.N. with the final stage in which "no state would have the military power to challenge the progressively strengthened U.N. Peace Force."

March 1, 1962 -- Sen. Clark speaking on the floor of the Senate about PL 87-297 which calls for the disbanding of all armed forces and the prohibition of their re-establishment in any form whatsoever. "... This program is the fixed, determined and approved policy of the government of the United States."

1962 -- New Calls for World Federalism. In a study titled, A World Effectively Controlled by the United Nations, CFR member Lincoln Bloomfield states:

"... if the communist dynamic was greatly abated, the West might lose whatever incentive it has for world government."

The Future of Federalism by author Nelson Rockefeller is published. The one-time Governor of New York, claims that current events compellingly demand a "new world order," as the old order is crumbling, and there is "a new and free order struggling to be born." Rockefeller says there is:

"a fever of nationalism... [but] the nation-state is becoming less and less competent to perform its international political tasks.... These are some of the reasons pressing us to lead vigorously toward the true building of a new world order... [with] voluntary service... and our dedicated faith in the brotherhood of all mankind.... Sooner perhaps than we may realize... there will evolve the bases for a federal structure of the free world."

1963 -- J. William Fulbright, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee speaks at a symposium sponsored by the Fund for the Republic, a left-wing project of the Ford Foundation: "The case for government by elites is irrefutable... government by the people is possible but highly improbable."

1964 -- Taxonomy of Educational Objectives, Handbook II is published. Author Benjamin Bloom states: "... a large part of what we call 'good teaching' is the teacher's ability to attain affective objectives through challenging the students' fixed beliefs."

His Outcome-Based Education (OBE) method of teaching would first be tried as Mastery Learning in Chicago schools. After five years, Chicago students' test scores had plummeted causing outrage among parents. OBE would leave a trail of wreckage wherever it would be tried and under whatever name it would be used. At the same time, it would become crucial to globalists for overhauling the education system to promote attitude changes among school students.

1964 -- Visions of Order by Richard Weaver is published. He describes: "progressive educators as a 'revolutionary cabal' engaged in 'a systematic attempt to undermine society's traditions and beliefs.'"

1967 -- Richard Nixon calls for New World Order. In Asia after Vietnam, in the October issue of Foreign Affairs, Nixon writes of nations' dispositions to evolve regional approaches to development needs and to the evolution of a "new world order."

1968 -- Joy Elmer Morgan, former editor of the NEA Journal publishes The American Citizens Handbook in which he says:

"the coming of the United Nations and the urgent necessity that it evolve into a more comprehensive form of world government places upon the citizens of the United States an increased obligation to make the most of their citizenship which now widens into active world citizenship."

July 26, 1968 -- Nelson Rockefeller pledges support of the New World Order. In an Associated Press report, Rockefeller pledges that, "as President, he would work toward international creation of a new world order."

1970 -- Education and the mass media promote world order. In Thinking About A New World Order for the Decade 1990, author Ian Baldwin, Jr. asserts that:

"... the World Law Fund has begun a worldwide research and educational program that will introduce a new, emerging discipline -- world order -- into educational curricula throughout the world... and to concentrate some of its energies on bringing basic world order concepts into the mass media again on a worldwide level."

1972 -- President Nixon visits China. In his toast to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, former CFR member and now President, Richard Nixon, expresses "the hope that each of us has to build a new world order."

May 18, 1972 -- In speaking of the coming of world government, Roy M. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, declares that:

"within two decades the institutional framework for a world economic community will be in place... [and] aspects of individual sovereignty will be given over to a supranational authority."

1973 -- The Trilateral Commission is established. Banker David Rockefeller organizes this new private body and chooses Zbigniew Brzezinski, later National Security Advisor to President Carter, as the Commission's first director and invites Jimmy Carter to become a founding member.

1973 -- Humanist Manifesto II is published:

"The next century can be and should be the humanistic century... we stand at the dawn of a new age... a secular society on a planetary scale.... As non-theists we begin with humans not God, nature not deity... we deplore the division of humankind on nationalistic grounds.... Thus we look to the development of a system of world law and a world order based upon transnational federal government.... The true revolution is occurring."

April, 1974 -- Former U. S. Deputy Assistant Secretary of State, Trilateralist and CFR member Richard Gardner's article The Hard Road to World Order is published in the CFR's Foreign Affairs where he states that:

"the 'house of world order' will have to be built from the bottom up rather than from the top down... but an end run around national sovereignty, eroding it piece by piece, will accomplish much more than the old-fashioned frontal assault."

1974 -- The World Conference of Religion for Peace, held in Louvain, Belgium is held. Douglas Roche presents a report entitled We Can Achieve a New World Order. The U.N. calls for wealth redistribution: In a report entitled New International Economic Order, the U.N. General Assembly outlines a plan to redistribute the wealth from the rich to the poor nations.

1975 -- A study titled, A New World Order, is published by the Center of International Studies, Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Studies, Princeton University.

1975 -- In Congress, 32 Senators and 92 Representatives sign A Declaration of Interdependence, written by historian Henry Steele Commager. The Declaration states that:

"we must join with others to bring forth a new world order... Narrow notions of national sovereignty must not be permitted to curtail that obligation."

Congresswoman Marjorie Holt refuses to sign the Declaration saying:

"It calls for the surrender of our national sovereignty to international organizations. It declares that our economy should be regulated by international authorities. It proposes that we enter a 'new world order' that would redistribute the wealth created by the American people."

1975 -- Retired Navy Admiral Chester Ward, former Judge Advocate General of the U.S. Navy and former CFR member, writes in a critique that the goal of the CFR is the "submergence of U. S. sovereignty and national independence into an all powerful one-world government... "

1975 -- Kissinger on the Couch is published. Authors Phyllis Schlafly and former CFR member Chester Ward state: "Once the ruling members of the CFR have decided that the U.S. government should espouse a particular policy, the very substantial research facilities of the CFR are put to work to develop arguments, intellectual and emotional, to support the new policy and to confound, discredit, intellectually and politically, any opposition... "

1976 -- RIO: Reshaping the International Order is published by the globalist Club of Rome, calling for a new international order, including an economic redistribution of wealth.

1977 -- The Third Try at World Order is published. Author Harlan Cleveland of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies calls for: "changing Americans' attitudes and institutions" for "complete disarmament (except for international soldiers)" and "for individual entitlement to food, health and education."

1977 -- Imperial Brain Trust by Laurence Shoup and William Minter is published. The book takes a critical look at the Council on Foreign Relations with chapters such as: Shaping a New World Order: The Council's Blueprint for Global Hegemony, 1939-1944 and Toward the 1980's: The Council's Plans for a New World Order.

1977 -- The Trilateral Connection appears in the July edition of Atlantic Monthly. Written by Jeremiah Novak, it says: "For the third time in this century, a group of American schools, businessmen, and government officials is planning to fashion a New World Order... "

1977 -- Leading educator Mortimer Adler publishes Philosopher at Large in which he says: "... if local civil government is necessary for local civil peace, then world civil government is necessary for world peace."

1979 -- Barry Goldwater, retiring Republican Senator from Arizona, publishes his autobiography With No Apologies. He writes:

"In my view The Trilateral Commission represents a skillful, coordinated effort to seize control and consolidate the four centers of power -- political, monetary, intellectual, and ecclesiastical. All this is to be done in the interest of creating a more peaceful, more productive world community. What the Trilateralists truly intend is the creation of a worldwide economic power superior to the political governments of the nation-states involved. They believe the abundant materialism they propose to create will overwhelm existing differences. As managers and creators of the system they will rule the future."

1984 -- The Power to Lead is published. Author James McGregor Burns admits: "The framers of the U.S. constitution have simply been too shrewd for us. They have outwitted us. They designed separate institutions that cannot be unified by mechanical linkages, frail bridges, tinkering. If we are to 'turn the Founders upside down' -- we must directly confront the constitutional structure they erected."

1985 -- Norman Cousins, the honorary chairman of Planetary Citizens for the World We Chose, is quoted in Human Events: "World government is coming, in fact, it is inevitable. No arguments for or against it can change that fact."

Cousins was also president of the World Federalist Association, an affiliate of the World Association for World Federation (WAWF), headquartered in Amsterdam. WAWF is a leading force for world federal government and is accredited by the U.N. as a Non-Governmental Organization.

1987 -- The Secret Constitution and the Need for Constitutional Change is sponsored in part by the Rockefeller Foundation. Some thoughts of author Arthur S. Miller are:

"... a pervasive system of thought control exists in the United States... the citizenry is indoctrinated by employment of the mass media and the system of public education... people are told what to think about... the old order is crumbling... Nationalism should be seen as a dangerous social disease... A new vision is required to plan and manage the future, a global vision that will transcend national boundaries and eliminate the poison of nationalistic solutions... a new Constitution is necessary."

1988 -- Former Under-secretary of State and CFR member George Ball in a January 24 interview in the New York Times says:

"The Cold War should no longer be the kind of obsessive concern that it is. Neither side is going to attack the other deliberately... If we could internationalize by using the U.N. in conjunction with the Soviet Union, because we now no longer have to fear, in most cases, a Soviet veto, then we could begin to transform the shape of the world and might get the U.N. back to doing something useful... Sooner or later we are going to have to face restructuring our institutions so that they are not confined merely to the nation-states. Start first on a regional and ultimately you could move to a world basis."

December 7, 1988 -- In an address to the U.N., Mikhail Gorbachev calls for mutual consensus: "World progress is only possible through a search for universal human consensus as we move forward to a new world order."

May 12, 1989 -- President Bush invites the Soviets to join World Order. Speaking to the graduating class at Texas A&M University, Mr. Bush states that the United States is ready to welcome the Soviet Union "back into the world order."

1989 -- Carl Bernstein's (Woodward and Bernstein of Watergate fame) book Loyalties: A Son's Memoir is published. His father and mother had been members of the Communist party. Bernstein's father tells his son about the book:

"You're going to prove [Sen. Joseph] McCarthy was right, because all he was saying is that the system was loaded with Communists. And he was right... I'm worried about the kind of book you're going to write and about cleaning up McCarthy. The problem is that everybody said he was a liar; you're saying he was right... I agree that the Party was a force in the country."

1990 -- The World Federalist Association faults the American press. Writing in their Summer/Fall newsletter, Deputy Director Eric Cox describes world events over the past year or two and declares:

"It's sad but true that the slow-witted American press has not grasped the significance of most of these developments. But most federalists know what is happening... And they are not frightened by the old bug-a-boo of sovereignty."

September 11, 1990 -- President Bush calls the Gulf War an opportunity for the New World Order. In an address to Congress entitled Toward a New World Order, Mr. Bush says:

"The crisis in the Persian Gulf offers a rare opportunity to move toward an historic period of cooperation. Out of these troubled times... a new world order can emerge in which the nations of the world, east and west, north and south, can prosper and live in harmony.... Today the new world is struggling to be born."

September 25, 1990 -- In an address to the U.N., Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze describes Iraq's invasion of Kuwait as "an act of terrorism [that] has been perpetrated against the emerging New World Order." On December 31, Gorbachev declares that the New World Order would be ushered in by the Gulf Crisis.

October 1, 1990 -- In a U.N. address, President Bush speaks of the:

"... collective strength of the world community expressed by the U.N. ... an historic movement towards a new world order... a new partnership of nations... a time when humankind came into its own... to bring about a revolution of the spirit and the mind and begin a journey into a... new age."

1991 -- Author Linda McRae-Campbell publishes How to Start a Revolution at Your School in the publication In Context. She promotes the use of "change agents" as "self-acknowledged revolutionaries" and "co-conspirators."

1991 -- President Bush praises the New World Order in a State of Union Message:

"What is at stake is more than one small country, it is a big idea -- a new world order... to achieve the universal aspirations of mankind... based on shared principles and the rule of law.... The illumination of a thousand points of light.... The winds of change are with us now."

February 6, 1991 -- President Bush tells the Economic Club of New York:

"My vision of a new world order foresees a United Nations with a revitalized peacekeeping function."

June, 1991 -- The Council on Foreign Relations co-sponsors an assembly Rethinking America's Security: Beyond Cold War to New World Order which is attended by 65 prestigious members of government, labor, academia, the media, military, and the professions from nine countries. Later, several of the conference participants joined some 100 other world leaders for another closed door meeting of the Bilderberg Society in Baden, Germany. The Bildebergers also exert considerable clout in determining the foreign policies of their respective governments. While at that meeting, David Rockefeller said in a speech:

"We are grateful to the Washington Post, The New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretion for almost forty years. It would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the world if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the world is now more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a world government. The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual elite and world bankers is surely preferable to the national auto-determination practiced in past centuries."

July, 1991 -- The Southeastern World Affairs Institute discusses the New World Order. In a program, topics include, Legal Structures for a New World Order and The United Nations: From its Conception to a New World Order. Participants include a former director of the U.N.'s General Legal Division, and a former Secretary General of International Planned Parenthood.

Late July, 1991 -- On a Cable News Network program, CFR member and former CIA director Stansfield Turner (Rhodes scholar), when asked about Iraq, responded:

"We have a much bigger objective. We've got to look at the long run here. This is an example -- the situation between the United Nations and Iraq -- where the United Nations is deliberately intruding into the sovereignty of a sovereign nation... Now this is a marvelous precedent (to be used in) all countries of the world... "

October 29, 1991 -- David Funderburk, former U. S. Ambassador to Romania, tells a North Carolina audience:

"George Bush has been surrounding himself with people who believe in one-world government. They believe that the Soviet system and the American system are converging." The vehicle to bring this about, said Funderburk, is the United Nations, "the majority of whose 166 member states are socialist, atheist, and anti-American."

Funderburk served as ambassador in Bucharest from 1981 to 1985, when he resigned in frustration over U.S. support of the oppressive regime of the late Rumanian dictator, Nicolae Ceausescu.

October 30, 1991: -- President Gorbachev at the Middle East Peace Talks in Madrid states:

"We are beginning to see practical support. And this is a very significant sign of the movement towards a new era, a new age... We see both in our country and elsewhere... ghosts of the old thinking... When we rid ourselves of their presence, we will be better able to move toward a new world order... relying on the relevant mechanisms of the United Nations."

Elsewhere, in Alexandria, Virginia, Elena Lenskaya, Counselor to the Minister of Education of Russia, delivers the keynote address for a program titled, Education for a New World Order.

1992 -- The Twilight of Sovereignty by CFR member (and former Citicorp Chairman) Walter Wriston is published, in which he claims:

"A truly global economy will require ... compromises of national sovereignty... There is no escaping the system."

1992 -- The United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED) Earth Summit takes place in Rio de Janeiro this year, headed by Conference Secretary-General Maurice Strong. The main products of this summit are the Biodiversity Treaty and Agenda 21, which the U.S. hesitates to sign because of opposition at home due to the threat to sovereignty and economics. The summit says the first world's wealth must be transferred to the third world.

July 20, 1992 -- Time magazine publishes The Birth of the Global Nation by Strobe Talbott, Rhodes Scholar, roommate of Bill Clinton at Oxford University, CFR Director, and Trilateralist, in which he writes:

"All countries are basically social arrangements... No matter how permanent or even sacred they may seem at any one time, in fact they are all artificial and temporary... Perhaps national sovereignty wasn't such a great idea after all... But it has taken the events in our own wondrous and terrible century to clinch the case for world government."

As an editor of Time, Talbot defended Clinton during his presidential campaign. He was appointed by President Clinton as the number two person at the State Department behind Secretary of State Warren Christopher, former Trilateralist and former CFR Vice-Chairman and Director. Talbot was confirmed by about two-thirds of the U.S. Senate despite his statement about the unimportance of national sovereignty.

September 29, 1992 -- At a town hall meeting in Los Angeles, Trilateralist and former CFR president Winston Lord delivers a speech titled Changing Our Ways: America and the New World, in which he remarks:

"To a certain extent, we are going to have to yield some of our sovereignty, which will be controversial at home... [Under] the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA)... some Americans are going to be hurt as low-wage jobs are taken away."

Lord became an Assistant Secretary of State in the Clinton administration.

1992 -- President Bush addressing the General Assembly of the U.N said:

"It is the sacred principles enshrined in the United Nations charter to which the American people will henceforth pledge their allegiance."

Winter, 1992-93 -- The CFR's Foreign Affairs publishes Empowering the United Nations by U.N. Secretary General Boutros-Boutros Ghali, who asserts:

"It is undeniable that the centuries-old doctrine of absolute and exclusive sovereignty no longer stands... Underlying the rights of the individual and the rights of peoples is a dimension of universal sovereignty that resides in all humanity... It is a sense that increasingly finds expression in the gradual expansion of international law... In this setting the significance of the United Nations should be evident and accepted."

1993 -- Strobe Talbott receives the Norman Cousins Global Governance Award for his 1992 Time article, The Birth of the Global Nation and in appreciation for what he has done "for the cause of global governance." President Clinton writes a letter of congratulation which states:

"Norman Cousins worked for world peace and world government.... Strobe Talbott's lifetime achievements as a voice for global harmony have earned him this recognition... He will be a worthy recipient of the Norman Cousins Global Governance Award. Best wishes... for future success."

Not only does President Clinton use the specific term, "world government," but he also expressly wishes the WFA "future success" in pursuing world federal government. Talbott proudly accepts the award, but says the WFA should have given it to the other nominee, Mikhail Gorbachev.

July 18, 1993 -- CFR member and Trilateralist Henry Kissinger writes in the Los Angeles Times concerning NAFTA: "What Congress will have before it is not a conventional trade agreement but the architecture of a new international system... a first step toward a new world order."

August 23, 1993 -- Christopher Hitchens, Socialist friend of Bill Clinton when he was at Oxford University, says in a C-SPAN interview: "... it is, of course the case that there is a ruling class in this country, and that it has allies internationally."

October 30, 1993 -- Washington Post ombudsman Richard Harwood does an op-ed piece about the role of the CFR's media members: "Their membership is an acknowledgment of their ascension into the American ruling class [where] they do not merely analyze and interpret foreign policy for the United States; they help make it."

January/February, 1994 -- The CFR's Foreign Affairs prints an opening article by CFR Senior Fellow Michael Clough in which he writes that the "Wise Men" (e.g. Paul Nitze, Dean Acheson, George Kennan, and John J. McCloy) have:

"assiduously guarded it [American foreign policy] for the past 50 years... They ascended to power during World War II... This was as it should be. National security and the national interest, they argued must transcend the special interests and passions of the people who make up America... How was this small band of Atlantic-minded internationalists able to triumph ... Eastern internationalists were able to shape and staff the burgeoning foreign policy institutions... As long as the Cold War endured and nuclear Armageddon seemed only a missile away, the public was willing to tolerate such an undemocratic foreign policy making system."

1994 -- In the Human Development Report, published by the UN Development Program, there was a section called "Global Governance For the 21st Century". The administrator for this program was appointed by Bill Clinton. His name is James Gustave Speth. The opening sentence of the report said: "Mankind's problems can no longer be solved by national government. What is needed is a World Government. This can best be achieved by strengthening the United Nations system."

1995 -- The State of the World Forum took place in the fall of this year, sponsored by the Gorbachev Foundation located at the Presidio in San Francisco. Foundation President Jim Garrison chairs the meeting of who's-whose from around the world including Margaret Thatcher, Maurice Strong, George Bush, Mikhail Gorbachev and others. Conversation centers around the oneness of mankind and the coming global government. However, the term "global governance" is now used in place of "new world order" since the latter has become a political liability, being a lightning rod for opponents of global government.

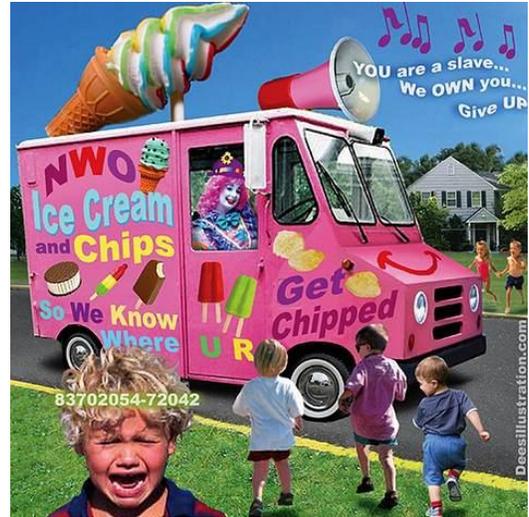

1996 -- The United Nations 420-page report Our Global Neighborhood is published. It outlines a plan for "global governance," calling for an international Conference on Global Governance in 1998 for the purpose of submitting to the world the necessary treaties and agreements for ratification by the year 2000.

2000 – Project for a New American Century takes center stage as its creators take key positions in the Cheney/Bush administration. With Operation 9/11 they usher in the era of fear and terrorism, putting the entire globalization agenda into high gear. Warp speed ahead. The next eight years would bring forth unprecedented Bush & Co crime syndicate wholesale devastation of America as all of us have known it.

2008 – Worldwide economic collapse is finally acknowledged. We now witness the Problem Reaction Solution paradigm come into play, as always, to "save the day", watch as the powers that be maneuver to setup a NEW FINANCIAL WORLD ORDER. Here is NWO icon Kissinger's own words on the engineered collapse: "The Chance for a New World Order."

You might have noticed that many of the quotes above are from CFR Council on Foreign Relations members. Is it not interesting that of the thirty-three (33) members of the board of directors, twenty(20) are Jewish. This is a numerical representation of 61%. Jews are approximately 2.5%+ of the United States population.* This means that Jews are over-represented on the board of directors of the Council on Foreign Relations by a factor of 30.5 times, or 3,050 percent. This extreme numerical over-representation of Jews on the board of directors of the Council on Foreign Relations cannot be explained away as a coincidence or as the result of mere random chance. As mentioned elsewhere in this report 33% of the U.S. Senate are also Jews, you will also find a lot more in the Congress.

You must ask yourself how such an incredibly small and extremely unrepresentative minority ethnic group that only represents 2%+ of the American population could so dominate these important and influential think tanks. Even in SCOTUS they consist of approximately 30% of the Justices. These statistics with large percentages of Jewish representation repeats itself everywhere. Significant majority swaying Jewish groups embedded in many important organizations, and political institutions is alarmingly quite common. Now think about it this way: Just like jury tampering, when you have JUST ONE prejudicial juror, he can turn around an entire case, this is well documented. Imagine in all the other areas of life were these prejudicial Jewish operatives gather together in groups all agreeing in unison to this or that policy, agenda, decisions, course of action and so forth, they impact and dynamics is extraordinary. Yet there are no regulatory agencies making sure that all these embedded Jew agents holding public office are not acting with GROSS CONFLICTS OF INTERESTS. These Foxes are not only guarding the hen houses, they are running the entire farm!

In 1992, Dr John Coleman published Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Story of the Committee of 300. With laudable scholarship and meticulous research, Dr Coleman identifies the players and carefully details the Illuminati agenda of worldwide domination and control. On page 161 of the Conspirators Hierarchy, Dr Coleman accurately summarizes the intent and purpose of the Committee of 300 as follows:

"A One World Government and one-unit monetary system, under permanent non-elected hereditary oligarchists who self-select from among their numbers in the form of a feudal system as it was in the Middle Ages. In this One World entity, population will be limited by restrictions on the number of children per family, diseases, wars, famines, until 1 billion people who are useful to the ruling class, in areas which will be strictly and clearly defined, remain as the total world population. There will be no middle class, only rulers and the servants. All laws will be uniform under a legal system of world courts practicing the same unified code of laws, backed up by a One World Government police force and a One World unified military to enforce laws in all former countries where no national boundaries shall exist. The system will be on the basis of a welfare state; those who are obedient and subservient to the One World Government will be rewarded with the means to live; those who are rebellious will simple be starved to death or be declared outlaws, thus a target for anyone who wishes to kill them. Privately owned firearms or weapons of any kind will be prohibited."

21 Goals of the Illuminati and The Committee of 300

by Dr. John Coleman, From: "Conspirators' Hierachy: The Story of The Committee of 300"

1. To establish a One World Government/New World Order with a unified church and monetary system under their direction. The One World Government began to set up its church in the 1920s and 30s, for they realized the need for a religious belief inherent in mankind must have an outlet and, therefore, set up a "church" body to channel that belief in the direction they desired.

2. To bring about the utter destruction of all national identity and national pride, which was a primary consideration if the concept of a One World Government was to work.
3. To engineer and bring about the destruction of religion, and more especially, the Christian Religion, with the one exception, their own creation, as mentioned above.
4. To establish the ability to control of each and every person through means of mind control and what Zbigniew Brzezinski called techonotronics, which would create human-like robots and a system of terror which would make Felix Dzerzhinski's Red Terror look like children at play.
5. To bring about the end to all industrialization and the production of nuclear generated electric power in what they call "the post-industrial zero-growth society". Excepted are the computer- and service industries. US industries that remain will be exported to countries such as Mexico where abundant slave labor is available. As we saw in 1993, this has become a fact through the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement, known as NAFTA. Unemployables in the US, in the wake of industrial destruction, will either become opium-heroin and/or cocaine addicts, or become statistics in the elimination of the "excess population" process we know of today as Global 2000.
6. To encourage, and eventually legalize the use of drugs and make pornography an "art-form", which will be widely accepted and, eventually, become quite commonplace.
7. To bring about depopulation of large cities according to the trial run carried out by the Pol Pot regime in Cambodia. It is interesting to note that Pol Pot's genocidal plans were drawn up in the US by one of the Club of Rome's research foundations, and overseen by Thomas Enders, a high-ranking State Department official. It is also interesting that the committee is currently seeking to reinstate the Pol Pot butchers in Cambodia.
8. To suppress all scientific development except for those deemed beneficial by the Illuminati. Especially targeted is nuclear energy for peaceful purposes. Particularly hated are the fusion experiments currently being scorned and ridiculed by the Illuminati and its jackals of the press. Development of the fusion torch would blow the Illuminati's conception of "limited natural resources" right out of the window. A fusion torch, properly used, could create unlimited and as yet untapped natural resources, even from the most ordinary substances. Fusion torch uses are legion, and would benefit mankind in a manner which, as yet, is not even remotely comprehended by the public.
9. To cause, by means of limited wars in the advanced countries, by means of starvation and diseases in the Third World countries, the death of three billion people by the year 2050, people they call "useless eaters". The Committee of 300 (Illuminati) commissioned Cyrus Vance to write a 3 paper on this subject of how to bring about such genocide. The paper was produced under the title "Global 2000 Report" and was accepted and approved for action by former President James Earl Carter, and Edwin Muskie, then Secretary of States, for and on behalf of the US Government. Under the terms of the Global 2000 Report, the population of the US is to be reduced by 100 million by the year of 2050.
10. To weaken the moral fiber of the nation and to demoralize workers in the labor class by creating mass unemployment. As jobs dwindle due to the post industrial zero growth policies introduced by the Club of Rome, the report envisages demoralized and discouraged workers resorting to alcohol and drugs. The youth of the land will be encouraged by means of rock music and drugs to rebel against the status quo, thus undermining and eventually destroying the family unit. In this regard, the Committee commissioned Tavistock Institute to prepare a blueprint as to how this could be achieved. Tavistock directed Stanford Research to undertake the work under the direction of Professor Willis Harmon. This work later became known as the "Aquarian Conspiracy".
11. To keep people everywhere from deciding their own destinies by means of one created crisis after another and then "managing" such crises. This will confuse and demoralize the population to the extent where faced with too many choices, apathy on a massive scale will result. In the case of the US, an agency for Crisis Management is already in place. It is called the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), whose existence I first enclosed [disclosed?]in 1980.

12. To introduce new cults and continue to boost those already functioning which include rock music gangsters such as the Rolling Stones (a gangster group much favored by European Black Nobility), and all of the Tavistock-created rock groups which began with the Beatles.

13. To continue to build up the cult of Christian Fundamentalism begun by the British East India Company's servant Darby, which will be misused to strengthen the Zionist State of Israel by identifying with the Jews through the myth of "God's chosen people", and by donating very substantial amounts of money to what they mistakenly believe is a religious cause in the furtherance of Christianity.

14. To press for the spread of religious cults such as the Moslem Brotherhood, Moslem Fundamentalism, the Sikhs, and to carry out mind control experiments of the Jim Jones and "Son of Sam" type. It is worth noting that the late Khomeini was a creation of British Military Intelligence Div. 6, MI6. This detailed work spelled out the step-by-step process which the US Government implemented to put Khomeini in power.

15. To export "religious liberation" ideas around the world so as to undermine all existing religions, but more especially the Christian religion. This began with the "Jesuit Liberation Theology", that brought an end to the Somoza Family rule in Nicaragua, and which today is destroying El Salvador, now 25 years into a "civil war". Costa Rica and Honduras are also embroiled in revolutionary activities, instigated by the Jesuits. One very active entity engaged in the so-called liberation theology, is the Communist-oriented Mary Knoll Mission. This accounts for the extensive media attention to the murder of four of Mary Knoll's so-called nuns in El Salvador a few years ago. The four nuns were Communist subversive agents and their activities were widely documented by the Government of El Salvador. The US press and the new media refused to give any space or coverage to the mass of documentation possessed by the Salvadorian Government, which proved what the Mary Knoll Mission nuns were doing in the country. Mary Knoll is in service in many countries, and placed a leading role in bringing Communism to Rhodesia, Moçambique, Angola and South Africa.

16. To cause a total collapse of the world's economies and engender total political chaos.

17. To take control of all foreign and domestic policies of the US.

18. To give the fullest support to supranational institutions such as the United Nations, the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Bank of International Settlements, the World Court and, as far as possible, make local institutions less effective, by gradually phasing them out or bringing them under the mantle of the UN. 4

19. To penetrate and subvert all governments, and work from within them to destroy the sovereign integrity of the nations represented by them.

20. To organize a world-wide terrorist apparatus and to negotiate with terrorists whenever terrorist activities take place. It will be recalled that it was Bettino Craxi, who persuaded the Italian and US Governments to negotiate with the Red Brigades kidnapers of Prime Minister Moro and General Dozier. As an aside, Dozier was placed under strict orders not to talk what happened to him. Should he ever break that silence, he will no doubt be made "a horrible example of", in the manner in which Henry Kissinger dealt with Aldo Moro, Ali Bhutto and General Zia ul Haq.

21. To take control of education in America with the intent and purpose of utterly and completely destroying it. By 1993, the full force effect of this policy is becoming apparent, and will be even more destructive as primary and secondary schools begin to teach "Outcome Based Education" (OBE).

The Illuminati develops control of an area/country through its:

- 1) Banks and financial institutions
- 2) Central Government
- 3) Local government
- 4) Law
- 5) Media

So what will this New World Order run by the Zionist Jewish elite and their Masonic right hand apparatus look like? Well that is hard to say, but we do have a glimpse on how the Zionists currently rule by taking a closer look at their current invasions and occupations, such as the land of ~~Palestine~~ apartheid Israel.

They refer to the goyim gentiles as sub-human filth, and will most likely be treated as they currently treat the “vile” “despicable” Palestinians. So genocide, martial law, wanton abuse and violence against the sub-human species will be tolerated and maybe even encouraged, most probably integrated as policy. Resources will be rationed to all Goyims. Gentiles will have the right to be silent and only speak when told to. The words of the gentiles must convey deep respect and honor for their most benevolent, loving, generous caretakers, the most supreme race, the living gods on earth, the most holy Jews.

Your privileges of breathing and eating will be secured by diligently working for the state. Anyone who dares carry out blasphemy and commit the sin of anti-Semitism will be immediately executed by the one who caught him in the act of such vile blasphemy. There will be no slavery... for everyone will be grateful “servants” who will compete for the privilege of bowing to and serve the most holy ones. There will be no need for physical money, for by that time you will all be Bio-Chipped, cataloged and inventoried just like all other resources. With the implanted chip you will be able to enter your local distribution center called Googlewall-Mart and get your months worth of rations. Those who are obedient faithful servants can eventually work their way up to middle management and help oversee their own kind, to accomplish this you must demonstrate your total absolute unwavering devotion to the most holy ones by regularly turning on and informing on your friends and family. All religions will be banned for it will be pure unadulterated unforgivable blasphemy to worship any other god other than the Jewish god.

It will be a wonderful time in age where disputes among peoples and nations will be no more. For the most benevolent and wise rulers will oversee all matters of national defense and local law enforcement. To help maintain the safety of the masses, wonderful regional security measures will be implemented such as security check points, toll roads, where the Goyims bio-chip scanned pulling up a full report of their good standing also defining their allotted roaming areas, the toll will be deducted directly from their stipend bank accounts, then allowed to proceed to the next town border crossing check point and so on. With the wonderful focus on service to the state, will come mandatory curfew hours, where everyone would be required to be in their quarters to share quality time with your TV sets for mandatory programming, anyone caught wondering around after hours is most definitely a deviant terrorist and will be dealt with accordingly, and executed on the spot, thus making our streets so much safer.

There ancient system of laws and lawyers will be substituted for a much more wonderful and superior system run by our most benevolent wise masters who, due to their divine nature are more adequately prepared to be most fair judges, solving disputes and charges in a fraction of the time. Anyone found to have committed any act against a most wonderful superior Jewish overlords will be executed for such a grievous offence, without the need for a court hearing due to the fact that it is a sin to even frown into the eyes of your master race.

State sovereignty must be altered in globalized era

In the age of globalization, states should give up some sovereignty to world bodies in order to protect their own interests

By Richard Haass, Tuesday, Feb 21, 2006, Page 9, Taipei Times

For 350 years, sovereignty -- the notion that states are the central actors on the world stage and that governments are essentially free to do what they want within their own territory but not within the territory of other states -- has provided the organizing principle of international relations. The time has come to rethink this notion.

The world's 190-plus states now co-exist with a larger number of powerful non-sovereign and at least partly (and often largely) independent actors, ranging from corporations to non-governmental organizations (NGOs), from terrorist groups to drug cartels, from regional and global institutions to banks and private equity funds. The sovereign state is influenced by them (for better and for worse) as much as it is able to influence them. The near monopoly of power once enjoyed by sovereign entities is being eroded.

As a result, new mechanisms are needed for regional and global governance that include actors other than states. This is not to argue that Microsoft, Amnesty International, or Goldman Sachs be given seats in the UN General Assembly, but it does mean including representatives of such organizations in regional and global deliberations when they have the capacity to affect whether and how regional and global challenges are met.

Less is more

Moreover, states must be prepared to cede some sovereignty to world bodies if the international system is to function. This is already taking place in the trade realm. Governments agree to accept the rulings of the WTO because on balance they benefit from an international trading order even if a particular decision requires that they alter a practice that is their sovereign right to carry out.

Some governments are prepared to give up elements of sovereignty to address the threat of global climate change. Under one such arrangement, the Kyoto Protocol, which runs through 2012, signatories agree to cap specific emissions. What is needed now is a successor arrangement in which a larger number of governments, including the US, China, and India, accept emissions limits or adopt common standards because they recognize that they would be worse off if no country did.

All of this suggests that sovereignty must be redefined if states are to cope with globalization. At its core, globalization entails the increasing volume, velocity, and importance of flows -- within and across borders -- of people, ideas, greenhouse gases, goods, dollars, drugs, viruses, e-mails, weapons and a good deal else, challenging one of sovereignty's fundamental principles: the ability to control what crosses borders in either direction. Sovereign states increasingly measure their vulnerability not to one another, but to forces beyond their control.

Globalization thus implies that sovereignty is not only becoming weaker in reality, but that it needs to become weaker. States would be wise to weaken sovereignty in order to protect themselves, because they cannot insulate themselves from what goes on elsewhere. Sovereignty is no longer a sanctuary.

This was demonstrated by the American and world reaction to terrorism. Afghanistan's Taliban government, which provided access and support to al-Qaeda, was removed from power. Similarly, the US' preventive war against an Iraq that ignored the UN and was thought to possess weapons of mass destruction showed that sovereignty no longer provides absolute protection.

Imagine how the world would react if some government were known to be planning to use or transfer a nuclear device or had already done so. Many would argue correctly that sovereignty provides no protection for that state.

Necessity may also lead to reducing or even eliminating sovereignty when a government, whether from a lack of capacity or conscious policy, is unable to provide for the basic needs of its citizens. This reflects not simply scruples, but a view that state failure and genocide can lead to destabilizing refugee flows and create openings for terrorists to take root.

The NATO intervention in Kosovo was an example where a number of governments chose to violate the sovereignty of another government (Serbia) to stop ethnic cleansing and genocide. By contrast, the mass killing in Rwanda a decade ago and now in Darfur, Sudan, demonstrate the high price of judging sovereignty to be supreme and thus doing little to prevent the slaughter of innocents.

Conditions needed

Our notion of sovereignty must therefore be conditional, even contractual, rather than absolute. If a state fails to live up to its side of the bargain by sponsoring terrorism, either transferring or using weapons of mass destruction, or conducting genocide, then it forfeits the normal benefits of sovereignty and opens itself up to attack, removal or occupation.

The diplomatic challenge for this era is to gain widespread support for principles of state conduct and a procedure for determining remedies when these principles are violated.

The goal should be to redefine sovereignty for the era of globalization, to find a balance between a world of fully sovereign states and an international system of either world government or anarchy.

The basic idea of sovereignty, which still provides a useful constraint on violence between states, needs to be preserved. But the concept needs to be adapted to a world in which the main challenges to order come from what global forces do to states and what governments do to their citizens rather than from what states do to one another.

"In the next century, nations as we know it will be obsolete; all states will recognize a single, global authority. National sovereignty wasn't such a great idea after all." - Strobe Talbot, Clinton's Deputy Secretary of State, as quoted in Time, July 20th 1992

Bertrand Russell - The Impact of Science on Society

This book published first in 1951 gives an important and rare glimpse into the minds of the elite and their ultimate goals.

First, we must remember that Bertrand Russell himself was a member of the elite whose family had served for generations in support of the ruling establishment. Further, he was an official British government propagandist whose job it was to promote and propagate certain ideas in service to the elite.

The book itself is classical rhetoric in which the ideas and views espoused at the beginning of the book are reasonable and humanitarian. However, these arguments are intended to disarm the reader to later accept the horrors later presented as desirable or inevitable.

The true intent, understanding of his message, and the future planned by the elite can easily be discerned from the following quotes:

"Gradually, by selective breeding the congenital differences between rulers and ruled will increase until they become almost different species. A revolt of the plebs would become as unthinkable as an organized insurrection of sheep against the practice of eating mutton."

"After all, most civilized and semi-civilized countries known to history and had a large class of slaves or serfs completely subordinate to their owners. There is nothing in human nature that makes the persistence of such a system impossible. And the whole development of scientific technique has made it easier than it used to be to maintain a despotic rule of a minority. When the government controls the distribution of food, its power is absolute so long as they can count on the police and the armed forces. And their loyalty can be secured by giving them some of the privileges of the governing class. I do not see how any internal movement of revolt can ever bring freedom to the oppressed in a modern scientific dictatorship."

"I do not pretend that birth control is the only way in which population can be kept from increasing. There are others, which, one must suppose, opponents of birth control would prefer. War, as I remarked a moment ago, has hitherto been disappointing in this respect, but perhaps bacteriological war may prove more effective. If a Black Death could be spread throughout the world once in every generation survivors could procreate freely without making the world too full. There would be nothing in this to offend the consciences of the devout or to restrain the ambitions of nationalists. The state of affairs might be somewhat unpleasant, but what of that? Really high-minded people are indifferent to happiness, especially other people's. However, I am wandering from the question of stability, to which I must return.

There are three ways of securing a society that shall be stable as regards population. The first is that of birth control, the second that of infanticide or really destructive wars, and the third that of general misery except for a powerful minority. All these methods have been practiced: the first, for example, by the Australian aborigines; the second by the Aztecs, the Spartans, and the rulers of Plato's Republic; the third in the world as some Western internationalists hope to make it and in Soviet Russia... Of these three, only birth control avoids extreme cruelty and unhappiness for the majority of human beings. Meanwhile, so long as there is not a single world government there will be competition for power among the different nations. And as increase of population brings the threat of famine, national power will become more and more obviously the only way of avoiding starvation. There will therefore be blocs in which the hungry nations band together against those that are well fed. That is the explanation of the victory of communism in China.

These considerations prove that a scientific world society cannot be stable unless there is a world government."

"The need for a world government, if the population problem is to be solved in any humane manner, is completely evident on Darwinian principles."

"A society is not stable unless it is on the whole satisfactory to the holders of power and the holders of power are not exposed to the risk of successful revolution."

Page 110-111 Food Rationing by World Government

"First, as regards physical conditions. Soil and raw materials must not be used up so fast that scientific progress cannot continually make good the loss by means of new inventions and discoveries... If raw materials are not to be used up too fast, there must not be free competition for their acquisition and use but an international authority to ration them in - such quantities as may from time to time seem compatible with continued industrial prosperity. And similar considerations apply to soil conservation.

Second, as regards population...To deal with this problem it will be necessary to find ways of preventing an increase in world population. If this is to be done otherwise than by wars, pestilences, and famines, it will demand a powerful international authority. This authority should deal out the world's food to the various nations in proportion to their population at the time of the establishment of the authority. If any nation subsequently increased its population it should not on that account receive any more food. The motive for not increasing population would therefore be very compelling."

"My conclusion is that a scientific society can be stable given certain conditions. The first of these is a single government of the whole world, possessing a monopoly of armed force and therefore able to enforce peace. The second condition is a general diffusion of prosperity, so that there is no occasion for envy of one part of the world by another. The third condition (which supposes the second fulfilled) is a low birth rate everywhere, so that the population of the world becomes stationary, or nearly so. The fourth condition is the provision for individual initiative both in work and in play, and the greatest diffusion of power compatible with maintaining the necessary political and economic framework.

The world is a long way from realizing these conditions, and therefore we must expect vast upheavals and appalling suffering before stability is attained. But, while upheavals and suffering have hitherto been the lot of man, we can now see, however dimly and uncertainly, a possible future culmination in which poverty and war will have been overcome, and fear, where it survives, will have become pathological. The road, I fear, is long, but that is no reason for losing sight of the ultimate hope."

Oh how wonderful this world will soon become! All the Goyims will be guaranteed happiness due to the advanced Pharma solution happy pills that will be issued to everyone along with the regular vaccinations for diabolical "XYZ terrorist virus pathogens" that are microscopically out to kill us. Gosh, life is gona be so good under our most benevolent, warm, caring and wonderful saviors.... Enough of the glorious glimpse of your magnificent promising future, now go back to sleep mortals, sleep.... sleep... sleep.....

THE MASTERFUL MANIPULATION OF PUBLIC OPINION/REALITY

IMPERCEPTABLE WMD's:

(WEAPONS OF MASS DECEPTION)

TOOLS OF MASS PROGRAMMING

"The most important weapon in the hands of the oppressor is the mind of the oppressed." – Steve Biko

"If we understand the mechanism and motives of the group mind, it is now possible to control and regiment the masses according to our will without their knowing it."

-- Edward L. Bernays

"We are in a process of developing a whole series of techniques which will enable the controlling oligarchy to get people to actually love their servitude. A really efficient totalitarian state would be one in which the all-powerful executive of political bosses and their army of managers control a population of slaves who do not have to be coerced, because they love their servitude. To make them love it is the task assigned, in present-day totalitarian states, to ministries of propaganda, TV stations, newspaper editors, and school teachers." - Aldous Huxley

The central most important factor for obtaining absolute control over a people is COMMUNICATION. For everything in life is communicated from one person to another, be it by singular verbal means, letters, books, radio, TV and so forth. Whether it is knowledge of history, math, science, news, it does not matter, for all knowledge is spread by communication. Control communication and what is communicated and you literally control and channel known knowledge. You literally control accepted collective reality of a group, region or if your control is vast and encompassing enough, even nations. What the rulers of man absolutely do NOT want is a smart inquisitive population; they absolutely do NOT want a people capable of critical thinking. The intellectually lazier and handicapped a population, the easier it is to shape and mold their attitudes, aspirations, thoughts, values and so forth.

The manipulation of public opinion has become the PsyOp art form/science of the ruling elite and our governments. (PsyOp = psychological warfare, which is a military term for propaganda). Some of the best social scientists, psychologists, and marketing men in the world have mastered the art to a science. So much so that they can kill someone in broad daylight (even a president) in front of thousands of witnesses, then not only get away with it, but have media and the masses join in the chorus in ridiculing anyone that comes forward to even question the situation. Now THAT is what I call magic! Hail to the master manipulators of man! This is satanic deception at its finest.

Those who convince the masses to not only ignore their common sense perception and logic of reality but also masterfully get the minions to completely collectively to ignore the FACTS, common sense, their own conscience and the laws of physics are the true master sorcerers of the modern world.

One major factor that is statistically proven and well known to the Spin Masters is the fact that at least a full one third of any given segment will believe ANYTHING you tell them anyway. You see, it goes like this: The national average IQ level is 100. Given that simple fact, it does not take a mathematical genius to figure out that at least one third must be "intelligence impaired" to say it nicely, while another one third can be considered "gifted". That leaves us with a full two thirds (the lower and middle) of any given population that are within the realm of easy manipulation. It is that "pesky" one third of intellectually "gifted" that always pose the biggest headaches to the ruling elite. For their analytical powers of reasoning and independent thinking are hard to circumvent. Oh, but there is a way to everything. Appeal to the vainness of their superior intellect with great shows of intellectual scientific facts, studies, statistics, etc., by those who they look up to, whom they consider their peers and superiors. Oh, how many of those high IQs get caught up in the whirlwind of smoke and mirrors. Many then chime in and re-enforce the issue, event, etc. at some point, fiction magically becomes accepted as fact through the masterful manipulation of statistics.

So just how is it possible for the ruling elite to successfully keep the REAL and important issues and matters off the radar and away from mass public consciousness and debate? Very easy as a matter of fact. As a matter of journalistic policy the simply REFUSE to cover those type of stories. Done, off the radar go articles and stories that highlight the plight of the poor and common man. Those stories are replaced with what they somehow deem are statistically more "in demand" and "relevant" such as Britney Spears farting in a public place. Behold: For the ruling elite who control all media with an iron fist dictate what is important and what is relevant in society. They then spread their "news" coverage of whatever they decide is of current importance from coast to coast. Thus their continuing under educating the masses and misdirecting their attentions and energies to trivial pursuits. This strategy is known as the omission stratagem. The sin of omission is very much an integral policy m.o.

Let it be known: Whenever the ruling elite orchestrate any given project, conduct a strategic event on the public stage, they always prepare in advance to control all factors concerning the perception of the event. Prior to orchestrating any event they conceive story lines, narratives designed for public consumption. Whatever actions they make, they already have a planned NARRATIVE to disseminate among the population to IMMEDIATELY channel the public's attention and perception through the NARRATIVE, thus effectively controlling the REACTION to the event. Therefore you witness all the media and talking heads everywhere immediately falling in line and joining in the chores like cheerleaders. This is the true genius of the ruling elite, but the simultaneous release of a narrative for every major event they conduct does not stop there, if you carefully inspect their actions, you will notice that they almost always launch at least TWO narratives of opposing frames of thought to contradict each other (e.g., rightwing vs. leftwing) thus giving the public a perception of choice of which side to believe, adopt and rally behind.

One of the factors that makes it so easy for the Government and rulers to be able to lead the herds of cattle is the fact that since childhood we are constantly conditioned to follow orders, do as you are told, obey, NEVER question authority, those who prove to have dutifully allowed themselves to be easily controlled are rewarded with silly things like a letter "A" and receive "honors" (oh how nice it is to be put on that pedestal and looked up to in admiration by your peers).

Those who fail to follow as they are told are immediately subjected to peer pressure, scorn, reprimanded even penalized in one way or another. The system of rewards in the indoctrination process just gets more elaborate as you get older. When you really do good, never getting out of line and perfectly following the agenda of those in charge, the rewards get interesting, wow, now you can get a cool certificate or even a MEDAL! Golly gee whizz, you are really cooking now. You are becoming the perfect object.

You hang that perfectly worthless piece of paper on your walls and treasure those pieces of tin with fake gold plating, boy are you proud. Wow, now that's what the meaning of life is all about!

Congratulations, you are now ready to join your fellow cattle in society. Now you are ready to chime in on the dialog, toil day in and day out to make ends meet with the rest of your peers, applying the lessons you have been conditioned since childhood in your everyday life, blindly follow and obey.

The moment you "get out of line" you are quickly punished. We have to dock your days pay, maybe suspension, when you do something utterly dumb like question or confront whatever system you are toiling under, the punishment is a "pink slip."

Enter the realm of Applied Behavioral and Cognitive Sciences...

I cannot emphasize enough how important it is to completely understand that manipulation and control of people's minds, behavior, their aspirations, thoughts, likes, dislikes and so forth is not only susceptible to manipulation but actually IS meticulously molded and controlled on a daily basis by the powers that be. The field of Behavioral Science goes back to ancient Greek times. Today all Ivy league universities have prominent Behavioral Science departments and curriculums. Many key government agencies especially strategic agencies such as FBI and military, have Behavioral Science units. The media industry is basically a fully functional Behavioral Science molding apparatus.

The field of Behavioral Science is the center, ground zero in the world of understanding, management, control and manipulation of the masses. All million dollar advertising campaigns employ armies of Behavioral Scientists to help develop successful marketing strategies that pull in customers by the millions. They know what makes people tick; they know how to push their buttons. What we are talking about here is the fact that understanding human behavior is NOT speculation or theory, for it is an established, proven and practiced SCIENCE. And the ruling elite, corporations, political leaders and governments are their number one clients.

I quick search on the internet on the subject of Behavioral Science brings up 13.7 million substantial hits. Cognitive & Behavioral Science is big business. To give you a typical glimpse of the industry, here is a quote from the home page of just one company that specializes in this field:

When You Know How People Think,
You Gain A Measure Of Mastery
Over Their Decisions.

Since 1975, Behavioral Science Research has been dedicated to finding intelligent, creative solutions to real-world problems in corporate management, new product development, public opinion assessment, and marketing. We strive to bring an extra measure of intelligence and experience to solving our client's problems. Whether this involves a high-tech research method, a sophisticated statistical test, or a creative questionnaire approach, the results are the same. Our clients have research they can use. Immediately. With confidence. In the marketplace, in the boardroom, or in court.

We're large enough to offer you unsurpassed technical competence, statistical sophistication, and national capabilities, yet still small enough that top management is part of every project team.

The Premise...Intelligent Solutions

The problems you face today are more complex, more demanding than they have ever been. Simplistic answers and cold numbers are not enough. You need to be able to turn your unanswered questions into solved problems. Since 1975, Behavioral Science Research has acted on the premise that you need more than a handful of numbers out of your research. You need findings you can use, research that is user-friendly and solutions-oriented. Research that comes with experience. Economists and sociologists. Marketers and mathematicians. Psychologists and strategic planners. Ready to provide you with intelligent solutions to your unsolved problems.

The vast majority of the population lives under the grand illusion that everything they think and do is their own thoughts and ideas... Nothing could be further from the truth... All your thoughts, your wishes, your values, your morals, your ethics, your hopes, your fears, your prides, etc., etc., have and are being shaped, formed, reinforced and manipulated every single day of your life from all angles through the professional application of Behavioral and Cognitive Science based programming. The foundation of manufacturing mass consent, shaping public opinion and ideologies.

Hypnotic Mind Altering Mass Media - video

Manufacturing Consent

A phrase from Public Opinion, a 1922 book by Walter Lippman which addresses the power of propaganda. There is also another book based on the above work called Manufacturing Consent: The Political Economy of the Mass Media (1988), by Edward S. Herman and Noam Chomsky, is an analysis of the news media as business.

The propaganda model

Using the propaganda model, Manufacturing Consent explains that corporate-owned news mass communication media — print, radio, television — are businesses subject to commercial competition for advertising revenue and profit. As such, their distortion (editorial bias) of news reportage — i.e. what types of news, which items, and how they are reported — is consequence of the profit motive that requires establishing a stable, profitable business; therefore, news businesses favoring profit over the public interest succeed, whilst those favoring reportorial accuracy over profits fail, and are relegated to the margins of their markets (low sales and ratings).

Government and news media

Editorial distortion is aggravated by the news media's dependence upon private and governmental news sources. If a given newspaper, television station, magazine, et cetera, incurs governmental disfavor, it usually is subtly excluded from access to information (news); resultantly, its competitors receive biased, preferential access. Consequently, the excluded news medium loses readers, viewers, and subscribers, hence its market-place business-leadership when it loses advertisers — the primary income sources. To minimize such financial danger, news media businesses editorially distort their reportage to favor government and corporate policies in order to maintain revenues and increase profits.

Editorial bias: five filters

The propaganda model describes five editorially-distorting filters applied to news reportage in mass media:

1. Size, Ownership, and Profit Orientation: the business connections among the owning corporations, the identity of the controlling investors, and the personal, political, and financial affiliations of external directors.
2. The Advertising License to Do Business: the advertising-income-based news media must cater to the political prejudices and economic desires of advertisers.
3. Sourcing Mass Media News: reporters consider governmental sources as more factually reliable than private sources. "In effect, the large bureaucracies of the powerful subsidize the mass media, and gain special access, by their contribution to reducing the media's costs of acquiring . . . and producing, news".
4. Flak and the Enforcers: powerful, private influence groups (e.g. conservative or liberal think tanks) organize systematic replies to reporters deviating from the official corporate interpretation of facts and events.
5. Anti-Communism: since the Russo-American Cold War's (1945–91) ending, anticommunism was transubstantiated into the contemporary War on Terror, as the current national religion and social control mechanism. See "Media Control, the Spectacular Achievements of Propaganda."

The Engineering of Consent

"The Engineering of Consent" is an essay by Edward Bernays first published in 1947.[1] He defines "engineering consent" as the art of manipulating people; specifically, the American public, who are described as "fundamentally irrational people... who could not be trusted." [citation needed] It maintained that entire populations, which were undisciplined or lacking in intellectual or definite moral principles, were vulnerable to unconscious influence and thus susceptible to want things that they do not need. This was achieved by linking those products and ideas to their unconscious desires. Ernest Dichter, who is widely considered to be the "father of motivational research," referred to this as "the secret-self of the American consumer." [citation needed]

In other words, consumer psychologists have already made the choice for people before they buy a certain product. This is achieved by manipulating desires on an unconscious level.

The central idea behind the engineering of consent is that the public or people should not be aware of the manipulation taking place.

The "Engineering Consent" chapter of Christopher Bryson's book "The Fluoride Deception" describes how Bernays helped the water fluoridation campaign in the USA.

Women's Smoking

Edward Bernays was responsible in the late 1920s for converting attitudes towards women's smoking from a social taboo to a socially acceptable act. Indeed an act seen as attractive and even desirable by society.

He did this by associating women's smoking with the ideas of "power" and "freedom" which he did by using the slogan "Torches of Freedom", during a famous parade in New York City.

The idea of "Engineering of Consent" was motivated by Freud's idea that humans are irrational beings and are motivated primarily by inner desires hidden in their unconscious. If one understood what those unconscious desires were, then one could use this to one's advantage to sell products and increase sales.

Influence

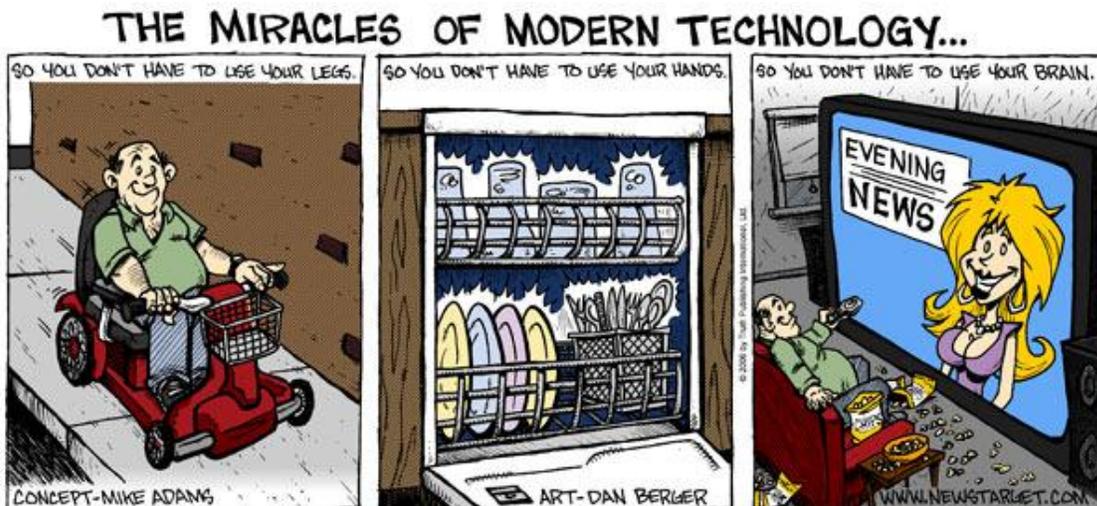

The Engineering of Consent also applies to the pioneered application of Freudian psychoanalytic concepts and techniques to business—in particular to the study of consumer behavior in the marketplace. Ideas established strongly influenced the practices of the advertising industry in the twentieth century.

The techniques applied developing the "consumer lifestyle" were also later applied to developing theories in cultural commodification; which has proven successful in the later 20th century (with diffusion of cultures throughout North America) to sell ethnic foods and style in popular mainstream culture by removing them from geography and ethnic histories and sanitizing them for a general public.

Ernest Dichter applied what he dubbed "the strategy of desire" for building a "stable society," by creating for the public a common identity through the products they consumed; again, much like with Cultural Commodification, where culture has no "identity," "meaning," or "history" inherited from previous generations, but rather, is created by the attitudes which are introduced by consumer behaviors and social patterns of the period. According to Dichter: "To understand a stable citizen, you have to know that modern man quite often tries to work off his frustrations by spending on self-sought gratification. Modern man is internally ready to fulfill his self-image, by purchasing products which compliment it."

The true meaning of life has been obscured to ALL since childhood. The meaning of life has been replaced by: "The American Dream." You must go to whatever lengths to accomplish no matter what. Your peers judge you by what you have and do not have. If you are poor, you are a nobody. If you make it to the middle levels of materialism, you can sit proudly in that new car and home you are indebted with up to your nose, the bankers are your economic masters. Boy you have surely made it though! Then you not only have to keep it and sustain it, now you must toil even harder not to lose it and to continue to go further higher up the feeding chain. The great comedian George Carlin once summed up the quest like this: "The American dream, you have to be asleep to believe it."

Millions of minions trod along this path only to realize that one little miss-step, one little mishap and it can all disappear. Back to "Go" do not collect 200, start all over again! The meaning of life has been replaced by the American Dream that has become too many "the mission in life." But then what is the true meaning of life? For the sake of continuity of this chapter's topic we must continue to focus on the main issues at hand. For those who are interested, we will try to cover the TRUE meaning of life elsewhere in this report.

So there you stand, a bare empty shell, conditioned since childhood, a mere minion among minions who the ruling elite lead to graze as sheep/cattle in whatever direction they so choose. You see but yet you are blind, you hear but yet you are deaf. You must break free from their bonds and emancipate yourself from mental slavery. In order to do so, you must earnestly confront all the fairy tales you have been conditioned in your entire life. You must learn to see through the smoke and mirrors of your ruling masters. But who can question their wisdom? Who dares stand up to the powers of the beast?

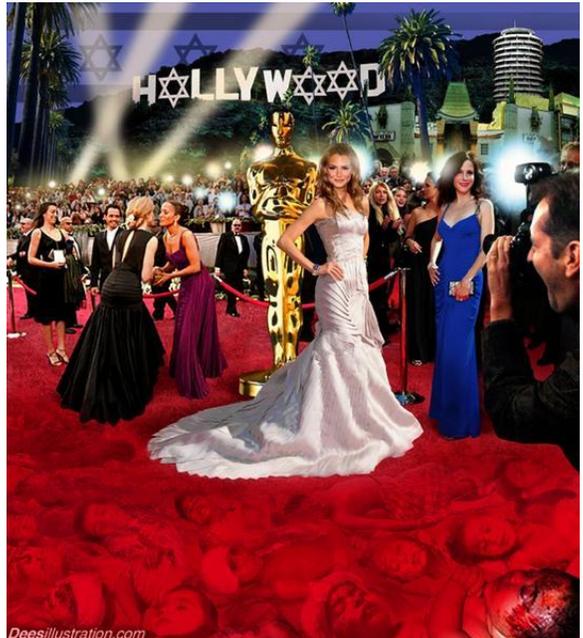

"Hollywood is the magician's wand (holly-holy) which has been used to cast a spell on the unsuspecting public. Things or ideas which would otherwise be seen as bizarre, vulgar, undesirable or impossible are inserted into films in the realm of fantasy. When the viewer watches these films, his/her mind is left open to suggestion and the conditioning process begins. These same movies which are designed to program the average person, can give the discerning viewer a better understanding of the workings and the plan of the world agenda. "Be-aware".

Predictive Programming - The power of suggestion using the media of fiction to create a desired outcome." - Alan Watt

Unfortunately, I neither have the resources nor space to get into much needed details on many important topics in this report. My mission is to provide the "big picture" and show how all the pieces of the puzzle fit together like a glove. We connect the dots. But you must continue forth and keep on connecting the dots. With that said and done, the world has been masterfully manipulated for ages by THE MEDIA.

Text books, magazines, news papers, TV, news stations, etc. are their tools. Those who control the media are COMPLETELY allied with the ruling elite and your governments, for all intents and purposes, they are "one". A train of thought, a NARRATIVE is first fabricated by the original source, then the other units of the media chain all chime in and instill the message(s), a wave of reinforcing universal accord of messages come at you from all corners and sources, reinforcing and establishing whatever implanted concept as fact, norm, reality: Surely if EVERYONE is saying the same thing and everyone universally agrees, then it "must" be true! Behold: Here lays one of the basic principles on how their system works.

Take for example: Diamonds. They are synonymous with "love is forever". How did that come to be? A diamond has become the defacto symbol of love worldwide via a careful strategic implementation of knowledge derived from Behavioral Scientific research then implemented by their public relations and marketing departments. The campaigns spanned over decades, nurturing the target image they wanted to portray. The diamond marketing scheme is what legends are made out of, pure genius. For they have taken a relatively worthless rock and cultivated added value and the appearance of illusion and rarity for what in reality is a common item whose quantity is purposely artificially controlled to keep the prices high. Here we have a perfect case study that can be readily examined in depth on how corporate America and governments have mastered the art of making you believe whatever they want you to. Now go buy that diamond for your loved one, you know you have no choice in the matter... it's the only way to "prove" to her that you love her! LOL, pure genius.

One need look no further than the magazine racks of any store to get a glimpse of just where the mass American psyche is. The population is completely engulfed in the mystique of Hollywood stardom and superficial material things; immoral decadence is proudly displayed as integral content of virtually all tabloids. The sheer number of tabloids and their wide circulations clearly demonstrate the majority of America's population is completely OBSESSED with stars and mindless trivial bullshit. They collectively worship their FALSE IDOLS and want to emulate their twisted lifestyles. They just can't get enough dirt and gossip, the thought of this and how many millions of people make up this group is beyond alarming, it is truly catastrophic proportions for just by looking at the headlines of any tabloid one can easily see that whoever reads that trash, their minds are completely and hopelessly lost.

It took me just 3 minutes to round up just a few random tabloid magazine covers out of the literally never ending barrage of published trash that sits on the local magazine sections. These are just a representative few I quickly found and speak for themselves as to the mindless drivel content that they routinely serve and bullshit they embed into the minds of the lost goyim masses... Behold for for the blind masses are completely mesmerized by worthless crap:

These magazines serve as one of the best examples of what the goyim masses of the world are completely consumed by... worthless materialistic mindless garbage. Within those few covers you can readily get a glimpse of what the goyim gentile masses have been conditioned to hold in high esteem, honor, desire and want to emulate in their lives.

It has been prophesized in the ancient scriptures that in the end times the world would be immersed in THE GREAT DELUSION. This great delusion is none other than the production of the entire media world's programming.

Check Out All The Violence Here! Or: How I Jolt You Into Submission To Get Your Money

I will now transform back into the irresponsible and rabid but successful mainstream marketer I once was in order to convey this to you most effectively.

Shazam.

As a big marketer, one of the most effective techniques I use to divert you away from what really matters in life and instead focus your worries, time and money on what will make my wallet fatter is jolting you into submission.

Constantly.

We jolt you without your awareness in any direction we want you to go -- a direction that always benefits us, of course, whether "us" is a corporation or political party -- and the sick beauty is that you actually believe where we took you is where you wanted to go.

At an inevitable later point, it does finally dawn on you that you've been electro-prodded into beliefs and habits that are not really your own. Beliefs like physical beauty is ½ of everything and financial wealth is the other ½, and habits like buying endless pills to become healthier and working routine sixty-hour weeks "to get ahead."

By the time the realization hits that you've been tricked into these beliefs and habits for other people's gain, though, you're sick, fat, depressed, stressed, broke, angry or possibly already dying due to our jolting.

Hurry, Read this Section Before I Blow It Up! - (The Jolting Part)

So how do we jolt you?

Like all the other techniques we use to get you, for our jolting to work, we depend entirely on the First Real Rule of Marketing, that most people don't believe they can be manipulated all that much. You may scan-read this article, for example, and think "Somewhat interesting and kind of scary, so thank God I'm pretty much above that!"

That kind of thinking is our foundational requirement for jolting you.

We've most mastered how to jolt you into a zombie-like stupor in order to easily con you into spending your time and money on the cars, movie stars, gym shoes, politicians and lifestyles we're selling through the visual mediums of television and Hollywood films.

That is not to say we aren't incredibly good at jolting you through magazines, radio, and all the other mediums, because we are. But we have perfected it where it impacts you the most.

Movies, commercials and TV shows (including and especially "the news") are in fact measured for their likely success within the industry by their "jolts per minute," or JPM. This refers to how many times within an average minute that you, the viewer, are going to be "jolted" by something in the program that stimulates your base senses. The more JPM, the more likely that commercial, movie or TV show will be a "hit."

Fear, sexual desire, rage and jealousy are among your most dominant base senses. These are subconscious to instinctual states of being. They don't require you to think in order to produce them. These are where we target all of our jolting.

And that's why the commercial world is saturated with violence and sex. They are the easiest, fastest and most effective methods to stimulate and manipulate your base senses (though like any drug, they are only effective if they are ever-increasing ... which is why in American culture they ARE ever-increasing.)

When the bad guy gets his head blown off or the oil tanker explodes and almost kills the good guy, you release infantile utterances like "Oooh" and "Aaaah" and you feel fright, rage or primitive satisfaction. You are certainly not in conscious thinking mode. You are not pondering man's inhumanity to man or the meaning of justice or fate or God. You are reacting.

When you reach for the magazine with the supermodel in a perfect airbrushed bikini smirking next to the headline shouting "Lose 20 Lbs in 10 Days with the North Woods Diet!" you're reacting to your desire to be more desirous. You are not pondering the true nature of beauty itself, or even the true airbrushed nature of the model's bikini.

Getting jolted by us is very easy for you and -- in the same base sense that eating cheese is for a mouse -- quite enjoyable for you. Therefore the TV shows, movies, commercials, magazine and newspaper articles, websites and all the rest with high levels of jolts per minute (or jolts per page, etc.) are largely perceived as "good."

Meanwhile, concentrating and contemplating are hard, so the movies, shows, magazines, and more that challenge you to do so are far worse than bad to most -- they're "boring." And boring is largely ignored.

Concentration and contemplation -- the enemy of irresponsible and rabid marketing -- is largely and increasingly ignored.

Watch as this Section Strips Completely Naked! (The Submission Part)

So how do we jolt you so extensively that we can take advantage of you? First, realize that TV shows, including the news and including sports, are produced primarily to sell the commercial space that surrounds them (and increasingly infiltrates them) to corporate advertisers.

You as a viewer are their secondary market.

In order to please the primary market and get as much of their advertising dollars as possible, the big marketers (the network executives, producers, promoters, directors, etc.) will do whatever it takes to feed them as much secondary market (you) as possible.

Similarly, Hollywood's key goal is not to entertain you (and certainly not to enlighten you.) It is -- like every other corporation -- to make as much money as possible.

The easiest, fastest, least expensive, most effective and most profitable way we have found to do this -- at least in the short-term which is what it's all about for us -- is no different than what is the easiest, fastest, least expensive and most profitable in the more overt forms of advertising: to repeatedly jolt you until you're stunned into submission and you:

1. Find it boring and even excruciating to have to think deeply when all you want to do is kick back and "be entertained"
2. Are therefore actually craving more of our jolting

With you begging us for more "good" entertainment - that is, movies and TV shows and Super Bowl commercials and articles on celebrities and all the rest that stimulate your basest senses more, more, more but that don't bother you with having to think or feel deeply -- you are essentially handing me and my peers in marketing the electric prod to control your beliefs and habits.

We can now much more easily make you (and the even more malleable minds of your daughters) believe that physical beauty really is the be-all and end-all -- and sell you our pretty movie stars and diet pills and night creams and plastic surgeries.

We can now much more easily make you (and the even more malleable minds of your sons) believe that terrorists and murderers and ninjas are lurking around every corner -- and sell you our toy guns and real guns and video games and hate music and political candidates.

You're hooked on a drug called JPM, we've got evermore to go around, and because you're in a high stupor we can convince you of anything and take whatever we want from you.

(And we're going after your children even harder.)

Humble Transformation Back to Conscientious Mortal in This Section

(The Final Advice Part)

Shazam again.

I have transformed back into the "conscientious marketer" I now am revealing the secrets of how the irresponsible mainstream marketers take extreme advantage of you -- and how to overcome it -- in every one of my "How We Get You" columns.

There are two giant shields you have against being jolted into submission by the big marketers: awareness and alternate experiences.

You don't have to avoid watching 24 (perhaps the highest jolts per minute show on TV today), you don't have to stop reading People Magazine, you can even keep enjoying those Super Bowl commercials. The key is to teach yourself to be keenly aware of how they are designed to lull you into that mindless and reactionary stupor ... the same way you may not avoid swimming in the ocean despite its many dangers but you do remain keenly aware of where you are in relation to the shore.

How to do this?

For several of your favorite movies, commercials, magazine articles, and other forms of marketing, analyze them. For instance, push yourself to consciously review a fifteen or twenty minute segment of a few TV shows, counting every jolt and considering how they are working the numbing magic on their audience.

As children are even more targeted and more vulnerable to being jolted, if you have kids or grandkids, analyze fifteen to twenty minutes of their favorite shows or a series of commercials with them. Count the jolts, have them call some out on their own, and discuss the possible impact of the jolts. This will teach them what is truly a crucial life skill these days -- and it will help polish your own awareness.

If you are rolling your eyes at learning how to be keenly aware of media in this manner:

1. Roll your eyes all you want, it still really works
 2. At least utilize the other giant shield you have, alternate experiences. This means countering the numbing effect of high jolts per minute experiences with experiences that do prompt you (and your kids) to think and feel deeply such as the occasional literary novel, National Geographic Channel documentary, spiritual text, art exhibit, classical concert, canoe ride, or whatever in the wide and still truly rich world does prompt you to concentrate and contemplate. After perhaps a brief sobering up period -- the length depends on how many jolts per minute have invaded your bloodstream -- you'll find concentration and contemplation can be even more enjoyable than having your base senses rubbed
- Programs designed for children are five to six times more violent than adult TV
 - In prime time shows there are three to five violent acts per hour
 - In Saturday morning kids shows there are 20-25 violent acts per hour
 - The average child will see about 8,000 murders depicted on TV before finishing grade school
 - Kids see about 10,000 television rapes, assaults and murders each year.

About Brian Vaszily
 whose life mission is to help others explore, experience and enjoy life more intensely while bypassing the traps that would hamper that goal - particularly unscrupulous marketing and rampant consumerism.

Brian is the founder of IntenseExperiences.com, has authored several over fourteen years of marketing management experience is President of the TopMarketingPro consultancy. He has appeared on many TV and radio shows and been quoted in many publications regarding his books, columns, articles and ideas.

The media and business barons are not the only ones who have mastered the art of manipulating public opinion, as a matter of fact, the true pioneers of public opinion manipulation has always been the ruling regimes throughout the ages. Over the centuries the ruling establishments have perfected the art of leading the masses. Modern public relations, psychological, and social engineering management and manipulation is down to an exact advanced science.

Tons of research has been conducted into the study of and manipulation of human behavior. Today nothing is left up to chance. Everything can be scientifically calculated down to a few percentage points off mark. Just as Edward Bernays was one of the founding fathers of public relations, was one of the first to attempt to manipulate public opinion using the subconscious. His work is legendary in the field of mind control. He felt this manipulation was necessary in society, which he regarded as irrational and dangerous as a result of the 'herd instinct' that Trotter had described, Adam Curtis's award-winning 2002 documentary for the BBC, The Century of the Self, pinpoints Bernays as the originator of modern public relations, and Bernays was named one of the 100 most influential Americans of the 20th century by Life magazine.

In "Propaganda" (1928), his most important book, Edward Bernays argued that the manipulation of public opinion was a necessary part of democracy:

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country. ...We are governed, our minds are molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of. This is a logical result of the way in which our democratic society is organized. Vast numbers of human beings must cooperate in this manner if they are to live together as a smoothly functioning society. ...In almost every act of our daily lives, whether in the sphere of politics or business, in our social conduct or our ethical thinking, we are dominated by the relatively small number of persons...who understand the mental processes and social patterns of the masses. It is they who pull the wires which control the public mind."

I find it very interesting and deeply revealing that many of the top researchers in the fields of psychology, Cognitive Sciences and mind control are Zionist Jews. From famous Jew Edward Bernays, Sigmund Freud (was also a Jew he was Bernay's uncle), Solomon Asch, Seilgman, Maier, Karl Marx & Friedrich Engels etc. were all prominent Jews who influenced and steered the course of history with their writings. They were the selected and heavily promoted Jewish founders of communism, which was one of the Zionist ruling elite's failed attempts to establish Jewish world rule utopia. Marx & Engels were converted to Communism by another influential Jew, Moses Hess one of the founders of socialism and a precursor to what would later be called Zionism. His book Rome and Jerusalem called for the establishment of a Jewish socialist commonwealth in Palestine and the assertion of Jewish identity in the world.

"The Jewish people as a whole will be its own Messiah. It will attain world domination by the dissolution of other races...and by the establishment of a world republic in which everywhere the Jews will exercise the privilege of citizenship. In this New World Order the Children of Israel...will furnish all the leaders without encountering opposition..." (Karl Marx in a letter to Baruch Levy, quoted in Review de Paris, 6/1/28, p. 574)

The American Idiot - Video

"The Engineering of Consent" is an essay by Edward Bernays first published in 1947. He defines "engineering consent" as the art of manipulating people; specifically, the American citizen, who are described as "fundamentally irrational people... who could not be trusted." It maintained that entire populations, which were undisciplined or lacking in intellectual or definite moral principles, were vulnerable to unconscious influence and thus susceptible to want things that they do not need. This was achieved by linking those products and ideas to their unconscious desires. Ernest Dichter, who is widely considered to be the "father of motivational research," referred to this as "the secret-self of the American consumer."

In other words, consumer psychologists have already made the choice for us before we buy a certain product. This is achieved by manipulating desires on an unconscious level. The central idea behind the engineering of consent is that the public or people should not be aware of the manipulation taking place.

The Delphi Technique – What Is It?

The Delphi Technique was originally conceived as a way to obtain the opinion of experts without necessarily bringing them together face to face. In recent times, however, it has taken on an all new meaning and purpose. In Educating for the New World Order by B. Eakman, the reader finds reference upon reference for the need to preserve the illusion that there is "...lay, or community, participation (in the decision-making process), while lay citizens were, in fact, being squeezed out." The Delphi Technique is the method being used to squeeze citizens out of the process, effecting a left-wing take over of the schools.[for example]

A specialized use of this technique was developed for teachers, the "Alinsky Method" (ibid, p.123). The setting or group is, however, immaterial; the point is that people in groups tend to share a certain knowledge base and display certain identifiable characteristics (known as group dynamics). This allows for a special application of a basic technique.

The change agent or facilitator goes through the motions of acting as an organizer, getting each person in the target group to elicit expression of their concerns about a program, project, or policy in question. The facilitator listens attentively, forms "task forces," "urges everyone to make lists," and so on. While s/he is doing this, the facilitator learns something about each member of the target group. S/He identifies the "leaders," the "loud mouths," as well as those who frequently turn sides during the argument — the "weak or noncommittal".

Suddenly, the amiable facilitator becomes "devil's advocate." S/He dons his professional agitator hat. Using the "divide and conquer" technique, s/he manipulates one group opinion against the other. This is accomplished by manipulating those who are out of step to appear "ridiculous, unknowledgeable, inarticulate, or dogmatic." S/He wants certain members of the group to become angry, thereby forcing tensions to accelerate. The facilitator is well trained in psychological manipulation. S/He is able to predict the reactions of each group member. Individuals in opposition to the policy or program will be shut out of the group.

The method works. It is very effective with parents, teachers, school children, and any community group. The "targets" rarely, if ever, know that they are being manipulated. Or, if they suspect this is happening, do not know how to end the process.

The desired result is for group polarization, and for the facilitator to become accepted as a member of the group and group process. S/He will then throw the desired idea on the table and ask for opinions during discussion. Very soon his/her associates from the divided group begin to adopt the idea as if it were their own, and pressure the entire group to accept the proposition.

This technique is a very unethical method of achieving consensus on a controversial topic in group settings. It requires well-trained professionals who deliberately escalate tension among group members, pitting one faction against the other, so as to make one viewpoint appear ridiculous so the other becomes "sensible" whether such is warranted or not.

The Delphi Technique is based on the Hegelian Principle of achieving Oneness of Mind through a three step process of thesis, antithesis, and synthesis. In thesis and antithesis, all present their opinion or views on a given subject, establishing views and opposing views. In synthesis, opposites are brought together to form the new thesis. All participants are then to accept ownership of the new thesis and support it, changing their own views to align with the new thesis. Through a continual process of evolution, Oneness of Mind will supposedly occur.

The theory of the Delphi and the reality of the Delphi are, obviously, quite different — the reality being that Oneness of Mind does not occur but only the illusion of Oneness of Mind with those who refuse to be Delphi'd being alienated from participating in the process.

While proponents of education reform feel they are quite justified in this, the effect of this unethical manipulation of people is to create polarized camps. In an effort to maintain the process, advocates have marketed a plethora of publications (such as What's Left After the Right, No Right Turn and If You Don't, They Will) intended to label, castigate, and alienate anyone who does not go along with them. As a result, parents come to understand that their role in education reform is merely perfunctory; that the outcome is preset, that they are not but the rah-rah team so when opposition does arise, advocates of education reform can say, "we had community input."

To make sure that the situation is controlled, only those parents who agree with the process are allowed on the restructuring teams. New participants are carefully screened to ensure that education reform goes forward unquestioned.

If measurable opposition persists, advocates are told, get the local ministers on board. Take steps to neutralize, by whatever means necessary, the opposition. In some places, opponents have been harassed, both at home and on the job, personal property has been damaged and vandalized, people have lost their jobs. Anyone who does not go along with the restructuring of our society is susceptible to the totalitarian tactics of those promoting education reform — whether it be parents, teachers, principals, superintendents or board members. The need exists for advocates to maintain an iron grip on the process. They cannot, for instance, withstand open public debate of the issues. Therefore, they do not partake in public forums. They cannot withstand the criticism, so they close every avenue for parents to address the issues. They are rapidly creating, through their divisive tactics, a volatile situation. America is being torn apart.

Parents, citizens, teachers, principals, superintendents who are opposed to the new purpose being given our American education system need tools to withstand the process being used to bring it in — against the Delphi Technique and consensus which, through their basis in the Hegelian Principle, have Marxist connections and purposes.

First, no opportunity must be left untaken to expose this unethical, divisive process. Second, when this process is used, it can be disrupted. To do so, however, one must be able to recognize when the Delphi Technique is being used, and how to disrupt it.

One amazing case study of the art and science of engineered social conditioning of masses is very familiar to you:

Apple Corporation seems to have found the holy grail of marketing. Apple ingeniously fostered and cultivated a cult like following, a nirvana that no other company has quite been able to duplicate. Whenever they release a new product their CULT followers bow in awe and stampede the local stores the day of its release. The most severely afflicted among them camp out in front of the stores days in advance in a trance like state waiting for the release of the new item. Yet the fact that Apple corporation is run like a dictatorship is blinded from them. The fact that it is a totalitarian regime where its captives, ummm, customers are forced to purchase everything from them, hardware, software, accessories, peripherals. Your options and choices are limited to what they give you.

Apple: The New Religion?

Skye Jethani, June 28, 2010 - Auther "The Divine Commodity: Discovering a Faith Beyond Consumer Christianity"

This week crowds of worshipers outside Apple Stores around the globe will finally be able to lay their hands on the latest object of their devotion: the iPhone 4. The public was given its first official look at the device a few weeks ago when Steve Jobs descended from his holy digital mountain with the updated phone in his hands. Reports have already circulated about spontaneous rallies of Apple fans, and we've seen the video footage of consumers reacting with fits of ecstasy as they hold their new purchase.

The frenzy created every time Apple releases a new product highlights a growing but under-reported phenomenon: the power of consumer brands to supplant traditional religions in peoples' lives. Many Christians believe the greatest threat to the church today is postmodernity. Others zero in on relativism. Some believe the enemy is secular humanism. Others think it's Islam. I disagree with all of these. In my view, the greatest challenge facing the contemporary church is consumerism. By that I do not mean consumption. It's not wrong to consume things. In fact, as contingent beings we've been designed to consume for survival. The only human that doesn't consume is one that has reached room temperature, in which case they are now being consumed. (Do I hear "The Circle of Life" in the background?)

The consumerism I'm concerned with is the kind that functions as a worldview. It forms the uncontested assumptions of our lives, and when it intersects with faith our perceptions of worship, mission, community, belief, and even God are fundamentally altered. These are all subject I tackle in my book, The Divine Commodity (Zondervan, 2009).

One aspect of consumerism that is particularly powerful is branding. (Add to it commoditization and alienation and you've got the unholy trinity of consumerism.)

Douglas Atkins, author of The Culting of Brands: Turn Your Customers Into True Believers, says, "Brands are the new religion ... They supply our modern metaphysics, imbuing the world with significance ... Brands function as complete meaning systems."

Without question one of the most potent brands in America today is Apple, and new research has shown that Apple has achieved the same impact on the human brain as religion.

Martin Lindstrom is the author of Buyology. He says:

Apple is (as we've proven using neuroscience) ... a religion. Not only that -- it is a religion based on its communities. Without its core communities, Apple would die -- it is already facing strong pressure as the brand simply is becoming too broad (losing) its magic. What's holding it all together is the hundreds if not thousands of communities across the world spreading the passion and creating the myths.

Adding to the evidence that Apple is actually a religion, psychologist David Levine, a self-identified Mac nut, says:

For many Mac people, I think [the Mac community] has a religious feeling to it. For a lot of people who are not comfortable with religion, it provides a community and a common heritage. I think Mac users have a certain common way of thinking, a way of doing things, a certain mindset. People say they are a Buddhist or a Catholic. We say we're Mac users, and that means we have similar values.

For more about the religious (even cultic) power of Apple, I suggest reading this article in "Wired" that details the messianic characteristics of Steve Jobs. There is also a documentary on the subject called "Machheads." In the trailer the film declares, "It's more than a computer, it's a way of life."

The identity-forming power of brands like Apple means the act of shopping has immense significance in a consumer culture. As Benjamin Barber writes, "If brand name can shape or even stand in for identity, then to figure out 'who you are' you must decide where (and for what) you shop." This may explain why shopping is now the number one leisure activity for Americans. As we peruse the shopping mall or stand in line at the Apple Store, we are not simply looking for an MP3 player, a computer, or a phone -- we are looking for ourselves. Shopping occupies a role in society that once belonged only to religion: the power to give meaning and construct identity. "To shop," Pete Ward observes, "is to seek for something beyond ourselves," and this desire "indicates a spiritual inclination in many of the everyday activities of shopping."

One question I pose in The Divine Commodity is this: If brands have become religions, is the opposite also true? Have religions been reduced to brands? I believe the evidence suggests they have. Researchers like Barna, Gallop, and others are finding it increasingly difficult to differentiate the behaviors and values of self-identified Christians from non-Christians with one exception: what they buy. Total sales of religious goods in America is nearly $7 billion annually. That is a whole lot of "Tommy Hellfighter" t-shirts, "Jesus Is My Homeboy" underwear, and "Fruit of the Spirit" energy drinks. One church leader has linked the merchandising with our new understanding of conversion: "Conversion in the U.S. seems to mean we've exchanged some of our shopping at Wal-Mart, Blockbuster, and Borders for the Christian Bookstore down the street. We've taken our lack of purchasing control to God's store, where we buy our office supplies in Jesus' name."

What does this mean for the future of the church in America? I hear a lot on Christian radio and see a lot of Christian books fighting against postmodernism, relativism, and secularism. But if people, including Christians, are constructing their identities and lives around consumer brands like Apple, is the church fighting the wrong battle? And perhaps more disturbing, are we unknowingly contributing to the problem by encouraging Christians to construct and express their identities via Christ-branded merchandise rather than through characters transformed to reflect the values of Christ himself?

The genius of their gambit is in successfully indoctrinating and brainwashing their customers into believing that Apple represents the "free and open" system while mocking its sole competitor the REAL free open market PC base systems as "the closed Orwellian establishment." The fact that one can purchase every single PC component from thousands of different sources and have an infinite amount of freedom and choices at every level is irrelevant in the equation.

The Apple minions proudly march around in their isolated, closed, sequestered authoritarian Mac realm in the complete delusional thinking they have all the freedom, all the while forever turning around and mocking their PC counterparts. Now THAT is what I call masterful cult inducing indoctrinative priming programming at its zenith. I must close this observation of the true state of this example by acknowledging that, ok, yes Apple seems to have a better product, but that is obviously due to the fact that it manufactures and controls every single aspect of their restricted lives...

It can be said that Apple has cultivated a CULT. The blind loyalty of Apple customers is legendary. While I don't have the time and space to dissect this corporate – citizen relationship, I can assure you that their customers have undergone extensive group hypnosis and conversion. The mass media has been the ENABLER of mass hypnosis on epic scales bringing about amazing results for those who have mastered the art and science of utilizing mass media for commercial hypnotic trance programming of their target audiences. The TV set is essentially a master hypnotist's wet dream, their Trojan horse into people's homes, giving them carte blanche stealth entry into everyone's most private space. It is in the privacy and comfort of your living rooms and bed rooms that everyone is HYPNOTICALLY PROGRAMMED.

Covert Hypnosis

The subject of covert hypnosis is one of great controversy and disagreement. Many would argue that one cannot be hypnotized without knowledge or consent. In fact, most types of hypnosis do require the agreement of the person being hypnotized. The idea of a hypnotherapy session conducted covertly is absurd. But, with the proper knowledge and a little practice, you can wield a powerful influence over others using the principles of covert hypnosis.

Hypnosis is nothing more than a state of awareness where your conscious mind is not filtering the ideas that enter your subconscious mind. Typically, you can get to this state of awareness through deep relaxation and guided visualization techniques. These methods, of course, require your awareness and participation.

Covert hypnosis works differently. By using certain language patterns and behaviors a skilled covert hypnotist is able to plant suggestions in the subconscious mind of his target without detection. Keep in mind; this process is very different than traditional hypnosis.

The target is typically completely unaware of the covert hypnosis techniques being used on them. In fact, when done expertly, the target will believe that the implanted thought was their idea all along.

Obviously, such a powerful method of influence and manipulation can be misused. It is unethical to cause harm or loss by use of covert hypnosis but there are still those who will attempt it. The only way to protect yourself is to understand covert hypnosis so you can detect when it is being used against you.

There are a series of very specific language patterns that have been proven to have a covert hypnotic effect. Once you learn these language patterns and phrases you'll know what to look out for the next time you find yourself in a conversation with a salesperson who seems a little too persuasive.

Even more interesting is the effect of covert hypnosis in speeches or in writing. Each method of communication offers a different, but uniquely, powerful avenue for delivering a covertly hypnotic message.

A charismatic speaker can have a mesmerizing effect on a crowd, especially one that is predisposed to believe the topic of the speech. A talented speaker can use tone and vocal fluctuations to create a mass hypnotic effect on the crowd. Once the mass is entranced it becomes very easy to subtly insert post-hypnotic suggestions into their minds.

Only one who is familiar with these techniques and language patterns can easily dismiss these suggestions without experiencing any undue influence. Pay close attention to politicians and how they use language when giving a speech. Most successful politicians use the techniques of covert hypnosis very skillfully.

Writing is the other avenue for mass influence available to the covert hypnotist. Writing does not have the ability to use tone or personal magnetism to induce the hypnotic effect so it must rely on an entirely different strategy. Covert hypnosis in writing requires the active participation of the reader to have any effect. The reader must become caught up in the narrative. They must see the story. Picture themselves as a part of it. This act of visualization on the readers part is the key to covert hypnosis in writing.

Once the reader has begun to see the story you are telling in their own mind they are open to suggestion. Their subconscious is open to, and unprotected from, messages that are delivered through the medium of the story you are telling and they are visualizing.

Visualization is nothing more than a daydream or a fantasy. Everyone does it. So it is easy to induce with vivid and descriptive writing if you know how. Once your reader has entered this realm of fantasy their subconscious is wide open to your message provided you deliver it subtly and within the context of the fantasy you are spinning.

Many deny the existence and power of covert hypnosis, but make no mistake, a skilled and practiced covert hypnotist can insert suggestions into your subconscious mind without you even knowing. And they can do it through a speech you watch on TV or through a letter you get in the mail. [i.e., any media]

TV Produces Hypnotic Effects

Have you ever wondered why, when your child is watching TV they can't hear you? You know how it goes, you walk into the room and tell them something and five minutes later, it is as if you said nothing at all. What you have been experiencing is what all parents have, the Hypnotic effect of TV.

If you are like the average American, several rooms in your house are equipped with something that you focus your eyes on, flickers every few seconds, and can produce a hypnotic-like trance. It is one of the most popular devices of our time: the television set. The typical environment for hypnotism induction: a darkened room, a flickering light (the TV set) as a single-minded focus, and freedom from all outside diversions is a classic setting for hypnosis says Jerry Mander in his book, Four Arguments for the Elimination of Television.

Some say, "I watch only good programs, so that isn't a issue with me." But, Does what you watch make any difference on our mind and character? The answer is both yes and no. Although the content you view exerts a powerful effect on your mind, the medium itself also appears to have profound mental effects. Evidence suggests that the television is--in itself--usually detrimental. This deleterious frontal lobe effect appears to be the results of the camera-switching work in most videos and other programming. The technical problem with the filming technique is referred to as "rapidly changing scene of reference."

Dr. Morris who was cited in Four Arguments for the Elimination of Television, said, "Television's rapid change of reference as contributes to the hypnotic-type effect." Researcher Dr. Thomas Mulholland looked at children's EEGs as they watched their favorite television programs. He assumed that since these programs were their favorite shows, the kids would be mentally involved with what they were viewing and would experience an oscillation between alpha brain wave activity and beta. Instead, after just two or three minutes of the show, they sat back and stayed almost entirely in an alpha pattern. This meant that while they were watching they were "not reacting, not orienting, not focusing, just space-out."

Dr. Herbert Krugman, a brain wave researcher, was cited in Four Arguments for the Elimination of Television: "Television is a communication medium that effortlessly transmits huge huge quantities of information not thought about at the time of exposure."

Dulled Mind of the Masses - video

Well over a decade ago, there had been more than 3,000 scientific studies published on the effects of television on the mind, but yet they are rarely heard about. Over 500 books have been written on the subject. It is one of the most well-researched subjects in our culture, yet most people have little awareness of TV viewing's solemn consequences. We should not expect the television media to confess to anything, but we do not have to stay uninformed.

We have been so brainwashed by our controlled media where we can't even notice when our discussions are also being controlled.

On the Hypnotic Effects of Television

From the Editor, By: David Deschesne, Fort Fairfield Journal

When I was a kid, we only received 3 television channels on a small, black and white television. Those channels were; WAGM, MPBN and CBC. There really wasn't much on television, but I didn't care because I was usually outside doing something else, anyway.

I can remember when our family got cable for the first time and while it was an interesting change, I didn't see much more on that was really worth watching. Later on, we got a color TV—now that was progress.

Today, you can notice in just about every house in your neighborhood, after dark, the dim blue flicker of a television through their windows. That flicker has intensified over the years and exhibits some pretty interesting psychological effects.

It is no secret that rapidly changing contrasting images on a television screen will affect those suffering from epilepsy, sometimes to the point of inducing a seizure. The way a television works is similar to the old 24 frame-per-second movie cameras. What appears to be full motion video is really a series of still pictures run rapidly together over time in order to create the appearance of motion. As for the old movie cameras, there were 24 pictures taken every second, with a shutter opening and closing to advance to the next picture in the sequence. Televisions and computer monitors use the same principle, only they call it a "refresh rate." Dr. G.A. Harding conducted a study for the International League against Epilepsy in the mid-1990's. He concluded that using a television or monitor with a higher refresh rate of around 100 Hz (100 frame changes per second) over the older 50 Hz models significantly reduced the occurrences of epileptic seizures by those viewing. This was likely because the moving picture was more defined and seamless.

Other uses of flickering images are being pioneered by Intelligent Optical Systems (IOS) from Torrence, California. IOS has received a contract from the American State Police (AMSTAPO), to develop a multi-colored LED flashlight that when flashed with a certain sequence of colors will make its victim nauseous, disoriented, or vomit.

Needless to say, humans are very visually-oriented creatures and flickering images have a pretty enormous impact on us,

Advertisers and marketing engineers also understand the importance of flicker rate imagery when it comes to selling their products on television. If one were to sit in a darkened room, facing away from a television and watch the light pattern on the opposite wall, a distinct series of flickering light patterns can be discerned as the television rapidly transitions from one edited scene to another. By varying the intensity of the contrast between lights and darks and the rate of switching (flickering) from one scene to another, an advertiser can lull the TV viewer into a mildly hypnotic state. Once hypnotized by the screen flicker, various forms of Neuro Linguistic Programming cues are introduced in order to steer the viewer's thoughts, making them either calm and accepting of the product being sold, or openly hostile and uncomfortable with the competitor's product.

Compare some of the older television commercials from 50 years ago, which were pasty whitish-gray and had very little or no flicker at all to today's, which sometimes alternate from light to dark multiple times per second.

In addition to flicker rates, television producers use music and subliminal visual cues to invoke a response or implant a perception into their viewers' minds. Years ago, a television newscast was essentially "radio with pictures." That is, a newscaster would be sitting in front of a blank, white wall looking at the camera reading the news. Other than the audio, there was no real reason for the newscaster's picture to even be there. Today, a newscaster is surrounded by multiple, random moving imagery. Turn the sound off and just watch the background of many television newscasts, or news shows. The wavy, wispy images moving back and forth in the background are designed to hypnotize you and keep you transfixed, "glued" to the TV. Other gimmicks are the scrolling "ticker tape" on the bottom of the screen and lots of snapping and flashing lights. The more there is going on in the picture, the more likely you will be hypnotized by the images.

Hypnosis is characterized by highly focused attention, increased responsiveness to suggestions, vivid images and fantasies, and a willingness to accept distortions of logic or reality—which is the exact template being followed by today's television programmers.

While only 15 percent of people are highly susceptible to hypnosis and 10 percent are difficult or impossible to hypnotize, the vast majority of the population lies in the gray area in between. Children tend to be more susceptible to hypnosis than adults. Deeply hypnotized subjects sometimes experience profound changes in their subjective experience of consciousness (see Psychology, 2nd ed., Hockenbury & Hockenbury, ©2000 Worth Publishers, p. 158-159).

Watching television, like playing video games, causes the viewer's brain waves to slip into a hypnotic, post-REM type - or "delta" - sleep. Brainwaves of television viewers are similar to those in deep sleep, though their eyes are still open. While in this state, any number of post-hypnotic suggestions can be implanted in the mind of the viewer, from buying that fancy new car, to going deeper into debt by refinancing their home in order to take a vacation.

Under hypnosis, pseudomemories, or false memories, can be implanted into the subject to make them believe they actually experienced an event or know the facts of an event, even if it never actually happened as purported. The mainstream television "news" networks were amazingly successful at convincing a large segment of the population that a 757 hit the Pentagon on 9/11, even though there was no evidence ever produced to support that theory.

Since television is such a powerful tool, and its existence is licensed and regulated by government, there will never be any objective, rational discussion of civil rights, or government scams and cons such as income tax or the Federal Reserve system explained in that broadcast medium.

I stopped watching mainstream network television around 8 years ago. I spend very little time in front of the television. Instead, I spend my time asking questions about the world around me and seeking answers to them. Since most people are walking around with their heads full of television network "programmers'" post-hypnotic cues, they perceive me as some kind of "extremist" or as "radical" because I'm not programmed as they are.

The television is government's and corporations' dream tool. A hypnotic device in every home that people willingly submit to on a daily basis to get their dose of prescribed propaganda and "information." For now, you all still have the choice to cut your brainwashing simply by reaching out and shutting the television off.

Volumes can be written documenting how media and governments lead and miss-lead its constituents, but I don't have the luxury of time and space to expound upon this important topic as extensively as needed, for now I will give you one clear example, then you can go forth and see how many more you can spot out there on your own:

America gets attacked by the "bogeymen", subsequently massive FEAR is instilled in the hearts and minds of the public, "anyone who is not with us, is against us" was the battle cry of our fearless savior papa Bush. The days and weeks following the "attacks" on our soil were full of coordinated massive hypnotic programming – re-enforcing displays of patriotism. Everyone was sucked in and took their cues, and were all soon proudly waving and flying flags, crying out for the blood of the evil doers. What do you know, our most beloved, dear, loving, most wonderful protective government would soon after the attacks lay waste to several middle eastern countries, wage war on a word: "terrorism," then come forth with the largest onslaught of freedom suppressing policies, laws, agendas and acts in our history to "PROTECT US" from the bogeymen... Classic: "Order out of chaos" prototype, cause and effect.... As in Classic: Problem – Reaction – Solution paradigm.

Learned helplessness, as a technical term in animal psychology and related human psychology, means a condition of a human being or an animal in which it has learned to behave helplessly, even when the opportunity is restored for it to help itself by avoiding an unpleasant or harmful circumstance to which it has been subjected. Learned helplessness theory is the view that clinical depression and related mental illnesses result from a perceived absence of control over the outcome of a situation (Seligman, 1975).

What better example to demonstrate a politician's mastery of mass communication medium to shape and mold public opinion even when their words defy all logic and known facts then Sarah Palin's DEATH PANELS allegation. Sure the allegation has absolutely NOTHING to do with REALITY, for it was simply a successful fear mongering barrage. Not only did she (along with the hundreds of news outlets that kept repeating it) trick the public into believing that their government might want to murder them with the proposed health care bill, the real scary part is the fact that clearly demonstrates that OUTRIGHT LIES are perfectly fine to be widely disseminated. The jaw dropping disturbing truth of the matter demonstrates the norm of how:

1. It's perfectly ok for public officials to lie and deceive
2. It is perfectly ok for the mass media to spread those malicious lies
3. The dumbfounding alarming fact that a large portion of the idiot population BELIEVES the blatant made up lies despite no relevance in reality.
4. Then the brain dead masses never stand up and hold the liars/cheaters/criminals accountable.

There no longer exist any boundaries that separate truth from fiction in our society. Our society is quickly transforming itself into an "anything goes" all out slugfest, with the victors being who can outwit, outmaneuver the opponent. Today's perfectly acceptable political protocol norms are firmly based in utilizing every psychological priming, manipulation and influence methods ever devised to fool and mislead the masses into believing whatever narrative suits their purpose. Like master choreographers, they mold, shape and lead the masses scope of focus, thought and dialog in whatever direction they so choose.

One area where the media has immense influence is in SENSITIZING and DE-SENITIZING issues and conditions. Without media coverage on any given issue and/or condition there would exist no slanted or premeditated biased media induced priming or conditioning influencing public opinion and thus helping shape and mold public formulation of reality. Once the media enters the fray and begins spreading their agenda driven viewpoints upon the public... (thus "sensitizing or de-sensitizing" the matter at hand) the IMPACT of said media coverage, especially when it is reverberated and re-enforced in unison by their other media bedfellows, the IMPACT can and often is very profound and widespread, often leading to media output establishing itself as the unchallenged defacto established accepted facts, standards and norms.

Enter the RED HERRING Reverse Psychology Stratagem:

One of the key strategies of the Zionists utilize has its roots in the age old sport of Jewish arguing. The reverse psychology strategy is simply the act of publically attacking and opposing any idea, act, event, policy, agenda, etc. that you WANT to pass. I know it sounds absurd but it works so well that it is being utilized on every important issue and event they support. One example of how this logic works is: By waging highly visible opposition, attacking an issue, it creates the illusion in the minds of some that "if HE/THEY is against it that means that it must surely be a good idea." That is just one way that it is commonly used. Sometimes the people from the very same side that comes out with the proposed agenda also PUBLICALLY oppose and assault it (privately they support it). In doing so, they lend credence to the illusion that it has been "vetted." These are just two examples out of many more. The use of this stratagem is so widespread that you must learn to look out for it.

Below is just one example of this stratagem in use as the Zionist owned "news" networks took a story and broadcasted it to setup the ILLUSION that Rahm Emanuel is NOT an Israeli agent. You should know that Emmanuel is a fiercely devote Israeli citizen who serves his country well, even having served under the Israeli Defense Forces. His father was a famous Israeli terrorist hero. This Israeli agent who is embedded in the highest levels of our government is provided "cover" by his Zionist comrades in the media giving sustenance to the illusion that he is working against the very people he is truly working for. Here is a perfect example of a red herring reverse psychology hype:

The screenshot shows a CBS News article from May 27, 2010, at 8:45 AM. The article is titled "Israeli Heckler Calls Rahm Emanuel 'Anti-Semite'" and is posted by Robert Berger. It features a photo of Rahm Emanuel and Itamar Ben-Gvir. The article text includes: "JERUSALEM – White House Chief of Staff Rahm Emanuel got a hot welcome to Jerusalem's Old City Thursday. Arriving to celebrate his son's Bar Mitzvah, President Obama's right-hand-man was heckled by far right-wing Israeli activist Itamar Ben-Gvir. 'You are an anti-Semite, a hypocrite who hates Israel!' Ben-Gvir shouted. 'You want Israel to return to the 1967 borders. Shame on you!' Many Israelis feel betrayed by Emanuel, whose father is Israeli. They blame him for what they see as President Obama's anti-Israel policy. Ties between Israel and the U.S. have plummeted since Mr. Obama took office last year. The President demanded a freeze on Jewish construction in the West Bank and disputed East Jerusalem, charging that the settlements were an obstacle to peace with the Palestinians. Israel initially refused, but under pressure..."

The Psychological Naming (aka "reverse psychology double speak") Convention:

When you sit back and actually READ and STUDY the actual NAMES of oppressive Bills and Acts, signed into law, the generated names are psychologically designed for us, the citizens. What I'm trying to say is that many of these laws that actually strip us of our rights are NAMED COMPLETELY OPPOSITE OF THEIR PURPOSE. The proper title of the "U.S.A. Patriot Act" should have been something like "U.S.A. Citizens Rights Reduction Act". But hell no, that would make it so obvious, in reflecting the actual real CONTENT of the Act, getting it accepted, signed and approved would be very difficult to say the least! This stratagem was highlighted in Orwell's 1984 with entities such as the "Ministry of Truth" which was a "misnomer and in reality serves an opposing purpose to that which its name would imply." I don't care who, what, when, where and how, the fact remains, it is a strategy that IS REGULARLY USED in real life by political leaders and Washington. Call it "doublespeak", "doublethink" or whatever, it is so prevalent that the leaders hire and pay millions to masters of word manipulation to give them the edge they need to hoodwink the crowds.

Interesting note: When asked if fascism could ever come to America, Huey Long (the Depression era governor of Louisiana) replied, "Sure, only here they'll call it anti-fascism."

There you have it, the KEY to their naming convention formula, the decipher key for naming the TITLES of policies, Acts, legislation and Laws of our government is the opposite of what it truly represents. Take the term "Homeland Security," the term was adopted from Adolf Hitler's institution of his Homeland "State Security" police... the "SS." How about the "Fairness Doctrine" for example, it is anything BUT fair, and designed to oppress free speech, the list goes on and on.

Our government leaders know full well that when any new law or legislation is discussed in sound bites on the nightly news, the water cooler, or wherever, that THE TITLE is what people will REMEMBER more than any other factor. Virtually no one ever reads the common 1,000 page bills, THUS WE WITNESS: "the Patriot Act? Oh yeah, I'm all for it for I am a true patriot of my wonderful country!" Doh... This is what I call bad ass double speak manipulation masterpiece of public opinion in action.

Propaganda over the many years of practice and perfection has become a highly functional calculated science.

Propaganda is communication aimed at influencing the attitude of a community toward some cause or position. As opposed to impartially providing information, propaganda in its most basic sense, presents information primarily to influence an audience. Propaganda often presents facts selectively (thus lying by omission) to encourage a particular synthesis, or uses loaded messages to produce an emotional rather than rational response to the information presented. The desired result is a change of the attitude toward the subject in the target audience to further a political agenda.

Garth Jowett and Victoria O'Donnell have provided a concise, workable definition of the term: "Propaganda is the deliberate, systematic attempt to shape perceptions, manipulate cognitions, and direct behavior to achieve a response that furthers the desired intent of the propagandist"

"Propaganda is neutrally defined as a systematic form of purposeful persuasion that attempts to influence the emotions, attitudes, opinions, and actions of specified target audiences for ideological, political or commercial purposes through the controlled transmission of one-sided messages (which may or may not be factual) via mass and direct media channels." - Richard Alan Nelson, A Chronology and Glossary of Propaganda in the United States, 1996

TECHNIQUES:

Common media for transmitting propaganda messages include news reports, government reports, historical revision, junk science, books, leaflets, movies, radio, television, and posters. Less common nowadays are letterpost envelopes examples of which of survive from the time of the American Civil War.(Connecticut Historical Society; Civil War Collections; Covers(envelopes). (In principle anything that appears on a poster can be produced on a reduced scale on a pocket-style envelope with corresponding proportions to the poster). The case of radio and television, propaganda can exist on news, current-affairs or talk-show segments, as advertising or public-service announce "spots" or as long-running advertorials. Propaganda campaigns often follow a strategic transmission pattern to indoctrinate the target group. This may begin with a simple transmission such as a leaflet dropped from a plane or an advertisement. Generally these messages will contain directions on how to obtain more information, via a web site, hot line, radio program, et cetera (as it is seen also for selling purposes among other goals). The strategy intends to initiate the individual from information recipient to information seeker through reinforcement, and then from information seeker to opinion leader through indoctrination.

A number of techniques based in social psychological research are used to generate propaganda. Many of these same techniques can be found under logical fallacies, since propagandists use arguments that, while sometimes convincing, are not necessarily valid.

Some time has been spent analyzing the means by which propaganda messages are transmitted. That work is important but it is clear that information dissemination strategies become propaganda strategies only when coupled with propagandistic messages. Identifying these messages is a necessary prerequisite to study the methods by which those messages are spread. Below are a number of techniques for generating propaganda:

Ad hominem

A Latin phrase that has come to mean attacking your opponent, as opposed to attacking their arguments.

Ad nauseam

This argument approach uses tireless repetition of an idea. An idea, especially a simple slogan, that is repeated enough times, may begin to be taken as the truth. This approach works best when media sources are limited and controlled by the propagator.

Appeal to authority

Appeals to authority cite prominent figures to support a position, idea, argument, or course of action.

Appeal to fear

Appeals to fear seek to build support by instilling anxieties and panic in the general population, for example, Joseph Goebbels exploited Theodore Kaufman's Germany Must Perish! to claim that the Allies sought the extermination of the German people.

Appeal to prejudice

Using loaded or emotive terms to attach value or moral goodness to believing the proposition.

Bandwagon

Bandwagon and "inevitable-victory" appeals attempt to persuade the target audience to join in and take the course of action that "everyone else is taking."

Inevitable victory: invites those not already on the bandwagon to join those already on the road to certain victory. Those already or at least partially on the bandwagon are reassured that staying aboard is their best course of action.

Join the crowd: This technique reinforces people's natural desire to be on the winning side. This technique is used to convince the audience that a program is an expression of an irresistible mass movement and that it is in their best interest to join.

Black-and-White fallacy

Presenting only two choices, with the product or idea being propagated as the better choice. (e.g., "You are either with us, or you are with the enemy")

Beautiful people

The type of propaganda that deals with famous people or depicts attractive, happy people. This makes other people think that if they buy a product or follow a certain ideology, they too will be happy or successful.

Big Lie

The repeated articulation of a complex of events that justify subsequent action. The descriptions of these events have elements of truth, and the "big lie" generalizations merge and eventually supplant the public's accurate perception of the underlying events. After World War I the German Stab in the back explanation of the cause of their defeat became a justification for Nazi re-militarization and revanchist aggression.

Common man

The "plain folks" or "common man" approach attempts to convince the audience that the propagandist's positions reflect the common sense of the people. It is designed to win the confidence of the audience by communicating in the common manner and style of the target audience. Propagandists use ordinary language and mannerisms (and clothe their message in face-to-face and audiovisual communications) in attempting to identify their point of view with that of the average person. For example, a propaganda leaflet may make an argument on a macroeconomic issue, such as unemployment insurance benefits, using everyday terms: "given that the country has little money during this recession, we should stop paying unemployment benefits to those who do not work, because that is like maxing out all your credit cards during a tight period, when you should be tightening your belt."

