The worst part of this engineered collapse is the fact that most of those “trillions of dollars in loses” are in fact nothing more than GAMBLING DEBTS. Financial institutions made billions of dollars of “bets” essentially on nothing more than HOT AIR. Today’s economic collapse is basically the collecting on those billion dollar “bets.” Hence, nothing has really been “lost” yet having to honor those bets on CDOs and Credit Default Swaps is what is REALLY causing the collapse...

People are raving mad about AIG getting multi-billion dollar bailout funds then holding huge parties. This conglomerate has become the poster child for the gluttonous IN YOUR FACE attitude as it has audaciously been taking millions of dollars of those bailout funds and giving out million dollar bonuses to their failure engineering executives without a care or fear of penalty. THIS is the true “get away with murder” state of our free for all decadent business climate. That’s not even the real story, the real story is the fact that ALL the bailout funds AIG gets, well, it turns around and hands those funds right to the Wall Street banks!!! I kid you not! Now even THAT’S not even the whole story, for who do you think are AIG’s major stockholders? Hmm, let’s see: Goldman, Bank of America, Merrill Lynch, UBS, JPMorgan, Chase, Morgan Stanley, Deutch Bank, Barclays, and it goes on. I kid you not!

That’s just the tip of the proverbial iceberg for the back room deals were steep in secrecy and hidden plotting, revealing the extent of how deep the conspiratorial economic collapsing scheme went was the fact that the SEC mulled national security status for AIG details:

NEW YORK (Reuters) - U.S. securities regulators originally treated the New York Federal Reserve's bid to keep secret many of the details of the American International Group bailout like a request to protect matters of national security, according to emails obtained by Reuters. The request to keep the details secret were made by the New York Federal Reserve -- a regulator that helped orchestrate the bailout -- and by the giant insurer itself, according to the emails.

Very few people have recognized the true nature of the Bankster Beasts that roam the world, for their institutions are nothing more than BLACK HOLES that suck up peoples’ and nation’s wealth. Their powerful vortex is too much for anyone people, organization and even nations to pull out of due to the fact that they do not understand the true inner fundamental principle forces of how it operates and where it gains and multiplies it’s POWER... Who dares confront and slay THE BEASTS? Who will dare take down FEDzilla?

Wall Street's Bailout Hustle

Goldman Sachs and other big banks aren't just pocketing the trillions we gave them to rescue the economy - they're re-creating the conditions for another crash

MATT TAIBBI, Rolling Stone, Excerpts from article:

“... Goldman wasn't alone. The nation's six largest banks — all committed to this balls-out, I drink your milkshake! strategy of flagrantly gorging themselves as America goes hungry — set aside a whopping $140 billion for executive compensation last year, a sum only slightly less than the $164 billion they paid themselves in the pre-crash year of 2007. In a gesture of self-sacrifice, Blankfein himself took a humiliatingly low bonus of $9 million, less than the 2009 pay of elephantine New York Knicks washout Eddy Curry. But in reality, not much had changed. "What is the state of our moral being when Lloyd Blankfein taking a $9 million bonus is viewed as this great act of contrition, when every penny of it was a direct transfer from the taxpayer?" asks Eliot Spitzer, who tried to hold Wall Street accountable during his own ill-fated stint as governor of New York.

Beyond a few such bleats of outrage, however, the huge payout was met, by and large, with a collective sigh of resignation. Because beneath America's populist veneer, on a more subtle strata of the national psyche, there remains a strong temptation to not really give a shit. The rich, after all, have always made way too much money; what's the difference if some fat cat in New York pockets $20 million instead of $10 million?...”

“... A year and a half after they were minutes away from bankruptcy, how are these assholes not only back on their feet again, but hauling in bonuses at the same rate they were during the bubble? The answer to that question is basically twofold: They raped the taxpayer, and they raped their clients....”

CON #1 THE SWOOP AND SQUAT

By now, most people who have followed the financial crisis know that the bailout of AIG was actually a bailout of AIG's "counterparties" — the big banks like Goldman to whom the insurance giant owed billions when it went belly up.

What is less understood is that the bailout of AIG counter-parties like Goldman and Société Générale, a French bank, actually began before the collapse of AIG, before the Federal Reserve paid them so much as a dollar. Nor is it understood that these counterparties actually accelerated the wreck of AIG in what was, ironically, something very like the old insurance scam known as "Swoop and Squat," in which a target car is trapped between two perpetrator vehicles and wrecked, with the mark in the game being the target's insurance company — in this case, the government.

This may sound far-fetched, but the financial crisis of 2008 was very much caused by a perverse series of legal incentives that often made failed investments worth more than thriving ones. Our economy was like a town where everyone has juicy insurance policies on their neighbors' cars and houses. In such a town, the driving will be suspiciously bad, and there will be a lot of fires..."

CON #2 THE DOLLAR STORE

In the usual "DollarStore" or "Big Store" scam — popularized in movies like The Sting — a huge cast of con artists is hired to create a whole fake environment into which the unsuspecting mark walks and gets robbed over and over again. A warehouse is converted into a makeshift casino or off-track betting parlor, the fool walks in with money, leaves without it..."

CON #4 THE RUMANIAN BOX

One of the great innovations of Victor Lustig, the legendary Depression-era con man who wrote the famous "Ten Commandments for Con Men," was a thing called the "Rumanian Box." This was a little machine that a mark would put a blank piece of paper into, only to see real currency come out the other side. The brilliant Lustig sold this Rumanian Box over and over again for vast sums — but he's been outdone by the modern barons of Wall Street, who managed to get themselves a real Rumanian Box.

How they accomplished this is a story that by itself highlights the challenge of placing this era in any kind of historical context of known financial crime. What the banks did was something that was never — and never could have been — thought of before. They took so much money from the government, and then did so little with it, that the state was forced to start printing new cash to throw at them. Even the great Lustig in his wildest, horniest dreams could never have dreamed up this one..."

CON #6 THE WIRE

Here's the thing about our current economy. When Goldman and Morgan Stanley transformed overnight from investment banks into commercial banks, we were told this would mean a new era of "significantly tighter regulations and much closer supervision by bank examiners," as The New York Times put it the very next day. In reality, however, the conversion of Goldman and Morgan Stanley simply completed the dangerous concentration of power and wealth that began in 1999, when Congress repealed the Glass-Steagall Act — the Depression-era law that had prevented the merger of insurance firms, commercial banks and investment houses. Wall Street and the government became one giant dope house, where a few major players share valuable information between conflicted departments the way junkies share needles..."

CON #7 THE RELOAD

Not many con men are good enough or brazen enough to con the same victim twice in a row, but the few who try have a name for this excellent sport: reloading. The usual way to reload on a repeat victim (called an "addict" in grifter parlance) is to rope him into trying to get back the money he just lost. This is exactly what started to happen late last year.

It's important to remember that the housing bubble itself was a classic confidence game - the Ponzi scheme. The Ponzi scheme is any scam in which old investors must be continually paid off with money from new investors to keep up what appear to be high rates of investment return. Residential housing was never as valuable as it seemed during the bubble; the soaring home values were instead a reflection of a continual upward rush of new investors in mortgage-backed securities, a rush that finally collapsed in 2008..."

".....Con artists have a word for the inability of their victims to accept that they've been scammed. They call it the "True Believer Syndrome." That's sort of where we are, in a state of nagging disbelief about the real problem on Wall Street. It isn't so much that we have inadequate rules or incompetent regulators, although both of these things are certainly true. The real problem is that it doesn't matter what regulations are in place if the people running the economy are rip-off artists. The system assumes a certain minimum level of ethical behavior and civic instinct over and above what is spelled out by the regulations. If those ethics are absent — well, this thing isn't going to work, no matter what we do. Sure, mugging old ladies is against the law, but it's also easy. To prevent it, we depend, for the most part, not on cops but on people making the conscious decision not to do it.

That's why the biggest gift the bankers got in the bailout was not fiscal but psychological. "The most valuable part of the bailout," says Rep. Sherman, "was the implicit guarantee that they're Too Big to Fail." Instead of liquidating and prosecuting the insolvent institutions that took us all down with them in a giant Ponzi scheme, we have showered them with money and guarantees and all sorts of other enabling gestures. And what should really freak everyone out is the fact that Wall Street immediately started skimming off its own rescue money. If the bailouts validated anew the crooked psychology of the bubble, the recent profit and bonus numbers show that the same psychology is back, thriving, and looking for new disasters to create. "It's evidence," says Rep. Kanjorski, "that they still don't get it."

More to the point, the fact that we haven't done much of anything to change the rules and behavior of Wall Street shows that we still don't get it. Instituting a bailout policy that stressed recapitalizing bad banks was like the addict coming back to the con man to get his lost money back. Ask yourself how well that ever works out. And then get ready for the reload." [From Issue 1099 — March 4, 2010]

When everything is said and done and the dust settles, and America admits it is BANKRUPT, (the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis declared just that back in August of 2006) you will see how powerful the banker community will come out of all this... they will be INVINCIBLE GODS. For the economic collapse scheme is being played out in EVERY nation around the world in one massive coordinated attack. And every country is digging deep to hand over their wealth to the Zionist bankers..... Pure genius....

Let me see if I got this right: The Zionist illuminati bankers engineered this economic collapse and looting of America, they purposely targeted and sub primed the heck out the minorities out there, credit default swapped the shit out of investors and hoodwinked the institutions with crap CDOs, took out massive bets on Credit Default Swaps and standing on the sidelines are the even more convoluted derivatives bubble waiting to blow. Folks who do not understand all the fuss that has been going on, just sit back and watch as the Zionist Bankster elite do their thing and further tighten the noose around the necks of their prey.

Head of IMF Proposes New Reserve Currency...

IMF's Strauss-Kahn [Zionist JEW titan] suggests IMF may one day provide global reserve asset

By HARRY DUNPHY Associated Press Writer, WASHINGTON February 26, 2010 (AP)

Dominique Strauss-Kahn (Zionist Jew ruling elite...), the head of the International Monetary Fund, suggested Friday the organization might one day be called on to provide countries with a global reserve currency that would serve as an alternative to the U.S. dollar.

"That day has not yet come, but I think it is intellectually healthy to explore these kinds of ideas now," he said in a speech on the future mandate of the 186-nation Washington-based lending organization.

Strauss-Kahn said such an asset could be similar to but distinctly different from the IMF's special drawing rights, or SDRs, the accounting unit that countries use to hold funds within the IMF. It is based on a basket of major currencies.

He said having other alternatives to the dollar "would limit the extent to which the international monetary system as a whole depends on the policies and conditions of a single, albeit dominant, country."

Strauss-Kahn, a former finance minister of France, said that during the recent global financial crisis, the dollar "played its role as a safe haven" asset, and the current international monetary system demonstrated resilience.

"The challenge ahead is to find ways to limit the tension arising from the high demand for precautionary reserves on the one hand and the narrow supply of reserves on the other," he said.

Several countries, including China and Russia, have called for an alternative to the dollar as a reserve currency and have suggested using the IMF's internal accounting unit.

Strauss-Kahn said the IMF also needs to do a better job of tracing how risk percolates through the global economy.

"Here it will be essential to improve our ability to monitor several dozen large complex financial institutions that make up the 'plumbing' through which global capital flows," he said, while leaving national regulators the job of monitoring the solvency of individual institutions.

They have skillfully brought about the debt enslavement of the most powerful nation on the planet. Just like gangsters, they can now call in their loans and "break the legs" of the USA for defaulting on their loans... They have this country and all its "sELECTED" officials in their pockets. America has been ground zero of the most dramatic strategic EMD attack (Economic Mass Destruction) to have ever been engineered in history.

In the end be prepared for these same Banksters to magically come up with a "wonderful benevolent" solution to the economic woes.... Sit back and watch... the first "big wonderful solutions" will be floated in the coming G20 meetings this March in London and in the G20 Meeting to be held April. These G20 meetings will be the official launch pad for not only the new world reserve currency proposal. But as the setup for their next phase of total world monetary control. Let it be known: the Zionist "Jews" OWN this country (and many others) lock stock and barrel, guess what? You my dear friend are but a powerless spectator.

Behold and understand this: In their unending quest for GLOBAL ECONOMIC COLONIZATION the powers that be have been strategically aligning and priming the public for a new world reserve currency to replace the dollar. This will soon come to pass and become our new reality. In their myriad engineered chaos they float many concepts such as trying to pass off China as a neutral "central player" in that scheme, the IMF the World Bank, the United Nations, BIS have all been proposed, but in the end it does not matter who the central player is, for no matter what country takes the assumes the central position it is the world financial Zionist cartel who ultimate rule. The point that is important here is this: once they get a world reserve currency all nations will effectively lose their independence forever. Even if they externally seem to keep their sovereign identity. They will all have given their national birthrights away to the international bankers who will then call all the national practices, laws and foreign policies. The moment any member nation steps out of line it will suffer severe financial repercussions... Think about the ramifications...

The stage is being set; we are being setup by the super elite for our own downfall. They way they have planned the downfall of our nation is quite simple and actually ingenious:

The fact that the Zionist fractional reserve banking system based out of the Federal Reserve can no longer operate under the cloak of darkness and secrecy that it once had and has become ever so evident that the FED and the greedy Wall Street banksters are at the center of all that ails our society, they have been cranking up the ridiculous actions such as the looting of our national treasury with the integral help of the FED to such an extent that it is becoming ever so clear even to the most dumbest fools out there that the FED and our monetary system is completely broken.

Now understand this: The powers that be are actively promoting and funding entities such as Tea Party movements in the quest to build up a fever pitch rebellion against their own current financial system. The ingenuity here is that the super elite are way ahead of the game. They are carefully, ever so meticulously guiding the controlled demolition of their entire financial system AND the upcoming rebellion that will DEMAND A NEW SYSTEM which THEY will provide!

Behold for once the rebellion breaks out and is allowed to run its course, under the cover of martial law, the initiation of drastic authoritarian policies and measures "to quell the rebellions" once the new infrastructure of civilian control is setup and in place the international banks will step up to the podium as our "saviors" and reveal their new improved financial system that will be either of regional or international in scope. Once this system is fully operating, our national sovereignty and independence will for all intents and purposes have been DELEGATED and bequeathed to the international banksters. He who has ears, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see... for the stage has been set, prepare for another great "New Deal"...

It Is Now Mathematically Impossible To Pay Off the U.S. National Debt

A lot of people are very upset about the rapidly increasing U.S. national debt these days and they are demanding a solution. What they don't realize is that there simply is not a solution under the current U.S. financial system. It is now mathematically impossible for the U.S. government to pay off the U.S. national debt. You see, the truth is that the U.S. government now owes more dollars than actually exist. If the U.S. government went out today and took every single penny from every single American bank, business and taxpayer, they still would not be able to pay off the national debt. And if they did that, obviously American society would stop functioning because nobody would have any money to buy or sell anything.

And the U.S. government would still be massively in debt.

So why doesn't the U.S. government just fire up the printing presses and print a bunch of money to pay off the debt?

Well, for one very simple reason. That is not the way our system works.

You see, for more dollars to enter the system, the U.S. government has to go into more debt.

The U.S. government does not issue U.S. currency - the Federal Reserve does.

The Federal Reserve is a private bank owned and operated for profit by a very powerful group of elite international bankers. If you will pull a dollar bill out and take a look at it, you will notice that it says "Federal Reserve Note" at the top. It belongs to the Federal Reserve.

The U.S. government cannot simply go out and create new money whenever it wants under our current system. Instead, it must get it from the Federal Reserve.

So, when the U.S. government needs to borrow more money (which happens a lot these days) it goes over to the Federal Reserve and asks them for some more green pieces of paper called Federal Reserve Notes.

The Federal Reserve swaps these green pieces of paper for pink pieces of paper called U.S. Treasury bonds. The Federal Reserve either sells these U.S. Treasury bonds or they keep the bonds for themselves (which happens a lot these days).

So that is how the U.S. government gets more green pieces of paper called "U.S. dollars" to put into circulation. But by doing so, they get themselves into even more debt which they will owe even more interest on.

So every time the U.S. government does this, the national debt gets even bigger and the interest on that debt gets even bigger.

Are you starting to get the picture?

As you read this, the U.S. national debt is approximately 12 trillion dollars, although it is going up so rapidly that it is really hard to pin down an exact figure.

So how much money actually exists in the United States today?

Well, there are several ways to measure this.

The "M0" money supply is the total of all physical bills and currency, plus the money on hand in bank vaults and all of the deposits those banks have at reserve banks. As of mid-2009, the Federal Reserve said that this amount was about 908 billion dollars.

The "M1" money supply includes all of the currency in the "M0" money supply, along with all of the money held in checking accounts and other checkable accounts at banks, as well as all money contained in travelers' checks. According to the Federal Reserve, this totaled approximately 1.7 trillion dollars in December 2009, but not all of this money actually "exists" as we will see in a moment.

The "M2" money supply includes everything in the "M1" money supply plus most other savings accounts, money market accounts, retail money market mutual funds, and small denomination time deposits (certificates of deposit of under $100,000). According to the Federal Reserve, this totaled approximately 8.5 trillion dollars in December 2009, but once again, not all of this money actually "exists" as we will see in a moment.

The "M3" money supply includes everything in the "M2" money supply plus all other CDs (large time deposits and institutional money market mutual fund balances), deposits of Eurodollars and repurchase agreements. The Federal Reserve does not keep track of M3 anymore, but according to ShadowStats.com it is currently somewhere in the neighborhood of 14 trillion dollars. But again, not all of this "money" actually "exists" either. So why doesn't it exist?

It is because our financial system is based on something called fractional reserve banking.

When you go over to your local bank and deposit $100, they do not keep your $100 in the bank. Instead, they keep only a small fraction of your money there at the bank and they lend out the rest to someone else. Then, if that person deposits the money that was just borrowed at the same bank, that bank can loan out most of that money once again. In this way, the amount of "money" quickly gets multiplied. But in reality, only $100 actually exists. The system works because we do not all run down to the bank and demand all of our money at the same time.

According to the New York Federal Reserve Bank, fractional reserve banking can be explained this way....

"If the reserve requirement is 10%, for example, a bank that receives a $100 deposit may lend out $90 of that deposit. If the borrower then writes a check to someone who deposits the $90, the bank receiving that deposit can lend out $81. As the process continues, the banking system can expand the initial deposit of $100 into a maximum of $1,000 of money ($100+$90+$81+$72.90+...=$1,000)."

So much of the "money" out there today is basically made up out of thin air.

In fact, most banks have no reserve requirements at all on savings deposits, CDs and certain kinds of money market accounts. Primarily, reserve requirements apply only to "transactions deposits" – essentially checking accounts.

The truth is that banks are freer today to dramatically "multiply" the amounts deposited with them than ever before. But all of this "multiplied" money is only on paper - it doesn't actually exist.

The point is that the broadest measures of the money supply (M2 and M3) vastly overstate how much "real money" actually exists in the system.

So if the U.S. government went out today and demanded every single dollar from all banks, businesses and individuals in the United States it would not be able to collect 14 trillion dollars (M3) or even 8.5 trillion dollars (M2) because those amounts are based on fractional reserve banking.

So the bottom line is this....

#1) if all money owned by all American banks, businesses and individuals was gathered up today and sent to the U.S. government, there would not be enough to pay off the U.S. national debt.

#2) the only way to create more money is to go into even more debt which makes the problem even worse.

You see, this is what the whole Federal Reserve System was designed to do. It was designed to slowly drain the massive wealth of the American people and transfer it to the elite international bankers.

It is a game that is designed so that the U.S. government cannot win. As soon as they create more money by borrowing it, the U.S. government owes more than what was created because of interest.

If you owe more money than ever was created you can never pay it back.

That means perpetual debt for as long as the system exists. It is a system designed to force the U.S. government into ever-increasing amounts of debt because there is no escape.

We could solve this problem by shutting down the Federal Reserve and restoring the power to issue U.S. currency to the U.S. Congress (which is what the U.S. Constitution calls for). But the politicians in Washington D.C. are not about to do that.

So unless you are willing to fundamentally change the current system, you might as well quit complaining about the U.S. national debt because it is now mathematically impossible to pay it off.

UPDATE

It has been suggested that the same dollar can be used to pay off debt over and over - this is theoretically true as long as the dollar remains in the system.

For example, if the U.S. government gives China a dollar to pay off a debt, there is a good chance that the U.S. government will be able to acquire that dollar again and use it to pay off another debt.

However, this is not true when debt is retired with the Federal Reserve. In that case, money is actually removed from the system. In fact, because of the "money multiplier", when debt is retired with the Federal Reserve it can remove ten times that amount of money (and actually more, but let's not get too technical) from the system.

You see, fractional reserve banking works both ways. When $100 is introduced into the system, it can theoretically create $1000 as the example in the article above demonstrates. However, when that $100 is removed, it can have the opposite impact.

And considering the fact that the Federal Reserve "purchased" the vast majority of new U.S. government debt last year, we have got a real mess on our hands.

Even if a way could be figured out how to pay off all the debt we owe to foreign nations (such as China, Japan, etc.) it would still be mathematically impossible to pay off the debt that we owe to the Federal Reserve which is exploding so fast that it is hard to even keep track of.

Of course we could repudiate that debt and shut down the Federal Reserve, but very few in Washington D.C. have any interest in doing that.

It has also been suggested that instead of just using dollars to pay off the U.S. national debt, we could use the assets of the U.S. government to pay it off.

That is rather extreme, but let us consider that for a moment.

That total value of all physical assets in the United States, both publicly and privately owned, is somewhere in the neighborhood of 45 to 50 trillion dollars. Of course the idea of the U.S. government "owning" every single asset of the American people is repugnant to our entire way of life, but let's assume that for a moment.

According to the 2008 Financial Report of the United States Government, which is an official United States government report, the total liabilities of the United States government, including future social security and Medicare payments that the U.S. government is already committed to pay out, now exceed 65 TRILLION dollars. This amount is more than the entire GDP of the whole world.

In fact, there are other authors who have written that the actual figure for the future liabilities of the U.S. government should be much higher, but let's be conservative and go with 65 trillion for now.

So, if the U.S. government took control of all physical assets in the United States and sold them off, it could not even make enough money to pay for everything that the U.S. government is already on the hook for. - Ouch.

If you have not read the 2008 Financial Report of the United States Government, you really should. Actually the 2009 report should be available very soon if it isn't already.

The truth is that the U.S. government is in much bigger financial trouble than we have been led to believe.

For example, according to the report (which remember is an official U.S. government report) the real U.S. budget deficit for 2008 was not 455 billion dollars. It was actually 5.1 trillion dollars. So why the difference?

The CBO's 455 billion figure is based on cash accounting, while the 5.1 trillion figure in the 2008 Financial Report of the United States Government is based on GAAP accounting. GAAP accounting is what is used by all the major firms on Wall Street and it is regarded as a much more accurate reflection of financial reality.

So needless to say, the United States is in a financial mess of unprecedented magnitude.

So what should we do? Does anyone have any suggestions?

UPDATE 2

We have received a lot of great comments on this article. Trying to understand the U.S. financial system (even after studying it for years) can be very difficult at times. In fact, it can almost seem like playing 3D chess.

Several readers have correctly pointed out that when the U.S. money supply is expanded by the Federal Reserve, the interest that is to be paid on that new debt is not created.

So where does the money to pay that interest come from? Well, eventually the money supply has to be expanded some more. But that creates even more debt.

That brings us to the next point.

Several readers have insisted that the Federal Reserve is not privately owned and that since it returns "most" of the profits it makes to the U.S. government that we should not be concerned about the debt owed to it.

The truth is that what you have with the Federal Reserve is layers of ownership. The following was originally posted on the Federal Reserve's website....

"The twelve regional Federal Reserve Banks, which were established by Congress as the operating arms of the nation's central banking system, are organized much like private corporations – possibly leading to some confusion about "ownership." For example, the Reserve Banks issue shares of stock to member banks. However, owning Reserve Bank stock is quite different from owning stock in a private company. The Reserve Banks are not operated for profit, and ownership of a certain amount of stock is, by law, a condition of membership in the System. The stock may not be sold, traded, or pledged as security for a loan; dividends are, by law, 6 percent per year."

So Federal Reserve "stock" is owned by member banks. So who owns the member banks? Well, when you sift through additional layers of ownership, you will ultimately find that people like the Rothschilds, the Rockefellers and the Queen of England have very large ownership interests in the big banks. But there are so many layers of ownership that they are able to disguise themselves well.

You see, these people are not stupid. They did not become the richest people in the world by being morons. It was the banking elite of the world who designed the Federal Reserve and it is the banking elite of the world who benefit the most from the Federal Reserve today. In the article above when we described the Federal Reserve as "a private bank owned and operated for profit by a very powerful group of elite international bankers" we may have been oversimplifying things a bit, but it is the essence of what is going on.

In an excellent article that she did on the Federal Reserve, Ellen Brown described a number of the ways that the Federal Reserve makes money for those who own it....

The interest on bonds acquired with its newly-issued Federal Reserve Notes pays the Fed's operating expenses plus a guaranteed 6% return to its banker shareholders. A mere 6% a year may not be considered a profit in the world of Wall Street high finance, but most businesses that manage to cover all their expenses and give their shareholders a guaranteed 6% return are considered "for profit" corporations.

In addition to this guaranteed 6%, the banks will now be getting interest from the taxpayers on their "reserves." The basic reserve requirement set by the Federal Reserve is 10%. The website of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York explains that as money is redeposited and relent throughout the banking system, this 10% held in "reserve" can be fanned into ten times that sum in loans; that is, $10,000 in reserves becomes $100,000 in loans. Federal Reserve Statistical Release H.8 puts the total "loans and leases in bank credit" as of September 24, 2008 at $7,049 billion. Ten percent of that is $700 billion. That means we the taxpayers will be paying interest to the banks on at least $700 billion annually – this so that the banks can retain the reserves to accumulate interest on ten times that sum in loans.

The banks earn these returns from the taxpayers for the privilege of having the banks' interests protected by an all-powerful independent private central bank, even when those interests may be opposed to the taxpayers' -- for example, when the banks use their special status as private money creators to fund speculative derivative schemes that threaten to collapse the U.S. economy. Among other special benefits, banks and other financial institutions (but not other corporations) can borrow at the low Fed funds rate of about 2%. They can then turn around and put this money into 30-year Treasury bonds at 4.5%, earning an immediate 2.5% from the taxpayers, just by virtue of their position as favored banks. A long list of banks (but not other corporations) is also now protected from the short selling that can crash the price of other stocks.

The reality is that there are a lot of ways that the Federal Reserve is a money-making tool. Yes, they do return "some" of their profits to the U.S. government each year. But the Federal Reserve is NOT a government agency and it DOES make profits.

So just how much money is made over there? The truth is that we have to rely on what the Federal Reserve tells us, because they have never been subjected to a comprehensive audit by the U.S. government.

Ever.

Right now there is legislation going through Congress that would change that, and the Federal Reserve is fighting it tooth and nail. They are warning that such an audit could cause a financial disaster.

What are they so afraid of?

Are they afraid that we might get to peek inside and see what they have been up to all these years?

If you are a history buff, then you probably know that debates about a "central bank" go all the way back to the Founding Fathers.

The European banking elite have always been determined to control our currency, and that is exactly what is happening today.

Ever since the Federal Reserve was created, there have been members of the U.S. Congress that have been trying to warn the American people about the insidious nature of this institution.

Just check out what the Honorable Louis McFadden, Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee had to say all the way back in the 1930s....

"Some people think that the Federal Reserve Banks are United States Government institutions. They are private monopolies which prey upon the people of these United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers; foreign and domestic speculators and swindlers; and rich and predatory money lenders."

The Federal Reserve is not the solution and it never has been.

The Federal Reserve is the problem.

It seems that the IMF (International Monetary Fund) is being aligned to become the world central bank. With the UN having some sort of talking head role in the new proposed system.

No sooner than I wrote the words above, than a few weeks later I read this FOX News headline: "U.N. Climate Change Plan Would Likely Shift Trillions to Form New World Economy." Breitbart also covers the breaking news with its "UN panel touts new global currency reserve system." Those who obtained version 1.0 of this report will readily attest to the fact that these words predicting exactly what is now happening were declared in the earlier draft of the Matrix Report that was chiseled out last year. I don't make this stuff up. Yet I am not a prophet, (I hope not!) I just know what their ultimate goals are and have identified a slew of their Modus Operandi, thus "foretelling the future" is becoming very easy...

You still think everything is not a rigged game? Check out this revealing passage that Silber highlights from Whitney's article:

In truth, Geithner did us all a big favor on Tuesday by exposing himself as a stooge of the banking industry. Now everyone can see that the banks are working the deal from the inside. Geithner has assembled a phalanx of Wall Street flim-flam men to fill out the roster at Treasury. His chief-of-staff is lobbyist from Goldman Sachs. The new deputy secretary of state is a former CEO of Citigroup. Another CFO from Citigroup is now assistant to the president, and deputy national security adviser for International Economic Affairs. And one of his deputies also came from Citigroup. One new member of the president's Economic Recovery Advisory Board comes from UBS, which is currently being investigated for helping rich clients evade taxes. The Obama White House is a beehive of big money guys and Wall Street speculators.

To which Silber adds this appropriate and devastating gloss:

So who are you going to believe? The ignorant and/or lying voices of the system that's killing you (at this late date, you can place primary emphasis on the "lying" part of that description), or your own lying eyes?

Silber then harks back to a prophetic piece he wrote last fall, when the "credit crunch" was still being described as an "economic downturn":

Those people who have followed the foreign policy catastrophes of recent years are repeatedly struck by this phenomenon: all the "experts" who are supposedly so knowledgeable in this area -- that is, all the "experts" who led us into the catastrophes and who were grievously, bloodily, murderously wrong about every significant matter -- remain entrenched in the foreign policy establishment. Moreover, they are precisely the people to whom everyone turns for the "solution" to the disasters that engulf us, both now and the disasters likely to come. This is what it means to have a ruling class. As I have said, the ruling class rules. The ruling class exercises a lethal monopoly on the terms of public debate, just as it exercises a lethal monopoly on the uses of state power.

What you have seen over the last six months and more, and what you will see in the coming months and years, is the same phenomenon in the realm of economic policy. All of the solons who led us into this abyss of mounting debt, worthless securities, failing financial institutions, economic contraction and collapse, rising taxation, and all the rest, will now instruct us as to how we should "solve" the crisis that THEY have created. The crisis may be ameliorated to a degree, and the worst of the consequences may be postponed for a while. But whatever "solutions" are implemented, whatever reorganization and reregulation is imposed, it will all be done in accordance with the ruling class's desires and goals. It will all be to protect their own wealth and power to whatever extent is possible, and to expand their wealth and power still more, if that remains at all feasible."

The bankster Zionist crime families rule the world. The king of the bankster families is none other than the Rothschilds have OWNED England's central bank, thus controlled them (yes: England!) lock stock and barrel since 1815 (in other words they have had mad power over nations for over 200 years). Ever since those days up until the present 21st century, the banksters RULE by controlling all the worlds countries' central banks, then offer their host countries DEBT as a viable monetary fiat system. The "conquered" countries who are thus being ruled by proxy, have to pay back the private central banks with INTEREST in return for printing money for them. That is the fundamental stratagem of their fiat currency scam, DEBT, the secret ingredient in their world enslavement quest.

Go ahead, continue to suck up all the advice fed to you by the mainstream 97% Jew owned media cartel... Yes go back to your cocoon and turn the channel to Suzy Orman's (Jew) financial debt advice, then swallow up everything that "Mad Money" Jim Cramer (Jew) tells you to invest in... These are just two out of thousands of high profile famous Jews that are front and center on the air prophesying for their Zionist Jew master's agendas, keeping the goyim chasing pipe dreams, collectively the Zionist Jew media cartel craft a wonderful mass illusion.

The World Wilderness Congress was established in the 1980s under the benevolent guise of "helping to save the planet." The important piece of which was the concept of creating a "World Conservation Bank" and the proposal of taking collateral for national loans in the form of the debtor's national lands and parks. What happens when the countries cannot repay their loans? Their lands can then be confiscated and sold to one of their subsidiary or partners at colossal profits. As you can see with this one small example, DEBT is THE instrumental ingredient to ENSLAVE even entire nations. The banksters will never be satisfied until they own the deeds to everything on this planet.

Hundreds of billions upon billions, to mounting trillions of dollars are being systematically handed over to the financial institutions "to restore the CREDIT markets"... Washingtonite leaders believe this is the central part to repairing all the ills we are now facing, pumping money into banks to spur CREDIT. What this demonstrates beyond a shadow of a doubt, is the FACT that the entire monetary system is a purely DEBT driven system. Pure insanity. There exists NO real wealth, there can be NO real wealth for ANYONE other than the banksters in this type of system. The loan sharks rule the land.

To top it off what are they doing with all the trillions of dollars that was just handed to them? Certainly not lending it to anyone! Credit markets are still on lock down in mid 2009, so what have they been doing with that money? Buying up cold hard assets, other banks and so forth, accumulating and conducting the most massive consolidation of wealth since the great depression. Oh, you didn't notice? They have been quietly buying up and accumulating all the gold on the planet... nothing to see here folk, so go about your business, sleep, sleep, sleep.

News flash, while the rest of the world is in the middle of the engineered "Financial Armageddon" massive economic collapse, there are many insider Zionists that are doing extremely well consolidating wealth at pennies on the dollar. For instance, the House of Rothschild banks have all claimed to have made "comfortable" profits (why am I not surprised?) while the rest of the financial industry and the world is ablaze in financial smoke and ruins... and how about the Zionist crown jewel? Their "holy nation" of apartheid Israel... Golly gee whiz... while the rest of the world is on flames, burning down and being sucked into the abyss, it seems as if Israel is the only country that is immune to the financial collapse, they are actually the only country that is PROFITING and prospering on the entire planet:

Hey, I don't make this stuff up, I am just exposing the FACTS... The TRUTH that is right in front of everyone's eyes, but yet you are too blind to see. The Zionist Jew banksters engineer massive world level financial collapse and their dear home country having full 20/20 vision of what is transpiring by their Zionist agents sits back and comes out smelling like roses in the midst of the storm. What a wonder to behold: the radiant prosperous nation of Israel...

A book came out recently called "Start-up Nation" The Story of Israel's Economic Miracle. Here is an entire book devoted to expounding upon the supposed "genius greatness" of the Jews. Israel is a tiny country with just 7.1 million people surrounded by enemies, in a constant state of war, with no natural resources produces more start-up companies than large, peaceful nations like Canada, Japan, China, India, and the U.K. and is quickly surpassing every country on the planet in just about everything. During the six years following the bursting of the tech bubble in 2000, Israel suffered one of its supposed worst periods of "terrorist attacks" and fought a second Lebanese war; and yet, as the authors note, its "share of the global venture capital market did not drop—it doubled, from an already very high 15 percent to 31 percent." Of course it went up! The vast majority of the world's premier banksters are all Zionist Jews! When someone has a good idea for a business all they have to do is pick up the phone and call a Zionist uncle.

The screenshot shows the FT.com website interface from November 9, 2008. The main headline is "Financial caution pays off for Israel" by Tobias Buok in Jerusalem, published on November 4, 2008. The article text states: "As the credit crisis spreads havoc and economic gloom around the globe, bankers and policymakers in Israel are growing in confidence that they will weather the storm. The Bank of Israel expects the economy to grow by 4.5 per cent this year and about 2.7 per cent in 2009. This is less than in each of the past five years, when Israel clocked up growth rates of more than 5 per cent. But that expansion contrasts with the faltering economies of western Europe and the US, and the uncertainties that are engulfing developing economies in regions such as eastern Europe." A registration prompt is visible at the bottom of the article, stating: "You have viewed your 30 days allowance of 4 free articles. If you wish to view more, you can register for free by clicking on the button below." The website also features a navigation menu on the left, a search bar at the top, and a "SERVICES" section on the right.

Meanwhile as the cards are increasingly being stacked in favor of their Zionist Jew brethren, their media complexes are concurrently building a propaganda narrative setting up, illustrating, supporting and embedding the thought, concept and conviction in the goyim minds of Jewish supremacy.

First of all the book does anything but provide the reader with a balanced analysis of the topic is purports to cover and instead goes on to boast on the greatness of the Jews. I will tell you in one full swoop the REAL reason why Israel is becoming THE undisputed worldwide epicenter of technology in their quest of ECONOMIC COLONIZATION: The Zionists who have first engineered complete monopolistic takeover/control of 1) The worldwide banking/investment industry, then they proceeded to 2) Finance a complete monopolistic takeover/control of all media with the abundant capital from the financial enterprises that are part of their matrix network, then they proceeded to orchestrate 3) a complete coup and subjugation of the political systems by utilizing their Finance/Media monopolies to strategically garner absolute authority in politics. 3) Today we are witnessing their consolidated efforts of deliberately collapsing America in its entirety and have been shifting major finance & manufacturing out of the country en mass. Simultaneously making billions upon billions of dollars readily available (as per default protocol) to Jewish entrepreneur comrades to pursue their ambitions and thus continue to expand their Zionist industrial matrix complex.

The one amazing ability of the Jews is their ability to USE any given host/resource until it is fully drained then move on to another host (in this case, country), then commence the entire parasitic process all over again. In this case they have been purposely been running America (and many other countries) to the ground, all the while they have been raising up their beloved homeland, Israel and meticulously promoting and aligning Israel and the Jews to soon be accepted as THE center of the world. For Israel is to be the central ruling point of their Messianic rule. Hey, again, I don't make this stuff up, it is written in their holy scriptures, they have just been strategically scheming and maneuvering for centuries to make it happen.

The (Rothschild) Bank Of England Engaged In Flagrant Gold Manipulation In The Interwar Period Via The New York Fed; Does History Repeat Itself?

An article written by University of Tennessee professor John R Garrett, "Monetary Policy and Expectations: Market-Control Techniques and the Bank of England, 1925-1931", which describes in exquisite detail the gold falsification measures undertaken by the Bank of England in the interwar period in order to impact interest rates in a favorable direction, performed with the full criminal complicity of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, may mean paranoid "gold bugs" could soon be forever absolved of their "tin hat" wearing status as outright gold, and other data, manipulation by a major central bank is now proven beyond doubt. The implications regarding the possibility of comparable deceitful and treasonous acts by modern central bankers are staggering... Read the entire expose here - Submitted by Tyler Durden

The Zionist Jew chokehold on world finance is absolute, as they rule with an iron rod. It is from this stronghold that they finance their own kind and all their endeavors with unlimited supplies of capital that is made available to their brethren at ridiculously favorable terms never presented to the goyim population. THIS IS THE SECRET OF HOW THE ZIONIST ENTERPRISES QUICKLY BECOME THE DOMINANT LEADERS IN THEIR INDUSTRIES. Meanwhile when they provide financing to the goyim they are subjected to stringent conditionalities, strict one sided conditions with high interest rates and penalties designed to enslave the gentiles of the world with excessive debt, this is the first step of how they gain indirect control of everything and anything they so desire. It is their usury trap the bible warns us of that enslaves even nations.

Another un-noticed crucial key why Israel's citizens abilities for all intents and purposes seem "superior" to the people of just about any western country, is that unlike its western counterparts who have been undergoing decades of premeditated dumbing down of the populations along with decades of destroying the caliber of public education, to the extent that American public education rates around 3rd world nation levels. Israel on the other hand does not neuter their population with harmful vaccines and fluoridated their waters, it trains all its Jewish school children to be inquisitive and to actually think independently. All the while in America for instance the educational programs are purposely stagnant, follow orders and do as you are told and were trained in the sheeple creation schooling system.

How Our Entire Economy Became a Ponzi Scheme

We're only just discovering how widespread the rip-off schemes riddling our economy are.

Andy Kroll, TheNation, March 18, 2010 |

Every great American boom and bust makes and breaks its share of crooks. The past decade -- call it the Ponzi Era -- has been no different, except for the gargantuan scale of white-collar crime. A vast wave of financial fraud swelled in the first years of the new century. Then, in 2008, with the subprime mortgage collapse, it crashed on the shore as a full-scale global economic meltdown. As that wave receded, it left hundreds of Ponzi and pyramid schemes, as well as other get-rich-quick rackets that helped fuel our recent economic frenzy, flopping on the beach.

The high-water marks from that crime wave, those places where the corruption reached its zenith, are still visible today, like the 17th floor of 885 Third Avenue in midtown Manhattan, the nerve center of investment firm Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities -- and, as it turned out, a $65 billion Ponzi scheme, the largest in history. Or Stanfordville, a sprawling compound on the Caribbean island of Antigua named for its wealthy owner, a garrulous Texan named Allen Stanford who built it with funds from his own $8 billion Ponzi scheme. Or the bizarrely fortified law office -- security cards, surveillance cameras, hidden microphones, a private elevator -- of Florida attorney Scott Rothstein, who duped friends and investors out of $1.2 billion.

The more typical marks of the Ponzi Era, though, aren't as easy to see. Williamston, Michigan, for instance, lacks towering skyscrapers, Italian sports cars, million-dollar mansions, and massive security systems. A quiet town 15 miles from Lansing, the state capital, Williamston is little more than a cross-hatching of a dozen or so streets. A "DOLLAR TIMES" store sits near Williamston's main intersection -- locals affectionally call it the "four corners" -- and its main drag is lined with worn brick buildings passed on from one business to the next like fading, hand-me-down jeans. It's here, far from New York or Antigua, that thanks to two brothers seized by a financial fever dream, the Ponzi Era made its truest, deepest American mark.

Jay and Eric Merkle, active church members and successful local businessmen, were well known among Williamston's residents. In 2004, the brothers discovered that an oil-and-gas venture, which they had invested in and which promised them quick, lucrative returns, was a scam. They'd been duped. Their next move should have been simple: turn in the crooks and get on with their lives, their pockets a few dollars lighter. Jay and Eric, however, grasped the spirit of their age and made another decision entirely -- they teamed up with the guys who had ripped them off, in the process switching from prey to predator.

That first venture actually floundered, but in 2005, court records show, they started their own Ponzi scheme, Platinum Business Industries (PBI). Based in Williamston, PBI claimed it was socking its investors' money into lucrative oil and gas exploration opportunities in Oklahoma and Texas, and it promised the investors absurdly high returns -- 6% a month, or 72% a year. Despite such promises, the brothers assured town locals handing over their hard-earned dollars that little risk was involved. Even if the energy exploration didn't pay off, the land acquired by PBI was valuable and could be sold to offset any losses.

Like Madoff in Palm Beach, the Merkles in Williamston exploited local ties -- church and family -- to reel in new investors; and like Madoff's investment fund, PBI, too, was a complete sham, and a classic Ponzi scheme -- that is, an investment scam in which existing investors' returns are paid for with money from new investors. In the case of PBI, there was no energy exploration in Oklahoma and Texas.

Some of the money they received from later investors the Merkles used to pay off earlier ones and give their scheme the look of success. But in their case, there was a rub. The Merkles were distinctly creatures of the Ponzi Era: they evidently couldn't help themselves. Even as they ran their own Ponzi racket, documents show, they were getting fleeced. What they weren't paying out in fake returns the Merkles bet on high-yield, get-rich-quick schemes in the U.S. and abroad that had nothing to do with oil and gas -- and other Ponzi schemers and con artists were robbing them blind.

Their financial crime spree collapsed in 2008. Dead-broke, with investigators closing in, they told investors that various foreign governments and banks had frozen their assets. The brothers then asked them to wire more than a million dollars to Nigeria, Ghana, and other countries as "fees" to release their money, even as they warned them against cooperating with an FBI investigation. Then, on a brisk autumn day in October 2008, the feds arrested to the two brothers; the game was up. In all, via PBI and other scams, they had duped more than 600 investors out of $50 million, robbing some of their life savings.

When compared to Madoff's or Stanford's heists, that sum was little more than pocket change. But the Merkle brothers caught the true, democratic spirit of a decade of an unrestrained magical thinking that infected rich and poor, successful and ne'er-do-well, the financially savvy and neophytes who couldn't tell a stock from a bond. Think of their story as a parable for the Ponzi Era: they were taken, decided to become takers, took others, then got taken again. In the rush for the pot of gold at rainbow's end, they bet everything Main Street had to offer, believing they could get away with it.

Thanks to an open credit spigot, a booming housing market, and visions of unimaginable wealth on Wall Street, practically everyone in the United States in the past decade seemed to aspire to get rich -- and quick. Perfectly ordinary people refinanced their homes, refinanced again, and used the money they got to stake themselves at the crooked casino table of American life. Some rolled the dice in stocks, bonds, and second homes. For millions more, the gamble took the form of "investment opportunities" that promised wealth in a hurry, opportunities now exposed as little more than financial con jobs. "People were shooting for that home run," says Peter Henning, a law professor at Wayne State University and white-collar crime expert. "They were saying, 'I'm just as smart as Warren Buffet.'"

Today, with easy credit and the buy-now-pay-tomorrow culture that it spawned in the dustbin of history, the Ponzis and pyramid schemes of the past decade can be seen for what they really were. Not a week seems to go by without the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) or the FBI or law enforcement officials busting another get-rich hustle. Yet the full scope of the criminality of the Ponzi Era remains elusive; no one yet knows just how widespread those Ponzi schemes were -- and how many may remain, hidden or in plain sight.

Beyond the headliners like Madoff and Stanford, Americans may not actually be aware of just how many schemes of this sort were abroad in our land -- but it probably doesn't matter much either. Disillusionment with the past decade is such that many Americans now simply assume that our world is little but a giant Ponzi scheme.

Ponzis, Ponzis, Everywhere

The wave of financial crime may have peaked in 2005 or 2006, but the detritus of such collapsed schemes has left regulators and investigators ever busier. Almost four times as many Ponzi schemes broke down in 2009 -- 150 -- as in 2008 -- 40. According to the Associated Press, the FBI began more than 2,100 securities fraud cases last year, an increase from 1,750 the year before. The SEC likewise dealt out 82% more restraining orders against Ponzi schemes and similar frauds in 2009 than the previous year.

2008 belonged to Madoff, but 2009 and 2010 have displayed a far more eclectic cast of crooks. We learned of mini Madoff, Miami Madoff, and Montreal Madoff, of Ponzis targeting African Americans, Haitian Americans, and Cuban Americans. There were fraudulent real-estate schemes and farm-grain schemes. Some were banal, like a Ponzi built on investments in state-worker uniforms or one that siphoned off retirement funds from bus drivers. Others were sexier, like the high-profile Florida race-car driver who, investigators say, swindled investors for $5 million claiming to peddle iron-ore contracts, or the clutch of professional athletes, among them the National Football League's Michael Vick, allegedly fleeced for $3 million by an elite "adviser" offering guidance on buying luxury properties and private jets. There were Ponzis piled atop each other, like a recent Detroit scam described by a state official as “a multiheaded Ponzi hydra.”

Faltering Ponzis have spread woe in Dallas and Boca Raton, Livermore and Long Island, Seattle and Atlanta. And the legacy of the past decade’s procession of white-collar criminals has indelibly marked our society in ways that go far beyond the financial losses they caused to their unfortunate investors.

Just use the word “Madoff” and see if you don’t inspire a visceral sense of revulsion in your listeners. (So notorious is the name that Bernie’s daughter-in-law wants to legally change her daughter’s last name from Madoff to Morgan to avoid “additional humiliation.”) Indeed, the Ponzi scheme is now so imprinted on the American imagination that it has, to some extent, become a prism through which we interpret the world.

The World’s a Ponzi, and We’re All Getting Duped

A decade ago, few Americans would have described the world around them in Ponzi terms, if they even knew what it was. Today, it’s become increasingly commonplace to describe American politics as a series of massive, plain-as-day Ponzi schemes. Medicare, for instance, or Social Security are regularly deemed Ponzis by right-wing protestors railing against the spread of big government. “It’s become part of the political nomenclature,” says law professor Henning. “That may be the greatest effect Madoff had. He’s now taken a term of art and made it into common public discourse.”

Last month, for instance, Tim Pawlenty, the drawling Minnesota governor and potential Republican presidential candidate, described not just Social Security and Medicare but all federal government spending as the “Ponzi scheme on the Potomac.” That scheme, Pawlenty wrote, “sooner or later” will “come crashing down, and the loss will be mammoth... Ponzi schemes succeed because people want to believe in a free lunch as long as the easy money is rolling in. But a day of reckoning always arrives, and ours is right around the corner. The sooner we open our eyes, the sooner we can clean up this mess.”

The inexorable rise of our closest economic competitor, China, is apparently a massive Ponzi, too. According to some journalists and analysts, that country’s success has been built on a bloated stock market, a growing housing bubble, cheap labor, and the promise of increasing returns. If so, it’s undoubtedly the greatest heist ever pulled in plain sight, involving the duping of China’s billion-plus inhabitants and the billions more worldwide whose lifestyles wouldn’t exist without the Middle Kingdom’s industrial rise.

To some, the Ponzi scheme knows no borders at all. Joe Romm, a climate science expert and blogger at ClimateProgress.org -- a left-leaning website, since the Ponzi mindset is bipartisan -- casts our current climate nightmare as a global Ponzi. By devouring natural resources now and cavalierly spewing greenhouse gases to poison the planet’s future, Romm says, we’re mortgaging the lives of future generations:

"You can get this burst of wealth that we have created from this rapacious behavior. But it has to collapse, unless adults stand up and say, ‘This is a Ponzi scheme. We have not generated real wealth, and we are destroying a livable climate...’"

What does it mean that we so eagerly slap the label “Ponzi scheme” on those things that most frustrate, infuriate, or confound us? Why do so many Americans feel like hapless investors who have thrown away their life savings to pay off guys at the top whose only goal is to screw over everybody else?

It’s an unmistakable sign, at the very least, of a deep, simmering distrust and disillusionment, a dark undercurrent of despair spreading through our culture, whether voiced by Governor Pawlenty or a newspaper reader in rural Ohio who wrote in a letter to the editor that Social Security “is, by definition, a Ponzi scheme.” Today, for Americans, the literal Ponzi schemers may be the least of it. Sooner or later, they usually go to jail. But the distrust they sparked has made its way to the very kings of finance, who, like the Ponzi-schemers, were not so long ago going to make us all rich, who struck the match and then stoked the flames of the financial crisis, who created oblique financial products like collateralized debt obligations and pick-a-pay subprime mortgages, and then walked away unscathed with multi-million dollar salaries and bonuses in their pockets.

The distrust extends as well to the government that finally jailed Madoff and is prosecuting Stanford, but has dealt a free pass to Lloyd Blankfein of Goldman Sachs and Dick Fuld of Lehman Brothers. What might be thought of as an American Ponzi mood can be seen in the rise of anti-government groups like the burgeoning Tea Party movement. The scattered “patriot” groups that comprise the Tea Partiers passionately claim the president, the Democrats, and even the Republicans are “stealing” their country and liberty from them; in some cases, they are prepared to take up arms against what they see as fraud of the largest order, which they term “socialist tyranny.”

Most disquieting in the Ponzi Era is the disillusionment it has bred, the sense that people you know or work with could be ripping you off. In Bernie Madoff’s case, there’s a possibility he deceived his own wife and children. The Merkle brothers exploited members of their church and extended family. “You work hard your whole life to be smart with your money and save and then it is taken by someone you know,” said a resident of tiny Van Wert, Ohio, who’d been duped by the Merkles. “People need to be warned that it can happen in Van Wert, too.”

How long it will take for that embedded distrust to dissipate is anyone’s guess. As the victims of Madoff can attest, justice is bittersweet in the wake of a Ponzi scheme: the ringleader may spend his life in prison, his belongings publicly auctioned off as a form of catharsis as much as restitution, but investors are rarely made whole again. The scars remain.

Ours is now a Ponzi nation. There is a new mood in the land. Just how it will play out is unknown, but a sense of having been conned is still spreading -- as if not just surprising numbers of investors, but the whole country had experienced the last days of a giant Ponzi scheme. With it goes a feeling that what we’ve been living through, even in “the best of times,” wasn’t an American dream, but pure nightmare. Welcome to America, sucker.

I don’t know how the WORLD will break, or if they can break out of the debt chokehold, other than to purposely cease and desist, just stop doing business with the banksters. A large majority of debtors would have to break from their enslavement in order for it to have a significant impact and give the beast a mortal blow. The only option that I can think of is for all the masses to do the “unthinkable.” There is only one thing that makes the banksters shake with fear and pee in their pants... Yes we would all have to perform a TABOO procedure, that the financial industry views as a nightmare sin of sins, so much that they have spent years in brainwashing the masses of this greatest of SINS. According to the financial world if you do it you will become a leper, your friends, family, business associates will lose all respect for you, society will frown upon you and spit at you, you will become scum, less than a worm and maybe even go to hell... this is how they portray the retribution of:

Behold: for the only way I can see to kill the “Debt Beast” is for everyone to go into BANKRUPTCY. Yes, the “B” word. Cut those financial chains that bind you and blow off those blood sucking banker parasites for good, then never go back begging for credit (debt) again. If enough people file for bankruptcy then it will gravely weaken or even help slay the beast that enslaves us through our finances.... Think about it.....

You have no reason to fear bankruptcy, the stigma and negative connotations associated with this liberating practice has been fostered and carefully cultivated over the centuries as a unforgivable SIN by none other than the bankster blood sucker parasites who wish to keep you enslaved forever. Once the bankruptcy process is over, the banksters no longer OWN you. You will actually have SECURED FREEDOM FROM THEIR BONDS, destroyed the chains that have you financially imprisoned, now free to do whatever you want.

Once emancipated from yet another form of enslavement. I would suggest that you NEVER get another credit card, or finance a car again. You can drive a used car and save the payments you would normally make, then save the "payments" for 2-3 years and buy a brand new car if you would like. Home ownership? NEVER go to the blood sucking leech banksters! Two options here: save for 10-15 years and buy a home cash, it is yours, the second option is to find an "owner financed" home, where at least the person who gets the interest payments is another honest citizen and not a blood sucking parasite bank. As for credit cards, you really don't need them, seriously, for real. Just use a ATM debit card if you must.

What is paramount here is that you understand how you are being enslaved by the banksters for whom you unknowingly go to work day in and day out to give them the lion's share of your paychecks while they sit behind their ivy tower desks doing nothing more than counting the torrents of money you and everyone else foolishly relinquish! Whether you realize it or not, you are their whore who goes out and pulls "tricks" then brings the money to your pimp master bankster. Of course, as any smart pimp, they have enforcers, the repo men; the Federal Reserve Bank's Gestapo enforcer is called the IRS, the powerful almighty judge, jury and police. Who always have their greedy hands in your pocket taking their "cut" before the paycheck ever reaches your hands, the rich get special accounting priveledges, conditions and loopholes. Unless you are among the 2%er club, top of the top, wealthiest players of the nation, who for all intents and purposes pay whatever they want, if they want, as per their well-paid creative financial manager's efforts and knowledge of maneuvering within the system. BTW, did you know that a great majority of your elected leaders don't even pay taxes? According to a recent survey, the amount of taxes elected officials didn't pay taxes last year is approximately $950 million dollars, yes, just shy of one billion dollars. Nothing more to see here folks, now crawl back into your hole... sleep... sleep...

WEALTH vs. POVERTY MONETARY ENSLAVEMENT MATRIX

OPPRESSION & SLAVERY IS ALIVE AND WELL!

THE ARISTOCRACY NEVER DISAPPEARED, THEY SIMPLY MORPHED

"He who owns all the gold, makes all the rules."

"For if leisure and security were enjoyed by all alike, the great mass of human beings who are normally stupefied by poverty would become literate and would learn to think for themselves; and when once they had done this, they would sooner or later realize that the privileged minority had no function, and they would sweep it away. In the long run, a hierarchical society was only possible on a basis of poverty and ignorance." — George Orwell

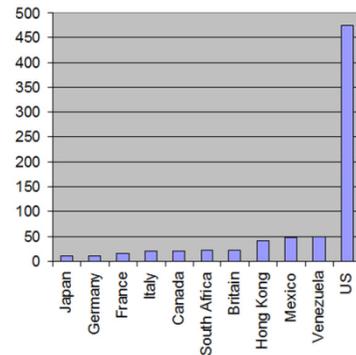

The inequality of wealth in the United States is soaring to an unprecedented level. The U.S. already had the highest inequality of wealth in the industrialized world prior to the financial crisis. Since the crisis, which has hit the middle class and poor much harder than the top 2 percent, the gap between the top 2 percent and the remaining 98 percent of the U.S. population has grown to a record high.

The rich have been getting richer since Ronald Reagan and conservative economic policy took hold in 1981 (the democrats are equally just as guilty). For instance, a CEO used to make 20-40 times what an average worker at their company made in the 70's, and while this is still true for most of the developed world, in the US, this inequity has skyrocketed so that now they make more than 400 times what an average worker does.

Politicians and Washingtonites continue to spread the illusion that if we just have more tax cuts for the rich, more deregulation, and less unions, somehow things will be better for everybody, when in fact, it only leads to the rich getting richer and the poor and middle class getting screwed.

The working class and the poor are essentially the SCRAFICIAL LAMBS that are sacrificed to the corporate and banking gods to feed their ravenous quest for empire, insatiable greed. The appetite and lust of money and power of the ruling elite, and their corporate matrix clearly reveals to what master they bow to.

It has been said “money is the root of all evil,” it never occurred to me until after understanding how the financial industrial complex and corporations thoroughly controlled the world, that this statement was so profoundly true. Our lives all revolve around getting money. Everything in life is in some way connected to money. No wonder they call the system that runs the world capitalism., for everything is about capital, i.e. money. All the ills of society are directly connected to money. The list can go on and on. If you opt out of the vicious money cycle, sure pain and poverty await you. People routinely surrender all values, ethics, standards and morals in their quest to make more money. Money is the carrot that the ruling elite use to get their ways. Money is the reward given to all the managers working for the ruling elite. They are cherished with opulent homes, cars, women. The rewards for the upper echelon movers and shakers of the ruling elite get the hot candy like Ferraris, Lamborghinis, yachts and so forth. Those who refuse to play the game, or not “in”, well they are regulated to the middle class, if they are lucky.

"In a nation that was proud of hard work, strong families, close-knit communities and our faith in God, too many of us now tend to worship self-indulgence and consumption. Human identity is no longer defined by what one does, but by what one owns. But we have discovered that owning things and consuming things does not satisfy our longing for meaning. We have learned that piling up material goods cannot fill the emptiness of lives which have no confidence and purpose." - Jimmy Carter's speech of July 1979

It has been a continuous cycle throughout history: All societies eventually become separated into the “haves and have not’s.” All throughout every ancient European country’s history, and world history as a whole has seen the notorious the ruling class oppressing and bleeding the working class dry. This has never changed. Money is the key enslavement element. Even today, though we don’t refer to our leaders as the “aristocrats”, they are still that same very faction. Today is no different than any other time in history other than that we are highly advanced technologically. As the gap widens, the middle class begins to shrink. The “middleclass” is the current rank of the working class. The laborer class, who work your farms, factories, stores, etc., for the most part, can technically described as the poor. What I’m trying to explain is the science and history of “class”, and they do have it down to a science in remote circles of society. Class struggle, separation and control has been around for ages and has been practiced right here in modern society without our slightest clue, you just don’t recognize it.

Concentration of Wealth = An Influence Lock On Our Politics

By David Johnson

Since the Reagan-era changes in the country's tax and regulation policies more and more of the wealth and income generated by our economy has been flowing upward to fewer and fewer people. We have now reached the point where wealth is at least as concentrated as it was in 1929. With similar consequences.

Just how concentrated is the wealth and income? The L-Curve website graphically illustrates the disparity. Here's how it works. Picture a football field. Each of the 100 years is 1% of the population. At any point on the field you pile a stack of $100 bills to represent the income that a family in that percentile makes. So the median family income would be on the 50-yard line.

According to the site (old data), in 2005 the median family was approx. $40,000, and the stack of $100 bills would be about 1.6 inches high.

The family on the 95-yard line makes about $100K, a stack about 4 inches high.

99-yard line, $300K, about a foot high.

One foot line, top 1/3 of one percent, $1 million, 40 inches.

Now the slope of the graph starts to rise...

And then you start to get to the really rich. $10 billion is a stack the height of Mt. Everest.

The last few on the field have income representing a stack 15 kilometers high.

Two points:

- 1) This is old data. The concentration is greater now. The top incomes might not be as high this year.
- 2) The concentration of wealth is even greater than the concentration of income.

The societal consequences are dramatic. This happened as a result of wealth's ability to influence our country's decision-making. And that influence was used to increase the wealth of the influencers, which increased their influence. But this has come at the expense of regular people, whose incomes have stagnated, forcing them into increasing debt.

We have reached a breaking point where a consumer-based economy can no longer be sustained. But this has not led to any loosening of the grip that money has on our political system. If we don't force the political system out of that grip and restore democracy we will not be able to fix our economic system.

I find it utterly amazing how millionaires, especially politicians and well paid lap dog millionaire “reporters” who are prominently portrayed national TV, those who we trust to report the “truth” always come out of the woodworks decrying taxing the rich. Throughout the ages the cries of economic rape reverberate throughout the lands whenever the conversation ever turns to possibly taxing the massively disproportionately rich posse even a single percentage point.

What I find truly mind boggling is that you've got people who are poor as shit who fight tooth and nail campaigning and championing to preserve and maintain the status quo and defending the rich. I'll never, ever understand why people from the south (or any other impoverished areas) who don't have a pot to piss in worship candidates who are filthy rich who will NEVER, ever be able to understand the struggles of the poor and lower classes, let alone stand up for the rights of the MAJORITY who are in their eyes: economically disadvantaged beggars.

This picture of a homeless couple is direct testament to the byproduct of greed driven capitalist system and polices the Washingtonites routinely enact in favor of their corporate benefactors who they really serve instead of the common folks, hard working citizens. Look at this picture long and hard, for one day this can be you and your family...

My problem isn't with the rich. My problem is with the rich who control and manage everything, including the laws they pass to maintain their gluttonous riches and ensure that they continue to get richer above all rational common sense. You hear a lot about the free market.... How 'free' and 'fair' is a market that is basically run and maintained by the same small group of uber rich individuals and corporations?

“The American oligarchy spares no pains in promoting the belief that it does not exist, but the success of its disappearing act depends on equally strenuous efforts on the part of an American public anxious to believe in egalitarian fictions and unwilling to see what is hidden in plain sight.” —

Michael Lind, To Have and to Have Not

It's time for 99% of Americans to mobilize and aggressively move on common sense political reforms.

Yes, of course, we all have very strong differences of opinion on many issues. However, like our Founding Fathers before us, we must put aside our differences and unite to fight a common enemy.

It has now become evident to a critical mass that the Republican and Democratic parties, along with all three branches of our government, have been bought off by a well-organized Economic Elite who are tactically destroying our way of life. The harsh truth is that 99% of the US population no longer has political representation. The US economy, government and tax system is now blatantly rigged against us.

Current statistical societal indicators clearly demonstrate that a strategic attack has been launched and an analysis of current governmental policies prove that conditions for 99% of Americans will continue to deteriorate. The Economic Elite have engineered a financial coup and have brought war to our doorstep. . . and make no mistake, they have launched a war to eliminate the US middle class.

To those who feel I am using extreme rhetoric, I ask you to please take a few minutes of your time to hear me out and research the evidence put forth. The facts are there for the unprejudiced, rational and reasoned mind to absorb. It is the unfortunate reality of our current crisis.

Unless we all unite and organize on common ground, our very way of life and the ideals that our country was founded upon will continue to unravel.

Before exposing exactly who the Economic Elite are, and discussing common sense ways in which we can defeat them, let's take a look at how much damage they have already caused.

I: Casualties of Economic Terrorism, Surveying the Damage

The devastating numbers across-the-board on the economic front are staggering. I'll go through some of them here, many we have already become all too familiar with. We hear some of these numbers all the time, so much so that it appears as if we have already begun "to normalize the unthinkable." You may be sick of hearing them, but behind each number is an enormous amount of individual suffering, American lives and families who are struggling worse than they ever have.

America is the richest nation in history, yet we now have the highest poverty rate in the industrialized world with an unprecedented number of Americans living in dire straits and over 50 million citizens already living in poverty.

The government has come up with clever ways to downplay all of these numbers, but we have over 50 million people who need to use food stamps to eat, and a stunning 50% of US children will use a food stamp to eat at some point in their childhood. Approximately 20,000 people are added to this total every day. In 2009, one out of five US households didn't have enough money to buy food. In households with children, this number rose to 24%, as the hunger rate among US citizens has now reached an all time high.

We also currently have over 50 million US citizens without healthcare. 1.4 million Americans filed for bankruptcy in 2009, a 32% increase from 2008. As bankruptcies continue to skyrocket, medical bankruptcies are responsible for over 60% of them, and over 75% of the medical bankruptcies filed are from people who have healthcare insurance. We have the most expensive healthcare system in the world, we are forced to pay twice as much as other countries and the overall care we get in return ranks 37th in the world.

In total, Americans have lost \$5 trillion from their pensions and savings since the economic crisis began and \$13 trillion in the value of their homes. During the first full year of the crisis, workers between the age of 55 – 60, who have worked for 20 – 29 years, have lost an average of 25% off their 401k. "Personal debt has risen from 65% of income in 1980 to 125% today." Over five million US families have already lost their homes, in total 13 million US families are expected to lose their home by 2014, with 25% of current mortgages underwater. Deutsche Bank has an even grimmer prediction: "The percentage of 'underwater' loans may rise to 48 percent, or 25 million homes." Every day 10,000 US homes enter foreclosure. Statistics show that an increasing number of these people are not finding shelter elsewhere, there are now over 3 million homeless Americans, the fastest growing segment of the homeless population is single parents with children.

One place more and more Americans are finding a home is in prison. With a prison population of 2.3 million people, we now have more people incarcerated than any other nation in the world – the per capita statistics are 700 per 100,000 citizens. In comparison, China has 110 per 100,000, France has 80 per 100,000, Saudi Arabia has 45 per 100,000. The prison industry is thriving and expecting major growth over the next few years. A recent report from the Hartford Advocate titled "Incarceration Nation" revealed that "a new prison opens every week somewhere in America."

Mass Unemployment

The government unemployment rate is deceptive on several levels. It doesn't count people who are "involuntary part-time workers," meaning workers who are working part-time but want to find full-time work. It also doesn't count "discouraged workers," meaning long-term unemployed people who lost hope and don't consistently look for work. As time goes by, more and more people stop consistently looking for work and are discounted from the unemployment figure. For instance, in January, 1.1 million workers were eliminated from the unemployment total because they were "officially" labeled "discouraged workers." So instead of the number rising, we will hear deceptive reports about unemployment leveling off.

On top of this, the Bureau of Labor Statistics recently discovered that 824,000 job losses were never accounted for due to a “modeling error” in their data. Even in their initial January data there appears to be a huge understating, with the newest report saying the economy lost 20,000 jobs. TrimTabs employment analysis, which has consistently provided more accurate data, “estimated that the U.S. economy shed 104,000 jobs in January.”

When you factor in all these uncounted workers — “involuntary part-time” and “discouraged workers” — the unemployment rate rises from 9.7% to over 20%. In total, we now have over 30 million US citizens who are unemployed or underemployed. The rarely cited “employment-participation” rate, which reveals the percentage of the population that is currently in the workforce, has now fallen to 64%.

Even based on the “official” unemployment rate, just to get back to the unemployment level of 4.6% that we had in 2007, we need to create over 10 million new jobs, and most every serious economist will tell you that these jobs are not coming back. In fact, we are still consistently shedding jobs, on just one day, January 27th, several companies announced new cuts of more than 60,000 jobs.

Due to the length of this crisis already, millions of Americans are reaching a point where the unemployment benefits that they have been surviving off of are coming to an end. More workers have already been out of work longer than at any point since statistics have been recorded, with over six million now unemployed for over six months. A record 20 million Americans qualified for unemployment insurance benefits last year, causing 27 states to run out of funds, with seven more also expected to go into the red within the next few months. In total, 40 state programs are expected to go broke.

Most economists believe that the unemployment rate will remain high for the foreseeable future. What will happen when we have millions of laid-off workers without any unemployment benefits to save them?

Working More for Less

The millions struggling to find work are just part of the story. Due to the fact that we now have a record high six people for every one job opening, companies have been able to further increase the workload on their remaining employees. They have been able to increase the amount of hours Americans are working, reduce wages and drastically cut back on benefits. Even though Americans were already the most productive workers in the world before the economic crisis, in the third quarter of 2009, average worker productivity increased by an annualized rate of 9.5%, at the same time unit labor cost decreased by 5.2%. This has led to record profits for many companies. Of the 220 companies in the S&P 500 who have reported fourth-quarter results thus far, 78% of them had “better-than-expected profits” with earnings 17% above expectations, “the highest for any quarter since Thomson Reuters began tracking data.”

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the national median wage was only $32,390 per year in 2008, and median household income fell by 3.6% while the unemployment rate was 5.8%. With the unemployment rate now at 10%, median income has been falling at a 5% rate and is expected to continue its decline. Not surprisingly, Americans’ job satisfaction level is now at an all time low.

There are also a growing number of employed people who, despite having a job, are still living in poverty. There are at least 15 million workers who now fall into this rapidly growing category. $32,390 a year is not going to get you far in today’s economy, and half of the country is making less than that. This is why many Americans are now forced to work two jobs to provide for their family to hopefully make ends meet.

A Crime Against Humanity

The mainstream news media will numb us to this horrifying reality by endlessly talking about the latest numbers, but they never piece them together to show you the whole devastating picture, and they rarely show you all the immense individual suffering behind them. This is how they “normalize the unthinkable” and make us become passive in the face of such a high casualty count.

Behind each of these numbers, is a tremendous amount of misery, the physical toll is only outdone by the severe psychological toll. Anyone who has had to put off medical care, or who couldn't get medical care for one of their family members due to financial circumstances, can tell you about the psychological toll that is on top of the physical suffering. Anyone who has felt the stress of wondering how they were going to get their child's next meal or their own, or the stress of not knowing how you are going to pay the mortgage, rent, electricity or heat bill, let alone the car payment, gas, phone, cable or internet bill.

There are now well over 150 million Americans who feel stress over these things on a consistent basis. Over 60% of Americans now live paycheck to paycheck.

These are all basic things that every person should be able to easily afford in a technologically advanced society such as ours. The reason why we struggle with these things is because the Economic Elite have robbed us all. This amount of suffering in the United States of America is literally a crime against humanity.

II: The Rise of the Economic Elite

“The war against working people should be understood to be a real war.... Specifically in the U.S., which happens to have a highly class-conscious business class.... And they have long seen themselves as fighting a bitter class war, except they don't want anybody else to know about it.” — Noam Chomsky

As a record number of US citizens are struggling to get by, many of the largest corporations are experiencing record-breaking profits, and CEOs are receiving record-breaking bonuses. How could this be happening; how did we get to this point?

The Economic Elite have escalated their attack on US workers over the past few years; however, this attack began to build intensity in the 1970s. In 1970, CEOs made $25 for every $1 the average worker made. Due to technological advancements, production and profit levels exploded from 1970 - 2000. With the lion's share of increased profits going to the CEOs, this pay ratio dramatically rose to $90 for CEOs to $1 for the average worker.

As ridiculous as that seems, an in-depth study in 2004 on the explosion of CEO pay revealed that, including stock options and other benefits, CEO pay is more accurately $500 to $1.

Paul Buchheit, from DePaul University, revealed, “From 1980 to 2006 the richest 1% of America tripled their after-tax percentage of our nation's total income, while the bottom 90% have seen their share drop over 20%.” Robert Freeman added, “Between 2002 and 2006, it was even worse: an astounding three quarters of all the economy's growth was captured by the top 1%.”

Due to this, the United States already had the highest inequality of wealth in the industrialized world prior to the financial crisis. Since the crisis, which has hit the average worker much harder than CEOs, the gap between the top one percent and the remaining 99% of the US population has grown to a record high. The economic top one percent of the population now owns over 70% of all financial assets, an all-time record.

As mentioned before, just look at the first full year of the crisis when workers lost an average of 25 percent off their 401k. During the same time period, the wealth of the 400 richest Americans increased by $30 billion, bringing their total combined wealth to $1.57 trillion, which is more than the combined net worth of 50% of the US population. Just to make this point clear, 400 people have more wealth than 155 million people combined.

Meanwhile, 2009 was a record-breaking year for Wall Street bonuses, as firms issued $150 billion to their executives. 100% of these bonuses are a direct result of our tax dollars, so if we used this money to create jobs, instead of giving it to a handful of top executives, we could have paid an annual salary of $30,000 to 5 million people.

So while US workers are now working more hours and have become dramatically more productive and profitable, our pay is actually declining and all the dramatic increases in wealth are going straight into the pockets of the Economic Elite.

If our income had kept pace with compensation distribution rates established in the early 1970s, we would all be making at least three times as much as we are currently making. How different would your life be if you were making $120,000 a year, instead of $40,000?

So it should come as no surprise to see that we now have the highest inequality of wealth in the industrialized world and the highest inequality of wealth in our nation's history. The backbone of America, a hard-working middle class that has made our country a world leader, has been devastated.

Now that we have a better understanding of how our income has been suppressed over the past forty years, let's take a look at how the economy has been designed to take the limited money we receive and put it into the hands of the Economic Elite as well.

Costs of Living

Outside of the workplace, in almost all our costs of living the system is now blatantly rigged against us. Let's take a look at it, starting with our tax system.

In total, the average US citizen is forced to give up approximately 30% of our income in taxes. This tax system is now strategically designed to flow straight into the hands of the Economic Elite. A huge percentage of our tax dollars ultimately ends up in their pockets. The past decade proves that — whether it's the Republicans or the Democrats running the government — our tax money is not going into our community; it is going into the pockets of the billionaires who have bought off both parties - it is obscene.

For an example of how this system flows to the Economic Elite, just look at the Wall Street "bailout." The real size of the bailout is estimated to be $14 trillion - and could end up costing trillions more than that. By now you are probably also sick of hearing about the bailout, but stop and think about this for a moment... Do you comprehend how much $14 trillion is?

What could be accomplished with this money is almost beyond common comprehension.

And this is just the tip of the iceberg that has hit us. On top of the trillions given to the Wall Street elite, we already have a record $12.3 trillion in national debt - and we now have to pay $500 billion in interest to the Economic Elite on this debt every year, yet another way they are milking us dry. When you add in unfunded liabilities owed, like social security payments, we actually owe a stunning $74 trillion. That adds up to a debt of $242,000 for every man, woman and child in America.

Trillions more, 25% of taxpayer dollars allocated to military spending goes unaccounted for every year, not to mention the billions spent on overcharging and outright fraud. During the War on Terror, the Economic Elite have used our tax money to build a private army that has more soldiers deployed than the US military - a congressional study revealed that 69% of the "US" fighting forces deployed throughout the world in our name are in fact private mercenaries, 80% of them are foreign nationals. Private contractors regularly get paid three to five times more than our soldiers, and have been repeatedly caught overcharging and committing fraud on a massive scale. A congressional investigation revealed this and strongly recommended that we seize wasting tax dollars on these private military contractors. However, under Obama, there has actually been a drastic increase in total tax dollars spent on them.

In 2009, just over $1 trillion tax dollars were spent on the military. It's safe to say that at least $350 billion of that was needlessly wasted.

When you research our tax system you see an unprecedented level of waste and fraud rampant throughout most expenditures. Our tax system is a national disaster of epic proportions. It is literally an organized criminal operation that continues to rob us in broad daylight, with zero accountability.

Politicians and mainstream “news” outlets will not tell you this, but most every serious economist knows that due to so much theft and debt created in the tax system, the only way to fix things, other than stopping the theft and seizing the trillions that have been stolen, will be for the government to cut important social funding and drastically raise our taxes. Other than the record national debt, many states are running record deficits and “barreling toward economic disaster, raising the likelihood of higher taxes, more government layoffs and deep cuts in services.” Our nation’s biggest state economies, like California and New York, are the ones in most trouble.

To merely say that things will not be improving economically is to be a delusional optimist. The truth that you will not hear: we have been hit by an economic deathblow and the United States lays in ruins.

It’s not just this criminal tax system; the theft is now built into all our costs of living.

Trillions more in our spending on food and fuel have been stolen due to fraudulent stock transactions and overcharging. Just ten years ago, in 2000, American families paid 7% of our income on food and fuel. We now pay 20%. This drastic increase is primarily driven by fraudulent market manipulation that drives up stock prices. Congress uncovered this in 2006, as part of the Enron investigation. They found that companies manipulated the oil market to create major spikes in stock values, but then Congress didn’t do anything about it. Nothing to see here, just move on.

As mentioned before, we have the most expensive health care system in the world and we are forced to pay twice as much as other countries, and the overall care we get in return ranks 37th in the world. On average, US citizens are now paying a record high 8% of their income on medical care.

One of the reasons why foreclosure rates are so high is because the percentage of income Americans pay on their housing has risen to 34%.

So for these basic necessities - taxes, food, fuel, shelter and medical bills - we have already lost 92% of our limited income. Then factor in ever-increasing interest rates on credit cards, student loans, rising prices for cable, internet, phone, bank fees, etc., etc., etc.... We are being robbed and gouged in all costs of living, in every aspect of our life. No wonder bankruptcies are skyrocketing and the number of people suffering from psychological depression has reached an epidemic level.

The American worker is screwed over every step of the way, and it all starts with the explosion in the cost of a college education. This is one of the Economic Elite’s most devastating weapons. To have any chance of succeeding in this economy, it is commonly believed that you must attend the best college possible. With the rising costs involved, today’s students are graduating with record levels of debt from student loans. At the same time, the unemployment rate among recent college graduates has risen higher than the national average, and those who do find work are making significantly less than they expected to make. This combination of extreme debt and reduced pay has crippled an entire generation right from the start and has put them in a vicious cycle of spiraling debt that they will struggle with for the rest of their lives. The most recent college graduates are now known as a “lost generation.”

The American dream has turned into a nightmare. The economic system is a sophisticated prison cell; the indentured servant is now an indebted wage slave; whips and chains have evolved into debts.

“There are two ways to conquer and enslave a nation. One is by sword. The other is by debt.”

– John Adams

Concealing National Wealth

“Liberty in the concrete signifies release from the impact of particular oppressive forces; emancipation from something once taken as a normal part of human life but now experienced as bondage.... Today, it signifies liberation from material insecurity and from the coercions and repressions that prevent multitudes from participation in the vast cultural resources that are at hand.” — John Dewey

When you take the time to research and analyze the wealth that has gone to the economic top one percent, you begin to realize just how much we have been robbed. Trillions upon trillions of dollars that could make the lives of all hard-working Americans much easier have been strategically funneled into the coffers of the Economic Elite. The denial of wealth is the key to the Economic Elite’s power. An entire generation of massive wealth creation has been strategically withheld from 99% of the US population.

The US public doesn’t have any understanding of how much wealth has been generated and concentrated into the hands of the Economic Elite over the past 40 years; there is no historical frame of reference. This withholding of wealth is truly the greatest crime against humanity in the history of civilization.

What could be done with all the money that has been hoarded by the Economic Elite is extraordinary!

Let’s consider what we could do with the money that has been stolen from us. On top of what should be our average six-figure yearly income, we could have:

- * Free health care for every American,
- * A free 4 bedroom home for every American family,
- * 5% tax rate for 99% of Americans,
- * Drastically improved public education and free college for all,
- * Significantly improved public transportation and infrastructure,

The list goes on...

This is not some far-fetched fantasy. These are all things that Franklin D. Roosevelt talked about doing in the 1940s, long before the explosion of wealth creation in our technologically advanced global economy. The money for all this is already there, stashed into the claws of the Economic Elite. The denial of wealth to the masses is the key to the Economic Elite’s power. Outside of outdated and obsolete economic models and theories — and incredibly short-sighted greed — there is no reason why all this money should be kept in the hands of a few, at the immense suffering and expense of the many.

If Americans could just understand how much wealth is being withheld from us, we would have a massive uprising and the Economic Elite would be swept away, into the history books alongside the evil despots of the past.

“For if leisure and security were enjoyed by all alike, the great mass of human beings who are normally stupefied by poverty would become literate and would learn to think for themselves; and when once they had done this, they would sooner or later realize that the privileged minority had no function, and they would sweep it away. In the long run, a hierarchical society was only possible on a basis of poverty and ignorance.” — George Orwell

Now that we have a better understanding of how the Economic Elite dominate our lives, let’s take a look at exactly who they are.... You can read the rest of the article [here.]

The most recent coordinated earth shaking massive outcry has been in response to Obama's script "tax the rich" (who actually have money and coincidentally own 98% of everything) plans. As always, the rich are crying bloody murder and argument of, swarms of locusts, plagues, debauchery, famine, the apocalypse and the end of civilization.

While Bush Jr. was in office, the past 8 years the rich soaked in unprecedented favoritism while the working class ate shit, suffered the biggest decline in decades and paid more than their fair share in taxes. Bush's script was all about "tax cuts for the rich" and the corporations administration, and doing away with all oversight to the entire financial sector. Gee look where we ended up.

Don't fall for the canned "republican vs. democrats" bullshit either. It has nothing to do with that for they are all members of the same ruling Cosa Nostra. The point I am trying to highlight is that EVERYTHING in this world is focused and setup of, by, and for the WEALTHY elite who utilize the monetary system to keep the rest of mankind in line, subjugated and enslaved.

Any Questions?

Theirs is an exclusive club, once you make it and are "in" you must step up to the plate with your fellow wealthy comrades to protect your rights to maintain your status quo and become ever more wealthy at all expenses. It has been so since the dark ages, the middle ages, every age, and today is no different. The aristocrats are still alive and well, breathing and walking the earth, it's that you have not noticed that those costumes they used to wear have been replaced by Armani suits.

You must filter EVERYTHING you hear and discount their cries of foul. For the poor in this nation (not to even mention the even more catastrophic world level poor) have no choice but to try and etch out a miserable feeble meek life with what little is allotted them by the wealthy who hold EVERY SINGLE policy making decision posts in the planet and ALWAYS stack the deck of cards in their favor. The rich have been waging class warfare on the poor for eons, this war has been escalating in our own time with increasing renewed ferocity since the 1980s.

Taxing the Rich

By Lawrence Wittner, Professor of History, SUNY Albany

Decades ago, rightwingers began championing cuts in income taxes for the rich and -- when that lowered government revenue -- turned around and claimed that government could no longer "afford" to maintain vital public services like education and healthcare. Unfortunately, in an effort to curry favor with the wealthy and their corporations, many state and national office-holders began to adopt the rightwing's tax-cutting model. In New York State, the tax rate for top income earners was reduced from over 15 percent to less than half that amount. On the federal level, it plummeted from 91 percent (in the early 1960s) to 35 percent (today). As a result of such policies -- and of rising expenditures on the military -- there was a lot less government revenue left for public services, and they were slashed accordingly.

Of course, in these circumstances, there was plenty of money -- in fact, more than ever before -- in the pockets and vast bank accounts of the wealthy and their corporations. Furthermore, unlike most of the population, the wealthy generally didn't regret the decline of public schools, public hospitals, public law enforcement, or public parks. After all, they sent their children to expensive private schools and colleges, utilized private healthcare, resided in secure, wealthy neighborhoods, and vacationed in exclusive hotels and resorts. Why worry about the adequacy of the government's stamp program if the only time they experienced hunger was when the service was slow in their favorite French restaurant?

To help reverse the erosion of public services, unions and other social justice organizations have turned increasingly to a tax-the-rich approach. A good example of this occurred in Oregon on January 26, when voters passed two ballot measures that raised taxes on the wealthiest 3 percent of that state's residents and on the most lucrative businesses in the state.

These ballot measures developed in the context of a severe state budgetary crisis, which left Oregon on the verge of freezing salaries for public employees, making deep cuts in spending on education, and ending forest protection rules. Taking the offensive, public employee unions, community groups, and progressive businesses developed a grassroots campaign to pass the two ballot measures, which were designed to safeguard $1 billion in public services while not raising taxes on the vast majority of the population or, for that matter, on 93 percent of small business owners. They pointed out that the rich had grown much richer thanks to conservative policies and that the state's minimum tax paid by most corporations stood at only $10 a year!

Not surprisingly, corporate leaders and their supporters fought back ferociously. A coalition of business organizations spent millions of dollars, donated by the banking industry and wealthy entrepreneurs such as Nike's Phil Knight, to inundate the airwaves with ads proclaiming that a tax raise for the wealthiest individuals and businesses would destroy jobs and the state's economy. Although polls found that the ballot measures were popular, it seemed quite possible that business groups and the wealthy would prevail. For years, the state's voters had rejected propositions for tax increases, and they had not supported raising income taxes since the 1930s.

Nevertheless, in the end, Oregon's voters backed both tax-the-rich ballot propositions by roughly 54 to 46 percent.

Doug Hall, the director of the Economic Analysis and Research Network at the Economic Policy Institute, declared: "The people had an opportunity to weigh the relative merits of draconian budget cuts versus strategic revenue increases, and they have decided to support the revenue increases. I think that sends a powerful message to the rest of the country."

It certainly should. The passage of the Oregon ballot propositions is one more indication that -- despite the televised ranting of rightwing demagogues -- most people believe that the vast wealth in the hands of individuals and corporations should be drawn upon to promote the public welfare.

Lawrence Wittner is Professor of History at the State University of New York/Albany. His latest book is Confronting the Bomb: A Short History of the World Nuclear Disarmament Movement (Stanford University Press).

The ruling elite strategically and ingeniously work up the masses with avalanches of media programming narratives firmly embedded in and permeated with righteous indignation against taxation for example. The results are observable when you see the naive poor and working class taking up and championing the causes of the rich. This is most easily observed when you witness the poor and working class routinely siding with the rich inexplicably disadvantage themselves and standing up against taxing the rich. Doh!

The rich lavish all sorts of benefits for themselves and simultaneously BALK, CRINGE, GASP, shed tears of pain when they see even minuscule funds that could go into THEIR pockets "thrown in the garbage" by subsidizing the POOR, the unfortunate, the meek, the helpless with "sinister, evil and wasteful programs" such as providing better, more adequate schools and educational system for the poor, the sin of WASTING money on the homeless, the hungry. The sin of creating affordable housing. Subsidizing the poor, meek, over taxed, over worked, under paid working class in ANY WAY just can NOT be tolerated in any way shape or form!!! They have a dirty word for that and they have trained even the poor to righteously assault it, that dirty word is socialism.

Socialism cannot be tolerated in the slightest iota. In the eyes of ALL the wealthy, the unfortunate and poor should all burn in hell instead of creating a truly FAIR and equal playing field. Fuck the poor, fuck the homeless, fuck the working class, fuck the disadvantaged, fuck the uneducated children, fuck the unfortunate sick, they don't deserve "socialized" medical care, let them die... Socialized this, and socialized that, any and every good proposition to help their fellow man is labeled socialism and mercilessly decried and assaulted.

All they give a fuck about is their investments, their stocks and bonds, their yachts, their mansions, maintaining the status quo. Their children are born into lives of social and economic privilege, with extraordinary support systems. Most of them become prodigies, many even have servants and high profile mentors, they make it into the best ivy league schools while your children trudge along in a 3rd world level educational system, whose lives are offered up as mere pawns on the front lines of whatever invasion and bogus war we are conducting in order to further expand and secure even more resources and wealth that belong to some other poor sap country and people... such is the true unblemished way of the wealthy... Deny any single word in this massive sentence and you fool no one other than yourself.

You think this scenario is bad eh? News Flash: They are going to take away your retirement money too! Talks and plans are in the works to raise the retirement age to 70! Don't you get it? They don't ever want you to retire, they don't want to pay you anything, by pushing the retirement age to 70 they know they eliminated millions of people from the payroll that will kick the bucket before then, and those that made it to 70, a large percentage of them will be pushing up daisies very soon, thus the total payouts will have been greatly reduced. The kicker: after working your ass off your entire life, there is a huge possibility that Social Security will be bankrupt by then also!

Government as a Conspiracy of the Rich – Utopia

By Kavan Wolfe

In Utopia, Thomas More argues that governments are a conspiracy of the rich to control the poor:

“Therefore I must say that, as I hope for mercy, I can have no other notion of all the other governments that I see or know, than that they are a conspiracy of the rich, who, on pretence of managing the public, only pursue their private ends, and devise all the ways and arts they can find out; first, that they may, without danger, preserve all that they have so ill-acquired, and then, that they may engage the poor to toil and labor for them at as low rates as possible, and oppress them as much as they please; and if they can but prevail to get these contrivances established by the show of public authority, which is considered as the representative of the whole people, then they are accounted laws...”

Although some argue that Utopia is a satire, I'm not concerned with whether More was serious; I'm concerned with whether he was right. Suppose that governments were a conspiracy of the rich. What would we expect to find?

1. Most government leaders would be rich

The average net worth of President George W. Bush's cabinet falls between \$9.3 and \$27.3 million. In The Audacity of Hope, Barrak Obama points out that most senators are already rich before they go into office.

2. Poor people's crimes will carry greater punishments than rich people's crimes

The punishment for theft over $400 is up to a year in prison in the US and in some states repeat offenses can get life imprisonment. In Canada, theft over $5000 gets you up to 10 years. In comparison, the criminal penalties for insider trading, which may involve stealing millions, is a fine of between \$10 000 and \$100 000. Why is it that if you steal $10 000 000 through insider trading, you have to pay a fine, but if you steal three cars, you can get life in prison?

3. Government would ignore the will of the poor

In response to allegations that most Americans are against the war, Dick Cheney said, "So?" I rest my case.

4. The rich would pay less taxes

It's pretty bad when Warren Buffett \(as in the billionaire\) pays a lower tax rate than his secretary, there's something really wrong.

5. Government will bailout the rich but not the poor.

As pointed out by Stephen Colbert, when rich people lost big money on Bear Stearns going bankrupt, the Fed stepped in to bail them out. When poor people lost their houses in the recent mortgage disaster, did anyone bail them out? No.

Conclusion

Assuming that government is a conspiracy of the rich allows us to make startling accurate predictions. However, Ptolemy's model of the solar system can make the same claim, despite being totally ass backwards. None of this is conclusive, but it is thought provoking.

Most regimes tax their constituents to the max. But isn't it ironic that the wealthy and the corporations are ALWAYS the ones who get cut all the breaks? While the working class and the poor wield the crushing weight and burden of "the system." The elites and the wealthy are always the ones that overwhelmingly fill the positions within government, where they pull the strings and enact legislation designed for their own benefit. "To hell with those inferior pathetic uneducated, deficient subservient sheeple" is a common unspoken ~~attitude~~ un-written policy of the wealthy elite, as they continuously line their pockets with our cash, blood, sweat and tears. Dire poverty is all over this country, Europe and the world.

The wealthy rulers could stop poverty in a nano second if they so wished. Instead they perpetrate the concerted fraud with the help of their paid and owned experts, pundits, scholars, media that has us all believing the MYTH that poverty is out of the control of their hands. All the while they continue their practices of raping the lands of the poor nations and giving them doggy biscuits in return. They tax us to death and cut themselves all the deals, I could go on with this list for pages on end, but I won't, for I think you understand what I mean. The rich and powerful TAKE and take, and take and are entitled to what they lay their eyes upon, and the rest, well, you can have the crumbs... and you shall be grateful... for you are "free" as the wind and have the same opportunities of achieving the elusive "American dream" as those who own you in this wonderful land of OZ... "You too can someday catch the proverbial carrot and be like us, some day YOU can also have it all" thus the meek and poor dream on and sustain the warped system.

Top 1 Percent Control 42 Percent of Financial Wealth in the U.S.

How Average Americans are Lured into Debt Servitude by Promises of Mega Wealth

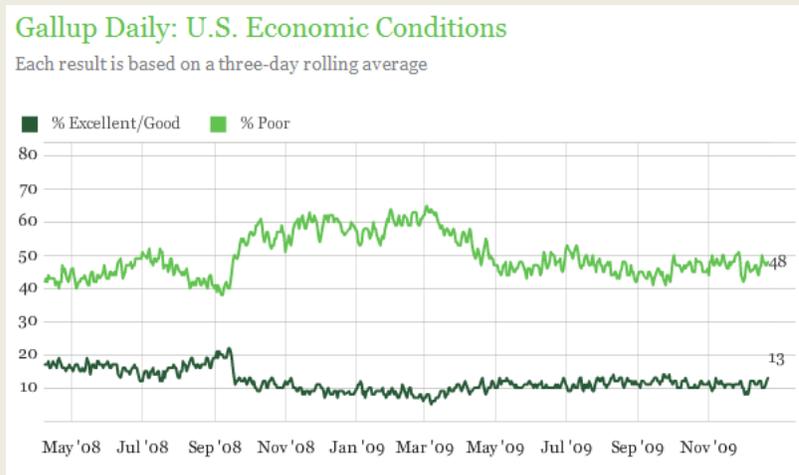

Many Americans are not buying the recent stock market rally. This is being reflected in multiple polls showing negative attitudes towards the economy and Wall Street. Wall Street is so disconnected from the average American that they fail to see the 27 million unemployed and underemployed Americans that now have a harder time believing the gospel of financial engineering prosperity. Americans have a reason to be dubious regarding the recovery because jobs are the main push for most Americans. A recent study shows that over 70 percent of Americans derive their monthly income from an actual W-2 job. In other words, working is the prime mover and source of their income. Yet the financial elite have very little understanding of this concept. Why? 42 percent of financial wealth is controlled by the top 1 percent. We would need to go back to the Great Depression to see such lopsided data.

Many Americans are still struggling at the depths of this recession. We have 37 million Americans on food stamps and many wait until midnight of the last day of the month so checks can clear to buy food at Wal-Mart. Do you think these people are staring at the stock market? The overall data is much worse:

Source: William Domhoff

If we break the data down further we will find that 93 percent of all financial wealth is controlled by the top 10 percent of the country. That is why these people are cheering their one cent share increase while layoffs keep on improving the bottom line. But what bottom line are we talking about here? The Wall Street crowd would like you to believe that all is now good that the stock market has rallied 60+ percent. Of course they are happy because they control most of this wealth. Yet the typical American still has negative views on the economy because they actually have to work to earn a living:

The above daily poll asks Americans about their view on the health of the economy. Only 13 percent believe the economy is good or excellent. Funny how that correlates with the top 10 percent who control 93 percent of wealth. Many Americans were sold the illusion of the bubble. They were sold on the idea that their homes were worth so much more than they really were. And many used this phony wealth effect to go out and spend beyond their means. They started spending as if they were part of this elite 10 percent crowd. But once the tide rolled out, it was clear they were not. And the horribly built bailouts demonstrate who is controlling our political system. This was not the rule of a capitalist system but a corporate run government.

Just think about the bailouts and which companies were saved. We ended up bailing out the worst performing and troubled companies thus keeping alive companies that should have completely failed. Did we bail out Google? Proctor and Gamble? Of course not. These companies actually produce something that people want. Banks and especially the Wall Street kind merely keep that 42 percent happy by making sure their stock values stay high so they can keep on making money while the average Americans is sold up the river.

Yet many were brought into the easy money fold by going into massive amounts of debt. And who has most of the debt? That is right, the average American:

	Top 1 percent	Next 9 percent	Bottom 90 percent
Deposits	20.2%	37.5%	42.3%
Pension accounts	14.4%	44.8%	40.8%
Life insurance	22.0%	32.9%	45.1%
Principal residence	9.4%	29.2%	61.5%
TOTAL other assets	12.0%	33.8%	54.2%
Debt	5.4%	21.3%	73.4%

From Wolff (2009).

The bottom 90 percent have been saddled with 73 percent of all debt. In other words much of their so-called wealth is connected to debt. Debt is slavery for many especially with egregious credit card companies taking people out with absurd credit card tricks and scams. Yet the corporate propoganda machine is strong and mighty. Have you ever received an inheritance? A large one? Probably not because only 1.6% of all Americans receive an inheritance larger than $100,000. If this is the case, why in the world do politicians worry so much about the tax impacts of this? Because they want to keep the corporatocracy alive and well so their spawn can get a piece of their pie. They give the illusion to average Americans that if you only work hard enough you too can join this elusive club of cronies. The data shows otherwise.

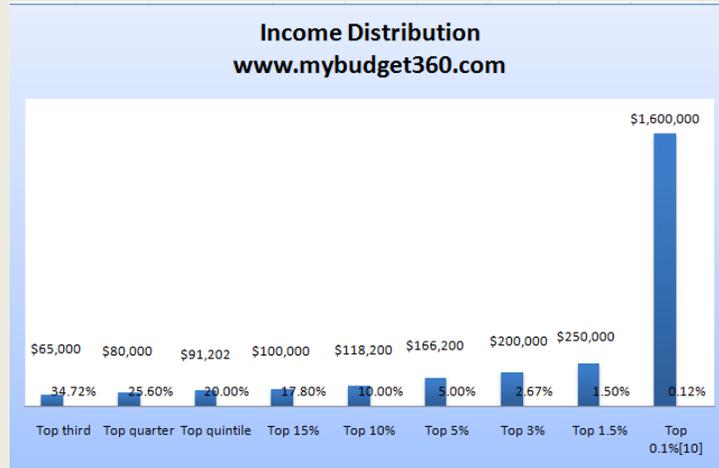

But if we start looking at investment assets, the true wealth in the country, we start realizing why Wall Street is all giddy about the recent stock market government induced rally:

	Investment Assets
	Top 1 percent	Next 9 percent	Bottom 90 percent
Business equity	62.4%	30.9%	6.7%
Financial securities	60.6%	37.9%	1.5%
Trusts	38.9%	40.5%	20.6%
Stocks and mutual funds	38.3%	42.9%	18.8%
Non-home real estate	28.3%	48.6%	23.1%
TOTAL investment assets	49.7%	38.1%	12.2%

Of investment assets 90 percent of Americans own 12.2 percent. The rest goes to the top 10 percent. Welcome to the new serfdom. The bailouts that went out to the filthy rich were more about protecting their tiny corner of the world than actually making the economy better. That is why it is interesting to see companies fire people and Wall Street cheer for the increase in earnings per share. Good for the few at the expense of the many. Yet the propoganda out of Wall Street and our government is what is good for Wall Street is good for you. Just like that

1.6% inheritance issue, the vast majority of Americans won't deal with that and their primary concern is simply a job. A job that has provided stagnant wages for a decade while the ultra wealth get richer and richer in a phony form of corporate socialism.

If you break down the data you realize that most Americans don't have time to speculate in stock markets:

Only 34% of U.S. households make more than $65,000 per year. What is that after taxes? Let us use a state like California for example:

Your Pay Check Results
Monthly Gross Pay	$5,416.67
Federal Withholding	$533.75
Social Security	$335.83
Medicare	$78.54
California	$168.37
CA SDI	$59.58
Net Pay	$4,240.60

Now if we breakdown this data further you will realize that most of the money is consumed by cost of living necessities, not Wall Street speculation. Just to show this example let us look at a family budget for someone in California making $100,000:

Notice after running the budget we are in the hole for $1,000? That is because of many costs that typical families have. We can debate the merits of where they are spending money but the point is this; are these people really making beaucoup money from the stock market? They are putting away $12,000 a year into their 401k. As we have now found out, 8 percent a year is never guaranteed in the stock market although the corporate powers would like you to believe that so they can have other suckers to unload stocks onto.

They are more concerned on working to have a paycheck to pay for necessities. They are more concerned about paying their house off by the time they retire and hopefully, have a little bit of retirement funds coming in.

The sad fact is most Americans rely on Social Security when they retire. All those ads of unlimited golf and daily trips to Tahiti are propaganda of how Wall Street lives and they want to sell you the sizzle, and clearly not the steak. They live their lives paper pushing and sucking the life out of the productive part of our economy. The average American should now realize this since this financial crisis was primarily caused by them.

They are now on a massive campaign to blame Americans for this. This is hypocrisy to the next level. Many Americans have paid for their mistake by losing their home through foreclosure. We have 300,000 foreclosure filings a month. Many have taken a hit to their overall stock portfolio (if they have one). Yet the corporate cronies have protected their horrible economy crushing debts at the taxpayer expense.

Unlike you, many hold bonds on the companies and not common stock like many Americans. Bondholders have been protected at all costs during this crisis. Goldman Sachs through AIG received 100 cents on the dollar for their horrible bets. The banks have unlimited back stops thanks to taxpayers. This is how the top 1 percent rule the new feudal state.

Welcome to the 2010 serfdom. Time to wake up and restructure the system. Many people are starting to wake up to this massive scam.

I'm just here to proclaim that they have been deceiving us for centuries. Their main tool in enslaving mankind and maneuvering mankind to do their bidding is OPPRESSION. They oppress your wages, readily available financial options and means. They oppress you through all sorts of creative means such as legislation, laws, rules and so forth. They oppress you by setting up barriers and massive hurdles to access sectors you are to be shunned from. They oppress you and your kind by purposely making high level education economically out of your reach. They oppress you by appointing and backing political leaders who are one with their same agenda. They continue to oppress you with unfair financial constraints and burdens, such as inequitable taxation. They oppress you by making the act of receiving adequate medical out of your league and obtainable only through high financial burden... Ok, again, I could go on and on. Do you get the picture? You and everyone here has been unknowingly living under the MYTH of a "free and open society", when in reality, many forms of OPPRESSION (enslavement) are being applied and exercised at every turn and corner without your slightest clue, or ability to identify it as such. Behold: for you live in America "land of the free." What is it that has been proven so well? "Repeat anything over and over again long enough, and people will come to accept it as true."

Perhaps in the collection of the biggest illusions ever pulled off in the history of mankind is the convincing of the world that slavery was abolished. Slavery is not only alive and well, it has grown to epidemic proportions. Pervasive all over this country and in every corner of the world. How is it possible that the masters of this world could have pulled that off without you or anyone even noticing? Slavery is all around you. There are at least a minimum of 50 million certified slaves in America alone. Are you one of them? The amazing element of the grand illusion is in convincing the slaves that they are NOT slaves! How do you get your slaves to cheerfully work your lands while in captivity and stop complaining and demanding freedom was among the dilemmas posed of the slave owners. The ingenious solution was to set them "free"!

What did Lincoln say to the slaves? "Stare into my eyes, you are getting sleepy, when you wake up, you will be "free" and happy people" [my creative summery]. Ok you are free to go now. Off they go into the wilderness. But oh, now they realize that they must put a roof over their own heads, hey, now I have to buy my own clothing and food, pay my own medical bills, etc. Off they then go looking for work. Guess what? The very same masters that used slaves are NOW HIRING! Welcome back my child! Here are your tools, now go out and work my lands, and companies, you better do as I say or you will be FIRED. Here is your quota, do as you are told, never complain, be late, or question our policies, for the day you fail to follow our rules you will be fired. Back out to the cold hard cruel world penniless you will go if you do not get with the program, do you understand? Oh, how much will we pay you for your hard work? We have a new system, it's called MINIMUM WAGE! Minimum wage= slave wage = SLAVE LABOR. For the smarty pants among you sheeple we will make you slave masters of your own kind and give you titles like "manager" and give you extra money and perks for your efforts in supervising your own kind. The day you cross us you will be ruined and pushed under the bus, back out into the wilderness. So do you understand?

Ok, for those of you that still don't get it, I will spell it out for you: In the days that we used the term slaves, the business owner had to pay for the slaves, they had to pay for their housing, they had to pay all the expenses, their food, clothes, housing, transportation, medicine, doctors, etc. For simplicity's sake let's say the average expense of keeping one slave is $1,000 per month. Simple, set him "free". Give him $7 an hour for his work, this will still roughly amount to $1,000 per month, JUST ENOUGH to cover his own housing and food, maybe a few cheap clothing also! Now the SLAVE thinks he is "free", comes to work for you every day, never complains and he is no longer your HEADACHE. You can rent out the old slave quarters as an added bonus! The moment any of your freed slaves act up in any way, you can now easily get rid of them and new ones are eagerly waiting for the "opportunity" to serve you! Now they want to become one of your "associates", "team members"! Productivity is going through the roof now. Beatings were never good on the moral of the slaves anyway. Now that they are "free", they come to work with a smile on their face, day in day out. If they don't come back to work for you, or any of the other business owners, they will be destitute! Pure genius!

Oh, yes, come back they all did. Maybe not to their original masters, they all found new masters that give them a stipend called a paycheck at the end of the week. Only to find out that little check will only grant them the most impoverished lifestyle on the planet not very different then what they had before. They toil the lands, factories, kitchens as before, then take their minimum wage paychecks that ONLY covers the most basic necessities. Even after pulling in 40 hours a week, many still have problems just scraping together enough money for FOOD. (hence the government thus having to subsidize the slave population and come up with the food stamp program) Meanwhile the old "slave masters" changed their titles to "employer." Now you are on your own, you wanted "freedom" now you have it! Now YOU pay for the housing we used to provide for you on your own! Now YOU pay for your own meals! Now YOU worry about the clothing on your back! Now YOU deal with your own medical problems and so forth! Here is your minimum wage paycheck, good luck.

Welcome to your new FREEDOM! Behold: not only are they still your masters... you have not only had the wool pulled over your eyes, you ate up the illusion that you were freed. So I ask of those poor, tired, hungry, low educated souls that toil day in and day out just barely scraping by: "are you truly free?" I say to thee:

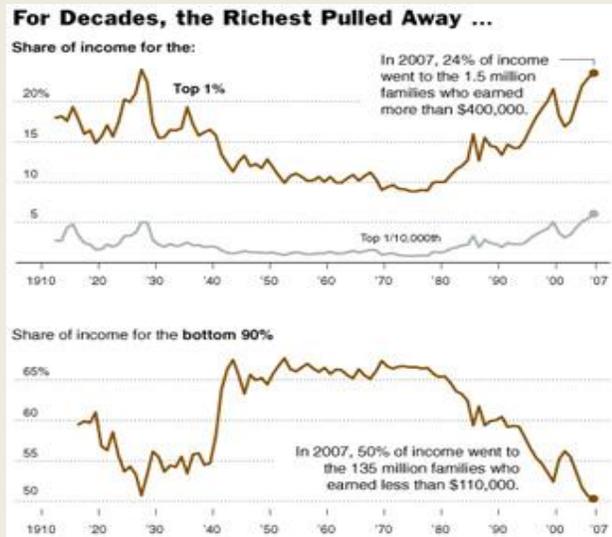

“Emancipate yourself from the bonds of mental slavery.”

Richest 400 Taxpayers See Incomes Double, Tax Rates Halved

By Jon Perr Friday Feb 19, 2010 5:30pm

For Democrats wavering in their resolve to end the Bush tax cuts for the wealthiest Americans, shocking new data from the IRS should hopefully stiffen their backbones. Between 2001 and 2007, the 400 richest taxpayers doubled their annual incomes to an average of $345 million, while their effective tax rate plummeted to only 16.6% from 29.4% in 1993.

Following recent analyses confirming that income inequality in the United States has reached record levels, noted tax journalist David Cay Johnston summed up the new data, "The incomes of the top 400 American households soared to a new record high in dollars and as a share of all income in 2007, while the income tax rates they paid fell to a record low. The numbers tell the tale of the widening chasm between the rich and everyone else:

In 2007 the top 400 taxpayers had an average income of $344.8 million, up 31 percent from their average $263.3 million income in 2006, according to figures in a report that the IRS posted to its Web site without announcement that were discovered February 16...

Adjusted for inflation to 2009 dollars, the top 400 enjoyed a 27 percent increase in their income, or nine times the rate of increase for the bottom 90 percent...Since 1992, the bottom 90 percent of Americans have seen their incomes rise by 13 percent in 2009 dollars, compared with an increase of 399 percent for the top 400.

Unsurprisingly, the public disclosure of the top 400 report first introduced by the Clinton administration was halted by President Bush (only to be reinstated by the Obama White House last year). Unsurprising that is, because the sheer size of the massive windfall for America's rich due to the Bush tax cuts would make a Warren Buffet blush.

400 Highest Income Americans See Income Soar, Tax Rate Fall in 2007
	Average Income (in thousands)	Average Income in 2009 Dollars (in thousands)	Effective Tax Rate (%)
1993	$46,320	$68,770	29.35
2001	$131,099	$158,812	22.85
2007	$344,759	$356,722	16.62

As the Center for American Progress noted, the Bush tax cuts delivered a third of their total benefits to the wealthiest 1% of Americans. And to be sure, their payday was staggering. The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities detailed that by 2007, millionaires on average pocketed $120,000 from the Bush tax cuts of 2001 and

2003. Those in the top 1% stashed an extra $45,000 a year. As a result, millionaires saw their after-tax incomes rise by 7.6%, while the gains for the middle quintile and bottom 20% of Americans were a paltry 2.3% and 0.4%, respectively. (Other CBPP studies demonstrated that the Bush tax cuts accounted for half of the mushrooming deficits during his tenure in the White House and will continue to do so over the next decade.)

And as the New York Times uncovered in 2006, the 2003 Bush dividend and capital gains tax cuts offered almost nothing to taxpayers earning below $100,000 a year. Instead, those windfalls reduced taxes "on incomes of more than $10 million by an average of about $500,000." As the Times revealed in a jaw-dropping chart, "the top 2 percent of taxpayers, those making more than $200,000, received more than 70% of the increased tax savings from those cuts in investment income." So it should come as no surprise that the income share of the 400 richest Americans doubled over the past decade.

The New York Times

And yet, the usual suspects among the Republican Party (and some quislings among the Democrats) are pleading that the rich should be spared even as their share of the national wealth reaches stratospheric levels. Arguing in the Wall Street Journal that the upper bracket tax rates should not be restored to their Clinton-era rates, Ari Fleischer insisted that the top 10% of taxpayers are "supporting virtually everyone and everything" and "their burden keeps getting heavier." Fleischer added, "It's also what's called redistribution of income, and it is getting out of hand."

Oh, it's gotten out of hand all right, just not in the direction Fleischer claims.

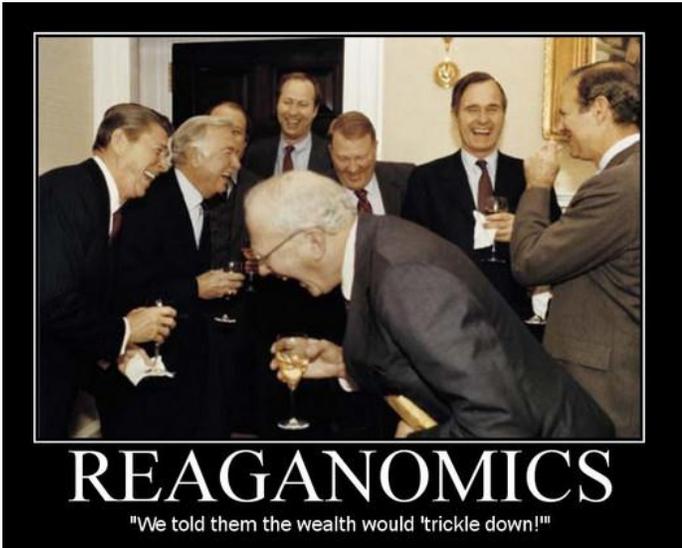

But as ThinkProgress detailed, failing to restore upper bracket tax rates to their Clinton-era levels of 39.6% from 35% not only won't help spur economic recovery, it will blow a gaping hole through the federal budget even as it needlessly lines the pockets of the wealthiest Americans:

In an era when everyone seems to be running around screaming about the deficit, there's absolutely no reason to extend these cuts, which this year will give millionaires more in tax breaks than 90 percent of Americans will earn in income. The Bush tax cuts have delivered $715 billion to the wealthiest one percent of the country over the last ten years, and extending the cuts would give households in that one percent $60,000 in additional breaks per year, with millionaires receiving a $150,000 annual break. Over ten years, that amounts to another $1.2 trillion in lost revenue.

Last August, the always excellent David Leonhardt of the New York Times described the toll that the Bush recession had taken on the coffers of the richest Americans. "Over the last two years, they have become poorer," he wrote, "And many may not return to their old levels of wealth and income anytime soon." But the last time they paid a 39% income tax rate, the United States enjoyed a booming economy, rising incomes, low unemployment and expanding budget surpluses.

It may not have been quite as good a deal for the Bush 400, but it worked pretty well for almost everybody else.

America is the richest nation in history, yet we now have the highest poverty rate in the industrialized world with an unprecedented number of Americans living in dire straits and over 50 million citizens already living in poverty. This is just counting the people BELOW the poverty line; there are easily another 10 to 30 million that are not very far ABOVE the poverty line. According to Dept of Health, an estimated 27 million people age 12 to 64 lived in families that received government assistance last year. While you have 35.9 million (more than 10% of our population) people living in certified poverty in these wonderful United States of America, there are about just 1000 people who own almost half of everything in America! At any given point in time there are anywhere from 2 to 5 million homeless people in America (another grossly underestimated figure given by the establishment).

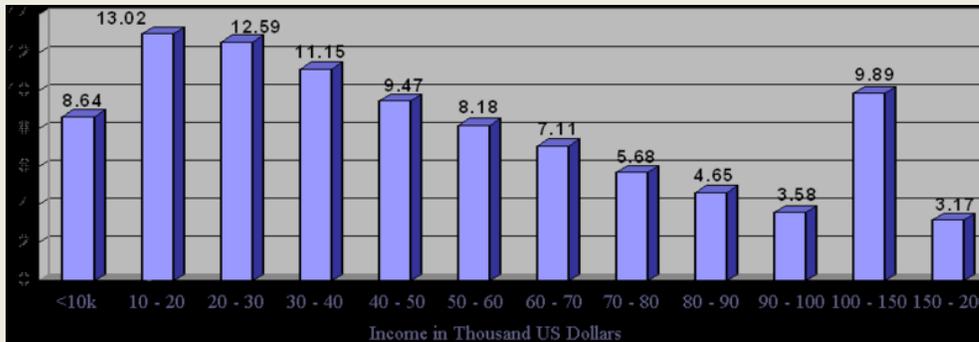

This is mind boggling and yet nonchalantly widely accepted knowledge. But these are just “official” figures, let’s analyze REAL statistics:

The so called “middle class” barely even exists anymore, for their numbers have been steadily disseminated and dwindling to endangered species levels. With the engineered economic collapse of 2006-2009 the middle class has been rendered to myth existence, a figment of your imaginations. Poverty is just another form of premeditated enslavement...

Can We Talk About Poverty?

Politicians in the U.S. are obsessed with courting the middle class, which according to the mythic economic history of our nation currently forms the backbone of American culture.

Even the supposedly radical Barack Obama spent 98% of his campaign talking about how to strengthen the middle class in America. No one has really talked about poverty in the U.S. since Lyndon Johnson declared war on it fifty years ago.

That war has been lost. In fact, it was lost almost as soon as Johnson left office.

What’s more, here’s another newflash: Right now there IS no middle class in America. Or, at least, the middle class that still exists comprises the smallest group of wage earners in the country.

The average household income in the U.S. is hovering around $50K right now, but that is no longer anything like a middle class wage in a nation where a simple two bedroom house or apartment runs well in excess of $800 per month, even in the most depressed areas, and where an unexpected appendectomy (even with insurance coverage) can cause a family with two working parents to go bankrupt.

What's more, that $50K figure refers to HOUSEHOLD income, not individual income.

According to U.S. Census figures from 2004--the most recent year that such figures are available--fully 55% of individual Americans make less than $50K per year, with nearly 30% making less than $25K. Those figures are almost certainly much more grim today.

If you look at the graph above (again, compiled from 2004 U.S. census figures) it becomes dramatically clear that incomes between $75 and $100K--incomes that would be capable of providing a truly middle class lifestyle in the U.S.-- form the smallest percentage of persons in the entire nation.

Does it make sense to make the smallest group of people in the country the exclusive focus of political pitches and sales jobs? Or do politicians like to pander to our fantasies about who we are rather than address the realities of where most of us really live?

Over $100K the percentages predictably increase again dramatically.

Chances are good that if you live in the U.S. and think you are middle class, you aren't.

Why do we keep hearing about the middle class then instead of hearing about how we should handle increasing poverty and hunger here? These trends are real and are here right now.

An article in the Kalamazoo newspaper last week (in Michigan, where I personally live) reported that a startling 37% of public school children here now live below the poverty line. The school board expects that figure to rise to close to 50% in coming years. Half of all students receive government subsidized free lunches, for many their first and possibly only meal of the day.

The current federal poverty threshold for an American family of four is $22,000. That's just under $300 clear per week. Subtract your $800 two bedroom apartment rent and that family is left with about $112 each week to buy food, gas, heat, clothes, and medical care--which now looks like we won't be getting anytime soon without a really good job.

This kind of dementia in Washington has to stop. It's time to stop pretending like we are living through the boom times of post WW-II and start facing some cold, frightening realities.

Perhaps as we are faced with the extreme poverty of the Haitian people and finding it in our hearts to extend help, we can finally find it in our hearts to look at our own people too and see them realistically--then get to work doing what needs to be done in the hard years ahead.

Lots of hungry school kids are depending on us to do just that.

The general population has been essentially financially subjugated and enslaved. That's not even mentioning hard core global slavery. Where people and children are still literally bought and sold on market at rates never seen all the history of mankind. Africa? Those poor people are among the most unfortunate souls on the planet having been born in a destitute land that is undergoing severe planned eugenic genocide. My heart goes out to these victims, but in reality there is basically nothing we can do for them since it is the power elites that have them suffering to death through their imposed genocide policies. It's all part of their global population reduction strategy program (Remember, I encourage everyone to google.com every single fact I point out in this report).

What? Premeditated genocide of millions upon millions of people? No way! Those Africans are doing that to themselves! Sorry Charley. The REAL culprits behind the ecological starvation and slaughter of the black nations has been brought to you and sponsored by none other than the global ruling masters. For instance: what do you think? That the IMF and World Banks were really founded to actually HELP poor developing countries? LOL! Oh come on, stop being so gullible sheeple! The real purpose of those central banks is to straddle and ENSLAVE poor and up and coming nations with massive DEBT! They then waltz in to appoint leaders, dictate policies and divide the spoils of financial war. Just like any unscrupulous loan shark, the victims who borrow from them only feel the pain when it comes time to make their payments they cannot afford... they are then OWNED by the money men, for:

DEBT is THE NUMBER ONE INSTRUMENT USED TO ENSLAVE MAN, INSTITUTIONS AND NATIONS!

"... Debts must be collected mortgages foreclosed as rapidly as possible. When through the process of law the common people lose their homes, they will become more docile and more easily governed through the strong arm of government applied by a central power of wealth under leading financiers. . . . It is thus by discreet action we can secure for ourselves that which has been so well planned and so successfully accomplished." - 1924 U.S. Banker's Association Magazine

This is how the Zionist Jew banksters have operated their money debt scam throughout all of history. Everywhere they go they literally enslave the masses with easy credit. Then the USEFUL IDIOT goyim sheeple toil endlessly in a web of debt in interest repayment for their entire lives, for as you repay, they offer you even more credit. You ARE their slaves whether you choose to accept it or not. BOW to your financial slave masters you pathetic goyim sheeple!

You still stand there and believe the lies that the media instills within your mind that you are actually EQUAL to the ruling elite? LOL! They have there own standards of Law while all you pathetic biatches must go through the "system." For instance, and you all know of at least a dozen similar examples... while a regular person gets 15 years for this or that "offense" a WORSE offense by a suite and tie wearing shmo from the "elite" will get him little or no time in prison... here is just one simple example out of hundreds of thousands:

Across the nation THIS is more the NORM not than the exception, you all know this already. There are two systems of justice, one for the elite, rich, famous and advantaged, the system which operates under the pretext of innocent until proven innocent and the one that all the rest of the regular population must deal with: guilty until proven innocent. When the final verdict is revealed, the poor working class ALWAYS, and in ALWAYS pays a disproportionately higher, as in astronomically HIGHER price for the same type offense compared to the rich, connected offenders.

THIS is the rule of law that we have today; this is reality staring you in the face....

The Illusion of Ownership
 How many of you have paid off your car or home and think you own it free and clear? Well, you don't.
 Merriam-Webster defines ownership as the state, relation, or fact of being an owner. It also defines an owner as to have power or mastery over. It defines property as the exclusive right to possess, enjoy, and dispose of a thing.

Wikipedia states that ownership is the state or fact of exclusive rights and control over property, which may be an object, land/real estate, or some other kind of property (like government-granted monopolies collectively referred to as intellectual property). It is embodied in an ownership right also referred to as title.

The second definition by Wikipedia is a bit more precise.

If “ownership is the state or fact of exclusive rights and control over property”, why is it that you don’t own your car or house even though you paid it off? There are actually a few reasons.

- If you have a legal obligation to pay tax on something you “own”, you do not own it, because you do not have exclusive rights and control over the property. If the government has the right to tax your “property”, you don’t own it. At the very least, you are only co-owner, because your ownership is contingent upon your tax payments to your co-owner the state.
- If you have to ask permission to do something to your property, you don’t own it. If the government requires you to purchase permits and get approval to make certain changes to “your” so-called property, you don’t own it. Remember, “ownership –should– give you exclusive rights and control over your property”.
- If your property can and will be taken away by force if necessary by non-payment of taxes, you do not own your property.

Why do we bother buying a house when we only end up paying less rent after it’s “paid” for? The best way to really define a house or car ownership is to say co-ownership, because you have the right to modify most things without asking permission.

You do have some rights that would be acquired from true ownership:

- In some states, you have the right to protect yourself, your family, and your property from thieves and intruders in your car or home. In Florida, they refer to this as the “Castle Doctrine”.
- You can also sell your house or car, which removes the burden of state co-ownership.

The key point to take away from this is that you cannot voluntarily remove yourself and your property from the “system”. This may not seem like a big deal, but this is a prerequisite to true ownership and freedom.

It certainly would be nice to have the right to just be a farmer and live off “your” land if you chose to, but that will never happen.

Chose to accept it or not, you live in the real live Matrix (like the movie) where almost everything is a well crafted programmed illusion. I don’t make this stuff up, everything I reveal here in this report are all hidden but readily researched FACTS.

America's Middle Class is dying and the stats prove it

From The Business Insider - [22 Statistics That Prove The Middle Class Is Being Systematically Wiped Out Of Existence In America] Jul 15, 2010 by Michael Snyder in Recession

The 22 statistics detailed here prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the middle class is being systematically wiped out of existence in America.

The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer at a staggering rate. Once upon a time, the United States had the largest and most prosperous middle class in the history of the world, but now that is changing at a blinding pace.

Take off your hats and bow to your betters. It's over - the noble American experiment I mean.

The American middle class is being systematically wiped out of existence. The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer here at a historically unprecedented rate.

Once the United States had the largest and most prosperous middle class in the history of the world, but that's ending at a blinding pace.

The new 'global economy' means that middle class American workers have to directly compete for jobs with people on the other side of the world where there is no minimum wage and practically no regulations.

If the socialism the Tea Party is shouting about means anything in the U.S. anymore it refers to the golden circle of the super rich, who are profiting at unheard of rates whilst the rest of this nation suffers.

U.S. Corporations have grown massively rich exploiting third world labor pools, but middle class American workers have increasingly lost out

Here are the statistics to prove it:

- 83 percent of all U.S. stocks are in the hands of 1 percent of the people.
- 61 percent of Americans "always or usually" live paycheck to paycheck, which was up from 49 percent in 2008 and 43 percent in 2007.
- 66 percent of the income growth between 2001 and 2007 went to the top 1% of all Americans.
- 36 percent of Americans say that they don't contribute anything to retirement savings.
- A staggering 43 percent of Americans have less than $10,000 saved up for retirement.
- 24 percent of American workers say that they have postponed their planned retirement age in the past year.
- Over 1.4 million Americans filed for personal bankruptcy in 2009, which represented a 32 percent increase over 2008.
- Only the top 5 percent of U.S. households have earned enough additional income to match the rise in housing costs since 1975.
- For the first time in U.S. history, banks own a greater share of residential housing net worth in the United States than all individual Americans put together.
- In 1950, the ratio of the average executive's paycheck to the average worker's paycheck was about 30 to 1. Since the year 2000, that ratio has exploded to between 300 to 500 to one.
- As of 2007, the bottom 80 percent of American households held about 7% of the liquid financial assets.
- The bottom 50 percent of income earners in the United States now collectively own less than 1 percent of the nation's wealth.
- Average Wall Street bonuses for 2009 were up 17 percent when compared with 2008.
- In the United States, the average federal worker now earns 60% MORE than the average worker in the private sector.
- The top 1 percent of U.S. households own nearly twice as much of America's corporate wealth as they did just 15 years ago.
- In America today, the average time needed to find a job has risen to a record 35.2 weeks.
- More than 40 percent of Americans who actually are employed are now working in service jobs, which are often very low paying.

- or the first time in U.S. history, more than 40 million Americans are on food stamps, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture projects that number will go up to 43 million Americans in 2011.
- This is what American workers now must compete against: in China a garment worker makes approximately 86 cents an hour and in Cambodia a garment worker makes approximately 22 cents an hour.
- Approximately 21 percent of all children in the United States are living below the poverty line in 2010 - the highest rate in 20 years.
- Despite the financial crisis, the number of millionaires in the United States rose a whopping 16 percent to 7.8 million in 2009.
- The top 10 percent of Americans now earn around 50 percent of our national income.

Giant Sucking Sound

The reality is that no matter how smart, how strong, how educated or how hard working American workers are, they just cannot compete with people who are desperate to put in 10 to 12 hour days at less than a dollar an hour on the other side of the world. After all, what corporation in their right mind is going to pay an American worker 10 times more (plus benefits) to do the same job? The world is fundamentally changing. Wealth and power are rapidly becoming concentrated at the top and the big global corporations are making massive amounts of money. Meanwhile, the American middle class is being systematically wiped out of existence as U.S. workers are slowly being merged into the new "global" labor pool.

What do most Americans have to offer in the marketplace other than their labor? Not much. The truth is that most Americans are absolutely dependent on someone else giving them a job. But today, U.S. workers are "less attractive" than ever. Compared to the rest of the world, American workers are extremely expensive, and the government keeps passing more rules and regulations seemingly on a monthly basis that makes it even more difficult to conduct business in the United States.

So corporations are moving operations out of the U.S. at breathtaking speed. Since the U.S. government does not penalize them for doing so, there really is no incentive for them to stay.

What has developed is a situation where the people at the top are doing quite well, while most Americans are finding it increasingly difficult to make it. There are now about six unemployed Americans for every new job opening in the United States, and the number of "chronically unemployed" is absolutely soaring. There simply are not nearly enough jobs for everyone.

Many of those who are able to get jobs are finding that they are making less money than they used to. In fact, an increasingly large percentage of Americans are working at low wage retail and service jobs.

But you can't raise a family on what you make flipping burgers at McDonald's or on what you bring in from greeting customers down at the local Wal-Mart.

The truth is that the middle class in America is dying -- and once it is gone it will be incredibly difficult to rebuild.

For instance did you know that when you buy a car and make payments you actually buy TWO cars! The one you get to ride that the bank owns until you finish making the payments and the other car, the invisible one made up of INTEREST payments, so instead of paying $20,000 for that car, when everything is all paid off you shelled out about $40,000 in the end. Duh! The American Dream in reality, it is actually the Zionist fabrication and their dream come true. You finance a home of let's say $200,000 and 30 years later, (go ahead do the math on your own home!) the grand total you would have coughed up will be roughly three times that amount! Doh! (of course sums vary according to interest rate) So you will end up paying $600,000 for that $200,000 home! Yeeee haaaa! The bankers pocket up to two thirds of the money for doing absolutely nothing! Bankers are the only people on the planet that ever had the balls and ingenuity to operate a business on the fundamental basis of "yes I will give you the money to buy this and that, but you must pay me double or triple what it's worth. It's purely mind boggling when you think about it. Percentage points add up, interest compounds and accumulates like bunny rabbits.

Oh, and if you have any un anticipated financial troubles or fall ill along the way? Foreclosure baby! The bankster takes back THEIR home, you are put on the street and STILL OWE THEM EVERY DIME THEY LENT YOU, then they put it back on the market and start the whole entire debt trap all over again on another gullible victim in search of the illusive American Dream. I command you to bow to your all powerful bankster masters you poor pathetic goyim useful idiot!

Behold: For after skull#ucking you in every which way and form, they demand you pay for running their system, go out and plow their fields, pick their cotton, cook their foods, cut their lawns, clean their homes, work their factories and businesses like good obedient goyim sheeple you should be, and don't you dare complain for they are watching and monitoring what you say and do with CCTV and advanced eavesdropping technology implanted in all your wonderful tech gadgets and cell phones. As you are in that deep slumber, they are busy tapping your phones and monitoring your internet activities, opening your mail, snooping around in search for the free thinkers and possible dissenters, aka: "terrorists." You have just one right: do as your told and be afraid... be very afraid...

MASS MEDIA PROGRAMMING MATRIX

WEAPONS OF MASS DECEPTION

THE MINISTERS OF "TRUTH" HYPE & PROPAGANDA

"People have to realize that the Jews in the U.S. control the entire information and propaganda machine, the large newspapers, the motion pictures, radio and television, and the big companies. And there is a force that we have to take into consideration." – Richard Nixon, U.S. President

"There is no such thing in America as an independent press. You know it and I know it... The business of the journalist is to destroy the truth; to lie outright; to pervert; to vilify; to fawn at the feet of Mammon, and to sell his country and his race for his daily bread. You know it and I know it, so what folly is this toasting an independent press? We are the tools and vassals of rich men behind the scenes. They pull the strings and we dance." - John Swinton, former chief of staff for the New York Times, in an address to fellow journalists.

"Our job is to give people not what they want, but what we decide they ought to have." - Richard Salent, Former President CBS News.

"If you give a man the correct information for seven years, he may believe the incorrect information on the first day of the eighth year when it is necessary, from your point of view, that he should do so. Your first job is to build the credibility and the authenticity of your propaganda, and persuade the enemy to trust you although you are his enemy." - A Psychological Warfare Casebook Operations Research Office Johns Hopkins University Baltimore (1958)

Can you imagine the possibilities if you could OWN REALITY. Literally mold and shape the perceived world around you. Perception and reality are intangible elements, that cannot be bought and sold, one cannot "own" reality, right? NOT. The grand deceivers of man have long ago figured out how to OWN REALITY.

The Zionist elite realized long ago the magnificent pure unadulterated programming POWER of mass media. They had the foresight to understand that the battle for people's minds would be conducted in their living rooms.

During ALL wars, one of the central strategies employed on the enemies was none other than to broadcast messages via RADIO, TV and media, the perfect medium for dissemination of propaganda, mold and shape the thinking and perception of its target audience.. That is because the governments know IT WORKS. It is scientifically unequivocally proven that broadcasts have immense impact on the target audience. So much so that all military's on the planet have utilized it as an essential military tactic.

It has been truly stated that a man's judgment is only as good as his information. Thus, in order to alter the judgment of people, you must control the information they receive. Unbeknownst to the population, there has long been a field of study whose only objective is to research, understand and control human perception and behavior, that field is: The Behavioral Sciences we discussed in previous chapters. The practice and implementing of the established knowledge of Behavioral Sciences and especially APPLIED COGNITIVE SCIENCE is implemented chiefly through the mass media mediums.

It is so crucially important that I must once again reiterate: After hundreds upon hundreds of years of population control trial and error. The quest was on to find the perfect way to shape and mold the population's perception of reality. The ruling Illuminati elite discovered the best way to OWN reality and establish their goal of world rule was none other than to SHAPE and TAKE CONTROL OF PEOPLES' MINDS with the magical perception molding instruments of mass media. TV and Hollywood productions are essentially Behavioral Science MASS PROGRAMMING and CONDITIONING operations. Period.

What do you think ADVERTISING is? It is basically PROGRAMMING the population utilizing mass media TO BUY STUFF. Of course not everyone is easily susceptible to advertising/programming but IT HAS BEEN SCIENTIFICALLY PROVEN THAT IT WORKS. So much so that It is a multi-billion dollar business.

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country"- Edward Bernays, 1928

The SECRET of television:
IT IS THE PERFECT MASS HYPNOSIS MEDIUM and MASS PROGRAMMING APPARATUS.

TELEVISION

Watching television is the favorite leisure activity or rather non-activity for millions of people around the world. The average American, by the time he is sixty years old, will have spent fifteen years staring at the TV screen. In many other countries the figures are similar. Many people find watching TV “relaxing.”

Observe yourself closely and you will find that the longer the screen remains the focus of your attention, the more your thought activity becomes suspended, and for long periods you are watching the talk show, game show, sitcom, or even commercials with almost no thought being generated by your mind.

Not only do you not remember your problems anymore, but you become temporarily free of yourself – and what could be more relaxing than that?

So does TV watching create inner space? Does it cause you to be present?

Unfortunately, it does not. Although for long periods your mind may not be generating any thoughts, it has linked into the thought activity of the television show.

It has linked up with the TV version of the collective mind, and is thinking its thoughts. Your mind is inactive only in the sense that it is not producing thoughts. It is, however, continuously absorbing thoughts and images that come through the TV screen. This induces a trance-like passive state of heightened susceptibility, not unlike hypnosis.

That is why it lends itself to manipulation of “public opinion,” as politicians and special-interest groups as well as advertisers know and will pay millions of dollars to catch you in that state of receptive unawareness. They want their thoughts to become your thoughts, and usually they succeed.

So when watching television, the tendency is for you to fall below thought, not rise above it. Television has this in common with alcohol and certain other drugs. While it provides some relief from your mind, you again pay a high price: loss of consciousness. Like those drugs, it too has a strong addictive quality.

You reach for the remote control to switch off and instead find yourself going through all the channels. Half an hour or an hour later, you are still watching, still going through the channels. The off button is the only one your finger seems unable to press.

You are still watching, usually not because anything of interest has caught your attention, but precisely because there is nothing of interest to watch. Once you are hooked, the more trivial, the more meaningless, it is, the more addictive it becomes.

If it were interesting, thought provoking, it would stimulate your mind into thinking for itself again, which is more conscious and therefore preferable to a TV-induced trance. Your attention would, therefore, no longer be totally held captive by the images on the screen.

The content of the program, if there is a certain quality to it, can to some extent counteract and sometimes even undo the hypnotic, mind-numbing effect of the medium of TV. There are some programs that have been extremely helpful to many people; have changed their lives for the better, opened their heart, made them more conscious.

Even some comedy shows, although they may be about nothing in particular, can be unintentionally spiritual by showing a caricature version of human folly and the ego. They teach us not to take anything too seriously, to approach life in a light-hearted way, and above all, they teach by making us laugh.

Laughter is extraordinarily liberating as well as healing. Most of television, however, is as yet controlled by people who are totally controlled by the ego, and so the TV's hidden agenda becomes control of you by putting you to sleep, that is to say, making you unconscious. Yet there is enormous and still largely unexplored potential in the medium of television.

Avoid watching programs and commercials that assault you with a rapid succession of images that change every two or three seconds or less.

Excessive TV watching and those programs in particular are largely responsible for attention deficit disorder, a mental dysfunction now affecting millions of children worldwide. A short attention span makes all your perceptions and relationships shallow and unsatisfying.

Whatever you do, whatever action you perform in that state, lacks quality, because quality requires attention. Frequent and prolonged TV watching not only makes you unconscious, it also induces passivity and drains you of energy.

Therefore, rather than watching at random, choose the programs you want to see. Whenever you remember to do so, feel the aliveness inside your body as you watch.

Alternatively, be aware of your breathing from time to time.

Look away from the screen at regular intervals so that it does not completely take possession of your visual sense. Don't turn up the volume any higher than necessary so that the TV doesn't overwhelm you on the auditory level.

Use the mute button during commercials. Make sure you don't go to sleep immediately after switching off the set or, even worse, fall asleep with the set still on.

Excerpt from a chapter of Eckhart Tolle's book "A New Earth: Awakening to Your Life's Purpose"

With the advent of the 20th century this objective has since been perfected to a "T", especially with the help of modern mass media such as TV, movies, radio, and print... which are none other than disguised mass hypnosis programming tools. These are none other than perception molding and shaping instruments. Media brainwashing and conditioning have filled the minds of the masses with so much wrong, tainted, corrupt, false info, lies, morality stripping, indoctrination, prejudice provoking, and so on, that arriving at the right conclusions has become almost impossible for the masses. The masses are routinely "Primed" (conditioning) on all types of matters, so that when the actual events/matters occur, the masses readily accept the outcomes without so much as a second thought.

How Television Affects Your Brain Chemistry - video

Definition: Priming refers to a increased sensitivity to certain stimuli due to prior experience. Because priming is believed to occur outside of conscious awareness, it is different from memory that relies on the direct retrieval of information. Direct retrieval utilizes explicit memory, while priming relies on implicit memory. Research has also shown that the affects of priming can impact the decision-making process (Jacoby, 1983).

Covert Hypnosis

Covert Hypnosis is the ability to subtly communicate with another person's subconscious mind without them noticing. As it often takes place in the course of a seemingly regular conversation [communications], it is also known as Conversational Hypnosis. The objective is to change the intended behavior - a sales person, for example, telling the client how good she will feel buying the new product. An intentional use of carefully selected words, body language, intentional gestures that seem commonplace (pointing in a certain direction) and facial expressions (a frown to the buyer to convey the unspoken opinion that she is making a mistake) in order to covertly communicate with someone's subconscious mind. The final objective is to have the person make their own decision to change their mind.

It is a form of hypnosis attempting to achieve near hypnotic states in the listener (sometimes called "sleight of mouth"). In covert hypnosis the subject is unaware that the hypnotist is either a hypnotist, or hypnotizing them, or that anything out of the ordinary is occurring.

Covert hypnosis is a phenomenon not too different from indirect hypnosis (as derived from Milton H. Erickson popularized as The Milton Model) in style but the defining feature is certainly the act of an individual subject becoming hypnotized and taking part in hypnotic phenomena without conscious effort/choice - covert hypnosis like "Ericksonian Hypnosis operates through covert and subtle means... to reach deeper levels of consciousness than are touched by the surface structure of language"; it is the concept that an individual, 'the hypnotist,' can control another individual's behavior via gaining rapport (co-operation of their attention - as without rapport covert hypnosis does not take place) with the subject and then making suggestions which the subject isn't fully consciously aware the meaning of. -[Source Wikipedia]

The mass media is like every other integral components of the Matrix, just connect the dots. The Matrix Report exposes this branch that has been covered throughout the ages by many researchers and independent experts, but unfortunately most works out there exposing the mass media cartel have been conducted as an isolated segment without the knowledge of its use by a ruling elite cartel. Therefore it has never been identified as one of the most important parts of a system of control. Thus researchers often viewed the media world as a separate messed up morally bankrupt industry and rarely do they connect it to the whole Matrix elite ruler's super structure and their sinister implementations of the medium.

I cannot hope to do an exhaustive expose on this subject; I implore the reader to take the initiative and follow up on the hundreds upon hundreds of leads, paths, and declarations I make here for I can often only basically expose and introduce an important factor, component then continue forward. With so much material to cover I must go straight to the next issues that are KEY components of revealing "the media matrix." Here again I am limited to merely summarizing KEY elements on how they have been controlling the masses, for anything and everything they are behind of can be and is portrayed the way they want you to believe it... for you sit down every day for hours on end in front of their main mass hypnosis apparatus that tells you what to think, how to think, what is going on around the world and so on, establishing the acknowledged unified "mass reality."

Hostile Break-up, Sinister Reunion: Mesmerism & the Boob

By John Ivan Palmer [excerpt]

...So while the 19th century flipped the switch of scientific modernism, hypnosis (as mesmerism came to be called) thrived in a world of its own, but the ties with electricity were still evident. A favorite stunt of 19th century stage hypnotists like Dr Herbert L Flint was the "electrocution test," where a hypnotized subject sat in an ordinary chair and through suggestion alone was jolted into grotesque contortions by imaginary electrical current. When you annihilate rational thought, you can do anything to people. Subjects were set on fire, buried alive, told to hold back the effects of explosive emetics and laxatives. Plates of hot pepper were blown into pried open eyes. Hypnotists took sledge hammers to massive slabs of stone placed on human planks stretched between two chairs, resulting in at least one death. Huge crowds rose to their feet in standing ovations at the sight of several hypnotic subjects sewn together at the lips and ears with carpet thread.

After the two "fluids" of mesmerism and electromagnetism had flowed their separate ways for a hundred years, a great confluence was about to take place. In the early 1920s, radio was already being called "wireless chloroform" by the New York Times. [1] In 1923, stage hypnotist Joseph Dunninger performed the first "long distance hypnotism" by radio on a listener 10 miles away. The subject, in Long Island, was instructed to "look directly into the horn of the radio," reminiscent of Mesmer's focus on his bucket of mojo. Shortly, the radio listener was "staring at the ceiling with unstarling eyes," whereupon he was stretched between two chairs like a human plank, and then jabbed through the arm with a large needle. Like the Frankenstein monster (essentially an electrical phenomenon) the two magnetisms were being crudely, but prophetically, stitched together.

Orson Welles' 1938 Martian invasion broadcast was the first significant departure from a formal trance induction, which was not necessary because the medium itself had become hypnotic. Welles went straight to the suggestions. Hell of a show. Creating the end of the world is a hard act to follow.

But it was followed. "Mass chloroform" was very much in the air by 1941, when hypnotist Howard Klein "appeared" on CBS's Hobby Lobby radio show. Klein, described as "Dr. Mesmer's star successor", restricted his demonstration to subjects in the studio audience, although the electromagnetic signal went out to untold thousands. Klein's subjects ate lemons thinking they were peaches, and swatted imaginary mosquitoes. The audience's laughter reified the suggestions for the broadcast listeners. An astute reporter noted that "many radio listeners might qualify as hypnotized." The same reporter noted ominously that the "aggravated lethargy" of hypnosis could, through electromagnetic signals, hypnotize a large part of the entire US audience in one fell coo [sic]. [2] Such would happen within a decade.

A few years later a hypnotist named Van Loewe went, not just for the studio audience, but everyone who was listening to radio station 6AM in Perth, Australia. There was panic as at least one person failed to awaken.

Hardly into the 1950s, Ormond McGill reached an audience of millions through his hypnotic yuks on Art Linkletter's People Are Funny television show, making fools of volunteers in front of a backdrop for Niblets Mexicorn. Hypnotists were represented in illustrations as having zigzag bolts of electricity coming from their eyes or fingertips, reminiscent of the lightning bolts from which electricity was harvested by Franklin. The same zigzags became the visual clichés featured in print ads depicting waves coming from TV towers. The ghosts of the two antagonists, Franklin and Mesmer, were shaking hands.

Although contemporary hypnotists like Britain's Paul McKenna are sometimes seen on tabloid shows, TV has now preempted the role of the hypnotist altogether. They are no longer crudely sewn together at the lips and ears. They have seamlessly merged. Live, walking-talking stage hypnotists today complain they can't work in night clubs anymore because they are all full of TV's which no one wants to turn off. Stage hypnotist Marshall Sylver, for example, is better known for his manipulative infomercials than for his stage shows (which some people have said play like infomercials). Surpassing the more straightforward "look into my eyes" form of hypnosis, television, radio, and other "fluid" "streaming" media, use ultra-refined techniques of disguised manipulation which now comprise the universal Mesmeric ether. Touching the bucket is as easy as touching the remote.

Once disowned by science, hypnosis has become its chief product. Marshall McLuhan expressed the merge in his famous pun on thought extermination: "the medium is the massage." McLuhan's message, which you never hear any more, has been muted by 500 channels of massage.

Now that animal magnetism and electromagnetism have rejoined, they have become, what the Journal of Abnormal Psychology has said of stage hypnotism itself, "the most powerful social influence phenomenon known to man." [3] The old idea of a universal ether has become the universal media, creating a worldwide hypnotic reality, a reality with no history, no consciousness outside itself. It is pure trance. Or, as TV critic Ron Powers put it in 1990, "The world, croons television, is television."

In the 19th century Dr Hippolyte Bernheim warned that failure to snap out of it was one of the dangers of hypnosis. After the advent of electronic media, the Journal of Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis published a monograph titled 'Difficulty in dehypnotizing', where the author cited an "assaultive episode" by someone who didn't want to be awakened. [4] In a 1986 study titled Hypnosis Complications, Dr Frank MacHovec enumerated scores of horrendous hypnotic sequelae, like the subject who swallowed her tongue, the man who turned gay overnight, the woman who experienced her hands 20 feet from her body, or the man who developed an obsession for eating raw onions thinking they were apples.

Pierre Bournieu has pointed out that TV communication "is instantaneous because, in a sense, it has not occurred." It's all suggestion, as Welles proved in his 1938 broadcast. You watch in "aggravated lethargy" as a talking oven mitt convinces you to buy a chemical sandwich. You embed yourself in a dangerous guzzler thinking it makes you safe. You watch an entertainment show disguised as news. You vote for whoever pushes your appropriate buttons of sensation. You watch "reality TV," thinking it's reality. You are now the hypnotic subject, twitching to the signals like a pair of amputated frog legs.

Hypnotists don't like subjects who analyze hypnotic procedures. They get thrown off the stage for "fighting it." Therapists can be hardly less diplomatic with patients who "resist." If you refuse to speak (or perform) on-camera, you'll come off as a kind of latter day heretic, flaunting the Holy Writ. And if you throw away a perfectly good TV and live without one at all, at the very least you'll come off as an eccentric.

But you'll be wide awake and out if it.

First of all, I need to address the fact that almost all merchandise that is produced by the media barons and presented in well laid out formats and presented to the public as "News" is nothing more than one dimensional encapsulated bits, pieces and sound bites. We live in a 3D world, yet everything that is presented for our mental consumption is always on a singular one dimensional format. At best sometimes we will receive a 2D "programming." Our real world is multifaceted, multidirectional, multiple view points, multiple dynamics and factors, yet all they give us is one dimensional feeds. More often than not, it is the one dimensional "sanctioned official story" feed that goes national on all media simultaneously released with a contradictory narrative to keep them perpetually engulfed. I won't even try to cover perception beyond the 3rd dimension, just trying to keep things simple. With this concept in mind, you can then begin to dismantle and begin to understand how our media industrial matrix works. For its tentacles cover every aspect of life.

The Art of Corporate Mind Control - video

Throughout all of history every emperor, society, nation and empire has recognized the pivotal importance of controlling the dissemination of information, (media) in order to control the citizens. Authoritarian and Communist societies are infamous for their strategic iron fist control of media and brutal enforcement. So called "free" societies control their media "behind the scenes". Through unseen and never published owner's objectives, agendas, "editorial policies" and goals that are, as in all large organizational structures, always initiated and delegated from the top down. The CEOs set the guidelines and dictate what is and is not to be covered and how. The working minions need never know the "why" factor. The upright "reporters" just read their SCRIPTS.

Milgram's Experiment on Obedience to Authority

Gregorio Billikopf Encina, University of California

Why is it so many people obey when they feel coerced? Social psychologist Stanley Milgram researched the effect of authority on obedience. He concluded people obey either out of fear or out of a desire to appear cooperative--even when acting against their own better judgment and desires. Milgram's classic yet controversial experiment illustrates people's reluctance to confront those who abuse power. It is my opinion that Milgram's book should be required reading (see References below) for anyone in supervisory or management positions.

Milgram recruited subjects for his experiments from various walks in life. Respondents were told the experiment would study the effects of punishment on learning ability. They were offered a token cash award for participating. Although respondents thought they had an equal chance of playing the role of a student or of a teacher, the process was rigged so all respondents ended up playing the teacher. The learner was an actor working as a cohort of the experimenter.

"Teachers" were asked to administer increasingly severe electric shocks to the "learner" when questions were answered incorrectly. In reality, the only electric shocks delivered in the experiment were single 45-volt shock samples given to each teacher. This was done to give teachers a feeling for the jolts they thought they would be discharging.

Shock levels were labeled from 15 to 450 volts. Besides the numerical scale, verbal anchors added to the frightful appearance of the instrument. Beginning from the lower end, jolt levels were labeled: "slight shock," "moderate shock," "strong shock," "very strong shock," "intense shock," and "extreme intensity shock." The next two anchors were "Danger: Severe Shock," and, past that, a simple but ghastly "XXX."

In response to the supposed jolts, the "learner" (actor) would begin to grunt at 75 volts; complain at 120 volts; ask to be released at 150 volts; plead with increasing vigor, next; and let out agonized screams at 285 volts. Eventually, in desperation, the learner was to yell loudly and complain of heart pain.

At some point the actor would refuse to answer any more questions. Finally, at 330 volts the actor would be totally silent--that is, if any of the teacher participants got so far without rebelling first.

Teachers were instructed to treat silence as an incorrect answer and apply the next shock level to the student.

If at any point the innocent teacher hesitated to inflict the shocks, the experimenter would pressure him to proceed. Such demands would take the form of increasingly severe statements, such as "The experiment requires that you continue."

What do you think was the average voltage given by teachers before they refused to administer further shocks? What percentage of teachers, if any, do you think went up to the maximum voltage of 450?

Results from the experiment. Some teachers refused to continue with the shocks early on, despite urging from the experimenter. This is the type of response Milgram expected as the norm. But Milgram was shocked to find those who questioned authority were in the minority. Sixty-five percent (65%) of the teachers were willing to progress to the maximum voltage level.

Participants demonstrated a range of negative emotions about continuing. Some pleaded with the learner, asking the actor to answer questions carefully. Others started to laugh nervously and act strangely in diverse ways. Some subjects appeared cold, hopeless, somber, or arrogant. Some thought they had killed the learner. Nevertheless, participants continued to obey, discharging the full shock to learners. One man who wanted to abandon the experiment was told the experiment must continue. Instead of challenging the decision of the experimenter, he proceeded, repeating to himself, "It's got to go on, it's got to go on."

Milgram's experiment included a number of variations. In one, the learner was not only visible but teachers were asked to force the learner's hand to the shock plate so they could deliver the punishment. Less obedience was extracted from subjects in this case. In another variation, teachers were instructed to apply whatever voltage they desired to incorrect answers. Teachers averaged 83 volts, and only 2.5 percent of participants used the full 450 volts available. This shows most participants were good, average people, not evil individuals. They obeyed only under coercion.

In general, more submission was elicited from "teachers" when (1) the authority figure was in close proximity; (2) teachers felt they could pass on responsibility to others; and (3) experiments took place under the auspices of a respected organization.

Participants were debriefed after the experiment and showed much relief at finding they had not harmed the student. One cried from emotion when he saw the student alive, and explained that he thought he had killed him. But what was different about those who obeyed and those who rebelled? Milgram divided participants into three categories:

Obeyed but justified themselves. Some obedient participants gave up responsibility for their actions, blaming the experimenter. If anything had happened to the learner, they reasoned, it would have been the experimenter's fault. Others had transferred the blame to the learner: "He was so stupid and stubborn he deserved to be shocked."

Obeyed but blamed themselves. Others felt badly about what they had done and were quite harsh on themselves. Members of this group would, perhaps, be more likely to challenge authority if confronted with a similar situation in the future.

Rebelled. Finally, rebellious subjects questioned the authority of the experimenter and argued there was a greater ethical imperative calling for the protection of the learner over the needs of the experimenter. Some of these individuals felt they were accountable to a higher authority.

Why were those who challenged authority in the minority? So entrenched is obedience it may void personal codes of conduct.

Besides the ruling elite's executive operatives, you also have government propaganda arm agents embedded in important positions in just about every mass media outlet. One known major effort in infiltrating the media by the CIA was Operation Mockingbird. This was a very successful covert operation of infiltrating the media, this is not just a figment of my imagination, I bring forth the facts, like it or leave it.

TV and media that is understood to by its inventors and the industry at large as one of the most ideal if not perfect mass "programming" medium to have ever been invented. Its value and proven effectiveness in "programming." Billions of dollars are spent each and every year by advertisers pushing their products via mass media; they in effect create advertisements (selling inducing "programming") to program the masses to purchase their products. Again, advertising has overwhelmingly been proven effective means of a form of programming. The earth changing fact I want to highlight and emphasize here is this: The powers that be have known full well the power of media, especially TV to PROGRAM the masses.

Behold for what I come forth to reveal is that likewise the best way to DE-PROGRAM THE POPULATION is by also in fully utilizing the scientifically proven mass media resources to their fullest potential. Mainstream media is own and controlled lock stock and barrel by the Zionist media barons, therefore we must learn to effectively utilize the internet and alternative means of spreading the truth.

Unplug the Signal: The Truth Will Not Be Televised

by Koen Stroobant

A flow of information is constantly streaming from the television set; a bombardment of words and pictures. The speed at which this information is communicated makes it easy for the signal to take control, switching the viewer's brain to stand-by as information is absorbed without analysis or question. Today the television's constant signal shapes the conclusions of the masses and produces the collective norm. The signal prescribes what is news and what is truth through the words of so-called experts and authorities, gelding the consciousness and independent thoughts of those subjected to it. Through television, the masses can be made to accept the most monstrous distortions of reality. The signal is a chill wind of continuous oppression over the minds of the masses. It controls the management of society and culture, creating uniformity across all subjects.

The fuel for this vehicle of mass deception is a technique known as perception management where an array of psychological techniques are used to alter the truth, leading the viewer to a desired conclusion. Some call this spin or propaganda while others know it as lying. According to Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister for Adolph Hitler, "If you tell a lie big enough and keep repeating it, people will eventually come to believe it... It thus becomes vitally important for the State to use all of its powers to repress dissent, for the truth is the mortal enemy of the lie, and thus by extension, the truth is the greatest enemy of the State." Most of what can be found on the nightly news is nothing but advertisements selling more government and a false reality that benefits only those in control. Television is the dictator of information; newspaper and radio are the whisper campaign of the television's message.

It is expected that Americans will consistently prescribe to the doctrine of the television. It is subtly communicated that one should stay within the collective and never challenge the message, for doing so may be considered an aggression towards culture. The message is, "Be a good consumer; always obey authority; you know nothing; listen only to experts; be content and never question or express new ideas." This signal is being broadcast across millions of screens, indoctrinating the unconscious minds of those who choose this as their only reality. Self-censorship occurs when these individuals become so deeply indoctrinated that they are afraid to discuss any information outside the paradigm of television-created culture; they police their thoughts to ensure they won't conflict with this culture. Sadly, many people's reality today does not allow any outside information to process, instead it is written off as conspiracy or blatant lies. Our consciousness has been destroyed so much that fiction has become reality. An entire lifestyle of poisonous foods, pharmaceuticals, and fluoridated water are accepted as safe and sold to us at the cost of our health and well being.

Those of the establishment are using the incredibly powerful weapon of mass psychology as a method of controlling the minds of the masses and altering the behavior of individuals. Edward Bernays, a pioneer in the field of public relations in the 20th century, applied Sigmund Freud's theory of psychoanalysis to manipulate the masses by engineering consent. According to Bernays, "If we understand the mechanism and motives of the group mind, it is now possible to control and regiment the masses according to our will without them knowing it." Advertisers and psychologists of the billion dollar culture creation industry manufacture trends through the proliferation of insecurities; and manipulating desires and emotions. These concepts are also employed to control how individuals think about politics, as well as the possibilities and limitations within society. Those wielding power within our streams of mass communication market their plans into each generation as individuals adopt specific ways of thinking and never suspect that all the major events and trends within their lifetime are actually planned by an elite few before they are even born. In our society today, culture is created from the top down. Virtually all forms of culture are created by the ruling class to build a false sense of reality, ensure social compliance, and control the future course of cultural evolution.

Predictive programming is a tool used by the establishment to acclimate the public to new ideas, trends, beliefs, and threats. It is used through television by including certain situations or ideas within the plots of many fictional shows, familiarizing the viewer with these concepts no matter what they may be watching. When similar situations occur or like ideas are circulated in the world we think that these particular things are quite natural for we have unknowingly been made familiar with them through television. By viewing nearly any popular show on television, one can see the same propaganda that will be aired on the nightly news. Propaganda on a wide array of subjects has been interwoven into a great number of television shows. Just a few of these subjects include global warming, vaccinations, torture, terrorism, national security, the militarization of police, and the degradation of the family unit. Through predictive programming, television shapes culture and prevents individuals from asking questions.

Crises are created on a daily basis and broadcast across the airwaves to keep individuals in a state of panic and fear. Whether it be the threat of a pandemic or terrorism, the constant state of crisis has created a form of mental illness as we are slowly acclimated into an age of crisis. By using Hegelian dialectic, the television promotes the problem, guides our reaction, and presents the solution. The problem of terrorism was exclaimed, a strong emotional response was evoked, and it was stated that our rights need be sacrificed in order to protect us from the threat. We've lost personal sovereignty under the guise of terrorism; we're stopped and searched; we're watched by cameras as we go about our lives; and we're encouraged to spy on our neighbors. We have been trained to accept the life of a prisoner.

America is in a state of enlightened despotism where most individuals live only to satisfy selfish inner desires and remain ignorant of the state of the world around them. In most public places one can find a television transmitting propaganda around the clock ensuring the masses remain focused on trivial matters. From birth we take the world as it's presented on television. We don't question it and any serious criticism of TV is becoming psychologically impossible in society. Who would suspect getting born into a world where everything around you is a continuous lie? The youth of today are convinced that the experts and personalities on television are the authority of credible information while parents and older generations are foolish with dated ideas. Children are conditioned to disconnect from what is truly important to their well being and instead focus on mindless trivia, sports, celebrity gossip, and buying an array of material things. They invest their psychological worth in fantasy characters on television while ignoring or even scorning individuals contributing to the betterment of humanity. They are discouraged from getting involved in their local community and often lack the ability to think independently or to resist corruption. As their children's minds are molded by television, there is barely a murmur from the public.

For over half a century, our society has lived under this signal of mental programming and conditioning. The message is clear: don't be a leader, don't engage in critical thinking, and don't care about the people in your life. Until individuals become aware of the current information war, our standard of living and our liberties will continue to be degraded and we will continue to lose communities and meaningful relationships between people. Currently, pockets of resistance are beginning to spring up everywhere as some unplug the signal and regain control of their own thoughts. Informed individuals are canceling their cable and satellite subscriptions and instead spending time with their families and children while participating in meaningful experiences. They are seeking alternative news sources. They are reading about those who wield incredible influence over culture like Edward Bernays, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Charles Galton Darwin, Plato, Bertrand Russell, and Aldous Huxley. However, it is a continuous battle to educate the masses for the television remains our greatest threat to individual sovereignty and the largest obstacle to becoming a truly informed individual. Fortunately, unplugging from the signal is easy. The television can simply be turned off. Through doing so, you may realize nearly our entire world is now a hoax; things once known as truth are fake. We have been trained like dogs to be obedient to our television; our master has had our minds on a tight leash. Let us never forget the truth will not be televised.

Major Factor No.1 that allows the media (and government) to control the vast majority of the public's opinion and shape how they perceive the world around them is facilitated by the fact that there has always existed a major portion of the population that is so poorly educated, easily manipulated and just plain dumb, (education level of the average American ranks around 36th place worldwide) that they are easily lead like a herd of sheep (hence the common term of sheeple). This segment makes up the majority of the masses. These are the people you will never find reading a book, let alone visiting thought provoking web sites with lengthy articles that resemble a doctoral thesis. Oh, yes, a portion of this mass do go on the web and read books, but their areas of interest are limited to sections of the net that require very little "brain stress" and mental activity such as novels, fiction, entertainment, MySpace, FaceBook, porn, YouTube, etc.

I cannot stress enough how the mass media knows that the majority of the public is just plain STUPID and gullible. For example: the marketing and advertising community has it down to a science, manipulating public opinion has been documented and scientifically taught in that industries' text books. Especially in the realm of Marketing, psychological manipulation of public opinion has become as easy as child's play. They know how to statistically target specific audiences and what makes them tick. The videos below will give you a glimpse of the collective mental aptitude of the masses. There are hundreds of such videos on the net. I post just a couple here to drive my point across.

Our government also knows full well that the majority of its citizens are easily duped with many of them just plain STUPID. The masses are purposely being raised stupid through our third world level public school system so that they will be more easily herded and become dependent on their Big Brother government. Virtually every politician takes advantage of the gullibility of their constituents, especially when it comes time for re-election. The KEY to understanding how special interests have taken over American policy is in understanding that the mass majority of "sheeple" really have NO CLUE about important issues!

Breaking News: Some Bullshit Happening Somewhere - video

The very, very sad fact is that these are the types of people that come out and vote! These sheeple not only have absolutely NO CLUE and are easily miss-guided by not only the mass media, but by our very own government propaganda machine. So there you have it. The core key synopsis on why/how it is possible for mass media and propaganda machines ability to relatively easily mold public opinion and scam our public to believe even the most outrageous of stories circulated.

Major Factor No. 2. Is the herd mentality of peer level thinking. Put at its most simplest form: No one likes being the "idiot" in the group. Therefore whatever the prevailing opinion of the group becomes the adapted norm. This social psychology of "group think" is another issue that has been proven and very well documented by many researchers.

Major Factor No. 3. Short attention spans and very quick loss of memory. Another highly researched scientific fact taken advantage by our government propaganda apparatus (and media). This is why they use "talking points" and "sound bites". The strategy is in keeping the message simple using catchy phrases and repeating the message over and over again, then having the same messages "echoed" (repeated) by different sources.

Major Factor No. 4. Conditioning, also known by the practicing professionals as: Priming. We have all as members of society, been conditioned in so many ways throughout our lives, I don't know where to begin. Conditioning is everywhere. Starting when we are children, they see the world around us and imitate what they see, we all adapt to our environment, this is a basic elemental function of life. The beginning of official conditioning starts off in the school system. "never question authority figures, do as you are told", they teach you their fairy tale versions of history, this is where the first images of the American dream are planted you are to pursue for the rest of your lives, etc." Conditioning is where the substance of the pseudo reality is emblazoned in our minds. Once we leave high school we are ready to join the other sheeple in society, ready to assume your small role as a "liberated slave". Preprogrammed and ready to serve your new masters. Conditioned to not question your authority figures, the media, nor masters in government. So what if you graduated with a 6th grade reading and math levels, perfect, they succeeded! You are now ready to face the world just the way they want their sheeple to enter society: with an IQ of a chicken. Everything is running according to plan. Oh, lest you never forget: all those textbooks you have had in all the schools over the ages?

The History textbooks provided all of us with our fundamental cohesive image and understanding of the world around us. The History textbooks have always taught one side of the story... the side "they" (your ruling masters) want you to think happened. Textbooks are produced by your benevolent, "unbiased" /cough/ information custodians... the Zionist MEDIA corporations' publishing arms...

The rewriting, and fabrication, of history can be most deadly expression of totalitarian impulses : those who control the past, the record of what has been, control the present and the future. The Zionist ruling elite figured this out long ago and set forth to monopolize the entire realm of media to accomplish just that.

Major Factor No. 5. The entertainment factor is an often overlooked aspect of media control and shaping of mass public thought. Millions upon millions of Americans of all ages sit in front of the TV set for hours on end, many times achieving a type of HYPNOTIC state, completely engrossed in the media being broadcasting. Mass entertainment is crucial to keeping the public distracted, their minds entertained and overloaded with trivial pursuits keeping them engrossed in everything EXCEPT what really matters. Interesting that in the media the term the media industry uses to describe their output is: "programming"! Sit back and relax, your mind is about to updated like a computer with the latest faux reality revision v5.2 "the following program was brought to you by..".

The vast majority of "programs" are all entertainment. We are the most entertained people on the planet.

"worrying about the public's growing attention deficit disorder and susceptibility to information overload, of course, is hardly new. It's been 25 years since Neil Postman warned in "Amusing ourselves to death" that trivia and entertainment values promoted by television were creating distractions that were threatening to subvert public discourse, and more than a decade since writers like James Gleick ("Faster") and Davide Shenk ("Data Smog") described a culture addicted to speed, drowning in data and over stimulated to the point where only sensationalism and willful hyperbole grab people's attention." - Texts Without Contexts NYTimes

Why are we fed so much entertainment programming? Eventually people find their favorite niches, the feeble minded people are consumed by their hobby/sport/shows were they devote hundreds of hours on end in silly trivial pursuit. Take for example Baseball. For many fans it engrosses huge sections of their lives. The fans sit and talk for hours about dumb stats and the players and so forth. Then you have the "fan factor" in which the young waif valuable time, money and mental energies on worshipping their idols. The core concept and main goal of the over abundance of entertainment is to keep the masses entertained and overloaded with trivial matters keeping their minds off of the real important issues in life. To keep the masses distracted and their eyes off of the prize. Those very issues that are dealt with daily, what is going on in the halls of all the government offices, monetary issues, policy issues, etc are purposely made appear boring and rarely covered, and when the few issues that are mentioned on the bloob tube come up, it is only in a 30 second sound bite by a talking head on a news channel reading his script. Then they quickly divert your attention to the main segment of the "news" of the day "Paris Hilton or Britney" for example, whom they will proceed to spend the next 20 minutes covering. Doh!

Is part of the problem that reporters are too close to the political establishment?

That's definitely one of the primary corrupting forces in journalism. The media should be an adversarial force to the political establishment, that's basic journalism. But in the last few decades they have become dependent on the political establishment and assimilated into it, so the media is an arm of the political establishment as opposed to a watchdog over it. That dynamic has corrupted the process more than anything else, because there's no tension between the media and political power. During recent years, the political establishment has been primarily Republican and the media gets fed mostly by Republican operatives—that's where reporters get their access and their scoops and the feeling that they are insiders—and that's where the loyalty of most of the establishment press therefore lies: with Republican power. – Glenn Greenwald – Harpers Magazine

We have literally hundreds of channels to surf on our TV sets, the majority of them cater to specific interests, I would say maybe something like 90% of the programs being shown at any given time are all one form or another of entertainment, much of it is so idiotic I can barely watch TV anymore without feeling mentally molested and insulted. It is sad when most of the citizens have absolutely no clue about what is going on within their society, government and world yet can tell you everything on the planet about their favorite TV show, stars, trivia, sports, etc., to the point of making you nauseous.

The High Priests of Illumination use their propaganda arm in Hollywood to either condition the masses for what's coming (i.e. priming) or purposely produce an 'in-your-face' film as if to say, "Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.....WE did this and you're too mindless to figure it out." What's more, busloads of young people will pay to sit in the big theaters with the large screens and wrap-around sound and will have their heads, hearts, and souls filled with this occult poison.

The press was supposed to be the de facto fourth branch of the American republic, a kind of watchdog over the other three branches of government in case the checks and balances failed. It was specifically mentioned in the first amendment of the Bill of Rights.

The Media As Enablers of Government Lies

by James Bovard, Posted November 5, 2009

Why do politicians so easily get away with telling lies? In large part, because the news media are more interested in bonding with politicians than in exposing them. Americans are encouraged to believe that the media will serve as a check and a balance on the government. Instead, the press too often volunteer as unpaid pimps, helping politicians deceive the public.

In 1936, New York Times White House correspondent Turner Catledge said that President Roosevelt's "first instinct was always to lie." But the Washington press corps covered up Roosevelt's dishonesty almost as thoroughly as they hid his use of a wheelchair in daily life.

President Bill Clinton benefited from a press corps that often treated his falsehoods as nonevents — or even petty triumphs. Newsweek White House correspondent Howard Fineman commented that Clinton's "great strength is his insincerity.... I've decided Bill Clinton is at his most genuine when he's the most phony.... We know he doesn't mean what he says."

Flora Lewis, a New York Times columnist, writing three weeks before 9/11, commented in a review of a book on U.S. government lies on the Vietnam War, "There will probably never be a return to the discretion, really collusion, with which the media used to treat presidents, and it is just as well." But within months of her comment, the media had proven itself as craven as ever. The Washington Post's Dana Milbank, who did some of the best exposés of George W. Bush's falsehoods in his first term, noted that it was not until July 2002 that "the White House press corps showed its teeth" in response to administration deceptions. Even the exposés of FBI and CIA intelligence failures in May 2002 did not end the "phase of alliance" between the White House and the press, as political scientist Martha Kumar observed.

Deference to the government is now the trademark of the American media — at least at times when the truth could have the greatest impact. The media were grossly negligent in failing to question or examine Bush's claims on the road to war. When journalists dug up the truth, editors sometimes ignored or buried their reports. Washington Post Pentagon correspondent Thomas Ricks complained that, in the lead-up to the U.S. invasion of Iraq, "There was an attitude among editors: 'Look, we're going to war; why do we even worry about all this contrary stuff?'" New York Times White House correspondent Elisabeth Bumiller explained the press's conduct at a Bush press conference just before he invaded Iraq: "I think we were very deferential because ... nobody wanted to get into an argument with the president at this very serious time."

After the war started, the falsehood of Bush's claims was often treated as a one-day story, buried in the back of the front section or on the editorial page. Afterward, most papers quickly returned to printing the president's proclamations as gospel. Eric Alterman, author of When Presidents Lie, observed, Virtually every major news media outlet devoted more attention to the lies and dissimulations of one New York Times reporter, Jayson Blair, than to those of the president and vice president of the United States regarding Iraq. Given that these two deceptions took place virtually simultaneously, they demonstrate that while some forms of deliberate deception remain intolerable in public life, those of the U.S. commander in chief are not among them.

What if I were to tell you that all, as in ALL our media: TV, Hollywood movies, radio, newspapers, magazines, book publishing was owned and or directly controlled by a single exclusive group of people... The RUSSIANS. Every single citizen in this country would immediately stand up and riot the very next day. Well the Russians don't control our media... BUT... there is a SINGLE RACE that DOES control 98% of all media, that race is none other than the Jews.

So why is no one rioting? Why does no one seem to notice? Why does no one seem to care? Hello! They control everything you see on TV and hear on the radio! They call the shots at ALL the "news" stations. Of course you are not going to have the foggiest idea that they freaking run it all! They do EVERYTHING discreetly, they shun the limelight like vampires. Anything that divulges anything about Jewish rule is easily kept out of the news (hello, they decide what is "news") and instead they weave their stories. The overall total purpose for them controlling all media is to control every aspect of INFORMATION, thus being in a strategic position to shape and mold everyone's perceptions... the ultimate spinmeisters.

TV Is Mind Control - video

When you see any major news stories that come in coordinated waves reverberating throughout all the "news" outlets there are very important questions you must ask yourself while trying to decipher their real meanings: Where are they going with this? What is the ruling elite's objective in this? What does the trend of news hype reveal of their agenda? One of the secrets to DECIPHERING the agendas of the ruling elite is quite simple. As in all wars, one must DECODE the enemies COMMUNICATIONS. In this case the one enemy communication system that is wide open is the one they are using to MASS PROGRAM THE POPULATION... the mass media outlets.

Here is PROOF of how the media CARTEL act in unison to cohesively deliver any agenda, any narrative, any story line that the ruling elite want the world to accept and believe:

New Study Documents Media's Servitude to Government

By Glenn Greenwald , June 30, 2010

A newly released study from students at Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government provides the latest evidence of how thoroughly devoted the American establishment media is to amplifying and serving (rather than checking) government officials. This new study examines how waterboarding has been discussed by America's four largest newspapers over the past 100 years, and finds that the technique, almost invariably, was unequivocally referred to as "torture" -- until the U.S. Government began openly using it and insisting that it was not torture, at which time these newspapers obediently ceased describing it that way:

The current debate over waterboarding has spawned hundreds of newspaper articles in the last two years alone. However, waterboarding has been the subject of press attention for over a century. Examining the four newspapers with the highest daily circulation in the country, we found a significant and sudden shift in how newspapers characterized waterboarding. From the early 1930s until the modern story broke in 2004, the newspapers that covered waterboarding almost uniformly called the practice torture or implied it was torture: The New York Times characterized it thus in 81.5% (44 of 54) of articles on the subject and The Los Angeles Times did so in 96.3% of articles (26 of 27). By contrast, from 2002-2008, the studied newspapers almost never referred to waterboarding as torture. The New York Times called waterboarding torture or implied it was torture in just 2 of 143 articles (1.4%). The Los Angeles Times did so in 4.8% of articles (3 of 63). The Wall Street Journal characterized the practice as torture in just 1 of 63 articles (1.6%). USA Today never called waterboarding torture or implied it was torture.

Similarly, American newspapers are highly inclined to refer to waterboarding as "torture" when practiced by other nations, but will suddenly refuse to use the term when it's the U.S. employing that technique:

In addition, the newspapers are much more likely to call waterboarding torture if a country other than the United States is the perpetrator. In The New York Times, 85.8% of articles (28 of 33) that dealt with a country other than the United States using waterboarding called it torture or implied it was torture while only 7.69% (16 of 208) did so when the United States was responsible. The Los Angeles Times characterized the practice as torture in 91.3% of articles (21 of 23) when another country was the violator, but in only 11.4% of articles (9 of 79) when the United States was the perpetrator.

As always, the American establishment media is simply following in the path of the U.S. Government (which is why it's the "establishment media"): the U.S. itself long condemned waterboarding as "torture" and even prosecuted it as such, only to suddenly turn around and declare it not to be so once it began using the tactic. That's exactly when there occurred, as the study puts it, "a significant and sudden shift in how newspapers characterized waterboarding." As the U.S. Government goes, so goes our establishment media.

None of this is a surprise, of course. I and others many times have anecdotally documented that the U.S. media completely changes how it talks about something (or how often) based on who is doing it ("torture" when the Bad Countries do it but some soothing euphemism when the U.S. does it; continuous focus when something bad is done to Americans but a virtual news blackout when done by the U.S., etc.). Nor is this an accident, but is quite deliberate: media outlets such as the NYT, The Washington Post and NPR explicitly adopted policies to ban the use of the word "torture" for techniques the U.S. Government had authorized once government officials announced it should not be called "torture."

We don't need a state-run media because our media outlets volunteer for the task: once the U.S. Government decrees that a technique is no longer torture, U.S. media outlets dutifully cease using the term. That compliant behavior makes overtly state-controlled media unnecessary. In his proposed Preface to Animal Farm, George Orwell noted how completely the British Government during World War II was able to control media content without formal or official censorship:

The sinister fact about literary censorship in England is that it is largely voluntary. Unpopular ideas can be silenced, and inconvenient facts kept dark, without the need for any official ban.

So far as the daily newspapers go, this is easy to understand. The British press is extremely centralised, and most of it is owned by wealthy men who have every motive to be dishonest on certain important topics. . . . At any given moment there is an orthodoxy, a body of ideas which it is assumed that all right-thinking people will accept without question. It is not exactly forbidden to say this, that or the other, but it is 'not done' to say it, just as in mid-Victorian times it was 'not done' to mention trousers in the presence of a lady.

In 2007, Rudy Giuliani was widely mocked for explaining that whether a particular technique constitutes torture "depends on who does it" -- rarely does one find such an unapologetically nationalistic theory of morality and even language -- but that's exactly the same standard not only our government but also our establishment media has adopted.

The real issue here is the same one raised by the malleable, manipulative use of the term "Terrorism." It's to be expected that governments will try to propagandize their citizenry by applying completely different standards -- even completely different language -- to their own conduct as opposed to when other countries engage in exactly the same conduct. But when the media copies that behavior (as ours does), they're amplifying and bolstering government propaganda rather than critically scrutinizing and debunking it. Isn't that a fairly serious problem?

The behavior is even more egregious when government dictates (as of now, this is no longer torture) lead directly to the change in media behavior. And the ultimate effect of this joint government/media obfuscation is to further entrench the destructive notion that we're different, exceptional, better, and therefore we deserve even a different language to describe what it is that we do. This Harvard study documents the exact process by which the political class convinces itself and others that bad and illegal things are, by definition, only what those Bad, Other Foreign Countries do, but never ourselves.

UPDATE: For a classic example of the Everything-Is-Intrinsically-Different-When-We-Do-It syndrome, see the update to the prior post.

Most of the people in this world are blind to the colossal proverbial elephant in the room... the stories circulating around everywhere without a clue of the “puppet masters” are as numerous as sand grains on a beach. Everyone complains about how the “MEDIA” does this or that, how it fails to do this and that. What everyone seems to miss is the most blatant in your face REALITY that all media is owned/controlled by the same group of people. So when you see stories that are favorable to a certain group such as the Israelis, DUH, put 1+1 together and see what you get. Likewise, throughout your entire life you have been conditioned to obeisance to the Jewish people and systematically overlook anything and EVERYTHING they are doing. It is none other than the Zionists themselves that are REPORTING what is, is not, has been, and will be!!!!

Paul Craig Roberts is an economist and a nationally syndicated columnist for Creators Syndicate. He served as an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the Reagan Administration earning fame as a co-founder of Reaganomics." He is a former editor and columnist for the Wall Street Journal, Business Week, and Scripps Howard News Service. His words:

"Anyone who depends on print, TV, or right-wing talk radio media is totally misinformed. The Bush administration has achieved a de facto Ministry of Propaganda."

"The uniformity of the US media has become much more complete since the days of the cold war. During the 1990s, the US government permitted an unconscionable concentration of print and broadcast media that terminated the independence of the media. Today the US media is owned by 5 giant companies in which pro-Zionist Jews have disproportionate influence. More importantly, the values of the conglomerates reside in the broadcast licenses, which are granted by the government, and the corporations are run by corporate executives—not by journalists—whose eyes are on advertising revenues and the avoidance of controversy that might produce boycotts or upset advertisers and subscribers. Americans who rely on the totally corrupt corporate media have no idea what is happening anywhere on earth, much less at home."

Role of media in the overall scheme of things. It is very interesting how the News industry went from its heyday as supposed “watch dogs” to modern 21st century “LAP DOGS”! For most people in the world this is a mystery... unless you know the underlying establishment. Once you KNOW who owns/controls the media, they you can easily discern and recognize the bullshit narratives that they are collectively promoting and/or thwarting! The majority of mass media and the dissemination of information and news has throughout history always been controlled by only handful of elite people within the establishment, this has been so since the early days of radio and TV. Throughout its entire history, radio and TV media has all been predominantly owned and or controlled since day one by none other than the Zionist Jews:

THE FOUNDING FATHERS OF ALL OUR MEDIA OUTLETS WERE ALL JEWS: MGM: Jews Marcus Loew & Louis B. Mayer; founder father of ABC: Jew Leonard Goldenson; founder of CBS: Jew William Paley; NBC & RCA: Jew founder David Sarnoff; Paramount Studios: Jew founders Adolph Zukor & Frohman's; Warner Bros: Jew founders Warner brother family; Universal Studios: founder Jew Carl Laemmle; Miramax Films: Jew founders Harvey & Bob Weinstein; Fox Film & 20th Century Fox: founder Jew William Fox; United Artists: prime founder was Jew Douglas Fairbanks; The list goes on and on... Keystone Studios, DreamWorks, etc. and were the Jews don't outright own and or operate the media company, they have key people in key places deciding what media is to be fed to you. Yet we have not even touched upon the tip of the iceberg. these are just but a few media companies owned and run by the Zionist Jew elite. Before I continue, I must ask: do you, can you truly understand what this means? Do you comprehend the ramifications of what I am disclosing here? One group of people, seems by design, to have founded and operated EVERY major source of news and entertainment output since the inception of mass media. This is not conspiracy theory here folks. This is REALITY staring at you in the face.

Zionist Control of the Media - video

Oh but that was a long time ago they started those dominant industry leading media companies, now they are on the stock market and free enterprises you say? Not! That is the intended illusion. Today, modern day, right now, this minute, the entire media world is owned and or controlled lock stock and barrel by guess who? The Jew elite!

Of course Judicial Hearings were conducted prior to the approval of creating this new Zionist monopoly. It was overseen by a Jew judge by the name of Herb Kohl, whom after making believe he was nonbiased, ruled: gee folks everything looks fine to me! Let er rip! The only other competition in the live show business is JAM, the inside joke within the industry about JAM is "Jewish American Mafia." Is it any wonder why Live Nation star Madonna has changed her religion to Judaism and practices the Jewish Kabbalah?; Sir Richard Branson of Virgin was matched and subsequently married to Joan Templeman (Jew) in 1989, etc. The strategy of Jews intermarrying royalty and nobility has been going full force since the early 16th century.

The worldwide population of Jews is somewhere in the 14-15 million range, this works out to something like one forth of ONE PERCENT of the entire world's population, yet they own/control at least 98% of all media. Let those number and FACTS sink into your head.

Rev. Billy Graham openly voiced a belief that Jews control the American media, calling it a "stranglehold" during a 1972 conversation with President Richard Nixon, according to a tape of the Oval Office meeting released Thursday by the National Archives.

"This stranglehold has got to be broken or the country's going down the drain," the nation's best-known preacher declared as he agreed with a stream of bigoted Nixon comments about Jews and their perceived influence in American life.

"You believe that?" Nixon says after the "stranglehold" comment.

"Yes, sir," Graham says.

"Oh, boy," replies Nixon. "So do I. I can't ever say that but I believe it."

Oh, and if you think that the Jewish control of all media is just limited to the U.S. you are in for a rude awakening FOR THEY CONTROL MOST MAJOR MEDIA AROUND THE WORLD. I don't have the space in this report to include the colossal mind boggling lists of total worldwide Jewish media domination, but here is a link a relevant link on how they control our closest ally: Near Total Zionist Jewish Control of The British Media. You must never forget that prior to the Zionist Jews getting control of U.S. finance, media and politics, they had accomplished domination of these industries in many countries of Europe, having firmly established their worldwide supremacy. America was the "new world" ripe for the picking.

"Jews have always controlled the business . . . The motion picture influence of the United States and Canada . . . is exclusively under the control, moral and financial, of the Jewish manipulators of the public mind." - HENRY FORD in (The Dearborn Independent, 12-19 February 1921

What does it mean to CONTROL THE MEDIA? It means that this exclusive group of likeminded secretive people control all DIALOGUE that the masses are exposed to, not only do they control the dialogue, they control the SCOPE AND RANGE of all discourse. They regularly commit the sin of OMISSION, for they regularly fail to provide the public with critical facts and news, thus we are NOT a well informed public. They then go on to glossing over issues that are detrimental to the ruling elite, as easy as child's play, while making mountains out of mole hills is also made possible without any oversight whatsoever from ANY regulatory authority to check if this supposed - alleged cornerstone of democratic society is actually reporting the TRUTH. Actually, truth is not even a legal requirement demanded of ANY news station any longer. They can and DO often tell you what ever they feel like it and regularly get away with it, no one does anything about it, no one cares. Give them their doses of entertainment, their American Idol, Dancing with the Stars, Jerry Springer, their soap operas, their sports, etc. and they are as happy as pigs swimming in shit.

The Effect of Jewish Control of the Media

These are the facts of Jewish media control in America. Anyone willing to spend several hours in a large library can verify their accuracy. I hope that these facts are disturbing to you, to say the least. Should any minority be allowed to wield such awesome power? Certainly, not and allowing a people with beliefs such as expressed in the Talmud, to determine what we get to read or watch in effect gives this small minority the power to mold our minds to suit their own Talmudic agendas and interests, interests which as we have demonstrated are diametrically opposed to the interests of our people.

By permitting the Jews to control our news and entertainment media, we are doing more than merely giving them a decisive influence on our political system and virtual control of our government; we also are giving them control of the minds and souls of our children, whose attitudes and ideas are shaped more by Jewish television and Jewish films than by their parents, their schools, or any other influence.

I was shocked to hear that some silly Iraq war propaganda film "Hurt Locker" won "Best Picture" award at the Academy Awards show. How was it possible that it won over the wildly popular record breaking Avatar? This news did in fact poke my curiosity... I fired up my trusty ole PC and in just a couple minutes of searches found out the rock bottom true inside story behind the stories. It turns out the Academy Awards organization was founded by Jewish media titan Louis B. Mayer along with famous Hollywood Jew Douglas Fairbanks and is managed by an army of Jewish operatives, the current president is another Jew operative by the name of Tom Sherak. Understanding this core inside operational truth will automatically shed light into its actions, such as to whom they give awards to and why. The Iraq war has been waged for Israel's sake from day one, the war was being planned even prior to the September 11th attacks, this is not even open for debate, for this information is readily available from official sources to anyone who is willing to take a couple minutes to search on the net. The Iraq war is Israel's war being fought by proxy by its western bitch (female dog), America. Thus we can conclude that the Jewish Academy Awards presented the Iraq war propaganda film the award in order to further bolster and promote the Iraq war with fine Hollywood indoctrination and priming.

Most non strategic business models that make up typical sports franchises are more often than not owned by gentiles. But, is it any wonder why the world's premier, most richest, most famous, most winning sports franchise in history is the New York Yankees? Oh, by the way... it is owned and operated by Zionist Jew by the name of George Steinbrenner. I hereby rest my case. That is as far as I'm getting into the "distraction" media arena sports world.

While on the topic of Zionist media control, there is a notable workaround where they manage to obscure the fact that they own/run any given enterprise. In order to camouflage their ownership, the elite often work together and accumulate their funds into central entities called private equity firms. Many, many corporations and organizations of all kinds are snatched up by private equity firms. All one needs to do is a little leg work and lookup the key names behind the equity firms and presto. Here, for example let's take a look at Clear Channel Communications, the American media conglomerate that is the largest owner of full-power AM, FM and shortwave radio stations, just for starters. Well the documented "owners" are Bain Capital and Thomas H. Lee Partners. Now look at the list of key players within just those two private equity firms and you find a who's who list of the Zionist elite. Folks, I don't make this stuff up, I just tell it like it is. I just report the FACTS.

A dissection of the monopolistic control of worldwide media is not complete without touching upon the industry "regulatory" agency of which must bend over backwards to accommodate the obvious monopolistic control of a single ethnic group by keeping its mouth shut and eyes closed. So who are those deaf, dumb and blind FCC regulatory agency heads? All of them, each and every one of them have all been STATUS QUO POLITICIANS. And we know how politicians roll: they are easily maneuvered by bribes, ummm, "donations" [lol]. Politicians know who butters their rolls and never stray far from their true master's wishes, the loyal public ruling elite servants that they are. Oh, so who is the current sitting chairman of the FCC? Who else but another Zionist Jew at the helm, Julius Genachowski.

One cannot possibly deny the absolute FACT that some 97% of all major media is owned and or controlled by a select, exclusive group of Jewish people. What makes their incredible chokehold on the industry so unbelievable is the fact that the "regulatory" agency that exists to "to determine not only who could enter the media business but where. Hence, the FCC would issue media licenses to the "best" applicants and deny the rest." Ummm, wait a minute, rewind to the beginning of this sentence: 97% of all media is Jew owned and controlled. So that means that the Zionist Jew monopoly was not only APPROVED by the FCC, but they also got their BLESSING and Gestapo enforcement backup.... What a mighty web they weave...

2003 study of commercial radio concentration

In 2003, the FCC Media Bureau produced a draft report analyzing the impact of deregulation in the radio industry. The report stated that from March 1996 through March 2003, the number of commercial radio stations on the air rose 5.9 percent while the number of station owners fell 35 percent. The concentration of ownership followed a 1996 rewrite of telecommunications law that eliminated a 40-station national ownership cap.

The report was never made public, nor have any similar analyses followed, despite the fact that radio industry reports were released in 1998, 2001 and 2002. In September 2006, Senator Barbara Boxer, who had received a copy of the report, released it.

2004 study of television media concentration

In 2004, the FCC ordered its staff to destroy all copies of a draft study by Keith Brown and Peter Alexander, two economists in the FCC's Media Bureau. The two had analyzed a database of 4,078 individual news stories broadcast in 1998, showed local ownership of television stations adds almost five and one-half minutes of total news to broadcasts and more than three minutes of "on-location" news.

The conclusion of the study was at odds with FCC arguments made when it voted in 2003 to increase the number of television stations a company could own in a single market. (In June 2004, a federal appeals court rejected the agency's reasoning on most of the rules and ordered it to try again.)

In September 2006, Senator Barbara Boxer, who had received a copy of the report "indirectly from someone within the FCC who believed the information should be made public," wrote a letter to FCC Chairman Kevin Martin, asked whether any other commissioners "past or present" knew of the report's existence and why it was never made public. She also asked whether it was "shelved because the outcome was not to the liking of some of the commissioners and/or any outside powerful interests?" Boxer's office said if she does not receive adequate answers to her questions, she will push for an investigation by the FCC inspector general.

As per standard protocol, no one knows nothing, the "studies" disappear and business continues as usual, nothing to see here folks, what Jewish concentration of stations? Hey look over there! There goes Britney Spears!

While on the subject of regulatory agencies, is it any wonder or surprise at this point that radio talk show host, the founding father of radio filth and vile talk has been a sick decadency, immorality spewing and promoting Jew by the name of Howard Stern. The FCC sat back and basically bent over backwards allowing him to set precedent after precedent. Sure they fined em several times with slaps on the wrist, but allowed the Jew to thread where no one else was ever allowed to.

I have a little "game" I often perform that you can also play... It is called SPOT THE HIDDEN JEW in THE MEDIA. It is easy to play, all you have to do is begin the game at the start of any given day and the game ends at the end of the day. Every major story, event, organization you come across, analyze who the key players are (including the major player(s) behind the "star" player, and check to see who they are. Every time I play this "game" my results come out to an overwhelming 9 out of 10 times there is a Jew right at the center of the controversy, story, major event, etc. You have to remember that the Jewish citizen ratio here in America is only 2.5% of the population, so statistically speaking they should rarely dominate any list, due to the fact that their numbers clearly demonstrate that they are just an itty bitty tiny fragment of the overall population, if you use common laws of logic. Yet somehow this tiny 2.5%ers are involved in almost everything, it's just amazing!

Simple example: Just recently Michael Jackson died, I was reading about it and found that the key people behind Jackson were his Jew managers whom are the ones raking in hundreds of millions now that he is dead... Murphy Britney dies, oh she was married to a Jew con man. Tiger Woods is burning up and who is his wife behind the center of this, she is a Jew now seeking to suck him dry and get the lion's share of his wealth. A what seems to be an unknown, Mr. Goldman (Jew) gets his son back, has been top of the news overshadowing Woods and Murphy. Etc. These are just the highlights of this week's "new." Get the idea of how to play spot the hidden Jew?

How Jewish is Hollywood?

A poll finds more Americans disagree with the statement that 'Jews control Hollywood.' But here's one Jew who doesn't.

By Joel Stein, LATimes.com, December 19, 2008

I have never been so upset by a poll in my life. Only 22% of Americans now believe "the movie and television industries are pretty much run by Jews," down from nearly 50% in 1964. The Anti-Defamation League, which released the poll results last month, sees in these numbers a victory against stereotyping. Actually, it just shows how dumb America has gotten. Jews totally run Hollywood.

How deeply Jewish is Hollywood? When the studio chiefs took out a full-page ad in the Los Angeles Times a few weeks ago to demand that the Screen Actors Guild settle its contract, the open letter was signed by: News Corp. President Peter Chernin (Jewish), Paramount Pictures Chairman Brad Grey (Jewish), Walt Disney Co. Chief Executive Robert Iger (Jewish), Sony Pictures Chairman Michael Lynton (surprise, Dutch Jew), Warner Bros. Chairman Barry Meyer (Jewish), CBS Corp. Chief Executive Leslie Moonves (so Jewish his great uncle was the first prime minister of Israel), MGM Chairman Harry Sloan (Jewish) and NBC Universal Chief Executive Jeff Zucker (mega-Jewish). If either of the Weinstein brothers had signed, this group would have not only the power to shut down all film production but to form a minyan with enough Fiji water on hand to fill a mikvah.

The person they were yelling at in that ad was SAG President Alan Rosenberg (take a guess). The scathing rebuttal to the ad was written by entertainment super-agent Ari Emanuel (Jew with Israeli parents) on the Huffington Post, which is owned by Arianna Huffington (not Jewish and has never worked in Hollywood.)

The Jews are so dominant, I had to scour the trades to come up with six Gentiles in high positions at entertainment companies. When I called them to talk about their incredible advancement, five of them refused to talk to me, apparently out of fear of insulting Jews. The sixth, AMC President Charlie Collier, turned out to be Jewish.

As a proud Jew, I want America to know about our accomplishment. Yes, we control Hollywood. Without us, you'd be flipping between "The 700 Club" and "Davey and Goliath" on TV all day.

So I've taken it upon myself to re-convince America that Jews run Hollywood by launching a public relations campaign, because that's what we do best. I'm weighing several slogans, including: "Hollywood: More Jewish than ever!"; "Hollywood: From the people who brought you the Bible"; and "Hollywood: If you enjoy TV and movies, then you probably like Jews after all."

I called ADL Chairman Abe Foxman, who was in Santiago, Chile, where, he told me to my dismay, he was not hunting Nazis. He dismissed my whole proposition, saying that the number of people who think Jews run Hollywood is still too high. The ADL poll, he pointed out, showed that 59% of Americans think Hollywood executives "do not share the religious and moral values of most Americans," and 43% think the entertainment industry is waging an organized campaign to "weaken the influence of religious values in this country."

That's a sinister canard, Foxman said. "It means they think Jews meet at Canter's Deli on Friday mornings to decide what's best for the Jews." Foxman's argument made me rethink: I have to eat at Canter's more often.

"That's a very dangerous phrase, 'Jews control Hollywood.' What is true is that there are a lot of Jews in Hollywood," he said. Instead of "control," Foxman would prefer people say that many executives in the industry "happen to be Jewish," as in "all eight major film studios are run by men who happen to be Jewish."

But Foxman said he is proud of the accomplishments of American Jews. "I think Jews are disproportionately represented in the creative industry. They're disproportionate as lawyers and probably medicine here as well," he said. He argues that this does not mean that Jews make pro-Jewish movies any more than they do pro-Jewish surgery. Though other countries, I've noticed, aren't so big on circumcision.

I appreciate Foxman's concerns. And maybe my life spent in a New Jersey-New York/Bay Area-L.A. pro-Semitic cocoon has left me naive. But I don't care if Americans think we're running the news media, Hollywood, Wall Street or the government. I just care that we get to keep running them.

GENERAL OVERVIEW OF MASSIVE JEWISH PRESS OWNERSHIP

Here are some quotes from a magazine for Jews called "Moment". It is subtitled "The Jewish magazine for the 90's" These quotes are from the Aug 1996 edition after the Headline "Jews Run Hollywood - So What?": "It makes no sense at all to try to deny the reality of Jewish power and prominence in popular culture. Any list of the most influential production executives at each of the major movie studios will produce a heavy majority of recognizably Jewish names."

"The famous Disney organization, which was founded by Walt Disney, a gentile Midwesterner who allegedly harbored anti-Semitic attitudes, now features Jewish personnel in nearly all its most powerful positions."

The head of Walt Disney studios is now the Jew Michael Eisner.

On studios that were bought out by the Japanese the magazine says:

"When Mitsushita took over MCA-Universal, they did nothing to undermine the unquestioned authority of Universal's legendary - and all Jewish - management triad of Lew Wasserman, Sid Scheinberg, and Tom Pollack."

Here are some quotes from the paper "Jews Control the Media and Rule America":

"American Broadcasting Companies (ABC), Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS), and National Broadcasting Company (NBC). Each of these three has been under the absolute control of a single man over a long enough period of time-ranging from 32 to 55 years-for him to staff the corporation at every level with officers of his choosing and then to place his imprint indelibly upon it. In each case that man has been a Jew.

"Until 1985, when ABC merged with Capital Cities Communications, Inc...the chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer (CEO) of the network was Leonard Harry Goldenson, a Jew...In an interview in the April 1, 1985 issue of Newsweek, Goldenson boasted 'I built this company (ABC) from scratch.'"

"CBS was under the domination of William S. Paley for more than half a century. The son of immigrant Jews from Russia..." "There has been no move by top G-E management to change the Jewish "profile" of NBC or to replace key Jewish personnel. To the contrary, new Jewish executives have been added: an example is Steve Friedman..."

"The man in charge of the television entertainment division at CBS is Jeff Sagansky. At ABC the entertainment division is run by two men...nearly all of the men who shape young American's concept of reality, of good and evil, of permissible and impermissible behavior are Jews. In particular, Sagansky and Bloomberg are Jews. So is Tartikoff. Littlefield is the only Gentile who has had a significant role in TV entertainment programming in recent years."

"American Film magazine listed the top 10...entertainment companies and their CEOs...Time Warner Communications (Steven J Ross, Jew) Walt Disney Co. (Michael D. Eisner, Jew)...Of the 10 top entertainment CEOs listed above, eight are Jews."

"The Newhouse media empire provides an example of more than a lack of real competition among America's daily newspapers; it also illustrates the insatiable appetite Jews have shown for all organs of opinion... The Newhouse's own 31 daily newspapers, including several large and important ones, such as the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Newark Star-Ledger, and the New Orleans Times-Picayune; the nation's largest trade book publishing conglomerate, Random House, with all its subsidiaries; Newhouse Broadcasting, consisting of 12 television broadcasting stations and 87 cable-TV systems, including some of the country's largest cable networks-the Sunday supplement Parade, with a circulation of more than 22 million copies per week; some two dozen major magazines, including the New Yorker, Vogue, Mademoiselle, Glamour, Vanity Fair, HQ, Bride's, Gentlemen's Quarterly, Self, Home&Garden..."

"Furthermore, even those newspapers still under Gentile ownership and management are so thoroughly dependent upon Jewish advertising..."

"The New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, and the Washington Post. These three...are the newspapers which set trends and guidelines for nearly all others. They are the ones which decide what is news and what isn't, at national and international levels. They originate the news; the others merely copy it. And all three newspapers are in Jewish hands...The Suzberger family also owns, through the New York Times Co. 36 other newspapers; twelve magazines, including McCall's and Family Circle..."

"New York's other newspapers are in no better hands than the Daily News. The New York Post is owned by billionaire Jewish real-estate developer Peter Kalikow. The Village Voice is the personal property of Leonard Stern

"There are only three newsmagazines of any note published in the United States: Time, Newsweek, and U.S. News & World Report....

The CEO of Time Warner Communications is Steven J. Ross, and he is a Jew.

"Newsweek, as mentioned above, is published by the Washington Post Co., under the Jewess Katherine Meyer Graham..."

"U.S. News & World Report... owned and published by Jewish real estate developer Mortimer B. Zucherman..."

" The three largest book publishers...Random House... Simon & Schuster , and Time Inc. Book Co....All three are owned or controlled by Jews...The CEO of Simon & Schuster is Richard Snyder, and the president is Jeremy Kaplan; both are Jews too."