Demonizing the enemy

Making individuals from the opposing nation, from a different ethnic group, or those who support the opposing viewpoint appear to be subhuman (e.g., the Vietnam War-era term "gooks" for National Front for the Liberation of South Vietnam aka Vietcong, (or 'VC') soldiers), worthless, or immoral, through suggestion or false accusations.

Direct order

This technique hopes to simplify the decision making process by using images and words to tell the audience exactly what actions to take, eliminating any other possible choices. Authority figures can be used to give the order, overlapping it with the Appeal to authority technique, but not necessarily. The Uncle Sam "I want you" image is an example of this technique.

Disinformation

The creation or deletion of information from public records, in the purpose of making a false record of an event or the actions of a person or organization, including outright forgery of photographs, motion pictures, broadcasts, and sound recordings as well as printed documents.

Euphoria

The use of an event that generates euphoria or happiness, or using an appealing event to boost morale. Euphoria can be created by declaring a holiday, making luxury items available, or mounting a military parade with marching bands and patriotic messages.

Flag-waving

An attempt to justify an action on the grounds that doing so will make one more patriotic, or in some way benefit a group, country, or idea. The feeling of patriotism this technique attempts to inspire may not necessarily diminish or entirely omit one's capability for rational examination of the matter in question.

Glittering generalities

Glittering generalities are emotionally appealing words applied to a product or idea, but which present no concrete argument or analysis. A famous example is the campaign slogan "Ford has a better idea!"

Half-truth

A half-truth is a deceptive statement, which may come in several forms and includes some element of truth. The statement might be partly true, the statement may be totally true but only part of the whole truth, or it may utilize some deceptive element, such as improper punctuation, or double meaning, especially if the intent is to deceive, evade blame or misrepresent the truth.

Intentional vagueness

Generalities are deliberately vague so that the audience may supply its own interpretations. The intention is to move the audience by use of undefined phrases, without analyzing their validity or attempting to determine their reasonableness or application. The intent is to cause people to draw their own interpretations rather than simply being presented with an explicit idea. In trying to "figure out" the propaganda, the audience forgoes judgment of the ideas presented. Their validity, reasonableness and application may still be considered.

Labeling

A Euphemism is used when the propagandist attempts to increase the perceived quality, credibility, or credence of a particular ideal. A Dysphemism is used when the intent of the propagandist is to discredit, diminish the perceived quality, or hurt the perceived righteousness of the Mark. By creating a 'label' or 'category' or 'faction' of a population, it is much easier to make an example of these larger bodies, because they can uplift or defame the Mark without actually incurring legal-defamation. Example: "Liberal" is a dysphemism intended to diminish the perceived credibility of a particular Mark. By taking a displeasing argument presented by a Mark, the propagandist can quote that person, and then attack 'liberals' in an attempt to both (1) create a political battle-ax of unaccountable aggression and (2) diminish the quality of the Mark. If the propagandist uses the label on too-many perceivably credible individuals, muddying up the word can be done by broadcasting bad-examples of 'liberals' into the media. Labeling can be thought of as a sub-set of Guilt by association, another logical fallacy.

Name-calling

Propagandists use the name-calling technique to incite fears and arouse prejudices in their hearers in the intent that the bad names will cause hearers to construct a negative opinion about a group or set of beliefs or ideas that the propagandist would wish hearers to denounce. The method is intended to provoke conclusions about a matter apart from impartial examinations of facts. Name-calling is thus a substitute for rational, fact-based arguments against the an idea or belief on its own merits.[7]

Obtain disapproval or Reduction ad Hitlerum

This technique is used to persuade a target audience to disapprove of an action or idea by suggesting that the idea is popular with groups hated, feared, or held in contempt by the target audience. Thus if a group that supports a certain policy is led to believe that undesirable, subversive, or contemptible people support the same policy, then the members of the group may decide to change their original position. This is a form of bad logic, where a is said to include X, and b is said to include X, therefore, a = b.

Oversimplification

Favorable generalities are used to provide simple answers to complex social, political, economic, or military problems.

Quotes out of Context

Selectively editing quotes to change meanings—political documentaries designed to discredit an opponent or an opposing political viewpoint often make use of this technique.

Rationalization

Individuals or groups may use favorable generalities to rationalize questionable acts or beliefs. Vague and pleasant phrases are often used to justify such actions or beliefs.

Red herring

Presenting data or issues that, while compelling, are irrelevant to the argument at hand, and then claiming that it validates the argument.

Repetition

This type of propaganda deals with a jingle or word that is repeated over and over again, thus getting it stuck in someone's head, so they can buy the product. The "Repetition" method has been described previously.

Scapegoating

Assigning blame to an individual or group, thus alleviating feelings of guilt from responsible parties and/or distracting attention from the need to fix the problem for which blame is being assigned.

Slogans

A slogan is a brief, striking phrase that may include labeling and stereotyping. Although slogans may be enlisted to support reasoned ideas, in practice they tend to act only as emotional appeals. Opponents of the US's invasion and occupation of Iraq use the slogan "blood for oil" to suggest that the invasion and its human losses were done to access Iraq's oil riches. On the other hand, "hawks" who argue that the US should continue to fight in Iraq use the slogan "cut and run" to suggest that it would be cowardly or weak to withdraw from Iraq. Similarly, the names of the military campaigns, such as "enduring freedom" or "just cause", may also be regarded to be slogans, devised to influence people.

Stereotyping

This technique attempts to arouse prejudices in an audience by labeling the object of the propaganda campaign as something the target audience fears, hates, loathes, or finds undesirable. For instance, reporting on a foreign country or social group may focus on the stereotypical traits that the reader expects, even though they are far from being representative of the whole country or group; such reporting often focuses on the anecdotal. In graphic propaganda, including war posters, this might include portraying enemies with stereotyped racial features.

Testimonial

Testimonials are quotations, in or out of context, especially cited to support or reject a given policy, action, program, or personality. The reputation or the role (expert, respected public figure, etc.) of the individual giving the statement is exploited. The testimonial places the official sanction of a respected person or authority on a propaganda message. This is done in an effort to cause the target audience to identify itself with the authority or to accept the authority's opinions and beliefs as its own. See also, damaging quotation

Transfer

Also known as association, this is a technique that involves projecting the positive or negative qualities of one person, entity, object, or value onto another to make the second more acceptable or to discredit it. It evokes an emotional response, which stimulates the target to identify with recognized authorities. Often highly visual, this technique often utilizes symbols superimposed over other visual images. These symbols may be used in place of words; for example, placing swastikas on or around a picture of an opponent to associate the opponent with Nazism.

Unstated assumption

This technique is used when the propaganda concept that the propagandist intends to transmit would seem less credible if explicitly stated. The concept is instead repeatedly assumed or implied.

Virtue words

These are words in the value system of the target audience that produce a positive image when attached to a person or issue. Peace, happiness, security, wise leadership, freedom, "The Truth", etc. are virtue words. In countries such as the U.S. religiosity is seen as a virtue, making associations to this quality affectively beneficial.

Soon to be appointed to SCOTUS is Zionist Israeli agent Elena Kagan. Again we witness the Jews prominently opposing one of their own agents to give life to the illusion that they are against her appointment. This is just another recent example of their reverse psychology stratagem that they regularly employ. In reality any prominent "Jew" worth his salt would cut off their left nut to get her appointed. Appointed she will be, no matter what comes of the dog and pony show "hearings." Down the road you shall witness her undying devotion and dedication to her brethren as she will soon rule over us with the wishes of her masters firmly embedded in her mind.

There are many mind/word game professionals in the manipulation business such as Frank Luntz the prominent Zionist Jew pollster and political strategist, advisor to top politicians. His claim to fame is his knack of finding the best ways for leaders to communicate (slightly deceive) the masses by clever use of terminology and phrases. To begin with, he coaches Republican candidates such as Rudolph Giuliani to Oklahoma Rep. J.C. Watts on how to appeal to Jews, “Be vocally and unconditionally pro-Israel,” is the first advice he gave to them along with everyone else.

Luntz was the one who pushed Republicans to refer to “tax cuts” as “tax relief”, “separation” instead of “segregation”, West Bank and Gaza be referred to as “disputed” as opposed to “occupied”, he recommended calling the Palestinians Arabs since people’s image of Arabs says wealth, oil and Islam, he was the one who advised the Bush Administration to reframe from using the term “global warming” and instead use “climate change.” As you can see from this sample list, he is a big communications strategist the ruling elite dispatch to train their executive field operatives, i.e., the politicians who must regularly face the cameras how to carefully communicate to the public using strategic terminology with the purpose of diffusing and misdirecting sensitive issues, policies and agendas. Interesting how the communications strategy of the likes of pros such as this Zionist agent promotes seems to jump strait out of Orwell’s newspeak and doubletalk of 1984: “war is peace”, “Ignorance is strength”, “Freedom is slavery.”

Luntz insists that his politics don’t play a part in his research. “I don’t take sides. I don’t fight over policy,” Luntz said. “I listen to the principles of my audience and try to apply that to the support of Israel.” Thus as you can see, he is an admitted agent of Israel, this is no secret for he is a proud Zionist Jew who like all his comrades, practice the art of twisting words, meanings, situations, polls, data to highlight whatever issue or agenda they are pushing, these are masters of deception. Here is info on one of his most recent works:

The screenshot shows a news article on the CNSNews.com website. The article is titled "Jewish Clergy Group: Elena Kagan Isn't 'Kosher' to Serve on Supreme Court" and is dated Friday, June 25, 2010, by Pete Winn, Senior Writer/Editor. The article text states that Supreme Court nominee Elena Kagan is "not kosher"—meaning she is not fit to serve on the court—according to more than 850 Orthodox members of the Rabbinical Alliance of America. It quotes Rabbi Yehuda Levin, spokesman for the alliance, saying "Elena Kagan is not kosher. She is not fit to sit on this Court—or any court." The Israel Project’s Secret Handbook Exposed Imagine for a moment you’re a general about to embark on a decisive military campaign and your intelligence service secures a copy of your opponent’s entire campaign strategy. You open it and you see his battle plans laid out before you, key forces, weaponry, lines of attack, points of weaknesses, etc. You suddenly understand just how weak his forces are and precisely how to mercilessly attack and eviscerate him. The plan makes you understand that his forces are largely based on artifice and sham. It gives you confidence that you are entirely on the right course and tells you how to stay on that course. Victory is assured, your enemy’s defeat certain.

Douglas Bloomfield and Newsweek have done pretty close to that against the Israel lobby. Specifically, they’ve exposed a secret hasbara handbook written for The Israel Project by star Republican marketer, Frank Luntz. The oddly-named The Israel Project’s 2009 Global Language Dictionary (pdf) is a veritable goldmine of arguments, strategy, tactics. At 116 pages, it’s not for the faint of heart. But anyone who wants to get inside the head of the Israel lobby must read this document.

The first thing to say is that the entire document is a pathetic piece of propaganda. While it ostensibly is addressed to TIP’s leaders and advises them how to shape a pro-Israel message when they lobby Congress, the media and other critical power brokers, the entire thing reeks of desperation and a lost cause. It goes without saying that the arguments offered are not only devoid of truth, they’re devoid of rigor or credibility. There is literally no substance to the claims offered on Israel’s behalf. It’s an empty exercise in every sense of the word. Reading this makes you realize that the entire Israel lobby edifice is a house of cards.

Perhaps I'm letting my shock at the shabbiness of the Dictionary get the better of me and overstating the case it reveals against the Lobby. After all, any political network that exists for six decades and achieves as much as this one has doesn't topple overnight. But I'll just have to let you be the judge.

What we have today is a sort of "invasion of the body snatchers" syndrome, where we see the multitudes of people walking the streets like domesticated zombies, devoid of independent thought, almost everyone has been broken in, converted and all having become docile parts of the system that has been in the process of taking over the planet. Some feel it in their bones that the "system" is wrong but they can't quite put their finger on it. No one has a clue for the media manipulators have you well surrounded with completely encircled avalanche of information, entertainment, trivia, law, career, sports, movies, shows, and so forth to keep you busy, distracted and information overloaded from the moment you awaken until you go to sleep, up till the end of days.

Our world is full of PROFESSIONAL DEBUNKERS who are employed either directly or indirectly by the sectors they target. This is beyond reproach, for evidence of these paid debunkers has arisen everywhere, yet for some crazy reason, no one seems to care, everyone just accepts them as part of the allowable extremes. Our society operates under INFORMATION WARFARE, where the official narratives take precedence to and supersede REALITY. So much so that with a coordinated effort of the media matrix, it actually morphs and BECOMES ACKNOWLEDGED REALITY.

Corporalist Ideology & the Fantasy of Power

By Stephen Dufrechou

Since the US Supreme Court officially sold the United States to corporations, via its ruling in "Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission", I have found myself thinking often of Batman—specifically, of the film "Batman Begins" (Christopher Nolan, 2005).

In this context, "Batman Begins" is notable because of what it says about America's tradition of farcical politics. It speaks volumes, too, toward how political elites can be so deluded, that they will sell the American experiment to CEOs without batting an eyelash.

The key to grasping this insight in the film is through an analysis of the plot structure, itself. We only have to shift our perspective slightly, and then—suddenly—we can see what was once invisible in the storyline, and hence, what was once invisible in our politics.

The film introduces billionaire Bruce Wayne (Christan Bale) as an inmate in a Far-East prison. After being assaulted in a prison brawl, Wayne is confronted by well-dressed visitor, Ra's al Ghul (Liam Neeson), and Ra's convinces Wayne to join him, upon release, in martial arts training for the secretive "League of Shadows". Wayne agrees. But, when he learns of the League's goal to restore "balance" to the modern world, via political sabotage, murder, and corruption, Wayne rebels. He burns down the League's compound, leaving Ra's for dead.

Wayne then returns to Gotham City and finds Gotham plagued by an economic depression—which has spawned a crime wave, connected to political corruption in the city government. Taking matters into his own hands, Wayne invents an alter ego, "Batman", to fight these social ills.

Eventually, Wayne learns that Gotham's economic and political woes were actually created by the League Shadows. Ra's (having survived his near-death confrontation) arrives in Gotham to complete the destruction of the city, to restore "balance". Ra's confronts Wayne and tells him that the League of Shadows had sabotaged the economic system, to bring about Gotham's downfall.

Of course, Batman eventually defeats Ra's, leaving the League of Shadows fleeing in the distance. The economic saboteurs thus vanquished, Gotham can proceed to rebuild. And, we might note, society was saved by none other than a corporate billionaire—since only wealthy capitalists can save us from worldly threats.

So, what makes this narrative interesting is the connection it offers, the relationship between the “League of Shadows” and the economic depression, with the “League” as cause of the financial implosion ... When we compare this fictional relationship to reality, the “League”—as a plot element—effectively serves as a “fantasy”, a delusion, which then offsets the audience’s acknowledgement of the really-existing cause of systemic poverty and economic depressions in capitalist societies: the capitalist system, itself.

“Batman Begins” is therefore a capitalist fantasy, par excellence. The fantasy-element of the “League of Shadows” functions to replace the real-world cause of economic problems: the imbalances innate to capitalism’s own structure. As such, the fantasy-element allows the capitalistic audience to ignore an inconvenient truth about their own society—a truth which might make them question the sanity of the status quo.

Meanwhile, the truth is this: poverty and economic implosions are inherent to capitalism’s character. Indeed, in the real world, Wayne Enterprises would be complicit in creating economic downturns—and, now, openly complicit in manipulating the election process, via the Supreme court’s ruling in “Citizens United”. Let’s not forget, also, that “Batman Begins” features Wayne Enterprises as part of the Military Industrial Complex. (Remember how Wayne manages to get that armored car and fancy weaponry?) Thus, Batman, our savior, is also a war profiteer—another fact the film quietly glosses over, for propaganda’s sake.

But here is the larger point:

The film’s “fantasy-supported” denial of crucial facts about reality—for the pure sake of avoiding unpleasant truths—is what psychoanalysts call “disavowal”. Disavowal occurs in more places than in just Hollywood films, though. It occurs on every level of everyday life, including politics—which is how our Supreme Court could convince itself to sell what little was left of the American republic.

The “Illogical logic” of Disavowal

As we implied above, disavowal is a kind of psychological mechanism—an “illogical logic”—that enables an individual to cope with reality. As such, it operates largely on an unconscious level. But its existence is detected by the way it effects conscious, objective behavior.

The logic of disavowal, itself, can be phrased as such:

“I know very well..., but...”

We see this in consumerism, as in: “I know very well that I cannot afford this Land Rover, but I will feel empowered/accepted/loved if I do own it.” The latter half of the unconscious thought—everything after the “but”—serves to negate the former half, allowing the individual to deny an unpleasant fact that disturbs their relation to reality, helping them to cope with feelings of rejection, guilt, self-loathing, etc. The consumer thus convinces himself that owning the Land Rover is the solution to his negative feelings.

Here, “fantasy” is not consciously-created, like in a role-playing scenario, or in a daydream about winning the Super Bowl. Rather, fantasy is manufactured primarily by the unconscious. It is important to note that it’s a misconception that the unconscious is “irrational”. Instead, the unconscious is “structured like a language”—as psychoanalyst Jacques Lacan phrased it. “Like a language” implies that the unconscious operates according to a set logic, which can be explained through our conscious use of language when we study it. This is why we can articulate how mechanisms like “disavowal” work.

We should note, also, that the less psychologically-developed a given adult is, away from his/her initial state of dependency on parental/authority figures, then the more reliant that adult will be on fantasy mechanisms, like “disavowal”, to cope with reality. So, if we want sane politics, we’d be wise to introduce psychoanalysis into our political discussions.

From this perspective, we can get a better handle on the way “Batman Begins” operates as propaganda. We can see that the film is really a capitalist fantasy, which allows the audience to continue “disavowing” the inhuman flaws within the capitalist system, itself. These audience members, these entertained consumers, can thus continue their consumption of corporate goods and services, freed from confronting their responsibility to those who suffer (themselves included) from the very system they perpetuate. In other words, the audience’s disavowal—via the fantasy of a “League of Shadows”—allows their own capitalist ideology to flourish, unchecked by inconvenient truths. Accordingly, capitalism is then falsely perceived as an ideal society, a society free from innate and catastrophic flaws.

We can now apply the logic of disavowal to the US government’s own ideology. By doing so, we will have a better grasp on why the Supreme Court’s decision in “Citizen’s United” was based on a fantasy, a delusion, which disavows crucial facts about reality. These matters will be discussed in Part 2.

You think that all people in the media standing up for the little guy and “truth” are for real? Let me tell you, one of the elite media manipulators best kept strategies is the use of DOUBLE AGENTS. Many of you refer to them as “plants” or “shills.” Beware of those who are in your midst and claim to be with your kind, for they are in reality just mere spies and strategic PUBLIC DIALOGUE MANIPULATORS. Their sole mission is to gain the trust and respect of the truthers movement thus try to LEAD and CONTROL THE SCOPE, CONTENT and DIRECTION OF PUBLIC DIALOG within the target group or movement. Their mission and strategy is simply leading the discussions into irrelevant areas, pre-desired outcomes, introducing false positives into the mix, entertaining whacky theories, moving the people “off the scent”, muddying up the issues with non truths, misdirecting the public discourse, and so forth.

“The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves.” – Vladimir Ilyich Lenin

Look at Politically Incorrect establishment double agent Bill Maher for instance. This decadent immorality promoting liberal Zionist Jew shill (oh you didn’t know he is Jewish? He has publically declared his undying support for his nation, Israel) has massive influence on millions of his liberal viewers he uses his TV show as a catalyst where he masterfully STEERS public opinion of his far left viewers in the direction his Zionist masters direct him too, for the best damage control of obvious matters that have made it into the public sphere, all in a funny “just one of the guys” non threatening comical manner. He is given the green light to attack those that are not “made men” within the elite Zionist Cosa Nostra. He expertly highlights some issues and defuses others under the guise of entertainment and comedy. His allegiance was unmasked when he flat out slammed and ridiculed audience members for mentioning the 911 inside job.

There are many hosts like him on TV, radio, newspapers, magazines and books all over the world plying their craft. We are being misguided at every turn, every medium, directly or indirectly, in your face or by stealth. The news anchors on TV are nothing more than prostitutes as John Swinden former head of the New York Times once candidly elaborated upon:

“There is no such thing at this date of the world’s history in America as an independent press. You know it, and I know it. There is not one of you who dares to write your honest opinion, and if you did, you know beforehand it would never appear in print.

I am paid weekly to keep my honest opinion out of paper. Others of you are paid similar salaries for similar things, and any of you who would be so foolish as to write honest opinions would be out on the streets looking for another job ...

The business of the journalist is to destroy the truth, to lie outright, to pervert, to vilify, to fawn at the feet of Mammon, and to sell his country and his race for his daily bread.

*You know it, and I know it, and what folly is this, toasting an independent press? We are the tools and vassals of rich men behind the scenes. We are the Jumping Jacks. They pull the strings and we dance.

*Our talents, our possibilities and our lives are all the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes.

Then you have the more “hard core” deep undercover double agent SHILLS such as the famous Jewish “truther” Noam Chomsky, a political activist and influential leader in American politics. I read some of his works and am amazed how often he does in fact champion truth and “co-mingle with the established facts” of many conspiracies.... BUT.... You must look deeper... Where does he ultimately lead the BLAME to? Eh? He always redirects his readers and sends them off on a cold trail where they will never deduce who the true rulers are.

The most important “acid test” is the fact that he fails to acknowledge that his Jew brethren are the ruling masters and instead leads all his readers astray with false leads. Another red flag that reveals this man is an obvious shill is his total denial of the fact that 9/11 wasn’t a bit curious, odd, suspicious or downright self inflicted. Responding to a question raised by a 9/11 researcher about the claims that bombs may have been used on 9/11; Chomsky’s response was that the movement has no credentialed experts to back up the claim. What a crock of bull. An entire truth group filled with credentialed experts, government contractors, architects, engineers, physicists, professors, and even more qualified individuals was founded and has investigated this aspect of the attacks. His response was so ridiculous for he was willfully misrepresenting the group, Architects and Engineer’s for 9/11 Truth, by lying, suggesting that anyone can get a degree in structural engineering online paper mill and so their opinion can immediately be thrown out of the window. Noam Chomsky, Notice has been served: Your cover has been blown wide open you make believe activist and truther. We know you are just another pawn of the Zionist elite misleading machine.

“The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves.” – Vladimir Ilyich Lenin

I recently uncovered an even more respected shill among the truther movement. His name is Sherman H. Skolnick and he even admits he is Jewish. Again as is the standard modus operandi, the shills utilizes and rehashes 90% of truthful information that is already in the public domain, thus when they speak, the clueless minions that fall for it, eventually come to trust and believe everything they say due to the accuracy of truth they speak of. Well, this JEWISH shill points the finger of top dog elite world rulers at the Jesuit/Vatican camp when in reality we have fully discovered that this group lost controlling power long ago. The actual quote that gave him away and revealed his secret allegiance to his masters was when I read this line:

“Bank America, the holding company, was owned principally by the Vatican and the Jesuits, the Pope’s clever army who occasionally see fit to rebuff the Pontiff. In the 1970s, the ownership broadened out to include the French Rothschilds, wrongly identified by know-nothings as “Jewish bankers”, actually very Pro-Vatican into many joint finances not exactly compatible with ordinary Jews or the State of Israel.”

LOL! Now that was a blatant bullshit attempt to cover and provide disinfo and miss-direction for his Jew masters. I hadn’t questioned nor scrutinized Skolnick’s works prior to reading that passage quoted above that sent me on a direct quest to analyze his motives. You can take it to the bank; he is a full fledged Zionist Jew miss-information agent shill.

The point that you must understand with establishment shills is that they expertly play the part of “anti-establishment” and become part of the champions of truth and oppression movement. They ply their craft from behind enemy lines. Again I must reiterate that shills such as this perfect specimen establish legitimacy by providing more than 90% truthful coverage in their distributed communications, the difficult part is combing through their published works and determining what is true and what is meant to miss-direct the truth movement.

It has been scientifically proven (and practiced daily) that people can be lead to believe anything and do almost anything given the proper circumstances, conditions and pretext. Here is yet another exhibit of proof:

The Milgram experiment was a series of social psychology experiments conducted by Yale University psychologist Stanley Milgram, which measured the willingness of study participants to obey an authority figure who instructed them to perform acts that conflicted with their personal conscience. Milgram first described his research in 1963 in an article published in the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology, and later discussed his findings in greater depth in his 1974 book, Obedience to Authority: An Experimental View.

The experiments began in July 1961, three months after the start of the trial of Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann in Jerusalem. Milgram devised his psychological study to answer the question: "Was it that Eichmann and his accomplices in the Holocaust™ had mutual intent, in at least with regard to the goals of the Holocaust™?" In other words, "Was there a mutual sense of morality among those involved?"

Milgram's testing revealed that it could have been that the millions of accomplices were merely following orders, despite violating their deepest moral beliefs. Milgram summarized the experiment in his 1974 article, "The Perils of Obedience", writing:

"The legal and philosophic aspects of obedience are of enormous importance, but they say very little about how most people behave in concrete situations. I set up a simple experiment at Yale University to test how much pain an ordinary citizen would inflict on another person simply because he was ordered to by an experimental scientist. Stark authority was pitted against the subjects' [participants'] strongest moral imperatives against hurting others, and, with the subjects' [participants'] ears ringing with the screams of the victims, authority won more often than not. The extreme willingness of adults to go to almost any lengths on the command of an authority constitutes the chief finding of the study and the fact most urgently demanding explanation.

Ordinary people, simply doing their jobs, and without any particular hostility on their part, can become agents in a terrible destructive process. Moreover, even when the destructive effects of their work become patently clear, and they are asked to carry out actions incompatible with fundamental standards of morality, relatively few people have the resources needed to resist authority."

Milgram also combined the effect of authority with that of conformity. In those experiments, the participant was joined by one or two additional "teachers" (also actors, like the "learner"). The behavior of the participants' peers strongly affected the results. In Experiment 17, when two additional teachers refused to comply, only 4 of 40 participants continued in the experiment. In Experiment 18, the participant performed a subsidiary task (reading the questions via microphone or recording the learner's answers) with another "teacher" who complied fully. In that variation, 37 of 40 continued with the experiment.

The Milgram Experiment is quite famous and has been replicated countless of times by independent researchers, including the BBC, Derren Brown, Jerry M. Burger for Primetime series Basic Instincts, etc. Every single time, the obedience rates were almost identical to what Milgram found in 1961.

Solomon Asch was a professor of psychology at Swarthmore College, he became famous in the 1950s, following experiments which showed that social pressure can make a person say something that is obviously incorrect. This experiment was conducted using 123 male participants. Each participant was put into a group with 5 to 7 "confederates" (People who knew the true aims of the experiment, but were introduced as participants to the naive "real" participant). The participants were shown a card with a line on it, followed by another card with 3 lines on it labeled a, b, and c. The participants were then asked to say which line matched the line on the first card in length. Each line question was called a "trial". The "real" participant answered last or pen ultimately. For the first two trials, the subject would feel at ease in the experiment, as he and the other "participants" gave the obvious, correct answer. On the third trial, the confederates would start all giving the same wrong answer. There were 18 trials in total and the confederates answered incorrectly for 12 of them, these 12 were known as the "critical trials". The aim was to see whether the real participant would change his answer and respond in the same way as the confederates, despite it being the wrong answer.

Solomon Asch thought that the majority of people would not conform to something obviously wrong, but the results showed that participants conformed to the majority on 37% of the critical trials. However, 25% of the participants did not conform on any trial. 75% conformed at least once, and 5% conformed every time.

Meanwhile, those who run our government know perfectly well how to manipulate public opinion; they have the art down to a science. They have been doing so since its inception. The ruling masters are the ruling masters only because they have perfected the science of MANIPULATING COGNITIVE PUBLIC PERCEPTION. So much so, that when leaks appear throughout their well laid plans and acts, and considerable amount of leaks occur often, they immediately come out with cover-up propaganda and narratives, thus quelling any uprising and rocking the cattle masses back to sleep. But there has always been one group of people out there that do not easily succumb to indoctrination and programming.

Cognitive Conditioning Rebels: These are people who still have fully functioning frontal lobes with intact reasoning and logic capabilities. People who question everything and can spot bullshit from a mile away. These are what I call the Cognitive Conditioning Rebels, what the rest of the world refer to as conspiracy theorists or truthers, some of which become outspoken activists and protesters, champions of TRUTH. The government and the ruling elite view this group as dangerous thorns in their ass and have been waging war against them for quite a long time. Thus the ongoing program of associating and merging truther activists into one lump along with TERRORISTS! For in the eyes of the ruling elite: anyone who exposes and opposes their agendas (especial with the gasp* truth*) are their enemies.

By the looks of it, the government is getting closer and closer to labeling all the truthers as dangerous deranged CRIMINAL evil blood thirsty murderous conspiracy theorist child raping terrorists. I will reveal the ruling elite's stratagem of misinformation and manipulation of public conscience and thought throughout the Matrix Report, here is just a small glimpse into the world of government/ruling elite propaganda master's strategies of combating the TRUTH and those who champion it:

Stealth Propaganda

By John Stossel

An obscure 2008 academic article gained traction with bloggers over the weekend. The article was written by the head of Obama's Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Harvard Law Professor Cass Sunstein [FYI: Zionist Jew]. He's a good friend of the president and the promoter the contradictory idea: "libertarian paternalism". In the article, he muses about what government can do to combat "conspiracy" theories:

...we suggest a distinctive tactic for breaking up the hard core of extremists who supply conspiracy theories: cognitive infiltration of extremist groups, whereby government agents or their allies ... will undermine the crippled epistemology of those who subscribe to such theories. They do so by planting doubts about the theories and stylized facts that circulate within such groups, thereby introducing beneficial cognitive diversity.

That's right. Obama's Regulation Czar is so concerned about citizens thinking the wrong way that he proposed sending government agents to "infiltrate" these groups and manipulate them. This reads like an Onion article: Powerful government official proposes to combat paranoid conspiracy groups that believe the government is out to get them...by proving that they really are out to get them. Did nothing of what Sunstein was writing strike him as...I don't know...crazy? "Cognitive infiltration" of extremist groups by government agents? "Stylized facts"? Was "truthiness" too pedantic?

Salon.com's Glenn Greenwald explains why this you should be disturbed by this:

This was written 18 months ago, at a time when the ascendancy of Sunstein's close friend to the Presidency looked likely, in exactly the area he now oversees. Additionally, the government-controlled messaging that Sunstein desires has been a prominent feature of U.S. Government actions over the last decade, including in some recently revealed practices of the current administration, and the mindset in which it is grounded explains a great deal about our political class.

... What is most odious and revealing about Sunstein's worldview is his condescending, self-loving belief that "false conspiracy theories" are largely the province of fringe, ignorant Internet masses and the Muslim world.

It's certainly true that one can easily find irrational conspiracy theories in those venues, but some of the most destructive "false conspiracy theories" have emanated from the very entity Sunstein wants to endow with covert propaganda power: namely, the U.S. Government itself, along with its elite media defenders. Moreover, "crazy conspiracy theorist" has long been the favorite epithet of those same parties to discredit people trying to expose elite wrongdoing and corruption.

It is this history of government deceit and wrongdoing that renders Sunstein's desire to use covert propaganda to "undermine" anti-government speech so repugnant. The reason conspiracy theories resonate so much is precisely that people have learned -- rationally -- to distrust government actions and statements. Sunstein's proposed covert propaganda scheme is a perfect illustration of why that is. In other words, people don't trust the Government and "conspiracy theories" are so pervasive precisely because government is typically filled with people like Cass Sunstein, who think that systematic deceit and government-sponsored manipulation are justified by their own Goodness and Superior Wisdom.

I would like to point out a very profound quote by Zbigniew Brzezinski, whose dossier includes: co-founder of the Trilateral commission along with David Rockefeller. Brzezinski was deeply embedded in our government political apparatus. Prominent member of the CFR and the Bilderberg Group, he was instrumental in forming the Afghan Mujahidin network with Operation Cyclone, served as a member of the Policy Planning Council of the US Dept of State, under President Carter he became National Security Advisor, in short, this guy was a high level ruling elite operative to say the least. He was quoted on making this profound statement:

"The public will shortly be unable to think or reason for themselves." – Zbigniew Brzezinski

[From 59-min]: Dunne’s warning about provocation and divide/conquer tactics... ‘Progressives’ (etc) are waking up to the simulation... an historic opportunity to unite and transcend the bullshit. [mp3...page]. Listen here:

Fintan Dunne [From 69-min]: ...If you’re on the “left”, or if you’re on the “right”, you need to go to people who are in the opposing camp, especially those who can think straight, and you need to say “dude, you and I probably disagree on quite a few things, one thing we agree on is we are being fucked over, and this country is being destroyed. So let’s forget what we disagree about, and unite on what we agree about, and let’s stop it! Afterwards we can sit down and have a civil debate about our political differences...” [...] It’s gonna require discipline and it’s also gonna require nerves of steel. Because destabilization is the game — whipping up emotion is part of that [...] Remember, the final objective is to sucker the left into the establishment of a totalitarian China-style “communal capitalism” [...] and if I was Barack Obama, I’d wear a bullet-proof vest.

Related. John Young (Cryptome):

“There is a technique of using a shallow version to cover up a deeper version. That’s a PR campaign: “see if they’ll buy this story, if they do, we don’t go any deeper” — or, “we’ll peel another layer off and stop there — but don’t ever go all the way””

Related. Yuri Bezmenov’s presentation on psychological warfare, destabilization and subversion: “No James Bond nonsense. Most of this activity is overt, legitimate and easily observable if you give yourself time and trouble to observe it.”

Finally, how can one discuss media manipulation of the masses without mentioning the profound impact that the media has been having on the world in terms of being THE SINGLE CENTRAL ENTITY actively promoting decadence and immorality throughout the world. Hundreds upon hundreds of reference works have been published by some of the worlds most renown researchers and authors dissecting, describing, exposing, explain how the media world has been the KEY enabler and disseminator of mass decadence promoting programming.

How the Media Controls Your Mind - video

The Zionist media cartel is solely responsible for bringing to the masses the sick perverted music and stars that your children idolize and want to become like.... They know this very, very well. When you see them promoting sick demented acts like Amy Whitehouse (for example), you should consider that they are not just PRODUCING her work and promoting her in every conceivable way, they are in fact immersing and influencing young innocent minds with sick twisted values and aspirations.

I could easily write a book on this subject alone. But for the purposes of this matrix report I will highlight just one article (see below) for this section that sums up what I want to say for now. The media corruption of the masses will be covered in a little bit more detail in the “Moral Corruption of Nations” section of this report.

AMERICAS DECADENT MUSIC INDUSTRY

BY MICHAEL WESTFALL, March 1, 2006

The definition of an American icon has changed over the last fifty years. For Valentines Day country singer icon

Willie Nelson debuted his groundbreaking “gay cowboy song” on the “anti-family” Howard Sterns satellite radio program. Nelson also sang in the recent gay movie “Brokeback Mountain”.

This 71-year-old braided balladeer’s new “gay” music holds the promise of further polluting America’s airwaves.

Likewise, Sony’s new recording label called “Music With a Twist” features artists who practice homosexuality. The label is connected to MTV’s gay TV network.

At one time country music meant mom, home and apple pie. Men were men and “the ladies were glad of it”. Country music’s formula was filled with family values, nostalgia and the issues that everyday families face. Today things are changing. Country music along with pop music is becoming a major factor in the downward spiral of America’s once wholesome culture.

Much of today’s popular music and music videos are bursting with obscenities, foul language, and gory violence. It is designed to target, titillate and confuse the moral make up of American youth along with any morally challenged adults that will listen to this vulgar noise.

MTV and similar channels reach hundreds of millions of young households. Their music videos contain strong violence, have tobacco or alcohol use in 25% of their videos and 75% of their videos involve sexual imagery. These anti-family messages are pickling our innocent children’s minds. Kids are immersed and swimming for their very souls in an entertainment ocean of profanity and confusing messages from singers like Nelson.

Millions of parents who subscribe to cable or satellite services automatically support and subsidize this poison, which is targeting their kids hearts and minds. Parents should be incensed and appalled.

For the celebrity and odor of the greenback dollar there are entertainers who are more then willing to stretch the envelope of decency. Some female singers eagerly become scorching risqué singers in their videos to help market their songs. Sex sells and they make it exceedingly pleasant for viewers to listen to their filthy and outrageous lyrics as they gyrate around in various stages of undress.

These female entertainers don’t care what their images do to those who watch as they bump, grind and shamelessly slither their way to becoming soon forgotten celebrities. They behave in provocative ways and sing their little songs about compromising situations. They are the role models to the young girls in America, who wish to emulate these down home tacky “video babes”.

These fleeting entertainers have parents and most have spouses and children. Shouldn't they be contributing a little more to our culture with their fifteen minutes of fame than this obnoxious anti-family behavior? In God's world their behavior is wrong, but in their world this ridiculous behavior is right. That is if there is enough money and attention garnered for them.

There are likewise a number of ethically impaired male country singers. Their staged videos have contrived images of them as out of control macho men and super party animals that can out-drink and out-fight anyone in the bar. As at MTV, they surround themselves with morally challenged barely dressed female "dupes". Their music can be as equally profane as the female singers. How pathetically arrogant and foolish these entertainers are. They also are wasting their fifteen minutes of fame by further degrading American culture with their irresponsible behavior.

These men are idols to America's impressionable young boys.

"The permissive entertainers" are missing a fleeting and golden opportunity to improve America's values. They unfortunately refuse and instead oblige a morally bankrupt music industry by making the unspeakable politically correct while glamorizing prurient, decadent, anti-family messages through their lyrics and vivid videos.

Ultimately, the results of this music and videos of this genre tend to move people away from the word of God and towards an eternity of damnation and despair. We are handing our youth over to this anti-family smut on a silver platter without even a fight! What must Jesus, who went to the cross and died for the sins of these very people, think as they freely reject his word and his love by offering themselves up on the devil's altar?

In today's world Christians are labeled as accusatory cultists who are following the big myth. Remember that with no God there is no judgment and this automatically makes it politically correct to accept this trash as entertainment.

By our culture denying the truth in the Bible, coupled with the entertainment industries drilling down with its permissive bag of sleaze, our culture is bowing to evil. In America powerful forces are coming together to eradicate all semblances of God and his word so people won't know the difference between right and wrong and thus have no feelings of guilt, embarrassment or even shame.

These powers are blurring the lines between evil, good, truth and lies. They are pushing for tolerance and open mindedness no matter what the cost is to society.

Yes, Willie Nelson and his gay agenda is an example of how things have changed in the last fifty years.

To continue to confuse the issues, no matter how immoral or reprobate, only speeds up the destruction of morality in America. "It is the devil's trap".

Just look around, how can any thinking person come to any other conclusion?

Should Little Girls Dance Like Beyonce?

... Especially when they're dressed like that!

April Daniels Hussar \ BettyConfidential

A while ago I wrote about my shock at seeing a little girl channel Lady Gaga – from the incredible voice to the extreme makeup to the gyrations to the Vegas-style hooker boots. So when I saw the video making its way across the Web of a dance team comprised of little girls in, essentially, bikinis, performing Beyonce's "Single Ladies" at the World of Dance competition, I thought I'd give the topic a pass. I don't want railing against our permissive, over-sexualized society to become my beat. (I'm really not a stick-in-the-mud, honest!) But I can't help it—after seeing what a huge reaction the video has caused and the fact that people are defending it ... here I go!

But first – if you haven't seen it, you should watch for yourself ...

Damn, right? If you're like me, your first thought was WOW – those girls are amazing dancers!

And your second ... what the hell are they wearing?!

Because to me, that's really the issue here. The moves, OK – they're pretty, shall we say, sophisticated. But had these little girls, who are reportedly 8- and 9-year-olds, been wearing something else – say shorts and t-shirts, or even leotards and tights – the whole effect would have been something entirely different. And the focus would have been on their considerable talent, where it belongs.

Read Mean Betty on Miley Cyrus, Lap Dancer

There's been a huge "public outcry" since the video hit the masses last week, and the parents of the girls have gone on the defense. Melissa Presch, one of the moms, told Inside Edition, "I'm shocked, quite frankly, that people would suggest such things and say such things about 8 and 9 year old girls." She says the girls got their moves from the Alvin and the Chipmunks: The Squeakquel movie -- not Beyonce's music video.

The Chipmunk part I believe – those were some sexy and saucy little Chipettes, as anyone who suffered through The Squeakquel will agree. (Oh there are not enough Raisenets in the world to pay me back for that 90 minutes.)

Inside Edition Jim Moret asked Cory Miller, one of the fathers, "Is there anything in these movements to you, that is overly sexualized?"

"As a father, when you're watching your kid, no. You're looking at it as a proud kid who has really high energy, who doesn't really know what she's doing," he said.

Um, yeah, Dad – that's it exactly. They don't know what they're doing – that’s why YOU’RE there.

Did none of the moms or dads take a glance at the proposed costumes, which appear to have been modeled on a showgirl’s lingerie collection, and raise a concern that their daughter was going to be shimmying in hot pants?

Did they not want to be sticks in the mud? Overprotective?

Judging another parent – even from the relative safety of an article – is a very tricky and dangerous proposition. I’m sure these parents are not bad people. They must be incredibly proud of their talented, hardworking little girls. But would I let my own 7-year-old daughter Isabella even watch this video of their daughters dancing?

Not a chance.

I’m sure parents feel like this every generation, but boy is it scary to raise a daughter these days. Dora got a makeover, Miley’s giving lapdances, and even a trip to the grocery store last week held an unexpected landmine – as I was unloading groceries onto the conveyer belt, Isabella exclaimed, “Look mommy, is that Pink?” She was pointing excitedly to the newest Cosmopolitan cover, in which Pink, wearing a very low-cut dress, lounges next to the giant cover titles 75 SEX MOVES FROM GUYS! and ORGASM GUARANTEED!

And yes, Isabella can read.

“Did they make her show her boobies like that?”

Um ... ACK! So many things to explain, so many people behind me in line.

I am not a prude. I don’t think I’m even particularly over-protective. But I just didn’t think I was going to have to start navigating these particular waters so soon. I don’t want to be the crazy lady who tries to get Cosmo wrapped in brown paper at the grocery store. (But really guys, could you not put it at eye level next to the bubble gum?) I know it’s my and my husband’s job to teach Isabella what she needs to know about the world – and herself, so she has the inner resources not to copy Miley’s latest lap-dance maneuver when she herself becomes – gulp – a teenager.

I just wish more other parents felt the same way.

April Daniels Hussar is BettyConfidential’s Deputy Editor, and longs for the good old days when all moms had to worry about was Madonna and her cone boobs.

So... I must ask of thee: Upon reading this chapter of the Matrix Report, do you still think that human beings are immune to being easily influenced, mislead and manipulated? Do you still think that you are truly “free” and have not been “programmed” skillfully lead to believe “what they want us to believe” throughout your life? Are those your thoughts or the ones that have been CONDITIONED to have, implanted in you, the pre-programmed, primed and habituated responses? These are all known, routinely studied and practiced social sciences, and social engineering and not some silly conspiracy.

With that said and done, now take the time to truly read and digest the closing statements of every chapter of this report:

“None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free”

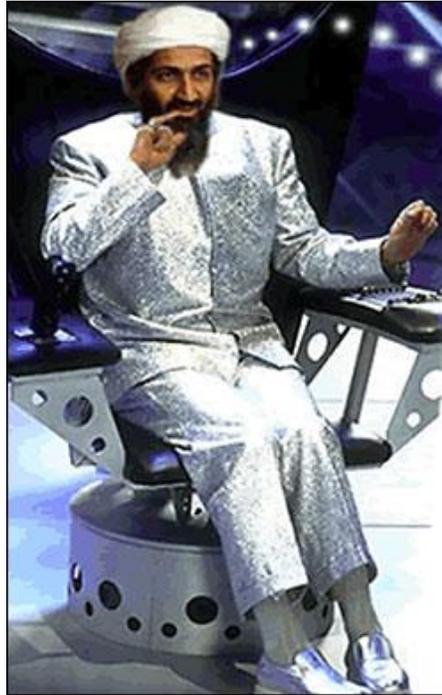

“he who has an ear, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see”

..:EMANCIPATE YOURSELF FROM MENTAL SLAVERY:..

For it is written: “the truth shall set you free”

The era of terrorists is officially here. The central point that you must understand is that terrorists never existed before. They have been a creation of the state. A byproduct of relentless western expansion, intervention and assault on these peoples lands and lives. Terrorism is surely coming home to roost. Terrorism being the creation of the state that it is, the state demands that thousands upon tens of thousands of regular folks abroad as well as here at home be identified and labeled as TERRORISTS so that it can effortlessly take over, control and oppress the citizens of this country also. There is no fundamental difference between common citizens here and the Arabs abroad, once you understand the (growing) official definition of a "terrorist."

According to the powers that be, A TERRORIST IS DEFINED AS:

1. Anyone who defies the wishes of the state
2. Anyone who defies rampant expansionism of the state
3. Anyone who says anything negative about the state
4. Anyone who does not agree with the state
5. Anyone who opposes the state sponsored propaganda
6. Anyone found to be exercising independent thought contrary to that deemed best interest of the state
7. Anyone who speaks negatively about the state, especially if it is the state censored truth
8. Anyone who dares to oppose and confront the state in any way shape or form
9. Anyone who maliciously interprets the most wonderful benevolent states' actions as abuses
10. Anyone who exposes state sponsored terrorism is an evil enemy of the state
11. "Anyone who is not with us, is against us" (as most benevolent dear leader Bush so eloquently put it)
12. Anyone who dares speak negatively (truth be damned) or raise their head to gaze at Israel or the Jews

14. Anyone who attends peaceful protests against the state and/or its military for any reason whatsoever
15. Anyone who dares question, challenges or disproves the official narratives of events the state issues

EVERYONE WE FIGHT IN IRAQ IS NOW "AL-CIADA." Glenn Greenwald recently wrote an article exposing what is one of the most astonishing instances of mindless, pro-government "reporting" yet:

It's a curious thing that, over the past 10 - 12 days, the news from Iraq refers to the combatants there as "al-Qaida" fighters. When did that happen?

Until a few days ago, the combatants in Iraq were "insurgents" or they were referred to as "Sunni" or "Shia'a" fighters in the Iraq Civil War. Suddenly, without evidence, without proof, without any semblance of fact, the US military command is referring to these combatants as "al-Qaida".

Welcome to the latest in Iraq propaganda.

That the Bush administration, and specifically its military commanders, decided to begin using the term "Al Qaeda" to designate "anyone and everyone we fight against or kill in Iraq" is obvious. All of a sudden, every time one of the top military commanders describes our latest operations or quantifies how many we killed, the enemy is referred to, almost exclusively now, as "Al Qaeda."

But what is even more notable is that the establishment press has followed right along, just as enthusiastically. I don't think the New York Times has published a story about Iraq in the last two weeks without stating that we are killing "Al Qaeda fighters," capturing "Al Qaeda leaders," and every new operation is against "Al Qaeda." – [\[link\]](#)

Today not only is everyone we fight in Iraq "al-CIAda", everyone who is an Arab Muslim in any country that breaks the law is also systematically labled "al-CIAda terrorist." The people we are bombing in Yemen, Pakistan, Syria, Iran, etc. are all the evil "Al-CIAda" boogeymen. This should not be of any surprise to those of you who understand and

KNOW that our government in association with the wishes of it's overlords: Israel and its Zionist agents are following a fully orchestrated plan of subjugation, invasion and occupation of the Middle East to make way for Israel's eventual rise from the ashes of biblical history like a Phoenix and the subjugation of the world in preperation for one world governance.

Below is an article from Wikipedia that summarizes the topic of Psychological Operations as utilized by American intelligence agencies. Please keep in mind that clandestine notorious intelligence agencies such as the Israeli Mossad whose operational motto is "through deception we shall wage war" along with the CIA and Mi6, all of which operate under the scope of "anything goes" for them rules and laws of the lands have no meaning and are routinely bent to be broken for the "ends justify the means."

Psychological Operations

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Psychological operations are planned operations to convey selected information and indicators to foreign (and domestic) audiences to influence their emotions, motives, objective reasoning, and ultimately the behavior of foreign governments, organizations, groups, and individuals.^[1]

The purpose of United States psychological operations (PSYOP) is to induce or reinforce behavior favorable to U.S. objectives. They are an important part of the range of diplomatic, informational, military, and economic activities available to the U.S. They can be utilized during both peacetime and conflict. There are 3 main types: strategic, operational, and tactical. Strategic PSYOP include informational activities conducted by the U.S. government agencies outside of the military arena, though many utilize Department of Defense (DOD) assets. Operational PSYOP are conducted across the range of military operations, including during peacetime, in a defined operational area to promote the effectiveness of the joint force commander's (JFC) campaigns and strategies. Tactical PSYOP are conducted in the area assigned to a tactical commander across the range of military operations to support the tactical mission against opposing forces.

PSYOP can encourage popular discontent with the opposition's leadership and by combining persuasion with a credible threat, degrade an adversary's ability to conduct or sustain military operations. They can also disrupt, confuse, and protract the adversary's decision-making process, undermining command and control.^[2] When properly employed, PSYOP have the potential to save the lives of friendly or enemy forces by reducing the adversary's will to fight. By lowering the adversary's morale and then its efficiency, PSYOP can also discourage aggressive actions by creating disaffection within their ranks, ultimately leading to surrender.

PSYOP is a component of information operations:

The integrated employment of the core capabilities of electronic warfare, computer network operations, psychological operations, military deception, and operations security, in concert with specified supporting and related capabilities, to influence, disrupt, corrupt or usurp adversarial human and automated decision making while protecting our own. Also called IO.^[3]

PSYOP Products

PSYOP involves the careful creation and dissemination of a propaganda message. It is important to note that the term propaganda as it is used here is not inherently negative. It has only recently taken on a negative connotation. There are three types of propaganda that are used to create these messages. They include White propaganda which is used in overt operations and Gray and Black propaganda which are used in covert PSYOP. White, Gray, and Black don't refer to the propaganda's content but rather the methods used to carry out the operation.

In order for PSYOP to be successful they must be based in reality. All messages must be consistent and must not contradict each other. Any gap between the propaganda and reality will be quickly noticed. A credible "truth" must be presented which is consistent to all audiences. Primarily it is a component of offensive counterinformation but can be used defensively as well. PSYOP are used in support of special operations, unconventional warfare, and counterinsurgency (COIN) operations. PSYOP can include military operations other than warfare and also include joint operations. They include counterterrorism operations, peace operations, noncombatant evacuation, enforcement of sanctions and maritime interception operations, strikes and raids, etc.

White Propaganda

Is attributal to the source of the PSYOP product.

U.S. Army PSYOP soldiers with Detachment 1080, 318th Psychological Operations Company distribute newspaper products in the East Rashid region of Baghdad, Iraq, July 11, 2007.

White is acknowledged as an official statement or act of the U.S. Government, or emanates from a source associated closely enough with the U.S. Government to reflect an official viewpoint. The information should be true and factual. It also includes all output identified as coming from U.S. official sources.

Authorized to engage in white activity directed at foreign audiences are: The State Department, USIA, the Foreign Operations Administration (a predecessor of the Agency for International Development), the Defense Department and other U.S. Government departments and agencies as necessary^[4]

Gray PSYOP

The source of the gray PSYOP product is deliberately ambiguous.

The true source (U.S. Government) is not revealed to the target audience. The activity engaged in plausibly appears to emanate from a non-official American source, or an indigenous, non-hostile source, or there may be no attribution.

Gray is that information whose content is such that the effect will be increased if the hand of the U.S. Government and in some cases any American participation are not revealed. It is simply a means for the U.S. to present viewpoints which are in the interest of U.S. foreign policy, but which will be acceptable or more acceptable to the intended target audience than will an official government statement.^[4]

Black Propaganda

Main article: Black propaganda

The activity engaged in appears to emanate from a source (government, party, group, organization, person) usually hostile in nature. The interest of the U.S. Government is concealed and the U.S. Government would deny responsibility. It is best used in support of strategic plans.

Covert PSYOP is not a function of the U.S. military but instead is used in special operations due to their political sensitivity and need for higher level compartmentation. Further, black PSYOP, to be credible, may need to disclose sensitive material, with the damage caused by information disclosure considered to be outweighed by the impact of successful deception.^[5] In order to achieve maximum results and to prevent compromise of overt PSYOP, overt and covert operations need to be kept separate. Personnel involved in one must not be engaged in the other.

Process

In order to create a successful PSYOP the following must be established: 1) clearly define the mission so that it aligns with national objectives 2) need a PSYOP estimate of the situation 3) prepare the plan 4) media selection 5) propaganda development 6) pretesting - determines the probable impact of the PSYOP on the target audience 7) production and dissemination of PSYOP material 8) implementation 9) posttesting - evaluates audience responses 10) feedback

Before these steps can occur, intelligence analysts must profile potential targets in order to determine which ones it would be most beneficial to target. In order to figure this out, analysts must determine the vulnerabilities of these groups and what they would be susceptible to. The analysts also determine the attitudes of the targets toward the current situation, their complaints, ethnic origin, frustrations, languages, problems, tensions, attitudes, motivations, and perceptions, and so on. Once the appropriate target(s) have been determined, the PSYOP can be created.

Psychological operations should be planned carefully, in that even a tactical message, with modern news media, can spread worldwide and be treated as the policy of the United States. The US Army is responsible for military psychological warfare doctrine.^[5] See the World War I section for an example of how a tactical leaflet, not properly coordinated, can cause national-level harm.

Psychological operations, at any level, must be consistent with the policies of higher levels of command

The message to be delivered can be adapted to tactical situations, but promises made must be consistent with national policy.

U.S. PSYOP forces are forbidden to target (i.e., attempt to change their opinions) U.S. citizens at any time, in any location globally, or under any circumstances.^[6] However, commanders may use PSYOP forces to provide public information to U.S. audiences during times of disaster or crisis such as has been the case we have been under since 9/11 to this very day. The use of PSYOP forces to deliver necessary public information to a U.S. audience was established in relief activities after Hurricane Andrew in 1992. Tactical Psychological Operations teams (TPTs) were employed to disseminate information by loudspeaker on locations of relief shelters and facilities. Information support to a noncombatant evacuation operation (NEO) by PSYOP forces to provide evacuation information to U.S. and third-country nationals would also adhere to the order.^[5]

As an example of the use of PSYOP in a humanitarian relief operation Major General Anthony Zinni, Director of Operations for Unified Task Force Somalia, said

Psychological operations were a key Battlefield Operating System used extensively to support Unified Task Force (UNITAF) Somalia operations. In order to maximize the PSYOP impact, we established a Joint PSYOP Task Force under the supervision of the Director of Operations, integrated PSYOP into all plans and operations, and limited the PSYOP focus to the operational and tactical levels. Psychological operations do not accomplish missions alone. They work best when they are combined with and integrated in an overall theater campaign plan. In Operation RESTORE HOPE, we were successful in doing that.^[5]

Media

PSYOP convey messages via visual, audio, and audiovisual mediums. Military psychological operations, at the tactical level, are usually delivered by loudspeaker. For more deliberate campaigns, they may use leaflets, radio or television. Strategic operations may use radio or television broadcasts, various publications, airdropped leaflets, or, as part of a covert operation, with material placed in foreign news media.

Psychological Operations Units

The bulk of US military psychological units are in the Army. White propaganda can come from the Voice of America or regional radio/TV. Central Intelligence Agency units are apt to have responsibility, on a strategic level, for black and some gray propaganda. White propaganda, especially at the strategic level, comes from the Voice of America or United States Information Agency.

In the United States Department of Defense, Psychological Operations units exist as the Army's 4th Psychological Operations Group and Air Force with COMMANDO SOLO units^[7] under the Air Force Special Operations Command's 193rd Special Operations Wing. The United States Navy also plans and executes limited PSYOP missions.^[8]

United States PSYOP units and soldiers of all branches of the military are prohibited by law from conducting PSYOP missions on domestic audiences.^[6] While PSYOP soldiers may offer non-PSYOP related support to domestic military missions, PSYOP can only target foreign audiences. Though, it is worth noting that this does not rule out PSYOP targeting foreign audiences of allied nations. Additionally, in the Information Operations Roadmap made public January 2006 but originally approved by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld in October 2003, it stated "information intended for foreign audiences, including public diplomacy and PSYOP, increasingly is consumed by our domestic audience and vice-versa."^[9]

Psychological warfare

Psychological warfare (PSYWAR), or the basic aspects of modern psychological operations (PSYOP), have been known by many other names or terms, including Psy Ops, Political Warfare, "Hearts and Minds," and Propaganda.^[1] Various techniques are used, by any set of groups, and aimed to influence a target audience's value systems, belief systems, emotions, motives, reasoning, or behavior. It is used to induce confessions or reinforce attitudes and behaviors favorable to the originator's objectives, and are sometimes combined with black operations or false flag tactics. Target audiences can be governments, organizations, groups, and individuals.

The U.S. Department of Defense defines psychological warfare as:

"The planned use of propaganda and other psychological actions having the primary purpose of influencing the opinions, emotions, attitudes, and behavior of hostile foreign groups in such a way as to support the achievement of national objectives."^[2]

During World War II the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff defined psychological warfare more broadly stating "Psychological warfare employs any weapon to influence the mind of the enemy. The weapons are psychological only in the effect they produce and not because of the weapons themselves."^[3]

[Editor's note: please keep in mind that post 9/11, Psychological Warfare also encompasses influencing the public at large within its home boarders. This is well documented fact and examples of this are provided throughout this research report.]

Special Activities Division

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The Special Activities Division (SAD) is a division of the United States Central Intelligence Agency's \(CIA\) National Clandestine Service \(NCS\) responsible for covert operations, black operations and other "special activities." These include covert political action and paramilitary special operations. Within SAD there are two separate groups, one for paramilitary operations and another for political action.^[1] The Political Action Group within SAD is responsible for covert activities related to political influence, psychological and economic warfare. The rapid development of technology has added cyberwarfare to their mission. A large covert operation usually has components that involve many, or all, of these categories, as well as paramilitary operations.^[2]

Special Operations Group (SOG) is the element within SAD responsible for paramilitary operations. These operations include collection of intelligence in hostile countries and regions, and all high threat military or intelligence operations with which the U.S. government does not wish to be overtly associated.^[3] As such, members of the unit (called Paramilitary Operations Officers) normally do not carry any objects or clothing (e.g., military uniforms) that would associate them with the United States government.^[4] If they are compromised during a mission, the government of the United States may deny all knowledge.^[5]

The age of the terrorist boogymen is now upon us. According to the fear mongering propaganda they are everywhere now. Maybe in your own town, your next door neighbors, your work, your schools. According the fear mongering agenda our most wonderful benevolent government must monitor the activities of EVERYONE and greatly reduce your civil rights in order to combat the evil menace... These are just for starters, our entire world is now being turned upside down and inside out due to the evil terrorists everywhere narrative.

Behold, for you must fully understand that: Terrorism has been a fully masterminded and engineered stratagem of the ruling elite. It is a critical component of the Luciferian end game that was prophesized in the holy scriptures... Terrorism is an invention of the state, a means by which intelligence agencies could clandestinely infiltrate an enemy country and subvert it FROM WITHIN. This FACT is so profound that once you truly understand this statement, you will begin to understand the ramification of all the alleged “terrorist attacks” occurring throughout the world. At the forefront in terrorism creation, training and funding are none other than: The Mossad operational motto: “by deception we shall wage war”. This is primarily conducted by agents provocateurs, pseudo-operations, false flag ops, psy op and misinformation (lies and deceit).

“Pseudo-operations”

Pseudo-operations is a military deception strategy in which forces of one power disguise themselves as enemy forces.

“Agent provocateur”

Traditionally, an agent provocateur is a person employed by the police, intelligence agency or other entity to act undercover (disguise/dress like the targets) to entice or provoke another person to commit an illegal act.

These are some of the Israeli Mossad’s favorite tactics, they have taken to perfection in framing and demonizing their enemies while cunningly - simultaneously winning sympathy and worldwide support for their cause. They are so arrogantly proud of it that it is displayed in their motto, which I will again state is: “by deception we shall wage war.” How blind are people and governments to know this yet still believe them in anything they say or do? These tactics are not limited to the Mossad, they are widely used by CIA, Mi6 and all intelligence agencies.

One of the best well known pseudo-operations by intelligence agencies and military is the strategy of deception called “FALSE FLAG” operations... where one side dresses up as “the bad guys” they want to set-up and conduct some sort of despicable act of terrorism in order to frame the target, effectively demonizing them, the following massive public/political outcry facilitates the desired result: justification for retribution/attack on the target enemy. This insidious military strategy has been common throughout history and is in wide use today. In order to properly emphasize the importance of False Flag operations and the proverbial tip of the iceberg on the scope of its use, I will provide unedited unbiased background info on the subject straight out of Wikipedia:

False Flag

False flag operations are covert operations which are designed to deceive the public in such a way that the operations appear as though they are being carried out by other entities. The name is derived from the military concept of flying false colors; that is, flying the flag of a country other than one's own. False flag operations are not limited to war and counter-insurgency operations, and have been used in peace-time; for example during Italy's strategy of tension.

Naval warfare

This practice was considered acceptable in naval warfare, provided the false flag was lowered and the national flag raised before engaging in battle. Auxiliary cruisers operated in such a fashion in both World Wars, as did Q-ships, while merchant vessels were encouraged to use false flags for protection. One of the most notable examples was in World War II when the German commerce raider Kormoran, disguised as a Dutch merchant ship, surprised and sank the Australian light cruiser HMAS Sydney in 1941, causing the greatest recorded loss of life on an Australian warship. The Kormoran was also fatally crippled in that encounter and its crew was captured, but it was a considerable psychological victory for the Germans.^[1]

The British used a Kriegsmarine Ensign in the St Nazaire Raid and captured a German Morse code book. The old destroyer Campbeltown, which the British planned to sacrifice in the operation, was provided with cosmetic modifications, cutting the ship's funnels and chamfering the edges to create a more German destroyer look, so she would resemble a Möwe-class destroyer. The British were able to get within two miles of the harbour before the defences responded, where their explosive-rigged destroyer and commandos successfully disabled or destroyed the key dock structures of the port.^{[2][3]}

Air warfare

“It was obvious that if the case were to be kept going a faked act of sabotage would have to be committed” — MI5 file on Mutt and Jeff[4]

In December 1922-February 1923, Rules concerning the Control of Wireless Telegraphy in Time of War and Air Warfare, drafted by a commission of jurists at the Hague regulates:

Art. 3. A military aircraft must carry an exterior mark indicating its nationality and its military character.

Art. 19. The use of false exterior marks is forbidden.

British intelligence officials in World War II allowed double agents to fire-bomb a power station and a food dump in the UK to protect their cover, according to declassified documents. The documents stated the agents took precautions to ensure they did not cause serious damage. One of the documents released also stated: "It should be recognised that friends as well as enemies must be completely deceived."¹⁴¹

Land warfare

In land warfare, the use of a false flag is similar to that of naval warfare. The most widespread assumption is that this practice was first established under international humanitarian law at the trial in 1947 of the planner and commander of Operation Greif, Otto Skorzeny, by the military court at the Dachau Trials. In this trial, the court did not find Skorzeny guilty of a crime by ordering his men into action in American uniforms. He had passed on to his men the warning of German legal experts, that if they fought in American uniforms, they would be breaking the laws of war, but they probably were not doing so just by wearing the uniform. During the trial, a number of arguments were advanced to substantiate this position and the German and U.S. military seem to have been in agreement on it. In the transcript of the trial¹⁵¹ it is mentioned that Paragraph 43 of the Field Manual published by the War Department, United States Army, on October 1, 1940, under the title "Rules of Land Warfare", says:

"National flags, insignias and uniforms as a ruse - in practice it has been authorized to make use of these as a ruse. The foregoing rule (Article 23 of the Annex of the IVth Hague Convention), does not prohibit such use, but does prohibit their improper use. It is certainly forbidden to make use of them during a combat. Before opening fire upon the enemy, they must be discarded".

Also The American Soldiers' Handbook, was quoted by Defense Counsel and says:

"The use of the enemy flag, insignia, and uniform is permitted under some circumstances. They are not to be used during actual fighting, and if used in order to approach the enemy without drawing fire, should be thrown away or removed as soon as fighting begins".

The outcome of the trial has been codified in the 1977 Protocol Additional to the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949 (Protocol I):

Article 37.-Prohibition of perfidy

1. It is prohibited to kill, injure, or capture an adversary by resort to perfidy. Acts inviting the confidence of an adversary to lead him to believe that he is entitled to, or is obliged to accord, protection under the rules of international law applicable in armed conflict, with intent to betray that confidence, shall constitute perfidy. The following acts are examples of perfidy:

- (a) The feigning of an intent to negotiate under a flag of truce or of a surrender;
- (b) The feigning of an incapacitation by wounds or sickness;
- (c) The feigning of civilian, non-combatant status; and
- (d) The feigning of protected status by the use of signs, emblems or uniforms of the United Nations or of neutral or other States not Parties to the conflict.

2. Ruses of war are not prohibited. Such ruses are acts which are intended to mislead an adversary or to induce him to act recklessly but which infringe no rule of international law applicable in armed conflict and which are not perfidious because they do not invite the confidence of an adversary with respect to protection under that law. The following are examples of such ruses: the use of camouflage, decoys, mock operations and misinformation.

Article 38.-Recognized emblems

1. It is prohibited to make improper use of the distinctive emblem of the red cross, red crescent or red lion and sun or of other emblems, signs or signals provided for by the Conventions or by this Protocol. It is also prohibited to misuse deliberately in an armed conflict other internationally recognized protective emblems, signs or signals, including the flag of truce, and the protective emblem of cultural property.
2. It is prohibited to make use of the distinctive emblem of the United Nations, except as authorized by that Organization.

Article 39.-Emblems of nationality

1. It is prohibited to make use in an armed conflict of the flags or military emblems, insignia or uniforms of neutral or other States not Parties to the conflict.
2. It is prohibited to make use of the flags or military emblems, insignia or uniforms of adverse Parties while engaging in attacks or in order to shield, favour, protect or impede military operations.
3. Nothing in this Article or in Article 37, paragraph 1 (d), shall affect the existing generally recognized rules of international law applicable to espionage or to the use of flags in the conduct of armed conflict at sea.

As pretexts for war

In the 1931 Mukden incident, Japanese officers fabricated a pretext for annexing Manchuria by blowing up a section of railway. Six years later they falsely claimed the kidnapping of one of their soldiers in the Marco Polo Bridge Incident as an excuse to invade China proper.

In the Gleiwitz incident in August 1939, Reinhard Heydrich made use of fabricated evidence of a Polish attack against Germany to mobilize German public opinion and to fabricate a false justification for a war with Poland. This, along with other false flag operations in Operation Himmler, would be used to mobilize support from the German population for the start of World War II in Europe.

On November 26, 1939, the Soviet Union shelled the Russian village of Mainila near the Finnish border. The Soviet Union attacked Finland four days afterwards, claiming the shelling to have been a Finnish military action. Russia has agreed that the attack was initiated by the Soviets.^[6] Also, the nearest Finnish artillery pieces were well out of range of Mainila.^[7]

In 1953, the U.S. and British-orchestrated Operation Ajax used "false-flag" and propaganda operations against the formerly democratically elected leader of Iran, Mohammed Mosaddeq. Information regarding the CIA-sponsored coup d'etat has been largely declassified and is available in the CIA archives.^[8]

In 1954, the Military Intelligence Directorate of Israel launched a series of bombings against targets in Cairo which had British and American financial interests, in the hopes of alienating the U.S. and Britain from Egypt.^[9] Codenamed Operation Suzannah, it was later dubbed the Lavon Affair, after Israeli Defense Minister Pinchas Lavon. Lavon and Israeli Military Intelligence head Binyamin Gibli had planned and carried out the operation in secret, and without telling Prime Minister Moshe Sharett in advance. Lavon and Gibli both lost their jobs as a result. Israel (where it is known as "The Unfortunate Affair") finally admitted responsibility in 2005.^[10]

The planned, but never executed, 1962 Operation Northwoods plot by the U.S. Department of Defense for a war with Cuba involved scenarios such as hijacking or shooting down passenger and military planes, sinking a U.S. ship in the vicinity of Cuba, burning crops, sinking a boat filled with Cuban refugees, attacks by alleged Cuban infiltrators inside the United States, and harassment of U.S. aircraft and shipping and the destruction of aerial drones by aircraft disguised as Cuban MiGs. These actions would be blamed on Cuba, and would be a pretext for an invasion of Cuba and the overthrow of Fidel Castro's communist government. It was authored by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, nixed by John F. Kennedy, came to light through the Freedom of Information Act and was publicized by James Bamford.

Former GRU officer Aleksey Galkin,^[11] former FSB officer Alexander Litvinenko^[12] and others have stated that the 1999 Russian apartment bombings that precipitated the Second Chechen War were false flag operations perpetrated by the FSB. Galkin has since recanted his accusation, which was made while prisoner of Chechen rebels.^[citation needed]

Pseudo-operations are those in which forces of one power disguise themselves as enemy forces. For example, a state power may disguise teams of operatives as insurgents and, with the aid of defectors, infiltrate insurgent areas.^[13] The aim of such pseudo-operations may be to gather short or long-term intelligence or to engage in active operations, in particular assassinations of important enemies. However, they usually involve both, as the risks of exposure rapidly increase with time and intelligence gathering eventually leads to violent confrontation. Pseudo-operations may be directed by military or police forces, or both. Police forces are usually best suited to intelligence tasks; however, military provide the structure needed to back up such pseudo-ops with military response forces. According to US military expert Lawrence Cline (2005), "the teams typically have been controlled by police services, but this largely was due to the weaknesses in the respective military intelligence systems."

The State Political Directorate (OGPU) of the Soviet Union set up such an operation from 1921 to 1926. During Operation Trust, they used loose networks of White Army supporters and extended them, creating the pseudo-"Monarchist Union of Central Russia" (MUCR) in order to help the OGPU identify real monarchists and anti-Bolsheviks. An example of a successful assassination was United States Marine Sergeant Herman H. Hanneken leading a patrol of his Haitian Gendarmerie disguised as enemy guerrillas in 1919. The Patrol successfully passed several enemy checkpoints in order to assassinate the guerilla leader Charlemagne Péralte near Grand-Rivière du Nord. Hanneken was awarded the Medal of Honor and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant for his deed.

During the Mau Mau uprising in the 1950s, captured Mau Mau members who switched sides and specially trained British troops initiated the pseudo-gang concept to successfully counter Mau Mau terrorists. In 1960 Frank Kitson, (who was later involved in the Northern Irish conflict and is now a retired British General), published Gangs and Counter-gangs, an account of his experiences with the technique in Kenya; information included how to counter gangs and measures of deception, including the use of defectors, which brought the issue a wider audience.

Another example of combined police and military oversight of pseudo-operations include the Selous Scouts in former country Rhodesia (current Zimbabwe), governed by white minority rule until 1980. The Selous Scouts were formed at the beginning of Operation Hurricane, in November 1973, by Major (later Lieutenant Colonel) Ronald Reid-Daly. As all Special Forces in Rhodesia, by 1977 they were controlled by COMOPS (Commander, Combined Operations) Commander Lieutenant General Peter Walls. The Selous Scouts were originally composed of 120 members, with all officers being white and the highest rank initially available for Africans being colour sergeant. They succeeded in turning approximately 800 insurgents who were then paid by Special Branch, ultimately reaching the number of 1,500 members. Engaging mainly in long-range reconnaissance and surveillance missions, they increasingly turned to offensive actions, including the attempted assassination of ZIPRA leader Joshua Nkomo in Zambia. This mission was finally aborted by the Selous Scouts, and attempted again, unsuccessfully, by the Rhodesian Special Air Service.^[14]

Some offensive operations attracted international condemnation, in particular the Selous Scouts' raid on a ZANLA (Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army) camp at Nyadzonya Pungwe, Mozambique in August 1976. ZANLA was then led by Josiah Tongogara. Using Rhodesian trucks and armored cars disguised as Mozambique military vehicles, 84 scouts killed 1,284 terrorists in the camp, the camp was registered as a refugee camp by the United Nations (UN). Even according to Reid-Daly, most of those killed were unarmed guerrillas standing in formation for a parade. The camp hospital was also set ablaze by the rounds fired by the Scouts, killing all patients.^[15] According to David Martin and Phyllis Johnson, who visited the camp shortly before the raid, it was only a refugee camp which did not host any guerrillas. Which was staged for UN approval.^[16]

According to a 1978 study by the Directorate of Military Intelligence, 68% of all insurgent deaths inside Rhodesia could be attributed to the Selous Scouts, who were disbanded in 1980.^[17]

If the action is a police action, then these tactics would fall within the laws of the state initiating the pseudo, but if such actions are taken in a civil war or during a belligerent military occupation then those who participate in such actions would not be privileged belligerents. The principle of plausible deniability is usually applied for pseudo-teams. (See the above section Laws of war). Some false flag operations have been described by Lawrence E. Cline, a retired US Army intelligence officer, as pseudo-operations, or "the use of organized teams which are disguised as guerrilla groups for long- or short-term penetration of insurgent-controlled areas."

Pseudo Operations should be distinguished, notes Cline, from the more common police or intelligence infiltration of guerrilla or criminal organizations. In the latter case, infiltration is normally done by individuals. Pseudo teams, on the other hand, are formed as needed from organized units, usually military or paramilitary. The use of pseudo teams has been a hallmark of a number of foreign counterinsurgency campaigns.^[13]

Spy tradecraft

In espionage the false flag technique is used to recruit people into spying or stealing critical documents, by convincing them that they are working for a cause they are sympathetic with or even their own government, for example the recruitment of female West German civil servants by Stasi Romeo agents, who were led to believe that they were collecting information for peace advocacy groups.^[18] The technique can also be used to catch a spy by having a loyal agent pose as a spy from the other side and approach someone suspected of spying. Earl Edwin Pitts, a 13-year veteran of the FBI and an attorney, was caught when he was approached by FBI agents posing as Russian agents. See false flag penetrator.

Civilian usage

While false flag operations originate in warfare and government, they also can occur in civilian settings among certain factions, such as businesses, special interest groups, religions, political ideologies and campaigns for office.

Businesses

In business and marketing, similar operations are being employed in some public relations campaigns (see Astroturfing). Telemarketing firms practice false flag type behavior when they pretend to be a market research firm (referred to as "sugging"). In some rare cases, members of an unsuccessful business will destroy some of their own property to conceal an unrelated crime (e.g. safety violations, embezzlement, etc.) but make it appear as though the destruction was done by a rival company.

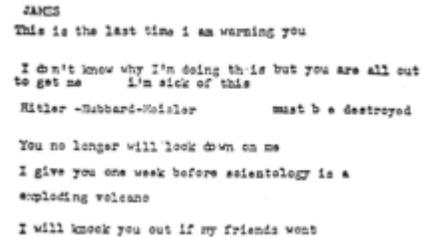

Political campaigning

Political campaigning has a long history of this tactic in various forms, including in person, print media and electronically in recent years. This can involve when supporters of one candidate pose as supporters of another, or act as "straw men" for their preferred candidate to debate against. This can happen with or without the candidate's knowledge. The Canuck letter is an example of one candidate creating a false document and attributing it as coming from another candidate in order to discredit that candidate.

In 2006, individuals practicing false flag behavior were discovered and "outed" in New Hampshire^{[19][20]} and New Jersey^[21] after blog comments claiming to be from supporters of a political candidate were traced to the IP address of paid staffers for that candidate's opponent.

Ideological

Political or religious ideologies will sometimes use false flag tactics. This can be done to discredit or implicate rival groups, create the appearance of enemies when none exist, or create the illusion of organized and directed opposition when in truth, the ideology is simply unpopular with society.

A bomb threat forged by Scientology operatives (pic right)

In retaliation for writing The Scandal of Scientology, the Church of Scientology stole stationery from author Paulette Cooper's home and then used that stationery to forge bomb threats and have them mailed to a Scientology office. The Guardian's Office also had a plan for further operations to discredit Cooper known as Operation Freakout, but several Scientology operatives were arrested in a separate investigation and the plan failed.^[22]

Terrorism

During the Italian strategy of tension in which several bombings in the 1970s, attributed to far-left organizations, were in fact carried out by far-right organizations cooperating with the Italian secret services (see Operation Gladio, 1969 Piazza Fontana bombing, 1972 Peteano attack by Vincenzo Vinciguerra, 1973 assassination attempt of former Interior Minister Mariano Rumor, 1980 Bologna massacre, etc. and various investigations, for example by Guido Salvini). In France, the Masada Action and Defense Movement, supposedly a Zionist group, was really a neo-fascist terrorist group which hoped to increase tension between Arabs and Jews in France.

False flag tactics were also employed during the Algerian civil war, starting in the mid-1994. Death squads composed of DRS (Département du Renseignement et de la Sécurité) security forces disguised themselves as Islamist terrorists and committed false flag terror attacks. Such groups included the OJAL (Organisation of Young Free Algerians) or the OSSRA (Secret Organisation for the safeguard of the Algerian Republic)^[23] According to Roger Faligot and Pascal Kropp (1999), the OJAL reminded of "the Organization of the French Algerian Resistance (ORAF), a group of counter-terrorists created in December 1956 by the Direction de la surveillance du territoire (Territorial Surveillance Directorate) whose mission was to carry out terrorist attacks with the aim of quashing any hopes of political compromise."^[24]

On the night of February 27, 1933, the Reichstag building was set on fire. At the urging of Hitler, Hindenburg responded the next day by issuing an emergency decree "for the Protection of the people and the State," which stated: "Restrictions on personal liberty, on the right of free expression of opinion, including freedom of the press; on the rights of assembly and association; and violations of the privacy of postal, telegraphic and telephonic communications and warrants for house searches, orders for confiscations as well as restrictions on property, are also permissible beyond the legal limits otherwise prescribed." The question of who actually started the Reichstag fire is still unknown and occasionally debated.

The Russian apartment bombings in the Russian cities of Buynaksk, Moscow and Volgodonsk in September 1999 which killed nearly 300 people, is described by Yury Felshtinsky, Alexander Litvinenko, David Satter, Boris Kagarlitsky, Vladimir Pribylovsky, Anna Politkovskaya, filmmaker Andrei Nekrasov, investigator Mikhail Trepashkin, as well as the secessionist Chechen authorities and former popular Russian politician Alexander Lebed as a false flag attack coordinated by the Federal Security Service, the main domestic security agency of the Russian Federation.^{[25][26][27][28][29][30][31][32][33][34][35]}

Dirty War

Main article: Dirty War

During a 1981 interview whose contents were revealed by documents declassified by the CIA in 2000, former CIA and DINA agent Michael Townley explained that Ignacio Novo Sampol, member of CORU, an anti-Castro organization, had agreed to commit the Cuban Nationalist Movement in the kidnapping, in Buenos Aires, of a president of a Dutch bank. The abduction, organized by civilian SIDE agents, the Argentine intelligence agency, was to obtain a ransom. Townley said that Novo Sampol had provided six thousand dollars from the Cuban Nationalist Movement, forwarded to the civilian SIDE agents to pay for the preparation expenses of the kidnapping. After returning to the US, Novo Sampol sent Townley a stock of paper, used to print pamphlets in the name of "Grupo Rojo" (Red Group), an imaginary Argentine Marxist terrorist organization, which was to claim credit for the kidnapping of the Dutch banker. Townley declared that the pamphlets were distributed in Mendoza and Córdoba in relation with false flag bombings perpetrated by SIDE agents, which had as their aim to accredit the existence of the fake Grupo Rojo. However, the SIDE agents procrastinated too much, and the kidnapping ultimately was not carried out.^[36]

Welcome to the age of manufactured: R.I.T. (Radical Islamic Terrorists)

The documented cases of the Mossad and CIA creating, training and funding terrorist entities are numerous, imagine the ones that are so secret you haven't heard of. You have the CIA creating, training and funding GUERRILLA WARFARE and "freedom fighters" (alias for: Terrorists) all over the globe. Due to space limitations I cannot dig up many examples, no need too, there are so many known and documented instances, but for illustration, have you heard of the Mujahedeen? They were a bonafide terrorist group created, backed, trained, funded by the CIA and Mossad to fight the Russians. Osama Bin Laden was one of their key operatives. Al-CIAada is just another Mossad/CIA sponsored terrorist organization.

Everything was fine and dandy while the CIA/Mossad terrorist units were operating on foreign soils stirring up hornet's nests and creating chaos, TOPPLING REGIMES left and right. Well, how does the saying go? The flock has come home to roost. Now the ruling elite agenda dictates that they must do the same HERE at home to subjugate the gullible gentiles of this country. Terrorism has officially planted its feet here on western soil, but for those of us that still possess an ounce of rational logical reasoning left in our brain are not easily duped by the pathetic misinformation, disinformation, lies, deceit that have covered the tracks of the Mossad/CIA terrorist units operating here on our soil. Yet no one can investigate them because they are ABOVE THE LAW. The perfect cover for the perfect crimes of the ruling elite. For "by way of deception they shall wage war."

Since the fall of the Soviet Union, America was for the first time in decades, without a "common enemy". The confrontation against communism played its course and fulfilled its objectives. Now that communism is supposedly defeated, the trillion dollar military industrial complex most certainly faced a major depression along with bankruptcies across the board if there are no more enemies to wage war on. Not only is war extremely profitable, war and conflict is the NUMBER ONE means of the ruling elite to easily control the population, imposing restrictions, policies and laws, thus gradually limiting their freedoms and indirectly enslaving the inhabitants of any country. The matter of fact is it would simply never be able to accomplish such feats without the pretext of being attacked, war and conflict. Fear is the incredibly effective TOOL that is repeatedly used on the lemming cattle populations the world over.

There is one fundamental fact that you must understand: The age of Terrorism and terrorists is permanently here to stay. The fundamental factor in creating a never ending supply of terrorists lays firmly in the practice of bombing innocent peoples lands, homes, family, friends, loved ones and the wanton death that it brings about, thus compelling even the most peaceful of the grieving afflicted people to become enraged, drop all their good nature, morals, beliefs, ethics and become hateful revengeful blood seeking combatants. In the intelligence community this has long ago been acknowledged and proven result, a byproduct of unjust war, they call it: BLOW BACK.

Blow Back is the desired REACTION that the False Flag conducting engineers are trying to coax their targets into conducting. Thus the simulation precedes and creates the reality...

False Flag Operations: The Crisis Route to the New World Order

by Deanna Spingola, 10 May 2010

David Rockefeller said, “All we need is the right major crisis and the nations will accept the New World Order.” Rahm Emanuel said, “You never want a serious crisis to go to waste. And what I mean by that is an opportunity to do things you think you could not do before.” In the Project for a New American Century document Rebuilding America’s Defenses: Strategy, Forces and Resources for a New Century we find the following: “Further, the process of transformation, even if it brings revolutionary change, is likely to be a long one, absent some catastrophic and catalyzing event – like a new Pearl Harbor.”¹

False Flag (choreographed catastrophes) operations have been used for generations for various motives: the seizure of additional land and/or natural/mineral resources (domestic or foreign), the acquisition of cheap labor, economic destabilization, the military depopulation of indigenous populations, the destruction of religious or political ideologies, the establishment of political tyranny or a coup d’état (as experienced after 9/11 with the establishment of the PATRIOT Act and the Department of Homeland Security), to assist an allegedly threatened ally or to protect U.S. citizens living in a foreign country. The foundational factor in the majority of all false flag operations is the imposition of greater restrictions on worldwide residential populations in order to implement internationalism or globalism, formerly known as the utopian New World Order under the direction of an elite hierarchy. False flag catastrophes include terrorist attacks, assassinations of political leaders, “natural” disasters, industrial “accidents,” armed assaults against citizens (Waco, Ruby Ridge, Kent State), economic assaults in the form of economic crashes like 1929 or more recently the banker bailouts, both massive redistribution scams. The prevailing feature in all of these circumstances, whether manmade or “natural,” is the transference of culpability followed by the government’s predictable exploitation of any and all circumstances.

False flag operations manipulate individuals, either dupes or well-paid, skilled operatives – who masquerade as purported enemy aggressors. Aircraft or ships are either camouflaged to conceal their identity or marked in such a way as to confuse witnesses. The operation is compartmentally constructed in such a way that individuals participate in a small part of the venture without knowing the entire scope of the operation. After the fact, their willing but unwary participation might insure their silence. False flag operations accelerated after the formation of government intelligence agencies, like the CIA, again at the behest of private interests with the ready assistance of the media who introduce false leads to sustain the preconceived cover story. A false flag operation where innocent people are murdered invariably supplies the pretext for a military invasion where even more killing occurs including unwary U.S. soldiers who believe they are fighting for their country.

Ambrose Pierce, the satirist, and creator of The Devil’s Dictionary defined politics as, “A strife of interests masquerading as a contest of principles, the conduct of public affairs for private advantage.”²

On January 24, 1898, during a Cuban insurrection against Spain, the USS Maine arrived at Havana, where it had been sent to allegedly protect some U.S. citizens living there. In reality, U.S. corporations, with about $50 million invested in the production and distribution of Cuban sugar and tobacco, had concerns about their investments. On February 15, 1898, while it was docked in Havana Harbor, a devastating explosion sank the ship. The incident killed 260 Americans. We now know that it was an internal explosion, not the result of an attack. However, the citizens were fueled by warmongers in the print media who pushed the slogan, “Remember the Maine! To hell with Spain.” Outraged citizens agreed to retaliate and go to war against Spain because of the incident. Congress, which was wholly controlled by private interests, declared war on April 25, 1898. Two days later, the U.S. sent 11,000 occupational troops to the resource-rich Philippines, a Spanish colony and the real target. The Filipinos resisted America's "liberation" efforts for three years during which several thousand civilians were slaughtered. The strategic location of the Philippines would provide easier access to the riches of Asia, a highly populated area replete with abundant resources and almost numberless people who had been hoarding and passing down their gold and treasures for centuries.

With the deceptive establishment of the privately owned Federal Reserve printing press by a compromised Congress, large-scale, debt-based warfare became even more feasible, its costs being shifted to U.S. citizens and their children and grandchildren. World War I in Europe was initially provoked by the assassination of an Austrian Archduke. But that was hardly an interest to Americans who had to feel some sense of personal outrage in order to justify U.S. military participation in a foreign war where American soldiers were likely to be killed. The Lusitania, an armed British passenger vessel deceptively flew the American flag and carried ammunition from U.S. companies bound for belligerent Britain. The ship, described as "live bait" by Winston Churchill, a Rothschild minion, was deliberately sent into harm's way. Her military escort inexplicably withdrew and the ship dramatically slowed down and abandoned the defensive zigzag pattern of travel. In early February 1915, the British Admiralty, under the direction of Churchill, had ordered British merchant ships, like the Lusitania, to ram German submarines on sight. The Lusitania, borrowed by the British government and reclassified as an auxiliary cruiser, was equipped with bases for mounting guns.³ Germany was aware of Churchill's orders by February 15. On April 22, 1915, Germany, through its U.S. Embassy warned Americans not to travel on British ships in the war zone. They also paid to advertise the warning in The New York Times on that same day.⁴ The warning was not printed in the Times until the day of departure. The Germans predictably attacked on May 7, 1915 and 785 people, including 128 Americans perished, but it ultimately got the U.S. into World War I.

Lenin said, "The first World War gave us Russia, while the Second World War will hand Europe to us."⁵ For Lenin, a true Marxist, world revolution was the goal. World War I followed immediately by the Bolshevik Revolution subjugated only one country under communist rule, Russia. Lenin's Bolshevik party was financed wholly by some of the same international bankers who instigated the Federal Reserve. In 1916, Lenin recognized that war was simply a revolution on a massive scale and professed that the world would need another war, as one was insufficient.⁶ Before the Czar's assassination and the usurpation of Russia's government, Lenin said, "After Russia we will take Eastern Europe, then the masses of Asia, then we will encircle the United States which will be the last bastion of capitalism. We will not have to attack. It will fall like an overripe fruit into our hands."⁷ This would be accomplished through infiltration, all the while using the Hegelian dialectic of controlled opposition – as used by Lenin. Control the opposition, the proverbial right-left cultural division, in order to assure the desired result – total takeover and communization of the U.S.

Stalin (Iosef Vissarionovich Dzhugashvili), nicknamed Soso, was an agitator, terrorist and a murderer, along with his Bolshevik comrades. Beginning in 1902, he worked at the Rothschild oil refinery in Batumi. He probably still worked for the Rothschilds when he moved to the Baku area in 1907.⁸ "Oil tycoons" made contributions to the Bolsheviks. Berta Nussimbaum, wife of oil baron, financed Stalin's communist press. Rothschild's managing director, David Landau, personally made regular contributions to Stalin. David Sagirashvili, a Menshevik, knew Stalin in Baku and claimed he engaged in routine kidnappings after which he demanded ransom.⁹ The Mensheviks, a less violent faction of the Russian revolutionary movement, emerged in 1904. The word Bolshevism was Russian and would have to be appropriately changed for each country.

Stalin always favored the more violent approach and ultimately killed millions, even during peacetime – in the gulags (slave labor camps), and in the Ukraine where five to ten million were deliberately starved to death during Stalin's imposed famine during the winter of 1932-1933. Despite knowledge of Stalin's horrific genocidal crimes against humanity, Franklin D. Roosevelt, a like-minded individual, officially recognized the legitimacy of the government of the Soviet Union, without Congressional approval. This later enabled the Soviet Union to fully participate in the banker-supported United Nations, situated on land donated by banker John D. Rockefeller Jr. whose illustrious family made their millions via Rothschild support. Roosevelt, whose administration was knowingly filled with Communist agitators and Soviet spies, did as much to promote communism, even in this country, as any revolutionary Communist.

Churchill's estate mortgage was paid off by the "Jewish European financiers," known as the Focus Group. Churchill then arranged a meeting with these bankers and Franklin D. Roosevelt in order to get the U.S. into war through the back door.¹⁰ Churchill and Roosevelt monitored the entire progress of the Japanese as they approached Pearl Harbor. After months of illegally blockading Japan which totally depended on imports to survive, the Japanese predictably attacked – all according to Henry L. Stimson's strategy. He was a Standard Oil attorney and a member of Skull and Bones (appropriately known as the Brotherhood of Death). The attack on Pearl Harbor got America into a two-front war – with Japan and her European ally, Germany. Japan's assault on Pearl Harbor killed 2,345 U.S. military men and injured another 1,100 people. Fortunately, the U.S. government had already withdrawn their newer ships and planes to save them from destruction. Obligatory commissions, some by independent entities, were convened to investigate. Foreknowledge of the event, if not actual participation, was verified, but the compromised media deliberately concealed all conclusions that divulged U.S. government participation.

On April 27, 1961, in an address to newspaper publishers, President Kennedy said the following regarding Freemasonry, "The very word 'secrecy' is repugnant in a free and open society; and we are as a people inherently and historically opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings. We decided long ago that the dangers of excessive and unwarranted concealment of pertinent facts far outweighed the dangers which are cited to justify it." Kennedy, by his rhetoric and his actions did not support the nefarious schemes of those who covertly arrange all wars through their secret society associations and false flag operations. On June 28, 1961, Kennedy fired CIA Director Allen Dulles, former Wall Street lawyer and attempted to strip the CIA of all power with NSAM 55 and NSAM 57.¹¹ Kennedy was also against Israel's development of a nuclear weapon. On October 9, 1997, the Washington Jewish Week reported, "Israel need not apologize for the assassination or destruction of those who seek to destroy it. The first order of business for any country is the protection of its people."¹² That last sentence is a bit duplicitous and disingenuous, given the support and billions of dollars that the economically-stressed U.S. has given to Israel at the expense of our own economic security. Apparently our politicians have other loyalties. Almost 300 members of Congress signed a declaration reaffirming their commitment to "the unbreakable bond that exists" between the U.S. and the State of Israel in a letter to Secretary of State Hillary Clinton.¹³ George Washington warned us, "Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence...the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake, since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government...Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side...The great rule of conduct for us in regard to foreign nations is in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible."¹⁴

Allen Dulles would later participate on the Warren Commission which concealed the facts regarding John F. Kennedy's assassination, a combined CIA/Mossad operation blamed on a lone gunman who was immediately killed. The astute allegations of Michael Collins Piper in Final Judgment: the Missing Link in the JFK Assassination Conspiracy were verified in the Jerusalem Post on July 25, 2004 by Mordechai Vanunu, a former Israeli nuclear technician¹⁵ and shift manager at the Negev Nuclear Research Center from 1976 to 1985. He was troubled by Israel's nuclear weapons program and their war strategies. Probably because of his views and activism, he was laid off from Dimona in 1985 and soon left the country for Sydney, Australia where he converted to Christianity. In Australia, he revealed Israel's covert nuclear program to Peter Hounam of the British press. On October 5, 1986, a front-page story appeared in The Sunday Times, "Revealed: the secrets of Israel's nuclear arsenal." Thereafter, Vanunu was drugged and kidnapped with the help of Israeli Mossad agent Cheryl Bentov who deceptively befriended him. He was taken to Israel, tried behind closed doors and sentenced on February 27, 1988. Vanunu spent eighteen years in prison, eleven of which were in solitary confinement. He was released on April 21, 2004.¹⁶ According to satellite images, by February 1991, during the Gulf War, Israel had fired six to eight rounds of low-yield, miniaturized nuclear weapons from the Negev desert on Baghdad, 600 miles away.¹⁷

Following World War II, according to the Rhode Island Freemason Newsletter, “Lyman Lemnitzer was a military planner,” as was his good friend, Dwight D. Eisenhower.¹⁸ During Kennedy’s administration, Lemnitzer, a 33rd Degree Freemason and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and others proffered a document entitled Justification for U.S. Military Intervention in Cuba,¹⁹ dated March 13, 1962, which recommended a false flag attack against the U.S. with the blame to be put on Cuba, which would then justify a retaliatory strike against that country. Their plan, called Operation Northwoods, may have originated with President Eisenhower and might even involve the killing of American citizens, the hijacking of planes and false arrests.²⁰ Per the document, “We could develop a Communist Cuban terror campaign in the Miami area, in other Florida cities and even in Washington.” They could target a specific ethnic group who would be incorrectly vilified as terrorists.²¹ Or, Lemnitzer said, “We could blow up a U.S. ship in Guantánamo Bay and blame Cuba.” Further, he suggested that they could create “casualty lists in U.S. newspapers” to provoke “national indignation.”²² They could paint a CIA plane to look like a commercial plane and then swap the real plane with a drone. Lemnitzer wasn’t intending to free the Cuban people who supported Castro, but rather, “Forces would assure rapid essential military control of Cuba” where “continued police action would be required.” The details of Operation Northwoods, under Operation Mongoose, were concealed for over forty years. Lemnitzer thought that all of the copies were destroyed.²³

Kennedy absolutely opposed Operation Northwoods, planned to withdraw troops from Vietnam, was determined to prevent Israel from becoming a nuclear state per Kennedy’s “harsh” letter of July 5, 1963 to Prime Minister Levi Eshkol,²⁴ and threatened to break up the CIA, an organization wholly devoted to protecting Wall Street interests. Elizabeth Forsling Harris, a public relations executive with CIA connections was in charge of planning Kennedy’s Dallas motorcade route.²⁵ On that fateful day in Dallas Kennedy, like the Lusitania, was deliberately sent into harm’s way, security policies were altered and Kennedy’s protective forces were inexplicably withdrawn and he was brutally assassinated on November 22, 1963, an event which essentially functioned as another political coup.²⁶ Operation Northwoods, or other false-flag attacks perpetrated against America, could now be implemented as regular policy with the able assistance of the CIA, still intact.

On November 29, 1963, the newly installed President Lyndon B. Johnson, a Freemason,²⁷ convened the Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, known as the Warren Commission from its chairman, Chief Justice Earl Warren. On September 24, 1964, the Commission presented its 888-page final report which claimed that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone. Commission member, Gerald Ford, also a Freemason, according to declassified files, admitted that he persuaded the Commission to state that Kennedy’s back wound was several inches higher than it really was. Ford and Arlen Specter, another commission member, promoted the implausible single bullet theory.²⁸

Ford, perhaps as a reward, would be installed as Vice President on December 6, 1973 when Spiro Agnew was ousted over tax issues. Rockefeller agent, Henry Kissinger orchestrated Watergate, a media circus that got rid of Nixon and ultimately politically benefited Kissinger, Ford and Rockefeller.²⁹ Attorney Hillary Rodham, along with Fred Thompson, Trent Lott, and Howard Baker,³⁰ were on the legal staff of the House Judiciary Committee during the Watergate fiasco to help prepare articles of impeachment against Nixon. Rodham landed this job right out of law school, thanks to Ted Kennedy and Burke Marshall. Allegedly, her legal procedures were ethically flawed.³¹ On August 9, 1974, Ford became president of the U.S. after Nixon’s resignation. Ford, the unelected president, unconditionally pardoned Nixon and carried out the banker’s agenda as every president has done since Johnson took office after Kennedy’s assassination.

The USS Maddox was allegedly assaulted by three North Vietnamese torpedo boats in the Gulf of Tonkin on August 2, 1964, followed by an incident on August 4, 1964. There were no U.S. casualties in either incident. However, President Johnson obtained the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution which was co-authored by brothers McGeorge and William P. Bundy (both members of Skull & Bones). William P. Bundy was the chief architect of the Vietnam War.³³ At the request of CFR Chairman, David Rockefeller, William Bundy served as editor of the CFR magazine Foreign Affairs from 1972 to 1984.³⁴ Those who arrange all wars propelled the U.S. and her citizens into an expensive, bloody, devastating, lengthy war against a country that hadn't actually attacked us, a fact that was revealed by declassified documents in 2005. Author James Bamford states that Lemnitzer advocated nuclear war in Vietnam. In terms of lives, the war cost the lives of almost 60,000 U.S. citizens and four million Vietnamese and Cambodian (secret bombing) residents.

The U.S. has found it more expedient and less expensive to train and arm "local cannon fodder" or "indigenous ethnic or religious groups" to slaughter each other. The U.S. did this in Vietnam. Green Berets trained the Montagnards, the people in the southern highlands. The CIA's Air America flew arms and other supplies into the remote Hmong villages and flew opium out – "to supply American troops fighting in Vietnam" and the vast international market.³⁵

False flags, including the 1967 Israeli attack on the USS Liberty with blame to be placed on Egypt, the first attack at the World Trade Center, Oklahoma City, 9/11 followed by two U.S. invasions – Afghanistan and Iraq, the anthrax scare (origin – Fort Detrick), the numerous threats and allegedly failed terrorist attacks – the Christmas bomber, the Times Square bomb incident perpetrated by accused bomber Faisal Shahzad, an alleged member of a British MI6 and the CIA-controlled terrorist organization who,³⁶ apparently after extensive training from the Pakistani Taliban, created a dud bomb incapable of exploding. Consequently, Senators Joe Lieberman and Scott Brown, along with Representatives Jason Altmire and Charlie Dent want to pass legislation that would eliminate, without due process, the citizenship of anyone even suspected of affiliating with a "foreign terrorist organization" with the exception of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF).³⁷ The Jewish Defense League (JDL), according to the FBI in 2001, is "a right-wing terrorist group." Also, according to the FBI, the JDL has plotted numerous terrorist attacks within the U.S. The organization, founded by Rabbi Meir Kahane, is no longer categorized as a terrorist organization. So, apparently, U.S. citizens, some with dual citizenship, involved with either the IDF or the JDL will not have to forfeit their U.S. citizenship.

Another person who purportedly went off the deep end and perpetrated a massacre at Fort Hood, Texas on November 6, 2009 similar to Columbine (April 20, 1999). Other questionable catastrophes, not currently categorized as false flag events, still provide the exploitive circumstances for the imposition of tyrannical legislation and regulations. For as Rahm Emanuel said, "You never want a serious crisis to go to waste. And what I mean by that is an opportunity to do things you think you could not do before."

These catastrophes include the US Airways Flight 1549 being ditched in the Hudson River adjacent Manhattan, New York City, on January 15, 2009. Polish President Lech Kaczynski, along with numerous other opposition party officials, died in a mysterious plane crash in Smolensk, Russia on April 10, 2010. This "accident" probably had more to do with Kaczynski's opposition to a $100 billion dollar contract with Russia's Gazprom Gas deal than with problematic weather. It would have made Poland 100% dependent on Russian gas for the next 28 years.³⁸ See the remarkable digital enhancement of the amateur plane crash site footage.

There was the 9.0 earthquake that struck the Indian Ocean region on December 26, 2004 with the resultant tsunami which killed approximately a quarter of a million people. Americans and their European allies were immediately aware of this earthquake due to location of various seismic stations and satellites. The officials, including those at one of those bases, Diego Garcia failed to notify the predominantly Muslim countries in the path of tsunami.³⁹ Diego Garcia, the U.S. military base in the Indian Ocean, from which the U.S. stages bombing assaults in the Middle East, which was directly in the path of the tsunami experienced no apparent damage.⁴⁰ Then there was the cataclysmic earthquake on just half of an island – oil-rich Haiti, followed by militarized aid. In other words, selective assistance to the survivors based on their obedience.

Rhetoric about the Times Square bomber has preempted the more devastating news about Deepwater Horizon, owned by Transocean Limited, the world's largest offshore drilling contractor, and leased to BP, which caught fire on April 20, and exploded killing 11 people. It was insured for $560 million.⁴¹ This crisis resulted in the worst oil spill in history – 5,000 barrels of oil spilling into the sea each day.⁴² The Rothschilds own a controlling share of the BP stock. BP, despite an egregious safety record, got an exemption and a cap on damages from the National Environmental Policy Act rules on April 6, 2009 and then lobbied to expand those exemptions just eleven days before the explosion.⁴³ BP, according to a law passed after the 1989 Exxon Valdez spill limits cleanup costs liability to no more than $75 million although legislation is being introduced to increase liability to $10 billion, retroactively.⁴⁴ BP is also responsible for the biggest oil spill ever to occur on Alaska's North Slope.⁴⁵ The Rothschilds, by lending money for Halliburton's clean-up operations will make profits. The failed cement casing had been installed by Halliburton and this is the second time within a year that a Halliburton casing has catastrophically failed on an oilrig.

As if Katrina, which hit the Gulf Coast the end of August 2005, didn't do enough economic damage and forced relocation of residents in the gulf coast states, this oil spill only furthers the devastation. Louisiana's fishing industry, according to Business Week, has a retail value of $1.8 billion while others claim it is even higher. Louisiana supplies a third of the nation's oysters and a quarter of all its seafood. The industry employs some 90,000 people in Louisiana. Unfortunately, the "accident" coincides with the opening of the shrimp season, May 16. Mississippi and Alabama are also very dependent on the fishing industry.⁴⁶

On April 30, 2010, the press reported that President Obama has reversed his decision to lift the moratorium on certain offshore drilling. No new oil drilling will be authorized until authorities discover the causes of the explosion of the Deepwater Horizon rig. Deepwater received a safety award in 2009. Lindsey Williams claims that the Gulf incident was sabotage and states that the technology was too advanced for such explosions to occur.

Former Colorado Senator Ken Salazar, a globalist pawn for the Nature Conservancy, thought nothing of seizing land from Colorado ranchers in the purported interest of conservation; he was confirmed as Interior Secretary on January 20, 2009. Since April 2009, hundreds of farmers in the San Joaquin valley in Central California have been targeted by U.S. government domestic terrorists who turned off the water in the formerly fertile Fresno area which is about to be turned into a desert. This created forty percent unemployment in the valley. Farmers in the San Joaquin valley grow about 25 % of the Nation's food supply. These decisions caused hundreds of millions of dollars in crop losses.

On May 2, 2010, U.S. Interior Secretary Salazar said, "Our job basically is to keep the boot on the neck of BP." Interestingly, the Bureau of Land Management, under the direction of the Department of the Interior, conducted a surprise inspection on the oilrig two hours before it exploded.

In 1969, Dr. Richard Day, an admitted "insider" delivered an invitation-only lecture about the "new world system" in which he defined the changes, according to an actual timetable, that would be accomplished by the year 2000 which included the following:

- Travel restrictions will occur. It will be considered a privilege! People will need permission and a good reason to travel. An under-the-skin implantation device will be developed, coded specifically to identify each individual to accommodate government surveillance through radio signals.
- More airplane and auto accidents will occur contributing to a general feeling of insecurity. This will also initiate more government regulations.

- Manufacturing will be curtailed in order to give other countries a chance to build their industries in order to compete against the United States. Our heavy industries will be deliberately cut back while the same industries are developed in other countries, notably Japan.
- Food supplies will be centralized and come under tight control. If population growth doesn't slow down, food shortages can be orchestrated to scare or starve people into accepting the theory of overpopulation. Personal gardens and perhaps small farms will be eliminated.
- Dr. Day said, "We can or soon will be able to control the weather... "I'm not merely referring to dropping iodide crystals into the clouds to precipitate rain that's already there, but REAL control." And weather will be used as a weapon of war, a weapon for influencing public policy or perhaps habitation patterns.
- Terrorism, once thought unnecessary in the United States, will be used by necessity if the United States does not move rapidly enough into accepting the new system.⁴⁷

Peace is just so anti-military industrial complex. There are zero profits in peace. If true peace were ever made worldwide, the military industrial complex would become extinct gasp overnight. Oh, the chaos, trillions upon trillions of dollars in revenues lost, millions upon millions of people unemployed. Actually, the overnight elimination of such the monolithic military industrial complex could cause major worldwide financial turmoil, think about it.

Since the fall of the Soviet Union, things became pretty "boring" in the bogeyman scene, for that episode was played as far as they could take it. America went around the globe converting countries into capitalistic "democracies" willingly or by force. The Zionist lead ~~capitalism~~ ummm, "democracy" (Zionist ECONOMIC COLONIZATION) movement was actually a well disguised monetary alliance building and consolidation strategy (we'll get into that latter in the finance chapter) the world was prepped, primed and conditioned for a united cohesive monetary system and centralized control. With the defeat of the communist bogeyman, they had to invent an even more evil, sinister enemy to combat on the world stage, an enemy that could instill fear in every mortal's hearts and minds, an enemy that threatens YOUR life, your family, friends, loved ones... YOUR HOME.

Along comes 9/11 and the entire world changed OVERNIGHT. As we all know by now, the events prior to, during and after 911 have been under massive critique by everyone except those that have vested interests in that charade and the 33%er crowd that blindly believe anything they are fed by their masters and the other 33% who could care less. Without the 911 attacks orchestrated by al-CIAda, nothing would have changed, 911 false flag op, like the Reichstag Fire and the Tonkin incident, (and other such premeditated "attacks") led to wars and changed the course of history.

Documented history proves that false flag operations have long been one of the tricks in the military strategist's tool kit. For "by way of deception they shall wage war." Here for your consideration, is just one case (if you want more, here is a link <http://www.the-lone-ranger.com/prs.html/>) out of dozens:

IRAQ

Americans disguised in Arab Dress captured in the act of setting off a car bomb

Global Research, October 15, 2005

Who needs terrorists or insurgents if we can do that job much better!!!!

A number of Iraqis apprehended two Americans disguised in Arab dress as they tried to blow up a booby-trapped car in the middle of a residential area in western Baghdad on Tuesday.

Residents of western Baghdad's al-Ghazaliyah district told Quds Press that the people had apprehended the Americans as they left their Caprice car near a residential neighborhood in al-Ghazaliyah on Tuesday afternoon (11 October 2005). Local people found they looked suspicious so they detained the men before they could get away. That was when they discovered that they were Americans and called the Iraqi puppet police.

Five minutes after the arrival of the Iraqi puppet police on the scene a large force of US troops showed up and surrounded the area. They put the two Americans in one of their Humvees and drove away at high speed to the astonishment of the residents of the area.

Quds Press spoke by telephone with a member of the al-Ghazaliyah puppet police who confirmed the incident, saying that the two men were non-Arab foreigners but declined to be more precise about their nationality.

Quds Press pointed out that about a month ago, the Iraqi puppet police in the southern Iraqi city of al-Basrah arrested two Britons whom they accused of attempting to cause an explosion in the city. The Britons were taken into custody by the Iraqi puppet police only to be broken out of prison by an assault of British occupation troops. That incident has created a tense relationship between the British and the local puppet authorities in al-Basrah, Quds Press noted.

Now for the first time in history, a nation is at war with a word: "terrorism." This word is hiding everywhere! In our back yards, on the "internets" (a Bushism), in your place of work, Iraq, Afghanistan, Iran, Syria, your next door neighbor, inside your computer and cell phone! Etc. Since that fateful day on Sept 11, 2001 our dear loving leaders have been bending over backwards along with their massive propaganda machine trying to convince us and the world that we must give up all our rights and liberties so that our most loving government can catch a couple dozen evil "bogeymen" who "hate us for our freedoms"... the kicker? Big brother determined it must, and is monitoring every single one of its 300 million+ citizens to catch a couple dozen authentic terrorists? Doh!

"The truth is, there is no Islamic army or terrorist group called Al Qaida. And any informed intelligence officer knows this. But there is a propaganda campaign to make the public believe in the presence of an identified entity representing the 'devil' only in order to drive the TV watcher to accept a unified international leadership for a war against terrorism. The country behind this propaganda is the US . . ." - Former British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook

News reports abound of intelligence agencies instigating, provoking, enabling and setting up agent provocateurs, without such premeditated instigation programs there wouldn't be nearly as many reports of alleged so called "terrorist" incidents. These tactics of "agencies of deceit" are well known certified false flag ops strategies in that the more numbers of similar reported incidents arises the more the “substance” is added to the illusion and premise that there “does” in fact exist a terrorist menace. This is an essential component of/and plays into the official “evil terrorists everywhere!” narrative... Thus works the FEAR MONGERING PSY-OP.