"Western Publishing...ranks first among publishers of children's books, with more than 50 per cent of the market. Its chairman and CEO is Richard Bernstein, a Jew." "Jewish spokesmen customarily will use evasive tactics. "Ted Turner isn't a Jew!" they will announce..."

"We are doing more than merely giving them a decisive influence on our political system and virtual control of our government; we also are giving them control of the minds and souls of our children..."

These Zionist media barons are the MINISTERS OF TRUTH... They rule the corridors of media with an absolute iron fist as they influence and indirectly control the world with their WEAPONS OF MASS DECEPTION. These are the masters of PROGRAMING the airwaves, masters of smoke and mirrors, masters of illusions. They are the ones in control of "what is," they decide what you are entertained with, your sports, your music, your shows, what is news, what is normal, what is ok, what is not, what is cool, what is acceptable, what is not, THESE ARE THE PEOPLE WHO COLLECTIVELY DECIDE WHAT IS REALITY... Again I will reiterate: those who control the past, the record of what has been, control the future. Those who control what you see, hear and think control the world around you.

THIS IS NOT CONSPIRACY THEORY... This is not hyperbole... THESE ARE UNDISPUTABLE FACTS, FACTS, FACTS. Our entire media industry is being run by a Zionist Jew cartel.

THE ENTIRE MEDIA INDUSTRY IS AND HAS ALWAYS BEEN OWNED BY THE ZIONIST JEW CARTEL!

THE ENTIRE MEDIA INDUSTRY IS AND HAS ALWAYS BEEN CONTROLLED BY THE ZIONIST JEW CARTEL!

THE ENTIRE MEDIA INDUSTRY IS AND HAS ALWAYS BEEN DOMINATED BY THE ZIONIST JEW CARTEL!

BEHOLD: THE ZIONIST MEDIA MONOPOLY

EVERYTHING YOU READ, SEE ON TV, HEAR ON THE RADIO, IN YOUR TEXT BOOKS, MAGAZINES YOUR ENTIRE LIFE WAS PREPARED, CONTROLLED AND PRESENTED TO YOU BY YOUR ZIONIST JEW OVERLORDS...

Sit back and let those words of truth, let those facts sink in and digest... for the magnitude of the Zionist influence over your daily lives is beyond comprehension to the average person, the repercussions are so immense that the average mind cannot fathom such complete and total control, let alone acknowledge your situation and position of being mere powerless spectators who can only watch the powers that be shape the public conscience and reality at will.

Think about this long and hard... for instance, when you see all the TV news channels, newspapers, radio and magazines all crying out in unison fear mongering and spreading Islamophobia for instance... try to remember that the media is completely controlled by the Jews, what they air is what they want the masses to feel and think. This rule goes for EVERYTHING that you see/hear coming from their studio productions.

Photo: Whoever denies and claims there is no total domination of media by the Jews along with the overwhelming domination and control of finance by the Jews most definitely has their heads stuck up their asses or are totally 100% involved in their matrix of control.

Bottom line is that the media world is completely controlled, unequivocally TOTALLY DOMINATED, lock stock and barrel by a secretive cartel. There exists no competition, not a peep, everything you read, see and hear comes from a monopolistic ethnic group of JEWISH ZIONISTS. This issue cannot even be seriously opened for debate. The facts are self evident and overwhelming. Case closed.

“Oh but that is impossible, because it would be all over the news and everyone would be talking about it.” Dim wits who think this way are totally brainwashed by the system. Hello! THEY CONTROL THE “NEWS!!” Only they decide what is or is not “news.” PERIOD. It’s like having Al Capone running the news, of course all “news” published by him would paint the mafia as wonderful benevolent saints! All news exposing their racket would quickly be buried or destroyed. THIS is the reality of the situation we face today. What people think is “news” is actually a MEDIA CIRCUS of TABLOIDISM fed to all you indoctrinated primed Goyim lost souls who are overdosing on mindless trivia, drama and entertainment.

The bottom line is: These are the secretive group of people who decide (and have been deciding for decades) what you watch on TV, what movies you watch, what you hear in your radios, what you read in the newspapers, magazines, text books and what’s inside your history books. They shape and mold the public reality. Period.

These are the people who plant, shape, form, foster public opinion to the masses. These are the people that formulate your perception of reality. These are the people who publish your text books and history books telling you what was, is and will be. These are the people who tell you what they pass off as “truth” from their viewpoint. These are the people who create buzz and can instantly make anyone or anything popular literally overnight. These are the people who can also unanimously portray anyone or anything in such a negative light then the masses would despise the target. These are the people who sway elections, make it or break it for politicians with their biased reporting. These are the people fostering and nurturing decadence and airing morally degrading programming. These are the people that decide who to portray as the “evil” side and whom is the “good guy.” These are the people who endlessly promote every Zionist Jew agenda by giving them exciting spin. These are the people who raise their fellow Zionists on a media pedestal, giving them instant respect, importance, reverence and fame, for all the world to idolize and revere. Yes, these are the people who shape everyone’s perception of REALITY. These are the true POWER players, these are THE KING

MAKERS and breakers, for these are the ones who preemptively crown leaders by releasing nonstop glorifying news and reviews about their select candidates. Meet your true masters.

When I say they own/control ALL media, I mean ALL media! Even the news papers, magazines and textbooks, it's all THEIRS to tell you whatever they want to portray as reality. Even your beloved Encyclopedia Britannica, the world's oldest continuously published encyclopedia has been taken over by the Zionist Jew juggernaut long ago. Try to find out who owns it and records will say "a privately held company" owns it and Webster's dictionary... Dig deeper and who owns that private company? None other than Zionist Jew billionaire by the name of Jacqui (Jacob) Eli Safra, descendant of the Swiss-Syrian Jewish Safra banking family.

Who is the "leading publisher of middle and high school textbooks and technology"? That company is Prentice Hall, established by Jews Dr. Charles Gertenberg and his student Richard Ettinger. I could go on and on.

The amazing aspect of the above list of Zionist Jew chiefs of industry only reveals THE TIP OF THE ICEBERG... I didn't even attempt to cover hundreds of "smaller" media outlets, not to mention the other fortune 500 - billion dollar Zionist controlled corporations that make up main street that are not part of the media industry...

Now you KNOW not only who is behind the "left vs. right" charade (yes the same people are pitting one against another to divide a nation), who is completely dominating what you see, hear and think, but also who is really behind the subversion of our moral values, who is really behind secretly pushing the gay agendas, decadence and immorality. For these Zionist Jew media barons must create wanton moral chaos for their own to rise up as superior to all the afflicted in the midst of the decadence and blindness of the masses to one day take full control (yes, even more so than what they possess today) over our lives.

The above list of Zionist controlled media companies is no where even close to being comprehensive, for I left out many, many more Jewish owned and controlled media organizations, not to mention the hundreds of well know subsidiaries of the corporations listed. It is not the scope nor intent to catalog the amazing depth of Jewish owned/controlled media, only to summarize this FACT with its implications and deeper meanings. Now you must re-analyze the mass media's direct and indirect CONTROL over many aspects of society. Theirs has been a key role in fostering decadence, strategic catalysts to the decay of the moral fabric of our society. All aspects of information dissemination were monopolized by the Zionists long ago; everything you see, read and hear was approved and sanctioned by the Zionist ruling elite, even the raw news agencies are an integral part of their sprawling cartel.

I almost forgot to add Air America Radio to the list of Zionist Jew owned media properties. It was officially added to the Zionist media cartel October 13, 2006 (but has been Jew controlled since day one) then renamed Air America Media. But the real juicy story began long before then. Air America Radio was initially founded by gentiles, but in their quest to get investors on board, (as usual) they lost ALL control and independence. AAR was quickly taken over by Zionist Jews Even Cohen and Rex Sorensen whom proceeded to staff all key positions with their Zionist Jew collaborators and proceeded to scuttle the ship. The operation of Air America was literally a controlled demolition! I watched the HBO documentary "Left of the Dial" in total awe as I realized many key figures in premeditated mismanagement were all Jewish. Understanding the overall Zionist agenda it was easy to observe that the entire organization was being purposely ruined FROM WITHIN before it could get off the ground.

Chaos ruled the launch of Air America Radio from the moment it took on its Jewish investors, whom I might add rarely EVER make bad business decisions regarding investments... unless it is part of the plan where they run an enterprise to the ground then jump ship. Well, once Cohen and Sorensen came onboard they brought in a slew of other Jew collaborators whom were key in bringing down the company before it was ever off the ground. The demolition of Air America was essential at the time due to the fact that it was the Zionist's Republican Mafia Crime Syndicate's turn to rule the nation and those liberal loose cannons with a powerful soap box pointing fingers, exposing lies and rocking the boat had to be reined in, silenced and eliminated.

Some of the central players to run AAR were: Carl Ginsburg (Jew) Scott Elberg CEO (Jew) Danny Goldberg CEO (Jew) Gary Krantz (Jew) was named president of the network. Chaos reigned supreme at this media outlet. In 2007 it was sold to Zionist Jew SLG Radio LLC, a company created by Stephen Green and his brother Mark J. Green, (Jews). They proceeded to hire David Bernstein (Jew, of course) to be the new Vice President of Programming. They tamed the reporting of Air America and provided you with cleansed, approved, certified “programming.”

As of Jan. 21, 2010 Air America has been neutralized and is no more, its current Zionist chairman (Charlie Kireken) stated they are closing its doors for good. The ship is being scuttled and ran into the ground for good. When you see a major group of Jewish executives such as listed above nonchalantly taking a fall on the 4th round so to speak, without so much as a whimper, you know that it was a setup. The Jewish controllers went through the motions, and appeased the leftwing TRUTHER SECT that wanted Air America to succeed; they put up a convincing show.

Behold for: What makes this sort of information extremely significant is in reading between the lines, what is not said or seen. One need only sit back and observe where the power players are clustering together and focusing their energies, where they have invested all their true capital and efforts to easily see where they are headed. The ruling elite have basically totally abandoned the leftwing (except for the fact that they use the left to continue to destroy the moral character of this country and conduct their liberalist portions of their new world order shaping agendas) and have squarely arranged most of their major power and control in the rightwing of the political spectrum. This is where the major movers and shakers have been at for over the past decade. The Democratic Party’s hay days are over, they all follow the lead of their alpha male Republican party. Everything else is all a Hollywood show production designed for public consumption. Yes the Democrats are still enacting the policies of their ruling masters and constantly pushing their agendas forward as always, but they remain the butt end of the system to placate the poor and worker class. The news media is the crucial cohesive reality forming and shaping component maintaining and giving life to the illusions that be.

by Eustace Mullins July 1989

We recommend to the student of political science, if there is such a science, a volume which has come to our attention, the autobiography of Sir Roderick Jones, entitled A Life in Reuters, Hodder and Stoughton, 1951. This book gives us much authoritative information on news distribution. Sir Roderick was Chief of Reuters News Agency for many years, assuming command of that agency when it was still at its historic address of 24 Old Jewry, London.

It is difficult to approach journalism without taking into account its companions of a trinity, propaganda and espionage, and we find in this book many instances of their relationship. On page 200, Sir Roderick relates a bit of history which will not be found in the universities. It describes a luncheon given by him for General Smuts, Sir Starr Jameson, and Dr. Walter Hines Page. He says:

"We dined in a private room at the Windham Club, the one in which twenty years later the terms of the abdication of King Edward VIII were settled. We drifted on to the question of the United States entering the war, for which Britain and France so patiently waited. Dr. Page then revealed to us, under seal of secrecy, that he had received from the President that afternoon a personal communication upon the strength of which he could affirm that, at last, the die was cast. Consequently it was not without emotion that he found himself able to assure us that the United States would be at war with the Central Powers inside a week from that date. The Ambassador's assurance was correct to the day. We dined on Friday, March 30. On April 2, President Wilson asked Congress to declare a State of War with Germany. On April 6, the United States was at war."

Sir Roderick tells us that Baron Julius de Reuter was born Israel Ben Josaphat Beer, the son of Rabbi Samuel Beer [yes, yet another Zionist Jew who gained control of key portions of media/new dissemination] of Caase, Germany. Like so many of his co-religionists, Beer saw that the British Empire was ripe for plucking. He emigrated, set up a news agency, came to the attention of the House of Rothschild, and the rest is history. In 1859, now Baron de Reuter, Beer signed a Covenant with his two rivals in Europe, Havas of France and Wolff of Germany. Havas was a French Jew, Wolff was a German Jew, and these three divided up the world between them. Havas was to have South America, the three were to share the continent of Europe, and Reuter was to have the rest of the world. The arrangement, providentially concluded just before the outbreak of the Civil War in the United States, endured until the First World War for Zionism.

Sir Roderick Jones began his career as Assistant to the Chief Correspondent in the Transvaal, one Leo Weinthal, before the Boer War. On page 38, we find some interesting background on that conflict, as follows:

"Towards the end of 1895, smoldering and unsubstantial fires of political discontent in Johan nesberg were fanned by the Transvaal National Union and by the gold mine owners into an outwardly presentable flame of revolution. An Uitlanders Reform Committee was established, with an inner executive consisting of John Hays Hammond, Lionel Phillips (one of the heads of the gold and diamond mining firm of Eckstein -- The Corner House), George Farrar, head of East Rand Property Mines, and Colonel Frank Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, Prime Minister of the Cape. Percy Fitzpatrick, also of the Eckstein firm, was the Secretary. The General Committee consisted of sixty other prominent citizens, including Abe Bailey and Solly Joel."

Sir Roderick, although he freely relates the role of the House of Eckstein in promoting that war, does not reveal the importance of the House of Rothschild. John Hays Hammond was chief mining engineer for the Rothschilds, later being employed by the Guggenheims at a salary of five hundred thousand dollars a year, and finally becoming Washington lobbyist for the Rothschild policy group, the Council on Foreign Relations. Sir Abe Bailey was the principal angel of its sister group in Britain, the Royal Institute of International Affairs. Almost any biography of Cecil Rhodes will inform the reader that he was financed in his African empire by the House of Rothschild.

On April 28, 1915, Baron Herbert de Reuter, Chief of the Agency, shot himself. The cause was the crash of the Reuters Bank, which had been built up by Baron Julius de Reuter to handle foreign remittances without their being subjected to inspection. It was felt by the directors to be unwise to replace the Baron with another German Jew, there being a war going on with Germany, and Sir Roderick Jones who had served Leo Weintal faithfully and well, was chosen as a more respectable front for the international operations of the agency. On page 363, he tells us:

"Shortly after I succeeded Baron Herbert de Reuter in 1915, it so happened that I received an invitation from Mr. Alfred Rothschild, then the head of the British House of Rothschild, to lunch with him in his historic New Court, in the City."

We are not favored with an account of the conversation, Sir Roderick limiting himself to a description of the formalities attending upon a visit to the Rothschild. After this, the Chief of Reuters toured the world, being received everywhere with a display usually reserved for royalty. In India he was entertained by the Viceroy, Lord Reading, whose name had been entered at the synagogue as Rufus Isaacs. Isaacs told him that on his first visit to India, he had been a lowly ship's boy, and on his second visit he was a Viceroy, whereupon Sir Roderick remarked that only in the British Empire could such a thing have happened. His observation is a slight to America.

Now you must re-analyze the biased news coverage of all sorts of subjects. Now you must re-analyze what fails to make it to the newsroom as news and what does. Now you must re-analyze EVERYTHING that comes out of the Zionist Industrial Media Matrix monopoly and how it intertwines with and relates to the goals and agendas of the other Zionist Matrix Departments. So from now on, when you see the mass media "laying it heavy" on any particular subject, you must always STOP/THINK and ask yourself this very important question: "WHAT DO THEY WANT US TO BELIEVE AND THINK TODAY." Wake up goyim cattle!

CIA's Operation Mockingbird was setup for the subversion of the free press by the CIA.

"Should people expect impartiality and objectiveness from the Media Barons who all seem to have the same religious-racial-ethnic background, for some odd reason, and who monopolize the media, despite their small number in the population (2.5%)?" You now have no choice but to sit back and reflect, THINK ABOUT IT: almost everything that you have seen, read or heard your entire life was approved, contrived, produced and distributed by Zionist Jew media baron cartel. You cannot in any right frame of mind just walk away from this earth shaking revelation of this colossal monopoly knowing perfectly well that this group has always had deep seated world ambitions and have been methodically throughout the ages working to accomplish their agendas as "the chosen ones" whom are "destined to rule the world." These Jewish people are the ones controlling all the major media, so is it any wonder how or why the Zionist mainstream media was the one who convinced the world that the Holocaust™ killed the mythical “6 million Jews”, despite rock solid evidence from official census data, the Red Cross any many more reputable sources indicating that figure to be astronomically inflated by several substantial millions... yet up to this very day, their highly exaggerated figures remain unchallenged and accepted as gospel throughout the world... with some countries going as far as imprisoning anyone who dares defy the claims of 6 million... now that is what I call the real POWER of media hype.

Most media influence comes at us via subliminal delivery. Hollywood for instance, seems on the surface to be totally detached from influence and association of the financial Zionist elites who wish to obtain total world domination. But this gullible view is only held by the vast majority of the consuming masses who have no clue. I yet again could go on and write a book about the points I’m covering in just this paragraph alone, we will have to with the summaries I am trying my best to articulate.

First of all, everyone in Hollywood KNOWS that “the Jews run Hollywood”, I won’t even try to source this due to the easily researched wealth of evidence out there proving this to be true. Jewish control of Hollywood for example is legendary. It is within the controlled environments of their Hollywood studios that the Jews continuously churn out movies portraying themselves as victims – while completely ignoring all the evils they do while forever emblazing in your minds the evils of blacks, Hispanics, the Italian mobs.

Secondly, once your “eyes are opened” and you are no longer blind and can “see”, everything in this world comes into clear view. Most of what is produced for public consumption has a hidden agenda, whatever area of life it is meant to touch upon. Thousands upon thousands of movies, shows and so forth, I can’t even begin to analyze them all for that is a project for an army of researchers and encyclopedia size volumes to document. Ok, for the sake of providing an example, one CUTE, warm and cuddly and outwardly “harmless” movie for you to MUST SEE... watch THE BEE MOVIE, yes the children’s cartoon movie. Pay very close attention for the POWERFUL subliminal brainwashing that is prevalent throughout the entire movie. It is just jaw dropping. The people of this world PAY to sit down for 2 hours, achieve a hypnotic slumber then CONDITIONED! They then leave the theaters saying “wow what a great movie!”

Now that you understand that all major media are run by the same secretive group of card carrying illuminati Zionist club members. I will proceed to smash myths such as this doozy that has been pulled over your eyes: Liberal media vs. Conservative media.

One of the most mind boggling myths fed to the general public is the myth of "right wing media" and left wing "liberal media". It is all a bunch of bull shit because BOTH SIDES OF THE MEDIA IS CONTROLLED BY THE SAME FREAKIN PEOPLE!!! Conservative vs. Liberal is just another strategy of keeping the masses DIVIDED. The media is constantly feeding the public fuel to the fire to keep them fighting amongst themselves! For then the masses will never have the time nor clue to rise up and rebel against their TRUE enemies, their elite masters. Have you not ever noticed that every TV station has BOTH liberal AND conservative programming? Even the blatantly fake news station FOX who PRETEND to be custodians and champions of conservatism have some of the most insanely leftwing radical liberal morally decadent shows on the planet! This is the same for EVERY TV station in existence. One hour they cater to the conservatives a few hours later the programming might consist of crazy morally deficient show.

Divide and conquer is as old a military strategy as one can think of. Actually the originator of divide and conquer was none other than the devil himself. They couple this with the “join the bandwagon syndrome” in where people following their herd mentality, naturally choose a side and jump on that bandwagon. These people daily add to the collective dogma and reinforce the arguments initiated by the coordinating media manipulators, often on their own free will. Thus we witness the powerfully entrenched root system that this right vs. left deception has developed.

America will NEVER be able to unite and solve all of its problems until the day arrives when they finally WAKE UP to the bogus left vs. right/republican vs. democrat system that is the CENTRAL KEY FOR DIVIDING AND RUINING OUR NATION!!!

Folks, what we have had on our land is the "synagogue of Satan" (Zionist Jews) in total monopolistic control of all we see and hear in the media, corrupting the entire moral fabric of this country, constantly leading the goyim sheeple astray while pushing the agendas of their handlers in the banking, military and political arenas. Are you getting a perfectly clear picture here? For good measure, I keep repeating myself in hopes that this profound knowledge may sink in so that you may fully comprehend this dilemma. Think about it: the Zionist OWN/OPERATE/CONTROL practically 98% of ALL MEDIA and OWN/OPERATE/CONTROL practically ALL of the WORLD MONETARY SYSTEMS... This translates to absolute POWER.

This is NOT baloney anti-Semitic conspiracy "THEORY", this is 100% easily verifiable/certifiable FACTS.

So there you have it, the ONLY major players in the realm of the media industrial complex. More often than not, complicit with the government propaganda machine. Long ago, unbiased media was supposed to exist to keep an eye on our government, in some hypothetical "checks and balances" system, asking critical questions, making sure that the government was doing its job. Supposedly an integral part of fairness in society. Sadly, this is no longer the case anymore. Today's media barons hangout in the same ivy league social clubs as the government officials they are supposed to be keeping tabs on. They actually get many of their SCRIPTS and Talking Points directly from our government. Never questioning any issue no matter how bizarre. So there you have it: the government and or their financial masters says the world is flat, the media chimes in and repeats it over and over again as fact, the message echoed by all their different media outlets in every corner of society. The gullible public often concludes, 'if they are all saying the same thing "it must be true"!' Doh!

Once the media barons unite to promote the designated pick of the Zionist elite for any office, the masses are meticulously Primed then later fall for the avalanche of group think hype propaganda. Thus for instance, it is not an entirely unreasonable concept for the media to be able to pull off and engineer a ludicrous "Palin/Joe the Plumber 2012" ticket win if that was their objective...

One practice I find especially disturbing is when the media pull out their "panel of experts" on any given issue. High ranking scientists, leaders, professionals, etc. These "panel of experts" are chosen from a pre-defined pool of pundits that ARE ALREADY ON THEIR SIDE, they know what their predefined positions and viewpoints are. So of course they will chime in and just endorse and reinforce whatever issue or agenda is at hand! Many of those panels of experts complicit directly or indirectly having deep seated interests or connections within the area being discussed. So they bring on their biased experts to "prove their talking points", and the general brain dead public eats it up. "I heard about it on CNN, so I know it's true." /sigh/

Our benevolent government spends billions on propaganda. No cost is spared in their efforts to brainwash the public. To portray often ridiculous policies in a positive spin. They basically buy the news. The list of high level people, experts, pundits, scientists, etc., in the governments back pocket is astronomical. It is common knowledge in the news circles that if you but heads with Washington you get your press credentials revoked and you no longer get invited to anything. For reporters it does not pay to take a stance against any government sponsored issue. Ask any scientist for instance how long he will stay employed if he were to come out and debunk any one of thousands of different agendas and issues that are steadfastly being promoted by the establishment. The media sources of information, more often than not it comes straight out of the government or any number of their federally funded public relations contacts. They rarely even edit or scrutinize any news release and just publish/air whatever they were given as gospel.

The practice of OMISSION must be one of the most dangerous practices in the dissemination of information and news. This practice is so widespread, so prevalent within our government system that it is mind boggling. Even in the many cases of blatant omission and avoidance of key issues and facts arise, our media lays down like a good puppy dog and remains silent. Passing on the act of omission, eventually the general public only gets bits and pieces of the entire story that has been carefully orchestrated to portray any given message.

"We are taught, actually conditioned, from elementary school to believe in the myth of a free and unbiased media, that our press is free from government meddling. This is an insidious lie about the very nature of the news institutions of this country. One that allows the government to LIE to us while denying the very fact of the lie itself". History is said to be written by the winners, true. What they fail to also mention is that history is written by those who control the presses! The Media barons. Volumes have been written about the revisionism of history. Zionist revisionist history has been rampant over this past century and well spread over all corners of the globe. So much so, that in some cases (such as the Holocaust™ for example) it is almost impossible to sift through the massive piles of bull shit and hype to find the truth. You know what I mean. Jewish revisionists leave stuff out, twist the facts, misrepresent various events. They work hard to present themselves in the best possible fashion so what does a little honesty in writing have to do with anything? They want us goyim to see and believe ONLY their version of events, and imprison other revisionists for exposing the truths.

The "truth" in reporting in today's world is relative. Actually truth in modern news reporting is not even a requirement any longer! Fox News successfully sued for the right to LIE and won! In one of Project Censored top 25 censored stories for 2005 they inform how "The Media Can Legally Lie." News regarding Jewish deeds and events are routinely censored and often prohibited from being made public, thus they operate in pure stealth mode. Critical (i.e., forbidden) comments about Israel is sacrilegious, those who go there have their lives destroyed publically and privately, this is why you see so few people standing up and defending any truth that clearly shows Israel of the Jews in a negative light, the consequences are often severe.

Six years ago, Fox News successfully argued in court that it had a constitutional right to report lies

October 24th, 2009 at 09:33am Pat Cunningham

The mainstream media have almost entirely ignored a court case in which lawyers for Fox News argued six years ago that their client has a right under the First Amendment to peddle falsehoods in the guise of news.

Nor did THIS BLOG POST of four months ago regarding the matter gain widespread circulation.

An excerpt: On August 18, 2000, journalist Jane Akre won $425,000 in a court ruling where she charged she was pressured by Fox News management and lawyers to air what she knew and documented to be false information.

The real information: she found out cows in Florida were being injected with RBGH, a drug designed to make cows produce milk – and, according to FDA-redacted studies, unintentionally designed to make human beings produce cancer.

Fox lawyers, under pressure by the Monsanto Corporation (who produced RBGH), rewrote her report over 80 times to make it compatible with the company's requests. She and her husband, journalist Steve Wilson, refused to air the edited segment.

In February 2003, Fox appealed the decision and an appellate court and had it overturned. Fox lawyers argued it was their first amendment right to report false information. In a six-page written decision, the Court of Appeals decided the FCC's position against news distortion is only a "policy," not a "law, rule, or regulation."

This is the sad state of our modern mass media information dissemination system. Anyone remember the CNN fake coverage of the Gulf War on 1991? Live from “Saudi Arabia” with Charles Jaco as their “war correspondent”. This was one of the most ridiculous staged fake “live on the field” broadcasts in history. The entire shoot was done in a CNN studio, fake air raid sirens, explosions and all. These are just two examples of modus operandi of the “news” shows you depend on for information. Folks, these are NOT isolated incidents, these clearly demonstrate the heart and inner glimpse of the true nature of their programming.

Censorship is alive and well in new Fascist States of America Inc. Censorship has been increasing dramatically in almost every sector of society. The number of people being arrested just for holding up a simple sign that reads "Impeach Bush" for example, now number in the hundreds, if not thousands. All across the country peaceful protesters are being arrested on absolutely no justifiable grounds at all. Bogus trumped up charges everywhere. The spineless media will never speak up about the abuses. By practicing their policies of omission of important news, they are in effect censoring the news also.

Zionist Jews also funded, founded, own and control Google the world’s premier information conglomerate, why do you think every single one of the media barons hyped Google stock out of the stratosphere?

BEHOLD FOR: When one of “THEIR OWN” is targeted for worldwide growth, fame, fortune and PRE-DESITINED by the Zionist consortium to become a worldwide leader, the entire Zionist matrix pushes that organization into worldwide prominence with echoing great reviews and accolades coming in unison seemingly from all corners. Thus the masses being easily lead to think that this or that organization is “THE” in or “HOT” thing.

Well today your friendly neighborhood gazillion dollar capitalized Google INSTANTLY became an industry leader and is becoming a integral major backbone of Big Brother.

Government propaganda network has become so entrenched within our mass media that it is completely ridiculous. Take Fox "News" for example, for all intents and purposes, it should be re-categorized as just a media arm of the Zionist neo-cons and a government propaganda machine! While all the other networks MAKE BELIEVE they are neutral, unbiased, non-agenda driven and unprejudiced. For starters they have Bill O'Reilly with his news parody comedy show, what is it called? "The Spin Zone", where they even have a section called "Talking Points", where they use the actual daily Whitehouse issued propaganda "talking points" dispensed to all news venues! LOL. You would think that Fox would at least try to disguise the fact they are just a propaganda arm of the Zionist neo-cons and the government, but it seems that their surveys indicates their gullible viewing sheeple audience can't tell the difference.

The fact of the matter is that FOX “News” is actually NOT even a news program at all!!! It is a cleverly disguised ultra biased bogus sci-fi make believe “news” show of stupefying proportions. The fact that the FCC has not sent in armed swat teams to raid their offices and shut them down for airing blatantly false, subversive, seditious, instigating, biased, hate inciting, phony, bogus programming as a corporate daily policy then passing it all off as real “news” is mind numbing.

Folks, this is definitely a sign our country is definitely totally fucking doomed. For there no longer exists impartial checks and balances by the news industry gatekeepers whom once upon a time the entire world heralded the news industry as the “gatekeepers of democracy, the honorable custodians of truth and watchdogs over government.” Today they are mere shadows of their former glory. For they have degenerated into sold out, pimped out whores who serve the masters they long ago were supposed un-waveringly to observe and report on. News sector, the protectors and guardians of truth whom were to never allow our great nation to be subjugated and conquered by evil forces as well as slide into the abyss... THIS my friend, IS the sad state of what has been produced and passed off as “news” the world over. I’m sorry, I must read you the eulogy. Today there is no, none, zippo, zilch unbiased news, nothing is what it seems, all that remains is a rotting carcass covered with the flesh of agenda dissemination, priming, indoctrination, conditioning, disinfo, misleading, hype, propaganda, programming, immoral waste.

One of the strategic ploys practiced in every one of the Zionist media empires, for instance FOX media barons push both sides of the spectrum: On one Fox channel you will see rabid right wing “religious” neo-cons foaming at the mouth spewing hate and yet on any other Fox channel you will see them pushing the boundaries of jaw dropping moral decadence, immoral programming, followed by homosexual liberating and complete idiotic moronic “liberal” programming! Come on people! Wake up! You know I am right. It does not take a rocket scientist to see the self evidence of what I am revealing here. The Zionist media conglomerates purposely control all media so that they may manipulate ALL information in whatever direction they so desire in order to advance their long term Zionist Jew agendas. Your thoughts and viewpoints have been carefully shaped from the day you were in pampers sitting in front of the blood tube.

People seem to forget that the music industry is just another arm of the media conglomerates. For the Zionist elite, this is just another avenue for them to infiltrate our minds and hearts and fill it with rubbish and more “programming.” They manufacture mega stars like candy. Once the artists signs their souls over to the labels, the labels almost always dictates the content, path and all the other important factors of the artists productions. It is widely known and accepted fact that the musicians who are the major creative force, yet receive just a tiny portion of the revenue generated from the sale of their works. It is common for the industry to take, what? Like 90%+ of all revenue, leaving the artists with just a tiny percentage. This is plainly documented and well known throughout the industry and is never debated. Just another example of how big greedy corporations take advantage of everyone and use them for their own benefits. This is a perfect case in point where there is tons of research and information of industry abuse, but exists as if in a vacuum, only within that particular industry realm, yet not only is it readily accepted as “so true,” everyone falls short and fails to connects the dots to reveal this industry as yet another piece of the grand matrix scheme.

But that is not even the main point I want to elaborate upon. Just as TV programming, movies and shows often serve a hidden purpose of shaping human perception of things. Music is a key fundamental hypnotic trance inducing vehicle for facilitating deep inner programming and has been used as such since time untold. Many people with iPods and mp3 players stuck to their heads 24/7 will be offended to learn that they have been manipulated to such a degree that it is mind boggling. In today’s society the sheeple go out and purchase their own brainwashing media.

The music industry promotes and avidly seeks out everything from outwardly innocuous to insane occult acts, then promotes them to the ends of the earth. This industry is riddled with satanic occult worship, morally depraved content, etc., whether outright or subliminal, you just cannot deny this once you truly understand how the forces are working.

What I find truly amazing and profoundly revealing is how dozens upon dozens of the world’s top famous musicians have come out describing classic spiritual possession. Many stars dismissively describe how when they perform or are writing music it is like “some else takes over”, many artists relate to this phenomena by giving that entity within them its own stage name, Beyonce, Eminem, etc. the list is breathtaking and massive. See the video “The Truth Behind Hip Hop” by G. Craig Lewis for starters.

Hopefully I will be able to give the music industry a more in-depth coverage it deserves in future updates of this report. For it is so pivotal in capturing the hearts, minds and souls of our youth and leading them astray at such early ages. For now I will summarize the fact that the entire music industry servers several purposes, one of which is to keep the masses for ever entertained and distracted from the real reality of the world around them. Another is to promote and spread occult concepts and misleading the masses. Then there is the deep subliminal aspect of music to convey attitudes, messages and states of mind, a perfect medium for propagating content. Suffice to say for now, that the music industry is an important arm of the overall Media Matrix empire in helping them to shape the air of overall environment and public opinion.

Recently, our nation has been inundated with an overwhelming flood of occultism, which is another sign of the end of the world. It is not all that long ago when this would not have been tolerated. Movies, books, television programs, and commercial advertising have become avenues of witchcraft for the purpose of exposure and indoctrination of the human mind and soul. It is everywhere. One example is a full page magazine advertisement by Honda Motor Company showing a silver colored Honda car in the darkness with a pointed, red devil's tail curling up from the exhaust pipe. Above the car, written in bold, red letters is the word "Possessed." The re-release of the movie, "Exorcist" is another curse upon our nation. This particular movie is not designed to entertain but is rather a mind control project. The creator of the exorcist, William Peter Blatty, is a former CIA agent, who worked in mind control. (25) When making certain parts of the sound track for this movie, Blatty used the sound of pigs being slaughtered and remixed them with other human sounding and grotesque voices designed to completely unnerve the audience. (26) This seems to be a reversal of what happened in Mark, chapter five, when Jesus cast the devils out of the man, and they went into the swine. In Blatty's project, the evil spirits come out of the squealing swine and go into the audience. Some people have been known to leave the theaters vomiting, and others were mentally sick for days afterward. It is no coincidence that this movie opened in many theaters on Friday the 13th. When people have an appetite for hell's entertainment, judgment is not far off. – source: [Last Trumpet]

S.P.H.E.R.E. = Stimulated Priming (psychological) Hypnotic Emotional Response Effect. This is a term I coined while in college to describe what I call the science of triggering desired responses through pre-determined stimuli. People's strongest reactions come not from logic, but from the most basic primal emotion recesses of our mind. What motivates us most into action: Fear, love, hate, envy, greed, empathy, excitement, sadness, happiness, etc. These are the psychological/emotional trigger points or buttons they love to push. Priming and mass hypnosis is NOT a theory; it is an established and practiced science. Anyone who has studied Marketing while attending college knows this. It is practiced on a daily basis by your most loving benevolent big brother Uncle Sam, marketing professionals and your media industrial complex to condition the herds of cattle citizens. Priming and mass hypnosis is also an integral part of marketing.

Here is just one example of one way SPHERE is implemented, this excerpt is from The #1 Hollywood Video Marketing Persuasion Secret. Here he is discussing music to trigger emotions, video, dialog and images play the key roles but here they are emphasizing the music aspect:

“The ninja strategy that I want to reveal to you today has to do with adding a powerful musical soundtrack to your videos as the final touch in a calculated emotional cascade of events. I've heard it said before that emotion is the seat of “motion.” meaning that if you know how to stimulate emotion in a potential customer, it will dramatically increase the odds of them getting fired-up so they'll take action. Subsequently, there's no better way to elicit strong emotional feeling than with certain forms of music.

On a related subject, you can observe that the words above ring true in any person that's ever accomplished anything on a grand scale in their life. Their ideas and thoughts led to a super-charged emotional state that ultimately fueled their actions, helping them realize their goal. There's no denying the power in getting emotionally involved with an idea, concept, or product.

Think of what Hollywood does in their movie trailers and many times in the movies themselves. Ever really pay attention to how the music influences your mood? It's astonishing! Try watching Gladiator or Forest Gump and see how the music affects you as the story-line plays. It can be the ultimate persuasive and motivation tool in many cases.

The music, suspense, and curiosity in Hollywood mover trailers help to drive multi-million dollar box office sales month-in and month-out while selling out shows! We should all take notes here.

Music is one of those factors that totally flies under the radar for many marketers but it can be HUGE at influencing a prospect and making a great first impression.”

Wikipedia definition of Priming:

Priming in psychology occurs when an earlier stimulus influences response to a later stimulus. For example, when a person reads a list of words including the word table, and is later asked to complete a word starting with tab, the probability that subject answers table is higher than for non-primed people. Or people shown an incomplete sketch and unable to identify it are shown more of the sketch until they recognize the picture. Later they will identify the sketch at an earlier stage than was possible for them the first time.

Priming works best when the two stimuli are in the same modality. For example visual priming works best with visual cues and verbal priming works best with verbal cues. But priming also occurs between modalities, or between semantically related words such as doctor and nurse

Priming can be perceptual or conceptual. Perceptual priming is based on the form of the stimulus and is enhanced by the match between the early and later stimuli. Perceptual priming is sensitive to the modality and exact format of the stimulus. An example of perceptual priming is the identification of the incomplete sketch in the experiment described above. Conceptual priming is based on the meaning of a stimulus and is enhanced by semantic tasks. For example, table, will show priming effects on chair, because table and chair belong to the same category.

A distinction is also made between semantic priming and associative priming. In semantic priming, the prime and the target are from the same semantic category and share features; in associative priming, on the other hand, the target is a word that has a high probability of appearing with the prime, and is "associated" with it but not necessarily related in semantic features. For example, the word dog is a semantic prime for wolf, because the two are both similar animals, but dog is not an associative prime for wolf because the words don't frequently occur together. On the other hand, dog is an associative prime for cat, since the words are closely associated and frequently appear together (in phrases like "raining cats and dogs").

An important feature of a priming task is that amnesic subjects perform as well on it as control subjects do, indicating through their performance that they, too, remember what was on the previous study list, even though they report no conscious recollection of ever having seen the list. This is taken as one kind of evidence that implicit and explicit memory are different.

Priming of amnesic subjects with words that were unknown to them prior to the injury is impaired has been argued to demonstrate that priming depends on the activation of existing memory. This interpretation, however, is undermined by normal or near normal priming using nonverbal materials in amnesic subjects.

One theory of priming is that the first stimulus activates parts of particular representation or associations in memory just before carrying out an action or task. The representation is already activated when the second stimulus is encountered, thus improving performance of the task. It is considered to be one of the manifestations of implicit memory.

No coverage of mass media and government dissemination of information can be complete without looking into the vast practice of censorship. Censorship in the "free world" is often much more subtle and carefully conducted in order to maintain the illusion of freedom of speech. I recently came across a website called Project Censored, and their list of "Top 25 Censored Stories of 2008", sure enough, these people did a pretty good job of summarizing some of the top CENSORED stories NOT being reported by mainstream news outlets such as CNN, FOX, ABC, etc.

As a matter of fact, every single "news" station today is nothing more than glorified CHEERLEADERS of the establishment. Gone are the days and concept that our news agencies are supposed to be the checks and balances of power. Not any more, today all our news agencies are mere LAP DOGS and WHORES of the power elite. They have all collectively SOLD US OUT... we tune into CNN, FOX, ABC, NBC, CBS and all others just to get a bright eyed bushy tailed sanitized Alice in Wonderland version of sterilized "news" from prostitutes we call reporters who dare not question nor stray from the SCRIPTS they are ordered to "report" for fear of losing their rich cozy lifestyles and status in society. Once the news casters finish reporting what they masquerade as "news" all the while constantly omitting tons of serious real news, they go home to their beautiful McMansion homes in the nice safe suburbs to their trophy wives, their children in ivy league schools and luxury cars then play make believe, pretending the world is fine and dandy.

"What the press do is they tell you lies, lies they already know you want to hear. The press can figure out what its readers or viewers believe, and make a hell of a living pandering to their egos and telling them that they're smart. They lie and tell the audience they are right, and they never have to change your mind about anything. And the audience rewards them, lauding them and paying them money to keep hearing those sweet, self-serving lies." - Allan Uthman

"The New York Times [as well as every other media conglomerate] is the house organ of the Establishment. It is committed, both editorially and in its presentation of the news, to the interests of an Establishment: continuity, security and legitimacy. Therefore they generally support business and finance, the American version of empire, the government and the president, until, and unless, some excess is so egregious that it poses a threat to continuity, security or legitimacy." - Larry Beinhart

Beyond Agenda Setting: The Media's Power to Prime

Allison Morgan

Though early studies in communications science concluded that the media had minimal effects on public thinking, agenda-setting theory was one of the first moves toward a more powerful effects model of communications. Agenda setting, a term coined by McCombs and Shaw in a 1972 study, shows a correspondence between the order of importance given in the media to issues and the order of significance attached to the same issues by the public and politicians (McQuail, 1994, p. 256). Through repeated news coverage, agenda setting suggests that the media have the capability to raise the importance of certain issues in the public's mind (Severin & Tankard, 1997, p. 249). This theory further supports a statement made by Cohen (1963) that the news media may not directly affect how the public thinks about political matters, but it does affect what subjects people think about. In short, it sets the agenda for what political matters people consider important (Severin & Tankard, 1997, p. 252).

A number of studies have demonstrated that there is a dimension of powerful media effects that goes beyond agenda setting. Iyengar, Peters, and Kinder (1982) first identified this added dimension as the "priming effect." Priming is "the process in which the media attend to some issues and not others and thereby alter the standards by which people evaluate election candidates" (Severin & Tankard, 1997, p. 258). The theory is founded on the assumption that people do not have elaborate knowledge about political matters and do not take into account all of what they do know when making political decisions — they must consider what more readily comes to mind. Through drawing attention to some aspects of politics at the expense of others, the media might help to set the terms by which political judgments are reached, including evaluations of political figures (Alger, 1989, p. 127).

Grounded in cognitive psychology, the theory of media priming is derived from the associative network model of human memory, in which an idea or concept is stored as a node in the network and is related to other ideas or concepts by semantic paths. Priming refers to the activation of a node in this network, which may serve as a filter, an interpretive frame, or a premise for further information processing or judgment formation (Pan & Kosicki, 1997, p. 9). In media effects research, priming is an important reformulation of this psychological process that offers an explanation of how media information is stored and retrieved in the human mind. Theories about priming suggest that media activate related thoughts, and consequently behavior, through this network of mental relationships. The strength of these relationships is determined by semantic associations between concepts in memory and the frequency with which the links have been used (Reeves, 1996, p. 274-275).

Iyengar, Peters, and Kinder (1982) related priming to media effects research during an experiment that was designed to measure agenda setting by the television news media. In this study, they carefully edited TV news programs to emphasize certain issues — national defense, pollution, and inflation — then tested people on perceived importance of the issues, compared with control groups. They also measured ratings of President Carter's performance in each of these issues, as well as an overall appraisal of the president. This approach, the authors explain, permitted them to "examine a different though equally consequential version of agenda setting. By attending to some problems and ignoring others, media may also alter the standards by which people evaluate government. We call this ‘priming’.” (p. 849) Not only did Iyengar et al. first find a classic agenda-setting effect as to the salience of the issues in question, but they also found evidence of priming since the media’s agenda seemingly altered the standards their test group used in evaluating the president. The president’s overall reputation and his apparent competence, they found, “both depend on the presentations of network news programs.” (p. 853)

Priming effect has been applied to a variety of media effects research, including studies that follow a more cognitive psychological path by considering such things as the priming effect of TV violence on aggressive behavior (Bushman 1998) and the priming effect of advertisements in the form of recruitment posters (Bruce, Carson, Burton, & Kelly 1998). However, most media priming effects research has followed the example set by Iyengar et al. by focusing on political candidates and how media attention on certain issues can color the public’s perception of political players. George Bush’s defeat in the 1992 presidential election presented a unique historical opportunity to study the media’s role in the volatility of public opinion, and a great deal of recent priming research has centered around this election campaign.

Pan and Kosicki (1997) took this opportunity to examine how the two most important issues during the last three years of Bush’s presidency — the Persian Gulf War and the economic recession — related to the dramatic rise and fall of public opinion about his performance. Guided by priming theory, their research began with the premise that voters were paying attention to media representation of Bush’s performance in those major issues. They argue that “heavy exposure to media coverage of a dominant issue leads to a stronger and/or more frequent activation of the thought elements related to the issue” (p. 11). As a result, they state, increased media priming effects can be attributed to increased media exposure. They studied data gathered as part of the 1990-1991 National Election Panel Study and the 1992 pre- and post-election panel study, which had included 935 randomly selected participants who were asked questions that measured Bush’s performance in three specific areas — the Gulf War, foreign relations, and the economy. A series of linear regression models with the overall evaluation and thermometer measures as the dependent variables were fitted to the data. Results indicated that Bush’s job approval ratings were closely tied to the change in the salience of these two issues. Pan and Kosicki found that positive evaluations of Bush’s handling of the Gulf War generalized to how he was perceived to handle the economy and that negative feelings about his economic performance transferred to his handling of foreign affairs and the Gulf War. This is partly explained by the “widely accepted assumption” that members of the mass public tend to get the “big message” from media coverage rather than analyze individual media messages issue-by-issue. (p. 24-25)

Work by Hetherington (1996) also considers the unusual outcome of the 1992 presidential election, but specifically focuses on the media’s role in forming voters’ evaluations of the economy and the subsequent effect on perceived performance of the incumbent candidate, Bush. During the campaign, media coverage of the economy was almost entirely negative, the author explains, even though the recession had ended months earlier. In fact, he points out, “the networks’ portrayal of the economy got worse as the economy improved.” (p. 374) “Had voters cast their ballots on the actual conditions of the national economy in 1992,” Hetherington suggests, “they more than likely would have returned George Bush to office.” (p. 373) Drawing from priming theory, the study hypothesizes that relentless negative reporting on economic performance during the election year negatively affected voters’ perceptions of the economy and, consequently, influenced voting behavior through the public’s retrospective economic assessments. In this analysis, Hetherington used data from pre-election and post-election sections of the 1992, 1988, and 1992 National Election Studies. Results did, indeed, indicate that the quantity of regular news and campaign news that voters consumed helps explain variation in their retrospective evaluations of the national economy in 1992 and suggests an explanation for why Bush lost reelection despite an economy that had rebounded from recession well before election day. The media did not just tell people that the economy was an important issue in the campaign, Hetherington states, but also “actually influenced voters’ assessments of it. This may explain the gap between economic perception and reality and may have contributed to George Bush’s defeat.” (p. 391)

Public opinion about the economy during the 1992 campaign was also the focus of a study by Goidel, Shields, and Peffley (1997). They also used the 1992 National Election Studies Panel Study to investigate individual-level fluctuations in President Bush’s approval ratings, but they approached their study from a different angle.

In their attempt to show that media influence can come in two forms — priming and attitude change — Goidel et al. examine both priming theory and the Receive, Accept, and Sample (RAS) model in a study of media effects during the 1992 presidential elections. The authors draw from research by Zaller (1992) on the RAS model, which suggests that media messages often directly influence individual-level attitudes but that such effects depend on the information environment and the individual’s exposure and resistance to persuasive messages (p. 287). These two theories should be studied together, the authors explain, because both media priming and attitude change occur simultaneously and focusing research on one or the other underestimates the total influence of the media on individual-level attitudes. (p. 289) Specifically, they were looking for media influence on individual evaluations of Bush’s handling of the economy as well as they importance of the economy relative to other policy concerns as a standard for evaluating Bush’s overall job performance. They found that more politically aware individuals were more disapproving of Bush’s handling of the economy than were less politically aware individuals, but that the effects were dependent on individual-level partisanship. They also discovered that media coverage of the economy increased the importance of the economy relative to other policy criteria in the public’s evaluations of Bush. “As the Gulf War and foreign policy considerations faded into the background,” the authors explain, “the economy became increasingly important as a determinant of presidential approval” (p. 288). Further, their results indicate that both priming effects and attitude change occur simultaneously. This is evidenced by the fact that not only did some people become more negative of Bush’s handling of the economy, they also gave greater weight to economic considerations when evaluating Bush’s overall job performance.

Though the media are the major source of political information, Matthew Mendelsohn (1996) reminds us that interpersonal communication also plays a role during election campaigns. In an investigation of the volatility of voters’ opinions during an election campaign, Mendelsohn argues that voter instability can be partially explained by the media’s priming of leadership and downplaying of party identification. He suggests that, as a political campaign progresses, those more highly exposed to the media may alter their vote based on candidate character evaluations rather than loyalty to any political party. But he also suggests that engaging in political discussions may prime issues, as well. Mendelsohn examines the question of priming over a relatively short time period — one election campaign — and has access to both longitudinal and cross-sectional data collected in a non-experimental setting (p. 112). He used data from the 1988 Canadian Election Study (CES), which employed a rolling cross-section and interviewed about 80 different respondents each of the 48 days of the official campaign period. The 1988 Canadian election provided an ideal opportunity to test for priming, he explains, because vote intentions were highly unstable and opinion was fluid (p. 115). His first hypothesis is that those interviewed later in the campaign would be more likely to base their vote on leadership and less likely to base it on party identification. If that turned out to be true, he explains, the conclusion would be that the campaign primes leadership. His second hypothesis is that as the campaign unfolded, the media would prime leadership and ignore partisanship. His third hypothesis was that interpersonal communication will also prime issues and may act as a counterweight to the media (p. 116-117). The data supports Mendelsohn’s conclusion that media messages and interpersonal communications may pull in opposite directions. The results also indicate that media priming of candidates and downplaying of party may determine the vote, while talking about politics may encourage voters to base their decisions on issues. The study, though not entirely conclusive, offers insight into how interpersonal communications can limit the power of media priming.

In their search to expand previous communications research studies on media priming effects, Domke, Shah, and Wackman (1998) introduce concepts that include both short-term and long-term memory evaluations as related to the media’s agenda-setting perspective and the framing of news and opinion. They argue that media coverage of political issues has the potential to activate particular cognitions, which then may be used in evaluating other elements of the political environment. Specifically, they theorize that media framing of issue information seems likely to foster priming effects and set out to prove three different hypotheses:

- 1) Individuals evaluating a political environment which includes a social-moral issue, in this case abortion or euthanasia, will be more likely to make attributions about candidate integrity;
- 2) Individuals evaluating an ambiguous issue framed in ethical terms, in this case health care, will be more likely to form ethical interpretations of material issues;

3) Individuals with highly integrated mental frameworks about the objects under consideration will be more likely to exhibit spreading activation priming about the objects under consideration.

Two groups, described as “distinctly different,” were used for the study: evangelical Christians and undergraduate students. These groups were chosen, the authors explain, because the evangelical Christians seemed much more likely than undergraduates to have well-integrated mental frameworks. In a controlled presentation of political environment, the groups were randomly assigned to newspaper articles that were written with contrasting viewpoints of three candidates on four issues. The subjects were then asked to fill out a questionnaire that asked them to make a candidate choice and answer a series of questions designed to evaluate their reasons for making that decision.

Their results support the authors’ hypothesis. For hypothesis 1, in both populations about 30 percent of subjects evaluating an environment containing a social-moral issue made attributions about candidate integrity, but when those issues were replaced by the ambiguous health care issue, the percentage was substantially lower. For hypothesis 2, subjects evaluating the environment with the ethical frame of health care were the most likely to interpret at least one of the issues of economy, education, and government cuts in ethical terms. For hypothesis 3, the authors found that priming among evangelical Christians was due to spreading activation along mental pathways of their long-term memory constructs, while the priming among undergraduates was due to short-term influence of the media framing of issues. While this research offers further insights on media priming effects, it does not offer concrete evidence because the numbers do not strongly support the hypotheses. The authors called for further research that explores their theories in greater depth by including evaluations of the role of values for individuals, the linkages between values and political attitudes, and how other values such as degree of political sophistication, level of integrative complexity, and extent of media use might explain the differences in priming effects.

Priming isn’t always unintentional, as Jacobs and Shapiro (1994) demonstrate in a quantitative and historical analysis of John F. Kennedy’s 1960 presidential campaign. Their research extends the application of priming theory from its original focus of how individuals form attitudes and make decisions to the study of candidate behavior. This new approach, they say, “changes the analytic focus from unintentional priming to intentional priming, namely, the deliberate strategies that candidates pursue to influence voters” (p. 528). Priming can be an effective campaign strategy for presidential candidates, the authors indicate, by a process of carefully calculated uses of public opinion on policy issues to influence voters’ standards for assessing the candidates’ attributes. In this study, the authors focus on the 1960 election because innovative public opinion surveys were incorporated into Kennedy’s campaign strategy that enabled him to use position taking to shape his image. Their research was based on primary evidence drawn from archival records and interviews, as well as a combination of interpretative and quantitative analysis.

They found that a relationship exists between Kennedy’s positions on policy matters and results from his private public opinion surveys. His campaign combined image building with position taking on issues that responded to perceived public opinion. Though this study does neglect questions concerning how and why real politicians use polling results to prime voters, Jacobs and Shapiro effectively demonstrate that the priming process is powerful enough to be used intentionally by political candidates as a tool to influence public opinion during election campaigns.

Though these and a number of other studies have found positive evidence for agenda-setting and priming effects of media, critics say the evidence is not substantial enough to be conclusive. Some have criticized these studies because they do not specifically demonstrate a causal connection between media agendas and the public’s agendas nor show strong statistical correlations (Alger, 1989, p. 126). The fact that priming theory has its origins in cognitive psychology accounts partly for the inconclusive evidence.

Priming is just simply hard to study empirically, as McQuail (1994) points out: “The further one moves from the general notion that media direct attention and shape cognitions and towards examining actual cases, the more uncertain it becomes whether such an effect actually occurs” (p. 356). Despite any weaknesses in the theory, most evidence from agenda setting and priming research indicates that the news media can affect what people think about and what they see as important (Alger, 1989, 126). Agenda setting is an important way that mass media can have an impact on society that is an alternative to attitude change (Severin & Tankard, 1997, p. 271). Priming, as an important aspect of agenda setting, is a subtle but powerful way that media could be influencing elections and shaping the government.

The media proactively shape public opinion and set the norms of society. Their influence on the public’s perception of reality is the single most important factor determining the overall cognitive perception of the world we live in. From the TV shows you watch, the movies, the stars, sports, entertainment, music, news... all of which are controlled and manipulated by media, all play a crucial part in how we formulate our views of the world we live in. The Zionist Jews who took monopolistic control of the entire media realm from the very beginning at the turn of the century knew this even way back then, thus they founded all the major media outlets and movie studios.

“Everything is boiled down to a common denominator where freedom of spirit is brought under subjection by the powers of darkness. As unnerving and frightening as this may sound, the groundwork has been being laid for many years. Recent surveys have revealed that the average 3rd grader spends 900 hours per year in a governmental school and 1170 hours per year in front of a television. This is 2,070 hours of indoctrination into a one world mindset absent of moral standards. What hope do these little ones have? Since this sort of mind molding has been going on for years, we are now seeing the products of such Luciferian efforts.” – source: [Last Trumpet Newsletter]

One area where the Zionist media barons exercise iron fist control and manipulation is in the absolute universal united blacklisting of ANYONE who dares speak negatively about the Jews and the power they wield. Once a goyim gentile dares step out of line and dare speak even the truth, that person is unilaterally attacked by every media outlet on the planet, thus creating the illusion that the world is appalled by that person’s “evil” remarks, no matter how true they may be. The first order of business is DEMONIZING the target by labeling the culprit an “anti-Semite”, once that person has been singled out and “marked” for elimination the Zionist character assassination squads go into action. Some departments go as far as getting the person investigated, and even imprisoned for whatever they can dig up. Targets ending up in financial ruin and or divorce is a typical result of a successful all out Zionist attack. You have seen thousands of examples of this in the news. Right now as these words are being written there are two cases that are prominent in the news: Mel Gibson’s wows are just beginning. He has had disputes with his wife but the REAL reason that the ENTIRE MEDIA WORLD is attacking their one time Hollywood darling is the fact that he dared speak ill of the Zionist Jew cartel in public. That was the beginning of the end of Mel Gibson... this is his second offense, thus you can readily see that the Zionist media establishment has pulled out all stops and are all united in burying him.

Recently world famous reporter Helen Thomas was forced to “retire” after she made the public remarks that Israel should “get the hell out of Palestine.” The Zionist attack machine immediately went into overdrive and instantly trashed her entire exemplary life’s work, within days she was pulverized to a leper. As is the m.o. of the Zionist steamroller, she was forced to immediately apologize, take back her words and resign. She did just that. Nothing else to see here folks, now run along, nothing left but Zionist road kill.

Former White House correspondent Helen Thomas has acknowledged she touched a nerve with remarks about Israel that led to her retirement. But she says the comments were “exactly what I thought,” even though she realized soon afterward that it was the end of her job.

“I hit the third rail. You cannot criticize Israel in this country and survive.” Thomas told Ohio station WMRN-AM in a sometimes emotional 35-minute interview that aired Tuesday. It was recorded a week earlier by WMRN reporter Scott Spears at Thomas’ Washington, D.C., condominium.

The third current example happening at this very moment is Oliver Stone. He DARED speak the truth about the Zionist Jew dominance.... The entire Zionist media cartel is waging war on this man and conducting a massive character assassination and discrediting him in every way and form. Here is a perfect sample how the Zionist mafia looks the world right in the eye and DENIES AND EVEN BLASTS THE ABSOLUTE OBVIOUS DOCUMENTED TRUTH!!!

According to all the Zionist Jew owned/controlled media conglomerates: Jewish domination and control of the media is just a figment of your overactive imagination!!!! LOL. As with all marks, the Zionist hitmen are immediately dispatched to get an apology then they proceed their character assassinations.

Oliver Stone slammed for anti-Semitism

Director apologizes in response to Jewish groups

By Georg Szalai, The Hollywood Reporter, July 26, 2010

NEW YORK - The Anti-Defamation League on Monday slammed filmmaker Oliver Stone for comments he made to the Sunday Times in the U.K., calling them anti-Semitic.

Abraham Foxman, ADL national director, said: "Oliver Stone has once again shown his conspiratorial colors with his comments about "Jewish domination of the media" and control over U.S. foreign policy. His words conjure up some of the most stereotypical and conspiratorial notions of undue Jewish power and influence."

Stone issued an apology Monday afternoon. "In trying to make a broader historical point about the range of atrocities the Germans committed against many people, I made a clumsy association about the Holocaust, for which I am sorry and I regret," Stone said in a statement.

When asked in an interview with the Sunday Times of London why there was "such a focus on the Holocaust," Stone replied: "The Jewish domination of the media." He added: "They stay on top of every comment, the most powerful lobby in Washington. Israel has fucked up United States foreign policy for years."

The American Jewish Committee also weighed in Monday, comparing Stone to Mel Gibson. "By invoking this grotesque, toxic stereotype, Oliver Stone has outed himself as an anti-Semite," said AJC Executive Director David Harris. "For all of Stone's progressive pretensions, his remark is no different from one of the drunken, Jew-hating rants of his fellow Hollywood celebrity, Mel Gibson."

The American Gathering of Holocaust Survivors and their Descendants also released a statement Monday. "We are deeply offended. These are words of hate and a disgraceful evocation of anti-Semitism. Shame on Oliver Stone."

Times of London articles are behind a paywall, but that didn't stop many publications from reprinting the quotes.

Stone made his comments in the context of discussing his new documentary, "South of the Border," which concerns Venezuelan president Hugo Chavez.

This isn't the first time Stone has made controversial comments about the Holocaust. In January, he characterized Hitler as an "easy scapegoat" in a presentation to TV critics in support of his upcoming Showtime miniseries "Oliver Stone's Secret History of America."

Stone's comments even echoed in Israel, where Yuli Edelstein, minister of diaspora affairs and public diplomacy, weighed in. "When a man of Stone's stature says such things, it could lead to a new wave of anti-Semitism and anti-Israelism, and it may even cause real harm to Jewish communities and individuals."

"Jews obviously do not control media or any other industry," Stone's statement continued. "The fact that the Holocaust is still a very important, vivid and current matter today is, in fact, a great credit to the very hard work of a broad coalition of people committed to the remembrance of this atrocity - and it was an atrocity."

The mass media is nothing other than a "Zionist Corridors of Power Gatekeeper tool." Another way we witness this tool in action is in every (s)election. For instance in the 2008 election, where the one true candidate that was not a paid for and owned the Zionist establishment, the one person who could put this country back on track to sanity and back to its founding roots, the only sane candidate, was Ron Paul. But we witnessed the media GATEKEEPERS ridicule him, bash him, tear him apart like no other person ever, and while Ron Paul obviously had a huge following and support, the gatekeepers would not cover anything he was doing, thus leaving him locked out of any serious contention. The media gatekeepers closed the gate on Ron Paul, so the mass public at large had no clue who this amazing man was. Think about it. Instead the media darling was Obama... who was elevated to almost savior status, even some Republicans were singing their praise for this man... makes you wonder, once the football is handed to him from Bush & Co amazingly “successful” run at destroying this nation, just how much further into the abyss Obama is going to drive us into the end zone... with the media and the sheeple cheering him on.

"The main [media] bias is in favor of the thieves who stole our country and economy, and own the mainstream media companies. The omnipresent mainstream media is the greatest weapon of oppression humanity has ever known." - David DeGraw

There you have it, a rudimentary summery of worldwide media ownership and control firmly in the hands of a powerful few cartel of media barons who decide what is worthy to be called “news” and what is not. THEY decide what is hot and what is not, they set the pace and accepted norms of society. Period.

Below is another example of Zionist media censorship I feel compelled to include in this report. I recently read an amazing speech given at the U.N. by possibly the most demonized human being on the planet, so vile, evil, dangerous and despicable is this person portrayed by the Zionist media cartel, that I had to find the transcript of his speech due to the fact that all the audio equipment mysteriously stopped working the moment he got on the stage and just as mysteriously began working the moment he finished... This is the actual transcript of his speech to the world:

Madam President, Distinguished Heads of State and Government, Distinguished Heads of Delegation, Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen,

I praise the Merciful, All-Knowing and Almighty God for blessing me with another opportunity to address this Assembly on behalf of my great nation and to bring a number of issues to the attention of the international community.

I also praise the Almighty for the increasing vigilance of peoples across the globe, their courageous presence in different international settings, and the brave expression of their views and aspirations regarding global issues.

Today, humanity passionately craves commitment to the Truth, devotion to God, quest for Justice and respect for the dignity of human beings. Rejection of domination and aggression, defense of the oppressed, and longing for peace constitute the legitimate demand of the peoples of the world, particularly the new generations and the spirited youth, who aspire a world free from decadence, aggression and injustice, and replete with love and compassion. The youth have a right to seek justice and the Truth; and they have a right to build their own future on the foundations of love, compassion and tranquility. And, I praise the Almighty for this immense blessing.

Madame President, Excellencies,

What afflicts humanity today is certainly not compatible with human dignity; the Almighty has not created human beings so that they could transgress against others and oppress them.

By causing war and conflict, some are fast expanding their domination, accumulating greater wealth and usurping all the resources, while others endure the resulting poverty, suffering and misery.

Some seek to rule the world relying on weapons and threats, while others live in perpetual insecurity and danger.

Some occupy the homeland of others, thousands of kilometers away from their borders, interfere in their affairs and control their oil and other resources and strategic routes, while others are bombarded daily in their own homes; their children murdered in the streets and alleys of their own country and their homes reduced to rubble.

Such behavior is not worthy of human beings and runs counter to the Truth, to justice and to human dignity. The fundamental question is that under such conditions, where should the oppressed seek justice? Who, or what organization defends the rights of the oppressed, and suppresses acts of aggression and oppression? Where is the seat of global justice?

A brief glance at a few examples of the most pressing global issues can further illustrate the problem.

A. The unbridled expansion of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons

Some powers proudly announce their production of second and third generations of nuclear weapons. What do they need these weapons for? Is the development and stockpiling of these deadly weapons designed to promote peace and democracy? Or, are these weapons, in fact, instruments of coercion and threat against other peoples and governments? How long should the people of the world live with the nightmare of nuclear, biological and chemical weapons? What bounds the powers producing and possessing these weapons? How can they be held accountable before the international community? And, are the inhabitants of these countries content with the waste of their wealth and resources for the production of such destructive arsenals? Is it not possible to rely on justice, ethics and wisdom instead of these instruments of death? Aren't wisdom and justice more compatible with peace and tranquility than nuclear, chemical and biological weapons? If wisdom, ethics and justice prevail, then oppression and aggression will be uprooted, threats will wither away and no reason will remain for conflict. This is a solid proposition because most global conflicts emanate from injustice, and from the powerful, not being contented with their own rights, striving to devour the rights of others.

People across the globe embrace justice and are willing to sacrifice for its sake.

Would it not be easier for global powers to ensure their longevity and win hearts and minds through the championing of real promotion of justice, compassion and peace, than through continuing the proliferation of nuclear and chemical weapons and the threat of their use?

The experience of the threat and the use of nuclear weapons is before us. Has it achieved anything for the perpetrators other than exacerbation of tension, hatred and animosity among nations?

B. Occupation of countries and exacerbation of hostilities

Occupation of countries, including Iraq, has continued for the last three years. Not a day goes by without hundreds of people getting killed in cold blood. The occupiers are incapable of establishing security in Iraq. Despite the establishment of the lawful Government and National Assembly of Iraq, there are covert and overt efforts to heighten insecurity, magnify and aggravate differences within Iraqi society, and instigate civil strife.

There is no indication that the occupiers have the necessary political will to eliminate the sources of instability. Numerous terrorists were apprehended by the Government of Iraq, only to be let loose under various pretexts by the occupiers.

It seems that intensification of hostilities and terrorism serves as a pretext for the continued presence of foreign forces in Iraq.

Where can the people of Iraq seek refuge, and from whom should the Government of Iraq seek justice?

Who can ensure Iraq's security? Insecurity in Iraq affects the entire region. Can the Security Council play a role in restoring peace and security in Iraq, while the occupiers are themselves permanent members of the Council? Can the Security Council adopt a fair decision in this regard?

Consider the situation in Palestine: The roots of the Palestinian problem go back to the Second World War. Under the pretext of protecting some of the survivors of that War, the land of Palestine was occupied through war, aggression and the displacement of millions of its inhabitants; it was placed under the control of some of the War survivors, bringing even larger population groups from elsewhere in the world, who had not been even affected by the Second World War; and a government was established in the territory of others with a population collected from across the world at the expense of driving millions of the rightful inhabitants of the land into a diaspora and homelessness. This is a great tragedy with hardly a precedent in history. Refugees continue to live in temporary refugee camps, and many have died still hoping to one day return to their land. Can any logic, law or legal reasoning justify this tragedy? Can any member of the United Nations accept such a tragedy occurring in their own homeland?

The pretexts for the creation of the regime occupying Al-Qods Al-Sharif are so weak that its proponents want to silence any voice trying to merely speak about them, as they are concerned that shedding light on the facts would undermine the raison d'être of this regime, as it has. The tragedy does not end with the establishment of a regime in the territory of others. Regrettably, from its inception, that regime has been a constant source of threat and insecurity in the Middle East region, waging war and spilling blood and impeding the progress of regional countries, and has also been used by some powers as an instrument of division, coercion, and pressure on the people of the region. Reference to these historical realities may cause some disquiet among supporters of this regime. But these are sheer facts and not myth. History has unfolded before our eyes.

Worst yet, is the blanket and unwarranted support provided to this regime. Just watch what is happening in the Palestinian land. People are being bombarded in their own homes and their children murdered in their own streets and alleys. But no authority, not even the Security Council, can afford them any support or protection. Why?

At the same time, a Government is formed democratically and through the free choice of the electorate in a part of the Palestinian territory. But instead of receiving the support of the so-called champions of democracy, its Ministers and Members of Parliament are illegally abducted and incarcerated in full view of the international community.

Which council or international organization stands up to protect this brutally besieged Government? And why can't the Security Council take any steps?

Let me here address Lebanon:

For thirty-three long days, the Lebanese lived under the barrage of fire and bombs and close to 1.5 million of them were displaced; meanwhile some members of the Security Council practically chose a path that provided ample opportunity for the aggressor to achieve its objectives militarily. We witnessed that the Security Council of the United Nations was practically incapacitated by certain powers to even call for a ceasefire. The Security Council sat idly by for so many days, witnessing the cruel scenes of atrocities against the Lebanese while tragedies such as Qana were persistently repeated. Why?

In all these cases, the answer is self-evident. When the power behind the hostilities is itself a permanent member of the Security Council, how then can this Council fulfill its responsibilities?

C. Lack of respect for the rights of members of the international community

Excellencies,

I now wish to refer to some of the grievances of the Iranian people and speak to the injustices against them.

The Islamic Republic of Iran is a member of the IAEA and is committed to the NPT. All our nuclear activities are transparent, peaceful and under the watchful eyes of IAEA inspectors. Why then are there objections to our legally recognized rights? Which governments object to these rights? Governments that themselves benefit from nuclear energy and the fuel cycle. Some of them have abused nuclear technology for non-peaceful ends including the production of nuclear bombs, and some even have a bleak record of using them against humanity.

Which organization or Council should address these injustices? Is the Security Council in a position to address them? Can it stop violations of the inalienable rights of countries? Can it prevent certain powers from impeding scientific progress of other countries?

The abuse of the Security Council, as an instrument of threat and coercion, is indeed a source of grave concern.

Some permanent members of the Security Council, even when they are themselves parties to international disputes, conveniently threaten others with the Security Council and declare, even before any decision by the Council, the condemnation of their opponents by the Council. The question is: what can justify such exploitation of the Security Council, and doesn't it erode the credibility and effectiveness of the Council? Can such behavior contribute to the ability of the Council to maintain security?

Excellencies,

A review of the preceding historical realities would lead to the conclusion that regrettably, justice has become a victim of force and aggression. Many global arrangements have become unjust, discriminatory and irresponsible as a result of undue pressure from some of the powerful; Threats with nuclear weapons and other instruments of war by some powers have taken the place of respect for the rights of nations and the maintenance and promotion of peace and tranquility;

For some powers, claims of promotion of human rights and democracy can only last as long as they can be used as instruments of pressure and intimidation against other nations. But when it comes to the interests of the claimants, concepts such as democracy, the right of self-determination of nations, respect for the rights and intelligence of peoples, international law and justice have no place or value. This is blatantly manifested in the way the elected Government of the Palestinian people is treated as well as in the support extended to the Zionist regime. It does not matter if people are murdered in Palestine, turned into refugees, captured, imprisoned or besieged; that must not violate human rights.

- Nations are not equal in exercising their rights recognized by international law. Enjoying these rights is dependent on the whim of certain major powers.

- Apparently the Security Council can only be used to ensure the security and the rights of some big powers. But when the oppressed are decimated under bombardment, the Security Council must remain aloof and not even call for a ceasefire. Is this not a tragedy of historic proportions for the Security Council, which is charged with maintaining the security of countries?

- The prevailing order of contemporary global interactions is such that certain powers equate themselves with the international community, and consider their decisions superseding that of over 180 countries. They consider themselves the masters and rulers of the entire world and other nations as only second class in the world order.

Excellencies,

The question needs to be asked: if the Governments of the United States or the United Kingdom who are permanent members of the Security Council, commit aggression, occupation and violation of international law, which of the organs of the UN can take them to account? Can a Council in which they are privileged members address their violations? Has this ever happened? In fact, we have repeatedly seen the reverse. If they have differences with a nation or state, they drag it to the Security Council and as claimants, arrogate to themselves simultaneously the roles of prosecutor, judge and executioner. Is this a just order? Can there be a more vivid case of discrimination and more clear evidence of injustice?

Regrettably, the persistence of some hegemonic powers in imposing their exclusionist policies on international decision making mechanisms, including the Security Council, has resulted in a growing mistrust in global public opinion, undermining the credibility and effectiveness of this most universal system of collective security.

Excellencies,

How long can such a situation last in the world? It is evident that the behavior of some powers constitutes the greatest challenge before the Security Council, the entire organization and its affiliated agencies.

The present structure and working methods of the Security Council, which are legacies of the Second World War, are not responsive to the expectations of the current generation and the contemporary needs of humanity.

Today, it is undeniable that the Security Council, most critically and urgently, needs legitimacy and effectiveness. It must be acknowledged that as long as the Council is unable to act on behalf of the entire international community in a transparent, just and democratic manner, it will neither be legitimate nor effective. Furthermore, the direct relation between the abuse of veto and the erosion of the legitimacy and effectiveness of the Council has now been clearly and undeniably established. We cannot, and should not, expect the eradication, or even containment, of injustice, imposition and oppression without reforming the structure and working methods of the Council.

Is it appropriate to expect this generation to submit to the decisions and arrangements established over half a century ago? Doesn't this generation or future generations have the right to decide themselves about the world in which they want to live?

Today, serious reform in the structure and working methods of the Security Council is, more than ever before, necessary. Justice and democracy dictate that the role of the General Assembly, as the highest organ of the United Nations, must be respected. The General Assembly can then, through appropriate mechanisms, take on the task of reforming the Organization and particularly rescue the Security Council from its current state. In the interim, the Non-Aligned Movement, the Organization of the Islamic Conference and the African continent should each have a representative as a permanent member of the Security Council, with veto privilege. The resulting balance would hopefully prevent further trampling of the rights of nations.

Madame President, Excellencies,

It is essential that spirituality and ethics find their rightful place in international relations. Without ethics and spirituality, attained in light of the teachings of Divine prophets, justice, freedom and human rights cannot be guaranteed.

Resolution of contemporary human crises lies in observing ethics and spirituality and the governance of righteous people of high competence and piety.

Should respect for the rights of human beings become the predominant objective, then injustice, ill-temperament, aggression and war will fade away.

Human beings are all God's creatures and are all endowed with dignity and respect.

No one has superiority over others. No individual or states can arrogate to themselves special privileges, nor can they disregard the rights of others and, through influence and pressure, position themselves as the "international community".

Citizens of Asia, Africa, Europe and America are all equal. Over 6 billion inhabitants of the earth are all equal and worthy of respect. Justice and protection of human dignity are the two pillars in maintaining sustainable peace, security and tranquility in the world.

It is for this reason that we state:

Sustainable peace and tranquility in the world can only be attained through justice, spirituality, ethics, compassion and respect for human dignity.

All nations and states are entitled to peace, progress and security.

We are all members of the international community and we are all entitled to insist on the creation of a climate of compassion, love and justice.

All members of the United Nations are affected by both the bitter and the sweet events and developments in today's world.

We can adopt firm and logical decisions, thereby improving the prospects of a better life for current and future generations.

Together, we can eradicate the roots of bitter maladies and afflictions, and instead, through the promotion of universal and lasting values such as ethics, spirituality and justice, allow our nations to taste the sweetness of a better future.

Peoples, driven by their divine nature, intrinsically seek Good, Virtue, Perfection and Beauty. Relying on our peoples, we can take giant steps towards reform and pave the road for human perfection. Whether we like it or not, justice, peace and virtue will sooner or later prevail in the world with the will of Almighty God. It is imperative, and also desirable, that we too contribute to the promotion of justice and virtue.

The Almighty and Merciful God, who is the Creator of the Universe, is also its Lord and Ruler. Justice is His command. He commands His creatures to support one another in Good, virtue and piety, and not in decadence and corruption.

He commands His creatures to enjoin one another to righteousness and virtue and not to sin and transgression. All Divine prophets from the Prophet Adam (peace be upon him) to the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), to the Prophet Jesus Christ (peace be upon him), to the Prophet Mohammad (peace be upon him), have all called humanity to monotheism, justice, brotherhood, love and compassion. Is it not possible to build a better world based on monotheism, justice, love and respect for the rights of human beings, and thereby transform animosities into friendship?

I emphatically declare that today's world, more than ever before, longs for just and righteous people with love for all humanity; and above all longs for the perfect righteous human being and the real savior who has been promised to all peoples and who will establish justice, peace and brotherhood on the planet.

O, Almighty God, all men and women are Your creatures and You have ordained their guidance and salvation. Bestow upon humanity that thirsts for justice, the perfect human being promised to all by You, and make us among his followers and among those who strive for his return and his cause.

I purposely put the above transcript here after much deliberation, after reading this article I decided to purposely include it. The controversial speaker was someone that has been undergoing extreme vilification by every western media outlet on the planet. These are his words and thoughts that he has consistently delivered only to be continuously vilified by the ministers of truth. The public is being primed into identifying his nation as the next evil empire that must be attacked “because they hate us for our freedoms” is one of the brain dead lines we have been fed over and over again by the propaganda ministers. Oh, by the way, the speaker in question was Ahmadinejad of Iran, the next nation the western powers will pulverize into dust. This speech was never broadcast that day because of “technical difficulties,” the sound equipment “malfunctioned” the moment he stood at the podium and was miraculously fixed the moment he stepped off the stage. The world never got to hear what he had to say. Despite the fact that the International Atomic Energy Agency is the central safeguard of their program and they verified time and time again that no nuclear fuel is being diverted is not told. Nonetheless you constantly hear the relentless drums of war... calling for invasion of his country on an almost daily basis... for according to the ministers of truth in this country “they” are the evil bad guys and must be crushed at all costs... “trust us” is the overwhelming explanation coming from the Washingtonites.

Here is yet another sobering article to get you to think:

Fear and Favor

By Paul Krugman, NY Times

A note to Tea Party activists: This is not the movie you think it is. You probably imagine that you’re starring in “The Birth of a Nation,” but you’re actually just extras in a remake of “Citizen Kane.”

True, there have been some changes in the plot. In the original, Kane tried to buy high political office for himself. In the new version, he just puts politicians on his payroll.

I mean that literally. As Politico recently pointed out, every major contender for the 2012 Republican presidential nomination who isn’t currently holding office and isn’t named Mitt Romney is now a paid contributor to Fox News. Now, media moguls have often promoted the careers and campaigns of politicians they believe will serve their interests. But directly cutting checks to political favorites takes it to a whole new level of blatancy.

Arguably, this shouldn’t be surprising. Modern American conservatism is, in large part, a movement shaped by billionaires and their bank accounts, and assured paychecks for the ideologically loyal are an important part of the system. Scientists willing to deny the existence of man-made climate change, economists willing to declare that tax cuts for the rich are essential to growth, strategic thinkers willing to provide rationales for wars of choice, lawyers willing to provide defenses of torture, all can count on support from a network of organizations that may seem independent on the surface but are largely financed by a handful of ultrawealthy families.

And these organizations have long provided havens for conservative political figures not currently in office. Thus when Senator Rick Santorum was defeated in 2006, he got a new job as head of the America’s Enemies program at the Ethics and Public Policy Center, a think tank that has received funding from the usual sources: the Koch brothers, the Coors family, and so on.

Now Mr. Santorum is one of those paid Fox contributors contemplating a presidential run. What’s the difference?

Well, for one thing, Fox News seems to have decided that it no longer needs to maintain even the pretense of being nonpartisan.

Nobody who was paying attention has ever doubted that Fox is, in reality, a part of the Republican political machine; but the network — with its Orwellian slogan, “fair and balanced” — has always denied the obvious. Officially, it still does. But by hiring those G.O.P. candidates, while at the same time making million-dollar contributions to the Republican Governors Association and the rabidly anti-Obama United States Chamber of Commerce, Rupert Murdoch’s News Corporation, which owns Fox, is signaling that it no longer feels the need to make any effort to keep up appearances.

Something else has changed, too: increasingly, Fox News has gone from merely supporting Republican candidates to anointing them. Christine O'Donnell, the upset winner of the G.O.P. Senate primary in Delaware, is often described as the Tea Party candidate, but given the publicity the network gave her, she could equally well be described as the Fox News candidate. Anyway, there's not much difference: the Tea Party movement owes much of its rise to enthusiastic Fox coverage.

As the Republican political analyst David Frum put it, "Republicans originally thought that Fox worked for us, and now we are discovering we work for Fox" — literally, in the case of all those non-Mitt-Romney presidential hopefuls. It was days later, by the way, that Mr. Frum was fired by the American Enterprise Institute. Conservatives criticize Fox at their peril.

So the Ministry of Propaganda has, in effect, seized control of the Politburo. What are the implications?

Perhaps the most important thing to realize is that when billionaires put their might behind "grass roots" right-wing action, it's not just about ideology: it's also about business. What the Koch brothers have bought with their huge political outlays is, above all, freedom to pollute. What Mr. Murdoch is acquiring with his expanded political role is the kind of influence that lets his media empire make its own rules.

Thus in Britain, a reporter at one of Mr. Murdoch's papers, News of the World, was caught hacking into the voice mail of prominent citizens, including members of the royal family. But Scotland Yard showed little interest in getting to the bottom of the story. Now the editor who ran the paper when the hacking was taking place is chief of communications for the Conservative government — and that government is talking about slashing the budget of the BBC, which competes with the News Corporation.

So think of those paychecks to Sarah Palin and others as smart investments. After all, if you're a media mogul, it's always good to have friends in high places. And the most reliable friends are the ones who know they owe it all to you.

So there you have it. The Zionist Jews RULE the media world with an iron fist as they do other vital areas of finance, commerce and government. What are you or congress going to do about it? NOTHING. They literally decide and dictate what "news" is and just about EVERYTHING designed for your consumption that is produced and disseminated through their sprawling networks. Through their massive media industrial complex THEY immerse the world in The Great Delusion.... THEY literally create, generate, concoct, fabricate and widely disseminate, foster, dictate and manipulate everyone's perception of the values, society, economics, etc, in essence THEY literally shape the world view of reality...

The "tragedy" of the new world order will have to work its way out as foretold in the book of Revelations. The Synagogue of Satan (Zionist Jews) will eventually perish, but only after they inflict much bloodshed and damage worldwide in their "GOD given" quest of establishing themselves as THE global rulers of mankind.

CORPORATE EMPIRE MATRIX

BUSINESS 101 = PERPETUAL GROWTH & R.O.I.

"Fascism should more appropriately be called Corporatism, because it is the merger of corporate and state power"
 - Benito Mussolini, infamous WW2 dictator

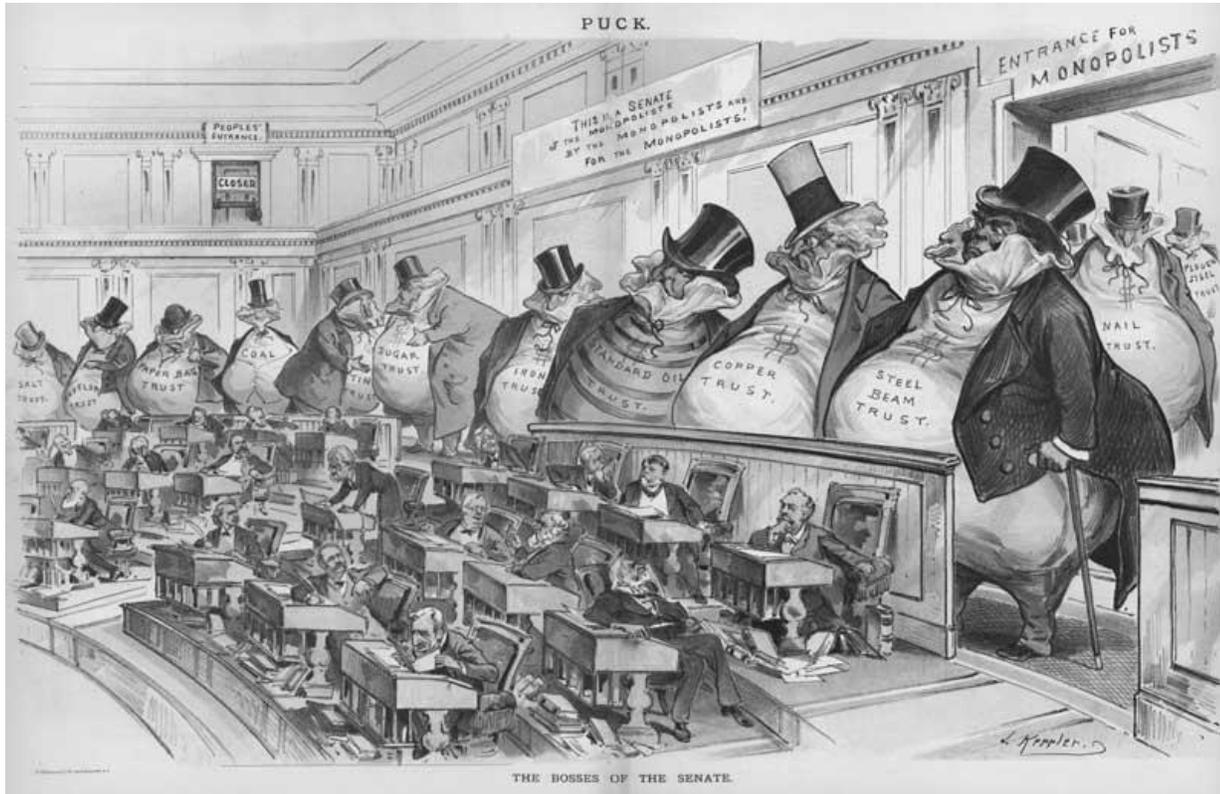

"The only difference between the Republican and Democratic parties is the velocities with which their knees hit the floor when corporations knock on their door. That's the only difference." - Ralph Nader

Note: The previous draft editions of this Matrix Report did not include this chapter. After reviewing the overall report, I realized that I had to add this section in order to fill the void and better more accurately articulate the cohesive structural core elements of the ruling elite. For it is within the thousands upon thousands of corporations, organizations, institutions, trusts and governments (whom all of which utilize the identical organization structure and functional procedure) that the ruling elite operate out of.

The corporate entity represents one of modern society's greatest paradoxical conundrums. For on one hand the corporations have been pivotal in ushering in the means and era of the greatest most amazing spectacular growth, convenience and prosperity to have ever been witnessed on the planet earth. In the period of just the last 100 years we have witness the most phenomenal growth and advancement that all of history has never seen. How can one possibly disagree or find fault with such astonishing results?

Yet what is not readily understood nor observed by the casual spectator is the fact that corporations are actually multi-headed creatures. One head represents unlimited amazing prosperity while the other head represents the vile despicable greedy insatiable earth raping humanity perverting component of the same beast. We have all been indoctrinated about its nice side, so much so that we willingly are blind to all its evils, therefore, as with every aspect of the matrix systems I cover, I must exposed the sinister dark side and reveal how they are utilized to exploit everything they touch.

It is detrimental that you understand that the true power of the ruling elite firmly exists in its use of organizations as the KEY modus operandi. For it is within corporations, institutions, government agencies that the ruling elite HIDE and OPERATE WITHIN. Many of their corporations have more power and leverage than some small countries. Sit back for a moment, just dwell on and digest that statement to realize its full impact and meaning.

The impact and power of corporations has never fully been researched, investigated, understood or exposed. The ruling elite RULE and run everything from behind the veil of corporations, organizations and institutions of all kinds, this has been so for hundreds of years. The use of corporations in the rule of society is nothing new, and only very few acknowledged it. Only comedians and cartoonists are often the only source of unblemished true political commentary allowed in this world (see example photo above published at the turn of the century). Yet there are still many documented warnings and attempts to reveal the true nature of the beast that surfaced in the mainstream. For instance even way back in 1890s the nature of corporate rule was already well established:

*"I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. . . . corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed." - Abraham Lincoln, Nov. 21, 1864

"Wall Street owns the country. It is no longer a government of the people, for the people and by the people, but a government for Wall Street, by Wall Street, and for Wall Street. The great common people of this country are slaves, and monopoly is the master...Let the bloodhounds of money who have dogged us thus far beware." — Mary Elizabeth Lease (1890)*

These most amazing quotes clearly demonstrates one of the central points that I have been trying to articulate and reveal throughout this report: that the ruling elite and through their corporate matrix have been RULING the world for a long time without the BLINDED general public having even the slightest clue. Thus as the analogy presented in the movie “the Matrix” illustrates: we have all been living in a world that has been an ingeniously constructed illusion, you have been born and raised IN THE MATRIX. As Morpheus goes on to tell Neo: “you have been blinded from the truth.” What is the truth? “That you have all been SLAVES.” Thus you must first REALIZE your true condition, then and only then go forth to FREE YOUR MIND. Emancipate yourself from mental slavery is my motto. Then and only then can you truly begin to go forth and walk in accordance to the true wishes of Heaven and the creator of mankind.

The fact is the corporate business model is the core of everything that is wrong in this world. Even in business school it is taught the main objective to every business is GROWTH. In the real world the purpose of business life is GROWTH and ROI (return on investment) above and beyond all else. The insatiable pursuit of never ending perpetual growth can not last forever. Eventually everything will come crashing in, the capitalist system will eventually collapse upon itself, actually the entire selfish profit driven concept is insanity for it will eventually only lead to destruction of all things in the search of the almighty unsustainable perpetual growth. Investors are never satisfied, the standard protocol is the quest of higher and higher returns, the capitalist system basically serves only the wealthy, to maintain their elite status and opulent ways of life, and whenever a CEO cannot deliver ROI and growth, out the door he goes, immediately replace by someone who will do what the other could not or would not.

The Corporation - documentary

THIS is the pressure cooker that exists in ALL corporations. THIS standard business model is infinitely selfish and self-destructive for everything can and is sacrificed for the sake of growth, nothing is sacred, not ethics, morals, not the employees, the cities and towns they serve, not even their own country, everything is negotiable and sacrificed for the sake of never ending quest for more profits. The massive corporations are often likened to colossal monsters, beasts bent on conquest, ravishing the resources of everywhere they go, what do they give back to society? They spew out toxic pollution in return, they displace the native populations and more often than not leave them all destitute in their own lands... At which point the impoverished societies turn to the international bankers for “help” only to one day wake up and realize that they have all been enslaved, they now live in a country that no longer belongs to them, but is instead ruled by proxy by outside forces. THIS is REALITY. THIS is the sad state of business throughout the world.

"CEOs of most of the world's largest corporations daily make decisions that destroy the lives of many other human beings. Only about 1 to 3 percent of us are sociopaths - people who don't have normal human feelings and can easily go to sleep at night after having done horrific things. And of that 1 percent of sociopaths, there's probably only a fraction of a percent with a college education. And of that tiny fraction, there's an even tinier fraction that understands how business works, particularly within any specific industry. Thus there is such a shortage of people who can run modern monopolistic, destructive corporations that stockholders have to pay millions to get them to work. And being sociopaths, they gladly take the money without any thought to its social consequences." - Thom Hartmann

We live in a world of consumerism, dollarism, capitalism centered on banks and their debt based society, a vaporware monetary system. There will never be peace, calm and tranquility on earth until the day comes when the corporations have exhausted everything and everyone, until their complete exploitation of the planet, is complete. Only when there is nothing left to exploit and take over that the barons of the business world will eventually stand in their ivy league boardrooms, mansions, mega yachts and realize that the capitalist business model that they had everyone ferociously defend until the end (moronically even against their own best interests) was self destructive up until the very end. Only then can the world lay to rest the capitalist corporate model and standing among the ruins of a world ravished by corporate greed can the remaining survivors begin to pick up the pieces and try to find an alternative harmonious social paradigm and economic commerce system.

Capitalism is the CENTRAL element of our society, everything that goes on in this world is directly or indirectly connected to capitalism. But few people truly understand what capitalism is nor its inherent global dynamics. Those who truly understand capitalism RULE it. It is THEIR turf, they ballpark, their backyard, their lair. No one on this planet truly comprehends the dynamics of capitalism then its ruling masters, who NEVER appear in silly tabloids as “the rulers of mankind” or the “wealthiest person(s) on the planet” and so forth, they leave that to the Hollywood, sports and rock stars along with the current business billionaire club.

The world's true ruling elite NEVER appear on Forbes or Fortune "richest people" lists. Note that those who do get listed are often of "Nuevo rich" type who comprise mainly of those whose wealth was derived from a strategically insignificant industry like, department stores, cosmetics, packaging, internet website and so forth. The REAL ruling elite practice a strict STEALTH MODE OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL where their m.o. and sport is to HIDE their true wealth within massive convoluted labyrinths of TRUSTS, stocks, NGOs, countless front groups, private enterprises that are not required to submit public financial statements, etc. In essence, once they accumulate massive fortunes the elite then take it UNDERGROUND...

By establishing trusts and foundations they effectively make it disappear and remove their fortunes away from public scrutiny. The resultant stock portfolios of their trusts and foundations work in unison with other members of their syndicate/consortium/cabal/cartel/matrix to buy into strategic targeted corporations and gain stealth control of directorships and so forth, thus gaining stealth control not documented by normal means of analysis and reporting.

They strategically SPREAD their wealth into so countless pieces and organizations that no one but them can keep track of it. Sort of like three card monte. The end game for the true rulers is to NEVER EVER appear on a silly tabloid list of the "wealthiest." One tactic they use is the "less than the reporting requirement strategy" This is when you own let's say 4% of the stock of a target corporation, thus not required to report this "small" percentage to the "regulatory" agencies (that your colleagues happen to run anyway), but if 12 of your billionaire ruling elite cohorts (or trusts/foundations) also each own 4% then of the same entity between your HIDDEN HAND cartel you all literally own and run the massive corporation UNDER RADAR without anyone so much as suspecting anything. Behold the "hidden masters," the ruling elite consortium secret modous of operation revealed.

They make it even more subtle and stealth by; let's say that your 4% stake along your secret cartel counterparts doing likewise, is DIVIDED AMOUNG several of your business holdings and investments so that they APPEAR to be owned by different entities, no one will ever put the convoluted puzzle together, (especially since you employ CEOs and presidents at each of those holding whom are the "face" of that enterprise, as in NEVER the true master) then multiply that by the fact that your secret cabal cohorts are doing the same, not even Einstein would ever figure out that just a dozen or so people actually own and run that particular enterprise, let alone multiply that by untold holdings that you and your ruling elite brethren own/run/control in unison. Thus any corporation that may appear to be a random publically held enterprise is actually strategically owned, operated and controlled.

The laws for the common folk and for corporations are two distinct treatments. Most Americans don't have a clue that many of our billion dollar conglomerates routinely get away without paying taxes or at the very least always manage to minimize their billion dollar profits by legally cooking the books and plying the loopholes. Here are just a couple examples out of hundreds of thousands that proves diminutive corporate taxation is the rule rather than the exception:

ExxonMobil paid no federal income tax in 2009

Last week, Forbes magazine published what the top U.S. corporations paid in taxes last year. "Most egregious," Forbes notes, is General Electric, which "generated $10.3 billion in pretax income, but ended up owing nothing to Uncle Sam. In fact, it recorded a tax benefit of $1.1 billion." Big Oil giant Exxon Mobil, which last year reported a record \$45.2 billion profit, paid the most taxes of any corporation, but none of it went to the IRS:

Exxon tries to limit the tax pain with the help of 20 wholly owned subsidiaries domiciled in the Bahamas, Bermuda and the Cayman Islands that (legally) shelter the cash flow from operations in the likes of Angola, Azerbaijan and Abu Dhabi. No wonder that of $15 billion in income taxes last year, Exxon paid none of it to Uncle Sam, and has tens of billions in earnings permanently reinvested overseas.

You read that correctly. Despite reporting a gross operating profit of over $52 billion in 2009, Exxon paid no income tax to the federal government. In fact, American middle class families pay more federal taxes on a single gallon of gasoline (18.4 cents) than Exxon Mobil paid in U.S. income taxes in all of 2009.

When President Obama released a budget ending tax breaks for oil companies, the industry brazenly protested.

The American Petroleum Institute released a statement griping that "now is not the time to impose new taxes on the nation's oil and natural gas industry."

Even though Exxon doesn't contribute anything to the federal government, it spends millions of dollars trying to control it. According to Center for Responsive Politics, Exxon spent a whopping $27m lobbying in 2009 alone.

Mother Jones' Adam Weinstein notes that, despite benefiting from corporate welfare in the U.S., Exxon complains about paying high taxes, claiming that it threatens energy innovation research. Pat Garofalo at the Wonk Room notes that big corporations' tax shelter practices similar to Exxon's shift a $100 billion annual tax burden onto U.S. taxpayers. In fact, in 2008, the Government Accountability Office found that "two out of every three United States corporations paid no federal income taxes from 1998 through 2005."

GE: 7,000 tax returns, $0 U.S. tax bill

By Annalyn Censky, staff reporter April 16, 2010: 11:52 AM ET

NEW YORK (CNMoney.com) -- General Electric filed more than 7,000 income tax returns in hundreds of global jurisdictions last year, but when push came to shove, the company owed the U.S. government a whopping bill of $0.

How'd it pull off that trick? By losing lots of money.

The 2009 income tax bills for America's biggest companies ranged from $0 to $15 billion. Here's why.

GE had plenty of earnings last year -- just not in the United States. For tax purposes, the company's U.S. operations lost $408 million, while its international businesses netted a $10.8 billion profit.

That left GE (GE, Fortune 500) with no U.S. profit left for Uncle Sam to tax. Corporations typically face a 35% federal income tax on their earnings. Thanks to its deductions and adjustments, GE reported an actual U.S. federal income tax rate of negative 10.5%. It got to add a "tax benefit" of $1.1 billion back into its reported earnings.

"This is the first time in at least decades that GE has reported negative U.S. pretax income and it reflects the worst economy since the Great Depression," Anne Eisele, GE's director of financial communications, said via e-mail.

But what about the $10.8 billion profit overseas? GE is "indefinitely" deferring income tax payments on those profits, Eisele said.

It may seem like accounting magic, but it's completely legit.

GE isn't the only "Top 5" company on this year's Fortune 500 list that owed no income taxes. Bank of America (BAC, Fortune 500), which suffered major losses in 2009, included a tax benefit of $1.9 billion in its annual profit.

"That's one way of escaping taxes," said Scott Hodge, president of the Tax Foundation. "Companies get to deduct their losses, so if there's no earnings, then they pay no income tax."

But GE isn't exactly escaping all tax-related pain: The company paid almost $23 billion in taxes to governments around the world from 2000 to 2009, Eisele said.

Plus, paying the accountants to crank out 7,000 tax returns can't be cheap.

And then there's all the lawyers needed to defend those returns. GE filed tax paperwork in more than 250 jurisdictions around the world last year. "We are under examination or engaged in tax litigation in many of these jurisdictions," the company dryly notes in its annual report.

GE may not owe the IRS, but it still has to file -- and its filings are epic.

In 2006, as the IRS ramped up its corporate e-filing program, the tax agency actually issued a celebratory press release when it processed GE's tax return. On paper, the return -- the nation's largest -- would have totaled a massive 24,000 pages. But instead, the IRS was able to upload the 237 MB document in under an hour.

Google 2.4% Rate Shows How $60 Billion Lost to Tax Loopholes

By Jesse Drucker, Oct 21, 2010 Bloomberg

Google Inc. cut its taxes by $3.1 billion in the last three years using a technique that moves most of its foreign profits through Ireland and the Netherlands to Bermuda.

Google's income shifting -- involving strategies known to lawyers as the "Double Irish" and the "Dutch Sandwich" -- helped reduce its overseas tax rate to 2.4 percent, the lowest of the top five U.S. technology companies by market capitalization, according to regulatory filings in six countries.