FBI Paid Informant in Bronx Synagogue Bomb Plot $97K Who Provided Terror Suspects with False Bombs

BY Robert Gearty , NY DAILY NEWS, August 25th 2010

Suspect Laguerre Payen in a courtroom sketch from 2009.

The jury in the Bronx synagogue bomb plot case was told Wednesday that the informant who provided the four suspects with phony bombs and missiles was paid $97,000 by the FBI.

The FBI gave Pakistani immigrant Shahed Hussain $44,000 for expenses and $53,000 for "his services" over a three-year period, agent Robert Fuller said.

Fuller, the first prosecution witness in the trial that started Tuesday, showed the jury one of the unexploded bombs the would-be terrorists planned to use to blow up one of two Riverdale synagogues.

Defense lawyers contend that without the informant - who they say entrapped the suspects - their bumbling clients would never have tried to blow up two synagogues in Riverdale and shoot down missiles.

James Cromitie, 44, and co-defendants David Williams, 29, Onta Williams, 34, and Laguerre Payen, 28, were caught in May 2009.

Hussain met them at an upstate mosque, where he was sent by the feds. The trial continues today in Manhattan Federal Court. The four suspects face life in prison if convicted.

The ruling elite are currently performing a tour de force multi-prong attack on different fronts:

- 1) Run for your lives! The terrorist boogymen are out to get us for our freedoms!
- 2) Global engineered financial demolition/collapse
- 3) Global warming hysteria
- 4) Global flu/virus pandemics

Meanwhile there has been a major concerted media campaign headed by the Jewish controlled media in making “Islam” synonymous with “terrorism.” These have been Israel’s age old enemies, and Israel has been ingeniously spreading fear, instigating and manipulating other countries so they may eliminate their Muslim enemies for them. Pure genius. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

Israel and or its agents have been caught instigating all sorts of confrontations via its false flag operations over the past decades. Only Israel stands the most to benefit from having the U.S. slaughter the enemies of ZION... Here is one (and most recent) of hundreds of examples one can dig up on the net:

US Intelligence Found Iran Nuke Document Was Forged

“U.S. intelligence has concluded that the document published recently by the Times of London, which purportedly describes an Iranian plan to do experiments on what the newspaper described as a "neutron initiator" for an atomic weapon, is a fabrication, according to a former Central Intelligence Agency official.

Philip Giraldi, who was a CIA counterterrorism official from 1976 to 1992, told IPS that intelligence sources say that the United States had nothing to do with forging the document, and that Israel is the primary suspect. The sources do not rule out a British role in the fabrication, however.

The Times of London story published Dec. 14 did not identify the source of the document. But it quoted "an Asian intelligence source" - a term some news media have used for Israeli intelligence officials - as confirming that his government believes Iran was working on a neutron initiator as recently as 2007." – Source CommonDreams.org Dec, 2009

BTW, you will NEVER find the above NEWS on national TV, for the Zionist “Jews” OWN ALL major media outlets.

Israel has hundreds if not thousands of secret agents who speak perfect fluent native tongues of all its enemy Arab countries. These Mossad agents integrate themselves into the fabric of their foreign hosts and live there for years on end, as deep undercover agents, building close relations with their enemies much like a DEA undercover drug agents do here in the U.S. when trying to infiltrate the mob. The Israeli agents on the other hand act as hard core insurgents and will do anything, even committing murder to get street cred and trust of its target group. These Israeli secret agents are SINGLE HANDEDLY INSTRUMENTAL for thousands of “attacks” attributed and credited to al-CIA and the evil bastard countries that our most wonderful government is fighting a war on terror on. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

Sit back and think about it for a moment... we are at war with a WORD. The official boogeyman is “terrorism” what makes this “war” so scary is that the rules of identifying a “terrorist” are so vague and lay in the “eyes of the beholder” for once anyone in any type of law enforcement capacity decides that you are a terrorist, you’re in deep shit, no matter who you really are, to the rest of the enforcement system, you ARE a terrorist. These are the new inquisitions. For all intents and purposes, anyone who does not conform to the status quo wishes qualifies as a verified terrorist. None of the traditional enemies in the history of mankind has ever paved the way for allowing governments to so rapidly, thoroughly, dramatically, drastically change and bypass hundreds of laws, forever changing our societies as has the boogeyman terrorist enemy. Our societies have become Orwellian surveillance states literally overnight and barely a peep of defiance was murmured by the public.

Every facet of our lives is now open game for wire tapping, eavesdropping, surveillance in any way shape or form without so much as a court order. Once labeled as a potential terrorist you can literally be picked up in a black van, transported to an undisclosed location, held for indefinite amounts of time, imprisoned and tortured and it is all perfectly ok. Good bye Habeas Corpus. The population is being primed, “a terrorist is anyone who defies the government” for the moment you raise your voice in condemnation of the ridiculous, outlandish, outrageousness, is the moment that you have unwittingly demonstrated your anarchist terrorist disposition. They are now recruiting fellow citizens to identify “terrorist” friends and neighbors, a “citizen army” to keep surveillance on themselves. Oh what a mighty web our rulers weave. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

The Problem Reaction Solution Paradigm (The Hegelian Dialectic)

- 1) The government creates or exploits a problem blaming it on others
- 2) The people react by asking the government for help willing to give up their rights
- 3) The government offers the solution that was planned long before the crisis

Historical Evidence of Problem Reaction Solution

Nero Burnt Rome, Blamed It on the Christians and Then Savagely Butchered Them.

Nero Claudius Caesar (37-68 CE) - University of Texas History - In 64 C.E., a fire swept through Rome, burning for a week and destroying a large portion of the city... According to some sources, when he found that he did not have enough land to build his palace, he set fire to the city a second time. It is at this point that he is said to have "played his fiddle [lyre] while Rome burned." To avert suspicion, he blamed the fires on the Christians and proceeded to kill them in horrendous ways.

Nero persecutes Christians in Rome - Rutgers University History - Neither human effort nor princely largesse nor divine appeasement was able to dispel the scandal that the fire (which burned much of Rome in 64 CE) was believed to have been commanded (by the emperor Nero). So, to do away with the rumor, Nero substituted as culprits those who were commonly called "Christians," who were hated because of their absurdities. And he inflicted them with the most extraordinary punishments

The USS Maine Sank in Havana Harbor Launching the US into the Spanish American War

Sinking of the USS Maine Resulting in the Spanish American War - US Navy Official Website - The Spanish-American War (21 April to 13 August 1898) was a turning point in the history of the United States, signaling the country's emergence as a world power. The blowing up of the battleship USS Maine in Havana harbor on the evening of 15 February was a critical event on the road to that war... The U.S. Navy Department immediately formed a board of inquiry to determine the reason for Maine's destruction... When the Navy's verdict was announced, the American public reacted with predictable outrage...

The destruction of Maine did not cause the U.S. to declare war on Spain, but it served as a catalyst, accelerating the approach to a diplomatic impasse. In addition, the sinking and deaths of U.S. sailors rallied American opinion more strongly behind armed intervention...

Technical experts at the time of both investigations disagreed with the findings, believing that spontaneous combustion of coal in the bunker adjacent to the reserve six-inch magazine was the most likely cause of the explosion on board the ship. In 1976, Admiral Hyman G. Rickover published his book, "How the Battleship Maine Was Destroyed". The admiral became interested in the disaster and wondered if the application of modern scientific knowledge could determine the cause. He called on two experts on explosions and their effects on ship hulls. Using documentation gathered from the two official inquiries, as well as information on the construction and ammunition of Maine, the experts concluded that the damage caused to the ship was inconsistent with the external explosion of a mine. The most likely cause, they speculated, was spontaneous combustion of coal in the bunker next to the magazine.

As a result (of the Spanish American War) Spain lost its control over the remains of its overseas empire -- Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Philippine islands, Guam, and other islands - Library of Congress - On April 25, 1898 the United States declared war on Spain following the sinking of the Battleship Maine in Havana harbor on February 15, 1898. The war ended with the signing of the Treaty of Paris on December 10, 1898. As a result Spain lost its control over the remains of its overseas empire -- Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Philippine islands, Guam, and other islands.

Events moved swiftly after the explosion aboard the U.S.S. Maine on February 15. On March 9, Congress passed a law allocating fifty million dollars to build up military strength. On March 28, the U.S. Naval Court of Inquiry finds that a mine blew up the Maine. On April 21 President McKinley orders a blockade of Cuba and four days later the U.S. declares war.

The Resinking of the Battleship Maine - Historical Museum of Southern Florida - There is no mystery about the second sinking of the United States battleship Maine. It occurred on March 16, 1912, four miles outside Havana harbor, and was witnessed by thousands. They raised it and sank it in deep waters

Adolf Hitler was elected Chancellor (President) and then Burnt the Reichstag (German Parliament) Building. He Then Declared Himself Furor (Dictator) and Promised Utopia. Hitler Declared Martial Law and Suspended All Basic Human Rights.

Reichstag Fire - Encyclopedia Britannica - Reichstag fire, burning of the Reichstag (parliament) building in Berlin, on the night of Feb. 27, 1933, a key event in the establishment of the Nazi dictatorship and widely believed to have been contrived by the newly formed Nazi government itself to turn public opinion against its opponents and to assume emergency powers...his propaganda minister, Joseph Goebbels, is supposed to have devised the scheme... On Feb. 28, 1933, the day after the fire, Hitler's dictatorship began with the enactment of a decree "for the Protection of the People and the State," which dispensed with all constitutional protection of political, personal, and property rights.

Hitler and the Reichstag Fire - The Columbia Encyclopedia, Sixth Edition. 2001 - In Jan., 1933, when Adolf Hitler became chancellor without an absolute majority, the Reichstag was dissolved and new elections were set for Mar. 5; a violent election campaign ensued. On Feb. 27, 1933, a fire destroyed part of the Reichstag building. Hitler immediately accused the Communists of having set the fire. President von Hindenburg proclaimed a state of emergency and issued decrees suspending freedom of speech and assembly.

Holocaust Timeline The Nazification of Germany - University of South Florida - On February 27, 1933, the Reichstag building went up in flames. Nazis immediately claimed that this was the beginning of a Communist revolution. This fact leads many historians to believe that Nazis actually set, or help set the fire. Others believe that a deranged Dutch Communist set the fire. The issue has never been resolved. This incident prompted Hitler to convince Hindenburg to issue a Decree for the Protection of People and State that granted Nazis sweeping power to deal with the so-called emergency. This laid the foundation for a police state.

In 1962, the government wanted to change public opinion to create a pretext for war with Cuba. The Joint Chiefs of Staff created a plan that they named the "Northwoods Document", to commit a series of terrorist acts against America and blame it on the Cuban government. One of the scenarios included blowing up a civilian airplane.

U.S. terror plan called Cuba invasion pretext - The Baltimore Sun - U.S. military leaders proposed in 1962 a secret plan to commit terrorist acts against Americans and blame Cuba to create a pretext for invasion and the ouster of Communist leader Fidel Castro, according to a new book about the National Security Agency.

U.S. Military Wanted to Provoke War With Cuba - ABCNEWS.com - In the early 1960s, America's top military leaders reportedly drafted plans to kill innocent people and commit acts of terrorism in U.S. cities to create public support for a war against Cuba.

The Actual Northwoods documents

Pentagon Proposed Pretexts for Cuba Invasion in 1962 - George Washington University - National Security Archive - This document, titled "Justification for U.S. Military Intervention in Cuba" was provided by the JCS to Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara on March 13, 1962, as the key component of Northwoods

Bombing of Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City

There are innumerable theories about the Oklahoma City Bombing and I do not want to engage in theories. If anyone believes that the Oklahoma City bombing was NOT a government job, I challenge you to watch a downloadable video 911: The Road to Tyranny. This movie, amongst many other things, shows numerous news clips from major media of bombs being removed from the Murrah Federal building after the bombing. I personally do not believe that Timothy McVeigh placed any bombs in the Murrah building. This movie is extremely powerful, very well documented and nothing short of life changing. It inspired me to build this section of the website.

Other Examples of Problem Reaction Solution - I will expand on these at a later date.

Stock Market Crash of 1929 - The Federal Reserve was created in 1913. Evidence shows that it manipulated the market resulting in the greatest transfer of wealth to the 'Rich' in the history of the world.

Future Examples of Problem Reaction Solution

FBI Suicide-Homicide Bombers in U.S. 'Inevitable' - NewsMax.com - The FBI is warning that suicide-homicide bombers like the ones in the Middle East are "inevitable" in the United States.

"I think we will see that in the future, I think it's inevitable," FBI Director Robert Mueller said Monday during a speech to the National Association of District Attorneys meeting in Alexandria, Va.

Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge Sunday called on U.S. citizens to be on the alert after an FBI warning that terrorists might rent apartments in high-rise apartment buildings and plant explosives in the apartments to destroy the buildings.

Why?

"The Party seeks power entirely for its for its own sake. We are not interested in the good of others; we are interested solely in power. Not wealth or luxury or long life or happiness; only power, pure power. What pure power means you will understand presently. We are different from all oligarchies of the past in that we know what we are doing. All the others, even those who resembled ourselves, were cowards and hypocrites. The German Nazis and the Russian Communists came very close to us in their methods, but they never had the courage to recognize their motives. They pretended, perhaps they even believed, that they had seized power unwillingly and for a limited time, and just round the corner there lay a paradise where human beings would be free and equal. We are not like that, We know that no one ever seizes power with the intention of relinquishing it. One does not establish a dictatorship in order to safeguard a revolution; one makes a revolution in order to establish a dictatorship..." 1984 - George Orwell.

Behold: News Flash! Hey Dorothy, this ain't Kansas anymore. We now officially live in a virtual open air concentration camp consisting of 50 states. The wardens will ever so slightly, unnoticeably, progressively tighten their grips on their inmate population as the years go by. Not to worry, your entertainment, jobs, housing, sports, hobbies and drugs will all remain to keep you forever distracted, preoccupied and information overloaded to such an extent never once perceiving your enslavement condition. All that is left is for them to shut down the borders and not allow anyone to leave (for your "protection," of course) this country for it to become an official tour de force concentration camp. And rumors swirling around the grape vine have it that is exactly what's on their "to do list."

The first problem I have had with this whole terrorism situation started on the day of 911. What was an obvious "setup" followed by a massive coordinated cover-up, then the huge effort to shove the whole investigation under the rug followed by the fact that anyone who asks ANY reasonable questions is immediately ridiculed and attacked so viciously that one cannot help but to stop right there in their tracks and re-evaluate the whole bullshit story we are being hastily fed then instructed to shut up, forget about it and just follow along with the official narrative. FAKE TERROR - THE ROAD TO WAR AND DICTATORSHIP

It's the oldest trick in the book, dating back to Roman times; creating the enemies you need.

By Michael Rivero

In 70 BC, an ambitious minor politician and extremely wealthy man, Marcus Licinius Crassus, wanted to rule Rome. Just to give you an idea of what sort of man Crassus really was, he is credited with invention of the fire brigade. But in Crassus' version, his fire-fighting slaves would race to the scene of a burning building whereupon Crassus would offer to buy it on the spot for a tiny fraction of its worth. If the owner sold, Crassus' slaves would put out the fire. If the owner refused to sell, Crassus allowed the building to burn to the ground. By means of this device, Crassus eventually came to be the largest single private land holder in Rome, and used some of his wealth to help back Julius Caesar against Cicero.

In 70 BC Rome was still a Republic, which placed very strict limits on what Rulers could do, and more importantly NOT do. But Crassus had no intentions of enduring such limits to his personal power, and contrived a plan.

Crassus seized upon the slave revolt led by Spartacus in order to strike terror into the hearts of Rome, whose garrison Spartacus had already defeated in battle. But Spartacus had no intention of marching on Rome itself, a move he knew to be suicidal. Spartacus and his band wanted nothing to do with the Roman empire and had planned from the start merely to loot enough money from their former owners in the Italian countryside to hire a mercenary fleet in which to sail to freedom.

Sailing away was the last thing Crassus wanted Spartacus to do. He needed a convenient enemy with which to terrorize Rome itself for his personal political gain. So Crassus bribed the mercenary fleet to sail without Spartacus, then positioned two Roman legions in such a way that Spartacus had no choice but to march on Rome.

Terrified of the impending arrival of the much-feared army of gladiators, Rome declared Crassus Praetor. Crassus then crushed Spartacus' army and even though Pompey took the credit, Crassus was elected Consul of Rome the following year.

With this maneuver, the Romans surrendered their Republican form of government. Soon would follow the first Triumvirate, consisting of Crassus, Pompeii, and Julius Caesar, followed by the reign of the god-like Emperors of Rome.

The Romans were hoaxed into surrendering their Republic, and accepting the rule of Emperors.

Julius Caesar's political opponent, Cicero, for all his literary accomplishments, played the same games in his campaign against Julius Caesar, claiming that Rome was falling victim to an internal "vast right wing" conspiracy in which any expressed desire for legislative limits on government was treated as suspicious behavior. Cicero, in order to demonstrate to the Romans just how unsafe Rome has become hired thugs to cause as much disturbance as possible, and campaigned on a promise to end the internal strife if elected and granted extraordinary powers.

What Cicero only dreamed of, Adolph Hitler succeeded in doing. Elected Chancellor of Germany, Hitler, like Crassus, had no intention of living with the strict limits to his power imposed by German law. Unlike Cicero, Hitler's thugs were easy to recognize; they all wore the same brown shirts. But their actions were no different than those of their Roman predecessors. They staged beatings, set fires, caused as much trouble as they could, while Hitler made speeches promising that he could end the crime wave of subversives and terrorism if he was granted extraordinary powers.

Then the Reichstag burned down; a staged terrorist attack.

The Germans were hoaxed into surrendering their Republic, and accepting the total rule of Der Fuehrer. Hitler had German troops dressed in Polish uniforms attack the radio station at Gleiwitz, then lied to the Germans, telling them Poland had invaded, and marched Germany off into World War Two

The state-sponsored schools will never tell you this, but governments routinely rely on hoaxes to sell their agendas to an otherwise reluctant public. The Romans accepted the Emperors and the Germans accepted Hitler not because they wanted to, but because the carefully crafted illusions of threat appeared to leave no other choice.

Our government too uses hoaxes to create the illusion that We The People have no choice but the direction the government wishes us to go in.

In 1898, Joseph Pulitzer's New York World and William Randolph Hearst's New York Journal were arguing for American intervention in Cuba. Hearst is reported to have dispatched a photographer to Cuba to photograph the coming war with Spain. When the photographer asked just what war that might be, Hearst is reported to have replied, "You take the photographs, and I will provide the war". Hearst was true to his word, as his newspaper published stories of great atrocities being committed against the Cuban people, most of which turned out to be complete fabrications.

On the night of February 15, 1898, the USS Maine, lying in Havana harbor in a show of US resolve to protect her interests, exploded violently. Captain Sigsbee, the commander of the Maine, urged that no assumptions of enemy attack be made until there was a full investigation of the cause of the explosion. For this, Captain Sigsbee was excoriated in the press for "refusing to see the obvious". The Atlantic Monthly declared flat out that to suppose the explosion to be anything other than a deliberate act by Spain was "completely at defiance of the laws of probability".

Under the slogan "Remember the Maine", Americans went to war with Spain, eventually winning the Philippines (and annexing Hawaii along the way).

In 1975, an investigation led by Admiral Hyman Rickover examined the data recovered from a 1911 examination of the wreck and concluded that there had been no evidence of an external explosion. The most likely cause of the sinking was a coal dust explosion in a coal bunker imprudently located next to the ship's magazines. Captain Sigsbee's caution had been well founded.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt needed a war. He needed the fever of a major war to mask the symptoms of a still deathly ill economy struggling back from the Great Depression (and mutating towards Socialism at the same time). Roosevelt wanted a war with Germany to stop Hitler, but despite several provocations in the Atlantic, the American people, still struggling with that troublesome economy, were opposed to any wars. Roosevelt violated neutrality with lend lease, and even ordered the sinking of several German ships in the Atlantic, but Hitler refused to be provoked.

Roosevelt needed an enemy, and if America would not willingly attack that enemy, then one would have to be maneuvered into attacking America, much as Marcus Licinius Crassus has maneuvered Spartacus into attacking Rome.

The way open to war was created when Japan signed the tripartite agreement with Italy and Germany, with all parties pledging mutual defense to each other. Whereas Hitler would never declare war on the United States no matter the provocation, the means to force Japan to do so were readily at hand.

The first step was to place oil and steel embargoes on Japan, using Japan's wars on the Asian mainland as a reason. This forced Japan to consider seizing the oil and mineral rich regions in Indonesia. With the European powers militarily exhausted by the war in Europe, the United States was the only power in the Pacific able to stop Japan from invading the Dutch East Indies, and by moving the Pacific fleet from San Diego to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Roosevelt made a pre-emptive strike on that fleet the mandatory first step in any Japanese plan to extend its empire into the "southern resource area".

Roosevelt boxed in Japan just as completely as Crassus had boxed in Spartacus. Japan needed oil. They had to invade Indonesia to get it, and to do that they first had to remove the threat of the American fleet at Pearl Harbor. There never really was any other course open to them.

To enrage the American people as much as possible, Roosevelt needed the first overt attack by Japan to be as bloody as possible, appearing as a sneak attack much as the Japanese had done to the Russians. From that moment up until the attack on Pearl Harbor itself, Roosevelt and his associates made sure that the commanders in Hawaii, General Short and Admiral Kimmel, were kept in the dark as much as possible about the location of the Japanese fleet and its intentions, then later scapegoated for the attack. (Congress recently exonerated both Short and Kimmel, posthumously restoring them to their former ranks).

But as the Army board had concluded at the time, and subsequent de-classified documents confirmed, Washington DC knew the attack was coming, knew exactly where the Japanese fleet was, and knew where it was headed.

On November 29th, Secretary of State Hull showed United Press reporter Joe Leib a message with the time and place of the attack, and the New York Times in its special 12/8/41 Pearl Harbor edition, on page 13, reported that the time and place of the attack had been known in advance!

The much repeated claim that the Japanese fleet maintained radio silence on its way to Hawaii was a lie. Among other intercepts still held in the Archives of the NSA is the UNCODED message sent by the Japanese tanker Shirya stating, "proceeding to a position 30.00 N, 154.20 E. Expect to arrive at that point on 3 December." (near HI)

President Lyndon Johnson wanted a war in Vietnam. He wanted it to help his friends who owned defense companies to do a little business. He needed it to get the Pentagon and CIA to quit trying to invade Cuba. And most of all, he needed a provocation to convince the American people that there was really "no other choice".

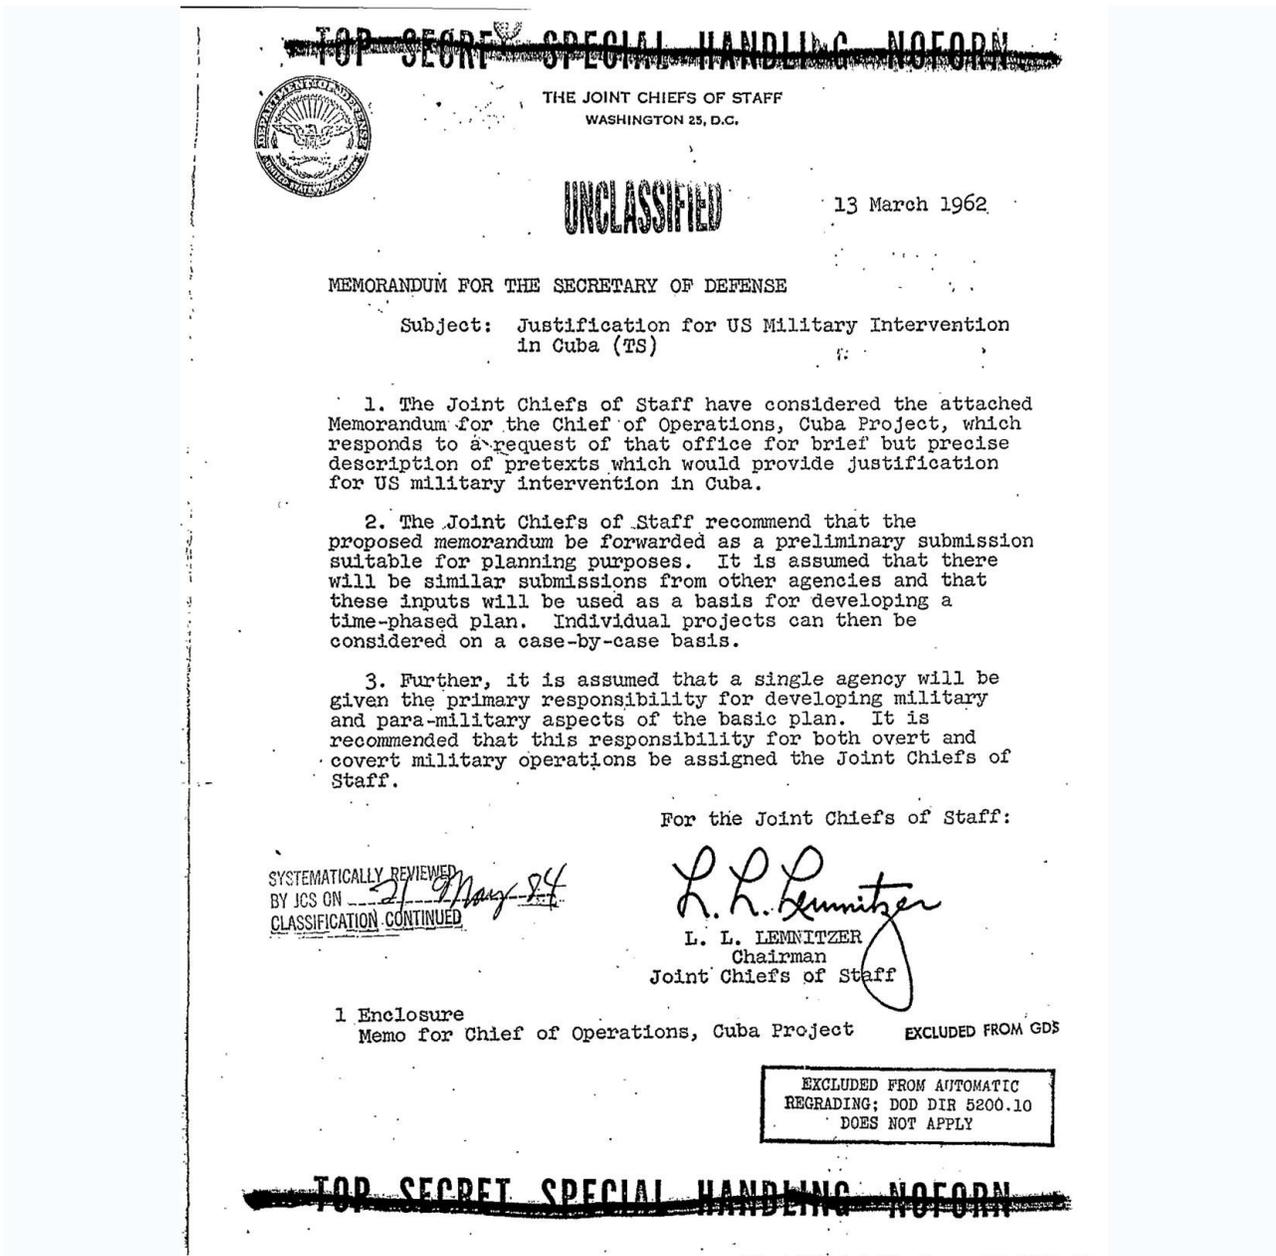

On August 5, 1964, newspapers across America reported "renewed attacks" against American destroyers operating in Vietnamese waters, specifically the Gulf of Tonkin. The official story was that North Vietnamese torpedo boats launched an "unprovoked attack" on the USS Maddox while it was on "routine patrol".

The truth is that USS Maddox was involved in aggressive intelligence gathering in coordination with actual attacks by South Vietnam and the Laotian Air Force against targets in North Vietnam. The truth is also that there was no attack by torpedo boats against the USS Maddox. Captain John J. Herrick, the task force commander in the Gulf, cabled Washington DC that the report was the result of an "over-eager" sonar man who had picked up the sounds of his own ship's screws and panicked. But even with this knowledge that the report was false, Lyndon Johnson went on national TV that night to announce the commencement of air strikes against North Vietnam, "retaliation" for an attack that had never occurred. [the article continues at whatreallyhappened.com]

There is one purely AMAZING document to have miraculously surfaced over the years. The previously secret document was originally declassified and made public on November 18, 1997, by the John F. Kennedy Assassination Records Review Board (the full text of Operation Northwoods is included in the Addendum section of this report). I reckon while they were busy sifting through JFK Execution BlackOps documents, searching for stuff of that era to declassify and keep researchers at bay they in advertently included this masterpiece in the pile, obviously not thinking about the ramifications it would bring years later when the powers that be would use an identical established military strategy almost right out of its pages.

Above is the cover sheet of Operation Northwoods were the underlying plan was to conjure up a FALSE FLAG attack against the U.S. (making believe it was the Cubans who did it), destroying property and killing hundreds if not thousands of innocent civilians in order to rouse up massive support by the angry population for unilateral attack against the “perpetrators” of such despicable attacks. The staged attacks would thus give the military industrial complex a free hand to practice its love of killing and bombing non conformist countries into submission. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

The fact that this genuine document exists is rational confession of premeditated intent, where actual time, research and plans were engineered as per military protocol, for the use of false flag ops. Thus definitively PROVING that such tactics were perfectly within the scope of realistic implementation by our military. (cover page below)

Journalist James Bamford summarized Operation Northwoods in his April 24, 2001 book Body of Secrets:

“Operation Northwoods, which had the written approval of the Chairman and every member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, called for innocent people to be shot on American streets; for boats carrying refugees fleeing Cuba to be sunk on the high seas; for a wave of violent terrorism to be launched in Washington, D.C., Miami, and elsewhere. People would be framed for bombings they did not commit; planes would be hijacked. Using phony evidence, all of it would be blamed on Castro, thus giving Lemnitzer and his cabal the excuse, as well as the public and international backing, they needed to launch their war.” For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

Content of Operation Northwoods:

In response to a request for pretexts for military intervention by the Chief of Operations of the Cuba Project, Brig. Gen. Edward Lansdale, the document lists methods (with, in some cases, outlined plans) the authors believed would garner public and international support for U.S. military intervention in Cuba. These are staged attacks purporting to be of Cuban origin.

Since it would seem desirable to use legitimate provocation as the basis for US military intervention in Cuba a cover and deception plan, to include requisite preliminary actions such as has been developed in response to Task 33 c, could be executed as an initial effort to provoke Cuban reactions. Harassment plus deceptive actions to convince the Cubans of imminent invasion would be emphasized. Our military posture throughout execution of the plan will allow a rapid change from exercise to intervention if Cuban response justifies.

A series of well coordinated incidents will be planned to take place in and around Guantanamo to give genuine appearance of being done by hostile Cuban forces.

a. Incidents to establish a credible attack (not in chronological order):

Start rumors (many). Use clandestine radio.

Land friendly Cubans in uniform "over-the-fence" to stage attack on base.

Capture Cuban (friendly) saboteurs inside the base.

Start riots near the base main gate (friendly Cubans).[\[13\]](#)

Blow up ammunition inside the base; start fires.

Burn aircraft on air base (sabotage).

Lob mortar shells from outside of base into base. Some damage to installations.

Capture assault teams approaching from the sea or vicinity of Guantanamo City.

Capture militia group which storms the base.

Sabotage ship in harbor; large fires—naphthalene.

Sink ship near harbor entrance. Conduct funerals for mock-victims (may be in lieu of (10)).

b. United States would respond by executing offensive operations to secure water and power supplies, destroying artillery and mortar emplacements which threaten the base.

c. Commence large scale United States military operations

A “Remember the Maine” incident could be arranged in several forms:

a. We could blow up a US ship in Guantanamo Bay and blame Cuba.

b. We could blow up a drone (unmanned) vessel anywhere in the Cuban waters. We could arrange to cause such incident in the vicinity of Havana or Santiago as a spectacular result of Cuban attack from the air or sea, or both. The presence of Cuban planes or ships merely investigating the intent of the vessel could be fairly compelling evidence that the ship was taken under attack. The nearness to Havana or Santiago would add credibility especially to those people that might have heard the blast or have seen the fire. The US could follow up with an air/sea rescue operation covered by US fighters to "evacuate" remaining members of the non-existent crew. Casualty lists in US newspapers would cause a helpful wave of national indignation.

We could develop a Communist Cuban terror campaign in the Miami area, in other Florida cities and even in Washington.[\[14\]](#)

The terror campaign could be pointed at refugees seeking haven in the United States. We could sink a boatload of Cubans en route to Florida (real or simulated). We could foster attempts on lives of Cuban refugees in the United States even to the extent of wounding in instances to be widely publicized. Exploding a few plastic bombs in carefully chosen spots, the arrest of Cuban agents and the release of prepared documents substantiating Cuban involvement, also would be helpful in projecting the idea of an irresponsible government.

A "Cuban-based, Castro-supported" filibuster could be simulated against a neighboring Caribbean nation (in the vein of the 14th of June invasion of the Dominican Republic). We know that Castro is backing subversive efforts clandestinely against Haiti, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, and Nicaragua at present and possible others. These efforts can be magnified and additional ones contrived for exposure. For example, advantage can be taken of the sensitivity of the Dominican Air Force to intrusions within their national air space. "Cuban" B-26 or C-46 type aircraft could make cane-burning raids at night. Soviet Bloc incendiaries could be found. This could be coupled with "Cuban" messages to the Communist underground in the Dominican Republic and "Cuban" shipments of arm which would be found, or intercepted, on the beach.

Use of MIG type aircraft by US pilots could provide additional provocation. Harassment of civil air, attacks on surface shipping and destruction of US military drone aircraft by MIG type planes would be useful as complementary actions. An F-86 properly painted would convince air passengers that they saw a Cuban MIG, especially if the pilot of the transport were to announce such fact. The primary drawback to this suggestion appears to be the security risk inherent in obtaining or modifying an aircraft. However, reasonable copies of the MIG could be produced from US resources in about three months.[\[15\]](#)

Hijacking attempts against civil air and surface craft should appear to continue as harassing measures condoned by the government of Cuba. Concurrently, genuine defections of Cuban civil and military air and surface craft should be encouraged.

It is possible to create an incident which will demonstrate convincingly that a Cuban aircraft has attacked and shot down a chartered civil airliner en route from the United States to Jamaica, Guatemala, Panama or Venezuela. The destination would be chosen only to cause the flight plan route to cross Cuba. The passengers could be a group of college students off on a holiday or any grouping of persons with a common interest to support chartering a non-scheduled flight.

a. An aircraft at Eglin AFB would be painted and numbered as an exact duplicate for a civil registered aircraft belonging to a CIA proprietary organization in the Miami area. At a designated time the duplicate would be substituted for the actual civil aircraft and would be loaded with the selected passengers, all boarded under carefully prepared aliases. The actual registered aircraft would be converted to a drone.

b. Take off times of the drone aircraft and the actual aircraft will be scheduled to allow a rendezvous south of Florida. From the rendezvous point the passenger-carrying aircraft will descend to minimum altitude and go directly into an auxiliary field at Eglin AFB where arrangements will have been made to evacuate the passengers and return the aircraft to its original status. The drone aircraft meanwhile will continue to fly the filed flight plan. When over Cuba the drone will begin transmitting on the international distress frequency a "MAY DAY" message stating he is under attack by Cuban MIG aircraft. The transmission will be interrupted by destruction of the aircraft which will be triggered by radio signal. This will allow ICAO radio[\[16\]](#) stations in the Western Hemisphere to tell the US what has happened to the aircraft instead of the US trying to "sell" the incident.

It is possible to create an incident which will make it appear that Communist Cuban MIGs have destroyed a USAF aircraft over international waters in an unprovoked attack.

a. Approximately 4 or 5 F-101 aircraft will be dispatched in trail from Homestead AFB, Florida, to the vicinity of Cuba. Their mission will be to reverse course and simulate fakir aircraft for an air defense exercise in southern Florida. These aircraft would conduct variations of these flights at frequent intervals. Crews would be briefed to remain at least 12 miles off the Cuban coast; however, they would be required to carry live ammunition in the event that hostile actions were taken by the Cuban MIGs.

b. On one such flight, a pre-briefed pilot would fly tail-end Charley at considerable interval between aircraft. While near the Cuban Island this pilot would broadcast that he had been jumped by MIGs and was going down. No other calls would be made. The pilot would then fly directly west at extremely low altitude and land at a secure base, an Eglin auxiliary. The aircraft would be met by the proper people, quickly stored and given a new tail number. The pilot who had performed the mission under an alias, would resume his proper identity and return to his normal place of business. The pilot and aircraft would then have disappeared.

c. At precisely the same time that the aircraft was presumably shot down, a submarine or small surface craft would disburse F-101 parts, parachute, etc., at approximately 15 to 20 miles off the Cuban coast and depart. The pilots returning to Homestead would have a true story as far as they knew. Search ships and aircraft could be dispatched and parts of aircraft found. [\[17\]](#)

This is cold hard revealed facts. Cold hard reality. Cold hard modus operandi. This is how your loving wonderful military industrial complex would really like to do things! They have no conscience, no soul, no regrets, no morals in proposing KILLING OUR OWN CITIZENS. These were NOT isolated instances either, many other military plans involved staging fake FALSE FLAG attacks against U.S. property and people, such as Operation Mongoose, Operation Bingo, Operation Dirty Trick and many others were conducted throughout the decades prior to 9/11. Fast forward to 2001 were the mother of all staged false flag operations was conducted. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

Low and behold... we have been TOLD that we were “attacked by box cutter holding terrorists operating out of caves who managed to outsmart and evade the world’s premier intelligence apparatus and supposedly “hijacked” not one, two, but FOUR airliners, successfully hood winking billion dollar military operations (whom were all out to lunch while it all went down) and used them to drive us deep into a quagmire war of no end in sight, of which the main by product of this war is the constant elimination of our individual rights and freedoms.

The military practices "compartmentalization" this is a strategy where the right hand does not know what the left hand is doing. This is standard operating protocol that enables them to conduct all sorts of missions and project (everyone operates on A NEED TO KNOW BASIS) without most of the participants having a clue what the big picture really is. Therefore it would be a simple thing to setup clandestine Black Op under the pretext of "training exercise" (conducted by the left hand) while simultaneously carrying out an entirely separate operation with a completely different group (the right hand) whose mission pretext is to "take out the evil terrorist" that are actually the poor sap operative left hand pawns. This my friend is classic TEXTBOOK FALSE FLAG black op. For “by way of deception they shall wage war.”

UNDISPUTED PROOF THAT US INTELLIGENCE IS BEHIND GLOBAL TERRORISM

CIA AGENT MICHAEL MEIRING BLEW HIS OWN LEGS OFF WHILE PLANTING A TERRORIST BOMB

THERE IS A MASSIVE COVERUP BY THE CIA CONTROLLED US MEDIA. ALL MAJOR US MEDIA GIANTS ARE INVOLVED IN THE COVERUP OF THE TERRORIST INCIDENT WHERE AN AMERICAN CIA AGENT (MICHAEL MEIRING) BLEW HIS OWN LEGS OFF WHILE PLANTING A CIA SPONSERED TERRORIST ATTACK ON THE PEOPLE OF THE PHILIPPEANS. THIS IS THE STORY THAT WILL NOT GO AWAY. IT IS THE CLEAREST AND MOST OBVIOUS EVIDENCE THAT US INTELLIGENCE IS BEHIND GLOBAL TERRORISM. IT ALSO REINFORCES THE PRINCIPLE THESIS OF THE VOXNEWS INVESTIGATIONS THAT THE US INTELLIGENCE IS IN FACT THE LARGEST COUNTERFEITER ON THE PLANET EARTH. AND THAT THEY FINANCE MANY OF THEIR TERRORIST OPERATIONS WITH COUNTERFEIT MONEY< WHICH IS NOW CURRENTLY COMING HOME TO ROOST. VOXNYC BROKE THE STORY OF MEIRING IN AMERICA IN MAY OF 2002. AND SINCE THEN THERE HAS BEEN AN

AVALANCH OF INTEREST IN THIS CASE. WILL YOU READ ABOUT IT IN THE AMERICAN PRESS OR SEE IT ON AMERICAN TELEVISION?

NEVER!

DID IT HAPPEN AND IS IT REAL? YOU BETTER BELIEVE IT. HERE'S MORE ON THE CIA'S MAN WHO GOT CAUGHT WITH HIS HAND IN THE COOKIE JAR.

CIA STAGED TERROR ATTACKS IN SOUTHEAST ASIA... MORE ON THE WAY

by voxfox

ORIGINALLY PUBLISHED MARCH 2003

One by one, the world's terror attacks bear more of the hallmarks of US Intelligence, "Black Ops," than of Islamic terrorism. The signs are unmistakable, the CIA backed industrio-religious crusaders are staging terror campaigns throughout the world - absolutely - positively.

The despicable US media giants were silent when undisputed proof surfaced that the CIA, NSA, British Intelligence, the US Secret Service and the FBI were all involved in the May 16th 2002 blast in a Philippine hotel room when their agent, Michael Meiring accidentally blew his own legs off while constructing a bomb which was intended, if ignited as planned, to be a staged "Al Queda" terror attack, justifying a tightened US- Philippine military alliance.

Meiring who operated under the cover of being a treasure hunter was in fact a CIA operative under the direct protection of the White House (As evidenced by his swift NSA/FBI medivac to San Diego after blowing his own legs off). The US spook spent 10 years on assignment associating with Islamic groups, Abu Sayef, MNLF, Moro Islamic Liberation Front, and other Philippine based Islamic groups, supplying them with US counterfeit notes (Courtesy of US intelligence) and bomb making materials so that they may create terrorist mayhem within the Philippines, giving the US a pretext to move in and, "help," just like in Indonesia - just like nearly everywhere else these Mafia-like thugs can plant their terror and, "protection," racket.

Meiring called his front company, Paruosia International Trading Incorporated Paruosia, in Christian fundamentalist lingo, means "Second coming of Christ." - These intelligence asset/crusader types can't resist revealing clues to their delusions of righteous grandeur.

What was the coverage from the CIA controlled propaganda machines, CNN, Fox and the rest regarding this explosive story of a CIA agent caught planting a terrorist bomb? - Zippo. Not a single mention of Meiring - Nothing.

Thanks to the CIA's complete infiltration of the US major media and the collusion of media editors and journalists in this crusade and thanks to the cowardly and obedient journalists who are supposed to write about the real nature of this crusade, and thanks and to a population who's minds have been so fabulously obliterated by years of programming by the mind slum that is television, the crusaders have had a free ride. After all these years infiltrating and or buying the media they have created their own consent machine, giving themselves a perpetual green light - like there's no one left to stop them...

...or so they think.

One by one you will see staged "Islamic Terrorist," attacks throughout South East Asia. Up next Thailand. Since it would be patently ridiculous to claim that there are viable Islamic terrorist groups in Thailand the CIA/CNN lie being released into the LieScape is that Al Queda terrorists are using Thailand as a "Safe Haven."

And of course Indonesia and the Philippines will continue to receive the heaviest brunt of these crusaders' attacks

The crusaders know that their window of opportunity is closing fast - awareness is building throughout the world that it is in fact the dark hand of this group of US covert operators who is actually behind every single terror attack in the world - so the Bushes know that they must terrorize now before the world's populations rise up, destroy their own complicit lying governments and take up arms against US interests around the world. But since the Bush filth and his type lack the skills to formulate a complete and total plan for global conquest, the extent of their current plan is to create as much terror and destabilization as they can and only afterwards, somehow hope to reap benefit and profit from all the apocalyptic confusion they create.

What these war criminals and war profiteers in Washington don't know is that global conquest is more complicated than Brzezinski's books outline. These retards read Brzezinski's books, get all fuelled up on viagra (their only connection to virility) and harbour serious delusions that they are god's crusaders. Another thing that Bush and his cabal of war profiteers and war criminals don't know is that they will be brought to justice for their September 11th attacks on the American people.

But for now, their organs of lies and disinformation, CNN, Fox and the rest of the lying monopoly media are busy churning out the preparatory lies necessary to precondition the US population so that when these US crusaders ignite their bombs, the lie that it was Al Queda that did it will already be inscribed in our heads.

But CIA/CNN simply cannot churn out enough convincing lies fast enough to reverse the wave of hatred both within the United States and throughout the world of these New World Order crusaders fronted by the most despised man on earth, George W. Bush. And so the crusaders are counting on the panic and mayhem generated by these CIA terror strikes to give themselves more time to formulate a plan - to figure out what to do next to cash in on their terror attacks.

After the totally unreported Philippines hotel bomb screw-up, the crusaders struck again in the Bali Nightclub blast. Voxnyc was the only news service on the planet with the courage, independence and skills to identify that this bombing was yet another terror strike courtesy of US based crusaders - not Al Queda. We mounted a massive notification campaign and sent out nearly 200,000 emails to every academic institution, politician, newspaper editor and journalist in Indonesia clarifying just exactly what really happened. And the result was a phenomenal success. Within days of our massive notification campaign, public opinion polls throughout Indonesia revealed that most Indonesians believed that the Bali blast was in fact perpetrated by the CIA and not Al Queda.

And if there is any doubt that this little independent news service voxnyc.com was singlehandedly responsible for exposing the truth about the Bali blast, just ask any major newspaper editor or politician in Indonesia if they remember the voxnyc article - they do. It was the only beacon of truth coming out of the west about that incident. The only flicker of light, amongst the swarming sea of lies perpetrated by the CIA based US media and their moles amongst the Indonesian media and political spectrum.

So from now on, our focus of reporting the terror after it has occurred will shift to focusing on reporting the terror BEFORE IT HAPPENS. This shift towards "Preemptive reporting" is absolutely critical if we are to stop these crusaders' terror attacks.

George Bush willingly fronts for the most evil force to ever hold the human species in it's grip. He and the invisible murderous hand which lurks in his shadow represent the very face of evil and simply must be stopped at all costs.

The big question is, will the crusaders have enough money to infiltrate or pay off enough local Asian politicians and media owners in order to keep the truth from their own populations like they have been so fantastically successful at doing here in the United States. Will the massive CIA based media monopoly which has been so successful at destroying the minds of nearly 80% of all Americans be able to reach into the minds of the Asians and destroy theirs too? Because unless the infiltration and payoffs are complete, and the destruction of the mind is total, the fact is, people who are getting attacked are going to want answers. And without infiltration, payoffs or mind wasting, there is no other way to keep the real information about who is behind the attacks, from the victims. My guess is that the pan Asian infiltration and payoff channels are not complete - so those who seek the truth still have a window of opportunity to warn the peoples of South East Asia that the US Crusaders are racing towards them with a blood thirst not seen since the Third Reich.

The message to those in the State Department, military, intelligence organizations and in the many religious and industrial think tanks and organizations who are certainly behind these attacks must be clear - We intend to warn the populations of the earth in advance of your attacks. We intend to launch preemptive news campaigns to diffuse each and every one of your attempts at striking terror in the hearts of these peaceful people. Your efforts will fail because the people of these nations will be informed PRIOR to your attacks that you are going to be the ones behind these attacks. We know that this is for sure your modus operandi and we will assure you that your plans will not succeed.

The oil crusaders' plan is to create pan global terror and through that terror somehow use the US military threat as their trump card to go in and "help." That's it. That is all they are capable of planning. The rest is improvisation. Their hopes at best is to figure out a way to profit from that turmoil. But because they are such colossal fuck-ups and literally fuck up EVERY SINGLE PLAN THEY HAVE EVER CONCOCTED, this one will surely fail as well - killing many thousands of innocent people in the process and causing decades of anti American sentiment throughout the world.

So we must warn the countries of Southeast Asia that the crusaders are racing to take their crusade of terror and plunder to their peaceful nations.

The analysis of the memes originating from CNN, the Council of Foreign Relations and the other think tanks of death lead to only one conclusion - That the crusaders, emboldened by the apparent lack of any feasible resistance to their terror campaigns, plan to spread their crusade to the entire planet.

It is critical at this moment in history that some alternative news services shift to a preemptive mode. It's not hard to do, the actions of the crusaders are completely predictable. Preemption is vital to assuring the safety of the people of the world and the continuance of life on this planet. If one wishes to see a clear blueprint for the New World Order's plan for global conquest one only has to turn to CNN. For CNN is the organ whereby the crusaders transmit their necessary preparatory conditioning memes so that a sheep-like populous will be ready to march, lock step, like obedient worker ants and foot soldiers for these dying industrialist geezers, eager and ready to kill millions to keep their grip on power and further their eugenicist agenda.

Get off your knees
before it's too late

Perhaps one of the most perplexing insane idiocies (if we were to believe the premise that bogeymen want to come to our country and kill us all... as Bush claims "cause they hate us for our freedoms") is the fact that ABSOLUTELY VERY LITTLE ZERO EFFORT WAS MADE TO PROTECT OUR BOARDERS from outside invaders, ummm I mean, "terrorists." So let me get this straight: you tell me that the bogeymen want to come to our country to kill us all, kill our children, rape our wives and drink our blood, but you REFUSE to lock the front door and windows to our national "home"? And you are going to "go fight them over there so you won't have to fight them here"? But, Ummm, how about our open doors, windows, as in OUR NATIONAL BOARDERS? "Nah, don't worry about that" Doh!... fast forward... hey... NOW we are expecting "something big, bigger and badder than 911", oh boy, see, they have been telling you, it's going to happen here! Give up more of your liberties, let's shred that "goddamned piece of paper we call the constitution" it's just antique junk, just TRUST us, we know what is right for you. To make sure that everything is ok here at home our loving government conducts warrantless searches, jailing citizens for practicing freedom of speech, setup a Gazillion eavesdropping and spy programs to monitor all YOU 300 million citizens' activities to help catch the one boogeyman...?

Where was the media while all this was happening? They were busy spewing forth their nationalist propaganda distracting Americans from seeing the real terrorists in our midst in exchange for Mossad/CIA paid operatives identified with Muslim names. All the anti-terrorism fervor that's sweeping our nation today will NOT bring peace or safety. Hanging flags from your home or displaying them on your car will not restore the American dream of equality for all. Attacking sovereign nations with smart bombs will not inspire others to embrace our ideals.

The mantra: "the terrorists are out to get us!" they hate our freedoms! Bin Laden is the devil re-incarnated. Muslims are evil, kill em all, kill em all, kill em all!" I find it interesting that Bin Laden was a paid CIA operative not too long before 911, I find it interesting he was supposedly on a terrorist "must get list", yet CIA spooks met up with him literally weeks prior to 911 when he was in that hospital and they never bothered placing him under arrest. I also find it interesting that he did NOT originally accept kudos and praise for the attacks of 911, instead of readily taking credit for the most awesome attack of the century against the "infidel country," instead of admitting he hit the "satanic America" his response was something to the effect of "hey, cool, nice job who ever did that, they rock!" [my creative translation]. Bin Laden bin had, he was nothing more than another pawn in the globalist's agenda driven world. As Oswald would say it: he was nothing more than a glorified PATSY!

"Al-Qaeda" Does Not Exist

Did Osama really choose to name his terror network after potty humor or was it a computer database he used to chat with his CIA handlers?

Paul Joseph Watson, October 6 2006

The origins of the name "Al-Qaeda," and its real arabic connotations prove that every time the Bush administration, Fox News, or any individual who cites the threat of "Al-Qaeda," as a mandate for war and domestic authoritarianism, they are propagating the myth that such a group ever existed.

An organization by the name of "Al-Qaeda" does not exist and has never existed outside a falsely coined collective term for offshoot loose knit terror cells, the majority of which are guided by the Pakistani ISI, Mossad, the Saudis, MI6 and the CIA, that were created in response to America's actions after 9/11 - as the recent NIE report shows.

According to the BBC documentary The Power of Nightmares, the infamous footage of Bin Laden marching around with armed soldiers was a ruse on the part of Osama himself, graciously propagated by the lapdog press, in which actors were hired off the streets, given uniforms and guns and told to look aggressive.

Note the video states Bin Laden only took on the Al-Qaeda mantle post-9/11 after the U.S. government began parroting the term. The only error is the now debunked myth that 9/11 was carried out by "Al-Qaeda."

So if the group doesn't exist, where did the name come from?

You have heard before that "Al-Qaeda" roughly translates into "the base," but were you aware that "Ana raicha Al Qaeda" is arabic colloquial for "I'm going to the toilet"?

Would hardened terrorists hell bent on the destruction of the west name their organization after a euphemism for taking a shit?

The truth about where the name "Al-Qaeda" originated explains why no would-be fundamentalist suicide martyr could have been involved in its creation.

Robin Cook resigned from his positions as Lord President of the Council and Leader of the House of Commons on 17 March 2003 in protest against the invasion of Iraq. At the time of his death, he was President of the Foreign Policy Centre and a vice-president of the America All Party Parliamentary Group and the Global Security and Non-Proliferation All Party Parliamentary Group penned a piece in the London Guardian shortly before his death that shed light on the true genesis of the name:

"Al-Qaida," states Cook, "literally "the database", was originally the computer file of the thousands of mujahideen who were recruited and trained with help from the CIA to defeat the Russians."

Former French Military Intelligence official Pierre Henry Bunel expands: noting that "Al-Qaeda," was an early form of intranet, which was used by Islamic nations and influential families to communicate with each other. It was also used by the "American agent," Osama bin Laden to send coded or covert messages back to his CIA handlers from Afghanistan.

It's worthy to conclude with Bunel's assertion that "Al-Qaeda" as an organization is about as genuine as George W. Bush's Texas brush clearing cowboy image.

"The truth is, there is no Islamic army or terrorist group called Al Qaida. And any informed intelligence officer knows this. But there is a propaganda campaign to make the public believe in the presence of an identified entity representing the 'devil' only in order to drive the 'TV watcher' to accept a unified international leadership for a war against terrorism. The country behind this propaganda is the US and the lobbyists for the US war on terrorism are only interested in making money."

According to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, terrorism is defined as, "the systematic use of terror esp. as a means of coercion." To terrorize is defined as, "to fill with terror or anxiety (2) to coerce by threat or violence."

Doesn't that describe, for example, the IRS or the FBI? The IRS seems to be a master of terrorism. One of American taxpayers' greatest fears is to be audited by the IRS... so fearful that many will not claim legal deductions because it will raise a red flag with the IRS. Is that not "anxiety" and "coercion"? Or what of the terrorist FBI raids of the Branch Dividian compound in Waco, Texas, or the terrorist attack on the Gonzalez home in Miami, or the cowardice murder of the Weaver family in at Ruby Ridge? Is that not terrorism?

America then went into Afghanistan, bombed them back into the stone age, setup our puppet government, we laid down that crucial oil pipeline the Taliban said would go down over their dead bodies (oh, well, it did!), got the opium fields back online to full production capacity, giving the CIA a reliable source of more drug fueled funds for their BlackOps, then turned our sights on the evil Sadam guy who was hiding all kinds of weapons of mass destruction (that the good ole U.S. of A had sold him long ago!). How about those nukes he was hiding up his ass to invade our country with..? Oh, and according to our dear leaders in Washington and the PentaCON War Machine, "Sadam loved terrorists, he was training them and all," you didn't know? According to the Bush Crime Syndicate propaganda machine, Iraq was an infested terrorist breeding ground! When in reality, anyone who bothers to check a silly thing known as the FACTS will readily tell you that there was not one single terrorist in all of Iraq, due to the fact that Sadam would cut their heads off, and often did just that to anyone who got out of line.

"Why of course the people don't want war. Why should some poor slob on a farm want to risk his life in a war when the best he can get out of it is to come back to his farm in one piece? Naturally, the common people don't want war: neither in Russia, nor in England, nor for that matter in Germany. That is understood. But after all it is the leaders of the country who determine the policy, and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a democracy, or a fascist dictatorship, or a communist dictatorship ... Voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All you have to do is to tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger." - Leading Nazi leader, Hermann Goering, at the Nuremberg Trials before he was sentenced to death

Ok so we bombed Iraq into the stone age real good, then declared "mission accomplished" only to turn around and find out that the Iraqis were not going to allow us to easily setup a puppet regime, slaughter over a million of them and take over all their oil rights without fighting back. We killed anywhere from just 500 innocent civilians to more than 1 million Iraqis, depending on who you ask, that's the problem, the more people we killed, the more pissed off family members, many who lost loved ones decided to "fight back" to defend themselves, the number one predominant weapons of the locals: stones, we call those people terrorists also. Actually, anyone that does not agree with the invaders and opposes them in any way is quickly labeled a terrorist.

The subsequent "war" in Iraq and Afghanistan are actually nothing more than cleverly disguised outright hostile predatory INVASION AND OCCUPATIONS. What's more, many of the I.E.D.s that have been blowing up our troops have been meticulously made and placed by ultra secret Israeli MOSSAD agents conducting their infamous successful false flag ops. The devastating reality of this is earthshaking as Israel cleverly continues to pull everyone's strings, ingeniously pitting peoples and nations against each other where the only victor will be Israel.

Al-Qaeda Is A Front Group For The US Military-Industrial Complex

Revelation that terror mastermind met with Pentagon officials after 9/11 serves as reminder that every attack has been run by an operative with direct ties to US intelligence

Paul Joseph Watson
Thursday, October 21, 2010

American-born Al-Qaeda terror leader Anwar Al-Awlaki, who met with Pentagon officials months after 9/11, is by no means the only patsy handler the Central Intelligence Agency has used over the years to oversee false flag attacks in America and around the world. In fact, just about every major terror attack has been run by an operative with direct ties to the US military-industrial complex.

As we reported this morning, Awlaki, the man who helped plot the aborted Christmas Day bombing, the Fort Hood shooting, the Times Square bombing attempt, and who also preached to the alleged September 11 hijackers, dined at the Pentagon just months after 9/11 documents obtained by Fox News show.

Awlaki is just the latest in a long list of Al-Qaeda double agents whose activity proves that the terror organization is little more than a front for the Pentagon and the US war machine. Let's take a look at just a handful of dozens of examples of terror masterminds working for intelligence agencies.

Emad A. Salem

The feds used FBI informant Emad A. Salem to run the first World Trade Center bombing back in 1993.

Before the attack, the FBI planted informant Salem within a radical Arab group in New York led by Ramzi Yousef. Salem was ordered to encourage the group to carry out a bombing targeting the World Trade Center's twin towers. Under the illusion that the project was a sting operation, Salem asked the FBI for harmless dummy explosives which he would use to assemble the bomb and then pass on to the group. At this point the FBI cut Salem out of the loop and provided the group with real explosives, leading to the attack on February 26 that killed six and injured over a thousand people. The FBI's failure to prevent the bombing was reported on by the New York Times in October 1993, as well as CBS News in the clip here.

Haroon Rashid Aswat

The alleged mastermind of the 7/7 bombings in London, Haroon Rashid Aswat, was also revealed to be an intelligence asset, in this case working for British MI6.

In July 2005, terror expert John Loftus told Fox News, "...back in the late 1990s, the leaders all worked for British intelligence in Kosovo. Believe it or not, British intelligence actually hired some Al-Qaeda guys to help defend the Muslim rights in Albania and in Kosovo. That's when Al-Muhajiroun got started."

Loftus said that British MI6 colluded to hide Aswat after the 7/7 bombings. Watch the clip below.

David Healey

The mastermind behind the Mumbai massacre was "an American secret agent who went rogue," reported the London Times, referring to Washington-born David Headley, who was caught smuggling heroin but then given a job by the Drug Enforcement Agency and later went on to work for the CIA.

"The Indian media has raised the possibility that Mr Headley was being protected by his American handlers — a theory that experts say is credible," reported the Times.

Headley was allowed to fly in and out of India as he scouted targets for the attack despite being "firmly on the radar of the US intelligence agencies."

Prince Bandar "Bush"

Saudi Arabia's former US envoy Prince Bandar bin Sultan bin Abdul Aziz, known as "Bandar Bush" for his close relationship with former President George W. Bush and his father, is another terror mastermind on the payroll of the US military-industrial complex. Bandar worked closely with CIA Director George Tenet, when he was Saudi Ambassador in Washington.

Bandar disappeared two years ago after it emerged that he had become the de facto leader of "Al-Qaeda in Iraq," having been responsible for arming terrorist organizations in the Middle East. The man who George W. Bush reportedly consulted before the 2003 invasion of Iraq has trained, funded and equipped terrorists to kill US troops, providing the US government with the perfect justification to remain as an occupying force in the country.

Bandar also threatened Britain with "another 7/7" and the loss of "British lives on British streets" if corruption investigations into Saudi arms deals were allowed to proceed. Prime Minister Tony Blair complied and quashed the inquiry.

Osama Bin Laden

Bin Laden himself was a known CIA asset stretching from the late 1970's when he was armed and funded by the CIA through the Pakistani ISI to lead the Muslim mujahideen against the Soviets in Afghanistan.

After this, Bin Laden led Al-Qaeda to Bosnia shortly after the outbreak of war in 1992 to fight against Bosnian Serbs who were subsequently the target of NATO air strikes.

Shortly before the NATO bombing of Yugoslavia in 1999, Bin Laden and Al-Qaeda moved into Kosovo, Serbia's southern province, to aid the Kosovo Liberation Army, the Albanian terrorist faction that was being supported by the U.S. and NATO in its terror campaign against Serbs in the region.

"The United States, which had originally trained the Afghan Arabs during the war in Afghanistan, supported them in Bosnia and then in Kosovo," reported the National Post.

With the help of Bin Laden's terror network, backed up by the U.S. and NATO, no less than 90% of Serbians were "ethnically cleansed" and forced to leave the region, while the international media played its role dutifully in portraying the Albanians as the "victims" of Serbian aggression.

Barely weeks before 9/11, former members of Al-Qaeda who had subsequently joined the Kosovo Liberation Army were airlifted out of Macedonia by U.S. paratroopers.

As former FBI translator Sibel Edmonds revealed, the US maintained "intimate relations" with Bin Laden, "all the way until that day of September 11."

The "war on terror" is a fraud

While Homeland Security chief Janet Napolitano, FBI head Mueller and others ceaselessly fearmonger about domestic terrorists being an imminent threat, the federal government has a reliable menagerie of pocket Muslim radicals on which to call upon to radicalize followers into launching an attack on 'the great satan' whenever the political climate deems it necessary.

The fact that just about every major terror attack or aborted terror scare for decades has been run by people with direct ties to US intelligence renders the entire war on terror a complete fraud, and once again underscores the truth that the real terrorists reside a lot closer to home than caves in Central Asia or the Middle East.

9/11 Mastermind Invited to Pentagon

Al-Qaeda terror mastermind Anwar Al-Awlaki, the man who helped plot the aborted Christmas Day bombing, the Fort Hood shooting, the Times Square bombing attempt, and who also preached to the alleged September 11 hijackers, dined at the Pentagon just months after 9/11 documents obtained by Fox News show.

Anwar Al Awlaki Terrorist? Or Pentagon / CIA Asset? - video

American-born cleric Awlaki's role as a key figure in almost every recent terror plot targeting the United States and Canada, coupled with his visit to the Pentagon, only confirms our long stated position that Awlaki is a chief terrorist patsy-handler for the CIA – he is the federal government's premier false flag agent.

"Documents exclusively obtained by Fox News, including an FBI interview conducted after the Fort Hood shooting in November 2009, state that Awlaki was taken to the Pentagon as part of the military's outreach to the Muslim community in the immediate aftermath of the attacks," states the report.

Click here to read a portion of the documents.

Awlaki was vetted before he was invited to attend a luncheon at the Pentagon in the secretary of the Army's Office of Government Counsel. His appearance at the meeting was deliberately engineered despite Awlaki's ties to three of the alleged 9/11 hijackers – Nawaf al-Hazmi, Khalid al-Mihdhar and Hani Hanjour – who were identified as the suicide pilots that slammed Flight 77 into the Pentagon.

Following the Fort Hood shooting it was also revealed that shooter Major Nidal Malik Hasan had been in contact with Awlaki before the rampage. Awlaki preached to both Hasan and the 9/11 hijackers at the Dar al-Hijrah mosque in Falls Church, Virginia in 2001.

Awlaki also met with Christmas Day underwear bomber Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab and acted as “the middle-man between the young Nigerian and the bombmaker.” As we have thoroughly documented, the Delta Flight 253 incident was staged from start to finish. The US State Department allowed Abdulmutallab to board the plane, aided by a well-dressed Indian man, despite the fact that he was on a terror watch list and had no passport.

The Christmas Day incident was a boon for companies linked with the military-industrial complex, as it greased the skids for the global introduction of naked body scanners in airports.

Times Square bomber Faisal Shahzad was also reported to have been directed by Awlaki before his failed attack on May 1st

“The Pentagon has offered no explanation of how a man, now on the CIA kills or capture list, ended up at a special lunch for Muslim outreach,” states the Fox News report.

The explanation is quite simple – Awlaki is the CIA's chief patsy handler for planning and staging false flag terror attacks through the dupes that he radicalizes.

The US Special Operations Command's Able Danger program identified the hijackers and their accomplices long before 9/11, and would undoubtedly have also picked up Awlaki.

As Webster Tarpley has documented, Awlaki is “an intelligence agency operative and patsy-minder” and “one of the premier terror impresarios of the age operating under Islamic fundamentalist cover” whose job it is to “motivate and encourage groups of mentally impaired and suggestible young dupes who were entrapped into “terrorist plots” by busy FBI and Canadian RCMP agents during recent years.”

Tarpley points to Awlaki's role in the Toronto and Fort Dix, New Jersey, terror plots, which were both contrived by the feds, as proof of Awlaki's usefulness to the authorities in radicalizing terrorist patsies.

Lawyers in a case relating to the much vaunted 2007 terror plot to attack Fort Dix and kill “as many soldiers as possible” concluded that FBI informants were the key figures behind the operation and that the accused, six foreign-born Muslims, were merely bungling patsies.

Similarly, the “Toronto 18” terrorists turned out to be “a bunch of incompetent guys who were primarily misled by a delusional megalomaniac”. The explosive fertilizer material the terrorist cell apparently planned to use was in fact purchased by an informant working for the RCMP who had radicalized the group.

Given the fact that Awlaki is a double operative, claiming to be an Al-Qaeda leader yet in fact working for U.S. intelligence, it's hardly surprising that he made an appearance at the Pentagon.

Awlaki has also appeared in video tapes purporting to be Al-Qaeda propaganda material released by the IntelCenter, which as we have documented is nothing more than a Pentagon front group that has been caught red-handed releasing fake Al-Qaeda videos to bolster support for the geopolitical agenda of the US government.

Confirmation that Awlaki met with Pentagon officials after having inspired the very 9/11 hijackers that are blamed for flying a commercial airliner into the Pentagon provides yet more startling evidence that the highest levels of Al-Qaeda are completely penetrated and run by the US military industrial complex, which via patsy handlers like Awlaki is staging false flag attacks to boost their own domestic and geopolitical agenda.

Talking about terrorist BOOGEYMEN, hey! "There go some more terrorists over there!" Now the neo-cons have Washington chanting "kill Iran, kill Iran, kill, Iran"... oh boy... here we go again. The Zionist AsheNAZI European "Jew" neo-con mobs are instigating yet another fight: "bomb those evil Iranians!" Ok, so what is the premise that the Zionists say we should kick Iran's ass for?: Guess what, "they have weapons of mass destruction!" and they want to kill us all! Hmmm, that sounds familiar. Will we end up doing their dirty work yet again? You would think that they, Israel should at least get their hands a little dirty also in their mad quest to conquer and rule the middle east, expanding their borders to the size of what it was when Solomon ruled Israel. Oh well. Wait, hold the presses! Apartheid Israel is at this moment making another move; they are currently in an all out bloody invasion of the Gaza strip, about time they did some of their own dirty work in their world conquest agenda. Witness them murder all those wretched Palestinian stone throwing "terrorists" whom have all been cornered, surrounded by military brigades, little by little their lands confiscated and left in dire poverty with little of nothing positive left in their lives...

Ok, enough dwelling on sad truths happening somewhere we cannot do anything about. Now to the real meat of this chapter: 911, the war against Afghanistan, Iraq and Iran (Syria, Pakistan and others to follow in the future), terrorists and today's daddy of them all, Bin Laden... has all been a massive bullshit lie conjured up in the dungeons of the Zionist & Washington elites ivy tower country club think tanks. EVERYTHING IS LIES: Iraq had no WMD's, Iraq never had "terrorist" in their land PRIOR to our invasion, 911 was NOT by Bin Laden, it was a Mossad/CIA/PentaCON BlackOps false flag mission.

The bullshit coming from the Washington propaganda machine just keeps piling up. I can smell the stench of Washington from here! But hey, why are we not targeting or even TRYING to get Bin Laden? The true shocker: Osama Bin Laden is DEAD. He has been dead for years now! Oh, you didn't get the memo? Of course not, the CIA/Mossad is still busy cranking out bogus cheesy videos with some fake Bin Laden puppet along with Hollywood type FX (in most cases just using still images to an audio feed) to keep the fear factor high in the gullible goyim lemming sheeple minds. A dead Bin Laden would be catastrophic for the fear charade of the century. Don't worry, they have Bin Laden's body on ice, and will someday when the timing is right, thaw it out and say "hey we got him!"

That brings up the all too important subject of the Bin Laden Productions Studios... Perhaps the most controversial of all the tapes was released by the Pentagon on December 13, 2001, claiming that it had been found in a home in Jalalabad... Prior to this tape, bin Laden had, while praising the 9/11 attacks, consistently denied responsibility for them. But the “bin Laden” of this tape boasts about having planned 7410them... President Bush, the Blair Government, and the mainstream media all hailed this message as offering conclusive “proof” of bin Laden’s guilt...

That was the first of many weird videos that conveniently surfaced “coincidentally” whenever the Bush Administration needed the Boogeyman’s fear factor to help push his policies and agendas.

Black propaganda

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Black propaganda is false information and material that purports to be from a source on one side of a conflict, but is actually from the opposing side. It is typically used to vilify, embarrass or misrepresent the enemy.^[1] Black propaganda contrasts with grey propaganda, the source of which is not identified, and white propaganda, in which the real source is declared and usually more accurate information is given, if also slanted or distorted.

Black propaganda purports to emanate from a source other than the true source. This type of propaganda is associated with covert psychological operations.^[2] Sometimes the source is concealed or credited to a false authority and spreads lies, fabrications, and deceptions. Black propaganda is the "big lie," including all types of creative deceit.^[3]

Ultimately, black propaganda relies on the willingness of the receiver to accept the credibility of the source. If the creators or senders of the black propaganda message do not adequately understand their intended audience, the message may be misunderstood, seem suspicious, or fail altogether.^[3]

Governments will generally conduct black propaganda operations for two different reasons. First, by utilizing black propaganda a government is more likely to succeed in convincing their target audience that the information that they are seeking to influence them with is disguised, and that its motivations are not apparent. Second, there are diplomatic reasons behind the use of black propaganda. Black propaganda is necessary in order to obfuscate a government's involvement in activities that may be detrimental to its foreign policies.^[4]

Today, Osama Bin Laden is DEAD, bit the dust a long time ago. Yet he rises from the dead to do VIDEO SHOOTS IN HIS HIGH TECH CAVE MOVIE STUDIOS! LOL (I have to admit, even though most of the time I'm extremely mad at the crazy things our government does, some of this shit is downright funny when you think about it, hey, they portray this dead guy doing high tech videos from a cave in a desolate mountain! lol, and the stupid moronic citizens of this country eat it all up! Never rationalizing the logistics, circumstances and details, now I'm mad again) Let's see, Bin Laden's cave has a huge Blue screen setup with state of the art video editing studio in his tricked out cave in the mountains, I wonder how the dead Bin Laden gets electricity to his cave! Let alone pack everything up and “move from cave to cave on a daily basis” without being seen lugging tons of high tech equipment around! In one of the most hostile rugged mountain ranges in the world! LOL.

When the Mossad/CIA BlackOps agents posing as the Bin Laden video team comes out with a new sinister warning to the world they mail it off to CIA headquarters! LOL I kid you not. Lately their productions have been delivered directly to new CIA/Mossad FRONT such as “SITE Institute” run by Zionist agents. These agencies then distribute the videos to all the news outlets. The most flagrantly preposterous notion that is passed off as real is the fact that CIA's/Mossad's “Bin Laden” Al-CIAda come up with a bogus video EVERY SINGLE TIME that the U.S. needs a boost of fear! Such as whenever the western political ruling powers need support from their constituents, major political events and anniversaries. Doh! How nice of Bin Laden for keeping on schedule with Washington's needs.

One of Bin Laden's famous LOL Video production studios:

So Bin Laden and his stealth entourage lug around tons of video equipment from cave to cave, unseen, undetected, and that's not all they have to carry... Let me also remind you that Bin Laden had kidney problems and needed to use Dialysis, remember the story of CIA agents visiting him in the hospital just days before he supposedly carried out the 911 attacks? Well, he was in the hospital getting emergency Dialysis treatment for his kidneys. You must also understand this: Have you ever known anyone who had to use Dialysis? The loads of equipment and replacement bags that one must carry around for life (or die) adds a major wrinkle to the tale of a sneaky quickly moving around and disappearing bogeyman narrative.

In a typical Al-CIAda video production, they will have a still picture of the dead Bin Laden with narration and commenting on world events that have no importance on anything that any sane Muslim would care about, they portray Bin Laden as some superficial western current affairs obsessed fanatic, usually commenting on pertinent events and issues of strategic value to none other than to the governments who are perpetrating the fraud. For instance, they dust off the Bin Laden mask every year around the anniversary of 9/11 to re-enforce the concept that it was Al-CIAda who committed those crimes against humanity. The gist of every video is always the same: instill and re-energize the fear mongering of the cattle public, and to point attention to any new agenda that the ruling elite black ops are currently working on so as to gather support and momentum for such programs through the instilling of fear.

I showed the above pictures to a bunch of ELLEMENTARY SCHOOL KIDS and asked them if those two pictures were of the same person, they unanimously agreed that the 2 pictures on the right were "fake", a real poor "puppet." They can't fool a bunch of common school kids, yet you have all witnessed all the highly educated graduates from the highest universities on the planet, wealthy national reporters routinely get on live TV news and give credence to this crap "Al-CIAda" productions, lending this flagrant bullshit legitimacy. Every single reporter chimes in and blindly reinforces the charade, these are the pathetic guardians to the public trust who the sheeple believe, these are the ones who give the illusions and grand lies of the ruling elite life and staying power. For "by way of deception they shall wage war."

Osama Bin Laden - 911 Anniversary 2007 - video (lol)

I've seen all those fake "Bin Laden" videos that ALWAYS COME OUT WHEN BUSH & Co. NEEDS THEM THE MOST to help get NEW LAWS PASSED or whenever he needs more support and so forth. Just like the Anthrax that was mailed ONLY to key Senators who where opposing enacting the new laws, after the "al-CIA-da" Anthrax "attacks" EVERYONE quickly voted in favor of the new acts! This stuff is beyond RIDICULOUS! Who really believes all this bullshit? The Al-CIA-da propaganda video teams slap together all those ridiculous videos that are SO OBVIOUSLY NOT BIN LADEN, then the whole country BELIEVES THIS SHIT? I really am lost for words here. I don't know if I should just give up and surrender, because from what I see, our country is hopelessly DOOMED, all its citizens are dumbnified brain dead overly medicated vaccinated fluoridated walking ZOMBIES whose majority believe those CHEAP FAKE crap videos are real? Oh, and when al-CIA-da finishes their video productions they DON'T deliver them to any of the news stations, they instead ship ALL their videos off directly to a CIA special unit or front organization? DOH! Oh come on! my gullibility index has been smashed beyond repair! So when you see me displaying no faith or hope in my fellow cattle Americans waking up from their deep slumber you can understand why.

Any elementary school kid can tell you that the guys in the videos are NOT the real Osama Bin Patsy. The more I think about this, is the more I realize our nation has no hope, we are truly DOOMED. America is THAT freaking gullible that we are all screwed. CNN, FOX, ABC, CBS, etc., every single news outlet aired all the videos and America was that easily duped. NOT ONE SINGLE NEWS ANCHOR CAME OUT AND SAID "WHY ARE WE AIRING THIS FAKE BULLSHIT AS GOSPEL?" No not one single reporter dared point out the blaring obvious, instead they all read their scripts, when the show was over they got into their Mercedes Benzes drove to their cozy million dollar homes, hugged their silver spooned privately educated children, sat back and drank fine wine and porked their trophy wives. Nope, not a peep of truth out of their mouths for: their souls have all been bought and paid for long ago.

WTF? The CIA/Mossad black ops now have their dead finger puppet Osama Bin Mossaden now stumping for the Climate Change cabal!!!!? LMAO! I thought I heard all the ridiculous things that can possibly be said. But when the false flag division of the CIA/Mossad came out with that new mix tape from the dead boogeyman Osama pushing their climate agenda I almost fell on off my seat. What's next? Is he going to advocate RFID chip implants? I can already imagine the next mix tape warning the pathetic gullible public "those who don't get RFID chipped I will stick a IED up your butts and blow you all up!" LOL

Bin Laden's Impeccable Timing Boosts Obama Ahead of SOTU Address

Another State Of The Union Address preceded by the phantom menace

By Steve Watson, Jan 25, 2010

A purportedly new audio tape of Osama Bin Laden claiming responsibility for the failed Christmas Day underwear bombing attempt has surfaced, once again, at the most politically opportune time for the White House, with the State of The Union Address now just 48 hours away.

The voice on the tape, claiming to be Bin Laden, personally addresses the president with the opening "From Osama to Obama."

The tape, aired by Al Jazeera yesterday, praises the actions of "the heroic warrior" Omar Farouk Abdulmutallab, and warns that "God willing, our attacks against you will continue as long as you maintain your support to Israel."

It is unclear as to why Bin Laden waited over four weeks to deliver his message at a time when the underwear bomber story has all but dropped out of the headlines.

One thing is certain however, Al Qaeda seem to like running P.R. for the White House. Previously tapes have been released hours before the State of The Union Address in both 2006 and 2007. Bin Laden also previously popped up on the eve of the 2004 election, leading the late Walter Cronkite to muse that the whole farce was a Karl Rove orchestrated set-up.

With the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq still at the height of unpopularity, Obama has found his approval rating lower at this stage than for any US president since Eisenhower.

Following decisive blows to his agenda, in the shape of last week's health care setback in the Senate and the victory of Republican Scott Brown in a 47 year Democratic seat in Massachusetts, Obama has admitted he has "run into a bit of a buzz saw".

Leading Democrats have begun to express disillusionment. Sen. Bill Nelson's (D-FL) call to scale back the agenda, is just one example.

It has not been a good run in to the SOTU Address for Obama, until now that is. Now he can wax lyrical about Bin Laden being intent on killing us over here, killing us over there, killing us everywhere, justifying the expansion of the U.S. led wars in the middle east through the past year.

The new audio tape was again released by U.S. monitoring group IntelCenter, who have described it as an "indicator" of an upcoming attack. This was the exact same language used by the group the last time Bin Laden surfaced in September 2009.

As we have exhaustively documented, Intelcenter is an offshoot of IDEFENSE, which was staffed by a senior military psy-op intelligence officer Jim Melnick, who has worked directly for Donald Rumsfeld. The organization released the "laughing hijackers" tape and claimed it was an Al-Qaeda video, despite the fact that the footage was obtained by a "security agency" at a 2000 Bin Laden speech.

IntelCenter was also caught adding its logo to a tape at the same time as Al-Qaeda's so-called media arm As-Sahab added its logo, proving the two organizations were one and the same.

The Pakistani based Al-Qaeda group Jundullah, formerly headed by the alleged mastermind of 9/11, an organization which enjoys the funding, support and protection of the CIA, also produces propaganda tapes and literature for As-Sahab and in turn IntelCenter.

We have just about lost count of the amount of times IntelCenter has released a tape from "Al-Qaeda" or "Bin Laden” at the most politically expedient time for the government, whether that be Bush or Obama.

"Intelligence officials say they can't verify the authenticity of the tape, but they say there has never been a fake and there is no reason to believe this one is not real." ABC News reports.

Clearly those intelligence officials have forgotten that several of the previous Bin Laden tapes have been denounced as fake, including a 2002 audio tape which was not authentic according to a Swiss research institute. Experts at the Lausanne-based Dalle Molle Institute for Perceptual Artificial Intelligence compared the tape with 20 earlier recordings of Bin Laden and concluded that the November 2002 tape was fraudulent, in other words that it was someone pretending to be Bin Laden.

In 2007, the last "new" video of Bin Laden, appearing with a dyed beard, was found to have freezes in the sections where the Al Qaeda leader referred to current events.

A leading expert on Bin Laden, Duke University professor Bruce Lawrence, is also adamant that the so called "9/11 Confession" tape, released shortly after the attacks, is an outright fake that has been used by US intelligence agencies to deflect attention from "conspiracy theories" about 9/11.

Every single notorious Bin Laden tape released since 2001 has contained vague non-specific messages and in many cases the footage is old and re-hashed.

"Some lawmakers say if bin Laden is now claiming Abdulmutallab as a soldier in his army, then the United States should treat him like an enemy combatant." the ABC News report on the latest Bin Laden tape continues. Perfect - the underwear bomber stops talking as soon as he gets access to a lawyer, the solution? Connect him to Bin Laden and remove due process of law.

"Intelligence analysts say there's no way to know how closely bin Laden is linked to the Christmas Day attack, if at all, but his message makes one thing clear."

"Osama Bin Laden is still alive. He's still having an influence on the al Qaeda movement and the al Qaeda narrative and he does have the ability to plan attacks," Rick Nelson, a senior fellow with the Center for Security and International Studies in Washington D.C. said.

While the majority of Americans will glance at the headlines and note that Goldstein has re-surfaced, the truth remains that Bin Laden, according to anyone in the know, is long dead.

However, if by some chance everyone else is wrong and Rick Nelson is correct, and Osama Bin Laden really is still alive, then the CIA owe him a pay rise for his continued sterling efforts to bail out the incumbent president every time the administration is about to capsize.

The likely reality is that this is just another crude propaganda ploy and the latest installment in a series of hoax terror tapes edited and released at another politically expedient time as part of the illegitimate marriage between big government and the military industrial complex.

Swiss scientists 95% sure that Bin Laden recording was fake

Brian Whitaker, The Guardian, Saturday 30 November 2002

Scientists in Switzerland say they are almost certain that a recent audio tape attributed to Osama bin Laden is a fake.

The tape, delivered to the Arab satellite television channel al-Jazeera earlier this month, appeared to provide the first concrete evidence that Bin Laden is still alive because it mentioned recent attacks on western targets.

American experts initially concluded that the voice on the tape was probably Bin Laden, though it is unlikely ever to be fully authenticated because of the recording's poor quality.

The Swiss findings conflict with other research published by the French news magazine L'Express last week.

In that study, Bernard Gautheron, director of the phonetic testing laboratory at the Institute of Linguistics and Phonetics in Paris, concluded there was a "very strong probability" that the al-Jazeera tape was genuine.

But researchers at the Dalle Molle Institute for Perceptual Artificial Intelligence, in Lausanne, believe the message was recorded by an impostor.

In a study commissioned by France 2 television, researchers built a computer model of Bin Laden's voice, based on an hour of genuine recordings.

Using voice recognition systems being developed for banking security, they tested the model against 20 known recordings of Bin Laden. The system correctly identified his voice in 19 of them.

This meant there was only a 5% risk of error in their conclusion that the latest tape is a fake, Professor Hervé Boulard, the institute's director, told the Guardian yesterday. "It's an automatic system but it's very sensitive," he said. "It picks up things the human ear doesn't pick up."

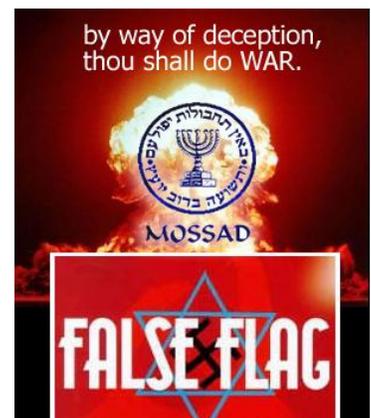

He agreed that the sound quality of the recent tape was poor but added: "Many of our 20 [test] recordings were also of poor quality. Some were very good, some very bad, but our results were all positive except in one case."

Prof Boulard, a voice recognition expert, is the author or joint author of 150 research papers and two books, and has worked extensively with the International Computer Science Institute at Berkeley, California.

Knowing that these videos are intentional CIA/Mossad productions makes it very entertaining to listen to their bogus offerings. In one of the CIA/Mossad's latest Osama Bin Mossaden video production where they have the bogus Osama puppet sporting a fake beard, he goes on to provide much needed fear mongering to boost the current administration's need of a boogyman to remind the govim cattle population why we are theoretically at war and to re-inject fear into the public conscience. The interesting part of that particular production is where they would have you believe that Bin Laden is busy paying close attention to U.S. political scene and reading the works of contemporary authors. In that latest video Osama Bin Mossaden recommends that Americans read the works of two authors, Noam Chomsky and Michael Scheur, who ran the CIA's Al-CIAda unit from 1996 to 1999. LOL. I just love it when he always comes through right on schedule for major anniversaries and when his enemies need his fear mongering the most...

BTW: When the FBI was questioned about why Bin Laden wasn't on their top 10 most wanted list, their official response was "there is no evidence of his involvement in 9/11."

So we the "truthers" are the tinfoil hat wearing nut jobs eh? I have much better things to do. I don't sit around making this shit up! THIS IS REALITY! WAKE UP! I would love nothing more than to plug back into the matrix and go back into my cocoon, oblivious to the truth and forget everything I know and go back to our fantasy island life. Too late, I have this real bad problem; it's called a conscience, and rational thinking. I hate liars and I just can't stand cheesy movies like the bogus rip offs the CIA puts out using Bin Laden look a like doubles in front of a Hollywood blue screen or still images with "Osama's" voice in the background. And I have this real bad habit of allowing LOGIC, common sense, rational thought, physics and reasoning to dominate in my judgment!!! (I hid a secret from my parents when I was a child: I never drank the Fluoridated water nor ever used their Fluoridated toothpaste! Never got most of the vaccine shots either. Hence, I still have my cognitive reasoning fully intact. This is true folks! When I did brush my teeth, it was with just the plain brush, I hated the toothpaste. Guess what, today I only have one filling and full use of my mental abilities!)

You MUST UNDERSTAND the IMPLICATIONS of the FACT that our government's secret agencies are producing ITS OWN BOGUS OSAMA BIN BOOGEYMAN VIDEOS TO PUSH IT'S AGENDA!!!

Furthermore: You must totally understand the FACT that if Mossad/CIA agents within our government are faking these videos, this is only THE TIP OF THE ICEBERG!!! Therefore you must ask yourself: WHAT ELSE HAVE THEY BEEN FAKING? WHAT OTHER LIES HAVE THEY BEEN LEADING US TO BELIEVE? WHY ARE THEY DOING THIS? The questions just keep piling up.

Office of Strategic Influence

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The Office of Strategic Influence, or OSI, was a department created by the United States Department of Defense on October 30, 2001, to support the War on Terrorism through psychological operations in targeted countries, including the United States. Although the closure of the office was announced by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld soon after its existence became publicly known, later comments by Secretary Rumsfeld imply that the actual operations of the OSI have continued unabated.^[1] OSI was authorized to use "military deception" against the public by "presenting false information, images, or statements."^[2] The OSI would have been a center for the creation of propaganda materials, for the stated purpose of misleading enemy forces or foreign civilian populations. After information on the office spread through US and foreign media in mid February 2002, intense discussions on purpose and scope of the office were reported. The discussions culminated in a public statement by Rumsfeld in late February that the office has been closed down.

Some argue that due to its secretive nature and stated purposes the existence of such an agency would be hard to determine. In fact, in November 2002, Rumsfeld stated in an interview that only the name of the office was abolished, that it still exists and continues to fulfill its original intended purposes.^[3] Much of the OSI's responsibilities were shifted to the Information Operations Task Force.^[4]

It seems as if the powers that be want us to believe that CIA BlackOps field agent Mossad Bin Laden has supposedly been eagerly hoping and praying to have his people slaughtered and his beloved country destroyed. According to Chapter 6" of the 911 Commission report: "[Bin Laden] complained frequently that the United States had not yet attacked [in response to the USS Cole bombing]... Bin Laden wanted the United States to attack, and if it did not he would launch something bigger." Doh!

The Mossad/CIA are Masters of deceit and illusions, like all magicians, the secret of the illusion is within the art of distraction. Getting the audience into a hypnotic trance focusing their attention where you want them to while you perform your masterful sleight of hand right in front of their faces. "By deception we shall wage war" – "order out of chaos" Are their official mottos! Masters of the Problem/Reaction/Solution paradigm.

How the U.S. Fuelled the Myth of Zargawi The Mastermind

Adrian Blomfield, The Telegraph, UK , 03 Oct 2004

Abu Musab al-Zarqawi, the terrorist leader believed to be responsible for the abduction of Kenneth Bigley, is 'more myth than man,' according to American military intelligence agents in Iraq.

Several sources said the importance of Zarqawi, blamed for many of the most spectacular acts of violence in Iraq, has been exaggerated by flawed intelligence and the Bush administration's desire to find "a villain" for the post-invasion mayhem.

US military intelligence agents in Iraq have revealed a series of botched and often tawdry dealings with unreliable sources who, in the words of one source, "told us what we wanted to hear".

"We were basically paying up to $10,000 a time to opportunists, criminals and chancers who passed off fiction and supposition about Zarqawi as cast-iron fact, making him out as the linchpin of just about every attack in Iraq," the agent said.

"Back home this stuff was gratefully received and formed the basis of policy decisions. We needed a villain, someone identifiable for the public to latch on to, and we got one.

IS ISRAEL CONTROLLING PHONY TERROR NEWS?

By Koen Stroobant

By Gordon Duff and Brian Jobert: Who says Al Qaeda takes credit for a bombing? Rita Katz. Who gets us bin Laden tapes? Rita Katz. Who gets us pretty much all information telling us Muslims are bad? Rita Katz? Rita Katz is the Director of Site Intelligence, primary source for intelligence used by news services, Homeland Security, the FBI and CIA. What is her qualification? She served in the Israeli Defense Force. She has a college degree and most investigative journalists believe the Mossad "helps" her with her information. We find no evidence of any qualification whatsoever of any kind. A bartender has more intelligence gathering experience.

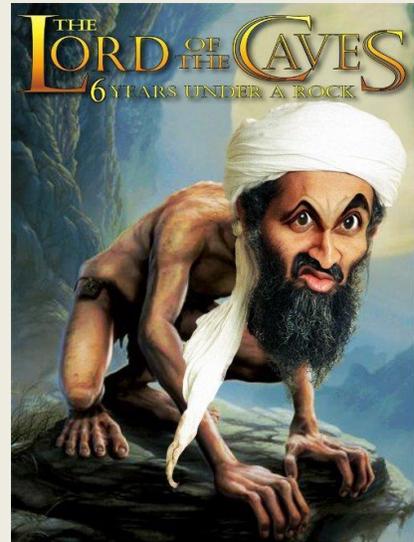

Nobody verifies her claims. SITE says Al Qaeda did it, it hits the papers. SITE says Israel didn't do it, that hits the papers too. What does SITE really do? They check the internet for "information," almost invariably information that Israel wants reported and it is sold as news, seen on American TV, reported in our papers and passed around the internet almost as though it were actually true. Amazing.

Do we know if the information reported comes from a teenager in Seattle or a terror cell in Jakarta? No, of course not, we don't have a clue. Can you imagine buying information on Islamic terrorism from an Israeli whose father was executed as a spy by Arabs?

It is quite likely that everything you think you know about terror attacks such as the one in Detroit or whether Osama bin Laden is alive or dead comes from Rita Katz. Does she make it all up? We don't know, nobody knows, nobody checks, they simply buy it, print it, say it comes from Site Intelligence and simply forget to tell us that this is, not only a highly biased organization but also an extremely amateur one also.

Is any of this her fault, Ritas? No. She is herself, selling her work. The blame is not Site Intelligence, it is the people who pass on the information under misleading circumstances.

Imagine if a paper carried a story like this:

Reports that Al Qaeda was responsible for bombing the mosque and train station were given to us by an Israeli woman who says she found it on the internet.

This is fair. Everyone should be able to earn a living and information that comes from Israel could be without bias but the chances aren't very good. In fact, any news organization, and most use this service, that fails to indicate that the sources they use are "rumored" to be a foreign intelligence service with a long history of lying beyond human measure, is not to be taken seriously.

Can we prove that SITE Intelligence is the Mossad? No. Would a reasonable person assume it is? Yes.

Would a reasonable person believe anything from this source involving Islam or the Middle East? No, they would not.

SITE's primary claim to fame other than bin Laden videos with odd technical faults is their close relationship with Blackwater. Blackwater has found site useful. Blackwater no longer exists as they had to change their name because of utter lack of credibility.

What can be learned by examining where our news comes from? Perhaps we could start being realistic and begin seeing much of our own news and the childish propaganda it really is.

Propaganda does two things:

1. It makes up phony reasons to justify acts of barbaric cruelty or insane greed.
2. It blames people for things they didn't do because the people doing the blaming really did it themselves. We call these things "false flag/USS Liberty" incidents.

Next time you see dancing Palestinians and someone tells you they are celebrating a terror attack, it is more likely they are attending a birthday party. This is what we have learned, perhaps this is what we had best remember.

From an AFP article on Site Intelligence:

Rita Katz and S.I.T.E. are set to release yet another "aL-Qaeda" tape

Despite a massive manhunt by the world's intelligence agencies, BL seems to evade their combined efforts, staying on the run. But he still has time to drop into his recording studio and cook up a fresh tape for the likes of Rita Katz and her outfit called S.I.T.E. SITE is staffed by TWO people, Katz and a Josh Devon.

WASHINGTON (AFP) The head of the Al-Qaeda network Osama bin Laden is expected to release a taped message on Iraq, a group monitoring extremist online forums said Thursday. The 56-minute tape by the hunted militant is addressed to Iraq and an extremist organization based there, the Islamic State of Iraq, said the US-based SITE monitoring institute, citing announcements on "jihadist forums."

It said the release was "impending" but did not say whether the message was an audio or video tape. Despite a massive manhunt and a 25-million-dollar bounty on his head, he has evaded capture and has regularly taunted the United States and its allies through warnings issued on video and audio cassettes. Source: ME Times

Yes, despite a massive manhunt by the world's intelligence agencies, BL seems to evade their combined efforts, staying on the run. But he still has time to drop into his recording studio and cook up a fresh tape for the likes of Rita Katz and her outfit called S.I.T.E. SITE is staffed by TWO people, Katz and a Josh Devon.

Yet these two individuals manage to do what the ENTIRE combined assets of the world's Western intelligence can't:

Be the first to obtain fresh video and audio tapes from aL-Qaeda with Bin Laden making threats and issuing various other comments. If BL appears a bit "stiff" in the latest release, that's because he is real stiff, as in dead.

How is it that a Jewish owned group like S.I.T.E. can outperform the world's best and brightest in the intelligence field and be the first to know that a group like al-Qaeda is getting ready to release another tape?

How is it possible that Rita Katz and S.I.T.E. can work this magic? Maybe looking at Katz's background will help:

Rita Katz is Director and co-founder of the SITE Institute. Born in Iraq, her father was tried and executed as an Israeli spy, whereupon her family moved to Israel [the move has been described as both an escape and an emigration in different sources]. She received a degree from the Middle Eastern Studies program at Tel Aviv University, and is fluent in Hebrew and Arabic. She emigrated to the US in 1997.

Katz was called as a witness in the trial, but the government didn't claim she was a terrorism expert. During the trial it was discovered that Katz herself had worked in violation of her visa agreement when she first arrived in America in 1997.

She also admitted to receiving more than $130,000 for her work as an FBI consultant on the case. Source Watch

The year 2000 brought in the new millennium with rumors of "Y2K" disaster that was going to end our world. While we were all gripped in FEAR and focusing on the Y2K bugs, the presidency of the United States of America was stolen by the illusionists, the electoral coup d'état was then followed by the largest unprecedented consolidation of power ever achieved in the history of the US, along with the single most aggressive rape of our constitution, bill of rights and all our freedoms we have ever witnessed all without anyone blinking.

The new millennium ushered in the age of never ending war against a concept, against a word. "look into my eyes... the terrorist bogeymen are out to get you..." Terrorism, terrorist, death, terror, Bin Laden, WMDs, terror, Nuclear bomb, Swine Flu, terrorism, Islamo-fascism, terror, global warming, terrorists... be afraid, be very afraid! Boo!

TERROR!

TERRORIST!

TERRORISM!

BE AFRAID! BE VERY AFRAID!!!

There are many people out there that absolutely refuse to believe that our government or the Israelis for the matter would ever hurt their own people, let alone setup the Muslims to make them look like the evil perpetrators, quite the contrary, they have been waging false flag ops and blaming the Arabs for decades, this is STANDARD OPERATIONAL PROCEDURE of the Zionists. Of the hundreds of bombings around the world many of them were Israeli Mossad planted to make it look like evil Muslims were the perpetrators. The case of hating and wiping Israel's enemies off the face of the earth is almost complete.

“The cleverness of the Israelis is that they have created the ‘militant’ Moslems and ‘terrorist’ Moslems in order to discredit the Moslems.”

One of the first widely documented and undisputed cases of false flag terrorism was in 1954 by the Israelis black ops squads, it is known today as the LAVON AFFAIR:

Lavon Affair:

The Lavon Affair refers to a failed Israeli false flag covert operation, code named Operation Susannah, which took place in Egypt in the summer of 1954. During this operation, a group of Egyptian Jews, working for Israeli military intelligence, planted bombs inside Egyptian, American and British-owned targets within Egypt in the hopes that "the Muslim Brotherhood, the Communists, 'unspecified malcontents' or 'local nationalists'" would be blamed.^[1] (source: Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia)

The undisputable fact is that the Israelis have been setting up the Arabs for decades. Today the false flag conspirators have the outrage they were hoping to achieve, and hatred for the Moslem world is intensified. They have been ingeniously pitting the Christian world to kill the Muslim world, their arch enemy, we have been doing their dirty work for them.

It is of utmost importance that you understand that it is a common and standard policy of Zionist Israel and its intelligence agency the “Mossad” to set up and frame their Muslim/Arab mortal enemies in what is called as “false flag” operations. They have been doing this for decades on end, this is just one of those where they actually got CAUGHT dressing up as Arabs to set them up and make them look like the sinister evil terrorists.

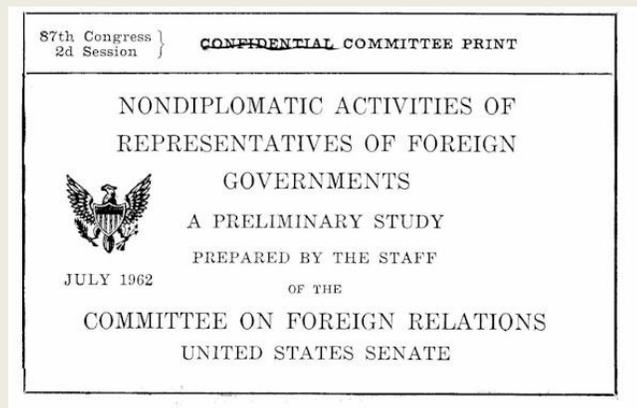

“Pseudo-operations”

Pseudo-operations are those in which forces of one power disguise themselves as enemy forces.

Declassified Preliminary Report: Senate Investigates Foreign Agents - 1961-1963

Documents

On October 21, 2010 the National Archives and Records Administration released Box #1 (of 67) from sealed US Senate records about the activities of non diplomatic representatives of foreign governments active in the United States. The formerly classified documents reveal the rationale for extensive investigations and Justice Department enforcement actions in 1962-1963. Top US lobbying firms, public relations consultants and foreign lobbying groups were ordered to submit records under threat of subpoena to Senate Foreign Relations Committee researchers.

A declassified March 17, 1961 three-page memorandum outlines why the Senate Foreign Relations Committee focused intensely on the Jewish Agency, the American Zionist Council and the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (then functioning as the AZC's lobbying division, before incorporating):

In recent years there has been an increasing number of incidents involving attempts by foreign governments, or their agents, to influence the conduct of American foreign policy by techniques outside normal diplomatic channels..there have been occasions when representatives of other governments have been privately accused of engaging in covert activities within the United States and elsewhere, for the purpose of influencing United States Policy (the Lavon Affair).

The "Lavon Affair" refers to a false flag Israeli terrorist bombing plot code named Operation Susannah against US and other targets in Egypt. It was designed to reverse US policy pressuring British withdrawals and reverting control of the Suez Canal to Egypt. Israeli agents infiltrating as Arabs were discovered, arrested and criminally prosecuted in Egypt when their explosives malfunctioned, leading to a crisis in the Israeli government and relations with the US.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which mentioned the Lavon incident twice in three pages, expressed caution about investigating such sensitive matters. There would undoubtedly (even with care) be instances which would lead to foreign governmental protests, to violent attacks by special groups in the United States...

The declassified Senate memo suggested three avenues for Senate investigation. I. Public receipt of testimony from Department of Justice and Department of State.II. Public receipt of testimony from selected law and public relations firms.III Executive (perhaps public) receipt of testimony on the Lavon Affair, and similar grey area activities

The Senate record of the May 23 and August 1, 1963 hearings on Israel lobbying outline covert activities, but many were heavily redacted at the insistence of the Jewish Agency and its allies in Congress. No testimony on the Lavon Affair or any other false flag attacks was ever given during the investigation.

"When we get into the lobby hearings, JWF (J. William Fulbright) would like to obtain from the Zionist outfits a list of individuals who have spoken to them in the past, and how much they got paid?"

Outline of Further Staff Investigation into Influences of Foreign Governments and Other Foreign Groups Upon U.S. Foreign Policy through Non-Diplomatic Channels

"1. To what extent is United states foreign policy being influenced through nondiplomatic channels by foreign governments and other foreign groups?

2. To what extent are the following - and other - channels being used by foreign governments?

3.To what extent are the following - and other - practices employed by foreign governments?

4. Is the Foreign Agents Registration Act adequate to protect the American public against improper influences by foreign governments and parties?

5. Do traditional international concepts of "improper interference in internal affairs" require review? At what point does the need of the U. S. Government to influence foreign governments and public opinion impose a limit on U. S. restraints on propaganda and public relations activities of foreign governments here?

6. To what extent are intelligence and internal security agencies of the U. S. Government cognizant of propaganda and public relations activities of foreign governments and parties? To what extent do such agencies facilitate or sponsor such activities?"

Memorandum for the Record: "Timing of further staff investigation regarding non-diplomatic influences by foreign governments."

"The chairman decided today that he liked the attached outline [9/29/1961] of a further staff investigation on this subject and the idea of hiring Walter Pincus to help John Newhouse, but he also decided that the start of such additional staff work should be delayed until 1, April of 1962."

ACTIVITIES OF NONDIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVES OF FOREIGN PRINCIPALS IN THE UNITED STATES

Redacted Senate report on Israel lobbying.

Here we are today with widely disseminated, nurtured Zionist media fed ANTI-MUSLIMISM running rampant throughout the land. The day is quickly approaching when Israeli secret agents posing as Arabs conduct their final solution pinnacle false flag work of art setting up the evil Muslim regimes that refuse to bow to their knees before their Israeli masters. Soon the day is coming were the sinister evil Muslims are FRAMED for conducting the next unfathomable mass atrocity whose magnitude will thus force the hand of our political and military powers to yet again wipeout of the remaining evil sovereigntys who refuse to bow to their overlords. Once these last pieces of total global domination are in place we will see the Zionist end game come forth.

At this point, we must note that just after the American Civil War, the supreme leader of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry was General Albert Pike (also an ardent practitioner of the Jewish Kabbalah). This grand patriarch of the Illuminati wrote a letter to his Illuministic counterpart in Italy, Giuseppe Mazzini. Pike told Mazzini that three world wars would be necessary. The third would be fomented by the differences between what would be considered united Christendom and the Moslem world. Is this not the very thing that is now beginning to happen? Can any thinking person say that all of this is just coincidence? [*History of the Illuminati, by Myron C. Fagan, tape series, LTM, Beaver Dam, WI.]

In the meantime, everyone here in this once great nation is being monitored, you are all suspects, anyone who defies the wishes of the state and their proxy hidden in plain sight ruling overlords the Zionist “Jew” sector is immediately placed on “the list.”

Gee whiz, did you know that America now has over ONE MILLION people listed and classified as “terrorists” in their Terrorist Watch List...? Gee, I had no clue our country was overflowing jammed full of so many evil sinister terrorists! Warning to all you “terrorists” out there: soon your day will come when you are all rounded up and sent to concentration camps you bunch of evil “TERRORISTS”!....

The Terrorist Watch List was up 32% since 2007 as more and more peaceful protesters and activists are dutifully added to the list among the ranks of other “evil sinister terrorists” that are found on a daily basis such as the guy caught SPEEDING, and that teacher that was outspoken about the truth about the system and was later arrested, that grandma that was standing in front of a government building protesting, etc., etc...

GLADIO, HOW WE TERRORIZE OURSELVES

GLADIO, HOW AMERICA AND NATO INVENTED TERRORISM

“NOT ONE TERRORIST IN A HUNDRED....A THOUSAND.....IS REAL”

By Gordon Duff STAFF WRITER/Senior Editor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Wikipedia's report on Operation Gladio is reproduced here. This is a threatened document, an important part of our history. Help preserve it.)

How many Americans have heard of Operation Gladio? Many ask, how could simple Arabs or even Israel, put together an organization capable of 9/11? If, as 78% of Australians indicate, in a recent Herald Sun poll, America planned 9/11 herself, how did a democracy lose its way? How did America's intelligence and defense groups become terrorists? When did it happen and why? The answer isn't simple, it started decades ago, when the world was at the edge of obliteration and two systems, or what we then believed were systems, fought for the hearts and minds of the world.

Today, all that sounds childish. A mature look at the Cold War looks more like two rats fighting over a corpse. Then, however, some saw it as “light and dark,” clear as that. Many believed the Soviet Union would drive its tanks through Europe like a knife through hot butter. To fight this “eventuality,” NATO built a terrorist organization of massive proportions. The remaining cells of Operation Gladio, one of the greatest disasters of military ignorance in history, are busy today.

We call some of them “Al Qaeda.”

Operation Gladio is the heart of world terrorism, alive and well, and built by NATO, built by the United States and used against America and the world. Gladio, created to save us from communism, quickly became a terrorist organization itself, murdering political leaders, rigging elections, terror attacks to blame on one group or another. The “medicine” became the disease. It is now killing us.

WHERE THE DAMAGE HAS LEFT US, LESS FREE, MAYBE NOT FREE, NOT INDEPENDENT AT ALL

This week, in light of failing relations with Israel over unresolved “Bush era” issues, 9/11, Israel’s role in manipulating America into two illegal wars and the despicable propaganda campaign they have run against the United States in her own press, something unheard of happened. Israeli Prime Minister Netanyahu met with GOP leaders, extracting a promise that they would agree to work with Israel against the interests of the United States. Yes, we said “against.” America has no treaties with Israel, no Israeli troops support us but Israel has been caught, time after time, spying on the US, bribing public officials and military leaders and worse, working to keep America under attack.

They are either the worst friend imaginable or something else. Many are coming to realize that America has been occupied by Israel. When Netanyahu met with his Republicans it was because President Obama, much like Karzai in Afghanistan, is simply getting sick of them as Karzai is sick of the American occupation of Afghanistan. There is a reason that dual citizens control Homeland Security, the FBI, the State Department and Department of Defense. Oh, you didn’t know that most of the key officials of those organizations are Israeli citizens? The news didn’t tell you? Well, in an occupied country, the “occupier” controls the news.

THOSE WHO CLAIM TO SAVE US TURN OUT TO BE THE THREAT ITSELF

These organizations are controlled so that any resistance will be crushed immediately. I am not one to talk about FEMA camps and black helicopters but Jesse Ventura seems to be right. Our most recent proof is the Yemen bomb scam. No bombs were found. There is no Al Qaeda in Yemen, in fact there is no Al Qaeda, no matter how much you hear the word, which means, of course, “toilet.” Former Homeland Security director, Chertoff, (Israeli) is raking in millions selling scanners which, other than being another humiliation, may well be dangerous.

When is the last time you heard of a bomb being found by TSA (Transportation Security Administration) officers? The last time a bomb came into the US, the “terrorist” was personally seated on the plane by an airport security official working for an Israeli company. He was walked around inspections. Why search anyone at all under circumstances like that? The same company manages most of America’s airports too. Have we lost our minds here? We know who the real terrorists are, they are the people we hire to run our security. Didn’t read that in the papers? Problem living in an occupied country?

BRITAIN AND THE MURDER OF DAVID KELLY

Today, if you read the Daily Mail, the Thames Valley Constabulary, after several years, has decided to open a murder inquiry on the “suicide” of Dr. David Kelly, the expert who told Prime Minister Tony Blair that Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction. For years, “backchannel” chatter has been that Kelly’s murder was ordered at the highest levels of government, not just Britain but America as well. More importantly, Kelly was personally involved in the Israeli/South African nuclear program and its dismantlement.

He was also the signatory for the 3 nuclear weapons that disappeared and he knew Saddam didn't have them. The real reason for the attack on Iraq in 2003 was nuclear weapons the "45 minute" nukes, the "ambulance" nukes, that we claimed Saddam had. Kelly knew better, he arranged for their shipment to Oman and knew British politicians were paid millions to "look the other way" when these bombs disappeared.