"It's remarkable that Google's effective rate is that low," said Martin A. Sullivan, a tax economist who formerly worked for the U.S. Treasury Department. "We know this company operates throughout the world mostly in high-tax countries where the average corporate rate is well over 20 percent."

The U.S. corporate income-tax rate is 35 percent. In the U.K., Google's second-biggest market by revenue, it's 28 percent.

Google, the owner of the world's most popular search engine, uses a strategy that has gained favor among such companies as Facebook Inc. and Microsoft Corp. The method takes advantage of Irish tax law to legally shuttle profits into and out of subsidiaries there, largely escaping the country's 12.5 percent income tax. (See an interactive graphic on Google's tax strategy here.)

The earnings wind up in island havens that levy no corporate income taxes at all. Companies that use the Double Irish arrangement avoid taxes at home and abroad as the U.S. government struggles to close a projected $1.4 trillion budget gap and European Union countries face a collective projected deficit of 868 billion euros.

Countless Companies

Google, the third-largest U.S. technology company by market capitalization, hasn't been accused of breaking tax laws. "Google's practices are very similar to those at countless other global companies operating across a wide range of industries," said Jane Penner, a spokeswoman for the Mountain View, California-based company. Penner declined to address the particulars of its tax strategies.

The corporation is THE instrumental tool used to efficiently maneuver millions of people and resources, giving its owner/controllers unimaginable powers to accomplish things no single independent individual could EVER dream of accomplishing on their own. Within the corporate structure one person literally commands legions of workers as armies to fulfill his every need, want, desire and agenda. Look at Oprah, years ago she was just a struggling actress, she got a talk show and eventually incorporated bought the rights for the show, today "Oprah" is a massive billion dollar

BRAND and a billion dollar ENTERPRISE employing hundreds upon hundreds of people with massive influence. Such is the path the elite have been using for hundreds upon hundreds of years; many of their corporate enterprises have long ago become mainstream household names and built up unimaginable power before you were even born. Oprah is just a gentile goyim outsider. The day will surely come when they absorb her empire as they have done countless others.

Talking of outsiders; Just like Oprah, Martha Stewart built an empire out of scratch. Her enterprise caught the eyes of the powers that be, that's when her world was turned upside down. The SEC was hell bent to get Martha by means of conducting a minuscule $45,000 sting operation and make her a poster child of their wrath. Concurrently at the very same time period they outright ignored and disregarded tons of colossal in your face red flags and actual financial insider's researcher findings indicating that Zionist Jew Bernie Madoff was conducting billions upon billions of dollars in outright fraud with his sanctioned ponzi scheme. Hindsight being 20/20 vision, one now has tons of reports that have come out of the woodworks clearly indicating that the red flags into Bernie's operation was in fact being allowed to go forth by the SEC, he was a "made man," part of the Zionist Cosa Nostra Matrix so they turned a blind eye on his operation. Come on, he was running a supposed investment firm that purportedly dealt in stocks in the hundreds of billions of dollars range yet barely ever bought or sold any stocks! Duh. "everything looks fine to me, let's go after that gentile Martha."

All "regulatory" agencies are, in all actuality, private super elite membership institutions, where the sanctioned members are routinely overlooked and given slack enforcement standards and routine slaps on the wrists all the while the "outsiders" have the books thrown at them, more often than not, experiencing the full brunt force of their power. When situations such as these arise, the regulatory agency seizes the moment to showcase to the world the supposition that it is doing its job. More often than not, the majority of the times that the agencies come down on "their own" members are usually due to the fact that some independent outsider blew some whistles and thus forced the regulatory agencies obligation to act.

The Martha Stewart case is so important here due to its incredible attributes of clearly exposing the true nature of the beast. In Wall Street, $45,000 is chump change, this kind of money is routinely spent at a single sitting on LUNCH with the boys. The fact of the matter is that Martha was a goyim, NOT an insider, she was NOT part of the elite club, what's more important here was the fact that the international MEDIA MONOPOLY CARTEL wanted her billion dollar Omnimedia kingdom as an additional component of their own colossal Zionist media empire. Thus note after she was FRAMED, prosecuted and imprisoned, the KEY stipulation that she was FORCED to sign off on would be to relinquish control of her multi-billion dollar corporation. The next thing you know: Tadaa! Zionist Jew Charles Kopleman takes the helm of Omnimedia. This my friend is how they roll.

Was this an isolated occurrence? Absolutely unequivocally: NOT. What these two scenarios actually reveal is the TRUE nature of the REAL role of the Securities Exchange Commission. The SEC just like every other "regulatory" agency ever created exists as a sort of MEMBERSHIP fraternity association. Where they are founded and externally promoted as "regulatory bodies to protect the people" but in reality, all these agencies are ALWAYS run by INDUSTRY INSIDERS whom use the revolving door, constantly going back and forth between the private sector the agencies they supposedly police one day, then back to the other side and operating the supposed regulatory agency the next. This accepted norm is absolutely ridiculous, but the blind uninitiated minions of society have yet to get a clue.

The SEC is no different than all other "regulatory agencies" such as the FDA, FCC, IRS, FED, FDIC, FTC, etc., etc. In that they are ALL run by card carrying members of elite Zionist Jews & Masons.

- the SEC is being run by Zionist Jew agent Mary L. Schapiro,
- the FDA is being run by Zionist Jew agent Margaret A. Hamburg,
- the FCC is being run by Zionist Jew agent Julius Genachowski,
- the IRS is being run by Zionist Jew agent Douglas H. Shulman,
- the FED is being run by Zionist Jew agent Ben Bernanke,
- the FDIC is being run by Zionist Jew agent Sheila Bair,
- the FTC is being run by Zionist Jew agent Jon Leibowitz, etc., etc.

(if you can't see a pattern here of Jewish control then you need serious help) And when it's not a Zionist Jew running the show at any given agency, it will be a loyal, trusted card carrying Mason or CFR, Bilderberg member who are placed in charge of operations.

If you are under the impression that Zionist Jewish rule was limited to banking/investments/finance/minerals, the entire media world including Hollywood, and politics. Then you are in for an even more disturbing news. Their tentacles are many and deeply embedded in many areas of society, here a few other complete and total Zionist Jew monopolies that exist right in your face hidden in plain sight yet no one has a clue:

Jewish Control of Money And Business Organizations

The following list is from 2005

World Bank,

Present President: Paul Wolfowitz (a la Jew Watch, November 5, 2005)

Former President: James D. Wolfensohn

Federal Reserve System,

Chairman: Ben Shalom Bernanke

Former Chairman: Alan Greenspan

Economic Policy Institute,

President: Larry Mishel (Mishel comes up on a web search as a Jewish surname)

Vice President: Ross Eisenbrey (Jewish?)

International Futures and Options Exchange,

CEO: Hugh Freedberg

The Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT),

Chairman: Nickolas J. Neubauer

New York Board of Trade,

Acting President, CEO, Chairman, and Chairman of the Board: Charles H. Falk

Vice Chairman of the Board: Frederick W. Schoenhut

American National Standards Institute (ANSI),

President and CEO: Mark W. Hurwitz

American Corn Growers Association,

CEO (in 2000): Gary Goldberg

"In February 2001, Goldberg was sentenced to five years probation for obtaining child pornography by mail.

"When the FBI and police knocked on his door, it was the end of Gary Goldberg, chief executive of the American Corn Growers Association," The Tulsa World reported. "Now and forever, it's Gary Goldberg, convicted sex offender." Goldberg, who once rubbed elbows with senators and even visited President Clinton in the White House, now says: "I'm a felon. They don't let felons in the Oval Office." Goldberg's crime led to a very public resignation from his high-profile ACGA role. But the organization did not divorce itself of Goldberg entirely: he now serves as the Chief Executive Officer of the ACGA-linked American Corn Growers Foundation, where he remains in charge of fundraising and glad-handing the big-money foundations that keep ACGA afloat. Goldberg, a Tulsa corn grower, served as CEO of ACGA for three years and National President for five.

Electronic Retailing Association,

Chairman: Linda A. Goldstein

Gemological Institute of America,

President: Lee Berg

U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission,

(Previous) Chairman: Arthur Levitt

Secretary: Jonathan G. Katz

Commissioner: Cynthia A. Glassman

Commissioner: Harvey J. Goldschmid

Direct Marketing Association,

President: H. Robert Weintzen

Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments,

Chairman of the Board: Richard Danzig

"Recently [1999], Richard Danzig was appointed Secretary of the U.S. Navy. The appointment marks the very first time a member of the Jewish faith has reached the commander level of one of the American Armed Forces divisions. The office is second in rank only to the Secretary of Defense ... Observing that the prestigious appointment was duly noted within the Jewish community, I asked Danzig if he felt that his Judaism had played a significant role in his line of work. He pointed out that the structure of the military community is, in fact, quite similar to the Jewish community Although his position as Secretary of the Navy is rare for a civilian officer, the military offers many jobs for civilians."

National Economic Council,

Chairman: Stephen Friedman

Turnaround Management Association,

Chairman: Randall S. Eisenberg

Penultimate Chairman: Melanie Rovner Cohen

American Council for Capital Formation,

President: Mark A. Bloomfield

Business Council for Sustainable Energy,

Chairman: Scott A. Wiener

Consumer Energy Council of America,

President: Ellen Berman

Consumers Union,

Director: Gene Kimmelman

Policy Analyst: Adam Goldberg

Interactive Digital Software Association (IDSA)

(Trade association for the computer videogames industry)

President: Douglas Loewenstein

Antitrust Institute,

President: Albert ("Bert") A. Foer

(Mr. Foer is apparently a member of the Adas Israel synagogue which implores its members: "Buy Israel. At this time, in particular, we should buy as many Israeli products as possible to support the state of Israel." Foer's wife is Esther and his young son, Jonathan Safran Foer, has made hundreds of thousands of dollars on his first novel, Everything Is Illuminated. "Jonathan, son of Esther and Bert Foer, grew up in the synagogue." [p. 6])

American Society of Travel Agents,

President & CEO: Richard M. Copland (Jewish surname)

NASDAQ; Stock Market,

President & CEO: Robert Greifeld

Computer Systems Policy Project (CSPP),

Executive Director: Bruce P. Mehlman

"Chairman of the coalition" (as described in homepage description): Michael S. Dell

Chairman: Craig R. Barrett (Jewish?), also the CEO of Intel Corp.

[JTR contributor's note: "A coalition consisting of 8 computer company CEO's whose "project" is to help further destroy the hi-tech jobs base in America by replacing their domestic employees with cheap labor overseas. The CEO jobs are apparently exempt from this 'project'."]

I know I have overly simplified the state of regulatory agencies, but in all essence this IS the TRUE essence of the state of existence of ALL established agencies. Place a key loyal operative at the helm of any given agency and you literally have free rule of that sphere of industry. The deception does not end there though, for it is ever present just about everywhere. No longer can you take anything for granted, for not everything is what it seems to be...

"Most Americans have no idea that what we are fed by the news media is nothing more than a portrayal of what powerful corporations want us to believe, that what happens to pass as education is as often as not mere propaganda, that what we learn in church may have very little or nothing to do with the truth, that what our parents teach us may be nothing more than an accumulation of their own personal biases, no doubt a rather subtle modification of what they were taught by their parents. And through such a process, governments and nations around the world wield control as to what their citizens, believe, value, and do." - Doug Soderstrom

Enter the Front Organizations:

A front organization is any entity set up by and controlled by another organization, such as intelligence agencies, organized crime groups, banned organizations, religious or political groups, advocacy groups, or corporations. Front organizations can act for the parent group without the actions being attributed to the parent group.

Front organizations that appear to be independent voluntary associations or charitable organizations are called front groups. In the business world, front organizations such as front companies or shell corporations are used to shield the parent company from legal liability. In international relations, a puppet state is a state which acts as a front (or surrogate) for another state.

History

Edward Bernays, who is generally regarded as the "father of public relations," liked to tell people, "What I do is propaganda, and I just hope it's not impropropaganda." In his later years, he became a vocal critic of some of the deceptive techniques used within the PR industry. And yet it is Bernays himself who invented the quintessential tool of deceptive propaganda -- the "front group."

Bernays stumbled on this strategy almost by accident. In 1913, while working as editor of the Medical Review of Reviews, a monthly magazine owned by a college acquaintance, he discovered that the then-famous actor Richard Bennett was interested in producing a play titled "Damaged Goods," which Bernays described as "a propaganda play that fought for sex education." It discussed sexual topics, such as prostitution, that were considered unusually frank for their day. Bennett was afraid that the play would be raided by police, and he hired Bernays to prevent this from happening. Rather than arguing for the play on its merits, Bernays cleverly organized a group that he called the "Medical Review of Reviews Sociological Fund," inviting prominent doctors and members of the social elite to join. The organization's avowed mission was to fight venereal disease through education. Its real purpose was to endorse "Damaged Goods," and apparently the plan worked. The show went on as scheduled, with no interference from police.

"This was a pioneering move that is common today in the promotion of public causes--a prestigious sponsoring committee," notes PR industry historian Scott Cutlip. "In retrospect, given the history of public relations, it might be termed the first effort to use the front or third party technique." It was a technique that Bernays would return to time and again, calling it "the most useful method in a multiple society like ours to indicate the support of an idea of the many varied elements that make up our society. Opinion leaders and group leaders have an effect in a democracy and stand as symbols to their constituency." Bernays helped jump-start sales of bacon, a breakfast rarity until the 1920s, by enlisting a prominent doctor to solicit fellow doctors' opinions on the salutary benefits of a hearty breakfast and by arranging to have famous figures photographed eating breakfasts of bacon and eggs. To sell bananas on behalf of the United Fruit Company, he launched the "celiac project," republishing and disseminating a 20-year-old medical paper which found that eating bananas cured children with celiac disease, a disorder of the digestive system.

"Mr. Bernays has . . . created more institutes, funds, institutions, and foundations than Rockefeller, Carnegie, and Filene together," observed the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, a nonprofit educational organization that flourished in the years following World War I. "Typical of them was the Temperature Research Foundation. Its stated purpose was 'to disseminate impartial, scientific information concerning the latest developments in temperature control as they affect the health, leisure, happiness, and economy of the American people.' A minor purpose--so minor that rarely did Mr. Bernays remember even to mention it--was to boost the sales of Kelvinator refrigerators, air-condition units, and electric stoves."

The majority of the people can sense that things are wrong in many sectors of society, yet rarely do any of them put their finger on it, identifying and completely comprehending the true magnitude of what is. Here is an example of one man reflecting on a decade of unbelievable abuse, yet he has no clue, unable to pinpoint the core matrix of the ruling elite:

A Low, Dishonest Decade

The press and politicians were asleep at the switch.

By Thomas Frank, Dec. 22, 2009, Wall Street Journal

Stock-market indices are not much good as yardsticks of social progress, but as another low, dishonest decade expires let us note that, on 2000s first day of trading, the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at 11357 while the Nasdaq Composite Index stood at 4131, both substantially higher than where they are today. The Nasdaq went on to hit 5000 before collapsing with the dot-com bubble, the first great Wall Street disaster of this unhappy decade. The Dow got north of 14000 before the real-estate bubble imploded.

And it was supposed to have been such an awesome time, too! Back in the late '90s, in the crescendo of the Internet boom, pundit and publicist alike assured us that the future was to be a democratized, prosperous place. Hierarchies would collapse, they told us; the individual was to be empowered; freed-up markets were to be the common man's best buddy.

Such clever hopes they were. As a reasonable anticipation of what was to come they meant nothing. But they served to unify the decade's disasters, many of which came to us festooned with the flags of this bogus idealism.

Jack Abramoff

Before "Enron" became synonymous with shattered 401(k)s and man-made electrical shortages, the public knew it as a champion of electricity deregulation—a freedom fighter! It was supposed to be that most exalted of corporate creatures, a "market maker"; its "capacity for revolution" was hymned by management theorists; and its TV commercials depicted its operations as an extension of humanity's quest for emancipation.

Similarly, both Bank of America and Citibank, before being recognized as "too big to fail," had populist histories of which their admirers made much. Citibank's long struggle against the Glass-Steagall Act was even supposed to be evidence of its hostility to banking's aristocratic culture, an amusing image to recollect when reading about the $100 million pay reportedly pocketed by one Citi trader in 2008.

The Jack Abramoff lobbying scandal showed us the same dynamics at work in Washington. Here was an apparent believer in markets, working to keep garment factories in Saipan humming without federal interference and saluted for it in an op-ed in the Saipan Tribune as "Our freedom fighter in D.C."

But the preposterous populism is only one part of the equation; just as important was our failure to see through the ruse, to understand how our country was being disfigured.

Ensuring that the public failed to get it was the common theme of at least three of the decade's signature foul-ups: the hyping of various Internet stock issues by Wall Street analysts, the accounting scandals of 2002, and the triple-A ratings given to mortgage-backed securities.

The grand, overarching theme of the Bush administration—the big idea that informed so many of its sordid episodes—was the same anti-supervisory impulse applied to the public sector: regulators sabotaged and their agencies turned over to the regulated.

The public was left to read the headlines and ponder the unthinkable: Could our leaders really have pushed us into an unnecessary war? Is the republic really dividing itself into an immensely wealthy class of Wall Street bonus-winners and everybody else? And surely nobody outside of the movies really has the political clout to write themselves a $700 billion bailout. [denial of the obvious in action, for yes, this is exactly what happened]

What made the ought's so awful, above all, was the failure of our critical faculties. The problem was not so much that newspapers were dying, to mention one of the lesser catastrophes of these awful times, but that newspapers [and all news outlets] failed to do their job in the first place, to scrutinize the myths of the day in a way that might have prevented catastrophes like the financial crisis or the Iraq war.

The folly went beyond the media, though. Recently I came across a 2005 pamphlet written by historian Rick Perlstein berating the big thinkers of the Democratic Party for their poll-driven failure to stick to their party's historic theme of economic populism. I was struck by the evidence Mr. Perlstein adduced in the course of his argument. As he tells the story, leading Democratic pollsters found plenty of evidence that the American public distrusts corporate power; and yet they regularly advised Democrats to steer in the opposite direction, to distance themselves from what one pollster called "outdated appeals to class grievances and attacks upon corporate perfidy."

This was not a party that was well-prepared for the job of iconoclasm that has befallen it. And as the new bunch muddle onward—bailing out the large banks but (still) not subjecting them to new regulatory oversight, passing a health-care reform that seems (among other, better things) to guarantee private insurers eternal profits—one fears they are merely presenting their own ample backsides to an embittered electorate for kicking.

Every organization on the planet is governed from the top down. The leaders set policy, atmosphere, rules, agendas, plans, objectives, enforcement and so forth. Thus to control an entire organization, of let's say, of 10,000 people, all one needs to conquer those 10,000 people and have them all in unison do your bidding is to gain control of the main leadership position. Control the CEO/President and you control the entire entity, control majority of stock (whether single handedly or by cabal of like minded) and you appoint and control the CEO/President. It's that simple. This is strategic conquest and management 101 folks.

Thus there is no need to convince and recruit 10,000 individuals, the less they know of the real insider master plan or "conspiracy" the more perfect the operation. Thus the troops need not have the slightest clue as to the ultimate strategy, all they need to accomplish their given roles are a cover story, premise, framework, objectives and marching orders and off go an army of thousands to do the bidding of one single individual... the ruling elite.

Last week's Reagan-Bush-Bush Supreme Court ruling completely eliminates any restrictions on corporate spending on federal election campaigns.

This has been the historical tendency of these justices, and the philosophy of the presidents who appointed them. So corporations will be able to contribute millions or billions to federal campaigns or political parties.

The High Court will most likely "legislate from the bench" that these soulless legal constructions have First Amendment rights that cannot be abridged by federal statutes. I wonder if Washington, Jefferson, Franklin and Adams would have signed off on "... all men and for-profit corporations are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights..." My guess is no. Corporations have human rights only because we have chosen to allow it.

Corporations are not the same as flesh and blood people, except in the eyes of the law. They are much more like vampires. They exist based on charters, which in the case of for-profit corporations require that all of their actions must preserve investors' capital. Note that they are not required to act morally, with any civic-minded considerations, charity, or patriotism. If a corporate product will kill many of consumers but generate an enormous profit, what should we expect the corporation's directors to do? (Think tobacco.) Guess whether I am describing a corporation or a vampire:

- It has no fear of natural death, and can exist for centuries.
- Because of its long existence it can acquire far more wealth than most real humans, and will be tempted to corrupt governments to further its own ends.
- It cannot exist unless it derives its strength from real human beings.
- It has no children who need good schools.
- It does not need to drink clean water, eat wholesome food or breathe unpolluted air.
- It can only be killed by great effort and daring, in an unequal contest that humans are likely to lose.
- It has the power to confuse people into acting in self-destructive manners.

At this point you may be having trouble deciding which one I described. Thank goodness only one of them is real! (I know some of you believe in vampires, but if vampires were real, garlic would be illegal.) When the Supreme Court gives corporations carte blanche to spend their way into control of all our elections, start thinking of how we can change our laws to drive a stake through corporate personhood.

Joshua Ezekiel lives in Salinas.

All organizational structures resemble a pyramid. At the top is one leader, president, king, RULER, he has several key executives under him whom he deals with and delegates to. Likewise his key leaders also have teams of people under them whom they deal with and further delegate orders to. This structure continues all the way down to the bottom of the corporate structure (base of the pyramid) where you ultimately find the grunt worker bees toiling day in and out. All businesses, organizations and governments on the planet function this way. This organizational structure has proven its effectiveness over the centuries, it is the most effective way ever devised to manage legions of armies/personnel to accomplish any given task, mission, goal.

It must be stated, corporations are established and recognized by law as “a separate living entity” and are registered as “a living being” and given perpetual existence. Though it has no heart or soul, “they” have managed to get that legal “living entity” designation and treatment for corporations. As such, some of them exist as colossal immortal beasts roaming the earth devouring and laying waste to all its resources and ravishing entire, towns, forests, cities, oceans, skies and nations...

By their very nature, all corporations purpose of existence, tour de force, are established solely to produce PROFITS, PROFITS, PROFITS, PERIOD. Nothing else's comes before or above said purpose, or is allowed to impede the pursuit of said purpose of existence. With those facts said and revealed, it is the CEO and presidents of the organizations whom the public come to know as the “face” or “mouth piece” of the organization. Yes these two positions are the ones of acting leadership roles, BUT in not every instance are they also the true OWNERS or CONTROLLERS of that given organization. More often than not the CEO and Presidents are the HIRED public relations officers, front men for the TRUE OWNERS, CONTROLLERS of the given enterprise.

The true owners, controllers of every corporation on the planet are the SHAREHOLDERS, also known as the STOCKHOLDERS. The undisputed rule in business: he who owns the majority of the stock gets to call the shots. PERIOD. Thus one only needs to own and or collectively control a majority block of voting shares to have control of a corporation. Do you fully understand this simple ruling principle? It has been said “he who owns all the gold makes all the rules,” likewise: he who owns most of the shares calls all the shots!

In the case of some of the world's monolithic gargantuan conglomerates, it is often a group of key individuals and corporations who own the controlling block of shares. They consolidate their power by forming tight nit secret groups, such as a hyper secret Zionist Jew alliance, thus forming a shareholder majority for the purpose of ruling that entity. Once formed, they can pick and choose whom they will place to be CEOs, Presidents and Executives. Thus, as you can readily observe, it is those INVISIBLE shareholders whom are ultimately the true rulers of that corporation or organization. Of course there are many instances where the "invisible ruler" (shareholder) is also the external, self appointed CEO, President, public leader of the organization.

What's more, many of these massive corporations can be viewed as modern slave labor camps. Think about it; the minimum wage that they pay grown adults is NOT even enough to cover basic housing, let alone utilities, food, and so forth. Poor families cannot survive without everyone in the family taking SLAVE LABOR jobs. When I say slave labor, I mean just that. Think about it for a moment...

Back in pre-industrial society owning slaves was common for the well to do of society. The Jews were among the top providers of fresh slaves in the slave trade, oh, you didn't know? [I don't make this stuff up! Look it up] Is there NOT a segment of industry they did not dominate? Well, history never disclosed the real story behind the slave emancipation acts, I described for you in this report in the Wealth vs. Poverty – Monetary Enslavement Matrix chapter.

The handling of today's slaves was passed from the plantation owners to the corporations who don't have to deal in the menial details of having to care for their well being other than give them a paltry stipend called a pay check every week, then the "free" SLAVES whom were given the new label "employees" are off to fend for themselves and claw their ways around society. They wanted freedom, they got the illusion of freedom, for once everything is said and done, they still do the same jobs and are given basically the same amount the old school plantation owners respectively spent to feed, house, cloths, etc. them. Cold – Hard – Reality.

The upper echelon managers are well taken care of; they are tempted with luxury and life styles that befitted kings just a few hundred years ago. Thus many have in essence sold their souls as in sold out their ethics, principles and morals to their corporate masters all in the quest for the all mighty dollar. The proverbial carrot at the end of the stick. They all compete for top management ranks in their quest to acquire the best paying positions that will give them the ability to live like kings.

This is how the system works and once they get a taste of the good life many, many people will drop and sacrifice any and all their sacred God centered beliefs and do whatever their corporate overlords direct them to do. You know this is true. I need not even produce a single example for your mind is already full of them. I rest my case. Now I ask you again: are you truly free?

The US Government Is "Inverted Totalitarianism"

By Stephen Dufrechou, NEWS JUNKIE POST

Recently, journalist Chris Hedges was interviewed by "Russia Today", the video of which is presented below. The substance of Hedges's discussion regards how the United States has evolved into a form of "inverted totalitarianism". He also discusses the inevitable collapse of the US infrastructure, as well as Obama's uselessness as a "political brand".

In his recent article, "Democracy in America is a Useful Fiction", Hedges defines "inverted totalitarianism":

"Inverted totalitarianism represents "the political coming of age of corporate power and the political demobilization of the citizenry [...] Inverted totalitarianism differs from classical forms of totalitarianism, which revolve around a demagogue or charismatic leader, and finds its expression in the anonymity of the corporate state. The corporate forces behind inverted totalitarianism do not, as classical totalitarian movements do, boast of replacing decaying structures with a new, revolutionary structure. They purport to honor electoral politics, freedom and the Constitution. But they so corrupt and manipulate the levers of power as to make democracy impossible.”

Here he is, discussing these matters:

“Chris Hedges: Fighting Corporate Rape of US” -

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Gv_quWatFkY&feature=player_embedded Hedges is the author of multiple books, including, “American Fascists: The Christian Right and the War on America”, and most recently, “Empire of Illusion: The End of Literacy and the Triumph of Spectacle”.

Our country's major industrial and corporate powerhouses are no longer reliant on NATIONAL success to post huge profits. The days when AMERICAN companies success was wholly dependent on our country and operated within our national boundaries, reflecting its success from sales and operations conducted within our country are long gone. “American” corporations no longer need America. This is why we see the cognitive dissonance in the results of massive profits of some major conglomerates while they are simultaneously firing tens of thousands of U.S. employees and closing down their national operations and holding fire sales here in this country, meanwhile abroad in other countries they are making a killing. Thus here in the good ole U.S. of A we witness doom and gloom, while simultaneously witnessing jaw dropping stock market rallies. To the uninitiated there seems to exist a cognitive dissonance, for these two realities seem to be completely conflicting.

Behold: For we are now living in an era where "American" companies no longer need America to be successful... All the "AMERICAN" mega conglomerates operate in over a hundred other countries... they DON'T NEED AMERICA TO SUCCEED. Our beloved country IS JUST ANOTHER "MARKET" to the multinational corporations... digest this fact and digest it well... only then will you begin to understand the true economic landscape.

We the Corporations

"We the Corporations..." No, it doesn't say that in the Constitution. Does it?

It might as well, because the Supreme Court seems to be unaware of that fact.

And for Republicans, as in the death of the Republic in Star Wars, it was to thunderous applause. The term “corporate America” just took on a whole new meaning. And the vision of the corporate future of another science fiction film – Alien – takes shape.

If “I’m from the government and I’m here to help you” sounds less than welcome, then imagine how ominous “I’m from the corporation and I’m here to help you” sounds. We have seen how much these leeches want to help us already.

The Supreme Court, for eight years the final bastion of democracy as President Bush established his imperial presidency, has gone over to the dark side. In a ruling (Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission) that can only be termed incomprehensible and disastrous, that formerly august body sold out to big money and signed the death warrant for American Democracy.

Despite the precedent of decades of legislation, the nation’s highest court ruled that corporations can spend as much as they like to ensure the nominees most friendly to their interest – not to those of the American people or to the welfare of the country – are elected to office.

In what must come as no surprise to anyone, the corporate-owned Republican Party cheered the ruling. Ironically, it is seen as a victory for free speech.

The 5-4 ruling pretends to be a defense of the First Amendment; the high judges claim that corporations have the same rights as individuals. But as the editorial in the New York Times today points out, the Constitution mentions many entities - “the people, militias, the press, religions” – but it nowhere mentions corporations.

But free speech existed before the Supreme Court ruled: everyone in a corporation – including the CEO and Board of Directors, the President and other officers, all have votes now – just like the rest of us.

The difference is, they have deeper pockets. And they can now buy elections.

Yes. It’s official. Corporations can now put whoever they want into office.

President Obama was critical. As a candidate for the presidency, he campaigned against special interests. This ruling makes an already untenable situation worse.

It has been a long time since the American people were adequately represented in government and their voices have now been drowned out in a deluge of greed in the color of green.

Wall Street – who marched our nation into the worst economic crisis in a century – benefits; Big Oil, which has marched our nation and the world into an ecological disaster, benefits; health insurance companies, who have marched “Joe six pack” into long lines of those waiting to die for want of medical treatment – benefit.

The American people lost.

The Environment lost.

Various groups, League of Conservation Voters, the Public Campaign Action Fund, MoveOn.org and others, are collecting money to offset the damage, for example, by congressional action – the public financing of elections (the Fair Elections Now Act).

But we cannot win on the money front; that is the entire point of this ruling.

The Supreme Court has said to the American people that they have no right to a voice in government.

Government OF the people, BY the people, and FOR the people, has ceased to exist.

What we have now is government OF the corporations, BY the corporations, and FOR the corporations.

We cannot allow this to stand.

Justice John Paul Stevens, who dissented from the ruling, speaks truly when he warns that the ruling threatens democracy, adding that it “will, I fear, do damage to this institution.”

Our only hope now that the courts have turned their back on the American people and on the American system of government, is a constitutional amendment.

In a world where American democracy is portrayed as tyranny against corporate interests, I stand back shakily, reeling from the dagger blows, for it is not only American democracy that has been assassinated, but the voice of the American people for whom, and by whom, this government and this country was created.

Gambling and the Las Vegas Enterprise

One of the great myths masterfully weaved and perpetrated on the public is forever imprinting on their gullible minds that Vegas was/is somehow an Italian mob racket. Truth of the matter, it NEVER was. From the very first gambling "joint," the Flamingo (hello, Bugsy Siegel was a Jew) onward everything was all Jew dominated. What the Zionist elite who rule this world did was cut the Italians in on the gig so as to set them up as the "mark," the distraction, fall guys who they wove a legend out of thus focusing the public's attention in the wrong direction while they dominated behind the scenes as they always do. The Jew's Hollywood turned Italians and Vegas connection into stuff of folklore. You see, the Zionist ruling elite DESPISE the limelight; they don't want anyone knowing what they are up to, so it is standard operating procedure when they readily give all the fame and glory to others so as to take the focus away from themselves leaving themselves free to wheel and deal without the public scrutiny.

They used their iron grip control of Hollywood to orchestrate and perpetuate the myth of Italian mobsters and Vegas to cover the real truth of the matter that the Zionist Jews were the ones who REALLY, TOTALLY, COMPLETELY owned and controlled Vegas from its inception up until this very day. Let's take a look at who the Zionist Jew cartel running SIN CITY really is: Let's start with its' mayor, golly gee whiz I just found our first Zionist Jew, City of Sin Mayor Oscar Goodman (also a known organized crime defense attorney, one of his mafia clients was Nevada based Zionist Jew Jack Gordon). The current governor of the State of SIN is a "Mormon" Jim Gibbons (Polygamy infested Mormonism is an undercover stealth branch of the Masonic ruling elite [link, link, link] it is an official SAFE HOUSE for Masons, Wiccans and other key Luciferian elite who are experiencing troubled times). These are just middle management, let's see who the real movers and shakers are:

Who Controls Las Vegas?

The Who's Who Of Las Vegas source: <http://judicial-inc.biz/>

Israel "Icepick Willie" Alderman - Joe Rosenberg - Gus Greenbaum - Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel Meyer Lansky - Joseph Sacher - Jake Factor - Moe Sedway Morris Kleinman - Moe Dalitz - Gus Greenbaum - Jay Sarno - Nate Jacobson - Sidney Wyman - Jack Entratter - Sam Tucker - Al Gottesman - Jake Gottlieb - Charlie Resnick - Morrie Stupak - Milton Prell - Willie Alderman - David Berman - Merv Adelson Irwin Molasky - Julie Weintraub - Ash Resnick - Frank Rosenthal - Benny Meyerson - Sheldon Adelson - Bernie Rothkopf - Hyman Abrams - Ben Jaffe - Oscar Goodman - Steve Wynn - Jerry Weintraub - Hank Greenspon - Billy Weinberger - Allen Glick

The History Of Las Vegas

Las Vegas was a railroad town in 1905, then gambling was legalized in 1931, and the Hoover Dam was completed in 1936. There were a few small sawdust joints, then Bugsy Siegel muscled Jack Todd out of the Flamingo in 1946. The entire city was then run by Jewish gangsters, the real expansion came when Dorfman used the Pension Teamsters Fund. The next expansion was the 1974 Great Bull Market, where Las Vegas went on the stock exchange.

Bugsy Seigel - Siegel starting things off at the Flamingo Hotel. Joseph Sacher headed the nearby Sands Hotel; Sacher "was second only to Lansky in the Syndicate. Years later he fled the U.S. and went into exile in Israel."

Moe Sedway - Moe Sedway arrived in 1941, a major Jewish mob boss.

Meyer Lansky – a Jewish Polish immigrant was considered the head of the Mafia.

Las Vegas Was Started By Jews

Las Vegas has long been a hotbed of underworld influence and a worldwide attraction for gambling and prostitution. The conception of Las Vegas as a leisure Mecca, it's most famous underworld personages have always been Jewish mobsters Bugsy Siegel and Meyer Lansky.

Jake The Barber - Max Factor's brother, Jake Factor, controlled the Stardust.

Nate Jacobson - Nate Jacobson was associated with Caesar's Palace

Jay Sarno - Another Jewish American, Jay Sarno controlled the Caesar's Palace Sarno later created Circus Circus, he built the Luxor grand pyramid complex in Vegas; Moe Dalitz, Morris Kleinman, and Sam Tucker with the Desert Inn

Jake Gottlieb - Sidney Wyman, Al Gottesman controlled the Dunes; Gus Greenbaum, Moe Sedway, and Charlie Resnick with managing the Flamingo after Bugsy Siegel's death;

Benjamin Miller - Of The Sahara - He started as a booking agent, titled Mr. Entertainment Agent extraordinaire, virtually invented the lounge show and brought everyone from Mae West to Elvis to Las Vegas,

Bennie Kadleman - In 1951, Moore left the Last Frontier when the stockholders decided to sell the resort to Jake Kozloff, 91 Club owner Guy McAfee, Beldon Kadleman and Maurice Friedman

The Hollywood Angle - The New York crowd brought in Billy Weinberger, whose job was to recruit Hollywood Acts.

Bernie Rothkopf - also owned the MGM Hotel. Allen Glick was, between 1974-79, "the mob's front man at the Stardust, Fremont, Hacienda, and Marina hotels."

The Chicago Mob - They provided the new cash through the Central States Pension Fund.

Jimmy Hoffa - These guys took the pensions of millions of truck drivers.

Arthur Goldberg - is the CEO of Park Place Entertainment, a conglomeration of 29 hotel-casinos worldwide, it's Stardust division is the world's largest hotel company.

Hank Greenspun - Jerome Mack, past president of the Dunes and Riviera, was a former national chairman of the Israel Bonds Campaign. Jewish entrepreneur Hank Greenspun owned the Las Vegas Sun newspaper and a local TV station.

Morris Schlaf - The Oasis is also partly owned by Jewish Austrian businessman Martin Schlaf - a close friend of Prime Minister Ariel Sharon.

Izzie Moskowitz - Gambling mogul Irving Moskowitz owns the Hawaiian Gardens and is a heavy supporter of right-wing activities in Israel.

Charlie 'The Nose' Meyerson - Charles Meyerson, Julie Weintraub and Ash Resnick, worked in Wynn-controlled casinos.

Phil Ruffin - In 1997, Wichita businessman Phil Ruffin purchased the Frontier for $167 million and agreed to a five year contract ending the strike. Ruffin's deal included an additional $3.5 million that went for the payment of wages owed to striking workers.

Sheldon Adelson - chairman of the Sands, is also the owner of Venetian, a new Las Vegas complex built in 1999 at a cost of $1.6 billion.

Steve Wynn - The chairman of the Mirage, Steve Wynn, is also Jewish. The funds for Wynn's first casino, the Golden Nugget, was in large part raised by convicted Jewish financier Michael Milken. Steve Wynn, (born Steve Alan Weinberg) The Belagio Though Wynn was never accused of wrongdoing, several of his associates in the hotel were mob-connected

Kenny Shapiro - All of this, in more recent years, has its mirror image in Atlantic City and, increasingly, other American gambling Meccas. Kenny Shapiro, for instance, was "the Atlantic investment banker for [Italian American Mafioso] Nicky Scarfo, the vicious killer who ruled the Philadelphia Mafia, the most murderous mob family in America."

Sollie Kerzner - Another influential Jewish gambling mogul today is Sol Kerzner, founder and principal owner of Sun City from South Africa. Kerzner's modern empire has expanded with extravagant casinos in Atlantic City, New Jersey, the Bahamas, Mauritius, France, and a Native American site in Connecticut.

"From Vegas To Cuba - Many Jewish mob figures were also involved in the gambling industry in Cuba and the Bahamas as its new off-shore gambling and narcotics empire." [MOLDEA, 1989, p. 128]

Louis Arthur Chesler - who "served as Lansky's point man ... Among Chesler's criminal specialties was the handling of stolen securities."

Allen Dorfman - who was "murdered in 1985 to prevent him from talking about mob investments ... He was in the same league as Glick, Shenker, and Malnik."

Moe Dalitz - In 1970 Moe Dalitz, "a leading member of the Cleveland crime syndicate," and controller of the Stardust and Desert Inn Las Vegas casinos

Lew Wertheimer - Al and Lew Wertheimer founded an illegal gambling den in Hollywood called the Clover Club.

Mall of America Owners - Nader, Eskandar, Raphael and Bahman Ghermezian, are Jews who own the Mall of America. They are planning $300 million in real estate developments over the next four years in the Las Vegas area

In 1984, Riviera filed Chapter 11 bankruptcy. Arthur Waltzman was named president in July in an effort to get the Riviera back on her feet.

Mickey Rose - We may also note the case of Mike Rose, the Jewish CEO of Holiday Corporation (Holiday Inn, et al), who "steered [the company] into gambling when it bought into Harrah's in 1980, causing Holiday's president and two directors to resign.

IRWIN MOLASKY - The Developer's Developer From high-rise bank buildings and hospitals to horse racing and motion picture making, the projects of this construction king continue to flourish in Las Vegas and the West, Bernie Goldstein - The King Of Riverboat Gambling, Bernard Goldstein has pushed riverboat gaming in a number of states and was instrumental in lobbying for the original legislation for riverboat gaming in Iowa.

Oscar Goodman - Las Vegas has always been a Jewish-created fantasy.

Leonard Steinberg - English Jew, the founder and chairman of sports betting and casino group Stanley Leisure is now moving into Las Vegas and New Orleans.

El Rancho Las Vegas - On April 3, 1941, the opened on 57 acres of land with a simple sign lifted on stone pillars advertising the new resort

The Desert Inn - From 1957 through 1959, Molasky, Allard Roen and Moe Dalitz, both associated with the Desert Inn.

The Aladdin - Milton Prell, Hyman Abrams, Carl Cohen, and Jack Entratter with the ownership and operation of the Sands, and Ben Jaffe, Phil Kastel, and Jell Houssels

The Krave Club - Abe Sanker, known as "the high priest of gay parties," opened the Krave Nightclub, on the Las Vegas Strip. It caters to voyeurs in a sexually charged fashion and fetish fantasies."

Riviera Hotel 1955 - The Riviera was originally a group of Miami investors headed by Jew Florida businessman Sam Cohen.

Frontier Casino - In 1929 Theatre magnate R.E. Griffith, and his architect nephew, William J. Moore, saw the El Rancho Vegas in 1941

Flamingo Hotel - Benjamin Siegel and his New York "partners", started here in 1946. Other owners were Thomas Hull, and Chester Simms; Albert Parvin and George E. Goldberg; three Miami Beach investors from the Al Parvin group; International and MGM Grand owner Kirk Kerkorian; Hilton; and finally Hilton subsidiary, Park Place Entertainment.

The Sahara - 1947, owned by Mel D. Close, Abbie Pollard Simon, and Del Webb. Sollie Irwin. Paul and Sue Lowden purchased the Sahara from Webb in 1982. In 1995, Bill Bennett retired from Circus Circus Enterprises, then bought the Sahara from the Lowdens for $193 million.

The Thunderbird Casino - In 1964, Del Webb bought the Thunderbird, fronting for Meyer Lanskys consortium. Next, Stuart Perlman bought it, and finally Marianne Kifer Vegas Gets Into River Boats - Bernie Goldstein fans starts the Casino Cruises, Inc., which managed the gaming operations of the Par-A-Dice Riverboat Casino in Peoria, Illinois.

Circus Circus Casino - Anthony Spilotro (nee Speiwietz) aka Anthony Stuart, started the casino which was purchased by Jay Sarno with money from the Central States Pension Fund of the Teamsters Union.

Royal Nevada - Royal Nevada was owned and built by Jews: Frank Fishman, Albert B. Moll, Herman E. Kohen, Joe Leibman and Sid Wyman.

Harrahs - Kirk Kerkorian, an Armenian Jew, owned Harrahs, the Las Vegas Hilton, the MGM Grand, and others.

The ugly truth arises, the Jews completely own and run Las Vegas lock stock and barrel, the Italian mob was a smoke and mirrors myth of legends, the real mobsters are the Jews. The real life “untouchables.” What the Jews created in Las Vegas goes far beyond just gambling and prostitution. It is the defacto ground zero immoral decadence propagation capital of the world.

Yet another realm where Jewish business domination is rampant is the Real Estate industry. Of course this industry is full of all sorts of people. There are no couple of dozen mega corporations that own all the real estate in the country or elsewhere. The reason being is that it (at least in this point in time) is virtually impossible for one or more entities to own, say 97% of all real-estate as the Jews already do with the media.

Psychologically it is also a very different concept to grasp. Think about it, if one, two or three corporations owned 97% of all the property, say in New York. The public whom are paying rents and mortgages would stand up and revolt overnight, due to the fact that real-estate is an easily grasped cognitive issue that possesses easily identified physical form. Even the most stupidest person readily understands the concept of landlord, paying rent and owning property. Few people understand the concept and ramifications behind owning intangible items such as words and images found in media, radio stations, TV stations, Hollywood studios and so forth, so there are no revolts.

For this article I combed my sources looking for lists similar to the one above, and similar to the list of Zionist Jews whom dominate the entire realm of media throughout the world, but low and behold I could not find such a list. Yet I walk down the streets of Manhattan every day on the commute to my offices and just about EVERY SINGLE major real-estate venture, building and project has a Jewish sounding name emblazoned on the front of the building.

When you sit back and think about it, again the Zionists are a dominating force in this industry also. Beginning with little known name Donald Bren (Jew), presently the richest property tycoon in the world with a net worth of 12 billion, he makes Donald Trump look like a chump; There is billionaire Sam Zell (Jew) co-founder of Equity Group Investments; the list goes on and on, here is an enlightening list that scratches the surface:

JEWES AND REAL ESTATE

Most of Jewish American wealth is self-made in the last century or so (as opposed to Gentile-inherited opulence), [WHITFIELD, American, p. 7] a trajectory that has no reason to plateau. About HALF of the Jewish super-rich built their fortunes in real estate and construction, most notably in the New York City area, but also all across the country, including Detroit, San Francisco, Miami, Washington DC, Indianapolis, and Oklahoma City. [LIPSET, p. 15] Edward S. Shapiro specifically cites Jewish "real estate barons" Alfred Taubman in Detroit, Melvin Simon in Indianapolis, Stephen Muss in Miami, Monte and Alfe Goldman in Oklahoma City and Walter Shorenstein in San Francisco. [SHAPIRO, 1987, p. 14]

"In real estate and construction," adds Abraham Korman, "there have been major Jewish builders in San Francisco (Walter Shorenstein), Detroit (Philip and Max Stollman), New York (Samuel Lefrak), and Washington [DC] (Charles Smith) ... Melvin Simon of Indianapolis is one of the major shopping center developers in this country." [KORMAN, p. 24] The Simon Property Group is indeed "the nation's largest mall owner in the United States," including the Mall of America in Minneapolis. [MOTHER JONES, 5-3-01] "In the construction and real estate fields," notes Milton Presur, "there are such giants as Webb and Knapp; the Uris Brothers; Tishman; Levitt; and Rudin and Wolfson Enterprises." [PRESUR, M., 1982, p. 163]

San Francisco's Walter Shorenstein owns "one of the nation's largest and healthiest real estate empires," [KING, R., p. AS1] worth $405 million. He was noted in 1999 by the San Francisco Examiner as "San Francisco's biggest landlord," owning "about 25 percent of the city's downtown rental property." [BRAZIL, E., 11-5-99, p. A4] Also in San Francisco, Richard Swig -- winner of Israel's Golda Meir award -- founded the posh Fairmount hotel chain; he also served as on positions for the Anti-Defamation League and the Jewish Community Federation. By the 1880s, Adolph Sutro, a Jewish immigrant from Prussia, alone owned "roughly one-twelfth of the land in San Francisco." He also became the mayor of the city. [NEWITZ, A., 1-13-99]

In a March 2000 letter to an online magazine, famed San Francisco poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti singled out a Jewish real estate developer who was central in the cultural destruction of that city:

"A developer from Michigan, Scott Seligman, who runs Sterling Bank and Seligman Western Enterprises, wants to gentrify the Mid-Market zone. Not to make the City a better place but to make his bank account a little fatter. He wants a better class of tenant. No more photographers or poets or translators or editors or painters. No more small businesses serving the City." [FERLINGHETTI, 3-8-01]

In 1989 the Los Angeles Times called Martin Selig "Seattle's biggest property owner." He had recently sold Seattle's tallest building for $354 million. [DIETRICH, B., 11-20-89, p. D1] A decade earlier in Seattle, Forbes noted that Jack Benaroya (also Jewish), "for 30 years built the Seattle area's largest real estate empire: 8 million commercial square feet, about 90% industrial, including 5 business parks." [FORBES, 10-27-86, p. 290]

Another Jewish real estate developer, William Levitt, is credited -- or blamed - for the creation of "massive tract developments of single family homes ... He shaped the American dream, a house of one's own for a small down payment and an endless mortgage." [KREFETZ, p. 50] Levitt was instrumental in the invention of "suburbia": sprawls of mass-produced uniform tract houses. Between 1947 and 1951 his company constructed 17,447 homes for 75,000 people on Long Island, known today as Levittown. He also created another housing conglomeration -- also called Levittown -- in Pennsylvania. George Ritzer notes that:

"Levitt and Sons thought of their building sites as large factories. Instead of having the product move, as one the automobile assembly line, the Levitt's product, the emerging house, was stationary, and it was the workers who moved around the building site ... Said Alfred Levitt, one of the sons: "The same man does the same thing every day, despite the psychologists. It is boring; it is bad; but the reward of the green stuff seems to alleviate the boredom of the work." [RITZER, p. 28]

By 1973, Arthur Cohen was chairman of Arlen Realty and Development Corporation, "a corporation that controlled some $1.7 billion of U.S. real estate." [CARRUTH, E., 1973, p. 184] ... Shopping centers are the largest single element of Arlen's business, and the company is one of the nation's largest builders (as well as operators) of them." [CARRUTH, p. 187] Cohen and three associates held 49 percent of the voting shares in the company.

By 1982, another Jewish real estate mogul, Samuel J. Lefrak, alone owned 55,000 apartments in New York City and another 30,000 elsewhere, run by some 350 different companies, each owned by the Lefrak family. [KREFETZ, p. 81] By 1982 too, "the great majority of the New York landlords [were] Jewish" including the prominent family names of Uris, Durst, Tishman, Rudin, Horowitz, Ravitch, Minskoff, Milstein, Sol Goldman, and Frederic Rose, a former President of the Jewish Philanthropies of New York. [BAER, p. 195] Before financial problems in the late 1960s, William Zeckendorf was "master, at one time, of possibly the greatest of all real estate empires." [BLACKWELL, E., 1973, p. 534] He also built the Worldwide Plaza which are manhattans largest, the massive pyramids capping off the tops of the buildings. In the early 1990s the Rudins owned buildings worth $1.5 billion. Other huge Jewish real estate empires include [d] those of Aaron Gural, Leo and Alexander Bing, the Resnicks, Fishers, Koepfels, Wiens, Cohens, and Silversteins. By 1929 A.E. Lefcourt's 24 buildings (many skyscrapers) placed him "among the largest landlords in the city and squarely in the ranks of its wealthiest men." [SCHACHTMAN, p. 117]

Most New York "real estate barons," confirmed Tom Schachtman in 1991, are "white and Jewish." [SCHACHTMAN, p. 21] By the 1920s, "a survey found that 80 percent of the speculative builders in [New York] city were Jewish although Jews made up only 40 percent of the 10,000 builders in the metropolitan area. The [Jewish] immigrants' domination of the field worried some; the chairman of the board of the United States Realty and Home Improvement company called the 'foreign element ... a disturbing feature in real estate today.'" [SCHACHTMAN, p. 111] Architecturally, "even the shopping center was a [Jewish] émigré contribution, pioneered by Viennese-born Victor Gruen ... In Chicago, [Ludwig] Mies became the virtual inventor of industrial design." [HEILBUT, p. 143]

The premier real estate trader in the ritzy Hamptons area of Long Island was (until he choked on a piece of steak and died in 1991) Allan Schneider. Schneider was both Jewish and homosexual, although he hid both. He was, says, Steven Gaines, "the most powerful broker in all the Hamptons -- the 'Pasha,' as he was affectionately called by his staff, with offices in Southampton, Bridgehampton, Sag Harbor, and East Hampton and revenues approaching $100 million ... [He had] domination in the Hamptons real estate market ... He not only substantially changed the face of the landscape, but his own life was in some ways a metaphor for the new Hamptons: a stage upon which nouvelle society could invent itself." [GAINES, S., 1998, p. 4, 45, 48] How about "the largest private landowner in all of East Hampton?" That would be Evan Frankel, who "held the deed to more than 1,000 acres of developable land ... at one point he owned so much land that it was estimated he paid 50 percent of all the real estate taxes in East Hampton. Not coincidentally, at various times, he held seats on the town planning board, the board of directors of Southampton Hospital, and the advisory board of the East Hampton Free Library." [GAINES, S., 1998, p. 170]

Another Jewish real estate mogul, Ben Tobin, once a part owner of the Empire State Building, was, like most, "a major benefactor to Jewish charities." [NITKIN, p. 6B] Down the street, Jack Weiler's nationwide holdings equaled 5 million square feet in New York alone; 1.5 million more were owned in California. "A new community of more than 2,000 homes and 5,000 residents on the southern ridge of Jerusalem was named Kiryat Jack Weiler because of his support for Israel and his ability to coax others to help as well." [VAN GELDEN, p. 26] Frederic and Earle Mack's Mack Company, based in New York and New Jersey commercial and industrial development, merged with another firm in 1997 to form the Mack-Cali Realty Corporation "which boasted a combined market capitalization of $3.4 billion ... Like his brother Earle, Frederic Mack has long shown an abiding interest in U. S. relations with Israel ... Mack is currently on the national board of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, the nation's largest and most influential pro-Israel lobby." [MOTHER JONES, 5-3-01]

In July 2001, a private company took over control of the ill-fated World Trade Center. Silverstein Properties (president: Larry Silverstein) signed a 99-year lease to run the landmark business complex for $3.2 billion from New York City's Port Authority (chairman: Lewis Eisenberg). [SCT NEWSWIRE, 7-25-01] The retail section was also controlled by a Jewish entrepreneur. As the Jerusalem Post noted after the 2001 terrorist attack:

"Australian businessman Frank Lowy, who immigrated to Australia from Israel in 1952, owns the 99-year lease for the 425,000 square foot retail portion of the destroyed World Trade Center. Lowy is the chairman and founder of Westfield Holdings, the manager of Westfield America Trust, which has a 57 percent stake in Westfield America Inc ... Westfield said today that it has insurance cover against terrorist attacks and its earnings will not be materially affected. In a statement to the Australian Stock Exchange the retail chain said that 'investment in the retail component of the World Trade Center is fully insured for both capital and loss of income,' adding 'the insurance cover includes acts of terrorism' ... Today [Lowy] is the second wealthiest man in Australia and was recently ranked as the 209th wealthiest man in the world by Forbes magazine. Westfield is the fourth-largest shopping mall owner, with operations in Australia, the US, the United Kingdom and New Zealand. Lowy is philanthropically involved in the Jewish community in Sydney as well as Israel, including sponsoring the Overseas Students School of Tel Aviv University which is endowed in his name and being associate international chairman of the Israel Democracy Institute." [BERGER, S., 9-12-01]

In the New York city government sphere,

"For more than four decades, without ever holding public office, Robert Moses ruled in New York like a potentate. He spent an estimated $27 billion on public works: highways, bridges, parks, tunnels, beaches, playgrounds, dams, public buildings, and public housing. He was in large part responsible for the construction of the Lincoln Center, the United Nations, Co-op City, and the Coliseum. His most impregnable power base was the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, where he reigned as chief executive from 1933 to 1968. He had helped draft the legislation that created the authority and that at the same time ensured its existence in perpetuity by empowering it to issue new bonds. The never-ending stream of bridge and tunnel tolls gave Moses control over a bond-issuing agency with exiguous accountability; during his tenure the authority, although a public agency, was as autonomous as the privately governed Metropolitan Museum." [MEYER, K., 1979, p. 93]

Another Jewish mogul, Aaron Ziegelman, is in "the controversial business of buying low-rent buildings in New York City, renovating them and selling the apartments as condominiums. The New York Times called him 'one of New York's biggest co-op converters.'" [KLEIN, A., p. 10] One of Ziegelman's pet projects is to reconstruct an Eastern European village in Israel; he has also donated a million dollars to the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College in Philadelphia and a million and a half to the National Jewish Center for Learning and Leadership.

Yet another Jewish real estate mogul is Jerry Speyer. He married into the Tishman family, also Jewish; the family's firm "Tishman Realty" became the largest "builder-owner" in the United States. [TRAUB, p. 68] Fellow Jewish real estate developer Bernard Mendik told the New York Times Magazine in 1998 that "right now, Jerry [Speyer] is the Number 1 real-estate developer in the world." [TRAUB, p. 62] Today Speyer's Tishman-Speyer Properties owns 36 million square feet of building space, valued at $10.5 billion. Among other sites Speyer's firm owns include Manhattan's Chrysler Building and the Messerturm in Frankfurt, Germany (Europe's second tallest building). He has served on the boards of both Columbia University and the Museum of Modern Art. Speyer, says journalist James Traub, "operates in that elite sphere in which wealth, public-spiritedness, and proper table manners converge to form a colossal nexus of power, but one almost invisible to the outside world." [TRAUB, p. 64]

In 1995, Business Week highlighted another Jewish real estate mogul, Steve Green:

"Most people have never heard of the 49 year-old real estate maven. But Steven J. Green's empire is growing fast. His personal holdings include 120 retail properties across the United States, which he estimated is worth $500 million. Through partnerships, he has a stake in a real estate company in Britain that owns 22 office properties in European business centers, an industrial project in Eastern Europe, and a retail development in Moscow's Red Square. And he's the chief executive of Astrum International Corporation, a $1 billion company that owns Samsonite, American Tourister, and Culligan brands." [WOOLLEY, p. 116]

By 1940, Albert M. Greenfield's real estate business in Philadelphia was the largest in the city. By age 35 he had "accumulated" 27 building and loan associations and was known as 'one of the most influential men in the city.' [SKLARE, p. 284] In early Los Angeles, Kaspere Cohn "was one of Southern California's largest landowners." [GOLDEN, H., 1973, p. 233] By the 1970s, noted one Jewish observer, the (Jewish) Hellman family's Farmers and Merchant Bank, "excepting the state, is the largest property owner in California." [GOLDEN, H., 1973, p. 233]

In Chicago, Sam Zell is "one of the biggest property owners in the country." [ALLEN, J. p. C1] Zell built his fortune on slum lording or, as the Chicago Tribune puts it, the "buying of distressed properties and resurrecting them ... Zell acquired troubled apartment buildings in Florida, Reno, and Las Vegas." [ELSNER, p. C1] "If you viewed us as a group," said partner Burton Kanter, "we were the biggest landlords in Reno." [ELSNER, p. C1] In 1976 Zell and three associates were indicted in a tax shelter scheme over a Reno hotel transaction. Zell cut a deal with the government, but his brother-in-law went to prison. [ALLEN, J. p. C1]

Chicago-based Neil Bluhm, president of JMB Realty, and partner Judd Malkin, noted Forbes in 1990:

"Are among the few 1980s property owners to remain high on the Forbes Hundred [richest Americans list]. Each is estimated at over $770 million, although they tell people they are each worth just under $1 billion." [BERSS, p. 352]

JMB's reach is far, owning even the prestigious Century City office complex -- home too many in the Hollywood entertainment world -- in West Los Angeles. Nearby, in Beverly Hills, Guilford Glazer oversees his own $474 million real estate empire, including the Del Amo Fashion Mall, "the largest shopping mall in the world." [BLUMAY, C., 1992, p. 415] Glazer, notes Forbes magazine, is "active in Jewish American causes. [He] built [an] Israeli community center with buddy Armand Hammer." [FORBES, 10-12-98] A Beverly Hills neighbor is Eli Broad, co-founder of Kaufman & Broad, the Los Angeles area's "largest home builder." [GOLDBERG, JJ, 10-22-99] In 1977, Jewish mogul A. Albert Taubman "purchased 77,000 acres of some of the best land in southern California between Los Angeles and San Diego." Taubman, based in Detroit, "by the mid-1960s ... was building shopping centers in California, the nation's ongoing Mecca of real estate development ... It was Taubman who continually upped the stakes in mall development, again raising eyebrows by building them bigger than anyone else, placing more stringent demands on tenants and charging higher rents for retailers who set up store under his roof." [HIGGINS/HOOVER, 5-3-01, p. 4a] A Holocaust™ survivor, Frank Lowy, owns Westfield America, the largest shopping mall company on the West Coast, including eight properties in Los Angeles, eight in San Diego, and four in Northern California. In St. Louis, Missouri, "Lowry has five malls and is the city's biggest landlord." In Australia, Lowy's home base, his "mall empire ... has blanketed the continent." The global asset value of his company's holdings is $13.2 billion. [COOLIDGE, 10-19-98]

Also in Chicago, "Philip Klutznik and his American Community Builders, and his later Urban Investment and Development Co. went on to build much of the face of Chicago over the last half century." [OLIVER, p. A16] He is largely responsible for the planned Chicago suburb of Park Forest and he owned the downtown landmark Water Tower Place.

In Washington DC, yet another Jewish real estate king, Charles Smith, controlled "Washington's greatest real estate fortune." [HAGGERTY, M. p. F10] His son Robert, and son-in-law Robert Kogod today run an empire of 2,000 employees, 14,000 apartment units (20,000 counting the ones they also manage), and interests in 54 office buildings. Their total worth was estimated by the late 1980s to be $3-5 billion. Other area Washington area Jewish real estate moguls include the Hafts, Mort Zuckerman, Albert Abramson, Ted Lerner, Bernard and Carol Gewirz, Robert Rosenthal, Estelle Gelman, Hermen Greenberg, Abe Pollin, Myer and Adrienne Arshat Feldman, Joel Meisel and Barry Cohen, among others. [REGARDIE'S, p. 64-] As Barbara Matusow notes about an earlier Jewish generation in the nation's capitol:

"Morris Pollin eventually became a leading builder and developer in the area -- the path to wealth for so many other Jews of humble origins ... Abraham Kay parlayed his earnings from a grocery store on Capitol Hill into vast landholdings in the suburbs. Morris Cafritz, the city's richest developer, used to hawk newspapers... Nearly all the other first generation success stories -- car dealer Joe Cherner, Giant Food's patriarch Nehemiah Cohen, Macke

Vending's Hyman Goldberg, lumber merchant Isadore Turover -- also had major holdings in real estate." [MATUSOW, B., MAY 2000, p. 79]

In Houston, Jewish real estate mogul Jerry Moore is worth over $400 million, owning over 140 shopping centers. Forbes noted that he bought

"shabby, low-profit but promising strip centers and turn[ed] them into born-again cash machines ... Moore lives with his wife in an authentic 18th-century, 40-room French chateau (transported from France and reassembled in Houston's ritzy Memorial section). He owns 22 Ferraris, 14 Rolls Royces, and over 200 well-restored antique Dusenbergs, Packards, and other vehicles." [FIELD, p. 32]

Elsewhere in Houston, David Minberg owns "one of the largest apartment firms in the city." [HOUSTON CHRONICLE, 1998] He is also chairman of the Harris County Democratic Party and president of the Jewish Federation of Greater Houston.

Also in Texas, based in Dallas, the Centex real estate company "is one of the nation's largest home builders, with operations in 53 markets in 19 states." [NEW YORK TIMES, 9-3-98] Its CEO is also Jewish, Laurence Hirsch.

In Boston, "the young professionals who began favoring Boston as a place to live around the time of the Vietnam War are ensconced in their lairs, many of them either built or financed by [Mark] Goldweitz." [ROBINSON, p. 61] In 2000, Jerome Rappaport sold his massive Charles River Park development -- apartments and condos -- for $300 million. [Van Voorhis, S., 2-14-00] Other Jewish real estate moguls in Boston include "the Krupp brothers, Philip and William, who made a killing in real estate," as well as Stephen Karp, Julian Cohen, Bruce Beal, Steve Fishman, Ron Drucker, Dick Friedman, Alan Leventhal, and Edwin Sidman, among others. [BOSTON MAGAZINE]

Owner of properties throughout New England, Holocaust™ survivor Simon Konover -- owner of over 11 million square feet of real estate -- "is a staunch supporter of Jewish charities." [CHAINSTORE, p. 92] Richard Penzer has a "real estate empire" in Pittsburgh; in Chicago, by 1988 William Adler had developed over 100 suburban and industrial properties and thousands of homes.

In Los Angeles, by 1992 Jona Goldrich and Abraham Lurie alone controlled 25% (worth $250 million) of the luxurious Marina Del Rey beach area. "For years," notes the Los Angeles Times, "Goldrich has been active in Jewish affairs." [RABIN, J., p. B1] Goldrich has been "a major builder of residential and commercial projects throughout California" and a "major player" in the $400 million Channel Gateway project near Marina Del Rey. In 1991 he was awarded a controversial contract by the Los Angeles County to control over 18 acres of prime Marina Del Rey waterfront for the next 70 years. "Mark Nathanson [also Jewish], a Beverly Hills real estate broker and a member of the California Coastal Commission," noted the Los Angeles Times, "was a leading supporter of the lease extension [to Goldrich] when the five-member Small Craft Harbor Commission met last week." "Nathanson," observed the Times, "is the target of a federal political corruption investigation in Sacramento." [RABIN, J., 12-23-91, p. B1] For Abraham Lurie's part, he was once even a business partner with the brother-in-law of Saudi Arabia's King Fahd. In 1992, before economic problems, Lurie was described as Marina Del Rey's "biggest developer." [RABIN, J., 7-29-92, p. B1]

In Miami, Jewish real estate moguls include Craig Robins. As one journalist notes:

"[Robins] is Miami's most celebrated purchaser and rehabber of dilapidated buildings ... A few in Miami Beach gripe that Robins' rep and political clout have made him and [his company called] Dacra inordinately influential in the city, greasing the skids for any proposed project that has his name on it."

Robins' partners include his brother Scott and New York-based developer Tony Goldman. [KISSELL, T., 6-15-99]

Even in Mormon-dominated Utah, John Price is the (Jewish) chairman and CEO of JP Realty, "among the top commercial real estate developers in the Intermountain West, owning and managing properties in Utah and nine surrounding states." These holdings include 12 enclosed shopping malls, other shopping centers and various commercial and industry buildings. [KNUDSON, M., 3-23, 97] In Denver, Sally Barry made local news when she fought prominent real estate developer Jordan Perlmutter's plans that would obscure beautiful views of the Rocky Mountains from popular Robert Clement Park. [GREEN, C., 2-22-95, p., B7] Also in Denver, Israeli-raised Shaul Baruch, son of a rabbi, was noted in 1995 as a "wealthy land developer" who had recently purchased "443 acres of prime dirt near Denver International Airport." [REBCHOOK, J., 12-5-95, p. A47]

In Omaha, Nebraska, as an addenda to the real estate world, Phil and Harley Schrager owns the Pacesetter Corporation, the "largest independent, direct-seller and manufacturer of residential building and improvement products in the United States." [JEWISH PRESS, 3-31-2000, p. 1]

In Canada, the Reichmann family has an international real estate empire and, by the 1980s, before financial troubles, were reputed to be "one of the wealthiest families in the world." [BUCHINSKY, p. 4] The Reichmanns owned the largest real estate empire on earth, as well as the world's largest newsprint producer

(Albitibi-Price), plus various other holdings. The former Deputy Minister of Finance for Canada, Marshall Cohen, directed the large Olympia and York division of the Reichmann sprawl. "The Reichmann's main business vehicle, Olympia and York Development," notes Anthony Bianco, "was the greatest property development company in Western history." [BIANCO, p. xv] "At the peak of their success ... the Reichmann's donated $60 million annually to [Jewish] Orthodox institutions worldwide." [ATLAS, p. 264] The Jewish Reichmann and Bronfman families were instrumental in building New York's tallest landmark, the World Trade Center, and in the late 1970s the Reichmanns had major downtown development projects in ten American cities. [BIANCO, p. 368] "In Florida, Olympia and York generally invested along with the Shapiro family." [BIANCO, p. 399]

"Seagrams [owned by the Montreal-based Bronfman family] are not only the largest liquor empire in the world, but the largest private land-owners in Canada." [BERMANT, C., 1977, p. 68] Also from Montreal, Maxwell Cummings' real estate company has owned land and buildings across North America. In 1948 he built an apartment complex "which was the largest privately owned housing development in Canada ... Throughout his life, Cummings has played an important role in the Jewish community." [BEAUDIN, p. A4] Cummings, who died in 2001, was "a leading developer of low-cost housing in Canada." [EISENTHAL, B., 5-24-01] An Orthodox Jew from Toronto, real estate baron Stephen Mernick, even bought (for $139 million) the 500-acre PTL Christian theme park in North Carolina (after the sex scandal that swept Jim and Tammy Bakker into ruins). [DOLPHIN, p 38]

Also in Canada, Jewish mogul Peter Munk, while heading "one of the world's most valuable gold mining companies, Barrick Gold," also controls "Toronto's landmark CN Tower, lots of office space in New York, and what is described rather coyly as effective ownership of the Sears Tower in Chicago." [FINANCIAL TIMES, 6-30-98, p. 21] In 2000, Jacob Ghermejian died. A Jew from Iran, he "built a real estate empire in Canada." [KIRSCHNER, S., 9-14-2000, p. 11]

Even in a place like Sacramento, California, Mort Friedman "is prominent in two of the most public arenas in town, law and development." [DELSON, p. A1] Both a lawyer and a real estate developer (including Sacramento's Market Square mall), his personal fortune is estimated to be about $100 million. Friedman has worked "for improved U.S.-Israeli relations," says the Sacramento Bee, "He lobbied Congress and met with Israeli leaders as an officer of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee." [DELSON, p. A1]

In 1989, a roomful of such Jewish real estate barons and assorted slum lords gathered to hear the Jewish New York State Attorney General, Robert Abrams, speak at the "Greater New York Real Estate and Construction Division of the State of Israel Bonds." Real estate mogul Sheldon Solow received the "Israel Peace Medal." Abrams, noted a news wire dispatch, "as a public official and even before that, ... has been a strong voice on behalf of Jewish causes ... [and an] ardent champion of the state of Israel ... While he was borough president, he successfully persuaded the New York City Board of Education to incorporate Jewish Heritage Week into the curriculum of public schools." [PR NEWSWIRE, 11-3-89] The chair of the Real Estate Board of New York at the time (1988) was also Jewish: Larry Silverstein. Such men no doubt included David Steiner, head of Steiner Equities Group, "a real estate concern which oversees millions of square feet of commercial and industrial property from its New Jersey headquarters." Steiner is a former president of AIPAC, the foremost lobbying agency for Israel in America. [MOTHER JONES, 3-5-01]

In Europe, in 1997, the Deutsche Presse Agence wire service noted that "Berlin's Jewish community is currently in turmoil, its standing in the city tarnished by reports of dubious real estate dealing and political infighting among some of its members." [FREEMAN, C.] Jewish entrepreneurs were noted to have even swindled Holocaust™ survivors. "Our image is tarnished in the public eye by all the talk of corruption and scandal," the wire service was told at the Jewish Community Center of Berlin. "Recently," noted the Agentur, "a [Jewish Community Center leader's] husband was investigated by the police, reputedly for forcing a woman from Riga into prostitution. There have also been media reports of a [Jewish] Community member ruthlessly driving up property rents in east Berlin." [FREEMAN, C.]

Of the 21 members of Berlin's Jewish Community organization, 17 were noted to be "involved in real estate

or property management." [FREEMAN] The chairman of the Central Council of Jews in Berlin, Ignatz Bubis, also owned 40% of the Sheraton Hotel in Tel Aviv til his death in 1999. The London Guardian noted that "All his adult life Bubis insisted that he would live in Germany but did not want to be buried there ["he wanted to be buried in Israel"] and "although Bubis came to reflect the secularization and worldliness of modern German Jewry, he once said he would be 'very upset' if his daughter married a Gentile." [TRAYNOR, p. 10]

Another German Jewish mogul, Moritz Gertler, was recently described by one London newspaper as "one of Germany's wealthiest private property owners." [NISSE, p. 1, 2] In 1998, a French wire service noted the Jewish Fizman family, rooted in German real estate, as "one of Germany's wealthiest families." [AGENCE FRANCE PRESSE, 10-1-98] (Other wealthy post-war Jews in Germany include Emil Januscek (in clothing), the "banker Feuchtwanger, in Munich, and Rosenthal, the manufacturer whose porcelain has a worldwide reputation.") [KATCHER, L., 1968, p. 176]

In Vienna, Austria, Ariel Muzicant heads the "largest association of Austrian Jews." (Today's Austrian Jewish population is about 15,000). He was also born in Israel. "I am the biggest broker in town," Muzicant told the New York Times in 2001, "So, yes, I know the mayor and deputy mayor. I am bigger than the second- and third-largest brokers combined. I build, broker, lease, and sell commercial real estate." A rival Jewish leader condemned Muzicant as a "man who advertises real estate on the Web page of the Jewish community he is supposed to represent." [COHEN, R., 3-25-01]

In England, the firm owned by Jewish moguls Michael and Peter Freeman was picked by Estates Times to be "one of the top 10, and possibly top five, quoted property companies in the UK" by the year 2000. [ESTATES TIMES] Michael Price, also Jewish and active in British real estate (and who owns 6% of the powerful Chase Manhattan bank), was noted by the Times of London to have "recently emerged as one of America's most aggressive investors. It is the nightmare of every American executive to wake up in the morning and find that Mr. Price has just bought a stake in his company." In 1993, Sighismund Berger (who father was a leading figure in Britain's Jewish Orthodox Satmar sect), facing economic woes, was still described by the London Observer as "arguably UK's largest private landlord." [PARKER-JERVIS, ONLINE]

"Mention any high-profile development," noted the London Guardian in 1991,

"and Godfrey Bradman's been there too; in particular, he favours mega schemes: Finsbury Avenue (half a million square feet); Broadgate (3.5 million feet); Chafford Hundred in Essex, the biggest residential project in Britain. And of course the 125-acre King's Cross development, the largest single inner-city scheme in Europe." [COLES, GUARDIAN]

Bradman is also, noted an observer in the Guardian, "part of that north London set of Jewish businessmen who go to each other's charity dos." [COLES, GUARDIAN] Yet another Jewish British real estate force is Gerald Ronson, "one of the country's most celebrated property tycoons" who in 1990 "was fined pounds 5 million and did six months in jail for his part in the Guinness share-dealing scandal." [BARNETT, A., p. 3] Other British Jewish real estate tycoons include Mark Pears (whose family owns an estimated 20,000 flats and houses), and "London property brothers Eddie and Sol Zaky, whose Topland Group's portfolio is worth 1 billion pounds." The Zakys are from Israel. "I would forecast that unless peace comes soon," says Philip Beresford, compiler of a newspaper "rich list," it would be a logical step for Israelis to settle in Britain." [LEVITT/KOHN, 4-27-01, p. 14]

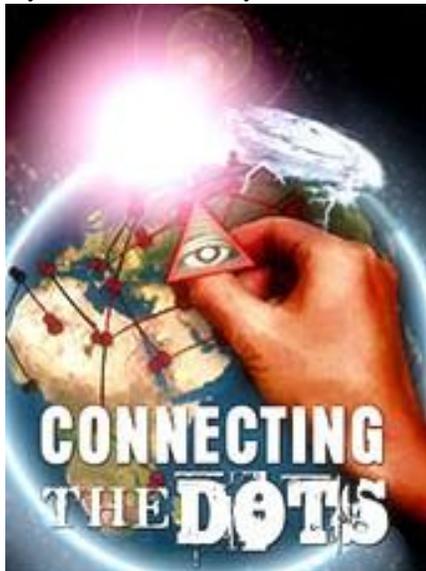

Even in Hungary, in 1995, "Israeli-owned real estate development companies have started or prepared projects in Budapest worth $350 million that range from family apartments to renovations of abandoned hotels to massive shopping malls. The total development market size is estimated to be $1.6 billion." [OLEARY, p. 28] And, as the Jerusalem Post noted in 2000, "over the past few years, many Israeli companies have invested in real estate in Eastern Europe, and in Poland and Romania in particular." These Israeli companies include Olimpia Real Estate Holdings, Kardan Real Estate, and Elscint Limited. In 2000, Elscint also bought a 49% ownership of a Polish hotel chain. [SHAVIV, M., 10-6-2000] In the Czech Republic, about 1,600 Jews live in Prague, the beautiful capital of that country. "The new chairman [of the Prague Jewish Community]," noted the Jewish Telegraphic Agency in 2001, "intends to ensure that the community makes the most of its assets, which include prime real estate in Prague and elsewhere in the country." [BENNETT, M., 7-2-01]

In 2001, the Israeli newspaper, Haaretz, noted that "Israeli real estate companies are the largest and most active in some Eastern European countries ... Companies like Europe Israel have invested hundreds of millions of shekels in buying and developing East European commercial centers. Kardan Investments has been operating several years in Poland and has set up thousands of square meters of office space." The article, however, focused upon increased Israeli real estate movement in Great Britain. Israeli companies there include Giron Development and Building and Dorot. But the "most prominent Israeli company in the British real estate scene is Alony-Hertz." [LINDMAN, C., 6-27-01]

Note: This list is in no way comprehensive, for the author missed many large companies, trusts, and groups.

There's a skyscraper complex in Manhattan that is capped off by massive Egyptian pyramids, the complex is called Worldwide Plaza, located on 49th St on the Westside. The massive lit up glass pyramid caught my attention in the night sky, I looked at the layout of the architecture, I just knew that this was definitely an "illuminati" ruling elite project.

Low and behold it was developed by legendary Zionist Jew elite William Zeckendorf, Jr. As mentioned in the above list of Zionist real estate moguls regarded as: "master, at one time, of possibly the greatest of all real estate empires."

No dialogue into the true ownership/control of enterprise can be considered complete without including one of the favorite ruling elite hide and seek apparatus known as the private equity firm. It is within the undercover of private equity firms that large corporations and properties are routinely yet covertly bought and sold like commodities. Headlines such as "in today's news the Blackstone Group bought so and so for 4.5 billion, blah, blah, blah" are commonplace. What the public does not know is WHO the key figures are behind all those private equity firms. Do a little research and within almost EVERY SINGLE one of those entities consist a Zionist majority partners. And those whom are not Zionist Jews are card carrying CFR Freemasons whom are basically essential administrators of the ruling elite network.

There used to be a point in time where the world made sense. Products were grown and/or made, merchants sold said products. Everyone was happy. Simple. Along came the banksters peddling other people's money and raking in middleman fees by lending other people's money. Somehow this industry grew by leaps and bounds, even though they make absolutely nothing, produce absolutely nothing, and contribute absolutely NOTHING to the world. It defies all fundamental logic and reason of existence let alone the spectacular growth and eventual domination of all useful, necessary and purpose driven industries. The finance industry experienced phenomenal unhindered expansion and growth beyond all logic and reason for an industry that does nothing and makes nothing. Today the financial industry that was just a tiny fraction of the business realm just several hundred years ago has become the largest most powerful and DOMINATES all other industries. Even more alarming is the FACT that a majority of ownership and control of all those financial enterprises consists of Zionists whom are hell bent on accomplishing their age old quest of world rule as they believe GOD promised them.

I am going show you the tip of the iceberg, just one section of the colossal financial industry to present a mere glimpse list into the realm of "stealth ownership/control" known as private equity groups. For those of you whom doubt overwhelming Zionist presence or are curious, click on the Wikipedia links and follow the ownership trails, you will see for yourself the "illuminati" concentration of ownership/control that I am expounding upon. Let's play chase the rabbit, connect the dots and spot the Zionist/Masonic ruling elite owner/controllers, you will be amazed what you unveil once you get to bottom of the myriad of layers of ownership/control:

Largest private equity firms:

The following is a ranking of the largest private equity firms. The ranking was compiled by Private Equity International, which reveals that the world's 50 largest private equity direct investment programs have raised a total of US$551 billion since 2002.

The list includes very few venture capital firms, which tend to be smaller than their leveraged buyout counterparts; for a list of those see List of venture capital firms.

Behold, for here lays the TRUE HIDDEN POWER of the ruling elite:

Rank	Name of the firm	Headquarters	Capital Raised as of 2007 (billions of USD)
1	The Carlyle Group	 Washington DC	$ 32.5
2	Kohlberg Kravis Roberts	 New York	$ 31.1

Corporate world rule and control has recently come one step closer to reality. SCOTUS recently ruled that corporations are entitled to spend UNLIMITED funds in our elections. Corporations are THE main ruling INSTRUMENT of the ruling elite. This jaw dropping precedent ruling paves the way for untouchable COPORATOCRACY rule and control. The Supreme Court has spoken for its true hidden masters, who by the hand of the corporations shall rule over this land, and you my dear friend, will be a grateful spectator.

Communism has proven to be a failed ideology. Socialism though operational for a long time in some areas of the globe has its detractors, capitalism who are the powers that be, every corporation, every media outlet, every wealthy person on the planet will defend its alleged virtues to the end of the earth for it is the central concept that has allowed them all to flourish and build wealth beyond anyone's dreams. But let's be real. Capitalism has also been THE central unequivocal factor in the destruction of this planet; all the ailments of the world and dire poverty are also the byproducts of rampant capitalism. The question is not which one of the existing systems is best, for NONE of them are adequate for modern day world we live in. What we need is an entirely NEW system, not communism, not socialism, not capitalism, not authoritarian, none the world has yet seen.

The greatest source of all the worlds wealth is ALSO THE, THE one and only source of all its ailments. Corporations.

The next superior world system should embrace the best aspects of all successful systems. Yet capitalism must be absolutely reigned in. instead of stock markets and worldwide conglomerate beasts hell bent on expansion, the entire paradigm needs to be revamped. Stock markets are great for the wealthy so anything I say against it will squarely get me trampled by the entire planet, but the TRUTH is beyond what is popular and what currently exists to support the current status quo. Stock markets MUST go. In its place the entire corporate system needs to be reworked. Instead of stock markets where the rick and wealth own corporations the ownership of ALL corporations must be unequivocally be revoked and re-distributed.

The ownership of corporations MUST be completely gutted out and reworked from the bottom up. The ownership of each corporation on the planet must be BROKEN UP to no more than regional in reach; national corporations would be broken up like independent local franchises. The ownership, now this portion can NOT be debated, must be limited to an iron clad never changing written in stone law. The owner/stockholders must be broken down into this type of fashion: 33% employees, 33% local population it serves 33% local owners, current management & founding team, with multi-national corporations severely regulated and in most cases illegal. All corporations should be broken down to thousands of smaller regional units, independent businesses. It is drastic revolutionary concepts such as this that can equalize and tame these corporate beasts. All corporations must be made to SERVE THE PUBLIC GOOD above and beyond all else.

Behold for I pose to you this question: So who owns this world? The bible states that Satan is the ruler of this world. Corporations are soulless beings, monstrosities. The anti-Christ whom is defined in the Holy Bible as: "he who denies the Christ" (the Jews) is the synagogue of Satan; they are his administrators here on earth but that does not mean they have a monopoly on evil and sin, for all peoples walking the earth partake of those cups. Open your eyes America, awaken from your deep slumber ye who hath been sucked into the abyss along with the beast.

"None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free"

For it is written: "the truth shall set you free"

"By their fruits ye shall know them."

THE U.S. inc. GOVERNMENT INDUSTRIAL MATRIX

Run By The Invisible - Imperial – Oligarchy:

The *Z.O.G. Invasion

*the Zionist Occupational Government.

"When fascism comes to America it will be wrapped in the flag and carrying a cross." – Sinclair Lewis

"When the people fear the government there is tyranny. When the government fears the people there is liberty." - President Thomas Jefferson

"Guard with jealous attention the public liberty. Suspect everyone who approaches that jewel. Unfortunately, nothing will preserve it but downright force. Whenever you give up that force, you are ruined." -- Patrick Henry, Virginia's Ratification convention, 1788

"The worst evils which mankind has ever had to endure were inflicted by bad governments. The state can be, and has often been . . . the main source of mischief and disaster." - Ludwig von Mises (1881-1973)

"No government ever voluntarily reduces itself in size. Government programs, once launched, never disappear. Actually, a government bureau is the nearest thing to eternal life we'll ever see on this Earth." - Ronald Reagan

"Society in every state is a blessing, but Government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state an intolerable one: for when we suffer, or are exposed to the same miseries by a government, which we might expect in a country without government." – Thomas Paine

Just about everyone, even the most dumbest brainwashed citizens know that our government is broken, it has become painfully obvious. What people don't know is the fact that our once great nation has long ago BEEN INVADED BY AN OCCUPYING FORCE. This occupying force has a deathlock grip over this nation, it has penetrated every orifice, every department, every square inch of this nation's power is beholden to them. Nothing gets done without their approval. You must come to the realization that this nation is no longer the same nation it was long ago, it has been invaded by a virus like group of people who have overtaken the host. What we have been witnessing in politics today is nothing but a dog and pony show for the citizens to consume, the purpose of the dog and pony show is to continue the illusion of a free and open society, to hide the fact that this country has not been overtaken from within. Today our once great nation is nothing but a simulation of a democracy, a carefully crafted illusion.

The evidence of the invisible invasion/occupation is everywhere. The country has been showing symptoms of a mad, insane patient hell bent on self-destruction. Enacting the most absurd policies, cutting its own throat while literally giving away the family jewels to complicit invader allies, and nations. They have literally gutted out the nation of all it's fortunes, all that was good, all that remains now is a shadow of its once immense greatness. The occupying army is composed of thousands of wealthy powerful secret agents whom infiltrated this nation and corrupt it from within for the benefit of their own comrades and homeland far away and their long sought quest of global domination.

The evidence is overwhelming. This nation has been INVADED BY AN INVISIBLE OCCUPYING FORCE. There they are right in front of your face, you even vote for the politicians among them. You cannot recognize their true hidden identities for they look just like you and me. They mingle with the natives, walk and talk like us, they smile and laugh like us, seem like such honest caring folks. They have managed the most daring incredible coup in the history of nations. One so colossal so outrageous and in your face that no one can fathom or will accept it as the matter of fact. The public is under mass denial. The invaders are so well connected, so well organized that they own all the media, thus dictate to the population whatever they want the population to think. They not only control the government with their own ethnicity, i.e.: operatives placed in charge of key positions and through all types of illicit means of manipulating the other elected natives.

They knew the press was one of their most important strategic instruments of influence and manipulation early on due to the fact that the press was supposed to be "the fourth branch of the American republic", the "watchdog" over the other three branches. Once they completely owned and controlled all press and media "THEY" became the watchdog, THEY literally became the mouthpiece of society, THEY became the conscience of the nation, THEY became the rational mind and set the reality and norms of the country.

With a monopoly on "reporting" the "news" their consortium proceeded to black out all their own activities while using it to highlight the activities of their enemies and systematically eliminating them. They used the press to expose, control, manipulate and even destroy key targets and enemies. They use the press to formulate the public opinion and steer their thoughts as they so wish. Demonizing their opponents and elevating their own kind to the status of victimized saints in the public eyes. You have all been thoroughly brainwashed by their vast media monopoly syndicate and you don't even know it. There they are right in front of your face and you can't fathom the fact that this nation has long ago been INVADED BY AN OCCUPYING ZIONIST FORCE. Many of them walk among you like kings, the dominant players in almost all industries, many of you fall to your knees and worship in their presence in pure awe of their immense greatness and wealth.

You poor pathetic blind goyim fools continue to believe the ILLUSION that this nation is still the same one the founding fathers started way back in colonial times. Keep believing the illusion, keep pushing those buttons in the voter both, sure THIS TIME it will surely make a difference... lol... bullshit. The invading occupying force controls this once great nation and there is NOTHING you can do about it but sit there and accept your pathetic little crumbs of the pie and be grateful, be very grateful to your ruling overlords. To those who have an ear, let him hear, to those who have eyes let them see... for I have spoken nothing but the truth.

Again I will reiterate this most fundamental causal core root paradigm that the world has been under but somehow cannot seem to “see” for as the Holy Scriptures have so truthfully stated: the world has been blinded by the deceiver of man. No one will EVER understand the true nature of the problems of their nations until they fully understand COSMIC REALITY. Which is none other than this:

BEHOLD FOR: Eons ago an angelic being once known as Lucifer betrayed God and rebelled against him, that being was expelled from Heaven and cast down to EARTH. (As in OUR freakin planet we call home!) Where he has had authority over the affairs of man, to test and rule over man. This is NOT conspiracy, this is straight out of the Holy Bible, where it references this cosmic reality in many chapters. Clearly stating that “Satan is the ruler of this world.” The populations of this world have been under a sort of spell and cannot comprehend the REALITY, magnitude of the rule over their lives by Satanic forces of darkness which manifest themselves in this world in physical form by possessing and influencing the actions of elected leaders whom are for all intents and purposes psychical manifestations, representatives, AGENTS of Satan HERE ON EARTH, for they ultimately do his bidding in keeping the multitudes enveloped in darkness, blind, as destitute and restricted as humanly possible without triggering resurrections of retaliation.

Some politicians do try to do good, but the far and wide majority get into politics to become part of the privileged ruling elite, in doing so, they all sell some part of their soul to Satan, whether or not they directly know so. Most of the highest ruling elite purposely worship their lord with occult rituals and sacrificial offerings. They practice the Kabbalah, black magic and the occult, secret rituals and illicit sex, which high level Zionism and Freemasonry is built around. Those core loyal members are always given key positions of power and leadership in worldwide organizations. For one need only control the key top position in any given organization to control the entire organization, the multitudes who are its subjects, the employees, member minions need not and rarely ever do know what the top leaders wish are. The minions are given their marching orders and lists of responsibilities and duties they faithfully carry out without so much as a thought about their true hidden impact, significance and meanings.

So... here we are, our once great country in a colossal massive downward spiral into the abyss, the elected leaders have throughout the decades plundered the great fortune of this country, constantly hacking away at every key pillar of this nation, destroying our schools and education by constantly cutting funding while sending 10 fold more for mindless bloody invasions, wars, occupations and conflicts. Our nation has become the world’s foremost drug infested nation par none, with the highest degree of imprisoned population to have ever existed. The list goes on, and on, and on.

Tea Party my ass, it is nothing more than a insider controlled uprising, it will never change anything, for those of you useful idiots who believe that ruse look at the “R” symbol next to the Tea Party names: hello, they are all Republican party members wearing a mask. They have been promising change every couple years ever since 1776! Nothing will ever change because THE RULER OF THIS WORLD IS SATAN. Vote for the next corrupt politician all you want, it will NEVER, NEVER, EVER change anything. Oh sure he/she might not have a long rap sheet... yet. Give them all enough time and history continues to repeat itself as it has like clockwork since the dawn of man. Washington, as are all nation state headquarters, is the DEVIL’S PLAYGROUND. This is where the DEN OF VIPERS live.

SATAN RULES WASHINGTON. This is HOW SATAN RULES OVER MAN WITHOUT MAN CONSCIOUSLY KNOWING IT. Let it be perfectly understood that all of known recorded history has been direct testimony and direct evidence of Satan’s rule over this planet. For from the earliest recorded history man has been under endless conflict, bloodshed, wars, occupations, invasions, pain, suffering and debauched rule of every shape and form, this is direct evidence and testimony of Satan’s hidden presence.

Today in modern times Satan’s presence is obscured by massive amounts of wonderful fun entertainment and distractions, every new decade brings down the standard of accepted decadence and immorality. These are the new gradually interwoven and accepted norms... Satan has tricked mankind into thinking that this world is the closest thing to utopian model that can be, all you need to do is sacrifice more, give up more of your rights, surrender more and more to the establishment and let your most wonderful benevolent government take care of everything for you and surely the long awaited UTOPIA you have all been yearning for will come...

God and family have been undergoing one of the most drastic onslaughts ever in history, as the days go by I see visions of Sodom and Gomorrah rebuilt with the awe splendor of modern technology. What a wonderful exciting world this is, one has so many exciting things, distractions and options available that they have all BEEN BLINDED as to the true nature and state of this world THAT IS "RULED BY SATAN" and physically managed by his suit and tie cloaked, living breathing human agents, representatives here on earth.

I have a calling, my mission is to try my best to somehow awaken my fellow man from his hypnotic trance like state of false happiness under the spell of their hidden master who rules this world. Ye are enslaved yet do not see nor perceive the chains that bind you. Oh what a truly heart wrenching predicament we have all been in.

With that said and done, I will now go forth to expose the TRUE rulers of this nation and all the ails it. Let's begin with the obvious evidence of its decay.

I find it quite interesting yet perplexing that our nation which bills itself as the "leader of the free world" whom all other nations should follow its model. Has at its very core ruling headquarters city; Washington DC, the highest violent crime rate per capita in the nation and the world. Literally within walking distance of the central powers halls of this nation exists the most intense ecosystem of poverty, drugs, violence, rape and murder in all of America. The tiny city of DC averages 1,633 violent (per 100,000) crimes per year, more than all of New York, California and Florida combined. Washington DC is the undisputed world leader epicenter of violent crime. This more than anything else is the obvious colossal clue of Satan's lair...

What this demonstrates to me if nothing else is how far out of touch our so called leaders are from reality. Living in their cozy magnificent luxurious opulent vacuums. One must wonder do they even care? How can they live and work so close to such disparaging conditions and not only NOT be affected by it, but not even attempt to notice or even remedy them is mind boggling to say the least. THIS dichotomy is the most accurate, revealing of the sad State of the Union. Nothing to see here folks, now run along, business as usual, now for more important matters: giving congress more benefits and perks. Bring on the hog feeding throths.

"Throughout the world ... we use the word 'politics' to describe the process so well: 'Poli' in Latin meaning 'many' and 'tics' meaning 'bloodsucking creatures.'"

Virtually all of the government leaders are SPIRITUALLY IMPOVERISHED. Many, to one extent or another are technical psychopaths to some degree. They cover up this void by externally acting out humanistic, and constantly TALKING about doing the right thing and helping their fellow man, regularly bringing out mass publicity photo and PR ops whenever they do something "good" to show the world, but all one needs do is carefully study their DEEDS (actions) to quickly see who they really are and to which master they are really beholden to. By and large, they all wear their sheep's in wolves clothing very well, the cunning, charming trained professional persuaders they all are.

CNN Poll: Majority says government a threat to citizens' rights

Washington (CNN) – A majority of Americans think the federal government poses a threat to rights of Americans, according to a new national poll...

The Road to Dictatorship

Next stop: martial law?

by Justin Raimondo, March 01, 2010

That 56 percent of all Americans "think the federal government's become so large and powerful that it poses an immediate threat to the rights and freedoms of ordinary citizens" isn't really all that surprising. After all, ever since the 9/11 terrorist attacks, the government's "right" to read our e-mails, seize our property, hold us as "enemy combatants," and otherwise trample on the Constitution has been expanding at an exponential pace. What's really shocking, however, is that, according to this CNN-Opinion Research Corporation poll, released on Feb. 28, most of the people who believe this are overwhelmingly ... Republicans. That is, they are self-described supporters of the very same party which impaled the Constitution on the sword of the "war on terrorism." According to the poll, "only 37 percent of Democrats" believe this, as opposed to "63 percent of Independents and nearly 7 in 10 Republicans."

Is it just me, or was it only yesterday that the Democratic base was outraged by "Bushitler," and the "Cheney-PNAC" alleged neo-fascists who were taking over the country and driving dissent underground? How quickly they turn!

Adding to the irony, the poll was taken on the same weekend the extension of the PATRIOT Act passed the Democratic-controlled Congress – without debate, without a peep of protest from the "progressives" in Congress, and disguised as a vote in favor of a Senate amendment to the Medicare Physician Payment Reform Act. Bravery is not something we see much of in Washington, D.C. As one blogger put it:

"So, if you heard the news of a Patriot Act vote, and went looking for the roll call, you wouldn't find it. You'd see roll call # 67 for this year, but would reasonably conclude that the vote is thoroughly unrelated to the Patriot Act. If you hadn't heard of the Patriot Act extension, and just wanted to see what legislation had been voted on yesterday, you would come away still ignorant of what the House of Representatives had actually done."

The shamefaced Democrats are too cowardly to openly acknowledge their contribution to the destruction of the Constitution: instead, they're hoping we don't notice more Democrats than Republicans voted for the extension of this odious Act. At one point, the Dems were hinting that they might want to "reform" the Act, and put in certain "privacy protections," but they soon gave that up and now their media amen corner is busy demonizing "anti-government zealots" who dare to question the ongoing government takeover of ... practically everything.

Keith Olbermann is still going on about how many days it's been since George W. Bush declared "Mission accomplished!" in Iraq – even as President Barack Obama's generals warn that we'll still be stuck in that particular quagmire well beyond the withdrawal date supposedly set by their commander-in-chief. Not only that, but Obama is fighting a secret war in Pakistan, continuing the previous administration's war on our civil liberties, and extending its tentacles into every aspect of American life – yes, even our health care.

The "PATRIOT" Act, all several hundred pages of it, was passed in the dead of night without being read, without being adequately debated, and with the full official approval of both parties, who unhesitatingly wiped out two-hundred years of constitutional law in a procedure that lasted for less than an hour.

"The president's reversal on Patriot Act reform is a major travesty," says Michelle Richardson, the ACLU's legislative counsel, a bit of phraseology that just about sums up the first year of Obama's reign. All those liberal hearts, broken by that seductive love-'em-and-leave-'em Chicago smoothie – except no one's complaining.

The Associated Press reported the vote in terms that can only be described as odd:

"Democrats have retreated from adding new privacy protections to the nation's primary counterterrorism law, stymied by Senate Republicans who argued the changes would weaken terror investigations. The proposed protections were cast aside when Senate Democrats lacked the necessary 60-vote supermajority to pass them."

The Democrats have ... retreated? Since most of them voted for the "PATRIOT" Act to begin with, I wouldn't exactly phrase it that way.

As the Democratic majority gets ready to ram an immensely unpopular "health-care reform" bill through the Congress without a "super-majority," one can only wonder at their priorities. Is it really more important to force poor Americans to buy insurance they can't afford than it is to save our constitutional liberties from being crushed underfoot?

Apparently so.

Passed in a time of "emergency," and touted as a temporary measure, the "PATRIOT" Act has, like all such measures, become routine: part and parcel of the legal-political landscape, which no one really questions. The "right" of the government to impound our records, seize our property, jail us, fine us, and haul us before a military tribunal – all of this has now become "normal."

Did you know that a recipient of a "National Security Letter" – say, your Internet provider – must not only hand over all records, documents, and what-have-you to the Feds, but must also refrain from talking about or otherwise revealing the existence of the letter? Just like they can simply take you in the dead of night, throw you in a cell – and, yes, even torture you, if they feel like it – and no one need ever know.

Accepting this as a fait accompli is now "normal" in Washington, D.C. No wonder the majority of Americans consider the federal government a dangerous enemy – and they're all too right about that.

The question is: what do we do about it? Here's where the confusion comes in. While there are many indications that Americans are waking up to the main danger to their liberty and livelihoods – a danger that doesn't reside in a cave somewhere, overseas, but right here in the good ol' US of A – the political class in this country is deeply ensconced, and won't be pried out of power with a crowbar. It will take something with a lot more explosive power.

No, I'm not talking about an ordinary bomb – violence would only embolden them. I'm talking about the debt bomb, which is scheduled to go off in the very near future. We won't have to defeat the army of federal occupation militarily – because they're about to go bankrupt. Just wait until they can't pay their SWAT teams, their Homeland Security goons, their multitudinous minions in every snooping federal agency: do they imagine that these people will stay on out of loyalty or ideological fervor? Or out of "patriotism"? Well of course they don't imagine that, which is why, these days, they're notably nervous.

This nervousness pervades elite circles in this country, and is expressed in a peevish impatience with any sort of dissidence, on any subject: if you fall out of line, they swat you – and you stay down, if they can help it. The tea-partiers, the antiwar protesters (such as they are), the stray politician who dares speak truth to power – anyone who expresses an opinion deemed outside the very narrow range of the permissible is automatically attacked as a "extremist," a dangerous "radical," and very possibly a potentially violent person whose every move is rightfully being mapped by the authorities.

Intersecting with this skittishness is an impending sense of economic and social crisis. Real fear, such as we haven't experienced in a mass way since 9/11, pervades the air: an entirely justified fear of an economic collapse. Last year, when the banks trembled on the edge of a very steep precipice, lawmakers were told "in private" that if the bank bailout wasn't passed, "there would be martial law in America," as Rep. Brad Sherman (D-California) revealed on the House floor. "Now that's what I call fear-mongering," said Rep. Sherman, but in my view this wasn't a bluff. In the midst of an economic collapse, an "event" in which the stock market drops by, say, 5,000 points, and there's a run on the dollar, as Ron Paul predicts, I don't think there's any question but that the authorities would immediately impose martial law.