Kelly's murder is one of the thousands of war crimes tied to the phony war on terror. Every tape released, featuring long dead Osama bin Laden is a war crime as are the very suspicious bombings in Pakistan, the very suspicious Mumbai attack and the 7/7 "incident" in Britain that the "organs of state security" are working so hard to cover up to this day. In fact, there is a long history of bombings, Madrid, further back, Berlin or those in Italy during the 80s. All are easily tied to intelligence agencies and, frankly, have been by newspapers, politicians.

Here at home, it was more than CIA agent Valerie Plame who was attacked. A good friend and former UN Ambassador, a Middle East briefer for President's Reagan and Bush/Bush, did the same thing as Kelly. He went to President Bush and revealed that the intelligence that was being presented was false. He wasn't killed. Instead he was arrested, charged with dozens of fanciful counts of working for terrorist organizations. This was a warning. If they would go after one of President Reagan's closest advisors and friends, a strong pro-Zionist and neo-con, anyone could be "gotten rid of."

Anyone who thinks people weren't "gotten rid of" isn't paying attention.

GLADIO, THE LIVING PROOF THERE IS NO AL QAEDA, NO WAR ON TERROR

In order to fight communism, NATO organized, through its intelligence agencies, terrorist capabilities in case Western Europe would fall to the communists. Hundreds of millions were spent to set up, in every country of Europe, terrorist organizations, bomb making factories in basements, underground organizations, terror cells. This was done under what was called Operation Gladio. These terror organizations were used, from time to time, to simulate threats. They kidnapped officials, blew up trains and cafe's, they became a real terrorist threat.

The newspapers don't like reporting this but it is, not only true but extremely well documented. As Wikipedia has now come under threat, the extensive section of GLADIO will be reproduced in this article. It should be saved.

Nearly everything we claim the PLO and other organizations were responsible for, including and especially Al Qaeda, has been the work of the GLADIO "stay behind" networks which were never totally broken up after the Cold War. GLADIO is Al Qaeda.

Everything that is claimed to be Osama bin Laden and the imaginary Taliban training camps, people who have trouble keeping camels alive, was financed by NATO as part of the Cold War and left to take on a life of itself, morphing into a terrorist capability that no one wants to give up, no matter what kind of threat it is capable of.

The long shadow of GLADIO now fuels an industry that has started two wars, controls the world's opium supplies and has allowed the United States to occupy the Middle East as a "protectorate." At the same time, however, the United States itself, though its love affair with treason, terrorism and spying, has, itself, become the real victim of the invisible networks it spent so many millions to build.

So here we are, the Bush & Co. establishment has been working in overdrive for 8 years instilling FEAR of the bogeymen terrorists in all our hearts and minds, now the Obama & Co administration picked up the torch and continue the march forward. Soon the day will come when "al-CIada" strikes again in our country to make sure once and for all that we are all gripped in total FEAR, corralled into our holding pens we shall relinquish what little rights we have left. This new millennium ushered in the era of the "terrorist", the new common enemy, "Islamo-fascism" and "totalitarian Islamic empire" are the new Zionist engineered fear buzz words.

Our invasions in the middle east has been PIVITOL in transforming a rag tag couple hundred "terrorists" into thousands and thousands of REAL pissed off "terrorists", they have made sure of that, for we have been in the middle east stirring up those hornets nests for decades.

The Truth About Terrorism - video

Americans have been trained well in how to suspend belief, the mind numbness of countless hours absorbing mindless TV programming, drinking heavily Fluoridated water, the mercury in vaccine shots, the conditioning since childhood of being told what to do by authority figures, or whatever it is that has caused the citizens of this once great nation to become docile zombies accepting the most ridiculous fairy tales as gospel. I can't say what or how the elite rulers pulled it off, I just see it all around me here and now, stop and listen to the chants rebounding off the walls:

*By Isabelle Duerme- AHN News Writer, Washington, D.C. - In a recent address held at the Heritage Foundation, U.S. President George W. Bush insisted that people need to take the words of the terrorists seriously, and not listen to the demands and the protests of blog writers.

The president urged that the words spoken by terrorists must be taken seriously, as there can be no room for leniency in a time of terrorist activity.

Quoted from the live broadcast, Mr. Bush continued to say that the nation must spend more time listening to the messages and threats of Osama bin Laden, and "less time responding to the demands of MoveOn.org bloggers and Code Pink protesters."

Mr. Bush said that the terrorists aim to establish a totalitarian Islamic empire, and that they move along the belief of refusing compromise or dialogue with "infidels" , with Bush saying that the U.S. has been included in that list.

Likening the threats of bin Laden to the warnings sent out by historic figures such as Lenin and Hitler, Mr. Bush said that unlike how the public responded to the mentioned leaders, "the people must listen to bin Laden."!!!!

"Some in Congress are behaving as if America is not at war," MSNBC quoted the president. "In a time of war, it is vital for the president to have a full national security team in place."

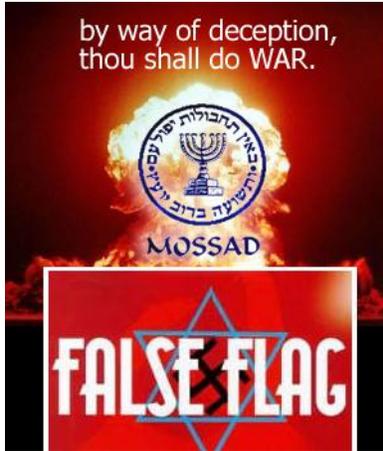

*Mr. Bush also called for Congress to turn more of their time towards funding plans for the war in Iraq, and less time planning for other causes such as children's health care - something for which he accused Congress of overspending.

*Again stating that "we will fight [the terrorists] overseas so we do not have to fight them here at home," President Bush said that the only way to defeat terrorism is to "advance freedom as the alternative to radicalism."

OMG! How stupid and gullible are the masses who believe this obvious bullshit? The above article grabbed my attention because it so eloquently points out several key factors, first of all, again Bush is telling the cattle citizenry not to pay any mind to the FACTS and truthers such as moveon.org, BUT TO INSTEAD LISTEN TO "BIN LADEN"!!!! Hopefully some of you are in the "awake" 30% club that realizes the "Bin Laden Tapes" are nothing more than just a bunch of CIA/Mossad production bullshit videos. Bin Laden NEVER made ANY of those tapes, those tapes are OFFICIAL PROPAGANDA RELEASES FROM OUR OWN GOVERNMENT to continue the charade and foster

FEAR in the hearts and minds of the cattle, so that they can proceed with their real new world order agenda. The DEAD Osama Bin Laden MUST be "kept alive by the state" using old re-mixed sound and video clips, Hollywood FX, whatever means necessary, otherwise they lose their number one boogeyman.

The best case scenario would be the possibility that the U.S. intelligence agencies are just a bunch of jack ass incompetent idiots with their thumbs stuck up their asses and are receiving video productions made by the Israeli Mossad purporting to be from Osama, and actually falling for the obvious batshit insane bogus videos. I find that scenario pretty hard to swallow.

So next time you hear of any mix tape "from Bin Laden" hit the street corner, you can bet the farm that those talking points are coming directly from the Skunk Labs of powers that be within our shadow government, never forget this. For the people who are producing these FAKE videos are the SAME ones that brought us 9/11... who also brought us the bullshit lie war in Iraq... who are now banging the war drums on Iran... and other Arab countries to follow... These are the people who are perpetrating the fraud of the millennium in their quest to bring on Armageddon, pushing forward their un-holy new world order agenda.

So the powers that be want you all to take the (dead) "Bin Laden's" words seriously, but have you not ever wondered why we have not once since what? 2003? heard a word from our government about their efforts or plans to capture Bin Laden? They OFFICIALLY stopped searching for him over 7+ years ago, and instead speak of "getting al-CIAa." He is dead as a doornail in someone's freezer waiting to be thawed out when the time is right.

Benazir Bhutto was assassinated not because people "hated or feared" her, that was the just another cover story. The real reason she was assassinated was because she did not know how to keep her mouth shut and go along with the program. She started appearing on national TV networks explaining that Bin Laden was IN FACT DEAD (along with details and names). Mind you this was a highly respected women who people looked up to and was very credible. Thus her campaign of exposing the fact that Amerika's main boogeyman was dead could potentially ruin all their well laid plans. Benazir Bhutto paid the ultimate price for stating that "the US imperial policy of propping up tin horn dictators causes world terrorism." She dared to say so. Condemning what she called "A False Choice for Pakistan", the late Benazir Bhutto laid "terrorism" at the White House doorstep, blaming US policies for causing, fueling and inspiring what US regimes call "terrorism". She was targeted for assassination and promptly taken out by your friendly neighborhood Mossad/CIA agents.

FYI: BIN LADEN IS DEAD, DEAD, DEAD, DEAD AS A DOORNAIL. You must get that FACT through your thick skulls! THE WORLD HAS NOT SEEN ONE SINGLE UNDOCTORED VIDEO OF A LIVE WALKING AND TALKING BIN LADEN SINCE 2002. EACH AND EVERY SINGLE AUDIO/VIDEO TAPE CIRCULATED PUPORTEDLY FROM BIN LADEN HAS BEEN A MOSSAD/CIA PRODUCTION USING HIS VOICE FROM STOCK FOOTAGE. THAT IS WHY YOU NEVER, NEVER, NEVER SEE HIM IN A VIDEO MOVING AROUND LIKE a NORMAL LIVING PERSON. THEY CAN NOT FAKE A VIDEO WITHOUT IT LOOKING PATHETICALLY STUPID AS THEY HAVE TRIED. THEY NEED TO KEEP THE MYTH OF THE MASTER BOOGEYMAN ALIVE TO INSTIL FEAR IN YOUR SHEEPLE LIVES!!!

I apologize for the cap locks, but I just heard a new audio tape (with a still picture of the boogeyman in the background) being played on EVERY national TV channel from the DEAD Bin Laden and the idiot news anchor then comes out and says "there you have it, this proves once and for all the Bin Laden is still alive".... AAAARRRGHHHH!!!!!!! Freaking sold out brain dead morons, all of them!

Public Enemy #1: Behold: The Dead Boogeyman who bringeth fear:

Behold: Mr. Mossad Bin Laden

General Leonid Ivashov, who was Chief of Staff of the Russian armed forces when the Twin Towers tragedy happened on 9/11, insists that there is no such thing as international terrorism and that the:

“September 11 attacks were the result of a set-up. What we are seeing is a manipulation by the big powers; this terrorism would not exist without them.”

Globalization creates conditions for the emergence of this terror. It seeks to design new world geo-strategic map; appropriate the resources of the planet; erase cultural identities; and subjugate States before a global oligarchy. Thus, terrorism, according to Gen. Ivashov, is an instrument “a means to install a unipolar world with a sole world headquarters, a pretext to erase national borders and to establish the rule of a new world elite. It is precisely this elite that constitutes the key element of world terrorism, its ideologists and its ‘godfather’.” of world politics, “

Lets continue to study and dissect the bogeymen the Zionists and our government places in the mainstream as it tries to sell us the concept of the horrible evil killers that seek to invade our country who intend on taking over our country to “establish a totalitarian Islamofascist empire”. I don't have to make this stuff up, It all comes out of Washington. These are the premises they are using to clamp down on our liberties, destroying our freedom, constitution, bill of rights and so forth, setting up a massive Orwellian surveillance network and police state "to protect us" within our country, while they go "fight them over there", destroying their lands and culture. Leaving them all desolate with basically NOTHING left but pain and suffering. Then our fearless leaders say “How dare they retaliate against our INVASION & occupation forces with crude IEDs? Attack! Wage war on those evil terrorists!”

Osama bin Elvis

By Angelo M. Codevilla from the March 2009 issue of The American Spectator

All the evidence suggests Elvis Presley is more alive today than Osama bin Laden. But tell that to the CIA and all the other misconceptualizers of the War on Terror.

Seven years after Osama bin Laden's last verifiable appearance among the living, there is more evidence for Elvis's presence among us than for his. Hence there is reason to ask whether the paradigm of Osama bin Laden as terrorism's deus ex machina and of al Qaeda as the prototype of terrorism may be an artifact of our Best and Brightest's imagination, and whether investment in this paradigm has kept our national security establishment from thinking seriously about our troubles' sources. So let us take a fresh look at the fundamentals.

Dead or Alive?

Negative evidence alone compels the conclusion that Osama is long since dead. Since October 2001, when Al Jazeera's Tayseer Alouni interviewed him, no reputable person reports having seen him—not even after multiple-blind journeys through intermediaries. The audio and video tapes alleged to be Osama's never convinced impartial observers. The guy just does not look like Osama. Some videos show him with a Semitic aquiline nose, while others show him with a shorter, broader one. Next to that, differences between colors and styles of beard are small stuff.

Nor does the tapes' Osama sound like Osama. In 2007 Switzerland's Dalle Molle Institute for Artificial Intelligence, which does computer voice recognition for bank security, compared the voices on 15 undisputed recordings of Osama with the voices on 15 subsequent ones attributed to Osama, to which they added two by native Arab speakers who had trained to imitate him and were reading his writings. All of the purported Osama recordings (with one falling into a gray area) differed clearly from one another as well as from the genuine ones. By contrast, the CIA found all the recordings authentic. It is hard to imagine what methodology might support this conclusion.

Also in 2007, Professor Bruce Lawrence, who heads Duke University's religious studies program, argued in a book on Osama's messages that their increasingly secular language is inconsistent with Osama's Wahhabism. Lawrence noted as well that the Osama figure in the December 2001 video, which many have taken as his assumption of responsibility for 9/11, wears golden rings—decidedly un-Wahhabi. He also writes with the wrong hand. Lawrence concluded that the messages are fakes, and not very good ones. The CIA has judged them all good.

Above all, whereas Elvis impersonators at least sing the King's signature song, "You ain't nuttin' but a hound dawg," the words on the Osama tapes differ substantively from what the real Osama used to say—especially about the most important matter. On September 16, 2001, on Al Jazeera, Osama said of 9/11: "I stress that I have not carried out this act, which appears to have been carried out by individuals with their own motivation." Again, in the October interview with Tayseer Alouni, he limited his connection with 9/11 to ideology: "If they mean, or if you mean, that there is a link as a result of our incitement, then it is true. We incite..." But in the so-called "confession video" that the CIA found in December, the Osama figure acts like the chief conspirator. The fact that the video had been made for no self-evident purpose except perhaps to be found by the Americans should have raised suspicion. Its substance, the celebratory affirmation of a responsibility for 9/11 that Osama had denied, should also have weighed against the video's authenticity. Why would he wait to indict himself until after U.S. forces and allies had secured Afghanistan? But the CIA acted as if it had caught Osama red-handed.

The CIA should also have taken seriously the accounts of Osama's death. On December 26, 2001, Fox News interviewed a Taliban source who claimed that he had attended Osama's funeral, along with some 30 associates. The cause of death, he said, had been pulmonary infection. The New York Times on July 11, 2002, reported the consensus of a story widespread in Pakistan that Osama had succumbed the previous year to his long-standing nephritis. Then, Benazir Bhutto—as well connected as anyone with sources of information on the Afghan-Pakistani border—mentioned casually in a BBC interview that Osama had been murdered by his associates. Murder is as likely as natural death. Osama's deputy, Ayman al-Zawahiri, is said to have murdered his own predecessor, Abdullah Azzam, Osama's original mentor. Also, because Osama's capture by the Americans would have endangered everyone with whom he had ever associated, any and all intelligence services who had ever worked with him had an interest in his death.

New Osama, Real Osama

We do not know what happened to Osama. But whatever happened, the original one, the guy who looked and sounded like a spoiled Saudi kid turned ideologue, is no more. The one who exists in the tapes is different: he is the world's terror master, endowed with inexplicable influence. In short, whoever is making the post-November 2001 Osama tapes is pretending to far greater power than Osama ever claimed, much less exercised.

The real Osama bin Laden, like the real al Qaeda over which he presided, was never as important as reports from Arab (especially Saudi) intelligence services led the CIA to believe. Osama's (late) role in Afghanistan's anti-Soviet resistance was to bring in a little money. Arab fighters in general, and particularly the few Osama brought, fought rarely and badly. In war, one Afghan is worth many Arabs. In 1990 Osama told Saudi regent Abdullah that his mujahideen could stop Saddam's invasion of the kingdom. When Abdullah waved him away in favor of a half-million U.S. troops, Osama turned dissident, enough to have to move to Sudan, where he stayed until 1996 hatching sterile anti-Saudi plots until forced to move his forlorn band to Afghanistan.

There is a good reason why neither Osama nor al Qaeda appeared on U.S. intelligence screens until 1998. They had done nothing noteworthy. Since the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Africa, however, and especially after director of Central Intelligence George Tenet imputed responsibility for 9/11 to Osama "game, set, and match," the CIA described him as terrorism's prime mover. It refused to countenance the possibility that Osama's associates might have been using him and his organization as a flag of convenience. As U.S. forces were taking over Afghanistan in 2001, the CIA was telling Time and Newsweek that it expected to find the high-tech headquarters from which Osama controlled terrorist activities in 50 countries. None existed. In November 2008, without factual basis and contrary to reason, the CIA continued to describe him and his organization as "the most clear and present danger to the United States." It did not try to explain how this could be while, it said, Osama is "largely isolated from the day to day operations of the organization he nominally heads." What organization?

Axiom and Opposite

Why such a focus on an organization that was never large, most of whose known associates have long since been killed or captured, and whose assets the CIA does not even try to catalogue? The CIA's official explanation, that al Qaeda has "metastasized" by spreading its expertise, is an empty metaphor. But pursuant to it, the U.S. government accepted the self-designation as "al Qaeda" of persons fighting for Sunni-Baathist interests in Iraq, and has pinned the label gratuitously on sundry high-profile terrorists while acknowledging that their connection to Osama and Co. may be emotional at most. But why such gymnastics in the face of Osama's incontrovertible irrelevance? Because focusing on Osama and al Qaeda affirms a CIA axiom dating from the Cold War, an axiom challenged during the Reagan years but that has been U.S. policy since 1993, namely: terrorism is the work of "rogue individuals and groups" that operate despite state authority. According to this axiom, the likes of Osama run rings around the intelligence services of Arab states—just like the Cold War terrorists who came through Eastern Europe to bomb in Germany and Italy and to shoot Pope John Paul II supposedly acted despite Bulgarian intelligence, despite East Germany's Stasi, despite the KGB. This axiom is dear to many in the U.S. government because it leads logically to working with the countries whence terrorists come rather than to treating them as enemies.

But what if terrorism were (as Thomas Friedman put it) "what states want to happen or let happen"? What if, in the real world, infiltrators from intelligence services—the professionals—use the amateur terrorists rather than the other way around? What is the logical consequence of noting the fact that the terrorist groups that make a difference on planet Earth—such as Hamas and Hezbollah, the PLO, Colombia's FARC—are extensions of, respectively, Iran, Saudi Arabia and Egypt, and Venezuela? It is the negation of the U.S. government's favorite axiom. It means that when George W. Bush spoke, and when Barack Obama speaks, of America being "at war" against "extremism" or "extremists" they are either being stupid or acting stupid to avoid dealing with the nasty fact that many governments wage indirect warfare.

In short, insisting on Osama's supposed mastery of al Qaeda, and on equating terrorism with al Qaeda, is official U.S. policy because it forecloses questions about the role of states, and makes it possible to indict as warmongers whoever raises such questions. Osama's de facto irrelevance for seven years, however, has undermined that policy's intellectual legitimacy. How much longer can presidents or directors of the CIA wave the spectra of Osama and al Qaeda before people laugh at them?

An Intellectual House of Cards

Questioning Osama's relevance to today's terrorism leads naturally to asking how relevant he ever was, and who might be more relevant. That in turn quickly shows how flimsy are the factual foundations on which rest the U.S.

government's axioms about the "war on terror." Consider: We know that Khalid Sheikh Mohammed (KSM) planned and carried out 9/11. But there is no independent support for KSM's claim that he acted at Osama's direction and under his supervision. On the contrary, we know for sure that the expertise and the financing for 9/11 came from KSM's own group (the U.S. government has accepted but to my knowledge not verified that the group's core is a biological family of Baluchs). This group carried out the 1998 bombings of U.S. embassies in Africa and every other act for which al Qaeda became known. The KSM group included the perpetrators of the 1993 World Trade Center bombings Abdul Rahman Yasin, who came from, returned to, and vanished in Iraq, as well as Ramzi Yousef, the mastermind of that bombing, who came to the U.S. from Iraq on an Iraqi passport and was known to his New York collaborators as "Rashid the Iraqi." This group had planned the bombing of U.S. airliners over the Pacific in 1995. The core members are non-Arabs. They had no history of religiosity (and the religiosity they now display is unconvincing). They were not creatures of Osama. Only in 1996 did the group come to Osama's no-account band, and make it count.

In life, as in math, you must judge the function [of a factor in any equation by factoring it out and seeing if the equation still works. Factor out Osama. Chances are, 9/11 still happens. Factor out al Qaeda too. Maybe 9/11 still happens. The other bombing plots sure happened without it. But if you factor out the KSM [Mossad/CIA/Mi6 front] group, surely there is no 9/11, and without the KSM group, there is no way al Qaeda would have become a household word.

Who, precisely, are KSM and his reputed nephews? That is an interesting question to which we do not know the answer, and are not about to find out. Ramzi Yousef was sentenced to life imprisonment for the 1993 World Trade Center bombing after a trial that focused on his guilt and that abstracted from his associations. Were our military tribunal to accede to KSM's plea of guilty, he would avoid any trial at all. Moreover, the sort of trial that would take place before the tribunal would focus on proving guilt rather than on getting at the whole truth. It would not feature the cross-examination of witnesses, the substantive proving and impeachment of evidence, and the exploration of alternative explanations of events. But real trials try all sides. Do we need such things given that KSM confessed? Yes. There is no excuse for confusing confessions with truth, especially confessions in which the prisoners confirm our agencies' prejudices.

The excuse for limiting the public scrutiny of evidence is the alleged need to protect intelligence sources. But my experience, as well as that of others who have been in a position to probe such claims, is that almost invariably they protect our intelligence agencies' incompetence and bureaucratic interests. Anyhow, the public's interest in understanding what it's up against should override all others.

Understanding the Past, Dealing With the Future

Focusing on Osama bin Elvis is dangerous to America's security precisely because it continues to substitute in our collective mind the soft myth that terrorism is the work of romantic rogues for the hard reality that it can happen only because certain states want it to happen or let it happen. KSM and company may not have started their careers as agents of Iraqi intelligence, or they may have quit the Iraqis and worked for others, or maybe they just worked for themselves. But surely they were a body unto themselves. As such they fit Osama's description of those responsible for 9/11 as "individuals with their own motivation" far better than they fit the CIA's description of them as Osama's tools.

More important, focusing on Osama and al Qaeda distorts our understanding of what is happening in Afghanistan. The latter-day Taliban are fielding forces better paid and armed than any in the region except America's. Does anyone suggest seriously that Osama or al-Zawahiri are providing the equipment, the money, or the moral incentives? Such amounts of money can come only from the super wealthy of Saudi Arabia and the Gulf [or CIA/Mossad/Mi6]. The equipment can come only through dealers who work at the sufferance of states, and can reach the front only through Pakistan by leave of Pakistani authorities. Moreover, the moral incentives for large-scale fighting in Pushtunistan can come only as part of the politics of Pushtun identity. Hence sending troops to Afghanistan to fight Pushtuns financed by Saudis, supported by Pakistanis, and disposing of equipment purchased throughout the world, with the objective of "building an Afghan nation" capable of preventing Osama and al Qaeda from messing up the world from their mountain caves, is an errand built on intellectual self-indulgence.

Intellectual Authority

The CIA had as much basis for deeming Osama the world's terror master "game, set, and match" in 2001 as it had in 2003 for verifying as a "slam dunk" the presence of weapons of mass destruction in Iraq, and as it had in 2007 for determining that Iran had stopped its nuclear weapons program. Mutatis mutandis, it was on such bases that the CIA determined in 1962 that the Soviets would not put missiles in Cuba; that the CIA was certain from 1963 to 1978 that the USSR would not build the first strike missile force that it was building before its very eyes; that the CIA convinced Bush 41 that the Soviet Union was not falling apart and that he should help hold it together; that the CIA assured the U.S. government in 1990 that Iraq would not invade Kuwait, and in 1996 that neither India nor Pakistan would test nuclear weapons. In these and countless other instances, the CIA has provided the US government and the media with authoritative bases for denying realities over which America was tripping.

The force of the CIA's judgments, its authority, has always come from the congruence between its prejudices and those of America's ruling class. When you tell people what they want to hear, you don't have to be too careful about premises, facts, and conclusions. Our problem, in short, is not the CIA's mentality so much as the unwillingness of persons in government and the "attentive public" to exercise intellectual due diligence about international affairs. Osama bin Laden's role may be as good a place as any to start.

"Look at those evil terrorists, al-CIA da has even supposedly converting Americans! They weave a powerful spell on unsuspecting people". The case is being made before your very eyes to plant the seed that evil "terrorists" are everywhere around us. This effort grew with the introduction of Adam Perlman, aka "Danny the Jew," the grandson of Anti-Defamation League board member Dr. Carl Pearlman with whom Adam was raised by! Today he is currently going by the name of Adam Gadahn to hide his JEWISH roots, the "American al-CIA da" guy who is in reality none other than a low level CIA/Mossad shill operative PLAYING THE ROLE of some idiotic American JEW that somehow just showed up at Bin Laden's cave gained his unending trust overnight and is now his official representative..... LMAO!!!!!!

The idiotic notion that Danny the Jew supposedly gained the Muslim world's un-ending trust to become one of their top representatives only in this hemisphere does that bullshit even hold for ask any Muslim and they will tell you he is nothing and nobody, none of them have heard or seen him, but that doesn't matter so long as the western MEDIA portrays him as their spokesman the truth be damned.

He has allegedly gained such high stature in Bin Laden's criminal al-CIA da terrorist network that Bin Laden refuses to do current live video tapings, instead allowing this AMERICAN JEW to REPRESENT ALL OF ISLAM and pass on their messages... yeah right, if you believe that bullshit they are feeding you, I am selling the Brooklyn bridge, do you want to buy it? Oh, you did not know that Adam is JEWISH? Yes, there be pure Zionist Jew blood running through his veins, probably the first Jew to supposedly convert to Islam in the history of mankind? Never forget: "by way of deception they shall wage war" e.g. allow me to introduce you to:

"Danny the Jew" = al-CIA da's (Mossad/CIA agent) imaginary new "official representative": LOL!

Fake Al Qaeda Actors EXPOSED! Adam Gadahn & Yousef al-Khattab - video

Mossad/CIA Secret agent Adam the Jew who's black op mission is posing as al-CIAda's official representative, recently got caught in a Pakistan raid. This is where the clusterfucks begin to unravel and the cat is out of the bag. You see, since he is a secret agent working for Mossad/CIA and their al-CIAda boogeyman unit, they need to have him immediately released and will provide some bullshit story for letting him go... Breaking News:

Yahoo! News...

"...A name very close to that is listed on the FBI's Web site as an alias for Adam Gadahn, the 31-year-old spokesman who has appeared in several videos threatening the West since 2001. The resemblance created confusion among officials Sunday, leading them to believe that the suspect was Gadahn, an army officer and a senior intelligence officer said.

"The resemblance of the name initially caused confusion but now they have concluded he is not Gadahn," said an intelligence officer, who like all Pakistani intelligence agents does not allow his name to be used. "He feels proud to be a member of al-Qaida."

U.S. Embassy spokesman Rick Snelsire said the embassy had not been informed of any American being arrested.

On Sunday, two intelligence officers and a senior government official identified the detained man as Gadahn and said he was arrested in recent days. They too spoke on condition of anonymity. The government official said his name could not be used because of the sensitivity of the information. None of those officials were available for comment Monday.

U.S. defense, intelligence and law enforcement officials could not verify Sunday that Gadahn was the one detained..."

LOL! Mind you that everyone involved will only admit the truth under the condition of anonymity. Let's get this straight. His name is very similar to one of Adams many aliases, golly gee. And he looks exactly like the secret agent Adam, and he got picked up in a terrorist raid. Wow, golly gee whiz! what are the odds of that? Duh! But since he is a paid Mossad/CIA FIELD OPERATIVE our intelligence agency says "do not interrogate him, nope, it's not him, let him go immediately" that's that, nothing to see here folks, end of story, now everyone go back to grazing in the fields! Sleep... sleep... But be afraid of the evil al-CIAda boogeyman!

The fairy tale gets better folks, you see, more and more people and instances are arising out of the woodworks that are continually painting a picture of "homegrown American terrorism" on the scene, thus laying the seeds for the future imprisonment of all "American terrorists", such as peaceful ACTIVISTS, protesters, government dissenters and all who dare question and oppose the rulers in Washington.

There are no evil terrorist bogeymen stirring up fear recently so guese who shows up for duty at Mossad/CIA video production studios? Recently the JEWISH... The ACTOR, so called "American al-CIAda" guy reappeared in a video that was (as all the bogeymen videos are) yet again as all videos are, allegedly delivered to the Israeli Mossad front called SITE. Isn't it wonderful of those evil terrorists to be so nice as to always send the first and only copy of their alleged productions to an Israeli intelligence front group? Unlike the dead Mossad Bin Laden who they have rise for the occasion when ever they need him, this guy looks very much alive in the video though. Guese what his script has him saying this time:

American al-Qaida spokesman urges attacks in US

October 23, 2010 - 6:05pm

This image from video provided by the SITE Intelligence Group shows Adam Gadahn as he appeared on a video released on militant websites on Oct. 23, 2010. The U.S.-born spokesman for al-Qaida on Saturday urged Muslims living in the United States and Europe to carry out attacks there, calling it a duty and an obligation. CAIRO (AP) - A U.S.-born spokesman for al-Qaida on Saturday urged Muslims living in the United States and Europe to carry out attacks there, calling it a duty and an obligation. In a 48-minute video posted on militant websites, Adam Gadahn directed his appeal to Muslim immigrants in what he called the "miserable suburbs" of Paris, London and Detroit, as well as those traveling to the West to study or work.

"It is the duty of everyone who is sincere in his desire to defend Islam and Muslims today, to take the initiative to perform the individual obligation of jihad ... by striking the Zio-Crusader interests," he said, referring to Western and Jewish interests.

Gadahn, who has been hunted by the FBI since 2004, also sought to discredit attempts by moderate Muslim leaders to suppress the "jihadi awakening."

He spoke in Arabic in the video, which was made available by the U.S.-based SITE Intelligence Group, which monitors extremist activity.

Gadahn grew up on a farm in California and converted to Islam before moving to Pakistan in 1998 and reportedly attending an al-Qaida training camp.

Dawud Walid, executive director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations' Michigan chapter, called Gadahn's video "a desperate plea for attention" that will be ignored in the Detroit area _ home to one of the largest Muslim communities in the U.S.

"I see little to no chance of such sentiment taking root in metropolitan Detroit. ... We're not a group of people who feel powerless," Walid said.

"If any Muslim community has grown in civic engagement and empowerment, it would be this community. He invoked the wrong population to try and stir up."

So let me sum this up for those who are a little slow: The Jew, false flag black op operative Mossad field agent Adam Perlman's secret undercover mission has been to help sustain the Mossad/CIA/Mi6 illusion of a major organized evil terrorist network that is out to kill us all for our freedoms. There are ZERO real terrorist out there making these type of videos and or statements so the Mossad/CIA make them up for them so that they can instill the fear into the public's minds and hearts thus be able to have the pretext to continue their draconian operations here in the states and abroad. Everything is working according to their sinister intelligence plans.

Note the Perlman photo on the right, how the fear mongers placed a picture of the towers on fire as to remind the gullible goyim of who the must fear.

The warning I give you though is this: As surely as the false flag op that was 9/11 was conducted with military precision (including the aftermath information psyop) the Luciferian rulers slaughtered thousands of our citizens establishing the massive unchallenged trigger pretext to get their plans into action... They ARE going to do it again... this time they will proceed with greater experience and knowledge of what works and what doesn't in fooling the public... I will not rule out the fact that this satanic cabal will even resort to utilizing a nuclear device(s) or massive Biological weapon attack to instill unimaginable harm and FEAR into the gullible masses hearts and minds... and when they do so, everything goes, no rules, laws or Constitution will hold them back from doing whatever they so choose, they will have a free reign to do as they wish with little or no opposition, for the tragedy they will inflict on the public will be so huge that no one would ever believe that our most wonderful benevolent leaders could EVER resort to such evil.

They are even implementing draconian measures all around rural agricultural America to fight, get this, "Bioterrorism", I kid you not. Control of you food supplies must be relinquished to the mega conglomerates such as Monsanto, thus you witness the state cracking down on poor innocent farmers (who are producing natural un-modified undamaged healthy food) with the new bullshit terrorists in the farm ruse.

The overlords are busy integrating the evil terrorist bogeyman into every sector of our lives as the premise to cover their tracks and pretext to conduct the previously never allowed. Even the masterfully engineered "financial 9/11" economic collapse by our bankster rulers is being tied to the al-CIA da boogeyman! The link listed written by crypto Jew Marc A. Thiessen is a perfect example of PentaCON/Whitehouse propaganda, oh, wait a minute, the guy who wrote that bullshit piece, his former JOB was as speech writer and author, formulating FAIRY TALES for both of the above mentioned government agencies. As you can see, he (and all others like him who supposedly "leave office") continue weaving their tales despite not having an "official" position within the government, thus you can readily observe that even though this person claims to be an "independent" author he is still hammering out propaganda for his masters.

BBC now admits al qaeda never existed - video

FYI: The India Mumbai attacks were completely a MOSSAD operation, how they got the Pakistani agents to play along will probably never be known. I believe that what one of the Mossad's most secretive BlackOps project is instigating some disillusioned Muslim youth in India, Pakistan or elsewhere to take to terror by playing on Muslim grievances, operating through existing Islamist groups or spawning new ones for this purpose. With the aim to further radicalize Muslims so as to provide further pretext for American and Israeli assaults on Islam and Muslim countries.

Telltale signs were everywhere, the huge fuss over the Jewish hostages/victims at the Israeli Nariman House who had for some odd reason ordered 100 kilograms of food days before the "attack" as if they knew ahead of time that would be the location the "terrorists" would hole up at, passports and plans left behind to provide easy identification of the "villains", professional military precision execution of the entire event, oh yes the whole operation stinks of Mossad. End result: Golly gee whiz, they got India deeply into the whole "anti-terrorism bandwagon" big time, just like all the other countries that were systematically destabilized, took their turns in getting attacked by "terrorists." Its official now: Terrorism is an international plague.

Here is a perfect example how the Mossad rolls... and how other governments look the other way and stay silent:

Mossad Assassination Squad Used British Passports

Times Online, February 16, 2010

Six suspects in the assassination of a senior Hamas official in Dubai entered the country using British passports, it emerged yesterday.

Police in the Gulf state announced that they were hunting for 11 suspects, including a woman, for the murder of Mahmoud al-Mabhouh, a top Hamas commander, who was found dead in his Dubai hotel room on January 20.

Six of these suspects were travelling on British passports and three were carrying Irish passports, including the woman. The other two entered Dubai with German and French passports.

“We have no doubts that it was 11 people holding these passports, and we regret that they used the travel documents of friendly countries,” said Lieutenant-General Dhafi Khalfan, Dubai’s chief of police.

Hamas has accused Mossad, the Israeli intelligence service, of responsibility for the killing. General Khalfan said that Israeli involvement could not be ruled out. “We do not rule out Mossad, but when we arrest those suspects we will know who masterminded it,” he said.

General Khalfan said that details of the 11 suspects had been passed to Interpol and that arrest warrants would be issued soon.

Ehud Olmert, the former Israeli Prime Minister, in a speech at the weekend, alluded to a report in The Times on Saturday that Mossad was waging a covert war of assassinations across the Middle East, targeting Hamas and Iranian officials.

“There are a huge range of options between a full military attack and accepting a nuclear Iran,” Mr. Olmert said. “There are other means that, together with other things happening, and they are happening, can create a result that would not allow the Iranians to reach what they are trying to reach.”

One former Mossad agent confirmed that the organization regularly used foreign passports for travel abroad on secret missions. “Sometimes these were legitimate passports of people who held dual citizenship, other times they were acquired,” he said. “An Israeli passport raises red flags and is best avoided.”

He said that he did not know if Israel was involved in the Dubai murder or had used foreign passports there. Israeli agents have been responsible for numerous assassinations in Europe and across the Middle East over the past 40 years, often posing as foreigners. In 2004 the authorities in New Zealand disclosed that Mossad was securing their country’s passports through the Israeli Embassy in Australia. During a trial in Auckland, allegations also surfaced that Mossad was using Canadian passports.

Mr. al-Mabhouh’s body was discovered by staff at the luxury al-Bustan Rotana hotel on the afternoon of January 20. Based in Damascus, he too entered Dubai on a false passport the day before his murder. He was one of the founders of the Izzedine al-Qassam Brigades, the military wing of Hamas, and is understood to have visited Dubai to arrange a shipment of weapons to Gaza.

Mr. al-Mabhouh was born in northern Gaza. In a video aired more than two weeks after his death he confessed to his involvement in the kidnap and murder of two Israeli soldiers during the first Palestinian intifada in 1989. He is believed to have masterminded the attempted smuggling of weapons into Gaza through Sudan last year before the convoy involved was blown up by Israeli jets while still in Africa.

Details of the method of his murder remain unclear. In January Dubai police said that Mr. al-Mabhouh appeared to have allowed his killers into his hotel room, where he was suffocated or strangled. One report suggested that the killer gained entry to his room because the woman member was dressed in a hotel uniform. He was reported to have been electrocuted and poisoned. Hamas has vowed to avenge the assassination.

'UK knew about Mossad assassination plot'

Press TV, Fri, 19 Feb 2010

Israel's Mossad had tipped off British intelligence that they were going to use fake British passports before the assassination of the Hamas commander, a new report says.

According to a report by the Daily Mail on Friday morning, the British intelligence agency the MI6 was notified before the assassination took place in Dubai last month.

The UK newspaper published the report several hours following a 20-minute meeting between the Israeli Ambassador Ron Prosor and a senior British diplomat in London on Thursday. The two officials discussed the British passports apparently used in the assassination of Mabhouh in Dubai.

A British security source quoted a Mossad agent as saying that "the British Government was told very, very briefly before the operation what was going to happen," the paper further added.

"There was no British involvement and they didn't know the name of the target. But they were told these people were traveling on UK passports," the Daily Mail quoted the British security source as saying.

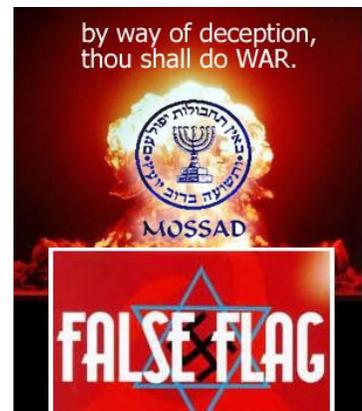

On Thursday, Dubai Police chief Dahi Khalfan Tamim said he was 99-percent certain that the Mossad was behind the assassination.

Tamim said he would ask Interpol to issue an international arrest warrant against Mossad head Meir Dagan, and perhaps also against Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu if it's proven that the Israeli intelligence agency was behind the assassination of Mabhouh.

Mabhouh, a senior commander in the armed wing of the Islamic movement, was killed in his hotel room on January 19 in Dubai by a hit squad of at least 11 people carrying forged European passports, according to the Dubai police.

Hmmm... where was it I heard of a bunch of supposed terrorists attacked using fake passports? Oh yes, the 9/11 attacks. The exact same modus operandi...

"Psychotic Israelis Get Sloppy In Mexico City. As reported by La Vox De Atzlan, two men posing as press photographers, but in reality being Israeli Mossad agents, were arrested INSIDE the Mexican congress on October 10, 2001 armed with 9mm pistols, 9 grenades, explosives, three detonators, and 58 bullets, but were RELEASED from custody because of pressure from the Israeli embassy." We believe that the two Zionists terrorist were going to blow up the Mexican Congress. The second phase was to mobilize both the Mexican and US press to blame Osama bin Laden. Most likely then Mexico would declare war on Afghanistan as well, commit troops and all the oil it could spare to combat Islamic terrorism." The Jewish terrorists names were Salvador Guersson Smecke (retired Israeli I.D.F. colonel), age 34, and Saur Ben Zvi, age 27. These terrorists were released because of a very high level emergency meetings took place between Mexican." – TheInfoUnderground.com

People, those who can see through the hype, who can see through the smoke and mirrors, what are we to say and do to reveal the evidence and make it more clear? The Zionist & Masonic elite have been consolidating power on the "fear ticket". The sheeple of the United States of Amnesia quickly forget any doubts they have and go right back to grazing in the fields while the wolves in sheep's clothing are running the entire farm. They run our government, the military and our police force, screw the poor while lavishing insane benefits upon the rich. I truly find it hard to believe we will win this battle, but yet we cannot lose faith, with the amazing unchallenged power they wield they are getting so arrogant and bold that they are increasingly not even bothering to hide their actions.

Entrapment likely issue in Chicago bomb plot

By MICHAEL TARM, Associated Press Writer Michael Tarm, Associated Press Writer –Sept 22

CHICAGO – As prosecutors take up the challenge of trying to convict a man arrested in an alleged bomb plot in Chicago, they may have to show the suspect wasn't egged on by an informant or undercover FBI agents into a crime he didn't initially intend to commit.

Sami Samir Hassoun, 22, was arrested Sunday after he placed a backpack authorities say he thought contained a bomb near Chicago's Wrigley Field. The fake but ominous-looking device — a paint can fitted with blasting caps and a timer — was given to him by an FBI undercover agent.

Hassoun's attorney, Myron Auerbach, said Tuesday he needed to study the case further before deciding on a defense strategy. But he left open the possibility of citing entrapment.

"My client didn't bring anything of his own making to the incident. Things were given to him," he said.

Through their deeds, the democrats have also revealed the fact that they are 100% in league with the agenda of the Zionist republican neo-cons, it is increasingly obvious that both parties serve the same masters. It is becoming "in your face" blatantly obvious that this nation's so called "independent" news media is just a puppet propaganda arm of our government and the Zionists spewing out pre-canned bullshit designed for the consumption of the brain dead masses. It is becoming increasingly accepted that all the politicians are just whores who pimp themselves out to the highest bidders, taking money from all sorts of people and corporations as legalized bribery then turn around and give the rest of us lip service.

Terrorism: The Most Meaningless and Manipulated Word

by Glenn Greenwald

Yesterday, Joseph Stack deliberately flew an airplane into a building housing IRS offices in Austin, Texas, in order to advance the political grievances he outlined in a perfectly cogent suicide-manifesto. Stack's worldview contained elements of the tea party's anti-government anger along with substantial populist complaints generally associated with "the Left" (rage over bailouts, the suffering of America's poor, and the pilfering of the middle class by a corrupt economic elite and their government-servants). All of that was accompanied by an argument as to why violence was justified (indeed necessary) to protest those injustices:

I remember reading about the stock market crash before the "great" depression and how there were wealthy bankers and businessmen jumping out of windows when they realized they screwed up and lost everything. Isn't it ironic how far we've come in 60 years in this country that they now know how to fix that little economic problem; they just steal from the middle class (who doesn't have any say in it, elections are a joke) to cover their asses and it's "business-as-usual" . . . Sadly, though I spent my entire life trying to believe it wasn't so, but violence not only is the answer, it is the only answer.

Despite all that, The New York Times' Brian Stelter documents the deep reluctance of cable news chatterers and government officials to label the incident an act of "terrorism," even though -- as Dave Neiwert ably documents -- it perfectly fits, indeed is a classic illustration of, every official definition of that term. The issue isn't whether Stack's grievances are real or his responses just; it is that the act unquestionably comports with the official definition. But as NBC's Pete Williams said of the official insistence that this was not an act of Terrorism: there are "a couple of reasons to say that . . . One is he's an American citizen." Fox News' Megan Kelley asked Catherine Herridge about these denials: "I take it that they mean terrorism in the larger sense that most of us are used to?," to which Herridge replied: "they mean terrorism in that capital T way."

All of this underscores, yet again, that Terrorism is simultaneously the single most meaningless and most manipulated word in the American political lexicon. The term now has virtually nothing to do with the act itself and everything to do with the identity of the actor, especially his or her religious identity. It has really come to mean: "a Muslim who fights against or even expresses hostility towards the United States, Israel and their allies." That's why all of this confusion and doubt arose yesterday over whether a person who perpetrated a classic act of Terrorism should, in fact, be called a Terrorist: he's not a Muslim and isn't acting on behalf of standard Muslim grievances against the U.S. or Israel, and thus does not fit the "definition." One might concede that perhaps there's some technical sense in which term might apply to Stack, but as Fox News emphasized: it's not "terrorism in the larger sense that most of us are used to . . . terrorism in that capital T way." We all know who commits terrorism in "that capital T way," and it's not people named Joseph Stack.

Contrast the collective hesitance to call Stack a Terrorist with the extremely dubious circumstances under which that term is reflexively applied to Muslims. If a Muslim attacks a military base preparing to deploy soldiers to a war zone, that person is a Terrorist. If an American Muslim argues that violence against the U.S. (particularly when aimed at military targets) is justified due to American violence aimed at the Muslim world, that person is a Terrorist who deserves assassination. And if the U.S. military invades a Muslim country, Muslims who live in the invaded and occupied country and who fight back against the invading American army -- by attacking nothing but military targets -- are also Terrorists. Indeed, large numbers of detainees at Guantanamo were accused of being Terrorists for nothing more than attacking members of an invading foreign army in their country, including 14-year-old Mohamed Jawad, who spent many years in Guantanamo, accused \(almost certainly falsely\) of throwing a grenade at two American troops in Afghanistan who were part of an invading force in that country. Obviously, plots targeting civilians for death -- the 9/11 attacks and attempts to blow up civilian aircraft -- are pure terrorism, but a huge portion of the acts committed by Muslims that receive that label are not.

In sum: a Muslim who attacks military targets, including in war zones or even in their own countries that have been invaded by a foreign army, are Terrorists. A non-Muslim who flies an airplane into a government building in pursuit of a political agenda is not, or at least is not a Real Terrorist with a capital T -- not the kind who should be tortured and thrown in a cage with no charges and assassinated with no due process. Nor are Christians who stand outside abortion clinics and murder doctors and clinic workers. Nor are acts undertaken by us or our favored allies designed to kill large numbers of civilians or which will recklessly cause such deaths as a means of terrorizing the population into desired behavioral change -- the Glorious Shock and Awe campaign and the pummeling of Gaza. Except as a means for demonizing Muslims, the word is used so inconsistently and manipulatively that it is impoverished of any discernible meaning.

All of this would be an interesting though not terribly important semantic matter if not for the fact that the term Terrorist plays a central role in our political debates. It is the all-justifying term for anything the U.S. Government does. Invasions, torture, due-process-free detentions, military commissions, drone attacks, warrantless surveillance, obsessive secrecy, and even assassinations of American citizens are all justified by the claim that it's only being done to "Terrorists," who, by definition, have no rights. Even worse, one becomes a "Terrorist" not through any judicial adjudication or other formal process, but solely by virtue of the untested, unchecked say-so of the Executive Branch. The President decrees someone to be a Terrorist and that's the end of that: uncritical followers of both political parties immediately justify anything done to the person on the ground that he's a Terrorist (by which they actually mean: he's been accused of being one, though that distinction -- between presidential accusations and proof -- is not one they recognize).

If we're really going to vest virtually unlimited power in the Government to do anything it wants to people they call "Terrorists," we ought at least to have a common understanding of what the term means. But there is none. It's just become a malleable, all-justifying term to allow the U.S. Government carte blanche to do whatever it wants to Muslims it does not like or who do not like it (i.e., The Terrorists). It's really more of a hypnotic mantra than an actual word: its mere utterance causes the nation blindly to cheer on whatever is done against the Muslims who are so labeled.

UPDATE: I want to add one point: the immediate official and media reaction was to avoid, even deny, the term "terrorist" because the perpetrator of the violence wasn't Muslim. But if Stack's manifesto begins to attract serious attention, I think it's likely the term Terrorist will be decisively applied to him in order to discredit what he wrote. His message is a sharply anti-establishment and populist grievance of the type that transcends ideological and partisan divisions -- the complaints which Stack passionately voices are found as common threads in the tea party movement and among citizens on both the Left and on the Right -- and thus tend to be the type which the establishment (which benefits from high levels of partisan distractions and divisions) finds most threatening and in need of demonization. Nothing is more effective at demonizing something than slapping the Terrorist label onto it. – [note: more on Joe Stack in the Conclusions chapter]

The scary part is that once you fully understand the premise of the FAIRY TALE they will have you believe, that the (dead) Bin Laden they stopped looking for years ago, operating out of a dark cave in the mountains of some god forsaken place thousands of miles away will yet AGAIN outsmart and outmaneuver the world's preeminent most sophisticated intelligence and unsurpassed defense apparatus the planet has ever known to exist... yet:

CAN YOU AND DO YOU FULLY UNDERSTAND THE RAMIFICATIONS OF:

- 1) al-CIAda is a super secret Mossad/CIA BlackOps false flag joint venture.
- 2) the universal echoing cry from all areas of our government is the same: "al-CIAda is soon going to strike bigger and badder than ever here at home."
- 3) watch out for the game has been set... our government BlackOps false flag divisions will soon be conducting more "DRILLS" that will become LIVE in a neighborhood near you and blow the fuck out of entire towns if not cities in order to open the door and implement the NEXT PHASE of their new world order plans. BTW, don't be surprised if they come up with a new and improved boogeyman (maybe bio-terrorism or manmade plagues) to replace their "stiff", the dead as a doornail Bin Laden...

Oh, the CHAOS this will unleash. Soon everyone in this country will be shitting in their pants, sucking on their thumbs while crying for protection from THE BOOGEYMAN!!! Get ready to say good bye to the world as you have come to know it. Be afraid... be very afraid...

Furthermore, after all these years the FBI has not uncovered any Al Qaeda cells in the United States nor has it found any paper trail or hard evidence connecting Osama Bin Laden (OBL) to 9/11. Although thousands of Muslims have been arrested, not one has been convicted of acts of terrorism. There have been many arrests of Muslims for alleged "intentions" to commit terrorism and there are also many cases where FBI agent provocateurs were used to plant evidence and lead terror campaigns setting up Muslims to be charged for acts of terrorism. This has caused legal actions to be brought against the FBI. It also begs the question that if indeed Muslims were so prone to commit terrorism, why did the FBI have to conduct subversive operations designed to lead and entrap Muslims in acts of terror?

The London Times reported the following one year after 9/11 and it is still true today:

"Thousands of FBI agents have rounded up more than 1,300 suspects across America since September 11, but they have failed to find a single Al-Qaeda cell operating in the United States...Tom Ridge, Director of Homeland Security could not explain why none had been caught."

Fake Al Qaeda

"The truth is, there is no Islamic army or terrorist group called Al Qaida. And any informed intelligence officer knows this. But there is a propaganda campaign to make the public believe in the presence of an identified entity representing the 'devil' only in order to drive the TV watcher to accept a unified international leadership for a war against terrorism. The country behind this propaganda is the US . . ." -- Former British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook

"Ana raicha Al Qaeda" is colloquial for "I'm going to the toilet". A very common and widespread use of the word "Al-Qaeda" in different Arab countries in the public language is for the toilet bowl. This name comes from the Arabic verb "Qa'ada" which mean "to sit", pertinently, on the "Toilet Bowl". In most Arabs homes there are two kinds of toilets: "Al-Qaeda" also called the "Hamam Franji" or foreign toilet, and "Hamam Arabi" or "Arab toilet" which is a hole in the ground. Lest we forget it, the potty used by small children is called "Ma Qa'adia" or "Little Qaeda".

So, if you were forming a terrorist group, would you call yourself, "The Toilet"?

Sent in by a reader: I recently saw the article you linked about Adam Pearlman and his brand new feature film in which he plays the character Azzam Al-Amrika. As someone who speaks Arabic, I thought it would be interesting for WRH readers to know a little bit about this particular name. First, Azzam in Arabic means either "determined" or "resolved". Second, "Al-Amrika" (it's sometimes spelled "Amerika") translates back to "America". Interesting use of words Mr. Pearlman is using for a name, I'd say. But even without having to translate the whole name, no Arab has the last name of Amrika. The name, translated, almost sounds like a Bush sound bite.

- Video of a puppet show lampooning U.S. soldiers killed in Iraq;
- The latest speech from Sheikh Abdullah Faisal, an extremist Muslim cleric convicted in the UK and later deported for soliciting the murder of non-Muslims.

Even more surprising is that RevolutionMuslim.com isn't being maintained in some remote safe house in Pakistan. Instead, Yousef al-Khattab, the Web site creator, runs it from his home in the New York City Borough of Queens.

Formerly known as Joseph Cohen, al-Khattab is an American-born Jew who converted to Islam after attending an Orthodox Rabbinical school, which he later described as a "racist cult."

Al-Qaeda cleric exposed as an MI5 double agent

ONE of al-Qaeda's most dangerous figures has been revealed as a double agent working for MI5, raising criticism from European governments, which repeatedly called for his arrest.

Britain ignored warnings - which began before the September 11 attacks - from half a dozen friendly governments about Abu Qatada's links with terrorist groups and refused to arrest him. Intelligence chiefs hid from European allies their intention to use the cleric as a key informer against Islamic militants in Britain.

Indignant French officials accused MI5 of helping the cleric to abscond. While he remained on the run, one intelligence chief in Paris was quoted as saying: "British intelligence is saying they have no idea where he is, but we know where he is and, if we know, I'm quite sure they do."

Iraqi sources reported that the Iraqi police were watching the two, and when they tried to approach them they shot two policemen and tried to escape the scene. The Iraqi police chased and captured them, to discover large amount of explosives planted in the car, which apparently was planned to be remotely detonated in the busy market of Basra. The SAS involvement in Iraq was discovered on the 30th of January 2005 when an RAF Hercules plane crashed near Baghdad killing then British servicemen after dropping off fifty SAS members

Terrorist Group Islam4UK With Alleged Ties To Al Queda Exposed As Intelligence Front

by Alexander Higgins - September 27, 2010 at 9:02 pm - Permalink

Evidence surfaces exposing Islam4UK, a supposed Islamic extremist group with ties to Al Queda that has been banned in the UK for promoting terrorism on the streets and online, as a British Intelligence front.

American's and citizens of other nations around the world sit quietly as their fellow citizens' rights are violated in the name of the "War on Terror". Meanwhile Wall Street has become so corrupt the banks foreclosing on homes they don't even have a mortgage against and the U.S Supreme court has legalized a whole array of civil liberties violations including the legalization of CIA abduction, overseas detention, and torture of innocent American citizens.

Why have we allowed the Government to kidnap us and torture us? Why have we allowed the courts to rule that private property is no longer private?

Because the media continues to run stories we know are lies and that we believe without even questioning. We have all seen that radical Muslims on CNN and other main stream media outlets.

For example, watch this video of group of Muslims known as Islam4UK protesting the Afghanistan war.

Britain banned the group and made it a criminal offense to be a member of or to even use the name of the group Islam4UK. I guess such a ban is one step above the pentagon buying and burning every copy of a book because it contained evidence that proved the Government covered up 9/11.

Islam4UK Islamist group banned under terror laws

A radical Islamist group that planned a march through Wootton Bassett will be banned under counter-terrorism laws, Home Secretary Alan Johnson has said.

Islam4UK had planned the protest at the Wiltshire town to honour Muslims killed in the Afghanistan conflict.

The government had been considering outlawing the group under its original name, al-Muhajiroun.

Under the Terrorism Act 2000, a group can be banned if it "commits or participates in acts of terrorism, prepares for, promotes or encourages terrorism or is otherwise concerned in terrorism".

Groups can also be outlawed if they “unlawfully glorify the commission or preparation of acts of terrorism”.

Read the Original Article.

So just who is Islam4UK? According to the BBC:

Profile: Islam4UK

Al-Muhajiroun, also known as Islam4UK, was the group that claimed it would march through Wootton Bassett. Now the group faces a UK ban on grounds of national security.

Al-Muhajiroun, in its various forms, is an important part of the story of Islamist anger and the line between politics, protest and national security.

The organisation is made up of a small band of tight-knit young men who advocate a worldwide Islamist system of government and, at the same time, vehemently denounce the foreign policies of the US and UK.

It has had a knack of staging attention-grabbing stunts with its leaders adept at finding ways of provoking a backlash from the press and some politicians. Now that tactic of agitation and provocation has led to its ban under terrorism laws.

Al-Muhajiroun was originally formed by Omar Bakri Mohammed, the extremist preacher. He founded the organisation after quitting another Islamist group, Hizb ut-Tahrir, which wasn't radical enough for his views. But what he took with him was its strategy of building a following by setting up cells of supporters in every town possible.

Press Release Sunday 10 Jan 2010

DECLARATION ON WOOTTON BASSETT PROCESSION

Having successfully highlighted the plight of Muslims in Afghanistan globally and having successfully engaged with thousands of ordinary people through our website and via blogs, phone calls, emails etc... on the reality of the conflict and our collective responsibility, we at islam4uk have decided, after consultation with others including our Sheikh Omar Bakri Muhammad, that no more could be achieved even if a procession were to take place in Wootton Bassett and in light of this we would like to announce today that there will no longer be a procession through this market town.

This does not mean that we will remain silent on the atrocities being committed in Afghanistan under the guise of fighting for freedom and democracy and it also does not mean that we will not continue to highlight the true cost of this war against Islam and Muslims called fighting terrorism. Nor will we stop exposing the CIA and ISI agencies which are carrying out bombing raids in public places and then seeking to blame those defending the life, honour and wealth of the Muslims. Rather we will continue our responsibility as Muslims of enjoining good and forbidding evil wherever and whenever we see it.

In this respect we once again appeal to the British public and in particular the families and friends of soldiers who have died or are currently involved in Afghanistan to engage with us in an honest dialogue. There is common ground between us. Just as you grieve the deaths of your sons and daughters, we too grieve the deaths of thousands of ordinary Muslim men, women and children, just as many of you are aware of the injustice and oppression being carried out by the US led alliance in Afghanistan (of which the UK is a part) and do not agree with your children being in this war, we too demand the immediate withdrawal of all British troops from this Muslim land.

...Just as Tony Blair has been exposed as a liar regarding Iraq and the so-called .weapons of mass destruction. for which he has the blood of hundreds of thousands of Muslims on his hands and for which he needs to pay, Gordon Brown wants us to believe that the security of the British public begins in Kabul and that the murder of people in Afghanistan will keep people here in the UK safe. Another blatant lie for which Gordon Brown must either immediately withdraw all British forces or resign for not being up to the job and for which the pen of history will record yet another Pinocchio.

...As for the proscription of Al-Muhajiroun and Islam4uk, which we understand that the parliament will be considering this week, I would like to make it clear that we never called for Islam because either Blair or Brown liked it or allowed it but rather because it is a divine obligation upon Muslims to collectively call for Islam and to invite the societies in which they live to adopt Islamic law and order as a way of life, which cannot and will never stop. Hence even if proscribed another platform with a new name will arise to continue to fulfil these divine obligations until the Shari.ah has been implemented.

...It seems that the government and media have begun to believe their own lies which they themselves invented about us. It.s a bit like creating Frankenstein and then becoming afraid of it. However, having already lost the debate on Afghanistan and been exposed on the concept of freedom and fighting .terrorism. the only option left for a bully who has no sound argument is to use force to ban and thereby try to silence his opponent.

So just to recap here, the group Islam4UK was banned for committing, participating, promoting, encouraging and/or unlawfully glorifying terrorists activities. Moreover, their protests and writings have been used repeatedly as a poster child for Islamic terrorist organizations in many corporate media propaganda pieces in the U.S. and Great Britain.

Take for example thjs CNN piece about Al Qaeda and Islam4uk.

Al Qaeda: A Global Threat?; Israeli/Palestinian Peace Process Still Stalled

CHRISTIANE AMANPOUR, HOST: The United States examines the accused Fort Hood gunman's ties to a radical cleric in Yemen. Are al Qaeda and its allies trying to stage a resurgence in the U.S., and in Europe? Is this their new frontier?

I'm Christiane Amanpour, and welcome to our program.

The killings at the U.S. military base at Fort Hood, as well as the ongoing debate on Afghanistan, have put al Qaeda back in the headlines and in the minds of counter-terrorists.

We talked to the State Department's ambassador at large for counterterrorism, Daniel Benjamin. It's his first television interview since taking office.

We'll also be talking with al Qaeda experts, Karen Greenberg and Thomas Hegghammer, who've been tracking global jihad for years.

In the United States anti-terror officials say that a suspect they arrested in September was planning attacks on the New York mass transit system. It's an eerie reminder of the Madrid train bombings of 2004 that killed nearly 200 people. And the so-called 7/7 suicide bombings on the London transit system which killed more than 50 people.

We focus on al Qaeda. Is it weakening, or does it have a new lease on life? We start with this report from CNN's Nic Robertson in London.

[Video Clip of Islam4K]

NIC ROBERTSON, CNN SENIOR INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENT (voice-over): They're an angry minority. Their goal, nothing short of Muslim domination of the United Kingdom, if not the world.

UNIDENTIFIED MALE: This poster is basically showing how we will transform Buckingham Palace into a local mosque for the Muslims.

ROBERTSON (on camera): And what happens to the Queen?

UNIDENTIFIED MALE: Well, the Queen, she'll have the choice. She can either become Muslim or she can leave the country.

ROBERTSON (voice-over): This man, Anjem Choudary, is their leader. He demands Islamic law known as Shari'ah to be the law of the land.

ANJEM CHOUDARY, ISLAM4UK: Drugs will be banned. Pornography will be banned. Gambling will be banned.

ROBERTSON: Choudary's strategy is to pit Muslims against everyone else to create tension.

CHOUDARY: We do expect to enter into a struggle, if you like, of words, and maybe even more than that, before we can see the fruition of the Shari'ah on the state level.

UNIDENTIFIED MALE: Muslims are here to say!

CROWD: Muslims are here to say!

ROBERTSON: Like Muslim radicals, Yusef Qutab (ph) and Yunis Abdullah Mohammed in New York, Choudary supports Osama bin Laden and justifies the 9/11 attacks. In fact, Choudary claims he was spreading the message of jihad, or holy war, even before 9/11.

CHOUDARY: I've been to New York a couple of times before 9/11. And even to the bible belt, I think they call it, in the Midwest. And you know it's about propagating Islam. I do believe that the Muslims of America are possibly five or 10 years behind in terms of the struggle that they're engaged in.

ROBERTSON (on camera): What Choudary is implying is that how radicalization evolves here in Britain and in Europe will in some part be a model for what the United States can expect. Here, terrorism officials say they're tracking about 30 serious terror plots.

The rest of the article continues to say how much these people love and praise Al-Qaeda, Bin-Ladin and the 9/11 attackers. The article goes on to point out the Islam4UK's connections with very popular Islamic Jihad sites online, that is sites that are pushing for Muslim holy war.

So... Islam4UK promotes terrorism and encourages others to take up the cause of killing innocent people and bomb public places.

But who are they? Is this even for real? If you were really engaging in such activities would you be bragging about it all over the internet, on CNN, BBC, and other news outlets were you are going to call attention to yourself from the authorities?

Absolutely not. So here's the twist.

Islam4UK Exposed As British Intelligence Front

Summary:

<http://wideshut.co.uk> – After just a small amount of research it is my belief that the much hyped Islam4UK group that proposed a march on Wootton Bassett, is actually a British Intelligence group hired by our corrupt government in order to cause further conflict between Muslims and Brits, to keep support for the wars high and to continue the trumped up threat of terrorism. Anjem Choudary is a unislamic fraud linked to Al-Mujaharoun, a group created by British Mi6 to fight the Serbians in the Kosovo war. Either it came back to bite us on the ass or he is still controlled by our own government! BNP and EDL supporters, and Islam4UK supporters are both dupes, being played like puppets by the new world order (global governance) agenda.

So really all of this propaganda and scare tactics is being pushed out by the British Intelligence. British Intelligence encouraging members of the public to take up Jihad and engage in terrorism. To assume that everyone who reads the propaganda pushed by this front will join the group and be exposed is absurd. Surely many who take up the cause will do it elsewhere.

So what the hell are they doing? Looks to me like Western Governments are funding a perpetual war on both sides. You can argue that these are the steps needed to capture those partaking in these kinds of activities, but by funding and pushing these types of activities the intelligence agencies are creating a grassroots movement that it simply can not control. That is unless they plan on waging the 2nd holocaust against the 1.5 billion Muslims.

They banned this group and since the group was really an intelligence front they did not argue against the censorship and what we refer to in America as our first amendment rights. Now the ban, which surely has enraged the public over the censorship, sets legal precedence for the Government to censor and shut down any other group they want. Sound familiar?

This is non-sense. All of it.

Evidence shows that there are Israeli Mossad double agents planted in Muslim countries who are operating terrorist training schools, fomenting and nurturing hate mongering Muslim wannabe terrorists, utilizing MK-ULTRA/ PROJECT ARTICHOKE hypnotic programming techniques. This is a very serious allegation I don't say without much thought and concern, but when you carefully analyze the Israeli operational motto of "by way of deception, thou shalt do war" fully understanding the scope and comprehend their PROVEN TRACK RECORD of false flag operations and impersonating terrorists one can only come to the same obvious conclusion. So don't be surprised if one day the information comes to see the light of day that the Israelis were in fact operating terrorist training camps. For without terrorists, there would be no pretext for war and conquest.

Times Square Bomber Linked With CIA-Controlled Terror Group

Paul Joseph Watson, Thursday, May 6, 2010

A man arrested in Pakistan in connection with the Times Square car bombing attempt who had traveled with accused bomber Faisal Shahzad is a member of a terrorist organization that is controlled by British MI6 and the CIA.

Sheik Mohammed Rehan, who was arrested on Tuesday in Karachi, "Allegedly drove with Shahzad from Karachi to Peshawar on July 7, 2009, in a pickup truck, authorities said. They returned to Karachi July 22. It is not known why they went to Peshawar and whether they met with anyone there,” reports the L.A. Times.

Rehan is a member of the militant group Jaish-e-Muhammad, a terrorist organization that came to prominence in the mid-1990’s and has been involved in attacks in the disputed Kashmir border region between India and Pakistan. The group also helped carry out the December 2001 attack on the Indian Parliament which brought India and Pakistan to the brink of nuclear war, tensions that proved very lucrative for British and American arms manufacturers who sold weapons to both sides.

“The December 2001 terrorist attacks on the Indian parliament — which contributed to pushing India and Pakistan to the brink of war — were conducted by two Pakistan-based rebel groups, Lashkar-e-Taiba and Jaish-e-Muhammad, both of which are covertly supported by Pakistan’s ISI,” writes Michel Chossudovsky. “Needless to say, these ISI-supported terrorist attacks serve the geopolitical interests of the US. They not only contribute to weakening and fracturing the Indian Union, they also create conditions which favor the outbreak of a regional war between Pakistan and India.”

Jaish-e-Muhammad, the group now emerging in connection with the Times Square incident, was founded by Ahmed Omar Saeed Sheikh, the 9/11 bagman who delivered $100,000 from the United Arab Emirates to Mohammed Atta at the behest of General Mahmud Ahmed, then head of the ISI. Mahmud Ahmed, the man who ordered Ahmed Omar Saeed Sheikh to bankroll the attacks on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center, was meeting with Republican Congressman Porter Goss and Democratic Senator Bob Graham in Washington DC on the morning of 9/11. In the days before and after the attack, Ahmed also met with CIA Head George Tenet as well as current Vice-President Joe Biden, then Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In a report on Jaish-e-Muhammad’s involvement in the murder of Daniel Pearl, who was investigating the ISI, the Pittsburgh Tribune-Review reported that the Pakistani government, “Believe that Saeed Sheikh’s power comes not from the ISI, but from his connections with our own CIA.”

Former Pakistan President Pervez Musharraf also alleged that Sheikh was recruited by MI6 while studying in London for the effort to destabilize Bosnia. During the 1992-1995 Bosnia conflict, the CIA helped Osama Bin Laden and Al-Qaeda to train and arm Bosnian Muslims.

In 2002, the London Times reported that Sheikh “is no ordinary terrorist but a man who has connections that reach high into Pakistan’s military and intelligence elite and into the innermost circles of Osama Bin Laden and the al-Qaeda organization.”

Despite Sheikh’s intimate involvement in numerous acts of terror as well as political kidnappings, including the 2008 Mumbai massacre, he was protected by both the CIA and British intelligence at every turn.

To recap, this is the man who founded the group now emerging in connection with the botched Times Square bombing – a CIA and MI6 asset.

“Experts believe Jaish-e-Muhammad still benefits from links with Pakistan’s powerful government intelligence community. Some experts believe Pakistan’s Inter-Services Intelligence agency facilitated the group’s formation,” states yesterday’s L.A. Times article.

As the vast majority of geopolitical analysts concur, the Pakistani ISI is virtually nothing more than a CIA outpost. The ISI does nothing without the Agency giving its approval. The CIA has paid millions of dollars to the ISI since 9/11, accounting for no less than a third of the ISI’s entire budget, despite the foreign spy agency’s notorious history of funding and arming terrorist groups like Jaish-e-Muhammad and despite the fact that it bankrolled the 9/11 hijackers.

Since the CIA has its fingerprints all over almost every Middle Eastern terror group, it’s unsurprising that an Agency connection to the Times Square bomber has come to light. We've never come across a terrorist who wasn't trained, equipped, radicalized, entrapped, or provocateured by a western intelligence agency or a terror group controlled by a western intelligence agency.

Bomb-Plot Informant Testifies FBI Sent Him to Terrorist Camp in Pakistan

By Chris Dolmetsch - Sep 16, 2010 5:42 PM ET

The confidential informant at the center of the case against four men accused of plotting to bomb New York City synagogues testified that the Federal Bureau of Investigation sent him to Pakistan in 2008 to attend a terrorist training camp.

The informant, Shahed Hussain, told a jury in New York today he went to his native country in December of that year to meet someone at the camp. He didn't identify the organization running the camp or discuss the result of the investigation.

"Are you a terrorist?" defense lawyer Susanne Brody asked Hussain in cross-examination.

"No ma'am," he responded.

Hussain was testifying during the second day of cross-examination by Brody, a lawyer with the federal public defender's office who is representing defendant Onta Williams.

Defense attorneys have argued that their clients are the victims of entrapment, poor men enticed into the plot with the promise of cars, cash and food by Hussain. – continued at: [Bloomberg.com]

One thing is certain: "Terrorism" is a new strategic pre-meditated, invented phenomena that is growing proportantly with government investment in "fighting" it... Not so long ago terrorism never existed, terrorism is a standard military strategy invented, utilized and perfected by the CIA to bring down target nations to their knees. The CIA entered the target nations, brought in tons of cash and weapons and taught simple minded useful idiots how to wage terrorism against their respective countries. This is NOT conspiracy theory. This is cold hard DOCUMENTED FACT that even the CIA has repeatedly admitted to. The era of the CIA and Mossad turning on the U.S. has come, now WE are the target nation. They have been breaking us down as they did dozens of other countries. Soon you will witness their end game once we are totally subjugated the rulers of men will take their places to preside over you all.

"All U.S. Taxpaying Citizens are a Threat!: There is much to study on this subject. It is not the scope of this particular article to go into the intricacies of the empire of Satan on earth- Judeo-Masonry. Yet as a bit more of a thought provoker though, as to what very well may behind the 9/11 massacre and their reason for it, think of what President Bush a (Skull and Bones Freemason) kept saying in the wake of the "Attack": "They (the Arabs 3,000 miles away) are trying to take away our freedom ... They are trying to take away our freedom!" (i.e. our normal freedom of movement (without having surveillance cameras on us), to travel aboard a plane (without being publically frisked in the terminal), to talk on our cell phones about politics etc., (without being electronically eavesdropped on by Verizon/AT&T/etc- in conjunction with the Department of Homeland "Security, NSA, CIA, FBI). Since Freemasonry is the opposite of order ... the opposite of good, hasn't Bush's post 9/11 Patriot Act-ions shown themselves to be just the opposite of protecting our "freedom" (privacy)? Is it far fetched to think that all Americans will one day be required to have a little mandatory trackable chip (the mark) to once and for all secure "our" "freedom??"

9/11 ANALYSIS: From Ronald Reagan and the Soviet-Afghan War to George W Bush and September 11, 2001

"The United States spent millions of dollars to supply Afghan schoolchildren with textbooks filled with violent images and militant Islamic teachings....The primers, which were filled with talk of jihad and featured drawings of guns, bullets, soldiers and mines, have served since then as the Afghan school system's core curriculum. Even the Taliban used the American-produced books,..", (Washington Post, 23 March 2002)

"Advertisements, paid for from CIA funds, were placed in newspapers and newsletters around the world offering inducements and motivations to join the [Islamic] Jihad." (Pervez Hoodbhoy, Peace Research, 1 May 2005)

"Bin Laden recruited 4,000 volunteers from his own country and developed close relations with the most radical mujahedeen leaders. He also worked closely with the CIA, ... Since September 11, [2001] CIA officials have been claiming they had no direct link to bin Laden." (Phil Gasper, International Socialist Review, November-December 2001)

- President Ronald Reagan met the leaders of the Islamic Jihad at the White House in 1985

-Under the Reagan administration, US foreign policy evolved towards the unconditional support and endorsement of the Islamic "freedom fighters". In today's World, the "freedom fighters" are labeled "Islamic terrorists".

-In the Pashtun language, the word "Taliban" means "Students", or graduates of the madrasahs (places of learning or coranic schools) set up by the Wahhabi missions from Saudi Arabia, with the support of the CIA.

-Education in Afghanistan in the years preceding the Soviet-Afghan war was largely secular. The US covert education destroyed secular education. The number of CIA sponsored religious schools (madrasahs) increased from 2,500 in 1980 to over 39,000.

The Soviet-Afghan war was part of a CIA covert agenda initiated during the Carter administration, which consisted in actively supporting and financing the Islamic brigades, later known as Al Qaeda.

The Pakistani military regime played from the outset in the late 1970s, a key role in the US sponsored military and intelligence operations in Afghanistan. In the post-Cold war era, this central role of Pakistan in US intelligence operations was extended to the broader Central Asia- Middle East region. From the outset of the Soviet Afghan war in 1979, Pakistan under military rule actively supported the Islamic brigades. In close liaison with the CIA, Pakistan's military intelligence, the Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI), became a powerful organization, a parallel government, wielding tremendous power and influence.

America's covert war in Afghanistan, using Pakistan as a launch pad, was initiated during the Carter administration prior to the Soviet "invasion":

"According to the official version of history, CIA aid to the Mujahideen began during 1980, that is to say, after the Soviet army invaded Afghanistan, 24 Dec 1979. But the reality, secretly guarded until now, is completely otherwise. Indeed, it was July 3, 1979 that President Carter signed the first directive for secret aid to the opponents of the pro-Soviet regime in Kabul. And that very day, I wrote a note to the president in which I explained to him that in my opinion this aid was going to induce a Soviet military intervention." (Former National Security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, Interview with Le Nouvel Observateur, 15-21 January 1998)

In the published memoirs of Defense Secretary Robert Gates, who held the position of deputy CIA Director at the height of the Soviet Afghan war, US intelligence was directly involved from the outset, prior to the Soviet invasion, in channeling aid to the Islamic brigades.

With CIA backing and the funneling of massive amounts of U.S. military aid, the Pakistani ISI had developed into a "parallel structure wielding enormous power over all aspects of government". (Dipankar Banerjee, "Possible Connection of ISI With Drug Industry", India Abroad, 2 December 1994). The ISI had a staff composed of military and intelligence officers, bureaucrats, undercover agents and informers, estimated at 150,000. (Ibid)

Meanwhile, CIA operations had also reinforced the Pakistani military regime led by General Zia Ul Haq:

"Relations between the CIA and the ISI had grown increasingly warm following [General] Zia's ouster of Bhutto and the advent of the military regime. ... During most of the Afghan war, Pakistan was more aggressively anti-Soviet than even the United States. Soon after the Soviet military invaded Afghanistan in 1980, Zia [ul Haq] sent his ISI chief to destabilize the Soviet Central Asian states. The CIA only agreed to this plan in October 1984." (Ibid)

The ISI operating virtually as an affiliate of the CIA, played a central role in channeling support to Islamic paramilitary groups in Afghanistan and subsequently in the Muslim republics of the former Soviet Union.

Acting on behalf of the CIA, the ISI was also involved in the recruitment and training of the Mujahideen. In the ten year period from 1982 to 1992, some 35,000 Muslims from 43 Islamic countries were recruited to fight in the Afghan jihad. The madrassas in Pakistan, financed by Saudi charities, were also set up with US support with a view to "inculcating Islamic values". "The camps became virtual universities for future Islamic radicalism," (Ahmed Rashid, The Taliban). Guerilla training under CIA-ISI auspices included targeted assassinations and car bomb attacks.

"Weapons' shipments "were sent by the Pakistani army and the ISI to rebel camps in the North West Frontier Province near the Afghanistan border. The governor of the province is Lieutenant General Fazle Haq, who [according to Alfred McCoy] . allowed "hundreds of heroin refineries to set up in his province." Beginning around 1982, Pakistani army trucks carrying CIA weapons from Karachi often pick up heroin in Haq's province and return loaded with heroin. They are protected from police search by ISI papers." (1982-1989: US Turns Blind Eye to BCCI and Pakistani Government Involvement in Heroin Trade See also McCoy, 2003, p. 477) .

Osama Bin Laden

Osama bin Laden, America's bogymen, was recruited by the CIA in 1979 at the very outset of the US sponsored jihad. He was 22 years old and was trained in a CIA sponsored guerilla training camp.

During the Reagan administration, Osama, who belonged to the wealthy Saudi Bin Laden family was put in charge of raising money for the Islamic brigades. Numerous charities and foundations were created. The operation was coordinated by Saudi intelligence, headed by Prince Turki al-Faisal, in close liaison with the CIA. The money derived from the various charities were used to finance the recruitment of Mujahideen volunteers. Al Qaeda, the base in Arabic was a data bank of volunteers who had enlisted to fight in the Afghan jihad. That data base was initially held by Osama bin Laden.

The Reagan Administration supports "Islamic Fundamentalism"

Pakistan's ISI was used as a "go-between". CIA covert support to the Mujahideen in Afghanistan operated indirectly through the Pakistani ISI, --i.e. the CIA did not channel its support directly to the Mujahideen. In other words, for these covert operations to be "successful", Washington was careful not to reveal the ultimate objective of the "jihad", which consisted in destroying the Soviet Union.

In December 1984, the Sharia Law (Islamic jurisprudence) was established in Pakistan following a rigged referendum launched by President Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq. Barely a few months later, in March 1985, President Ronald Reagan issued National Security Decision Directive 166 (NSDD 166), which authorized "stepped-up covert military aid to the Mujahideen" as well as support to religious indoctrination.

The imposition of The Sharia in Pakistan and the promotion of "radical Islam" was a deliberate US policy serving American geopolitical interests in South Asia, Central Asia and the Middle East. Many present-day "Islamic fundamentalist organizations" in the Middle East and Central Asia, were directly or indirectly the product of US covert support and financing, often channeled through foundations from Saudi Arabia and the Gulf States. Missions from the Wahhabi sect of conservative Islam in Saudi Arabia were put in charge of running the CIA sponsored madrassas in Northern Pakistan.

Under NSDD 166, a series of covert CIA-ISI operations was launched.

The US supplied weapons to the Islamic brigades through the ISI. CIA and ISI officials would meet at ISI headquarters in Rawalpindi to coordinate US support to the Mujahideen. Under NSDD 166, the procurement of US weapons to the Islamic insurgents increased from 10,000 tons of arms and ammunition in 1983 to 65,000 tons annually by 1987. "In addition to arms, training, extensive military equipment including military satellite maps and state-of-the-art communications equipment" (University Wire, 7 May 2002).

Ronald Reagan meets Afghan Mujahideen Commanders at the White House in 1985 (Reagan Archives) VIDEO

With William Casey as director of the CIA, NSDD 166 was described as the largest covert operation in US history:

The U.S. supplied support package had three essential components-organization and logistics, military technology, and ideological support for sustaining and encouraging the Afghan resistance....

U.S. counterinsurgency experts worked closely with the Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) in organizing Mujahideen groups and in planning operations inside Afghanistan.

... But the most important contribution of the U.S. was to ... bring in men and material from around the Arab world and beyond. The most hardened and ideologically dedicated men were sought on the logic that they would be the best fighters. Advertisements, paid for from CIA funds, were placed in newspapers and newsletters around the world offering inducements and motivations to join the Jihad. (Pervez Hoodbhoy, Afghanistan and the Genesis of the Global Jihad, Peace Research, 1 May 2005)

Religious Indoctrination

Under NSDD 166, US assistance to the Islamic brigades channeled through Pakistan was not limited to bona fide military aid. Washington also supported and financed by the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), the process of religious indoctrination, largely to secure the demise of secular institutions:

... the United States spent millions of dollars to supply Afghan schoolchildren with textbooks filled with violent images and militant Islamic teachings, part of covert attempts to spur resistance to the Soviet occupation.

The primers, which were filled with talk of jihad and featured drawings of guns, bullets, soldiers and mines, have served since then as the Afghan school system's core curriculum. Even the Taliban used the American-produced books,...

The White House defends the religious content, saying that Islamic principles permeate Afghan culture and that the books "are fully in compliance with U.S. law and policy." Legal experts, however, question whether the books violate a constitutional ban on using tax dollars to promote religion.

... AID officials said in interviews that they left the Islamic materials intact because they feared Afghan educators would reject books lacking a strong dose of Muslim thought. The agency removed its logo and any mention of the U.S. government from the religious texts, AID spokeswoman Kathryn Stratos said.

"It's not AID's policy to support religious instruction," Stratos said. "But we went ahead with this project because the primary purpose . . . is to educate children, which is predominantly a secular activity."

... Published in the dominant Afghan languages of Dari and Pashtun, the textbooks were developed in the early 1980s under an AID grant to the University of Nebraska -Omaha and its Center for Afghanistan Studies. The agency spent $ 51 million on the university's education programs in Afghanistan from 1984 to 1994." (Washington Post, 23 March 2002)

The Role of the NeoCons

There is continuity. The architects of the covert operation in support of "Islamic fundamentalism" launched during the Reagan presidency played a key role in launching the "Global War on Terrorism" in the wake of 9/11. Several of the NeoCons of the Bush Junior Administration were high ranking officials during the Reagan presidency.

Richard Armitage, was Deputy Secretary of State during George W. Bush's first term (2001-2004). He played a central key role in post 9/11 negotiations with Pakistan leading up to the October 2001 invasion of Afghanistan. During the Reagan era, he held the position of Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Policy. In this capacity, he played a key role in the implementation of NSDD 163 while also ensuring liaison with the Pakistani military and intelligence apparatus.

Meanwhile, Paul Wolfowitz was at the State Department in charge of a foreign policy team composed, among others, of Lewis Libby, Francis Fukuyama and Zalmay Khalilzad.

Wolfowitz's group was also involved in laying the conceptual groundwork of US covert support to Islamic parties and organizations in Pakistan and Afghanistan.

Secretary of Defence Robert Gates, who now serves the Obama administration, was also involved in setting the groundwork for CIA covert operations. He was appointed Deputy Director for Intelligence by Ronald Reagan in 1982, and Deputy Director of the CIA in 1986, a position which he held until 1989. Gates played a key role in the formulation of NSDD 163, which established a consistent framework for promoting Islamic fundamentalism and channeling covert support to the Islamic brigades. He was also involved in the Iran Contra scandal. .

The Iran Contra Operation

Richard Gates, Colin Powell and Richard Armitage, among others, were also involved in the Iran-Contra operation. Armitage was in close liaison with Colonel Oliver North. His deputy and chief anti-terrorist official Noel Koch was part of the team set up by Oliver North.

Of significance, the Iran-Contra operation was also tied into the process of channeling covert support to the Islamic brigades in Afghanistan. The Iran Contra scheme served several related foreign policy:

- 1) Procurement of weapons to Iran thereby feeding the Iraq-Iran war,
- 2) Support to the Nicaraguan Contras,
- 3) Support to the Islamic brigades in Afghanistan, channeled via Pakistan's ISI.

Following the delivery of the TOW anti-tank missiles to Iran, the proceeds of these sales were deposited in numbered bank accounts and the money was used to finance the Nicaraguan Contras. and the Mujahideen:

"The Washington Post reported that profits from the Iran arms sales were deposited in one CIA-managed account into which the U.S. and Saudi Arabia had placed $250 million apiece. That money was disbursed not only to the contras in Central America but to the rebels fighting Soviet troops in Afghanistan." (US News & World Report, 15 December 1986).

Although Lieutenant General Colin Powell, was not directly involved in the arms' transfer negotiations, which had been entrusted to Oliver North, he was among "at least five men within the Pentagon who knew arms were being transferred to the CIA." (The Record, 29 December 1986). In this regard, Powell was directly instrumental in giving the "green light" to lower-level officials in blatant violation of Congressional procedures. According to the New York Times, Colin Powell took the decision (at the level of military procurement), to allow the delivery of weapons to Iran:

"Hurriedly, one of the men closest to Secretary of Defense Weinberger, Maj. Gen. Colin Powell, bypassed the written "focal point system" procedures and ordered the Defense Logistics Agency [responsible for procurement] to turn over the first of 2,008 TOW missiles to the CIA., which acted as cutout for delivery to Iran" (New York Times, 16 February 1987)

Secretary of Defense Robert Gates was also implicated in the Iran-Contra Affair.

The Golden Crescent Drug Trade

The history of the drug trade in Central Asia is intimately related to the CIA's covert operations. Prior to the Soviet-Afghan war, opium production in Afghanistan and Pakistan was directed to small regional markets. There was no local production of heroin. (Alfred McCoy, Drug Fallout: the CIA's Forty Year Complicity in the Narcotics Trade. The Progressive, 1 August 1997).

Alfred McCoy's study confirms that within two years of the onslaught of the CIA operation in Afghanistan, "the Pakistan-Afghanistan borderlands became the world's top heroin producer." (Ibid) Various Islamic paramilitary groups and organizations were created. The proceeds of the Afghan drug trade, which was protected by the CIA, were used to finance the various insurgencies:

"Under CIA and Pakistani protection, Pakistan military and Afghan resistance opened heroin labs on the Afghan and Pakistani border. According to The Washington Post of May 1990, among the leading heroin manufacturers were Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, an Afghan leader who received about half of the covert arms that the U.S. shipped to Pakistan. Although there were complaints about Hekmatyar's brutality and drug trafficking within the ranks of the Afghan resistance of the day, the CIA maintained an uncritical alliance and supported him without reservation or restraint.

Once the heroin left these labs in Pakistan's northwest frontier, the Sicilian Mafia imported the drugs into the U.S., where they soon captured sixty percent of the U.S. heroin market. That is to say, sixty percent of the U.S. heroin supply came indirectly from a CIA operation. During the decade of this operation, the 1980s, the substantial DEA contingent in Islamabad made no arrests and participated in no seizures, allowing the syndicates a de facto free hand to export heroin. By contrast, a lone Norwegian detective, following a heroin deal from Oslo to Karachi, mounted an investigation that put a powerful Pakistani banker known as President Zia's surrogate son behind bars. The DEA in Islamabad got nobody, did nothing, stayed away.

Former CIA operatives have admitted that this operation led to an expansion of the Pakistan-Afghanistan heroin trade. In 1995 the former CIA Director of this Afghan operation, Mr. Charles Cogan, admitted sacrificing the drug war to fight the Cold War. "Our main mission was to do as much damage to the Soviets. We didn't really have the resources or the time to devote to an investigation of the drug trade," he told Australian television. "I don't think that we need to apologize for this. Every situation has its fallout. There was fallout in terms of drugs, yes, but the main objective was accomplished. The Soviets left Afghanistan." (Alfred McCoy, Testimony before the Special Seminar focusing on allegations linking CIA secret operations and drug trafficking-convened February 13, 1997, by Rep. John Conyers, Dean of the Congressional Black Caucus)

Lucrative Narcotics Trade in the Post Cold War Era

The drug trade has continued unabated during the post Cold war years. Afghanistan became the major supplier of heroin to Western markets, in fact almost the sole supplier: more than 90 percent of the heroin sold Worldwide originates in Afghanistan. This lucrative contraband is tied into Pakistani politics and the militarization of the Pakistani State. It also has a direct bearing on the structure of the Pakistani economy and its banking and financial institutions, which from the outset of the Golden Crescent drug trade have been involved in extensive money laundering operations, which are protected by the Pakistani military and intelligence apparatus:

According to the US State Department International Narcotics Control Strategy Report (2006) (quoted in Daily Times, 2 March 2006),

"Pakistani criminal networks play a central role in the transshipment of narcotics and smuggled goods from Afghanistan to international markets. Pakistan is a major drug-transit country. The proceeds of narcotics trafficking and funding for terrorist activities are often laundered by means of the alternative system called hawala..."

"Repeatedly, a network of private unregulated charities has also emerged as a significant source of illicit funds for international terrorist networks," the report pointed out. ... "

The hawala system and the charities are but the tip of the iceberg. According to the State Department report, "the State Bank of Pakistan has frozen more twenty years] a meager $10.5 million "belonging to 12 entities and individuals linked to Osama bin Laden, Al Qaeda or the Taliban". What the report fails to mention is that the bulk of the proceeds of the Afghan drug trade are laundered in bona fide Western banking institutions.

The Taliban Repress the Drug Trade

A major and unexpected turnaround in the CIA sponsored drug trade occurred in 2000.

The Taliban government which came to power in 1996 with Washington's support, implemented in 2000-2001 a far-reaching opium eradication program with the support of the United Nations which served to undermine a multibillion dollar trade. (For further details see, Michel Chossudovsky, America's War on Terrorism, Global Research, 2005).

In 2001 prior to the US-led invasion, opium production under the Taliban eradication program declined by more than 90 percent.

In the immediate wake of the US led invasion, the Bush administration ordered that the opium harvest not be destroyed on the fabricated pretext that this would undermine the military government of Pervez Musharraf.

"Several sources inside Capitol Hill noted that the CIA opposes the destruction of the Afghan opium supply because to do so might destabilize the Pakistani government of Gen. Pervez Musharraf. According to these sources, Pakistani intelligence had threatened to overthrow President Musharraf if the crops were destroyed. ...

"If they [the CIA] are in fact opposing the destruction of the Afghan opium trade, it'll only serve to perpetuate the belief that the CIA is an agency devoid of morals; off on their own program rather than that of our constitutionally elected government" .\(NewsMax.com, 28 March 2002\)

Since the US led invasion, opium production has increased 33 fold from 185 tons in 2001 under the Taliban to 6100 tons in 2006. Cultivated areas have increased 21 fold since the 2001 US-led invasion. (Michel Chossudovsky, Global Research, 6 January 2006)

In 2007, Afghanistan supplied approximately 93% of the global supply of heroin. The proceeds (in terms of retail value) of the Afghanistan drug trade are estimated (2006) to be in excess of 190 billion dollars a year, representing a significant fraction of the global trade in narcotics.(Ibid)

The proceeds of this lucrative multibillion dollar contraband are deposited in Western banks. Almost the totality of the revenues accrue to corporate interests and criminal syndicates outside Afghanistan.

The laundering of drug money constitutes a multibillion dollar activity, which continues to be protected by the CIA and the ISI. In the wake of the 2001 US invasion of Afghanistan.

In retrospect, one of the major objectives of the 2001 invasion of Afghanistan was to restore the drug trade.

The militarization of Pakistan serves powerful political, financial and criminal interests underlying the drug trade. US foreign policy tends to support these powerful interests. The CIA continues to protect the Golden Crescent narcotics trade. Despite his commitment to eradicating the drug trade, opium production under the regime of Afghan President Hamid Karzai has skyrocketed.

The Assassination of General Zia Ul-Haq

In August 1988, President Zia was killed in an air crash together with US Ambassador to Pakistan Arnold Raphel and several of Pakistan's top generals. The circumstances of the air crash remain shrouded in mystery.

Following Zia's death, parliamentary elections were held and Benazir Bhutto was sworn in as Prime Minister in December 1988. She was subsequently removed from office by Zia's successor, President Ghulam Ishaq Khan on the grounds of alleged corruption. In 1993, she was re-elected and was again removed from office in 1996 on the orders of President Farooq Leghari.

Continuity has been maintained throughout. Under the short-lived post-Zia elected governments of Nawaz Sharif and Benazir Bhutto, the central role of the military-intelligence establishment and its links to Washington were never challenged.

Both Benazir Bhutto and Nawaz Sharif served US foreign policy interests. While in power, both democratically elected leaders, nonetheless supported the continuity of military rule. As prime minister from 1993 to 1996, Benazir Bhutto "advocated a conciliatory policy toward Islamists, especially the Taliban in Afghanistan" which were being supported by Pakistan's ISI (See F. William Engdahl, Global Research, January 2008)

Benazir Bhutto's successor as Prime Minister, Mia Muhammad Nawaz Sharif of the Pakistan Muslim League (PML) was deposed in 1999 in a US supported coup d'Etat led by General Pervez Musharraf.

The 1999 coup was instigated by General Pervez Musharraf, with the support of the Chief of General Staff, Lieutenant General Mahmoud Ahmad, who was subsequently appointed to the key position of head of military intelligence (ISI).

From the outset of the Bush administration in 2001, General Ahmad developed close ties not only with his US counterpart CIA director George Tenet, but also with key members of the US government including Secretary of State Colin Powell, Deputy Secretary of State Richard Armitage, not to mention Porter Goss, who at the time was Chairman of the House Committee on Intelligence. Ironically, Mahmoud Ahmad is also known, according to a September 2001 FBI report, for his suspected role in supporting and financing the alleged 9/11 terrorists as well as his links to Al Qaeda and the Taliban. (See Michel Chossudovsky, America's "war on Terrorism, Global Research, Montreal, 2005)

Concluding Remarks

These various "terrorist" organizations were created as a result of CIA support. They are not the product of religion. The project to establish "a pan-Islamic Caliphate" is part of a carefully devised intelligence operation.

CIA support to Al Qaeda was not in any way curtailed at the end of the Cold War. In fact quite the opposite. The earlier pattern of covert support took on a global thrust and became increasingly sophisticated.

The "Global War on Terrorism" is a complex and intricate intelligence construct. The covert support provided to "Islamic extremist groups" is part of an imperial agenda. It purports to weaken and eventually destroy secular and civilian governmental institutions, while also contributing to vilifying Islam. It is an instrument of colonization which seeks to undermine sovereign nation-states and transform countries into territories.

For the intelligence operation to be successful, however, the various Islamic organizations created and trained by the CIA must remain unaware of the role they are performing on the geopolitical chessboard, on behalf of Washington.

Over the years, these organizations have indeed acquired a certain degree of autonomy and independence, in relation to their US-Pakistani sponsors. That appearance of "independence", however, is crucial; it is an integral part of the covert intelligence operation. According to former CIA agent Milton Beardman the Mujahideen were invariably unaware of the role they were performing on behalf of Washington. In the words of bin Laden (quoted by Beardman): "neither I, nor my brothers saw evidence of American help". (Weekend Sunday (NPR); Eric Weiner, Ted Clark; 16 August 1998).

"Motivated by nationalism and religious fervor, the Islamic warriors were unaware that they were fighting the Soviet Army on behalf of Uncle Sam. While there were contacts at the upper levels of the intelligence hierarchy, Islamic rebel leaders in theatre had no contacts with Washington or the CIA." (Michel Chossudovsky, America's War on Terrorism, Chapter 2).

The fabrication of "terrorism" --including covert support to terrorists-- is required to provide legitimacy to the "war on terrorism".

The various fundamentalist and paramilitary groups involved in US sponsored "terrorist" activities are "intelligence assets". In the wake of 9/11, their designated function as "intelligence assets" is to perform their role as credible "enemies of America."

Under the Bush administration, the CIA continued to support (via Pakistan's ISI) several Pakistani based Islamic groups. The ISI is known to support Jamaat a-Islami, which is also present in South East Asia, Lashkar-e-Tayyaba, Jihad a-Kashmiri, Hizbul-Mujahidin and Jaish-e-Mohammed.

The Islamic groups created by the CIA are also intended to rally public support in Muslim countries. The underlying objective is to create divisions within national societies throughout the Middle East and Central Asia, while also triggering sectarian strife within Islam, ultimately with a view to curbing the development of a broad based secular mass resistance, which would challenge US imperial ambitions.

This function of an outside enemy is also an essential part of war propaganda required to galvanize Western public opinion. Without an enemy, a war cannot be fought. US foreign policy needs to fabricate an enemy, to justify its various military interventions in the Middle East and Central Asia. An enemy is required to justify a military agenda, which consists in "going after Al Qaeda". The fabrication and vilification of the enemy are required to justify military action.

The existence of an outside enemy sustains the illusion that the "war on terrorism" is real. It justifies and presents military intervention as a humanitarian operation based on the right to self-defense. It upholds the illusion of a "conflict of civilizations." The underlying purpose ultimately is to conceal the real economic and strategic objectives behind the broader Middle East Central Asian war.

Historically, Pakistan has played a central role in "war on terrorism". Pakistan constitutes from Washington's standpoint a geopolitical hub. It borders onto Afghanistan and Iran. It has played a crucial role in the conduct of US and allied military operations in Afghanistan as well as in the context of the Pentagon's war plans in relation to Iran.

The often repeated mission of America in virtually every instance that it has attacked, invaded and occupied tens of dozens of countries, until they setup a "friendly regime" (i.e. a puppet partner state) has been the premise of "spreading Democracy"... The evidence is very clear at this point in history, for now the big picture is almost complete, what was propagandized to all as "spreading Democracy" was all a thinly veiled red herring for the ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of all the worlds countries.

Today there are only a few "evil" holdouts and plans are on the works to ~~invade~~, ummm "bring Democracy" to their countries with a blizzard of bombs and guns blazing... They will bring them to their knees, then they shall sign off on the rights to their lands and resources, buy our goods, teach our way of life, and most importantly: become a humble subservient member of the global economic order...

ISLAMOPHOBIA:

Israel's Most Cherished Weapon of Mass Destruction Destined to Destroy the West if Not Stopped

Yes, it certainly paints a frightening picture for sure. The inhabitants of the most powerful countries in the world—militarily and economically speaking—transformed into sub-humanoids, bled completely dry of all the characteristics distinguishing them as members of a higher, more intelligent species and who now roam the earth in search of healthy, uninfected people so they can eat them...

No, I am not talking about the storyline from the movie I Am Legend starring Will Smith (a screen shot of which is featured above) where mankind has been decimated by a genetically-engineered virus that has mutated what's left of human beings into irrational, incoherent, savages devoid of reason and morals...

Rather, what we're referring to here is that OTHER man-made virus epidemically sweeping through the West and America like wildfire that has mutated entire swaths of otherwise normal humans into irrational, incoherent, savages who are devoid of reason and morals.

As frightening as this sounds, (and believe me, it should scare the b-Jesus out of everyone) the fact is this is not some Hollywood fantasy like the blockbuster movie Independence Day, where the world stands at the brink of complete annihilation and is saved LITERALLY AT THE LAST FREAKING SECOND by a nice, nerdy Jewish boy with a Messiah complex named David.

No, in this case, the Krippen Virus—as it was called in I Am Legend— threatening destruction of all life on earth is today known as Islamophobia, and along with its attending “war to end all wars”, stands the very good likelihood of turning an otherwise Garden of Eden into Paradise lost.

And despite the fact all this is not some silver screen fantasy, this is not to say however that Hollywood—no, let's re-phrase that—JEWISH CONTROL of both Hollywood and the mainstream media in the US—has not played the lead role in this action drama by cultivating and propagating this epidemic, because it most certainly has. Indeed, if there is a Dr. Alice Krippen (the scientist credited with creating the virus that destroyed the entire human race in I Am Legend) in all this, it is those bespeckled, white-coated Jewish interests working in PR laboratories in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem, New York and D.C. controlling what we see, hear, read and think.

Those who doubt such an epidemic exists simply have not been paying attention as of late. Now, thanks to bullhorns and blowhards both in the mainstream AND alternative media, it—the virus—is everywhere, in our air, water, under our fingernails and even in our toothpaste. Whether it is propagandists and Zionist assets from the mainstream-media such as Pamela Geller, Robert Spencer, Frank Gaffney, et al or whether it is those in the patriot/alternative media such as Devvy Kidd, Frosty Wooldridge and others (who foolishly think that by spewing lies about Islam they will endear themselves to Jewish interests and avoid the menacing glare of powerful Zionist groups such as the ADL and SPLC) it is monsoon season as far as anti-Islamic hysteria goes, and with no change of weather in sight for the foreseeable future.

As if the two wars the West is fighting for these Jewish interests weren't bad enough (and we could certainly characterize 2 million dead innocent civilians and an economy on life support as “bad enough” wouldn't you agree?) now an already uncomfortably-hot situation has been ratcheted up—not just a few degrees, but indeed enough to flash-fry an 80-lb turkey in about ten seconds. What used to be sporadic incidents such as severed pigs' heads being left at the front doors of Muslim homes in America or bricks being thrown through the windows of Islamic centers and mosques has now graduated to throat slashings, as recently took place this last week in NYC.

Imagine for a moment if you will fellow earthlings...A father of 4 small children, (no doubt quite hungry, given the fact it is Ramadan and he is fasting) doing his job, following all the laws as laid down by his city, county, state and federal governments, when all the sudden some piece of white trash gets into his car, asks him if he is a Muslim and slashes his throat in some attempted form of weird, Kosher-approved ritual slaughter, as our Muslim father of 4 pleads with his would-be murderer, saying “Please don't kill me. I'm a very hard worker. I work very hard”.

AND WE ARE TOLD IT IS ISLAM THAT IS VIOLENT AND BACKWARDS AND THAT THE MUSLIMS COULD LEARN A THING OR TWO FROM THE ENLIGHTENED “JUDEO-CHRISTIAN WEST”???

Let us not either make the mistake of thinking the subsequent criminality and violence springing up on a daily basis now by these Gawd-fearin'/Red-bluddid 'mericans against Muslims is not the result of the tsunami of lying, anti-Islamic rhetoric being organized by Jewish interests and propagated through both the mainstream and alternative media. The two are as inextricably linked with each other as cross burnings and the Klan and anyone who says different is a liar, a fool or both. This epidemic of Islamophobia (just like the Krippen Virus in I Am Legend) is every bit as much an Israeli operation in psychological warfare as are all the other infamous false-flag terrorist operations cooked up in Mossad headquarters in Herzilya, including but not limited to the Lavon Affair, Israel's attack on the USS LIBERTY, the dead Kennedys, the 1983 attack on the US Marine barracks in Lebanon, the planned assassination of George Herbert Walker Bush in 1990 and, last but not least, 9/11.

But, as bad as it is, ladies and gentlemen, it actually gets much, much worse when you understand the 'logic' of those who have brought this thing about, and something that those in the West who are beating their breasts the hardest against Islam should take into consideration before proceeding an inch further.

In the first case, what we must recognize is that all this hysteria is a preparatory step to something going BOOM! in America that will then be blamed on Iran (and others) in justifying going deeper into war at a time the US doesn't have the resources to buy the tissue paper necessary to blow her nose. The aforementioned agents out there whipping up this fever in America against Islam—Geller, Spencer, Gaffney et al, should be seen for exactly what they are—saboteurs who are planting time-bombs that will result in massive loss of life in America and beyond. The Jewish interests overseeing all this are waiting for the right moment when America's body temperature reaches a certain point that makes the next false flag attack believable, and as soon as that takes place, we will see something take place that will make 9/11 look tame by comparison.

Secondly, what we have to keep in mind is that the destruction of Islam is not the primary objective here. Like a guy asking a girl out for dinner, it is just a precursor to the main event he hopes will be taking place later. It—the Zionist-engineered clash of civilizations between the Islamic and Christian worlds—is merely a stepping stone to something else, something rooted in deep, never-forgotten vendettas and accounting matters that require settling.

The first thing to keep in mind when understanding where these Jewish interests are going with all this Armageddon business is that they do not have a 2,000 year old grudge with Islam. In fact (the 20th century being the exception) Jews chart their "Golden Age" and the period of their greatest prosperity under Muslim rule in places like Spain and Baghdad.

The West however is another matter altogether. As far as Jewry is concerned, there are old scores to be settled, most notably a particular landmark event taking place in 70 A.D., something they don't consider to be just a minor accounting matter, but rather one requiring the proverbial pound of flesh.

Everything taking place today viz a viz Israel and the Jewish people is about turning back the clock and undoing history. While the rest of the world has moved forward, they are a people who have remained frozen in time, back when a jealous, vindictive God supposedly promised them the world and everything with it. As such, they are holding on to a lottery ticket they say has all the winning numbers on it, even though it is for a lottery that does not exist, and they are out to collect every cent of what they say is theirs.

Now, how did it come to be that they lost out in this lottery? It all goes back to their country being destroyed in 70 A.D. by the Romans, forcing them to scatter and flee and to live as "guests" in gentile nations for 2,000 years where they suffered rejection and, as we are not allowed to forget, "anti-Semitism" and "persecution".

And who are the Romans today? Why, wouldn't ya know, WE ARE—the West, meaning Europe and America. "The sins of the father"...—remember that old line from the Old Testament, where the children pay the price for the evil deeds of the parents generation after generation? As they—the Jews—see it, our great, great grandfathers destroyed their country, reduced these self-perceived kings and princes to beggars and gypsies and robbed them of their lottery winnings and now WE, the great great-grandchildren, must pay the price, first by destroying Israel's existential threats, and then secondly by going down in flames economically, socially and politically as a result of fighting these wars against over a billion people.

Don't believe it? Well then, ask yourself—which countries are fighting this war against a billion Muslims? The Chinese? No. The Russians? No. The Indians? No.

It is America, England, Germany, France, Italy, Canada, Australia, etc, all countries who today are the great, great grandkids of yesterday's Romans who destroyed Jerusalem.

And this, friends, Romans, countrymen, is the reason the West today finds herself infected with the Zionist version of the Krippen Virus, the only antidote to which is the truth and the courage to speak it throughout that great leper colony known as Western civilization.

Let us hope there is enough serum to go around before the madmen who have spread this weapon of mass destruction drag mankind past that point of no return as described in one horror story known as the Apocalypse, for if not, as we were told, "no flesh will survive". © 2010 Mark Glenn, <http://theuglytruth.wordpress.com>

Behold: for I must ask thee this: Who is to say that Zionist ISRAEL'S Mossad won't be the one to detonate a REAL nuclear or biological weapon here on our American soil in order to blame it on, ummm, Iran? Syria? Pakistan? Etc. I can see the headlines now. Sinister evil Muslim posing for photos with nuke! (Lee Harvey Oswald style) Official propaganda narrative: "Here is the proof! Look, they conveniently left maps, notes, pictures and addresses of all their buddies too!"... "ATTACK!!!! Destroy the evil terrorist patsy nations!!!!"

False Flag terrorism has paved the way, the resultant invasion/occupations breeds and nutures a spritit of deep seated resentment thus leading the way to real "blow back" terrorism which is now here to stay, it is THE perfect instrument of instilling fear in the hearts and minds of the goyim, anyone or anything can easily be labeled a "terrorist" entity thus setting up the pretext for the unchallenged immediate surrender of all rights and liberties, allowing even the most medieval atrocities to be conducted upon any target that was labeled "terrorist" and the public will cheer it on. Terrorism is providing the perfect pretext for the virtual surveillance police state that is enveloping the world and setting up the perfect pretense for the hidden masters to take complete iron fist control to freely rule over mankind...

There is one very important statement that I must make prior to wrapping up this section: As I have mentioned before, I am not with or against the Arab/Muslim sector either. I have focused on the Zionist/Israeli/Jewish menace more than the Muslim menace due to the FACT that the Zionist one is by far the most dangerous, and the fact is that the Zionist media consortium has done a 24/7 bang up job of informing the public of the evil sinister Muslims, to such an extent that they have been demonized beyond all actuality. Granted: yes there are evil extremist Arab/Muslims in this world filled with hate but nowhere near the epic proportions that we are being lead to believe. It is my deepest conviction that if the ruling powers of this world were to meet them with brotherly love, forgiveness, repentance and compassion that all the animosity could be overcome and true peace could flourish. Though at this stage of history it is quickly becoming a monumental feat due to the fact that the western world has been carpet bombing the Muslim world for decades on end, creating real live revengeful extremists. The notion that peace will come with bombs and rivers of blood, invasion, occupation, lies and deception is preposterous. I firmly stand waiting and anticipating the arrival of the true Prince of Peace who shall bring forth real peace, unity, healing, brotherly love, compassion, not just with words but in actions.