In Ayn Rand's classic novel of American decline, Atlas Shrugged, a giant oak tree stands on the property of the heroine's family estate: it had been there as long as she could remember, towering over the landscape like a living monument to stability and continuity. One night during a thunderstorm the tree – an oak – was struck by lightning. When she came out to the charred scene in the morning she saw that the tree had split open, revealing nothing but a hollow shell.

I'm afraid this is precisely what will happen if – or, rather, when – economic lightning hits our brittle society: it is likely to shatter and reveal the vast emptiness that has taken over where the American character once resided. As Rep. Paul points out in this video, rather than resisting martial law, the American people in their majority will probably demand it.

That will mark the end of the American experiment, as we knew it. The vision of the Founders will go down in history as a tragic failure – one that took an awful lot of people down with it.

If this is not to be the future, then where are the mass protests against the reauthorization of a totalitarian Act such as hasn't been seen in this country since the Alien and Sedition Acts? Where are the liberals? Where are the old-style conservatives? Where is the America I once knew – the America of the Founders, a cantankerous and quarrelsome lot, whom no tyrant could tame? I fear we have become a decadent and fatally corrupted people, for whom the Founders are those guys with funny wigs, slave-owners who wouldn't let women vote, with a lot of strange, anti-social ideas, like Jefferson's Tim McVeigh-ish belief that "The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time, with the blood of patriots and tyrants."

A few liberals, like Glenn Greenwald, have spoken out, but their numbers only underscore the underlying silence: a few conservatives of the old school have raised their voices in protest, but they, too, are isolated, and are, in any case, ignored by their fellows on the right, at least those in the GOP, who vehemently support the "PATRIOT" Act and all the rest of the Bush-Cheney era legislation aimed at subverting the Constitution.

"Oh Obama, you silly neocon!" japed Ryan Mauro over at Frontpage, and for once I have to agree with (yikes!) David Horowitz:

"Sometimes partisanship and heated debates makes us forget how little has changed and how little really divides the two parties when it comes to national security. The rhetoric was changed and the policies had to be repackaged, modified a little bit to better fit the administration's own beliefs and political promises, but what's actually being done has changed very little. Policies, like celebrities, need to be reinvented to stay with the times.

"Case in point: President Obama has just signed a one-year extension of the Patriot Act.

*"The entire legislation wasn't preserved, though—so surely it was refined to limit its violations of civil liberties, right? Think again. As The Associated Press reports, 'Thrown away were restrictions and greater scrutiny on the government's authority to spy on Americans and seize their records.' Oh, snap!"*

I'm unsure as to whether "Oh, snap!" is meant approvingly, but no matter. The point is that this is "change" the neocons can believe in. And while the anti-Obama market is too lucrative for Horowitz to give it up, others are not so "principled." David Frum, whose own security prescriptions go way beyond the "PATRIOT" Act, has lately been urging his fellow conservatives to go a little easier on Obama, and urging compromise on economic matters – because what the neocons really care about is foreign policy and civil liberties questions. As long as we have an all-powerful surveillance state, which is waging war on multiple fronts at all times, the David Frums of this world are happy.

I hope the folks over at the David Horowitz Center for Freedom, or whatever it is his outfit is called these days, are confident that the power they would grant the Obama administration will never be used in a way they would come to regret – say, against them. But don't worry, David: when they come for you and lock you up in a reeducation camp, we'll spring you – you know, like your former buddies in the Weather Underground sprang Timothy Leary.

Aside from neocon loons like Horowitz, I think a lot of "progressives" would readily support the imposition of martial law in an "economic emergency" – as Rahm Emanuel would say, "Rule one: never allow a crisis to go to waste." Can't you just hear certain self-righteous "progressives" (not liberals) justifying censorship, a ban on public gatherings, or other assaults on our constitutional rights, on the grounds that certain speech and nonviolent action is "divisive," "hateful," and a threat to public order? I certainly hope conservatives don't learn to value civil liberties the hard way, but if that's what it takes, then so be it.

By then liberals will have already forgotten that particular lesson – and the ideological spectrum will undergo yet another re-polarization, where left becomes right, right becomes left, and the cycle starts all over again....

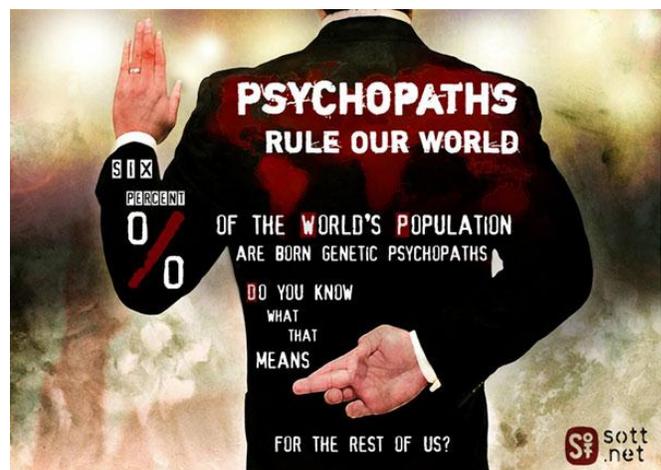

The masses have known for ages that there have been a lot of things wrong with our government, it's just that they really don't understand the depth, breath, and nature of how bad or where it all originates, then again, most people could care less. It has become common and accepted for the majority of the population to associate our government with BIG BROTHER. The latest Rasmussen Reports indicate that Seventy-one percent (71%) of voters nationwide say they're at least somewhat angry about the current policies of the federal government. That figure includes 46% who are Very Angry, their national telephone survey finds that only 27% are not angry about the government's policies, including 10% who are Not at All Angry.

"Some of the character traits exhibited by serial killers or criminals may be observed in many within the political arena... [They] share the traits of psychopaths who are not sensitive to altruistic appeals, such as sympathy for their victims or remorse or guilt over their crimes. They possess the personality traits of lying, narcissism, selfishness, and vanity. These are the people to whom we have entrusted our fate. Is it any wonder that America is failing at home and world-wide?" - Jim Kouri

"Any president engaged in lying and empire-building must have some of the traits of a psychopath ... To murder innocent people in order to aggrandize the American Empire would be extremely difficult if not impossible for someone who feels empathy, remorse and guilt and who is incapable of lying. It might even be suggested that having at least some psychopathic traits is a qualification for the job." - David Model, "Lying for Empire"

"People, governments and economies of all nations must serve the needs of multinational banks and corporations." - Zbigniew Brzezinski

"The general public are viewed as no more than ignorant and meddling outsiders, a bewildered herd. And it's the responsible men who have to make decisions and to protect society from the trampling and rage of the bewildered herd. Now since it's a democracy they - the herd, that is - are permitted occasionally to lend their weight to one or another member of the responsible class. That's called an election." - Noam Chomsky

It has become a completely thoroughly accepted fact that politicians and government is utterly corrupt to its core, yet no one is ever outraged, not even disappointed or mad, for it has become the standard accepted norm. They leave it at that, then turn around and say “hey Jerry Springer or American Idol is on, let’s go watch the latest episode”, back they all go to their pathetic sheeple lives, back to their hypnotic slumber. Yes, sleep my dear ones, sleep... sleep... sleep...

Tax Cheats, Nepotism, Conflicts of interest

The Slime Pit Known As Washington D.C.

By Aaron Cantor Friday, January 1, 2010

To call Washington D. C. a Den of Thieves would be the understatement of the Millennium.

Please allow me to familiarize you good people with the slimy denizens of D.C., and some of their nest feathering practices while sticking it to us big time.

We will start with Pelosi, whose husband owns $17 million worth of stock of StarKist Tuna, which is owned by Del Monte Foods who is a big contributor to Pelosi.

Starkist is the major employer in American Samoa, employing 75% of the Samoan work force.

In January 2007 when the minimum wage was increased from $5.15 to $7.25 Ms. Pelosi had American Samoa exempted from the increase so Del Monte would not have to pay the higher wage. This would make Del Monte products less expensive than that of its competitors.

Pelosi added a $33 million dollar earmark for an economic development credit in American Samoa, and she called the Bush administration CORRUPT?

Moving right along, another California Democrat, Senator Diane Feinstein despite a blatantly obvious conflict of interest, as “a member of the Military Construction Appropriations subcommittee, Senator Feinstein voted for appropriations worth some $3.7 billion dollars to her husband’s firms.”

The House Appropriations Chairman David Obey (D-WI) is earmarking $2 billion dollars related to his son’s lobbying efforts. His son Craig Obey, is “a top lobbyist for a non-profit group which would receive $2 billion dollars worth of the stimulus package. I could go on but I think you get the idea.

To add insult to injury however, not only do we not get a cost of living allowance (COLA) for the next three years, but these slimy mamzers get a $4,700.00 cost of living raise while we get bupkus, and let’s go a step further, I live on a military pension which is little enough coupled with my social security, I arose this morning and checked my bank balance by phone as I do every morning (a good idea in this age of identity theft) only to find that my automatic deposit is now a lesser amount than it was last month. Not by much grant you, but multiply that by the number of retired military members receiving benefits and that adds up to some serious money. I guess the elite snakes in Washington don’t think we are paying our fair share, (we have already paid our dues you jackasses).

Tim Geithner didn’t pay $34,000.00 which he owed (and he is secretary of the treasury) so why should we have to pay?

Charlie Rangel overlooked $75,000.00 worth of income, and he is the snake that writes our tax laws, if he didn’t pay why should we have to pay?

Tom Daschle owed $140,000.00 which he sort of overlooked, if he didn't pay why should we have to pay? Are you happy with the change some of you voted for?

The usurper in chief is not only not up to the job, he has no clue what the hell he is doing and the inept clowns he has surrounded himself with don't have a clue either. A good example is his little speech about the almost Delta disaster all he can do is look very stern and say something stupid like "This is totally unacceptable". Okay it is unacceptable, we know that, the question is what the hell are you going to do about it?

Big brother is on the conscience of a large majority of the populace, it's just they have no clue how big, deep and REAL this entity really is. Nor do they possess the slightest idea what is truly happening in our government, the media complex has been instrumental in providing everyone with total omission, distraction and misdirection for decades. You witnessed the unprecedented, overwhelming rejection of "big brother" in the 2008 elections as the masses overwhelmingly went for the "HOPE" and "CHANGE" candidate (as they do every election cycle). Crowds never before seen in election rallies gathered for the "change" candidate. Yes, people have a vague idea about big brother, and they are sick and tired of "him". The problem is that they don't have a clue WHO or what big brother really IS. The real nature and identity of big brother is none other than the Zionist/Masonic ruling elite system in operation, whose collective actions, protocols and policies implemented throughout our government, reveal its characteristics enabling the conceptualization of what the unsuspecting people have come to loosely identify as BIG BROTHER.

Many citizens had no idea that members of Congress could retire with the same pay after only one term, that they didn't pay into Social Security, that they specifically exempted themselves from many of the laws they have passed (such as being exempt from any fear of prosecution for sexual harassment) while ordinary citizens must live under those laws. The latest is to exempt themselves from the Healthcare Reform that is being considered...in all of its forms.

"Today the path of total dictatorship in the United States can be laid by strictly legal means, unseen and unheard by the Congress, the President, or the people. Outwardly we have a constitutional government. We have operating within our government and political system, another body representing another form of government bureaucratic elite." - Senator William Jenner, 1954

Everything the government and the ruling elite do is predicated on public perception. The actual details and actions are not important for they rarely surface on the public level, thus they routinely serve their true masters without the public's slightest clue. What they care about and focus on is how things are PERCIEVED by the public. Despite their best efforts to disguise their corporate oligarchal bias, wanton abuse, corruption and so forth, evidence the foul order often reaches some of the masses who are paying attention, their efforts to control public perception sometimes goes awry. Some people are also realizing that no matter who they "vote" into office, it just turns out being more of the same old bullshit, just a different face.

We have all been indoctrinated, trained, taught, hypnotized and brainwashed into believing that we live in a "democratic" society. I have news for you. For democracy is just a front for the true system that is actually fully operating under that cover which is Zionist capitalism and total ECONOMIC COLONIZATION. Sure there exists the WINDOW DRESSING, the props of democratic society are all in place to give credence to the grand illusion. Hence The biblical verse "By their deeds you will know them" translated into modern English simply means "watch what they do, not what they say."

Confirmation hearings and all types of similar appointment meetings solely serve the purpose of legitimizing in front of the masses the handpicked agents the RULING ELITE have chosen to do their bidding. Hearings are all by and large just public charades, dog and pony shows. The people being "interrogated" have already been chosen by the ruling elite and no amount of questioning and answer sessions ever change that. The people being questioned by the status quo are always part of that same status quo, the person sitting on the "hot seat" gets appointed 99% of the time no matter what comes of the "hearings.". The only thing that would block a potential nomination is if it became publically knowledge that the person was a baby killer. By holding confirmation hearings, the so called "news" outlets with their talking heads, pundits and "panel of experts" give the hearings widespread coverage setting up the ILLUSION for the masses that the person being "reviewed" for appointed is un-biased and agenda free, that somehow that person will champion the cause of the regular folks. But nothing could be further from the truth, once appointed they all go on to do the bidding of their overlords. Those who become eligible for appointment are placed in the positions of power ONLY after many years upon years of FAITHFULLY, OBIEDIENTLY AND LOYALY serving their overlords, having proved themselves a valuable agents of the status quo, their masters whose causes and agendas they have dutifully championed throughout their lives. "Oh how wonderful and impartial that new SCOTUS judge will be"..... is the common response of the herds once they have been spoon fed the hype.

As I mention throughout this report the crucial use of Behavioral Science by the ruling elite, corporations, marketing arms, this list also includes politicians and governments who are one of the best clients of the Behavioral Science organizations. Successful governments have armies of researchers pounding the pavement in the quest to know what their constituents are thinking, how they are thinking and why. So that they can strategically maneuver their policies and agendas portraying them in ways that will please the constituents. And that is just scratching the surface of the uses of Cognitive and Behavioral Applied Sciences. For most of what you see and hear coming from Washington today is basically BS (Behavioral Science) generated talking points to manipulate and control the population.

Our government has erected a carefully crafted image that they tediously labor to maintain. The image of freedom despite the many limitations, the image of equality despite the vast opposite reality, the image of a Democracy despite the fact that it actually functions more like an oligarchy, the image of "for the people by the people" when in reality the corporations and the powerful decide the course of the country, the list goes on and on. The fact that our political leaders and government use BS is not even a secret. The ones who know of its use don't even recognize the impact and ramifications of applied BS for premeditated manipulation and control. Here are excerpts from an example story of BS being utilized within the Obama administration:

How Obama Is Using the Science of Change

By Michael Grunwald, TIME

Two weeks before Election Day, Barack Obama's campaign was mobilizing millions of supporters; it was a bit late to start rewriting get-out-the-vote (GOTV) scripts. "BUT, BUT, BUT," deputy field director Mike Moffo wrote to Obama's GOTV operatives nationwide, "What if I told you a world-famous team of genius scientists, psychologists and economists wrote down the best techniques for GOTV scripting?!?! Would you be interested in at least taking a look? Of course you would!!"

Moffo then passed along guidelines and a sample script from the Consortium of Behavioral Scientists, a secret advisory group of 29 of the nation's leading behaviorists. The key guideline was a simple message: "A Record Turnout Is Expected." That's because studies by psychologist Robert Cialdini and other group members had found that the most powerful motivator for hotel guests to reuse towels, national-park visitors to stay on marked trails and citizens to vote is the suggestion that everyone is doing it. "People want to do what they think others will do," says Cialdini, author of the best seller Influence. "The Obama campaign really got that."

The existence of this behavioral dream team — which also included best-selling authors Dan Ariely of MIT (Predictably Irrational) and Richard Thaler and Cass Sunstein of the University of Chicago (Nudge) as well as Nobel laureate Daniel Kahneman of Princeton — has never been publicly disclosed, even though its members gave Obama white papers on messaging, fundraising and rumor control as well as voter mobilization. All their proposals — among them the famous online fundraising lotteries that gave small donors a chance to win face time with Obama — came with footnotes to peer-reviewed academic research. "It was amazing to have these bullet points telling us what to do and the science behind it," Moffo tells TIME. "These guys really know what makes people tick."

President Obama is still relying on behavioral science. But now his Administration is using it to try to transform the country. Because when you know what makes people tick, it's a lot easier to help them change.

The Nudge Factor

We all know Obama won the election because he looked like change, sounded like change and never stopped campaigning for change. But he didn't call for just change in Washington — or even just change in America. From his declarations that "change comes from the bottom up" to his admonitions about "an era of profound irresponsibility," Obama called for change in Americans. And not just in bankers or insurers — in all of us. His Zen koan, "We are the change we've been waiting for," may sound like New Age gibberish, but it's at the core of his agenda.

In fact, Obama is betting his presidency on our ability to change our behavior. His top priorities — the economy, health care and energy — all depend on it...

...It's no coincidence that Obama's budget proposes an ambitious program of automatic-enrollment pensions for workplaces that don't offer 401(k)s or that his stimulus package has billions of dollars for smart meters. Behavioral science — especially the burgeoning field of behavioral economics that has been popularized by Freakonomics, The Wisdom of Crowds, Predictably Irrational, Nudge and Animal Spirits, which is the new must-read in Obamaworld — is already shaping dozens of Administration policies. "It really applies to all the big areas where we need change," says Obama budget director Peter Orszag.

Orszag has been an unabashed behavioral geek ever since he read that 401(k) study. His deputy, Jeff Liebman of Harvard, is a noted behavioral economist, as are White House economic adviser Austan Goolsbee of the University of Chicago, Assistant Treasury Secretary nominee Alan Krueger of Princeton and several other key aides. Sunstein has been nominated to be Obama's regulatory czar. Even National Economic Council director Larry Summers has done work on behavioral finance. And Harvard economist Sendhil Mullainathan is organizing an outside network of behavioral experts to provide the Administration with policy ideas.

Obama has a community organizer's appreciation for human motivation, and his rhetoric often sounds as if it's straight out of a behavioral textbook. He has also read Nudge, which inspired him to pick his friend Sunstein — best known as a constitutional scholar — to run the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, the obscure but influential corner of the Office of Management and Budget where federal regulations are reviewed and rewritten. "Cass is one of the people in the Administration he knows best," says Thaler, the founder of behavioral economics and co-author of Nudge. "He knew what he was doing when he gave Cass that job."

The first sign of the behavioralist takeover surfaced on April 1, when Americans began receiving $116 billion worth of payroll-tax cuts from the stimulus package. Obama isn't sending us one-time rebate checks. Reason: his goal is to jump-start consumer spending, and research has shown we're more likely to save money rather than spend it when we get it in a big chunk. Instead, Obama made sure the tax cuts will be paid out through decreased withholding, so our regular paychecks will grow a bit and we'll be less likely to notice the windfall. The idea, an aide explains, is to manipulate us into spending the extra cash.

Obama's efforts to change us carry a clear political risk. Republicans already portray him as a nanny-state scold, an élitist Big Brother lecturing us about inflating our tires and reading to our kids. We elected a President, not a life coach, and we might not like elected officials' challenging our right to be couch potatoes. Obama's aides seem to favor nudges that preserve free choice over heavy-handed regulation, an approach Thaler and Sunstein, the co-authors of Nudge, call "libertarian paternalism." But it's still paternalism, and Sunstein will have the power to put it into action. The idea of public officials, even well-meaning ones, trying to engineer our private behavior to produce change can seem a bit creepy.

But face it: Obama is right. Our emissions are boiling the planet, and most of our energy use is unnecessary. Our health expenditures are bankrupting the Treasury, and most of our visits to the doctor can be traced to unhealthy behavior. We do need to change, and we know it.

So why don't we? And how can we? The behaviorists have ideas, and the Administration is listening.

Economics for the Real World

Obama has pledged that his bank-regulation overhaul would be based "not on abstract models ... but on actual data on how actual people make financial decisions." That's a plain-English way of saying it will be guided by behavioral economics, not neoclassical economics.

Neoclassical economics — another University of Chicago specialty — has ruled our world for decades. It's the doctrine that markets know best: when government keeps its hands off free enterprise, capital migrates to its most productive uses and society prospers. But its elegant models rely on a bold assumption: rational decisions by self-interested individuals create efficient markets. Behavioral economics challenged this assumption, and the financial meltdown has just about shattered it; even former Fed chairman Alan Greenspan confessed his Chicago School worldview has been shaken. "We couldn't have planned a better marketing campaign for behavioral economics," MIT's Ariely quips.

Behavioral economics doesn't ignore the market forces that were all-powerful in Econ 101, but it harnesses forces traditionally consigned to Psych 101. Behaviorists have always known we don't really act like the superrational Homo economicus of the neoclassical-model world. Years of studies of patients who don't take their meds, grownups who have unsafe sex, and other flawed decision makers have chronicled the irrationality of Homo sapiens. Some of our foibles are quite specific, like overvaluing things we have, overeating food in larger containers and overestimating the probability of improbable events — the quirk that made the Meet Barack Obama fundraising lottery such a smart idea. But in general, we're ignorant, shortsighted and biased toward the status quo. We're not as smart as Larry Summers. We procrastinate. Our impulsive ids overwhelm our logical superegos. We plan to lose weight, but ooh — a cupcake! We're especially irrational about money; we'll pay more for the same thing if we can use a credit card, if we think it's on sale, if it's marketed with photos of attractive women. No wonder we apply for mortgages we can't afford. No wonder our bankers approve them.

"We truly want to make better choices," explains Yale economist Dean Karlan. He's a co-founder of stickK.com, where users make binding "commitment contracts" to forfeit money to friends or charities — or even "anti-charities" they despise — if they fail to quit smoking, lose weight or meet other goals they set for themselves. "But we need help to get us there."

...Old behaviorist joke: How many psychologists does it take to change a lightbulb? Answer: Just one, but the bulb really has to want to change.

..."It would be nice if we all behaved like supercomputers, but that's not how we are," Orszag says.

While Obama's economists search for pain-free, hassle-free solutions to our easy-way-out instincts, his rhetoric often aims to build our tolerance for pain and hassle. He urges us to snap out of denial, to accept that we're in for some prolonged discomfort but not to wallow in it, to focus on our values. That happens to sound a lot like "acceptance and commitment therapy," the latest advance in behavioral psychology. Instead of assisting smokers to ignore cravings and chronic-pain sufferers to think about other things — the old denial approach — acceptance therapy pushes patients to acknowledge negative thoughts and then overcome them by focusing on values. Even a small amount of this approach seems to help smokers quit, dieters lose weight and patients with diabetes or chronic pain stay out of the hospital. University of Nevada, Reno, psychologist Steven Hayes believes our Prozac culture has trained us to avoid all discomfort, leaving us reluctant to exercise or adjust our thermostats. "We're supposed to be happy-happy-joy-joy all the time," ...

But Obama is no therapist changing individuals one at a time. He's an organizer trying to build community and inspire collective action through house parties and Facebook as well as rhetoric about shared values. In other words, he's trying to create social norms — behavioral change's killer app.

Everybody's Doing It!

Which message would persuade homeowners to save electricity: a call to their environmental conscience, or an appeal to their wallet? Cialdini tested those approaches in a San Diego experiment, and the answer was neither. What worked was an appeal to conformity. Residents used less power when they were told their neighbors were using less power. We're a herd-like species, more likely to be obese if our peers are.

In a 2005 study, Alan Gerber of Yale got Michigan voters to increase their turnout an amazing 8.6% with a single peer-pressure mailer that listed the previous voting records of their neighbors and noted that a follow-up would be sent indicating who voted this time. (The Obama campaign actually priced out a similar mailer but decided not to risk a backlash.) And shame works; even some AIG executives gave up bonuses. Cialdini says brain imaging shows that when we think we're out of step with our peers, the part of our brain that registers pain shifts into overdrive. "It's an incredibly powerful spur to action," he says.

...And this is why Administration officials — after their crash course in run-on-the-bank mentalities cited in Animal Spirits — are trying to boost consumer confidence into a social norm.

Sometimes We Need a Shove

...The research proves change can come about when it's easy and popular, but making it lucrative — or even mandatory — can make sure it happens.

If neoclassical economics wants government to let us alone to do what we want, behavioral economics leaves room for government action to help us do what we would really want if we were rational agents. Unfortunately, the qualities that have crippled Washington in recent years — inertia, denial, allergy to complexity, preference for short-term gratification over long-term planning — are our own flaws writ large. Members of Congress are people too; they're likely to embrace change only when it's easy, popular and rewarding. Do we really want them trying to change us?

...Behavioral literature can be a depressing window on human folly. But it offers us ways to transcend our folly, to restrain our ids, to harness our conformity and inertia and weakness in order to do less of the things that hurt us and our country. "In the physical world, we understand our limitations," Ariely says. "Nobody gets upset because we can't fly. We just design something to help us fly." If Obama can help us fly from our bad habits, he'll provide the change we need.

I wish I had more time and space to cover how Behavioral and Cognitive Science is utilized by the powers that be to mold and shape public perception. But I must continue the flow and keep jumping to the next component and the next. After being able to only summarize important information, I can only hope that the reader can understand the paths of thought I am constantly trying to open along with the impact and importance of the material matter being revealed so that you can develop a big picture understanding of how they all connect and are integral components of elite rule.

For they must convince the millions of citizens that the TRUE realities they live under are nonexistent, thus they must convince the masses that the formulated realities implanted for public consumption are the accepted realities. THIS is a major work of art, priming, science, psychology, i.e., mass programming.

Through BS that circulates in the media and public discourse they hide the true nature of our government, such as the reality is that our country is actually a functioning "FOCD," a Fascist Oligarchic Capitalist Democracy, that operates under the pseudonym, alias, and cover of "democracy." Everything is predicated on public perception. You have all been raised in this land, through the immaculate application of Cognitive and Behavioral Science you have all been emblazoned into your core being with the patriotic concept of democracy, so no matter what true underlying system is actually in place, you will still call it a democracy. These are the several tried and exhausted well know ruling systems used throughout history, here are the main ones that the ruling elite have tried over the ages. Today we are witnessing combinations of these with the added ingredient (double speak) of calling it anything other than what it really is:

Aristocracy (rule by the supreme)
 Plutocracy (rule by the wealthy)
 Timocracy (rule by the honorable)
 Democracy (rule by the people, well that is the concept, umm:... illusion)
 Tyranny (rule by one person, rule by a tyrant)
 Fascism (rule by corporations)
 Socialism (rule by the state)
 Communism (authoritarian rule)

Then there is Oligarchy (rule by the few elite), a form of government where power effectively rests with a small elite segment of society distinguished by royalty, wealth, family, military influence or occult spiritual hegemony. Such states are often controlled by politically powerful families whose children are heavily conditioned and mentored to be heirs of the power of the oligarchy. This type of power by its very nature may not be exercised openly; the oligarchs preferring to remain “the power behind the throne”, exerting control through economic means. Oligarchies have been tyrannical throughout history, being completely reliant on public servitude to exist. Although Aristotle pioneered the use of the term as a synonym for rule by the rich, for which the exact term is plutocracy, oligarchy is not always a rule by wealth, as oligarchs can simply be a privileged group. Some city-states from Ancient Greece were oligarchies. [source: Wikipedia.com] Fascism is a convoluted way of describing a government of and by the corporations. Thus you can readily say by observing American politics that the behind the pretty “Democracy” façade U.S. is ACTUALLY, TRULY, REALLY OPERATING INTERNALLY AS a “Fascist Oligarchic Capitalist Democracy (FOCD).” You my dear friend have just now received the memo.

Have you ever wondered why the Fascia symbol (the official logo of fascist regimes) is displayed prominently in many places in our government? Most notably in the dead center stage of Congress Hall... THE central gathering place of this alleged “Democratic” nation, the CAPITAL OF THE “FREE WORLD.” Don’t just look at the photo below, study it, meditate over it, for a picture is worth over a 1,000 words. What I see is a room of some of the most powerful political figures on the planet (for their decisions often affect people around the globe) regularly assembling in their hallowed chamber where its central piece is an American flag, prominently and proudly flanked by its right hand Fascia and its left hand Fascia all set on a ROMAN EMPIRE architectural backdrop. Literally translated to: The Fascist Rightwing and Leftwing are both surreptitiously represented as the two most central elements of the United States of America.

So important is symbolism to the ruling elite “hidden masters” that they even put their FASCIST symbol on the back of the U.S. dime! There are two giant Fascia symbols on the wall behind the president when he gives his state of the union address. One of the most important questions you must ask yourself is: if the fascia symbol is THE logo or symbol that stands for fascist government and regimes, don’t you want to know WHY this symbol has been used in, and prominently, repeatedly displayed in our so called “democracy” for decades on end? Again I feel it necessary to reiterate one of the most accurate definitions of fascism to have been stated by one of the world’s most notorious and highest openly Fascist leaders: “Fascism should more appropriately be called Corporatism, because it is the merger of corporate and state power” - Benito Mussolini.

Folks, I know you are a proud patriot of our nation, so am I, but the day must come when we pull our heads from out of the sand and begin to see and call things for what they ARE and not by the titles and designations someone else decided to call them to deceive you. America is called a “Democracy” but in reality it IS and actually functions as a: Fascist Oligarchic Capitalist Democracy (FYI: we are FOCD!). So please stop calling the apple an orange.

The cold hard truth is the fact that “they” know that they can proudly display their mottos, symbols and logos all around society without even a whimper from the sleeping sheeple masses. As time progresses they become more emboldened and daring with “in your face” attitudes and policies, you know what? They have become so emboldened because they know that no one cares, they know that the cattle population only want more entertainment, medication and be left alone, they just all want to go back to sleep, sleep, sleepy....

“We are fast approaching the stage of the ultimate inversion: the stage where the government is free to do anything it pleases, while the citizens may act only by permission; which is the stage of the darkest periods of human history, the stage of rule by brute force.” – Ayn Rand

“Since the late 1940s, the United States has been deliberately engaged in an imperial project, and anyone who would hold the office of the presidency has to be willing to serve that end. All presidents have to promote the national security state, both domestically and in American foreign policy, if they wish to attain and hold on to power.” - Morris Berman

FYI: Some people just don’t know what fascist means, for those who need a refresher: fascism is simply the rule of government by, of and for the corporations. Period. So the fairy tale day dream that our country was founded and run “for the people, by the people, of the people” is just, like Penn & Teller would put it: bull shit.

On CNBC on Tuesday January 26th at 11:00am while being interviewed on the show "Street Signs", Senator Hatch proclaimed that this country was not a Democracy. It is “representative government.” (oh, and by the way, they ain’t representing you the people) Finally someone in our government that has the balls to tell it like it is. I take it that what he was really thinking of was a representative government of the ruling elite and the corporations!

With no shame to their game, they proudly display their true colors, here they proudly display their fascist logo on the back of a U.S. dime:

Never has it been so obvious that our elected leaders don't give a dam "the people" (YouTube title: fuch you George w bush you fucking fucktard fucker!) -Video

George W. Bush - America's Greatest Fuck-up... - Video
Amazing how we now allow the elected bastards to get away with high crimes

That is not even the biggest part of the scam. In all actuality our "Republic" has really cleverly morphed into an illusion... of smoke and mirrors called "Democracy." The day that you wake up and truly realize that our country has been run by the large corporations and special interests while we are being lead to believe that our country is a free nation being run for the people, by the people, the day you realize this, is the day you begin to realize just how badly we have all been conned.

Go ahead, follow any campaign trail for any government office, listen to all the sham "debates" and so forth, it does not matter what election it is, for what office, it's all the same bull shit. In the end some bought and paid for greedy bastard that could care less about you and the people gets placed in office, he then spends quality time being wine and dined by the lobbyists, attending Ivy league "fraternity" club meetings, and so forth. In the end, that person went around shaking hands all over the place promising you HOPE, CHANGE and the kitchen sink to get elected.

Once elected he will first and foremost cow tow and kneel down to the establishment apparatus, do as he is told by his handlers and get in line at the feeding troughs, all the while looking how best to climb that corporate, political ladder, and lining his personal golden parachute, looking out for his fraternal brethren and above all bow to his "hidden masters." Politics as usual, more political jokes for the late night comics, tons of new stories for the "truthers". In the end we all know and jokingly admit that lawyers and politicians are the scum of the earth... yet we just accept it as that and go on our merry ways. We put on our blinders and cover our ears, pretending that ours is the best political system in the world, nope, our shit does not stink. "Oh how ours is the "best" country in the world". Keep repeating that over and over again, you just might make a believer of yourself.

"Of course Batshit Bachmann was busted on her lie, as she has been dozens of times before. So why bother? Two paradigms come into play here.

First, if Republicans told the truth, nobody would vote for them, except for the richest and most hate filled in our culture.

Second, the Republicans know they are lying and know they are not going to get away with it, but these lies distract attention from the real issue in the upcoming elections: Republicans govern only on behalf of the richest 1%. If America realizes that, it's all over."

Oh, by the way, FYI: Every politician you see speaking very convincingly on TV about whatever topic is at hand, please try to keep in mind that they have all been keenly trained in the ART OF CONVINCING THE PUBLIC and winning over support. The art is known as debating and something called Extemporaneous speaking. Most Ivy League universities regularly conduct tournaments for all future leaders must know how to win over their constituents, they have all been TRAINED to tell you what the majority wants to hear, they have all been well trained in the art of CONVINCING YOU.

Extemporaneous speaking

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Extemporaneous Speaking, also known as "Extemp," is a high school and college speech event which students speak persuasively or informatively about current events and politics. In Extemp, a speaker chooses a question out of three offered, then prepares for thirty minutes with the use of previously prepared articles from magazines, journals, newspapers, and articles from news web sites before speaking for seven minutes on the topic. There are four different speaking events: informative, persuasive, domestic, and foreign. In certain areas, there are only two events, being foreign policy and domestic policy.

Basic information and format

The actual speech is delivered without the aid of notes and, at top levels, is a smooth, dynamic performance that incorporates research, background knowledge, humor, and opinion. A successful extemp speech has an introduction that catches the listener's attention, introduces the theme of the speech, and answers the question through three, or sometimes two, areas of analysis which develop an answer to the question. The preview of the three or two areas of analysis to come is called the "menu". The conclusion summarizes the speech and ties everything together, relating back to the introduction and body of the speech.

Debate and public speaking (collectively called "Forensics") are generally stratified into novice, or beginning, and varsity, or experienced, levels. A varsity level extemp is expected to cite anywhere from five to ten sources within the speech to substantiate the credibility of the analysis and demonstrate ample preparation. References are often referred to as a "cite" or "citation." Quality sources include newspapers like the New York Times and Christian Science Monitor, magazines like the Economist and Foreign Policy and journals like the Fletcher Forum on World Affairs and Foreign Affairs. Also, on a speech dealing with a certain region's issues, say Africa or the Middle East, it is good to include regional sources as well.

During the speech, competitors are evaluated by way of comparison to the other speakers in a 'round' of competition. Generally, there are five to eight competitors in a given round. Judges give speakers time signals to help them pace their presentations. Judges rank all students in a room in order, with one being the best and the worst speaker ranked last (sixth, for example in a round of six competitors).

The National Forensic League (NFL), the National Christian Forensics and Communication Association (NCFCA) and the National Catholic Forensic League (CFL) host most Extemp tournaments. Both leagues have a national tournament at the end of every year, with the NFL tournament drawing a larger number of competitors. There is also the Extemporaneous Speaking Tournament of Champions, held each May at Northwestern University. In addition, there are highly prestigious "circuit" tournaments, as in Policy debate, Public Forum, and Lincoln-Douglas. These include the Glenbrooks in Chicago, the Invitational at Yale University, the Patriot Games at George Mason University, the Barkley Forum at Emory University, and the Invitational at Harvard University. There are also two major round robins, held at George Mason University and at Montgomery Bell Academy, with the tournament at MBA being considered the most prestigious tournament of the year besides the National Forensic League (NFL) tournament, with only 16 Extempers being invited each year.

The Different Types of Extemp

Most high school level districts offer two different kinds of Extemp Speaking. Normally, those are FX (or Foreign Extemp or IX) and DX (or Domestic Extemp or USX). Both follow the same format but have questions concentrated on either foreign or domestic political/economic topics. Some states, like Pennsylvania, offer a different event called Extemp Commentary. In Extemp Commentary the speaker, seated behind a desk, gives a five-minute speech about a topic rather than about a question. Extemp Commentary is also held at the National Speech and Debate Tournament as a Supplemental Event.

In college forensics, as well as at a number of large tournaments like the Tournament of Champions in Extemporaneous Speaking at Northwestern University, the Barkley Forum at Emory University, the Harvard Invitational and the NCFL National Championship, there is only one mixed category for Extemporaneous Speaking, referred to as simply 'Extemp' (with the event code 'EX'). Mixed extemp can prove more challenging, calling upon a speaker's broad awareness of possible topics ranging from questions about American culture to foreign policy or obscure international economic issues.

The Extemp Speech Structure

The structure of an extemporaneous speech varies widely depending on whether the competition is a high school or college tournament, and can often vary in style across the country. The most common method, exemplified in several high school and college national final rounds, follows a similar structure to the one described below.

Introduction

- Attention Getter - A device used to get the attention of an audience. Some examples include quotations, statistics, history, narratives, political cartoons, anecdotes, and pop culture references. A typical attention getting device (sometimes referred to as an AGD) seeks to set the tone for an extemporaneous speech and acquaint the audiences with the particular style of the speaker.
- Link - A description of how the attention getter relates to the actual topic (for example, a speaker might describe how the movie "The Godfather" applies to a topic like American foreign policy). Links can be abstract (connecting the attention getter to the topic using a one word comparison that usually employs 'like' or 'as') or concrete (making multiple connections between the attention getter to the topic).
- Significance Statement - A sentence justifying the importance and relevance of the chosen topic.
- Source- Most introductions include at least one source, often used to substantiate the Significance Statement. Sources are cited orally and include the name of the publication and the date, at the minimum (e.g. "The Washington Post of October 23, 2006 reports that...")
- Question - A word-for-word recitation of the question (topic) as selected (e.g. "Is Pakistani President Musharraf doing all he can to fight extremism in his country?")
- Definition - A definition of any vague words that are critical to your argument (e.g. "extremism") Some definitions can be frowned upon if given in a monotone, or robotic, voice. It is a good tip for all speakers to watch how and when you give definitions.
- Answer - A summary of the position to be taken on the issue.
- Preview - A preview of the body areas of the speech. Each point should be a short declarative sentence. ("First, Brazil's economic performance will outweigh the alleged corruption.")

Body

It is common that Extemporaneous speeches will have good deal of structure. One of the most frequently employed speech structures will accommodate three contentions or points, each containing two or three sub-points. A popular and easy to follow method of composing contentions includes the three sub-points: Theory, Application and Case Study.

Example

In this example, the first point is illustrated in detail.

Question: Will Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi win his campaign for re-election? Answer: Yes, because he is seen as an effector of necessary reform.

First Point - Koizumi is placing emphasis on the privatization of the Japanese Postal System

Theory - When a candidate focuses their energies on a limited issue that the public supports, they have a greater chance for success.

Application - While Koizumi's approval rating often dips below 50%, his pledge to privatize the Postal System keeps him more popular than any other person or party

Case Study - An Economist article date June 9, 2005 notes that The Japanese Postal system currently sits at ¥386 trillion ($3.6 trillion) in assets, making it the world's biggest financial institution. It continues to explain that Mr. Koizumi is now close to getting a vote on a bill that will—eventually—turn it over to the private sector.

Impact - Because Prime Minister Koizumi will so effectively reform the postal service he will be seen as an effector of reform which will easily win him the re-election.

The conclusion is an opportunity to recap the ideas discussed in the speech and contains many elements of the introduction. A conclusion may look like this:

Question - A word-for-word restatement of the question.

Answer - A review of the answer and points discussed.

Tie to Introduction/Conclusion - This should be along the same lines as the opening attention getter. The same 'vehicle' or theme (for example, an anecdote about Margaret Thatcher) is employed to conclude the speech as was used initially to introduce it. A clever closing line is common place and many strong competitors will remind the judge of the question, while simultaneously referencing the theme discussed in the introduction and conclusion.

"The United States has entered the ranks of the failed states. One of the most remarkable manifestations of a failed state is that the criminals are all inside the government operating against the people, whereas in a normal state, the criminals are on the outside of the government, operating against it. So, we now have every manifestation of being a failed state, with the government in the hands of a few Wall Street gangsters." - Paul Craig Roberts

25 Rules of Disinformation: How to Fight Back

Built upon Thirteen Techniques for Truth Suppression by David Martin, the following may be useful to the initiate in the world of dealing with veiled and half-truth, lies, and suppression of truth when serious crimes are studied in public forums. This, sadly, includes every day news media, one of the worst offenders with respect to being a source of disinformation. Where the crime involves a conspiracy, or a conspiracy to cover up the crime, there will invariably be a disinformation campaign launched against those seeking to uncover and expose the truth and/or the conspiracy. There are specific tactics which disinfo artists tend to apply, as revealed here. Also included with this material are seven common traits of the disinfo artist which may also prove useful in identifying players and motives. The more a particular party fits the traits and is guilty of following the rules, the more likely they are a professional disinfo artist with a vested motive.

People can be bought, threatened, or blackmailed into providing disinformation, so even "good guys" can be suspect in many cases.

A rational person participating as one interested in the truth will evaluate that chain of evidence and conclude either that the links are solid and conclusive, that one or more links are weak and need further development before conclusion can be arrived at, or that one or more links can be broken, usually invalidating (but not necessarily so, if parallel links already exist or can be found, or if a particular link was merely supportive, but not in itself key) the argument. The game is played by raising issues which either strengthen or weaken (preferably to the point of breaking) these links. It is the job of a disinfo artist to interfere with these evaluation... to at least make people think the links are weak or broken when, in truth, they are not... or to propose alternative solutions leading away from the truth. Often, by simply impeding and slowing down the process through disinformation tactics, a level of victory is assured because apathy increases with time and rhetoric.

It would seem true in almost every instance, that if one cannot break the chain of evidence for a given solution, revelation of truth has won out. If the chain is broken either a new link must be forged, or a whole new chain developed, or the solution is invalid and a new one must be found... but truth still wins out. There is no shame in being the creator or supporter of a failed solution, chain, or link, if done with honesty in search of the truth. This is the rational approach. While it is understandable that a person can become emotionally involved with a particular side of a given issue, it is really unimportant who wins, as long as truth wins. But the disinfo artist will seek to emotionalize and chastise any failure (real or false claims thereof), and will seek by means of intimidation to prevent discussion in general.

Eight Traits of The Disinformationalist

1. Avoidance
2. Selectivity
3. Coincidental
4. Teamwork
5. Anti-conspiratorial
6. Artificial Emotions
7. Inconsistent
8. Newly Discovered: Time Constant

It is the disinfo artist and those who may pull their strings (those who stand to suffer should the crime be solved) MUST seek to prevent rational and complete examination of any chain of evidence which would hang them. Since fact and truth seldom fall on their own, they must be overcome with lies and deceit. Those who are professional in the art of lies and deceit, such as the intelligence community and the professional criminal (often the same people or at least working together), tend to apply fairly well defined and observable tools in this process. However, the public at large is not well armed against such weapons, and is often easily led astray by these time-proven tactics. Remarkably, not even media and law enforcement have NOT BEEN TRAINED to deal with these issues. For the most part, only the players themselves understand the rules of the game.

This why concepts from the film, Wag-The-Dog, actually work. If you saw that movie, know that there is at least one real-world counterpart to Al Pacino's character. For CIA, it is Mark Richards, who was called in to orchestrate the media response to Waco on behalf of Janet Reno. Mark Richards is the acknowledged High Priest of Disinformation. His appointment was extremely appropriate, since the CIA was VERY present at Waco from the very beginning of the cult to the very end of their days - just as it was at the People's Temple in Jonestown. Richards purpose in life is damage control.

For such disinformationalists, the overall aim is to avoid discussing links in the chain of evidence which cannot be broken by truth, but at all times, to use clever deceptions or lies to make select links seem weaker than they are, create the illusion of a break, or better still, cause any who are considering the chain to be distracted in any number of ways, including the method of questioning the credentials of the presenter. Please understand that fact is fact, regardless of the source. Likewise, truth is truth, regardless of the source. This is why criminals are allowed to testify against other criminals. Where a motive to lie may truly exist, only actual evidence that the testimony itself IS a lie renders it completely invalid. Were a known 'liar's' testimony to stand on its own without supporting fact, it might certainly be of questionable value, but if the testimony (argument) is based on verifiable or otherwise demonstrable facts, it matters not who does the presenting or what their motives are, or if they have lied in the past or even if motivated to lie in this instance -- the facts or links would and should stand or fall on their own merit and their part in the matter will merely be supportive.

Moreover, particularly with respects to public forums such as newspaper letters to the editor, and Internet chat and news groups, the disinfo type has a very important role. In these forums, the principle topics of discussion are generally attempts by individuals to cause other persons to become interested in their own particular position, idea, or solution -- very much in development at the time. People often use such mediums as a sounding board and in hopes of pollination to better form their ideas. Where such ideas are critical of government or powerful, vested groups (especially if their criminality is the topic), the disinfo artist has yet another role -- the role of nipping it in the bud. They also seek to stage the concept, the presenter, and any supporters as less than credible should any possible future confrontation in more public forums result due to their early successes. You can often spot the disinfo types at work here by the unique application of "higher standards" of discussion than necessarily warranted. They will demand that those presenting arguments or concepts back everything up with the same level of expertise as a professor, researcher, or investigative writer. Anything less renders any discussion meaningless and unworthy in their opinion, and anyone who disagrees is obviously stupid -- and they generally put it in exactly those terms.

So, as you read any such discussions, particularly so in Internet news groups (NG), decide for yourself when a rational argument is being applied and when disinformation, psyops (psychological warfare operations) or trickery is the tool. Accuse those guilty of the later freely. They (both those deliberately seeking to lead you astray, and those who are simply foolish or misguided thinkers) generally run for cover when thus illuminated, or -- put in other terms, they put up or shut up (a perfectly acceptable outcome either way, since truth is the goal.) Here are the twenty-five methods and seven traits, some of which don't apply directly to NG application. Each contains a simple example in the form of actual (some paraphrased for simplicity) from NG comments on commonly known historical events, and a proper response. Accusations should not be overused -- reserve for repeat offenders and those who use multiple tactics. Responses should avoid falling into emotional traps or informational sidetracks, unless it is feared that some observers will be easily dissuaded by the trickery. Consider quoting the complete rule rather than simply citing it, as others will not have reference. Offer to provide a complete copy of the rule set upon request (see permissions statement at end):

- 1) Avoidance. They never actually discuss issues head-on or provide constructive input, generally avoiding citation of references or credentials. Rather, they merely imply this, that, and the other. Virtually everything about their presentation implies their authority and expert knowledge in the matter without any further justification for credibility.
- 2) Selectivity. They tend to pick and choose opponents carefully, either applying the hit-and-run approach against mere commentators supportive of opponents, or focusing heavier attacks on key opponents who are known to directly address issues. Should a commentator become argumentative with any success, the focus will shift to include the commentator as well.
- 3) Coincidental. They tend to surface suddenly and somewhat coincidentally with a new controversial topic with no clear prior record of participation in general discussions in the particular public arena involved. They likewise tend to vanish once the topic is no longer of general concern. They were likely directed or elected to be there for a reason, and vanish with the reason.
- 4) Teamwork. They tend to operate in self-congratulatory and complementary packs or teams. Of course, this can happen naturally in any public forum, but there will likely be an ongoing pattern of frequent exchanges of this sort where professionals are involved. Sometimes one of the players will infiltrate the opponent camp to become a source for straw man or other tactics designed to dilute opponent presentation strength.
- 5) Anti-conspiratorial. They almost always have disdain for 'conspiracy theorists' and, usually, for those who in any way believe JFK was not killed by LHO. Ask yourself why, if they hold such disdain for conspiracy theorists, do they focus on defending a single topic discussed in a NG focusing on conspiracies? One might think they would either be trying to make fools of everyone on every topic, or simply ignore the group they hold in such disdain. Or, one might more rightly conclude they have an ulterior motive for their actions in going out of their way to focus as they do.
- 6) Artificial Emotions. An odd kind of 'artificial' emotionalism and an unusually thick skin -- an ability to persevere and persist even in the face of overwhelming criticism and unacceptance. This likely stems from intelligence community training that, no matter how condemning the evidence, deny everything, and never become emotionally involved or reactive. The net result for a disinfo artist is that emotions can seem artificial. Most people, if responding in anger, for instance, will express their animosity throughout their rebuttal. But disinfo types usually have trouble maintaining the 'image' and are hot and cold with respect to pretended emotions and their usually more calm or unemotional communications style. It's just a job, and they often seem unable to 'act their role in character' as well in a communications medium as they might be able in a real face-to-face conversation/confrontation. You might have outright rage and indignation one moment, ho-hum the next, and more anger later -- an emotional yo-yo. With respect to being thick-skinned, no amount of criticism will deter them from doing their job, and they will generally continue their old disinfo patterns without any adjustments to criticisms of how obvious it is that they play that game -- where a more rational individual who truly cares what others think might seek to improve their communications style, substance, and so forth, or simply give up.

7) Inconsistent. There is also a tendency to make mistakes which betray their true self/motives. This may stem from not really knowing their topic, or it may be somewhat 'freudian', so to speak, in that perhaps they really root for the side of truth deep within. I have noted that often, they will simply cite contradictory information which neutralizes itself and the author. For instance, one such player claimed to be a Navy pilot, but blamed his poor communicating skills (spelling, grammar, incoherent style) on having only a grade-school education. I'm not aware of too many Navy pilots who don't have a college degree. Another claimed no knowledge of a particular topic/situation but later claimed first-hand knowledge of it.

8) BONUS TRAIT: Time Constant. Recently discovered, with respect to News Groups, is the response time factor. There are three ways this can be seen to work, especially when the government or other empowered player is involved in a cover up operation: 1) ANY NG posting by a targeted proponent for truth can result in an IMMEDIATE response. The government and other empowered players can afford to pay people to sit there and watch for an opportunity to do some damage. SINCE DISINFO IN A NG ONLY WORKS IF THE READER SEES IT - FAST RESPONSE IS CALLED FOR, or the visitor may be swayed towards truth. 2) When dealing in more direct ways with a disinformationalist, such as email, DELAY IS CALLED FOR - there will usually be a minimum of a 48-72 hour delay. This allows a sit-down team discussion on response strategy for best effect, and even enough time to 'get permission' or instruction from a formal chain of command. 3) In the NG example 1) above, it will often ALSO be seen that bigger guns are drawn and fired after the same 48-72 hours delay - the team approach in play. This is especially true when the targeted truth seeker or their comments are considered more important with respect to potential to reveal truth. Thus, a serious truth sayer will be attacked twice for the same sin.

Twenty-Five Rules of Disinformation

1. Hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil
2. Become incredulous and indignant
3. Create rumor mongers
4. Use a straw man
5. Sidetrack opponents w name calling, ridicule
6. Hit and Run
7. Question motives
8. Invoke authority
9. Play Dumb
10. Associate opponent charges with old news
11. Establish and rely upon fall-back positions
12. Enigmas have no solution
13. Alice in Wonderland Logic
14. Demand complete solutions
15. Fit the facts to alternate conclusions
16. Vanish evidence and witnesses
17. Change the subject
18. Emotionalize, Antagonize, and Goad
19. Ignore facts, demand impossible proofs
20. False evidence
21. Call a Grand Jury, Special Prosecutor

22. Manufacture a new truth
23. Create bigger distractions
24. Silence critics
25. Vanish

Politicians promise you everything under the sun come election time, once the moment comes when either side wins, they develop amnesia and forget about all the dumb promises they made to get elected. This insanity has been going on for centuries! It has been said that the definition of someone that is crazy is "someone who does the same thing over and over again, always expecting a different outcome". By that definition, all Americans are bona fide loony tunes! Hello America, this is your wakeup call! How many more times will you keep falling for the same old scam? It does NOT matter what political party you belong to. In the end the secret elite always end up running the show as they see fit. The mega corporations will continue to have more influence than multitudes of millions of voter's best interests, this is plain ordinary FACT. This Matrix Report is not about dumb conspiracy "theories", I have spent the past several years losing many a night's sleep carefully putting this report together to expose the FACTS.

"Since the anticommunism hysteria in the years following the Second World War, a bipartisan consensus has existed on foreign policy. Meaningful political discourse has been almost absent about foreign policy issues. So many foreign policy decisions have been placed beyond public scrutiny, that almost all of what passes as official information about foreign policy is manufactured by government agencies for its propaganda effect." - Daniel Hellinger and Dennis R. Judd Brooks - The Democratic Facade

America: Serfs Ruled by Oligarchs

Americans think that they have 'freedom and democracy' and that politicians are held accountable by elections. The fact of the matter is that the U.S. is ruled by powerful interest groups who control politicians with campaign contributions. Our real rulers are an oligarchy of financial and military/security interests and AIPAC [American Israel Public Affairs Committee], which influences U.S. foreign policy for the benefit of Israel.

It was the banks, not the millions of Americans who have lost homes, jobs, health insurance, and pensions, that received $700 billion in TARP [Troubled Asset Relief Program] funds. The banks used this gift of capital to make more profits. In the middle of the worst economic downturn since the Great Depression, Goldman Sachs announced record second quarter profits and large six-figure bonuses for every employee.

The Federal Reserve's low interest rate policy is another gift to the banks. It lowers their cost of funds and increases their profits. With the repeal of the Glass-Steagall Act in 1999, banks became high-risk investment houses that trade financial instruments such as interest rate derivatives and mortgage backed securities. With abundant funds supplied virtually free by the Federal Reserve, banks are paying depositors virtually nothing on their savings.

Despite the Federal Reserve's low interest rate policy, beginning October 1 banks are raising the annual percentage rate (APR) on credit card purchases and cash advances and on balances that have a penalty rate because of late payment. Banks are also raising the late fee. In the midst of the worst economy since the 1930s, heavily indebted Americans, who are losing their jobs and their homes, are to be bled into bankruptcy by the very banks that are being subsidized with TARP funds and low interest rates.

...Is there a government anywhere that less represents its citizens than the U.S. government?

Consider America's wars. As of the moment of writing, the out-of-pocket cost of America's wars in Iraq and Afghanistan is $900,000,000,000. When you add in the already incurred future costs of veterans benefits, interest on the debt, the forgone use of the resources for productive purposes, and such other costs as computed by Nobel economist Joseph Stiglitz and Harvard University budget expert Linda Bilmes, 'our' government has wasted $3,000,000,000,000 — three thousand billion dollars — on two wars that have no benefit whatsoever for any American whose income does not derive from the military/security complex, about which five-star general

President Eisenhower warned us.

It is now a proven fact that the U.S. invasion of Iraq was based on lies and deception of the American public. The only beneficiaries were the armaments industries, Blackwater, Halliburton, military officers who enjoy higher rates of promotion during war, and Muslim extremists whose case the U.S. government proved by its unprovoked aggression against Muslims. No one else benefited. Iraq was a threat to no one, and finding Saddam Hussein and executing him after a kangaroo trial had no effect whatsoever on ending the war or preventing the start of others.

The cost of America's wars is a huge burden on a bankrupt country, but the cost incurred by veterans might be even higher. Homelessness is a prevalent condition of veterans, as is post-traumatic stress. American soldiers, who naively fought for the munitions industry's wars, for high compensation for the munitions CEOs, and for dividends and capital gains for the munitions shareholders, paid not only with lives and lost limbs, but also with broken marriages, ruined careers, psychiatric disorders, and prison sentences for failing to make child support payments.

What did Americans gain from an unaffordable war in Iraq that lasted far longer than World War II and that put into power Shi'ites allied with Iran?

The answer is obvious: nothing whatsoever.

What did the armaments industry gain? Billions of dollars in profits.

What about President Obama? "A corporate marketing creation," sums up the distinguished British journalist John Pilger.

Obama is the presidential candidate who promised to end the war in Iraq. He hasn't. But he has escalated the war in Afghanistan, started a new war in Pakistan, intends to repeat the Yugoslav scenario in the Caucasus, and appears determined to start a war in South America. In response to the acceptance by U.S. puppet president of Columbia, Alvaro Uribe, of seven U.S. military bases in Columbia, Venezuela warned South American countries that the "winds of war are beginning to blow."

Here we have the U.S. government, totally dependent on the generosity of foreigners to finance its red ink, which extends in large quantities as far as the eye can see, completely under the thumb of the military/security complex, which will destroy us all in order to meet Wall Street share price expectations.

Why does any American care who rules Afghanistan? The country has nothing to do with us.

Did the armed services committees of the House and Senate calculate the risk of destabilizing nuclear armed Pakistan when they acquiesced to Obama's new war there, a war that has already displaced two million Pakistanis?

No, of course not. The whores took their orders from the same military/security oligarchy that instructed Obama.

The great American superpower and its 300 million people are being driven straight into the ground by the narrow interest of the big banks and the munitions industry. People, and not only Americans, are losing their sons, husbands, brothers, and fathers for no other reason than the profits of U.S. armaments corporations, and the gullible American people seem proud of it. Those ribbon decals on their cars, SUVs and monster trucks proclaim their naive loyalty to the armaments industries and to the whores in Washington who promote wars.

Will Americans, smashed and destroyed by 'their' government's policy, which always puts Americans last, ever understand who their real enemies are?

Will Americans realize that they are not ruled by elected representatives but by an oligarchy that owns the Washington whorehouse?

Will Americans ever understand that they are impotent serfs?

We have been deluded and indoctrinated to believe that our country is a "democracy", when in fact the heart of what rules, shapes and drives this country first and foremost, far beyond anything else is: Zionist CAPITALISM, CAPITALISM, CAPITALISM... TOTAL ECONOMIC COLONIZATION.

“Government is the only human enterprise that profits from failure. Once that principle is understood, many otherwise inexplicable choices made by ruling elites and their servants can be made intelligible.

For instance, we can begin to understand the perverse persistence governments display in courting preventable catastrophes, and then capitalizing on such incidents to enhance their power to do exactly the same things that resulted in disaster. In this case, in addition to requiring the helotry to undergo unconscionable personal violations before flying, the Regime is exploiting the incident aboard Northwest Flight 253 to escalate the ongoing military assault on Yemen, thereby increasing the human misery that helps propel international terrorism.

And so it is that the Regime – which has squandered trillions of debased dollars in the name of "fighting terrorism" (hundreds of billions to build a domestic garrison state, and even greater sums to conduct wars of aggression overseas) – will continue to do exactly the same thing following an episode that demonstrates, beyond serious dispute, that the "war on terror" has done exactly nothing to make Americans safer.”

The Republic took a backseat to Democracy took a back seat to capitalism many generations ago and no one ever realized it. The old line "of the people for the people" has become a mere joke. Our leaders in government view its constituents as the pathetic panhandling vagabonds and the corporations as the true masters it serves. This is the very definition of fascism. If something drastic is not done soon to change our run away government, our country will face sure self destruction. All our “good ole boys” politicians face virtually zero oversight, no accountability, no responsibility, no penalties for being in bed with corporations and selling us out in wholesale. The overwhelming number of politicians that get “caught” in any wrong doing are the ones that broke out of step from their handlers and masters, thus are fed to the lions so to speak and prosecuted for whatever deviant operation that particular politician is up to his neck in. The most grievous offenders who cross the “hidden masters” are silenced by having unfortunate “accidents”.

The uninformed, gullible population sitting back trusting the sold out elected officials to take care of everything were actually the enablers allowing this nation to continuously slide down the abyss. Our country has become so bureaucratic, bloated, obese, gluttonous, corrupt, colossal, debt ridden, outsider manipulated, and out of hand that it has essentially become a classic proverbial PANDORA'S BOX. The possibility of finding solutions, especially in today’s toxic divided left vs. right government is categorically impossible. As the Pandora's Box tag indicates, our country is completely raging out of control while “for and by the people” it was allegedly formed under has basically become just another marketing slogan to sustain the illusion that they really are an involved part of the broken system.

Did you know that every single president from George Washington (Freemason) onward was a member of at least one of these illuminati matrix secret Zionist front organizations: Freemason, CFR, Trilateral Commission, Bildebergers, Bohemian Grove and Skull & Bones... hmmm, nothing to see here, run along now children, go play in the sand. Whether our sELECTED officials have known it or not, they were all in a grand plot being coordinated by secret behind the scenes rulers who founded and operated these organizations. Another interesting tid bit is the little known fact that George Washington and his Continental Army was bankrolled in a large part by Zionist Jew named Hayim Solomon... This can only make one wonder how long ago and how deeply entrenched was the Zionist Jew influence in American affairs and policies...

The George Washington Masonic Memorial

The George Washington Masonic Memorial was built in the 1920s by the more than two million American Freemasons who wished to:

"express in durability and beauty the undying esteem of the Freemasons of the United States for him in whose memory it shall stand throughout the coming years."

This magnificent structure is privately funded through the grateful contributions of Freemasons and others, yet remains open to the public, free of charge, seven days a week.

The George Washington Masonic Memorial is more than a colossal memorial and museum. It is a tourist attraction and destination; research center and library; community center; performing arts center and concert hall; banquet and celebration site; and meeting site for local and countless visiting Masonic lodges and organizations. However, first and foremost, it is a memorial to honor and perpetuate the memory, character and virtues of the man who best exemplifies what Freemasons are and ought to be, Brother George Washington.

America's first president, Freemason George Washington sent a letter to G.W.Snyder in which he stated:

"It is not my intention to doubt that the doctrine of the Illuminati and the principles of Jacobinism had not spread to the United States. On the contrary, no one is more satisfied of this fact than I am. The idea meant to convey was that I did believe the Lodges of Freemasonry in this county had, as societies, endeavored to propagate the diabolical tenets."

MASONIC PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES

George Washington, 1st President, 1789 - 1797, Commanding General during American Revolution, made a Mason August 4, 1753, in Fredericksburg Lodge (now No. 4), A. F. & A. M., Fredericksburg, Virginia.

James Monroe, 5th President, 1817 - 1825, made a Mason November 9, 1775, in Williamsburg Lodge (now No. 6), A.F. & A.M., Williamsburg, Virginia.

Andrew Jackson, 7th President, 1829 - 1837 Harmony Lodge No. 1, Nashville, Tennessee, an Honorary Member of Federal Lodge No. 1, F. & A.M., Washington, D.C., and Jackson Lodge No. 1, F. & A.M., Tallahassee, Florida. In 1822 and 1823 he served as the Grand Master of Masons in Tennessee.

James Knox Polk, 11th President, 1845 - 1849, made a Mason September 4, 1820, in Columbia Lodge No. 31, F. & A.M., Columbia, Tennessee.

James Buchanan, 15th President, 1857 - 1861, made a Mason January 24, 1817, in Lodge No. 43 (it has no name), F. & A.M., Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Andrew Johnson, 17th President, 1865 - 1869, made a Mason during May, 1851, in Greenville Lodge No. 119 (now No. 3), F. & A.M., Greenville, Tennessee.

James Abram Garfield, 20th President. 1881, made a Mason November 22, 1864, in Columbus Lodge No. 30 F. & A.M., Columbus, Ohio.

William McKinley, 25th President, 1897 - 1901, made a Mason May 3, 1865, in Hiram Lodge No. 21, A.F. & A.M., Winchester, Virginia.

Theodore Roosevelt, 26th President, 1901 - 1909, made a Mason April 24, 1901, in Matinecock Lodge No. 806, F. & A.M., Oyster Bay, New York.

William Howard Taft, 27th President, 1909 - 1913 - Chief Justice Supreme Court 1921 - 1930, made a "Mason at Sight" in an "Occasional Lodge" called for that purpose on February 18, 1909, in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, Cincinnati, Ohio, by Charles S. Hoskinson, Grand Master of Masons in Ohio.

Warren Gamaliel Harding, 29th President, 1921 - 1923, made a Mason August 27, 1920, in Marion Lodge No. 70, F. & A.M., Marion, Ohio.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, 32nd President, 1933 - 1945, made a Mason November 28, 1911, in Holland Lodge No. 8, F. & A.M., New York, New York, the same Lodge in which George Washington, the Nation's first President, held Honorary membership.

Harry S. Truman, 33rd President, 1945 - 1951, made a Mason March 18, 1909, in Belton Lodge No. 450, A.F. & A.M., Belton, Missouri. He served as the Grand Master of Masons of Missouri in 1940.

Initiated: February 9, 1909, Belton Lodge No. 450, Belton, Missouri.

In 1911, several Members of Belton Lodge separated to establish Grandview Lodge No. 618, Grandview, Missouri, and Brother Truman served as its first Worshipful Master. At the Annual Session of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, September 24-25, 1940, Brother Truman was elected (by a landslide) the ninety-seventh Grand Master of Masons of Missouri, and served until October 1, 1941. Brother and President Truman was made a Sovereign Grand Inspector General, 33°, and Honorary Member, Supreme Council on October 19, 1945 at the Supreme Council A.A.S.R. Southern Jurisdiction Headquarters in Washington D.C., upon which occasion he served as Exemplar (Representative) for his Class. He was also elected an Honorary Grand Master of the International Supreme Council, Order of DeMolay. On May 18, 1959, Brother and Former President Truman was presented with a fifty-year award, the only U.S. President to reach that golden anniversary in Freemasonry.

Gerald R. Ford, Jr. 38th President, 1974 - 1977. He was raised to the Sublime degree of Master Mason on May 18, 1951 in Columbia Lodge No. 3, F. & A.M., of Washington, D.C., as a courtesy for Malta Lodge No. 465, F. & A.M. of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Lyndon Baines Johnson 1908-1973. 36th President, 1963 - 1969. Entered Apprentice degree Johnson City Lodge No. 561, Johnson City, Texas October 30, 1937. Did not advance.

Of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, the following were known to be members of a Masonic lodge:

Benjamin Franklin - 1 of 13 Masonic signers of Constitution of the U.S. member of St. John's Lodge, Tun Tavern, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Past Provincial Grand Master of Pennsylvania Elbridge Gerry, member of Philanthropic Lodge, Marblehead, Massachusetts.

John Hancock, made a Master Mason, at the age of 23, in 1760, in Merchants Lodge No. 1, Quebec City, the first civilian Lodge established in Canada after the Conquest. In 1763, he went to Boston, Massachusetts, where he affiliated with St. Andrew's Lodge.

William Hooper, member of Hanover Lodge, Masonborough, North Carolina.

Richard Stockton, charter member, and first Master of St. John's Lodge, Princeton, New Jersey.

Matthew Thornton, made a Mason in a Lodge attached to a British Regiment of Foot during the Siege of Louisburg, Canada, in 1745, serving in a New Hampshire Colonial Regiment as a surgeon. Baron Von Steuben, while at Valley Forge, is said to have conferred the higher Degrees on him and to have been the only Signer who attained the 32nd Degree of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

George Walton, member of Solomons Lodge No. 1, Savannah, Georgia.

William Whipple, member of St. Johns Lodge No. 1, Portsmouth, New Jersey.

The following named Signers have been referred to as members of the Fraternity by various Masonic writers, and in Masonic publications, but their Lodge affiliation is not known:

Roger Sherman, claimed to have been made a Mason prior to the American Revolution. A Masonic Apron said to be worn by him is in the collection at Yale University.

Josiah Bartlett, one so named is listed as a charter member of King Solomon's Lodge, Charlestown, Massachusetts. Descendants, however, say he was not a member of the Craft. There is doubt that this Bartlett is the signer, and records of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts do not show his Lodge affiliation.

Philip Livingston, often referred to as a Mason, but this is open to debate. Records of the Grand Lodge of New York do not disclose his name. Several members, named Livingston, are noted in the records of Holland Lodge No. 8, New York City, New York.

Joseph Hewes. Records of Unanimity Lodge No. 7, Edenton, North Carolina, show his name as a visitor on St. John's Day, December, 1776.

Robert Treat Paine, member of a Massachusetts Lodge. The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts records do not show his affiliation. He was said to be present at the celebration of St. John's Day, Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, in June, 1759.

Thomas McKean, noted as a frequent visitor to Perseverance Lodge No. 21, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. The McKean genealogy has stated he was a Mason, although his name is not found on the records of the Grand Lodge of Delaware, which was not organized until the close of the American Revolution. A brother, Samuel McKean, was a member of the Fraternity.

John Penn, known to have attended Lodges in North Carolina, but his Masonic affiliation is not known.

Lyman Hall, claimed to have been a member of Solomons Lodge No. 1, Savannah, Georgia.

William Ellery, claimed as a member of a Lodge in Boston, Massachusetts.

Thomas Nelson, Jr., claimed to have visited Lodge No. 9, Yorktown, Virginia, after the Siege of that place was lifted in the Revolutionary War, accompanied by Lafayette and Washington.

Absence of definite proof of the Masonic affiliation of the Signers named in the foregoing paragraphs, precludes the possibility of knowing. This is also the case with Thomas Jefferson; John Adams; Benjamin Rush, Robert Morris; John Witherspoon; George Wythe; Francis Lightfoot Lee; Richard Henry Lee, and others. Caesar Rodney, of Delaware fame, had a son Caesar Augustus Rodney - a member of the Craft. George Read, another Signer from Delaware, had a son - George M. Read - who was Grand Master of Pennsylvania. Samuel Huntington had a son who was Grand Master of Ohio.

As I have been repeating over and over again throughout this Report, almost everyone is absolutely clueless to the fact that they are ENSLAVED sheeple. The bonds used in your enslavement are many. Yet most of you walk the earth without literal chains clamped around your limbs, as per the most advanced form of enslavement requirement of the Prison Industrial Matrix. You have all been enslaved deep within your hearts and minds. You have all been corralled into a box, confined to given parameters and framework of thinking from the programming that began since your childhood. You have all been victims of mass conditioning and indoctrination, group think. You are all skillfully maneuvered as a herd of sheep by your ruling masters. With that said and done, I come forth to identify, reveal, and expose the various forms of slavery you are under. In this chapter of the Matrix Report we focus on your ruling masters that consist of your "government" ruling body, aka: United States of America Inc., its appointed representatives and it's so called "elected" leaders.

If you have ever noticed, one of the defacto key perquisites of anyone pursuing a career in "public service" (lol, actually more akin to "master service"), is obtaining a LAW DEGREE. Why is that so? There is a saying that goes "the devil is in the details." You see, our nation is a corporation that was organized, established, managed and governed by LAWS. Your so called rights and lack of thereof are all detailed in ridiculously complex legal speak.

Our country is a CORPORATION as is every single State, city and town in this country, this is NOT a secret, EVERY single state, city and town ever established in this country is a full fledged CORPORATION and have documented INCORPORATION papers you can easily look up. For example:

The Incorporation of Phoenix Arizona:

By 1881, Phoenix had outgrown its original townsite-commissioner form of government. The 11th Territorial

Legislature passed "The Phoenix Charter Bill", incorporating Phoenix and providing for a mayor-council government. The bill was signed by Governor John C. Fremont on February 25, 1881. Phoenix was incorporated with a population of approximately 2,500, and on May 3, 1881, Phoenix held its first city election. Judge John T. Alsap defeated James D. Monihon, 127 to 107, to become the city's first mayor.^[10] In early 1888, the city offices were moved into the new City Hall, at Washington and Central (later the site of the city bus terminal, until Central Station was built in the 1990s). This building also provided temporary offices for the territorial government when it moved to Phoenix by the 15th Territorial Legislature in 1889. – source Wikipedia

The U.S. Inc was founded and is operated under Roman Civil Law, Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) and Admiralty/Maritime Law. The UCC more often than not, trumps and supersedes Civil Law, that's why you hear of never-ending stories of citizens getting shafted by government and non government institutions of all kinds including corporations and organizations. Is it any wonder when the "little guy" is faced with any legal assault by a big corporation who sends out their ATTACK DOG LAWYERS, the little guy RARELY ever, ever wins. That my friend is a crystallized exemplar of Uniform Commercial Code totally drastically superseding Common Law (besides the obvious fact that the little guy rarely has the vast financial resources of a big corporation backing him up).

This subject can be covered with yet another book, let me just summarize the fact, yet another one of the many forms of enslaving the "free" public has been the LAW. In a nut shell, our country's constitution has been thrown out the window, the REPUBLIC ("to which it stands") was shoved aside, trampled on and replaced by DEMOCRACY (based on pure greed of corporate capitalism). The whole founding premise of "we the people, of the people, by the people" was intended for THE PEOPLE to be SOVEREIGN, but through masterful manipulation of the LAWS "we the people" LOST our sovereign rights, flipped upside down and have since been ruled "by the nation for the nation of the corporate entities of America".

"Fascism should more appropriately be called Corporatism, because it is the merger of corporate and state power" - Benito Mussolini, infamous WW2 dictator

The disturbing trend that keeps alarmingly escalating are the trampling of the provisions of the Constitution, the only true limits on the powers of the government, are now routinely and largely ignored or reinterpreted to suit the interests of the government or the special interests of their masters, as the federal goliath perpetually increases in its own unrestrained powers. Our sovereign rights have long ago been stolen, we have since been allocated just mere spectator status regulated to participation in the land of largely make believe elections.

This report is all about exposing the truth, destroying myths and fairy tales. Thus, in order to actually comprehend the true deep core being of this entity we call our country one must understand its true origins and the true context of its being. A most compelling and earth moving fact is that the USA is a corporation owned by not England – but by "The Crown" (and who owns the Crown? "Royal bloodline" of ultimately who are the "chosen ones"). The original founding fathers (the history gatekeepers would prefer you not know this) of the United States were REALLY part of the Virginia Company. Wikipedia states: The Virginia Company refers collectively to a pair of JOINT STOCK companies (i.e., corporations) chartered by King James I in 1606 with the purposes of establishing settlements on the east coast of North America. The two companies, called the "Virginia Company of London" (London Company) and the "Virginia Co. of Plymouth" (Plymouth Company) operated with identical charters but with differing territories.

Those historical 13 colonies you heard so much about... well, FACT: they were ALL OWNED AND OPERATED by the Virginia Company (a corporation)... chartered by the Crown of England. Sometime after they had reached 13 colonies and were rapidly expanding, the leaders made a strategic decision to cut out the greedy "middle man" (England) and run the Virginia Company as their own independent spin off or monopoly. Thus grew the derivative requirement for giving their CORPORATION a name change. The pivotal point you must truly understand is the fact that the Virginia Corporation NEVER ceased its operations, nowhere in history was there ever any recorded dissolution of the Virginia Corporation... for it only symbolically broke from England and changed its name. Behold the TRUE origin and nature of: "The United States of America." INC. Sure they "separated" from England and all that, but the players and the game remained unchanged. Oh, those Pilgrims the history books focus and glamorize as "the first settlers", well they came here 14 years AFTER the Virginia Company was formed. The Virginia Corporation already owned all the land and the Pilgrims had to get permission to become legal tenants of the Virginia Company landlords. History is finally becoming stunningly interesting!!!

"The U.S. will bring in the New World Order and its seat will be England." - Governor Cornwallis (over 200 years ago)

As absurd as that may sound to some, all the historical records don't lie. What other better supporting data than the current modern day records as proof positive: Walk into the records hall of ANY state, city, town in America, search for the founding charters and you will be amazed to find out that EVERY SINGLE state, city, town is in fact a CORPORATION. This is normal ordinary fact, just go to your local City Hall or record office and check to see if your local town, city is indeed a corporation. They are all SUBSIDIARIES of the parent Corporation: The UNITED STATES OF AMERICA Inc.

Thousands upon thousands cities and towns are often routinely bought and sold among the most prominent elite of society, for they are just another for profit enterprises. For example, such notable ones as famous Pebble Beach and the Aspen ski resort towns that were at one point owned by media baron Zionist Jew Marvin Davis.

Did you know that Washington DC is its own sovereign state corporation? This sovereign state literally runs this sovereign nation... Actually each state of the Union is also a legal corporation as are all the towns and cities in this country. Oh the complexities of this world we live in, and the mighty web they weave. There exists only two other sovereign states besides Washington DC operating within a host country: the City of London and the Vatican City. This brings up a plethora of implications, issues, dynamics, factors, conflicts and so forth. I cannot delve deeper into in these matters with this report draft due to space constraints. Others are much more qualified and have done intensive research into this matter, you owe it to yourself to look into this matter further.

U.S. Code Collection

- (13) "Security agreement" means an agreement that creates or provides for a lien.
- (14) "State" means any of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas, or any territory or possession of the United States.
- (15) "United States" means—
- (A) a Federal corporation;
 - (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
 - (C) an instrumentality of the United States.
- (16) "United States marshal" means a United States marshal, a deputy marshal, or an official of the United States Marshals Service designated under section 564.

As I constantly urge, please research and at least Google every single thing I reveal here in this report for more detailed info, you must search hard and wide, but comb deep enough and you will find hidden truths. One very interesting work you must get your hands on is a rare book called "Pandora's Box" by Alex Christopher, this is a must read, though I cannot vouch for 100% validity of the content, but I believe that Mr. Christopher's in depth research speaks for itself. For another perspective about our national corporation please refer to Addendum section for: THE UNITED STATES Inc., a reprint of a real eye opening article expounding upon this topic. THE CROWN TEMPLE OF BABYLON

The Crown Temple - Secret Society of the Third Way Order

by Rule of Mystery Babylon, The "Templars" of the Crown

The governmental and judicial systems within the United States of America, at both federal and local state levels, are owned by the "Crown," which is a private foreign power. Before jumping to conclusions about the Queen of England or the Royal Families of Britain owning the U.S.A., this is a different "Crown" and is fully exposed and explained below. We are specifically referencing the established Templar Church, known for centuries by the world as the "Crown." From this point on, we will also refer to the Crown as the Crown Temple or Crown Templar, all three being synonymous.

First, a little historical background. The Temple Church was built by the Knights Templar in two parts: the Round and the Chancel. The Round Church was consecrated in 1185 and modeled after the circular Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. The Chancel was built in 1240. The Temple Church serves both the Inner and Middle Temples (see below) and is located between Fleet Street and Victoria Embankment at the Thames River. Its grounds also house the Crown Offices at Crown Office Row. This Temple "Church" is outside any Canonical jurisdiction. The Master of the Temple is appointed and takes his place by sealed (non-public) patent, without induction or institution.

All Licensed Bar Attorneys - Attorners (see definitions below) in the U.S. owe their allegiance and give their solemn oath in pledge to the Crown Temple, realizing this or not. This is simply due to the fact that all Bar Associations throughout the world are signatories and franchises to the international Bar Association located at the Inns of Court at Crown Temple, which are physically located at Chancery Lane behind Fleet Street in London. Although they vehemently deny it, all Bar Associations in the U.S., such as the American Bar Association, the Florida Bar, or California Bar Association, are franchises to the Crown.

The Inns of Court (see below, The Four Inns of Court) to the Crown Temple use the Banking and Judicial system of the City of London - a sovereign and independent territory which is not a part of Great Britain (just as Washington City, as DC was called in the 1800's, is not a part of the north American states, nor is it a state) to defraud, coerce, and manipulate the American people. These Fleet Street bankers and lawyers are committing crimes in America under the guise and color of law (see definitions for legal and lawful below). They are known collectively as the "Crown." Their lawyers are actually Templar Bar Attornies, not lawyers.

The present Queen of England is not the "Crown," as we have all been led to believe. Rather, it is the Bankers and Attornies (Attorneys) who are the actual Crown or Crown Temple. The Monarch aristocrats of England have not been ruling sovereigns since the reign of King John, circa 1215. All royal sovereignty of the old British Crown since that time has passed to the Crown Temple in Chancery.

The U.S.A. is not the free and sovereign nation that our federal government tells us it is. If this were true, we would not be dictated to by the Crown Temple through its bankers and attornies. The U.S.A. is controlled and manipulated by this private foreign power and our unlawful Federal U.S. Government is their pawn broker. The bankers and Bar Attornies in the U.S.A. are a franchise in oath and allegiance to the Crown at Chancery - the Crown Temple Church and its Chancel located at Chancery Lane - a manipulative body of elite bankers and attorners from the independent City of London who violate the law in America by imposing fraudulent "legal" - but totally unlawful - contracts on the American people. The banks Rule the Temple Church and the Attorners carry out their Orders by controlling their victim's judiciary.

Since the first Chancel of the Temple Church was built by the Knights Templar, this is not a new ruling system by any means. The Chancel, or Chancery, of the Crown Inner Temple Court was where King John was, in January 1215, when the English barons demanded that he confirm the rights enshrined in the Magna Carta. This City of London Temple was the headquarters of the Templar Knights in Great Britain where Order and Rule were first made, which became known as Code. Remember all these terms, such as Crown, Temple, Templar, Knight, Chancel, Chancery, Court, Code, Order and Rule as we tie together their origins with the present American Temple Bar system of thievery by equity (chancery) contracts.

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness." ~ Matthew 23:27

By what authority has the "Crown" usurped the natural sovereignty of the American people? Is it acceptable that the U.S. Supreme Court decides constitutional issues in the U.S.A? How can it be considered as being "constitutional", when this same Supreme Court is appointed by (not elected) and paid by the Federal U.S. Government? As you will soon see, the land called North America belongs to the Crown Temple.

The legal system (judiciary) of the U.S. is controlled by the Crown Temple from the independent and sovereign "City of London". The private Federal Reserve System, which issues fiat U.S. Federal Reserve Notes, is financially owned and controlled by the Crown from Switzerland, the home and legal origin for the charter of the United Nations, International Monetary Fund, World Trade Organization and most importantly the Bank of International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland (BIS), which controls ALL central banks of the G7 nations. Those who control the gold literally rule this world!

Definitions You Never Knew:

ATTORN [e-'tern] Anglo-French aturner to transfer (allegiance of a tenant to another lord), from Old French atorner to turn (to), arrange, from a- to + torner to turn: to agree to be the tenant of a new landlord or owner of the same property. Merriam-Webster's Dictionary of Law ©1996.

ATTORN, v.i. [L. ad and torno.] In the feudal law, to turn, or transfer homage and service from one lord to another. This is the act of feudatories, vassals or tenants, upon the alienation of the estate.-Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

ESQUIRE, n [L. scutum, a shield; Gr. a hide, of which shields were anciently made.], a shield-bearer or armor-bearer, scutifer; an attendant on a knight. Hence in modern times, a title of dignity next in degree below a knight. In England, this title is given to the younger sons of noblemen, to officers of the king's courts and of the household, to counselors at law, justices of the peace, while in commission, sheriffs, and other gentlemen. In the United States, the title is given to public officers of all degrees, from governors down to justices and attorneys.-Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

RULE, n. [L. regula, from rego, to govern, that is, to stretch, strain or make straight.] 1. Government; sway; empire; control; supreme command or authority. 6. In monasteries, corporations or societies, a law or regulation to be observed by the society and its particular members. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary

RULE n. 1 [C] a statement about what must or should be done, (syn.) a regulation. REGULATION n. 1 [C] a rule, statement about what can be done and what cannot. 2 [U] the general condition of controlling any part of human life. -Newbury House Dictionary ©1999.

CODE n. 1 [C;U] a way of hiding the true meaning of communications from all except those people who have the keys to understand it. 2 [C] a written set of rules of behavior. 3 [C] a formal group of principles or laws. -v. coded, coding, codes to put into code, (syn.) to encode.ENCODE v. 1 to change written material into secret symbols. -Newbury House Dictionary ©1999.

CURTAIN n. [OE. cortin, curtin, fr. OF. cortine, cortine, F. courtine, LL. cortina, also, small court, small inclosure surrounded by walls, from cortis court. See Court.] 4 A flag; an ensign; -- in contempt. [Obs.] Shak. Behind the curtain, in concealment; in secret. -1913 Webster's Revised Unabridged Dictionary.

COURT, n. 3. A palace; the place of residence of a king or sovereign prince. 5. Persons who compose the retinue or council of a king or emperor. 9. The tabernacle had one court; the temple, three. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary. COURT n. 2 the place where a king or queen lives or meets others. -The Newbury House Dictionary ©1999.

TEMPLAR, n. [from the Temple, a house near the Thames, which originally belonged to the knights Templars. The latter took their denomination from an apartment of the palace of Baldwin II in Jerusalem, near the temple.] 1. A student of the law. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

TEMPLE, n. [L. templum.] 1. A public edifice erected in honor of some deity. Among pagans, a building erected to some pretended deity, and in which the people assembled to worship. Originally, temples were open places, as the Stonehenge in England. 4. In England, the Temples are two inns of court, thus called because anciently the dwellings of the knights Templars. They are called the Inner and the Middle Temple. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

CAPITOL, n. 1. The temple of Jupiter in Rome, and a fort or castle, on the Mons Capitolinus. In this, the Senate of Rome anciently assembled; and on the same place, is still the city hall or town-house, where the conservators of the Romans hold their meetings. The same name was given to the principal temples of the Romans in their colonies.

INN, n. [Hebrew, To dwell or to pitch a tent.] 2. In England, a college of municipal or common law professors and students; formerly, the town-house of a nobleman, bishop or other distinguished personage, in which he resided when he attended the court. Inns of court, colleges in which students of law reside and are instructed. The principal are the Inner Temple, the Middle Temple, Lincoln's Inn, and Gray's Inn. Inns of chancery, colleges in which young students formerly began their law studies. These are now occupied chiefly by attorneys, solicitors, etc. INNER, a. [from in.] Interior; farther inward than something else, as an inner chamber; the inner court of a temple or palace. - Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

CROWN, n. 4. Imperial or regal power or dominion; sovereignty. There is a power behind the crown greater than the crown itself. Junius. 19. A coin stamped with the image of a crown; hence, a denomination of money; as, the English crown. -- Crown land, land belonging to the crown, that is, to the sovereign. -- Crown law, the law which governs criminal prosecutions. -- Crown lawyer, one employed by the crown, as in criminal cases. v.t. 1. To cover, decorate, or invest with a crown; hence, to invest with royal dignity and power. -1913 Webster's Revised Unabridged Dictionary.

COLONY, n. 1. A company [i.e. legal corporation] or body of people transplanted from their mother country to a remote province or country to cultivate and inhabit it, and remaining subject to the jurisdiction of the parent state; as the British colonies in America or the Indies; the Spanish colonies in South America. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

STATE, n. [L., to stand, to be fixed.] 1. Condition; the circumstances of a being or thing at any given time. These circumstances may be internal, constitutional or peculiar to the being, or they may have relation to other beings. 4. Estate; possession. [See Estate.] -Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

ESTATE, n. [L. status, from sto, to stand. The roots stb, std and stg, have nearly the same signification, to set, to fix. It is probable that the L. sto is contracted from stad, as it forms steti.] 1. In a general sense, fixedness; a fixed condition; 5. Fortune; possessions; property in general. 6. The general business or interest of government; hence, a political body; a commonwealth; a republic. But in this sense, we now use State. ESTATE, v.t. To settle as a fortune. 1. To establish. -Webster's 1828 Dictionary.

PATENT, a. [L. patens, from pateo, to open.] 3. Appropriated by letters patent. 4. Apparent; conspicuous. PATENT, n. A writing given by the proper authority and duly authenticated, granting a privilege to some person or persons. By patent, or letters patent, that is, open letters, the king of Great Britain grants lands, honors and franchises. PATENT, v.t. To grant by patent. 1. To secure the exclusive right of a thing to a person.

LAWFUL. In accordance with the law of the land; according to the law; permitted, sanctioned, or justified by law. "Lawful" properly implies a thing conformable to or enjoined by law; "Legal", a thing in the form or after the manner of law or binding by law. A writ or warrant issuing from any court, under color of law, is a "legal" process however defective. A Dictionary of Law 1893.

LEGAL. Latin legalis. Pertaining to the understanding, the exposition, the administration, the science and the practice of law: as, the legal profession, legal advice; legal blanks, newspaper. Implied or imputed in law. Opposed to actual. "Legal" looks more to the letter, and "Lawful" to the spirit, of the law. "Legal" is more appropriate for conformity to positive rules of law; "Lawful" for accord with ethical principle. "Legal" imports rather that the forms of law are observed, that the proceeding is correct in method, that rules prescribed have been obeyed;

"Lawful" that the right is actful in substance, that moral quality is secured. "Legal" is the antithesis of "equitable", and the equivalent of "constructive". - 2 Abbott's Law Dict. 24; A Dictionary of Law (1893).

STATUS IN QUO, STATUS QUO. [L., state in which.] The state in which anything is already. The phrase is also used retrospectively, as when, on a treaty of peace, matters return to the status quo ante bellum, or are left in statu quo ante bellum, i.e., the state (or, in the state) before the war. -1913 Webster's Revised Unabridged Dictionary

All Bar Association Licensed Attorneys must keep the terms of their oath to the Crown Temple in order to be accepted or "called to Bar" (hence having to pass the Bar Exams prior to receiving their license to practice law) at any of the King's Inns. Their oath, pledge, and terms of allegiance are made to the Crown Temple.

Neither the American people nor the Queen of Britain own America. The Crown Temple owns America through the deception of those who have sworn their allegiance by oath to the Middle Templar Bar. The Crown Bankers and their Middle Templar Attornies Rule America through unlawful contracts, unlawful taxes, and contract documents of false equity through debt deceit, all strictly enforced by their completely unlawful, but "legal", Orders, Rules and Codes of the Crown Temple Courts, our so-called "judiciary" in America. This is because the Crown Temple holds the land titles and estate deeds to all of North America.

The biggest lie is what the Crown and its agents refer to as "the rule of law". In reality, it is not about law at all, but solely about the Crown Rule of all nations. For example, just read what President Bush stated on November 13, 2001, regarding the "rule of law:"

"Our countries are embarked on a new relationship for the 21st century, founded on a commitment to the values of democracy, the free market, and the rule of law." - Joint Statement by President George W. Bush and President Vladimir V. Putin on 11/13/01, spoken from the White House, Washington D.C.

We must also address some of the key illusions that the ruling elite pull off on the unsuspecting well meaning useful idiot sheeple citizens. Our founding fathers created America as a REPUBLIC. This whole democracy thing took on a life of its own later on down the road. Our founding fathers set up a: REPUBLIC.... NOT a DEMOCRACY!!! They all unanimously loathed the entire concept of "democracy." Somehow, some way, our entire founding principles became corrupted and the direction was strategically maneuvered into the focus and direction of a DEMOCRACY.

Again, I will reiterate: OUR COUNTRY WAS FOUNDED AS A "REPUBLIC" NOT A "DEMOCRACY." As in: "...to the republic for which it stands, one nation under god, indivisible with liberty for all." A government "for the people by the people." Public service traditionally meant the government serving the people, today it seems to mean the public serving the government. Serve.gov, rolled out by the Obama administration as part of the "United We Serve" initiative, has as its mission directing everyone into public service, either as an ad hoc community organizer or as a volunteer "on a path to sustained service". The goal being to get the public to do all the things that even the governments out of control spending budget can't afford to pay anyone to do.

Each new elected lead promises change and yet once in office continues where ever his predecessor left off at. Building upon the foundations that have been laid, the construction project continues, the ongoing erection of a colossal unwieldy government monstrosity who demands ever more taxes, ever more resources to operate, its ravenous needs are insatiable.

Behind all the cheerful hype and propaganda, hides a fundamental shift from a definition of public service that requires politicians to serve the public, to one that requires the public to serve the politicians. The shift can best be summed up as, who is serving whom? As we are being led down the road to serving our country and politicians, the politicians serve their true masters... the ruling elite.

There is the official, public statement of purpose and then there is the actual, behind-the-scenes reality of how such organizations work apart from public view.

Interesting note dept:

The official symbol of America is the Statue of Liberty. Our “goddess of liberty.” This is nice and dandy. But this is the view of the uninitiated, there is much more than meets the eye...

The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was presented in 1884 as a gift from the French Grand Orient Temple Masons to the Masons of America in celebration of the centenary of the first Masonic Republic. She is holding the Masonic "Torch of Enlightenment". Also referred to back in the 1700's by the Illuminati Masons as the "Flaming Torch of Reason". The Torch represents the "Sun" in the sky.

The Statue of Liberty's official title is, "Liberty Enlightening the World". The cornerstone of the statue records how it was laid in a Masonic ceremony (see plaque photo above).

THE TORCH SYMBOL

Illuminati means to "bare light" one way to symbolize this is by carrying a torch. Bestselling author, Robert Bauval: "The cornerstone for the Statue of Liberty was placed in a solemn ceremony in 1884 organized by the Masonic lodges of New York.

The Statue of Liberty, which was designed by the French sculptor Bartholdi and actually built by the French Engineer, Gustave Eiffel (both well-known Freemasons), was not originally a ‘Statue of Liberty’ at all, but first planned by Bartholdi for the opening of the Suez Canal in Egypt in 1867.

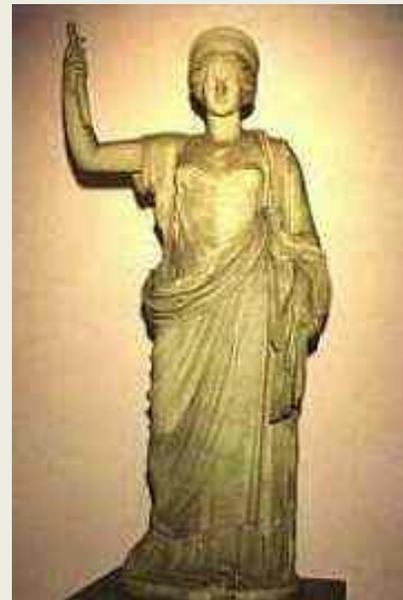

Bartholdi, like many French Freemasons of his time, was deeply steeped in ‘Egyptian’ rituals, and it has often been said that he conceived the original statue as an effigy of the goddess Isis, and only later converted it to a ‘Statue of Liberty’ for New York harbor when it was rejected for the Suez Canal." (worshipping and rituals centered around ancient Egyptian gods is a central tenant of inner Freemasonry and illuminatism).

Thus, the TRUE meaning of our Statue of Liberty arises: it is in all actuality none other than MASSIVE PAGAN STAUTE OF THE GODDESS ISIS...

The goddess Isis is known by many names, including Juno. Above: Roman Goddess Juno 735 B.C. (wife of Zeus) Note the remarkable resemblance to our “Statue of Liberty.”

Isis was a goddess in Ancient Egyptian religious beliefs, an Egyptian goddess of the underworld, whose worship spread throughout the Greco-Roman world. She was worshiped as the ideal mother, wife, patron of nature and magic. She was the friend of slaves, sinners, artisans, the downtrodden, as well as listening to the prayers of the wealthy, maidens, aristocrats and rulers.^[1] Isis is the Goddess of motherhood, magic and fertility. Isis is also known as the goddess of simplicity, protector of the dead and goddess of children from whom all beginnings arose, and was the Lady of magic and natural events. In later myths, Ancient Egyptians believed that the Nile River flooded every year because of her tears of sorrow for her dead husband, Osiris. This occurrence of his death and rebirth was relived each year through rituals. The worship of Isis eventually spread throughout the Greco-Roman world, continuing until the suppression of paganism in the Christian era.^[1]

This statue is one of the largest statues ever made The statue represents a proud Isis, standing on a huge pedestal, with her right arm extended, holding high a flaming torch. A turreted crown with huge spikes symbolizing the rays of the sun rests on her head. At her feet is a broken shackle symbolizing the overthrow of "tyranny." The statue stands 151 feet in height, weighs about 100 tons, and stands on a Babylonia style tower which is 154 feet high.

In her poem "The New Colossus," Emma Lazarus calls the "Statue of Liberty" the "Mother of Exiles." But the truth is, she is the "Mother of harlots and abominations of the earth" (Rev.17:5). The liberty she promises is slavery to this world's system...

Our Republic has long ago been morphed into a democratic "us vs. them", i.e., left wing vs. right wing rivalry, essentially creating a NATION DIVIDED. How does the quote go? United we stand, divided we fall? Republican vs. Democrat, bottom line, after all is said and done, they both server the same elite masters! Democrats and Republicans are just like two mafia crime families that server the same masters, their "god fathers", the Zionist/Mason elite. Republicans and Democrats are just two sides of the SAME COIN.

There are several ways to best describe how this countries' political apparatus operates: Once you fully grasp and swallowed the hard FACT that both the republicans and democrats bow and serve the same ruling master oligarchs and the corporate industrial complex for which they stand, then, and only then can you begin to truly, ever so truly begin to see the cold hard realities and see right through the intricate well contrived façade.

Most citizens have no idea that Congress members could retire with the same pay after only one term, They all retire will full pay for life along with pensions and a myriad of other benefits, they don't pay into Social Security, that they specifically exempted themselves from many of the laws they have passed (such as being exempt from any fear of prosecution for sexual harassment) while ordinary citizens must live under those laws. The latest is to exempt themselves from the Healthcare Reform that is being considered...in all of its forms. Who said we do not have an elite that is above the law? Oh by the way... Social Security is nothing more than the world's largest most elaborate PONZI SCHEME ever perpetrated on mankind.

Everyone in Washington plays a role in this grand political Hollywoodish production. They are all ACTORS in the longest running off Broadway show of this nation. The president is the leading man and every so often they get together to change the CAST of characters of the entire production so as to maintain the illusion of change. But just like all Hollywood productions, the cast has its directors and producers they must obey. The powerful directors and producers who own them are never seen; they run the show from behind the curtains. The core ACTORS actually stay in the production for life they just get shuffled around from studio to studio, their production studios lots are located in the house, senate, pentagon, black labs, dungeons among other places. Where ever the actors go they are constantly hounded by corporate product placement specialists that go by the name of lobbyists, these people pour tons of product placement dollars all over the place just for a nod of approval from the cast. They hire the best SCRIPT writers in the business, each and every actor puts on their business suit costumes every day to make their performances believable as the ferociously attack the opposing teams exactly like they do in the wrestling shows. Just like in sports the fans eat it all up and live their lives around this stuff, many of them believing in the game show so deeply that they come to cheer their team on and viciously attack and yell at the opposing team. After the production and the cameras are not rolling the cast of both teams all hang out laugh, joke play golf together and attend each others partys. They employ the best propaganda outfits out there to help sell their show to the masses. Special effects teams generate the smoke and mirrors to make it all look believable. Here is a synopsis of the roles they play:

Team Democrats MISSION is to APPEASE THE WORKER SERVANT CLASS. This is THE CENTRAL MISSION of the Democrats. PERIOD. The Democratic party is there to give life to the ILLUSION that the poor and working class actually have REPRESENTAVES in government that actually CARE about them. The Democratic Party is probably one of the most successful bullshit charades to have been widely conducted on the gullible public for such a long time. Through the Democratic Party the ruling elite push their strategic liberal policies where they focus on and control the liberal left wing masses, lowering the tolerance barrier of immorality, etc. They enact SOCIALIST laws and policies to help develop the ruling elites master plans that reside in the leftwing branch of the spectrum. The Democratic Party's largest financial contributors are none other than the Zionists, wealthy liberals and of course the corporations.