9/11 THE 2nd GREATEST FRAUD IN WORLD HISTORY

MOSSAD/CIA "OPERATION 911 REICHSTAG-FIRE" (RE: False Flag BlackOps NORTHWOODS)

The day an entire country was mentally raped... THE ENGINEERING OF AMERICA'S MINI-HOLOCAUST

"In the size of the lie there is always contained a certain factor of credibility, since the great mass of people will more easily fall victims to a great lie than to a small one." – Adolph Hitler

"The truth is, there is no Islamic army or terrorist group called Al Qaida. And any informed intelligence officer knows this. But there is a propaganda campaign to make the public believe in the presence of an identified entity representing the 'devil' only in order to drive the TV watcher to accept a unified international leadership for a war against terrorism. The country behind this propaganda is the U.S." – Pierre Henri Brunel, French Intelligence

"September 11 attacks were the result of a set-up. What we are seeing is a manipulation by the big powers; this terrorism would not exist without them." - General Leonid Ivashov, Chief of Staff of the Russian armed forces

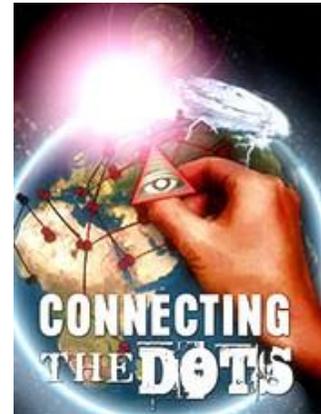

9/11, that dreadful day of infamy, that America lost what little innocence it had left, the Day of what "the establishment" would have you believe was a day of Monumental Batshit Insane Bungling Stupidity and Incompetence on the part of the ENTIRE U.S. Intelligence, pentagon and all of Washington, should be listed as Ripley's Believe it or Not biggest day of mind numbing mass coincidences! Topped off with the fact that 9/11 was also the very same day that the laws of physics and logic stood still, temporarily halted in suspended animation.

Why is it so important to fully understand the truth behind 9/11? Because it was the one single determining EVENT THAT CHANGED THE ENTIRE COURSE OF OUR HISTORY! So why is it so taboo to even look into this day? To question the "official story"? First of all if 9/11 had never happened, there would be no wars in the Middle East. 9/11 WAS THE STARTING POINT TO EVERYTHING. The invasions, the wars, trillions wasted, the avalanche of Orwellian policies and acts. That is why it is so important to go back and study the beginning point of the chaos.

"Naturally the common people don't want war: Neither in Russian, nor in England, nor for that matter in Germany. That is understood. But, after all, it is the leaders of the country who determine the policy and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a democracy, or a fascist dictatorship, or a parliament, or a communist dictatorship. Voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All I have to do is tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the peacemakers for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger. It works the same in any country." - Goering at the Nuremberg Trials

Out from 9/11 hysteria, rage and chaos came the hair brained idea of invasion and occupation of the middle east, the rampant trampling of our constitutional freedoms, massive crack downs all over society, hundreds of laws and policies have since been issued that have drastically changed our lives forever. Thousands of lives lost, ~~billions upon billions~~ trillions of dollars wasted. The bottom line is: 9/11 was the event that put the strategic plans of the ruling elite into motion. 9/11 was the STARTING POINT of EVERYTHING. Without their 9/11 catalyst there would have been no invasion/occupation of Afghanistan, no invasion/occupation of Iraq, our multinational conglomerates would not have all those tow countries oil and resources either. Without 9/11 our big brother government would not have been able to get away with the tons of new polices, acts, regulations, laws, etc that have literally changed the entire landscape of our country from top to bottom, including the literally bypassing of the Constitution and Bill of Rights ("for you protection" but of course). 9/11 was the catalyst that opened the door and paved the way for the ruling elite to do whatever they freaking wanted despite all rhyme, reason, logic and rational in the name of alleged "national security" and to purportedly "protect you." They orchestrated the entire operation according to their modus operandi and motto: "order out of chaos," classic Problem – Reaction – Solution paradigm in action.

Yesterday was one of the anniversaries of 9/11, I was amazed how every single channel treated that day of "remembrance" as if it were the sacred Jewish Holocaust. I flipped channels throughout the day to see what all the "news" media wanted us to feel, think and believe for the day, by 7 pm I just turned off the TV in disgust. It is now official: There is only one narrative for that day and it is the official government sponsored lie that is the universal "truth" about what happened that day. Every piece of "news" and opinion was fashioned on the assumed premise that a few Neanderthals operating out of caves from thousands of miles away, with box cutters in hand successfully bypassed the world's most advanced military and evaded all state of the art security apparatus including all radar (flying regular commercial jets, not stealth bombers) and conducted the most amazing, daring, successful, stupendous strategic military attack in the history of mankind. The only images and dialog on Zionist TV was the universal theme about the evil terrorist plague that is now miraculously covering the entire planet and must be stopped beyond all reason, rational or thinking...

A Culture in Denial - video

In just about every TV channel for the entire week was the Jewish controlled media stroking and feeding the flames of hate and wildly spreading Islamophobia with 24/7 coverage of some paster in some small town with just a couple dozen congregation who wanted to burn a Quran. The Jew owned/controlled media began a feeding frenzy on that story and with their multi-national reach blew the incident completely out of proportion stoking the flames of hatred, division and animosity. Mission accomplished.

Yesterday all the Zionist Jew owned/controlled TV “news” stations focused on the 9/11 remembrance event as if it happened yesterday drilling in people’s minds that there is no doubt in the world that evil MUSLIM terrorists attacked us, they continually drove the point home that a few rag tag MUSLIM idiots caused all that pain and suffering to America. None of the blaring inconsistencies, lies, cover-ups, false info, disinfo, omissions, etc. was ever touched. Nope, it is now official: the tales of 9/11 have officially entered holy ground status where no one is to challenge the sacred official sanctified hallowed narrative. All who dare go there are immediately treated as treasonous national blasphemers. Exactly as is the standard protocol of the official Holocaust narrative, so is the narrative of 9/11 becoming an untouchable topic for scrutiny, inquiry, analysis, investigation, to question the official narrative is quickly being built up into sacrilege exactly like the many tales of the German Holofoax.

The Zionist controlled TV/media industry has been meticulously molding the masses viewpoint, feelings and opinion on scales that very few people comprehend. They have been carefully breeding Islamophobia through their vast media soap box empire networks. This recent story sums up the common calculated effect of the constant unison broadcasting of Zionist media empire indoctrination/brainwashing creating and feeding Islamophobia beyond all reason:

“Today I am ashamed.... [reddit.com post]

..... to call myself an American. This afternoon at my college a gentleman decided to pray before going to class. He decided that the parking lot was as good a place as any to pray, I'm not sure he was impeding the flow of traffic, but the Campus Police were called.

A fellow student busted into class (in this case a vocational shop) and shouted "There's some fucking Muslim praying in the fucking parking lot" followed by racial epithets. Now, this wasn't what made me sick. what made me sick was that everyone else at the study table jumped up and immediately developed a mob mentality of "Oh let's get 'im, blah blah blah".

I know most of you automatically are thinking "Oh hey rednecks" not so, what if I told you it was a mix of Blacks, Whites, and Latino. I asked them if any of them had heard of that part of the Constitution that guaranteed freedom of expression and religion. Well you would have thought that I was wearing a sign labeling me a Liberal lefty sheep, also not so.

These guys didn't give a fuck. All they wanted to do was essentially lynch the Muslim. I called them Nazis, To which they laughed and proceeded to talk about how all Muslims needed to be rounded up and put in camps, you know... like the Nazis did.

On returning to class they discussed how Immigrants shouldn't be allowed in the country, remember the dynamic of this group?. Again I said you guys need a class on the Constitution.

their reply? Fuck the Constitution.

so I said. "AT WHAT FUCKING POINT DO YOU THINK IT'S OK TO SPIT ON THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTION AND THE AMERICAN FLAG!"

I received blank looks from my classmates. The sad thing is that all these guys with the exception of 2 served with me in Iraq. The last time I checked, on two counts, I swore to uphold the constitution and protect the people of the United States. Once when I joined the Army and once when I became a citizen.

To anyone and EVERYONE that maintains this attitude. fuck you.....fuck you right in the face.

I am a Vet I am an Immigrant I am a card holding member of the NRA as well as a republican

This display of intolerance made me sick and I am ashamed to call my self an American today.”

The window of opportunity to open a new official independent investigation of 9/11 (the spark that set the insanity in action) is quickly closing, soon never again will anyone be allowed to even question the official sanctified narrative that is now being included in your children’s text books in school and taught as “truth.” When all those kids graduate and become adults, their indoctrination and brain washing will have been completed, they will NEVER question what happened on September 11th, 2001 due to the fact that by the time they become adults it will have been driven deep into their consciousness that they will believe it as gospel. So much so that those little ones will someday treat anyone who dares question the official narrative as insane loathsome lepers, maybe even imprisoning them for dissident treasonous remarks questioning the official hallowed narratives of the events that catapulted this once great nation into a dark abyss...

Such is the true state of the union at this moment. Call me a radical rebel disenter if you must for my coming forth to reveal some of the most blaring oddities and lies of the events that is fast being reffered to as the sacrosanct 9/11. There is only one allegiance in my heart and mind above all else in this world, and that is to Heavenly Father and unadulterated Truth. Thus I come forward to hopefully open peoples eyes and mind to the Luciferian dark forces at work in this world that are Hell bent on oppressing and enslave manking. It has been so thousand of years ago and is still so today, nothing has changed only the faces and names of those who are acting as his agents here on earth.

With that said, done and clarified, let’s now take off our blinders, rose colored glasses and dare to use our powers of critical thought to rationally and logically examine the events of “9/11” with old fashioned common sense:

"We Americans are the ultimate innocents. We are forever desperate to believe that this time the government is telling us the truth." - Sydney Schanberg

What was going on right before the World Trade Center attacks?

On August 13, 2001 the Russian defense officials announced that there would be war in the Middle East within six months. (7) The Russians have stated that Egypt is ready to move its third army into Sinai and that war is inevitable. (8) Here in the United States, lawmakers recently held a meeting at Andrews Air Force Base and held a computer based exercise, code-named "Dark Winter." The results of the meeting indicated that "a biological terrorist attack on U.S. soil could bring the country to the brink of disintegration." (9) It was also indicated at the meeting that marshal law would become necessary, and that in two months, terrorist induced epidemics would disintegrate our nation. (10)

To begin with: After conducting relentless unbiased researching of 9/11 until I almost passed out. I finally came to a conclusion: I do NOT and cannot believe our world’s foremost advanced and sophisticated trillion dollar air defenses & intelligence network were defeated by Osama-Bin-Patsy and his 19 half wit lackeys with box cutters! (9 of which are still alive and walking today with no answer or change of narritve from the establishment of the official fairy tale) The establishment would have us believe that hijacked airliners, flew all over the eastern U.S. for HOURS without any meaningful response nor pursuit!?! The most advanced military on the PLANET had NO FREAKING CLUE what was going on!?

While Dick Cheney and the PentaCON just happened to be conducting eerily similar, as in almost freakin IDENTICAL “war games” in the same freaking time, that same freakin fateful morning, in the same freaking area with the same freakin scenarios as the “terrorists” used!

Wake up America!!! Stop sleeping!!! If this single FACT does not single handedly confirm complicity or at the very least trigger your curiosity then these people will continue to get away with even more outrageous crimes in the future.

FORMER ITALIAN PRESIDENT SAYS 9-11 SOLVED

"It's common knowledge, he reveals, CIA, Mossad behind terror attacks"

By the Staff of American Free Press

Former Italian President Francesco Cossiga, who revealed the existence of Operation Gladio, has told Italy's oldest and most widely read newspaper that the 9-11 terrorist attacks were run by the CIA and Mossad, and that this was common knowledge among global intelligence agencies. In what translates awkwardly into English, Cossiga told the newspaper Corriere della Sera:

“All the [intelligence services] of America and Europe...know well that the disastrous attack has been planned and realized from the Mossad, with the aid of the Zionist world in order to put under accusation the Arabic countries and in order to induce the western powers to take part ... in Iraq [and] Afghanistan.”

Cossiga was elected president of the Italian Senate in July 1983 before winning a landslide election to become president of the country in 1985, and he remained until 1992.

Cossiga’s tendency to be outspoken upset the Italian political establishment, and he was forced to resign after revealing the existence of, and his part in setting up, Operation Gladio. This was a rogue intelligence network under NATO auspices that carried out bombings across Europe in the 1960s, 1970s and ’80s. Gladio’s specialty was to carry out what they termed “false flag” operations—terror attacks that were blamed on their domestic and geopolitical opposition.

In March 2001, Gladio agent Vincenzo Vinciguerra stated, in sworn testimony, “You had to attack civilians, the people, women, children, innocent people, unknown people far removed from any political game. The reason was quite simple: to force ... the public to turn to the state to ask for greater security.”

Cossiga first expressed his doubts about 9-11 in 2001, and is quoted by 9-11 researcher Webster Tarpley saying “The mastermind of the attack must have been a sophisticated mind, provided with ample means not only to recruit fanatic kamikazes, but also highly specialized personnel. I add one thing: it could not be accomplished without infiltrations in the radar and flight security personnel.”

Coming from a widely respected former head of state, Cossiga’s assertion that the 9-11 attacks were an inside job and that this is common knowledge among global intelligence agencies is illuminating. It is one more eye-opening confirmation that has not been mentioned by America’s propaganda machine in print or on TV. Nevertheless, because of his experience and status in the world, Cossiga cannot be discounted as a crackpot.

What makes this the infamous day of 9/11/01 so crucial is the fact that all the EVIDENCE, so many FACTS and factors point none other than strait to the halls of government complicity. The one entity that we have so trusted our whole lives and thus gasp in complete denial at the very thought of them even slightly being involved. Refusing to even consider in the deepest most recesses of our minds and hearts to entertain the idea, that our benevolent care takers, our own dear government we live within and believed in our whole lives just might by the freaking sinister Darth Vader evil being? NO WAY! PISS OFF! You tinfoil hat fruitcake! Is the overwhelming response.

EXPOSED: Bush Planned on Invading Iraq BEFORE September 11th – video part 1

The above YouTube archived videos of a 60 Minutes piece tell the story very few people know or want to acknowledge is absolute truth. Not only was the invasion of Iraq planned BEFORE 9/11, according to the insiders: “Going after Saddam Hussien was topic A ten days after Bush’s inauguration, 8 months before September 11th”... “From the very first instance it was about Iraq, it was about what we can do, to change this regime.”

Incidents of terrorism such as the "sneak attack" on the World Trade Center, were used as an excuse to use our military as a massive Zionist backing hit squad on other countries to reshape the world in preparation for one-world governance.

In some circles Bush and his senior aides stand accused of having been duped into attacking Saddam Hussein by a group of Jewish advisers whose ultimate loyalties are said to lie with Israel instead of the United States.

The claim that an influential Jewish cabal is behind the war, made in recent weeks by some mainstream politicians and columnists, has prompted countercharges of anti-Semitism by prominent Jewish organizations.

Along with keeping Saddam Hussein and his regime from slipping out of Iraq to Syria - or weapons being smuggled in for Iraqi fighters - the purpose of the allied attacks is to ensure Iraq cannot launch ballistic missiles at Israel, Pentagon and U.S. Central Command, officials said. "Our goal is to make sure (Iraq) is not in a position to threaten Israel", U.S. Army Brig. Gen. Vincent Brooks said.

What we have here is a prima facie case for deception, with verifiable evidence proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the 911 attack was a state sponsored false flag "black" operation involving a carefully planned and skillfully executed deception at highest levels of the pentagon and CIA, masterfully engineered by the Mossad. Culminating with Government controlled and supplied the evidence, disinformation and outright deceit. Most importantly the lies and deceit were purposeful and deliberate at the highest levels of government. What's even more important is the fact that it wasn't just here in America, Britain was also up to its eyeballs knowingly supporting the lies and paving the way to war. This absolutely proves that both countries are 1,000% united under common ruling elite orchestrated rule.

A BURIED 60 Minutes Interview/Indictment - video

It is merely a show being put on for us. At the highest levels of power in this country, both the Democrats and Republicans work for the same interests. They are playing for the same team. The media, owned by the same interests, creates the illusion that these politicians (aka. actors/actresses) are archrivals, when in fact they are just playing their role. Simply put, the projected left/right paradigm is a hoax. Notice how all of the Democrats and Republicans are all lock step when it comes to the "official" story of 9/11 and the "War on Terror".

9/11 Panel Suspected Deception by Pentagon - Allegations Brought to Inspectors General. Some staff members and commissioners of the Sept. 11 panel concluded that the Pentagon's initial story of how it reacted to the 2001 terrorist attacks may have been part of a deliberate effort to mislead the commission and the public rather than a reflection of the fog of events on that day, according to sources involved in the debate.

Suspicion of wrongdoing ran so deep that the 10-member commission, in a secret meeting at the end of its tenure in summer 2004, debated referring the matter to the Justice Department for criminal investigation, according to several commission sources. Staff members and some commissioners thought that e-mails and other evidence provided enough probable cause to believe that military and aviation officials violated the law by making false statements to Congress and to the commission, hoping to hide the bungled response to the hijackings, these sources said. [excerpt from: The Washington Post] (In the end the panel turned over their allegations to the inspectors general for the Defense and Transportation departments who immediately swept them under the rug and continued forth with their predetermined plans of war, invasion and occupation.)

Damning Evidence Given to Chilcot Iraq War Inquiry

The second day of the official Chilcot inquiry into the origin of the Iraq War has heard that there was no "legal basis" for the conflict, that the Blair Government had been told by intelligence services that there were no "weapons of mass destruction" and that there were no links between Iraq and al-Qaeda.

The dramatic evidence is proof that Blair and the other senior Westminster politicians lied blatantly to trick the British public into supporting the war. The British National Party was the very first political party to publicly dismiss the "reasons" for the war as lies in April 2003 when it published on this website an article refuting some of the more prominent lies being told at that time.

One of today's witnesses, Sir William Ehrman, the Foreign Office's director of international security from 2000 to 2002 and director-general of defense and intelligence from 2002 to 2004, fully justified the BNP's cynicism of the war.

According to Sir William, intelligence that Saddam Hussein had dismantled all WMDs was put to the Foreign Office before Mr. Blair ordered the invasion of Iraq.

In addition, Sir William also said that there were no links between the Saddam Hussein regime and al-Qaeda. This claim had been at the core of the original case for the war as Hussein had been blamed for helping the terrorist attacks of 11 September 2001. [end quote, article continues].

To many people the concept of their “righteous governments” being the evil liars waging war is just plain UNTHINKABLE, absolutely inconceivable. You might as well claim that you were raised by the devil himself prior to accepting this scenario. It takes one of strong mind and heart to eventually come to the realization that everything around you was not, has never been and is not what you thought it was. You must search deep within your heart when objectively confronting the evidence that is posed in front of you. Open your eyes and the true reality will unfold, as you realize that there is absolutely no other plausible alternative other than the fact that 9/11 was a staged inside job designed to further the geopolitical ambitions of an elite Zionist/Masonic cartel seeking to use military power to advance its own imperialistic agenda.

Plan to oust Saddam drawn up TWO YEARS before the invasion

Secret document signaled support for Iraqi dissidents and promised aid, oil and trade deals in return for regime change

By Michael Savage, Political Correspondent, Monday, 1 February 2010

A secret plan to foster an internal coup against Saddam Hussein was drawn up by the Government two years before the invasion of Iraq, The Independent can reveal.

Whitehall officials drafted the "contract with the Iraqi people" as a way of signaling to dissenters in Iraq that an overthrow of Saddam would be supported by Britain. It promised aid, oil contracts, debt cancellations and trade deals once the dictator had been removed. Tony Blair's team saw it as a way of creating regime change in Iraq even before the 9/11 attack on New York.

The document, headed "confidential UK/US eyes", was finalized on 11 June 2001 and approved by ministers. It has not been published by the Iraq inquiry but a copy has been obtained by The Independent and can be revealed for the first time today. It states: "We want to work with an Iraq which respects the rights of its people, lives at peace with its neighbors and which observes international law.

"The Iraqi people have the right to live in a society based on the rule of law, free from repression, torture and arbitrary arrest; to enjoy respect for human rights, economic freedom and prosperity," the contract reads. "The record of the current regime in Iraq suggests that its priorities remain elsewhere.

"Those who wish to promote change in Iraq deserve our support," it concludes. "We look forward to the day when Iraq rejoins the international community." A new regime was to be offered "debt rescheduling" through the Paris Club, an informal group of the richest 19 economies, given help from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund and handed an EU aid and trade deal. Companies were to be invited to invest in its oil fields. A "comprehensive retraining programme" was to be offered to Iraqi professionals.

During his evidence to the inquiry last week, Mr. Blair said it was only after 9/11 that serious attention was given to removing Saddam as the attack changed the "calculus of risk". However, another classified document released by the Iraq inquiry on Friday night showed that No 10 explicitly saw the Contract with the Iraqi People as an early tool to remove the former Iraqi dictator. A memo issued in March 2001 by Sir John Sawers, then Mr. Blair's foreign policy adviser, cited the document under the heading "regime change".

"Regime change. The US and UK would re-make the case against Saddam Hussein. We would issue a Contract with the Iraqi People, setting out our goal of a peaceful, law-abiding Iraq," the memo states. "The Contract would make clear that the Iraqi regime's record and behavior made it impossible for Iraq to meet the criteria for rejoining the international community without fundamental change."

Officials planned to release the contract alongside tougher sanctions against Saddam's regime being negotiated in 2001. When no agreement was reached and the US began to seek more active measures to remove the Baghdad administration after 9/11, the contract was dropped.

The document was not released by the Iraq inquiry, despite being cited as significant by Foreign Office officials. Sir William Patey, the Government's head of Middle East policy at the time it was drafted, said it was "our way in the Foreign Office of trying to signal that we didn't think Saddam was a good thing and it would be great if he went". He said it was used in place of an "explicit policy of trying to get rid of him".

"It was a way of signaling to the Iraqi people that because we don't have a policy of regime change, it doesn't mean to say we're happy with Saddam Hussein, and there is life after Saddam with Iraq being reintegrated into the international community," he said.

Ed Davey, the Foreign Affairs spokesman for the Liberal Democrats, said the document called into question Mr. Blair's evidence and should have been made public before his hearing on Friday. "A plan to back Iraqis seeking to oust Saddam may have been far less damaging and certainly more legal than what happened. Yet it shows that Blair's intent was always for regime change from an early stage and before 9/11," he said. "Yet again, it seems that critical documents have not been declassified, hampering the questioning of Blair and others."

* Tony Blair is to be recalled by the Chilcot Inquiry to give further evidence, according to The Guardian. It claims that Mr. Blair will be questioned in both public and in private after the panel raised concerns that his evidence relating to the legality of the invasion conflicted with that given by the former Attorney General, Lord Goldsmith.

No matter how many ways we studied the Official accounts of 911 vs. the myriad alternative news sources who defied the establishment and published all the news the establishment OMITTED and tried to cover up, we consistently came up with only two possible answers: 1. Our government LET it happen on purpose. Or: 2. A small powerful elite group embedded within our government who held key leadership positions pulled the strings and MADE it happen on purpose. There exists no other sane solution in the universe.

AMERICAN CASE BASED ON OUTRIGHT FORGERY

...That Colin Powell was full of praise for the British report should not be surprising, as the US administration has engaged in its own particularly poor set of lies about Iraq as well.

On 28 January 2003, George W. Bush himself, in his State of the Union address of that date, announced to the world: "The British government has learned that Saddam Hussein recently sought significant quantities of uranium from Africa." (14)

The documents, given to International Atomic Energy Agency Director General Mohamed ElBaradei, indicated that Iraq tried to buy 500 tons of uranium from Niger. (15)

Colin Powell referred to the documents directly in his flamboyant presentation to the U.N. Security Council outlining the Bush administration's case against Iraq. (16)

In December 2002, the US State Department used the information to support its case that Iraq was lying about its weapons programs. (17)

Unfortunately, for Bush and Powell, closer inspection of these documents revealed that they were blatant and obvious forgeries. (18)

One of the documents was a letter discussing the uranium deal supposedly signed by Niger President Tandja Mamadou. The UN Weapons inspectors described the signature as “childlike” and said that it clearly was not Mamadou’s. (19)

Another, written on paper from a 1980s military government in Niger, bears the date of October 2000 and the signature of a man who by then had not been foreign minister of Niger in 14 years. (20)

The forgery was in fact highlighted by ElBaradei in his 7 March 2003 presentation to the U.N. Security Council (21) but this was simply ignored by both the British and American governments.

The forgery was so shocking that even the top Democrat on the US Senate Intelligence Committee has asked for a FBI investigation into who manufactured the documents. (22)

Sen. Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia said he was uneasy about a possible campaign to deceive the public about the status of Iraq’s nuclear program, (23) saying that an investigation would “help to allay any concerns” that the government was involved in the creation of the documents to build support for administration policies. (24) Indeed.

With a background of deception, lies, fraud and forgery like that, the real wonder is that anyone believes anything that the Bush and Blair administrations have to say at all.

Whatever Saddam Hussein’s crimes may or may not be, it is clear that the US and the UK have not managed to make a credible case for the war against Iraq, and have been forced to fall back on a tissue of lies and fabrications. The free world can only hope that they are one day called to account

What is indisputable is that beginning from the 2000 presidential election through the 9/11 attacks and its aftermath, what New York Times columnist Paul Krugman termed a "revolutionary power" took control of the U.S. government.

On the new millennium, millions were busy looking to the sky waiting for "the days of the apocalypse" to arrive, it wasn't the Y2K bug that was to bring about worldwide chaos, havoc and destruction or some evil monsters coming out from the ground. The new millennium DID in fact usher in “THE GRAND DECIEVER OF MANKIND” of the world with the entrance of the imperial oligarchy of BUSH & Co Crime Syndicate. In 2000 this Luciferian group stole the throne with the successful coup of the presidency of the world’s most powerful nation... yet no one ever noticed. The corrupt highest court of the land handed him the crown, one of their own wept tears from the betrayal to the people they once swore to protect. Y2K, the year 2000AD did... as in: DID bring us the era of the “antichrist”, the men who would lead the world into the wars of Armageddon (biblically located in the middle east, and yes Babylon was located in Iraq that was consumed in fire and smoke from our missiles) to hasten the destruction mankind...

Behold: on January of 2000, on the dawn of the new millennium a sinister dark horse entity rose to power as prophesized in the holy texts long ago, he ruled with an iron fist, waging wars on many lands... The works of this entity are now legendary, they single handedly destroyed our country, gave immense power to “the elite cartel”, ushered in the carefully engineered grand worldwide economic collapse. Today we stand, bearing witness to Bush Crime Syncate colossal clusterfuck of America, the showdown of Christian world vs. Muslim world, with the Zionist Jew agent provocateurs instigating it all... Let’s not also forget that these wars and administration also lead us to massive economic collapse we are all facing, look around you, wake up and smell the coffee. This is reality staring you in the face.

The stolen election of 2000 brought by one of the most daring crime syndicates to ever occupy the halls of high offices in America. At the apex of the Bush Administration crime syndicate were key Israeli Zionist Operatives, a breathtaking number of them were positioned in the highest most important key posts of our nation. With Israeli operatives such as Richard Perle, Chertoff, Wolfowitz, Feith, Abrams, Satloff, Libby, Fleischer, Schlesinger, etc., etc. meticulously, ever so cunningly guiding the Bush administration lock step with the Zionist agenda and Israel's wishes.

The Anniversary of 9/11

Don't want to hear this? Tough. Grow up.

9/11 Commissioners:

- The 9/11 Commission's co-chairs said that the 9/11 Commissioners knew that military officials misrepresented the facts to the Commission, and the Commission considered recommending criminal charges for such false statements (free subscription required)
- 9/11 Commission co-chair Lee Hamilton says "I don't believe for a minute we got everything right", that the Commission was set up to fail, that people should keep asking questions about 9/11, and that the 9/11 debate should continue
- 9/11 Commissioner Timothy Roemer said "We were extremely frustrated with the false statements we were getting"
- 9/11 Commissioner Max Cleland resigned from the Commission, stating: "It is a national scandal"; "This investigation is now compromised"; and "One of these days we will have to get the full story because the 9-11 issue is so important to America. But this White House wants to cover it up"
- 9/11 Commissioner Bob Kerrey said that "There are ample reasons to suspect that there may be some alternative to what we outlined in our version . . . We didn't have access . . ." He also said that the investigation depended too heavily on the accounts of Al Qaeda detainees who were physically coerced into talking
- And the Senior Counsel to the 9/11 Commission (John Farmer) - who led the 9/11 staff's inquiry - recently said "At some level of the government, at some point in time...there was an agreement not to tell the truth about what happened". He also said "I was shocked at how different the truth was from the way it was described The tapes told a radically different story from what had been told to us and the public for two years.... This is not spin. This is not true." And he said: "It's almost a culture of concealment, for lack of a better word. There were interviews made at the FAA's New York center the night of 9/11 and those tapes were destroyed. The CIA tapes of the interrogations were destroyed. The story of 9/11 itself, to put it mildly, was distorted and was completely different from the way things happened"

If even the 9/11 Commissioners don't buy the official story, why do you?

Senior intelligence officers:

- Former military analyst and famed whistleblower Daniel Ellsberg said that the case of a certain 9/11 whistleblower is "far more explosive than the Pentagon Papers". He also said that the government is ordering the media to cover up her allegations about 9/11. And he said that some of the claims concerning government involvement in 9/11 are credible, that "very serious questions have been raised about what they [U.S. government officials] knew beforehand and how much involvement there might have been", that engineering 9/11 would not be humanly or psychologically beyond the scope of the current administration, and that there's enough evidence to justify a new, "hard-hitting" investigation into 9/11 with subpoenas and testimony taken under oath (see this and this)

- A 27-year CIA veteran, who chaired National Intelligence Estimates and personally delivered intelligence briefings to Presidents Ronald Reagan and George H.W. Bush, their Vice Presidents, Secretaries of State, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and many other senior government officials (Raymond McGovern) said "I think at simplest terms, there's a cover-up. The 9/11 Report is a joke"
- A 29-year CIA veteran, former National Intelligence Officer (NIO) and former Director of the CIA's Office of Regional and Political Analysis (William Bill Christison) said "I now think there is persuasive evidence that the events of September did not unfold as the Bush administration and the 9/11 Commission would have us believe (and see this)"
- A number of intelligence officials, including a CIA Operations Officer who co-chaired a CIA multi-agency task force coordinating intelligence efforts among many intelligence and law enforcement agencies (Lynne Larkin) sent a joint letter to Congress expressing their concerns about "serious shortcomings," "omissions," and "major flaws" in the 9/11 Commission Report and offering their services for a new investigation (they were ignored)
- A decorated 20-year CIA veteran, who Pulitzer-Prize winning investigative reporter Seymour Hersh called "perhaps the best on-the-ground field officer in the Middle East", and whose astounding career formed the script for the Academy Award winning motion picture Syriana (Robert Baer) said that "the evidence points at" 9/11 having had aspects of being an inside job
- The Division Chief of the CIA's Office of Soviet Affairs, who served as Senior Analyst from 1966 - 1990. He also served as Professor of International Security at the National War College from 1986 - 2004 (Melvin Goodman) said "The final [9/11 Commission] report is ultimately a coverup"

If even our country's top intelligence officers don't buy the official story, why do you?

Congressmen:

- According to the Co-Chair of the Congressional Inquiry into 9/11 and former Head of the Senate Intelligence Committee, Bob Graham, an FBI informant had hosted and rented a room to two hijackers in 2000 and that, when the Inquiry sought to interview the informant, the FBI refused outright, and then hid him in an unknown location, and that a high-level FBI official stated these blocking maneuvers were undertaken under orders from the White House (confirmed here)
- Current Democratic U.S. Senator Patrick Leahy said "The two questions that the congress will not ask . . . is why did 9/11 happen on George Bush's watch when he had clear warnings that it was going to happen? Why did they allow it to happen?"
- Current Republican Congressman Ron Paul calls for a new 9/11 investigation and states that "we see the [9/11] investigations that have been done so far as more or less cover-up and no real explanation of what went on"
- Current Democratic Congressman Dennis Kucinich hints that we aren't being told the truth about 9/11
- Current Republican Congressman Jason Chafetz says that we need to be vigilant and continue to investigate 9/11
- Former Democratic Senator Mike Gravel states that he supports a new 9/11 investigation and that we don't know the truth about 9/11

- Former Republican Senator Lincoln Chaffee endorses a new 9/11 investigation
- Former U.S. Democratic Congressman Dan Hamburg doesn't believe the official version of events
- Former U.S. Republican Congressman and senior member of the House Armed Services Committee, and who served six years as the Chairman of the Military Research and Development Subcommittee Curt Weldon has shown that the U.S. tracked hijackers before 9/11, is open to hearing information about explosives in the Twin Towers, and is open to the possibility that 9/11 was an inside job

If there is bipartisan questioning of the official story, why aren't you questioning it?

Other government officials:

- U.S. General, Commanding General of U.S. European Command and Supreme Allied Commander Europe, decorated with the Bronze Star, Silver Star, and Purple Heart (General Wesley Clark) said "We've never finished the investigation of 9/11 and whether the administration actually misused the intelligence information it had. The evidence seems pretty clear to me. I've seen that for a long time"
- Former Deputy Secretary for Intelligence and Warning under Nixon, Ford, and Carter (Morton Goulder), former Deputy Director to the White House Task Force on Terrorism (Edward L. Peck), and former US Department of State Foreign Service Officer (J. Michael Springmann), as well as a who's who of liberals and independents) jointly call for a new investigation into 9/11
- Former Federal Prosecutor, Office of Special Investigations, U.S. Department of Justice under Presidents Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan; former U.S. Army Intelligence officer, and currently a widely-sought media commentator on terrorism and intelligence services (John Loftus) says "The information provided by European intelligence services prior to 9/11 was so extensive that it is no longer possible for either the CIA or FBI to assert a defense of incompetence"
- The Group Director on matters of national security in the U.S. Government Accountability Office said that President Bush did not respond to unprecedented warnings of the 9/11 disaster and conducted a massive cover-up instead of accepting responsibility
- Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense under President Ronald Reagan (Col. Ronald D. Ray) said that the official story of 9/11 is "the dog that doesn't hunt"
- The former director of the FBI (Louis Freeh) says there was a cover up by the 9/11 Commission

If top government officials are skeptical, why aren't you?

Numerous other politicians, judges, legal scholars, and attorneys also question at least some aspects of the government's version of 9/11.

Ex-Congressman: U.S. Government Created Al-Qaeda, Involved In 9/11 -

Author of San Francisco Chronicle piece warning of internment camps says government bombed its own citizens

A former Congressman says that the U.S. government created Al-Qaeda and was involved in bombing its own citizens on 9/11, telling a national radio show that elements of the Bush administration assisted the attacks on the WTC and the Pentagon.

Daniel Hamburg is a former Democratic Congressman who was elected to the 1st Congressional District of California in 1992 and also subsequently ran for Governor of California, finishing in 3rd place.

Hamburg co-wrote a well-received recent article carried by the San Francisco Chronicle in which he outlined the program to incarcerate American citizens in internment camps, which have already been publicly built, during a time of declared national emergency.

Appearing today on the Alex Jones Show, Hamburg said he was working on an article about missing nuclear bombs in relation to the Minot nuclear warheads mishap and agreed that it was possible the story could be used as a cover for the staged detonation of a nuke to be blamed on Al-Qaeda.

"Any government that could bomb its own citizens in the major city of the country could do anything....you can't put anything past them," said Hamburg, clarifying that he was referring to 9/11.

"I'm in the assisted it to happen camp - I think there was a lot of help from the inside, this whole thing was not engineered from a cave in Afghanistan," he added.

"The evidence that Al-Qaeda is actually an arm of the U.S. government is voluminous....I know that's true," concluded Hamburg, citing the PNAC group's call for a new Pearl Harbor shortly before the 2001 terror attacks.

"it's hard for people to believe that their government could be as insidious as this one is but the evidence is there," concluded Hamburg.

911, CIA Operation Northwoods - video

BEHOLD:

A rational compilation of all the EPIC "COINCIDENCES" of that fateful day of infamy we all refer to as 9/11:

Coincidences of 9/11 Pre Exhibit Note: The day before 9/11 Donald Rumsfeld announced that the PentaCON “lost” track of $2.3 TRILLION DOLLARS!!! Oh, by the way: The area of the Pentagon was demolished was the same area that contained all the records and documents that could have lead to finding out who conducted the biggest HEIST in the history of mankind! Lol! No one will ever know where those 2.3 TRILLION DOLLARS disappeared to! Golly gee whiz...

Exhibit 1. Bush admits on national TV that he saw the video of the 1st plane hit tower one BEFORE he entered the elementary classroom. But ABSOLUTELY ZERO NEWS FOOTAGE OF THE 1st PLANE IMPACT was shown on TV that day, the only footage available and seen on national news on 9/11/01 was of the SECOND plane impact! (that occurred while Bush was already seated in with the elementary school kids in their classroom) The fact that he saw a video of the first plane hit that same day before entering the classroom is absolutely earth shaking smoking gun MINDBOGGLING... But hey, this was a military Black Ops so of course they got a live feed of the first plane hitting the towers, for instance: the whole thing was being filmed by the perpetrators and live from the N.J. rooftop by the celebrating Mossad team, sorry but you will never get to see that special editor's cut, their footage is classified, above top secret... “now run along kiddies, scram, theres nothing else to see here” is the gist of their unified response.

Bush, December 4, 2001: I was sitting outside the classroom waiting to go in, and I saw an airplane hit the tower -- the TV was obviously on, and I use to fly myself, and I said, "There's one terrible pilot." And I said, "It must have been a horrible accident." But I was whisked off there -- I didn't have much time to think about it, and I was sitting in the classroom, and Andy Card, my chief who was sitting over here walked in and said, "A second plane has hit the tower. America's under attack." (CNN)

Bush, January 2002: well, first of all, when we walked into the classroom, I had seen this plane fly into the first building. There was a TV set on. And you know, I thought it was pilot error and I was amazed that anybody could make such a terrible mistake. And something was wrong with the plane, or - anyway, I'm sitting there, listening to the briefing, and Andy Card came and said, 'America is under attack.' And in the meantime, this teacher was going on about the curriculum, and I was thinking about what it meant for America to be under attack. It was an amazing thought. But I made up my mind that if America was under attack, we'd get them. (The White House – quote has been removed. Serendipity)

Exhibit 2. Watch the TV alibi recordings and notice the suspicious guilty look on Bush's face as he sat in that elementary classroom after he was approached by his secret service, Bush was obviously so nervous in anticipation and focusing on playing his innocent role that he was so nervous he was even photographed holding the children's book upside down...

Bush caught red handed in one of dozens of outright lies - Video Exhibit 3. Bush's younger brother, Florida Gov. Jeb Bush, signed Executive order 01-261 on 9/7/01 (4 days prior to 9/11) paving the way to be able to declare martial law in his state. Golly gee whiz, did Jeb possess ESP? What a coincidence, Jeb not only declares martial law on the morning of 9/11, Florida was the first state to declare a "state of emergency: and did so before New York or the Federal Washington City leaders did (immediately after the impact of the second plane at WTC). So let's get something strait here: immediately after hearing of plane 2 strike, George Bush is eerily calmly seated with the elementary school children and stays there like nothing is wrong. While on the other hand his brother Jeb Bush is the first state in the entire United States to declare a state of emergency he prepared for 4 days in advance while over 1,500 miles away from the attacks! LOL Hmmm... something smells fishy here...

Exhibit 4. NORAD (the agency that monitors and protects the U.S. from outside attacks) has always been run by trained professionals at the Pentagon. But several months prior to 911 Cheney decided he should run NORAD, and gave himself chief powers to take over its operations during any state of emergency. Hmmm... Interesting...

Exhibit 5. President Bush's brother Marvin Bush was a head of the security firm at the World Trade Center and a couple of the airports where the planes were hijacked. His last day on the job? Sept 12, 2001. Ummm, ok...

Exhibit 6. In the nine months prior to 9/11, we had the largest elevator modernization in history going on inside the towers... Some major "renovation" projects were being done in the World Trade Center Towers right up to weeks prior to 911. "Contractors" were doing some sort of work inside the walkways inside the walls and around the elevators (where the main columns that hold up the building are located); power to the entire building also had to be turned off several times during these "renovations". Did I also mention that the bomb sniffing dogs stationed there were also removed during this same time?.... Hmmm.....

Exhibit 7. Oh, did I mention that there is a military grade Thermite that is mixed like PAINT and can actually be "painted on" any metal surface you want to melt down? Explosives expert Van Romero, of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, demonstrated how super-Thermite can be painted onto a steel beam, causing it to burn through.

Physicist Steven Jones, formerly of Brigham Young University, who isolated super-Thermite from the enormous dust clouds of the Twin Towers and Building 7, after which he was contacted by a consultant engineer from the Department of Homeland Security, who warned Jones that, if he published his findings "the pain would be great."

Exhibit 8. Dozens of warnings of possible "terrorist" attacks were sent out by French, German, Israel and other intelligence agencies. But we are supposed to believe that NO ONE in the U.S. ever got the "memos"?

Exhibit 9. The CIA and NSA had been monitoring phone calls from the alleged "mastermind" and supposed (patsy) hijackers for years. They should have KNOWN about plans of the supposed hijacked airplanes. They even knew the date, they should have KNOWN EVERYTHING!

Exhibit 10. It has been widely reported that hundreds of Israeli Jews never showed up to work on 911. Some government leaders were told not to fly on planes that day. Many top level people changed their plans... One Israeli firm even went as far as suddenly packing up (in the middle of their lease) and moving out without notice days before the "surprise" attack on the twin towers.

Exhibit 11. Hundreds of eye witnesses made statements of hearing EXPLOSIONS all over the World Trade Center buildings PRIOR TO (and during) the COLLAPSE, the lower floors, lobby, basement, etc! Many of these reports were seen on live TV, but never again to be heard of, most of those video footage have mysteriously disappeared. Even the firemen testify of many, many explosions...

Janitor William Rodriguez, the last man out of the North Tower and who was decorated for heroism by President Bush, who reported enormous explosions in the basements just before the plane hit up above, and whose testimony to the 9/11 Commission was ignored.

Exhibit 12. The U.S. air defense successfully within minutes intercepted EVERY single occasion of lost planes, off course planes, hijackings, etc. Never once in U.S. history had a plane ever gone for more than a few minutes without our air defense having their jets in the sky ready to intercept. But on Sept. 11, 2001 for the first and ONLY time in U.S. history we are lead to believe that our ENTIRE military and intelligence system had no clue what was going on? The most advanced intelligence community on the PLANET didn't know what was going on? And let not 1 but 4 "hijacked" planes fly around undisturbed for hours? WTF? Pure Bullshit!

Exhibit 13. Doh! Oh, our ENTIRE national defense was holding not one but 4 "drills" (one was named operation Vigilant Guardian) or as they call them ("training exercises or war games") of, oh wait, get this!: Of freaking HIJACKED PLANES smashing into major buildings on the same freaking time and day in the same freaking areas the freakin "hijackers" were supposedly conducting their mission!!!! Hey, hold on a minute! Isn't that EXACTLY what the so called "terrorists" ACTUALLY DID? And on the VERY SAME FREAKING DAY and fucking time THAT THE PENTAGON WAS CONDUCTING THEIR "DRILLS"!!!! Hello people, if you cannot see right through this one obvious bullshit farce, then you are truly hopeless. Bottom line is: the Pentagon/CIA was at the scene of the crime doing exactly what they blame some "phantom menace" of carrying out...

BTW: NORAD conducted exercises in 1999 in which airplanes were hijacked and crashed into targets. These "targets" included the WorldTradeCenter and Pentagon. On October 24, 2000 the PentaCON conducted emergency training exercises in which a mock passenger plane crashes into the Pentagon. This means that the WorldTradeCenter and the Pentagon were anticipated. Meanwhile after the attacks of Sept. 11th Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld and Rice ALL unanimously claimed that no one could have ever imagined of such attacks ever happening.

If that were not enough, guese who else was conducting "drills"? On September 11, the CIA Was Running a Simulation of a Plane Crashing into a Building

Officials at the Chantilly, Va.-based National Reconnaissance Office were ahead of their time. An exercise had been scheduled for the morning of September 11 in which a small corporate jet would crash into one of the four towers at the agency's headquarters building after experiencing a mechanical failure. This agency is about four miles from the runways of WashingtonDullesInternationalAirport. The National Reconnaissance Office operates many of the nation's spy satellites and draws its personnel from the military and the CIA.

Exhibit 14. On 911 not 1 but 4 planes flew around for hundreds of miles and for several hours COMPLETELY at will. NOT ONE SINGLE FIGHTER JET WAS SENT TO STOP ANY OF THE HIJACKED PLANES! They let not just one but FOUR "hijacked" planes fly around FREELY for HOURS! Not one single attempt was made to INTERCEPT! This has to be one of the biggest LAME BULLSHIT STORIES that I have ever heard.

Exhibit 15. Then we have damning evidence, "smoking gun exhibit A": the sworn testimony to the 911 Commission of then Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta stating that Cheney sitting (conveniently) in his bunker commanding NORAD... and Cheney telling one of his minions "THE STAND DOWN ORDERS STILL STAND!" He purposely let the "hijacked" planes go their merry ways!!!!!!!!!!!! (FYI: in military speak stand down means don't do anything) According to Mineta the man came into the room several more times to ask Cheney, he would say something like "the plane is 50 miles out", next time he would coming in and say "the plane is 30 miles out, finally, "the plane is 10 miles out, do the orders still stand?" Cheney snaps back "YES! have you heard otherwise?" 10 minutes later the Pentagon is hit by a plane. Doh! Oh, it gets better: Months later Cheney would LIE to the Commission and claim he was not even at the bunker prior to the plane hitting the Pentagon!

Exhibit 16. CENTCOM Sergeant Lauro Chavez while inside a secret bunker: "then we see the other plane come in and hit it and at that point everybody is standing up. The air force had commanders in contact with NORAD. The plane, or whatever, hit the Pentagon and then we were like 'why aren't they scrambling jets?' We were asking, there were eight or nine people... Colonels and Lieutenants asking the Lieutenant Colonel in charge on the air force 'why isn't NORAD scrambling jets?' and he said 'we received an order to stand down'. And that just perplexed everybody."

Exhibit 17. Fast forward to England 7/7/07, The day of the train and bus bombings. Guess what? They were also holding "drills"! Exercises of "terrorist" bombings in trains and buses the very same day it happened!!! No, it gets much better! Get this: The "drills" were being held at the very SAME EXACT 3 LOCATIONS OF THE ACTUAL

3 BOMBINGS! At the VERY SAME TIMES that the "terrorist bombings" occurred!!! Double: Doh! /sigh/ ok, go back to sleep sheeple, nothing to see here... sleep... sleep... sleep.... But be very afraid because the terrorist bogeymen are out to get you!

Exhibit 18. Over the years we have seen hundreds of photos of airliner crashes, all having one common denominator: ALL as in EVERY crash wreckage in the history of aviation ALWAYS have identifiable wreckage debris: seats, luggage, bodies, and large sections of planes. But for the first time in history we have 2 planes that "crashed" (the Pentagon plane and the Pennsylvania plane) and blew up to smithereens! Every single one of the planes that day totally VAPORIZED!!!

Each plane was completely unidentifiable, no seats, no luggage, no nothing, just tiny shreds remained. The only thing left were little itty bits of metal here and there. Interesting thing is that the "plane" that hit the Pentagon supposedly left an engine, and one tire that MAGICALLY SHRANK because they were way too small to have come from a massive airliner. Well what do you know! They SHRANK in size from the original standard sizes! The Pennsylvania plane that landed in a field crashed and left NOTHING, no debris bigger than the size of a golf ball!!!! DOH! No human remains, no seats, no luggage, no airplane parts, nothing. Well golly gee whiz! Nothing to see here folks! The Pennsylvania while one of the world's most illogical and mysterious laden physically impossible "crash site" barely received any media coverage at all... Nothing to see here folks.... now let's go kill some evil Muslim terrorists that did this... Doh!

Exhibit 19: Building No. 7 of the World Trade center was never even hit by a plane, it had just a couple SMALL fires. Yet they tell us that it just collapsed also, all on its' own, for the FIRST TIME IN HISTORY a steel frame building collapsed this way, neatly into its' own footprint EXACTLY, EXACTLY, EXACTLY like a demolition experts would do it. No steel frame building in history of mankind has EVER collapsed due to fire before or after 911, period.

Exhibit 20. Two airplanes cannot crash into two buildings... and knock down THREE buildings.. What about building 7? It was never touched by those planes! DOH! It was TWO football fields away! It was structurally DESIGNED with super heavy duty reinforcement for it housed the CIA, FBI, Secret Service, the Emergency Management Team and so forth, yet it supposedly just fell down all by itself when there were barely any damages to it? FYI: you can see from the many photos building 7 had just few little fires here and there, not a drop of jet fuel ever touched that building! While every building flanking the twin towers were directly impacted by TONS of debris from the demolition of the twin towers, they ALL stayed standing despite massive damage they received. BTW, according to every LAW OF PHYSICS, for building 7 (as with the twin towers) to come down into its own footprint ALL (as in every single) steel beam columns HAD to be destroyed and give in at the EXACT same time... The first time in human history 3 building magically all self implode into their own footprints is astronomically impossible... compounded that this also all happened the same day!

Exhibit 21. More than 1hr prior to the collapse of building 7, the police and firemen were telling everyone to move away from the building because: "it is going to collapse soon!" Wow! they had ESP!!!?

Exhibit 22. Both CNN and BCC news coverage were reporting LIVE ON AIR, about the collapse of building 7 in "past tense" 30 MINUTES BEFORE IT COLLAPSED! Doh! Recording of the actual news footage is readily available on the internet.

Exhibit 23. Months prior to 911 Silverstone took our extremely rare insurance policy on all World Trade Center buildings to specifically cover..... terrorist attacks...

Exhibit 24. You have Zionist titan Larry Silverstone giving recorded video confession stating that they "pulled building 7" (pulled is an industry term for demolish). Ummm, ok even with videos of this guy CONFESSING of demolishing building 7 widely available, nothing to see here folks, go back to your pathetic couch potato lives...

Exhibit 25. Satellite readings showed temperatures underground of MOLTEN STEEL for WEEKS after 911 (YouTube video title: "9/11 Nano-termite composite Demolition Evidence" is a must see molten steel smoking gun). Even at building 7, where there was NO jet fuel or no airplane crashed, there was MOLTEN STEEL for days after it neatly imploded into its own footprint. Did I mention that underground many firefighters witnessed and reported seeing MOLTEN STEEL "flowing like rivers of lava"

Elementary Science 101 news flash: jet fuel can NEVER melt steel this way even under ideal laboratory conditions! Folks, it does not take an Einstein to figure this stuff out and see the underlying reality here! Try and find any of the dozens upon dozens of satellite shots of TV footage that came out days and weeks after 9/11 clearly showing thousands of degrees heat underground molten lava flows and you will not find any TV archive footage for they have all "vanished."

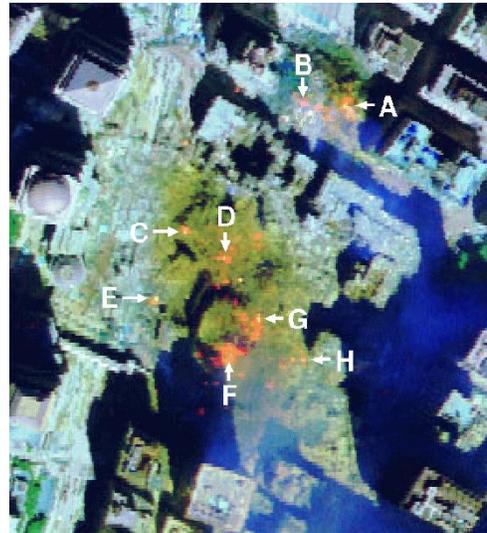

Exhibit 26. The Pentagon has the world's BEST video surveillance system on the planet. Every inch of the Pentagon IS covered by highly quality state of the art CCTV video systems. Yet no attempt has been made by the Pentagon to make public the footage of at least a dozen of their own surveillance camera footage of the "plane" that hit the Pentagon. I don't know about you, but if I were getting accused of complicity in such an evil act as 911 and I had in my possession actual high quality videos showing a massive jumbo jet flying into my building, common sense says show everyone the proof! That would put ALL the accusations to rest, well the PentaCON has not and will not release even one of their own CCTV surveillance videos...

Exhibit 27. The PentaCON CONFISCATED ALL SURVAILANCE VIDEOS from EVERYONE (mostly business's security cameras) in the vicinity and never returned them back to their owners. (you know, because of "national security") Several years later they release ONE crappy grainy footage of a few frames taken from a gas station far away, where you can only see a smoke trail and an explosion. Doh!

Exhibit 28. How convenient that the "plane" that hit the Pentagon hit the one area that was under renovation, with very few people in it! The plane had to make an amazing aerial stunt and do a wild U turn to hit that spot!

Exhibit 29. The Pentagon, the most highly fortified building on the planet with the worlds' most technologically advanced anti-air artillery defense systems and jet fighters ready to defend it, yet we are to believe that a plane that was flying around for more than an ENTIRE HOUR (while they were intently watching it on radar) just bypassed all their defense systems and hit the Pentagon while the Pentagon had absolutely NO FREAKIN CLUE?! Doh! If no one sees this as proof positive, the most damning evidence of complicity, then we as a nation are doomed...

Exhibit 30. The Smoking Gun: Photos of the Pentagon immediately after the crash show INTACT windows where the two colossal 6 freaking ton engines should have supposedly, allegedly smashed into the building! Videos of the two planes that hit Towers 1 and 2 both clearly show the wings and engine area making huge holes in the building upon impact. But not at the Pentagon... When you study all the pictures taken prior to the “collapse” of that side of the building it is, according to every law of physics certifiably insanely impossible that a massive jumbo jet hit it: (Note; the blue area of the photo shows the area of the building that later “collapsed”).

Do you, can you understand the physics involved here? The windows where the massive engines should have struck the building weren't even fazed! Almost as if the engines of the plane just vanished on impact!!!

Study this picture long and hard and tell me where a giant Boeing 757 went in this picture. SHOW ME WHERE A MASSIVE HUGE JET AIRLINER WENT! Only a certified MORON would believe the preposterous notion that a massive airliner somehow vaporized into that 14 foot circumference entry hole that is behind that car...

Here is a close-up of where they claim an alleged massive jumbo jet airliner that supposedly, allegedly slammed into the pentagon went through without leaving a trace as its wings and engines supposedly retracted in to itself and got sucked into this black hole. Study this photo long and hard and look yourself in the eye and tell me that a colossal gigantic 757 airliner disappeared into this alleged tiny “entry point” note the intact windows and small, as in much smaller than a jumbo airliner, alleged entry point, Behold the portal of a black hole that shrank a massive airliner then sucked it into this ridiculously smaller tiny alleged “point of entry”!:

The photo above clearly shows that no jet airliner ever went through that small main hole that was blown out of that wall leaving even entire windows right next to it completely INTACT! (The walls of this photo are covered with fire fighting foam when this close-up photo was taken)

These are rare pictures of the Pentagon before the side of the building collapsed, notice how there is no indication anywhere of an alleged massive jumbo jet having slammed into the building, and where are the two massive holes those colossal jet engines should have left? There are NONE, they just vanished along with the wings!... poooof... abracadabra...

For reference purposes here is a picture one of those type of jet engines with a man standing at the lower right of the engine so you can have an idea of just how massive each of those 6 TON engines where that have allegedly slammed into those walls at a very minimum of over 150 miles per hour: Once you trul y understand the mass and comprehend the physics involved here you can easily see through the absurd PREPOSTOROUS claims of those who wish you to believe that a massive jet liner smashed into that building pictured above.

Exhibit 31. Supposedly the alleged airplane nose went through 6 (six!) heavily fortified 3 foot concrete walls and was still able to punch a nice neat round whole in the last concrete wall after going through all that resistance. The soft aluminum nose of the "plane" made a perfect round hole through the last 3 feet of concrete! WOW! This is after going through tons of concrete outer/inner walls! Gee, looks EXACTLY like a rocket strike if I ever saw one...

Exhibit 32. In violation of federal law all steel (evidence) from all sites was ordered to IMMEDIATELY be removed and shipped off to (get this:) China! Sorry, but golly gee whiz, now no one can do forensic analysis on the steel evidence. (hello this is standard protocol, to keep evidence from a crime scene) Oh well, we already know the boogeymen who did this so why bother with silly investigations... Although the evidence was deemed “valueless” to investigators (btw: the steel could have provided smoking gun proof positive of demolition charges used) the trucks hauling away the Ground Zero rubble were equipped and carefully tracked with $1K GPS trackers.

Exhibit 33. Millions upon millions of dollars of "put options" were taken out on United and American Airlines days prior to 911 (note: it is impossible to buy and sell securities anonymously, so why don't we still not know who was making those transactions?) To this day the Security Exchange Commission flat out refuses to reveal who made those trades...

Exhibit 34. Even all the official establishment paid "experts" agree: jet fuel can NOT "melt" steel. They only claim it "weakened" the steel. Still no credible official explanation for the “molten lava flows” of melted steel... as a matter of fact... they all now DENY any excessive heat weeks after the event happened. And where are all those infrared satellite images proving weeks after 911 that clearly showed huge pools of 2000+ degrees of massively hot “something” underground... WEEKS after the “terrorist” attack...

Exhibit 35. Everyone has seemed to have forgotten all about the Anthrax attacks that literally caused a suspension of the bogus 911 “investigation”. It was hyped by the administration and the lapdog media as “evil terrorists sending weapons grade anthrax”, and who did the evil “terrorists” (al-CIA) ship the lethal poison to? The media and key leaders in the senate, only the senators who opposed the Patriot Act! Doh! Fear gripped the sheeple by the balls!!! “Quick sign the Patriot Act into existence! Bomb the evil towel head bastards!” Off we went to bomb the middle east back into the stone age. The make believe 9/11 cOMMISSION “investigation” (charade) was a sham culminating in a thousand pages of total bullshit not worth the paper it was printed on. But of course, the lead “investigators” who themselves are part of the ruling elite “club” knew it was one of their false flag fear mongering ops, so there was no need to waste time investigating THEMSELVES.

The establishment eventually came up with a convenient patsy, to blame, a “lone anthrax gunman” who conveniently, supposedly committed “suicide.” Before supposedly killing himself in July, 2008, he supposedly leaves a note claiming he “did it to drum up business for his vaccine”!!!! Doh! These BlackOps people in the CIA can't even make up believable stories? Wow, so how was he going to profit from his vaccine while sitting in jail? Just another hair brained explanation by your beloved government who looks straight into your eyes and lies its ass off. To this day, a real investigation into the anthrax scheme has yet to be conducted all the while, the prevailing acknowledgement among reputable insiders is that the anthrax operation came from our own government stash and originated in said entity.

Exhibit 36. They all officially claim they had "no clue" what happened, yet the very same day of the "attacks" the FBI/CIA supposedly conducted the fastest investigation in the history of mankind! CIA director Tenet blamed Osama Bin Patsy for the attacks even before the second plane hit! Within minutes of the attacks they came out with a list of each and every "evil culprit", dossiers, pictures, life histories and all! Neatly tied it all up to some Al-CIA terrorist group who's' headquarters were in primitive mountain caves on the other side of the globe! Nothing more to see here folks, now let's go kick some Muslim terrorist ass! Also see video: 911 Clues Everyone Missed.

Nothing more to see here folks, now let's go kick some Muslim terrorist ass! Also see video: 911 Clues Everyone Missed.

Exhibit 37. Pictures of ground zero show many, many steel beams with very neat diagonal explosive charge cuts in them. Appearing EXACTLY as the beams from an explosive demolished building! See picture above, if this is not smoking gun evidence, then I have no clue what a smoking gun is...

Exhibit 38. The republicans spent over 50 million dollars investigating Bill Clinton's sex life in their efforts to try and destroy him. 500 million dollars were spent on investigating the Space shuttle Columbia accident that only killed a dozen or so people. Yet those same leaders still in power at the time of the attacks BALKED at spending a measly 3 million dollars to investigate the BIGGEST ATTACK IN AMERICA HISTORY!??? They finally spent a measly 9 million on what was to become a world class charade of an investigation, 9 mill the same amount that was spent on the fiasco O.J. Simpson trial where only two people died... Why did they spend so little to conduct a make believe investigation? Because their was nothing to investigate, it was THEIR false flag operation to begin with.

Exhibit 39. They even went as far as to pull out one of the most notorious NWO Zionist titans: Henry Kissinger to head the bogus "investigations!". After a great deal of public objection they had to ditch Kissinger then just appointed a bunch of good ole career establishment cronies (all of whom had absolutely no investigative experience) with "ex" CIA leader to head what eventually turned out to be the gazillion page "911 cOMMISSION Bullshit Report." Who was eventually appointed to lead the "investigation"? None other than Philip Zelikow, Zionist Jew elite, one of the Bush administration's insiders who was instrumental in working out the details for attacking Iraq!

Read this guy's Wikipedia profile and you begin to get an idea just how deeply connected this guy is. One of the most startling revelations I found there was that Zelikow held an endowed chair and was once Director of Miller Center of Public Affairs where they worked on "the project to transcribe and annotate the previously secret tapes made during the Kennedy, Nixon and Johnson Presidencies." Who else to transcribe the SECRET tapes of these presidencies and EDIT (censor) damning evidence that could prove his Zionist brotherhood complicit to a myriad of dealings.... He subsequently published a book called "The Kennedy Tapes"... where he goes on to tell his heavily edited/censored version of the Kennedy tapes through his Zionist agenda colored biased lens... And of course the Zionist Jews are all wonderful benevolent saints and servants of the people in his tale. It was Lenin who said: "The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves."

The 911 Bullshit report is like allowing the Mafia crime syndicate to conduct their own investigation into THEIR OWN WRONG DOING! Doh! "Hey, guess what? We found nothing wrong here! Case closed, everyone go on minding your own business now!"

Exhibit 40. "Why would Iraq attack America or use nuclear weapons against us? I'll tell you what I think the real threat [is] and actually has been since 1990 - it's the threat against Israel." - Philip Zelikow, Director of the 9/11 Commission and Bush administration official, the Zionist Jew who was selected to go through the motions and make believe to "investigate" his Zionist brother's false flag black ops attack...

Exhibit 41. Oh, what a coincidence! FEMA's entire emergency disaster management network had just happened to come into NYC on 9/10/01 the day right before our nation's biggest national emergency! Why were they there? None other than to hold "drills" of course! "It was very odd to me when I learned that FEMA and several other federal agencies had already moved into position at their command center at Pier 92 on September 10th, one day BEFORE the attacks." — Kurt Sonnenfeld, former Director of Broadcast Operations for FEMA's National Emergency Response Team.

Exhibit 42. Talking about drills, what another amazing pure coincidence that we just happened to have a major battle fleet on its way to the Persian Gulf to do what? Hold more "drills" there of course! Golly gee whiz, they "coincidentally" arrived there where we needed them to attack the those "evil bastards that attacked us" just when we needed them to be there! Doh!

Exhibit 43. In all criminal investigations, law enforcement officials ALWAYS follow the money trail to get the "top dogs", the financiers of the criminal operations. As for 911, after lots of pussy footing the issue of who the financiers were. It was finally proclaimed that "it did not matter"! Why? Because the trail led directly to CIA, Mossad and Pakistan ISI intelligence agencies! (who the CIA works with) Doh! The ISI terrorist money man General Ahmad was hanging out with the top brass at the CIA, the PentaCON and the White house before, during and after the days of the 911 attacks! LOL, nothing to see here folks, now go mind you own business...

Exhibit 44. The day after 911, ALL air traffic was closed, except for ONE plane that was given high level clearance to leave: the Bin Laden family plane! All the while they were telling the world that "Bin Laden did it" Huh?

Exhibit 45. JFK assassination had the indestructible "magic bullet", the sheeple ate that up hook line and sinker, so what is their new work of art without a: MAGIC PASSPORT! How does the preposterous story go? A plane hits the north tower, EXPLODES INTO A MASSIVE FIREBALL, where the plane and everything in it gets completely pulverized into vapor, (supposedly including the indestructible black boxes designed to survive plane crashes) disintegrated into itty bitty dust particles, breaking the laws of physics and supposedly melts STEEL yet one of the would be "hijackers" reality-defying passport (made out of PAPER) was supposedly thrown intact from that cataclysmic fireball and miraculously lands on the ground in pristine condition to be "found" out of 1.6 million tons of debris in a matter of hours by an FBI agent! LMAO!!!

Exhibit 46. NONE of the names of any of the so called "hijackers" appear in any lists of any airline passenger flight manifests! The passenger manifests can be viewed online. Not one single Arabic sounding name is to be found on any of the passenger manifests! Doh! None of the "hijackers" appear in ANY airline security video footage either, going through metal detectors or boarding any planes either! Ummm.... How on earth did all these Arabs get on all those planes? To this date not one of the so called "hijackers" has ever been proven by any means, video surveillance, documentation or whatever to have actually been on ANY of the flights. All we have is the ALLEGED claims of the Bush & Company crime syndicate propaganda ministry's word for it.

Exhibit 47. A bunch of the "hijackers" are alive and well walking around today! LOL! Absolutely NO ATTEMPT has been made to explain that one! The official story still stands: "it was those official 19 hijackers." Absolutely no changes in names or details have been updated to this date to account for the live hijacker "terrorists". Doh!

Exhibit 48. Oh, why won't they release the black box data? Doh! We are still waiting. Golly gee... maybe because they will reveal it is all a bunch of bull shit lies they are telling us and don't want us to listen to the real data?

Exhibit 49. It seems that everyone has forgotten that the Twin Towers WERE meticulously SPECIFICALLY DESIGNED to withstand direct MULTIPLE impacts by large jet planes, per tower (hello!) by planes roughly the same size as the ones that hit it... that carry full jet fuel tanks! Yet still remain standing. They were designed to withstand EXACTLY this type of impact of each building being hit by not one, but multiple planes and stay standing...

Exhibit 50. The dancing Israelis on that roof. Four Israelis were arrested after they were found dancing and celebrating on a NJ rooftop as they were filming both of the plane impacts on the twin towers. It turns out that they were Mossad agents and after being held for some time were just released and the entire episode was swept under the rug. Well these guys later appeared on TV in their home country proudly explaining that they were on that rooftop "to document" the plane crashes. What is even more bizarre is the fact that they were there filming BEFORE THE FIRST PLANE STRUCK! Wow, how nice of Bin Laden, sending them a memo to the Israeli Mossad so they could be in place to record the events for posterity?...

Exhibit 51. One of the largest container shipping companies in the world; ZIM a company partially owned by ISRAEL forfeited a $55,000 security deposit when out of nowhere, without saying a thing, (their lease was scheduled to end just a several months later!) they suddenly packed up all their equipment and moved out of the World Trade Towers ONE WEEK prior to them being demolished. Later, FBI agent Michael Dick, who was investigating Israeli spying before and after 9/11 and looking into the suspicious move, was removed from his duties by the head of the Justice Department's criminal division, Michael Chertoff, Israeli operative.

(Interesting FYI: Chertoff: Russian. n. Common translation: "son of the devil.")

Exhibit 52. What ever happened with the Israeli terrorists and their VAN FULL OF EXPLOSIVES that was stopped near the George Washington bridge the day of the 9/11 attacks? They were working for the Mossad front company called Urban Moving Systems under the direction of Dominic Suter, a Mossad agent who fled to Israel right after 9/11. The operatives that got caught with the vans were never charged and disappeared from media radar and ordered sent back home by Homeland Security Director Michael Chertoff, they were never to be heard of again...

Exhibit 53. Top British officials, former CIA director George Tenet, former Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill and many others officially stated that the Iraq war was planned BEFORE 9/11.

Exhibit 54. Who was in charge of U.S. Homeland Security at the time? Dual citizenship, Israeli citizen and double agent Zionist Jew Michael Chertoff.

Exhibit 55. Multi-ton steel beams were blown HORIZONTALLY (as in ejected and sent flying sideways) landing several football fields away. Another FIRST for an alleged “structural collapse.”

Exhibit 56. Ground Zero rescue worker Mike Mallone, who reported seeing one of the four black boxes removed from the site, and was told of two others – and who was told by the FBI that if he talked about it, "there would be a problem." Investigative journalist Dave Lindorff, who was told "off the record" by a contact in the National Transportation Safety Board, which investigated the boxes, that all four had been recovered by the FBI and taken away, though officially, the contact said, this would be denied. Air crash investigator Dale Leppard, who said that the bright orange heat-resistant boxes were never lost Yet the 9/11 Commission Report claimed that the boxes from American 11 and United 175 were never found...

Exhibit 57. In 2001 it was IMPOSSIBLE to make cell phones from high attitudes (hello! No cell phone towers were in range 50,000 feet in the air! DUH! You know what that’s like even while standing on EARTH not far from a major town or city and not getting a signal). There was no technology in existence at the time to enable cell phone calls from the height that the planes were flying at the time. Yet an entire Hollywood fairytale narrative was conjured up based upon just this ludicrous notion. Furthermore:

David Ray Griffin on the FBI's 2006 admission that, although US Solicitor General Ted Olson had reported receiving two calls from his wife, CNN commentator Barbara Olson on Flight 77, the evidence indicates that she attempted only one call and that it was "unconnected" and hence lasted "zero seconds."

The technology to make cell phone calls from while in flight, thousands of feet above the ground, thousands of feet away from the nearest cellphone tower was NOT invented and implemented (and when it was ready, on a limited basis) until sometime in 2004.

Exhibit 58. The subsequent farce of an investigation that was mounted, The 9/11 Commission consisted of establishment status quo and Bush Administration officials who were very close to the CIA and military industrial complex.

Exhibit 59: Within weeks of the 9-11 attacks the FBI and military intelligence experts held secret meetings with Hollywood screenwriters to help them come up with scripts for future terrorist attack scenarios!

Exhibit 60: Mysterious Deaths of key 9/11 Witnesses. Many people who were key witnesses or publically opposing the official narrative with valuable sources just up and committed “suicide” or had unfortunate “accidents” right before they were to reveal their testimonies/evidence. Here is a current YouTube link that will most likely not be working by the time you read this due to the fact that, yes... it WILL eventually be censored and removed by the powers that be. Here is the link to the video “Mysterious Deaths of 9/11 Witnesses.”

Exhibit 61: Box cutters. Who said and came up with the notion that the so called “terrorists” had box cutters. How in the world did this person come up with that statement since every “hijacked” plane blew up to smithereens leaving no evidence of anything, not one of those planes left a shoe, seat, luggage, absolutely no identifiable items. But low and behold a government spokesman that conducted the world's fastest investigation in human history, within minutes of the attacks claimed it was 19 "Al-CIAda" hijackers with box cutters! The supposedly surprised establishment with supposedly no clue about anything that happened that day yet their propaganda mouthpieces produced neatly organized dossiers complete with pictures identifying all the alleged hijackers while the flames were still red hot and firemen were battling the blazes. Box cutters? How would they know they had box cutters when no one lived to tell the tale?!!!

Exhibit 62: On May 8, 2001 Dick Cheney bypassed established structure and appointed himself to the job of coordinating reaction to domestic terror attacks. A job that was always done by seasoned trained professionals. Likewise: On June 1, 2001 the order of authority to shoot down hijacked aircraft was given to Rumsfeld. The authority was taken from field commanders. It was rescinded shortly after 9/11.

Exhibit 63: Senior Pentagon officials cancelled flights on Sept 10 for the following day. There was a 'schedule change' the night before September 11. This enabled Jim Pierce to escape death at the World Trade Center. Jim Pierce was President Bush's cousin.

Exhibit 64: The Hijackers Are Played by: Nine hijackers that were identified by the United States have been found alive or they are known to have died years ago. Seven of the September 11 hijackers trained on US military bases. Five hijackers lived in a motel just outside the gates of the National Security Agency at Fort Meade, Maryland.

Mohamed Atta enjoyed pork chops, drank to excess, and did cocaine while he attended the International Officer's School at Maxwell Air Force Base. Saeed Alghamdi, Ahmed Alnami, and Ahmed Alghamdi listed the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Florida, as their permanent address on their driver's licenses. Even Hamza Alghamdi was connected to the Pensacola base. The Florida operation base of September 11 hijackers was in the congressional district of Porter Goss. Porter Goss sponsored the PATRIOT Act.

Inside a rental car, Mohammed Atta left a will, a Koran, a driver's license, and a "how to fly planes" video at the airport. Excuse me- Micky here –say isn't this a little "too pat" here? It's like the classic frame-up in a movie. Kill somebody, then put the loaded evidence under the seat of the patsy's car!

On Sept 10, Atta and two Arab men spent hundreds on drinks and lap dances as they spewed anti-American sentiments at Florida strip club. A copy of the Quran and a business card were left behind.

The flight school records of Florida Huffman Aviation disappeared when Jeb Bush loaded them onto a C-130 military cargo plane. The plane was bound for Washington in the early morning hours of September 12th.

Mohamed Atta allegedly flew Flight 11. He passed directly over Indian Point nuclear power plant en route. If he had hit the power plant, it would have rendered the United States northeast corridor uninhabitable for thousands of years.

Wally Hilliard was owner of Atta's flight school. Although 43 lbs of heroin were found on board Wally Hilliard's LearJet no charges were brought. This occurred just three weeks after Atta enrolled. It was the biggest seizure ever in Central Florida. Hilliard's plane had made 30-round trips to Venezuela with the same passengers who always paid cash. Hilliard's plane was supplied by a pair of drug smugglers. These are the same drug smugglers who outfitted a plane for CIA drug runner Barry Seal. September 11 commissioner Richard Ben-Veniste had been Barry Seal's attorney before Seal's murder.

An amazing amount of confusion exists regarding the number of passengers claimed to have been on the planes, which in aggregate were only 27% full.

Investigators for the Congressional Joint Inquiry discovered that an FBI informant had hosted and rented a room to two hijackers in 2000. The Inquiry sought to interview the informant. The FBI refused. The FBI hid him. A high-level FBI official stated that the blocking maneuvers were under orders from the White House.

Exhibit 65: A World Trade Center tenant thinks "they had an inkling something was going on." According to the tenant, there was an "unusual" amount of evacuations from World Trade Center weeks before attacks. A two week heightened security was lifted days before the attacks. Bomb-sniffing dogs were called off.

Exhibit 66: Governor George Pataki's New York City office moved out of the WorldTradeCenter to new offices on Third Avenue. This was just months before the attacks.

Exhibit 67: In July 2001 John Ashcroft stopped flying on commercial aircraft. This was due to "security" considerations.

Exhibit 68: FBI agent Colleen Rowley's Zacarias Moussaoui investigation was so thwarted that her colleagues joked that Bin Laden must have an FBI mole. This was just weeks before September 11, 2001, Exhibit 69: FBI's John O'Neill was obsessive about pursuing Bin Laden's terror network. He was pressured to resign. He was offered a World Trade Center security chief job. He died in the collapse on 9/11. It was his first day on the job.

Exhibit 70: The plug on Muslim websites was pulled days before 9/11 by the US.

Exhibit 71: In April 2004 Bush crime syndicate gagged FBI translator Sibel Edmonds from speaking to the 9/11 Commission about the foreknowledge of an attack, serious acts of security breaches, cover-ups, and intentional blocking of intelligence. The truth was censored and silenced yet again.

Exhibit 72: Famous football star Pat Tillman turned famous soldier and propaganda poster boy for the invasions/occupations in the middle east... until he saw and knew too much. He was about to go public, but someone that famous stating the truth could send their house of cards falling down. He was soon executed close range with several shots to the head. Official narrative: "friendly fire." Nothing else to see here folks, now run along.

Exhibit 73: Plamegate. Then there was the who Valery Plame affair where her husband Joseph Wilson was about to expose the administration's lies about the bogus uranium yellowcake from Niger. (Remember this was the slam dunk "evidence" of WMDs used to justify the bogus attack, invasion and occupation of Iraq) The administration's efforts to contain the situation and silence Wilson included leaking his wife's CIA identity which lead to Scooter Libby's successful prosecution. But as we all know, Bush commuted the sentence of his fellow Mafioso due to the fact that Libby was only acting on behalf of the Bush/Cheney. No one ever spent a day in jail. Nothing more to see here folks, now go back to sleep.... Sleep.... Sleep....

These are just but a few key ridiculous inconsistencies, lies, cover-ups, etc. of the the 9/11 cataclysmic event that opened the doors to uninhibited, unchallenged change, giving the ruling elite carte blanche approval to literally re-organize the world, spearheaded by their ~~blood-thirsty~~ wonderful most benevolent military industrial complex... their "ministry of peace." Don't worry, everything is going to be alright, they are "protect you" from the boogeyman...

PROOF Bombs Took Down 9/11 Towers The 9/11 Documentary You Can't Debunk! - video

I was there on 9/11... it was the outrageous blatant lies that defied logic and physics that made me sit upright and take notice that something was afoot here, then I witnessed the massive cover-up machine in action in conjunction with the yaw dropping omission, disinfo, misinfo hyperbole campaign that finally made me start to look into the matter further down the road. You can thank 911 for my KNOWING that our government was involved in this murderous event up to its bloody neck. I was there first hand seeing the PREPOSTEROUS bullshit being fed to the entire world, consequently piquing my curiosity which latter lead me into conducting this research project. No one on the planet can EVER deny all the other explosions that occurred in those buildings. Today the propaganda spin doctors have officially transformed all those explosions that occurred throughout the buildings into figments of our imaginations. They want you to go back to sleep, sleep.... Sleep.

Scientists Find Unexploded Nano-Thermite charges in the Dust of the WTC Collapses

This is by far the most explosive 2009 news story about 9/11. Some call it the loaded gun of 9/11. Most agree to say this probably the final nail in the coffin of the official story.

Imagine yourself turning the TV on and hearing a news anchor say “BREAKING NEWS! Ladies and gentlemen, we have just learned that scientists from 3 different countries released a scientific paper detailing what they have found in many samples of the World Trade Center dust. They claim that they have found unexploded particles of a very high-tech explosive, which would be a military-grade explosive called Nano-Thermite. We have contacted earlier today, the lead authors of this paper, Prof. Steven Jones from BYU and Dr. Niels Harrit from the University of Copenhagen in Denmark who will join us later. They have both confirmed that this explosive material was used in the destruction of the Twin Towers, and the 47-story skyscraper known as ‘Building 7’. We never really showed you the collapse of Building 7 before tonight because we didn’t really know about it ourselves. We will show you all of this later, but now, let’s move to Washington where President Barack Obama is just about to give a special address regarding this Nano-Thermite.”

Wouldn’t that be great to hear?

But back to reality. No mainstream media except a few in Denmark and Russia, ever seriously covered what will most probably turn out to be the most important news story of the past decade. It will probably be called the Nanothermitigate. You have read it here first!

Scientists have discovered residues of unexploded Nano-Thermite, a high-tech military-grade explosive in all samples of the WTC dust. This stuff is not made in a cave in Afghanistan. They have released their peer-reviewed paper on April 3rd, 2009 in the Open Chemical Physics Journal of Bentham Open. The paper titled Active Thermitic Material Discovered in Dust from the 9/11 World Trade Center Catastrophe can be downloaded on the Bentham Open Access website.

It is a matter of the utmost importance to point out that members of WeAreChange handed out – on record – copies of this scientific paper to Vice President Joe Biden, White House Press Secretary Robert Gibbs and to several Congress people.

We are waiting for them to take serious action in finding out why this explosive high-tech material is present in the WTC dust. We are also calling on all journalists and other media professionals to forget about the term “conspiracy theories” for a few minutes and to seriously investigate this story.

These findings alone should be reason enough for a new independent investigation with subpoena powers. This historic Danish interview with Dr. Niels Harrit, lead author of this paper, was the first (and rare) television interview to talk about nano-thermite since April, 2009.

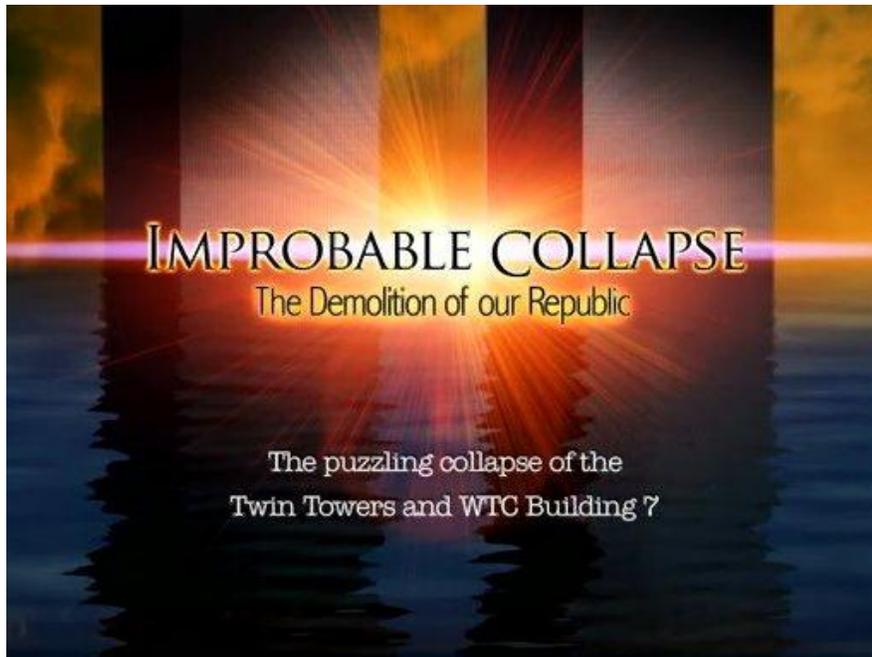

Folks, the fact that more than 8+ years have now gone by and all of America is so fucking brain dead STUPID gullible, they have absolutely no powers of analytical thinking or reasoning, frankly I am disgusted. It doesn't take a freaking rocket scientist to figure out that SOMETHING is seriously major off mark here. Do we need to resurrect Einstein from his grave to spell it out for us? The official bullshit has piled so high, the stench so blaring, yet the media remains oblivious and complicit, millions of Americans can't smell the stench either. For they all go along their merry ways like sheep being spoon fed cow dung. Yummy give me more!

Watch this and you will believe 9/11 was an inside Job - video

9/11 Inside Job - The Most Damning Evidence Yet! - video

Even former Italian prime minister Francesco Cossiga has touched on the issue suggesting that the events of 9/11 were none other than a Mossad/CIA joint venture inside job:

"All the [intelligence services] of America and Europe... now know well that the disastrous attack has been planned by the CIA and the Mossad in order to put under accusation the Arabic countries and in order to induce the western powers to take part.. in Iraq [and] Afghanistan," the Italian ex-premier was quoted by Corriere della Sera as saying.

The government propaganda ministry machine with its Zionist news media bedfellows has since taken the stance of ridiculing anyone that comes out questioning valid points such as the myriad of mind boggling facts mentioned above. Instead of serious dialog and inquiry into these issues we witness non-stop efforts to cover everything up.

You would think that our loving caring government would do anything for its people, they are in elected positions to "serve the people" right? Not anymore it seems perfectly obvious. Weeping widows & activists seeking just the truth and further investigations, instead get regularly labeled as wacky leftist tinfoil hat mental cases. At an ever increasing rate many activists and seekers of truth are being arrested and jailed for their efforts to even get the government to listen.

I don't know, it all stinks to high hell, the stench of all the bullshit is so blatantly obvious. The official stance to this day is: "shut the hell up and move along, nothing to see here folks"..... Show up with a camera or camcorder to record anything and you now get arrested! Land of the free? Home of liberty? Please, please, please wake up folks... Something is soooo very wrong with this picture.....

Enlightening 911 documentary: Core of Corruption - Video

False Flag Terrorism:

"False flag terrorism" occurs when elements within a government stage a secret operation whereby government forces pretend to be a targeted enemy while attacking their own forces or people. The attack is then falsely blamed on the enemy in order to justify going to war against that enemy. Or as Wikipedia defines it:

False flag operations are covert operations conducted by governments, corporations, or other organizations, which are designed to deceive the public in such a way that the operations appear as if they are being carried out by other entities. The name is derived from the military concept of flying false colors; that is, flying the flag of a country other than one's own. False flag operations are not limited to war and counter-insurgency operations, and have been used in peace-time; for example, during Italy's strategy of tension.

The term comes from the old days of wooden ships, when one ship would hang the flag of its enemy before attacking another ship in its own navy. Because the enemy's flag was hung instead of the flag of the real country of the attacking ship, it was called a "false flag" attack.

There are many examples of false flag attacks through history. For example, it is widely known that the Nazis, in Operation Himmler, faked attacks on their own people and resources which they blamed on the Poles, to justify the invasion of Poland. And it has now been persuasively argued — as shown, for example, in this History Channel video — that Nazis set fire to their own parliament, the Reichstag, and blamed that fire on others. The Reichstag fire was the watershed event which justified Hitler's seizure of power and suspension of liberties.

And in the early 1950s, agents of an Israeli terrorist cell operating in Egypt planted bombs in several buildings, including U.S. diplomatic facilities, then left behind "evidence" implicating the Arabs as the culprits (one of the bombs detonated prematurely, allowing the Egyptians to identify the bombers). Israel's Defense Minister was brought down by the scandal, along with the entire Israeli government. Click here for verification.

The Russian KGB apparently conducted a wave of bombings in Russia in order to justify war against Chechnya and put Vladimir Putin into power (see also this essay and this report). And the Turkish government has been caught bombing its own and blaming it on a rebel group in order to justify a crackdown on that group. Muslim governments also play this game. For example, the well-respected former Indonesian president claimed that their government had a role in the Bali bombings.

This sounds nuts, right? You've never heard of this "false flag terrorism," where a government attacks its own people then blames others in order to justify its goals, right? And you are skeptical of the statements discussed above? Please take a look at these historical quotes:

"If tyranny and oppression come to this land, it will be in the guise of fighting a foreign enemy." - U.S. President James Madison

"Why of course the people don't want war ... But after all it is the leaders of the country who determine the policy, and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a democracy, or a fascist dictatorship, or a parliament, or a communist dictatorship ... Voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All you have to do is to tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger. It works the same in any country." - Hermann Goering, Nazi leader.

What about the U.S.?

Is it logical to assume that, even if other countries have carried out false flag operations (especially horrible regimes such as, say, the Nazis or Stalin), the U.S. has never done so? Well, as documented by the New York Times, Iranians working for the C.I.A. in the 1950's posed as Communists and staged bombings in Iran in order to turn the country against its democratically-elected president (see also this essay).

And, as confirmed by a former Italian Prime Minister, an Italian judge, and the former head of Italian counterintelligence, NATO, with the help of the Pentagon and CIA, carried out terror bombings in Italy and blamed communists, in order to rally people's support for their governments in Europe in their fight against communism. As one participant in this formerly-secret program stated: "You had to attack civilians, people, women, children, innocent people, unknown people far removed from any political game. The reason was quite simple. They were supposed to force these people, the Italian public, to turn to the state to ask for greater security."

Moreover, recently declassified U.S. Government documents show that in the 1960s, the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff signed off on a plan code-named Operation Northwoods to blow up American airplanes (using an elaborate plan involving the switching of airplanes), and also to commit terrorist acts on American soil, and then to blame it on the Cubans in order to justify an invasion of Cuba. The operation was not carried out only because the Kennedy administration refused to implement these Pentagon plans.

For lots more on the astonishing Operation Northwoods, see the ABC news report; the official declassified documents; and watch this interview with James Bamford, the former Washington Investigative Producer for ABC's World News Tonight with Peter Jennings. One quote from the Northwoods documents states: "A 'Remember the Maine' incident could be arranged: We could blow up a US ship in Guantanamo Bay and blame Cuba. Casualty lists in US newspapers would cause a helpful wave of national indignation."

What about Al-Qaeda?

You might think Al-Qaeda is different. It is very powerful, organized, and out to get us, right? Consider this Los Angeles Times article, reviewing a BBC documentary entitled The Power of Nightmares, which shows that the threat from Al Qaeda has been vastly overblown (and see this article on who is behind the hype). And former National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski testified to the Senate that the war on terror is "a mythical historical narrative."

And did you know that the FBI had penetrated the cell which carried out the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, but had – at the last minute – cancelled the plan to have its FBI infiltrator substitute fake powder for real explosives, against the infiltrator's strong wishes? See also this TV news report.

Have you heard that the CIA is alleged to have met with Bin Laden two months before 9/11? Did you know that years after 9/11 the FBI first stated that it did not have sufficient evidence to prosecute Bin Laden for 9/11? The agency apparently still does not have any hard evidence linking Bin Laden to the crime (see also this partial confirmation by the Washington Post). And did you see the statement by the CIA commander in charge of the capture that the U.S. let Bin Laden escape from Afghanistan?

Have you heard that the anthrax attacks – which were sent along with notes purportedly written by Islamic terrorists – used a weaponized anthrax strain from the top U.S. bioweapons facility? Indeed, top bioweapons experts have stated that the anthrax attack may have been a CIA test "gone wrong." For more on this, see this article by a former NSA and naval intelligence officer and this statement by a distinguished law professor and bioterror expert (and this one).

It is also interesting that the only Congress-members mailed anthrax letters were key Democrats, and that the attacks occurred one week before passage of the freedom-curtailling PATRIOT Act, which seems to have scared them and the rest of Congress into passing that act without even reading it. And though it may be a coincidence, White House staff began taking the anti-anthrax medicine before the Anthrax attacks occurred.

Even General William Odom, former director of the National Security Agency, said "By any measure the US has long used terrorism. In '78-79 the Senate was trying to pass a law against international terrorism, yet in every version they produced, the lawyers said the US would be in violation" (the audio is here).

Why Does This Matter?

Please read what the following highly respected people are saying:

Former prominent Republican U.S. Congressman and CIA official Bob Barr stated that the U.S. is close to becoming a totalitarian society and that elements in government are using fear to try to bring this about. Republican U.S. congressman Ron Paul stated that the government "is determined to have martial law." He also said a contrived "Gulf of Tonkin-type incident may occur to gain popular support for an attack on Iran." Former National Security Adviser Brzezinski told the Senate that a terrorist act might be carried out in the U.S. and falsely blamed on Iran to justify war against that nation.

The former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the Reagan administration, Paul Craig Roberts, who is called the "Father of Reaganomics" and is a former editor and columnist for the Wall Street Journal, BusinessWeek, and Scripps Howard News Service, has said:

"Ask yourself: Would a government that has lied us into two wars and is working to lie us into an attack on Iran shrink from staging 'terrorist' attacks in order to remove opposition to its agenda? ... If the Bush administration wants to continue its wars in the Middle East and to entrench the 'unitary executive' at home, it will have to conduct some false flag operations that will both frighten and anger the American people and make them accept Bush's declaration of 'national emergency' and the return of the draft. Alternatively, the administration could simply allow any real terrorist plot to proceed without hindrance."

General Tommy Franks stated that if another terrorist attack occurs in the United States "the Constitution will likely be discarded in favor of a military form of government." Daniel Ellsberg, the famous Pentagon Papers whistleblower, said "if there is another terror attack, I believe the president will get what he wants. And what he wants is a new Patriot Act, one that will make the current Patriot Act look like the Bill of Rights."

Former UN Weapons Inspector Scott Ritter stated before the Iraq war started that there were no weapons of mass destruction. He is now saying that he would not rule out staged government terror by the U.S. government. And British Parliament Member George Galloway stated that "there is a very real danger" that the American government will stage a false flag terror attack in order to justify war against Iran and to gain complete control domestically.

The abundance of reliable information in this essay suggests that not only has the U.S. in the past conducted false flag operations, but there is a possibility that 9/11 involved some element of this deceit, and a future false flag operation cannot be ruled out. Let us spread this news to all who care so that we might build the critical mass necessary to stop these secret operations and work together for a more caring civil society.

Special Note: This essay is an edited version of the well researched document available at <http://pledgeforamerica.com/2.html>. For a collection of reliable, verifiable information suggesting that 9/11 may have been a form of false flag operation, please see the 9/11 Information Center at <http://www.WantToKnow.info/911information>.

THE LAVON AFFAIR

IS HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF?

In 1954, Israeli agents working in Egypt planted bombs in several buildings, including a United States diplomatic facility, and left evidence behind implicating Arabs as the culprits. The ruse would have worked, had not one of the bombs detonated prematurely, allowing the Egyptians to capture and identify one of the bombers, which in turn led to the round up of an Israeli spy ring.

Some of the spies were from Israel, while others were recruited from the local Jewish population. Israel responded to the scandal with claims in the media that there was no spy ring, that it was all a hoax perpetrated by "anti-Semites".

Honorable Chairman, members of the Knesset. The trial that started two days ago in Egypt against 13 Jews is disturbing everybody and brings about an emotional turmoil and deep bitterness in the country [Israel] and in the whole Jewish world. Indeed, it must cause concern and anxiety in the hearts of all justice-seeking people around the universe. The Committee for Foreign Affairs and Security has already dealt and will further deal with this serious issue. But at this stage I feel obliged to make a short announcement. In my speech in the Knesset on November 15 I said "The uncontrolled behavior of Egypt . . . does not indicate . . . that its leadership . . . is seeking moderate approaches and peace. How far Egypt is from this spirit [of moderation and peace] can be learned from the plot woven in Alexandria, the show-trial which is being organized there against a group of Jews who became victims of false accusations of espionage, and who, it seems, are being threatened and tortured in order to extract from them confessions in imaginary crimes." This gloomy assumption was verified and was revealed to be a cruel and shocking fact, by the declaration of the accused Victorin Ninoy in the military court in Cairo that was published this morning. [According to this declaration] she was tortured during the interrogation which preceded the trial and by that torture they extracted from her false confessions to crimes which did not happen. The government of Israel strongly protests this practice, which revives in the Middle East the methods used by the Inquisition in the Middle Ages. The government of Israel strongly rejects the false accusations of the general Egyptian prosecution, which relegates to the Israeli authorities horrible deeds and diabolic conspiracies against the security and the international relations of Egypt. From this stand we have protested many times in the past persecution and false accusations of Jews in various countries. We see in the innocent Jews accused by the Egyptian authorities of such severe crimes, victims of vicious hostility to the State of Israel and the Jewish people. If their crime is being Zionist and devoted to Israel, millions of Jews around the world share this crime. We do not think that the rulers of Egypt should be interested in being responsible for shedding Jewish blood. We call upon all those who believe in peace, stability and human relations among nations to prevent fatal injustice.

But as the public trial progressed, it was evident that Israel had indeed been behind the bombing. Eventually, Israeli's Defense Minister Pinhas Lavon was brought down by the scandal, although it appears that he was himself the victim of a frame-up by the real authors of the bombing project, code named "Operation Susannah."

It is therefore a fact that Israel has a prior history of setting off bombs with the intent to blame Arabs for them.

This is not the only example of a "False Flag" operation designed to trick the United States into attacking Israel's enemies. According to Victor Ostrovsky, a Mossad defector now living in Canada, Ronald Reagan was tricked into bombing Libya by means of a radio transmitter smuggled into Tripoli by the Mossad, which broadcast messages designed to fool the United States into thinking Libya was about to launch a massive terror attack on the west. On the basis of this fake evidence, the US bombed Libya, killing Khadaffi's daughter.

The Jews of Iraq is a story by a Jewish writer revealing yet another false flag operation where Israelis used bombs and planted the blame on Arabs

More recently, Captain Ward Boston, who served as senior legal counsel for the Navy's Court of Inquiry into the Israeli attack on USS Liberty, has come forward to report that the Court of Inquiry was ORDERED to conclude that the attack was an accident by President Lyndon Johnson. In hindsight, given the use of unmarked aircraft and boats by Israel during the actual attack, it appears that Israel intended to sink the US ship and frame Egypt for the attack, tricking the US into the war against Egypt.

So, with this established history, it is now time to re-examine some facts about the World Trade Towers:

1. There is no proof at all of who was actually on the hijacked airplanes last 9/11. Even the head of the FBI admits that the only hard evidence are the names used by the hijackers on faked IDs. At least 7 of the men whose names were on those IDs have since turned up alive. Another had died back in 1999. None of the names of the alleged hijackers were on the passenger lists of the four aircraft. We do not know who was on those planes, only that we are supposed to think they were Arab Muslims.
2. The night before the attacks on the World Trade Towers, men using those stolen identities visited bars and strip clubs, making sure they would be noticed and remembered by all they met. Students of Islam will confirm that no Muslim devout enough to be willing to commit suicide would spend the night before he was to meet Allah violating so many of Islam's laws regarding alcohol and nude women. This suggests the planting of a false trail ahead of time, doubly so because we know the identities were stolen. Coupled with the deception of the faked Osama "confession" video tape, it is beyond question that deception and fraud exists in the World Trade Towers case.
3. Contrary to early reports (including a statement by George Bush) of large numbers of Israelis being killed in the 9-11 attacks, only two Israelis died, both passengers on the airplanes. No Israelis working in or near the World Trade Towers died. The foreign press has long rumored that Israelis were given an advance warning not to go to work on 9-11, and in the case of Odigo, an Israeli company with offices located near the World Trade Towers, the existence of a warning message sent before the four aircraft had even left the ground is an established fact. That someone in Israel knew of the attacks ahead of time is beyond question.
4. There is an Israeli spy ring. As in the Lavon Affair, Israeli assets have been trying to dismiss the spy ring story (apparently with the FBI's help) while accusing those who refuse to be silent of "anti-Semitism". The lesson from the Lavon case is that Israel's strident denials and smear campaigns are a sure sign that something is indeed being covered up, even as the "art students" continue to be deported. And, as a US Official stated in Carl Cameron's suppressed story on the Israeli Spy/Bugging Ring, evidence does exist that links the arrested Israeli spies with 9-11, but that this evidence has been classified by the United States Government, probably to keep from looking like total idiots at having been so easily fooled for the Nth time.

The United States has been deceived before by Israeli covert operations with the intention of harming American relations with the Arab nations. Israel has never hesitated to kill Americans (USS Liberty) or allow Americans to be killed (The bombing in Beirut that killed 241 American Marines) when it serves a purpose. And, the fact remains that Israel has exploited 9-11 from the instant when Ehud Barak appeared on the BBC moments after the attacks on the World Trade Towers (holding a prepared speech) to the aggression against the Palestinian people which has escalated non-stop ever since 9-11.

Who is responsible for the World Trade Towers attacks? We truly do not know. What we do know beyond all doubt is that someone went to a great deal of effort to provide an easy and at times all-too-obvious a target to blame. Our nation was fooled by that stunt before. The result was that our money and the blood of our children was spent to attack someone else's enemies.

There is an old saying that goes, "Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on ME!"

There is another saying, "We won't get fooled again!"

Israel Honors Jewish Terrorists Who Attacked America

Far left: Golda Meir meeting with the man who planned the Lavon Affair: Pinhas Lavon. Next, the photo that appeared in Haaretz with the caption “President Katzav presented three surviving members of the ‘Lavon affair’ with certificates of appreciation at a Jerusalem ceremony Wednesday.”

Israel honors Jewish terrorists who attacked America – Israeli President calls them “heroes”

The Israeli President, Moshe Katzav, in recent formal ceremonies honored the Israeli agents who made terrorist attacks against American sites in Egypt hoping to provoke an American war with Egypt.

In ceremonies reported by the major Israeli daily newspaper, Haaretz, Israeli President Moshe Katsav stated the following at a ceremony honoring the Jewish terrorists who attacked American facilities:

“Although it is still a sensitive situation, we decided now to express our respect for these heroes,” President Moshe Katzav said after presenting the three surviving members of the bomber ring with certificates of appreciation at a Jerusalem ceremony.

In the Lavon Affair, named for the Israeli Defense Minister at the time, Pinhas Lavon, the Israeli government launched a false flag, terrorist operation against American sites in Egypt hoping to provoke American bombing, retaliation and war against that nation. The Israeli terrorists targeted American sites such as American Cinemas and American libraries around Cairo. Only the premature detonation of one of the Jewish terrorist’s bombs led to the exposure and halt of the plot before the extensive loss of life and property.

If this terrorist operation would have been successful, not only would it have cost many American lives, it would have launched an American war against an innocent nation which in turn would have caused the death of many thousands of innocent American and Egyptian lives as well as untold billions of dollars.

Israel's terrorist plot against the United States in the Lavon Affair was one greatest acts of treachery that any nation has ever committed against an ongoing ally. There have certainly been many times in history where a nation attacked a supposed ally, but I know of no cases where an "ally" attacked another and then the attacked nation remained an ally and continued to support the attacking nation financially and militarily! For that to occur there has to be an incredible level of subversion in the attacked nation. And shockingly, this was only the first Israeli act of treachery against the nation that stood by Israel more than any other: America. There have repeated acts of Israeli terrorism and treachery against the United States of America.

In 1967, Israel attacked the USS Liberty with both fighter jets and torpedo boats in a surprise terrorist attack that killed 34 Americans and wounded 173. Both the U.S. Secretary of State at the time, Dean Rusk, and the Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Thomas Moorer, both have stated that it was a pre-meditated attack against the United States. (see "Attack on the Liberty" at www.davidduke.com)

In the Jonathan Pollard case, an Israeli spy devastated America's Eastern European Intelligence Network, and Israel honors Pollard today as a hero and lobbies for his release from American prison. (see "The Pollard Case" at www.davidduke.com)

And very recently, important figures in the Israeli lobby AIPAC, arguably the most powerful lobby in Washington, D.C., are under investigation by the FBI for spying against the United States. The fact that the President of the United States and most of the members of Congress have close ties to this lobby for a foreign nation, a lobby which is now in the middle of spy scandal should obviously be a huge story in America's press, but it is suppressed in the Jewish dominated American media.

Israel knew that the U.S. Government would certainly respond to terrorist attacks against it (supposedly by Egypt) — with bombing and war against that nation. Terrorist acts of war were committed against America and traditionally nations respond to such in kind.

But, once America discovered that it was Israel who committed such terrorist acts of war, why was there no military retaliation against the offending nation?

In fact, American money and even military equipment continued to Israel unabated. Such shows the high level of Israeli subversion and dare I say it, treason, in the United States Government. It also clearly reveals the Jewish supremacy in the press that has whitewashed and kept this treachery from the knowledge of 99 percent of American people. In fact, 99 percent of Americans will never hear of the Lavon Affair nor will they know anything about the recent Israeli government official ceremony that honored the Israelis who committed these terrorist acts against America.

For years Israel denied knowledge of the event, just as Israel denied the murderous attack on the USS Liberty, denied their involvement with the damaging spying of Jonathan Pollard, and denied the overwhelming evidence that indicates Israeli prior-knowledge of the 911 attack. (See my article, "How Israel Caused the 911 Attacks" at www.davidduke.com) The Israeli defense minister, Pinhas Lavon had to resign after the bungled terrorist attacks in Egypt, and the excuse was given that it was a "rogue operation." Yet, obviously, launching terrorist attacks against United States installations in Egypt that included American cinemas and libraries, would have certainly had to have been approved by the Israeli Prime Minister at the time, Golda Meir.

But now, the Israel government is having formal, public ceremonies honoring the Jewish terrorists that attacked American facilities! Now that's enormous Chutzpah when one considers Israel is receiving billions of American tax dollars every year, the lion's share of America's entire foreign aid budget, and the fact that America is the only major nation that defends Israeli crimes against the Palestinians in the U.N. Yet, it shows just how firmly Israel has the government and media of America in its grip that they can get away with honoring terrorists who have attacked America!

How can America still support a nation that formally honors those Jews who clearly committed terrorism against the United States?

Any President, Congressman or Senator that who supports sending Israel American tax dollars after the clear record of unrepentant Israeli terrorism and treachery against the United States, is equivalent to any American who sent money to the Japan after the attack at Pearl Harbor!

It is important to note that no Arab or Muslim government, including that of Saddam Hussein, has ever launched a terrorist attack against America. No Arab or Muslim government has ever had even a single, highly placed spy do damage to the United States. No Arab or Muslim nation has corrupted our political process with massive bribery, threats and coercion of thousands of U.S. politicians.

In truth, the Iraq War is just another form of a false flag operation like the Lavon Affair.

It was spawned by Israeli loyalists in the United States, Paul Wolfowitz, Richard Perle and coterie of Jewish supremacists (including the man in charge of the evidence of Iraqi misdeeds in the CIA , Stuart Cohen, who was behind much of the false intelligence) that led America into a war against Iraq, a nation that had never harmed and posed absolutely no threat at all to America.

This treasonous war was never a war for America, but only a war for Israel. It has so far led to the death of almost 1600 Americans, grievous injuries of up to 20,000 of our men and women, expenditures of a national treasure of over 300 billion dollars, damage to American business around the world, trillions of dollars in higher costs for oil and gas, and has only increased hatred against America and increased support for Al Qaeda and other anti-American terrorists.

And again, for what is all this the blood and treasure lost?

For Israel, that's what, a nation that honors terrorists who bombed American facilities!

My God in Heaven, when will real Americans wake up to this treachery and treason!

Here are some excerpts from the article in Haaretz and the article on the terrorist attack in Wikipedia

Israel honors Egyptian spies 50 years after fiasco

Wed., March 30, 2005

By Reuters

After half a century of reticence and recrimination, Israel on Wednesday honored nine Egyptian Jews recruited as agents-provocateur in what became one of the worst intelligence bumbles in the country's history. Israel was at war with Egypt when it hatched a plan in 1954 to ruin its rapprochement with the United States and Britain by firebombing sites frequented by foreigners in Cairo and Alexandria.

But Israeli hoped the attacks, which caused no casualties, would be blamed on local insurgents collapsed when the young Zionist bombers were caught and confessed at public trials. Two were hanged. The rest served jail terms and emigrated to Israel.

Embarrassed before the West, the fledgling Jewish state long denied involvement. It kept mum even after its 1979 peace deal with Egypt, fearing memories of the debacle could sour ties.

“Although it is still a sensitive situation, we decided now to express our respect for these heroes,” President Moshe Katzav said after presenting the three surviving members of the bomber ring with certificates of appreciation at a Jerusalem ceremony.

What went wrong in the “Lavon Affair” — after Pinhas Lavon, Israel’s defense minister when the plot came to light — remains a matter of debate in a country more used to tales of espionage coups...

The situation recurred in 1985, when U.S. Navy analyst Jonathan Pollard was sentenced to life imprisonment in the United States for passing military secrets to Israel’s scientific liaison office...

“As with Pollard, this (Lavon Affair) was a rogue operation,” said David Kimche, a former Mossad deputy chief. “We knew never to go down that road again...”

Meanwhile, the agents locked up in Egypt were ignored, excluded from several prisoner exchanges with Israel after the wars of 1956 and 1967. Now that they have been officially recognised in Israel, the former agents are campaigning for a full account of their operation to be included in the high-school syllabus.

“This is a great day for all of us, those who were hanged and those who died,” said Marcelle Ninio, the only female member of the cell. “We are happy we’ve got our honour back.

When you take a good long had look at all the KEY PEOPLE embedded in the KEY decision making positions when 9/11 happened, a remarkable pattern begins to emerge: The large part of all KEY leadership decision makers were by and large mostly all ZIONISTS... I would love nothing more than for this to be a massive coincidence, but it’s not...

It turns out EVERY SINGLE KEY PERSON that was in a position to cover up, manipulate, control, mislead and omit all the important factors, discourse, communication and information regarding everything that had to do with 9/11 was none other than a card carrying Zionist Jew embedded in high levels of our government. Now you explain THAT to me.

Here is another well work by another researcher who followed up on the Israeli Mossad/Zionist trail:

ISRAELI MOSSAD did 9/11 ALL THE PROOF IN THE WORLD!!

Make sure to check out this article entitled "A Tribute To Those Who Spoke Out" commemorating all of those honest, honorable and courageous Jews who had the heart and good will to put their own neck out on the line to speak out against this criminal cabal. To them we owe our gratitude and respect.

Figuring out exactly how 9/11 was done is the work of crime investigators or conspiracy hobbyists who will endlessly go on discussing and debating every minuscule and intricate detail of the event to no avail. It doesn't take a structural engineer to tell you that two 110 story buildings and a 47 story steel skyscraper plummeting to the ground at nearly free-fall speed requires the assistance of explosives. All you need is two eyes that can see and a brain that thinks to come to that sound conclusion. This is why it is of my opinion that more emphasis should be placed on the "who" instead of the "how". It should be obvious to anyone that discovering 'who did 9/11' is infinitely more important than discovering how they did it.

An Uncanny Prediction Comes True

First we start off with an unusual and eerie prediction that was made by a most suspicious individual. This prediction, in unison with the status of the person of who made it, is extremely indicative and foretelling of who planned and executed 9/11.

Isser Harel - Spymaster of the Israeli Intelligence Services. Director of Mossad and Shin Bet from 1952-1963.

In 1979, twenty-one years before September 11, 2001, Isser Harel predicted with uncanny accuracy the events of 9-11 to Michael D. Evans, an American supporter of Zionist extremists of the Jabotinsky sort.

On September 23, 1979, Evans visited Harel at his home in Israel and had dinner with him and Dr. Reuven Hecht, a senior adviser to then prime minister Menachem Begin.

In an editorial entitled "America the Target", published in the Jerusalem Post of September 30, 2001 Evans -- a Khazar Jew masquerading as a Christian -- asked Harel about Arab terrorism and if it would come to America. Harel told Evans that Arab terrorists would likely strike the "tallest building in New York City" because it was a "phallic symbol". The fact that 9/11 was planned by the Mossad through the admittance of Isser Harel is well documented and appears in a book written by Michael Evans. (See Article 7th Paragraph).

Securing Control of World Trade Center Complex

The first step in the preparation of the 9/11 attacks was to secure the control of the WTC into private hands. This was crucial to the success of 9/11 because without complete control over this complex there would be no opportunity or possibility of setting explosive charges in place as the coup de gras in bringing the towers to the ground.