Team Republicans MISSION is the alpha male political party. This is the central party of the RULING ELITE. They cater to the upper level managers of the establishment, the filthy RICH and the CORPORATIONS who are their number 1 base. The Republicans are the shameless sluts of corporate America. They focus on and control the right wing, bible carrying masses (this is nothing but a cover), and of course, they implement the rightwing spectrum of FASCIST laws and policies of the ruling elite's master plans. The hard core extremist neo-cons of the Republican Party consisting of mostly Zionists are the undisputed leaders. This party "of the, by, and for the wealthy fascists and their corporations" is where you will find most of the elite's direct support and backing. Also note how the democrats easily fold (most notable in the Bush administration where democrats rubberstamped and approved everything) and do the bidding of their republican comrades, rarely the other way around.

The republicans are the alpha male political party and will always reign supreme over their Democrat counterparts partly due to the fact that the real POWER base is behind the Republican Party, for they represent, cater to and champion the agendas the rich, powerful and the corporate worlds. Their supremacy is easily observable in how they all oppose every piece of legislation put forth by a Democratic Congress. It's certainly impressive (in a Third Reich sort of way) that Republicans are able to vote as a single bloc with no strays whatsoever. Meanwhile the Democrats are often found divided and bickering amongst one another, and often voting alongside the Republicans on some issues.

"Over the course of eight short years -- between 2000 and 2008 -- the Republicans methodically executed their plan to transform American society. They systematically transferred wealth from the middle class to the wealthiest two percent of Americans - slashing taxes for the wealthy. They eviscerated the rules that held Wall Street, Big Oil and private insurance companies accountable to the public. They allowed and encouraged the recklessness of the big Wall Street banks that ultimately collapsed the economy and cost eight million Americans their jobs. They ignored exploding health care costs, tried to privatize Social Security, gave the drug companies open season to gouge American consumers and presided over a decline in real incomes averaging $2,000 per family. They entangled America in an enormously costly, unnecessary war in Iraq, pursued a directionless policy that left Afghanistan to fester, and sullied America's good name throughout the world.

Their economic policy of cutting taxes for the wealthy and deregulating big Corporations failed to create jobs. In fact, over his eight year term, George Bush's administration created exactly zero net private sector jobs. They inherited a Federal budget with surpluses as far as the eye could see and rolled up more debt than all of the previous Presidents in the over 200 years of American history. And in the end they left the economy in collapse."

Both political parties are squarely of OLIGARCHIC make up. When the cameras are not rolling and in privacy, they are all “drinking buddies”, the party line that divides them is there to give life to the central illusion of opposing forces who exist in perpetual battle of left vs. right. Thus engulfing the public in a never ending fog of political suspense and drama. The dueling political system is ingenious, and has lasted so long due to the realism and easy participation threshold. It is natural human tendency to naturally stand up and root for THEIR team, who represents THEIR concerns and values. The psychology of the divided party system is firmly entrenched in Luciferian DIVIDE AND CONQUER stratagem. And is perpetually self energizing due to man’s natural tendency to chose a side and fight for his selfish wants and needs.

Agents such as Rush Limbaugh, Bill O’reilly, and Ann Coulter, etc. are basically provocateurs, whose job it is to stir up the crowds. The better they do their jobs the more DIVISIVE the chasm between the "left vs. right" becomes and the more radical and inflammatory the dialog becomes within the indoctrinated. Precisely the DIVIDED ANIMOSITY result the Luciferian hidden masters seek to instill in the public thereby keeping them perpetually engulfed in trivial debates and no win arguments that only lead to widen the bitterness, resentment and enmity between the two factions.

You know this country has been totally mentally subjugated when the statistics come in and show that FOX News is THE NUMBER ONE "news station" in this country. The right wing is the home of the neo-con sector, the Zionists main power base they are firmly ruling behind, the rightwing firmly stands for the super rich, big government and business, not to mention screw the working public and the poor. Yet they get this very same segment they repeatedly pummel and snub to constantly go against their own best interests and wildly support their Republican oppressors. Life is truly often stranger than fiction. Herein lays proof positive of the power of the media manipulation, priming, indoctrinating and programming of the public conscience.

“This truth is well known among our principal men now engaged in forming an imperialism of Capital [the banksters] to govern the world. By dividing the voters through the political party system, we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance. Thus by discreet action we can secure for ourselves what has been so well planned and so successfully accomplished.” - Sir Denison Miller

As long as the “hidden masters” can keep the right and left at each other’s throats no one will be able to tell that they are all the same corrupt people. The dynamics of the “us versus them” mentality, struggle and opposing ideologies that naturally comes to play within “the conflicting two party’s diversion” is both legendary and pure genius. It naturally snowballs as independent people come out of the woodwork to join the forces “their side” of the “war” and fight the other side tooth and nail. The ruling elite have been masterfully using and playing BOTH parties for decades on end to achieve unheard of advances no one could dream of otherwise. No guns, no bombs, no military invasion has been necessary to infiltrate and inflict the damage that the two party division has accomplished.

What is amazing is how people blindly stick to party rhetoric, oblivious to the most obvious. You got to hand it to the Republicans for getting hordes of ignorant people to turn on people working for their interests. The poor and economically disadvantaged, have nothing in common with the rich, corporate centered republicans, yet millions of them line up to vote against their own interests and to throw their support behind this group. THIS is a DIRECT testament to the power of propaganda, media manipulation and the cluelessness of the general public. One of the main premises they dispense is the preposterous notion that if you coddle the rich and their corporations and not tax or regulate them and let them use their money as they see fit for all things, someday their wealth will trickle down to you! LOL!!!

There is only one way to destroy the Luciferian divided party system that will remain battling “enemies” until the destruction of our country. The only solution is to obliterate the two party system and erect a NO PARTY SYSTEM. Where ordinary citizens chosen from the masses for their concern for their fellow man are carefully picked to serve in the publics’ best interests. Banning career politicians, lobbyists, big business, rich and the elite from the entire system.

Left Versus Right Is Meaningless -- It's Us Versus the Corporations. It is now an Individual vs. Corporate debate – and the Humans are losing.

Every generation or so, a major secular shift takes place that shakes up the existing paradigm. It happens in industry, finance, literature, sports, manufacturing, technology, entertainment, travel, communication, etc.

I would like to discuss the paradigm shift that is occurring in politics.

For a long time, American politics has been defined by a Left/Right dynamic. It was Liberals versus Conservatives on a variety of issues. Pro-Life versus Pro-Choice, Tax Cuts vs. More Spending, Pro-War vs. Peaceniks, Environmental Protections vs. Economic Growth, Pro-Union vs. Union-Free, Gay Marriage vs. Family Values, School Choice vs. Public Schools, Regulation vs. Free Markets.

The new dynamic, however, has moved past the old Left Right paradigm. We now live in an era defined by increasing Corporate influence and authority over the individual. These two “interest groups” – I can barely suppress snorting derisively over that phrase – have been on a headlong collision course for decades, which came to a head with the financial collapse and bailouts. Where there is massive concentrations of wealth and influence, there will be abuse of power. The Individual has been supplanted in the political process nearly entirely by corporate money, legislative influence, campaign contributions, even free speech rights.

This may not be a brilliant insight, but it is surely an overlooked one. It is now an Individual vs. Corporate debate – and the Humans are losing. excerpt from [Alternet article]

America’s False Consciousness

by Charles Sullivan / October 20th, 2010

An essay authored by Patrick Martin, and published at the World Socialist Web Site on October 13, 2010, revealed some interesting findings regarding the approval ratings of Democratic and Republican members of Congress. Martin’s piece was titled “Demagogy and Duplicity: The Democrats in the 2010 Elections.” He cites data from a Zogby International Poll of independent voters which found that “only 13% gave a favorable rating to congressional Democrats and only 5% to Congressional Republicans.” Considering that the U.S. is the most conservative developed nation on earth, these are astonishing revelations.

Poll after poll indicates that voters have lost faith in the Democratic and Republican Parties, whose respective approval ratings have fallen to historical lows. The Zogby findings indicate a repudiation of right-wing politics by those who are not wed to either of the major political parties.

No one associates liberalism with the Republicans; however, it is equally clear that the Democrats do not have a functioning left-wing either. The electoral choices are between right-wing candidates in the Democrat and Republican parties, despite the offerings of political parties and organizations operating outside of the mainstream. As a result, all of the contests are between pro-corporate candidates who occupy the extreme right of the political spectrum. The only message that reaches the public ear is that of the ruling class. Thus the continuity of results is assured.

The paradox is that while independent working class people have overwhelmingly rejected right-wing policies, the country nevertheless continues to lurch further to the right. This happens when voters mistake politicians like Obama for a liberal or a Socialist. Conservative and liberal working class people should be philosophically and ethically opposed to any political party that undermines their social and economic interests.

Almost inexplicably, conservatives continue to identify themselves with Republicans and liberals with Democrats. Traditional conservatives and traditional liberals, while still in existence, are politically extinct. Neither conservatives nor liberals are organized into a viable political force. They are fighting one another while the super-rich are looting the public treasure and privatizing the public domain. Traditional conservatives and traditional liberals were replaced by neoconservatives and neoliberals, which are entirely different animals. We behave as if the terms ‘conservative’ and ‘liberal’ and the parties they were traditionally associated with continue to exist and function the way they did in the past.

Liberalism no longer finds articulation in the Democratic Party. Cynthia McKinney may have been the last truly liberal Democrat. McKinney, like the liberal wing of the party itself, was abandoned when the party sold out its liberal base to pursue corporate bribes in order to compete with the Republicans. As a result, the left continues to ineffectually grope for political expression.

The trouble is that the people do not comprehend who or what the real enemy is. Let me clarify it for them: The enemy is the ruling class, its social, financial, and political institutions, and the capitalist system that spawned them. Its enemy is the corporate state and the commercial media in its various forms of expression.

It is irrational, if not delusional, for working class people to support candidates and policies to which they are philosophically opposed. And yet that is what they are doing. As recent polls make clear, neither conservatives nor progressives want to have their social security benefits cut. They do not want to see their retirement benefits reduced, or their Medicare and Medicaid payments slashed. The unemployed do not want their unemployment checks cut or eliminated, as some Republican members of Congress advocate. Workers do not want the retirement age raised. They do not want to see college tuition priced out of reach to all but the wealthy.

The working class consists of liberals and conservatives. It encompasses the devoted followers of Glen Beck and Rush Limbaugh. However, Beck, Limbaugh, Newt Gingrich, Sarah Palin, and all of the other right-wing crackpots support such policies, as do most Democrats, including President Obama. Why would any working class person, Democrat or Republican, support any of these charlatans?

Why would they support a social and economic system that exploits and subjugates them? Clearly they do not understand that system or the alternatives that are available to it.

The answer is that Americans are too indoctrinated to see clearly. The majority exists in a media-induced state of false consciousness. To them, up is down and down is up. Brown is white and white is brown. The people are confused and disoriented. They are misled and lied to. They are looking for quick and easy fixes to complex problems that were long in the making. For the reasons outlined above, voting cannot cure what ails America. The game is fixed. The appearance of choice is an illusion, an utter hoax.

Political and media demagogues portray liberals (progressives & Socialists), which continue to be miscast as democrats, as the enemy of the working class. Working people do not comprehend that the benefits they are fighting to preserve were the result of progressive policies, many of them stemming from Franklin Roosevelt’s New Deal. Conservatives, neoconservatives, and neoliberals have always opposed these policies and have fought to end them since the day of their inception. Let us not forget that FDR was accused by one of his adversaries of being “a traitor to his class.”

It would be a mistake, however, to confuse FDR for a genuine progressive. Certainly he was no socialist. It was his Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins, a Democratic Socialist, not FDR, who was the principal architect of The New Deal. It should be noted, too, that The New Deal excluded most blacks. It was essentially affirmative action for whites. Spooked by the social unrest engendered by The Great Depression, FDR, an avowed capitalist, perceived these policies as the only way to save capitalism from the socialist threat of his time. Roosevelt was correct in his assessment. It would have been better for the nation in the long run if FDR did not enact The New Deal. If he had not, it is likely that massive social upheaval would have ensued, and Socialism may well have supplanted capitalism as the dominant paradigm.

Before any of my readers point out the failure of Soviet Socialism, particularly under the murderous Stalin regime, let me state that this was not Socialism as Marx, Engels, and Trotsky envisioned it; it was state capitalism.

Similarly, if President Obama did not bail out America's financial institutions with public funds, global capitalism would have collapsed. Predicated upon greed and exploitation, these institutions should have been allowed to fail, bringing down the global capitalist economy. If Adam Smith's much ballyhooed, 'invisible hand of the market' actually existed, the world today would look very different than it did a few short years ago. We might actually be in recovery. Now we are waiting for the next onslaught...

History demonstrates that free (deregulated) markets, the Holy Grail of Milton Friedman's capitalism, do not actually exist. They never have. Free market capitalism is an ideological myth that is reified in our culture. Markets are always manipulated by elites for the sole benefit of elites. Otherwise the global economy would have fallen like a row of dominoes two years ago. What we witnessed was Socialism (public funds) propping up capitalism (privately owned financial institutions). All of the benefit, to the tune of $13.8 trillion, went to the financial institutions and to the elite. Working people were rewarded with government-imposed austerity. This has occurred not only in the U.S. but elsewhere in the world.

The international financial aristocracy is laying the foundation for global governance. The public domain is being privatized. The poor are no longer part of the social and political discourse.

As a result of these policies, there is social turmoil in every capitalist nation on earth, except the U.S. Compared to the rest of the world, Americans are comatose, which is the result of so many people being informed by Rush Limbaugh, Fox News, and other wealthy demagogues working the airwaves on behalf of the ruling class. Most Americans are informed by ideology, not by facts.

This is what Friedrich Nietzsche meant by conviction. Reality pales before the shadow of belief and false hope. Plato's "Allegory of the Cave" comes to mind. Fantasy becomes the norm. Capitalism would not long endure in the presence of collective true consciousness. It exists by deceit.

Another thing that is NOT readily understood and observable to the masses is the fact that through the amazing dynamics of opposing forces of rightwing vs. leftwing constantly battling it out on the public arena, resides the fact that our entire structured establishment is ever so subtly operating as none other than the a bona fide OLIGARCHY. It has actually been in place ruling over this "Democratic" nation for generations.

It seems quite evident that the alpha male and true leaders in the political arena are the Team Republican based "Neocons" who are firmly being led by the Zionist Jew cartel (as is everything else for that matter). I must take a moment to note that one of the Neocons movement's god fathers was Zionist Jew Leo Strauss. Strauss is known for his elitist views toward governance and culture. He promoted the view that the vast majority of people are simply too unenlightened (read: ignorant) to handle certain crucial political and philosophical truths. And so, these people must be preoccupied with soothing diversions, like organized religion (Strauss himself was an atheist). This way, the enlightened few are free to fully pursue ideas and run the apparatus of the state without serious interference by the hoi polloi.

It seems that every president has been controlled and/or owned by the ruling elite, even Reagan who the media has elevated to virtual sainthood and commonly portrayed as the greatest modern president was pimped out, he followed the wishes of his masters and turned us into a debtor nation, cut social programs, supported Sadam, sold Iran thousands of missiles, armed and trained those who became the Taliban and Al-CIAa, and married religion with conservatism. As he was busy setting the stage in the middle east for his successor's future wars, as reward for a job well done, the Zionist media cartel performed the operation of making him appear to be our guardian saint republican president to all the masses.

Right now at this very moment it is the democrats TURN at the helm to advance the leftwing portions of the Zionist world conquest plans. Please take note that they will NOT eradicate any of the hundreds of preposterous/oppressive laws and policies setup by the previous republican administration, for they are purposely left in place as building blocks for the next administration and so forth. Until the day arrives when we will all wake up, sit around, jaws on the floor, and wonder how the hell did our once powerful “FREE” nation end up in ruins.

The ruling elite wrote a masterful SCRIPT: After they gutted out our country using team republican (Cheney/Bush Republican Crime Syndicate) they masterfully positioned the democrats to take the subsequent FALLOUT HIT from all the policies that were enacted in the republican's turn at bat. Today you are witnessing the ingeniously premeditated backlash aimed at the DEMOCRATS who basically inherited an ECONOMIC TIMEBOMB that exploded ON THEIR WATCH.

In winning the "election" of 2008 Barry Sotero (Obama) Democratic Crime Syndicate inherited a nation on the verge of collapse, with no real solutions to the massive engineered collapse; basically there is no miracle that can save the engineered state of the union, thus leaving the democrats looking as if THEY are the culprits!!! LOL. This my friend is some of the most masterful mass mind fucks in action.

What we are now witnessing the media matrix coordinated presentation of mass public outrage against the Democrat FALL GUYS who basically had nothing to do with setting up the worldwide economic catastrophe that was completely conducted on the republican term who had complete control of both the Whitehouse, Senate and the congress at the time.

“Its all Rigged” – “Because – because, its all rigged. I mean, the whole conversation is rigged. The fact that we don’t get to the discussion before the break about what we’re going to do in the lame duck is just rigged. This stuff’s rigged, “ the Senator said.

This no longer matters today, for the mass cattle public with memory spans rivaling that of herds of sheep can’t seem to remember who was the administration that let this colossal economic heist happen, thus the sheeple are easily maneuvered in whatever direction the overlords chose. The ruling elite are not drinking the cool aid they provide the goyim masses... thus they don't suffer from the effects of forgeticin (which is widely consumed by the masses via their processed "food" and drinks that are their staple diets) and are always operating with a full cognitive abilities.

So, we will witness the long ago premeditated disgraceful fall of the democratic sector and the ushering in of the "new" (republican/tea party) administration that is yet again PROMISING THE PERVERBIAL CARROT: the HOPE OF REAL CHANGE (as the ruling elite has been promising the masses every 4 years for the past century). In the end NOTHING WILL EVER CHANGE! Only the faces and names change as they play musical chairs ever couple years to continue the ILLUSION of Democracy. Nothing has ever changed the past 100 years of promises of change!!!! The program, course, agenda has been set long ago, and YOU the masses are just powerless castrated members of the system that has owned you since the days you were born...

So, get ready for the bullshit Tea Party (republican) charade that will ride the avalanche of voter discontent and will continue right where the last “elected” leaders left off, taking the reins of power over you and your nation. The true ruling elite will use this "new & improved" base to continue to build upon their blueprints, the global governance structure that they have been building irrespective of whatever administration was their PUBLIC RELATIONS MOUTH PIECE for that particular term.

Voting will NEVER change anything, they own the system! So, sit back, get a bag of popcorn and watch the SHOW of rightwing vs. leftwing that the ruling elite are playing for your consumption. You can participate in the SHOW also; you can be a useful idiot cheerleader/talking head/pundit/spokesman for team Democrat or team Republican. In the end you will have been PAWNED as always by the ruling elite, left to wonder what the fuck happened and how the fuck we got to where we are all at today. The death dumb and blind public accusing the Republicans then when their turn is up they accuse the Democrats, then the Republicans, then the Democrats. “Get the sleaze bags out of office!” is the universal battle cry. Done, only to be replaced by a new sleaze bag that always picks up where the others left off.

The most important thing that you and everyone on this planet can ever come to understand about this two party system is: In the end it doesn't even matter what side you are on because BOTH parties are actually ONE... two sides of the same coin, they are: the “right wing” and the “left wing” of a bird of prey... they are literally appendages of one common body and head, whose brain that controls their directions is run by the same elite rulers. Now put that in your pipe and smoke it! This is the reality of the world we live in! Between both of those political parties they have 95% of the masses covered, constantly squabbling and fighting amongst each other. Pure genius. For as you are all DIVIDED and busy squabbling and attacking one another the public's best interests are thrown out the window while the ruling oligarchy operates with complete and utter defiance of the public with wanton abuse they run this country and everyone is so busy attacking one another they will never be able to realize their situation until the day comes when the ruling elite put the final touches in their global governance agenda.

The essence of the entire Republican vs. Democratic system is designed to keep our "United" States DIVIDED! We are none other than the:

Divided States of America.

DIVIDED!

DIVIDED!

DIVIDED!

Behold for it is written: "Every kingdom DIVIDED against itself is laid waste, and no city or house DIVIDED against itself will stand." – Holy Bible, Mathew 12.25

Fighting and bickering amongst ourselves, until you and the rest of the sheeple truly digest this FACT and understand this FACT, this nation will NEVER, NEVER, NEVER break its bonds thus continue its long decent into the abyss as it prostitutes itself to the world banking and investment complex like the grand scarlet whore that it is.

America will NEVER be able to UNITE and solve all of its problems until the day arrives when they finally WAKE UP to the bogus left vs. right - republican vs. democrat system that is the CENTRAL KEY FOR DIVIDING, CORRUPTING, RUINING AND DESTROYING OUR NATION!!! I have a news flash for you; nothing will ever change until there is a massive revolutionary transformation in this country.... Period.

Before I go further in trying to cover this byzantine part of the Matrix, I must remind you to try and shake off the brain washing you have been programmed into believing your whole lives: that your government leaders are some sort of sanctified loving benevolent caretakers of the public's best interests. You know deep in your heart that the most sleazebag corrupt people on earth are the politicians, (and lawyers, and most politicians are both) yet you trust them, you believe their lies, over and over again. Now if that is not a baffling mystery I don't know what is.

How The Elite Control Politics - Video

I quickly put together another compilation of several researchers' data and added it to the addendum section called "Criminals Who Run Our Government", just for those that are still wearing their rose colored glasses. In that section (no way gets close to being extensive) you will get a crystallized idea of the literally hundreds upon hundreds of criminals, scandals, pedophiles, check bouncing, thieves, etc. the corrupt slime ball custodians we TRUST to run this nation. The sheer number of crimes and scandals is bewildering, the number of people actually CAUGHT is just the tip of the iceberg, for far more never get caught and or are "bailed out" and swept under the rug by their cronies before we even know about it. Just look at the, what? Half dozen or so TAX CHEATS Obama picked for office, of course not one of them gets prosecuted, not even a slap on the wrist.

The bigger picture here is, can you possibly imagine the actual number of tax cheats, corruption and crimes that never ever get reported or see the light of day on both sides of the isle? Those who get caught or are questioned often get sudden cases of amnesia, the master players all integrate plausible deniability into all their activities.

Mandatory Operational Protocol of high office: Plausible Deniability

Plausible deniability refers to the denial of blame in loose and informal chains of command where upper rungs quarantine the blame to the lower rungs. In the case that illegal or otherwise disreputable and unpopular activities become public, high-ranking officials may deny any awareness of such act or any connection to the agents used to carry out such acts.

In politics and espionage, deniability refers to the ability of a "powerful player" or actor to avoid "blowback" by secretly arranging for an action to be taken on their behalf by a third party—ostensibly unconnected with the major player. In political campaigns, plausible deniability enables candidates to stay "clean" and denounce advertisements that use unethical approaches or innuendo based on opposition research.

More generally, "plausible deniability" can also apply to any act that leaves little or no evidence of wrongdoing or abuse. Examples of this are the use of electricity, water boarding or pain-compliance holds as a means of torture or punishment, leaving little or no tangible signs that the abuse ever took place.

"...the U.S. government may at times require a certain deniability. Private activities can provide that deniability." -
-Council on Foreign Relations, in the 2003 report, "Finding America's Voice: A Strategy for Reinvigorating U.S. Public Diplomacy"

Mind you, yes there are a very few "good guys" (the complicit media loves to portray as fruitytuti nut jobs) such as Ron Paul, Dennis Kucinich, Cynthia McKinney, and couple of others, that despite all the odds, and heavy media bias, managed to somehow get elected and remain seated for so long while they attacked the status quo establishment. These well meaning true patriots more often than not are the brunt of all the status quo jokes and media attacks. These are the lone renegades in the system, which are often ridiculed and shunned, for they dwell and work among a den of vipers. They are completely out numbered and out gunned, often blacklisted. One mistake like in Cynthia's case, and they seize the moment to boot them out of office.

If a Senator or Congressman does not cater to the Jewish Lobby, chiefly represented by AIPAC which bribes and keeps a running profile on all politicians, their careers will be terminated in the next election, for the entire Zionist consortium will surely unite to bring about their downfall... and ALL politicians are hyper aware of this reality. Those who rock the boat and go against the wishes of their Zionist overlords, are swiftly dealt with, keep it up or go too far and even worse things happen to them. The Learned Elders even punish their own when they fail to keep their marching orders.

So many cases, let's pick a current example: Elliot Spitzer, one of their own darling high potential Zionist Jew comrades. Getting busted with prostitutes and falling from grace was a 100% setup. You see Elliot turned on his Bankster masters with an inflammatory article he wrote for the Washington Post on Feb, 14th 2008, three weeks later, homeboy was being indicted. They conduct surveillance on all their members and on everyone they target to influence, they build dossiers with pictures and video. They hold these in safe places, for when the moment comes they can use the goods to persuade their targets to change their directions or as in Elliot's case, a minuscule section of his dossier was dropped off at the local law enforcement bureau for prosecution. When they do things like this, it also serves as a warning to all the others, that if you mess with your Zionist masters, you WILL be punished. But don't cry for Elliot, he is doing just fine now controlling the billion dollar real-estate family business. You never know, once he is finished paying the price for speaking ill of his masters, they will let his star rise yet again, maybe operating in some other type of enterprise, or they might just set him loose again to run for public office. (Update: he is now back... in TV with his own show on an alleged "news" channel. LOL)

Yet another current example of throwing one of their own to the wolves for betraying their agenda is Chas Freeman (Jew) who was recently was FORCED to surrender his appointment as Chairman of the National Intelligence Council. What did he do? His mortal sin was telling the TRUTH. Basically he was too honest and outspoken about Israeli control. He committed the sin of speaking publically of the unforgivable truth... Israel lobby control over American politics and polices. He basically trashed his own with the blatant truth. Of course he is thus viewed as a “wild canon” by the Zionist status quo. Thus he was quickly marked for elimination from public office. According to Chas “I have concluded that the barrage of libelous distortions of my record would not cease upon my entry into office... The effort to smear me and to destroy my credibility would instead continue...” Yes the Zionists forced him out using their tried and true character assassination strategy leveled at their target.

Deep Politics

Deep politics is a phrase coined by researcher and academic Peter Dale Scott, which he describes thus;

“My notion of deep politics... posits that in every culture and society there are facts which tend to be suppressed collectively, because of the social and psychological costs of not doing so. Like all other observers, I too have involuntarily suppressed facts and even memories about the drug traffic that were too provocative to be retained with equanimity.(1)”

Scott has spent an enormous amount of time researching political processes that fly under the radar of conscious political activity, are omitted from discourse on the right and the left, and are many times intertwined with global drug traffic. Here is Scott’s definition of “parapolitics”; par a pol i tics (pɑːr ə pɒl ə tɪks), n. 1. a system or practice of politics in which accountability is consciously diminished. 2. generally, covert politics, the conduct of public affairs not by rational debate and responsible decision-making but by indirection, collusion, and deceit... 3. the political exploitation of irresponsible agencies or parastructures, such as intelligence agencies... Ex. 1. ‘The Nixon doctrine, viewed in retrospect, represented the application of parapolitics on a hitherto unprecedented scale.’ 2. ‘Democracy and parapolitics, even in foreign affairs, are ultimately incompatible.’(2)

Although valuable, Scott ultimately found the label of parapolitics too limiting;

“...the investigation of parapolitics, which I defined (with the CIA in mind) as a ‘system or practice of politics in which accountability is consciously diminished.’ . . . I still see value in this definition and mode of analysis. But parapolitics as thus defined is itself too narrowly conscious and intentional . . . it describes at best only an intervening layer of the irrationality under our political culture’s rational surface. Thus I now refer to parapolitics as only one manifestation of deep politics, all those political practices and arrangements, deliberate or not, which are usually repressed rather than acknowledged.”(3)

“Scott came to see parapolitics as “too narrowly conscious and intentional to describe the deeper irrational movements which culminated collectively in the murder of the President.” In contrast deep political analysis presupposes “an open system with divergent power centers and goals” The collapse of the First Italian Republic in the mid-1990s, involving large-scale criminal influence in government, offers a telling example. It originated as an American parapolitical operation to suborn the threat of communism which parachuted prominent U.S. Mafia hoods into power in post-war Italy “[B]y the 1980s this . . . stratagem had helped spawn a deep political system of corruption exceeding Tammany’s, and (as we know from the Andreotti trial of 1995) beyond the ability of anyone to call it off”. Another example... is the CIA-financed jihad against Russian occupiers in Afghanistan that flooded Europe with opium and helped create Osama bin Laden, a modern version of the Old Man of the Mountains, who’s 11th Century followers – the Assassins – “sacrificed for him in order to perpetuate his crimes”(5) – [source Wikipedia]

Just about every politician in Washington has a dossier being held over their heads by their Zionist controllers, who blackmail and extort their way all around Washington; those dossiers are one of the keys to how they consistently twist the leader's arms into doing their bidding. The kicker is that they use our own intelligence agencies to build up the secret dossiers and spy on the elected official's activities to document any illegal activities they can use for blackmail later on.

Yet on the other hand you have witnessed countless examples of politicians getting away with the most ludicrous offenses that would land a mere mortal in prison, in a heartbeat, not the politician in good standing with his ruling masters, not only do they avoid prosecution, the media and the propaganda machine work on overdrive to gloss over, if not just bury the entire incident.

This whole "political contributions" (legalized bribery) thing has to stop immediately. Term limits on CONgress must be imposed, like yesterday. All "Special privileges" must be stopped. A myriad of laws with actual sentences that are actually enforced must be setup to keep ALL our politicians in line. The activities of this group of serpents running our government must be constantly monitored using all sorts of surveillance tactics used on the other "terrorists" by a special "untouchables" squad of independent investigators. Secrecy at all levels must be abolished. Our government MUST be run transparently and must be made to have to answer to its people when the majority demands it. The drunken orgy in Washington MUST come to an end. The only way to save our nation is get all the politicians parading around as prostitutes, kicked out of office along with their pimps, corralled and dropped off on a deserted island in the middle of the pacific. Every single one of them until there is not ONE single career crook left in office, then and only then can you begin staffing our entire nation with fresh untarnished, unadulterated mind pool.

It is truly like a bad joke being played on the innocent gullible public. You see pundits on TV always bickering amongst each other, left wing and the right wing opponents always battling it out, liberals vs. conservatives. It's all the same old tried and true military strategy: divide and conquer. Hence to see how the elite use this, they divided the field into Democrats vs. Republicans and conquer by cleverly leaving the masses with no alternative but to choose sides, pick their "team." They enslave us with a view point and embedded hope that, "MY political party", "MY Congressman", "MY senator", MY TEAM are the good guys, they will look out for our best interests, etc. Behold: You have all been played like a cheap violin over and over and over again and continue to fall for the same old crap. You will all go out and vote in 2010, 2012 and so on as you have been doing for eons, ALWAYS FALLING FOR THE SAME STUPID LINE: "I'M DIFFERENT, VOTE FOR ME AND I WILL CHANGE THINGS FOR THE BETTER." Truth of the matter never changes, in the end they ALL fall way short of their promises, everyone gets mad, then the next election cycle everyone votes for THE OTHER political party and the broken promises and crimes against humanity continues unabated, then the next election they say "enough!" then vote for then all vote for the other party only to be had yet again. The vicious cycle never ends.

The truer movement for example has been squarely labeled as "leftist" liberal constituency.... Presto, by such a simple act as labeling an enemy as "leftist" (or right wing) the other side easily points them out to their own people (team), followers who take this as their "queue" to completely dismiss and/or attack the "opponent". Logic and reason has nothing to do with political debate. Exercising BLIND LOYALTY to their political parties (home team), each side acts as if the other side is "the enemy", exactly as they do in team sports as in the Red Socks vs. the Yankees: It does NOT matter who is right or wrong! People will cheer for "THEIR" side, their "team" despite all LOGIC and reason!!!!!! "That's MY team, we are the good guys, they are the bad guys", thus reason and logic is of no use there.

Those who make it as candidates for president are culled from the pool of career politicians who over the years have proven their loyalty and earned the complete trust of the ruling elite. (That's why you always hear all the talk of "so and so has no "experience") The ruling elite would rather have the neo-cons running their show since this group of republicans more closely follows their agenda to the T. Whenever there is Democratic control of any office, the ruling elite must work harder with more covert maneuvering to advance their agendas due to the fact that the Democrats must at least seem to be on the side the working people and of liberal left wing causes. Of course these two mafia families fight tooth and nail for control. Who does NOT want to be king of the hill? Yet both are equally as dangerous and ultimately bow to the same masters.

Let there be no doubt in your minds: The Republican party are the alpha male and the Democrats are their bitch. This is readily observable in exhibit A: the Bush Jr. administration the Republicans ran this nation without so much as a whimper from the Democrats who dominated in numbers but never ONCE blocked, stopped or hampered any of the Republican actions. The Democrats rubber stamped anything and everything the Republicans wanted to do (oh they bitched and whined a lot but that was it). While on the other hand Obama's Democratic Majority with the largest Democratic landside in history, they control the Whitehouse, Congress AND the Senate and they STILL can't get anything done without minority Republican approval. I rest my case.

Didn't you see it? After the 2006 elections the Democrats swept up. The public outcry against the horrors of the Bush administration united them as never before. The elected democrats got elected on the false promise that they would prosecute the criminal Bush regime. I will never forget the day I was closely watching when Pelosi & Co. went behind closed doors to meet up with Bush & Co. Oh boy, that was it everyone thought we would finally witness the impeachment of the Bush & Co. crime syndicate, boy are they in for it! Nope. Pelosi walks out of the meeting with a smile on her face, Democrats & Republicans where all buddy, buddy and smiling. The first thing she said "impeachment is off the table"... what?!!!!!! My jaw dropped, I was dumbfounded! Then it dawned on me, come on, what did I really expect, they serve the same hidden masters, Bush loyally served them well, so who was I kidding in expecting the democrats to press charges on the most insanely criminal administration in history?

I care not how inflammatory this may sound, but basically what happened in that meeting was that Pelosi prostituted herself to the neo-cons in that room, they had a wild party in that room, after all was said and done she exited the room with a smile on her face saying "impeachment is off the table" end of story, thus sold out the citizens of this country while she was at it. The Bush crime syndicate runs free to this day, where not even the Obamanator will dare prosecute the criminals, this is smoking gun proof they all work for the same masters and are just two sides of the same coin. Just two crime families in the governing mafia we identify as the democrats and the republicans.

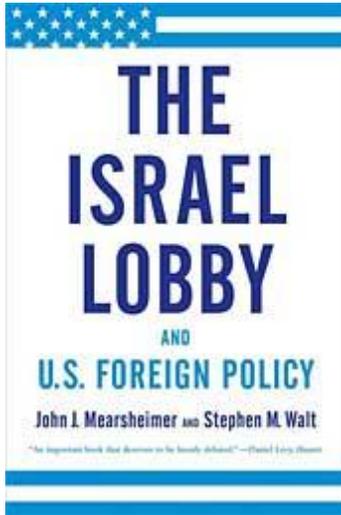

To illustrate the scope and breath of worldwide illuminati control one need look no further than Europe, who are way more advanced and ahead of us in the New World Order (Global Governance) curriculum. Bush's European counterpart who was also "coincidentally" leading his country for almost the entire same time period as Bush, was the charismatic Tony Blair. Who, at every single turn, "coincidentally" implemented the same variety of Acts, laws and policies in his country that the Bush crime syndicate shoved down our throats...

Even the peaceful protesters are routinely rounded up, silenced, closely watched and of course, jailed in England just as they are here. It is almost as if both countries' modus operandi notes were completely shared with one another. What we have here are identical twin police state THUGACRACY in position and in the making, both propping up, supporting and helping one another achieve the same results and goals, for both are in the same quest, the global

Even the peaceful protesters are routinely rounded up, silenced, closely watched and of course, jailed in England just as they are here. What we have here are identical twin police state THUGACRACY in position and in the making, both propping up, supporting and helping one another achieve the same results and goals, for both are in the same quest, the global world domination bandwagon. They work side by side as one in furthering the common “agenda” of their Untouchable Zionist Mafioso Cosa Nostra GODFATHERS.

America as a "free country" it flaunts itself as, often has "do-gooders" that are not allies or a product of the status quo, "the establishment" or owned by private agendas enter the political arena. These are the very rare few do-gooders that came out from society who have managed to earn or win a place within the system. These people try their best to honestly work and fight for our rights, but they are way outnumbered in politics by the “dark side”. For they enter “the den of vipers”, and must stand down to the status quo. These independent do-gooder politicians are at times basically thorns in the sides of the ruling elite and "the establishment". Over the years many who entered the system as originally concerned "do-gooders" eventually become corrupted by the establishment and learn to just assume their spot at the feeding troughs.

Of course the ruling elite would prefer to have their neo-con brethren running their show instead of having to work the harder job by their sleight of hand and having to change teams all the time. When viewed as a flow chart, as is common in any corporation or organization, you quickly realize that, the same ascension principles exist in Washington as any other organization. Everyone must “climb the corporate ladder.” Seniority plays a major role. Those who rock the boat and do not go along with the agendas are quickly reprimanded, blacklisted, with the worst offenders placed on the fast track to the exit door, only to see their successful career in Washington on a certain decline. Only those that kiss up and become experts in brown nosing and obeying their masters’ wishes eventually make it up the career ladder in Washington. Therefore, it is easy to realize that, of course only "career suicidal" individuals will come forth as whistle blowers and expose the mechanisms of fraud, corruption, bribery, oh, did I mention, bribery is called "political contributions" in Washington’s alternate dimension reality where they register the officially sanctioned BRIBERS, in a dignified and organized fashion call them LOBBYISTS. Only in politics is BRIBERY PERFECTLY LEGAL.

We are living in an era of mass delusion and denial on the part of leaders in both major political parties, were stating the obvious can be a radical act. Mass delusion and denial has permeated this society to its very core. There are no more real heroes, all we have left are the USEFUL IDIOT sheeple who just want to do their job, get paid, go home to their nice cozy homes and new cars, big screen TV, iPod, iPhone, Wii and just let their brains melt. Most of who just DON'T even want to know the truth anymore! True hero figures have been strategically replaced by mass media fakes such as rock stars, movie stars, and sports stars, those who get paid unimaginable millions for just a few days "work" to keep the sheeple entertained and distracted. Americans from sea to shining sea worship these fake idols, want to emulate them, dress like them, wish they could be like them, all the while, their minds are consumed with these pathetic feeble thoughts and pursuits while the REAL prize, is being taken right from under your noses, little do they all know that they have forfeited their birthrights. The day will come when America wakes up to REALITY only to find out that the coup already happened right in front of their faces decades ago, yet they never realized it...

Do ZIONISTS/ISRAEL Control the U.S. Government ? - video

Impeachment is a tool established by our founding fathers so that we the people could rid our country of corrupt leaders, confront people who would try to lead our great nation astray. Impeachment is a vital tool for the defense of our most basic liberties. What I find so frightening that it makes me sick to my stomach is the fact that the current administration has basically shredded the constitution, they do whatever the hell they feel like, even when a landslide majority of Americans might be against it, totally running against the founding principles of a nation "for the people by the people". Yet there is no outcry, just business as usual.

This administration has been getting away with the most mind boggling acts, neglecting our own people, focusing on spending billions upon billions trotting all over the globe to promote "democracy" (e.g.: CAPITALIST INTERESTS of the corporations) not to mention the many outright federal crimes and treason against the US. For all intents and purposes, the Bush administration has somehow managed to not only dodge all attempts of investigation, they seem completely untouchable. The laws of this great nation do not apply to the Cheney & Bush Administration. They are ABOVE THE LAW.

In essence what we have here is like a serial killer who some daring prosecutors would like to interview, but the law enforcement can't even conduct an investigation due to the fact that THEY (the serial killers) are the police and have control over revealing all the evidence that can put them in jail! DOH! Of course they are going to claim "executive privilege"!!!! and deny any wrong doing until their last dying breath!!! "Hey boys, bring in that industrial strength shredder and hit delete on the emails while you are at it." "now yaw pesky nosey bodies go outside and play, leave us superior beings alone to do what is right for you, now scram along". A must see PBS documentary "Cheney's Law" (click on watch the full program).

What you do not understand is that “made men” within the political Cosa Nostra status quo system more often than not DON'T go to jail. No matter what crimes they are “accused” of. These are the true untouchables. For as long as they are pushing and pulling the strings as their handlers require them to perform, they can shoot their friends in the face and demand AN APOLOGY from the victim and no one would so much as raise an eyebrow. Anyone else on the planet would go directly to jail.

Their buddies who didn't rat them out and covered their asses, no problemo, “here is your presidential pardon, now let's go party.” Then there is the “Oh what was that? You accuse us of _____ and _____?” (doesn't matter what it is because) “Sorry but I can't help you, it's all a matter of NATIONAL SECURITY so go fly a kite! Now scram, you're getting on my nerve.”

In their world REALITY IS WHATEVER THEY SAY IT IS. For they have the best scam setup on the planet, no matter what happens, they OWN and run the SYSTEM; cops, prosecutors and judges get their checks signed by them! HELLO! THEY ALL WORK FOR THEM!!!! After a disturbing offense is committed, it is someone, an official, who comes out backed by the most masterful and powerful propaganda network on the planet and tells you what REALITY is. Such as: “_____” (fill in the blank with any of thousands upon thousands of ridiculous excuses, cover-ups, lies and so forth that have been fed to us about any of thousands upon thousands of corruption and crimes they have committed over the decades). Followed by: “I don't recall, or national security, etc, nothing to see here children, now go back to playing with your tinker toys.” Those who persist, looking for REAL answers get the: “Oh my gosh, here they are again, the bunch of tin-foil hat wearing Looney Toon conspiracy fruitcakes...” Those who keep it up hear something like: “Someone call security! terrorists have invaded the building!!!!” And off to jail YOU go instead of the real criminals....

Our ailing country has been run by the biggest group of sick perverted criminals ever to walk in America. (Note: see addendum section at end of this report called Criminals Who Run Our Government). "Uncle Sam" has become more and more like the child molesting uncle you would NEVER trust your children alone with. It has come to the point where whenever "Uncle Sam" says ANYTHING, you must take it with a grain of salt and never believe a word he tells you, until you have thoroughly scrutinized it, then followed it up with your own investigation to see if what they say is true. Our Uncle Sam is America, and all its myriad of leaders who represent it.

The key to breaking the stranglehold of insanity within the establishment is somehow getting congress to make an amendment to the constitution on limiting the use as a shield the phrases of "CLASSIFIED - TOP SECRET". For our leaders today pull out the "classified top secret and 'national defense' cards" out of their ass on a regular basis to HIDE EVERYTHING they are doing. Our government has ALREADY been taken over by a coup! PHASE ONE take over the banking/financial system of the nation, PHASE TWO take over all media of the country, PHASE THREE take over the political infrastructure of the nation. Part II: PHASE ONE steal the "election" in 2000-1, PHASE TWO was Iraq & Afghanistan... PHASE THREE is the rest of the middle east and possibly at some point, if the sheeple wake up and get out of hand: martial law here in our own country. PHASE FOUR one world economic system. It's just that they haven't sent out the memo to the world yet! Soon they will pull out their ultimate con job. After the next "national emergency" false flag operation is conducted (brought to you by your friendly loving caring CIA/Mossad dynamic duo) Iran? Pakistan? Syria? will be invaded, war will break out all over the middle east, America will eventually go under martial law to "protect you"... Then it will be too late for you to do or say anything. America will wake up AFTER it is under TOTAL control of the police state. The definition of what Top Secret & Classified really means is: "fuck off; we are not going to show you how we have been screwing you and the world".

Seven years after Cheney/Bush & Co Crime Syndicate rose to power after the flawless coup of the new millennium still referred to by the mainstream as "the elections of 2000" with America's first official modern electoral coup. They lied when they took their oaths of office "to serve and defend the constitution", instead bush today rants "the constitution is just a piece of paper!" My friends, what this man has been up to is called TREASON. Some Americans seem to FINALLY be waking up from their deep sleep, yet all they can still do is TALK and continue their pathetic lives as if nothing really wrong is going on. I have deep seated despise for the bitch that took over the position of Speaker of the House, she SOLD HER SOUL TO SATAN then gets on national TV smiling telling America "impeachment is off the table" no matter how many insanely certifiable treasonous acts come out of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. The criminals MUST be brought to justice; otherwise the bar will have inadvertently been raised as to how much more they will all be allowed to get away with in the future.

Ten Planks of the Communist Manifesto

Use your discretion. The thoughts are mind-awakening.

In the early '60's during the days of the "former" Soviet Union, Russian Premier Nikita Krushchev pounded his shoe on the podium of the United Nations and shouted to the West, "We will bury you!" Fearing an invasion from the Reds, America proceeded to build the most awesome military machine in history. Unfortunately, we forgot to guard our political homefront from being taken over by socialist - communist - liberal activists who would gain office and destroy American law by process of gradually installing the Communist agenda within our legal system and separate branches of government. The Communist program from the start has been one which sees their revolution of 1917 succesful only upon total domination of the world. (See Brain Washing, A Synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics)

Americans, being the most naive people among the nations, now believe that Communism is dead because the Berlin Wall and the Iron Curtain have been removed. The ironic truth is that Communism has just switched names to become more "politically correct". Today it is called international democracy. The reason that the Berlin Wall came crashing down is not because Communism is dead but because they have achieved the planned agenda to communize the West, including America. Washington D.C. has indeed become part of the New World Order of atheist governments. With the last vestiges of Christian law having been removed from "American government" over the last twenty years, there is no longer a threat of resistance against world Communism. In reality, "American government" became part of the Iron Curtain, thus there was no more need for the likes of a Berlin Wall.

Once again, in their foolishness, the American public has believed the lies of their "leaders" who applaud "the fall of Communism", while they have sold out the country to anti-Christian, anti-American statutes and regulations on the federal, state, and local levels. Posted below is a comparison of the original ten planks of the Communist Manifesto written by Karl Marx in 1848, along with the American adopted counterpart of each of the planks, The American people have truly been "buried in Communism" by their own politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties. One other thing to remember, Karl Marx was stating in the Communist Manifesto that these planks will test whether a country has become communist or not. If they are all in effect and in force the country IS communist. Communism, but by any other name...??

1. Abolition of private property and the application of all rent to public purpose.

The 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution (1868), and various zoning, school & property taxes. Also the Bureau of Land Management.

2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

Misapplication of the 16th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, 1913, The Social Security Act of 1936.; Joint House Resolution 192 of 1933; and various State "income" taxes. We call it "paying your fair share".

3. Abolition of all rights of inheritance.

We call it Federal & State estate Tax (1916); or reformed Probate Laws, and limited inheritance via arbitrary inheritance tax statutes.

4. Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels.

We call in government seizures, tax liens, Public "law" 99-570 (1986);

Executive order 11490, sections 1205, 2002 which gives private land to the Department of Urban Development; the imprisonment of "terrorists" and those who speak out or write against the "government" (1997 Crime/Terrorist Bill); or the IRS confiscation of property without due process.

5. Centralization of credit in the hands of the State, by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly.

We call it the Federal Reserve which is a credit/debt system nationally organized by the Federal Reserve act of 1913. All local banks are members of the Fed system, and are regulated by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC).

6. Centralization of the means of communication and transportation in the hands of the State.

We call it the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and Department of Transportation (DOT) mandated through the ICC act of 1887, the Commissions Act of 1934, The Interstate Commerce Commission established in 1938, The Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Communications Commission, and Executive orders 11490, 10999, as well as State mandated driver's licenses and Department of Transportation regulations.

7. Extention of factories and instruments of production owned by the State, the bringing into cultivation of waste lands, and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan.

We call it corporate capacity, The Desert Entry Act and The Department of Agriculture. As well as the Department of Commerce and Labor, Department of Interior, the Evironmental Protection Agency, Bureau of Land Management, Bureau of Reclamation, Bureau of Mines, National Park Service, and the IRS control of business through corporate regulations.

8. Equal liability of all to labor. Establishment of Industrial armies, especially for agriculture.

We call it the Social Security Administration and The Department of Labor. The National debt and inflation caused by the communal bank has caused the need for a two "income" family. Woman in the workplace since the 1920's, the 19th amendment of the U.S. Constitution, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, assorted Socialist Unions, affirmative action, the Federal Public Works Program and of course Executive order 11000.

9. Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries; gradual abolition of the distinction between town and country by a more equable distribution of the population over the country.

We call it the Planning Reorganization act of 1949 , zoning (Title 17 1910-1990) and Super Corporate Farms, as well as Executive orders 11647, 11731 (ten regions) and Public "law" 89-136.

10. Free education for all children in government schools. Abolition of children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with industrial production, etc. etc.

People are being taxed to support what we call 'public' schools, which train the young to work for the communal debt system. We also call it the Department of Education, the NEA and Outcome Based "Education" .

So I ask you...does changing the words, change the end result? By using different words is it all of a sudden OK???? We are so "smart," aren't we??

Forget impeachment, Charge all the criminal sons of bitches with RICO RACKETEERING ACT! Send every pea brain treasonous idiot that staunchly supported, aided and abetted them all to prison for life! America needs grand juries and indictments. The time has come for us to conduct our own Nuremberg trials. Those two criminals (along with all their co-conspirators) that are holding the highest offices of our land deserve only the very best: Hang them as was done in the old days, at the very least give them all life sentences in jail for crimes against the constitution, treason, crimes against the people of the United States of America, war crimes of Iraq and finally crimes against humanity. I want to see heads on silver platters!

Only problem with that scenario is the fact that the Bush & Co Crime Syndicate is ABOVE THE LAW, these are "made men" who are only doing the bidding of their Zionist Jew masters, and no one has the balls to prosecute those treasonous imposters of freedom hiding out in the White house. Therefore, the next administration will still be free to proceed with their plans of lunacy of invading Iran or whatever Muslim nation Israel has its heart set on destroying. The shit will then REALLY start to fly, bringing untold chaos to all, putting humpty dumpty (America) back together from the repercussions is going to be astronomically extremely difficult, especially trying to do so while we are all under MARTIAL LAW! In a country were the ONLY THING that will whip the mass media news into a frenzy of non-stop 24/7 "hyper news reporting" are events that involve the likes of Britney Spears, (remember the OJ Simpson trial?) Ana Nicole Smith, Paris Hilton and the other brats... /sigh/ I have a terrible sinking feeling that we are all doomed to accept whatever fate befalls us. Exclusive: Oops! Jessica Simpson Farts During Business Meeting! Now that is the type of "news" that our sick country likes to dwell on.

In these trying times, the only source that the goyim sheeple public can get a CLUE to what is really going on is not CNN, ABC, CBS, Fox, or any mainstream Zionist owned and operated news source for that matter. Most of the masses get their doses of TRUE REPORTING from COMEDIANS, comedy shows and CARTOONS! Think about it, only comedians like George Carlin, Lewis Black, Chris Rock, Comedy Central's John Stewart, SNL, etc., are often the ONLY sources of the REAL NEWS! Am I wrong or isn't John Stewart's Daily Show THE PREMIER source of REAL NEWS in America? When reading news papers and magazines, just skip over to the political cartoons for the unbiased truth. What is sad is that you know that, as much as you hate to admit to it, I yet again have another valid argument there... for I just speak the truth. Oh, by the way... John Stewart, he is also.... Jewish, his real surname is Leibowitz...

Behold: For they are everywhere! Even though they consist of just .05 of the population they are in all key positions, all the top posts, the wealthiest, the most famous in every sector! We have been invaded, taken over, it's just that you don't even have a clue...

Government propaganda divisions, Hollywood and Madison Avenue marketing wizards all have mass communications down to a science. They can make the target audience BELIEVE ANYTHING. Do you think that our government and those running it don't have access to the great manipulating minds and techniques of Hollywood and Madison Ave.? The true masters of illusion, some of the world's best and brightest copy writers, editors, directors do NOT even work for Hollywood or Madison Ave, they weave their craft within the Ivy towers of government halls, these are the masters of PsyOps. They hammer out the master piece propaganda epics for the ruling elite.

The politicians then FOLLOW THEIR SCRIPTS they have been handed.. exactly as Hollywood Oscar winning actors, as in any video shoot, they do the same as all mass media outlets, they rehearse their scripts for hours and say whatever the TELEPROMPTERS tells them to say! Politicians are given TALKING POINTS by their handlers, their hidden masters. TALKING POINTS are also given to the TALKING HEADS you see on TV every day feeding you the "news."

Our elections are our government's "Oscar Awards". Where the "Best Actor Winner" gets to play the ROLE of President of the United States for the next four years. The supporting actor role goes to the vice president and so forth until all positions for the entire cast of the next 4 year "movie shoot" production are filled. It's all a dog and pony show during the elections, where all of America KNOWS they are being lied to and promised a bunch of bull shit that will NEVER be done, yet Americans blindly believe the same bull every four years just like we believed in Santa Clause, the Tooth Fairy, the Easter Bunny, we have been conditioned to believe in fairy tales since childhood, this is preparation for when we become adults. Don't worry America, when the next Santa Clause wins the election in 2008 he will bring you all nice gifts and peace on earth. LOL! "You better be good, you better not pout cause Satan's Clause is coming to town"! LOL.

Our government lies to us with impunity - Video

The Office of Public Diplomacy:

The Office of Public Diplomacy for Latin America and the Caribbean (S/LPD or ARA/LPD) was an intra-agency organization established in the United States during the administration of Ronald Reagan. It was founded and managed by the Cuban-American Otto Reich, an ardent opponent of Fidel Castro.

In theory, the S/LPD operated under the auspices of the Department of State, but congressional investigations later determined it reported directly to Reagan's National Security Council aide in the White House, Colonel Oliver North. The S/LPD collaborated with Central Intelligence Agency propaganda experts and Army psychological operations specialists to disseminate what it called "white propaganda" with the goal of influencing public opinion and spurring Congress to continue to fund the Reagan's administration's military campaign against Nicaragua's Sandinista government. By covertly disseminating intelligence leaks to journalists, it sought to trump up a Nicaraguan "threat," and to sanctify the U.S.-backed Contra guerrillas fighting Nicaragua's government as "freedom fighters."

The S/LPD drafted pro-Reagan op-ed pieces that ran under fabricated bylines in U.S. newspapers. It also planted stories designed to embarrass or contradict the Sandinista regime. In addition to manipulating the press, the S/LPD also supplied information to pro-Reagan lobbying groups and political organizations that favored the Contra war.

On the eve of Reagan's re-election, the S/LPD spread the story that Soviet MiG fighter jets were arriving in Nicaragua. With journalists citing unnamed "intelligence sources", the story was repeated throughout the U.S. media and spurred a Democratic senator to discuss a possible airstrike against Nicaragua. However, the story later turned out to be a hoax. Several journalists later acknowledged they had been handed the story by Reich's office. According to the Miami Herald, the S/LPD also spread a rumor that Nicaragua had acquired chemical weapons from the Soviets. Newsweek reported that it told reporters that high-level Sandinistas were involved in drug trafficking, but US drug officials said there was no evidence for such a charge.

In a March 13, 1985 "Eyes Only" memo to Pat Buchanan, then-White House Communications Director, the S/LPD bragged about the recent results of its "White Propaganda" operation in support of the Contras. The S/LPD said it helped write an anti-Sandinista column for the Wall Street Journal that ran two days earlier; assisted in a "positive piece" on the Contras by Fred Francis that aired the night before on NBC; wrote op-eds for the Washington Post and New York Times that would run with the bylines of Contra leaders; arranged an extensive media tour for a Contra leader "through a cut-out" (to hide the S/LPD's role); and prepared to leak a State Department cable that would embarrass the Sandinistas: "Do not be surprised if this cable somehow hits the evening news."

The memo said that the Wall Street Journal column, "Nicaragua is Armed for Trouble", was written by an S/LPD "consultant", but cautioned that "officially, this office had no role in its preparation." Weeks later, after the Journal published a news report on Nicaragua that Reich disliked, the S/LPD chief wrote an angry letter-to-the editor touting the "Armed for Trouble" column and complaining that the news report was "an echo of Sandinista propaganda." It was an audacious charge since Reich himself was "echoing" propaganda his office had covertly boasted to have assisted in.

Besides media manipulation through planted stories and leaks, the S/LPD also cajoled and bullied journalists. Reich visited CBS in April 1984 to complain at length about its Central America coverage. In a memo to President Reagan, Secretary of State George P. Shultz described the meeting as an example of "what the Office of Public Diplomacy has been doing to help improve the quality of information the American people are receiving. It has been repeated dozens of times over the past few months."

Six months later, Reich met with a dozen National Public Radio reporters and editors about their allegedly biased Nicaragua coverage. According to NPR Foreign Affairs correspondent Bill Buzenberg, "Reich bragged that he had made similar visits to other unnamed newspapers and major television networks... Reich said he had gotten others to change some of their reporters in the field." Buzenberg told me in a 1987 interview that he viewed the S/LPD chief's comments as a "calculated attempt to intimidate."

The S/LPD had little tolerance for independent-minded reporters. In the summer of 1985, it helped circulate a specious story suggesting that US reporters received sexual favors from Sandinista-provided prostitutes in return for favorable coverage. "It isn't only women", Reich told New York magazine; for gay journalists, they would procure men. – [source Wikipedia]

Today the Office of Public Diplomacy has ceased operating under that title, but you can bank on the fact that our most wonderful government is still up to its eyeballs in the same M.O. just using different covers.

ENTER THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE & THE TAX RACKET

I couldn't figure out what chapter to place the IRS under for it is technically not a true government institution. For there are no laws in existence giving this entity its power. But since it makes believe it is and is run as if it were a legal part of our government I therefore cover this entity here.

The IRS is nothing other than a criminal extortion racket set up to pay back the other criminal entity known as the Federal Reserve, the money that the our government borrows from them, with interest, of course. There is absolutely no law ever created or ratified that justifies the existence of the IRS, and this is very well documented and proven on the internet. One day someone said let's start collecting taxes and the rest was history. To put it in the most simplest form, In other words the IRS are the hired "muscle" of the Federal Reserve Mafia that goes out and collects your extortion payments.

What I find truly interesting is the fact that this nation was established under a direct catalyst of, and in opposition to "taxation without representation". The Boston Tea Party was the event in that moment in time when America said enough is enough. Our once great nation banned taxation all the way up until the year 1913, the very same year that sinister banksters created the Federal Reserve Bank and took control of all the financial destiny of the entire country.

Upon the creation of the Fed, the IRS was established right on its heels. Today our nation is one of the most taxed nations on the planet. Go figure. The National Taxpayer's Union says taxes have gone up 175,000% in the last 83 years.

There are taxes on EVERYTHING in this country, taxes on payroll, personal property, pensions, severance, social security, corporation, stock transfer, tobacco, tonnage, transportation, utilities, accumulated earnings, alcoholic beverages, amusements, apparel, capital gains, consumption, corporate income, dividends, employment, estate, excise, franchise, fuel, furnishings, gas, sales, gift, gross receipts, health care, holding company, income, inheritance, land, license, life insurance, luxuries, motor oil, vehicle, occupation, operator's license, school tax, sales tax at every local level, the list goes on, and on, and on. Yes, continue to believe the myth that you are free from bondage sheeple!

As billionaire Warren Buffet recently pointed out: he makes $46 million a year and is only taxed a 17.7 percent rate on his federal taxes. By contrast, those who work for him, and make a measly $46 thousand a year pay an average of 32.9 percent in taxes. He went on to offer $1 million to anyone in the room who could show that one of the nation's wealthiest individuals pays a higher tax rate than their subordinates like his secretary. This is just scratching the surface. For many politicians often don't even bother paying taxes and get away with it with absolutely no penalty. This common practice was recently brought to the limelight by Obama's cabinet picks. Geithner put the icing on the cake because this tax cheat was picked to head up the Dept. of Treasury! LOL. In the midst of all the turmoil of confirmation hearings two other Obama tax cheats had to withdraw due to the discovery that "golly gee whiz, I forgot to pay that gazillion bucks I owed on my taxes." Again, the Zionist of the pack Timothy Geithner got away with it, for he had powerful aristocrat "friends" pulling for him and his nomination went through. If it was you or me that owed the IRS what they did, we would be part of the "establishment": the prison industrial matrix! Not them, not so much as even a slap on the wrist. Off they go on their merry ways business as usual, nothing to see here folks, mind your own business and scam. Now let this be a lesson to you, since YOU will have to pick up the slack of those non-taxed elites and pay your fair share... or else. And yes, YOU WILL PAY.

So we have the "working class" who are actually extorted out of 32.9 percent of each dollar they make, so that leaves .67 cents out of each dollar. Oh, wait, the state also takes their cut, lets lay only 5%, that leaves us with .62 of every dollar we earn. So in essence the government, like a mafia protection racket, takes approximately one third CUT of whatever you make, but instead of breaking your fingers or legs it sends you off to jail if you refuse to pay your extortion fees.

Oh, no, it does not end there, this is just the beginning! Now with that .62 cents per dollar you have left, EVERYTHING you PURCHASE also gets taxed! Yep, cough up that sales tax! If you own your home then you are one of the privileged that get to pay thousands upon thousands of EXTRA TAXES such as home owners tax, school tax, property tax, city tax, law enforcement tax, fire dept tax, community development tax, transit tax, etc., etc. Oh... and if you can't pay those taxes? You are served lien papers and the enforcement mafia come in and takes your property and/or you are even imprisoned! Meanwhile many goliath billion dollar corporations get off scot free without having to pay any taxes, as a matter of fact, according to the US Gov. Accountability Office, in July 2008, many corporations reported NO tax liabilities. In fact, from 1998-2005, a staggering 72% of foreign controlled domestic corporations, and 55% of US controlled corporations reported ZERO tax liability for at least one of those years! Doh! Open your eyes sheeple for you are in reality just slaves within the system. Your freedoms are all an illusion. But oh yes, you have rights, yes, you have rights to remain silent, do as you are told and pay up buddy.

So... we as a nation have come full circle. We demanded and got our independence from tyrannical oppressive highly taxation driven government called England and today we ARE again living under the exact same circumstances, yet this time around, come April 15th of every year all the sheeple line up to pay up like nice docile servants, then head back to their allotted slot in life. Back to the rat life treadmill.

I am often so disgusted at what I witness happening in this nation of ours that at times I wish this were all a bad dream. 30% of our population lives in dire poverty levels, our public school system is rated along with the worst in the world, right behind third world countries no less, over 47 million sheeple have absolutely no medical care, for example: recently Bush vetoed and said NO to a $30 billion package to provide healthcare to our poor children here in our country, and within the same time period it was disclosed that Bush signed a $30 billion aid package to Israel! DOH! This is business as usual.

For over half a century, the US has been spending and giving away HUNDREDS OF BILLIONS of Dollars EACH AND EVERY YEAR to other countries all the while completely DENYING its own citizens of basic needs. I have seen our ghettos, I have witnessed dire poverty all over our country, I have been in hundreds of public hospitals and schools. It is a readily accepted fact that the chasm between the rich and poor keeps growing. Yet no one cares, business as usual. Tax breaks for the aristocrat rich, more taxes and burdens for the working class. I can go on and on.

For many reading this, I am not saying anything new. This is common knowledge, and everyone seems to just sit back and accept this as a way of life. What everyone does not know is that in fact all this is a product of our Zionist masters. The U.S. Inc. is just another TOOL in their hands. The Zionists are not concerned about the U.S., their vision and goal is GLOBAL DOMINATION through ECONOMIC COLONIZATION. If they stopped bleeding us dry here in this country who would pay for the over 700 military bases around the globe to protect their interests? Who would pay for all the globalization and expansion? The Zionists own this country lock stock and barrel. Period. You will just accept what little funds they keep in this country to keep the motors going and be happy with it. For all the rest of the moneys will, as has always been, continued to be siphoned away, business as usual, so go back under your rock and leave the Zionists alone. Sleep, sleep, goyim sleep.

Male Prostitute and White House Correspondent Extraordinaire – Video (disappeared from the internet)

But WHY must we continue to give away hundreds of billions of dollars each and every year to other countries and watch our own nation go deeper into darkness and despair? At one point in time, America was viewed world wide as "the best", the best schools, the best transportation, the best medical, the best of this the best of that, the list was amazing. Today we are no longer viewed or even qualify to be "the best" at almost anything. No longer do those elected bastards in Washington give a damn about this country.

We have been sold out to the highest bidders. All our manufacturing has been shipped overseas to countries such as one of America's arch enemies like COMMUNIST CHINA! Under the Bush Administration alone America exported, shipped overseas (lost) 4,401,000 manufacturing jobs (that's just the manufacturing sector) to other countries, is it any wonder why we are now being faced with catastrophic economic collapse? Doh! Our leaders, in their ever increasing stupefying brain numbness, actually encourage shipping as many jobs as possible out of this country! They offer corporations TAX BREAKS FOR DOING SO AS AN INCENTIVE!!!

Over the past few decades we have allowed the corporate giants to ship mountains of American jobs overseas, and there are signs that this trend is only going to get worse. In fact, Princeton University economist Alan S. Blinder estimates that 22% to 29% of all current U.S. jobs will be offshorable within two decades. So get ready for even more of our jobs to be shipped off to Mexico, China and India.

Today we are witnessing the engineered major financial meltdown of America, that has also taken a global toll, one that is poised to make the engineered Great Depression seem like a boy scout operation. Trillions of dollars are quietly maneuvering around. Fortunes will be made and lost. The ruling elite are consolidating more wealth and power, buying up dirt cheap corporations. The middle class will become almost extinct. The "elected" officials running our government could care less about you, the working class, you have all been sold out long ago to the highest bidder. The sooner you realize this, the sooner you can begin to see true REALITY.

Millions upon millions of jobs constantly "OUTSOURCED," literally shipped overseas. No it is not some miscalculation or mix-up on the part of our elected leaders, the organized and premeditated export of the BACKBONE of AMERICA jobs has been nothing more than another key factor in the PREMEDITATED ENGINEERED COLLAPSE OF THE ECONOMY brought to you by your benevolent, caring, warm and fuzzy banker elites who methodically hyped, championed and pushed these policies and actions that lead up to this masterful collapse. The stage was officially set on October of 2002, at George Washington University where Bush Jr. gave his "Increasing Minority Ownership" speech. Thus officially began the extraordinary scam to put 5.5 million poor (burger flippers, even illegal aliens!) minorities into homes with mortgages that were set to self destruct in a few years. That scam was quickly followed by the colossal CDO con on unsuspecting investors. The derivatives bubble can be likened to a colossal monster waiting to blow, and when/if it does, it WILL bring financial Armageddon.

What we are witnessing yet again is the off the shelf official strategy or modus operandi of the ruling elite: The Problem Reaction Solution Paradigm (The Hegelian Dialectic) in action.

- 1) The government creates or exploits a problem blaming it on others.
- 2) The people react by asking the government for help willing to give up their rights, property, wealth, etc.
- 3) The government (of government & their complicit institutions) offers the solution that was planned long before the crisis.

Through this Rosetta Stone we can get a good idea on what the TRUE intentions of the engineered collapse are. (We already know the major goals of the Zionist elite is the establishment of their "GOD given commandment" to create THEIR one world government and rule over the entire world with iron fists. Every year they get closer and closer to making this a reality). Behold, as the Zionist elite masterfully manipulate the world financial markets and world leaders leading up to the "SOLUTION" for the world economic collapse... a NEW WORLD ECONOMIC ORDER.

On the government's owners

By Glenn Greenwald, Oct. 10, 2009

The most revealing political quote of the last year came, in my view, from the second-highest ranking Democratic Senator, Dick Durbin, who told a local radio station in April: "And the banks -- hard to believe in a time when we're facing a banking crisis that many of the banks created -- are still the most powerful lobby on Capitol Hill. And they frankly own the place." The best Congressional floor speech of the last year on the financial crisis was this extraordinarily piercing five-minute revelation from Rep. Marcy Kaptur of Ohio on the Wall Street bailout and how the Congress is subservient to their dictates. And the single most insightful article on the financial crisis was written by former IMF Chief Economist and current MIT Professor Simon Johnson in the May, 2009 issue of The Atlantic, when he argued that "the finance industry has effectively captured our government" and detailed how the U.S. has become very similar to failed emerging-market nations in both its political and economic culture.

All of that came together last night on Bill Moyers' Journal program, as Johnson and Kaptur together discussed the stranglehold which the financial industry exerts over the federal government and how that has produced a jobless recovery in which the only apparent beneficiaries are the bankers and other financial elites who caused the financial crisis in the first place. The discussion began with reference to this Associated Press article from last week, which examined Timothy Geithner's calendars, obtained through a FOIA request. Those documents show that Geithner spends an amazing amount of time on the telephone with the CEOs of Goldman Sachs, Citibank and JP Morgan: "Goldman, Citi and JPMorgan can get Geithner on the phone several times a day if necessary, giving them an unmatched opportunity to influence policy." Other than the President, virtually everyone else -- including leading members of Congress -- are forced to leave messages. Kaptur and Johnson begin by discussing what that signifies in terms of the ongoing financial crisis and how government works.

I'll excerpt a few representative passages, but the entire segment is very worth watching:

[excerpt from Capitalism: A Love Story]: "MICHAEL MOORE: Do you think it's too harsh to call what has happened here a coup d'état? A financial coup d'état?

REP. MARCY KAPTUR: That's, no. Because I think that's what's happened. Um, a financial coup d'état?

MICHAEL MOORE: Yeah.

MARCY KAPTUR: I could agree with that. I could agree with that. Because the people here [pointing to the Capitol] really aren't in charge. Wall Street is in charge"

SIMON JOHNSON: Well, I think it really tells you how the system works. The system is based on access and is based on what on Wall Street shaping Washington's view of what's important.

It's the people who are very close to Mr. Geithner before when he was the head of the New York Fed. Before he became Treasury Secretary. These people have unparalleled access. And in a crisis, when everything is up for grabs, you don't know what's going on, the people who will take your phone calls, right, in government and people who are going to be standing in the oval office, making the key decisions. That's the heart of the system. That's the heart of how you get your agenda through, by changing their worldview. . . .

And Rahm Emanuel, the President's Chief of Staff has a saying. He's widely known for saying, 'Never let a good crisis go to waste'. Well, the crisis is over, Bill. The crisis in the financial sector, not for people who own homes, but the crisis for the big banks is substantially over. And it was completely wasted. The Administration refused to break the power of the big banks, when they had the opportunity, earlier this year. And the regulatory reforms they are now pursuing will turn out to be, in my opinion, and I do follow this day to day, you know. These reforms will turn out to be essentially meaningless. . . .

BILL MOYERS: A reality check. Not one CEO of a Wall Street bank was there to hear the President. What do you make of that?

SIMON JOHNSON: Arrogance. Because they have no fear for the government anymore. They have no respect for the President, which I find absolutely extraordinary and shocking. All right? And I think they have no not an ounce of gratitude to the American people, who saved them, their jobs, and the way they run the world.

BILL MOYERS: In the scheme of things, it is the Congress, and the government that's supposed to stand up to the powerful, organized interests, for the people in Toledo, who can't come to Washington. Who are working or trying to keep their homes or trying to pay their health bills. What's happened to our government?

MARCY KAPTUR: Congress has really shut down. I'm disappointed in both chambers, because wouldn't you think, with the largest financial crisis in American history, in the largest transfer of wealth from the American people to the biggest banks in this country, that every committee of Congress would be involved in hearings, that this would be on the news, that people would be engaged in this. . . .*

As Kaptur said, given the size and scope of "the largest transfer of wealth from the American people to the biggest banks in this country," one would expect there to be massive public interest in what happened and why, and, more so, whether any of this is being fixed (it plainly isn't). One would particularly expect the Democratic Party -- which has long branded itself as being the populist party against Wall Street -- would be leading that charge, for political benefit if not for substantive reasons. But that's clearly not happening, and the primary reason why is because both political parties, as institutions, are dependent on and thus controlled by the very industry that is at the heart of it.

Among the two parties, there's no outlet for the populist anger that Kaptur understands and is voicing because each party is eager to serve the interests of those who fund them. And that's why Democrats have largely ceded the populist anger over Wall Street to GOP operatives who are exploiting the "tea party" movement as the only real organized citizen activism over these issues. See this article from last week: "Wall Street money rains on Chuck Schumer":

While the industry has scaled back its political spending in the wake of last year's economic collapse, data from the Center for Responsive Politics show that it's still investing heavily in the Senate, where it's likely to have its best shot at stopping — or at least shaping — the crackdown on Wall Street that President Barack Obama has proposed.

And it's clearly looking to Democrats to do it.

Of the $10.6 million the industry has given to sitting senators this year, more than $7.7 million has gone to Democrats.

This is hardly unique to the banking industry. This is how the political system works generally. Earnest, substantive debates over this or that policy are so often purely illusory, as the only factor that really drives that outcomes is the question of who owns and thus controls the political system. That central fact subsumes just about everything else.

Yes call me a tin foil hat fruit cake if you must, but when you go to sleep at night, you will know deep in your heart, I have been right. Right about just about everything, EVERYTHING I have discussed here in the Matrix Report is based on one common denominator, the FACTS and TRUTH.

Recently there was an unprecedented somewhat ground shaking move by the Obama camp, they released secret memos from the Bush & Co. Crime Syndicate administration. No matter how much I try, I can't hope to articulate this whole fiasco as well as Glenn Greenwald has. I will just cherry pick:

“One of the central facts that we, collectively, have not yet come to terms with is how extremist and radical we the people running the country for the last eight years” That condition, by itself, made it virtually inevitable that the resulting damage would be severe and fundamental, even irreversible in some sense. It's just not possible to have a rotting, bloated, deeply corrupt and completely insular political ruling class – operating behind impenetrable walls of secrecy – and avoid the devastation that is now becoming so manifest. It's just a matter of basic cause and effect.”

“Yet those who have spent the last several years pointing out how unprecedentedly extremist and radical was our political leadership (and how meek and complicit were our other key institutions) were invariably dismissed as shrill hysterics. As countless examples... scoffing at the notion that there was anything radical or unusual taking place in the U.S...”

“It is somewhat surreal to witness – now that George Bush is out of office – the avalanche of establishment media reports suddenly acknowledging [finally!] today, rather explicitly, how radical and lawless his presidency was, as though we only learned of that this week with the release of these memos.”

“Over the last eight years, we had a system in place where we pretended that our ‘laws’ were the things enacted out in the open by our congress and that were set forth by the Constitution. The reality, though, was that our government secretly vested itself with the power to ignore those public laws, to declare them invalid, and instead, create a whole regime of secret laws that vested tyrannical, monarchical power in the president. Nobody knew what those secret laws were because even congress, despite a few lame and meek requests, was denied access to them”

Topped off with Scott Horton's remarks: “We may not have realized it at the time, but in the period from late 2001 until January 19, 2009, this country was a dictatorship. The constitutional rights we learned about in high school civics were suspended. That was thanks to secret memos crafted deep inside the Justice Department that effectively trashed the Constitution. What we know now is the least of it.”

All this and more is finally hemorrhaging as secrets of the last administration are being leaked left and right. Even the CIA has recently “fessed up” and admitted to destroying 92 interrogation video tapes. I'm sure even more sinister secrets will continue to see the light of day as the Bush minions shed their fears and the death grip of the Bush dark ages loses its potency. The fact of the matter is that now AFTER THE FACT, people are somehow mysteriously more willing to drop their insane biased blindness and accept what was so plainly evident to some of us.

In recent news: "CIA man retracts claim on waterboarding" he basically admitted that they lied. What I found interesting was the lone post in the comment section by a very astute person; he summed up what the news story failed to discern: "Who cares now? It's too late and nobody in our government is going to hold anyone from the Bush administration accountable for anything. Lying worked! Everyone has forgotten about waterboarding and has turned their attention to who is the new judge on American Idol."

One thing that keeps nagging at me is the overwhelming feeling that it seems that the Republicans "took a dive" for the 2008 elections. Look who they had posing as potential "presidential material": drag queen Giuliani, senile grandpa McCain, half interested Hollywood actor, a dimwit airhead Palin for vice president pick. Then they all ran seriously flawed half witted hate filled propaganda campaigns.

Admit it, the republicans were supposed to lose! Just as in a staged heavy weight prize fight, they were set to "take the fall." You see, they were playing "hot potato" and Obama with his democratic party were the chosen ones to be left holding the hot potato (the economy teetering on collapse). The republicans systematically, literally destroyed the economy, gutted out the financial system, embedded us in several "no win" clusterfuck wars, etc. Now that they have their "patsy" Obama, in place to take the blame for the economic collapse and flushing trillions of dollars down the drain. They are all looking to setup the democrats to blame for the sure oncoming implosion and self destruction of our country! As of this moment Obama has been in office for just 55 days and the republicans and the media are already overwhelmingly blaming him for sinking our country into the abyss. This is how your ruling masters ingeniously keep the sheeple masses at each other's throats, choosing sides and constantly bickering and battling one another's political views, based upon the classic divide and conquer, two disparate opponents battle death match. Everyone chose your side, bunker down and prepare to battle the "evil" opposing political party. While others sit on the sidelines and cheer for "their team" to win. Right or wrong be damned, it's down to "my side" are the good guys, the other guys are evil.

More importantly you must NEVER forget that no matter how seemingly unfathomable it may sound, EVERYTHING has been carefully engineered. Bush's "elections", 911, Anthrax attacks, the wars, the economy, constant chipping away of our constitutional rights, Obama's coronation, the "bailout" scam transferring all the wealth to the banks, it is all mind boggling when you truly understand it is but just a small cabal orchestrating all these events like a fine concert. Now it is Obama and his Zionist administration's turn at the wheel, everyone has received their scripts and are all taking their cues from their handlers ready to put out their award winning performances.

I don't make this stuff up, look, the republicans are fighting any real recovery efforts with tooth and nail, pushing for proven failed tactics of ever "more tax cuts!" as if they would magically heal the whole country (not to mention the what? 40 to 50 million folks with no jobs for tax cuts to help out! Doh). Some of them are even declaring they will not accept stimulus funds, and so forth, the shenanigans are mounting daily. It's all about sabotaging the recovery and taking back the senate and the house in 2010. But does it even matter? They are both (left and right) being lead by the same central Zionist illuminati force. So in the end it is all a game of catch throwing the ball back and forth.

Lets also never forget, the republicans had their 8 years of unhindered, cart blanch FASCIST component building orgy, now it's the democrats turn to break out their SOCIALIST component building orgies, as we witness these two allegedly "opposing" forces bring about a concerted mind numbing strategic transformation of our once great nation...

Pictured above, Obama demonstrates his devotedness to his Zionist masters as he dons his kippah... For those of you with high hopes of the new “savior” that was recently appointed, the Obamanator, to TRULY change our government and fix all that ails “the system”, boy do I have bridge to sell you! BTW: 80% of Jews voted for Obama. FYI: another clue he is sold out: he refuses to prosecute the war criminal R.I.C.O. crime gang of Cheney Bush Rumsfeld Rice & Co.

And if they do mount some sort of “Truth Commission”, beware, it will be no different than the Warren Commission and the 911 Commission. It will be set up and run by status quo cronies to once and for all sanctify, legitimize the sins of the Bush & Co. Crime Syndicate. Period, for the Democrats serve the same masters the Republicans serve, thus there will be ZERO prosecutions of any republican criminal behavior of the past administration.

Congressional hearings are only conducted to placate the public for they are all just a dog and pony show where they trot out the current usual suspects and conduct bullshit farce hearings where the actors are sat in front of a committee or commission. You have seen it countless times; each and every dog and pony show “congressional investigation” broadcast live on TV along with all the other Hollywood fairytale productions. The participants are paraded in front of a committee and made answer questions regarding whatever scheme the ruling elite are up to at that time, in the end the results are always the same; 99% of the time NOTHING OF IMPORTANCE EVER, EVER, EVER COMES OUT OF THOSE HEARINGS. But the feeble minded blind public somehow always manages to come out of the charade with a false sense of justice. Then back to grazing in the fields they all go.

One of the many current “hearings” being conducted as these words are being written is the House Oversight Committee on Capitol Hill with Timothy Geithner on the “hot seat” in regards to the AIG Bailout: “was there a cover-up/backdoor bailouts?” They questioned Geithner on everything concerning AIG, Goldman Sachs and the bailout as if he was the sole suspect when in reality the major players were NEVER identified or questioned.

I say send ALL the traitors to prison, then, and only then will I stand down and start to develop HOPE that you have campaigned of. Prove to us you are truly a reformer and send ALL those criminals to prison beginning with Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld and Rice. I want to see a special display at the Smithsonian Institute with each and every one of their HEADS on silver platters and the inscription something like: “This is what we do to treasonous basterds who abuse and betray the PUBLIC TRUST, our most sacred high offices of the land, and dare sell out our country to private agendas.” Until then, I will blaze ahead with my “Weapons of Mass Truthstruction”, and I will be taking no prisoners, for I will cut all liars and evil ones down with my sword of TRUTH.

At this moment, just days before the coronation of Obama, we are witnessing the most massively over hyped media promotion of an agenda in history. Estimates run in the $175 million just for the coronation extravaganza. Every single newspaper, TV station, networks are abuzz with excitement. All the Zionist owned media are operating in overdrive praising and propping up the Obamanator to no ends...

“JEWS RULE THE WORLD BY PROXY,” said the Malaysian prime minister, Mahathir Mohamad, in a speech to Indonesian heads of state in 2003, “they get others to die for them,” he emphasized.

Home boy has been putting together what the media are hailing as a “DREAM TEAM” consisting of the status quo, who’s who of Washington insiders and the largest collection of Zionist Jews to ever be assembled under any administration. The red flag, and warning sign that we have all been duped yet again, is the appointment of many hard core Zionists (and Crypto Jews) for key posts throughout his administration, beginning with one of the most frightening hard core Zionists Jew to walk the corridors of Washington: Rahm Emanuel. This guy is (yet another out of many dozens in office) passionate Israeli citizen who loves Israel so much he left the US several years ago to join the Israeli Defense Forces Army, then came back here to continue his infiltration of our political system.

“When a Jew, in America or in South Africa, talks to his Jewish companions about ‘our’ government, he means the government of Israel.” - David Ben-Gurion, Israeli Prime Minister

In a recent interview ex-congressman Eric Massa summed up Rahm: “Rahm Emmanuel is the son of the devil’s spawn.” He went on to say “He is an individual who would sell his mother to get a vote. He would strap his children to the front end of a steam locomotive.” LOL! Wow, someone in Washington finally found their balls to say it like it is, sadly that comes with a very hefty price in Washington: He was forced to turn in his resignation. The official ~~fairy tale~~, I mean “official account” why he is all of a sudden leaving: “health reasons.” Yea, right... if he tried to stay in office any longer he would be endangering his life alright! What would his demise be? An “accident”? Or any other of the thousands of ways that treasonous politicians die when they turn on their master rulers.

So Who’s Afraid of the Israel Lobby?

By Ray McGovern

[My notes: In order to provide the reader with an idea of how incredibly significant McGovern’s honest statements are, I feel it is necessary for you to understand where he obtained his keen insight from: He has been at the very heart of the political scene: Raymond McGovern (born 1939) is a retired CIA analyst for 27 years turned political activist. McGovern was a CIA officer under seven U.S. presidents over 27 years, presenting the morning intelligence briefings at the White House for many of them. He is now on the Steering Committee of Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity (VIPS) he also works for Tell the Word, the publishing arm of the ecumenical Church of the Saviour in Washington, DC.]

Virtually everyone: Republican, Democrat—Conservative, Liberal. The fear factor is non-partisan, you might say, and palpable.

The American Israel Public Affairs Committee brags that it is the most influential foreign policy lobbying organization on Capitol Hill, and has demonstrated that time and again, and not only on Capitol Hill.

Nowhere is the Lobby’s power more clearly demonstrated than in its ability to suppress the awful truth that on June 8, 1967 during the Six Day War:

--Israel deliberately attacked the intelligence collection ship USS Liberty, in full awareness it was a U.S. Navy ship, and did its best to sink it and leave no survivors;

--The Israelis would have succeeded had they not broken off the attack upon learning, from an intercepted message, that the commander of the U.S. 6th Fleet had launched carrier fighters to the scene; and

--By that time, 34 of the Liberty's crew had been killed and over 170 wounded.

Scores of intelligence analysts and senior officials have known this for years. That virtually all of them have kept a 40-year frightened silence is testament to the widespread fear of touching this live wire.

Even more telling is the fact that the National Security Agency destroyed voice tapes seen by many intelligence analysts, showing beyond doubt that the Israelis knew exactly what they were doing.

But the truth will out—eventually. All it took in this case is for a courageous journalist (of the endangered species kind) to listen to the surviving crew and do a little basic research, not shrinking from naming war crimes and not letting senior U.S. officials, from the president on down off the hook for suppressing—even destroying—unimpeachable evidence from intercepted Israeli communications.

The mainstream media have now published an exposé based largely on interviews with those most intimately involved.

A lengthy article by Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporter John Crewdson appeared in the Chicago Tribune and Baltimore Sun on Oct. 2 titled “New revelations in attack on American spy ship.” For the full story, click [here.]

To the subtitle goes the prize for understatement of the year: “Veterans, documents suggest U.S., Israel didn't tell full story of deadly 1967 incident.”

Better 40 years late than never, I suppose. Many of us have known of the incident and cover-up for a very long time and have tried to expose and discuss it for the lessons it holds for today.

It has proved far easier, though, to get a very pedestrian Dog-Bites-Man article published than an article with the importance and explosiveness of this damning story.

A Marine Stands Up

On the evening of Sept. 26, 2006, I gave a talk on Iraq to an overflow crowd of 400 at National Avenue Church in Springfield, Missouri.

A questioner asked what I thought of the study by John Mearsheimer of the University of Chicago and Stephen Walt of Harvard titled “The Israel Lobby and U.S. Foreign Policy.”

The study had originally been commissioned by The Atlantic Monthly. When the draft arrived, however, shouts of “Leper!” were heard at the Atlantic. The monthly wasted no time in saying thanks-but-no-thanks, and the leper-study then wandered in search of a home, finding none among American publishers.

Eventually the London Review of Books published it in March 2006.

I had read that piece carefully and found it an unusual act of courage as well as scholarship. That's what I told the questioner, adding that I did have two problems with the study:

--First, it seemed to me the authors erred in attributing virtually all the motivation for the U.S. attack on Iraq to the Israel Lobby and the so-called “neo-conservatives” running our policy and armed forces. Was Israel an important factor? Indeed. But of equal importance, in my view, was the oil factor and what the Pentagon now calls the “enduring” military bases in Iraq, which the White House and Pentagon decided were needed for the U.S. to dominate that part of the Middle East.

--Second, I was intrigued by the fact that Mearsheimer and Walt made no mention of what I believe to be, if not the most telling, then perhaps the most sensational proof of the power the Lobby knows it can exert over our government and Congress. In sum, in June 1967, after deliberately using fighter-bombers and torpedo boats to attack the USS Liberty for over two hours in an attempt to sink it and kill its crew, and then getting the U.S. government, the Navy and the Congress to cover up what happened, the Israeli government learned that it could—literally—get away with murder.

I found myself looking out at 400 blank stares. The USS Liberty? And so I asked how many in the audience had heard of the attack on the Liberty on June 8, 1967. Three hands went up; I called on the gentleman nearest me.

Ramrod straight he stood:

“Sir, Sergeant Bryce Lockwood, United States Marine Corps, retired. I am a member of the USS Liberty crew, Sir.”

Catching my breath, I asked him if he would be willing to tell us what happened.

“Sir, I have not been able to do that. It is hard. But it has been almost 40 years, and I would like to try this evening, Sir.”

You could hear a pin drop for the next 15 minutes, as Lockwood gave us his personal account of what happened to him, his colleagues and his ship on the afternoon of June 8, 1967.

He was a linguist assigned to collect communications intelligence from the USS Liberty, which was among the ugliest—and most easily identifiable—ships in the fleet with antennae springing out in all directions.

Lockwood told of the events of that fateful day, beginning with the six-hour naval and air surveillance of the Liberty by the Israeli navy and air force on the morning of June 8.

After the air attacks including thousand-pound bombs and napalm, three sixty-ton torpedo boats lined up like a firing squad, pointing their torpedo tubes at the Liberty’s starboard hull.

Lockwood had been ordered to throw the extremely sensitive cryptological equipment overboard and had just walked beyond the bulwark separating the NSA intelligence unit from the rest of the ship when, he recalled, he sensed a large black object, a tremendous explosion, and sheet of flame.

The torpedo had struck dead center in the NSA space.

The cold, oily water brought Lockwood back to consciousness. Around him were 25 dead colleagues; but he heard moaning.

Three were still alive; one of Lockwood’s shipmates dragged one up the hatch. Lockwood was able to lift the two others, one-by-one, onto his shoulder and carry them up through the hatch.

This meant alternatively banging on the hatch for someone to open it and swimming back to fish his shipmate out of the water lest he float out to sea through the 39-foot hole made by the torpedo.

At that Lockwood stopped speaking. It was enough. Hard, very hard—even after almost 40 years.

What Else We Know

John Crewdson’s meticulously documented article, together with the 57 pages that James Bamford devotes to the incident in Body of Secrets and recent confessions by those who played a role in the cover-up, paint a picture that the surviving crew of the USS Liberty can only find infuriating.

The evidence, from intercepted communications as well as testimony, of Israeli deliberate intent is unimpeachable, even though the Israelis continue to portray it as just a terrible mistake.

Crewdson refers to U.S. Navy Captain Ward Boston, who was the Navy lawyer appointed as senior counsel to Admiral Isaac C. Kidd, named by Admiral John S. McCain to “inquire into all the facts and circumstances.” [Yes, the father of presidential hopeful, Sen. John McCain.]

The fact that they were given only one week to gather evidence and were forbidden to contact the Israelis screams out “cover-up.”

Captain Boston, now 84, signed a formal declaration on Jan. 8, 2004, in which he described himself as “outraged at the efforts of the apologists for Israel in this country to claim that this attack was a case of ‘mistaken identity.’” Boston continued:

“The evidence was clear. Both Admiral Kidd and I believed with certainty that this attack...was a deliberate effort to sink an American ship and murder its entire crew...Not only did the Israelis attack the ship with napalm, gunfire, and missiles, Israeli torpedo boats machine-gunned three lifeboats that had been launched in an attempt by the crew to save the most seriously wounded—a war crime...I know from personal conversations I had with Admiral Kidd that President Lyndon Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara ordered him to conclude that the attack was a case of ‘mistaken identity’ despite overwhelming evidence to the contrary.”

Why the Israelis decided to take the draconian measure to sink a ship of the U.S. Navy is a subject of speculation.

One view is that the Israelis did not want the U.S. to find out they were massing troops to seize the Golan Heights from Syria, and wanted to deprive the U.S. of the opportunity to argue against such a move.

James Bamford, in Body of Secrets, adduces evidence, including reporting from an Israeli journalist eyewitness and an Israeli military historian, of wholesale killing of Egyptian prisoners of war at the coastal town of El Arish in the Sinai.

The Liberty was patrolling directly opposite El Arish in international waters but within easy range to pick up intelligence on what was going on there. And the Israelis were well aware.

As for the why, well, someone could at least approach the Israelis involved and ask, no?

The important thing here is not to confuse what is known (the deliberate nature of the Israeli attack) with the purpose behind it, which remains a matter of speculation.

Other Indignities

Bowing to intense pressure from the Navy, the White House agreed to award the Liberty’s skipper, Captain William McGonagle, the Medal of Honor....but not at the White House, and not by the president (as is the custom).

Rather, the Secretary of the Navy gave the award at the Washington Navy Yard on the banks of the acrid Anacostia River.

A naval officer involved in the awards ceremony told one of the Liberty crew, “The government is pretty jumpy about Israel...the State Department even asked the Israeli ambassador if his government had any objections to McGonagle getting the medal.”

Adding insult to injury, those of the Liberty crew who survived well enough to call for an independent investigation have been hit with charges of, you guessed it, anti-Semitism.

Now that some of the truth has emerged more and more, others are showing more courage in speaking out. In a recent e-mail, a former CIA analyst-colleague shared:

“The chief of the analysts studying the Arab/Israeli region at the time told me about the intercepted messages and said very flatly and firmly that the pilots reported seeing the American flag and repeated their requests for confirmation of the attack order. Whole platoons of Americans saw those intercepts. If NSA now says they do not exist, then someone ordered them destroyed.”

Leaving the destruction of evidence without investigation is an open invitation to repetition in the future.

As for the larger picture, visiting Israel this past summer I was constantly told that Egypt forced Israel into war in June 1967. This does not square with the unguarded words of Menachem Begin in 1982, when he was Israel’s prime minister. Rather he admitted publicly:

“In June 1967, we had a choice. The Egyptian army concentrations in the Sinai approaches do not prove that [Egyptian President] Nasser was really about to attack us. We must be honest with ourselves. We decided to attack him.”

Israel had, in fact, prepared well militarily and mounted provocations against its neighbors, in order to provoke a response that could be used to justify an expansion of its borders.

Israel’s illegal 40-year control over and confiscation of land in the occupied territories and U.S. enabling support (particularly the one-sided support by the current U.S. administration) go a long way toward explaining why it is that 1.3 billion Muslims “hate us.”

How foolish our nation that allows devoted hard core citizens of OTHER countries to hold key prominent important high offices of OUR nation is beyond me. This is the most self destructive mind boggling policy any of the world’s nations have ever implemented. It’s all good, soon it won’t matter. For if my calculations are correct, Obama will sell this nation’s sovereignty out and have us join some sort of regional or global North American Union scheme “to save our country” from total economic collapse. And the gullible fools will cheer him on too. So be it then, for destiny is calling...

On January 29, 2009, South Africa’s deputy foreign minister, Fatima Hajaig, was hailed before the national human rights body for saying that:

“Jews control America, no matter which government comes into power, whether Republican or Democratic, whether Barack Obama or George Bush. The control of America, just like the control of most western countries, is in the hands of Jewish money.”

Never forget the Masonic illuminati motto: “order out of chaos” for this motto is the battle cry of not only the Freemasonry sector, but of all the Zionist driven new world order apparatus. Right after Bush Jr. stole his office, a strategic “NATIONAL EMERGENCY” (9/11) was there to welcome him, to help clear the way and give him cart blanch dictatorial powers to do whatever he so choose. Don’t you at least find it intriguing that Obama’s entrance as president is also surrounded by a strategic “NATIONAL EMERGENCY”? While also handing him unfathomed powers of a “war presidency”? Not only is he continuing 2 loser wars for years on down the road, but this time around we have the icing on the cake of a total ECONOMIC COLLAPSE! Joe Biden let the cat out of the bag when speaking to contributors in Seattle and made the (at that time) STRANGE PREDICTION that Obama would be “tested” in his first six months of his administration.... Golly gee whiz folks, nothing to see here! Nothing is pre-planned... who would of ever known that our economy was going to self destruct? Just like who would of ever known we were going to be "attacked" by bogeymen on 9/11? Everything that is happening is all a COINCIDENCE.... Nothing more.... Now go back to sleep.... Sleep.... Sleep.....

What more proof do you need than to blatantly witness the Obama "democrats" administration pick up right where Bush & Company left off and continue the pre-existing agendas as if nothing happened. Investigating the criminal Bush & Co. administration "is not in the best interests of this country." Ummm, ok. That's like telling us that investigating the Gotti mafia family was not in the best interests of upholding the law. The ONLY thing that is different today is the TERMINOLIGY along with a more popular, charismatic Obama puppet leading the way. One of the first things Obama has done when taking office was to INCREASE the armed forces in the middle east! Wasn't his number 1 promise to stop all those bullshit wars? Didn't you get the memo? Oh no, the "Global War on Terror" does not exist anymore... the new official term is: "OVERSEAS CONTIGENCY OPERATIONS." I kid you not. Presto, the wars are now officially "over" without even pulling out one single soldier and instead ADDING more soldiers!!!... now THAT is the "change" you were all duped into believing in. Folks, it's only going to get more interesting as the puppet masters ratchet up the smoke and mirror illusions, mind games and play with terminology.

Guess what, Obama has not rescinded a SINGLE IOTA of all the draconian policies Bush & Co. put into play. All of Bush's executive orders, policies, all his favors to the large conglomerates, everything you can possibly imagine stands unchanged, as a stepping stone for the next president. Building blocks for the next phase of the ruling elite. Don't believe the hype that Obama will rescind anything. For in fact in less than 100 days in office he has STRENGTHENED the Bush policies and acts if he touched them. The latest one being the Obama administration embracing the Bush & Co warrantless wiretapping and secrecy. Yes you heard me right. The Obama administration formally adopted the Bush policies on warrantless wiretapping and secrecy. The case has been officially thrown out of court by Obama. Nothing more to see here folks, let the party continue is what they are telling us.

Pssst: Now it's the turn of the democrats to craft the socialist portion of the new world order agenda... now that the republicans did a fantastic bang up job running this country into the ground and implementing their part of the elite's fascist agenda portion so well, they performed a perfect 10 point pass maneuver, setting up the stage and handing the democrats the baton for their turn at the helm to implement the next phases of your total enslavement... the stage has been set, everyone has their scripts in hand... we should hand out Oscar awards to all the key players.....

U.S Founding Fathers' Statements Concerning the Jews

"They (the Jews) work more effectively against us than the enemy's armies. They are a hundred times more dangerous to our liberties and the great cause we are engaged in. It is much to be lamented that each state, long ago, has not hunted them down as pests to society and the greatest enemies we have to the happiness of America." - Source: Maxims of George Washington by A.A. Appleton & Co.

As the American colonies rose in revolt against political oppression occasioned by the attempt of Jewish banking houses in Europe to consolidate their economic foothold in the New World, no man among the Founding Fathers was more alert to the designs of international Jewry than that shrewd elder statesman of the American Revolution, Benjamin Franklin. Perhaps Ben Franklin's most damning indictment of Jewry was contained in his famous prophecy at the Constitutional Convention of 1787 in Philadelphia. In one of the most anti-Jewish utterances of all time, he declared:

"I fully agree with General Washington, that we must protect this young nation from an insidious influence and impenetration. That menace, gentlemen, is the Jews. In whatever country Jews have settled in any great number, they have lowered its moral tone; depreciated its commercial integrity; have segregated themselves and have not been assimilated; have sneered at and tried to undermine the Christian religion upon which that nation was founded by objecting to its restrictions; have built up a state within a state; and when opposed have tried to strangle that country to death financially, as in the case of Spain and Portugal.

"For over 1700 hundred years, the Jews have been bewailing their sad fate in that they have been exiled from their homeland, as they call Palestine. But, gentlemen, did the world give it to them in fee simple, they would at once find some reason for not returning. Why? Because they are vampires, and vampires do not live on vampires. They cannot live only amongst themselves. They must subsist on Christians and other people not of their race. If you do not exclude them from these United States in the Constitution, in less than 200 years they will have swarmed here in such great numbers that they will dominate and devour the land, and change our form of government, for which we Americans have shed our blood, given our lives, our substance, and jeopardized our liberty.

"If you do not exclude them, in less than 200 years our descendants will be working in the fields to furnish them substance, while they will be in the counting houses rubbing their hands. I warn you, gentlemen, if you do not exclude the Jews for all time, your children will curse you in your graves. Jews, gentlemen, are Asiatics, let them be born where they will or how many generations they are away from Asia, they will never be otherwise. Their ideas do not conform to an American's, and will not even though they live among us ten generations. A leopard cannot change its spots. Jews are Asiatics, are a menace to this country if permitted entrance, and should be excluded by this Constitutional Convention."

Franklin's remarks were recorded in "Chit Chat Around the Table During Intermissions," a section of the Diary of Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of South Carolina. Pickney (1746-1825) attended the Convention as a delegate, and took down excerpts of some of the outstanding addresses and discourses, which he later published in his diary. Perhaps the best proof of the Franklin prophecy ~ as with any prophecy ~ lies in its actual fulfillment. What Benjamin Franklin foresaw as an ominous possibility in 1787 has today ~ a little over two hundred years later ~ become painful reality.

NTS Notes: Again, our history is not as it seems. What we have written in the Zionist controlled press, the MSM, and through our education system is a pack of lies and untruths. Throughout history, many people have tried to warn others of the dangers of this group of parasites, and their constant efforts to dominate others.

The American nation is now teetering on the edge of total ruination. People have to wake up to the crimes of this select few and take a stand for freedom. When will people learn?

Washington has at times rightfully been referred to as the "Occupied Territory of Israel" Or the "Zionist Occupational Government" (ZOG). I won't even bother making a list of the who's who Zionist Jews in previous presidential administrations, for the embedded Zionist Jews in all previous administrations were just as numerous if not more than the current administrations. Just to give you a clear image of how pervasive has been their infiltration of our political arena I will just point out a few of the Zionists Jews that are embedded in just current administrations of this decade. I would gladly go back as far as the early 1900s but that would use up tons of more space in this report. Here is an eye opening quote hinting how deeply rooted and how widespread Jewish influence has been in Washington goes:

"The Roosevelt Administration has selected more Jews to fill influential positions than any previous administration." — Brooklyn Jewish Examiner, October 20, 1933.

"The Israelis control the policy in the congress and the senate." – Senator Fullbright, Chair of Senate Foreign Relations Committee: 10/07/1973 on CBS' "Face the Nation".

In an article for Counterpunch magazine titled "Pirates of the Mediterranean", Paul Craig Roberts (Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the Reagan Administration earning fame as a co-founder of Reaganomics) repeated charges that Gaza is "the world largest concentration camp" populated by people who were "driven out of Palestine so that "Israel could steal their land." He called the U.S. State Department a "puppet" of the Israelis and the U.S. itself a "puppet state" of the Israelis. He also stated that "there's no money for California, or for Americans' health care, or for the several million Americans who have lost their homes and are homeless, because Israel needs it."

THE WASHINGTON BRAIN TRUST:

Note: though the Zionist ruling "brain trusts" list can be made for every single administration going back to the days of Woodrow Wilson who signed our nation's finances away to the Zionist bankers by letting them establish the FED. From those days forward each subsequent administration the numbers of embedded Zionist agents continually increased along with their power, rule and authority over the affairs of this nation, most notably after their Kennedy coup d'état execution. But due to space requirements I will only list just the two latest administrations in order to provide a revealing glimpse into the vastness of their power and influence chokehold on America. Behold the tip of the Zionist iceberg:

The Bush Jr. Z.O.G. Crime Syndicate Administration:

Richard Pearl - (Zionist Jew double agent) One of Bush's foreign policy advisors, he was the Chairman of the Defense Policy Board Advisory Committee. A caught red handed Israeli government agent, Pearl was expelled from Senator Henry Jackson's office in the 1970's after the National Security Agency (NSA) caught him passing Highly-Classified (National Security) documents to the Israeli Embassy. (No red flags here! Lets appoint him to strategic high offices!) On the board of advisors of notorious ruling elite think tanks such Project for the New American Century (that called for a “new pearl harbor”). He led a study group for Israel called “A Clean Break: A New Strategy for Securing the Realm” the report delved in approaches to solving Israel’s security problems, it advocated aggressive new policy including removal of Saddam Hussein, striking Syria, new strategies for controlling U.S.-Israeli relations were some of the key topics. He later worked for the Israeli weapons firm, Soltam. Pearlle came from one of the above mentioned pro-Israel think-tank’s, the AEI. Pearlle is one of the leading pro-Israeli fanatics leading this Iraq war mongering within the administration and now in the media.

Paul Wolfowitz - (Zionist Jew double agent) Deputy Defense Secretary, and member of Pearlle's Defense Policy Board, in the Pentagon. Wolfowitz is a close associate of Pearlle, and reportedly has close ties to the Israeli military. His sister lives in Israel. Wolfowitz came from the above mentioned Jewish think-tank, JINSA. Wolfowitz is the number two leader within the administration behind this Iraq war mongering.

Douglas Feith - (Zionist Jew double agent) Under Secretary of Defense and Policy Advisor at the Pentagon. He is a close associate of Pearlle and served as his Special Counsel. Like Pearlle and the others, Feith is a pro-Israel extremist, who has advocated anti-Arab policies in the past. He is closely associated with the extremist group, the Zionist Organization of America, which even attacks Jews that don't agree with its extremist views. Feith frequently speaks at ZOA conferences. Feith runs a small law firm, Feith and Zell, which only has one International office, in Israel. The majority of their legal work is representing Israeli interests. His firm's own website stated, prior to his appointment, that Feith "represents Israeli Armaments Manufacturer." Feith basically represents the Israeli War Machine. Feith also came from the Jewish think-tank JINSA. Feith, like Pearlle and Wolfowitz, are campaigning hard for this Israeli proxy war against Iraq.

Edward Luttwak - (Zionist Jew double agent) Member of the National Security Study Group of the Department of Defense at the Pentagon. Luttwak is reportedly an Israeli citizen and has taught in Israel. He frequently writes for Israeli and pro-Israeli newspapers and journals. Luttwak is an Israeli extremist whose main theme in many of his articles is the necessity of the U.S. waging war against Iraq.

Henry Kissinger - (Zionist Jew double agent) One of many Pentagon Advisors, Kissinger sits on the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board under Pearlle. For detailed information about Kissinger's evil past, read Seymour Hersch's book (Price of Power: Kissinger in the Nixon White House). Kissinger likely had a part in the Watergate crimes, Southeast Asia mass murders (Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos), Installing Chilean mass murdering dictator Pinochet, Operation Condor's mass killings in South America, and more recently served as Serbia's Ex-Dictator Slobodan Milosevic's Advisor. He consistently advocates going to war against Iraq. Kissinger is the Ariel Sharon of the U.S. Unfortunately, President Bush nominated Kissinger as chairman of the September 11 investigating commission. It's like picking a bank robber to investigate a fraud scandal.

Dov Zakheim - (Zionist Jew double agent) Under Secretary of Defense, Comptroller, and Chief Financial Officer (CFO) for the Department of Defense. He is an ordained rabbi and reportedly holds Israeli citizenship. Zakheim attended Jew's College in London and became an ordained Orthodox Jewish Rabbi in 1973. He was adjunct professor at New York's Jewish Yeshiva University. Zakheim is close to the Israeli lobby.

Kenneth Adelman - (Zionist Jew double agent) one of many Pentagon Advisors, Adelman also sits on the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board under Pearlle, and is another extremist pro-Israel advisor, who supports going to war against Iraq. Adelman frequently is a guest on Fox News, and often expresses extremist and often ridiculous anti-Arab and anti-Muslim views. Through his hatred or stupidity, he actually called Arabs "anti-Semitic" on Fox News (11/28/2001), when he could have looked it up in the dictionary to find out that Arabs by definition are Semites.

I. Lewis Libby - (Zionist Jew double agent) Vice President Dick Cheney's Chief of Staff. The chief pro-Israel Jewish advisor to Cheney, it helps explain why Cheney is so gun-ho to invade Iraq. Libby is longtime associate of Wolfowitz. Libby was also a lawyer for convicted felon and Israeli spy Marc Rich, whom Clinton pardoned.

Robert Satloff - (Zionist Jew double agent) U.S. National Security Council Advisor, Satloff was the executive director of the Israeli lobby's "think tank," Washington Institute for Near East Policy. Many of the Israeli lobby's "experts" come from this front group, like Martin Indyk.

Elliott Abrams - (Zionist Jew double agent) National Security Council Advisor. He previously worked at Washington-based "Think Tank" Ethics and Public Policy Center. During the Reagan Administration, Abrams was the Assistant Secretary of State, handling, for the most part, Latin American affairs. He played an important role in the Iran-Contra Scandal, which involved illegally selling U.S. weapons to Iran to fight Iraq, and illegally funding the contra rebels fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's Sandinista government. He also actively deceived three congressional committees about his involvement and thereby faced felony charges based on his testimony. Abrams pled guilty in 1991 to two misdemeanors and was sentenced to a year's probation and 100 hours of community service. A year later, former President Bush (Senior) granted Abrams a full pardon. He was one of the more hawkish pro-Israel Jews in the Reagan Administration's State Department.

Marc Grossman - (Zionist Jew double agent) Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs. He was Director General of the Foreign Service and Director of Human Resources at the Department of State. Grossman is one of many of the pro-Israel Jewish officials from the Clinton Administration that Bush has promoted to higher posts.

Richard Haass - (Zionist Jew double agent) Director of Policy Planning at the State Department and Ambassador at large. He is also Director of National Security Programs and Senior Fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). He was one of the more hawkish pro-Israel Jews in the first Bush (Sr) Administration who sat on the National Security Council, and who consistently advocates going to war against Iraq. Haass is also a member of the Defense Department's National Security Study Group, at the Pentagon.

Robert Zoellick - (Zionist Jew double agent) U.S. Trade Representative, a cabinet-level position. He is also one of the more hawkish pro-Israel Jews in the Bush (Jr) Administration who advocated invading Iraq and occupying a portion of the country in order to set up setting up a Vichy-style puppet government. He consistently advocates going to war against Iraq.

Ari Fleischer - (Zionist Jew double agent) Official White House Spokesman for the Bush (Jr) Administration. Prominent in the Jewish community, some reports state that he holds Israeli citizenship. Fleischer is closely connected to the extremist Jewish group called the Chabad Lubavitch Hasidics, who follow the Qabala, and hold very extremist and insulting views of non-Jews. Fleischer was the co-president of Chabad's Capitol Jewish Forum. He received the Young Leadership Award from the American Friends of Lubavitch in October, 2001.

James Schlesinger - (Zionist Jew double agent) One of many Pentagon Advisors, Schlesinger also sits on the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board under Pearle and is another extremist pro-Israel advisor, who supports going to war against Iraq. Schlesinger is also a commissioner of the Defense Department's National Security Study Group, at the Pentagon.

David Frum - (Zionist Jew double agent) White House speechwriter behind the "Axis of Evil" label. He lumps together all the lies and accusations against Iraq for Bush to justify the war.

Joshua Bolten - (Zionist Jew double agent) White House Deputy Chief of Staff, Bolten was previously a banker, former legislative aide, and prominent in the Jewish community.

John Bolton - (Zionist Jew double agent) Under-Secretary of State for Arms Control and International Security. Bolton is also a Senior Advisor to President Bush. Prior to this position, Bolton was Senior Vice President of the above mentioned pro-Israel think-tank, AEI. He recently (October 2002) accused Syria of having a nuclear program, so that they can attack Syria after Iraq. He must have forgotten that Israel has 400 nuclear warheads, some of which are thermonuclear weapons (according to a recent U.S. Air Force report).

David Wurmser - (Zionist Jew double agent) Special Assistant to John Bolton (above), the under-secretary for arms control and international security. Wurmser also worked at the AEI with Pearle and Bolton. His wife, Meyrav Wurmser, along with Colonel Yigal Carmon, formerly of Israeli military intelligence, co-founded the Middle East Media Research Institute (Memri), a Washington-based Israeli outfit which distributes articles translated from Arabic newspapers portraying Arabs in a bad light.

Eliot Cohen - (Zionist Jew double agent) Member of the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board under Pearle and is another extremist pro-Israel advisor. Like Adelman, he often expresses extremist and often ridiculous anti-Arab and anti-Muslim views. More recently, he wrote an opinion article in the Wall Street Journal openly admitting his racist hatred of Islam claiming that Islam should be the enemy, not terrorism.

Mel Sembler - (Zionist Jew double agent) President of the Export-Import Bank of the United States. A Prominent Jewish Republican and Former National Finance Chairman of the Republican National Committee. The Export-Import Bank facilitates trade relationships between U.S. businesses and foreign countries, specifically those with financial problems.

Michael Chertoff - (Zionist Jew double agent) Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division, at the Justice Department leading the case against alleged terrorist suspect Zacarias. He was appointed Secretary of Homeland Security. A known registered citizen of another country, Israel, head of our nation's Homeland Security... He is a huge advocate of full body scanners seen at airports, oh by the way, one of his key clients of his is the company that makes those scanners. /sigh/

Steve Goldsmith - (Zionist Jew double agent) Senior Advisor to the President, and Bush's Jewish domestic policy advisor. He also serves as liaison in the White House Office of Faith-Based and Community Initiatives (White House OFBCI) within the Executive Office of the President. He was the former mayor of Indianapolis. He is also friends with Israeli Jerusalem Mayor Ehud Olmert and often visits Israel to coach mayors on privatization initiatives.

Adam Goldman - (Zionist Jew double agent) White House's Special Liaison to the Jewish Community.

Joseph Gildenhorn - (Zionist Jew double agent) Bush Campaign's Special Liaison to the Jewish Community. He was the DC finance chairman for the Bush campaign, as well as campaign coordinator, and former ambassador to Switzerland.

Christopher Gersten - (Zionist Jew double agent) Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary, Administration for Children and Families at HHS. Gersten was the former Executive Director of the Republican Jewish Coalition, Husband of Labor Secretary, Linda Chavez, and reportedly very pro-Israel. Their children are being raised Jewish.

Mark Weinberger - (Zionist Jew double agent) Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development for Public Affairs.

Samuel Bodman - (Zionist Jew double agent) Deputy Secretary of Commerce. He was the Chairman and CEO of Cabot Corporation in Boston, Massachusetts.

Bonnie Cohen - (Zionist Jew double agent) Under Secretary of State for Management.

Ruth Davis - (Zionist Jew double agent) Director of Foreign Service Institute, who reports to the Office of Under Secretary for Management. This Office is responsible for training all Department of State staff (including ambassadors).

Daniel Kurtzer - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Israel.

Cliff Sobel - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to the Netherlands.

Stuart Bernstein - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Denmark.

Nancy Brinker - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Hungary and then chief of protocol for the State Dept.

Frank Lavin - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Singapore.

Ron Weiser - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Slovakia.

Mel Sembler - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Italy.

Martin Silverstein - (Zionist Jew double agent) Ambassador to Uruguay.

Lincoln Bloomfield - (Zionist Jew double agent) Assistant Secretary of State for Political Military Affairs.

Jay Lefkowitz - (Zionist Jew double agent) Deputy Assistant to the President and Director of the Domestic Policy Council.

Ken Melman - (Zionist Jew double agent) White House Political Director.

Brad Blakeman - (Zionist Jew double agent) White House Director of Scheduling.

Michael Mukasey – (Zionist Jew double agent) Attorney General

Jeffrey Berkowitz – (Zionist Jew double agent) White House Liaison to the Jewish Community and then office of presidential scheduling

Chris Gersten - (Zionist Jew double agent) Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary, Administration for Children and Families at HHS

Blake Gottesman – (Zionist Jew double agent) President's personal aide

Jeremy L. Katz – Noam Neusner – Tevi Troy – Jay Zeidman – (Zionist Jew double agents) all of whom were at one time or another White House Liaison to the Jewish Community

John Miller - (Zionist Jew double agent) Director, State Department Office to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons.

The Obama Z.O.G. Crime Syndicate Administration: (THOSE WHO ARE REALLY IN CHARGE OF THIS COUNTRY)

Let's see, ummm... Let's see, how much illusion of "CHANGE" Obama hypothetically brought to the nation. The Zionist Jews who Obama has so far appointed to run this country, including the usual who's who CFR, Bilderberg and Trilateral Commission, Banksters and Zionist Jew agents such as his very first pick for office: Chief of Staff Rahm Emanuel (Jew and all his Jew Deputies he brought on board with him); Then came more Zionist Jew Mafiosos: Richard Hass (Jew) President of the CFR and Obama's ambassador at large; Richard Holbrooke (Jew), Dennis Ross (Jew); Senior Advisor to the President; David Axelrod (Jew) (was also chief strategist for Obama's 2008 campaign); Peter Orszag (Jew) Director Office of Management and budget, Formerly a member of Clinton's Whitehouse, advisor to the Bank of Iceland before they crashed and burned, and also advisor to the Jewish Oligarchs in Russia when they started stealing billions; bankster Timothy Geithner (crypto Jew) posing as Treasury Secretary; Special State Dept. Envoy Henry Kissinger (Jew titan); Presidential Advisor Alan Greenspan (Jew); Chairman of the Economic Recovery Committee Paul Volcker (Jew); Dept. of State James Steinberg (Jew); FDA Margret Hamburg (Jew); Treasury Advisor for the Auto Sector Steven Rattner (Jew); Economic Advisors to the President Larry Summers (Jew) Robert Rubin (Jew) & Alan Blinder (Jew); Director of Economic Policy Jason Furman (Jew); Chairman of the FTC Jon Leibowitz (Jew); Advisor to Obama Karen Kornbluh (Jew); Executive Associate Director of the Office of Management and Budget Jeffrey Liebman (Jew); Chairman of the FED Ben Shalom Bernake (Jew); Economic Advisor to Obama Joseph Stiglitz (Jew); David Romer (Jew) Collaborates with his wife Christina Romer (Jew), who is Chair of the Council of Economic Advisors; White House Advisor Pete Rouse (Jew); Assistant to the President for Legislative Affairs Phil Schiliro (Jew); Vice President Biden's Chief of Staff Ronald Klain (Jew); Vice President's Chief Economic Policy Advisor is Jared Bernstein (Jew); Deputy Chief of Staff Mona Sutphen (Jew);

Deputy Chief of Staff Pete Rouse (Jew); Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's top brass, her two Deputy Secretary of State are Jim Steinberg (Jew) and Jacob Lew (Jew) second in rank only to Hillary Clinton in foreign policy matters; Lawrence Summers (Jew) chairman of the National Economic Council; Paul Volcker (Jew) chairman of Economic Recovery Advisory Board; Jared Bernstein (Jew) Chief Economist and Economic Advisor, Vice President; Gary Gensler (Jew) chairman of Commodity Futures Trading Commission; Mary Schapiro (Jew) chairman of the SEC; Sheila Bair (Jew) chairman of the FDIC; Karen Mills (Jew) administrator of the Small Business Administration; chairman of the FCC is (Jew) Julius Genachowski; And just when you think you have heard it all, they install notorious AIG's chief bankrupt brain trust: Martin Feldstein (Jew) to Obama's Task Force on Tax Reform! I kid you not!; Michael Leiter (Jew) Director of National Counterterrorism, Janet Napolitano (morano Jew) Secretary of Department of Homeland Security. Born to Jewish mother (technically makes her Jewish), she claims her religion is now Methodist; Douglas Shulman (Jew) IRS Commissioner; Steven Rattner (Jew) Treasury

Advisor For Auto Sector; Jason Furman (Jew) Director Of Economic Policy; Ronald Klain (Jew) Chief of Staff to the Vice President; Lee Feinstein (Jew) Foreign Policy Advisor; Elena Kagan (Jew) Solicitor General of the United States; Eric Lynn (Jew) Middle East Policy Advisor; Mara Rudman (Jew) Foreign Policy Advisor; Dan Shapiro (Jew) Head of Middle East desk at the National Security Council also a major Washington lobbyist and fundraiser for the Democratic Party; Eric Lander and Harold E. Varmus (Jews) Co-Chairs of the President's Council of Advisers on Science/Technology; Penny Pritzker (Jew) Obama's National Finance Chair during the election cycle; Kenneth Wainstein (Jew) Homeland Security Advisor, Robert Reich (Jew) Economic adviser to Obama-Biden; Nora Volkow (Jew) Director, National Institute of Drug Abuse. Great-granddaughter of Trotsky (Leon Bronstein), Bolshevik murderer and point man for the International Banking Jew's over-throw of Russia; Jacob Lew (Jew) Budget Director; Alan Bersin (Jew) Special Representative for Border Affairs; Susan Sher (Jew) Chief of Staff for Michelle Obama; The people who put together and write Obama's speeches SCRIPTS telling him what to say are his Zionist Jew handlers, of which his main writer is Jon Farreau (Jew). OBAMA'S TOP 'CZARS': Economic Czar Larry Summers (Jew) (real name: Samuelson); Regulatory Czar Cass Sunstein (Jew); Pay Czar Kenneth Feinberg (Jew); Medical Czar (Jew) Ezekiel Emanuel (brother of Rahm Emanuel); Guantanamo/Military Jails Czar Daniel Fried (Jew); Car Czar Steven Rattner (Jew); Border Czar Alan Bersin (Jew); Climate Czar Todd Stern (Jew); Global Warming Czar Carol Browner (Jew); It should be noted that Barack Obama's science czar, John Holdren, co-authored (along with Zionist Jew Paul Ehrlich) the book Ecoscience in 1977 calling for population reduction through the use of sterilizing vaccinations, through food and water supply; And these are just a few of the new Zionist Jew appointees running our beloved country... There you have it folks... this is the "change" that Obama promised you! Washington, the Zionist Jew Banskter Paradise!

There you have it, 70+ of THE MOST POWERFUL people in America filing almost all of THE MOST POWERFUL POSITIONS in this country... and each and every one of them are Zionist AshkeNAZI European "Jews"... all of which are also loyal devote registered CITIZENS OF ANOTHER COUNTRY!: Israel... (see 13th Amendment below) embedded secret agents plying their craft in our country, skillfully manipulating our nation according to the wishes and agendas of their Zionist masters.... Wake up and smell the coffee:

BEHOLD FOR: One minute these "experts" work in the Israeli government, writing a policy paper advocating the destruction of Iraq, Iran and Syria, but not necessarily by Israel, and the next moment they are working in the Regan, Bush, Clinton, Bush, Obama administrations (etc.), where they scream that America should bomb and occupy... Iraq, Iran and Syria. The double agent are constantly pushing the Zionist/Israeli Manifesto.

"A nation can survive its fools, and even the ambitious. But it cannot survive treason from within. An enemy at the gates is less formidable, for he is known and carries his banner openly. But the traitor moves amongst those within the gate freely, his sly whispers rustling through all the alleys, heard in the very halls of government itself. For the traitor appears not a traitor; he speaks in accents familiar to his victims, and he wears their face and their arguments, he appeals to the baseness that lies deep in the hearts of all men. He rots the soul of a nation, he works secretly and unknown in the night to undermine the pillars of the city, he infects the body politic so that it can no longer resist. A murder is less to fear" - Marcus Tullius CICERO 106BC to 43BC, Roman philosopher and statesman.

NEWS FLASH: America is Israel's Bitch!

Serving Two Flags

Neo-Cons, Israel and the Bush EVERY Administration

By STEPHEN GREEN, 2004 A CounterPunch Special Report

Since 9-11, a small group of "neo-conservatives" in the Administration have effectively guttled--they would say reformed--traditional American foreign and security policy. Notable features of the new Bush doctrine include the pre-emptive use of unilateral force, and the undermining of the United Nations and the principle instruments and institutions of international law....all in the cause of fighting terrorism and promoting homeland security.

Some skeptics, noting the neo-cons' past academic and professional associations, writings and public utterances, have suggested that their underlying agenda is the alignment of U.S. foreign and security policies with those of Ariel Sharon and the Israeli right wing. The administration's new hard line on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict certainly suggests that, as perhaps does the destruction, with U.S. soldiers and funds, of the military capacity of Iraq, and the current belligerent neo-con campaign against the other two countries which constitute a remaining counterforce to Israeli military hegemony in the region--Iran and Syria.

Have the neo-conservatives--many of whom are senior officials in the Defense Department, National Security Council and Office of the Vice President--had dual agendas, while professing to work for the internal security of the United States against its terrorist enemies?

A review of the internal security backgrounds of some of the best known among them strongly suggests the answer....

The article goes on to reveal the potentially treasonous acts of several powerful Zionist Jews in the Bush Administration such as Richard Pearle, Stephen Bryen, Paul Wolfowitz, Michael Ledeen, Douglas Feith among others. Read the entire article here.

Those are just the operatives that the ruling elite selected to work within the Obamanator administration. How about the 2nd most powerful institution in America, the Senate? How many agents of a foreign country are operating there? Out of 100 senators currently in the senate, 33 of them are known Jews (thus we are not counting the crypto Jews). That means a full one third of the leaders running the most powerful part of our government, the Senate are Jews. This Jewish minority consists of the SINGLE LARGEST MAJORITY OF ALL POLITICAL GROUPS, this majority of Jews lead the nation making decisions of and for our country, many of which are dual citizens and most of them secretly harbor undying devotion and loyalty to Israel. Another 58 of them have infiltrated the House of Representatives, for control of almost one fifth of it. I haven't even tried to start counting the city and state governors, mayors, congressmen and so forth. Those numbers are not only extremely revealing of their DIRECT influence in Washington and American policies (not to mention the COLOSAL INDIRECT INFLUENCE). What is truly alarming is that these people are part of the wealthiest, most powerful ethnic group in the planet. Meanwhile the Jews represent some 0.5 percent of the total U.S. population and CONTROL ONE THIRD OF OUR ENTIRE GOVERNMENT, again, not to mention the hundreds of other key posts they have been "appointed" to and rule from, stop for a moment and think of the massive clout, pull and power this entire cartel of embedded Jewish operatives collectively wield without abandon...

Behold... for unbeknownst to all, Israel has been America's 51st State of the Union... The REAL capital of America is actually Israel... Our nation IS and HAS BEEN unequivocally, unanimously, undisputedly, officially run by proxy by the state of Israel for decades. Hence the use of the term Zionist Occupational Government by astute observers.

FYI: Washington DC is NOT the capital of the United States of America, Israel is our hidden capital.

The Original Thirteenth Article of Amendment

To The Constitution For The United States

"If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honour, or shall without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the United States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them." [Journal of the Senate]

On March 12, 1819 the State of Virginia, with the enactment and publication of the laws of Virginia, became the 13th and FINAL state required to ratify the above article of amendment to the Constitution For The United States, thus making it the Law Of The Land. With the enactment of Act No. 280, March 12, 1819, which was Voted, En Bloc, and publication of the Revised Code, the State of Virginia notified the Department of State, the Congress, the Library of Congress, and the President of their action by issuing to each a copy of the Laws of Virginia. [See VA 1819 Images] . In fact, the Journal of the Virginia Senate; Tuesday, May 1st, 1810 (Pages 511-512 shows that the resolution to amend was properly enrolled and ratified on that date by the Virginia House and Senate, to be laid before the President of the United States, therefore the first state to ratify.

This Article of Amendment is intimately connected to questions of loyalty, honesty, war and national defense. It is designed to combat internal subversion and discord sowed by people who are adhering to powers foreign to the Congress of the United States without stepping across the bold Constitutional line of treason. The authors of the TONA wrote it after some additional experience with how the British Empire, as well as other European nations, actually conduct their affairs. It is a corrective and supplemental measure to go along with Constitutional treason.

This Article of Amendment added an enforceable strict penalty, i.e., inability to hold office and loss of citizenship, for violations of the already existing constitutional prohibition in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8 on titles of nobility and other conflicts of citizenship interest, such as accepting emoluments of any kind for services or favors rendered or to be rendered, and is particularly applicable today in the 21st Century as government is increasingly FOR SALE to the highest bidder, as foreign nations and multinational corporations and individuals compete to line the pockets of politicians and political parties to accommodate and purchase protection or privilege for their special interests, i.e. with honors, such as money or allowing dual-citizenships.

In terms familiar to the common man, this might quite properly be called the use of bribes and graft by individuals and powers foreign, i.e. external, to the Congress of the United States to subvert the constitutional process and suborn our political system and the interests of WE THE PEOPLE.

After appearing in numerous official publications until 1876, this Article "disappeared" from our Constitution, to be replaced by another made nearly 50 years later. You may well ask how such a thing could have happened. So did we.

It is of particular interest to read the last three paragraphs of the preface to "Echoes From The Cabinet," published in 1896 click here .. To understand why our legislators made it disappear.

The disappearance of the original 13th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States has been under investigation by independent modern researchers during the past 27 years. We've learned a lot.

We now know that the original 13th Amendment was, and still is, the Law Of The Land.

The law is still there, waiting only to be publicly recognized and enforced once again to protect the Sovereignty and Interests of WE THE PEOPLE, and to force the elected representatives of the people to adhere strictly to their solemn and binding Oath of Office, i.e., "I, AB, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God." , and to the limitations of government imposed by the Constitution.

These are just a few Zionist Jews ~~Obama~~ (the ruling elite) appointed, not to mention the hundreds upon hundreds of Zionists already embedded in key positions throughout our entire system. The long list of Zionist Jew agents holding undying allegiance to their homeland Israel embedded in America's politics and the military is as endless as it is disturbing.

545 People Responsible for America's Woes

by Charley Reese

Have you ever wondered why, if both the Democrats and the Republicans are against deficits, we have deficits? Have you ever wondered why, if all the politicians are against inflation and high taxes, we have inflation and high taxes?

You and I don't propose a federal budget. The president does. You and I don't have the Constitutional authority to vote on appropriations. The House of Representatives does. You and I don't write the tax code. Congress does. You and I don't set fiscal policy. Congress does. You and I don't control monetary policy. The Federal Reserve Bank does.

One hundred senators, 435 congressmen, one president and nine Supreme Court justices - 545 human beings out of the 300 million - are directly, legally, morally and individually responsible for the domestic problems that plague this country.

I excluded the members of the Federal Reserve Board because that problem was created by the Congress. In 1913, Congress delegated its Constitutional duty to provide a sound currency to a federally chartered but private central bank.

I excluded all the special interests and lobbyists for a sound reason They have no legal authority. They have no ability to coerce a senator, a congressman or a president to do one cotton-picking thing. I don't care if they offer a politician $1 million dollars in cash. The politician has the power to accept or reject it.

No matter what the lobbyist promises, it is the legislator's responsibility to determine how he votes.

A CONFIDENCE CONSPIRACY

Those 545 human beings spend much of their energy convincing you that what they did is not their fault. They cooperate in this common con regardless of party.

.... It seems inconceivable to me that a nation of 300 million cannot replace 545 people who stand convicted -- by present facts - of incompetence and irresponsibility. (and all should be convicted of dereliction of duty as defined by their oath of office, and in some cases outright treason.)

I can't think of a single domestic problem, from an unfair tax code to defense overruns, that is not traceable directly to those 545 people

When you fully grasp the plain truth that 545 people exercise power of the federal government, then it must follow that what exists is what they want to exist.

If the tax code is unfair, it's because they want it unfair. If the budget is in the red, it's because they want it in the red. If the Marines are in IRAQ, it's because they want them in IRAQ.

There are no insoluble government problems. Do not let these 545 people shift the blame to bureaucrats, whom they hire and whose jobs they can abolish; to lobbyists, whose gifts and advice they can reject; to regulators, to whom they give the power to regulate and from whom they can take this power.

Above all, do not let them con you into the belief that there exist disembodied mystical forces like "the economy," "inflation" or "politics" that prevent them from doing what they take an oath to do.

Those 545 people, and they alone, are responsible. They, and they alone, have the power. They, and they alone, should be held accountable by the people who are their bosses - provided the voters have the gumption to manage their own employees. We should vote all of them out of office and clean up their mess.

Barack Tele-Prompter Obama as he is being referred to these days, clearly demonstrates to the world how his masters operate. It seems he does not possess the skills of professional actors, the ability to remember their scripts. Each and every speech he gives, every time he stands up to any podium he is flanked by his omnipresent tele-prompters. The comedy of his inability to remember his scripts was shown when he recently appeared in front of a class of 6th grade students, flanked on his right and left were the ever present tele-prompters! Lol.

The vital point here is that it perfectly highlights the important FACT that he is just reading a SCRIPT. His scripts, schedules and policies are organized and shaped by his Zionist Jew staff and cabinet members, positions that are traditionally employed to help formulate policy. If you enlist a room full of Israeli loyal Jews to work with you, do you, can you honestly expect total unbiased results for your best interests? NEVER! Especially since the Zionists are THE world premier clandestine global governance shaping catalysts.

The definitive movers and shakers with their own exclusive predefined self-serving agendas secretly being pursued in the guise and pretense of the benefit of the naive citizens and nation. Obama serves as a clear illustration how the ruling elite use the position of “President” of a country as mere public relations officer whom is routinely dispatched to gloss over any event and sooth the mass public psyche about whatever given ruling elite decision is being implemented at the time.

Never forget the fact that all key posts in Washington are all filled by Zionist Jews and their goyim agents when you witness our nation being looted by Wall Street banksters, corrupt politicians passing policies and laws favorable to the wealthy, corporations and of course Israeli interests and agendas. Oh, did you notice that “Obama’s” stimulus bill handed out a whopping $1 billion to Jewish social service providers whose coffers are already oozing in Jewish wealth? That’s more than what he provided for clean energy research! I see where his [master’s] priorities are.

Obama choose Federal Reserve banksters for his economic staff, kept Bush’s people in the PentaCON, appointed a bunch of the Washington status quo to his cabinet and selected earth raping Monsanto supporters for his dept of agriculture posts, so forgive me if I am just a tad bit completely pessimistic, bordering on utterly cynical and totally not believing that the “change” he is going to usher in will be one we can all rejoice in, for in order for that to happen, he must betray his masters...

Oh there will be some change alright; he will be allowed to give the public a few bones here and there to appease them, while conducting his patented charismatic highly praised executive showmanship, then with everyone cheering him on... “It” (the Zionist surprise) will come...

The infiltration of our political system by entities outside our national system is so prevalent, so thorough, so pervasive, coming from all directions, yet it is often hard to notice who, what when and where of it all. As Rep. Peter DeFazio put it “And these are tough people; these are the most powerful people in the world. They seem to control a majority of his (Obama’s) economic team.” Again I will opt to just reprint an article to further help elaborate my point that our country (let alone Obama) is an occupied territory run by other entities by proxy:

Rothschild Agents Take 10 Key Posts In Obama Administration

By Michael Collins Piper, American Free Press 2/21/09

"Six former Rhodes Scholars (educated at Oxford University in Britain) and four others associated with the London School of Economics are serving in key posts in the Obama administration. That's not good."

Our greatest founding father and first president, George Washington, probably wouldn't be ready to celebrate his birthday on Feb. 22 if he were alive today. Having led the 13 colonies to independence from the British Empire in 1783, following the course of a difficult eight-year struggle by those freedom-loving American colonists who followed him, Washington (who lived from 1732 to 1799) would most assuredly be appalled to see that the liberties achieved from the American Revolution are now being flagrantly defied by a number of figures who populate the upper ranks of the administration of Barack Obama.

Six former Rhodes Scholars (educated at Oxford University in Britain) and four others associated with the London School of Economics are serving in key posts in the Obama administration. That's not good.

Susan Rice - ambassador to the UN; Michael McFaul - head of the Russian desk at the National Security Council; Elena Kagan - solicitor general of the United States; Anne-Marie Slaughter - State Department policy planning staff; Neal S. Wolin - deputy counsel to the president for economic policy; Ezekial Emanuel - senior counselor at the White House Office of Management and Budget on health care policy; Lawrence Summers - head of the National Economic Council; Peter Orszag - director of the Office of Management and Budget; Peter Rouse - senior advisor to the president; Mona Sutphen - deputy chief of the White House staff.

The truth about the Rhodes Scholarships is not known to the average American who is constantly told by the mass media that Rhodes Scholars (such as former President Bill Clinton) are among "the best and the brightest."

The Rhodes Scholarships-awarded to Americans and students from other former British colonies-are funded by a trust set up by 19th Century British imperial figure Cecil Rhodes, whose intent was to indoctrinate these scholars with the theme that the American colonies should be reunited with the British Empire and that they should work through "public service" to achieve that goal. But Rhodes wasn't just some rich madcap dreamer. His ventures were underwritten by the international Rothschild dynasty operating from the financial district in London known as "The City"-the banking center of the Rothschild controlled British empire that also includes the London School of Economics.

So now a clique of internationalists trained in the idea of extinguishing American independence are ensconced in the Obama administration.

And another Rhodes Scholar, Louisiana Gov. Bobby Jindal, is widely touted as the great Grand Old Party candidate to "take back the White House" in 2012. Jindal doesn't offer "change." He-like the other globalists in the Obama administration-is part of the problem.

All of this is not a "conspiracy theory." Rather, these facts are well known to those familiar with what the Rhodes scholarships are really about.

As mentioned in the article above, the Freemasons select and indoctrinate the finest (fallible) minds of every generation by giving them scholarships, two of their favorites is to Yale and Oxford University, where they have access to the best teaching and others sympathetic to Masonic ideology. Yale and Rhodes scholars invariably go on to positions of power in finance, law, politics or the media, from which they are able to ensure that Masonic[Zionist] interests are promoted and protected.

Cecil Rhodes himself became a Mason whilst studying at Oxford in the 1870s. After hearing a speech by fellow mason, John Ruskin, calling for 'a ruling class with a powerful army to keep it in power', he became obsessed with the idea of bringing the entire world under the rule of the British Masonic elite, and sought to do so through extensive business projects in Africa and the Empire. In his estate Rhodes entrusted Nathan Rothschild with continuing his program of intellectual world domination, and today Rhodes scholars occupy key positions throughout the global business world.

That's not even the half of it. Take a close hard look at all the people that Obama is filling all the positions of his administration with and you will realize that there exists a common denominator. Practically EVERYONE he appointed has direct ties to Wall Street. So much so, that this is the first time in history that a sitting administration is COMPLETELY ruled by Wall Street insiders. Even the post for the head of the CIA went to Wall Street lobbyist Leon Panetta (crypto Jew). Now the correct question to ask here is what does the CIA and Wall Street have in common... everything....

Welcome to Obama's Zionist "Wall Street Administration." Aka: Zionist Occupational Government

When you witness not just the media, but also infamous Zionists such as world renown criminal Kissinger (just to name one out of the bunch) who are all blowing their trumpets of PRAISE for the Obaminator.... I can't help or shake this gut wrenching feeling that we are being setup for the "big one", just like a good con man smooth talks his prey and sets them up for the big score, so it feels like the ruling masters are prepping to go for the juggernaut, will they succeed in riding Obama over the goal line? We are witnessing the concerted praise is coming from all spheres of the media world... The end of the world because even FOX news the rabid foaming at the mouth radical neo-con network were out singing Obama love songs on coronation day!!!! One story that made my jaw drop was: "Chicago Jews say Obama is actually the 'first Jewish president'" Watch out! "The stage has been set", "the actors are getting ready to play their roles"... this is going to get very interesting indeed... You wanted "change", oh boy, you better buckle your seatbelts for this is going to be a thrill ride!

There is a part of me that TRULY hopes that Obama could somehow be for real, a true icon for the sake of God and the citizens of this country. A true reformer and equalizer. A true defender of injustices perpetrated by the corporate and wealthy aristocrats. I wish he were as true as he sounds in his speeches (his SCRIPTS that his Zionist Jew writer and handlers prepare) and turns out to be even better than JFK and proceeds his unfinished task of dismantling the CIA and Fed for starters, but just not get WHACKED, like JFK before he reforms the nation. But, ummm.... I don't think so, just NOT happening. I would really like to give this guy the benefit of the doubt, but knowing who he surrounded himself with in his Zionist inner circle and how the Washingtonites roll. /sigh/ Even if he were for real, homeboy walks hand in hand with the den of vipers ready to strike with lethal poison at a moment's notice, the second he strays from their agenda. The moment he gets too far out of line the ruling elite will have him whacked in a heartbeat.

Many of the Obama conspiracy theories that are floating around are ridiculous. The mainstream Obama conspiracy theories are a manufactured distraction to keep people from evaluating the real consequences of this Administration's domestic and foreign policies. By providing the public with an easy to understand and easy to spread conspiracy, the public becomes unable to look at long term policy effects and instead focuses intensely and passionately on manufactured disinformation.

Obama's rise to presidency was driven by a modern day cult of personality. Obama's campaign and the mass media managed to brand Obama as a paradigm changing hero or savior. Before Obama was elected I wrote a long essay on his stated policies and how I thought they would be twisted or completely ignored when he was elected. So far much of those warnings have come true. Obviously Obama did not pull our troops out of the Middle East, end the U.S. use of torture, close the Guantanamo prison or end domestic surveillance. Many of the Bush administration's policies have been continued by the Obama administration, including an extension of the Patriot Act and a continuation of the War On Terror.

The problem is that many people seem to be ignoring concrete evidence that the Obama administration's policies reflect the Bush administration's policies. Democrats and Republican's tend to take different approaches in policy implementation and media coverage, but the left arm always works a little different than the right arm. The completely ridiculous Obama conspiracy theories do nothing more than distract people from seeing the long term goals of the Republicratic body. The party that does not hold the presidency always works with the other party to reverse the pendulum's swing. Switching back and forth between Republican and Democratic parties is necessary to maintain the illusion of real choice.

Behold: Get ready to join the masses cheering Obama on as we say goodbye to even more of your rights and freedoms, for you are about to witness your Zionist ruling masters ride their house negro into history while evermore consolidating their powers and further thrusting this nation into absolute oppression, enslavement, servitude and ruin as he continues the de facto practice of pimping out America's birthright (sovereignty) to the globalists. Ummm, all for "your benefit," of course! Note: I don't like steering away from verifiable facts and material, but I must include this speculation: I believe when the Elders of Zion rulers are done with this puppet they will eliminate him and turn him into a martyr...

Response To Cantor's Pledge Of Allegiance To Israel

By Jim Kirwan, 11-16-10

'So Many Lies - so Little Time'

"November 13, 2010 "Salon" - - Soon-to-be GOP House Majority Leader Eric Cantor met on Wednesday with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu -- the same day when the actual U.S. Secretary of State met with Netanyahu -- and vowed that he and his GOP colleagues would protect and defend Israeli interests against his own Government.

According to a statement proudly issued by Cantor's own office:

Regarding the midterms, Cantor may have given Netanyahu some reason to stand firm against the American administration.

"Eric stressed that the new Republican majority will serve as a check on the Administration and what has been, up until this point, one party rule in Washington," the readout continued. "He made clear that the Republican majority understands the special relationship between Israel and the United States, and that the security of each nation is reliant upon the other."

Leave aside the absurdity of believing that Israel needs to be protected from the extremely deferential and devoted Obama administration. So extraordinary is Cantor's pledge that even the Jewish Telegraph Agency's Ron Kampeas -- himself a reflexive American defender of most things Israel -- was astonished, and wrote:

I can't remember an opposition leader telling a foreign leader, in a personal meeting, that he would side, as a policy, with that leader against the president. Certainly, in statements on one specific issue or another -- building in Jerusalem, or somesuch -- lawmakers have taken the sides of other nations. But to have-a-face to face and say, in general, we will take your side against the White House -- that sounds to me extraordinary." (1)

"Extraordinary" is not the right word for this. The right word for this is "treason." For far too long the United States has been ignoring the Mastodon in the living room of our daily lives. There has been a massive and secret public truth at the core of both major political parties, that has poisoned the American political-system in a way that has succeeded in killing the ability of Americans to demand national loyalty from those that serve in the US government. The reason that there is an oath of office taken, for both elected and appointed US officials, is to protect and defend both the Constitution and the people of this land from enemies whether they be foreign or domestic.

Yesterday I pointed out that there is no contract that spells out any kind of "special relationship arrangement" between the people of the United States and the Outlaw and Apartheid State of Zionist Israel. (2)

That "state" constitutes an offense against all the other states of the world, by virtue of how they artificially-forced their way into being (at three-o'clock in the morning when they intimidated a Zionist US president to confirm their "right" to existence in the United Nations). This had never-before happened in the community of nations because it is not a recognized way for any nation to be born.

At the very heart of what has become a politically-accepted standard in this country is the lie, that Israel is a friend of the United States and is not a foreign nation, because we have some very special arrangement with Israel that allows them not to have to register as a foreign government with the government of the United States-when it comes to money that Israel can give to US politicians for any reason. This criminal act has allowed AIPAC and a number of other Israeli organizations to literally take control over how any member of congress will be able to vote on any subject that comes before congress. This includes issues such as war, finance, health, prosperity and retirement as well as education, entertainment, publications and distribution in the media at all levels.

In brief what we have done, at all levels, is to allow this foreign and hostile influence (Of Israel) to take complete control over the congress, the courts and the White House by granting Israel full and unchallengeable access to every aspect of this nation's government, our courts and our public spaces. And we did this across-the-board; regardless of political or religious affiliations: The only criteria for anyone in politics today that cannot be ignored is the willingness of any individual to swear total and uncompromising allegiance to Israel above all other interests. This has been accomplished along with silencing of any and all dissent against this treason that has been inflicted upon us by opportunistic public officials that sold out this country for money, for political favors or for other perks derived from the misuse of their status and their political offices-regardless of their supposed political affiliations.

President Obama, the vice-president Joe Biden, Hillary Clinton, the Secretary of State and Nancy Pelosi, the former Speaker of the US House of Representatives, along with Bush Jr., the former president and Cheney, his vice-president, are but a few of those that have committed this very public treason - just since we entered the New Millennium. These people must be prosecuted and Israel must register as a foreign power with the US Department of State. The public must demand the prosecution of everyone in government that has taken this Oath of Allegiance to the Outlaw State of Israel; over their supposedly sworn allegiance to the United States of America. Otherwise this country is not a nation at all but a totally subservient place that serves the interests of an Outlaw haven that is not even a real country-because after 62 years Israel still does not have any definable national borders-and that won't happen until their own plan for: "The Greater State of Israel" has been completed.

There is obviously no place in this "Greater State" for the Palestinians in this fantasy which Israel believes it is destined to own; because of all that they have 'suffered' at the hands of those they have abused and victimized down through history, since the days of their eviction from the ancient city of Carthage. (Good luck on finding this, because the scrubbers have been very busy destroying the history that is unfavorable to current Israeli policies).

There is also the fact that to accomplish even the beginning of their twisted grab for global power as can be seen above-the Palestinians, as a people must be genocided. These crimes-in-waiting against humanity and the world have been in the works officially for over sixty years. How much longer are we willing to remain deaf, dumb and blind to what is happening because of a faction of radicalism so extreme that it wants nothing less than global domination over everyone-in-the-world who is not of the Zionist mindset!

Those guilty of having sworn this treasonous oath, in public, need to be stripped of their American citizenship, of all their own wealth, and deported to Israel with only the clothes on their backs and their duplicitous hypocrisy to warm their treacherous hearts of broken stone to keep them company.

Despite how hopeless any attempt may seem, our nation must somehow come back to a "nation for the people by the people". Prosecute the corrupt criminals in office, completely eradicate lobbyists, corporate and special interest meddling in Washington. Place term limits on ALL elected officials. Instead of making war, spend those funds HERE on good works for OUR citizens, such as health care for all, invest in our educational system for real. Stop sending billions to countries who don't really need it. Abolish the FED and the CIA. Fix all that is wrong in our home and stop meddling in other countries affairs. Stop trying to export what you refer to as "our form of democracy" around the world when in reality, the only REAL export is not democracy at all, but instead is the spread of ZIONIST CAPITALISM shoved down unwilling recipients throats. But I believe none of this will ever happen if left to the current system and status quo, NEVER in a million years. True change will only come about through a force greater than "the system." A catalyst so severe, whose impact totally destroys the status quo and the system, laying waste to the status quo and leaving in its wake a blank sheet to begin anew... I guess we are hoping for a miracle from Heaven.

The State and Local Bases of Zionist Power in America

By James Petras Ph.D. -

September 01, 2010 "Information Clearing House" -- -Any serious effort to understand the extraordinary influence of the Zionist power configuration over US foreign policy must examine the presence of key operatives in strategic positions in the government and the activities of local Zionist organizations affiliated with mainstream Jewish organizations and religious orders.

There are at least 52 major American Jewish organizations actively engaged in promoting Israel's foreign policy, economic and technological agenda in the US (see the appendix). The grassroots membership ranges from several hundred thousand militants in the Jewish Federations of North America (JFNA) to one hundred thousand wealthy contributors, activists and power brokers in the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC). In addition scores of propaganda mills, dubbed think tanks, have been established by million dollar grants from billionaire Zionists including the Brookings Institute (Haim Saban) and the Hudson Institute among others. Scores of Zionist funded political action committees (PAC) have intervened in all national and regional elections, controlling nominations and influencing election outcomes. Publishing houses, including university presses have been literally taken over by Zionist zealots, the most egregious example being Yale University, which publishes the most unbalanced tracts parroting Zionist parodies of Jewish history (Financial Times book review section August 28/29 2010). New heavily funded Zionist projects designed to capture young Jews and turn them into instruments of Israeli foreign policy includes "Taglit-Birthright" which has spent over $250 million dollars over the past decade sending over a quarter-million Jews (between 18-26) to Israel for 10 days of intense brainwashing (Boston Globe August 26, 2010). Jewish billionaires and the Israeli state foot the bill. The students are subject to a heavy dose of Israeli style militarism as they are accompanied by Israeli soldiers as part of their indoctrination; at no point do they visit the West Bank, Gaza or East Jerusalem (Boston Globe August 26, 2010). They are urged to become dual citizens and even encouraged to serve in the Israeli armed forces. In summary the 52 member organizations of the Presidents of the Major American Jewish Organizations which we discuss are only the tip of the iceberg of the Zionist Power Configuration: taken together with the PACs, the propaganda mills, the commercial and University presses and mass media we have a matrix of power for understanding the tremendous influence they have on US foreign and domestic policy as it affects Israel and US Zionism.

While all their activity is dedicated first and foremost in ensuring that US Middle East policy serves Israel's colonial expansion in Palestine and war aims in the Middle East, what B'nai B'rith euphemistically calls a "focus on Israel and its place in the world", many groups 'specialize' in different spheres of activity. For example, the "Friends of the Israel Defense Force" is primarily concerned in their own words "to look after the IDF", in other words provide financial resources and promote US volunteers for a foreign army (an illegal activity except when it involves Israel). Hillel is the student arm of the Zionist power configuration claiming a presence in 500 colleges and universities, all affiliates defending each and every human rights abuse of the Israeli state and organizing all expenses paid junkets for Jewish student recruits to travel to Israel where they are heavily propagandized and encouraged to 'migrate' or become 'dual citizens'.

Method: Studying Zionist Power:

There are several approaches for measuring the power of the combined Zionist organizations and influential occupants of strategic positions in government and the economy. These include (a) reputational approach (b) self claims (c) decision-making analysis (d) structural inferences. Most of these approaches provide some clues about Zionist potential power. For example, newspaper pundits and journalists frequently rely on Washington insiders, congressional staff and notables to conclude that AIPAC has the reputation for being one of the most powerful lobbies in Washington. This approach points to the need to empirically examine the operations of AIPAC in influencing Congressional votes, nomination of candidates, defeating incumbents who do not unconditionally support the Israeli line. In other words analyzing the Congressional and Executive decision-making process is one key to measuring Zionist power. But it is not the only one. Zionist power is a product of a historical context, where media ownership and wealth concentration and other institutional levers of power come into play and shape the current decision-making framework. Cumulative power over time and across institutions creates a heavy bias in the political outcomes favorable to Israel's organized agents in America. Once again the mere presence of Jews or Zionists in positions of economic, cultural and political power does not tell us how they will use their resources and whether they will have the desired effect. Structural analysis, the location of Zionists in the class structure, is necessary but not sufficient for understanding Zionist power. One has to proceed and analyze the content of decisions made and not made regarding the agenda of Israel's backers operating in the USA. The 52 major Zionist organizations are very open about their claims to power, their pursuit of Israel's agenda and their subservience to each and every Israeli regime.

Those who deny Zionist power over US Mid East foreign policy are left-Zionists namely Noam Chomsky and his acolytes. They never analyze the legislative process, executive decision-making, the structures and activity of the million member Zionist grassroots and the appointments and background of key policy makers deciding strategic policies in the Middle East. Instead they resort to superficial generalizations and political demagoguery, imputing policy to "Big Oil" and the "military-industrial complex" or "US imperialism". Categories devoid of empirical content and historical context about real existing policy making regarding the Middle East.

The Making of Zionist Power in the US Government

To understand US submission to Israeli war policies in the Middle East one has to look beyond the role of lobbies pressuring Congress and the role of political action committees and wealthy Zionist campaign contributions. A much neglected but absolutely essential building block of Zionist power over US foreign economic, diplomatic and military policy is the Zionist presence in key policy positions, including the Departments of Treasury and State, the Pentagon, the National Security Council and the White House.

Operating within the top policymaking positions, Zionist officials have consistently pursued policies in line with Israel's militarist policies, aimed at undermining and eliminating any country critical of the Jewish States' colonial occupation of Palestine, its regional nuclear monopoly, its expansion of Jews only settlements and above all its strident efforts to remain the dominant power in the Arab East. The Zionist policymakers in Government are in constant consultation with the Israeli state, ensuring coordination with the Israeli military (IDF) command, its Foreign Office and secret police (MOSSAD) and compliance with the Jewish State's political line. Over the past 24 months not a single Zionist policymaker has voiced any criticism of Israel's most heinous crimes, ranging from the savaging of Gaza to the massacre of the humanitarian flotilla and the expansion of new settlements in Jerusalem and the West Bank. A record of loyalty to a foreign power which even exceeds the subservience of the Stalinist and Nazi fellow travelers in Washington during the 1930's and 1940's.

Zionist policymakers in strategic positions depend on the political backing and work closely with their counterparts in the "lobbies" (AIPAC) in Congress and in the national and local Jewish Zionist organizations. Many of the leading Zionist policymakers rose to power through a deliberate strategy of infiltrating the government to shape policy promoting Israel's interest over and above the interests of the US populace. While a degree of cohesion resulting from a common allegiance to Tel Aviv can account for suspected nepotism and selection, it is also the case that the powerful Jewish lobbies can play a role in creating key positions in Government and ensuring that one of their own will occupy that position and pursue Israel's agenda.

Stuart Levey: Israel's Foremost Operative in the US Government

In 2004, AIPAC successfully pressured the Bush Administration to create the office of Undersecretary for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence (UTFI) and to name its protégé Princeton graduate Stuart Levey to that position. Before, but especially after his appointment, Levey was in close collaboration with the Israeli state and was known as an over the top Zionist zealot with unbounded energy and blind worship of the Israeli state.

Within the confines of his Zionist ideological blinders, Levey applied his intelligence to the singular task of turning his office into the major foreign policy venue for setting US policy toward Iran. Levey more than any other appointed official in government or elected legislator, formulates and implements policies which profoundly influence US, European Union and UN economic relations with Iran. Levey elaborated the sanctions policies, which Washington imposed on the EU and the Security Council. Levey, organizes the entire staff under his control at Treasury to investigate trade and investment policies of all the world's major manufacturing, banking, shipping, petroleum and trading corporations. He then criss-crosses the US and successfully pressures pension funds, investment houses, oil companies and economic institutions to disinvest from any companies dealing with Iran's civilian economy. He has gone global, threatening sanctions and blackballing dissident companies in Europe, Asia, the Middle East and North America which refuse to surrender economic opportunities. They all understood Levey operated at the behest of Israel, services Levey has proudly performed.

Levey coordinates his campaign with Zionist leaders in Congress. He secures sanctions legislation in line with his campaigns. His policies clearly violate international law and national sovereignty, pressing the limits of extra territorial enforcement of his administrative fiats against a civilian economy. His violation of economic sovereignty parallels Obama's announcement that US Special Forces would operate in violation of political sovereignty on four continents. For all intents and purposes, Levey makes US policy toward Iran. At each point he designs the escalation of sanctions, and then passes it on to the White House, which shoves it down the throats of the Security Council. Once new sanctions approved by Levey and staff are in place they are there to enforce them: identifying violators and implementing penalties. Treasury has become an outpost of Tel Aviv. Not a single leftist, liberal or social democratic publication highlights the role of Levey or even the terrible economic pain this Old Testament fanatic is inflicting on 75 million Iranian civilian workers and consumers. Indeed like Israel's Judeo-fascist rabbis who preach a "final solution" for Israel's enemies, Levey announces new and harsher "punishment" against the Iranian people (Stuart Levey, "Iran's New Deceptions at Sea Must be Punished" FT 8/16/2010, p. 9). Perhaps at the appropriate moment the Jewish State will name a major avenue through the West Bank for his extraordinary services to this most unholy racist state.

The Strategic Role of Local Power

The Israel Lobby Archive recently released declassified documents of the American Zionist Council (AZC) subpoenaed during a US Senate investigation between 1962-63. The documents reveal how the Israeli state through its American Jewish conduits – the mainstream Zionist organizations – penetrated the US mass media and propagated its political line, unbeknownst to the American public. Stories written by a host of Jewish Zionist journalists and academics were solicited and planted in national media such as The Readers Digest, The Atlantic Monthly, Washington Post among others, including regional and local newspapers and radio stations (Israel Lobby Archive, August 18, 2010). While the national Zionist organizations procured the journalists and academic writers and editors, it was the local affiliates who carried the message and implemented the line. The level of infiltration the Senate subpoenaed Zionist documents in the 1960's reveal has multiplied a hundred fold over the past 50 years in terms of financing, paid functionaries and committed militants and above all in structural power and coercive capability.

While the national leaders in close consultation with Israeli officials receive instructions on which issues are of high priority, the implementation follows a vertical route to regional and local leaders, politicians, and notables who in turn target the local media and religious, academic and other opinion leaders. When national leaders ensure publication of pro Israeli propaganda, the locals reproduce and circulate it to local media and non-Zionist influentials on their “periphery”. Letter campaigns orchestrated at the top are implemented by thousands of militant Zionist doctors, lawyers and businesspeople. They praise pro-Israel scribes and attack critics; they pressure newspapers, publishing houses and magazines not to publish dissidents. The national and local leaders promote hostile reviews of books not promoting the Israeli line, influence library decisions to pack their shelves with pro Israeli books and censor and exclude more balanced or critical histories. Local militants in co-ordination with Israeli consuls saturate the public with thousands of public meetings and speakers targeting Christian churches, academic audiences and civic groups; at the same time local Zionist militants and, especially millionaire influentials, pressure local venues (university administrators, church authorities and civic associations) to disinvite any critic of Israel and their supporters from speaking. In the last resort, local Zionists demand that a pro-Israel propagandist be given equal time, something unheard of when an Israel apologist is scheduled to speak.

Local Zionist organizations make yeoman efforts to recruit mayors, governors, local celebrities, publishers, church people and promising young ethnic and minority leaders by offering them all expenses paid propaganda junkets to Israel and then to write or give interviews parroting what they were fed by Israeli officials. Local leaders mobilize thousands of militant activist Zionists to attack anti-Zionist Jews in public and private. They demand they be excluded from any media roundtables on the Middle East.

Local Zionist functionaries form rapid response committees to visit and threaten any local publisher and editorial staff publishing editorials or articles questioning the Israeli party line. Local leaders police (“monitor”) all local meetings, speaker invitations, as well as the speeches of public commentators, religious leaders and academics to detect any “anti-Zionist overtones” (which they label “covert anti-Semitism”). Most of the major Jewish religious orders are lined up as the clerical backbone of local Israeli fundraising, including the financing of new “Jews only” settlements in the Palestinian West Bank.

Local functionaries are in the forefront of campaigns to deny independent Middle East specialists and public policy academics, appointments, tenure or promotion, independently of the quality of their scholarship. On the other hand, academic hacks who toe the pro-Israel line, by publishing books with blanket attacks on Israeli critics among Christians and Muslims and countries like Turkey, Iran or whoever is a target of Israeli policy, are promoted, lauded and put on the best seller list. Any book or writer critical of Zionist Power or Israel is put on a local and national ‘index’ and subject to an inquisition by slander from a stable of Jewish Torquemadas.

Conclusion

The power of Israel in the US does not reside only in the influence and leadership of powerful Washington based “pro-Israel lobbies”, like AIPAC. Without the hundreds of thousands of militant locally based dentists, podiatrists, stockbrokers, real estate brokers, professors and others, the “lobby” would be unable to sustain and implement its policy among hundreds of millions of Americans outside the major metropolises. As we have seen from the Senate declassified documents, over a half-century ago, local Zionist organizations began a systematic campaign of penetration, control and intimidation that has reached its pinnacle in the first decade of the 21st century. It is no accident or mere coincidence that University officials in Northern Minnesota or upstate New York are targeted to exclude speakers or fire faculty members critical of Israel. Local Zionists have computerized databanks operating with an index of prohibited speakers, as the Zionists themselves admit and flaunt in contrast to “liberal” Zionists who are prone to label as “anti-Semitic” or “conspiracy theorists” writers who cite official Zionist documents demonstrating their systematic perversion of our democratic freedoms.

Over the decades, the distinction between Zionist power exercised by a “lobby” outside the government and operatives “inside” the government has virtually vanished. As we have seen, in our case study, AIPAC secured the undersecretary position in Treasury, dictated the appointment of a key Zionist operative (Stuart Levey) and accompanies his global crusade to sanction Iran into starvation and destitution. The planting of operatives within key Middle East positions in government is not the simple result of individual career choices. The ascent of so many pro-Israel Zionist to government posts is part of their mission to serve Israel’s interest at least for a few years of their careers. Their presence in government precludes any Senate or Congressional investigations of Zionists organizations acting as agents of a foreign power as took place in the 1960’s.

As the major Zionist organizations and influentials have accumulated power and abused the exercise of power on behalf of an increasingly bloody racist state, which flaunts its dominance over US institutions, public opposition is growing. The Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions campaign is gaining strength even in the US (see Harvard divestment in Israeli companies). US public support for Israel, by all measures, has dropped below 50%, while polls in Western Europe show a marked increase in hostility to Israel's ultra-rightist regime. Anti-Zionist Jews are growing in influence especially among young Jews who are appalled by the Israeli slaughter in Gaza and assault on the humanitarian flotilla. Equally important the presence of anti-Zionist Jews on panels and forums has given courage to many otherwise intimidated non-Jews who heretofore were fearful of being labeled "anti-Semitic".

The Zionist power configuration rests on a declining population base: most young Jews marry outside the confines of the ethno-religious Jewish-Israeli nexus and many of them are not likely to form the bases for rabid campaigns on behalf of a racist state. The Zionist leadership's high intensity and heavily endowed effort to fence in young people of Jewish ancestry via private schools, subsidized "summer programs" in Israel etc. are as much out of fear and recognition of the drift away from clerical chauvinism as it is an attempt to recruit a new generation of Israel First militants.

The danger is that the US Zionist support for the ultra-rightist and racist regime in Israel is leading them to join forces with the far right in the US. Today Jewish and Christian Manhattan rednecks are fermenting mass Islamic hatred (the so called "Mosque controversy") as a distraction from the economic crises and rising unemployment. Zionist promotion of mass Islamofobia, so near to Wall Street, where many of their fat cats who profit from plundering the assets of America operate, is a dangerous game. If the same enraged masses turn their eyes upward toward the wealthy and powerful instead of downward to blacks and Muslims, some unpleasant and unanticipated surprises might rebound against, not only Israel's operatives, but all those wrongly identified as related to a misconstrued Jewish Motherland.

James Petras is a retired Bartle Professor (Emeritus) of Sociology at Binghamton University, SUNY, New York, U.S., and adjunct professor at Saint Mary's University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada who has published prolifically on Latin American and Middle Eastern political issues. Petras received his B.A. from Boston University and Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley.

The ultimate reality is that America could care less if another country kills its own people and are communists (just one example out of dozens: China) the bottom line is: America could care less if the other country is not a democracy, the REAL bottom line is that for a country to be accepted as an allie, of America is simple, all they need to do is OPEN THEIR COMMERCE to western trade, finance and investment, presto! They are then given "favored nation" status, our best pals forever! Let them establish their banks, control your nation's policies, sell you their products, own your lands, your mineral rights, oil, etc., and America could care less if that country kills it's newborns and drinks their blood as long as you are one of their trade partners like China. "Spread of democracy" is just a batshit feeble disguise.

America goes to great lengths at punishing any country that defies its advances. Cuba being a text book example for their operation was no different than a much greater sinister, evil empire China, but China on the other hand opened the doors to corporate America with open arms, this is the ONLY difference. Today it is Bolivia and Venezuela whom are deifying the capitalistic corporate overtures and spreading the gospel of anti-capitalism to their neighbors. Thus they are labeled dangerous enemies of the state.

JUDAISM: OUR NATIONAL RELIGION?

By Harmony Grant Daws
5 Jan 10

If America had a national religion, what would it be? We were founded by Christians and deists. Over 75 percent of us still profess Christianity. But I wonder what a space alien would conclude if guessing our national religion based on public officials, public symbols and the discourse we allow.

In San Francisco, it wasn't nativities or even crosses that were torn down this year, but stars—after an atheist complained they were Christian symbols. Yet White House chief of staff Rahm Emanuel, flanked by two rabbis, needed a cherry picker to reach the flames of the huge federal menorah in a lighting ceremony in the capitol. In Boca Raton Florida, a menorah is allowed on display in the public library while a Christian nativity scene is banned. This is reminiscent of the 1989 US Supreme Court decision which banned a nativity scene from a Pittsburgh courthouse while allowing an 18-foot menorah to remain!

In the United States Jews make up 1.3 percent of the population (in 2001). But they hold a staggering 43 seats in Congress! That makes them 8 percent of America's legislators—more than six times more abundant in the halls of Congress than in the rest of the nation. Israeli paper Haaretz said frankly that US officials must face a background check of their position on Israel before being hired. Last week our president raised federal aid to Israel in 2010 by $225 million. Next year we struggling taxpayers will hand over to this tiny tyrant a gigantic $2.775 billion.

Meanwhile, the true Christian position on Israel—that her inheritance of the Promised Land is conditioned on obedience—is clearly stated in the Old Testament; but the mainstream evangelical church has been hijacked by a non-Christian, Zionist position which states that the untouchable Jewish people are blessed by God no matter what they do. Sixteen Palestinian Christians have just published the Kairos document pleading for support from their American brethren. They request boycotts and economic sanctions on the state of Israel for its oppression of Palestinians. But the response of the alleged “Christian” majority in America to Palestinian needs? It is overwhelmingly Jewish in identity. Texas mega-church pastor John Hagee founded Christians United for Israel which has directors in every one of our 50 states. This previous May, every state in the Union held a simultaneous Night to Honor Israel. Evangelicals yearly donate tens of millions to Israel.

Perhaps Americans' brainwashing about Israel has something to do with the nearly two hundred Holocaust™ films made by major media. Jews dominate Hollywood and big media in America (as was recently boasted by Jewish columnist Joel Stein in the LA Times). This makes them the most powerful producers of American culture. Americans are also taught to hallow the Holocaust™ by 16 museums around the nation including a large and federally supported one in the National Mall; the website for that museum hosts 25 million visits daily.

Jewish supremacy isn't a purely American phenomenon. Jews are overrepresented in seats of power in nations around the world. Israel and Jewish activists seek to unite us all under a one-world ban on criticism of Israel, an overblown definition of “anti-Semitism,” and a “human rights” bureaucracy ruled from Jerusalem. Many other nations in and outside of Europe have citizens far more aware of Jewish supremacy than are Americans. In the Republic of Moldova, anger is so intense that about two hundred residents led by an Orthodox priest tore down a large menorah erected in a public square this Christmas. The Orthodox church issued a statement acknowledging that the protest was unpleasant but also stating: “we think it inappropriate to put a symbol of the Jewish cult in a public place connected to the history and faith of our people, especially because Chanukah is classified by the cult books of Judaism as a 'holiday of blessing' that symbolizes the victory of Jews over non-Jews.”

A public menorah was also defaced in protest in Buenos Aires over Hanukkah. The words “Argentina is Catholic” were painted on its base. A local rabbi said he did not believe the local population was anti-Semitic and reasoned, “It must be understood that we are living in a Christian country where Jews account for less than one percent of the population.”

This is true. Jews account for less than one or two percent of the population of most nations yet the influence and power of Jewish supremacism continues to grow. This is largely because Gentile and Christian nations are afraid (cowed by the label “anti-Semite!”) to consider that Jewish supremacists have an ethnic and religious agenda to undermine Gentile, Christian civilization—just as Christians have an agenda to spread it. The epic, spiritual struggle between Christ and the Jews now spans over two millennia. American Christians, by ignoring the battle, surrender their nation.

We monitored on survielence cameras, our phones, internet, emails tapped, we go around the world invading and occupying other sovereign nations, the government spends billions of dollars on propaganda, the list goes on and on. Food for thought...)

There is another lead we must follow and present. Today Democracy has come to be viewed as the “successful” form of government. It was not long ago when communism was our devote ENEMY. I don’t know but it seems that the masses suffer a severe case of amnesia. Communism and Democracy were supposedly each other’s mortal enemies ready obliterate each other. You remember those day eh?

Simply put, the scope of the realm of government and the rule, control and manipulations countries is often beyond the comprehension of the average person. There exist forces, groups so powerful that they literally move and shape the course of entire nations. Again... I am literally awestruck to upon fully researching this matter, to find the same usual suspects embedded deep within the systems: The Jewish Zionists. I would love nothing more but then to find some other evil sinister group at the core of things, but yet again all facts, all the evidence leads to the Zionists yet again.

What I am talking about here is Communism, our “mortal enemy” that posed the mortal threat to our nation for the better part of the 20th century. You see, the Zionists have been hell bent on establishing a ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT for hundreds of years. Prior to fully embracing Democracy and developing CAPITALISM as their preferred vehicle for world dominion the Zionist Jews literally invented and established Communism. All your institutional educational system sanctified history books are completely devoid of this crucial information...

"The Bolshevik revolution in Russia was the work of Jewish brains, of Jewish dissatisfaction, of Jewish planning, whose goal is to create a new order in the world. What was performed in so excellent a way in Russia, thanks to Jewish brains, and because of Jewish dissatisfaction and by Jewish planning, shall also, through the same Jewish mental and physical forces, become a reality all over the world." (The American Hebrew, September 10, 1920)

What very few people know is the fact that COMMUNISM was conceived, founded, nurtured, promoted and spread by none other than your friendly neighborhood world conquest and world rule seeking ZIONIST JEWS. Is it NOT a “coincidence” that both Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels were both of Jewish decent? Some of the early leaders of Communism Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kamenev, Litvinoff and Kaganovich, even Lenin was of Jewish decent and The Soviet Union was the Zionist communist epicenter at one point in time (but Germany has always remained the Zionist’s central headquarters).

"The Jewish people as a whole will be its own Messiah. It will attain world domination by the dissolution of other races...and by the establishment of a world republic in which everywhere the Jews will exercise the privilege of citizenship. In this New World Order the Children of Israel...will furnish all the leaders without encountering opposition..." (Karl Marx in a letter to Baruch Levy, quoted in Review de Paris, 6/1/28, p. 574)

One very important fact you must truly understand is that communism was founded and propagandized by the Zionist Jews beginning from Karl Marx (Jew) and fully championed by powerful Zionists. Winston Churchill’s statement (2/08/1920, Illustrated Sunday Herald):

"This movement amongst the Jews (the Russian Revolution) is not new. From the days of Spartacus (Adam Weishaupt to those of Karl Marx, and down to Trotsky (real name- Bronstein, Russia), Bela Kuhn (Hungary), Rosa Luxembourg (Germany) and Emma Goldman (United States), this world-wide conspiracy for the overthrow of civilization and the reconstruction of society on the basis of arrested development, of envious malevolence, and impossible inequality, has been steadily growing. It played, as a modern writer, Mrs. Nesta Webster, has so ably shown, a definitely recognizable part in the tragedy of the French Revolution. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the 19th Century; and now at last this band of extraordinary personalities has gripped the Russian people by the hair of their heads and have become practically the undisputed masters of that enormous empire. There is no need to exaggerate the part played in the creation of Bolshevism and in the actual bringing about of the Russian Revolution by these international and for the most part atheistic Jews. Moreover, the principal inspiration and driving power comes from Jewish leaders."

Talmudism is Communism

Excerpt from groundbreaking book “Antichrist Conspiracy”

Many think that Zionism is the struggle by the Jews for a homeland. Zionism is much more than the Jews establishing a Palestinian homeland. That is merely a cover for a much grander plan to rule the world. Zionism is the child of the Talmud, and Talmudism is communism. The communist revolution in Russia was planned and executed by Jews according to the doctrines of their Talmud. V.I. Lenin, supreme dictator, and Leon Bronstein (Trotsky), supreme commander of the Soviet Red Army, were both Jews.⁷²⁹ The Bolshevik revolution was Jewish from top to bottom. Of 556 leading conspirators in the Bolshevik state in 1918-19 there were 17 Russians, two Ukrainians, eleven Armenians, 35 Latvians, 15 Germans, one Hungarian, ten Georgians, three Poles, three Finns, one Czech, one Karaim, and 457 Jews.⁷³⁰ As pointed out by Robert Wilton in his book The Last Days of the Romanovs, the communist revolution was not an insurrection by Russians, but rather a secret invasion by Jews. As of 1983, the Premier of the Soviet Union was a Jew (Andropov) and 23 out of 25 members of the Politburo (the Soviet ruling clique) were Jews. In addition, every top member of the military and of the Soviet police, were Jews.⁷³¹

The Germans knew what they were doing when they sent Lenin's pack of Jews into Russia. They chose them as agents of destruction. Why? Because the Jews were not Russians and to them the destruction of Russia was all in the way of business, revolutionary or financial. The whole record of Bolshevism in Russia is indelibly impressed with the stamp of alien invasion. The murder of the Tsar, deliberately planned by the Jew Sverdlov (who came to Russia as a paid agent of Germany) and carried out by the Jews Goloschekin, Syromolotov, Safarov, Voikov and Yukovsky, is the act not of the Russian people, but of this hostile invader.⁷³²

Colonel Jack Mohr states: "One of the greatest difficulties of the Talmudic Pharisees has been that of bringing communism into power while trying to conceal its Talmudic origin."⁷³³ However, the direct and circumstantial evidence that the communist revolution in Russia was a conspiracy perpetrated by Talmudic Jews is overwhelming. Circumstantial evidence that points to Jewish control of the communist revolution is that once the communists in Russia seized power, the first law they passed made anti-Semitism a crime punishable by death.⁷³⁴ While Christian church buildings were turned into animal stables, slaughter houses, and dance halls, the Jewish synagogues were untouched. ⁷³⁵ Christian pastors were removed from their pastoral duties and made to work on roads and in slave labor camps, yet the Jewish rabbis were permitted to continue their clerical duties.⁷³⁶ "Some 200,000 (Christian) clergy, many crucified, scalped and otherwise tortured, were killed during the approximately 60 years of communist rule in the former Soviet Union, a Russian commission reported Monday (Nov. 27, 1995)...40,000 churches (were) destroyed in the period from 1922 to 1980..."⁷³⁷

Lenin's, maternal grandfather, Israel Blank, was Jewish. Researcher Wayne McGuire of Harvard University wrote: "Lenin was a Jew by the standards of Israel's Law of Return: he possessed 281 a Jewish grandparent."⁷³⁸ Lenin, in apparent reference to himself, said: "The clever Russian is almost always a Jew or has Jewish blood in him."⁷³⁹

Historian Michael Hoffman II exposed the hidden meaning behind some of the bloodthirsty communist propaganda:

Lenin declared, "We are exterminating the bourgeoisie as a class." His partner in crime, Apfelbaum (Zinoviev) stated: "The interests of the revolution require the physical annihilation of the bourgeoisie class." Who were these bourgeoisie? Certainly not Jews. Trotsky gave a clue to their identity in a 1937 interview in the New York Jewish newspaper, Daily Forward: "The longer the rotten bourgeoisie society lives, the more and more barbaric will anti-Semitism become everywhere."

Bourgeoisie was a Bolshevik code-word for Gentile. The first law passed after the Communists seized power in Russia made anti-semitism a crime punishable by death. (Izvestia, July 27, 1918).

The Jewish Bolsheviks regarded politics as a branch of Gentile pest control. Hatred of Christians, especially the peasant "bourgeoisie" was their prime motivation. The systematic destruction of the Christian peasantry of Russia as so many vermin, beginning with Lenin's attack on them in the summer of 1918 and his forced starvation in 1921, has been almost completely ignored in Western history.⁷⁴⁰

Moses Mordecai Marx Levi, alias Karl Marx, was a Jew, a Satanist, and a member of the "League of the Just," which was a branch of the Illuminati.⁷⁴¹ In 1847, Marx was commissioned by the Illuminati to write the Communist Manifesto, which is an outline of their plans for world domination.⁷⁴² How did the Illuminati Talmudists know that their blueprint for subjugation of a country as set forth in the communist manifesto would work? They knew it would work, because the Jesuits had 150 years to refine the methods. Between 1600 and 1750 the Jesuits controlled over a quarter million ignorant natives of Paraguay in over 30 communes which they called “reductions.”⁷⁴³ The Jesuits were the masters of these poor slaves, whose labors made the Jesuits immensely wealthy. The lessons learned in the “reductions” were memorialized in the communist manifesto.

The Talmudic Jews have been successful in preventing any revelations about their involvement in establishing a new communist world order by labeling anyone who exposes their efforts an anti-Semite. What many do not understand is that many who claim to be objects of anti-Semitism are not Semites at all. Semites are those who are descended from Shem, the oldest son of Noah. Most Jews living in Israel and throughout the world today are eastern European converts to a religion that they call Judaism, but in fact is Babylonian Talmudism. The Europeans who later converted to this Babylonian form of Judaism are known as Ashkenazi or Khazar Jews. Dr. Benjamin H. Freedman, a former Jew who by the grace of God converted to Christianity, states that 282 the Khazars were a pagan nation whose religious worship was a mixture of phallic worship and other forms of idolatry. In the 7th century their King Bulkan chose Talmudism, which most now call Judaism, as the state religion.⁷⁴⁴ Today Khazar Jews are called “Yiddish.” In Revelation, God refers to these Talmudic Ashkenazi Jews as Jews who say they are Jews but are not, but rather are the “synagogue of Satan.”

I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan. (Revelation 2:9 AV)

Behold, I will make them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee. (Revelation 3:9 AV)

These Ashkenazi Jews are people without any allegiance to any nation. Their primary objective is to own the entire world. To get an idea of the nefarious objective of these Talmudists, let us read an 1879 letter from Baruch Levy to Karl Marx:

The Jewish people as a whole will be its own messiah. It will attain world dominion by the dissolution of other races, by the abolition of frontiers, the annihilation of monarchy, and by the establishment of a world republic in which the Jews will everywhere exercise the privilege of citizenship. In this new world order the children of Israel will furnish all the leaders without encountering opposition. The governments of the different peoples forming the world republic will fall without difficulty into the hands of the Jews. It will then be possible for the Jewish rulers to abolish private property, and everywhere to make use of the resources of the state. Thus will the promise of the Talmud be fulfilled, in which it is said that when the messianic time is come, the Jews will have all the property of the whole world in their hands.⁷⁴⁵

Many think that communism could not be the work of Talmudic Jews because Russia is allied with the Arab countries. Things, however, are not what they appear. Jack Bernstein, an American Ashkenazi Jew who moved to Israel shortly after its founding in 1948, returned in disgust to the United States after witnessing the duplicity of Israel. He revealed that the aboriginal Jews of Palestine, who are called Sephardic Jews, are discriminated against in modern Israel. They are second class citizens at the bottom strata of society in Israel, along with Christians and Muslims. In his book, The Life of an American Jew in Racist Marxist Israel, explains the Machiavellian strategy of Israel.⁷⁴⁶

Bernstein found out that it is not true that the Soviet Russians support the Arab countries. This subterfuge of support by the Soviets for the Arabs was simply a ploy which was instituted by Israel on or around 1949. At that time Golda Meir was Israel’s first ambassador to the Soviet Union. As ambassador to the Soviet Union she met with Joseph Stalin. A secret agreement was entered into between Israel and Russia in which (1) Israel would not allow the U.S. or any western country to build military bases on Israeli territory; (2) Israel would allow an official Communist Party to function in Israel; (3) Israel would never make any agreement to solve the Palestinian problems; (4) Israel would work with world Jewry to influence Western governments to favor Israel over the Arabs; (5) Israel would continue its Marxist economic policies.⁷⁴⁷

In return for these concessions the Soviet Union was to (1) furnish military aid to the Arabs and Egypt, but never enough aid to allow them to destroy Israel; (2) encourage Jewish immigration to Israel from the Soviet satellite countries and if that was not sufficient they would allow immigration from Soviet Russia; and (3) guarantee the security of Israel and in order to do that they authorized the free exchange of intelligence reports between Israel in the Soviet Union.⁷⁴⁸ Bernstein obtained this information directly from the horses mouth: the Secretary-Treasurer of the Communist Party in Northern Tel Aviv.⁷⁴⁹

Bernstein pointed out that Israel presents itself as a democracy, but in fact Israel is a communist country to its core. He stated that Zionism and communism are one and the same. The purest form of communism is found in Jewish kibbutzim in Israel. Some have alleged that Bernstein was assassinated by the Israeli Mossad for revealing the truth about Israel. That, however, is probably not the case. This author has corresponded with Michael Collins Piper, who was a personal friend of Jack Bernstein. Piper stated that Bernstein died from an illness he incurred while traveling in the Phillippines. He stated that Bernstein himself did not think that the illness was the work of the Mossad. Piper himself is a highly respected investigative journalist. Piper reveals in his book, Final Judgment, that Israel's communist ties are not limited to the former Soviet Union. There has been a long, albeit secret, history of mutual cooperation between communist China and Israel in the development of nuclear and other military weapons. In fact, Israel has been cited as one Queen Elisabeth of the Belgians had asked Marshal Voroshilov about Soviet mistreatment of Jews, Khrushchev said, during her recent visit to Moscow's Tchaikovsky festival. Voroshilov denied the charge by saying, "In fact my wife is Jewish." Khrushchev added: "Half the members of the Presidium have Jewish wives." It is a fact that Nikita Khrushchev himself has a Jewish daughter-in-law.

The Zionist Jews were the central players behind Communism and the Russia's Bolshevik Revolution...

JEWISH ACTIVISTS CREATED COMMUNISM

By Rev. Ted Pike, 11 Jun 07

As the Christian-persecuting federal hate bill dangerously waits in the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Jewish Forward says most of the American Jewish community has mobilized to get it passed. They are pressuring President Bush not to honor his pledge to evangelicals to veto it. (See, Jews Pressure Bush to Sign Hate Bill)

You may ask, "What's the problem? Jews are an infinitesimal one and a half percent of the American population. What can they do?"

PLENTY. A Jewish population of exactly that percentage brought communism to Russia. The most murderous and anti-Christ system the world has ever known (having starved to death or slaughtered about 110 million) was overwhelmingly inspired and birthed by a tiny minority of Jews.

The Jewish Encyclopedia (Socialism, p. 418) frankly points out that "Jews have been prominently identified with the modern Socialist movement from its very inception." "Scientific socialism," or what we call communism, says the Universal Jewish Encyclopedia in its article on socialism, "originated in the combination of Jewish Messianic feeling with German philosophy..."¹ Marx, of course, was Jewish. But, just as important, Jews at all levels, from high financiers like the Warburgs, Schiffs and Rothschilds to rugged revolutionaries like Trotsky, Kamenev, Sverdlov and Zinoviev, made the success of communism possible.

Gary Allen in his book None Dare Call It Conspiracy, pp. 68-75, fingers those key Jewish financiers, especially Max Warburg in Germany and Jacob Schiff in America, who provided millions to arm and subsidize Jewish revolutionaries returning to Russia under the leadership of Trotsky. Schiff, head of the international banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co. (now Chase Manhattan) was particularly influential. Quoting the New York Journal-America of February 3, 1949 out of Allen's book: "Today it is estimated by Jacob's grandson, John Schiff, that the old man sank about $20,000,000 for the final triumph of Bolshevism in Russia." (Remember, that was when a common wage for adult hard labor was several dollars per day.)²

Jews Tell Us Communism was Jewish

Let's ease into this controversial subject by introducing some mild, yet tantalizing quotes from the authoritative Encyclopedia Judaica's article on Communism.

“The Communist movement and ideology played an important part in Jewish life, particularly in the 1920's, 1930's, and during and after World War II...Individual Jews played an important role in the early stages of Bolshevism and the Soviet regime ...The great attraction of communism among Russian, and later also, Western, Jewry emerged only with the establishment of the Soviet regime in Russia.”

How involved were the Jews? It continues by admitting that the “anti-Semitic” counteroffensive of the White Russian armies in 1918 “drove the bulk of Russian Jewish youth into the ranks of the Bolshevik regime.” The bulk of Jewish youth. This means that the majority of all young Soviet Jews were communists. Jews, it says, found great opportunity within Bolshevism, “occupying many responsible positions in all branches of the party and state machinery at the central and local seats of power.” (pg. 791)

Bolshevism had become the Jewish cause as:

“Many Jews the world over therefore regarded the Soviet concept of the solution to the “Jewish question” as an intrinsically positive approach...Communism and support of the Soviet Union thus seemed to many Jews to be the only alternative, and Communist trends became widespread in virtually all Jewish communities. In some countries Jews became the leading element in the legal and illegal Communist parties and in some cases were even instructed by the Communist international to change their Jewish-sounding names and pose as non-Jews, in order not to confirm right-wing propaganda that presented Communism as an alien, Jewish conspiracy...” (pg. 792)

Communism – A Jewish Heritage

The article then goes on to enumerate who many of these Jews (most with Gentile Russian names) actually were. Here we find most of the giants of Soviet communism, names we have memorized in college history courses as the kingpins of the Revolution, without dreaming they were Jews. But making sure of their Jewish identity is very important to the editors of the Encyclopedia Judaica, which is not addressed to Gentiles. It is clear that the editors want Jewish youth today to be aware of their communist heritage. To this end, they not only never criticize anything having to do with communism but always describe it as a sincere and timely experiment with the greatest social advantages to Jews in Russia. Many Jewish Bolsheviks, persons who helped make possible the bloodiest regime in the history of the world, are dignified with a separate article.

Keeping in mind that Jews represented only several percent of the Russian population at that time, the disproportion of Jews in the Party hierarchy is further born out:

“During the Revolution Jews played a prominent part in the party organs. The politburo elected on Oct. 23, 1917 had four Jews among its seven members. The Military Revolutionary Committee, appointed to prepare the coup, was headed by Trotsky and had two Jews among its five members. In the early years of the Soviet regime, Jews were in many leading positions in the government and party machinery...” (page 797, 98)

Thus, 57 percent of the Politburo at the height of the Revolution was Jewish, as well as 40 percent of the Military Revolutionary Committee. In my video The Other Israel I show a photo of the First Peoples' Commissariat. Its five members are all Jewish. (See, The Other Israel video on Google)

Anti-Communism. . . or Anti-Semitism?

Having informed us earlier that because of “anti-Semitism” the “bulk of Jewish youth” were compelled to join the Bolshevik ranks, the Judaica goes on to inadvertently clarify why the Russian natives were so bent on “anti-Semitic” activities. The article says that movements toward freedom (called “centrifugal nationalist tendencies”) among the nearly enslaved Russian people “inspired the regime to utilize compact, Jewish masses in these areas as a counterweight, which would swing the balance in the centralist regime’s favor.”(pg. 798)

In other words, “the bulk of Jewish youth” in every outlying hamlet of Russia became the “compact Jewish masses” whose task it was to forcibly impose and maintain communist slavery upon freedom-loving peoples. Jews and the Russian populace were locked in a death struggle for survival and the future of Russia. Is it any wonder that the White Russians rose up in rage, even to the point of liquidating their oppressors? Who would not have done the same?

It was at this time that Lenin himself declared capital punishment for any Russian who criticized Jews or identified Jewish leaders with Russian names as Jewish.

“Anti-Semitism was branded as being counterrevolutionary in nature, and persons participating in pogroms or instigating them were outlawed (by a special decree issued by the Council of Commissars in July 1918, signed and personally amended by Lenin to sharpen its tone). A statement against Anti-Semitism made by Lenin in March 1918 was put on a phonograph record, to be used in a mass campaign against the counterrevolutionary incitement against the Jews.” (pg. 798)

Allied Intelligence Reports

During this period intelligence services throughout the free world were buzzing with reports of Jewish involvement in communism. Since an impeccable Jewish source, the Encyclopedia Judaica, has largely convinced us of the importance of Jews to the success of communism, let us briefly consider a small part of the testimony available from a variety of high-level sources. I will present each without comment, but notice how often they describe Bolshevik leadership in much higher figures than the Encyclopedia Judaica, often to as high as 90 percent.

Report of the American Expeditionary forces to Siberia, March 1, 1919. Captain Montgomery Schyler, speaking of events following the decline of the First Provisional Government, says:

“These hopes were frustrated by the gradual gains in power of the more irresponsible and socialistic elements of the population, guided by the Jews and other anti-Russian races. A table made in April 1918 by Robert Wilton, the correspondent of the London Times in Russia, shows that at that time there were 384 “commissars” including 2 Negroes, 13 Russians, 15 Chinamen, 22 Armenians and more than 300 Jews. Of the latter number, 264 had come to Russia from the United States since the downfall of the Imperial government.”

Captain Schyler then provides a personal reflection:

*“It is probably unwise to say this loudly in the United States, but the Bolshevik movement is and has been since its beginning guided and controlled by Russian Jews of the greasiest type, who have been in the United States and there absorbed every one of the worst phases of our civilization without having the least understanding of what we really mean by liberty.”*³

The Consul General at Moscow (Summers) to the Secretary of State, Moscow, May 2, 1918:

*“Jews predominant in local Soviet government, anti-Jewish feeling growing among population which tends to regard oncoming Germans as deliverers.”*⁴

U.S. State Department Report, Foreign Relations, 1918, Russia, Vol. 11, p. 240:

*Fifty percent of Soviet government in each town consists of Jews of the worst type, many of whom are anarchists.*⁵

Scotland Yard Report to the America Secretary of State, July 23, 1919:

“There is now definite evidence that Bolshevism is an international movement controlled by Jews; communications are passing between the leaders in America, France, Russia and England, with a view toward concerted action.”⁶

Extract of Report from the Netherlands Minister at Petrograd on the 6th of September, 1918, forwarded by Sir M. Findlay, at Christiana, to Mr. Balfour:

“I consider that the immediate suppression of Bolshevism is the greatest issue now before the world, not even excluding the war that is still raging, and unless, as above stated, Bolshevism is nipped in the bud immediately, it is bound to spread in one form or another over Europe and the whole world, as it is organized and worked by Jews who have no nationality, and whose one object is to destroy for their own ends the existing order of things.”⁷

Mr. Aleston to Lord Curzon, forwarding Report from Consul at Ekaterinburg of February 6, 1919:

“From examination of several labourers and peasant witnesses, I have evidence to the effect that the very smallest percentage of this district were pro-Bolshevik, majority of labourers sympathizing with summoning of Constituent Assembly. Witnesses further stated that Bolshevik leaders did not represent Russian working classes, most of them being Jews.”⁸

The Rev. B.S. Lombard to Lord Curzon, March 23, 1919:

“I have been for ten years in Russia, and have been in Petrograd through the whole of the revolution. . . .I had ample opportunity of studying Bolshevik methods. It originated in German propaganda, and was, and is being, carried out by international Jews. . . .All business became paralyzed, shops were closed, Jews became possessors of most of the business houses, and horrible scenes of starvation became common in country districts.”⁹

Sir Winston Churchill, writing in the Illustrated Sunday Herald of February 8, 1920 agrees with the previous testimony.

“There is no need to exaggerate the part played in the creation of Bolshevism and in the actual bringing about of the Russian Revolution by these international and for the most part atheistical Jews. It is certainly a very great one; it probably outweighs all others. With the notable exception of Lenin, the majority of the leading figures are Jews. Moreover, the principal inspiration and driving power comes from the Jewish leaders.”

But to be fair, let the Jews have the last word - words written after millions of "goyim" had already been slaughtered in Russia. Quoting from the American Hebrew of September 8, 1920:

“The Bolshevik revolution in Russia was the work of Jewish brains, of Jewish dissatisfaction, of Jewish planning, whose goal is to create a new order in the world. What was performed in so excellent a way in Russia, thanks to Jewish brains, and because of Jewish dissatisfaction, and by Jewish planning, shall also, through the same Jewish mental and physical forces, become a reality all over the world.”

² The Jewish Communal Register of New York City, 1917-18, confirms Schiff’s interest in subverting Imperial Russia, “The firm of Kuhn-Loeb & Co. floated the large Japanese war loans of 1904-5, thus making possible the Japanese victory over Russia. . .” (p. 1018). “Mr. Schiff has always used his wealth and his influence in the best interests of his people. He financed the enemies of autocratic Russia and used his financial influence to keep Russia from the money market of the United States.” (p. 1019) (This was written after the Bolshevik Revolution had become an accomplished fact.)

In addition to accounts of Schiff’s direct involvement in financing the Bolsheviks, the U.S. State Department’s three-volume report on the establishment of Communism in Russia, Papers Relating to the Foreign Relations of the United States, 1918, published in 1931, Vol. 1, (p. 371-376) recounts from intelligence reports and intercepted correspondence how Jewish-controlled German banks, under the influence of Max Warburg, originated, even as early as February 1914, a system for the dispersion of large payments to Lenin, Trotsky, and others in their attempts to overthrow the Czar. The syndicate was set up with “. . . very close and absolutely secret relations established between Finnish and American banks,” as well as banking houses in Stockholm and Copenhagen, who were the active intermediaries between Jewish high-finance in the West and revolutionaries inside Russia.

This State Department Report was compiled under the Hoover administration and has since disappeared from active circulation. Reproductions of salient passages of it, however, are presented in Elizabeth Dilling’s The Jewish Religion: Its Influence Today.

There have been many accusations that Hitler was half Jewish. The evidence was buried long ago, thus it has become a cold case file. There is another dictator that DWARFS the atrocities of Hitler beyond all known ways of measurement, that authoritarian ruler was VLADIMIR LENIN who was perhaps one of history’s most notorious murdering rulers, was brought into power after the Zionist Bolshevik Revolution of which he helped shape.

Where the history books somehow “forget” to mention (all media has been controlled by the Zionist media cartel, duh) is that Vladimir Lenin was also a Zionist Jew. People, I don't take these words lightly for one second. For one of history most murderous governments and those who established it are one of the most dangerous people on the planet and if they still exist today disguised in some other form, pose the greatest risk to the planet...

The mission of this Matrix Report is to get to the TRUTH. I am not out to vilify the Zionists nor the Jewish people, I am just presenting the FACTS and the TRUTH that has been COVERED UP AND BURIED for generations. The sanctified history that has been taught to you in public schools was completely CLEANSED. Here are some very important FACTS that were left out of your history books:

Lenin's Jewish Artifacts

by Frank Weltner

The Jew Watch Project, November 26, 2006 - St. Louis, MO -- The ancestry of Lenin has been a subject of much discussion. Even the names of his parents are an object of dispute.

One of the reasons for the obscurity of Lenin's parentage is that Vladimir Lenin was evasive about this subject, feeling that his lineage was a private affair and should not be open to discussion. This begs the question of whether he was trying to hide something.

What is clear is that the other Bolsheviks who brought Lenin to power was at least 85%-90% Jewish, and Winston Churchill and Adolf Hitler were both in agreement that the USSR was the product of Jewish intrigue, power, and wealth, and that Bolshevism represented a world catastrophe engineered by International Jews who were engaged in the deconstruction of Christendom, i.e., they wanted to destroy Western Civilization and culture.

In any case, Lenin seems to have spoken Yiddish as well as other languages, married Nadezhda Konstantinovna Krupskaya who is acknowledged to be a Judeo-Bolshevik and, married a Jewish woman.

Lenin was assassinated unsuccessfully by a Jewess, condemned anti-Semitism as a state crime, and accepted all of the Revolution's money he could get from Jews in the banking business including Jacob Schiff of the Guaranty National Bank in America.

In general, many historians say Lenin was born of Jewish parents who spoke Yiddish but who they were and their names is unclear and kept that way by the Judeo-Bolsheviks who ran the USSR, 1917-1992.

The Religious and Tribal Affiliation of Communist Leader of Russia

Vladimir Lenin

As Reported in the Jewish Chronicle of London

Lenin's maternal grandfather was a Jew. Lenin's Jewish ancestry is discussed in detail in Oxford University historian Robert Service's biography Lenin (Harvard University Press, 2000). See also: "Lenin: Jewish roots of a revolutionary," by Zev Ben-Shlomo, Jewish Chronicle, London, April 21, 1995 (<http://www.fpp.co.uk/online/98/11/JConLenin210495.html>):

[Lenin] was the great-grandson of Moishe Itskovich Blank and the grandson of Srul Moishevich Blank. At his baptism, Blank changed his name and patro-nymic to Aleksandr Dmitrievich...

Lenin's Jewish origin on his maternal grandfather's side became, after his death, a matter of controversy between Lenin's sisters and Stalin. In a letter to Stalin, Anna, Lenin's elder sister, wrote: "It is probably no secret for you that the research on our grandfather shows that he came from a poor Jewish family, that he was, as his baptismal certificate says, the son of a 'Zhitomir burgher, Moishe Blank' and this fact could serve in combating anti-Semitism."

Furthermore, she claimed, that Lenin's Jewish origins were "further confirmation of the exceptional abilities of the Semitic tribe... Lenin always valued the Jews highly." Stalin replied: "Not one word about it."

Lenin's Jewish Ancestry

V.I.Lenin

What compels an individual to make their mark on the world? Is it innate motivation? A desire to achieve? Or is it due to outside influences that fertilize potential that is simply dormant? According to John Locke during the period of the Enlightenment, he "insisted that all ideas are derived from experience . . . human development is therefore determined by education and social institutions, for good or for evil." Events during our lives can send anyone in any direction and the designation of it's positive or negative impact on society will always be open to debate. Sometimes there is an event that occurs in the life of an individual that influences them no matter how minute or monumental. In the case of a young Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov (Lenin) the hanging of his older brother Alexander according to most historians planted the seeds that Vladimir sowed over time. He harvested a nation unparalleled in government which set the standards for the likes of Pol Pot, Chairman Mao, Joseph Stalin, Adolf Hitler, as well as others. The following pages will delve into the life of V.I. Lenin, the father of Communist Russia.

Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov (Lenin) was born on the 22nd of April, 1870 in Simbirsk (Ulyanovsk) to Ilya Ulyanov and Maria (Mariya) Alexandrovna. He was third child out of six with two brothers and three sisters. The young Vladimir invariably known in the family as Volodya was a gifted and capable child, qualities enhanced by the comfortable supportive atmosphere of the home, thanks to his father's successful career. Ilya was the inspector of primary schools for the Simbirsk province around the time Vladimir was born. He was to put his energy into making sure the schools ran efficiently and to create future plans or provisions for these schools. It was no easy task for Simbirsk was comparable to a small country, and in 1870 had a population of 1 million 300 thousand people, one-third of who were Chuvash, Mordva or Tatars. In January of 1882, Ilya was awarded the Order of St. Vladimir 3rd class for 'outstandingly diligent service' in education. This was a much sought-after decoration because it gave the recipient the right of hereditary nobility. The Ulyanov household was an environment conducive to learning and it would seem to anyone the children did not engage in anything else but studies. This was not the case but the focal point of importance is centered on their avenues of education through the school system as well as the home front. All the Ulyanov children were encouraged to apply themselves seriously to their studies from an early age. Ilya showed the children how to compose essays. Maria did not attend the university, but nonetheless well educated thanks to the efforts of her aunt, Yekaterina Groschopf. She taught her knowledge of the following languages respectively, German, French, and English. In addition Ilya hired a tutor to come to the house before the children were to go off to class. With their native intelligence, their capacity for hard work and the advantage of having trained teachers within the home, it was natural that the Ulyanov children distinguished themselves at school.