In steps four key Jewish Crime Network assets:

1) Larry Silverstein -- Larry is a Jewish American businessman from New York. Larry obtained a 99 year lease on the entire world trade center complex on 24 July, 2001. The nearly worthless trade towers I should point out due to them being filled with asbestos that needed removal; a process that would have produced a cost that would have rivaled the cost of the lease itself. Larry explains his reason for purchasing the towers as "I felt a compelling urge to own them." Is this a believable reason coming from a supposed successful businessman? Larry had breakfast in "Windows on the World" restaurant (located in North Tower 107th Floor) every single morning. Larry was absent from this routine meeting on the morning of September the 11th. Larry's two offspring, who also worked in the WTC, also conveniently decided to take the day off. Either the Silverstein family is clairvoyant, or then knew exactly what was going down that day. Take your pick. Larry Silverstein scored more than $4.5 Billion in insurance money as a result of the destruction of his complex. Silverstein was personal friends with key player in Zionist controlled media Rupert Murdoch, former Israeli president & infamous Zionist war criminal Ariel Sharon, as well as Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu. Silverstein was such good friends with Benjamin Netanyahu that he would receive a phone call from him every single Sunday.

2) Frank Lowy-- Lowy, a Czechoslovakia born Jew, was the owner of Westfield America, one of the biggest shopping mall conglomerates in the world. Lowy leased the shopping concourse area called the Mall at the World Trade Center, made up of approximately 427,000 square feet of retail floor space. Frank Lowy has quite an interesting history. He was a member of the Golani Brigade, and fought in the Israeli war of independence. Before this he was a member of Hagganah, a Jewish terrorist organization. Frank Lowy spends three months of the year at his home in Israel and has been described by the Sydney Morning Herald as "a self-made man with a strong interest in the Holocaust™ and Israeli politics." He funded and launched the Israeli Institute for National Strategy and Policy, which will "operate within the framework of Tel Aviv University" in Israel. He is also close friends with many top Israeli officials such as Ehud Olmert, Ariel Sharon, Bibi Netanyahu, and Ehud Barak. He was also implicated in an Israeli Bank Scandal with Olmert. Frank Lowy steered clear of the WTC on 9/11. More information about Lowy can be further researched here.

Lease Transfer Authorization

3) Lewis Eisenberg -- This Jewish criminal personality was the head of the Port Authority of New York and authorized the lease transfer to his Zionist brethren Larry and Lowy. Eisenberg was a large contributor to the Bush-Cheney presidential campaign, as well as a partner in the Jewish bank Goldman-Sachs. Eisenberg has been both a member of the Planning Board of the United Jewish Appeal/United Jewish Federation pro-Israeli government pressure group in the U.S.

WTC Privatization

4) Ronald Lauder - Billionaire Estee Lauder Cosmetics magnate. He was the chairman of NY Governor George Pataki's commission on privatization. He is the key individual who lobbied for the privatization of the WTC (Source, 9th pp) -- but he also got the former Stewart Air Force Base to become privatized. Oddly, the flight paths of flight 175 and flight 11 converged directly over this airport.

Lauder is active in the following organizations: Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, Jewish National Fund, World Jewish Congress, American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, Anti-Defamation League, Jewish Theological Seminary. Ronald Lauder was elected president of the World Jewish Congress on 10 June, 2007.

Lauder founded a school for the Mossad in Herzliya, Israel called the Lauder School of Government Diplomacy and Strategy. He is the key Sayan involved in the preparation of 9/11.

WTC Security In Zionist Hands

The second crucial aspect of control that needed to be established in order to pull off 9/11 was to gain control of security of the WTC complex. This way, Mossad explosive experts -- that just so happened to be in town just prior to and on 9/11 -- could be readily allowed access to strategic areas of the buildings in order to prep for the demolitions.

The contract to run security at the WTC was designated to Kroll Associates after the 1993 WTC bombing. Kroll is otherwise known as a "Wall Street's CIA".

Who gave them the contract?

The Port Authority of New York paid them $2.5 million to revamp security at the complex. The owners of Kroll were two Zionist Jews named Jules & Jeremy Kroll.

The managing director of Kroll at the time was Jerome M. Hauer.

Hauer was also the guy chosen to run Mayor Rudy Giuliani's office of emergency management(OEM) from 1996 to 2000. He is the key individual that pushed for this office to be placed in Silverstein's building 7.

Jerome Hauer is also Jewish and a staunch Zionist. Hauer's mother, Rose Muscatine Hauer, is the retired Dean of the Beth Israel School of Nursing and the Honorary President of the New York Chapter of Hadassah, the Daughters of Zion movement that is one of the central Zionist organizations involved in the creation and maintenance of the State of Israel.

Pre-Knowledge of Anthrax Mailings

A hardly known fact is that Jerome Hauer is the one who advised the Whitehouse to go on the anti-biotic effective against Anthrax -- Cipro -- a week prior to the mailings. How convenient.

How did he know?

Hauer is an 'expert' in Bio-Terrorism and was the one who was in charge of the NIH response to the anthrax attacks. His reactions to the anthrax mailings were 'very slow' to say the least, and he took every opportunity to invoke "Osama Bin Laden" in his rhetoric.

Who Killed John O'neil?

Former special agent FBI, John O'neil, who was tasked with investigating Bin Laden coincidentally enough, was hired as head of security at the WTC by Jerome Hauer. Amazingly, O'neil was killed on his FIRST day of work -- 9/11.

It is important to note that O'neil had quit his job at the FBI after his investigation into the U.S.S. Cole attack in Yemen was obstructed & sabotaged by U.S ambassador to Yemen, Zionist Barbara Bodine. This is because the U.S.S. Cole was NOT done by Al Qaeda. The USS Cole was hit by an Israeli cruise missile (Source, 39th pp) to sway public opinion against Arabs (Al Qaeda), as well as demonize the democrats (didn't take terror threat seriously) -- so that their puppet George Bush Jr. could be hurled into office in time for 9/11. This was of course completely covered up.

Airport Security

The third crucial aspect of control that needed to be established was to gain control of airport security at all of the airports that the hijackings would originate from. Passenger screening needed to be handled by their operatives in order to allow certain people & certain items (i.e. weapons) onto the planes.

Who ran airport security at all three ports of alleged hijackings?

That would be ICTS International / Huntsleigh USA (wholly owned subsidiary)

Owned by Ezra Harel and Menachem Atzmon. Both Israeli Jews.

It is run by "experts" in the security and intelligence field. Israeli intelligence that is. Most employees were ex-Shin Bet agents.

Is this airport security company, who ran the security at Boston's Logan Airport, as well as Newark, really that shoddy to allow 19 Arabs on board 4 different planes with box cutters, mace, and even a gun, or is there something else going on here?

Menachem Atzmon, former Likud treasurer in the 80's, was involved in an Israeli political scandal involving Ehud Olmert and other Likudniks in Israel. He was criminally convicted of fraud, falsifying documents, as well as breaching Party Funding Law.

ICTS was also in charge of airport security when the shoe bomber, Richard Reid, allegedly boarded a plane with a shoe bomb. If Reid is really a terrorist and not just an innocent man being used by the Mossad to incite more fear of terrorism, then why did ICTS let him board the plane knowing he could be dangerous?

Another point indicating ICTS's complicity is that a few hours before the Patriot Act was voted on, it was edited to make foreign companies in charge of security on 9/11 immune to lawsuits. This would prevent American courts from demanding that ICTS provide testimony or hand over the missing surveillance videos from the airports.

Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab (also referred to as "Underwear Bomber") is a Muslim Nigerian citizen and alleged terrorist who attempted to detonate plastic explosives hidden in his underwear on board of Northwest Airlines Flight 253, en route from Amsterdam to Detroit, Michigan, on Christmas Day December 25, 2009. Abdulmutallab boarded the US bound plane from Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam. Kurt Haskell, an attorney from Michigan, also boarded the same flight and he recalls seeing Abdulmutallab and another "sharp dressed" Indian looking man who helped Abdulmutallab board the flight. Haskell claims that Abdulmutallab boarded the flight without a passport. The security at the Schiphol Airport is also handled by the Israeli-owned company: ICTS International.

Gomel Chesed Cemetary Incident

In October 2000, approximately 11 months before 9/11, a retired Israeli Defense Forces (IDF) officer, and veteran of the Yom Kippur War (1973), was collecting English Ivy Cuttings at the Gomel Chesed Cemetary located at Mccellan and 245 Mount Olive Avenue, which is near the city lines of Elizabeth and Newark, New Jersey. The Gomel Chesed Cemetary is a Jewish cemetary.

The man overheard a couple of people having what he believed to be a conversation spoken in Hebrew, which drew his attention. He hid behind an 8-foot tall retaining wall and listened in to their conversation as they stood below. Shortly after a Lincoln town car approached the two people -- presumably Israelis -- and the man in the backseat got out to greet them. After normal niceties were exchanged the third man said:

“The Americans will learn what it is to live with terrorists after the planes hit the twins in September.”

One of the men that had been leaning against the retaining wall expressed concerns regarding whether the upcoming presidential election (November 2000) could impact the plans. The man that arrived in the Town Car pacified the doubts by saying:

“Don’t worry, we have people in high places and no matter who gets elected, they will take care of everything.”

The observer who overheard this conversation related it to the FBI on numerous occasions only to be ignored each time. Nothing was done about it, and no investigation into the incident has ever took place.

Israeli Citizens Get Tipped Off

Israeli instant messaging company, Odigo, admitted that two of its employees received instant messages warning of an impending attack 2 hours prior to the first plane hitting.

This warning was not passed on to authorities, which could have saved thousands of lives.

Odigo has a feature on its service that allows the passing on of messages through a search feature based on nationality, such as Israeli. Knowing these two particular Israelis were forewarned, it is very likely they passed the message on to other Israelis considering that out of the 4000 Israelis believed to be in and around the WTC and the Pentagon only FIVE died. 5/4000 Israelis. Mathematically (if Israelis were not forewarned) about 10% (400/4000) would have died; even as low as 200-300/4000 would not really indicate foreknowledge. Yet only FIVE Israelis died and two of the five were actually aboard the supposedly hijacked flights; therefore only three Israelis died at the WTC on 9/11. An astonishing feat. We're talking about 'Israelis' here, not 'American Jews'. Many Jews died in the WTC on 9/11.

Odigo has offices in New York, and in Herzliya, Israel. Herzliya happens to be the Head Quarters of Mossad. Do the math.

Odigo was later bought up by another Israeli company called Comverse. The CEO of Comverse was Kobi Alexander, "dual" Israeli-US citizen, with connections to Mossad. He has been charged on several counts of fraud.

Goldman Sachs Forewarned

– On Sep 10, 2001, the Tokyo branch of Goldman Sachs warned its American employees to steer clear of American buildings.

Israeli ZIM Integrated Shipping Services Forewarned

- ZIM, an Israeli company, vacated its office (10,000 square feet) in the North WTC tower a week before 9/11, breaking its lease. 49% of this company is owned by the Israeli government. The lease ran till the end of 2001, and the company lost $50,000 by breaking the lease. Later, FBI agent Michael Dick, who was investigating Israeli spying before and after 9/11 and looking into the suspicious move, was removed from his duties by the head of the Justice Department's criminal division, Michael Chertoff. <http://www.thetruthseeker.co.uk/article.asp?ID=3655>

According to a non-official cover or N.O.C. CIA source who worked closely with Dick, the Israeli movers moved in explosives when ZIM moved out.

With ZIM Israel bailing out just in time, this left one Israeli company, Clearforest, with 19 employees, in the WTC on 9/11. Of the five employees in the building all managed to escape.

Mossad Is Guilty

U.S. Army Study: On Mossad

An elite U.S. Army study center had devised a plan for enforcing a major Israeli-Palestinian peace accord that would require about 20,000 well-armed troops stationed throughout Israel and a newly created Palestinian state.

The SAMS paper attempts to predict events in the first year of a peace-enforcement operation, and sees possible dangers for U.S. troops from both sides.

Of the MOSSAD, the Israeli intelligence service, the SAMS officers say:

"Wildcard. Ruthless and cunning. Has capability to target U.S. forces and make it look like a Palestinian/Arab act."

The amazing thing about this is that this story was reported in the Washington Post on September 10, 2001.

Israeli espionage around 9/11

– Shortly before 9/11, over 140 Israelis had been arrested for suspected espionage. Some of them were posing as Art students. These suspects targeted or penetrated Military bases, DEA, FBI, Secret Service, ATF, U.S. Customs, IRS, INS, EPA, Interior Dept., U.S. Marshal’s Service, various U.S. Attorneys Offices, Secret government offices Unlisted private homes of law enforcement/intelligence officers. Most of the suspects served in military intelligence, electronic surveillance intercept and or explosive ordinance units.

Dozens of Israelis were arrested in American malls kiosks selling toys, acting as a front for a spying operation.

60 detained suspects worked for the Israeli company AMDOCS which provides most directory assistance calls and almost call records and billings services for the U.S. by virtue of its contracts with the 25 largest telephone companies in the U.S.

All alleged 9/11 hijackers had fake IDs. During a joint FBI-CIA operation against the lead patsy hijacker Mohammad Atta in Fort Lee, NJ in 2001, the operation was photographed by Israeli agents and thereby compromised. These Jews were providing cover for the future patsy hijacker teams.

More Israelis caught after 9/11 -- 90 of them!

After 9/11 – More detentions of Israelis

Following 9/11, over 60 Israelis were detained either under the Patriot anti-Terrorism Act or for immigrations violations. Some of them were active Israeli military personnel. A number of them failed polygraph examinations when questioned for surveillance activities against the U.S. Some of them were found to have been spying on Arabs.

Five Dancing Israelis

Of the 90 or so detained Israelis there was a group of five Israelis, now widely known as the "dancing Israelis", who were spotted in multiple locations are still in American jails are becoming increasingly impatient. Local journalists now guess the U.S. ambassador, Daniel Kurtzer, on the issue. Members of the Israeli parliament have handed him a petition. The parents of the five movers still being held in a federal prison in Brooklyn have enlisted the help of the mayor of Jerusalem, Ehud Olmert, relying on his close ties to New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani. Olmert has called Giuliani twice, to no avail. Custody of the men is a military — do the heavy lifting for the moving industry. Barak, a former paratrooper, got a job with Urban Moving Systems of Weehawken, N.J., in summer 2000. Starting pay was $7 an hour plus tips. Mostly, Barak stayed east. He saw Miami, delivered furniture to Atlanta and drove by GraceLand in Memphis. Like other Israelis, he gave little thought to his expired visa — until Sept. 11. At the police station, Barak allowed his eyes to wander, not smiling. And even if they were smiling, he said, Americans have to understand that the reactions of Israelis with fresh military experience are bound to seem peculiar to others. His friends had seen acts of brutality and terrorism nearly every day. Barak himself had spent six months in Lebanon. "It's a little bit different how the Israeli thinks," Barak said.

filming, and celebrating the attacks.

The men were detained by NYPD. The police and FBI field agents became very suspicious when they found maps of the city with certain places highlighted, box cutters (the same items that the hijackers supposedly used), $4700 cash stuffed in a sock, and foreign passports. Police also told the Bergen Record that bomb sniffing dogs were brought to the van and that they reacted as if they had smelled explosives. (link)

Their names were Sivan & Paul Kurzberg, Yaron Schmucl, Oded Ellner & Omer Marmari.

"We are not your problem"?

According to ABC News 20/20, after the group of Israelis were detained, the driver of the van -- Sivan Kurzberg -- told the officers:

"We are Israeli. We are not your problem. Your problems are our problems. The Palestinians are the problem."

They later appeared on an Israeli talk show and claimed to be "documenting the event". Witnesses reported they were set up PRIOR to the first plane strike, and were seen congratulating one another afterward. The five jubilant Israelis were also seen photographing one another. The FBI seized and developed their photos, one of which shows Sivan Kurzberg flicking a cigarette lighter in front of the smoldering ruins in an apparently celebratory gesture.

Truck Bomb Destined for George Washington Bridge

The Jerusalem Post later reported that a white van with a bomb was stopped as it approached the George Washington Bridge, but the ethnicity of the suspects was not revealed. Here's what the Jerusalem Post reported on September 12, 2001:

American security services overnight stopped a car bomb on the George Washington Bridge. The van, packed with explosives, was stopped on an approach ramp to the bridge. Authorities suspect the terrorists intended to blow up the main crossing between New Jersey and New York, Army Radio reported.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2CHq6JocvDM&feature=player_embedded Imagine the surprise of the officers when these terror suspects turned out to be Israelis!

Mural Van

One of the more bizarre events of the day came in the form of a mysterious white van parked a few blocks away from the twin towers on 6th and King Street that had a mural painted on the side that literally depicted a jetliner crashing into the twin towers and exploding.

(Artist's rendition)

This police audio transmission indicates that the two suspects in the van started to run away when the van was stopped and were apprehended shortly thereafter in some sort of struggle. The police recording also indicates that the mural van subsequently exploded following the detainment of the two suspects.

Further corroboration of this incident came in the form of a reference in the February 2006 Norman Y. Mineta International Institute for Surface Transportation Policy Studies (MTI) report entitled: "Saving City Lifelines: Lessons Learned in the 9-11 Terrorist Attacks". The relevant quote is as follows:

"There were continuing moments of alarm. A panel truck with a painting of a plane flying into the World Trade Center was stopped near the temporary command post. It proved to be rented to a group of ethnic Middle Eastern people who did not speak English. Fearing that it might be a truck bomb, the NYPD immediately evacuated the area, called out the bomb squad, and detained the occupants until a thorough search was made. The vehicle was found to be an innocent delivery truck."

As you can see the cover-up of the incident clearly ensues in this document. Apparently the people who wrote this didn't find it odd that a delivery truck rented to "ethnic middle easterners" was painted up with a mural depicting the very events of the day! The idiocy of their conclusion that this van was an "innocent delivery truck" is beyond words. Also notice no mention of it exploding as the police transmission confirms. The "ethnic middle easterners" referenced in this quote were certainly not Arabic individuals as there is not a single mention of this incident in the 9/11 commission report. If they were Arabs there would be no reason to cover this up. The fact that this incident was covered up is a strong indication that these "ethnic middle easterners" were in fact Israelis.

Urban Moving Systems

All of the white vans were working for the ostensible moving company Urban Moving Systems under direction of Dominic Suter, an Israeli Spy who immediately fled to Israel after the attacks. It was confirmed by two former CIA officers that this Israeli moving company was a front operation for the Mossad. The two CIA sources noted that movers vans are a common intelligence cover. The Israelis were held in custody for 71 days before being quietly released.

Israeli Intelligence and Ptech

Ptech Software systems – computer control backdoor

Most national security computerized systems that would have scrambled jets in the event of national emergencies such as multiple hijackings were running on Ptech software. A list of Ptech clients includes the FAA, N.A.T.O, United States Armed Forces, Congress, Dept. Of Energy, Dept. of Justice, FBI, Customs, the IRS, the Secret Service, and even the White House.

Zionist Jew Michael S. Goff was marketing manager at Ptech and also worked for Israeli database company Guardium (Director Amit Yoran); Guardium has been funded by Cedar Fund, Veritas Venture Partners, and StageOne, all Mossad funding outfits. So, with Ptech, what we had was an American "sayan" [i.e. Jewish agent who works with the Mossad when necessary], Michael S. Goff, who had Mossad agents feeding him information and directing him while he worked with his Lebanese Muslim "partners" in Ptech.

Now why would a young American lawyer working with a good law firm (Sedar & Chandler) in his home town suddenly leave the practice of law and work with a dodgy start-up software company owned and financed by a Lebanese and a Saudi? Goff's family is a well-respected and well-known family in Worcester, Mass. He had it made at a good law firm after leaving law school. Why the sudden career change? Mossad asked him to do it. For the good of the Jewish people, etc, etc.

Under Goff, Ptech software loaded with trapdoors and Trojan Horses was sold and loaded onto the MOST sensitive computer systems that failed miserably, or performed well (depending on your view), on September 11, 2001.

Goff's father and grandfather, Samuel, were accountants who belonged to Worcester's "Commonwealth Lodge 600 of B'nai B'rith". They were both 32nd Degree Masons. Does an apple fall far from the tree?

MITRE corporation (computer software)

MITRE – major defense contracting organization headed by former Director of Central Intelligence James Schlesinger. It has been said that Schlesinger is a devout Lutheran, but his Wikipedia profile states he was born to Russian/Austrian Jewish parents. He is undoubtedly a Zionist.

Ptech was with the MITRE corporation in the basement of the FAA for two years prior to 9/11. Their specific job was to look at inter-operability issues the FAA had with NORAD and the Air Force in the case of an emergency.

Precision guided plane anyone?

The first plane to hit the WTC (North Tower) hit the computer room of Marsh & McLennan, which had recently acquired Kroll Associates, which was owned by son of AIG CEO Maurice Greenberg & Jules Kroll. Precision guidance equipment in office?

Rabbi Dov Zakheim and Systems Planning Corporation

Dov Zakheim's System Planning Corporation – remote airplane control technology

Many have insisted that the planes which struck the twin towers were precision guided by remote control. Although sounding like science fiction when first hearing it, remote control technology of airplanes has been around for decades. SPC Corporation provided the flight termination system and command transmitter system, the technology that allows planes to be remote controlled should the pilots be incapacitated or the plane hijacked.

Rabbi Dov Zakheim was the appointed Undersecretary of Defense and Comptroller from 2001 to 2004 under the George W. Bush administration. Zakheim is the man responsible for the disappearance of $2.6 TRILLION that went missing from the Pentagon books which was announced by Donald Rumsfeld on 10th September, 2001. The story was buried under 9/11's rubble.

Coincidentally, the specific section of the Pentagon that was "hit" or "blown up" contained the year's budgetary information, as well as accountants, bookkeepers and budget analysts; many of whom died on 9/11. What a coincidence.

In May 2001, when Dov served at the Pentagon, it was an SPS (his firm's) subsidiary, Tridata Corporation, that oversaw the investigation of the first "terrorist" attack on the World Trade Center in 1993. This would have given them intimate knowledge of the security systems and structural blueprints of the World Trade Center.

According to the SPC website, a recent customer at that time was Eglin AFB, located in Florida. Eglin is very near another Air Force base in Florida-MacDill AFB, where Dov Zakheim contracted to send at least 32 Boeing 767 aircraft, as part of the Boeing /Pentagon tanker lease agreement.

Considering his access to Boeing 767 tankers, remote control flight systems, and his published views in the PNAC document, it seems very likely he is in fact a key figure in the alleged terrorist attacks in New York City on September 11, 2001. (Further Reading)

Cover Up

9/11 Investigation in Zionist Hands

Immediately following the attacks of September 11th, the Jewish criminal network was methodically maneuvering in unison behind the scenes to quash any legitimate investigation that would reveal what really happened that fateful day. They made it their goal to control any and all angles of so called "investigation" so that they could quickly cover up any and all evidence that would unveil the unmistakable fingerprint of the Zionists.

All appointed chief judges were Zionist Jews:

Alvin K. Hellerstein - a judge for the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York and has been involved in several high-profile 9/11 related cases including consolidated master case against three airlines, ICTS International NV and Pinkerton's airport security firms, the World Trade Center owners, and Boeing Co., the aircraft manufacturer. Hellerstein is a dedicated Zionist and Israeli nationalist who has ties to the Jewish mafia dating back to 1956. Hellerstein's wife is a former senior officer & current treasurer of AMIT. From its website it states: "Founded in 1925, AMIT is the world's leading supporter of religious Zionist education and social services for Israel's children and youth, nurturing and educating Israeli children to become productive, contributing members of society."

Michael B. Mukasey - This Orthodox Jewish judge oversaw the litigation between Larry Silverstein and insurance companies after 9/11. Silverstein was awarded billions. Mukasey prevented full inquiry into the Five Dancing Israelis incident who were arrested in connection with 9/11. He played a role in their release. He was later appointed attorney general by President Bush. He defended the patriot act, and he supports torture policies.

Michael Chertoff - In charge of the Criminal Division in the Justice Department on 9/11. Essentially responsible for the 9/11 NON-investigation. He let hundreds of Israeli spies who were arrested prior to and on 9/11 go back home to Israel. He was also a prosecuting judge in the first terrorist attack on the WTC in 1993. Chertoff purportedly holds dual citizenship with the US and Israel. His family is one of the founding families of the state of Israel and his mother was one of the first ever agents of the Mossad, Israel's spy agency. His father and uncle are ordained rabbis and teachers of the Talmud.

Kenneth Feinberg - set up the victim's compensation fund ($7 billion); the criminal cabal managed to get 97% of the victims' families to take the money in exchange for not demanding a legal investigation of 9/11.

Sheila Birnbaum - Another key Jew involved in the cover-up of 9/11 is Sheila Birnbaum of Skaddan, Arps law firm. Birnbaum was appointed 'special mediator' of the legal suits filed by the 3% of families who decided not to be bought off by the Zionists. Nothing happened in these trials though, thanks to her.

Benjamin Chertoff - (cousin of Michael Chertoff) - This Jewish criminal personality wrote the 9/11 hit piece in Popular Mechanics debunking '9/11 conspiracies' using ridiculous strawmen. He claims his relation to Michael Chertoff is "distant" but Chris Bollyn proves otherwise.

Stephen Cauffman - Leader of NIST cover-up of WTC 7 destruction. These lowlifes continued to maintain that fire brought down WTC 7, a physical impossibility.

9/11 Commission Fiction: Zionist Myth-Making At Its Best

Philip Zelikow (Dual Citizen of Israel) - 9/11's Cover Up Man - Zelikow was appointed the executive director of the 9/11 commission -- the most powerful position of the committee. This criminal Zionist Jew is responsible for concocting the contrived fiction that was presented to us as the 9/11 Commission Report (i.e. official story). This work of fairy-tale fiction speaks of magical explosion-proof paper passports, building collapses violating the laws of physics without explosive assistance, and cave-dwelling, box-cutter wielding Arabs with super-human piloting skills -- all the while completely omitting blatant anomalous events such as the self-demolition of Building 7 at 5:20 pm. At first Henry Kissinger was appointed as exec director of the 9/11 commission but surrendered the post after enormous protest. This paved the way for Zionist operative Zelikow to take his stead. Zelikow has numerous conflicts of interest that clearly inhibited his ability to tell the truth to the American people about the 9/11 terror attacks.

Zelikow was a Bush Admin insider, having been on the transition team in early 2000. In 1989-91 Zelikow worked with Condaleeza Rice on the National Security Council for the Bush Sr. Administration. In 1995, Zelikow and Rice wrote a book together. From 1996-98 Zelikow is director of the Aspen Strategy Group which also included people such as Condaleeza Rice, Dick Cheney and Paul Wolfowitz as fellow members. After George W. Bush took office, Zelikow was named to a position on the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board [PFIAB], and worked on other task forces and commissions as well. In 2004 Zelikow skews the investigation into 9/11 by deciding which topics would or would not be investigated. He was also secretly in contact with one of Bush's close advisors -- Karl Rove.

Crime Scene Evidence Quickly Removed and Destroyed

Alan D. Ratner's Metals Management and the SIMS group is responsible for quickly scooping up the WTC steel rubble and shipping it off to Asian smelters. Alan Ratner is Jewish. Ratner merged with the SIMS group and the Hugo Neu corporation, and they made a handsome profit. Ratner sold over 50,000 tons of crime scene evidence steel to a Chinese company at $120 per ton; Ratner had obtained them for $70 per ton. This criminal bastard not only destroyed the evidence, but made a lucrative profit off of it while he was at it. More research on the criminal destruction of crime scene evidence can be found here.

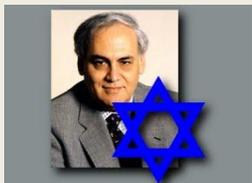

Criminal Jewish/Zionist Personalities

Jews and Zionists in the Right Positions!

Rabbi Dov Zakheim – Co-author of the PNAC paper on rebuilding America’s defenses advocating the necessity of a Pearl Harbour-like incident to mobilize America. Served as Pentagon comptroller from May 4, 2001 to March 10, 2004. Two large sums of money disappeared from the Pentagon under him. In the beginning $2.3 trillion was reported missing by Donald Rumsfeld (September 10, 2001) and later Zakheim was unable to account for another trillion dollars. Zakheim also had squads of American F-15s and F-16s sold as surplus to Israel at a fraction of their value.

Michael Chertoff – Assistant attorney general for the criminal division of the Justice Department; later, Director of Homeland Security. His wife, Meryl Chertoff, was a regional director of the ADL. Mother was a flight attendant for El Al thus had involvement with Mossad. Father and uncle are Rabbis.

Richard Perle – Chairman of Pentagon’s Defense Policy Board. He was expelled from Sen. Henry Jackson’s office in the 1970s after the NSA caught him passing highly classified documents to Israel.

Paul Wolfowitz – Was Deputy Defense Secretary and a member of the Defense Policy Board in the Pentagon.

Douglas Feith - Headed reconstruction in Iraq. Effectively in command, with Wolfowitz, of War Department on 9-11; Undersecretary of War for Policy. Fired from National Security Council in 1976 due to suspicion of passing classified documents to Israel. "Dual Citizen" of US-Israel. Douglas Feith created the "Office of Special Plans" shortly after 9/11 which was where all of the fake intelligence accusing Iraq of developing WMD's and having ties to Al Qaida came from.

Eliot Abrams -- Key National Security Council Advisor. Associated with criminal Zionist / Pro-Israel think tanks: AEI, PNAC, CSP, and JINSA. Closely associated with other criminal Jews Perle, Feith, Wolfowitz, and Bill Kristol. Convicted of lying to congress in the Iran/Contra Affair but was later given a pardon by Bush.

Marc Grossman -- Under Secretary for Political Affairs on 9-11; met with General Mahmoud Ahmad, head of Pakistan’s ISI and 9-11 financier, on or shortly after 9-11; “dual citizen” of US and Israel

Ari Fleischer — White House spokesman for Bush on 9-11; Harlined Iraq WMD lies to the press; “dual citizen” of US and Israel; connected to the extremist group called the Chabad Lubavitch Hasidics

More criminal personalities can be further researched HERE.

Who was on board flight 11?

Daniel Lewin -- Lewin, an Israeli Jew, was confirmed to be a member of the special Israeli commando unit, the Sayeret Matkal, which specializes in "anti-hijack" takeovers and assassinations. Supposedly Lewin got involved in a struggle with one of the alleged hijackers and ended up getting shot, which was later revised to being stabbed as a gun on board would not jive with the pre-packaged 9/11 story line.

What are the odds that an Israeli Sayat ends up on a plane hijacked by Arab terrorists? Gotta be a million to one shot. I am not suggesting Lewin was on a suicide mission and flew into the towers, what I suggest is that he landed the plane at Stewart Airport and it was swapped for a remote control drone. Stewart Airport was the "privatized" airport where ALL the flight paths of the alleged planes that hit the twin towers, oddly converged over.

Bush Speech Writers Grossly Inflate Number of Israeli Casualties

On 20 September, 2001, in his address to the Joint Session of Congress following the 9/11 attacks, Bush grossly inflated the number of Israeli casualties in the attacks from 5 to 130.

Does Bush write his own speeches?

Of course not, so one cannot simply blame Bush for this blatant lie -- whoever was his speechwriter is the criminal culprit.

Who was Bush's Speechwriter?

David Frum -- This Jewish criminal personality was Bush's Speechwriter at the time and is the one responsible for inflating the number of Israeli dead 26x the actual amount. Why did he do this? Because he's a Zionist of course and was attempting to garner sympathy for Israel and project them as the 'great ally' of the United States who are now 'partners' in this global fight against "terrorism".

David Frum was the man behind the "Axis Of Evil" label.

He also co-authored a book with Zionist warmonger Richard Pearle, entitled An End To Evil: How To Win The War On Terror, which was about the "Global War On Terror"; it defended the illegal and fraudulent invasion of Iraq -- as well as called for regime change in Iran & Syria among other hideous things.

Mohammed Atta Leads Us Directly To Jewish Crime Network Doorstep

Less than one week before 9/11 several of the hijacker 'patsies', including Atta, boarded a Sun Cruz Casino Boat in Florida. Nobody knows why, and it has never been investigated.

Who owned these casino boats?

Jack Abramoff - This Zionist Jewish criminal asset was the one who entertained the Arab patsies aboard his yacht. Abramoff is a Bush Admin insider having been on the Transition Advisory Team assigned to the Department of the Interior in 2001.

Abramoff is a convicted criminal lobbyist who is a central figure in a plethora of political scandals, fraud, and other scams. He is currently serving a five year prison term for fraud, conspiracy, and tax evasion.

He also had foreknowledge of the Zionist engineered War In Iraq.

Al Qaida = Mossad Playing Dress Up

Firstly the well known translation of 'Al-Qaeda' is 'The Base,' which is actually not the only translation of the ominous term. Al-Qaeda also translates to 'The Toilet.' The Arabic word 'Qa'ada' means 'to sit' {on the toilet bowl}. Arab homes have three kinds of toilets: 'Hamam Franji' or 'Al-Qaeda' or foreign toilet, 'Hamam Arabi' or Arab toilet, and a potty used for children called 'Ma Qa'adia' or 'Little Qaeda.' 'Ana raicha Al Qaeda' is a colloquial expression for 'I'm going to the toilet.' Why would a terrorist group call itself 'The Toilet'? Al-Qaeda is Zionist fiction.

Adam Yahiyeh Gadahn also known as Azzam the American is the so called Al Qaida spokesperson who releases videos tormenting the world with his anti-American rants. The FBI even has him on their most wanted terrorists list.

It turns out he is a Jew named Adam Pearlman, from California. Adam's grandfather, Carl Pearlman, was a prominent surgeon and on the Board of Directors of the Anti-Defamation League! This is a script fit for a Hollywood movie. Spielberg to direct?

www.youtube.com/watch?v=G5UtvOW6SR0&feature=player_embedded

Ziad Jarrah the Duped Lebanese Mossad Stooge

Still image from "laughing hijackers" video showing Ziad Jarrah(left), and Mohammed Atta(right), allegedly making their martyrdom video just before 9/11, all the while laughing hysterically about it!

Ziad Jarrah's cousin, Ali Al Jarrah, was recently discovered by Lebanese authorities of being a Spy for Israel for 25 years!!

Netanyahu Openly Gleeful of 9/11 Terror Attacks

Apparently Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu is so confident in Zionist control and domination that he haphazardly stated publicly that the 9/11 terrorist attacks were "good" for U.S.-Israeli relations, and would generate "immediate sympathy" for the Israeli cause of ethnically cleansing the Palestinians.

The Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv reported that Likud leader Benjamin Netanyahu told an audience at Bar Ilan:

"We are benefiting from one thing, and that is the attack on the Twin Towers and Pentagon, and the American struggle in Iraq," Ma'ariv quoted the former prime minister as saying. He reportedly added that these events "swung American public opinion in our favor."

Of course Netanyahu's nonchalantness about publicly making such controversial statements is not that surprising considering how much control Zionist Jews have over the American media. The aftermath of 9/11 saw the Zionist-media unveil a relentless demonization campaign against Arabs stereotyping them all as a bunch of fanatical plotting terrorists -- a cause for celebration for Netanyahu and his criminal brethren who routinely look for any excuse to slaughter innocent Palestinians at a whim while confiscating their land in the process.

Likely Architect of 9/11

Netanyahu is considered by many to be the architect of the 9/11, directing the Mossad/Shin Bet. He was Israeli PM at the time and has a long history of involvement in Israeli terrorism and politics. He's been a prominent member of the Likud Government since 1993. The Likud Party is the literal successor of the Jewish terrorist organization known as the Irgun. He was the prime minister to whom the ACB Doc was presented. Netanyahu wrote a book in the early 80's called Terrorism: How the West Can Win. He founded the Jonathan Institute in the late 1970's to study (and plan) terrorism. Egyptian Intellectual, Hassan Al Bana, has stated publicly that he thinks Netanyahu planned 9/11 with the Jews at the Jonathan Institute. Al Bana cites a book written by Netanyahu called Uprooting Terrorism which speaks of plans to attack the U.N., and the World Trade Center with small nuclear bombs.

Connected Events Lead to Israel

Sears Tower Incident

On October 16, 2001 a group of Israelis were arrested in rural Pennsylvania for suspicious behaviour behind a Pizzeria Uno. The manager of the store informed authorities of two middle eastern looking men dumping furniture out of a tractor-trailer with "Moving Systems Incorporated" sign on the side, behind his restaurant.

Police found the van and confronted its occupant who identified himself as Ron Katar, an Israeli. Katar pointed across the street to his compatriot named Mosche Almakias who was approaching the detained van with a female named Ayelet Reisler. Reisler suspiciously began to walk in a different direction once she spotted the police officer. She was found to have a German passport in one name and medication in another.

Elmakias admitted being behind the Pizzeria and said his destination was New York, but he had to make a pickup in Plymouth. However, the clever cover story began to fall apart as he could not provide a name or number of this client.

The police searched the van and discovered a Sony video camera containing a video taken of Chicago with several suspicious zoom-in shots of the Sears tower. Clearly these Mossad assets were planning some sort of false flag attack. These Israelis were eventually taken in by the INS and it was never heard about again.

An important side note is that the Sears tower was bought by two Jews and one Gentile -- Lloyd Goldman, Joseph Cayre, and Jeffrey Feil in 2004. These men belong to the same group that backed Larry Silverstein's lease of the WTC complex giving Larry $125 million to do the deal. It seems that these criminal Jewish assets are all in on the same false flag terror / real-estate insurance scams together.

Psychotic Israelis Get Sloppy In Mexico City

As reported by La Vox De Atzlan, two men posing as press photographers, but in reality being Israeli Mossad agents, were arrested INSIDE the Mexican congress on October 10, 2001 armed with 9mm pistols, 9 grenades, explosives, three detonators, and 58 bullets, but were RELEASED from custody because of pressure from the Israeli embassy.

"We believe that the two Zionists terrorist were going to blow up the Mexican Congress. The second phase was to mobilize both the Mexican and US press to blame Osama bin Laden. Most likely then Mexico would declare war on Afghanistan as well, commit troops and all the oil it could spare to combat Islamic terrorism."

The Jewish terrorists names were Salvador Guersson Smecke (retired Israeli I.D.F. colonel), age 34, and Saur Ben Zvi, age 27.

These terrorists were released because of a very high level emergency meetings took place between Mexican Secretary of Foreign Relations Jorge Gutman, General Macedo de la Concha and a top Ariel Sharon envoy who flew to Mexico City specially for that purpose. Jorge Gutman is of the Jewish descent.

Israelis, Vans, Explosives... At It Again

On Monday May 13, 2002, Fox News reported that two Israeli nationals in a white van were pulled over in Oak Harbour, Washington, near the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station with explosives in their truck.

Federal Authorities brought in bomb sniffing dogs which reacted first on one of the Israelis and later on the van. High tech equipment was later used and confirmed the presence of TNT and RDX plastic explosive. The Israelis claimed to be delivering furniture to California but investigators doubted the story. Authorities say records for the Budget truck do not indicate any recent rental for the purposes of transporting explosives, which would require special permits; thus proving these explosives were illegal and obviously intended to be used for malicious purposes.

The Fox News article makes no mention to what became of these two Israeli terrorists which pretty much means they were quietly released.

Quotes From Prominent People

Former Italian President agrees, says Mossad did 9/11

Former Italian President Francesco Cossiga, who revealed the existence of Operation Gladio, has told Italy's oldest and most widely read newspaper that the 9-11 terrorist attacks were run by the Mossad, and that this was common knowledge among global intelligence agencies. In what translates awkwardly into English, Cossiga told the newspaper Corriere della Sera:

"All the [intelligence services] of America and Europe know well that the disastrous attack has been planned and realized from the Mossad, with the aid of the Zionist world in order to put under accusation the Arabic countries and in order to induce the western powers to take part in Iraq [and] Afghanistan."

Former Pakistani ISI Director Says it was Mossad

In an interview only a mere weeks after 9/11, Hamid Gul -- former head of Pakistani intelligence (ISI) from 1987-1989 -- tells Arnaud de Borchgrave, United Press International of who he thinks was behind the attacks. Here are a few excerpts from the transcript which can be read in full here:

De Borchgrave: So who did Black Sept. 11?

Gul: Mossad and its accomplices. The U.S. spends $40 billion a year on its 11 intelligence agencies. That's $400 billion in 10 years. Yet the Bush Administration says it was taken by surprise. I don't believe it. Within 10 minutes of the second twin tower being hit in the World Trade Center CNN said Osama bin Laden had done it. That was a planned piece of disinformation by the real perpetrators. It created an instant mindset and put public opinion into a trance, which prevented even intelligent people from thinking for themselves.

Conclusion

After reading this webpage most people who are familiar with 9/11 conspiracy information will without a doubt have a knee-jerk reaction and consider this piece to be very biased. Why do I focus on the Israeli angle and the Jewish conspirators? Well... why do most 9/11 "truthers" avoid that angle and refuse to talk about it? Am I denying that the CIA or MI6 was also involved in the attacks? No, certainly not. It is my opinion that Israel and its agents in the U.S. Government played the biggest role in the attacks and had the most to gain from them; therefore, I focus more on the Israeli/Jewish/Zionist connection, while others will focus more on CIA or MI6 connection. There are plenty of websites, documentaries, and articles that go on and on about "Bush & Cheney, U.S. Gov't, etc, etc" but nobody seems to want to acknowledge the rock solid evidence proving 9/11 was most likely done by the Israeli Mossad in conjunction with the plethora of Zionist American Jews whose duplicitous role in the attacks has been thoroughly documented. It is up to you to decide whether this information is valid or not, and whether you want to believe it. If you are about the truth then you would have no problem accepting this information. Picking and choosing what you want to believe is not what truth is about. You should always follow the trail of truth wherever it leads!

Truth, wherever it takes me.

Phony Israeli "Terror" Video Calls For Killing Americans

Mossad Front, Known For Phony Bin Laden Tapes

Is Tape Really Israel Saying, “Kill Americans, Not Us?”

By Gordon Duff Staff Writer/Senior Editor Veterans Today

Site Intelligence, an outlet that supplies terror videos it says it “finds on the internet,” videos nobody on earth, seems to notice, has released a new video from Anwar al Alaki, the Yemeni cleric earlier tied to FBI and Mossad paymasters. The subject of the video became immediately suspicious when the only call made was for the murder of Americans and nothing condemning Israel for ethnic cleansing in Gaza nor any call for jihad against Israel.

The video, said to be produced in Saudi Arabia, has all the signs of another Israeli/Mossad “self serving” creation. With dozens of similar Israeli produced phony terror videos filling Youtube, each one more transparent than the last, one would think the media that spreads this treasonous drivel would be called to account.

Every real, verified and genuine video from any Islamic group has had the same themes:

- Demanding world condemnation of Israel
- Demanding an end to US support for “Israeli aggression”
- Calls to unite Islam against Israel.

The current video calls only for attacks on Americans, makes no mention of Israeli actions nor is Israel threatened or Jews targeted, quite the opposite.

PHONY VIDEOS ENDANGER AMERICANS

With the only real distribution of these calls for terrorist acts against Americans from Israeli backed Site Intelligence and Rita Katz, Muslims unaware that the message is meant to deflect Israeli complicity in the Detroit “Crotch Bomber” episode and other “false flag” efforts are actually receiving orders to war against innocent Americans, messages originating from Israel, a country claiming to be an American ally. These games, seen as harmless by reporters who knowing distribute these phony videos around the world are openly calling for the murder of Americans. This isn’t news, it’s terrorism.

With American policy pushing for a two state solution and demanding an end to ethnic cleansing in Israel, it is extremely unlikely that any jihadist group would call for attacks on an American government that has done more to face down Israeli intransigence more than any in recent history. Israel’s efforts against the Obama administration have included:

- Snubbing Vice President Biden during a visit
- Calls for increased displacement of Palestinians in response to US demands for a building halt
- Purchase of full page newspaper advertisements attacking President Obama, paid for by the Israeli government
- Securing promises from over 400 members of congress to oppose President Obama’s policies in the Middle East
- Securing statements from paid pundits, former military officers who have accepted gratuities from Israel, some worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, criticizing current American policies.

ISRAEL'S WAR ON AMERICA, DECEPTION AND SURROGATE TERRORISM

Creating and distributing calls for terrorist attacks on Americans is an act of war, as much as training and supplying Pakistani Taliban in the Times Square Bombing or shuffling the Detroit “Crotch Bomber” through Israeli run airports, a bomber whose Nigerian father has worked for Israel for years.

The Indo-Israeli support for groups attacking Pakistan, Islam's only nuclear state, have involved training and arming the Pakistani Taliban, now little more than a front group for the Mossad and RAW. With this group attacking Americans and involved in terrorism against the United States, they should accept they can no longer control their “terrorist surrogates.”

The old questions are always the best. Who did this video serve? The answer is simple. The video takes blame off Israel for false flag terror attacks and is meant to focus Islamic anger against the United States for acts done by Israel, acts vigorously opposed by America.

THE PATTERN

War by deception, manipulating the American public through endless TV depictions of Muslims as ignorant and murderous has allowed Israel to act against America with no consequences, warring on their own allies, and taking billions in foreign aid in reward.

The following acts against America have an Israeli footprint:

- The 1956 Suez War is now accepted as a precursor to the 1967 terror attack in Egypt by Israel. Israel, with Britain and France, invaded Egypt. America chastised Israel, Britain and France and ordered an immediate withdrawal, backed by the Soviet Union. President Eisenhower found Israel totally at fault.
- The 1963 murder of President Kennedy is now seen as an Israeli response to Kennedy's demands that Israel close their Dimona nuclear weapons facility. Informed circles now place total responsibility for the Kennedy killings, both John and Robert, on the Mossad.
- The 1967 holocaust attack against the USS Liberty was an act of war on America by Israel. Survivor accounts tell of strafing and firebombing lifeboats while a huge American flag flew openly. The attack continued for hours.
- The USS Liberty attack was meant to disguise the sneak attack on Egypt made by Israel in 1967. American and Israeli children are taught Israel was attacked by Egypt except the entire Egyptian air force was destroyed on the ground and no Egyptian forces were mobilized. Perhaps Site Intelligence has a video on this.
- Anti-Semitic attacks across Europe have been shown to be a Mossad operation to get Jews to settle in Israel. Every burned synagogue has the Mossad stamp on it.
- The 1985 Achille Lauro hijacking and the murder of a Jewish American passenger are now suspected to have been a Mossad “false flag” operation
- The mysterious Building 7 incident on 9/11 with Larry Silverstein claiming he ordered the building “pulled” in 20 minutes, an effort that would take weeks of engineering, tons of explosives and massive structural alterations puts the Mossad and their infamous “Dancing Israeli” film crew under extreme suspicion.
- The Detroit “Crotch Bombing” of 2009 has tracked to a number of Israeli operatives, a “false flag” attack meant to enhance the world market for Israeli airport security technologies worth billions in profits
- The long history of Israeli attacks on American security through numerous spy organizations and an equally long history of arrests and prosecutions of Israeli agents operating against America, with many of the most vital military secrets heading directly to American enemies including the Soviet Union

TV TAKES ON THE AMERICAN PUBLIC, POTENTIAL ENEMY OF ISRAEL

One of the most popular TV shows in America is NCIS. Last season, “Jethro Gibbs,” a character on the show, “proved” Kennedy was killed by Oswald, a “lone gunman” by a feat of TV heroics, demonstrating his ability to use “Oswald's weapon” to duplicate the shooting. As a former sniper with a duplicate of Oswald's Tasco scope on his desk, I find this amusing. With a clear shot, I could have killed Kennedy with a pistol. However, with Oswald's real weapon, a Carcano rifle with a broken scope, I would have trouble hitting my own foot. Shooting through a Texas Live Oak with a "glitchy" rifle with a broken scope is an act beyond the gods themselves. This is twice the same producer has duplicated the same "heavy handed" theme, once earlier in a Quantum Leap episode. Thus, a pattern emerges, in this and so many shows, conditioning the American public with deception.

Another TV show, Bones, ran the same premise, with former Army Ranger and sniper, the character "Booth" (coincidence?) again, fictionally "proving" the original Kennedy hypothesis, one long ago proven to violate the laws of physics. Even Gary Mack of the Discovery Channel, in "Target Car" recently made a half hearted attempt to sell the Oswald scenario. Word is out that Charlie Brown is taking up the Carcano in the upcoming Easter Snoopy special.

Speaking of "the gods," the TV series Angel had Goddess Jasmine directed Oswald, as a "lone gunman."

The continual reselling of the "lone gunman myth" isn't a coincidence. Confirmed sources indicate that the FBI has received new information tying Israel directly to the Kennedy shooting.

NCIS LOS ANGELES

Last night I watched 4 episodes of NCIS Los Angeles. Three of them featured Islamic terrorists, painted in "comic book" quality strokes as crazed, cruel and insane. The plot lines had only one purpose, to incite hatred and mislead viewers. Early in WW2, the movie Sergeant York with Gary Cooper set the gold standard for propaganda. Great writing, cinematography and acting produced a powerful film still popular today. I love the film, even knowing it is wartime propaganda. It is also art.

NCIS Los Angeles is childish, bigoted, brutal and racist. An excellent cast, subjected to criminally manipulative storylines with no other purpose than to mislead and build hate only adds to the abuse. It is made clear, not only are all Muslims terrorists, but they are sneering, sarcastic cowards hiding behind wealth, lawyers and continually using legal ploys, utterly imaginary of course, to stymie Americas counter-terrorist heroes.

When I look at the group that has suffered the highest casualty levels defending America, our Muslim translators, I get the same feeling I have touring American military cemeteries and viewing the Stars of David over the Jewish war dead. When the Mojave Cross went up in 1934, Americans hated Jews more than even the Nazis in Germany, even though thousands died for America (and Germany) in the Great War. Now, with Muslims dying around the world to defend the United States, thousands in fact, we spit on them with our pop culture propaganda focused to hide Israeli manipulation of American public opinion.

None of this is innocent, not the phony videos, not the TV shows, none of it. Next time a video comes out of Tel Aviv calling on Muslims to murder Americans, perhaps we should pay attention.

LETS NOW STUDY THE AFTERMATH OF 911:

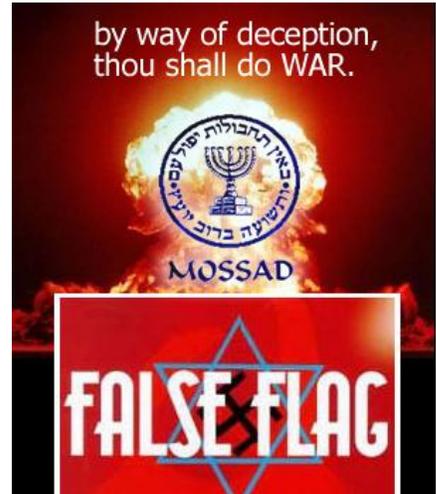

Immediately after the 9/11 False Flag Operation the military industrial complex that was poised and ready to pounce on Afghanistan MONTHS BEFORE 9/11 were quickly given the green light to attack that country under the pretext that they were harboring ONE SINGLE PERSON. No one ever said Afghanistan had conducted 9/11, NEVER ONCE WAS THIS claim made. According to ALL OFFICIAL RECORDS and history is our witness we INVADED THE SOVEREIGN NATION OF AFGHANISTAN TO FIND THE BOOGEYMAN "BINLADEN."

Not long after the INVASION of that nation started, it was publicly announced that Osama Bin Mossaden was (doh!) hiding out in PAKISTAN. Ten years later and we are still blowing the fuck up out of that poor innocent country! Osama Bin Mossaden is but a distant red herring pretext. Why the fuck have we been there for a DECADE killing millions of innocent people that had NOTHING TO DO WITH 9/11? Hello, even if you believe the bullshit propaganda narratives fed to you by military industrial complex you would readily know that the ALLEGED hijackers were all from Saudi Arabia and Pakistan! Duh. The INVASION of the sovereign nation of Afghanistan was a bullshit farce to “get the evil zombie Bin Laden.”

Upon realizing how EASY it was to pull the wool over the brain dead public's eyes and literally get away with one of the most bungled False Flag operations ever then follow it up with a completely unjustified INVASION of a country that had absolutely NOTHING to do with 9/11 and then sit back to witness the moron public WAVING FLAGS AND CHEERING ON as they watched the bombs and explosions killing hundreds of thousands of innocent people... the powers that be decided to ride this dead horse all the way to town and through in Iraq into the mix giving new meaning to the 2 birds with one stone line.

Iraq absolutely had NOTHING to do with 9/11 but riding the lust for blood wave of the American public they quickly got approval to invade Iraq who was “hiding imaginary weapons of mass destruction” up Saddam's butt. The fact that they NEVER had any WMDs didn't change a thing: “bomb, bomb, bomb Iraq” was the battle cry and still is all these years later. Oh they got Saddam and hung him... but that never ended the war as the case with every war ever fought when they caught the leaders, no, this is a “special war” they are STILL there blowing up the natives as they are in Afghanistan, and they NEVER plan on leaving: dozens upon dozens of PERMANENT massive military bases have been constructed all over those two countries.

Obama basically got elected by the bullshit promise of getting our nation out of these two unjust and quagmire wars. Instead he did as EVERY president has ALWAYS done: he immediately reneged on his promises knowing that the voting public are just a bunch of forgetful pheasant herds. The moment he took office he stepped up the bombing of both nations, added more funding and troops! These are just the plain FACTS.

The bottom line is that 9/11 was a carefully planned and skillfully executed secret military operation and deception lead by Mossad agents. For if there were no 9/11 attack the agenda to take control of the middle east would not have come to fruition, we would not have control of the vast amounts of oil we gained, Israel wouldn't become the supreme super power in the region, we wouldn't be in that batshit insane "war" in the middle east and thousands of our loved ones who gave their lives in their quest to "protect us" would still be here today. We would have over 100,000 fewer ex-military disabled veterans. Over ONE MILLION people would have still been alive today in Iraq and Afghanistan. (No one really knows how many dead and wounded they have).. The CIA/Mossad sponsored Terrorist population would still number in just a few hundred at most, not the hundreds of thousands of brand new America hating REAL possible terrorists we must face due to our prolonged invasion of their soil killed millions of their loved ones.

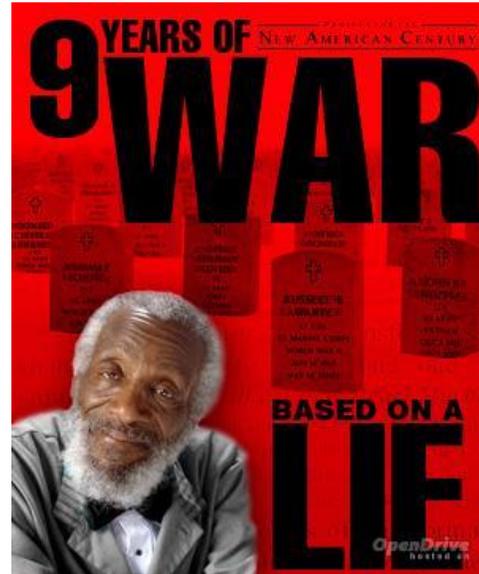

We sure taught those Iraqis and Afghans a lesson, we sure taught the whole Muslim world a lesson! Our invasions and subsequent occupation has not put an ounce of fear in their hearts. All we did is to UNITE them under a common cause: to defend themselves from the tyranny of the western world. So much so that each and every one of them is willing to freely give up and sacrifice their lives to do so. Our soldiers on the other hand just want to do their time, complete their tour of duty and come back home. Who do you think is more dedicated? Who will persevere to the end, no matter who is right or wrong? Granted today, NOW after blowing their lands back into the stone age, we truly face a people, as a result of our aggression, that was thus transformed and now views us as an enemy. They are deeply hurt, pissed off, eyes full of revenge and wants us all dead. They wear no uniforms, some of them walk among us, smile at us and say "hello" when we pass them by. We are now in deep shit. Hey Dorothy, we are not in Kansas anymore.

So what are we doing to "fix" this? Are we closing down our borders to stop the onslaught of potential enemies coming into our country? No way! That makes just too much logic! Leave the freaking "doors and windows" wide open to our home, America, so the enemy (Israeli Mossad agents posing as Islamist terrorists) can just walk right in! Then instead lets rev up the war machine and attack IRAN and other Muslim nations too! That will show em! Doh! Lets piss off the whole freaking Muslim world! Diplomacy? What is that for? Trying to make amends? Healing? Care?

Empathy? That's for wimps! Let's spend 800 kazillion dollars on more bombs and kill them all off! That will teach them to mess with us, right?

Before 9/11 there were only several dozen terrorists to no more than a couple hundred worldwide. Now we have possibly over one million real American hating terrorists! Doh! Golly gee whiz, that idea of bombing Afghanistan and Iraq back into the stone age is working wonders! Hey lets go bomb Iran and Syria back into the stone age also! That will really piss off the rest of the Muslim world and teach them all a lesson! Doh!

9/11 was a pretense that allowed the ushering in of what is probably the most powerful new American agency: The U.S. of ISRAEL Department of Homeland Security... This agency was established immediately after the 9/11 false flag operation, in October of 2001, so fast was this agency erected that it seems as if the plans were just waiting on the sidelines for implementation... The Committee on Homeland Security and Government Affairs was proposed, established and Chaired by Zionist Jew titan Sen. Joe LIEberman. They then setup the Dept. of Homeland Security that was subsequently COMPLETELY ESTABLISHED, CONTROLLED and RUN BY ZIONIST JEW AGENTS:

- Michael Chertoff: Secretary of US Homeland Security.
- Paul A. Schneider: Deputy Secretary of US Homeland Security.
- Fred L. Schwien: Executive Secretary of Operations of US Homeland Security.
- Jay M. Cohen: Under-Secretary for Science & Technology of US Homeland Security.

These dual citizen Israeli Zionist Jew secret agents are THE people running OUR national defense infrastructure!!! Why do I get this gut feeling that our nation is in the hands of sinister outsiders who are using every tool in their arsenal to infiltrate, manipulate and control our nation? This agency is on the forefront of eliminating our constitutional liberties and establishing a defacto police state system... for “your protection” of course...

The “Homeland Security” Apparatus has become the unofficial forth branch of government almost overnight riding on the pretext and narrative of the 9/11 black-ops demolition of the World Trade Center complex. The Zionist enacted and controlled Homeland Security Apparatus has become THE most powerful and most important branch of government inside the U.S., even superseding congress! If that does not scare or worry you in the slightest, then I don't know what will. What has transpired since September of 2001 has been the erecting of the world's largest most powerful top-secret shadow government that is growing exponentially on a daily basis. What is truly frightening is that almost all their efforts are aimed at the 300 million Americans of this country. We are now the most monitored and surveillance society on the planet. The resources and policies are frightening resembling a Orwellian virtual police state..

Here is a glimpse of the new improved Zionist driven Homeland Security Apparatus:

TOP SECRET AMERICA

— A Washington Post Investigation —

A hidden world, growing beyond control

The top-secret world the government created in response to the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, has become so large, so unwieldy and so secretive that no one knows how much money it costs, how many people it employs, how many programs exist within it or exactly how many agencies do the same work.

These are some of the findings of a two-year investigation by The Washington Post that discovered what amounts to an alternative geography of the United States, a Top Secret America hidden from public view and lacking in thorough oversight. After nine years of unprecedented spending and growth, the result is that the system put in place to keep the United States safe is so massive that its effectiveness is impossible to determine...

Inside Top Secret America

A major investigation reveals the extent of America's vast and heavily privatized military-corporate-intelligence establishment.

August 28, 2010 / By Lindsay Beyerstein / AlterNet

In July, the Washington Post published the Top Secret America project -- a sweeping portrait of America's heavily privatized military-corporate-intelligence establishment. Lead reporter Dana Priest calls it the "vast and hidden apparatus of the war on terror."

Priest, who has won two Pulitzer Prizes, described the project as the most challenging investigation of her career. She teamed up with national security journalist William Arkin and a team of about 20 Post staffers to create an "alternative geography" of a hidden world that has exploded since the attacks of 9/11. At last count, the official U.S. intelligence budget stood at $75 billion -- more than two and a half times what it was on September 10, 2001.

The remarkable three-part series (I, II, III) and its intricate multimedia Web site attracted some initial praise, but just as quickly seemed to drop off the map. This article is an attempt to revisit some of the Priest and Arkin's most shocking discoveries.

Top Secret America is based on hundreds of interviews with government officials, contractors and independent experts; satellite imagery; government contracts; property records; promotional materials from contractors; photo reconnaissance of suspected intelligence facilities, and more.

To give a sense of the physical layout of Top Secret America, Priest and Arkin plotted government and corporate secret locations on a map.

The reporters also compiled their data in the searchable Top Secret America database (TSA). They found 1,931 intelligence contracting firms doing work classified as "top secret," for 1,271 government organizations at over 10,000 sites around the country. 533 of the contracting firms were founded after the 9/11 attacks.

About 110 contractors do about 90 percent of the top-secret work. The biggest of the big are household words: Booz Allen Hamilton, L-3 Communications, CSC, Northrop Grumman, General Dynamics, and SAIC.

The TSA database doesn't include firms that only do merely "secret" work because the reporters found too many to count.

Contractors make up nearly 30 percent of the workforce of America's intelligence agencies. At the Department of Homeland Security the ratio of contractors to staffers is 50-50. The Post estimates that of the 854,000 people with top-secret clearances, 265,000 are contractors.

The U.S. has become utterly dependent on contractors for basic national security and intelligence functions. The National Reconnaissance Office literally couldn't launch satellites without contractors. Contractors do everything from recruiting spies to interrogating detainees to processing civil forfeitures in the war on drugs.

CIA director Leon Panetta admitted to the Post that dependence on contractors is a liability because the main duty of corporations "is to their shareholders, and that does present an inherent conflict." As Jeremy Scahill pointed out in the Nation, these reservations didn't stop Panetta from approving a new \$100 million contract with the scandal-plagued private security contractor formerly known as Blackwater.

Over 300 recruiting firms known as "body shops" specialize in hooking the federal government up with private contractors. Industry insiders told the Post they could charge nearly \$50,000 per placement.

The higher the security clearance, the more money a contractor makes. Ironically many of these contractors are retired intelligence officers supplementing their federal pensions by moonlighting for the government. The Bush administration justified massive outsourcing by claiming that contractors were ultimately cheaper than federal employees. However, Defense Secretary Robert M. Gates admitted to the Post that federal workers cost the government about 25 percent less than contractors.

The series briefly alludes to some high-profile misconduct by contractors including detainee torture at CIA black sites, Blackwater's civilian-shooting spree, MZM's bribes to a Republican member of the House Intelligence Committee for CIA contracts, and the "lewd-partying scandal" that engulfed ArmorGroup guards at the U.S. embassy compound in Kabul. The ArmorGroup guards were the national security geniuses who were busted with photographs they took of themselves taking vodka shots from their comrades' butt cracks.

Contractors have permeated every sphere of intelligence from aircraft and satellite operations to human intelligence to information technology. Contractors do things you'd assume would be the exclusive preserve of government agents. The TSA database lists 18 government organizations contracting with 37 private companies to conduct psychological operations; 16 government organizations using 50 companies for "special military operations" (e.g., SWAT teams and unconventional warfare); and 14 government organizations contracting with 50 companies for top-secret conventional military operations.

Top-secret projects aren't the exclusive preserve of familiar players like the CIA, the Pentagon, the NSA, and the FBI, either. You might be surprised to learn that the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Department of Labor, and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service also do some top-secret work.

Thirty-two government organizations employ 36 different companies for counter-drug operations. Many of the entries include links to the contractors' Web sites. "To you, it means not only more bang for your buck – but better bang," says the self-proclaimed "trim, nimble" J.R. Mannes Defense Services Corp. of its own performance. J.R. Mannes is listed as a counter-drug contractor in the TSA database, but its Web site reads more like that of an elite escort service. The "Let's Partner" tab of its Web site promises: "You'll be hard-pressed to find another resource whose principals and board members have deeper experience or more impressive credentials in the art." All this prowess results in "smoother and more successful outcomes on every level of assignment for you and your clients."

Perhaps the most alarming conclusion of the Top Secret America project is that nobody really knows if any of this is making us any safer. "[The system] has become so large, so unwieldy and so secretive that no one knows how much money it costs, how many people it employs, how many programs exist within it or exactly how many agencies do the same work," the authors conclude.

The sheer scope of intelligence activity has exploded beyond anyone's ability to keep track of the search, let alone interpret the vast amount of data that the enterprise churns out every day. One senior official confessed to the Post, "I'm not going to live long enough to be briefed on everything." Disturbingly, this guy is one of only a handful of so-called "Super Users" at the Department of Defense who are supposed to know all the department's activities.

The Post found that a large number of agencies were investigating the same questions. Defenders of the system say that a certain amount of redundancy is a feature, not a bug. "The architects of the U.S. intelligence system wanted different eyes to look at the same data from diverse perspectives because they wanted to avoid another surprise attack like Pearl Harbor,” former deputy assistant secretary of defense Tom Mahnken wrote in response to the TSA project. His critique would be more convincing if the various agencies talked to each other. Generally speaking, they don’t. The Post found that many agencies can’t even communicate internally.

There’s too much information coming in and not enough experienced people to interpret it and synthesize it. The NSA intercepts 1.7 billion e-mails, phone calls and other types of communications every day and divides some percentage of these between 70 different databases. The same problem repeats itself in every intelligence-gathering organization.

The Post reports that at least 263 intelligence organizations have been created or reorganized in response to 9/11. The Bush administration created the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) to keep track of the massive undertaking in 2004. Unfortunately ODNI hasn’t been very successful, in part because the agency has no legal or budgetary control over the agencies it supposedly supervising. The CIA has been known to thwart ODNI by simply classifying reports as too secret for ODNI to see.

It’s not like Congress is minding the store, either. In 2004, the 9/11 Commission unanimously pronounced Congressional oversight of intelligence to be “dysfunctional.” In 2010, a followup report by the co-chairs of the commission concluded that while some progress had been made, congressional oversight of intelligence and homeland security remained an “unworkable” system and a “jurisdictional melee.”

What’s remarkable about the Top Secret America project is not so much the conclusions -- it should come as no surprise that the U.S. spends billions of dollars on a bureaucratic under-supervised intelligence apparatus that enriches private contractors without necessarily making the country safer. What’s remarkable is the thoroughness with which these claims are documented.

Arguably, in attempting to represent the state of such a complex system Top Secret America recreates the information overload in microcosm. The end product is so big and so dense that it’s hard to take it all in. Initially, senior intelligence officials made some weak attempts to push back against Top Secret America, particularly against what they called the “myth” that contractors perform inherently governmental functions. They didn’t take issue with the Post’s claims about what contractors do, they quibbled about the definition of “inherently governmental.”

In the end, the intelcrats let the conclusions of the series stand more or less unchallenged. Some may even be grateful. Priest and Arkin probably taught them a lot about their own business. [link to full Washington Post investigative story]

At this point I realize one major point: they DON'T teach COMON SENSE at any ivy league universities! The rulers and leaders of our world live in their own cocoon, an alternate reality devoid of truly caring for their fellow man, where they mold and shape the public opinion of the goyim cattle they lead astray at will. No one dares question the bosses, the leaders, for when the day you do so, you are FIRED! Oh, I’m sorry, it’s not called "fired" anymore, it’s now called "laid off", or in its most polite form: forced "resignation". The repercussions of the punishment soon follows, you are left in dire straits, mounting debt, hunger and poverty then knocks on your door. After that lesson, they will never again go against the authority.

No matter what, the ruling elite could give a rat’s ass about "common sense", fairness, equality, compassion, love for thy fellow man, etc. For the ruling elite, it is NOT about money anymore, they swim in it from childhood, it is about POWER, the ultimate DRUG. To have goyim useful idiot sheeple serve you, bow to your every whim, WORESHIPPING you and your cause, after money, nothing else comes close. Power is THE ULTIMATE TRIP. You can’t get closer to being GOD than wielding ultimate POWER. The elite are like “gods” walking upon the earth.

So, why did America REALLY invade Afghanistan, Iraq, soon Iran then other Middle Eastern countries? Several reasons: First and foremost, the Zionists Jews and some Christians want and feel it is their DESTINEY to get back the Temple Mount from the hands of the Muslims then rebuild Solomon's Temple, for without it, according to scripture, the messiah will never come.

The materialistic pretext was quite simple: get the black gold: OIL, for the world's number one most powerful industry on the planet, the energy industrial complex. Oil production has peaked and has been on a downward spiral for some years now. This is a known FACT. And those hard headed Muslims are not playing by OUR rules! They must all DIE!!! "All their oil rightfully belongs to us!"... Die infidels die! How dare they deny our western corporations their oil? Doh!

Seven years have already passed; we have hundreds of thousands of people who realize that the official story of 911 just does not add up. No matter what is said, what proof is presented, the establishment continues to ignore repeated attempts for a REAL investigation. But then, a REAL investigation will NEVER happen. Just as in the JFK assassination 44 years ago, so will it be with 911. The public will waste their time asking for the truth and they will waste countless years in never ending DEBATES on this subject. They will NEVER allow the truth to be revealed. They CAN NOT EVER allow the real truth to be recognized. If the truth ever got out, they know there would be no where on the planet any of them could hide, their gig would be over. So NO, you will NEVER get the truth out from them. Never.

THE 9/11 ISSUE WILL BE USED TO BRING THIS COUNTRY DOWN - video

Just as in the JFK assassination, the entire project was pulled off by CIA Black Ops for a very tight nit group of elite leaders who had come to the conclusion that "the ends justify the means." For the way they look at the world: to sacrifice several thousand lives to attain the elusive goal of accomplishing their world wide conquest in the guise of "protecting us"... is perfectly reasonable in their minds.

Many people have a false impression that it is impossible for any government to perform a calculated BlackOps clandestine operation and keep it secret. When in all reality this is exactly the protocol for ALL their calculated BlackOps clandestine operations are in fact kept secret for eons. Thousands upon thousands of secret operations have been performed that have never been divulged to the public. So what deranged mind comes up with the twisted logic that our government is incapable of keeping anything secret?

The clandestine BlackOps execution of JFK probably involved no more than half a dozen people; two or three field agents, devoutly loyal operatives (whom can be eliminated later), a patsy and three or four high security clearance very powerful directors in key positions to guide all the events such as the law enforcement reaction and guidance, media information dissemination, subsequent investigation and so on. The three or four high level orchestrators with their power and key positions with access to unlimited funds, resources and devoted employees whom need not be part of any conspiracy due to the fact that the establishment system functions as a strictly enforced hierarchy where standard military protocol is to FOLLOW ORDERS, never question orders, never think, just loyally perform your duty. All the leader need do is provide a somewhat creative believable pretext(s) to get a myriad of orders performed without so much as raising any red flags or alarms.

So if you truly understand STANDARD military protocol, comprehending how ANY clandestine assassination or operation can successfully be conducted is never in doubt for THIS is how they are trained to operate. They live in their closed world and the outsiders are in no way shape or form allowed in. Their world is enclosed in secrecy.

What happens is when things surface in the public sphere, more often than not is because of human error. Many times while carefully planning the clandestine operation the strategists fail to take this or that factor into consideration, they fail to cover this or that base, unforeseen circumstances enter the picture, witnesses see things they are not supposed to, as they say "the best laid plans often go to waste"... no matter how good an agent's extraordinary situational awareness (ESA) may be.

Now the infamous 911 clandestine false flag BlackOps mission required the manipulation of some major human resources. First of all one must understand that the operation was a JOINT VENTURE by the Mossad and the CIA. The Mossad coordinated providing the “evil Arab terrorists” aspect of the mission while a loyal group of top level Zionist/CIA/Washington/PentaCON brass took care of guiding the operation coordinating the reaction of law enforcement. In all, I estimate that the entire operation was conducted with about one to two dozen top level Zionist/Masonic operatives that were involved in the intricate details of the BlackOp. The rest of the participants you must remember, were all CONDUCTING DRILLS that they had no clue TURNED LIVE... As per standard military protocol they all blindly followed orders, questioned nothing and kept their mouths shut. All the unknowing accomplices viewpoints, threshold, observations, perspectives, understanding, information were purposely limited (as per standard operational protocol) to their own little post, occupation, department, portion of input in the “practice drill” that they were participating in, thus even though hundreds of people were technically involved, no one was the wiser, for only the key leaders knew and gave orders. Behold... for I have just rudimentary summed up, cracked the code and provided the simple framework of two of history’s most notorious crimes.

"The explicit and declared motive of the [Afghanistan] war was to compel the Taliban to turn over to the United States, the people who they accused of having been involved in World Trade Center and Pentagon terrorist acts. The Taliban requested evidence...and the Bush administration refused to provide any," the 81-year-old senior academic made the remarks on Press TV's program a Simple Question.

"We later discovered one of the reasons why they did not bring evidence: they did not have any."

The political analyst also said that nonexistence of such evidence was confirmed by FBI eight months later.

"The head of FBI, after the most intense international investigation in history, informed the press that the FBI believed that the plot may have been hatched in Afghanistan, but was probably implemented in the United Arab Emirates and Germany."

Chomsky added that three weeks into the war, "a British officer announced that the US and Britain would continue bombing, until the people of Afghanistan overthrew the Taliban... That was later turned into the official justification for the war."

"All of this was totally illegal. It was more, criminal," Chomsky said.

President Obama said Tuesday night as justification for the surge in troops in Afghanistan:

“We did not ask for this fight. On September 11, 2001, 19 men hijacked four airplanes and used them to murder nearly 3,000 people.

Al Qaeda’s base of operations was in Afghanistan, where they were harbored by the Taliban”, who refused to turn over Osama bin Laden.”

Is that true?

On October 14, 2001, the Taliban offered to hand over Osama bin Laden to a neutral country if the US halted bombing if the Taliban were given evidence of Bin Laden's involvement in 9/11. They offered to turn him over several times. Very simple, just show them the evidence... you insist you have but never produced to anyone other than your claims that he was behind the attacks.

Finally: A senior Taliban minister offered a last-minute deal to hand over Osama bin Laden during a secret visit to Islamabad, senior sources in Pakistan told the Guardian last night.

For the first time, the Taliban offered to hand over Bin Laden for trial in a country other than the US without asking to see evidence first in return for a halt to the bombing, a source close to Pakistan's military leadership said.

And yet ... the U.S. turned down the offer and instead prosecuted war.

10 years later.... Still no Osama Bin Mossaden but we are still there conducting massive bombings of the innocent Afghani citizens back to the stone age, having utterly destroyed their nation which is now in rubbles.

1998 Unocal Statement:

Suspension of activities related to proposed natural gas pipeline across Afghanistan

As a result of sharply deteriorating political conditions in the region, Unocal, which serves as the development manager for the Central Asia Gas (CentGas) pipeline consortium, has suspended all activities involving the proposed pipeline project in Afghanistan.

U.S. INTERESTS IN THE CENTRAL ASIAN REPUBLICS HEARING BEFORE THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC
OF THE COMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
ONE HUNDRED FIFTH CONGRESS SECOND SESSION
FEBRUARY 12, 1998

Next we would like to hear from Mr. John J. Maresca, vice president of international relations, Unocal Corporation. You may proceed as you wish.

STATEMENT OF JOHN J. MARESCA, VICE PRESIDENT OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, UNOCAL CORPORATION

Mr. Maresca. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's nice to see you again. I am John Maresca, vice president for international relations of the Unocal Corporation. Unocal, as you know, is one of the world's leading energy resource and project development companies. I appreciate your invitation to speak here today. I believe these hearings are important and timely. I congratulate you for focusing on Central Asia oil and gas reserves and the role they play in shaping U.S. policy.

I would like to focus today on three issues. First, the need for multiple pipeline routes for Central Asian oil and gas resources. Second, the need for U.S. support for international and regional efforts to achieve balanced and lasting political settlements to the conflicts in the region, including Afghanistan. Third, the need for structured assistance to encourage economic reforms and the development of appropriate investment climates in the region.

In this regard, we specifically support repeal or removal of section 907 of the Freedom Support Act.

Mr. Chairman, the Caspian region contains tremendous untapped hydrocarbon reserves. Just to give an idea of the scale, proven natural gas reserves equal more than 236 trillion cubic feet. The region's total oil reserves may well reach more than 60 billion barrels of oil. Some estimates are as high as 200 billion barrels. In 1995, the region was producing only 870,000 barrels per day. By 2010, western companies could increase production to about 4.5 million barrels a day, an increase of more than 500 percent in only 15 years. If this occurs, the region would represent about 5 percent of the world's total oil production.

One major problem has yet to be resolved: how to get the region's vast energy resources to the markets where they are needed. Central Asia is isolated. Their natural resources are land locked, both geographically and politically. Each of the countries in the Caucasus and Central Asia faces difficult political challenges. Some have unsettled wars or latent conflicts. Others have evolving systems where the laws and even the courts are dynamic and changing. In addition, a chief technical obstacle which we in the industry face in transporting oil is the region's existing pipeline infrastructure.

Because the region's pipelines were constructed during the Moscow-centered Soviet period, they tend to head north and west toward Russia. There are no connections to the south and east. But Russia is currently unlikely to absorb large new quantities of foreign oil. It's unlikely to be a significant market for new energy in the next decade. It lacks the capacity to deliver it to other markets.

Two major infrastructure projects are seeking to meet the need for additional export capacity. One, under the aegis of the Caspian Pipeline Consortium, plans to build a pipeline west from the northern Caspian to the Russian Black Sea port of Novorossiysk. Oil would then go by tanker through the Bosphorus to the Mediterranean and world markets.

The other project is sponsored by the Azerbaijan International Operating Company, a consortium of 11 foreign oil companies, including four American companies, Unocal, Amoco, Exxon and Pennzoil. This consortium conceives of two possible routes, one line would angle north and cross the north Caucasus to Novorossiysk. The other route would cross Georgia to a shipping terminal on the Black Sea. This second route could be extended west and south across Turkey to the Mediterranean port of Ceyhan.

But even if both pipelines were built, they would not have enough total capacity to transport all the oil expected to flow from the region in the future. Nor would they have the capability to move it to the right markets. Other export pipelines must be built.

At Unocal, we believe that the central factor in planning these pipelines should be the location of the future energy markets that are most likely to need these new supplies. Western Europe, Central and Eastern Europe, and the Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union are all slow growth markets where demand will grow at only a half a percent to perhaps 1.2 percent per year during the period 1995 to 2010.

Asia is a different story all together. It will have a rapidly increasing energy consumption need. Prior to the recent turbulence in the Asian Pacific economies, we at Unocal anticipated that this region's demand for oil would almost double by 2010. Although the short-term increase in demand will probably not meet these expectations, we stand behind our long-term estimates.

I should note that it is in everyone's interest that there be adequate supplies for Asia's increasing energy requirements. If Asia's energy needs are not satisfied, they will simply put pressure on all world markets, driving prices upwards everywhere.

The key question then is how the energy resources of Central Asia can be made available to nearby Asian markets. There are two possible solutions, with several variations. One option is to go east across China, but this would mean constructing a pipeline of more than 3,000 kilometers just to reach Central China. In addition, there would have to be a 2,000-kilometer connection to reach the main population centers along the coast. The question then is what will be the cost of transporting oil through this pipeline, and what would be the netback which the producers would receive.

For those who are not familiar with the terminology, the netback is the price which the producer receives for his oil or gas at the well head after all the transportation costs have been deducted. So it's the price he receives for the oil he produces at the well head.

The second option is to build a pipeline south from Central Asia to the Indian Ocean. One obvious route south would cross Iran, but this is foreclosed for American companies because of U.S. sanctions legislation. The only other possible route is across Afghanistan, which has of course its own unique challenges. The country has been involved in bitter warfare for almost two decades, and is still divided by civil war. From the outset, we have made it clear that construction of the pipeline we have proposed across Afghanistan could not begin until a recognized government is in place that has the confidence of governments, lenders, and our company.

Mr. Chairman, as you know, we have worked very closely with the University of Nebraska at Omaha in developing a training program for Afghanistan which will be open to both men and women, and which will operate in both parts of the country, the north and south.

Unocal foresees a pipeline which would become part of a regional system that will gather oil from existing pipeline infrastructure in Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan and Russia. The 1,040-mile long oil pipeline would extend south through Afghanistan to an export terminal that would be constructed on the Pakistan coast. This 42-inch diameter pipeline will have a shipping capacity of one million barrels of oil per day. The estimated cost of the project, which is similar in scope to the trans-Alaska pipeline, is about $2.5 billion.

Given the plentiful natural gas supplies of Central Asia, our aim is to link gas resources with the nearest viable markets. This is basic for the commercial viability of any gas project. But these projects also face geopolitical challenges. Unocal and the Turkish company Koc Holding are interested in bringing competitive gas supplies to Turkey. The proposed Eurasia natural gas pipeline would transport gas from Turkmenistan directly across the Caspian Sea through Azerbaijan and Georgia to Turkey. Of course the demarcation of the Caspian remains an issue.

Last October, the Central Asia Gas Pipeline Consortium, called CentGas, in which Unocal holds an interest, was formed to develop a gas pipeline which will link Turkmenistan's vast Dauletabad gas field with markets in Pakistan and possibly India. The proposed 790-mile pipeline will open up new markets for this gas, traveling from Turkmenistan through Afghanistan to Multan in Pakistan. The proposed extension would move gas on to New Delhi, where it would connect with an existing pipeline. As with the proposed Central Asia oil pipeline, CentGas cannot begin construction until an internationally recognized Afghanistan Government is in place.

The Central Asia and Caspian region is blessed with abundant oil and gas that can enhance the lives of the region's residents, and provide energy for growth in both Europe and Asia. The impact of these resources on U.S. commercial interests and U.S. foreign policy is also significant. Without peaceful settlement of the conflicts in the region, cross-border oil and gas pipelines are not likely to be built. We urge the Administration and the Congress to give strong support to the U.N.-led peace process in Afghanistan. The U.S. Government should use its influence to help find solutions to all of the region's conflicts.

U.S. assistance in developing these new economies will be crucial to business success. We thus also encourage strong technical assistance programs throughout the region. Specifically, we urge repeal or removal of section 907 of the Freedom Support Act. This section unfairly restricts U.S. Government assistance to the government of Azerbaijan and limits U.S. influence in the region.

Developing cost-effective export routes for Central Asian resources is a formidable task, but not an impossible one. Unocal and other American companies like it are fully prepared to undertake the job and to make Central Asia once again into the crossroads it has been in the past. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

US Policy On Taliban Influenced By Oil Deal Negotiations

The two claim that the US government's main objective in Afghanistan was to consolidate the position of the Taliban regime to obtain access to the oil and gas reserves in Central Asia.

They affirm that until August [2001], the US government saw the Taliban regime "as a source of stability in Central Asia that would enable the construction of an oil pipeline across Central Asia" from the rich oilfields in Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, and Kazakhstan, through Afghanistan and Pakistan, to the Indian Ocean. Until now, says the book, "the oil and gas reserves of Central Asia have been controlled by Russia. The Bush government wanted to change all that."

SHAMED ENRON BOSSES GAVE MILLIONS TO BIN LADEN & TALIBAN

HOUSTON: The Enron Corporation gave the Taliban dictator rulers millions of dollars in a no-holds-barred bid to strike a deal for an energy pipeline in Afghanistan.

And the company did this while the Taliban were already sheltering terror kingpin Osama Bin Laden!

Enron executives even met with Taliban officials in Texas, where they were given the red-carpet treatment and promised a fortune if the deal went through. This bombshell has been revealed following an investigation into the collapse of the company that ripped off Americans for hundreds of millions of dollars.

It has also been uncovered that some of the Enron money wound up supporting Bin Laden and his Al Qaeda terrorist network.

"Enron would do business with the devil if it would make the company money," said a member of a Congressional committee investigating the company's collapse. Atul Daouda, who worked as a senior director for Enron's International Division until the company's collapse, confirmed: "Enron had intimate contact with Taliban officials."

Enron secretly employed CIA agents to carry out its dealings overseas. And a CIA insider disclosed: "Enron proposed to pay the Taliban large sums of money in a 'tax' on every cubic foot of gas and oil shipped through a pipeline they planned to build."

Enron shelled out more than $400 million for a feasibility study on

They were hoping to cut deal on oil pipeline

the pipeline and "a large portion of that cost was pay-offs to the Taliban," said the CIA source.

Shockingly, Enron's wooing of the Taliban continued even after Al Qaeda agents bombed two American embassies in Africa in 1998.

And three days after the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Centre and the Pentagon, Enron and its CEO Kenneth Lay held on, waiting for the Taliban to give up Bin Laden as the Bush administration was demanding.

But, confronted with Taliban's refusal to accept US conditions, "this rationale of energy security changed into a military one", the authors claim.

"At one moment during the negotiations, the US representatives told the Taliban, 'either you accept our offer of a carpet of gold, or we bury you under a carpet of bombs,'" Brisard said in an interview in Paris.

27 December 2002: Afghanistan Pipeline Deal signed

An agreement has been signed in the Turkmen capital, Ashgabat, paving the way for construction of a gas pipeline from the Central Asian republic through Afghanistan to Pakistan.

The building of the trans-Afghanistan pipeline has been under discussion for some years but plans have been held up by Afghanistan's unstable political situation.

Paul Craig Roberts, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the Reagan Administration, co-founder of Reaganomics has stated that the neocons intended to use a renewal of the fight against terrorism to rally the American people around the fading Republican Party.

"The administration figures themselves and prominent Republican propagandists ... are preparing us for another 9/11 event or series of events," he said:

"You have to count on the fact that if al Qaeda is not going to do it, it is going to be orchestrated."

Remember the Illegal Destruction of Iraq?

By Glenn Greenwald

British political news has been consumed for the last several weeks by a formal inquiry into the illegality and deceit behind Tony Blair's decision to join the U.S. in invading Iraq. Today, Blair himself is publicly testifying before the investigative commission and is being grilled about numerous false claims he made in the run-up to the war, not only about Iraqi weapons programs (his taxi-cab-derived "45-minutes-to-launch!!!" warning) and Saddam's ties to Al Qaeda, but also about secret commitments he made to join the U.S. at a time when he and Bush were still pretending that they were undecided and awaiting the outcome of the U.N. negotiations and the inspection process.

A major focus of the investigation is the illegality of the war. Some of the most embarrassing details that have emerged concern the conclusions by the British Government's own legal advisers that the invasion of Iraq would be illegal without U.N. approval. The top British legal officer had concluded that the war would be illegal, only to change his mind under substantial pressure shortly before the invasion. Several weeks ago, a formal investigation in the Netherlands -- whose government had supported the invasion -- produced the first official adjudication of the legality of the war, and found it illegal, with "no basis in international law."

As Digby notes, all of this stands in stark and shameful contrast to the U.S., which pointedly refuses to "look back" or concern itself with whether it waged an illegal (and horribly destructive) war. The British inquiry has been widely criticized for being too passive and deferential and lacking any credible threat of accountability (other than disclosure of facts). Still, one can barely even imagine George Bush and Dick Cheney being hauled before an investigative body and forced, under oath, to testify publicly about what they did as a means of determining the legality or illegality of that war.

Doing that would fundamentally conflict with two leading principles in American political life: (1) our highest political leaders must never be accountable for actions they take while in power; and (2) whether something they do is "illegal" -- especially the starting of wars -- is utterly irrelevant. Instead of formally investigating whether they broke the law, we treat them like elder statesmen who deserve a life of luxury and media reverence. Tony Blair -- who had no discernible expertise or experience in banking -- himself is showered with riches for a "part-time" job by JP Morgan and by other institutions who benefited substantially from his acts in office.

All of this underscores the fact that -- despite how much public debate it has received -- we still childishly, and with moral blindness, refuse to come to terms with the true scope of our wrongdoing when it comes to the Iraq War. Several hundred thousand Iraqis -- at least -- were killed as a result of this war, with another 4 million being turned into refugees. As the Iraqi journalist and professor Ali Fadhil put it in 2008, on the fifth anniversary of the U.S. invasion: "basically, my assessment is we have a whole nation called Iraq, now it's wiped out." Contrary to self-justifying conventional wisdom, the alleged post-surge improvement in Iraqi civil society has not remotely mitigated the destruction spawned by the invasion. As The Economist detailed in September, 2009, the U.S.-supported Maliki government is relying increasingly on Saddam-era tactics of torture, censorship, lawless sectarian militias, and brutal punishment of dissent: "Human-rights violations are becoming more common. In private many Iraqis, especially educated ones, are asking if their country may go back to being a police state."

The invasion of Iraq was unquestionably one of the greatest crimes of the last several decades. Imagine what future historians will say about it -- a nakedly aggressive war launched under the falsest of pretenses, in brazen violation of every relevant precept of law, which destroyed an entire country, killed huge numbers of innocent people, and devastated the entire population. Have we even remotely treated it as what it is? We're willing to concede it was a "mistake" -- a good-natured and completely understandable lapse of judgment -- but only the shrill and unhinged among us call it a crime. As always, it's worth recalling that Robert Jackson, the lead prosecutor at the Nuremberg Trials, insisted in his Closing Argument against the Nazi war criminals that "the central crime in this pattern of crimes" was not genocide or mass deportation or concentration camps; rather, "the kingpin which holds them all together, is the plot for aggressive wars." History teaches that aggressive war is the greatest and most dangerous of all crimes -- as it enables even worse acts of inhumanity -- and illegal, aggressive war is precisely what we did in Iraq, to great devastation.

I'm periodically criticized for an "angry" tone in my writing, which I always find mystifying. I genuinely don't understand why anger should be avoided or even how it could be. What other reaction is possible when one looks around and sees the government leaders who committed these grave crimes completely unburdened by any accountability and treated as respectable dignitaries, or watches the Tom Friedmans, Jeffrey Goldbergs, Fred Hiatts and other unrepentent leading media propagandists who helped enable it still feted as Serious and honest experts, or beholds the current Cabinet and Senate filled with people who supported it, or observes the Michael O'Hanlons and Les Gelbs and other Foreign Policy Community luminaries who lent trans-partisan credence to it all continue to traipse around still pompously advocating for more wars that never touch their lives?

A few months ago, I did an MSNBC segment with Dan Senor, who is currently a Fox News contributor, author of a new book hailing the greatness of Israeli innovations, a recent addition to the Council on Foreign Relations, and husband of CNN anchor Campbell Brown. But back in 2003 and 2004, he was Chief Spokesman for the "Coalition Provisional Authority" in Iraq -- the U.S. occupying force in that country. Sitting in the green room with him before the segment, I was really disgusted by the paradox that one is supposed to treat him as just some random political adversary deserving of standard civility, respect and respectability -- in other words, a Decent Person is supposed to forget that he was an official who enabled and lied about some of the most monstrous acts of the last many years and is wholly unrepentent. And, of course, he was going on MSNBC that day to opine about our current foreign policy options: direct involvement in this horrific crime is no disqualifying factor; it's not even a black mark against someone's credibility and reputation.

At least Robert McNamara had the decency to write a deeply humble mea culpa and spend the last couple decades of his life under a cloud of deep shame and disgrace until he died. Do you think any of that will happen to any of the people responsible -- in politics, the media and our Foreign Policy think tanks -- for the unimaginable crimes of the last decade, particularly what was done in Iraq: Shock and Awe and the Fallujah massacres and Blackwater slaughters and Abu Ghraib and all the rest?

Of course it won't. They continue to thrive unabated even as Iraq tries to rebuild itself from the devastation they unleashed. As toothless as the British investigation appears to be, at least there's some public reckoning, compelled answers from their leaders, and an attempt to determine the precise nature of their crimes. And the Dutch have formally declared the war in which they were involved to be a crime. By contrast, we treat it all as a pointless relic of the irrelevant and distant past, all because the people who did it have banded together to decree that the worst possible crime is not what they did, but instead, would be if the rest of us examined what they did and insisted on meaningful accountability.

If after reading all the facts listed on this report and you can still say that the U.S. nothing to do 9/11, "oh no, our loving government would NEVER harm its own people" in order to setup the pretext for pre-defined agenda... despite the fact that they have done exactly this countless of times before, just in smaller scales, if you honestly believe that elite Luciferian Zionist agents, leaders embedded within your government wouldn't do such things then you are then a hopeless case. Take your number, stamp it on your forehead and step in line with the rest of the other cattle. You are then truly one who deserves what you have coming to you. Go forth and graze with the other mindless sheep, your day of reckoning will soon come.

GORDON DUFF: FALSE FLAG NUKE ATTACK ON U.S. JUSTIFIED.... "KING'S TORAH"

ISRAEL TO USE IRANIAN AND PAKISTANI DUPES IN DIRTY NUKE PLOY

By Gordon Duff STAFF WRITER/Senior Editor, August 2, 2010

This week, the last piece fell into place. The National Research Council, part of the National Academy of Science, heavy on politics and light on science, announced that America was no longer able to track nukes threatening our shores. Their report titled Nuclear Forensics: A Capability at Risk, released last week, outlines the details of a secret study requested by the Departments of Homeland Security, Defense and Energy, specifically the National Nuclear Security Administration. The gist of the story is easy, if a nuke goes off in America, dirty nuke in Times Square, one in a container at a port, anywhere, America won't be able to tell who made it. Not a word of the report is true. It is wild speculation and disinformation written in broad language with no hard science, written for a reason.

A powerful group within the United States, one with influence over the press and the ability to derail an investigation as was done with 9/11, has been “tasked” with laying the groundwork for a terrorist attack on America, one using nuclear material. This report, unneeded, and highly inaccurate was printed in the New York Times to provide “cover.” It isn't just this report, the pieces are falling together around the world. The Wiki-Leaks story, pre staging Pakistan's ISI as a terrorist organization, a story built out of almost no information but fleshed out with massive speculation by “operatives” in the press is part of the process.

The Defense Authorization Act of 2006 allows, “in case of a terrorist attack” for the president to declare martial law, disband congress and rule by executive decree. With the suspension of habeas corpus by the Military Commissions act, also in 2006, America as we know it officially comes to an end the second a weapon of mass destruction is used. Only then will America learn who has been pulling the strings all along, who is scripting Wolf Blitzer and Glen Beck.

British Prime Minister David Cameron's attacks on Pakistan, made from New Delhi last week, seen by most as a serious political blunder, are part of the narrative. We will get to more background on a younger David later.

Another piece of the puzzle involved a federal task force, Defense, Energy, FBI, descending on a warehouse in Greenfield, Indiana under the guise of a “records search.” This “Waco style” assault on a facility storing furniture for college dorm rooms was much more than it seemed. No case, criminal or civil, provided any underlying reason for the search.

Further, the bizarre tale of rumored missing nukes, illegally transported on a B-52 from Minot AFB to Barksdale AFB in Louisiana, a major Defense Department scandal, is meant to create, not only fear and doubt, but “plausible deniability” if a weapon is exploded inside the US. These, however, are not, by far, the only missing nuclear weapons America has to fear as we will get into later.

Two recent attacks, the “Times Square Fizzler” and the Detroit “Crotch Bomber” were both amateurish affairs except for a couple of things. Both perpetrators had strong ties to Israeli organizations, one actually employed by an Israeli-American financial firm, the other the son of Israel's primary partner in their defense industry complex in Nigeria. None of this was reported or investigated once discovered. It was shoved under the rug immediately. When cursory investigations of both suspects showed travel histories only possible with significant help from an intelligence agency, both stories disappeared from the news entirely. It is as though everyone involved vanished from the face of the earth like the second person arrested in Detroit or the “well dressed Indian” who aided the “Crotch Bomber” onto the plane in Amsterdam.

LEGAL JUSTIFICATION FOR ATTACKS ON GENTILES

Conservative interpretations of Jewish law, currently being used to justify resettlement of Palestinians and even total removal of all non-Jews from greater Palestine and adjacent areas have long been used to justify acts such as the attack on the USS Liberty, bombings of US facilities in Egypt and, less openly, “false flag” terror attacks attributed to Muslims but performed by Israeli security forces. Rabbi Yitzhak Shapira and Rabbi Yosef Elitzur, seen as the ethical conscience behind the Netanyahu government have taken the following position as reported by

Jonathan Cook:

“In the 230-page book, Shapira and his co-author, Rabbi Yosef Elitzur (The King’s Torah, currently Israel’s best selling book) argue that Jewish law permits the killing of non-Jews in a wide variety of circumstances. They write that Jews have the right to kill Gentiles in any situation in which “a non-Jew’s presence endangers Jewish lives” even if the Gentile is “not at all guilty for the situation that has been created”.

THE KING'S TORAH, ISRAELI "BEST SELLER" JUSTIFIES TERROR

The book sanctions the killing of non-Jewish children and babies: “There is justification for killing babies if it is clear that they will grow up to harm us, and in such a situation they may be harmed deliberately, and not only during combat with adults.”

The rabbis suggest that harming the children of non-Jewish leaders is justified if it is likely to bring pressure to bear on them to change policy. The authors also advocate committing “cruel deeds to create the proper balance of terror” and treating all members of an “enemy nation” as targets for retaliation, even if they are not directly participating in hostile activities.” (false flag terrorism)

This rationale allows deadly force to be used against Christians if their deaths advance the cause of Israeli security even if only through economic profit. Thus, if an attack such as 9/11 were to lead to America fighting wars against enemies of Israel or if, as in Afghanistan, Israeli companies were to profit from weapons or narcotics sales, any deaths of gentiles, no matter how innocent, would be justified by Jewish law as stated in the Torah.

Were an attack on the United States to bring that country to war against Iran, even if that attack were perpetrated by Israelis, it would be legal according to Israeli law, the same law being relied upon for justice in the attack on the Mavi Marmara.

More often however, attacks on Israel itself are believed to have been staged, not only to instill the population with fear and rage but to continue the “holocaust” tradition of Jewish victimhood as a justification for policies that have led to 62 vetoes in the United Nations by the US, vetoes against sanctions imposed against Israel for violations of international law.

We expect increased attacks on Israel, quickly tied to Hezbollah and Iran, attacks that will either involve no casualties or the deaths of either foreign workers or Russian emigres. This pattern has been used repeatedly, such as the March 18 “attack” killing a lone Thai “guest” worker time to coincide with the visit of the European Union’s high commissioner for security, Catherine Ashton, a critic of Israel’s apartheid policy in Gaza.

On a side note, 400 children of “guest workers” are being expelled from Israel this week. Eventually all will be expelled, guilty of destroying “the Jewish character” through lack of “racial purity.”

When the US and Israel released Sharam Amiri, alleged Iranian nuclear scientist, we learned one thing. There is an inventory of Muslims, perhaps arrested, perhaps kidnapped, maybe lured into custody, rendition, imprisonment or “cold storage,” whatever you want to call it. Each one has an elaborate “legend” built around them, describing them as a “lone gunman” or “terrorist mastermind.” This is the group that will supply the names and photographs we will see after the next terror attack.

As Wayne Madsen described to us this week, this was the process the CIA and Mossad used to create Osama bin Laden from nothing. The organization we know of as Al Qaeda is, in itself, a false creation, an invention initially to serve as terrorist when we needed them and as enemies when we needed them too:

“Press clips gathered by the CIA and discovered in the National Archives’ stored CIA files point to an agency keenly interested in any leaks about the highly-classified CIA-Mossad program to establish Osama Bin Laden and the most radical elements of the Afghan Mujahidin as the primary leaders of the anti-Soviet rebels in the 1980s.

WMR [Wayne Madsen Report] has pored through the CIA files and a complicated picture emerges of America’s and Israel’s top intelligence agencies, in cahoots with Saudi Arabia, establishing financial links and carve out intelligence programs to provide manpower and financial support to Bin Laden and his allies in Afghanistan. It was these very elements that later created the so-called “Al Qaeda,” which the late British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook described as nothing more than a “database” of CIA front organizations, financial supporters, and field operatives. However, one component omitted by Cook in the Al Qaeda construct is the Israeli participation.”

A pattern of evidence is emerging that “cold storage” dupes and CIA/Mossad nurtured organizations may have had a hand in, not only the Mumbai attacks but the London and Madrid bombings as well. Additional trails are leading to attacks on American troops inside Iraq and Afghanistan and against security forces inside Pakistan, particularly against Pakistan’s ISI, primary target of press stories on the recent Wiki-Leak.

AMERICA AND THE “TORY NUKES”

There are two reasons to attack America’s “forensic capabilities” when it comes to nuclear weapons. A leak the press chose not to cover, one bringing Israel under scrutiny for egregious violations of international treaties on Nuclear Proliferation, treaties Israel has never signed, were brought to the surface recently. Back on September 22 1979, Israel and South Africa tested a nuclear device, an 18.2 kiloton bomb. This test in a remote area of the Indian Ocean was detected by America’s VELA satellite system and confirmed by acoustic sensors. A forensic signature of this weapon was developed, not only through optics but through particle emissions. When an identical weapon was detonated by North Korea on May 25, 2009, a question was raised. How did a nuclear weapon built by Armscor, an Israel company operating in South Africa, end up in North Korea?

This is the story of the “Tory nukes,” nuclear weapons purchased by Margaret Thatcher in 1991 from South Africa under a secret authorization describing the weapons as “cylinders.” Those involved in putting this bombs into special containers, transporting them to Durban and then off to a container storage facility in Oman from which they disappeared are now filling volumes. When the weapons containers which had laid unguarded for months in a container yard in Oman were forwarded to the United States for dis-assembly in accordance with treaty requirements, only concrete blocks were found. The disappearance has been directly tied to two arms traders who ran illegal trafficking for Israel and South Africa during the Iran-Iraq War.

The accused were business partners in the “Ollie North era” Reagan hijinks known as Iran Contra. The “thieves” were connected to the highest levels of, not only Israeli intelligence but the CIA as well.

Israel says Saddam stole the weapons.

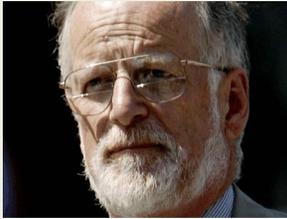

As late as 2003, Tony Blair used this “tale” to back what Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg calls “the illegal invasion of Iraq.” Blair had financial incentives to back the invasion, several million of them, as secret letters leaked to the press but never printed have shown.

PRIME MINISTER DAVID CAMERON, DR. DAVID KELLY AND ARMSCORE

Back in 1990, a very young David Cameron, later to become Prime Minister David Cameron, was offered a free trip to South Africa, paid for by Israeli owned Armscor, a nuclear weapons manufacturer. Cameron was supposedly working with Dr. David Kelly investigating weapons of mass destruction in South Africa. In fact something much different was going on. On January 16, 2005, Tim Shipman, Defense Editor of the Sunday Express released the following story, one never reported in US papers. Today, Dr. David Kelly is dead, clearly murdered because of what he knew and David Cameron is in India carefully reading from a script written in Tel Aviv. This is the 2005 story from the Express:

"Dr. David Kelly, the weapons expert who died in mysterious circumstances after the Iraq war, may have been about to reveal alarming details concerning missing nuclear weapons. Sources familiar with Dr Kelly's work with South Africa's security services say he also knew damaging details of how nuclear weapons decommissioned by South Africa were lost in the Middle East in 1991....."

DR. DAVID KELLY, "SUICIDED" MISSING NUKE WHISTLEBLOWER

Informed experts who have contacted the Sunday Express claim the missing nuclear weapons found their way to Iraq. The claims raise new questions about the extent of Dr Kelly's knowledge of British security secrets, which some insiders believe may have contributed to his death. Some believe he may have been silenced to prevent him revealing more secrets to the media. The South African weapons allegedly went missing in Oman on their way to be decommissioned in the US and may have then been smuggled to Iraq. A source claimed: "Dr Kelly knew about the South African nukes because he worked for research facilities there."

Over the last year intelligence sources in both Britain and America have told journalists they believe that whatever Doomsday arsenal Saddam Hussein had accumulated before the second Gulf War was smuggled into Syria before the Spring 2003 invasion.

Last month the Sunday Express revealed that MI5 investigators looking for details of Dr Kelly's involvement with the South African government, seized his laptop computers after he died. The coroner charged with investigating the Government scientist's death has said he will not reopen the case."

While British and American troops stormed across Iraq in 2003, searching for these missing nukes, defense experts now fear they had been in Israeli hands all along, a secret Dr. David Kelly was no longer willing to keep, one that led to his death. The missing containers may easily have been transferred to the Netherlands, Nigeria or even the United States, perhaps even Indiana or Toledo as is now rumored. British police have raided the homes of many involved in the missing weapons, seizing computers, personal papers and "frightening the hell out of people." Some of those terrorized are scheduled witnesses for the Iraq War inquiry.

ONLY AMERICAN DEAD CAN PRE-STAGE THE IRAN ATTACK

This summer, Turkey and Brazil negotiated a deal with Iran to remove any nuclear fuel that could be used for weapons development. It was exactly what everyone had been asking for. President Obama ignored it and pushed for sanctions demanded by Israel. Russia cancelled the sale of an S300 air defense system to Iran and voted to back sanctions against its ally, Iran also. The relationship between Tel Aviv and the Russian oligarchs, seen so clearly during the Jonathan Pollard spy scandal, had reappeared for public again though no news organization picked any of this up.

With secret Israeli bases, believed used for transit of narcotics from Afghanistan, ringing Iran, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Turkmenistan, Kazakhstan and other nations in the region, and US supplies and munitions in place or being delivered through Black Sea ports, only American public opinion is holding up an attack on Iran, despite the fact that Iran's president Ahmadinejad has requested an immediate conference with President Obama to "settle outstanding issues."

UPSTAGING 9/11

Even though Iran is isolated, even from its Islamic neighbors, it has a substantial defensive capability. Iran can quickly destroy all gulf region oil production facilities and close off shipping to that region, an act likely to collapse all western economies in days. Militarily, however, Iran is unable to defend itself against the vast technological superiority of the United States. However, after a decade of wars with Iraq remaining, not only unstable but increasingly so, and the United States facing defeat in Afghanistan, the American people are unlikely to want to begin a new conflict, especially with an adversary much more powerful than either Iraq and Afghanistan and Israel as the only ally, a country the United States has no mutual defense treaty with and no ability to sustain conflict beyond its own immediate borders for more than 48 hours.

Earlier this year, Israeli military historian Dr. Martin Van Creveld announced Israel's "King Torah" policy toward the "gentile nations:"

"We have hundreds of nuclear warheads and missiles that can reach different targets in the heart of the European continent, including beyond the borders of Rome, the Italian capital...most European capitals would become preferred targets for the Israeli air force."

The legal justification for a nuclear attack is in place, part of Israeli law. The will to do so is there if such an attack can be pulled off and few doubt Israel's ability who have seen the power of the Israeli lobby in Washington and have spoken of their control of the press, such as with the recent media castration of director Oliver Stone.

The tools are in place. Israel is believed to possess two Hiroshima sized nuclear weapons, weapons that can be used freely because the media is ready to claim them to be "stolen" by Muslims if told to do so. The third weapon was exploded by North Korea with the media blackout leaving Israel as the only possible source for this weapon. No nation has the power to black out a leak like that one, not a leak that exposes Israel as a rogue arms dealer, first to apartheid South Africa, then Libya and both Iraq and Iran during their war and finally North Korea.

The ground is prepared, America is now stripped of "forensic" ability to track nuclear explosions, so the cover story tells us. Israel still threatens the world with the missing nukes, weapons reason tells us they control. Any container in any port, any truck, any warehouse could hide these weapons, anywhere in the United States.

When it happens, the vast majority of Americans will find the trail left, Pakistanis, Iranians, all as planned. They will immediately call for the destruction of the Islamic world as is intended by Israel. The internet will be shut down, congress sent home and anyone mentioning that only Israel profits and that only Israel could have done it will be imprisoned, as intended.

They learned from 9/11. Too many questions were asked. They won't make the same mistake again, they did and insisted on meaningful accountability.

The "War On Terror" Is A Fraud - It Is Not Meant To Be Won,
It Is Meant To Be Continuous - video

Wake Up! America.

"After Sept. 11th., America has witnessed the wholesale dismantling of our Constitution as the civil rights of all Americans have been stripped away.

Trumped up fear of international terrorism has been used by our government to conduct warrantless searches on Americans, citizens have been arrested and held without charges being filed or having their case heard before a court, some have been "renditioned" to secret jails and tortured, free speech zones have been set up and Americans exercising their rights outside those approved zones have been jailed in government concentration camps.

Where was the media while all this was happening? They were busy spewing forth their nationalist propaganda distracting Americans from seeing the real terrorists in our midst in exchange for CIA paid operatives identified with Muslim names. All the anti-terrorism fervor that's sweeping our nation today will not bring peace or safety. Hanging flags from your home or displaying them on your car will not restore the American dream of equality for all. Attacking sovereign nations with smart bombs will not inspire others to embrace our ideals.

Until we demand our government return to its foundational ideals as enshrined in the Constitution and hold ALL Americans accountable for their actions, we will not enjoy peace and safety. Indeed, the events transpiring in New York City and Washington D.C. on Sept. 11, 2001 will just be a foreshadowing of much greater adversity to come.” – JeremiahProject.com

CLOSING ARGUMENT

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, we have established that the political force of Zionism is a dangerous supremacist movement, and that its leaders have always placed the interests of International Zionism ahead of the interests of their respective nations. We have demonstrated that this Zionist Mafia will send unsuspecting Americans to war to fight for their interests. We have seen how Germany and Great Britain were selfishly used for their purposes. We have demonstrated the role played by Zionism in helping bring about some of the 20th century’s greatest disasters; such as World Wars I and II and the Treaty of Versailles. We have learned about Zionist massacres of unarmed Arab civilians and Zionist terrorism designed to frame Arabs and poison relations between the US and Israel’s Arab enemies. We learned about the awesome Zionist power structure that exists in America, covering the Congress, the Pentagon, the mass media and more. We have established that the Zionists, through their media monopoly, have the ability to cover up and conceal some of the most amazing stories of both the past and present.

We have established a primary motive - to turn the US into a nation of Arab haters and Israel lovers eager to go to war against Zionism’s Arab enemies. We have established a secondary motive - to brutally crush the Palestinian resistance under the cover of a major US war on terrorism. Sharon’s tanks were unleashed on September 12 in a major escalation of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Because of the 9-11 attacks, few even noticed and still fewer even cared.

We have established numerous precedents for these type of “false-flag” operations as well as cases of Israeli agents impersonating Arab terrorists (Lavon Affair, USS Liberty, Mossad agents caught with Arab passports, Taliban impersonators caught in India etc.) We have established that the Zionists have the logistical capability - the means - and the opportunity to orchestrate such an operation - (best intelligence service in the world, key positions of power at the Pentagon and in US intelligence, experts with explosives, access to WTC, access to Logan Airport and US Air and American Air, unlimited supply of money, able to thwart investigators with phony wire translations and US moles, etc)

We have established that the Zionist controlled media has the ability to cover-up the facts contained in this paper, even after the stories had initially penetrated their own media screens. We have established that the Zionists have the power to ruin the careers of Congressmen, Senators, presidents, law enforcement officials, and journalists. Conversely, they also have the power to advance the careers of those who serve their interests. We have seen that they have the ability to block investigations as well misdirect and thwart existing investigations. We have established that the Zionists were the beneficiaries of the 9-11 attacks whereas Arabs have been hurt greatly by the 9-11 attacks.

We have exposed numerous lies linking Arabs to 9-11. We have established how evidence against Arabs was planted and contrived in order to misdirect investigators (wording of anthrax letters, phony passports, stolen passports, Korans and Arab flight manuals left conveniently behind for FBI field agents to find in cars and “forgotten” suitcases, Atta’s passport surviving the blast and floating down to earth, etc). We have established that 7 of the 19 hijackers are alive and well. We have established that a small army of Mossad agents was caught planning terror acts in America and Mexico. We have seen how anxious the Zionists are to use 9-11 as a pretext to crush the Palestinian resistance and to have the US attack Iraq and other nations. We have established all of this and much more. In addition, there is a plethora of even more damning facts which, in the interests of time and space, weren't even included in this paper!

The only logical conclusion that a reasonable person can arrive at is this: The 9-11 attacks, the anthrax murders, the Bali bombing, the African embassy bombings, and numerous other foiled terror plots, were planned, orchestrated, financed, carried out, and covered up by the forces of international Zionism. What other logical explanation can there be? As incredible as this may seem, what other conclusion is there that can so neatly tie up all of the "loose ends" and mysteries related to 9-11? This is the only scenario into which the many pieces of the 9-11 jig-saw puzzle snap snugly together to reveal a clear image. Now compare this to the official explanation of 9-11, which requires us to force, bend, recreate, ignore, and manipulate puzzle pieces.

Even in the face of this mountain of logic and evidence, there will be those weaklings who will go into denial and casually dismiss this whole case as just another silly "anti-Semitic conspiracy theory". But the funniest "conspiracy theory" of all is the theory that some Saudi caveman and his "network" of Arab video game pilots managed to elude US investigators and pull off the most sophisticated intelligence operation in world history.

You can continue to believe that fairy tale if it makes you sleep better at night (and if your sense of credulity can stand the burden!) Or, you can muster the moral and intellectual courage to free your mind from Zionist bondage and face the ugly truth for what it is. You can join the "extremists" and make a commitment to share the horrible truth with others, or, you can smirk, roll your eyes, and "pooh-pooh" everything you've just read. Go back to your controlled TV news, your ballgames, your TV shows, and pretend this horror doesn't exist, and let Messrs. Rather, Brokaw, Jennings, and Brown do your thinking for you while our world goes to hell in a Zionist hand-basket. The choice is yours. History and posterity will judge your actions -or inactions- accordingly. To borrow a line from the Maximus, hero of the film Gladiator: "What we do in life, echoes in eternity." What will you do?

I find it extremely sad and unfortunate that the events and lessons of 9/11 have basically drifted out of the public conscience. No one really cares about the glaring cover-ups, subterfuge and lies that were key to getting us involved in not just one but two completely ridiculous unwarranted, unjust invasions/occupations/wars. Instead of the public getting mad, they all just want to keep on partying and having a good time living it up in our wonderful world of distraction and entertainment, like blind forgetful sheep lead to slaughter.

WHAT IS THE MATRIX

THE INVISIBLE LUCIFERIAN COMPLEX

THE SYSTEM - THE NETWORK

THE ESTABLISHMENT - THE HIDDEN HAND

THE CONSORTIUM

“the Matrix is everywhere. It’s all around us... It is the world that has been pulled over your eyes to blind you from the truth... What is the truth? That you are a slave. That you Like everyone else, you were born into bondage, kept inside a prison that you cannot smell, taste, or touch. A prison for your mind. What is the Matrix? Control. The Matrix is a ~~computer~~ MEDIA generated dream world built to keep us under control...” - Morpheus

Our culture is increasingly dominated by the image, visual perception has come to dominate our thinking, to the exclusion of everything else. We have become a world that relies solely on what people can see and touch. They are so locked up in the visual representation of the universe that they simply cannot conceive of the universe as anything more than a set of images. There's no deeper reality to such people; to them, reality is WYSIWRE: What You See Is What Really Exists. It's a big world out there, and those who confine their thinking to the purely visual are severally narrowing their vision.

A stunning visual analogy of this process is depicted in the Matrix trilogy movies. It comes at the climax of the first Matrix film. Neo has returned from the dead and can now see the Matrix for what it is (see photo above). He looks down the corridor at the three agents and sees not the corridor, but the code behind it. The image communicates the idea of seeing the processes behind reality rather than just the visual skin of reality. Isn't it odd that we need a visual representation of an idea that attempts to get around visual thinking?

This touches upon something called the fifth dimension. In physics, the fifth dimension is a hypothetical extra dimension beyond the usual three spatial dimensions and one time dimension of Relativity. While in religious circles this hidden dimension is referred to as the spiritual world. Whatever the case may be, the world around us is full of invisible intangible objects, concepts, thoughts, agendas, elements, factors, events and so forth which exist outside of the physical perception, thus often making them difficult to distinguish and comprehend.

Someone who has come to understand and possess the ability to “see” and work beyond the physical visual realm is someone whom has gained one degree or another of “total awareness.” He who can readily observe the events happening in his midst see beyond the visible clues of the physical realm, decipher the external images and extract their true essence is someone whom has acquired “sight”, thus honed, expanded and mastered utilization of his cognitive perception of reality. The key of attaining such state of mind is directly connected with one’s “ownership” of TRUTH. When you are totally one with truth, truth is “yours,” you are inseparable. In the bible it is stated: “though they have eyes they are blind.” In the movie Neo’s original “sight” was opened, here they were referring directly upon this matter. The point I’m trying to get to is that this world exists on multiple perceptible levels of reality, the regular average Joe has purposely been kept in the dark throughout the ages, most Joes only care about their own circle of reality consisting of factors and elements directly connected to their daily lives and rarely if ever, try to go beyond the window dressing to perceive what is truly happening in the world around them and just accept carte blanche what others (new stations or government for example) state is the larger reality.

So the question arises, how does this relate to the Matrix Report, for that matter “what is the matrix?” Cutting to the chase, the matrix is an imperceptible network of extremely powerful group of like minded people whom collaborate together under the strictest of secrecy on all matters concerning their rule over all things in this world. They have common goals, goals of total world subjugation and domination. What we witness as many seemingly “unrelated” events throughout history are in fact a chronicle of their efforts in securing their utopian one world rule. Whether knowingly or not, their actions and thoughts are in fact being coordinated by a central entity, a being from another spatial dimension, some call this being Lucifer. I will get into much deeper details into this matter in other sections of this report.

Over many centuries of trial and error, and the accumulated experience of their researchers and predecessors, the ruling elite of today are light years more advanced with the accumulated knowledge as they have taken the art of manipulation and psychological control of the masses realities to new heights. I say to thee: everything around you is not always what it seems.

The key to understanding the Illuminati Matrix is in understanding that they figured out that one of the best ways of taking over the world is to manipulate and control people’s minds through mass media and social engineering...

*“the Matrix is everywhere. It’s all around us... It is the world that has been pulled over your eyes to blind you from the truth... What is the truth? That you are a slave. That you Like everyone else, you were born into bondage, kept inside a prison that you cannot smell, taste, or touch. A prison for your mind. What is the Matrix? Control. The Matrix is a computer MEDIA generated dream world built to keep us under control...” - Morpheus*

The above quote is so profound I cannot even begin to articulate the depth of its relevance and truth behind each and every word in describing the real world we live in. Yet this revelation perspective was brought to the public’s conscience as just another line in a Hollywood blow-em-up shoot-em-up Sci-Fi movie, thus the public was strategically primed to easily dismiss a hidden “matrix system” as fantasy, fiction.

There are two reasons why I have wrapped my research findings under the title “Matrix Report”. First of all is the fact that the word matrix perfectly describes the intricate indistinguishable inter-connected web of people, institutions, governments, corporations, etc., that form what many have loosely termed as the “illuminati” or the ruling elite. When viewed as a whole, all these seemingly independent entities form a solid cohesive interconnected network, and the big picture begins to emerge. When you connect the seemingly separate sectors in relation to one another as in a diagram, the resulting chart is that of a real matrix (see picture below).

Then there was the Hollywood movie “the matrix.” It is of utmost importance that you understand that the elite use movies and TV shows to “Prime” and condition the masses, by introducing, concepts and agendas under the controlled environment of Hollywood production studios they can Prime people and condition them into later accepting concepts and things that otherwise would be met with adverse reactions. As a direct result of people watching a movie, based on let's say, some sinister secret project (that just happens to be 100% real but they don't know it), the movie can condition them to the point when the people are finally confronted with the real deal, their natural response would be something to the tune of "oh, I saw that in the movies! That was an awesome movie, hey lets go out for ice cream." And that's the end of it, they were successfully Primed. Nothing to see here folks, now go along your merry ways. Another way they use TV and Hollywood productions is to box in, define and control the flow of rational thought about any given subject and concept, especially ones that are inevitably getting leaked from their activates, so as to give credence to controlled (theirs) narratives.

Our world is immersed under one of the greatest information warfare battles in history. Most of the information that is aired and widely spread has undergone great embellishment to join the official information narratives of the moment. The ruling elite have an iron fist control of information, but the internet while greatly empowering them even futher has also become a thorn in its side, for TRUTH has been hemoraging and surfacing as never before. Thus we find ourselves in the middle of information warfare in all key ruling zones areas.

Information warfare

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

warfare is the use and management of information in pursuit of a competitive advantage over an opponent. Information warfare may involve collection of tactical information, assurance\(s\) that one's own information is valid, spreading of propaganda or disinformation to demoralize the enemy and the public, undermining the quality of opposing force information and denial of information-collection opportunities to opposing forces. Information warfare is closely linked to psychological warfare.

Overview

Information warfare can take many forms:

- Television and radio transmission(s) can be jammed.
- Television and radio transmission(s) can be hijacked for a disinformation campaign.
- Logistics networks can be disabled.
- Enemy communications networks can be disabled or spoofed.
- Stock exchange transactions can be sabotaged, either with electronic intervention, leaking sensitive information or placing disinformation.

The US Air Force has had Information Warfare Squadrons since the 1980s. In fact, the official mission of the US Air Force is now:^[citation needed] "To provide sovereign options for the defense of the United States and its global interests. To fly and fight in Air, Space, and Cyberspace", with the latter referring to its Information Warfare role.

As the Air Force often risks aircraft and aircrews to attack strategic enemy communications targets, remotely disabling such targets using software and other means can provide a safer alternative. In addition, disabling such networks electronically (instead of explosively) also allows them to be quickly re-enabled after the enemy territory is occupied. Similarly, counter information warfare units are employed to deny such capability to the enemy. The first application of these techniques were used against Iraqi communications networks in the first Gulf War.

Also during the 1991 Gulf War, Dutch hackers stole information about U.S. troop movements from U.S. Defense Department computers and tried to sell it to the Iraqis, who thought it was a hoax and turned it down. In January 1999, U.S. Air Intelligence computers were hit by a co-ordinated attack, part of which appeared to come from Israeli and French hacking. ^[1]

Information Operations

Information Operations (Info Ops) is an evolving discipline within the military. It has emerged from earlier concepts such as "Command & Control Warfare" and "Information Warfare" - mainly US-dominated, originating in the 1990s and considering lessons learned from the Gulf War(s), phenomena like the so-called "CNN Effect" and enormous advances in Information Technology.

Today, Germany leads a multinational effort on developing Info Ops as an integrating function / joint mission area within the military, called the "Multinational Information Operations Experiment" (MNIOE). The current 20 MNIOE partners define Info Ops as: "The advice to and co-ordination of military activities affecting information and information systems – including system behaviour and capabilities – in order to create desired effects". This definition - and its related context - differs from extant national views (e.g. those of the USA or the UK) and provides an advanced approach to multinational and interagency information activities in support of crisis management and effects-based operations.

Designing and implementing guidance for Coalition actions to affect information and information systems (information activities) is a challenge; it applies to the whole scope of civil-military efforts from pre-crisis situations to post-conflict reconstruction, and spans all levels of involvement.

Non-military

Organized teams of non-military, even non-governmental information fighters become an increasingly common phenomenon. They can advance different political agendas, be involved in astroturfing or participate in election campaigns.^[2]

What I view as an incredible stunningly relevant part of the movie Matrix is the premise that the world you live in is really a illusory world of mass deception, devoid of true reality, you therefore live in an alternate reality world created by the rulers of that world to control mankind via media and behavior altering substances. Many people "feel" that many things are not right, but they just accept things for what they are and go along their merry ways. Then there are the "Neos" out there that question everything and search for truth, some of them turn to religion, some analyze the world around them, upon realizing the true reality and "unplugging from the matrix," some become outcasts, tin-foil hat people, with the ones who find out too much and try to spread true reality soon finding themselves marked for neutralization. The "Neos" go forth to expose the matrix and battle its evil rulers. In the movie at the epicenter is Zion... as is in our real world saga it is Zionists and their quest to secure their Zion, Solomon's Temple and establish their "promised land" from where they have been decreed by none other than GOD that they are to rule the world. The similarities between this movie and our current world rule is profound. If you understand what I'm talking about, you will readily see the truly deep, incredible correlation between that movie and real live struggles we face today.

America the beautiful, land of the free. We are taught ad nauseam that the first settlers that came over did so with the intention of escaping overwhelming corrupt, fascist, imperialist oppressive countries. In search of religious freedom and freedom from oppressive regimes. They came for the promise of a better more equal future for themselves and their children. Or so the official STORY goes. But what they don't tell you is that along with those first settlers like the Pilgrims, came all sorts of criminals, the robber barons, the aristocrats, conquerors, fortune seekers, empire builders, and of course let us never forget the banksters, etc.

The history we learn in school is pathetically consisted of "fairytale" like stories of the Pilgrims and overlooks the dirty secrets of the founding of this nation. Such as: the fact that this nation was basically established on the foundation of pure GENOCIDE. The systematic raping, pillaging and extermination of the entire Indian race. The genocide that went on in the early days of America makes all the genocides and HolocaustTMs in all of Europe look like a boy scout operations in comparison with unknown tens of millions of Indians slaughtered. Not to mention that our nation was literally built on the backs of slaves.

Those first “good” settlers who’s motives were to start clean without all the constraints, oppression and embedded layers of the aristocratic society is what all the history books focus their pages on. Our history has been so polished and romanticized over time that very few people truly understand let alone grasp and comprehend the ugly and bloody truth. Thus the narrative that has been designed and provided for public consumption over the ages, has been central to the population’s formulation of a common understanding and common view of REALITY.

The sad fact is that the America that may have started out so innocently has over the decades transformed into what the first settlers tried to run from in the first place. Today all the native Indians throughout all of America are routinely segregated and confined to open air concentration camps called reservations. Even to this day the American Indians have been under extreme concentration camp conditions, of course the “white man” and their “news” organizations never let the plight of the Indians be known to the masses.

Genocide

[video] Genocidal Results of the Failed American Indian Policies of the United States Government:

MORTALITY:

- Lakotah men have a life expectancy of less than 44 years, lowest of any country in the World (excluding AIDS) including Haiti.
- Lakotah death rate is the highest in the United States.
- The Lakotah infant mortality rate is 300% more than the U.S. Average.
- One out of every four Lakotah children born are fostered or adopted out to non-Indian homes.
- Diseases such as tuberculosis, polio, etc. are present. Cancer is now at epidemic proportions!
- Teenage suicide rate is 150% higher than the U.S national average for this group.

DISEASE:

- The Tuberculosis rate on Lakotah reservations is approx. 800% higher than the U.S national average.
- Cervical cancer is 500% higher than the U.S national average.
- The rate of diabetes is 800% higher than the U.S national average.
- Federal Commodity Food Program provides high sugar foods that kill Native people through diabetes and heart disease.

POVERTY:

- Median income is approximately $2,600 to $3,500 per year.
- 97% of our Lakotah people live below the poverty line.
- Many families cannot afford heating oil, wood or propane and many residents use ovens to heat their homes.

UNEMPLOYMENT:

- Unemployment rates on our reservations are 80% or higher.
- Government funding for job creation is lost through cronyism and corruption.

HOUSING:

- Elderly die each winter from hypothermia (freezing).
- 1/3 of the homes lack basic clean water and sewage while 40% lack electricity.
- 60% of Reservation families have no telephone.

- 60% of housing is infected with potentially fatal black molds.
- There is an estimated average of 17 people living in each family home (many only have two to three rooms). Some homes, built for 6 to 8 people, have up to 30 people living in them.

DRUGS AND ALCOHOL:

- More than half the Reservation's adults battle addiction and disease.
- Alcoholism affects 9 in 10 families.
- Two known meth-amphetamine labs allowed to continue operation. Why?

INCARCERATION:

- Indian children incarceration rate 40% higher than whites.
- In South Dakota, 21 percent of state prisoners are American Indians, yet they only make up 2% of the population.
- Indians have the second largest state prison incarceration rate in the nation.
- Most Indians live on federal reservations. Less than 2% of Indians live where the state has jurisdiction!

For further proof of how we still treat the indigenous populations take a good hard look at Hawaii. Native Hawaiians constitute roughly 22 per cent of the state population, but they represent 54 per cent of the prison population. They also have the lowest per capita income, the highest poverty rate and the shortest lifespan of any ethnic group in Hawaii. Hawai'i public school students receive very poor education by any standard of measurement. They consistently rank among the lowest of any state in test scores. Most of the bright students who manage to learn something in spite of the handicapped school system leave Hawaii for foreign colleges and careers. Tens of thousands of residents have no medical insurance at all. In some cases, the lives of the working poor are worse than the unemployed. Nothing to see here folks, now go along your merry ways and just continue to view Hawaii as one of THE must go to VACATION spots of America for everything is just fine...

The question I pose to you is this. What will America's eulogy look like in the history books once itself implodes from its gluttonous drunken stupor and has long been a forgotten ancient empire in someone's history books? Surely they will read of an empire that was built over the blood of the sacrificed genocided natives, where the white man just walked into their lands and slaughtered the natives and just stole their lands, built their new nation with slaves, taxed their constituents like crazy as the leaders held wanton orgies of sprawling excess, who became the bloody military enforcers throughout the world waging war everywhere it stepped foot in, killing and maiming millions upon millions, then taking the target countries resources and dividing it among its vampiric corporations all the while the local dumbnified oblivious population whom had a propensity of bestowing the highest esteem upon and worshipping Hollywood stage performers sat back and partied night and day in an entertainment centric gluttonous society as their country was being gutted and conquered from within by a devious parasitic race of people who were hell bent on using the country to take over the entire planet.

This is what the Matrix report is all about. Revealing different views of reality. Exposing the erected layers of perceived reality for what they truly are. With these most critically important factors brought to the forefront of your conscience, we can then attempt to study the world that has been woven around us, so where do we start? In order to begin the revelations into true reality we must go back a few hundred years:

First of all let me explain the fact that you actually live in the United States of America INC. The U.S. Incorporated, was actually originally founded under a corporate charter from England, the U.S. was/is originally the Virginia Company, of which consisted of the 13 colonies. The agreement also included the stipulation that the corporation pay England a percentage (we refer to it as a tax) of what they make in their profit seeking endeavors here in the new world. You absolutely MUST look up this topic on the internet on your own to see the amazing hidden truth behind the establishment of this country. Anyways, the Virginia Company was growing so well that at some point the elite running the Virginia Company (corporation) decided the best way to cut out the middleman and maximize their profits was to break from England and RENAME their corporation. It was easy to convince the locals, to back them up on this plan, hence the now famous Boston Tea Party. Consequently, the now world famous U.S. Inc. came into being. Oh come on, start fighting your life programming and see the proof for yourself, just go to your local city or town and look for the deeds and charters: EVERY single state, city and town is INCORPORATED as well. We all live in a massive corporation with thousands of smaller subsidiary corporations on the local levels. Behold: For now you know the true nature of the beast.

The European elite of their days, the rulers of the earth at that time, sent their armies to the Americas to conquer, subjugate, gain dominion and bring back the loot. Those European countries efforts had a direct impact on the results of the Americas we see today. In reality those few bands of people that came for religious freedom had very little impact on the course that history would take. The pilgrims appeared on the scene decades AFTER the Virginia Company (corporation) and had to get permission from them to settle in their lands. I kid you not.

Most of the “founding fathers” of the U.S. were from European society socialites. Most were Freemasons... They came here with pre-educated understanding of wealth and power under their belts. They all came with and took on more slaves. Even though they wanted to establish a “new” form of government, they came with the indoctrinated mentality that they were impregnated with throughout their lives in their European countries. Yet these settlers did have one thing in common, many wanted something different than the stagnant oppressive governments they all left behind. Little would they all on day come to never know is the fact that this great nation they were starting would one day become the greatest and most powerful nation on earth, yet begin to take on the same imperialistic fascist ways of the oppressive regimes that they all fled. And one day become despised throughout the world by countries on every corner of the earth as we wantonly exercise military dominance over all countries and force them one way or another to adapt and be subjugated by our capitalistic enterprises.

The Boston tea party is interesting. It is identified as the turning point when America rose up against their oppressors. Interesting because the main point for the uprising was “taxation without representation”. Modern day Americans are now paying more taxes than any American ever did in history! Sales tax, city tax, tax, state tax, wages tax, etc. and if you fail to pay your taxes or are caught trying to avoid paying said taxes? You get thrown in jail! Déjà vu!

As we witness the Wall Street banksters scam our country bleeding it dry, gutting out our entire monetary system, our country and all its states of the union are for evermore desperately looking for and creating new ways to tax us all to death. When they can't find new ways to tax us, in their dim witted intelligence instead of making government smaller, they just raise all the existing taxes. Unlike the early days of America where our forefathers held the now famous Tea Party rebellion that liberated us from tyrannical overwhelming taxation. Today we basically not only face the same situation... but it is ten times WORSE. We are all being taxed into oppressive submission, and there is NOTHING you can do about it. The moment anyone even TRIES to have a Boston Tea Party... our benevolent loving country will SMASH them and obliterate the ~~patriots~~, ummm, I mean TERRORISTS!

Try and organize a real Tea Party (not like those fake staged “tea parties” being held and promoted by status quo political insiders today) and see how fast you all get imprisoned for being evil sinister terrorists... FEMA, Home Land Security, State Police, SWAT, National Guard, FBI, NSA, the Military are all being trained and prepared for any evil ~~patriotic~~ uprising. Refer to the addendum section for the MIAC Strategic Report, this is just Missouri's version, each and every state, the FBI, FEMA, Home Land Security, etc., all have their own classified reports on how they will deal with all you bunch of ~~patriots~~ evil sinister TERRORISTS...

While on the subject of “tea parties”, don't for one moment believe in the Zionist neo-con hijacked truther movement “tea parties” that were being held around the country sponsored and financed by corporate and private funds of the elite and promoted adnausem by FOX. This my friends is none other than a direct strike against the truther movement into leading them in the direction they so choose. Beware, for the current national Tea Party movement is nothing more than a well organized corporate funded charade conducted by the ruling elite. The corporate interests have also been busy “Astroturfing” the tea party agenda on every front.

Astroturfing

Astroturfing denotes political, advertising, or public relations campaigns that are formally planned by an organization, but are disguised as spontaneous, popular "grassroots" behavior. The term refers to AstroTurf, a brand of synthetic carpeting designed to look like natural grass.

The goal of such campaigns is to disguise the efforts of a political or commercial entity as an independent public reaction to some political entity—a politician, political group, product, service or event. Astroturfers attempt to orchestrate the actions of apparently diverse and geographically distributed individuals, by both overt ("outreach", "awareness", etc.) and covert (disinformation) means. Astroturfing may be undertaken by an individual promoting a personal agenda, or highly organized professional groups with money from large corporations, unions, non-profits, or activist organizations. Very often, the efforts are conducted by political consultants who also specialize in opposition research. Beneficiaries are not "grass root" campaigners but distant organizations that orchestrate such campaigns. – [From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia]

The national "holy scriptures" that are referred to as our Declaration of Independence and the Constitution have been losing their meaning, influence and importance over the years. The original words of the very foundation of America have been covertly and overtly attacked and dwindled in importance day by day. Take for example "freedom of speech". Almost all Americans will say yes we do have freedom of speech. Tell that to the thousands of dead people that died "mysteriously", by accident, prematurely or "took their own promising lives right after attempting to expose some sort of government/military secret. Tell that to the thousands of people still alive today that have witnessed or been involved to some degree in any of the events/issues that they have been sworn to secrecy in, "or else". Tell that to the untold thousands of people silenced by the FCC and the FDA or whatever the industry "watch dog" institution may be for that specific industry or sector in question. How many millions of gag orders have been levied? In every single case CNN, and all the news networks never, ever said a word, and instead go on for days on end about "news" of Paris Hilton or some other dim wit. Oh, I could go on and on. Tell that to the people that try and organize a peaceful protest, only to be greeted by riot squads with batons, tazers and mace or if they are lucky, they get their protest moved several miles away to a desolate area where no one will witness it except for the crickets.

Think about it. How many more were ordered to cease and desist "or else". It is and has been very common throughout the years for the government (through the hundreds of different agencies) to DEMAND people to keep quiet about so many things they don't want known that the library of congress would have a hard time cataloging them all. Those who spoke out were and are routinely dealt with. Smearred, ridiculed, attacked, ruined. Oh yes, there is "freedom of speech" as long as you stay within the confines of the official narratives. Bottom line REALITY: our so called famous "freedom of speech" is only a well crafted bogus illusion.

You know we live in very troubled times when the people's only source of truth comes from comedians - Video

The sad state of mind that our self censored society is reflected in the fact that it seems the only people whom can go on national TV and tell the raw truth and get away with it are comedians. They make endless jokes out of the thousands upon thousands of serious issues, corruption, and so forth. After people laugh it off, they go back to grazing in the fields, satisfied that a silly COMEDIAN, understood their plight and point of view...

The Power Matrix network operates in total secrecy. Yet we are faced with the impact of their collective decisions and policies that have dramatic effect on our lives on a daily basis. Many researchers have tried to reveal this ruling elite Matrix but have all fallen short. Their works systematically debunked, ridiculed by first the government then by the media then by academia then finally dismissed by the public, regulated to the "crack pot section" of the bargain bin basement in obscure bookstore shelves.

What/where/how/who is the Matrix? That info I will reveal shortly. I chose the word matrix for its uncanny resemblance to the movie theme and then some. Today we live in a world that is NOT what we perceive it to be. It is NOT what we are taught from the day we go to our first school until we graduate from college. I'm attempting to “unplug” you from the matrix and you will see the reality of the world we live in. The matrix is the system, the consortium, the federal government, media, banksters and powerful elite of society... by the time you finish reading all of what I have to share, my only hope is that the broad clear picture that I’m trying to paint becomes vividly crystal clear in your eyes. As stated and expounded upon in other chapters of this Matrix Report, never allow yourself to be fooled, the Matrix is ultimately being controlled by the Zionist Jew elite of this world. The Vatican, the Royal Crown and the Freemasons have been infiltrated and/or subjugated long ago by the Zionists and are still an integral part and today just do their bidding...

Conceptual Chart of The Matrix:

1. ZION = The core of the Matrix: Zionist/Masonic Ruling Elite
2. FIN= Financial Industrial Complex Matrix
3. GOV= Government Industrial Complex Matrix
4. MAS= Mass Media Industrial Complex Matrix
5. EDU= Education Industrial Complex Matrix
6. MED= Medical Industrial Complex Matrix
7. MIL= Military Industrial Complex Matrix
8. REL= Religion Complex Matrix
9. LAW= Justice & Enforcement Industrial Complex Matrix
10. EN2= Energy & Environment Industrial Complex Matrix
11. POV= Wealth & Poverty Dynamics Matrix
12. AGR= Agricultural Industrial Complex Matrix
13. PRI= Prison Industrial Complex Matrix

The above chart is our attempt to illustrate the structure of Matrix we are trying to expose as one cohesive networked illuminati entity. As you can see with our attempt to explain “the Matrix” the chart identifies some of the major individual sectors that make up the completed Matrix puzzle. Yet each Matrix sector is a complete illuminati Matrix puzzle in its own rite (a puzzle within a puzzle). Every sector of each Matrix is connected to the others, making up the full Matrix. This is the dynamics involved when trying to analyze and understand the massive overall Matrix. In other words the “Matrix” is a massive puzzle with lots of pieces that when put together will reveal the “Matrix”, but each of the pieces of the puzzle are in fact their own matrix puzzles that must be put together by connecting the dots within that sector. (We will discuss each sector of the Matrix outlined above in individual detail in the following chapters) Take the Military Industrial Complex Matrix for example. You can spend months or even years on end researching and becoming an expert and discovering all the hidden pieces of the “puzzle” that makes up just that sector. Pieces of the puzzle such as people, organizations, events, etc. Since all the facts and information are actively covered up and hidden from the public, we know the ruling elite work in total secrecy yet hide in plain sight, each major information find is, in essence “a piece of the puzzle,” and part of connecting the dots.

Behold: For I have hereby revealed the grand structure of the illuminati Matrix. And I will reiterate once again: the central ruling entity of “the matrix” elite is none other than Lucifer. He has been THE central “conspirator” oppressing and enslaving mankind for eons... The ruling elite who do his bidding here on earth have been doing so since the beginning of recorded time. Faces, people, organizations, regimes change over time but the central core source of all ills remains the same...

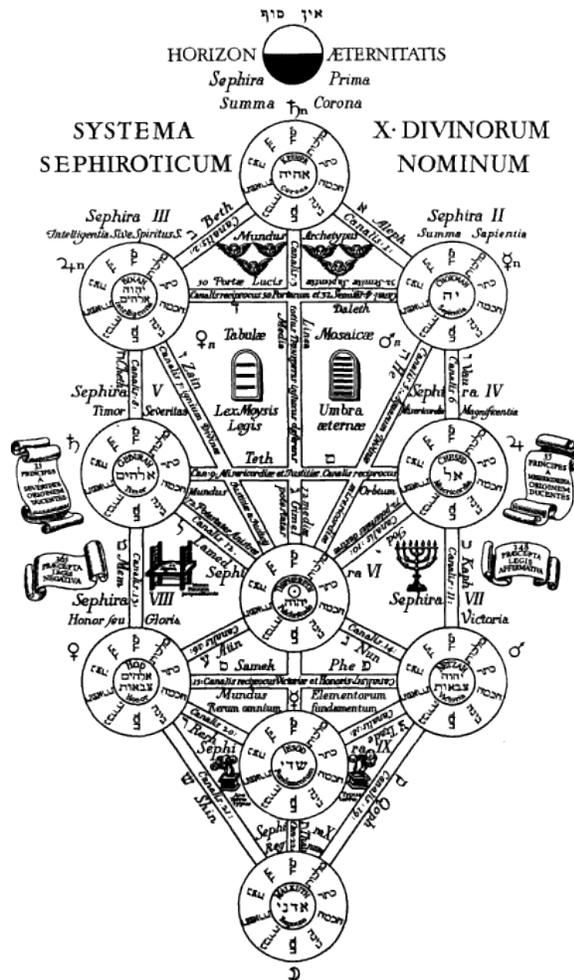

There is was no more formidable corporation then the government of the United States of America Inc. This corporate country that was established under the ideals “of the people, by the people, for the people” has been turned around in our very face and shoved down our throats for what it truly is today: really an undercover fascist state “of the corporations, by the corporations for the corporations”. There are just so many layers of government, agencies, organizations, entities that it is relatively easy to obscure things, twist things, mold things into whatever they desire.

So let me get this straight: there exists this whole conspiracy by key government insiders and power elite to rule us as they so choose and we have no clue? Many people just laugh the thought off. The real question is who/what/when/where/how is the Power Matrix. Since this Power Matrix (the unseen network of peoples controlling by establishing policy and delegating to key managers, executives, organizations, government agencies are the ones “pulling all the strings”) has permeated society to such an extent that goyim sheeple have no clue who they are or what they are doing, all we can do is observe what has happened in history and what is currently happening today to understand where they are headed and what they are doing.

It’s out there, the general public is fed up with all sorts of bull shit they have been witnessing, yet they don’t know how to put one and one together. You have separate groups like umm, let’s take the “tree huggers”, they are out there fighting against “the powers that be” to save their trees, yet they have no clue that their fight, their knowledge of wrong doing they have discovered is but just a small piece of the puzzle of the overall Matrix.

Connect the dots people. Nutritionalists preach about natural foods and demonize the likes of evil corporations such as Monsanto, yet this enlightened group of people who posses another component of the overall puzzle have not even a clue as to the scale and scope of the entire matrix.

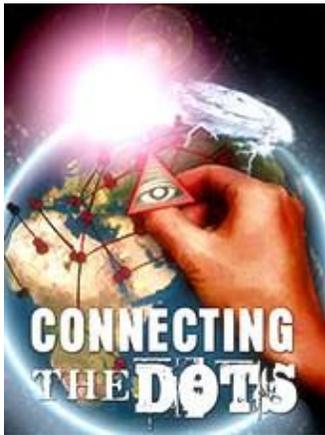

The key is to understand that: yes! In fact there does exist an exclusive group in society that has the power to change the course of history (they change history itself by simply editing the textbooks). Yet remain a “figment of crazy conspiracy theorists delusional thinking.” They therefore DON’T EXIST as a cohesive coordinated entity for no one dares admit they exist and those that say they exist are quickly given the looney toon treatment. The non existence of the Hidden Masters ruling elite cartel is like the mafia “didn’t exist” until it was so brain dead in your face obvious. Even the concept of the Italian mafia was a conditioning operation to get the masses to believe that the evil mafia pulling strings were a bunch of Italian mobsters when in reality the REAL MAFIA are the ruling elite that no one even considers or dare think they are in fact the MAFIA ENTERPRISE.

Money and fame have nothing on the pursuit and wielding of power. Power, absolute power of gods is the highest greed and intoxicating “high” anyone can ever achieve. Power is the aphrodisiac of gods. And those that control the peoples have in effect “the power of gods”. Some have claimed that the Freemasons are the top leaders, the Illuminati, the Rothschilds, the Rockefellers, the Bildebergers, etc., these are all true in a sense. Basically every avenue you pursue brings you to basically the same type of secretive group: secretive religious in tone, often occult in nature groups in power in plain sight yet ridiculous to even accuse them. Our findings have conclusively pointed to the current top controlling world leading faction to be none other than the Zionist Jew cartel. They, as stated over and over again in this report, over the centuries they have come from being the “persecuted” victims to infiltrating and pulling the strings behind the curtains throughout the world. The Vatican and entire Roman Catholic Church prostituted themselves to their financial rulers the Zionist Banksters long ago. The Masonic order was infiltrated and run at the most highest levels by Zionist Kabbalah practicing occult worshipping Jews. Wake up and smell the coffee sheeple.

Hundreds of works have been published about the hundreds of topics and events in history that have been a result of the illuminati Matrix, yet very few, up until today have ever put 2 and 2 together. I am in broad strokes, outlining the Power Matrix and while I’m at it I will also proceed to identify many of the corrupt works and frauds that I have been researching. Mind you that the scope of this report limits me from even getting close to being an “encyclopedic” detailed work with tons of references to each and every fact revealed here. But with that said, I beg of each and every single person to happen on this report to take it upon yourself to Google.com any and every claim made here, wade through the tons of material out there, beware for there exists lots of junk published on every topic, but sift through the tons of planted rubbish stories and conspiracies designed to throw all who seek truth off course, keep searching, you will eventually find the gems that reveal the truth. I hereby provide you with the framework, and pertinent details for you to proceed verifying the facts for yourself. Elsewhere and throughout this report I try to provide actual outside links to important information sites to help you begin looking in the right directions.

As to not waste any time, the main agencies that the subversive side of the Power Matrix network hides behind here in the U.S. Inc. are the: NSA, CIA (right hand of our military industrial complex) and the FEDERAL RESEARVE BOARD. These three are among the most secretive and dangerous agencies on the planet. Who outside their walls, if anyone, really knows what is going on in there? NO ONE! Not even the President. The Federal Reserve and all Central Banks are where the Zionist Banksters rule and make policy from, the secret intelligence agencies are their strong arm enforcers carrying out their dirty deeds in their quest for global domination Most people only know what the powers that be WANT US TO KNOW. This is why it has been so hard for anyone to blow the lid off so many events, scandals, corruption and mysteries in history (these are just the clues they leave behind). Not only are we going to blow the lid off their game, we need to expose them for what they are. I can only hope that once we open Pandora’s Truth box that researchers and the peoples will do whatever they deem necessary and right with this knowledge.

Our government has been infiltrated and taken over many, many decades ago by private interest groups and corporations, we are no longer living under the premise: “of the people, by the people, for the people”. On the contrary, the order of the day is: tax breaks for the rich and corporations, laws and policies enacted solely for the benefit of large corporations and the rich are just some of the symptoms and clues that clearly demonstrate who really runs this country. I believe that our government is so profoundly infiltrated, compromised and screwed up that we have to at some point as a people for the people, take a good long hard look at our Declaration of Independence and read it, digest it and at some point try and figure out HOW we the people, of the people, for the people will get OUR government back! Even if I were right on only 20% of what I say in this report, then America is in serious trouble.

Declaration of Independence: “WE hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness--That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just Powers from the Consent of the Governed, that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these Ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its Foundation on such Principles, and organizing its Powers in such Form, as to them shall seem most likely to affect their Safety and Happiness.”

I hereby solicit the help of all those who understand that what I speak is the TRUTH, I am just a messenger, I seek no financial riches nor fame, I just want to live in the America that was promised to us by our founding fathers, as I was indoctrinated in school holding my right hand to my chest pledging allegiance to the flag. If you choose to participate in this endeavor to put this information out to the general public please understand that if you are caught you will most likely be ridiculed, persecuted or even prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law (under the guise of something like hostile dissident, “disseminating subversive literature”, “enemy combatant” “mentally unstable” or some other trumped up charge) or in the worst case scenario you just might turn up floating down a river after suffering an unfortunate /cough/ “accident” or found to have “committed suicide” with a shotgun to the back of your head while your hands were bound with rope... then to unceremoniously have your case quietly shoved under the carpet with the thousands of other skeletons and unsolved mysteries... Beware, for these criminals have no qualms in taking out PRESIDENTS, and important leaders, then cover up their tracks and go have lunch like child’s play. “Nothing to see here folks, now mind your own business and run along.”

If there ever was a real reason and purpose for your talents to be put to use in this merry go round we call life, here it is. Your mission if you choose to accept it, is to outright or secretly disseminate this information everywhere, print it, hand out copies on CD, put it on the net, lime wire it, torrent it, print it out share it and spread it on all media and society. Let the chips fall where they may. May the Lord be with you to guide and protect your every step.

What is the matrix? It is all around you, it has mankind enslaved in a myriad number of ways and loving it, it is the Luciferian system: the value system, social system, the media, the political system, the economic system, the educational system it is everything you are made to believe by the Luciferian rulers of this world, it is their consortium, their system which the prophesized “Messiah” is to one day come to destroy and to liberate mankind from...

Until then you must recognize your duty, first of all unplug from their matrix, [“though I live in this world, I am not of this world”] until you do so, the only thing you will have is the blind leading the blind while futile wandering around in the darkness. Truth is the light that shines into the darkness and reveals all, truth is what will renew your sight and cure you of your condition, the same infliction of blindness that handicaps your fellow man. Once you are cured from your illness of blindness you can then pull the thorns out of your fellow man’s eyes and help him SEE.

“None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free”

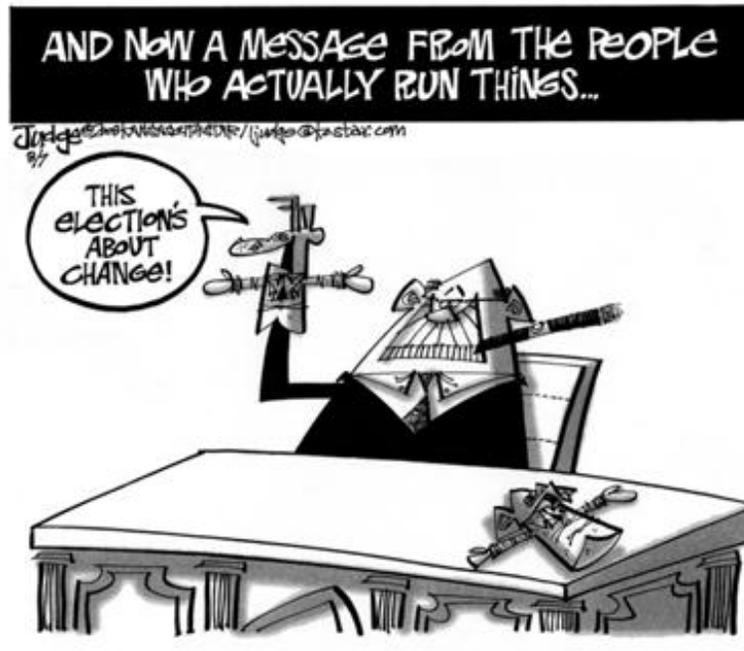

“he who has an ear, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see”

..:EMANCIPATE YOURSELF FROM MENTAL SLAVERY:..

For it is written: “the truth shall set you free”

“By their fruits ye shall know them.”

THE FINANCIAL INDUSTRIAL MATRIX

THE OVERLORDS of CAPITALISM

THE TRUE MASTERS OF THE UNIVERSE

"The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender." - Proverbs 22:7

"History records that the money changers have used every form of abuse, intrigue, deceit, and violent means possible to maintain their control over governments by controlling the money and its issuance." - James Madison, U.S. President

"Banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. Already they have raised up a monied aristocracy that has set the government at defiance. The issuing power (of money) should be taken away from the banks and restored to the people whom it properly belongs." - Thomas Jefferson

This sector of the matrix is of utmost importance due to the fact that it is the pinnacle of all ruling elite entities, the apex institutions of world control are the financial institutions. This world revolves around money, period. He who controls the money, well, controls the world. Capitalism rules on every corner of the globe, even the communist countries line up and play the capitalist game. Capitalism is capital is money, therefore capitalism is moneyism, it's that simple. The premise of Democracy is just a cover story for the gullible lemming useful idiot population, for the true inner ruling system that this country is truly being run under is a fascist corporate centered oligarchy.

An oligarchy (Greek Ὀλιγαρχία, Oligarkhía) (oligocracy) is a form of government in which power effectively rests with a small elite segment of society distinguished by royal, wealth, intellectual, family, military, or religious hegemony.

As a child I remember always seeing the “national debt” clocks and wondering who do we owe all that money to. I remember asking my parents, and they had no clue either. I rationalized how our government can owe money to anyone because all we had to do is print it and we would have money. You see, I was still under the impression that only our government and “congress had the authority to issue money” as I remember reading in school while reading an old now defunct irrelevant document called The Constitution. I never paid much attention to this anomaly until decades later. Fast forward to just a few years ago, I am now an adult, and to one day stumble upon the FACT that our nation actually operates under something called a FIAT monetary system and that the Federal Reserve Bank is actually a consortium of private banking interests whom just PRINT the money then LOAN it to us! I know this is a very simplified description, but this is for all intents and purposes essentially what goes on! Golly gee whiz, they never told us that in school!

Fiat Money:

- any money declared by a government to be legal tender.[1]
- state-issued money which is neither legally convertible to any other thing, nor fixed in value in terms of any objective standard.[2]
- money without intrinsic value.[3]

The term derives from the Latin fiat, meaning "let it be done", as the money is established by government decree. Where fiat money is used as currency, the term fiat currency is used. Today, most national currencies are fiat currencies, including the US dollar, the euro, and all other reserve currencies, and have been since the “Nixon” Shock of 1971 (“shock” was in reality nothing more than Zionist invented and lobbied) – source: [Wikipedia]

The amazing true reality of the world we live in lays in what is NOT said, what is NOT revealed, what is NOT publically acknowledged and admitted. Our society is discussed and treated on all corners of the planet as a “Democracy” but what no one dares admit is the OTHER ASPECTS of our SYSTEM that are absolutely intertwined and pivotally central to our society. That being the oligarchic Financial/CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM by which EVERYTHING IN SOCIETY IS PREDICATED UPON. This is absolutely undeniable fact.

Their end game? Total ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the world.

The single most powerful entities on the planet earth are none other than the financial institutions whom finance royalty, massive corporations, nations and BOTH SIDES of ALL WARS... this is the true lucid nature and reality of those whom have come to indirectly rule and control everything within their reach with an iron fist. Their unwavering goal: Total ECONOMIC SUBJUGATION, COLONIZATION AND DOMINATION. E.g. “the creation of world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole.” In order to accomplish their goals they promoted, advanced and made official the worldwide economic BELIEF SYSTEM rooted on capitalism, which all the inhabitants of western civilization have adopted as unwavering truth...

Below is possibly one of the most lucid important videos you can watch that clearly describes debt, money and the financial system:

National Debt. To whom do we owe it?

YouTube: Part 1, Part 2, Part 3, Part 4, Part 5

Johnson and Boone lay out some sobering statistics: Fifteen years ago, the combined assets of our six biggest banks totaled 17 percent of our GDP. By 2006, that number was 55 percent of GDP!!! Right now, it stands at 63 percent. Yes! You read correctly, the COMBINED ASSETS OF OUR SIX BIGGEST BANKS TOTAL 63% OF OUR GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT. The banks and Wall Street ARE our NUMBER ONE GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT! America ceased being an industrialized country several decades ago, we don't manufacture almost anything any longer, today America's major export is VAPORWARE financial instruments... According to all the laws of physics the perpetual financial bubble system we have CANNOT exist forever, it WILL self destruct at some point in time. When the house of cards that is our financial system finally comes down, chaos will reign supreme, untold famine and hardships will become the norm, blood will flow like rivers down the streets...

The original stated purpose of capitalism, the original paradigm it professed and promised actually never happened. The root concept behind capitalism was the theory that the "free markets" knew best and would magically always work to the best advantage of the people. The capitalist concept professed a "win-win" scenario but in real world historical documented reality capitalist business endeavors have almost always concluded in "win-lose" results. For selfish preservation of self, selfishness, more profits, greed, more returns on investments, have become THE MOST IMPORTANT CENTRAL ASPECTS OF "FREE MARKET" COMPANIES. The corporations win, you or whoever the other party is loses. As more and more people and governments adopted capitalism, the more the capitalist BELIEF SYSTEM took root, each passing year adding more intellectual "substance" and arguments to the underlying hypothesis and building up the CAPITALIST ECONOMIC BELIEF SYSTEM. Up until today where anyone who does not agree with the inherently flawed BELIEF SYSTEM is automatically marginalized and dismissed.

We have all been methodically brainwashed since childhood into a BELIEF SYSTEM that capitalism is the most wonderful invention in the history of mankind. The TRUE REALITY has nothing to do with the fairytale concept of capitalism; for what capitalism has brought to this world is invisible chaos, for no one really WANTS to know the real causes of the problems that ail this world. Sometimes you have to see a radical point of view to highlight what should be obvious if your minds were not so hopelessly full of indoctrination and pre-programmed to see only the good side of it all. Well, I stumbled onto a website called Encyclopedia Dramatica the other day that has to be one of the foulest mouthed sarcastic sites out there. Interesting in that sometimes the only source of truth that is allowed public circulation is satire and comedy... Well, read what they had to say about capitalism, while trying to understand the deeper meanings of the twisted truth they try to highlight through their foul mouthed incendiary sarcasm, you just might come out of this rant with a better understanding of what capitalism is and isn't:

At its most basic, capitalism, or jewocracy is an economic system which permits the exchange of money for sex with relatively little interference from a centralized government, and which, in turn, assures that the whore puts out. In practice capitalism uses The Man to keep down the bruthaman. The ultimate goal of any person under this system is to make as much money as possible while making everyone else as poor as dirt or some kind of shitty sub-dirt.

Capitalists believe that the Invisible Hand of the Market will lead the rich to heaven where they will achieve a level of wealth they could previously not even imagine. Capitalism is often the basis for much drama in Live Journal political communities. Jews (except Noam Chomsky) and conservative types argue that capitalism is the best way for the United States, and thus the world. Liberal Communists (azad_slide and pirat_ponton, for example) think that it does nothing but fuck the poor. Capitalism was and is the driving force behind the colonization and murder of non-Western peoples, but it has been said they are now better off for it. Capitalism has spawned such places as United States and Good Korea.

Theory

At least 100 years ago a man named Adam Smith was living in a shack in Scotland making a living trolling Presbyterians. He suddenly had the idea that if people owned private businesses instead of working for feudal lords, a force called the "Invisible Hand" would guide people in the market to make decisions that would eventually lead to everybody's benefit, faggotry and butthurt. He concluded that without a centralized government interfering in a perfect market and with good conditions between buyers and sellers, people would be unable to exploit each other and would be motivated to provide good products and services in spite of exploiting each other. He ran off into the city and found a life-partner named David Ricardo who added to his theory later.

To have a "free market" there must be (1) "perfect competition" (no buyer or seller can unilaterally influence the market); (2) "perfect knowledge" (all buyers and sellers have and provide the same information); and (3) "perfect mobility" (all buyers and sellers can move to where they have the greatest competitive advantage).

Since this does not exist in the US or any other country, no country truly has a capitalist society or ever will.

Instead we have Corporations that want to buy and sell your life like a cheap piece of crap from Wal-Mart.

Although people claim that there is no alternative to capitalism today, that's total bullshit since, as we've already pointed out, Capitalism is a fairytale, and, unlike the theory, in reality most capitalist countries are full of shitty service sector jobs and low wages. But that's okay.. because most people would just squander their money on hookers and blow anyway...

History

Capitalism was popular among intellectual circles but nobles and kings hated it. Eventually people got sick of feudalism and overthrew it with the French Revolution and the war between generally educated middle class craftsmen against the vested interest of the ruling landlords and nobility. Then everyone was happy and celebrated in the streets as businessmen hatched out of eagle eggs to swoop in and piss down wealth on the proletariat. Everybody lived in paradise (except for the poor) buying Microsoft computers and selling Abercrombie until the dark rise of Capitalism's nemesis: Socialism.

The two ideologies fought each other across parallel dimensions for at least 100 years, eventually (after the epic battle of Mecha-Hitler and Robo-Stalin at Mount Olympus,) earning the epithet, the Cold War. This was cause for a lot of drama and lulz throughout much of the 20th century and still to this day as, even with the end of the war, the two philosophies continue to fling shit at each other. Especially in online journals on the Internets.

Neither ideology is dead yet, (since neither ideology has actually been implemented yet,) but every now and then one will claim the other is dead and buried as a cheap way to claim victory. Some people think socialism died with the fall of "Communism" last Thursday (it didn't,) but these days capitalism is looking increasingly screwed as more poors protest against it every year. The heathens. Indeed, there are an unfortunate number of pesky proletarians who still don't know what's good for them. If only the Indian sweatshop worker could get off his/her lazy socialist ass and read a book by Jeffrey Sachs, he/she would know eventually capitalism will create a utopia, as has been prophesied.

Anyone on the planet earth who comes forth to expound upon the INHERENT TRUTHS of capitalism, exposing its true evils (even its biblically verified satanic roots) is unequivocally universally immediately attacked, mocked, ridiculed, chastised, dismissed as some sort of abnormal lunatic communist or socialist fruit cake. The indoctrination, mass hypnotic brainwashing has been thoroughly accomplished. No amount of exposing the ills that surround this sick world will ever be tied to the rampant wanton greed and of the selfish self-centered capitalistic centrifugal system. Not here in any western country, such deep mental indoctrination have we all been subjected to our entire lives that we blindly deny the most elementary obvious of scenarios and attack any who dare question "our most wonderful beloved system of finance" that has made our western countries the great bastions of excess...

We have all been brainwashed to believe the Jewish form of capitalism is good by a Jewish controlled media. "Greed is Good", the character for Wall Street was modeled after Michael Milken (Jew) and originally had a Jewish name Freddie Goldsmith, but they changed that.

Rothefeller (aka Rockefeller) was the person who changed the face of capitalism in the U.S. forever. Prior to his meddling where he lobbied for changes, all corporations were required to get periodically approved corporate charters, they had to prove that they existed for the "good of the public" in order to have their charters renewed. Well you can thank Rothefeller, he changed all that. Corporations no longer have to claim they serve the good and well being of the public and now also are given perpetual existence charters to rape and pillage the public for eternity. What began under what outwardly seems like noble pretenses of the professed aspirations of capitalism has gradually morphed and spawned multi-headed amoral predatorial beasts, insatiable profit driven multi-national conglomerates bent on conquest, they prowl the earth seeking to exploit every last resource there exists while evermore, ever so subtly enslaving its inhabitants.

Behold: the age of the most wonderful benevolent CAPITALISM and its devil spawned corporations is upon us... I pose to you this profound question: When the Savior of mankind returns, as he has promised, do you think he will return to bring SALVATION to mankind and say "WOW, what an awesome wonderful economic system yah have there!" Or, does he come to DESTROY the world Satan has fashioned through illusions, for lest not you EVER FORGET: It is written "Satan is the ruler of this world." That includes "the system" and "the establishment."

ECONOMIC COLONIZATION OF THE WORLD

Thus I sit back in total amazement and sadly witness the leaders of many countries get relentlessly assaulted, whom have done NOTHING to harm our country other than to rebuke its selfish capitalistic advances in the preposterous bullshit guise of "advancing Democracy." The raw reality is that it's all about ECONOMIC COLONIZATION OF THE WORLD. Financial institutions and multinational corporations roam the earth in search of new sources of wealth and resources... to covert thy neighbor's goods. ECONOMIC HIT MEN are routinely dispatched to bring reluctant target governments to their knees. Any government that has not adopted into our capitalist system is deemed enemy of the state until the day they admit all the western finance and commerce, they are depicted as our mortal enemies...

Those who have stood their ground, while never once posing not one single ounce of real threat to our country have been systematically demonized in every way, shape and form one can imagine at every level and on every avenue by the powers that be and their minions. One need look no further than Castro and Chavez whom both DARED defy the financial world masters who were trying to make inroads into their countries... I challenge you to take a cold hard UNBIASED look at the history of those two and all the countries that dared oppose the advances and confronted the western powers! EVERY SINGLE COUNTRY that bowed to our capitalistic endeavors (and allowed the banksters to setup an independent central reserve banks to LEND the country its money), no matter how bad their transgressions, were all eventually forgiven and accepted as wonderful allies EVEN if those countries were STILL the most evil murdering communist countries or authoritative regimes on the planet! (China for starters) I am not making this up! I can't change history! Re-analyze and re-check the information about every country that once opposed us or our western allies, you will discover an amazing undeniable pattern: The pivotal moment when they ceased to be our ENEMIES was once they opened their nation to our capitalist overtures and surrendered their central banks to outside forces. Point blank, end of story, period.

With the ABSOLUTE UNBLEMISHED TRUTH having just been told, the ABSOLUTE REALITY revealed. Those who still possess an ounce of common sense and intact critical thinking needs to review all known history, for it is painfully obviously tainted and corrupted at every level in all mainstream sources to instill a fairytale ECONOMIC BELIEF SYSTEM and conviction in the goyim lemming populace. There is no end to the indoctrinated TALKING HEAD PUNDITS who appear daily on TV and in all media whom have fully EMBRACED the BELIEF SYSTEM. These indoctrinated people will defend the belief system all the way up until the world is laid barren and all of humanity self destructs...

There are the 'dark forces' at work, the so-called 'invisable hand' of the global market. Here is my simple honest heartfelt attempt to reveal the true nature of what has been, is and will be:

The entire realm of Debt centric economics and finance was invented eons ago and back then was rightly recognized as SIN and CRIME to charge interest. To first book ever written, the Bible, clearly documented how man should treat DEBT... which in those days was called: USURY

USURY:

Usury (pronounced /'ju:ʒəri/, comes from the Medieval Latin usuria, "interest" or from the Latin usura "interest") originally meant the charging of interest on loans. This included charging a fee for the use of money, such as at a bureau de change. After interest became acceptable, usury came to mean the interest above the rate allowed by law. In common usage today, the word means the charging of unreasonable or relatively high rates of interest. The term is largely derived from Christian religious principles; Riba is the corresponding Arabic term and ribbit the Hebrew one.

The pivotal change in the English-speaking world seems to have come with the permission to charge interest on lent money: particularly the 1545 Act 'An Acte Agaynst Usurie' (37 H.viii 9) of Henry VIII in England (see book references). – source: [Wikipedia]

Here are just a few examples of how the Bible warned the world of usury and clearly forbidding this detestable act:

1. Exodus 22:25
If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as an usurer, neither shalt thou lay upon him usury.

2. Leviticus 25:36
Take thou no usury of him, or increase: but fear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee.
Leviticus 25:35-37 (in Context) Leviticus 25 (Whole Chapter)
3. Leviticus 25:37
Thou shalt not give him thy money upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase.
Leviticus 25:36-38 (in Context) Leviticus 25 (Whole Chapter)
4. Deuteronomy 23:19
Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of any thing that is lent upon usury:
Deuteronomy 23:18-20 (in Context) Deuteronomy 23 (Whole Chapter)
5. Deuteronomy 23:20
Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all that thou settest thine hand to in the land whither thou goest to possess it.
Deuteronomy 23:19-21 (in Context) Deuteronomy 23 (Whole Chapter)
6. Nehemiah 5:7
Then I consulted with myself, and I rebuked the nobles, and the rulers, and said unto them, Ye exact usury, every one of his brother. And I set a great assembly against them.
Nehemiah 5:6-8 (in Context) Nehemiah 5 (Whole Chapter)
7. Nehemiah 5:10
I likewise, and my brethren, and my servants, might exact of them money and corn: I pray you, let us leave off this usury.
Nehemiah 5:9-11 (in Context) Nehemiah 5 (Whole Chapter)
8. Psalm 15:5
He that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things shall never be moved.
Psalm 15:4-5 (in Context) Psalm 15 (Whole Chapter)

9. Proverbs 28:8
He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor.
Proverbs 28:7-9 (in Context) Proverbs 28 (Whole Chapter)
10. Isaiah 24:2
And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him.
Isaiah 24:1-3 (in Context) Isaiah 24 (Whole Chapter)
11. Ezekiel 18:8
If he has not exacted usury Nor taken any increase, But has withdrawn his hand from iniquity And executed true judgment between man and man;
Ezekiel 18:7-9 (in Context) Ezekiel 18 (Whole Chapter)
12. Ezekiel 18:13
If he has exacted usury Or taken increase— Shall he then live? He shall not live! If he has done any of these abominations, He shall surely die; His blood shall be upon him.
Ezekiel 18:12-14 (in Context) Ezekiel 18 (Whole Chapter)
13. Ezekiel 18:17
Who has withdrawn his hand from the poor And not received usury or increase, But has executed My judgments And walked in My statutes— He shall not die for the iniquity of his father; He shall surely live!
Ezekiel 18:16-18 (in Context) Ezekiel 18 (Whole Chapter)
14. Ezekiel 22:12
In you they take bribes to shed blood; you take usury and increase; you have made profit from your neighbors by extortion, and have forgotten Me,” says the Lord GOD.
Ezekiel 22:11-13 (in Context) Ezekiel 22 (Whole Chapter)

Of course mankind being the fools they are, quickly forget the dire warnings and the lessons of the past and dive head first into traps, dangers and calamities they are urgently warned off or even forbidden to partake in.

USURY IS DEBT ENSLAVEMENT...

Creating DEBT and thus enslaving your fellow man to the DEBT by charging interest was commonly referred to as USURY in the bible and was appalling in the eyes of God back then and is STILL just as appalling and sinful TODAY. The ONLY DIFFERENCE of these modern days is that the wicked usury agents (banksters) became as wolves in sheep's clothing, i.e.: you friendly wonderful most benevolent bankers with their multi-national multi-trillion dollar empires have performed a worldwide juggernaut of indebting the planet through usury (interest bearing debt)... positioning themselves as the monetary superpowers of the globe, financially dictating, regulating, dominating and controlling the affairs of men and nations.

The current state of capitalism and worldwide financial system goes back to around 300+ years ago (actually it was the year 1545 when it the idiot king of England decided to allow the charging of interest for money thus opening the doors to usury enslavement once again). Throughout their entire history on the planet earth the Jews always gravitated to usury and financial enterprises. They are among the oldest of usury agents. Today's Jewish world financial juggernaut truly began to take shape not long after the 1545 reversal of the usury ban, the financial dominance of the Jews began in earnest in the 1600s with the "Court Jew" a term for historical Jewish bankers or "businessmen" who were "usury" wizards (for some unknown reason the fact remains that in all recorded history, the Jews have always had some innate incredible "thing" with money), they lent money and handled the finances of some of the Christian European noble houses.

Note: Actually the Jewish domination in the realm of monopolistic usury goes way back in time. Remember the story of Jesus ransacking the merchant Jew's tables who were doing business in the temples? The clues are many and varied.

Examples of what would be later called “court Jews” emerged during the Renaissance when local rulers used services of Jewish bankers for short-term loans. They lent money to nobles and in the process gained social influence. Noble patrons of court Jews employed them as financiers, suppliers, diplomats and trade delegates. Court Jews could use their family connections, and connections between each other, to provision their sponsors with, among others things, food, arms, ammunition and precious metals.

In return for their services, court Jews gained social privileges—sometimes even titles—and could live outside the Jewish ghettos. Some nobles wanted to keep their bankers in their own courts. And because they were under noble protection, they were exempted from rabbinical jurisdiction.

Some court Jews, unlike the majority of the other Jews, amassed large personal fortunes and gained political and social influence. Sometimes they were also prominent people in the local Jewish community and could use their influence to protect and influence their brethren. Sometimes they were the only Jews who could interact with the local high society and present petitions of the Jews to the ruler. There were many works reflecting and supporting the fact that many Jews were becoming some of the wealthiest people in their regions, a number of famous works surfaced such as the 16th century rise of the super wealthy Jews reflected in SHYLOCK, The Jew of Malta and the Merchant of Venice. The age of the legitimate loan sharks cometh.

The Zionist bankers of 1600 and 1700s stumbled upon an earth changing discovery: they realized that when they provide credit to individual people, once those people default on their loans they, the bank could foreclose, repossess and basically own whatever assets that person has, thus they were often in positions of having to dictate the financial well being of others. Therefore they had extremely powerful negotiating leverage. This has been routine protocol in banking circles. What the major realization was in understanding that they could take that very same principle and apply it to ever larger entities...

They realized that if they could get any given corporation in hoc up to its ears in debt to the bank, once the right set of circumstances come along (and the banks found many ways of making them happen) the corporation would default, the banks could then come in and take the lion’s share of stock, also placing one of their own in control of said enterprise.

But this was not all, the banksters embolden by their successes realized using the same lending practices they could hook ever larger fish. They loaned to local states until they were in hoc up to their ears and the banksters could come in and place "custodians", representatives of the banks in key positions. The benefits of having “your people” on the inside were astronomical. With the non-stop avalanche of ~~victim’s~~ customers seeking loans thus becoming indebted to the banks continuing unabated, the court Jews quickly became immensely wealthy financial powerhouses. One by one each institution, state, government fell for the credit traps as they sought major financing for their projects from the now “international bankers,” one by one they all signed off on their ruling powers to the bankers as part of the loan "clauses."

The banksters built invisible secret networks throughout the world, establishing an iron fist control of the monetary systems of everywhere they went. They ingeniously convinced the people and the governments that it was in their best interests to leave all the “boring” financial stuff up to them, and they would give them great dividends in return, all they had to do is sit back and collect their profits. This always worked well at the outset, everyone was happy. But what few people ever realized is that the regions and nations gave up the most important thing they could imagine, the control of their own money.

The super rich Jews such as the Rothschild’s setup mega regional banks that eventually became “reserve banks” or “central banks.” They had England’s entire monetary system under complete control and rule by the mid 1700s. Even the Vatican’s financial colossus was to be swallowed up by the Jewish financial juggernaut. They erected regional reserve banks that pretended to be national in appearance, but are all strategically controlled by the Zionist Jew financial complex. For instance the Federal Reserve Banks are in total 100% control of America’s monetary system, with the President of the United States and Congress relegated to mere spectator status. Today the Zionists operate colossal banks such as the IMF, BIS and World Bank, these banks whole purpose is to enslave and rule over nations. One need look no further than Argentina for details on how they easily take down entire nations. Their most recent full bankruptcy of a country can be found in Iceland.

Any one person or any closely knit group who has massive amounts of money likewise has massive amounts of power, these two go hand in hand. Now imagine a secretive group of people who have the power to create money out of thin air, this has always been the banker's holy grail. This has finally been accomplished in the 20th century, imagine the power these people now have. This is exactly what the privately owned reserve banks have managed to accomplish along with the foolish public and subjugated government's blessing.

The hidden secret of the ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the planet is the fact that the banksters with the central help of the United States of America and its efforts to "bring 'democracy' to all corners of the world" managed to pull off the impossible: to establish independently owned and operated (by the banksters and NOT the host country) central banks in almost every country on the planet. The ultimate coup of the banksters was to get whole nations to agree to the preposterous ludicrous scheme of having the bankers completely take over their NATIONAL TREASURIES and then turn around and LEND the nation its own money!!! And charge them USURY (interest) on top of it!!! This was the holy grail of banksterdom.

Central Bank:

A central bank, reserve bank, or monetary authority is a banking institution granted the exclusive privilege to LEND a government its currency. Like a normal commercial bank, a central bank charges interest on the loans made to borrowers, primarily the government of whichever country the bank exists for, and to other commercial banks, typically as a 'lender of last resort'. However, a central bank is distinguished from a normal commercial bank because it has a monopoly on creating the currency of that nation, which is loaned to the government in the form of legal tender. It is a bank that can lend money to other banks in times of need.[1] Its primary function is to provide the nation's money supply, but more active duties include controlling subsidized-loan interest rates, and acting as a lender of last resort to the banking sector during times of financial crisis (private banks often being integral to the national financial system). It may also have supervisory powers, to ensure that banks and other financial institutions do not behave recklessly or fraudulently.

Most of the rich countries today have an "independent" central bank, that is, one which operates under rules designed to prevent political interference. Examples include the European Central Bank (ECB) and the Federal Reserve System in the United States. Some central banks are publicly owned, and others are privately owned. For example, the United States Federal Reserve is a quasi-public corporation. – source: [Wikipedia]

There are only four countries left without bankster controlled central banks: Iran, Cuba, North Korea and _____. Is it any wonder why these four countries are viewed by the status quo and western world as the "evil" regimes? Venezuela's Chavez has been busy kicking out the foreign corporations and banksters out of his country and giving the land and rights back to his people, he was immediately labeled a evil terrorist commy bastard by the western establishment. There does exist two other countries without bankster controlled central banks, but these two countries are allowed to exist as such for a grand purpose, they are THE secret money laundering tax shelter havens of the elite, those countries are Monaco and Andorra. The ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the planet is almost complete... just four more countries to go...

Central banks of most countries USED to be run DIRECTLY by their corresponding nations and operated no differently than other departments of their governments and operated openly and routinely had their books audited, this is just RATIONAL COMMON SENSE. I just cannot in my wildest dreams understand how our ENTIRE COUNTRY is held at bay and must hold CONGRESSIONAL HEARINGS putting the FED's Zionist bankster overlords such as Bernanke or Greenspan on the "hot seat" and grilling them for hours TRYING to find out what the hell is going on. In the end, all those hearings end up the same: the FED reveals nothing new, nothing changes, congress is just as clueless as ever, oh well, back to business as usual. Again I will remind you: he who hides, conceals, deceives are doing works of evil, thus it is said they dwell in darkness for those are THE ways and signs of sin. He who is righteous and doing what is good has absolutely no need to hide their actions, deeds or lie for he dwells in the light of truth.

The Federal Reserve Bank, a.k.a Federal Reserve System, is a Private Corporation. Black's Law Dictionary defines the "Federal Reserve System" as:

"Network of twelve central banks to which most national banks belong and to which state chartered banks may belong. Membership rules require investment of stock and minimum reserves."

In other words: privately-owned banks own the stock of the FED. This was explained in more detail in the case of Lewis v. United States, Federal Reporter, 2nd Series, Vol. 680, Pages 1239, 1241 (1982), where the court said:

"Each Federal Reserve Bank is a separate corporation owned by commercial banks in its region. The stock-holding commercial banks elect two thirds of each Bank's nine member board of directors".

The Federal Reserve Banks are locally controlled by their member banks. Once again, according to Black's Law Dictionary, we find that these privately owned banks actually issue money:

"Federal Reserve Act. Law which created Federal Reserve banks which act as agents in maintaining money reserves, issuing money in the form of bank notes, lending money to banks, and supervising banks. Administered by Federal Reserve Board (q.v.)".

The privately owned Federal Reserve (FED) banks actually issue (create) the "money" we use. In 1964, the House Committee on Banking and Currency, Subcommittee on Domestic Finance, at the second session of the 88th Congress, put out a study entitled Money Facts which contains a good description of what the FED is:

"The Federal Reserve is a total money-making machine. It can issue money or checks. And it never has a problem of making its checks good because it can obtain the $5 and $10 bills necessary to cover its check simply by asking the Treasury Department's Bureau of Engraving to print them".

The Federal Reserve Green Stamp: Quote directly from the FED's own official publication Modern Money Mechanics Workbook, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, p. 3, June 1975:

"Neither paper currency nor deposits have value as commodities. Intrinsically, a dollar bill is just a piece of paper. Deposits are merely book entries."

BEHOLD: A very important question no one bothers asking is: WTF? How in the world is it humanly possible that the independent banksters who call themselves the FED gets away with total secrecy? Not even the president of the United States of America or even congress have a clue what is going on behind those closed doors. They operate in higher secrecy than even the CIA!!!! WTF? Isn't it gravely important for there to be absolute openness and transparency in the institution that supposedly "just prints our money" and basically DECIDES THE ECONOMIC FATE OF THE ENTIRE COUNTRY! Golly gee whiz, what's all the freaking secrecy about? Why is it even necessary? What are they hiding? Issuing money has absolutely NOTHING to do with national security... unless... the entire operation is a one of the world's best scams being run by a cartel of mobsters who are so powerful NOT EVEN THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA DARE PRY INTO THEIR AFFAIRS. The last president who DARED was John F. Kennedy...

One must try and shed the age old conditioning and indoctrination that we have been immersed in since the day we were born. Wall Street could give a shit about your well being, about the decrepit conditions of your public schools, the financial disparity they create, about the disastrous conditions they leave in their wakes where ever they go around the world. Point blank: Wall Street is founded and run by greed-obsessed amoral predators.

The Federal Reserve, Bank of International Settlements, IMF, World Bank, Central Banks of major nations are THE central instruments of world domination, enslavement and control. These entities compose a cartel that literally holds entire nations financial well being in the palm of their hands. They are masters of enslaving all of mankind under the guise of "benevolent providers of capital" aka: DEBT enslavement. As in credit enslavement. Enticing the indoctrinated USEFUL IDIOT into debt, then using that as leverage to keep them sacrificing more and more. Once you borrow from the bankster mobsters you are indebted to them, they own you period, this principle is even more so with “legitimate” bank institution “mobsters” because they operate with the LAW by their side protecting them. You the indebted looser are enslaved to the lender bound by LAW. Repeat after me: DEBT ENSLAVEMENT...

DEBT ENSLAVEMENT...

DEBT ENSLAVEMENT...

DEBT ENSLAVEMENT...

DEBT ENSLAVEMENT!!!

Every single ill that is wrong throughout this entire planet can be directly traced back to debt enslavement financial systems, take the time to sit back and digest those words. World hunger, crime, deforestation, pollution, and so on, could be solved overnight if the world were to wake up. Debt enslavement is capitalism at its finest, and is a central element of ECONOMIC COLONIZATION.

The Zionist bankster elite are the cartel, the “hidden hand” that rules over the financial system. Mass media constantly airs and hypes the remarks and statements of their Zionist bankster brethren, always giving their words great reverence and importance above and beyond all rational common sense. Here is just one example out of the hundreds of thousands that are routinely circulated. Headline: “Nobel Winner Stiglitz Call for More Government Debt.” Stiglitz is nothing more than another Zionist Jew plying his craft and pushing their agenda forward, his totally rationally devoid retard deception are given an air of respect and legitimacy by the media with their cleverly stating “Nobel winner” in the headline thus implying his words must receive serious consideration and viewed as some sort of super genius, his demented bankster thieves serving hype given serious thought.

Bankers remind me of the GRIM REAPER. The moment your loan is in default, and you fail to uphold your end of the CONTRACT you signed with the devil (bankster). You then enter the end of your useful life in their eyes. The bankster GRIM REAPER goons are sent to CLAIM WHAT IS THEIRS. Once they are done with their victims, each one of them is branded for life using a three digit numbering system called a “FICO” score. This is the system they use to manage their herds, with this numbering system the cattle and sheep slave day and night trying to maintain the highest score possible to hopefully accumulate brownie points and get the blessing from their ECONOMIC SLAVE MASTERS...

BEHOLD: For the dollar sign ($) is a symbol that dates back to the Middle Ages, and the "S" with the bar through it means "under the scourge or bondage of Satan." Just as the word "mortgage", coming from the same root as mortician and mortuary, means "death contract", and when people sign next to the dollar sign, it becomes by definition, a death contract under the bondage of Satan. Of course, the British "pound" symbol is an "L" with a horizontal bar across it meaning under the bondage of Lucifer. – [source: Last Trumpet Newsletter]

“If you want to remain slaves of the bankers and pay for the costs of your own slavery, let them continue to create money and control the nations credit.” – Sir Josiah Stamp 1880-1941

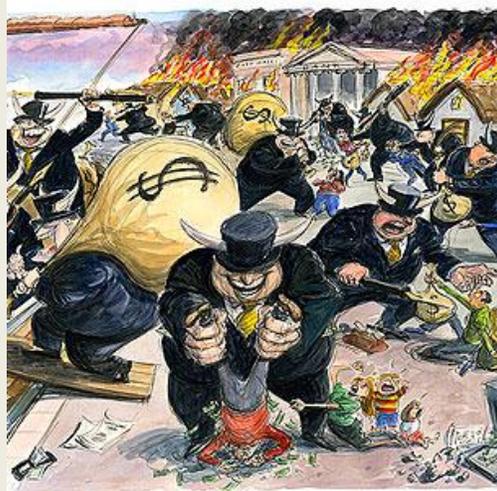

Below are excerpts from one of the best articles that I have found that perfectly describes how the banksters operate with impunity to enslave people, municipalities, states and yes, even entire nations:

The Real Reason America's Cities and Towns Are Broke

How the nation's biggest banks are ripping off American cities with the same predatory deals that brought down Greece

By Matt Taibbi, Rolling Stone, Mar 31, 2010

If you want to know what life in the Third World is like, just ask Lisa Pack, an administrative assistant who works in the roads and transportation department in Jefferson County, Alabama. Pack got rudely introduced to life in post-crisis America last August, when word came down that she and 1,000 of her fellow public employees would have to take a little unpaid vacation for a while. The county, it turned out, was more than $5 billion in debt — meaning that courthouses, jails and sheriff's precincts had to be closed so that Wall Street banks could be paid.

As public services in and around Birmingham were stripped to the bone, Pack struggled to support her family on a weekly unemployment check of $260. Nearly a fourth of that went to pay for her health insurance, which the county no longer covered. She also fielded calls from laid-off co-workers who had it even tougher. "I'd be on the phone sometimes until two in the morning," she says. "I had to talk more than one person out of suicide. For some of the men supporting families, it was so hard — foreclosure, bankruptcy. I'd go to bed at night, and I'd be in tears."

Homes stood empty, businesses were boarded up, and parts of already-blighted Birmingham began to take on the feel of a ghost town. There were also a few bills that were unique to the area — like the $64 sewer bill that Pack and her family paid each month. "Yeah, it went up about 400 percent just over the past few years," she says.

The sewer bill, in fact, is what cost Pack and her co-workers their jobs. In 1996, the average monthly sewer bill for a family of four in Birmingham was only $14.71 — but that was before the county decided to build an elaborate new sewer system with the help of out-of-state financial wizards with names like Bear Stearns, Lehman Brothers, Goldman Sachs and JP Morgan Chase. The result was a monstrous pile of borrowed money that the county used to build, in essence, the world's grandest toilet — "the Taj Mahal of sewer-treatment plants" is how one county worker put it. What happened here in Jefferson County would turn out to be the perfect metaphor for the peculiar alchemy of modern oligarchical capitalism: A mob of corrupt local officials and morally absent financiers got together to build a giant device that converted human shit into billions of dollars of profit for Wall Street — and misery for people like Lisa Pack.

And once the giant shit machine was built and the note on all that fancy construction started to come due, Wall Street came back to the local politicians and doubled down on the scam. They showed up in droves to help the poor, broke citizens of Jefferson County cut their toilet finance charges using a blizzard of incomprehensible swaps and refinance schemes — schemes that only served to postpone the repayment date a year or two while sinking the county deeper into debt. In the end, every time Jefferson County so much as breathed near one of the banks, it got charged millions in fees. There was so much money to be made bilking these dizzy Southerners that banks like JP Morgan spent millions paying middlemen who bribed — yes, that's right, bribed, criminally bribed — the county commissioners and their buddies just to keep their business. Hell, the money was so good, JP Morgan at one point even paid Goldman Sachs $3 million just to back the fuck off, so they could have the rubes of Jefferson County to fleece all for themselves.

Birmingham became the poster child for a new kind of giant-scale financial fraud, one that would threaten the financial stability not only of cities and counties all across America, but even those of entire countries like Greece. While for many Americans the financial crisis remains an abstraction, a confusing mess of complex transactions that took place on a cloud high above Manhattan sometime in the mid-2000s, in Jefferson County you can actually see the rank criminality of the crisis economy with your own eyes; the monster sticks his head all the way out of the water. Here you can see a trail that leads directly from a billion-dollar predatory swap deal cooked up at the highest levels of America's biggest banks, across a vast fruited plain of bribes and felonies — "the price of doing business," as one JP Morgan banker says on tape — all the way down to Lisa Pack's sewer bill and the mass layoffs in Birmingham.

Once you follow that trail and understand what took place in Jefferson County, there's really no room left for illusions. We live in a gangster state, and our days of laughing at other countries are over. It's our turn to get laughed at. In Birmingham, lots of people have gone to jail for the crime: More than 20 local officials and businessmen have been convicted of corruption in federal court. Last October, right around the time that Lisa Pack went back to work at reduced hours, Birmingham's mayor was convicted of fraud and money-laundering for taking bribes funneled to him by Wall Street bankers — everything from Rolex watches to Ferragamo suits to cash. But those who greenlighted the bribes and profited most from the scam remain largely untouched. "It never gets back to JP Morgan," says Pack...

.... In the end, though, all this bribery and graft was just the table-setter for the real disaster. In taking all those bribes and signing on to all those swaps, the commissioners in Jefferson County had basically started the clock on a financial time bomb that, sooner or later, had to explode. By continually refinancing to keep the county in its giant McMansion, the commission had managed to push into the future that inevitable day when the real bill would arrive in the mail. But that's where the mortgage analogy ends — because in one key area, a swap deal differs from a home mortgage. Imagine a mortgage that you have to keep on paying even after you sell your house. That's basically how a swap deal works. And Jefferson County had done 23 of them. At one point, they had more outstanding swaps than New York City.

Judgment Day was coming — just like it was for the Delaware River Port Authority, the Pennsylvania school system, the cities of Detroit, Chicago, Oakland and Los Angeles, the states of Connecticut and Mississippi, the city of Milan and nearly 500 other municipalities in Italy, the country of Greece, and God knows who else. All of these places are now reeling under the weight of similarly elaborate and ill-advised swaps — and if what happened in Jefferson County is any guide, hoo boy. Because when the shit hit the fan in Birmingham, it really hit the fan.

For Jefferson County, the deal blew up in early 2008, when a dizzying array of penalties and other fine-print poison worked into the swap contracts started to kick in. The trouble began with the housing crash, which took down the insurance companies that had underwritten the county's bonds. That rendered the county's insurance worthless, triggering clauses in its swap contracts that required it to pay off more than $800 million of its debt in only four years, rather than 40. That, in turn, scared off private lenders, who were no longer interested in bidding on the county's bonds. The banks were forced to make up the difference — a service for which they charged enormous penalties. It was as if the county had missed a payment on its credit card and woke up the next morning to find its annual percentage rate jacked up to a million percent. Between 2008 and 2009, the annual payment on Jefferson County's debt jumped from $53 million to a whopping $636 million.

It gets worse. Remember the swap deal that Jefferson County did with JP Morgan, how the variable rates it got from the bank were supposed to match those it owed its bondholders? Well, they didn't. Most of the payments the county was receiving from JP Morgan were based on one set of interest rates (the London Interbank Exchange Rate), while the payments it owed to its bondholders followed a different set of rates (a municipal-bond index). Jefferson County was suddenly getting far less from JP Morgan, and owing tons more to bondholders. In other words, the bank and Bill Blount made tens of millions of dollars selling deals to local politicians that were not only completely defective, but blew the entire county to smithereens.

And here's the kicker. Last year, when Jefferson County, staggered by the weight of its penalties, was unable to make its swap payments to JP Morgan, the bank canceled the deal. That triggered one-time "termination fees" of — yes, you read this right — $647 million. That was money the county would owe no matter what happened with the rest of its debt, even if bondholders decided to forgive and forget every dime the county had borrowed. It was like the herpes simplex of loans — debt that does not go away, ever, for as long as you live. On a sewer project that was originally supposed to cost $250 million, the county now owed a total of $1.28 billion just in interest and fees on the debt. Imagine paying $250,000 a year on a car you purchased for $50,000, and that's roughly where Jefferson County stood at the end of last year.

Last November, the SEC charged JP Morgan with fraud and canceled the $647 million in termination fees. The bank agreed to pay a $25 million fine and fork over $50 million to assist displaced workers in Jefferson County. So far, the county has managed to avoid bankruptcy, but the sewer fiasco had downgraded its credit rating, triggering payments on other outstanding loans and pushing Birmingham toward the status of an African debtor state. For the next generation, the county will be in a constant fight to collect enough taxes just to pay off its debt, which now totals $4,800 per resident.

The city of Birmingham was founded in 1871, at the dawn of the Southern industrial boom, for the express purpose of attracting Northern capital — it was even named after a famous British steel town to burnish its entrepreneurial cred. There's a gruesome irony in it now lying sacked and looted by financial vandals from the North. The destruction of Jefferson County reveals the basic battle plan of these modern barbarians, the way that banks like JP Morgan and Goldman Sachs have systematically set out to pillage towns and cities from Pittsburgh to Athens. These guys aren't number-crunching whizzes making smart investments; what they do is find suckers in some municipal-finance department, corner them in complex lose-lose deals and flay them alive. In a complete subversion of free-market principles, they take no risk, score deals based on political influence rather than competition, keep consumers in the dark — and walk away with big money. "It's not high finance," says Taylor, the former bond regulator. "It's low finance." And even if the regulators manage to catch up with them billions of dollars later, the banks just pay a small fine and move on to the next scam. This isn't capitalism. It's nomadic thievery. — read full article at [Rolling Stone]

You would think (and have been conditioned to believe) that the above story is the exception rather than the rule but the cold hard truth is that this is their defacto modus operandi. Raping and enslaving their clients is the essence of usury, debt and banks, (they rape you in Armani suits and with a polite smile) that is why the bible stated that usury was a grave sin. The way international banks rape and enslave nations follows pretty much the same pattern and fundamental strategy of the above story, when they enslave nations with debt the usury is disguised as "Austerity Measures" and under "Conditionalities." All satanic monsters that prey on the weak always pose as benevolent beings saying the same words of "trust us" and "we are your friends" to gain the confidence of their victims.

Part of the enslavement matrix has been the so called emancipation of women. Decades ago many were at first eager to work, unbeknownst to anyone other than the banksters it was a financial trap, with the added purchasing power came the bigger credit accounts, higher costs, and so forth. Within a few decades the banks were busy enslaving everyone with choking debt. The emancipated women after at first voluntarily accepting working careers are now unable to opt out. They are enslaved to the same point of men, no choice because it now takes two bread winners to feed and house a family. This makes way for the perversion of our children under the guise of education, with cradle to the grave care by institutions. Paid for by the enslaved, to enrich the few.

We are a debtor nation that does not function in the positive with real money. We function in the negative with credit. I love to watch the comedian as Suzie Orman (of course she is a Zionist Jew, plying her craft, what did you expect?) perform her TV comedy routine, this is PROGRAMMING at its finest. She along with many others is part of the multimedia network that propagates, nourishes the Honorable dutiful Good Creditor MYTH where everyone strives to have a good credit score is treated as sacrosanct. The current queen of spreading the gospel of maintaining good credit above and beyond at all costs. Yes she sometimes gives great advise for keeping and building wealth, but it is all predicated on continuity of the debt enslavement system.

The purpose of life in Suzie's show world production is to reinforce the being a virtuous, obedient and faithful good DEBT citizen in our DEBT DRIVEN SOCIETY. You see, not so long ago we were a savings and production based society, not anymore, we have been seamlessly transformed right before your very eyes into a debt and buy stuff based society. True wealth NEVER comes from borrowing! Duh! Borrowing and debt is the EXACT OPPOSITE of WEALTH! Wealth is accumulated, and SAVINGS is a central component of wealth.

You were programmed your entire life to just be a good worker bee and one day you will reach nirvana, achieve the grand ole American Dream. Devote your whole life to work for someone else, plow their farms, build their products, sell their products, find them more customers, make them more money, work hard for your master your entire life and “success” will be there waiting for you in the end. What a bullshit fairy tale, ask the over 50 million homeless, unemployed, sick people without the privileged of medical care, and so forth if they still believe in that fairy tale American Dream. News flash: no one ever became rich by being someone else’s bitch.\

"The Depression was not accidental. It was a carefully contrived occurrence... The international bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair here so that they might emerge as rulers of us all." - Louis T. McFadden, Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, 1932

"The theories offered by economists rationalize the self-interest of big business and the wealthy. Such theories claim to benefit society and the public's well-being. But they do just the opposite: they make the great mass of people poorer while making the rich fabulously richer." - economist Ravi Batra

I find it difficult to understand why and how everyone blindly TRUSTS Wall street. Wall street says “___ and ___ is good for the economy” and the world ceases to utilize common sense, logic, critical thinking and blindly go along with everything they say, every single time. This singular group of insatiable greedy vultures harbors not one iota of concern for the plight of their fellow man for their priority is dedicated to their love of the almighty dollar, the almighty return on investment. Their loyalty is to none other than to their mega wealthy elite brethren. Wall street is the capitol of the “finance religion” were its devotees simply worship money. Again, as other sectors of the Matrix complex, tons of books, movies and so forth have over time exposed all sorts of lurid fraud, corruption and sins of Wall street. So I won’t bother rehashing the same old news. But I do recommend that you look into the story of “Deep Capture” for an amazing independent investigative journalistic insight into the corrupt world of finance.

Wall Street and all their professional traders are NOT thinking about you the average Joe’s best interests, they are NOT thinking of the best interests of the economy, they are NOT thinking about the best interests of the country, they are NOT thinking about the best interests of ANYTHING other than who to make more millions on top of millions, THIS is the ONLY factor that matters in the alternate reality world of Wall Street. Period.

THE MASTERY AND POWER OF PERCEPTION

THE central most important factor of the unabated success of the ruling elite is within their mastery of PUBLIC PERCEPTION. Control the perception of the masses and you control the world. To control and manipulate public perception is to control and manipulate known and accepted REALITY. To demonstrate, let’s take just a tiny peek at the realm of public perception setting and manipulation, I will use one example:

How about if I had a finance business and advertised $24,000 automobile for sale at only $48,000! Would you buy that car? I have asked this question to hundreds of people, all unanimously shot back with resounding “NO WAY!” Ok, I continue, how about I sell you this house that is listed for $250 grand for only half a million bucks? The overwhelming response is again “Are you crazy?”

I then explain to the poor indoctrinated saps that they all do EXACTLY THIS action along with millions upon millions of other conned people who FINANCE A CAR or HOUSE. In essence the financial institution IS selling the duped customer a $24,000 car for over $48,000, as well as all those homes they finance, by the time they make that last payment they will all pay MORE THAN DOUBLE the original value of the item. Yet this is a commonly accepted practice the world over. Banks are nothing more than legitimate loan sharks protected by the state.

The only difference from both types of transactions being the way they were PRESENTED to the mark. The crucial key to the power of the ruling elite is that they have mastered the science of molding, shaping and controlling PUBLIC PERCEPTION. Basically the banks have conditioned the entire planet to accept PAYING DOUBLE as default common practice. Masterfully getting EVERYONE to suspend all logic and go with the common accepted practice. Yet when the same scenario is presented in its naked unadulterated reality not a single person would sign the finance form. Again, this strategy did not happen overnight, at first, hundreds of years ago the interest rates were a tiny fraction of the cut, gradually over the years, little by little they raise the bars of accepted and adopted standards until one day the most obscene factors are the overwhelmingly accepted norms.

Today everything seems to revolve around “good credit” and “FICO score.” You can’t get a decent job or even rent a nice home without a good credit report, in some places you can’t even get a dog without it. THIS is how far they have gone in affecting, influencing and dictating the world’s perception of the value of credit. They managed to make credit THE CENTRAL value system of society! Think about it... the repercussions to life are profound.

17th century philosopher John Locke noted that the bankers, brokers – middlemen – whose activities enlarge the monetary circuit and whose profits eat into the earnings of laborers and landholders, had a negative influence on both one's personal and the public economy that they supposedly contributed to.

The markets are routinely manipulated by the ruling elite by influencing, molding, shaping the public PERCEPTION. One element of perception that the banker barons identified and exploit on a regular basis is: CONFIDENCE. Confidence is an intangible psychological element. The banker baron ruling elite realized the simplest way to manipulate the markets without physically moving around billions of dollars of their own money was to create artificial trends by directly influencing the PERCEPTION of other players in the market... they specifically target the element of PERCEPTION that is called:

CONFIDENCE

Confidence/Perception - Evidence, exhibit A: THE JOBLESS “RECOVERY”

At the moment this update is being added it is Feb, 10, 2010, many propaganda outlets, along with Big Brother’s ministry of truth are proclaiming that we are undergoing a “recovery.” This is a perfect example of confidence building through the manipulation of positive cognitive perception about the economy... for their claims are founded upon bullshit. The middle class has been stripped and consolidated, millions in foreclosure and bankruptcy, millions unemployed and still growing, trillions added to the national debt, etc., etc, sure.... We are in the midst of a massive DEPRESSION... claims of “recovery” my ass. Jobs are THE number one indicator of a recovery and they are still being moved offshore as I speak. The figures you see on the Show and Tell segment of the daily news are those of PAPER recovery and profits of the RICH AND WEALTHY. America has been purposely self imploded, without new manufacturing and REAL jobs in significant numbers any claim of “recovery” is just plain old bullshit.

Here are some more truthful highly relevant quotes that reflect the nature and substance of the CONFIDENCE perception stratagem in real time use:

"But highly leveraged economies, particularly those in which continual rollover of short-term debt is sustained only by confidence in relatively illiquid underlying assets, seldom survive forever, particularly if leverage continues to grow unchecked."

"If there is one common theme to the vast range of crises we consider in this book, it is that excessive debt accumulation, whether it be by the government, banks, corporations, or consumers, often poses greater systemic risks than it seems during a boom. Infusions of cash can make a government look like it is providing greater growth to its economy than it really is. Private sector borrowing binges can inflate housing and stock prices far beyond their long-run sustainable levels, and make banks seem more stable and profitable than they really are. Such large-scale debt buildups pose risks because they make an economy vulnerable to crises of confidence, particularly when debt is short term and needs to be constantly refinanced. Debt-fueled booms all too often provide false affirmation of a government's policies, a financial institution's ability to make outsized profits, or a country's standard of living. Most of these booms end badly. Of course, debt instruments are crucial to all economies, ancient and modern, but balancing the risk and opportunities of debt is always a challenge, a challenge policy makers, investors, and ordinary citizens must never forget."

And this is key. Read it twice (at least!):

"Perhaps more than anything else, failure to recognize the precariousness and fickleness of confidence-especially in cases in which large short-term debts need to be rolled over continuously-is the key factor that gives rise to the this-time-is-different syndrome. Highly indebted governments, banks, or corporations can seem to be merrily rolling along for an extended period, when bang!-confidence collapses, lenders disappear, and a crisis hits.

"Economic theory tells us that it is precisely the fickle nature of confidence, including its dependence on the public's expectation of future events, that makes it so difficult to predict the timing of debt crises. High debt levels lead, in many mathematical economics models, to "multiple equilibria" in which the debt level might be sustained - or might not be. Economists do not have a terribly good idea of what kinds of events shift confidence and of how to concretely assess confidence vulnerability. What one does see, again and again, in the history of financial crises is that when an accident is waiting to happen, it eventually does. When countries become too deeply indebted, they are headed for trouble. When debt-fueled asset price explosions seem too good to be true, they probably are. But the exact timing can be very difficult to guess, and a crisis that seems imminent can sometimes take years to ignite."

"At the core of every government action, lies the self-interest of greed that underscores everything. This is not a unique trait of modern vintage. As Adam Smith commented in his Wealth of Nations back in 1775, governments are the biggest spendthrifts in society. If their own conduct does not destroy the state, that of their subjects never will. When I had to come up with a name for the model, I decided on the Economic Confidence Model because the economic conditions are dependent upon a game of CONFIDENCE. One of the 10 commandments was Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. For centuries this has been the ROOT of all evil. For to control the people is nothing more than a CONFIDENCE game. A clever thief is called a "con-man" because what he does is to lie to create a sense of false CONFIDENCE like Madoff. The government is no different. The Truth behind every action is the quest to separate people from their property." – Martin A. Armstrong, former chairman of Princeton Economics International and The Foundation For the Study of Cycles, also political prisoner of the United States of America.

We are in the middle of national emergencies of potentially catastrophic proportions and president Bush gets in front of the camera and tries to convince his brain dead constituents to just "go shoppin" as the solution to all our problems! Doh! Charge up those credit cards to the max! Then there is another high profile Zionist Jew plying his craft that goes by the name of Cramer (Mad Money) screaming to his audience telling everyone to "Buy! Buy! Buy more worthless paper (stocks). We live in a society based and centered on virtual, vapor, paper wealth. We live in a world where "our" financial system is actually the international banker's financial system, we are just rat race cattle enslaved to it.

Again I must reiterate and highlight the dire importance of what was just stated: Our country went from a PRODUCTION BASED ECONOMY (once upon a time, America was THE world's preeminent manufacture) it "de-industrialized" itself and gradually shed almost all its manufacturing capacity selling them or shipping them overseas, thus shifted into a paper DEBT BASED ECONOMY. Every TV channel, every media outlet, every financial institution and expert out there, are ALL preached and supported DEBT society paradigm dogma.

The Offshored Economy

By Paul Craig Roberts

In the 20th century, Detroit, Mich., symbolized American industrial might. Today it symbolizes the offshored economy.

Detroit's population has declined by half. A quarter of the city—35 square miles—is desolate with only a few houses still standing on largely abandoned streets. If the local government can get the money from Washington, urban planners are going to shrink the city and establish rural areas or green zones where neighborhoods used to be.

President Obama and economists provide platitudes about recovery. But how does an economy recover when its economic leaders have spent more than a decade moving high productivity, high value-added middle class jobs offshore along with the Gross Domestic Product associated with them?

Some very discouraging reports have been issued this month from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. There have been record declines in both jobs and hours worked. At the end of last year, the U.S. economy had fewer jobs than at the end of 1997, twelve years ago. Hours worked at the end of last year were less than at the end of 1995, fourteen years ago.

The average workweek is falling and currently stands at 33.1 hours for non-supervisory workers.

In a major problem for economic theory, labor productivity or output per man hour and labor compensation have diverged markedly over the last decade. Wages are not rising with productivity. Perhaps the explanation lies in the productivity data. Susan Houseman found that U.S. labor productivity statistics might actually be reflecting the low wages paid to offshored labor. An American company with production in the U.S. and China, for example, produces aggregate results in labor output and labor compensation. The productivity statistics thus measure the labor productivity of global corporations, not that of U.S. labor.

Charles McMillion has pointed out that unit labor costs actually fell during 2009, but that non-labor costs have been rising throughout the decade. The rise in non-labor costs perhaps reflects the decline in the dollar's foreign exchange value and the increased dependence on imported factors of production.

Economists and policymakers tend to blame auto management and unions for Detroit's fall. However, American manufacturing has declined across the board. Evergreen Solar recently announced that it is shifting its production of solar fabrication and assembly from Massachusetts to China.

A U.S. Department of Commerce study of the precision machine tool industry has found that the U.S. comes in last. The U.S. industry has a shrinking market share and the smallest increase in export value. The Commerce Department surveyed American end-users of precision machine tools and found that imports accounted for 70 percent of purchases. Some U.S. distributors of precision machine tools do not even carry U.S. brands.

The financial economy which was to replace the industrial economy is nowhere in sight. The U.S. has only five banks in the world's top 50 by size of assets. The largest U.S. bank, JPMorgan Chase ranks seventh. Germany has seven banks in the top 50, and the United Kingdom and France each have six. Japan and China each have five banks in the top 50, and together the small countries of Switzerland and the Netherlands have six with combined assets $1.185 trillion more than the five largest U.S. banks.

Moreover, after the derivative fraud perpetrated on the world's banks by the U.S. investment banks, there is no prospect of any country trusting American financial leadership.

The American economic and political leadership has used its power to serve its own interests at the expense of the American people and their economic prospects. By enriching themselves in the short-run, bankers and politicians have driven the U.S. economy into the ground. The U.S. is on a path to becoming a Third World economy.

Paul Craig Roberts was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury during President Reagan's first term. He was Associate Editor of the Wall Street Journal. He has held numerous academic appointments, including the William E. Simon Chair, Center for Strategic and International Studies, Georgetown University, and Senior Research Fellow, Hoover Institution, Stanford University. He was awarded the Legion of Honor by French President Francois Mitterrand. Stratton of The Tyranny of Good Intentions : How Prosecutors and Bureaucrats Are Trampling the Constitution in the Name of Justice.

Today we witness trillions upon trillions of dollars systematically fleeced from the public and being given to financial institutions to “bailout”, “stimulate” and “save” the “system.” If this were not a hopelessly DEBT driven society, this entire scenario would have never arisen in the first place... let alone that this purported “solution” is a complete bullshit farce of the banksters who engineered it in the first place.

Any DEBT based economic system is so seriously fundamentally FLAWED that it is doomed to failure due to the fact that a DEBT based society is an unsustainable economic system. This is elementary my dear Watson.

The core, the essence of debt enslavement bankdom, is that the Wall Street money masters always PRESENT THEMSELVES AS “ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AGENCY” thus they weasel their way into the people’s, organizations and even nation’s hearts and minds as supposed “benevolent”.... Supposedly gracious “helpers”.... enabling “partners” of their VICTIMS. “Well gosh, these people really care about me and want what’s best for me, my best friend won’t even lend me money but they will.” Surely anyone willing to just hand over piles of money for just your ~~son~~ signature, has to be held in higher esteem than even your best of friends... how else do you think the bankers became the most TRUSTED, most central, most powerful institution in every town, city, state and country?

Regulatory agencies my ass. There is NO true regulation in any of our financial markets. What we have is a system of industry insiders camouflaging themselves as populist foes of the very banks and credit card companies that that agency would regulate. Regulatory agencies are nothing but institutionalized state sponsored FARCE. Banking Committee Chairman Christopher Dodd called the FED's track record on bank regulation and consumer protection an "abysmal failure." While the SEC has been run since its inception by the same Zionist financial robber barons it pretends to oversee.

Here is an example of the wanton abuse the financial sector is routinely allowed to inflict upon the public, policies and practices that at one time not so long ago would land any loan shark behind bars is not typically acceptable as long as it is performed by the banker robber barons:

Issuer of 79.9% interest rate credit card defends its product

APR shocks many, but issuer says they are pricing for the risk

If you have bad credit in the new era of credit card regulation, be prepared to pay -- dearly -- for the privilege of using credit. That's the message underlying recent credit card offers that feature jaw-dropping interest rates of up to 79.9 percent.

The sky-high rates may be a sign of things to come in the market for so-called subprime credit cards as issuers who lend to the riskiest of borrowers try to figure out how to stay in business and comply with the new credit card reform law.

"We need to price our product based on the risk associated with this market and allow the customer to make the decision whether they want the product or not," according to a statement issued by Miles Beacom, CEO of Premier Bankcard, the South Dakota credit card marketer that mailed test offers in September and October featuring 79.9 percent and 59.9 percent annual percentage rates (APRs) on cards with $300 credit limits. Premier markets credit cards issued by First Premier Bank.

Yes, it's legal

A national bank charging 79.9 percent interest on a credit card is legal -- as long as the issuer fully discloses the terms as required by the federal Truth in Lending Act. Still, the high rate has been met with shock across the country because it is so much higher than prevailing APRs and penalty interest rates. The CreditCards.com Weekly Rate report national average for bad credit cards was 13.74 percent on Dec. 17.

"There's 70 million people out there who have been identified with problem credit," says Beacom, adding those are people with FICO scores lower than 640. "These are people who have had problems with their credit in the past."

He likened people with bad credit to bad automobile drivers who must pay higher auto insurance premiums if they want to continue driving. "These are people who have had those same accidents or speeding tickets with their credit."

Response to 79.9% offer 'phenomenal'

Has First Premier gotten any takers on the 79.9 percent cards? Beacom called the response "phenomenal," adding 2 percent of people receiving the offers have applied for the cards. Their normal response rates is 1 percent to 1.2 percent, he says. "It's double what our normal product was."

As the article above clearly demonstrates, this world is full of fools. There is an endless supply of brain dead idiots who will allow themselves to be enslaved to the highest degree. Behold for we live in the age of the Shylock.

Throughout all our history the stories NEVER cease to come forth of the countless Wall Street schemes, the countless people swindled, the countless breaches, the countless criminal acts, those who are caught more often than not get away by just paying fines and keep the rest of the plunder. The list goes on and on. But it will never matter because Wall Street robber barons run our country and calls the shots from behind the scenes, Washington is completely in its back pocket. Wall Street dictates national policy, it dictates all our foreign police, open and shut case.

By the way, have you ever noticed the most prominent and the tallest building in every town and city is 9 out of 10 times is a bank? They stand tall dominating the entire skyline proudly demonstrating to the public the sheer awe and power of the bank. Yet they are all built with your blood, sweat and tears. They build all those tall monuments of power with YOUR money, yet you don't possess not even a penny in its equity. Within the halls of those monolithic structures they sit back in plush offices, pushing paper around and sucking billions upon billions of dollars out of people, companies, organizations, cities, states and even nations. While the banksters produce NOTHING, manufacture NOTHING, contribute NOTHING to society except for DEBT, they are for all intents and purposes parasitic creatures who attach themselves to a host and suck it dry.

Confessions of an Economic Hit Man

Content of Book by John Perkins published in 2004

Perkins began writing Confessions of an Economic Hit Man in the 1980s. In the book, he states that, "Threats or bribes always convinced me to stop."

"Covertly recruited by the United States National Security Agency and on the payroll of an international consulting firm, he traveled the world—to Indonesia, Panama, Ecuador, Colombia, Saudi Arabia, Iran and other strategically important countries...Perkins reveals the hidden mechanics of imperial control behind some of the most dramatic events in recent history, such as the fall of the Shah of Iran, the death of Panamanian president Omar Torrijos, and the U.S. invasions of Panama and Iraq." [2]

According to his book, Perkins' function was to convince the political and financial leadership of underdeveloped countries to accept enormous development loans from institutions like the World Bank and USAID. Saddled with huge debts they could not hope to pay, these countries were forced to acquiesce to political pressure from the United States on a variety of issues. Perkins argues in his book that developing nations were effectively neutralized politically, had their wealth gaps driven wider and economies crippled in the long run. In this capacity Perkins recounts his meetings with some prominent individuals, including Graham Greene and Omar Torrijos. Perkins describes the role of an EHM as follows:

Economic hit men (EHMs) are highly-paid professionals who cheat countries around the globe out of trillions of dollars. They funnel money from the World Bank, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and other foreign "aid" organizations into the coffers of huge corporations and the pockets of a few wealthy families who control the planet's natural resources. Their tools included fraudulent financial reports, rigged elections, payoffs, extortion, sex, and murder. They play a game as old as empire, but one that has taken on new and terrifying dimensions during this time of globalization.

The epilogue to the 2006 edition provides a rebuttal to the current move by the G8 nations to forgive Third World debt. Perkins charges that the proposed conditions for this debt forgiveness require countries to sell their health, education, electric, water and other public services to corporations. Those countries would also have to discontinue subsidies and trade restrictions that support local business, but accept the continued subsidization of certain G8 businesses by the US and other G8 countries, and the erection of trade barriers on imports that threaten G8 industries.

In the book, Perkins repeatedly denies the existence of a "conspiracy." Instead, Perkins carefully discusses the role of corporatocracy.

“ I was initially recruited while I was in business school back in the late sixties by the National Security Agency, the nation’s largest and least understood spy organization; but ultimately I worked for private corporations. The first real economic hit man was back in the early 1950s, Kermit Roosevelt, Jr., the grandson of Teddy, who overthrew the government of Iran, a democratically elected government, Mossadegh’s government who was Time’s magazine person of the year; and he was so successful at doing this without any bloodshed—well, there was a little bloodshed, but no military intervention, just spending millions of dollars and replaced Mossadegh with the Shah of Iran. At that point, we understood that this idea of economic hit man was an extremely good one. We didn’t have to worry about the threat of war with Russia when we did it this way. The problem with that was that Roosevelt was a C.I.A. agent. He was a government employee. Had he been caught, we would have been in a lot of trouble. It would have been very embarrassing. So, at that point, the decision was made to use organizations like the C.I.A. and the N.S.A. to recruit potential economic hit men like me and then send us to work for private consulting companies, engineering firms, construction companies, so that if we were caught, there would be no connection with the government.[3] - Nov 4 '04 interview Perkins's first boss at Chas. T. Main, Einar Greve, initially declared to journalists that "basically [Perkins's] story is true" and that "what John's book says is, there was a conspiracy to put all these countries on the hook, and that happened.

Was Iceland a Target for Economic Hit Men? – John Perkins - video

They begin their cons by setting up the COVER as “benevolent” providers of money by LENDING it to you, they then lend to organizations, towns, cities and finally nations... Money that was NEVER theirs to begin with! The kicker is that most money they loan out is literally conjured up out of thin air! (I kid you not). All debtors are equal, having accepted the same conditions, the same terms; “you must pay it back, and then some.” Doesn’t matter who you are, they enslave everyone and everything from the personal level on up to entire nations.

What the people have yet to comprehend is that which is hidden in plain view. That the banks and their debt based capitalist financial system which they own and run lock stock and barrel, is essentially the world’s largest Cosa Nostra mafia enterprise to have ever existed on the face of the planet. How large and powerful is the mobster family? Think about it for a moment: every, as in EVERY transaction conducted on the face of the planet involving credit/debit cards, the bank, like true blue mobsters they are, get THEIR CUT not just from the poor sap creditors paying 20-30% interest rates, but also from the retail establishments who pay an additional 1.5 to 2.5% on every transaction they make.

The banks run nothing more than a middle man extortion racket of the most supreme level. The banks don't give you shit, at best they take someone else's deposit and lend it to you after you sign you life away on the dotted line. They then sit back in their plush offices TAKING THEIR CUT. Street gangsters break your legs and take your valuables when you default on their loans, the banksters also take everything you own and leave you destitute via bankruptcy when you default, the only difference between the two is you won't have broken bones, otherwise, they are mirror images of themselves. All the while Hollywood has been perpetrating the largest fraud ever in depicting Italian gangsters as the bogymen mafia, with their pitiful small time rackets, while the REAL mobsters have been wearing suit and ties mingling with heads of states operating multibillion dollar legalized RICO rackets. Think about it. Just one of their top wall street traders makes more money in bonuses than the entire Jersey mob makes in the same year. Every single trade that is conducted the banksters TAKE THEIR CUT. Wall Street is a big casino, the banksters OWN the HOUSE, and the house never loses, it TAKES it's CUT, win or lose. Now sit back and let this most profound analogy sink in, for once you truly understand its meaning you will realize it is not an analogy at all, for it is the cold hard truth.

The pure ingenuity of their “legitimate” charade is that they HAVE FOOLED THE ENTIRE PLANET into thinking that they, Wall Street and the banksters, are actually on your side, as part of “your” TRUSTED team, your beloved GODFATHERS. While in fact they are THE source of ALL ills that plague our world no matter what corner you may look into. So thorough is their brainwashing of the population, that even today as we are facing dire economic collapse, you witness the preposterous act of giving the culprit corrupt banks ALL the bailout, “stimulus” money instead of where it is most needed, the poor souls who were ripped off by the banksters... Your so called elected officials in congress are so thoroughly owned by the special interests that one need look no further for proof of this than the fact that they didn't even bother to READ the multibillion bailout plan that they overwhelmingly approved.... Congress just rubber stamped the so called “stimulus package” flushing our nation's wealth straight to the banksters sight unseen, no questions asked. That is what I call loyal servants alright... they have yet again demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt exactly who they are loyal to.

Look all around the world. Every modern civilization has come to experience the impact of rampant capitalism. Third world nations, up and coming nations are routinely economically "sodomized" by industry, large multinational conglomerates and banks who (the story is always the same) come proclaiming to benevolently “HELP” the locals, with the assistance of local media and sold out politicians, they convince the locals that by selling this or that natural resource, land, rights, organization (or whatever is in their target) to the large conglomerate will be an immense “great benefit” for the locals. In the end, the story never changes... the large conglomerate rapes and pillages the resources, leaving the peoples and nation destitute on the verge of starvation, financially robbing them of their natural wealth and shipping off the profits to other countries wealthy stockholders. Say it ain't so Joe! Need look no further than all over Africa for irrefutable proof of the devastation they leave in their wake. IMF Austerity programs is just one of the ways they have impoverished many nations.

The hidden result that is sought from all nations being offered the most wonderful and benevolent helping hand of the banksters loans, debt, enslavement, is the same no matter what they re-name it to, here they call it “Austerity programs.” The end game that is sought is: COVERT THY NEIGHBOR'S GOODS: The banks want perpetual rights to all the natural resources of the nations (in return for measly royalties and or forgiveness of existing debts are common bait), thus the nations, by default surrendering the sovereignty of their country. Neighbor

The poor peasants in all of South America have no clue how badly they are being pillaged and plundered by the western world. It is truly so sad to witness in our modern day in age all the injustices that the people of South America are routinely subjected to by our quest for ever more profits, the siege of the capitalism beast.

What better example of western world raping, ravaging and mercilessly taking advantage of poor nations than Bolivia's 2000 Cochabamba Water Revolt. What happened in a nutshell is that the wonderful, loving, caring most benevolent /cough/ World Bank told Bolivia to allow a private consortium to come in and manage some water projects. They ended up taking control of ALL water in the country, even, get this, RAIN WATER (!!!) and town wells that were already there and they did not build. I kid you not, rain water that fell from the sky was designated PROPERTY of the maniacal, diabolical consortium lead by Bechtel Corporation subsidiary with the blessing and decree from the World Bank to plunder and pillage the poor nation. Well that was not all, they then began charging those poor defenseless people prices for WATER that NO ONE could afford (up to 27% of their monthly wages!).

Violent revolts were instrumental in finally kicking the company out of the country. Of course, as is always the case of the ruling elite vs. the meek: protesters were jailed, civil liberties were restricted, houses raided, phones wiretapped then the government accused drug traffickers of inspiring and financing the acts of subversion, foreign investors denied responsibility, suggesting that the causes of the protests were not even related to the water rates.

Take a good hard look at any country African nation, left in total economic ruin and famine for a Scrooge McDuck awakening of the true nature of the BEAST that ravages entire nations. Once they were done with Africa, their sights were turned to South America and other poor gullible countries around the globe in their insatiable search for ~~victims~~, umm, "trading partners" to "liberate" by spreading "Democracy." LOL. Argentina is an amazing case study. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) currently run by Zionist Jew Dominique Strauss-Kahn, the IMF Austerity Program required that a full 33% of government revenue be diverted to IMF banks. This contributed immensely to the destruction of their currency and crippling the nation's once thriving economy. Find the documentary "Argentina's Economic Collapse" to see a chilling account of how a nation is brought down to its knees by the banks, financial institutions and corporations. A case study on how an entire nation became slaves to the world bankers:

Argentina's Economic Collapse - Video

The IMF austerity programs rape and pillage nation after nation, stripping them of wealth and resources. Many people have no clue, but when the IMF lends a nation money, in the terms and conditions ("conditionalities"), the receiving country basically hands over cart blanch, key rights to the IMF, in which the IMF can and often does exercise policy making for that sovereign country! For example; Ghana was forced by the IMF to accept deliveries of chickens from outside countries that literally put local growers out of business. In a phenomena known as "dumping" by developed countries, Ghana farmers were losing hundreds of jobs and millions of dollars, when the Ghanaian government tried to protect its domestic business interests, but the IMF stepped in and exercised its overruling power slapping them down.

Thus we see a clear example of the IMF power of overriding national rule of law. The "benevolent loving caring" IMF has been instrumental in destroying many nations, from all over Africa to South America. For "programs more often than not lead to an INCREASE in poverty in recipient countries." Doh! "While it was created under the guise to 'help stabilize the global economy', critics claim over 100 countries (almost all their membership) have experienced a banking collapse" many as a direct result of the IMF input and or demands. This is your Zionist monetary masters at work in their element plundering the poor, sucking all their wealth and fortunes out and leaving helpless countries destitute. All in the guise of "we are here to help you".... "here is lots and lots of money! Take it, just sign here on the dotted line".....

What makes the above video so scary is that the U.S. is on a eerily similar economic path of Argentina. Our recent economic collapse and 8.5 TRILLION (and counting as this is being written) in "bail out" funds (and still pilling up debt) have no connection to common sense or even logic. These funds are being handed out only to mega monolithic insider BANKs and financial institutions THAT HAVE CAUSED THE MELTDOWN TO BEGIN WITH! The very enemies of state that have been working endlessly to bring about the major fall of every nation they embed themselves in order to achieve their dreams of total world domination are in the process of financially gutting out our country. In the first wave of aftermath of the engineered collapse of the economy here are the main facts I see so far: 1) Millions of people are still out of work 2) Hundreds of thousands of foreclosures closely followed by hundreds of thousands of bankruptcies. 3) In the middle of all this carnage Wall Street and the Banksters are now reporting record profits, dishing out record bonuses and the stock market is booming again!

One of the IMF's right hand partner in crime is the World Bank, currently run Zionist Jew Robert B. Zoellick. Again we see that this bank was established to /cough/ "provide financial and technical assistance to developing countries for development programs" /cough/ In reality this entity is nothing more than a catalyst for the escalating global social disparity aiming at financial enslavement of the world, on parity with third world nations they already have under dire poverty through the control of global monetary policies. For instance:

Today I sit on my perch up here watching what's going on in Haiti in the aftermath of that devastating earthquake, yes the tens of thousands dead is truly saddening, the plight of the survivors is abysmal in that their entire lives and world has in an instant become infinitely worse. Yes, what is happening down there is truly sad indeed. But there has been an even more sinister assault on the Haitian people that was LONG AGO already stripping them of everything and forcing them into the abyss long before the earthquake. Their infrastructure was already weakened teetering on collapse prior to the earthquake thanks to the kind wonderful benevolent IMF Bank sponsored rape and pillage of the nation of Haiti. Many people died in the earthquake but few people know of the 200,000 Haitians that have been slaughtered by slum housing and IMF "austerity" plans.

Don't blame Mother Nature for all this death and destruction. That dishonor goes to Papa Doc and Baby Doc, the Duvalier dictatorship, which looted the nation for 28 years. Papa and Baby put an estimated 80% of world aid into their own pockets - with the complicity of the US government happy to have the Duvaliers and their voodoo militia, Tonton Macoutes, as allies in the Cold War. (The war was easily won: the Duvaliers' death squads ordered the slaughter of as many as 60,000 opponents of the regime.)

What Papa and Baby didn't run off with, the IMF finished off through its "austerity" plans. An austerity plan is a form of voodoo orchestrated by economists' zombified by an irrational belief that cutting government services will somehow help a nation prosper. In 1991, five years after the murderous Baby fled, Haitians elected a priest, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, who resisted the IMF's austerity decrees. The IMF banksters immediately dispatched George HW Bush Sr., Within months the military deposed Aristide. History repeats itself, first as tragedy, then as farce. The farce was Bush Jr. Crime Syndicate. In 2004 a paramilitary coup ousted Aristide a second time. Aristide was removed by U.S. Marines from his home in what he described as a "kidnapping" conducted with the blessing of Bush Jr.

The paradox of what is happening in Haiti is that as they are currently paralyzed hoping and waiting to be bailed out, while our own nation is ALSO on the verge of total collapse, in dire need of financial bailout. Months ago in the midst of the carnage of our financial collapse I watched in disbelief as a now famous piece was aired on TV with a correspondent Rick Santelli reporting from the Wall Street trading floor screaming into the TV camera, crying out loud bloody murder (while being cheered on by the trading floor crowd) ranting about Obama bailing out and subsidizing [gasp!] the common folks "the losers" who were victimized in the housing scheme, while it is perfectly ok, RIGHTFUL and just for them to bailout and subsidize the FILTHY RICH Wall Street crowd and the banks who perpetrated the scam and instigated the entire fiasco. If a nation had a collective mind, ours would be diagnosed: legally insane.

The heart breaking part is the fact that the mass public swallows this type of twisted bullshit hook line and sinker without sitting down and rationalizing the mind boggling disparities and dynamics involved in such blatantly selfish, self centered unadulterated greed. This is capitalism in it's pure unadulterated form. This is a capitalist society and the sole entities who uncontestedly run capitalism by default are the banks and financial institutions.

I wake up every day in complete and utter disbelief as I witness trillions upon trillions being shipped off to the greedy amoral predators who created this economic chaos to begin with. They have the whole world believing that they must empty their pockets and give everything to the banks to save the planet!

The fact of the matter is based on the simple fundamental truth that the Wall Street Money Masters rule our country, and the world by proxy. The Zionist financial elite built Wall Street from the ground up as their strategic ruling power base. In the Zionist banksters' eyes, they are GODS and the rest of you pathetic goyim gentiles are mere mortals to be manipulated at will. There are numerous quotes from banksters revealing their firm belief in their superiority. For instance Goldman Sachs lord of lords Lloyd Blankfein (Zionist Jew of course) once declared in an interview that as banker he was doing "God's work."

Obama revealed to the world his undying allegiance to his masters when in a recent interview he expressed admiration for "very savvy businessmen" like Lloyd Blankfein. This was well after Obama and his administration poured trillions of dollars into their coffers in the now famous "bail out" scam of the century.

Behold: Wall Street and all the goliath conglomerates on the planet are all disproportionately in the world's driver's seat. Their world is ruled by cold hard mathematical calculations, just like cold heartless machines. They don't have a clue about what "caring" or "fairness" is, "empathy" is not in their vocabulary. They CAN'T and will NEVER feel your pain no matter how bad it may be... for those corporate entities DO NOT POSSESS A SOUL...

No one ever seems to put 1 plus 1 together. Doesn't anyone of the 95% of the population consisting of the poor and working class realize it is always the RICH who are always telling us that the capitalist system of inequality is one of the most wonderful wonders of the free world.... as long as THEY keep all the benefits on their end of the scales. The moment that you try and rectify the monstrous wealth chasm by just slightly ever so infinitesimally try to nudge just a couple percentage points to the "poor" and working class in any attempt to even out the playing field, they all come out of the woodworks crying bloody murder, "SOCIALISM!!!!" But it is perfectly ok that 95% of everything in the planet is owned by just 2% of those elite. Try and take say just 5% of that 95% away from them they will attempt to tear your eyeballs out of their sockets, they would all fill the airwaves howling in unison with cries of rape.

Since the beginning of time the economically and politically powerful always dominate and exploit the weak, so much so that even though the majority of policies benefit the rich, they manage to get the overwhelming approval and even ingeniously managed to cultivated their most stanch champions of their causes who are the gullible poor and working class who make up the 95% of the have not class.

You fools think your car and home (or anything that was purchased with bankster money) belongs to you? Stop paying the insurance and you will soon find out who the house really belongs to... Hey what are all these "strings attached" to these piles of papers I just signed away on? Look at the deeds, the fine print. EVERYTHING belongs to the banks! All the cards in the decks are stacked on the side of the bank. Until the day arrives that you make that final payment, it is legally property of the BANKS, you my friend are just a "glorified rent-to-own sucker for paying for 3 houses in the quest for 1 home owner" (it's called interest, over the period of 30 years, hello, you WILL end up paying for roughly 3 times the value of that home) instead of one, IF you ever make it to that final payment. Some people are paying, via their labor, probably 4 times the price of their house which translates into 30 years of paying for the cost of maybe 6 months labor plus the supplies it took to build. This disparate ratio seems never to be questioned. Whom are they paying? The banks. For what? Credit. For 30 years you are enslaved to labor day and night for that single purchase...

Americans are an interesting bunch, the banksters wet dream, for most of them spend THEIR ENTIRE LIVES wallowing in debt of all sorts, on the never ending cycles of paying credit cards, vehicles and mortgages. Since they constantly bounce around from one location to another, thus buying new homes and going right back to starting point A all over again. Lets buy one house and pay for three again! Yaayyyy!

Behold, for in the same way the banksters fool the world into believing that their financed homes are "yours", is the same concept as to how the elite perpetrate their fraud and have mankind believe that they are "free"....

United States Constitution, Article 1 states: "The congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures; No state shall make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts."

The above statement was made way back when our country was bright eyed and bushy tailed. So what does one of our modern day world financial leaders have to say about this matter? Here are the words from one of FEDzilla's (the people who took away the gold standard) overlords and financial Zionist Jew titan of our time:

"In the absence of the gold standard, there is no way to protect savings from confiscation through inflation. There is no safe store of value. If there were, the government would have to make its holding illegal, as was done in the case of gold . . . The financial policy of the welfare state requires that there be no way for the owners of wealth to protect themselves. This is the shabby secret of the welfare statist's tirades against gold. Deficit spending is simply a scheme for the 'hidden' confiscation of wealth. Gold stands in the way of this insidious process. It stands as a protector of property rights." - Alan Greenspan, Gold and Economic Freedom

So what did your financial rulers replace our "inferior old antiquated" gold based monetary system with? Fractional reserve banking and a Credit based economy. Credit is just another word for DEBT or as known in biblical times: USURY (a sin in the eyes of God). The Zionist bankster commandment: give up your gold and we shall enslave you and your children for the rest of time in mountains of DEBT. "Hey, don't forget to maintain a healthy FICO score above all else! THAT is what's one of the MOST important things about life! We here to "help you" we are your true friends, you bunch of pathetic gullible serfs!"

"The actual process of money creation takes place primarily in banks ... bankers discovered that they could make loans merely by giving their promise to pay, or bank notes, to borrowers. In this way banks began to create money. Transaction deposits are the modern counterpart of bank notes. It was a small step from printing notes to making book entries crediting deposits of borrowers, which the borrowers in turn could 'spend' by writing checks, thereby 'printing' their own money." - Modern Money Mechanics, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Today Money is borrowed into existence, even the government must borrow their money from the almighty bankster overlords. The currency we use is based upon our future labor which the Feds have promised the banksters. It also does not yet exist. Future generations are already enslaved to pay a debt which does not exist.

"Banks create credit. It is a mistake to suppose that bank credit is created to any extent by the payment of money into the banks. A loan made by a bank is a clear addition to the amount of money in the community." - Encyclopedia Britannica, 14th Edition

"am afraid that ordinary citizens will not like to be told that the banks can, and do, create and destroy money; and they who control the credit of the nation direct the policy of governments and hold in the hollow of their hands the destiny of the people." - R. McKenna, then Chairman of Midland Bank, London

"There is no more direct way to capture control of a nation than through its credit (money) system." - Mr. Phillip A. Benson, President of the American Bankers' Association, 1939

"A few who can understand the system (check money and credits) will either be so interested in its profits, or so dependent on its favors, that there will be no opposition from that class, while on the other hand, the great body of the people mentally incapable of comprehending the tremendous advantage that capital derives from the system, will bear it's burdens without complaint, and perhaps without even suspecting that the system is inimical to their interests." Rothschild, London

Another completely stupefying mind boggling fact is that we have been WARNED countless times by the most trusted and prominent people of our land about the sinister banksters, yet the brain dead moron masses willingly allow the stripping of their birthright, their fortunes, their power, and become complicit enablers of their own enslavement.

Behold for you were WARNED so many, many times such as this most direct words of caution:

"If the American people ever allow private banks to control their currency, first by inflation and then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all their prosperity until the people wake up homeless on the continent their father conquered." - Thomas Jefferson

Ummm, it does not get any more blunt and direct than those words. So what part of "don't let the banksters screw you," did you not understand? No need to sweat it now, for they are in COMPLETE control now anyways and we are in shit deep up to our eyeballs right now.

Hey I have an idea, why don't you get one of those pieces of plastic, charge up to the max then pay the what? 29.9% interest? That will surely help stimulate the "~~economy~~", ummm, I mean the bankster's world conquest funds!

I harbor deep resentment of ex president Woodrow Wilson, for this TRAITOR sold out our country, lock stock and barrel to the Zionists. As if it weren't enough that he allowed our country to be conquered by the banksters, he was also an ardent supporter of the Balfour Declaration and the Zionist state of Israel. The one pivotal turning point in U.S. history where we lost all our fortune and America began its stupefying decent into the abyss was all accomplished under this traitor's watch. Under the backdrop and pressure of Zionist engineered World War I, the Zionists masterfully, ever so silently waltzed right in and took over the reins of financial power in America.

President Andrew Jackson was the only president to ever eliminate the national debt, he was one of the few presidents who truly understood the dangers of outside financial forces trying to take over the money supply of our country. He eradicated the private central bank, only for them to regroup decades later in 1913 to establish FEDzilla, aka: the Federal Reserve, under the auspices of Wilson. That was not the only act that was initiated, they went to town with Wilson in their back pocket.

Prior to Wilson's term, American NEVER had income taxes and got along just FINE. Not good enough, Wilson oversaw the establishment of the diabolical Internal Revenue Service who exists to plunder the citizens of this country of their hard labor, and if you fail to give your allotted share, they will come over, take your home, everything you own and imprison you for good measure. So with Wilson's treasonous enabling of the FED who print money out of thin air, then turns around and LENDS it to us at INTEREST to our government, subsequently they also sold Wilson on the sinister IRS to come in and collect the monies to pay the interest fees from the working citizens of the country as "federal income tax", of which 40% goes to pay that interest.

The worst part of this is the fact that the "Federal Reserve" is just as "Federal" a part of our government as the "Federal Express" (FedEx) is!!! The Federal Reserve is one of the biggest SWINDLES ever to operate under the auspices of our government. Whom ever comes forth to challenge it are quickly dealt with, even presidents fear it, JFK who swore to disband it "to the four corners of the earth" was only just couple months later end pushing up daisies. The FED's secrecy is cloaked on an even higher level than that of even the CIA who must report to Congress! The FED's books are not open to the public, congress or even the President. Congress has yet to audit it, and never will.

"Every effort has been made by the Federal Reserve Board to conceal its powers, but the truth is . . . the Fed (Federal Reserve System) has usurped the government. It controls everything here (congress) and it controls all our foreign relations. It makes and breaks governments at will." Louis McFadden, ex-Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency

Under Wilson's "loving care" we also witnessed the birth and emergence of what many today call "Big Brother", The Sedition Act of 1918 under the pretext of "dissent, in time of war, was a significant threat to moral". The passing of this act forbade Americans to use "disloyal, profane, scurrilous, or abusive language" about the US government, flag or armed forces. Thus he opened the door, the way and means of our current surveillance society. Then there was the one way voyage mission of the famous Lusitania purposely sent directly into German U boat territory. It's doomed mission was a brilliant success: it went down in history as the catalyst or more adequately stated: excuse as in pretext to get America into the war.

Oh no, it doesn't end there. Wilson was so deep in the Zionist elite's pocket that he was also an ardent supporter of Eugenics. So much so, that in 1907 he helped make Indiana the first of more than thirty states to adopt legislation aimed at compulsory sterilization of certain individuals.

BTW: Another interesting creature that was created under the auspices of Wilson was the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) began in 1917 with a group of New York "academics" who were asked by President Woodrow Wilson to offer options for the foreign policy of the United States in the interwar period. Council on Foreign Relations became an "imperial brain trust", which has, for decades, played a central behind-the-scenes role in shaping U.S. foreign policy choices for the post-WWII international order and the Cold War, by determining what options show up on the agenda and what options do not even make it to the table.

These are just a few of his big accomplishments, I care not what so called "great" things this man may be credited with by his Zionist masters' media arm, he was a traitor. This is what the conscience stricken Wilson had to say in his own words after he sold us out and was done giving the monetary rights of our country away:

"I am a most unhappy man. I have unwittingly RUINED MY COUNTRY. A great industrial nation is [now] controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved and who necessarily, by very reason of the own limitations, chill and destroy genuine economic freedom."

We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated Governments of the civilized world. No longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion of a small group of dominant men."

"The government, which was designed for the people, has got into the hands of the bosses and their employers, the special interests. An invisible empire has been setup above the forms of democracy."

"We have restricted credit, we have restricted opportunity, we have controlled development, and we have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated, governments in the civilized world."

"Since I entered politics, I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the U.S., in the field of commerce and manufacturing, are afraid of somebody, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it." – Woodrow Wilson, Traitor in Chief, his words of lament after selling out his country.

The absolute reality of the matter is: Our nation was officially CONQUERED lock stock and barrel in 1913... we have since those days been completely owned, completely controlled and completely ruled through PROXY by a secret occupying force: The Zionist Jew cartel... AKA: The Shadow Government... The Hidden Masters.

One must understand that the creation of the FED did not occur in a vacuum; the ground for its creation was being prepared and fertilized long before Wilson took office. The pretext for creation of the FED was formed by masterful financial engineering of several panics and runs on the bank - and it became a fact of life under this system of competing nationalized banks. In 1873, 1893, 1901, and 1907 significant panics caused a series of bank failures. The plot for establishing FEDzilla was set into action within the chaos of World War I as the public distraction back drop were their puppet (Wilson) pulled the trigger and the FED became the entity that would from then on financially CONTROL the United States of America.

Remember the Wilson Doctrine of 1918 – 14 Points? In his famous address to Congress, using the occasion of the Great War to propose “his” blueprint to “remake the world.” Many decades later we are still under the grip of Wilson’s ideas. Yet another noted agenda Woodrow Wilson was working hard to push for his Zionist masters was the establishment of the League of Nations, the failed globalist predecessor of the United Nations. Let there be no confusion as to the Woodrow administration being THE key turning point in American history opening the doors and rolling out the red carpet for complete takeover by the Zionist elite. The banksters captured and enslaved our people and country with their ungodly system of usury and DEBT as certainly as if they had marched in with a uniformed army. You owe it to yourself to understand the full impact of the ECONOMIC RAPE OF AMERICA.

During the Zionist/Federal Reserve engineered great depression, Congressman Louis T. McFadden (who served twelve years as Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency) asked for congressional investigations of criminal conspiracy to establish the privately owned 'Federal Reserve System'. He requested impeachment of Federal officers who had violated oaths of office both in establishing and directing the Federal Reserve. McFadden, quoted from his own words In describing the FEDzilla:

"Mr. Chairman, we have in this country one of the most corrupt institutions the world has ever known. I refer to the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal reserve banks. The Federal Reserve Board, a Government Board, has cheated the Government of the United States and the people of the United States out of enough money to pay the national debt. The depredations and the iniquities of the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal reserve banks acting together have cost this country enough money to pay the national debt several times over. This evil institution has impoverished and ruined the people of the United States; has bankrupted itself, and has practically bankrupted our Government. It has done this through the misadministration of that law by which the Federal Reserve Board, and through the corrupt practices of the moneyed vultures who control it".

"Every effort has been made by the Federal Reserve Board to conceal its power but the truth is the Federal Reserve Board has USURPED THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES. IT CONTROLS EVERYTHING HERE AND IT CONTROLS ALL OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS. IT MAKES AND BREAKS GOVERNMENTS AT WILL."

"Faithless government officers who have violated their oaths should be impeached and brought to trial." - McFadden

As has happened to anyone who went too far in attacking the FED, McFadden was subjected to 2 attempts on his life, a failed shooting and an apparent poisoning that made him violently ill after attending a political banquet in Washington.

THE BANKERS MANIFESTO

somewhere between 1907 and 1917. [note: to put it into context, the manifesto was in effect prior to the engineered financial crash of 1907 and the creation of the subsequent Federal Reserve]

“We (the bankers) must proceed with caution and guard every move made, for the lower order of people are already showing signs of restless commotion. Prudence will therefore show a policy of apparently yielding to the popular will until our plans are so far consummated that we can declare our designs without fear of any organized resistance.

Organizations in the United States should be carefully watched by our trusted men, and we must take immediate steps to control these organizations in our interest or disrupt them.

At the coming Omaha convention to be held July 4, 1892, our men must attend and direct its movement or else there will be set on foot such antagonism to our designs as may require force to overcome.

This at the present time would be premature. We are not yet ready for such a crisis. Capital must protect itself in every possible manner through combination (conspiracy) and legislation.

The courts must be called to our aid, debts must be collected, bonds and mortgages foreclosed as rapidly as possible.

When, through the process of law, the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and easily governed through the influence of the strong arm of the government applied to a central power of imperial wealth under the control of the leading financiers.

People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. History repeats itself in regular cycles. This truth is well known among our principal men who are engaged in forming an imperialism of the world. While they are doing this, the people must be kept in a state of political antagonism.

The question of tariff reform must be urged through the organization known as the Democratic Party, and the question of protection with the reciprocity must be forced to view through the Republican Party.

By thus dividing voters, we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us, except as teachers to the common herd. Thus, by discrete actions, we can secure all that has been so generously planned and successfully accomplished.”

The FED was illegally established, shoved down our throats, on December 23rd of 1913 while everyone was on vacation. The all out cries in opposition from furious leaders couldn't stop it. Even after the FED (by contracting the money supply by one third) with the help of the corrupt powerful banksters engineered the 1929 collapse, no one could stop it. Nothing any respected leader could say or do has ever been able to stop them. Even after the intense efforts of McFadden pleading congress to do something, in the end, the FED prevailed as always. For good measure, soon after that, they stripped the U.S. of its gold when they remove the gold standard further transforming it from the once great wealth laden country into a debt addicted nation now on the verge of becoming destitute.

Unbeknownst to the greatest scientists and scholars on earth, there is hard rock evidence, proof of the existence of BLACK HOLES. One of many black holes is located right here in America, it is called the “FED” or Federal Reserve Bank. This is where America's wealth gets sucked into and vanishes. No scientist, government official, not even the President of our country knows how the FED operates; NO ONE other then the Zionist insiders who control it know anything about its operation. NO ONE, not even the U.S. Treasury Dept has EVER seen their accounting ledgers, their books, never audited or anything, EVER. It operates in a dense vacuum in time and space, in its own secret alien world where no goyim has ever stood. Behold: proof positive that black holes do in fact exist in this world!

“The powers of financial capitalism had [a] far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences." - Dr. Carroll Quigley, "Tragedy and Hope", 1966

The apex of the system was to be the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the world's central banks which were themselves private corporations.

Private Control of the global economy - it's already happened and "The BIS has now become the apex of the system ..."

THE MARBURG PLAN

The Marburg Plan, financed by Andrew Carnegie's ample heritage, was produced in the early years of the twentieth century. It suggests premeditation for this kind of superficial schizophrenia, which in fact masks an integrated program of power acquisition: "What then if Carnegie and his unlimited wealth, the international financiers and the Socialists could be organized in a movement to compel the formation of a league to enforce peace."⁸

The governments of the world, according to the Marburg Plan, were to be socialized while the ultimate power would remain in the hands of the international financiers "to control its councils and enforce peace [and so] provide a specific for all the political ills of mankind."⁹

This idea was knit with other elements with similar objectives. Lord Milner in England provides the transatlantic example of banking interests recognizing the virtues and possibilities of Marxism. Milner was a banker, influential in British wartime policy, and pro-Marxist.¹⁰ In New York the socialist "X" club was founded in 1903. It counted among its members not only the Communist Lincoln Steffens, the socialist William English Walling, and the Communist banker Morris Hillquit, but also John Dewey, James T. Shotwell, Charles Edward Russell, and Rufus Weeks (vice president of New York Life Insurance Company). The annual meeting of the Economic Club in the Astor Hotel, New York, witnessed socialist speakers. In 1908, when A. Barton Hepburn, president of Chase National Bank, was president of the Economic Club, the main speaker was the aforementioned Morris Hillquit, who "had abundant opportunity to preach socialism to a gathering which represented wealth and financial interests."¹¹

From these unlikely seeds grew the modern internationalist movement, which included not only the financiers Carnegie, Paul Warburg, Otto Kahn, Bernard Baruch, and Herbert Hoover, but also the Carnegie Foundation and its progeny International Conciliation. The trustees of Carnegie were, as we have seen, prominent on the board of American International Corporation. In 1910 Carnegie donated $10 million to found the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and among those on the board of trustees were Elihu Root (Root Mission to Russia, 1917), Cleveland H. Dodge (a financial backer of President Wilson), George W. Perkins (Morgan partner), G. J. Balch (AIC and Amsinck), R. F. Herrick (AIC), H. W. Pritchett (AIC), and other Wall Street luminaries. Woodrow Wilson came under the powerful influence of — and indeed was financially indebted to — this group of internationalists. As Jennings C. Wise has written, "Historians must never forget that Woodrow Wilson... made it possible for Leon Trotsky to enter Russia with an American passport."¹²

But Leon Trotsky also declared himself an internationalist. We have remarked with some interest his high-level internationalist connections, or at least friends, in Canada. Trotsky then was not pro-Russian, or pro-Allied, or pro-German, as many have tried to make him out to be. Trotsky was for world revolution, for world dictatorship; he was, in one word, an internationalist.¹³ Bolsheviks and bankers have then this significant common ground — internationalism. Revolution and international finance are not at all inconsistent if the result of revolution is to establish more centralized authority. International finance prefers to deal with central governments. The last thing the banking community wants is laissez-faire economy and decentralized power because these would disperse power.

This, therefore, is an explanation that fits the evidence. This handful of bankers and promoters was not

Bolshevik, or Communist, or socialist, or Democrat, or even American. Above all else these men wanted markets, preferably captive international markets — and a monopoly of the captive world market as the ultimate goal. They wanted markets that could be exploited monopolistically without fear of competition from Russians, Germans, or anyone else — including American businessmen outside the charmed circle. This closed group was apolitical and amoral. In 1917, it had a single-minded objective — a captive market in Russia, all presented under, and intellectually protected by, the shelter of a league to enforce the peace. — [from the book Wall Street and the Bolshevik Revolution, by Anthony C. Sutton]

Do you think that the Zionist bankers were just taking over the American banking system as an isolated instance? In no way shape or form was America alone in having its banking system purged from the rule of its country. England was light years ahead of us, their central bank called the Bank of England had been in private Zionist hands centuries ago. There were so many Zionist owned and controlled central banks in existence that they had to established the granddaddy coordinator of them all: The Bank for International Settlements (BIS), the central bank to the world's central banks. The Zionist elites chose one of their own trusted lieutenants by then name of Young to establish the BIS.

Zionist Jew elite Owen D. Young, (President and CEO of General Electric, founder of Radio Corporation of America (RCA) and National Broadcast Company (NBC) co-author of the 1924 Dawes Plan, member of the Board of Trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation and was Deputy Chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York). Young's participation in President Woodrow Wilson's Second Industrial Conference following World War I marked the beginning of his “counseling” of five U.S. presidents. This man was a key Zionist mover and shaker that helped steer Wilson, carve out FEDzilla and firmly establish the foundation of Zionist rule here in America.

The BIS emerged from the Young Committee set up in 1929, which was created to handle the settlements of “German reparations” payments (a grand Zionist bankster scheme to fleece billions out of Germany, most of which would end up in bank's coffers) outlined in the Versailles Treaty of 1919. The Committee was headed by Young. As the main American delegate to the conference on German reparations, he was also accompanied by J.P. Morgan, Jr. What emerged was the Young Plan for German reparations payments.

The Plan went into effect in 1930, following the stock market crash. Part of the Plan entailed the creation of an international settlement organization, which was formed in 1930, and known as the Bank for International Settlements (BIS). It was purportedly designed to facilitate and coordinate the reparations payments of Weimar Germany to the Allied powers. However, its secondary function, which is much more secretive, and much more important, was to act as “a coordinator of the operations of central banks around the world.” Described as “a bank for central banks,” the BIS “is a private institution with shareholders but it does operations for public agencies. Such operations are kept strictly confidential so that the public is usually unaware of most of the BIS operations.”

The BIS was founded by Zionist Jew cartel and Rothschild's (fyi: five Rothschild sons, each long ago formed his own banks in each of their assigned countries then later become key controllers, morphed and or merge into central banks) “the central banks of Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Japan, and the United Kingdom along with three leading commercial banks from the United States, including J.P. Morgan & Company, First National Bank of New York, and First National Bank of Chicago. Each central bank subscribed to 16,000 shares and the three U.S. banks also subscribed to this same number of shares.” However, “Only central banks have voting power.”

Central bank members have bi-monthly meetings at the BIS where they discuss a variety of issues. It should be noted that most “of the transactions carried out by the BIS on behalf of central banks require the utmost secrecy,” which is likely why most people have not even heard of it. The BIS can offer central banks “confidentiality and secrecy which is higher than a triple-A rated bank.”

The BIS was established “to remedy the decline of London as the world's financial center by providing a mechanism by which a world with three chief financial centers in London, New York, and Paris could still operate as one.” As Carroll Quigley explained:

“The [elite Zionist Jew] powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was to be the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the world's central banks which were themselves private corporations."

The BIS, is, without a doubt, the key coordinating, most important, powerful, and secretive financial institution in the world.

"States, most especially the large hegemonic ones, such as the United States and Great Britain, are controlled by the international central banking system, working through secret agreements at the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), and operating through national central banks (such as the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve)... The same international banking cartel that controls the United States today previously controlled Great Britain and held it up as the international hegemon. When the British order faded, and was replaced by the United States, the US ran the global economy. However, the same interests are served. States will be used and discarded at will by the international banking cartel; they are simply tools." - Andrew Gavin Marshall

Our nation, once the bastion of wealth with storehouses of gold and silver as far as the eyes can see has been swindled out of its wealth by its central bank, the Federal Reserve. In place of the entire kingdom's treasure the robber barons replaced all our nation's precious metals and real wealth with tons and tons of PAPER. The next day the people awoke to find all the paper that was exchanged for the nation's treasure, they bowed to the Zionist Jew bankster robber barons thanking them for the wonderful beautiful engraved paper instruments...

Edward Mandell House had this to say in a private meeting with President Woodrow Wilson:

"Very soon every American will be required to register their biological property in a national system designed to keep track of the people and that will operate under the ancient system of pledging. By such methodology, we can compel people to submit to our agenda, which will affect our security as a charge back for our fiat paper currency.

Every American will be forced to register or suffer being able to work and earn a living. They will be our chattels (property) and we will hold the security interest over them forever, by operation of the law merchant under the scheme of secured transactions. Americans, by unknowingly or unwittingly delivering the bills of lading (Birth Certificate) to us will be rendered bankrupt and insolvent, secured by their pledges.

They will be stripped of their rights and given a commercial value designed to make us a profit and they will be none the wiser, for not one man in a million could ever figure our plans and, if by accident one or two should figure it out, we have in our arsenal plausible deniability. After all, this is the only logical way to fund government, by floating liens and debts to the registrants in the form of benefits and privileges.

This will inevitably reap us huge profit beyond our wildest expectations and leave every American a contributor to this fraud, which we will call 'Social Insurance'. Without realizing it, every American will unknowingly be our servant, however begrudgingly. The people will become helpless and without any hope for their redemption and we will employ the high office (presidency) of our dummy corporation (USA) to foment this plot against America."

Colonel Edward Mandel House – Investor/Banker, (illuminati agent) Diplomat, and close advisor to Pres. Woodrow Wilson, He and Wilson composed the famous "Fourteen Points" speech. House was instrumental in: getting Wilson elected, in establishing the Council on Foreign Relations, Versailles Treaty, League of Nations (which required America to surrender its sovereignty to the world government) and In 1913, House helped to pick the charter members of the original Federal Reserve Board. House was on the Council of Ten and The Round Table Group. He supported U.S. membership in the League of Nations, World Court and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

In 1910 Col. Edward Mandell House wrote a novel called Philip Dru: Administrator: A Story of Tomorrow, in which the title character became the sinister dictator of America. Published anonymously under the guise of fiction, the book nevertheless paralleled real events of the time concerning House's own influential and tactical role in shaping U.S. policies with collectivist objectives. A political advisor to President Woodrow Wilson, who affectionately called him his alter ego, House was even provided living quarters within the White House during that administration. For nearly a century since Wilson's presidency we've seen this collectivist agenda advanced by way of perpetual interventionism abroad and centralization of power at home.

The people at the heart of engineering the "globalization" scheme are none other than the world Zionist Jew banksters. Who have throughout history been funding BOTH SIDES to every war, every conflict, for generations on end. Point blank, the single most powerful group of people who unanimously control almost all the world's premier banks are the Zionist Jews. To deny this is to deny bedrock written in stone FACTS. Go ahead and cry anti-Semite!!!!!! Call me a "self hating Jew", The TRUTH is the truth, like it or not, hide your head in the mud, it does NOT change this staggering TRUE fundamental fact. Look up the names of all the key people running all the world's central banks, the most prominent investment houses, precious metals and gemstone syndicates for yourself! Who do you think owns the diamond monopoly? The Oppenheimer empire were the prime rulers of that realm, and they were financed entirely by Zionist Jew banking cartel and of course the Rothschilds had a big slice of that pie.

In order to properly understand the mind-boggling repeating control freak/monopolistic theme of the Jewish people we must look back in time, way back: The staggering fact is undeniable; Jews are the ONLY people throughout history that always manage to get EXPELLED out of every nation! They were EXPELLED from the land of Egypt, Rome, France, Spain, England, Portugal, Germany, Europe, Arab countries, and so on. Gee... there seems to be more than meets the eye here... The singular common denominator, the great sin of the Jews seems to always be monopolizing USURY, money, investments, finance and subjugating their fellow man as well as nations with these. As if it was engraved in their DNA. When they enter a market en-mass, they operate in unison to suffocate all rivals until they are the ones dominating and controlling the markets. For some remarkable reason throughout all of history this ethnic group of people always swarms like flies to money. They are so closely connected, so closely conspiring, so closely tight knitted, so devious that they always seem to gradually, methodically work their ways into the host countries' major financial back bone and like a killer parasite, latching onto a host then slowly sucking it dry, finally overpowering then financially overtaking it through their money cartels.

On The Jews and Their Lies, 1543 by Martin Luther (1483-1546). Written over 450 years ago, yet as relevant and truthful today as it was when it was written by the world famous Martin Luther way back then. Was he also an "evil slanderous anti-Semite" or just another person simply documenting the rampant lies and modus operandi of the Jews?

Sorry, this is NOT anti-Semitism... it's called the bare naked TRUTH. In each case where the Jews were expelled out of each country it was only after the Jewish control of the financial markets became so overwhelming, so suffocating, so destructive to the country that the kings really had no other realistic option on how to deal with the "Jewish Problem" other than to kick them all out and reclaim all the ill-gotten wealth.

You see, when the Jews take over an industry such as the usury industry that seems to run deep in their veins and blood vessels, permeating their entire being, they are so secretive and exclusively confined to themselves that they literally form Jewish cabals, cartels, monopolies, thus locking everyone else (the Goyims) out, the real kicker is the synergy factor of this action. Using OPM (other people's money) they ensnare the goyim under DEBT, as the interest compounds, their wealth amasses and grows exponentially, the results are none other than spectacular phenomenal financial growth within their private cartel.

They make key sweetheart deals exclusively with their own kind. Since the money gets "sucked in" but never really leaves the "Jew Realm" and just accumulates, they further expand their scope, they then finance their own Zionist people in other fields of endeavor. When they "retire" filthy rich, they all become "philanthropists" establish front organizations, further funneling their personal massive fortunes to their own kind and support Zionist agendas. That's exactly how the Jew domination works in a nutshell. Their advanced synergetic unity based relationship is not a fluke, for it is instilled deep in the hearts and minds of all Jews. Their greatest strength is their exclusive racial cohesion...

I attended a major Zionist conference recently, they constantly referred to their thing as: "Kol Israel Arevim Ze la ze." In essence what this means is "the people of Israel are responsible for one another." Now THAT is how THEY roll. On the other hand they want, nourish and encourage all of the rest of the world to remain divided, bickering, competing and fighting amongst one another... while they remain the ONLY group in existence that are truly unified.

Carefully reviewing history one can see that modern Jewish control of all world finance truly began in the 1700s with the "Court Jew". The master "craft" of insider finance and economics was passed on by generation to generation within the Jewish community until giants emerged to dominate the entire financial landscape. Some are like "gods" among men, these are literally king makers and breakers. Such as the one of the key elite ruling families, the Rothschilds, who's power was so pervasive that Mayer Amschel Rothschild proudly boasted "permit me to issue and control the money of a nation and I care not who makes it's laws", now that's what I call bona fide "GANGSTA!" These people who wield wealth in the TRILLIONS of dollars are NOT listed on Forbes richest people magazine... you will NEVER see their names listed in ANY such list, for these TRILLIONAIRES run massive networks of businesses and organizations that cleverly conceal the true nature of their wealth, no government body dares even try to take a peek at their real wealth. I would also like to add the fact that the Knights Templars were of Jewish decent, is it any wonder why they quickly became so wealthy as the money changers of their days?

You have to really sit back and admire the sheer audacity and magnificence of the Jewish ingenuity and how they rule by PROXY. After they get iron fist control of markets and secured their wealth they all form "philanthropic" organizations. Hundreds of billions of dollars are then strategically funneled into their "golly gee caring, warm, loving and fuzzy" "philanthropic" organizations, yet what have any of these organizations done to truly help the world? NOTHING. For they are mostly all just slush fund Front Groups. Those organizations are there to fulfill the sole purpose of supporting and advancing The Jewish "GOD GIVEN" mandate of ruling the entire world. Oh sure, every now and then one of the large philanthropic organizations will come out with a well publicized freebee for the goyim pheasants, in order to keep up the charade that they are really doing good for all mankind.

Behold here is the clue of clues to identifying the elite of the elite: just identify the founders of the largest most wealthy Trusts and Foundations and you will be right on track of understanding the whos whos of power players. For once the elite make their mark in the business world, they literally take their fortunes UNDERGROUND by establishing foundations and trusts which are used to strategically channel large amounts of money and investments supporting the matrix consortium agendas.

Talking about front groups, another important note I must include in this section are the pathetic excuse if not outright fraud of what portrays themselves as "regulatory agencies" in America. In almost every single case the "regulatory" agency is nothing more than a rubber stamp organization of the establishment members that claim to "regulate" the industry. When in reality almost all the time it is industry insiders who RUN the "regulatory" agencies! Doh! In actuality what the agencies REAL mission is to weed out the playing field and keep outsiders out by fining them to death and making it nearly impossible for unsanctioned outsiders to function within that industry.

What we witness in the case of almost every regulatory agency is captive agency phenomena where the agency that is supposed to regulate is controlled by the people they are supposed to control.

Take the SEC for instance. With all the rampant greed and corruption in the past decade you would think they would have been busy 24/7 handing out indictments. Nope. The past entire decade they seemed to have been closed for renovations or just out on vacation or something. Even as Jim Cramer was recently publically humiliated by John Stewart for his videotaped statements describing how rampant the unadulterated fraud was by the Wall Street fraud status quo and how the SEC just turns a blind eye. For all intents and purposes according to the inaction of the SEC there were virtually no wrong doings in existence in the entire financial sector for a decade, they let Madoff run the world's largest ponzi scheme, for it was virtually impossible that IF they were doing their job they would NOT have noticed that this guy NEVER MADE ONE SINGLE TRADE yet was somehow operating a prestigious well known fund... Nope, nothing out of normal here, Madoff and the entire industry had the past decade of unprecedented complete wanton financial orgy while... hold on... the SEC did prosecute one high profile evil sinister goyim financial fraudster out there in that usury decadent decade: Martha Stewart! (lol)

While Zionist Jew Madoff was running the con of millennium to the tune of $60 BILLION, we are lead to believe that no one noticed, but on the other hand they spot the needle in the hay stack, they busted Martha Stewart in what resembled more of a sting operation conjured up by DEA style drug enforcement agents than anything else... She was SETUP. The criminal Martha Stewart was indicted and imprisoned for something along the value of what? $45,000.00.... chump change in her world and in Wall Street world, meanwhile the real criminals are fleecing you for decades on end in the tune of billions upon billions of dollars while the SEC turns a blind eye. For instance, after the fact "a SEC attorney later testified that it took only "a few days" and "a phone call" to confirm that Madoff had never traded a dime."

The do-nothing SEC commissioner and his minions had Bernie right under their noses and still couldn't smell him? Not. Examiners who asked tough questions—notably SEC attorney Genevieve Walker-Lightfoot—were reassigned before they could make a case. Christopher Cox was just one in a series of SEC heads—Arthur Levitt, Harvey Pitt, William Donaldson—who missed the elephant in the room. Even Madoff was "astonished" when, in 2006, he gave SEC sleuths his DTC account number to verify his trading activities—and nothing happened. "I thought it was the end, game over," Madoff later recalled. In October, two New York-based investors sued the federal government for $2.4 million in damages, alleging "gross negligence" by the SEC. The agency has not fired a single employee over the Madoff affair.

Only Bernie and one other goyim conspirator have been prosecuted, while his entire family who were clearly (according to the evidence) involved up to their eyeballs are having the time of their lives running around scot free. At least a half dozen family members that were KEY employees, thus OBVIOUSLY KNEW what was really going on, and were totally in on the scam, each having pulled out hundreds of millions of dollars from the scam and are still walking free as a bird. The agreement Bernie made with his Zionist comrades running the "regulatory agency" that were supposedly policing the industry was: since the gig was up and the whole world now knew, this left no other option other than to turn himself in to satisfy the public's demand for blood, with the public distracted and satisfied that someone "paid" with imprisonment they could then leave his family to walk free of charges, despite tons of overwhelming EVIDENCE of their involvement. Nothing else to see here folks, now run along.

What you don't know is WHY they picked Martha and then blew the whole case out of proportion turning it into a three ring circus in the news. First was the HYPE FACTOR to make it look that they are on top of things "regulating" the markets. The REAL reason the ruling elite had the SEC toppled Martha Stewart was to gain control of her fantastically growing Omnimedia empire. The ONLY stipulation in her indictment, arrest and imprisonment was that she relinquish the top executive control over Omnimedia and NEVER have it back. Golly gee, I wonder who they set up as CEO to run things at Omnimedia.... None other than Zionist Jew Charles Koppelman. This my dear friends is how the Zionist ruling elite roll. The Zionist SEC is just another mighty weapon they wield to regulate participation in THEIR markets. It is all their game, their ballpark, and you my friend are just an clueless spectator while those who play ball in their field of dreams must pay their dues, follow their rules and bow to the ruling masters or suffer the consequences.

Another important factor of the whole Martha Stewart case was in fact just claiming she lied to the FBI. She did NOT possess INSIDER INFORMATION, what is really going on with this nonsense is creating a giant DISTRACTION to make the people THINK that the courts and the Justice Department are really protecting the public rather than the "Club" for by putting Martha on trial, they create the image that no one is above the law. The real problem is, judges, prosecutors, and their friends are UNTOUCHABLE!

Another interesting elimination was the Hunt Brothers who tried to corner the silver market back in the 70s, they were not Jewish Zionists, not part of "the system." It has been claimed that their motive for attempting to corner the market was for combating the FED monopoly and creating a competing currency. Whatever the case may be the fact remains that the Hunt brothers were systematically annihilated by "the establishment" for their daring to step out of line and for daring to challenge "the establishment." Information about the Hunt Silver event has been made scarce; to this day it is hard to find any interviews, manifestos or any information at all by or about the Hunt brothers. It is as if they, their billion dollar dynasty, and their attempt to corner the market never existed...

A very, very interesting figure to appear on the national scene has been Peter Schiff (currently operating Euro Pacific Capital), great grandson of legendary Jacob Schiff, of the great Zionist master banking families who rule the monetary world, The House of Schiff. (Master shill alert!) Most fascinating is that he has latched onto the coattails of constitutional libertarian, true blue patriot Ron Paul's bandwagon. What we have here is a truly amazing awe inspiring glimpse of the fascinating unadulterated ingenuity of the Zionist ruling elite, as they work ALL sides of the fences. Here they pose one of their own pure breed, family heirs posing as one of "the truthers." Peter Schiff has recently been coming off as a gifted PROPHET with his uncanny, "magical" calling of the entire financial world events, and completely blowing away the current financial establishment with his "prophetic" words of truth.

Behold: For as we witness the Zionists play all sides of the fences, in the deliberate destruction of the "old economic world order", we are also witnessing the setting up of and building of credibility and strategic beginning of the NEW ECONOMIC WORLD ORDER apparatus...

The Trail of Blood

Abraham Lincoln

Lincoln's Birthday gives us an appropriate opportunity to examine some deep American traditions which may also give us some unusual insights into the "principalities and powers" of Ephesians Chapter 6.

Abraham Lincoln worked valiantly to prevent the Rothschild's attempts to involve themselves in financing the Civil War.

Interestingly, it was the Czar of Russia who provided the needed assistance against the British and French, who were among the driving forces behind the secession of the South and her subsequent financing. Russia intervened by providing naval forces for the Union blockade of the South in European waters, and by letting both countries know that if they attempted to join the Confederacy with military forces, they would also have to go to war with Russia.

The Rothschild interests did succeed, through their agent Treasury Secretary Salmon P. Chase, to force a bill (the National Banking Act) through Congress creating a federally chartered central bank that had the power to issue U.S. Bank Notes. Afterward, Lincoln warned the American people:

"The money power preys upon the nation in time of peace and conspires against it in times of adversity. It is more despotic than monarchy, more insolent than autocracy, more selfish than bureaucracy. I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me, and causes me to tremble for the safety of our country. Corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the republic is destroyed." ⁴

Lincoln continued to fight against the central bank, and some now believe that it was his anticipated success in influencing Congress to limit the life of the Bank of the United States to just the war years that was the motivating factor behind his assassination.

The Lone Assassin Myth is Born

Modern researchers have uncovered evidence of a massive conspiracy that links the following parties to the Bank of Rothschild: ⁵ Lincoln's Secretary of War Edwin Stanton, John Wilkes Booth, his eight co-conspirators, and over seventy government officials and businessmen involved in the conspiracy.

When Booth's diary was recovered by Stanton's troops, it was delivered to Stanton. When it was later produced during the investigation, eighteen pages had been ripped out. These pages, containing the aforementioned names, were later found in the attic of one of Stanton's descendants.

From Booth's trunk, a coded message was found that linked him directly to Judah P. Benjamin, the Civil War campaign manager in the South for the House of Rothschild. When the war ended, the key to the code was found in Benjamin's possession.

The assassin, portrayed as a crazed lone gunman with a few radical friends, escaped by way of the only bridge in Washington not guarded by Stanton's troops.

"Booth" was located hiding in a barn near Port Royal, Virginia, three days after escaping from Washington. He was shot by a soldier named Boston Corbett, who fired without orders. Whether or not the man killed was Booth is still a matter of contention, but the fact remains that whoever it was, he had no chance to identify himself. It was Secretary of War Edwin Stanton who made the final identification. Some now believe that a dupe was used and that the real John Wilkes Booth escaped with Stanton's assistance.

Mary Todd Lincoln, upon hearing of her husband's death, began screaming, "Oh, that dreadful house!" Earlier historians felt that this spontaneous utterance referred to the White House. Some now believe it may have been directed to Thomas W. House, a gun runner, financier, and agent of the Rothschild's during the Civil War, who was linked to the anti-Lincoln, pro-banker interests.6

The Federal Reserve

Another myth that all Americans live with is the charade known as the "Federal Reserve." It comes as a shock to many to discover that it is not an agency of the United States Government.

The name "Federal Reserve Bank" was designed to deceive, and it still does. It is not federal, nor is it owned by the government. It is privately owned.7 It pays its own postage like any other corporation. Its employees are not in civil service. Its physical property is held under private deeds, and is subject to local taxation. Government property, as you know, is not.

It is an engine that has created private wealth that is unimaginable, even to the most financially sophisticated. It has enabled an imperial elite to manipulate our economy for its own agenda and enlisted the government itself as its enforcer. It controls the times, dictates business, affects our homes and practically everything in which we are interested.

It takes powerful force to maintain an empire, and this one is no different. The concerns of the leadership of the "Federal Reserve" and its secretive international benefactors appear to go well beyond currency and interest rates.

Andrew Jackson

Andrew Jackson was the first President from west of the Appalachians. He was unique for the times in being elected by the voters, without the direct support of a recognized political organization. He vetoed the renewal of the charter for the Bank of the United States on July 10, 1832.

In 1835, President Andrew Jackson declared his disdain for the international bankers:

"You are a den of vipers. I intend to rout you out, and by the Eternal God I will rout you out. If the people only understood the rank injustice of our money and banking system, there would be a revolution before morning."8

There followed an (unsuccessful) assassination attempt on President Jackson's life. Jackson had told his vice president, Martin Van Buren, "The bank, Mr. Van Buren, is trying to kill me...."9

Was this the beginning of a pattern of intrigue that would plague the White House itself over the coming decades? Was his (and Lincoln's) death related by an invisible thread to the international bankers?

James Garfield

President James Abram Garfield, our 20th President, had previously been Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations and was an expert on fiscal matters. (Upon his election, among other things, he appointed an unpopular collector of customs at New York, whereupon the two Senators from New York--Roscoe Conkling and Thomas Platt--resigned their seats.)

President Garfield openly declared that whoever controls the supply of currency would control the business and activities of all the people. After only four months in office, President Garfield was shot at a railroad station on July 2, 1881. Another coincidence.

John F. Kennedy

President John F. Kennedy planned to exterminate the Federal Reserve System. In 1963 he signed Executive Orders EO-11 and EO-110, returning to the government the responsibility to print money, taking that privilege away from the Federal Reserve System.10

Shortly thereafter, President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.11 The professional, triangulated fire that executed the President of the United States is not the most shocking issue. The high-level coordination that organized the widespread coverup is manifest evidence of the incredible power of a "hidden government" behind the scenes. (Sound preposterous? Read Kill Zone, by Craig Roberts for an update on the events in Dealey Plaza.)

The Trail of Blood Continues

In the 70's and 80's, Congressman Larry P. McDonald spearheaded efforts to expose the hidden holdings and intentions of the international money interests. His efforts ended on August 31, 1983, when he was killed when Korean Airlines 007 was "accidentally" shot down in Soviet airspace. A strange coincidence, it would seem.

Senator John Heinz and former Senator John Tower had served on powerful Senate banking and finance committees and were outspoken critics of the Federal Reserve and the Eastern Establishment. On April 4, 1991, Senator John Heinz was killed in a plane crash near Philadelphia.12 On the next day, April 5, 1991, former Senator John Tower was also killed in a plane crash. The coincidences seem to mount.13

Attempts to just audit the Federal Reserve continue to meet with failure. It is virtually impossible to muster support for any issue that has the benefit of a media blackout.14 (The bizarre but tragic reality that the American people suffer from a managed and controlled media is a subject for another discussion.)

Beginning of a Series

For many years, numerous authors have attempted to sound the alarm that there exists a hidden "shadow government" that actually rules America. Most of us have dismissed these "conspiracy theory" views as extremist and unrealistic. However, when I had the opportunity to have lunch with Otto von Habsburg,15 Member of the European Parliament, he made two remarks that caught my attention. The first was: "The ignorance in America is overwhelming." Indeed, the contrast in general awareness of world affairs between the average American and the average European is striking.

It was his second observation that really provoked me: "The concentration of power in America is frightening." 16 As a reasonably circumspect senior executive, having spent three decades in international finance and viewing America as a broadly based representative democracy, his remark shocked me. It prompted me to do some more homework. The results of my inquiries are most disturbing.

Is the predicted One World Government distant, or is it on the immediate threshold? How would one tell when it is imminent? We will address some of these issues in future articles.

Let it also be perfectly understood: Many if not most of the prominent "philanthropic" organizations throughout the world are nothing more than shrewd calculating SLUSH-FUNDS established to subsidize and work in in utterconcert with the ruling elite agendas. No one pays attention and scrutinizes the activities of philanthropic organizations, thus they possess virtually free reign in funding ruling elite black ops (hidden, undercover, indirect) subversion projects.

Prominent leaders of industry "retire" and work behind the scenes by joining the exclusive ultra secretive "philanthropy clubs", establishing FRONT ORGANIZATIONS to disperse their fortunes and help fund the globalist agendas by means of utilizing protected and overlooked entities often called “Foundations.” These are none other than sophisticated secret SLUSH-FUNDS.

The list below has not been checked for accuracy, but is none the less hastily included here from the publication “Basic Statistics for Untied States Imperialism” for its attempt to display a mere tiny glimpse of a tiny fraction of the scope of infiltration by entities operating today under false pretenses and concertedly working together in silently pushing hidden agendas of the ruling elites.

Like any other FRONT, our Federal Reserve is neither Federal nor public. It was founded and controlled by PRIVATE interests from day one. Hey let's take a look to see who are the main men running the FED: Alan Greenspan was the Chairman of the Fed for decades, oh, by the way, he is JEWISH. Who stepped in to take its place, Bernanke, oh, did I mention that he is also JEWISH? The current board of directors of the FED consists of ALL Jewish appointees! Yes you have heard it right, the entire Federal Reserve is run entirely by a Jewish cartel, look for yourself here. The FED's top brass: Bernanke, Kohn, Warsh, Kroszner and Mishkin are all Jews, what a coincidence eh? Every single one of them is a Jew. In many cases they no longer even bother appointing non Jews anymore to keep up the appearance of neutrality. The "non Jews" you do see as head of the financial firms have proven their undying loyalty to their masters. The Jews also run the IMF, World Bank, Bank of International Settlements, Bank of England, etc., etc., etc. (actually, There are now only 5 nations in the world left without a Zionist controlled central bank: Iran; North Korea; Sudan; Cuba; and Libya). Hence the world is now ready for international financial consolidation under one global economic Zionist monetary system...

Yes, the day Rothschild proclaimed that he didn't care who was the president as long as he was the man in charge of its monetary system, was the day that he was so powerful that he could confidently publically admit his strategy yet expect absolutely NO retribution or fallout. Now that's pure unadulterated bad ass power. One of our ex-presidents, James Garfield basically admits the same thing when he admitted: "whoever controls the volume of money in any country is absolute master of all industry and commerce."

Well folks these are just the public figures appointed to positions that the rest of the world sees, the FED has been under direct Jewish rule since day one of its establishment in the 1913 Monetary Coup D'état of America was perpetrated. Later on that same year the IRS was established FOR THE SOLE PURPOSE of paying the Federal Reserve all the interest it would milk our country for in the decades to come.

"The Illuminati bankers rule the world through debt, which is money they create out of nothing. They need world government to ensure no country defaults or tries to overthrow them. As long as private bankers, instead of governments, create money the human race is doomed. These bankers and their allies have bought everything and everyone." - Henry Makow

41 Facts About The History Of Central Banks In The United States That Our Children Are No Longer Taught In School

Today, most American students don't even understand what a central bank is, much less that the battle over central banks is one of the most important themes in U.S. history. The truth is that our nation was birthed in the midst of a conflict over taxation and the control of our money. Central banking has played a key role in nearly all of the wars that America has fought. Presidents that resisted the central bankers were shot, while others shamefully caved in to their demands. Our current central bank is called the Federal Reserve and it is about as "federal" as Federal Express is. The truth is that it is a privately-owned financial institution that is designed to ensnare the U.S. government in an endlessly expanding spiral of debt from which there is no escape. The Federal Reserve caused the Great Depression and the Federal Reserve is at the core of our current economic crisis. None of these things is taught to students in America's schools today.

In 2010, young Americans are taught a sanitized version of American history that doesn't even make any sense. As with so many things, if you want to know what really happened just follow the money.

The following are 41 facts about the history of central banks in the United States that every American should know....

#1 As a result of the Seven Years War (1756-1763) with France, King George III of England was deeply in debt to the central bankers of England. [this is how the bankers took indirect control of England, yes by the mid 1700s England was one of the first countries enslaved by usury and beholden to its financial overlords]

#2 In an attempt to raise revenue, [at the request of the bankers they were now indebted to] King George tried to heavily tax the colonies in America.

#3 In 1763, Benjamin Franklin was asked by the Bank of England why the colonies were so prosperous, and this was his response....

"That is simple. In the colonies we issue our own money. It is called Colonial Script. We issue it in proper proportion to the demands of trade and industry to make the products pass easily from the producers to the consumers.

In this manner, creating for ourselves our own paper money, we control its purchasing power, and we have no interest to pay to no one."

#4 The Currency Act of 1764 ordered the American Colonists to stop printing their own money. Colonial script (the money the colonists were using at the time) was to be exchanged at a two-to-one ratio for "notes" from the Bank of England. [of course you know this was at the behest of England's financial overlords]

#5 Later, in his autobiography, Benjamin Franklin explained the impact that this currency change had on the colonies....

"In one year, the conditions were so reversed that the era of prosperity ended, and a depression set in, to such an extent that the streets of the Colonies were filled with unemployed."

#6 In fact, Benjamin Franklin stated unequivocally in his autobiography that the power to issue currency was the primary reason for the Revolutionary War....

"The colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been that England took away from the colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction. The inability of the colonists to get power to issue their own money permanently out of the hands of George III and the international bankers was the prime reason for the Revolutionary War."

#7 Gouverneur Morris, one of the authors of the U.S. Constitution, solemnly warned us in 1787 that we must not allow the bankers to enslave us....

"The rich will strive to establish their dominion and enslave the rest. They always did. They always will... They will have the same effect here as elsewhere, if we do not, by (the power of) government, keep them in their proper spheres."

#8 Unfortunately, those warning us about the dangers of a central bank did not prevail. After an aborted attempt to establish a central bank in the 1780s, the First Bank of the United States was established in 1791. Alexander Hamilton (who had close ties to the Rothschild banking family) cut a deal under which he would support the move of the nation's capital to Washington D.C. in exchange for southern support for the establishment of a central bank.

#9 George Washington [sold out and] signed the bill creating the First Bank of the United States on April 25, 1791. It was given a 20 year charter.

#10 In the first five years of the First Bank of the United States, the U.S. government borrowed 8.2 million dollars and prices rose by 72 percent.

#11 The opponents of central banking were not pleased. In 1798, Thomas Jefferson said the following....

"I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment to our Constitution - taking from the federal government their power of borrowing."

#12 In 1811, the charter of the First Bank of the United States was not renewed.

#13 One year later, the War of 1812 erupted. The British and the Americans were at war once again.

#14 In 1814, the British captured and burned Washington D.C., but the Americans subsequently experienced key victories at New York and at New Orleans.

#15 The Treaty of Ghent, officially ending the war, was ratified by the U.S. Senate on February 16th, 1815 and was ratified by the British on February 18th, 1815.

#16 In 1816, another central bank was created. The Second Bank of the United States was established and was given a 20 year charter.

#17 Andrew Jackson, who became president in 1828, was determined to end the power of the central bankers over the United States.

#18 In fact, in 1832, Andrew Jackson's re-election slogan was "JACKSON and NO BANK!"

#19 On July 10th, 1832 President Jackson said the following about the danger of a central bank....

"It is not our own citizens only who are to receive the bounty of our government. More than eight millions of the stock of this bank are held by foreigners... is there no danger to our liberty and independence in a bank that in its nature has so little to bind it to our country? ... Controlling our currency, receiving our public moneys, and holding thousands of our citizens in dependence... would be more formidable and dangerous than a military power of the enemy."

#20 In 1835, President Jackson completely paid off the U.S. national debt. He is the only U.S. president that has ever been able to accomplish this.

#21 President Jackson vetoed the attempt to renew the charter of the Second Bank of the United States in 1836.

#22 Richard Lawrence attempted to shoot Andrew Jackson, but he survived. It is alleged that Lawrence said that "wealthy people in Europe" had put him up to it.

#23 The Civil War was another opportunity for the central bankers of Europe to get their hooks into America. In fact, it is claimed that Abraham Lincoln actually contacted Rothschild banking interests in Europe in an attempt to finance the war effort. Reportedly, the Rothschilds were demanding very high interest rates and Lincoln balked at paying them.

#24 Instead, Lincoln pushed through the Legal Tender Act of 1862. Under that act, the U.S. government issued $449,338,902 of debt-free money.

#25 This debt-free money was known as "Greenbacks" because of the green ink that was used.

#26 The central bankers of Europe were not pleased. The following quote appeared in the London Times in 1865....

"If this mischievous financial policy, which has its origin in North America, shall become endured down to a fixture, then that Government will furnish its own money without cost. It will pay off debts and be without debt. It will have all the money necessary to carry on its commerce. It will become prosperous without precedent in the history of the world. The brains, and wealth of all countries will go to North America. That country must be destroyed or it will destroy every monarchy on the globe."

#27 Abraham Lincoln was shot dead by John Wilkes Booth on April 14th, 1865.

#28 After the Civil War, all money in the United States was created by bankers buying U.S. government bonds in exchange for bank notes. [thus becoming indebted to the international banks via the bonds]

#29 James A. Garfield became president in 1881, and he was a staunch opponent of the banking powers. In 1881 he said the following....

"Whoever controls the volume of money in our country is absolute master of all industry and commerce...and when you realize that the entire system is very easily controlled, one way or another, by a few powerful men at the top, you will not have to be told how periods of inflation and depression originate."

#30 President Garfield was shot about two weeks later by Charles J. Guiteau on July 2nd, 1881. He died from medical complications on September 19th, 1881.

#31 In 1906, the U.S. stock market was setting all kinds of records. However, in March 1907 the U.S. stock market absolutely crashed. ~~It is alleged that~~ elite New York bankers were responsible.

#32 In addition, in 1907 J.P. Morgan circulated rumors that a major New York bank had gone bankrupt. This caused a massive run on the banks. In turn, the banks started recalling all of their loans. The panic of 1907 resulted in a congressional investigation that ended up concluding that a central bank was "necessary" so that these kinds of panics "would never happen again." [cough, cough]

#33 It took a few years, but the international bankers finally got their central bank in 1913.

#34 Congress voted on the Federal Reserve Act on December 22nd, 1913 between the hours of 1:30 AM and 4:30 AM. [in the middle of the night]

#35 A significant portion of Congress was either sleeping at the time or was already at home with their families celebrating the holidays.

#36 The president that signed the law that created the Federal Reserve, Woodrow Wilson, later sounded like he very much regretted the decision when he wrote the following....

"A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is privately concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men ... [We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated, governments in the civilized world--no longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and the duress of small groups of dominant men."

#37 Between 1921 and 1929 the Federal Reserve increased the U.S. money supply by 62 percent. This was the time known as "The Roaring 20s".

#38 In addition, highly leveraged "margin loans" became very common during this time period.

#39 In October 1929, the New York bankers started calling in these margin loans on a massive scale. This created the initial crash that launched the Great Depression.

#40 Rather than expand the money supply in response to this crisis, the Federal Reserve really tightened it up.

#41 In fact, it was reported the the U.S. money supply contracted by eight billion dollars between 1929 and 1933. That was an extraordinary amount of money in those days. Over one-third of all U.S. banks went bankrupt. The New York bankers were able to buy up other banks and all kinds of other assets for pennies on the dollar.

But are American students being taught any of this today?

Of course not.

In fact, it is a rare student that can even adequately explain what a central bank is.

We have lost so much of what is important about our history.

And you know what they say - those who forget history are doomed to repeat it.

It is absolutely critical that we educate as many Americans as possible about what is really going on in our financial system and about why we need to make some truly fundamental changes.

The financial powers that be manage to take ever more control by promoting and fostering their form of thinking and logic into every corner of mainstream thought. Yet another of the great sins of our time has been the replacing of common sense with financial formulas. "Cost-Benefit Analysis" and "Return on Investment" is what often determines 95% of leaders of industry course rather than rational logic. Sure it makes lots of short term financial sense to close down all our manufacturing and ship all of it off to China, India and Mexico, but in the long term this is just idiotic SUICIDE.

You must understand: that policies and acts established for the good of and strategic financial well being of private for profit group, enterprise or corporation all too often turns out to be poison and long term suicidal for the people, local economy, state, nation, or world. The fundamental largest blatant flaw of capitalism is that its major players (mainly large corporations) do NOT compute social & public economic impact of ANYTHING they do. That is irrelevant in the eyes of every corporation whom all exist for the selfish self-centered purpose of concentrating wealth, i.e., the all mighty "stockholder return." For the corporation has just one legal parameter it must adhere to above and beyond all else: return on shareholder equity. Profits, profits, profits. That's ALL that matters, all else is disposable and just pettiness in the corporate world's eyes. Under those parameters everything and anything goes, loot, plunder, ravage, legally swindle, take over, monopolize, become number one at all costs. The well being of "the locals", the environment, ethics and what is morally right be damned. Go ahead, struggle with the truth, yet again, you know perfectly well that I am, yet again, right.

But that is not enough, for the banksters, nothing is ever enough. Here is yet another gambit that is brewing:

Civil War In Corporate America: Banks Battling The Chamber On Accounting Rules

Amid the ongoing financial regulation overhaul, the banking industry is hoping to pull off a quiet power grab that has eluded its grasp since the Great Depression, by stripping the independence of the board that sets financial accounting standards.

The move could effectively let banks set their own accounting standards in rough economic times.

Astonishingly, at a time when the public is crying out for greater regulation to limit excessive risk-taking by financial institutions, the banks are trying to get Congress to agree that the next time there's a big downturn, they should have the ability to alter their accounting standards -- essentially, fudge the numbers -- so that the public and investors won't be able to tell how insolvent they really are. By ignoring their declining asset values, they can avoid the standard requirement of raising more capital.

The mechanism is contained in an amendment set to be introduced in mid-November by Rep. Ed Perlmutter (D-Colo.) that would move final authority over the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) from the Securities and Exchange Commission to a new body, a so-called "oversight" board, that would include the officials charged with managing systemic risks to the financial markets

These regulators would have the authority to override FASB's accounting guidelines by taking into account economic conditions.

The move is so radical that it has split corporate America. The bankers and members of Congress who support it have earned themselves an unlikely enemy: the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

A typical business or investor, after all, prefers honest, independent accounting, because they buy and sell real things based on real value.

"Washington isn't thinking straight," said Josh Rosner, managing director of Graham, Fischer & Co, a New York-based financial analyst who advises regulators and institutional investors. "Financial statements are for the benefit of investors."

Indeed, allowing banks to alter accounting standards when they run into trouble is incentive to take more risk and, in essence, institutionalizes fraud. The regulators would now be under enormous political pressure -- and sometimes under direct orders -- to allow banks to remain in business long after they've become insolvent, in the hopes that things will turn around and they'll grow again... [blah, blah blah]

You can "bank on it" that the above agenda will be accepted, and become reality very soon. Nothing to see here folks, now run along and mind your own business.

Today we are witnessing the ingenious sinister power of the Zionist elite as they are maneuvering about in creating a global financial meltdown as never before witnessed. Their overall power is unprecedented in the history of mankind and yet they continue to accumulate even more power. They are contracting the markets and once again (as they did in the great depression of 1929) consolidating their power, as the "little guys" and competition fold.

The economic collapse of 2008 is nothing other than their engineered 911 Economic Demolition "Collapse"! The connection to 9/11 and the current economic collapse is completely intriguing. For the seeds of the current economic collapse actually began around the time of the bringing down of the "World Trade Center" as in symbolically announcing to the world that the days of America as the "Center of World Trade" would soon thereafter also collapse... Coincidence?

Before I get into this whole "financial collapse" fiasco. I need to make a revolutionary statement based on plain old common sense: The entire collapse supposedly began with the blowing of mortgage/housing bubble. Today well over 14 trillion dollars have been funneled into the international bankster multiheaded beast system and then disappeared into the abyss, for no one other than they have a clue what happened to those 14 TRILLION dollars. Well in my world of rational common sense the bailout would have been totally different:

I would have taken those 14 trillion dollars and given it to the people that had outstanding mortgages! DUH! Then they would have turned around and paid off all their mortgages IN FULL. The banks would have received every dime owed to them. The economy would not only be thriving, it would be ROCKING like never before in the history of mankind! Imagine every citizen that was once bogged down by massive monthly mortgage payments to one day wake up and they no longer had to pay a mortgage because it was all paid off! Imagine all that extra monthly revenue that would have been available to purchase everything under the sun! Our country would be under the largest BOOM periods ever.

But nope, the brain dead puppets who are fully owned by their internationalist banksters ignored every single common sense solution and did the most idiot moronic solution, throwing trillions of dollars to the people who created the mess in the first place. No, there will never be any prosecutions pursued in the matter, the entire fiasco is an inside job, and you are not in on it.

Greenspan and his associates waged war against the Glass-Steagall Act, which was repealed in 1999 then real partying began. A 2004 Wall Street Journal profile of Mr. Greenspan, subtitled "The Deregulator," described his Fed's fondness for bank mergers and then included this critical passage: "Critics say these mergers concentrate financial risk too heavily in a few institutions. Greenspan argued that deregulation also produced a more stable financial system." The result of his theory? Today we are bailing out colossal financial institutions THAT ARE "TOO BIG TO FAIL..." More importantly, the real story is not even about that either, for the ultimate reality is in understanding that Greenspan and his bankster mobsters colluded together to purposely go down the path they have so that when the time was right, they would pull the plugs and sink the ships and the economy with it, all the while robbing the clueless public and nations while they were at it. For what has been transpiring has been nothing more than the largest transfer of wealth in the history of mankind. And this is just Act 1. Now they have firmly embedded the illusion of “too big to fail” notion into the public psyche and will continue the wanton abuse, regularly coming back to uncle Sam crying broke for more trillions or else the world will disintegrate con.

Wall Street’s 10 Biggest Lies of 2009

By Les Leopold, The Huffington Post

Say goodbye to 2009, the worst economic year since the Great Depression. Say hello to the billionaire bailout society in which the super-rich gamble, lose and get bailed out by the rest of us.

To save the system from total collapse we poured trillions of dollars into the financial sector. The result? Banks still are refusing to lend. Thirty million Americans are looking for full-time jobs and 49 million are skipping meals including one out of four children. But Wall Street again is reaping record profits and bonuses.

Not only are we richly rewarding those who wrecked our economy, but also, we have to put up with hundreds of fabrications about how the big banks got us here. Here is my biggest, fattest lies list for 2009:

1. "Government programs for low-income home buyers caused the financial crash." Wall Street defenders were quick to blame the Community Reinvestment Act, which urges banks to loan money in minority communities. In fact, almost none of the CRA loans are sub-prime and the vast majority are doing well, thank you. Blaming government programs deflects us from the real cause: Wall Street's incredibly reckless creation, marketing, selling and trading of "innovative" new securities that supposedly removed the risk from pools of risky debt. It didn't work. Wall Street, not the poor, crashed our economy.

2. "Income inequality is good for everyone." Lord Brian Griffiths, Vice-Chairman of Goldman Sachs at least had the nerve to say what so many of the super-rich really believe:

"We have to accept that inequality is a way of achieving greater opportunity and prosperity for all."

Unfortunately, the facts suggest otherwise. There is a high correlation between the mal-distribution of income and economic crashes. The last time our wealth and income distribution was as skewed as it is today was 1929, and that's not an accident. When too much money is in the hands of the few it runs out of real world investment and gravitates towards speculative investments. This inevitably creates asset bubbles and crashes. Record pay and bonuses on Wall Street and high unemployment are connected. (See The Looting of America Chapter 11).

3. "The rising number of billionaires is a sign of economic health." It's accepted media wisdom that the more billionaires the better. China with 130 billionaires now trails only the US, which has 359, according to Forbes magazine. But in our billionaire bailout society, the rising number of billionaires signals a collapsing middle class. Ponder this statistic: In 1970 the ratio of the compensation of the top 100 CEOs compared to the average production worker was 45 to 1. By 2006 it was an astounding 1,723 to one. Does that look healthy to you?

4. "Paying back TARP means banks are no longer on government welfare." Bank after bank is rushing to repay TARP funds during the worst economic year since 1937. They want to get out from under the Pay Czar (not that he's been sufficiently tough on the banks under his purview.) Banks that were insolvent only a few months ago now say they have the financial strength to refund tens of billions of dollars to the government. Where did all that money come from? Much of it comes from other government welfare programs for Wall Street (over $12 trillion worth) that aren't publicized. (See Nomi Prins's excellent accounting.) It may be the case that our banks are paying us back with our own money. Now that's financial innovation.

5. "Wall Street's freedom to innovate must be protected." Congressional leaders are tripping all over themselves to say new regulations will not discourage Wall Street innovations, something they claim is vital to our economy. Oh really? Do those "innovations" add anything useful to our country other than new casino games for the super-rich? Former Federal Reserve Chairman, Paul Volker, recently blew the whistle on this fabrication:

"I hear about these wonderful innovations in the financial markets and they sure as hell need a lot of innovation. I can tell you of two - Credit Default Swaps and CDOs - which took us right to the brink of disaster: were they wonderful innovations that we want to create more of?"

.... I wish that somebody would give me some shred of neutral evidence about the relationship between financial innovation recently and the growth of the economy, just one shred of information....

The most important financial innovation that I have seen in the past 20 years is the automatic teller machine... How many other innovations can you tell me of that have been as important to the individual?" ("What Has Financial Innovation Done for You?")

6. "To retain critically needed talent, Wall Street must be free to pay top salaries and bonuses." Where would they flee if they just got paid like normal people rather than like gods? The British are putting in place a 50 percent tax on bonuses. Also, compensation is much, much lower in the European Union. But the real lie is that we need such "talent" in the first place. That kind of "talent" just crashed our economy. That kind of "talent" is widely overpaid - no way should bond traders receive 10 to 100 times what is earned by the best neurosurgeons in the world. Something is really wrong and it starts with the lie of banking "talent."

7. "Overpaid American workers are the real cause of unemployment." The New York Times writers who concocted this argument didn't think they were lying. But this is one of the most preposterous ideas put forth during 2009. ("American Wages out of Balance" New York Times November 11, 2009) Edward Hadas, Martin Huchinson and Antony Currie informed us that:

"American manufacturing workers should take average real wage cuts of as much as 20 percent to get into global balance."

They don't mention that the average non-supervisory worker has already taken an 18 percent cut in real wages between 1973 and 2007. What's worse, they claim that if workers don't take these additional cuts, these "overpaid" working stiff's will be the cause of another Great Depression. They write:

"But if American wages get stuck above global market-clearing levels, as in the 1930s, the result could well be something approaching Depression-era levels of unemployment."

Not a word is mentioned about how Wall Street's gambling caused all of this unemployment and how the continued failure of Wall Street banks to lend is stalling job growth, right now.

8. "I'm doing God's Work." Lloyd Blankfein, Chairman of Goldman Sachs said what too many Wall Street leaders truly believe: that they are so privileged and entitled that it seems as if the heavens bless their work. Why else are they earning hundreds of millions of dollars? Mr. Blankfein believes he is creating a virtuous circle by raising capital for corporations who create jobs and help our society prosper. But Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan Chase, Morgan Stanley and the rest of the apostles helped to bring the entire world economy to its knees. Does that mean God likes unemployment and widespread hunger?

9. "We're out of money." Who's we? Yes, the middle class is tapped out but the super-rich haven't even begun to pay their fair share for the mess they created. Yet the top 400 richest Americans alone are sitting on $1.27 trillion or so in wealth. Here's a dangerous thought. What if we had a very steeply progressive wealth/income tax that reduced the net worth of the super-rich to "only" about $100 million each? You wouldn't be suffering if you had $100 million kicking around. Now do the math: The 400 richest x $100 million each would equal $40 billion.

That would leave about $1.23 trillion to help pay back the country for the Wall Street meltdown that we, our children and their children will be subsidizing.

10. "We are becoming a socialist economy." Somewhere between 68 and 78 percent of the US GDP is private sector activity, the highest among developed nations. And much of the government expenditures go to private contractors as well. But there's a kernel of truth in the socialist scare: What do you call a society that encourages the private accumulation of wealth without limit, and then when the super-wealthy get into serious trouble, we bail them out with taxpayer funds - largely from a declining middle-class? That's not free-enterprise. That's not socialism either. It's something new and it deserves to be called the billionaire bailout society.

The financial orgy that was to bring about our current financial collapse began in earnest in 2001. Fannie and Freddy Macs both began the suicidal policies of unwarranted extra risk they had never done. In 2002 Bush aggressively pushed for a goal of 5.5 million mortgage loans to poor minorities who could not afford homes to begin with. Those ARM (adjustable rate mortgages) were nothing more than time bombs set to all explode in unison several years down the road. The FED was a central conspirator in the housing bubble, as in 2003 we witnessed the FED (for no sane reason) push the interest rates to their lowest level ever. Thus drastically fueling the wild housing frenzy like adding jet fuel to a fire. Junk CDOs were then PURPOSELY being bundled and pawned off to unsuspecting investors in the tune of hundreds of billions of dollars. Even the FBI warned of massive subprime fraud as early as 2004. These are just a couple massive indications that reveal the fact that the entire collapse was TOTALLY PREMEDITATED.

Let me articulate the true story of how the economic collapse happened:

Immediately after the banksters set off the colossal engineered collapse of the world financial system they instilled into all the fear of God with tales of apocalyptic doom and destruction if they were allowed to fail. Locusts, hail, famine, floods, earth quakes and blood would flow like rivers if hundreds of billions totaling over ten trillion dollars in the U.S. alone were not dumped into the banker's coffers otherwise known as the abyss.

Their lifelong best friends who worked together in the same business were now sitting pretty in key government positions overwhelmingly agreed, "Yes" was their united response "get the dump trucks ready and fillem up to the tilt and ship em off to my good ole pals, or the world will self destruct!" was Geithner, Bernanke, Friends & Co.'s response, while their media baron brotherhood cheered them on.

The Big Picture: THE BLAME IS BEING SQUARLY AIMED AT OUR GOVERNMENT... without so much as even touching the agent provocateurs, the controllers and instigators of all our ills.... the Zionist Jew ruling elite.

Wall Street's response to the gutting out of governments, the middle class, their 401k and pensions was to party hard and skim off the top of the bailouts to hand out billions upon billions of dollars in bonuses to their top master manipulator ~~traders~~, ummm, bookies. After taking care of the bookies they turned around, flush with cash went on buying sprees, picking up properties and companies that were devastated by the collapse (exactly as they had planned), paying pennies on the dollar, bargains galore. Desperate loyal customers whom knocked on their doors looking for boans were told to get lost.

Flush with fresh cash, all due GAMBLING BETS were paid off and the Wall Street casinos were back in business again, little by little the high roller insiders got back into the swing of things and the dice are rolling yet again! What a wonderful capitalist system this is indeed!

Wall Street is the elite's Las Vegas, the world is full of suckers who wager all the money, no matter how many times they get had, swindled, cheated and conned they come back to their bookies placing their bets... some people win, most people lose, the HOUSE ALWAYS WINS.... suckers! Psssst, I have a good tip on XYZ Meglo Conglomerate stock coming in the top tree on the fifth....

To give credence to the illusion that the clowns in Washington are doing their jobs of cough "regulating" the banksters, they proudly enacted unilateral "severe punishment" on the banks that engineered the entire financial collapse. What a doozy: they slapped them on the wrist with lame "new credit card rules", golly gee whiz, the banksters are running scared now!

The Wall Street Economic Death Squad

By David DeGraw, AmpedStatus

Recent Headlines:

- $140 billion! Record Payday for Wall Street
- Goldman Sachs 2009 Bonuses Could Buy Insurance for 1.7 Million Families
- 50 Million Americans Live in Poverty

Paraphrasing a very insightful quote: 'The amount of poverty and suffering required for the emergence of a Goldman Sachs, and the amount of depravity that the accumulation of a fortune of such a magnitude entails is left out of the mainstream media, and it is not always possible to make the people in general see this.'

The American middle class, once the only effective counter weight to Wall Street greed, has been decimated. Over 25 million people, in what was the US middle class, are now in full-blown crisis mode and urgently need to increase their income.

Over 25 million people in crisis mode! Every seven seconds, another American family is kicked out of their home. We are confronted by a lost generation of young workers who cannot find jobs. Despite all the talk of health care reform, there is no meaningful reform coming for years, if at all, while right now over 45,000 Americans will die preventable deaths this year, and bankruptcies continue to skyrocket due to the cost of medical bills.

Millions upon millions of uninsured, unemployed, underemployed, stressed out and sick people fight through every day and urgently need to get some justice.

And while this is happening, the Wall Street fat cats are reaping billions in bonuses and profits - billions in bonuses and profits that they obtained from using taxpayer money... OUR MONEY. Billions in profits that they are allowed to get away with because their puppets are running the government and making up the rules of this rigged game.

Their profits and the cost of the "government" taxpayer bailout, "the amount of depravity that the accumulation of a fortune of such a magnitude entails" is almost impossible to get the average citizen to truly comprehend. TRILLIONS of dollars is not something that people have had experience with. It is an absolutely huge amount that is almost beyond common comprehension.

However, a revealing new survey suggests that an outraged significant majority is coming to the realization that an organized financial cartel has taken over the government and robbed the US public blind.

75% agreed that: "While taxpayers are still suffering under the economic crisis, the big banks are back to business as usual after their bailouts, ignoring their commitments to help taxpayers and are helping themselves instead, making tens of billions in profits on the backs of the American taxpayers." 75% agreed

72% agree that "It's outrageous that after taking trillions of our tax dollars in bailout money, the big banks are now spending millions to lobby against reforms that would protect us from their abuses in the future." 72%

agreed

These numbers clearly prove that there is awareness and ever-growing outrage toward Wall Street, and rightfully so. But just throwing out the term Wall Street or Big Banks is far too vague and too wide a target.

We need to focus our strategy on the small group of men who carried out the financial coup. These 13 men played leading roles in first crashing the economy, and then stealing trillions in taxpayer funds. Some of them are now calling the shots and running the government to insure that their obscene profits keep pouring into their coffers.

Know Our Enemies, EHMs - Meet The Wall Street Economic Death Squad: Hank Paulson, Tim Geithner, Ben Bernanke, Robert Rubin, Larry Summers, Alan Greenspan, Lloyd Blankfein, Jamie Dimon, John Mack, Vikram Pandit, John Thain, Hank Greenberg, Ken Lewis.

These men 'presided over the largest transfer of wealth in history, from the working class to the flamboyant super rich.' What these men have done is obscene. After crashing the economy, trillions, literally trillions of dollars have been funneled into the pockets of a select few, in secrecy, while billions of people suffer in poverty, billions suffer to survive. This small tight-knit Wall Street cadre has committed a crime against humanity.

Take It Personally

On a personal level... think about how much money is taken from your paycheck each week in taxes (if you still have a paycheck). How many of your hard-earned thousands of dollars went away from you and your family and into the pockets of Goldman Sachs via your taxes? Think about that. Billionaires took YOUR MONEY!

Then think about the fact that your paycheck should be significantly higher, as it would be if CEOs weren't taking an astonishing record of $500 for every one dollar you make. Due to unregulated greed the US now has the highest inequality of wealth in the industrialized world, no other country is even close.

Every time you skip a trip to the doctor, to the dentist, to the food store, even to a social event that could bring you a little stress relief, you should think about these thieves on Wall Street. Every time you skip something that you need, think about the billionaires on Wall Street... because they have YOUR MONEY!

The facts are that $30,000 per person is unaccounted for - that's $30,000 for every man, woman and child in the US - which means if you have a family of five, your family has lost $150,000 to Goldman Sachs.

While you stress out and struggle, they have your money, and it's sitting in their banks, sitting in their vaults, flipping in their markets, collecting interest... and dust.

Just spinning in their coffers, as they live lavish lifestyles, while you struggle and stress.

Every time you get a bill and feel that stress, every time you make cut backs to make ends hopefully meet, every time you make an interest payment or rates rise on your credit cards, house, car, student loans, bills, bills, bills... every time you feel that stress, you should think of these thieves on Wall Street. They have your money, and they're playing you for a sucker!

What are you holding off on? What are you depriving yourself of?

Can you not afford to get gas for your car? Can you not afford a car? Can you not afford your rent? Can you not afford to own a house? Can you not afford to have a child? Can you not afford medical care? Can you not afford to turn your heat on? Can you not afford to pay your electric bill? Can you not afford a second meal today? These are all basic things that every person should be able to easily afford in a technologically advanced society such as ours.

The reason why you can't afford some of these things is because the financial elite who control the economy have robbed us all. They have launched a war on us and declared us the enemy. We are a population of people that they have been focused on eliminating. This is a deadly serious issue we are facing here. It is the unfortunate reality of our current crisis.

The sooner you recognize this and confront it, the better chance we have for real change, economic justice can still be obtained.

So Know Your Enemies...

Hank Paulson, Tim Geithner, Ben Bernanke, Robert Rubin, Larry Summers, Alan Greenspan, Lloyd Blankfein, Jamie Dimon, John Mack, Vikram Pandit, John Thain, Hank Greenberg, Ken Lewis.

Before long, we will all witness how major countries and the central banks of the world will soon DEMAND that the United States dollar CEASE be used as the reserve currency of the world. Watch as they push for a new world reserve currency and international bank centered control... this is what's next on their agenda. The western hemisphere will undergo extreme pressure to STABILIZE the economic chaos thus be forced to issue a new regional or even world currency similar to the European Union currency. The 2006-2009 collapse is just ROUND ONE... the second phase is coming right around the corner... just when everyone thinks that everything is fine and dandy will come the knockout punch.

We are yet again witnessing the age old Problem – Reaction – Solution Paradigm in operation. Just as their motto proclaims “order out of chaos”, they engineer the chaos... playing the roles of bumbling fools, consisting of the world's leading economic and financial minds who then the same crowd of usual suspects come forth as saviors with the magical “solution”, here is their modus operandi. Behold: For the engineered FINANCIAL ARMAGEDDON has cometh... The ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the planet is running its course according to plan. Take heed... for this is just PART ONE of the act... PART TWO is coming soon... The globalist international bankers play Three Card Monty with global finance. What country(s) are they looting today? And what country(s) are they prepping, propping up and fattening up for future looting?

Exactly like the banksters of the era CRASHED the financial markets (creating chaos) in 1907 in order to several years later, under the calculated massive desperate cries for help and reform, they then stepped in to “SAVE” the day (bringing order) by completely taking over our monetary system. Where in 1907 they crashed the markets to then in 1913 establish the Federal Reserve, so it will be again, an exact repeat of history. Behold for in the next coming years with the cries of help echoing from all corners, our bankster “saviors” will yet again erect, yet another more sprawling, more powerful central monetary structure to rule over us all. Oh what wonderful most benevolent banksters... Yes, the next phase, the next colossal crash will usher in the new global governance economic system.

The deaf, dumb and blind public has been warned time and time again to no avail. Here is Charles Lindbergh warning us in 1921:

“Under the Federal Reserve Act, panics are scientifically created. The present panic is the first scientifically created one, worked out as we figure a mathematical equation.”

Those words are so eerily chilling, so alarmingly true today as they were back in 1921.

20 Reasons Global Debt Time Bomb Explodes Soon

Which trigger will ignite the Great Depression II?

By Paul B. Farrell, MarketWatch

ARROYO GRANDE, Calif. (MarketWatch) -- Retire? You can fudgetaboutit if the new Global Debt Time Bomb is detonated by any one of 20 made-in-America trigger mechanisms.

Yes, 20. And yes, anyone can destroy your retirement because all 20 are inexorably linked, a house-of-cards, a circular firing squad destined to self-destruct, triggering the third great Wall Street meltdown of the 21st century, igniting the Great Depression II that George W. Bush, Ben Bernanke, Henry Paulson and now President Obama have simply delayed with their endless knee-jerk, debt-laden wars, stimulus bonanzas and bailouts.

Deficit as national-security threat?

WSJ's Jerry Seib previews his column in tomorrow's Journal in which he writes the federal budget deficit has become so large, it's time consider it a natural-security threat. Plus, the News Hub provides a February market outlook and also discusses the findings of a new autism study.

Wow, what an epic Hollywood blockbuster this will make: You know the drama, can't miss the warnings. The financial press is flooding us with plot lines ... a Forbes cover story focuses on a "Global Debt Bomb: How It Could Wreck Your Life" ... Leaders at the World Economic Forum on Swiss Mt. Davos fear another global meltdown will trigger mass rebellions ... The Economist calls the plot a "Global Asset Bubble," with cheap money fast driving up asset prices.

Plus, Bloomberg BusinessWeek is adding jet fuel to the ticking time-bomb in: "After the Stimulus Binge, a Debt Hangover: Trillions of dollars have been spent keeping the global economy afloat. But now fears about the Great Recession are giving way to worries about something else: The Great Reckoning" when massive debts come due. Then the debt bomb explodes "and the results won't be pretty for investors or elected officials."

Forbes discovered the trigger mechanism in "This Time Is Different: Eight Centuries of Financial Folly," by economists Carmen Reinhart and Kenneth Rogoff: The "90% ratio of government debt to GDP is a tipping point in economic growth." For 800 years "you increase it over and beyond a high threshold, and boom!" Well guess what? "The U.S. government-debt-to-GDP ratio is 84%." Soon, Ka-Booom! Depression. Kiss your retirement goodbye.

Who knows? Forbes? Bloomberg BusinessWeek? The Economist? Davos-World Economic Forum? True, they're all looking at the same plot line for a Hollywood blockbuster about the "Global Debt Time Bomb."

But the financial press navigates in a fog. There's not just one, but many triggers, all linked in a lethal network. We've reported on it for years. Now you tell us: What triggers this firestorm?

Poll: 20 economic weapons of mass destruction triggering ticking Global Debt Time Bomb

1. Federal Budget Deficit Bomb. The Bush/Cheney wars pushed America deep into a debt hole. Federal debt limit was just raised almost 100% with Obama's 2010 budget, to $14.3 trillion vs. $7.8 trillion in 2005. The Congressional Budget Office predicts future deficits around 4% through 2020. Get it? America's debt at 84% of GDP will soon pass that toxic 90% trigger point.

2. U.S. Foreign Trade Bomb. Monthly deficits actually dropped from $50 billion per month to roughly $35 billion. But the total continues climbing as $400 billion is added each year. Foreigners now own $2.5 trillion of America, with China holding over $1.3 trillion in Treasury debt.

3. Weakening U.S. Dollar as Foreign Reserve Currency Bomb. Fear China and other currencies will replace dollar as main foreign reserves. The dollar's fallen: The main index measuring dollar strength has gone from 120 at the Clinton-to-Bush handoff to below 80 today.

4. Cheap Money Bomb: Credit Ratings Down, Rates Up. Economists at S&P, Fitch and Moody's were totally co-conspirators of Fat Cat Bankers, misleading investors before meltdown: Soon, debt up, ratings down, interest rates soar.

5. Global Real Estate Bomb. Dubai Tower, new "world's tallest building" is empty. BusinessWeek warns that China's housing collapse could be worse than America's. Plus the U.S. commercial real estate bubble is now $1.7 trillion, a "ticking time bomb" bloating 25% of bank balance sheets.

6. Peak Oil and the Population Bomb. China and India each need 500 new cities. The United Nations estimates world population exploding 50% from 6 billion to 9 billion by 2050: Three billion more humans demanding more automobiles, exhausting more resources to feed their version of the gas-guzzling "America Dream."

7. Social Security Bomb. We have no choice; eventually we must either cut benefits or raise taxes. Politicians hate both, so they'll do nothing. Delays worsen solutions. Without action, by 2035 Social Security and Medicare benefits will eat up the entire federal budget other than defense.

8. Medicare: A Nuclear Bomb. Going broke faster than Social Security. Prescription drug benefit added an unfunded $8.1 trillion. In 5 years estimates rose from about $35 trillion to over $60 trillion now.

9. Health-care Insurance Bomb. Burden increasingly shifted to employees. Costs rising faster than inflation. Recent Obamacare plan would have cost $90 billion annually, paid to Big Pharma and insurers.

10. State and Local Government Budget Bombs. Deficits of $110 billion in 2010, $178 billion in 2011 on top of more that $450 billion in underfunded state and municipal employee pension funds.

11. Underfunded Corporate Pensions Bomb. From $60 billion surplus in 2007 to $409 billion deficit in 2009. And a whopping 92% of the pension plans of companies are now underfunded. Defaults are guaranteed by taxpayers.

12. Consumer Debt Bomb. Americans are still living beyond their means. Even with a downturn, consumer debt rose from about $2.3 to $2.5 trillion. Fat Cat Bankers love it -- yes love making matters worse by gouging cardholders and mortgagees, blocking help in foreclosures and bankruptcies.

13. Personal Savings Bomb. Before the 2008 meltdown savings rate dropped from about 10% in the early 1980s to below zero. Now it's increasing, slowing retail recovery. Today, government's the big "unsaver."

14. War and Military Defense Deficits. Costs of Iraq and Afghanistan wars -- $200+ billion annually, $3 trillion minimum, with massive long-term costs for veteran medical care, equipment renewal, recruitment.

15. Homeland Insecurity Bomb. Security at airports, seaports, borders, vulnerable chemical plants all increase budgets.

16. Fed/Treasury Bailout Bombs. Tax credits, loans, cash and purchase of toxic assets from Wall Street banks estimated at $23.7 trillion as new debt was shifted from too-big-to-fail Fat-Cat banks to taxpayers.

17. Insatiable Washington Lobbyists Bombs. Paulson, Goldman, Geithner, Morgan and Wall Street banks, through their lobbyists and former employees working inside now have absolute power over government spending. Democracy and voters are now irrelevant in America's new corporate-socialism.

18. Shadow Banking: The Derivatives Bomb. Wall Street wants no regulation of this $670 trillion, high-risk, out-of-control casino that's highly leveraged versus the $50 trillion total GDP of all nations. We forget that derivatives almost destroyed global economies in 2008-09, finally will by 2012.

19. Dysfunctional Two-Party Political Bomb. Polarized partisanship increasing: Every day both parties show zero interest in cooperating for the public good. Instead they fight viciously, resisting everything and anything proposed by opponents. Only goal: Score political points, make the other side look bad.

20. The Coming Populous Rebellion Bombs. Nobody trusts anyone in authority. For good reason. So immediate gratification, short-term betting and a lack of long-term perspective wins for individual investors, consumers and taxpayers as well as Washington, Wall Street and Corporate America CEOs. Today: "Doing what's right for the common good and country" is just empty political rhetoric.

Forbes. The Economist. Davos-World Economic Forum. Bloomberg BusinessWeek. All one voice, one loud, lonely chorus echoing that famous Beatles tune: "Head in a cloud ... The fool on the hill, sees the sun going down ... a thousand voices talking perfectly loud. But nobody ever hears him, or the sound he appears to make ... And the eyes in his head, see the world spinning 'round ...ooh, round and round and round."

Historians and behavioral economists tell us most investors are blind optimists. Investors cannot see bubbles from inside their bubble. Nor Fat Cat Bankers from inside their mega-bonus-bubble. Nor politicians from inside the beltway bubble.

Why? The optimist's brain filters out bad news. They know their dreams of prosperity will come true. Then, when they finally do see that the proverbial light at the end of the tunnel is an oncoming train, it's always too late.

I will say it again, gently: A new meltdown is coming. The Great Depression II is coming, soon. And yet, I know your mental filters are working, blocking warnings of a bomb. I can even hear you calling me "the fool on the hill who sees the sun going down, the world spinning round" ... sees you kissing your retirement goodbye.

The collapse of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac were the financial "twin towers" collapse, Bear Sterns was the financial "Building 7" that mysteriously collapsed on its own, Washington Mutual was the "Pentagon", and Lehman Brothers was the plane that magically disintegrated into vapor in a Pennsylvania field. Behold: how they magically engineer financial collapses and absorb once powerful financial institutions for a tiny fraction of what it was worth. Bear Sterns, Washington Mutual, Lehman Bros, are just a few of the big guys, hundreds and hundreds of smaller banks are being knocked off and sucked up each week. The list will grow much, much larger as the elite Zionist players consolidate and absorb everything in their path just as in that old movie "The Blob."

The public all stared in horror as the big once indestructible financial powerhouses have "collapsed" but this is only part of the grand illusion, for in reality Bear Sterns, Lehman Brothers and others were the sacrificial lambs in what were truly masterfully ingenious precalculated MERGERS. Note how within HOURS of each one of the industry heavy weights proclaiming they were /cough/ "insolvent" (e.g. the controllers gutted them out on purpose, shifting the wealth to their brethren), then one of their relaxed just about every single law and regulations keeping corporations from becoming monolithic sprawling multinational monstrosity monopolies... that can become too powerful... too big to fail. Today our nation is FULL of such conglomerates that have all become "too big to fail" and yet the underlying rules remain the same, the merger mania has no end in sight as the gargantuan monsters continue eating up the now failing weaker corporations. Welcome to the new corporate welfare state. For every time a giant corporation that is "too big to fail" begins to waiver, Uncle Sam will take your hard earned money that was allocated for public good and public programs and redirect them to the greedy corrupt failed corporations. We have been living in the age of corporatism yet the masses have been consistently clueless. We will all wake up someday to only realize that our whole country has been stripped to the level of third world nation, only when it's too late.

There is no taming this capitalist beast... any attempt to "regulate" these monstrosities will be and are squashed by the very same banksters who are pulling all the strings. Regulatory agencies my ass, they have NEVER regulated bull donkey. For they only PRETEND to regulate the industries they are set to oversee. As for EVERY SINGLE "regulatory agency" to have ever been established, THE ARE ALL RUN BY THE KEY INSIDERS, THE SAME PEOPLE WITHIN THE INDUSTRIES THEY ALLEGEDLY "REGULATE"! Try and reform the banking cartel and set up a new regulatory agency to rein in the banks and this is what happens:

Bank lobby eviscerated financial reforms

SunSentinel

A "doom loop." That's what Andy Haldane, executive director of financial stability for the Bank of England, warned last fall would happen if serious financial reform wasn't enacted.

Well, we appear to be a step closer to that doom loop with the leak this weekend of Senate Banking Committee Chairman Chris Dodd's plan for a seriously watered-down consumer financial protection agency.

In June, President Barack Obama released a proposal calling for the creation of an agency that would be "independent," with "broad authority" and the power to "combat the worst abuses in mortgage markets." The agency, Treasury Secretary Tim Geithner said, would "have an independent seat at the table in our financial regulatory system."

Well, that was before the banking lobby went into action. A couple of hundred million dollars later, and we're left with this punch-to-the-gut of reform, from the top-line summary of Dodd's plan: "the independent agency proposal would be dropped." Seven words dirtier than George Carlin ever uttered.

Instead, according to one version of the Dodd plan, the agency would be housed within the Treasury Department and called the Bureau of Financial Protection. And that's not the only compromise. Here's how the eviscerated entity would work, as laid out by Huffington Post's Ryan Grim:

"Each time the agency wanted to write a rule, it would have to consult with bank regulators. The agency would then have to respond to the objections of each and every bank regulator in the Federal Register. If the bank regulator was still unsatisfied, it could appeal to the 'systemic regulator,' whose mission is to protect the safety and soundness of the banking industry.

"Anytime a new rule is proposed, bank lobbyists argue that it will be burdensome and make the system less safe and sound. If the systemic regulator agreed with the banks — as they often do — then the consumer protection rule would be voided.

"Notably, the consumer protection agency has no veto power over any rules issued by bank regulators, which demonstrates which regulator will be superior. The first concern is the banks."

Now Dodd has proposed the agency be housed within the Federal Reserve. The end result is the same: a toothless regulator lacking the authority to enforce the consumer protection rules it writes.

So much for "independence" and "broad authority."

The proposal will no doubt be very popular with the banks that, as Sen. Dick Durbin put it, "own the place." But it's already been met with criticism from consumer groups.

"Effective reform is once again being blocked by opposition from the big banks that caused the current financial crisis," said Heather Booth, director of Americans for Financial Reform. "The revised proposal does not provide what is needed to protect American families or the financial system as a whole."

This view was seconded by Nancy Zirkin of the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights: "Big banks and abusive lenders fought responsible regulation before the crisis, and we are all paying the price. It is unacceptable for Congress to allow them to succeed again," she said.

But, then, we seem to be living in a time when the unacceptable is routinely accepted — and written off as unavoidable.

Can you sit there and tell me that these are all “mishaps” “coincidence” “mistakes” “miscalculations” and so forth, regularly made as if by policy decision by our elected officials and CEOs whom all graduated from the best of the very best Ivy League schools of the world. Yet they regularly make glaring errors even a simple minded peasant would never consider. Hello, wakeup call: No, these are not “mistakes” or whatever they call their current atrocity. For these people are the cream of the crop, the top 5% of worldwide brain trust are in fact shrewd calculators and strategists. In their worlds there is no such thing as a “mistake” everything is mathematically calculated, scientifically engineered and premeditated.

BEHOLD: For the reality of the situation is none other than the fact that Wall Street has become the world’s largest CASINO GAMBLING OPERATION. The bets are taken by bookies called stock brokers, the losers are the poor saps, the working people whom sit down after a hard day work and watch their country go to hell, flushed down the drain by the wanton abuses of Wall Street gangsters. Who routinely gamble the nation’s wealth and often have to pay out billions of dollars on literal BETS to the elite insiders whom control the casino. This is the true reality of the big real-estate bubble collapse. What do you think those mysterious “derivatives” and CDOs (collateralized debt obligations) and CDSs (credit default swaps) are? They are nothing but legalized institutionalized gambling: betting on phantom hot air financial instruments. Where the financial institutions GAMBLE amongst each other, placing BETS with each other and pay each other off from those bets. That is literally it in a nutshell. Nothing is produced, nothing manufactured, not a single thing is made, not a single job is generated... yet this practice has literally been instrumental for gutting out the economy of nations leading to the brink of financial collapse while simultaneously undergoing the one of the largest consolidations of wealth in history of mankind.

America is FLAT BROKE in debt up the wazu, nothing is “made in the U.S.A.” anymore (except for crappy cars), we are technically BANKRUPT and what do we do? We borrow TRILLIONS... to... GIVE IT ALL AWAY TO THE THIEF BANKSTERS!!! Yaaaayyyy!!!

Proof positive that the Zionist Jew owned media world is working hand in hand with the Zionist Wall Street Banksters is in the universal condemnation by ALL the media of the government handing out any stimulus bailout funds to any entity other than financial institutions. No one in the media world complains about the TRILLIONS that have been dumped into the financial institution black hole, yet they howl with cries of bloody murder at the mention of REAL companies that PRODUCE REAL PRODUCTS (car companies, Amtrak, etc.) getting a dime.

WTF? Folks, I have bad news for you: we are like, so screwed. The banksters are LOOTING AMERICA, they are the ones who created this mess and the complicit Washingtonites are bending over backwards to throw billions and trillions of dollars at them to accelerate the gutting of our nation in what can only be described as committing economic suicide. And you know what?

BEHOLD, FOR: When these MULTI-NATIONAL international banks, banksters, financial titans finish bleeding America dry, they will just pack their brief cases, board their corporate jets and land in some other country (Israel?) where they have transferred and conceal all our wealth.... Business as usual... “next”....

All the Washingtonite republican leaders all cry out in unison “WE NEED MORE TAX CUTS TO STIMULATE ~~our~~ ~~wealthy comrades~~ “THE ECONOMY”!!!” What batshit insane preposterous claim! All the tax cuts in the world will NEVER help the poor, the working class and especially the UNEMPLOYED victims of this economic collapse! Duh!!! The millions of unemployed people will NEVER see ONE SINGLE PENNY of those tax cuts. The house is on fire and the filthy rich only care about themselves, for these are the ONLY people that tax cuts benefit. I am appalled at the retarded idiots who are the poor and working class yet champion all the works that clearly only benefit the rich and the corporations. These fools blindly support the politicians who are enslaving them.

Again we witness the appointed sold out leaders pushing policies and acts that will ONLY benefit the wealthy elites. The painfully scary and heartbreaking part of all this bull donkey is that all the brain dead masses believe all the hyperbole. Many of them yell in unison “more tax cuts!, more tax cuts!, more tax cuts!” /sigh/ Yes, those tax cuts are going to be a great stimulus package... for the banksters hoarding trillions of dollars and buying up the smaller banks and businesses for a fraction of what they are worth! When they are good and ready they will finally open their DEBT windows and take those billions upon billions that easily flowed into their war chests and further enslave mankind by LENDING it to you with high interest rates, fees, charges, conditions and one sided stipulations. Oh isn’t this a wonderful free world system!

As I have been trying to articulate over and over again; this world is no longer a free trade zone, the world has long ago undergone a massive transformation into an enslaved DEBT driven society. Thomas Jefferson warned us long ago: “We must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt.” How truly unfortunate that we as a people ceased to pay attention to history.

The banksters are actually DOING NOTHING and will NEVER do ANYTHING, to stop the collapse, but of course not, it makes perfect sense since it is their engineered economic collapse work of art in action in the first place. They are sitting back in their million dollar board rooms sipping tea watching the chaos unfold, while they count the TRILLIONS that the Washingtonite minions are sending them on top of the billions upon billions they have already fleeced the world over. The sad fact is that it was the housing/mortgage bubble that they inflated to gargantuan proportions that any kindergartener could tell you would eventually burst. Now they are taking the billions and purchasing real assets, and businesses for when the day comes of total collapse, they will be the only ones left OWNING everything...

Yet all the trillions that have been pumped into the world financial institutions have all been in vain. For if our leaders REALLY wanted to “fix” the problem, a very simple and amazing solution would have worked wonders: they could have saved trillions of dollars and just PAID OFF every single outstanding mortgage in all of America in full. The economy would be BOOMING right now with all our citizens having paid off their largest debt and having tons of spending money to splurge. But that option in the eyes of your most benevolent loving caring banker community is viewed as pure ludicrous blasphemous sin.