Vladimir Lenin's ethnicity has always been an undertone throughout history. This seems the case with most who are in the political spotlight who show hints of another nationality. It is important to discuss Lenin's background ethnically and socially. There has been many questions and debate what ethnic background Lenin was. Lenin was always reticent about the origins and the background of his family. He always felt what was personal should remain private. There has been great reluctance to discuss the Ulyanov family tree, no doubt because it was felt that the leader of the Russian revolution must be Russian. In addition the fact his ethnic background had been carefully covered up to make sure he was seen to have been, if not of 'proletarian,' at least of 'poor peasant' origin. He was admired by Russians and was the face of Russia. Ethnically speaking, what is the face of Russia? Empirically, Russians are a gumbo of many people who have trekked through the vastness of this great land and it is something that truly can be applied to the world at large. Lenin's background reflected the face of the entire empire. Lenin's antecedents were Russian, Kalmyk (Mongol), Jewish, German and Swedish, and possibly others, symbolizing Russian history, as it were: a Slavic beginning, Asiatic expansion, a Jewish accretion to the national intellect, and German or Western European culture. When dealing with social status, Lenin never attempted to hide the fact landowners were part of his background even though many Soviet biographers hid this fact. A brief look into the Ulyanov lineage will show Vladimir's ethnic background as well as the social standing of the lineage.

There is a 'minor' discrepancy when discussing Ilya's side of the family tree. Many historians insist it was Lenin's grandfather who was the serf but this holds no truth. Lenin's grandfather, Nikolai Vasilievich was a Russian town-dweller of Astrakhan who earned his living as a tailor. He was the son of a serf, but at an early age had been released to work away from the village, and had never returned home becoming a town dweller as distinct from a peasant, merchant or nobleman by social status. It was Lenin's great grandfather, Vasili Nikitich Ulyanov who had been a serf. He remained single until he turned fifty, and it was only then, having saved up some money, that he married. His bride was almost twenty years his junior, was Anna Alexeena Smirnova, a baptised Kalmyk. The couple had four children, Ilya, Lenin's father, being the youngest. Vasili was already past sixty and Anna was forty-three when Ilya was born. Upon the passing of Ilya's father, seventeen year-old Vasili the second oldest son, looked after the family. Vasili rose to the occasion and displayed exemplary enterprise, becoming a salesman for Sapozhinkov Brothers, a large commercial firm in Astrakhan. His willingness to work and his loyalty earned his employers' trust, and he was able to look after his mother and his younger brother, supporting Ilya through his studies at Kazan University until he became a teacher of mathematics, sending him money 'for settling down', 'for the wedding', 'for the move' and so on.

Lenin's mother, Maria (Mariya) Blank Alexandrova, was the fourth daughter of Alexander Dmitrievich Blank, a doctor and a baptized Jew from Zhitomir. He had taken as his patronymic the name of his godfather at his baptism, Dmitri Baranov, dropped his original patronymic of Moishevich, and adopted the Christian name of Alexander in place of his original name, Srul, the Yiddish form of Israel. Alexander Blank married Anna Johannovna Groschopf, the daughter of a prosperous German father and Swedish mother. In 1847, Alexander attained the civil service rank of State Counsellor, he retired and registered himself as a member of the nobility in Kazan, a major city on the Volga and the centre of Tatar culture in the region. There he bought the estate of Kokushkino. Here, Anna raised five daughters: Anna, Lyubov, Sofia, Maria (Lenin's mother), and Yekaterina. Anna Groschopf died young, and after her death her sister, Yekaterina von Essen, raised the five daughters. She was an educated woman and it was from her that Lenin's mother acquired her ability to play piano, to sing and to speak German, English and French. The seriousness of which these studies were undertaken is indicated by the fact that in 1863, Maria was able to pass the examinations which qualified her as a teacher of Russian, French and German. The manner in which both Ilya and Maria met gives credence to the saying "everything happens for a reason." The year after his wife died, Alexander Blank took up the post of inspector of a medical board in Perm and moved there with his family. For a short time he acted as the doctor for the Perm high school, where he befriended its Latin teacher Ivan Dmitrievich Veretennikov, who married his eldest daughter Anna. Veretennikov became inspector at Perm Nobles' Institute. It was on a visit to her married sister's home in Perm that Maria Blank met the mathematics teacher at the Institute, Ilya Ulyanov, her future husband.

The Jewish Role in the Bolshevik Revolution and Russia's Early Soviet Regime

Assessing the Grim Legacy of Soviet Communism, by Mark Weber

In the night of July 16-17, 1918, a squad of Bolshevik secret police murdered Russia's last emperor, Tsar Nicholas II, along with his wife, Tsaritsa Alexandra, their 14-year-old son, Tsarevich Alexis, and their four daughters. They were cut down in a hail of gunfire in a half-cellar room of the house in Ekaterinburg, a city in the Ural mountain region, where they were being held prisoner. The daughters were finished off with bayonets. To prevent a cult for the dead Tsar, the bodies were carted away to the countryside and hastily buried in a secret grave.

Bolshevik authorities at first reported that the Romanov emperor had been shot after the discovery of a plot to liberate him. For some time the deaths of the Empress and the children were kept secret. Soviet historians claimed for many years that local Bolsheviks had acted on their own in carrying out the killings, and that Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, had nothing to do with the crime.

In 1990, Moscow playwright and historian Edvard Radzinsky announced the result of his detailed investigation into the murders. He unearthed the reminiscences of Lenin's bodyguard, Alexei Akimov, who recounted how he personally delivered Lenin's execution order to the telegraph office. The telegram was also signed by Soviet government chief Yakov Sverdlov. Akimov had saved the original telegraph tape as a record of the secret order.

Radzinsky's research confirmed what earlier evidence had already indicated. Leon Trotsky -- one of Lenin's closest colleagues -- had revealed years earlier that Lenin and Sverdlov had together made the decision to put the Tsar and his family to death. Recalling a conversation in 1918, Trotsky wrote:

My next visit to Moscow took place after the [temporary] fall of Ekaterinburg [to anti-Communist forces]. Speaking with Sverdlov, I asked in passing: "Oh yes, and where is the Tsar?"

"Finished," he replied. "He has been shot."

"And where is the family?"

"The family along with him."

"All of them?," I asked, apparently with a trace of surprise.

"All of them," replied Sverdlov. "What about it?" He was waiting to see my reaction. I made no reply.

"And who made the decision?," I asked.

"We decided it here. Ilyich [Lenin] believed that we shouldn't leave the Whites a live banner to rally around, especially under the present difficult circumstances."

I asked no further questions and considered the matter closed.

Recent research and investigation by Radzinsky and others also corroborates the account provided years earlier by Robert Wilton, correspondent of the London Times in Russia for 17 years. His account, The Last Days of the Romanovs - originally published in 1920, and recently reissued by the Institute for Historical Review -- is based in large part on the findings of a detailed investigation carried out in 1919 by Nikolai Sokolov under the authority of "White" (anti-Communist) leader Alexander Kolchak. Wilton's book remains one of the most accurate and complete accounts of the murder of Russia's imperial family.

A solid understanding of history has long been the best guide to comprehending the present and anticipating the future. Accordingly, people are most interested in historical questions during times of crisis, when the future seems most uncertain. With the collapse of Communist rule in the Soviet Union, 1989-1991, and as Russians struggle to build a new order on the ruins of the old, historical issues have become very topical. For example, many ask: How did the Bolsheviks, a small movement guided by the teachings of German-Jewish social philosopher Karl Marx, succeed in taking control of Russia and imposing a cruel and despotic regime on its people?

In recent years, Jews around the world have been voicing anxious concern over the specter of anti-Semitism in the lands of the former Soviet Union. In this new and uncertain era, we are told, suppressed feelings of hatred and rage against Jews are once again being expressed. According to one public opinion survey conducted in 1991, for example, most Russians wanted all Jews to leave the country. But precisely why is anti-Jewish sentiment so widespread among the peoples of the former Soviet Union? Why do so many Russians, Ukrainians, Lithuanians and others blame "the Jews" for so much misfortune?

A Taboo Subject

Although officially Jews have never made up more than five percent of the country's total population, they played a highly disproportionate and probably decisive role in the infant Bolshevik regime, effectively dominating the Soviet government during its early years. Soviet historians, along with most of their colleagues in the West, for decades preferred to ignore this subject. The facts, though, cannot be denied.

With the notable exception of Lenin (Vladimir Ulyanov), most of the leading Communists who took control of Russia in 1917-20 were Jews. Leon Trotsky (Lev Bronstein) headed the Red Army and, for a time, was chief of Soviet foreign affairs. Yakov Sverdlov (Solomon) was both the Bolshevik party's executive secretary and -- as chairman of the Central Executive Committee -- head of the Soviet government. Grigori Zinoviev (Radomyslsky) headed the Communist International (Comintern), the central agency for spreading revolution in foreign countries. Other prominent Jews included press commissar Karl Radek (Sobelsohn), foreign affairs commissar Maxim Litvinov (Wallach), Lev Kamenev (Rosenfeld) and Moisei Uritsky.

Lenin himself was of mostly Russian and Kalmuck ancestry, but he was also one-quarter Jewish. His maternal grandfather, Israel (Alexander) Blank, was a Ukrainian Jew who was later baptized into the Russian Orthodox Church.

A thorough-going internationalist, Lenin viewed ethnic or cultural loyalties with contempt. He had little regard for his own countrymen. "An intelligent Russian," he once remarked, "is almost always a Jew or someone with Jewish blood in his veins."

Critical Meetings

In the Communist seizure of power in Russia, the Jewish role was probably critical.

Two weeks prior to the Bolshevik "October Revolution" of 1917, Lenin convened a top secret meeting in St. Petersburg (Petrograd) at which the key leaders of the Bolshevik party's Central Committee made the fateful decision to seize power in a violent takeover. Of the twelve persons who took part in this decisive gathering, there were four Russians (including Lenin), one Georgian (Stalin), one Pole (Dzerzhinsky), and six Jews.

To direct the takeover, a seven-man "Political Bureau" was chosen. It consisted of two Russians (Lenin and Bubnov), one Georgian (Stalin), and four Jews (Trotsky, Sokolnikov, Zinoviev, and Kamenev). Meanwhile, the Petersburg (Petrograd) Soviet -- whose chairman was Trotsky -- established an 18-member "Military Revolutionary Committee" to actually carry out the seizure of power. It included eight (or nine) Russians, one Ukrainian, one Pole, one Caucasian, and six Jews. Finally, to supervise the organization of the uprising, the Bolshevik Central Committee established a five-man "Revolutionary Military Center" as the Party's operations command. It consisted of one Russian (Bubnov), one Georgian (Stalin), one Pole (Dzerzhinsky), and two Jews (Sverdlov and Uritsky).

Contemporary Voices of Warning

Well-informed observers, both inside and outside of Russia, took note at the time of the crucial Jewish role in Bolshevism. Winston Churchill, for one, warned in an article published in the February 8, 1920, issue of the London Illustrated Sunday Herald that Bolshevism is a "worldwide conspiracy for the overthrow of civilization and for the reconstitution of society on the basis of arrested development, of envious malevolence, and impossible equality." The eminent British political leader and historian went on to write:

There is no need to exaggerate the part played in the creation of Bolshevism and in the actual bringing about of the Russian Revolution by these international and for the most part atheistical Jews. It is certainly a very great one; it probably outweighs all others. With the notable exception of Lenin, the majority of the leading figures are Jews. Moreover, the principal inspiration and driving power comes from the Jewish leaders. Thus Tchitcherin, a pure Russian, is eclipsed by his nominal subordinate, Litvinoff, and the influence of Russians like Bukharin or Lunacharski cannot be compared with the power of Trotsky, or of Zinovieff, the Dictator of the Red Citadel (Petrograd), or of Krassin or Radek -- all Jews. In the Soviet institutions the predominance of Jews is even more astonishing. And the prominent, if not indeed the principal, part in the system of terrorism applied by the Extraordinary Commissions for Combatting Counter-Revolution [the Cheka] has been taken by Jews, and in some notable cases by Jewesses

Needless to say, the most intense passions of revenge have been excited in the breasts of the Russian people.

David R. Francis, United States ambassador in Russia, warned in a January 1918 dispatch to Washington: "The Bolshevik leaders here, most of whom are Jews and 90 percent of whom are returned exiles, care little for Russia or any other country but are internationalists and they are trying to start a worldwide social revolution."

The Netherlands' ambassador in Russia, Oudendyke, made much the same point a few months later: "Unless Bolshevism is nipped in the bud immediately, it is bound to spread in one form or another over Europe and the whole world as it is organized and worked by Jews who have no nationality, and whose one object is to destroy for their own ends the existing order of things."

"The Bolshevik Revolution," declared a leading American Jewish community paper in 1920, "was largely the product of Jewish thinking, Jewish discontent, Jewish effort to reconstruct."

As an expression of its radically anti-nationalist character, the fledgling Soviet government issued a decree a few months after taking power that made anti-Semitism a crime in Russia. The new Communist regime thus became the first in the world to severely punish all expressions of anti-Jewish sentiment. Soviet officials apparently regarded such measures as indispensable. Based on careful observation during a lengthy stay in Russia, American-Jewish scholar Frank Golder reported in 1925 that "because so many of the Soviet leaders are Jews anti-Semitism is gaining [in Russia], particularly in the army [and] among the old and new intelligentsia who are being crowded for positions by the sons of Israel."

Historians' Views

Summing up the situation at that time, Israeli historian Louis Rapoport writes:

Immediately after the [Bolshevik] Revolution, many Jews were euphoric over their high representation in the new government. Lenin's first Politburo was dominated by men of Jewish origins

Under Lenin, Jews became involved in all aspects of the Revolution, including its dirtiest work. Despite the Communists' vows to eradicate anti-Semitism, it spread rapidly after the Revolution -- partly because of the prominence of so many Jews in the Soviet administration, as well as in the traumatic, inhuman Sovietization drives that followed. Historian Salo Baron has noted that an immensely disproportionate number of Jews joined the new Bolshevik secret police, the Cheka And many of those who fell afoul of the Cheka would be shot by Jewish investigators.

The collective leadership that emerged in Lenin's dying days was headed by the Jew Zinoviev, a loquacious, mean-spirited, curly-haired Adonis whose vanity knew no bounds.

"Anyone who had the misfortune to fall into the hands of the Cheka," wrote Jewish historian Leonard Schapiro, "stood a very good chance of finding himself confronted with, and possibly shot by, a Jewish investigator." In Ukraine, "Jews made up nearly 80 percent of the rank-and-file Cheka agents," reports W. Bruce Lincoln, an American professor of Russian history. (Beginning as the Cheka, or Vecheka) the Soviet secret police was later known as the GPU, OGPU, NKVD, MVD and KGB.)

In light of all this, it should not be surprising that Yakov M. Yurovksy, the leader of the Bolshevik squad that carried out the murder of the Tsar and his family, was Jewish, as was Sverdlov, the Soviet chief who co-signed Lenin's execution order.

Igor Shafarevich, a Russian mathematician of world stature, has sharply criticized the Jewish role in bringing down the Romanov monarchy and establishing Communist rule in his country. Shafarevich was a leading dissident during the final decades of Soviet rule. A prominent human rights activist, he was a founding member of the Committee on the Defense of Human Rights in the USSR.

In Russophobia, a book written ten years before the collapse of Communist rule, he noted that Jews were "amazingly" numerous among the personnel of the Bolshevik secret police. The characteristic Jewishness of the Bolshevik executioners, Shafarevich went on, is most conspicuous in the execution of Nicholas II:

This ritual action symbolized the end of centuries of Russian history, so that it can be compared only to the execution of Charles I in England or Louis XVI in France. It would seem that representatives of an insignificant ethnic minority should keep as far as possible from this painful action, which would reverberate in all history. Yet what names do we meet? The execution was personally overseen by Yakov Yurovsky who shot the Tsar; the president of the local Soviet was Beloborodov (Vaisbart); the person responsible for the general administration in Ekaterinburg was Shaya Goloshchekin. To round out the picture, on the wall of the room where the execution took place was a distich from a poem by Heine (written in German) about King Balthazar, who offended Jehovah and was killed for the offense.

In his 1920 book, British veteran journalist Robert Wilton offered a similarly harsh assessment:

The whole record of Bolshevism in Russia is indelibly impressed with the stamp of alien invasion. The murder of the Tsar, deliberately planned by the Jew Sverdlov (who came to Russia as a paid agent of Germany) and carried out by the Jews Goloshchekin, Syromolotov, Safarov, Voikov and Yurovsky, is the act not of the Russian people, but of this hostile invader.

In the struggle for power that followed Lenin's death in 1924, Stalin emerged victorious over his rivals, eventually succeeding in putting to death nearly every one of the most prominent early Bolsheviks leaders - including Trotsky, Zinoviev, Radek, and Kamenev. With the passage of time, and particularly after 1928, the Jewish role in the top leadership of the Soviet state and its Communist party diminished markedly.

Put To Death Without Trial

For a few months after taking power, Bolshevik leaders considered bringing "Nicholas Romanov" before a "Revolutionary Tribunal" that would publicize his "crimes against the people" before sentencing him to death. Historical precedent existed for this. Two European monarchs had lost their lives as a consequence of revolutionary upheaval: England's Charles I was beheaded in 1649, and France's Louis XVI was guillotined in 1793.

In these cases, the king was put to death after a lengthy public trial, during which he was allowed to present arguments in his defense. Nicholas II, though, was neither charged nor tried. He was secretly put to death - along with his family and staff -- in the dead of night, in an act that resembled more a gangster-style massacre than a formal execution.

Why did Lenin and Sverdlov abandon plans for a show trial of the former Tsar? In Wilton's view, Nicholas and his family were murdered because the Bolshevik rulers knew quite well that they lacked genuine popular support, and rightly feared that the Russian people would never approve killing the Tsar, regardless of pretexts and legalistic formalities.

For his part, Trotsky defended the massacre as a useful and even necessary measure. He wrote:

The decision [to kill the imperial family] was not only expedient but necessary. The severity of this punishment showed everyone that we would continue to fight on mercilessly, stopping at nothing. The execution of the Tsar's family was needed not only in order to frighten, horrify, and instill a sense of hopelessness in the enemy but also to shake up our own ranks, to show that there was no turning back, that ahead lay either total victory or total doom. This Lenin sensed well.

Historical Context

In the years leading up to the 1917 revolution, Jews were disproportionately represented in all of Russia's subversive leftist parties. Jewish hatred of the Tsarist regime had a basis in objective conditions. Of the leading European powers of the day, imperial Russia was the most institutionally conservative and anti-Jewish. For example, Jews were normally not permitted to reside outside a large area in the west of the Empire known as the "Pale of Settlement."

However understandable, and perhaps even defensible, Jewish hostility toward the imperial regime may have been, the remarkable Jewish role in the vastly more despotic Soviet regime is less easy to justify. In a recently published book about the Jews in Russia during the 20th century, Russian-born Jewish writer Sonya Margolina goes so far as to call the Jewish role in supporting the Bolshevik regime the "historic sin of the Jews." She points, for example, to the prominent role of Jews as commandants of Soviet Gulag concentration and labor camps, and the role of Jewish Communists in the systematic destruction of Russian churches. Moreover, she goes on, "The Jews of the entire world supported Soviet power, and remained silent in the face of any criticism from the opposition." In light of this record, Margolina offers a grim prediction:

The exaggeratedly enthusiastic participation of the Jewish Bolsheviks in the subjugation and destruction of Russia is a sin that will be avenged. Soviet power will be equated with Jewish power, and the furious hatred against the Bolsheviks will become hatred against Jews.

If the past is any indication, it is unlikely that many Russians will seek the revenge that Margolina prophesies. Anyway, to blame "the Jews" for the horrors of Communism seems no more justifiable than to blame "white people" for Negro slavery, or "the Germans" for the Second World War or "the Holocaust."

Words of Grim Portent

Nicholas and his family are only the best known of countless victims of a regime that openly proclaimed its ruthless purpose. A few weeks after the Ekaterinburg massacre, the newspaper of the fledgling Red Army declared:

Without mercy, without sparing, we will kill our enemies by the scores of hundreds, let them be thousands, let them drown themselves in their own blood. For the blood of Lenin and Uritskii let there be floods of blood of the bourgeoisie -- more blood, as much as possible.

Grigori Zinoviev, speaking at a meeting of Communists in September 1918, effectively pronounced a death sentence on ten million human beings: "We must carry along with us 90 million out of the 100 million of Soviet Russia's inhabitants. As for the rest, we have nothing to say to them. They must be annihilated."

'The Twenty Million'

As it turned out, the Soviet toll in human lives and suffering proved to be much higher than Zinoviev's murderous rhetoric suggested. Rarely, if ever, has a regime taken the lives of so many of its own people.

Citing newly-available Soviet KGB documents, historian Dmitri Volkogonov, head of a special Russian parliamentary commission, recently concluded that "from 1929 to 1952 21.5 million [Soviet] people were repressed. Of these a third were shot, the rest sentenced to imprisonment, where many also died."

Olga Shatunovskaya, a member of the Soviet Commission of Party Control, and head of a special commission during the 1960s appointed by premier Khrushchev, has similarly concluded: "From January 1, 1935 to June 22, 1941, 19,840,000 enemies of the people were arrested. Of these, seven million were shot in prison, and a majority of the others died in camp." These figures were also found in the papers of Politburo member Anastas Mikoyan.

Robert Conquest, the distinguished specialist of Soviet history, recently summed up the grim record of Soviet "repression" of its own people:

It is hard to avoid the conclusion that the post-1934 death toll was well over ten million. To this should be added the victims of the 1930-1933 famine, the kulak deportations, and other anti-peasant campaigns, amounting to another ten million plus. The total is thus in the range of what the Russians now refer to as 'The Twenty Million'."

A few other scholars have given significantly higher estimates.

The Tsarist Era in Retrospect

With the dramatic collapse of Soviet rule, many Russians are taking a new and more respectful look at their country's pre-Communist history, including the era of the last Romanov emperor. While the Soviets -- along with many in the West -- have stereotypically portrayed this era as little more than an age of arbitrary despotism, cruel suppression and mass poverty, the reality is rather different. While it is true that the power of the Tsar was absolute, that only a small minority had any significant political voice, and that the mass of the empire's citizens were peasants, it is worth noting that Russians during the reign of Nicholas II had freedom of press, religion, assembly and association, protection of private property, and free labor unions. Sworn enemies of the regime, such as Lenin, were treated with remarkable leniency.

During the decades prior to the outbreak of the First World War, the Russian economy was booming. In fact, between 1890 and 1913, it was the fastest growing in the world. New rail lines were opened at an annual rate double that of the Soviet years. Between 1900 and 1913, iron production increased by 58 percent, while coal production more than doubled. Exported Russian grain fed all of Europe. Finally, the last decades of Tsarist

Russia witnessed a magnificent flowering of cultural life.

Everything changed with the First World War, a catastrophe not only for Russia, but for the entire West.

Monarchist Sentiment

In spite of (or perhaps because of) the relentless official campaign during the entire Soviet era to stamp out every uncritical memory of the Romanovs and imperial Russia, a virtual cult of popular veneration for Nicholas II has been sweeping Russia in recent years.

People have been eagerly paying the equivalent of several hours' wages to purchase portraits of Nicholas from street vendors in Moscow, St. Petersburg and other Russian cities. His portrait now hangs in countless Russian homes and apartments. In late 1990, all 200,000 copies of a first printing of a 30-page pamphlet on the Romanovs quickly sold out. Said one street vendor: "I personally sold four thousand copies in no time at all. It's like a nuclear explosion. People really want to know about their Tsar and his family." Grass roots pro-Tsarist and monarchist organizations have sprung up in many cities.

A public opinion poll conducted in 1990 found that three out of four Soviet citizens surveyed regard the killing of the Tsar and his family as a despicable crime. Many Russian Orthodox believers regard Nicholas as a martyr. The independent "Orthodox Church Abroad" canonized the imperial family in 1981, and the Moscow-based Russian Orthodox Church has been under popular pressure to take the same step, in spite of its long-standing reluctance to touch this official taboo. The Russian Orthodox Archbishop of Ekaterinburg announced plans in 1990 to build a grand church at the site of the killings. "The people loved Emperor Nicholas," he said. "His memory lives with the people, not as a saint but as someone executed without court verdict, unjustly, as a sufferer for his faith and for orthodoxy."

On the 75th anniversary of the massacre (in July 1993), Russians recalled the life, death and legacy of their last Emperor. In Ekaterinburg, where a large white cross festooned with flowers now marks the spot where the family was killed, mourners wept as hymns were sung and prayers were said for the victims.

Reflecting both popular sentiment and new social-political realities, the white, blue and red horizontal tricolor flag of Tsarist Russia was officially adopted in 1991, replacing the red Soviet banner. And in 1993, the imperial two-headed eagle was restored as the nation's official emblem, replacing the Soviet hammer and sickle. Cities that had been re-named to honor Communist figures -- such as Leningrad, Kuibyshev, Frunze, Kalinin, and Gorky -- have re-acquired their Tsarist-era names. Ekaterinburg, which had been named Sverdlovsk by the Soviets in 1924 in honor of the Soviet-Jewish chief, in September 1991 restored its pre-Communist name, which honors Empress Catherine I.

Symbolic Meaning

In view of the millions that would be put to death by the Soviet rulers in the years to follow, the murder of the Romanov family might not seem of extraordinary importance. And yet, the event has deep symbolic meaning. In the apt words of Harvard University historian Richard Pipes:

The manner in which the massacre was prepared and carried out, at first denied and then justified, has something uniquely odious about it, something that radically distinguishes it from previous acts of regicide and brands it as a prelude to twentieth-century mass murder.

Another historian, Ivor Benson, characterized the killing of the Romanov family as symbolic of the tragic fate of Russia and, indeed, of the entire West, in this century of unprecedented agony and conflict.

The murder of the Tsar and his family is all the more deplorable because, whatever his failings as a monarch, Nicholas II was, by all accounts, a personally decent, generous, humane and honorable man.

The Massacre's Place in History

The mass slaughter and chaos of the First World War, and the revolutionary upheavals that swept Europe in 1917-1918, brought an end not only to the ancient Romanov dynasty in Russia, but to an entire continental social order. Swept away as well was the Hohenzollern dynasty in Germany, with its stable constitutional monarchy, and the ancient Habsburg dynasty of Austria-Hungary with its multinational central European empire. Europe's leading states shared not only the same Christian and Western cultural foundations, but most of the continent's reigning monarchs were related by blood. England's King George was, through his mother, a first cousin of Tsar Nicholas, and, through his father, a first cousin of Empress Alexandra. Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm was a first cousin of the German-born Alexandra, and a distant cousin of Nicholas.

More than was the case with the monarchies of western Europe, Russia's Tsar personally symbolized his land and nation. Thus, the murder of the last emperor of a dynasty that had ruled Russia for three centuries not only symbolically presaged the Communist mass slaughter that would claim so many Russian lives in the decades that followed, but was symbolic of the Communist effort to kill the soul and spirit of Russia itself.

 36. Because of his revolutionary activities, Lenin was sentenced in 1897 to three years exile in Siberia. During this period of "punishment," he got married, wrote some 30 works, made extensive use of a well-stocked local library, subscribed to numerous foreign periodicals, kept up a voluminous correspondence with supporters across Europe, and enjoyed numerous sport hunting and ice skating excursions, while all the time receiving a state stipend. Appendix

A striking feature of Mr. Wilton's examination of the tumultuous 1917-1919 period in Russia is his frank treatment of the critically important Jewish role in establishing the Bolshevik regime.

The following lists of persons in the Bolshevik Party and Soviet administration during this period, which Wilton compiled on the basis of official reports and original documents, underscore the crucial Jewish role in these bodies. These lists first appeared in the rare French edition of Wilton's book, published in Paris in 1921 under the title Les Derniers Jours des Romanoffs. They did not appear in either the American or British editions of The Last Days of the Romanoffs published in 1920.

"I have done all in my power to act as an impartial chronicler," Wilton wrote in his foreword to Les Derniers Jours des Romanoffs. "In order not to leave myself open to any accusation of prejudice, I am giving the list of the members of the [Bolshevik Party's] Central Committee, of the Extraordinary Commission [Cheka or secret police], and of the Council of Commissars functioning at the time of the assassination of the Imperial family.

"The 62 members of the [Central] Committee were composed of five Russians, one Ukrainian, six Letts [Latvians], two Germans, one Czech, two Armenians, three Georgians, one Karaim [Karaites] (a Jewish sect), and 41 Jews.

"The Extraordinary Commission [Cheka or Vecheka] of Moscow was composed of 36 members, including one German, one Pole, one Armenian, two Russians, eight Latvians, and 23 Jews.

"The Council of the People's Commissars [the Soviet government] numbered two Armenians, three Russians, and 17 Jews.

"According to data furnished by the Soviet press, out of 556 important functionaries of the Bolshevik state, including the above-mentioned, in 1918-1919 there were: 17 Russians, two Ukrainians, eleven Armenians, 35 Letts [Latvians], 15 Germans, one Hungarian, ten Georgians, three Poles, three Finns, one Czech, one Karaim, and 457 Jews."

"If the reader is astonished to find the Jewish hand everywhere in the affair of the assassination of the Russian Imperial family, he must bear in mind the formidable numerical preponderance of Jews in the Soviet administration," Wilton went on to write.

Effective governmental power, Wilton continued (on pages 136-138 of the same edition) is in the Central Committee of the Bolshevik party. In 1918, he reported, this body had twelve members, of whom nine were of Jewish origin, and three were of Russian ancestry. The nine Jews were: Bronstein (Trotsky), Apfelbaum (Zinoviev), Lurie (Larine), Uritsky, Volodarski, Rosenfeld (Kamenev), Smidovich, Sverdlov (Yankel), and Nakhamkes (Steklov). The three Russians were: Ulyanov (Lenin), Krylenko, and Lunacharsky.

"The other Russian Socialist parties are similar in composition," Wilton went on. "Their Central Committees are made up as follows:"

Mensheviks (Social Democrats): Eleven members, all of whom are Jewish.

Communists of the People: Six members, of whom five are Jews and one is a Russian.

Social Revolutionaries (Right Wing): Fifteen members, of whom 13 are Jews and two are Russians (Kerenski, who may be of Jewish origin, and Tchaikovski).

Social Revolutionaries (Left Wing): Twelve members, of whom ten are Jews and two are Russians.

Committee of the Anarchists of Moscow: Five members, of whom four are Jews and one is a Russian.

Polish Communist Party: Twelve members, all of whom are Jews, including Sobelson (Radek), Krokhenal (Zagonski), and Schwartz (Goltz).

"These parties," commented Wilton, "in appearance opposed to the Bolsheviks, play the Bolsheviks' game on the sly, more or less, by preventing the Russians from pulling themselves together. Out of 61 individuals at the head of these parties, there are six Russians and 55 Jews. No matter what may be the name adopted, a revolutionary government will be Jewish."

[Although the Bolsheviks permitted these leftist political groups to operate for a time under close supervision and narrow limits, even these pitiful remnants of organized opposition were thoroughly eliminated by the end of the 1921.]

The Soviet government, or "Council of People's Commissars" (also known as the "Sovnarkom") was made up of the following, Wilton reported:

Peoples Commissariat (Ministry)	Name	Nationality
Chairman	V.I. Ulyanov (Lenin)	Russian
Foreign Affairs	G.V. Chicherin	Russian
Nationalities	J. Dzhugashvili [Stalin]	Georgian
Agriculture	Protian	Armenian
Economic Council	Lourie (Larin)	Jew
Food Supply	A.G. Schlikhter	Jew
Army and Navy [Military]	L.D. Bronstein (Trotsky)	Jew
State Control	K.I. Lander	Jew
State Lands	Kaufmann	Jew
Works [Labor]	V. Schmidt	Jew
Social Relief	E. Lilina (Knigissen)	Jew
Education	A. Lunacharsky	Russian
Religion	Spitzberg	Jew
Interior	Apfelbaum [Radomyslski] (Zinoviev)	Jew
.Hygiene	Anvelt	Jew
Finance	I. E. Gukovs [and G. Sokolnikov]	Jew
Press	Voldarski [Goldstein]	Jew
Elections	M.S. Uritsky	Jew
Justice	I.Z. Shteinberg	Jew
Refugees	Fenigstein	Jew
Refugees	Savitch (Assistant)	Jew
Refugees	Zaslovski (Assistant)	Jew

Out of these 22 "Sovnarkom" members, Wilton summed up, there were three Russians, one Georgian, one Armenian, and 17 Jews.

The Central Executive Committee, Wilton continues, was made up of the following members:

Y. M. Sverdlov [Solomon] (Chairman)	Jew
Avanesov (Secretary)	Armenian
Bruno	Latvian
Breslau	Latvian [?]
Babtchinski	Jew
N. I. Bukharin	Russian
Weinberg	Jew
Gailiss	Jew
Ganzberg [Ganzburg]	Jew
Danichevski	Jew
Starck	German
Sachs	Jew

Karakhane	Karaim [Karaites]
Rose	Jew

Sobelson (Radek)	Jew
Schlichter	Jew
Schikolini	Jew
Chklianski	Jew
Levine-(Pravdine)	Jew

Thus, concluded Wilton, out of 61 members, five were Russians, six were Latvians, one was a German, two were Armenians, one was a Czech, one was an Imeretian, two were Georgians, one was a Karaim, one was a Ukrainian, and 41 were Jews.

The Extraordinary Commission of Moscow (Cheka) 'the Soviet secret police and predecessor of the GPU, the NKVD and the KGB was made up of the following:

F. Dzerzhinsky (Chairman)	Pole
Y. Peters (Deputy Chairman)	Latvian
Chklovski	Jew
Kheifiss	Jew
Zeistine	Jew
Razmirovitch	Jew
Kronberg	Jew
Khaikina	Jew
Karlson	Latvian
Schaumann	Latvian
Leontovitch	Jew
Jacob Goldine	Jew
Galperstein	Jew
Kniggisen	Jew
Katzis	Latvian
Schillenkuss	Jew
Janson	Latvian
Rivkine	Jew
Antonof	Russian
Delafabre	Jew
Tsitkine	Jew
Roskirovitch	Jew
G. Sverdlov (Brother of president of the Central Executive Committee)	Jew
Biesenski	Jew
J. Blumkin (Count Mirbach's assassin)	Jew
Alexandrovitch (Blumkin's accomplice)	Russian
I. Model	Jew
Routenberg	Jew
Pines	Jew
Sachs	Jew
Daybol	Latvian

Saïssoune	Armenian
Deylkenen	Latvian
Liebert	Jew
Vogel	German
Zakiss	Latvian

Of these 36 Cheka officials, one was a Pole, one a German, one an Armenian, two were Russians, eight were Latvians, and 23 were Jews.

"Accordingly," Wilton sums up, "there is no reason to be surprised at the preponderant role of Jews in the assassination of the Imperial family. It is rather the opposite that would have been surprising."

Lenin's Early Life

Wikipedia http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vladimir_Lenin#Early_life

Born in Simbirsk, Russian Empire (now Ulyanovsk), Lenin was the son of Ilya Nikolaevich Ulyanov , a Russian official in public education who worked for progressive democracy and free universal education in Russia, and Maria Alexandrovna Ulyanova. The family was of mixed ethnic ancestry. "Lenin's antecedents were Russian, Kalmyk, Jewish, German and Swedish, and possibly others".[1] Lenin was baptized into the Russian Orthodox Church.

"Traitors Within" by Herbert T. Fitch, p. 16

"It was my first sight of him [Lenin] - a smooth-headed, oval-faced, narrow-eyed, typical Jew, with a devilish sureness in every line of his powerful magnetic face. Beside him was a different type of Jew, the kind one might see in any Soho shop, strong-nosed, sallow-faced, long-moustached, with a little tuft of beard wagging from his chin and a great shock of wild hair, Leiba Bronstein, afterwards Lev Trotsky."

"...the main purveyors of funds for the revolution, however, were neither the crackpot Russian millionaires nor the armed bandits of Lenin. The 'real' money primarily came from certain British and American circles which for a long time past had lent their support to the Russian revolutionary cause...The important part played by the wealthy American Jewish Banker, Jacob Schiff, in the events in Russia...is no longer a secret."

It is time for you to sit down and re-assess EVERYTHING you have BEEN TOLD about the Communism vs. Democracy PARADIGM. In order to begin to comprehend the extent of Zionist power and control one must fully understand the dynamics of the FACT that the Zionists were completely behind the creation of communist Russia, the Bolshevik Revolution and Lenin's murderous reign... while at the same time other divisions of the Zionist cartel were infiltrating the New World here in America, digging their tentacles deep into the young nation's soul...

More often than not, the most powerful bloc within the advanced countries is the 1-2% super elite/rich Jews who are at the heart of pulling all the strategic strings of their respective nations. THIS my friend is the REALITY of the world today, THIS my friend is the amazing incomprehensible TRUTH. Maybe now you might understand many quotes that seemed quite odd at the time such as this:

"The individual is handicapped by coming face to face with a Conspiracy so monstrous he cannot believe it exists. The American mind simply has not come to a realization of the evil which has been introduced into our midst." – J. Edgar Hoover*

There is so much more to discuss regarding this line of revelations. But I am limited by this report to bringing up the pertinent facts and subjects and connecting the dots. The purpose of the Matrix Report is to provide the overall big picture of the ruling elite matrix. This is a core unifying reference work to provide a logical framework of the matrix providing a starting point for all seekers of truth.

It is painfully obvious by now that the Zionist elite have this amazing talent of choosing and staging their selected candidates to rule the nations. Therefore I must warn you to closely scrutinize all political figures and leaders, their policies, roots and ties, for when you least expect it YOUR favorite candidate can be their next Trojan horse puppet.

Behold: For Zionism is the multiheaded beast who prowls the earth in its quest of conquest ravaging it and consuming everything in its path, woe to he who defies the beast... America is the harlot, the whore who prostitutes herself out to the highest bidder, she fornicates with the Kings of the Earth, her pimp masters are none other than the Zionists and the globalist elites who keep the corrupt gluttonous Washingtonite prostitutes on short leashes.

S ELECTION FRAUD FACTOR

"It's not the votes that count, it's who counts the votes." - Josef Stalin

"Presidents are selected, not elected." — Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Former U.S. President"*

First of all I must open this chapter with these sadly true statements from internet posts for they reveal what I believe are some of the core disturbing truths of “the system” aka The Matrix:

“Voting cannot cure what ails America. The game is fixed. The appearance of choice is an illusion, an utter hoax.”

“Voting in general is like switching seats on the Titanic. It really doesn't matter anymore - out with the old crooks in with the new it's been that way for over 50 years of my life and people still don't get it even as things are getting far worse.”

It is through purportedly being “elected” by the constituents that our so called “elected leaders” take office and get a hold of POWER. So you would think that this process we call elections would be one of the most sacred, protected and secure processes in our so called “democracy”. In actuality, it is the opposite. It is almost as if “anything goes,” each election is a contest of who can rig the vote better than the other guy. And there is a whole myriad of “legal” ways they go about this, not to mention the myriad of unscrupable means and strategies they employ. This is the accepted norm.

As I discussed in other chapters of this research report, the entire political system is actually controlled by hidden forces and entities whose power is not dependent of elections nor do they change every four years come election time. These are the “hidden masters” who rule this nation by proxy.

They rule over the minions utilizing ingenious strategies central among them is divide and conquer which is the foundation that has fundamentally separated this nation into two opposing camps “rightwing vs leftwing” aka Republicans vs Democrats who then go forth battling each other.

BEHOLD... For unbeknownst to the gullible public the LEFT WING and the RIGHT WING is ATTACHED TO THE SAME BIRD! (A bird of prey no less). The same HEAD and BRAIN CONTROLS BOTH WINGS!!!... Understand this analogy and you will begin to understand the TRUE state of the union... No matter how you vote it never changes a thing: heads they win, tails you loose.

Switching back and forth between Republican and Democratic parties is necessary to maintain the illusion of real choice.

The ruling overlords who push the buttons behind the curtain employ the best and brightest minds to perpetuate the elaborate illusion of choice, freedom and liberty. The ruling overlords routinely send in scouts to top universities to recruit the brightest minds. These employed geniuses are the best in their respective fields such as Behavioral Sciences, group psychology, strategy, manipulation, propaganda, indoctrination and so forth. Employing the latest cutting edge herd management techniques they skillfully lead and control the realm of public thought and discourse. Their product, a cohesive illusion of choice, freedom and liberty is so pronounced and thorough that it is essentially mind boggling that it is accepted as undisputed REALITY by the masses. The sheeple population are entranced under such a deluded state of denial that they have no clue of their predicament.

What we witness on a national scale is mass COGNITIVE DISSONANCE of the entire voting public. Even though everyone KNOWS and admits that politicians are the most corrupt and deceitful people on earth the public evidently believing there is no other way, just bury that understanding and go through the motions of voting yet again and again expecting a MIRACLE of the allegedly “elected” leaders actually doing what they promised instead of immediately upon getting into office then continuing where their predecessor left off and build upon the already implemented acts with evermore atrocious ones. The end results are almost always the same. Government continues to grow into some sort of monstrosity and evermore encroaching into all aspects of our personal lives, the ever increasing taxes and fees seem to go into infinity as the poor majority always get the shaft while the elite and their middle management collaborators whom all become rich by playing and perpetuating the system get all the breaks in life.

The game is rigged, and you my friend are not in on it. The Rich Are Winning the US Class War: Facts Show Rich Getting Richer, Everyone Else Poorer.

Denial

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

For the politics of science/history and public policy, see Denialism. For other uses, see Denial \(disambiguation\).

Denial is a defense mechanism postulated by Sigmund Freud, in which a person is faced with a fact that is too uncomfortable to accept and rejects it instead, insisting that it is not true despite what may be overwhelming evidence. ^[1] The subject may use:

simple denial - deny the reality of the unpleasant fact altogether minimisation - admit the fact but deny its seriousness (a combination of denial and rationalisation), or projection - admit both the fact and seriousness but deny responsibility.

The concept of denial is particularly important to the study of addiction. The theory of denial was first researched seriously by Anna Freud. She classified denial as a mechanism of the immature mind, because it conflicts with the ability to learn from and cope with reality. Where denial occurs in mature minds, it is most often associated with death, dying and rape. More recent research has significantly expanded the scope and utility of the concept. Elisabeth Kübler-Ross used denial as the first of five stages in the psychology of a dying patient, and the idea has been extended to include the reactions of survivors to news of a death. Thus, when parents are informed of the death of a child, their first reaction is often of the form, "No! You must have the wrong house, you can't mean our child!" [citation needed]

Unlike some other defense mechanisms postulated by psychoanalytic theory (for instance, repression), the general existence of denial is fairly easy to verify, even for non-specialists. On the other hand, denial is one of the most controversial defense mechanisms, since it can be easily used to create unfalsifiable theories: anything the subject says or does that appears to disprove the interpreter's theory is explained, not as evidence that the interpreter's theory is wrong, but as the subject's being "in denial". However, researchers note that in some cases of corroborated child sexual abuse, the victims sometimes make a series of partial confessions and recantations as they struggle with their own denial and the denial of abusers or family members.[2]

The concept of denial is important in twelve-step programs, where the abandonment or reversal of denial forms the basis of the first, fourth, fifth, eighth and tenth steps. The ability to deny or minimize is an essential part of what enables an addict to continue his or her behavior despite evidence that - to an outsider - appears overwhelming. This is cited as one of the reasons that compulsion is seldom effective in treating addiction — the habit of denial remains.

Understanding and avoiding denial is also important in the treatment of various diseases. The American Heart Association cites denial as a principal reason that treatment of a heart attack is delayed. Because the symptoms are so varied, and often have other potential explanations, the opportunity exists for the patient to deny the emergency, often with fatal consequences. It is common for patients to delay mammograms or other tests because of a fear of cancer, even though this is clearly maladaptive. It is the responsibility of the care team, and of the nursing staff in particular, to train at-risk patients to avoid such behavior

The blind herds of voting cattle routinely forget the false promises of ALL the elections past and yet again line up to vote for "THEIR" candidate, cheering "THEIR TEAM" exactly how the true rulers of the entire process want the cattle to think and behave. For it matters not who "wins"... leftwing or rightwing... they both belong to the same ruling crime syndicate, beholden to the same ruling elite and the same corrupt system that progressively gets worse and worse no matter who is elected. The sheeple ignore reality and blindly, with a religious fervor, cheer "their team" beyond all logic and reason. There is a scientific explanation for this state of denial it is called "True-believer Syndrome":

True-believer syndrome :

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

True-believer syndrome is a term coined by M. Lamar Keene in his 1976 book The Psychic Mafia. Keene used the term to refer to people who continued to believe in a paranormal event or phenomenon even after it had been proven to have been staged.^{[1][2]} Keene considered it to be a cognitive disorder.^{[3][4]} and regarded it as being a key factor in the success of many psychic mediums.^[2]

The term "true believer syndrome" is not used professionally by psychologists, psychiatrists, or medical professionals and is not recognised as a form of psychopathology or psychological impairment, nor is it listed in any version of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders.^[5]

Raoul

In his book The Psychic Mafia, Keene tells of a psychic medium named Raoul. Some people still believed that Raoul was genuine even after he openly admitted that he was a fake. Keene wrote "I knew how easy it was to make people believe a lie, but I didn't expect the same people, confronted with the lie, would choose it over the truth. ... No amount of logic can shatter a faith consciously based on a lie."[6][1]

Carlos

According to The Skeptic's Dictionary, an example of this syndrome is evidenced by an event in 1988, when James Randi, at the request of an Australian news program, coached stage performer José Alvarez to pretend he was channelling a two-thousand-year-old spirit named "Carlos". Even after it was revealed to be a fictional character created by Randi and Alvarez, many people continued to believe that "Carlos" was real.[4] Randi commented: "no amount of evidence, no matter how good it is or how much there is of it, is ever going to convince the true believer to the contrary." [7]

I'm so disgusted with the state of rampant voter fraud and manipulation here in America that I am having a real hard time even trying to gather my thoughts together and muster the will power to even try and articulate this "known evil but no one really cares enough to do anything" subject. Let me just sum this up real quickly and just get it out of the way. Voter fraud here in America is so pervasive, so entrenched, such an integral part of the system that it is regularly just shrugged off. Yet the electoral process is supposedly one of the most important fundamental features of any so called great democracy.

Just how pervasive is voter fraud? There are so many ways to steal an election it is not even funny, a quick look at Wikipedia's list: Electoral manipulation, gerrymandering, manipulation of demography, disenfranchisement, intimidation, vote buying, misinformation, misleading or confusing ballot papers, ballot stuffing, misreporting of votes, misuse of proxy votes, destruction or invalidation of ballots, election fraud in legislature, and the new kid on the block, jerry rigged machines. In the old days, exit polls were amazingly accurate, but now that stealing an election is as easy as having one of your hackers conveniently working at any given polling location EASILY being able to changing the numbers within a couple minutes. For the first time in history, the day they started using the electric machines, was the same moment the exit polls "were no longer accurate", way off... actually not so, the exit polls never changed, in all actuality it is the machine counts that are way off. But our ruling masters have convinced us all that the problem is with the exit polling. Yeah, right. But convince everyone it's all the fault of the exit polls they did, now exit polls are scorned at.

Below is what is one of the finest most lucid and well articulated articles completely expressing and summarizing the reality of "the system" as it truly is, that I have read in a long time...

An Argument Against Endorsing the Political System

By Benjamin Zman, Nov 2, 2010

Every election cycle I have to deal with so many people asking me if I voted and then being shocked, angry or disappointed with me when I say that I don't vote. Maybe I should just say I voted for the Tea Party, is that better? At least I voted right? I have no problem with you voting if that is what you really want to do but I have my reasons for not endorsing this political circus with my vote. I have a right to decline participation in a political system that I believe is corrupted by money, that forces cultural programming and propaganda on us everyday, that is assisting corporate interests in the looting of our wealth and resources, that supports constant wars and military occupation all over the world, that is gradually dumbing down America and has a strong hand in shaping the New World Order.

Voting in America is about giving in to one of two manufactured options. Both options have continually failed us, over and over again, yet we continue to support a political system that cleverly feeds on one of our last bits of freedom; the right to resist the mechanisms of powers that be. Voting is not the last right we have left, so stop telling me it is. We have the right to cognitive liberty, to think for ourselves and act according to those ideas and principles. Every election cycle the machine chews us up, gets us all riled and agitated and then spits us out, excited for a fight and the promise of change that will NEVER come. We are led to believe that our vote gives us a seat behind the steering wheel, but it doesn't. We aren't fighting the machine by voting, we are becoming it.

Our politicians are illusionists, highly skilled at distorting the field of reality. They playfully distract Americans from whats going on behind the scenes, funded by their corporate sponsors. You are constantly being asked to vote against the other party and not for what you believe would be better for our country. You may ask yourself, "what happened to the man I voted for?" or excuse his failures by blaming the opposition of his political rivals but don't give in to the illusion. Do you really think that not voting is what the other political party wants you to do? Are you that afraid that you would vote against your best interests just because you think the other party is more dangerous? Make no mistake, Democrat or Republican, the machine is tethered to corporate interests, big business and the banking elite. There is no great champion of the people, there is no catalyst for change in the two-party system, there is only the illusion that your vote makes a difference and that your candidate will make things better. The masters of political manipulation, the alchemists of internet and television propaganda; they know how to transform opinion and bypass reason, so that they can grab hold of our emotional cords and pull us into their illusion.

Do you ever ask yourself why you really vote? If its because you actually researched your preferred candidate, agree with their policies and know they aren't receiving large amount of campaign contributions from big business, then you are a rarity. I think most people vote like I used to, because they are afraid or angry. Everyday, fear is propagated through a narration of carefully selected emotional issues. We get angry when we feel that others want to take our power away and afraid when we think we are actually loosing that power. We are being played against each other, while they pull off the greatest heist in history and shape the future of our world. We are toys in their game and intuitively we know it, but instead we deny that other people can control our fate. They are playing for the end game but we are playing battle to battle. Refusing to vote and working to expose the false narrative is a form of culture jamming. We will [must] tear down the layers of illusion and display the political beast, naked and transparent, for all to see.

When you vote, you endorse this system and feed the very monster you want to transform. You have a right to do so, but if you choose not to, you may be guilted into relinquishing your right of refusal or convinced to vote for the "lesser of two evils," but is that what you really want? There is no longer such a thing as a strategic vote, the machine will move forward in the same direction, regardless of which party holds office. The only thing that really makes sense when you see through the lies? Don't vote. Or at least don't vote for the politicians who support the two-party system that you know you oppose. There is a slow rise of alternative candidates who we all know won't win, but that vote is a vote is a form of resistance as well. Whether you vote your conscious or choose not to vote at all, the most important thing is that we continually write, produce art and music, spread the word, work to better our communities and if you have the stomach for it run for local office. Do what you can to [unplug from the matrix and] disrupt and subvert the mainstream cultural institutions which make this machine work. This is a War we live in and its not Republican vs. Democrat, as you may have been led to believe. The sides are drawn and even though we don't have the same resources that they do, we can still tear down the illusion piece by piece.

In my lifetime I witnessed the most amazing election theft ever, that was in 2000 when the neo-con syndicate stole the presidency of the United States of America Inc. and handed it to their newly selected puppet Bush Jr. There were several areas of attack that were highly coordinated. His brother Jeb Bush was the Governor of Florida, he pulled lots of strings and laid the groundwork for the smoke and mirrors theft their in Florida, where at center stage were the well engineered "hanging chads" scheme.

At the heart of the HEIST/COUP was the paper company that provided the special paper for the cards used in the punch machines. For the first time ever the company that provided the special paper changed the paper to an inferior paper that created something called “chads”. Quality control specialists within the company immediately pointed out the problem, they were silenced and told to just use that paper and shut up or else they would be fired (there is a video floating around YouTube of an interview with half a dozen employees’ testimony). Low and behold, we came to witness the resulting big Florida “hanging chad” fiasco. What you also didn’t know was the company that provided the new paper they used was a subsidiary of none other than Diebold... who latter went on to make out like bandits selling millions of dollars worth of their easily rigged electronic machines.

A look at how Las Vegas slots and electronic voting machines compare:

	LAS VEGAS SLOTS	ELECTRONIC VOTING MACHINES
 Software	State of Nevada has access to all software. Illegal to use software that is not on file.	Software is a trade secret.
 Spot-Checking	State gaming inspectors show up unannounced at casinos to compare computer chips with those on file. If there is a discrepancy, the machine is shut down and investigated.	No checks are required. Election officials have no chip to compare with the one found in the machine.
 Background Scrutiny	Manufacturers subjected to background checks. Employees are investigated for criminal records.	Citizens have no way of knowing, for example, whether programmers have been convicted of fraud.
 Equipment Certification	By a public agency at arm's length from manufacturers. Public questions invited.	By for-profit companies chosen and paid by the manufacturers. No public information on how the testing is done.
 Handling Disputes	Casino must contact the Gaming Control Board, which has investigators on call round the clock. They can open up machines to inspect internal mechanisms and records of recent gambling outcomes.	In most cases, a voter's only recourse is to call a number at the board of elections that may or may not work to lodge a complaint that may or may not be investigated.

The setup didn’t stop there, Katherine Harris who was a republican staff ended up being the person to stop the recount and call the vote.... For... ummm, her colleague or shall I say co-conspirator, member of the same crime syndicate! This went all the way to the republican supreme court that agreed that their republican comrade “won.” The rest is history. I am purposely over simplifying this, as there are tons of evidence that I refuse to even rehash at this point.

Bottom line was that Bush & Co. crime syndicate literally stole the election, ushering in the new millennium by the prophesized "man of lawlessness" that would open the doors to the apocalypse...

Diebold Memos Disclose Florida 2000 E-Voting Fraud

The Diebold Memos' Smoking Gun

Volusia County Memos Disclose Election 2000 Vote Fraud

By Alastair Thompson, Scoop, Friday, 24 October 2003

"DELAND, Fla., Nov. 11 - Something very strange happened on election night to Deborah Tannenbaum, a Democratic Party official in Volusia County. At 10 p.m., she called the county elections department and learned that Al Gore was leading George W. Bush 83,000 votes to 62,000. But when she checked the county's Web site for an update half an hour later, she found a startling development: Gore's count had dropped by 16,000 votes, while an obscure Socialist candidate had picked up 10,000--all because of a single precinct with only 600 voters." - Washington Post Sunday, November 12, 2000; Page A22

Yes. Something very strange happened in Volusia County on election night November 2000, the night that first Gore won Florida, then Bush, and then as everybody can so well remember there was a tie.

Something strange indeed. But what exactly? In the above report (click for full version), written days after the election, hotshot Washington Post reporter Dana Milbank goes on to attribute the strange 16,022 negative vote tally from Volusia's precinct 216 to an apparently innocent cause.

".... faulty 'memory cards' in the machines caused the 16,000-vote disappearance on election night. The glitch was soon fixed," he wrote.

But thanks to recent investigations into Black Box Voting by Washington State writer Bev Harris we now know this explanation is not correct. In fact it is not even in the ballpark.

According to recently discovered internal Diebold Election Systems memos, Global Election Systems' (which was later purchased by Diebold) own technical staff were also stumped by the events in Volusia County/

In Chapter 11 of her new book "Black Box Voting In the 21st Century" released early today in .PDF format at Blackboxvoting.com and here at Scoop Ms Harris observes

"If you strip away the partisan rancor over the 2000 election, you are left with the undeniable fact that a presidential candidate conceded the election to his opponent based on [results from] a second card that mysteriously appears, subtracts 16,022 votes, then just as mysteriously disappears."

Working in parallel with Ms Harris Scoop has also been inquiring into the events on election night in Volusia county. Much of the material that follows is similar to that which appears in Chapter 11 of her book.

The starting point in this shocking discovery about election 2000 came in a series of internal Diebold ES technical support memos.

The following is an abbreviated version of the exchange concerning the peculiar events in Volusia county. For the purposes of research the exchange is included in full as an Appendix to this report \(APPENDIX TWO\). The discussion took place in early 2001 as an audit was underway in Volusia county into the events.

Christians the world over were all waiting for the coming of and fearing the devastation of the prophesized "man of lawlessness" who would come to destroy this world, sending the world into an (economic) abyss and wage unending wars, but no one had a clue it would come in the form of a "BUSH"... Who would incidentally soon after seizing the reigns of this country with their jaw dropping heist of the election, go destroy the biblical land of Babylon The Great, aka: today's Iraq, just as prophesized in the bible end times! To he who has an ear let him hear, he who has eyes let him see...

Fast forward to 2004, this time around the stage had been set, Diebold was in like slim. They had their easily rigged machines all over the country. The president of Diebold at one point even boasted in a memo to Bush how he was "committed to helping DELIVER OHIO's electoral votes to the president next year"... what would you know! While everyone was busy paying attention and conducting extensive surveillance of the Florida vote, it was OHIO that handed Bush his second term! This time around the republicans were bold in their theft of the presidency, they had republican majority in all the houses of the government, raging war everywhere, their terrorist boogeyman black ops instilling fear in people's hearts and minds.

They threw out the kitchen sink with bogus voter registrations, they purged the hilt out of democratic voter lists, they suppressed countless thousands of democratic voters, absentee ballots, a host of disinfo and inaccuracies spread all over, and of course, those amazing voting machines did their job of handing bush his 2nd term all the while he was losing. And still actually did lose, but yet "won." Voter turnout was astronomical as voters showed up en mass to vote AGAINST Bush. All the exit polls in every single state called it for Kerry, but for the first time in history ALL exit polls were completely WRONG, gee whiz, I wonder why. Again, I am just scratching the surface of the 2004 election heist.

"If after having elected their man or group, if obedience is not rendered to the Jewish control, then you speedily hear of "scandals" and "investigations" and "impeachments" for the removal of the disobedient. Usually a man with a "past" proves the most obedient instrument, but even a good man can often be tangled up in campaign practices that compromise him. It has been commonly known that Jewish manipulation of American election campaigns have been so skillfully handled, that no matter which candidate was elected, there was ready made a sufficient amount of evidence to discredit him in case his Jewish masters needed to discredit him." – Henry Ford Election Day fraud found all over U.S.!

Complaints of illegal votes, bribes, ballot irregularities commonplace.

By Drew Zahn, WorldNetDaily Nov 2, 2010

During each election cycle, news stories emerge of voter irregularities and ballot malfunctions, prompting volunteer organizations to fight what they say is rampant fraud, while many authorities and other organizations dismiss the charges as unfounded.

2010 is proving no different.

An organization called Minnesota Majority, for example, claims it found hundreds of ineligible votes by convicted felons cast in the 2008 election, possibly turning the tide in the very narrowly decided election of Sen.

Al Franken.

But Dan McGrath, executive director of TakeAction Minnesota, told the St. Paul Legal Ledger, "There is no evidence of any sort of systemic voter fraud in this state. ... There's barely any evidence of voter fraud at all."

Now Minnesota is a hotbed of controversy again, as Fox News reports officials are "investigating" an allegation that mentally disabled voters in Crow Wing County were coached by their attendants to cast ballots for specific candidates. The charges say attendants even filled out the ballots themselves for people so incapacitated they may not have even been eligible to vote in the first place.

Because politics alone can't solve the country's problems, get "Taking America Back," Joseph Farah's manifesto for sovereignty, self-reliance and moral renewal.

Other investigations from around the country have also arisen, including the following:

- Kentucky's Lexington Herald-Reader reports state officials received over 100 calls to a voter fraud hotline from 46 counties by early this afternoon. The state's attorney general's office told the paper the calls ran the gamut – complaints about voting machines and election officials, electioneering, general election fraud, disrupting the polls and more. Four counties even had allegations of vote buying.
- In the heated race in Nevada between Democratic Sen. Harry Reid and GOP challenger Sharron Angle, the Associated Press reports, Republican Party legal counsel has already filed a 44-page complaint alleging voter logs in a pair of counties showed the number of ballots cast was larger than the number of voters who signed the election registers. Furthermore, Angle's campaign has alleged Reid and Democratic union backers were illegally buying votes with free food and Starbucks gift cards in repeated e-mails to supporters.
- Angle's lawyers have also filed a complaint with the Justice Department alleging casino executives sympathetic to Reid put pressure on union employees to vote, even telling bosses to "put a headlock" on supervisors to make sure their workers vote.
- In Houston, Texas, a volunteer watchdog organization discovered evidence another organization had registered as many as 23,000 phony voter registrations in Harris County, including a woman who registered six times in the same day, registrations of non-citizens and 1,597 registrations that named the same person multiple times, often with different signatures.

The powers that be would have you all believe that our country is divided 50-50 among democrats and republicans. This could be nothing more further than the truth. The best accurate numbers point to more of a 65% democrats vs. 35% republican registered voters. But... go ahead and search for reliable statistics, should be a simple thing to find out, right? Nope. The list of total registered voters separated by party does not exist. For the day that the actual true number of people who are affiliated to each party comes out will be a day of reckoning. People would instantly realize that the whole thing was nothing more than a sham.

But does that even matter when they are all part of the same Mafia? The democrats can be more accurately summed up and viewed as the Genovese crime syndicate and the Republicans as the Gambino crime syndicate. The president becomes the new "godfather" to both crime families and even he gets his marching orders from the secretive ruling royalty they all serve.

Well, the entire landscape of voting has changed and we will soon come to get a glimpse of what its impact will be in the next elections. On January 21, 2010, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that corporations are entitled to spend unlimited funds in our elections.... Corporations already rule this country lock stock and barrel, now they are about to completely overshadow the electoral process.

Electronic Voting and Stealing Elections With Media Complicity

Thursday, 28 October 2010 19:01 Szandor Blestman

I don't trust establishment politicians. I don't trust the establishment media. I don't trust that the two groups don't have unwritten agreements to scratch each others backs. I don't trust the establishment, period. The establishment is not out to look after my best interests, your best interests, or the best interests of the common folk on the street. The establishment is out to look after the best interests of the establishment, and unscrupulous people inside the establishment will stop at nothing to make sure they maintain their power and keep their wealth stream flowing. There isn't a principle they won't forsake nor a law they won't break in order to protect their interests, including trashing any system that may help protect the interests of the less powerful individuals within society.

One of the basic principles of a democratic republic is the right of the people to be able to fairly and honestly select a representative that a majority of the populous can agree on. While the merits of this system are debatable, the reality of its effects is not. The vast majority of people will see this system as legitimate and go along with its dictates so long as the laws passed and requests made of the populous remain reasonable. In order for this type of system to maintain its perception of legitimacy, it also must remain transparent. Both these requisites have become extremely compromised over the past decade and more and more people are adopting the perception that our system is no longer legitimate.

I first began to suspect that the electoral system in this country had problems back in the late eighties, early nineties when Ross Perot was running for president and founded one of the most successful third parties in modern times. I voted for Mr. Perot. I remember asking many others who they voted for and the vast majority voted for Mr. Perot. I don't believe that most of the people I know are anything other than average Americans. I couldn't understand how so large a percentage of the people I asked had voted for Mr. Perot and yet he had obtained so low a percentage of the vote when the ballots were counted. I realized that I knew only a small percentage of people and understood that my sampling wasn't scientifically sound, but I still had a bad feeling in the back of my mind that something had gone rotten with the system.

(As an aside, I was reminded the other day of something Ross Perot said about passing NAFTA and a giant sucking sound of jobs leaving the country. Seems like his statement was very prophetic considering the present high unemployment rate and the gloomy outlook for creating jobs in the future.)

I think that the elections in which George W. Bush was elected showed us just how devious our electoral system had become. I'm not talking about the Electoral College or hanging chads, I'm talking about pure and simple corruption and the compromising of the very principle of free and open elections.

Now I am reading stories of electronic voting machines flipping votes. A few years ago, it was the Republicans who were benefiting from such mishaps. Now it's the Democrats. I've read stories of early voters in Nevada being unable to vote for Sharron Angle and instead Harry Reid and the whole slate of Democrats is registered by the machine. I've read stories of service technicians talking about how easy it is to hack into the machines.

As one who's had experience with computers, machine level programming code, RAM and ROM memory and other digital electronic basics, I understand perhaps a little better than most the holes in securing data on electronic voting machines. It is nowhere near as secure as good old paper ballots and a paper trail. In fact, I would suggest that electronic voting provides near zero security and the voting public should show near zero confidence that their vote is even being counted. But don't take my word for it. Bev Harris and Black Box Voting have done a marvelous job documenting the flaws and corruption of our current election processes. There is also a wonderful documentary available called Hacking Democracy. If you haven't seen it yet, I suggest you find the time to watch it.

How are we to have even the illusion of legitimacy when we can't even be certain that the candidates elected to be representatives of the people were put into office by a majority of participating voters? How are we supposed to "throw the bums out" when we can't be sure that our votes against corrupt and criminal incumbents won't be flipped and counted for them? How can we hold anyone accountable when our electoral process is secretive and controlled by individuals and companies whose interests may conflict with or be served by certain politicians on the ballots?

Yet the problem goes deeper than just the voting machines. It takes confidence in the system by the majority of voters for the system to maintain its appearance of legitimacy. The voting machines might easily be done away with if the problems with them were widely reported. Yet one hardly hears anything about such problems in the establishment corporate media. With a few notable exceptions like the documentary mentioned above, one needs to go to alternative sources if one wants to really get the low down on these highly suspect election practices.

The press was supposed to be the de facto fourth branch of the American republic, a kind of watchdog over the other three branches of government in case the checks and balances failed. It was specifically mentioned in the first amendment of the Bill of Rights. President Kennedy, emphasized its importance in a famous speech admonishing secrecy and concealment. The establishment press has failed miserably in carrying out this important duty. In fact, I would suggest that the modern day press has done the opposite of being a watchdog and has empowered the federal government to usurp the control one should have over his own life and to grow well past the limits written into the Constitution that were put there to constrain it. That's one reason why the citizen press, the blogs and opinions one finds on the Internet, is so important.

The establishment press has a tendency to attack those who may threaten the status quo. It seems to embellish insignificant faults and mishaps involving candidates who might threaten the establishment while ignoring glaring corruption of the candidates who likely serve the interests of globalists and the corporate elites. This is not new. It has been going on for quite some time. Remember how Ross Perot was painted as crazy? Remember how they did the same with Ron Paul back in 2008? More recently, it was Debra Medina in Texas who was painted with the crazy brush. It seems that any time a candidate espousing freedom principles and advocating more power to the individual and less to the government gains steam and starts to become popular, the establishment media jumps all over that person and tries to demonize or discredit them. It's the same MO, over and over. Perhaps that's why establishment news programs are losing viewers and establishment newspapers are losing readers. People aren't stupid, and they do remember.

I don't even trust the pollsters anymore. It seems to me that they have no accountability either. It seems to me that they can do and say what they want, and that they can do and say anything those paying them would like them to say. The polls seldom seem believable to me. They almost never seem to mesh or reflect the sentiment I encounter in my personal life. I don't know why.

Consider this, polls say that the approval rating for Congress is only 11%. I can believe that. That seems right. But when polled, often more than 11% of the people are planning on voting for their incumbent congress critters. That just doesn't seem to make much sense. Why would so many disapprove of the job their "representatives" are doing, but then go ahead and re-elect them? Where's the disconnect? Is it apathy? Could it be because they see both major parties as bought and paid for so they don't think there's any difference between the two candidates? Is it the "devil you know versus the devil you don't" meme? Perhaps it's the "lesser of two evils" saying at work. Whatever the case, it seems to me that a decent third party or independent candidate (with the exception of one Joe Lieberman) might help and a principled one reported on in a favorable light by the mainstream media outlets might have a chance.

So, go to the polls next Tuesday and vote. Vote the incumbents out of office. Vote for candidates that seem to you to be the most anti-establishment. Vote for those who claim to want to shrink government and give the common folk more power. Vote for whatever candidate you feel will best represent your interests. Just don't expect too much. Don't expect too much to change. Don't expect the system to roll over. Don't expect honesty. Don't expect truth. Don't expect any real investigative reporting from the media. These are things the common folk will likely have to do on their own. The system will not change until the common folk stop paying for and putting up with it. It will not change until we make it known in no uncertain terms that we've had enough.

So its official folks. Our nation just overcame the first hurdle in becoming a full fledged Corporatocracy. The corporations will soon drown out the voices of all you little insignificant mortals.

Stealing America: Vote by Vote - Video

That's all I have to say about the sorry state of our so called democracy's appalling voting system. America the so called "great bastion of democracy." The sad reality is that it's all just a farce, smoke and mirrors. I believe that the staggering mess we call our voting system should get a complete simple old fashioned ballot box checks and balances paper trail makeover and all financial contributions (e.g. legalized bribery) abolished. Then again, I wish the tooth fairy were real also. It will never happen with the status quo firmly entrenched in control of the feeding troths. Our system will stay this way due to the simple fact that the ruling elite WANT our voting system full of disorder, confusion, disarray and chaos. For it is under those ideal circumstances they can APPOINT whomever they so choose, then feed the American public any fairy-tale story they have dreamt up for the occasion. The obedient lap dog media all chime in like well trained parrots and repeating the story over and over again until no one questions anymore, and those who do, finally forget or just give up. Now go back to sleep sheeple... sleep... sleep...

While a guest on ABC's Face the Nation, William Fulbright - US Senator and Chairman of the US Foreign Relations committee - said this before a national audience:

"Israel controls the United States Senate. We should be more concerned about the United States' interests."

Nationally syndicated columnist and former presidential candidate Patrick Buchanan said:

"The United States Congress is Israeli occupied territory." (37)

The masters who play you all have known and successfully utilize these types of human characteristics to their advantage for eons, they play you all like violins, you bunch of pathetic gullible goys have no clue that they rule over you, vote your hearts out, pick the "new" staged and RIGGED Tea Party puppets your heart desires, you know what will change? NOTHING. In the end everything will remain the same, taxes will increase, the power and size of government will continue to escalate beyond all logical bounds while you, the enslaved twerps sit back and wonder how the fuck our nation has become so screwed up... Back to the leftwing blaming the rightwing... back to everyone fighting amongst each other while the true criminals who run this country enjoy the spoils and rewards of their elite lives they live on your dime. They never feel the suffering of the regular folks, for their consortium takes good care of its own devote loyal members who help manage and enslave you all. Its their game and they make all the rules, you my dear disillusioned friend are not in it. You just THINK you are.

"If elections really changed things they would be illegal." — Emma Goldman

The day this nation is destroyed from within, the clueless cattle will wonder around asking themselves “who did this happen”? The politician’s perverbial promise every election season is the same one the devil is famous for: “trust me.” And just like their master whom they emulate by their deeds they sacrifice the public for their own agendas and the agendas of their mutual sovereign crime syndicate consortiums.

MILITARY INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX

THE MERCHANTS OF "DEATH" & DESTRUCTION

PORTRAYED & CAMOUFLAGED AS:

"THE IMPERIAL MINISTRY OF "PEACE"

"We must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought by the military industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, President 1961

"You know, one of the hardest parts of my job is to connect Iraq to the war on terror" - Despot George W.

Bush, Sept. 6, 2006

"Military men are dumb, stupid animals to be used as pawns for foreign policy." – Henry Kissinger

"One cannot wage war under present conditions without the support of public opinion, which is tremendously molded by the press and other forms of propaganda." - General Douglas MacArthur

The pentagon routinely spends multi-billions of dollars on full scale propaganda campaigns to mold your mind, to shape your perception. They operate without so much as a whimper from the long defunct "checks and balances" dept. Now they just write their own scripts and just hand them over to the "news" stations where they repeat what they have been told like nice obedient servants that they are. This is the current status of our unchallenged Military Industrial Complex where Rumsfeld (the day before 9/11 no less) getting up in front of the cameras declaring in your face that "last year the PentaCON LOST 2 TRILLION DOLLARS." /sigh/ "Golly gee whiz, we don't have a clue where all the money went." Today the amount of "unaccounted money totals to over a staggering 8 billion dollars (and rising daily)

no one has the slightest freaking clue where it all went. Oh well, now run along kiddies, nothing to see here. Barely anyone notices, no one cares, the resounding response from the goyim sheeple public is a unanimous: “hey I wonder who is winning in American Idol.”

What is more, why the fuck is this nation even fighting two simultaneous wars in the first place? Doesn't anyone else wonder WHY the fuck we are there? Let's see.... Ummm.... We invaded and skullfucked Afghanistan back into the Stone Age and have been there for 10 years now and still counting.... Ummm.... What was the original ~~reason~~ excuse, pretext, narrative that we just had to go bomb the fuck out of and DESTROY an entire nation? That nation NEVER DID A SINGLE THING TO HARM OUR COUNTRY. But... Oh yes, I remember, these really evil blood sucking zombies called the Taliban were ALLEGEDLY harboring ONE PERSON. Ok reason enough to turn that nation into a massive parking lot! A couple years later: They realize and admit that the boogeyman called Osama Mossad Bin Laden has actually been hiding out in Pakistan all along... oh well, let the blood bath party continue and keep raining down bombs on Afghanistan... must keep killing and destroying, why stop now. Can you see the blatant ABSURDITY in this picture? Americans are so dumb fucks that they even allowed the bloody murderous rampage of invasion and occupation to spread to another country that didn't do a single thing to us, never. The ruling overlords just decided that Iraq had to be sent back to the stone age as well. Anyone who has anything to say about it can fuck off because you are “either with us or against us.” Oh, all of this and much more was perpetrated by the one nation that proudly proclaims to the world that “we come in peace”!!! Here is your dose of liberty, freedom and the Amercian way.

"The first casualty of war is the truth"

All the while we are invading their sovereign land, their homes, killing innocent loved ones and dear friends; anyone who dares throw a stone at your armored Humvee is a terrorist and immediately shot, that'll teach em good. Anyone who DEFENDS their homes from the foreign invaders.... (FYI: the foreign invaders are us, the good ole U.S.of A), is also portrayed as “evil terrorists,” tortured or shot and killed. Any questions? BTW: the alleged hijackers that supposedly conducted 9/11 were universally ALL from Saudi Arabia and or Pakistan, doh.

What other war is that we are fighting? Oh yeah, the evil nation of Iraq. What was it they did to us? OH, NOTHING. ZILCH, ZIPPO, NADA, ZERO. They never did a thing to us. Yet the powers that be decided we just had to go over there and send their country back into the Stone Age. What was the FARCE that was given to the gullible idiot public? Oh I remember, something about this evil zombie boogeyman called Sadam had weapons of mass destruction hiding up his butt hole. They blasted scary propaganda all over the airwaves for months until the American public was shitting in their pants, “go ahead destroy them already” was the universal cry.

Today Obama, who campaigned on the promise of ending those useless atrocious wars, did as EVERY single president that makes campaign promises has done before him: upon entering office he immediately reneged on his promises and instead promptly picked up the mantle were his predecessor left off and proceeded to add more funding and troops! LOL.

Most importantly is that upon digesting the reality of the viewpoints exposed it becomes ever more easy to clearly see that both wars were premeditated special hidden agenda operations planned well in advance of 9/11 and all the bogus pretexts, narratives, propaganda and hype regurgitated for public consumption are pure bullshit.

One thing that is really bothering me lately, making me lose many a night's sleep is the fact that I am witnessing "the case for war with IRAQ" all over again! The pentagon war machine is putting out the EXACT same bullshit propaganda case for war with IRAN (almost word for word) as it did when they conned us into attacking Iraq! What is troubling me night and day is the FACT that everyone with an IQ of over 70 knows and admits that the whole Iraq war thing was A) initiated with pure bullshit lies and B) we all agree that it was a big mistake C) now it's almost impossible to find a way for anyone in politics to get us out due to the fact that the bastards in charge continue to compound the quagmire and dig us further into the abyss of war by killing millions of innocent “collateral damages.”

Despite all the FACTS that are now history about the wars with Afghanistan and Iraq, and despite the FACT that we are still embroiled in that mess, the pentagon spin machine along with mass media are doing their best to ram a new war down our throats... AGAIN!... no shame in their game... they even dare use the EXACT same lame bullshit justification they got the gullible people to believe them in the first place with Iraq. Is America really this stupid? Are we really that far disconnected with reality as to allow the same exact bullshit con job to be perpetrated on us yet again? Folks, this is not the end, it is just the beginning, for on their hit list is Syria, and every Arab country that does not bow to the supremacy of the Jewish state and it's proxy western mercenary hit men armies.

I had a chilling nightmare the other day. I dreamed that our most brilliant wonderful beloved peace loving nation was in fact the DARTH VADER nation! In that nightmare dream our "evil" nation was hell bent on world conquest, attacking every country that did not bow to its supremacy and allow the economic colonization of their country. Those countries that resisted were immediately labeled evil regimes and CIA terrorist squads sent in to destabilize their countries into submission, if that didn't work, we eventually found a pretext and sent in entire brigades to invade their lands and take physical dominance confiscate their natural resources and divvy up the bounty amongst our insatiable multi-national conglomerates. In this dream our DARTH VADER countries had established would wide military dominance and built massive military bases in every nation that was subjugated. We were the evil monsters that ruled over the world with a mask of an innocent benevolent saint over our national face covering the hideous reality under it! What a crazy nightmare, eh?

"So important did military spending and the military-industrial sector become during World War II and the Cold War that they have become fundamental to the U.S. economy, U.S. economic growth and above all U.S. technological development. Despite its often almost incredible wastefulness and corruption, this military spending has also been in some ways a kind of unacknowledged but rather successful state industrial development strategy in a country whose free market ideology meant that it could not formally adopt or admit to such a strategy." - David Edwards - Burning All Illusions

"I spent 33 years in the Marines, most of my time being a high-class muscle man for big business, for Wall Street and the bankers. In short, I was a racketeer for Capitalism... The general public shoulders the bill. This bill renders a horrible accounting. Newly placed gravestones, Mangled bodies. Shattered minds. Broken hearts and homes. Economic instability. Back-breaking taxation for generations and generations." - Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, 1935

I have a mandate. Let it be known, in any future society that overcomes this current decrepit system. When and if any leader votes for any war or any assault on any other country, let it be law to have THEIR CHILDREN, grand children, cousins, nephews (every single one of them, uproot them and draft each and every one of them) be the FIRST IN LINE on the ground in the FRONT LINES of the assault. You voted for war? OK, your children will fight and represent your decision, not pushing buttons in some protected bunker hundreds of miles from the bombings, no, they shall be the ones carrying the flags in the midst of the bombs and bullet attacks! THEN, and only then would you witness for the first time in history, caution and real consideration of the battles we wage around the world. I am totally disgusted and fed up with the reports of the RARE instances of famous and world leader's children who are enlisted yet receive all the fame and glory while sitting pretty far, far, far from harm's way. Fuck you, fuck your children all you fucking spineless fucktards. I'm tired of you sending the peasant's goyim cattle children to die by the thousands while you and your 00.1% enlisted offspring get all the glory.

The holy grail of the trillion dollar industry known as the military industrial complex is PERPETUAL WAR.

Today the ruling elite are waging a never ending "war" on "terrorism": In accordance to the principles of Doublethink, it does not matter if the war is not real, or when it is, that victory is not possible. The war is not meant to be won. It is meant to be continuous. The essential act of modern warfare is the destruction of the produce of human labor. A hierarchical society is only possible on the basis of poverty and ignorance. In principle, the war effort is always planned to keep society on the brink of starvation. The war is waged by the ruling group against its own subjects. And its object is not victory over Eurasia or Eastasia, but to keep the very structure of society intact. There is truth, and there is untruth. To be in a minority of one doesn't make you mad.

The entire farce, premise/pretext/narrative for America attacking Iraq was "weapons of mass destruction"... "if we allow them to develop nuclear power we are doomed"... "EVERYONE RUN FOR YOUR LIVES!!!" What? They are going to strap a nuclear missile on the back of a CAMEL and attack us? Today we have every neo-con extremist, the pentagon, Washington, the entire military industrial complex, in unison with the Zionists, all chanting: "we must attack IRAN because they are going to develop weapons of mass destruction!" DEJAVU!!! "if we allow Iran to develop nuclear technology they will bomb us tomorrow! Their evil leaders drink the blood of babies and kill puppies for the fun of it! Come on America!!! Is this nation so brain dead that it is completely paralyzed from exercising any rational common sense?"

The democrats in congress unanimously got elected in 2006 on the premise that they would put an end to these insane wars, have instead since day one, been funding every penny the Bush war machine has been demanding, the democrats have helped pass ALL the spy and surveillance acts against US citizens without a slightest fuss. Can't you all see it is all a charade? The Democrats and the Republicans work for the same ruling masters, they just take turns manning the ship for the real owners.

In short, we are screwed, the "conservative" republican party was hijacked by extremist NWO neo-cons long ago and are just now emboldened to the point where they now "in your face" their agendas on you. The spineless democratic party with no balls finally revealed to the world that it was actually on the same team as the republicans all along. It was all an illusion, you've been hoodwinked, they were both being controlled by the same super elite "hidden masters" from the very beginning. You have no one to turn to, we are screwed. Get ready to serve when they institute the DRAFT again... because according to the graffiti writing on the wall, we is going to war yet again to get the rest of the middle east. Israel is getting very impatient... must fulfill the master's wishes...

Our military industrial complex is always presented to the public as "the ministry of peace", LOL. We have all been brain washed since childhood into believing that our military exists only for "peace". Our warm, caring, loving protector of democracy, freedom and the American way. So when we see of and hear of countless numbers of invasions we conduct on other countries that our most loving U.S.A. does on our behalf, the mass "interventions," invasions and murder in its quest for "peace" and to "promote democracy", we can all sleep soundly at night, knowing we are safe and sound in our most peaceful, liberty, freedom and loving country with 737 military bases all around the globe, and another 6,000 bases in the us, to "protect us." Like it or not, our country single handedly has more military bases around the world than all other countries combined! America's military runs the multi-headed beast known as Global Military Empire, period. What you must understand is the fact that America's military job to protect and enforce the Zionist ECONOMIC COLONIZATION of the world.

The Report From Iron Mountain is a book, published in 1967 (during the Johnson Administration) by Dial Press that states it is the report of a government panel. According to the report, a 15-member panel, called the Special Study Group, was set up in 1963 to examine what problems would occur if the U.S. entered a state of lasting peace. They met at an underground nuclear bunker called Iron Mountain (as well as other, worldwide locations) and worked over the next two years. Iron Mountain is where the government has stored the flight 93 evidence from 9/11. A member of the panel, one "John Doe", a professor at a college in the Midwest, decided to release the report to the public. The heavily footnoted report concluded that peace was not in the interest of a stable society, that even if lasting peace "could be achieved, it would almost certainly not be in the best interests of society to achieve it." War was a part of the economy. Therefore, it was necessary to conceive a state of war for a stable economy. The government, the group theorized, would not exist without war, and nation states existed in order to wage war. War also served a vital function of diverting collective aggression. They recommended that bodies be created to emulate the economic functions of war. They also recommended "blood games" and that the government create alternative foes that would scare the people with reports of alien life-forms and out of control pollution. Another proposal was the reinstatement of slavery. U.S. News and World Report claimed in its November 20, 1967 issue to have confirmation of the reality of the report from an unnamed government official, who added that when President Johnson read the report, he 'hit the roof' and ordered it to be suppressed for all time. Additionally, sources were said to have revealed that orders were sent to U.S. embassies, instructing them to emphasize that the book had no relation to U.S. Government policy. Project Blue Beam is also a common conspiracy theory that alleges that a faked alien landing would be used as a means of scaring the public into whatever global system is suggested.

News Flash & FYI: Our global military network and presence is cold hard, irrefutable absolute proof that our country transformed itself into the histories most powerful and largest war waging conquest driven military IMPERIALIST nation ever. Think about it for a moment. So complete is our naivety and collective blindness that we often cannot see the most obvious truths standing right in front of our faces. It never occurred to you that you have been living in the: United Imperialist States of Amerika did it? If it walks like a duck, quacks like a duck and looks like a duck... well then it's a freakin duck! Yes behind the democratic national disguise lays a country who is up to its neck in practicing imperialism, but that is not the whole story, for there is also another key often overlooked and rarely scrutinized component to our nation that plays THE chief most centrally important role in deciding all foreign and domestic policies, politics, military, law and everything we do at home and around the world. It's called capitalism.

Oh why does the entire world hate us so? Oh how our loving leaders in Washington care so much about us they go out of their ways to invade any and every country that does not agree with our "democratic" (spelled: capitalistic) principles. Is there not a corner of this planet that we have not invaded, yet to "liberate", depose of its "evil rulers" and export our "democracy" (spelled: c.a.p.i.t.a.l.i.s.m)?

Our country, the self imposed promoter/defender of the capitalist way of life routinely uses military force to achieve its objectives. The target countries WILL succumb and accept our ways of life or suffer severe consequences. First its diplomacy, if that fails then its embargos, then its military assault. One way or another, almost all countries on the planet with the exception of just a few have been subjugated.

Read the storys below for a perfect candid revealing example of how the debate for war and occupation transpires. As the following article articulates very well, logic and common sense are the last elements permissible in the debate, for it is painfully obvious no matter what, we will continue to push and "stay the course" with THE AGENDA OF THE RULING ELITE.

'Ludicrous Propaganda' Driving Afghanistan Debate

By David Swanson, The Public Record Nov 17th, 2009

The last time I was on Laura Flanders's GRIT TV I argued that the American public opposed the occupation of Afghanistan, but another guest — some Washington, D.C., "progressive" — argued that this had no relevance, since the American public didn't know anything about Afghanistan.

When the RAND Corporation held a forum on Afghanistan recently on Capitol Hill, Zbigniew Brzezinski claimed that it was uncontroversial that US troops had to stay in Afghanistan. I pointed him to polls of Americans, and he replied that Americans get fatigued and don't know any better.

When I spoke to a philosophy department at a university this month, a number of the professors objected to my advocacy of majority-rule on the grounds that experts often know best.

Let's set aside for a moment the ludicrous propaganda that maintains that the reason we occupy other people's countries is to impose democracy on them. Let's assume we're imposing the rule of elite experts. Even so, even on those terms, here are some possible responses to this line of thinking.

1.-While spokespeople for the U.S. military industrial complex (including television news experts) are certainly the experts at WAR, they are NOT the experts at peace. If the question is one of choosing between war and peace, or deciding whether warlike or peacelike means will best reach some desired end, then why only include one type of expert opinion?

2.-While U.S. experts on war and peace could provide two different views, there are experts, including historians, from around the world whose knowledge should be utilized. And the experts on Afghanistan ought, by any understanding, to include the Afghan people. If the US public is irrelevant because it does not know Afghanistan (and somehow this is an argument for bombing the place rather than refraining from doing so), surely the Afghan public knows something about their nation. And they want the occupation ended. How can we so easily dismiss THAT expert opinion?

3.-Don't trust Afghan opinion? Want to save Afghanistan from the Afghans? Well, what about this: Howard Hart, a 25-year CIA veteran who ran operations in Afghanistan for three-and-a-half years during the Cold War, spoke at the University of Virginia and argued that the United States should withdraw from Afghanistan. He said that the original goal had supposedly been to destroy al Qaeda, which had long since left, and that creating a legitimate government (something most people and the law hold that a foreign occupation can NEVER do) would require hundreds of thousands of troops, cost "umpteen billion" dollars, and still be next to impossible. Watch three former high-ranking CIA officials say the same thing, and a lot more worth watching, at <http://rethinkafghanistan.com>

4.-Too out-dated for you? The current U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan, General Karl W. Eikenberry, who was responsible for building and training the Afghan security forces from 2002 to 2003, and who was top U.S. military commander in Afghanistan from 2005 to 2007, has told President Obama he opposes sending more troops. He argues for sending civilians to assist with agriculture and other useful projects that would give Afghans an alternative to violence. This is a direction supported by US activist groups that have visited Afghanistan and studied the problem, such as <http://jobsforafghans.org>

5.-New York Times reporter David Rohde was held hostage for seven months by the Taliban in Afghanistan, and upon release reported on what motivates Afghans to engage in violence. The reasons he provided suggested that (as with most foreign occupations in any other time or place) the occupation was motivating the violent resistance to it rather than helping to ease unrelated tensions:

"Some of the consequences of Washington's antiterrorism policies had galvanized the Taliban. Commanders fixated on the deaths of Afghan, Iraqi and Palestinian civilians in military airstrikes, as well as the American detention of Muslim prisoners who had been held for years without being charge. . . .

"They said large numbers of civilians had been killed in Afghanistan, Iraq and the Palestinian territories in aerial bombings. Muslim prisoners had been physically abused and sexually humiliated in Iraq. Scores of men had been detained in Cuba and Afghanistan for up to seven years without charges.

"To Americans, these episodes were aberrations. To my captors, they were proof that the United States was a hypocritical and duplicitous power that flouted international law. When I told them I was an innocent civilian who should be released, they responded that the United States had held and tortured Muslims in secret detention centers for years. Commanders said they themselves had been imprisoned, their families ignorant of their fate. Why, they asked, should they treat me differently?"

6. The senior U.S. civilian diplomat in Zabul province, a former Marine Corps captain with combat experience in Iraq named Matthew Hoh, not only agrees with the U.S. Ambassador that escalating the war in Afghanistan makes no sense. He resigned in Sept. in protest of the continued occupation. He wrote in his resignation letter:

"The U.S. and NATO presence and operations in Pashtun valleys and villages, as well as Afghan army and police units that are led and composed of non-Pashtun soldiers and police, provide an occupation force against which the insurgency is justified. In both RC East and South, I have observed that the bulk of the insurgency fights not for the white banner of the Taliban, but rather against the presence of foreign soldiers and taxes imposed by an unrepresentative government in Kabul.

"The United States military presence in Afghanistan greatly contributes to the legitimacy and strategic message of the Pashtun insurgency. In a like manner our backing of the Afghan government in its current form continues to distance the government from the people. . . . Our support for this kind of government, coupled with a misunderstanding of the insurgency's true nature, reminds me horribly of our involvement with South Vietnam."

7. A career diplomat and former Army Colonel who helped reopen the U.S. embassy in Kabul, Ann Wright, similarly resigned in protest of the invasion of Iraq in 2003. She now agrees with Hoh's assessment on Afghanistan. It is to such authorities, who have been right years ahead of any permissible schedule, that we should turn for guidance. Also of note, the UN has withdrawn much of its international staff and threatened to withdraw entirely from Afghanistan. NATO allies are scheduling the end of their participation as well.

8. U.S. President Barack Obama's national security adviser, James Jones, says there is no guarantee that sending troops to Afghanistan would accomplish anything useful, and that they could just be "swallowed up". Is the National Security Advisor's advice worthless? What about Vice President Biden who never saw a war he didn't like? He doesn't like this one and wants to move it somewhere else (like Pakistan).

9. Mikhail Gorbachev has some experience with occupations of Afghanistan. He advises withdrawal.

10. Increasingly, U.S. military veterans are advocating for withdrawal, and — in small but rapidly growing numbers — active duty soldiers (in the UK as well as the US) are refusing to comply with the illegal order to participate. If the military is an authority, are its members — rather than its top commanders alone — not a part of that authority?

11. The money to pay back the loans and the interest on those loans that are used to fund this war must come from the American people. There is no higher authority on where the American people choose to spend their money than the American people. So, at some point we must return to them as the rightful deciders.

12. Those who opposed attacking Afghanistan in the first place, including Congresswoman Barbara Lee, and those who opposed attacking Iraq as well, included long-time diplomats, historians, public commentators, journalists, bloggers, activists, politicians, and scholars. The extraordinary degree to which they got things right is routinely treated as reason to exclude them from public debate. We take as authoritative the opinions of people who are usually wrong, but censor the latest views of those who are usually right. We do this at our peril. Instead, we would be well advised to get some real news from RealNews.com: <http://tr.im/ETuV> And if we have to watch television, watch Bill Moyers who says he would support a draft if it would end these wars. Or listen to Norman Solomon, Ray McGovern, Tom Hayden, Gareth Porter, and all the valuable reports not shown on Fox or MSNBC: <http://afterdowningstreet.org/taxonomy/term/110>

13. Ought not the highest authority for non-criminals to be the law? It is illegal to invade and occupy other nations. It is illegal to target civilians. It is illegal to use depleted uranium. It is illegal to imprison people without charge or trial. It is illegal to torture. An unelected government supported by a foreign occupying army has no legitimacy. The damage we are doing to the rule of law cannot be overstated. The United Nations has warned the United States about its ongoing illegal use of drones.

14. Just ask some of the more courageous members of the Afghan Parliament, who have been locally elected. Ask Malalai Joya.

15. Ask experts on occupations and insurgencies like William Polk, who says the U.S. should withdraw.

16. Ask Congress, where members are speaking out for withdrawal, signing bills in support of exit plans and against escalation, and committing to voting No on any funding bills to continue the wars in Afghanistan, Pakistan, and Iraq: <http://afterdowningstreet.org/whipwars> Even former Congressman Charlie Wilson says: Get out of Afghanistan. Even Congressman David Obey has expressed concern, and he chairs the committee that writes the checks.

17. Shouldn't reverse experts be considered as well? Those pushing to continue and escalate our wars have been endlessly wrong and indisputably dishonest. Shouldn't any elite in-the-know expert think twice before agreeing with Dick Cheney?

I'm not accepting the notion of just rule by experts. I favor majority rule, with minority rights protected, and freedom of the press made real. My point is that even on its own terms defending the wars in Afghanistan and Pakistan and Iraq as validated by experts is a miserable failure.

America's Phoney War in Afghanistan

by F. William Engdahl, Global Research, October 21, 2009

One of the most remarkable aspects of the Obama Presidential agenda is how little anyone has questioned in the media or elsewhere why at all the United States Pentagon is committed to a military occupation of Afghanistan. There are two basic reasons, neither one of which can be admitted openly to the public at large.

Behind all the deceptive official debate over how many troops are needed to "win" the war in Afghanistan, whether another 30,000 is sufficient, or whether at least 200,000 are needed, the real purpose of US military presence in that pivotal Central Asian country is obscured.

Even during the 2008 Presidential campaign candidate Obama argued that Afghanistan not Iraq was where the US must wage war. His reason? Because he claimed, that was where the Al Qaeda organization was holed up and that was the "real" threat to US national security. The reasons behind US involvement in Afghanistan is quite another one.

The US military is in Afghanistan for two reasons. First to restore and control the world's largest supply of opium for the world heroin markets and to use the drugs as a geopolitical weapon against opponents, especially Russia. That control of the Afghan drug market is essential for the liquidity of the bankrupt and corrupt Wall Street financial mafia.

Geopolitics of Afghan Opium

According even to an official UN report, opium production in Afghanistan has risen dramatically since the downfall of the Taliban in 2001. UNODC data shows more opium poppy cultivation in each of the past four growing seasons (2004-2007), than in any one year during Taliban rule. More land is now used for opium in Afghanistan, than for coca cultivation in Latin America. In 2007, 93% of the opiates on the world market originated in Afghanistan. This is no accident.

It has been documented that Washington hand-picked the controversial Hamid Karzai, a Pashtun warlord from the Popalzai tribe, long in the CIA's service, brought him back from exile in the USA, created a Hollywood mythology around his "courageous leadership of his people." According to Afghan sources, Karzai is the Opium "Godfather" of Afghanistan today. There is apparently no accident that he was and is today still Washington's preferred man in Kabul. Yet even with massive vote buying and fraud and intimidation, Karzai's days could be ending as President.

The second reason the US military remains in Afghanistan long after the world has forgotten even who the mysterious Osama bin Laden and his alleged Al Qaeda terrorist organization is or even if they exist, is as a pretext to build a permanent US military strike force with a series of permanent US airbases across Afghanistan. The aim of those bases is not to eradicate any Al Qaeda cells that may have survived in the caves of Tora Bora, or to eradicate a mythical "Taliban" which at this point according to eyewitness reports is made up overwhelmingly of local ordinary Afghans fighting to rid their land once more of occupier armies as they did in the 1980's against the Russians.

The aim of the US bases in Afghanistan is to target and be able to strike at the two nations which today represent the only combined threat in the world today to an American global imperium, to America's Full Spectrum Dominance as the Pentagon terms it.

The lost 'Mandate of Heaven'

The problem for the US power elites around Wall Street and in Washington is the fact that they are now in the deepest financial crisis in their history. That crisis is clear to the entire world and the world is acting on a basis of self-survival. The US elites have lost what in Chinese imperial history is known as the Mandate of Heaven. That mandate is given a ruler or ruling elite provided they rule their people justly and fairly. When they rule tyrannically and as despots, oppressing and abusing their people, they lose that Mandate of Heaven.

If the powerful private wealthy elites that have controlled essential US financial and foreign policy for most of the past century or more ever had a "mandate of Heaven" they clearly have lost it. The domestic developments towards creation of an abusive police state with deprivation of Constitutional rights to its citizens, the arbitrary exercise of power by non elected officials such as Treasury Secretaries Henry Paulson and now Tim Geithner, stealing trillion dollar sums from taxpayers without their consent in order to bailout the bankrupt biggest Wall Street banks, banks deemed "Too Big To Fail," this all demonstrates to the world they have lost the mandate.

In this situation, the US power elites are increasingly desperate to maintain their control of a global parasitical empire, called deceptively by their media machine, "globalization." To hold that dominance it is essential that they be able to break up any emerging cooperation in the economic, energy or military realm between the two major powers of Eurasia that conceivably could pose a challenge to future US sole Superpower control—China in combination with Russia.

Each Eurasian power brings to the table essential contributions. China has the world's most robust economy, a huge young and dynamic workforce, an educated middle class. Russia, whose economy has not recovered from the destructive end of the Soviet era and of the primitive looting during the Yeltsin era, still holds essential assets for the combination. Russia's nuclear strike force and its military pose the only threat in the world today to US military dominance, even if it is largely a residue of the Cold War. The Russian military elites never gave up that potential.

As well Russia holds the world's largest treasure of natural gas and vast reserves of oil urgently needed by China. The two powers are increasingly converging via a new organization they created in 2001 known as the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO). That includes as well as China and Russia, the largest Central Asia states Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Uzbekistan.

The purpose of the alleged US war against both Taliban and Al Qaeda is in reality to place its military strike force directly in the middle of the geographical space of this emerging SCO in Central Asia. Iran is a diversion. The main goal or target is Russia and China.

Officially, of course, Washington claims it has built its military presence inside Afghanistan since 2002 in order to protect a "fragile" Afghan democracy. It's a curious argument given the reality of US military presence there.

In December 2004, during a visit to Kabul, US Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld finalized plans to build nine new bases in Afghanistan in the provinces of Helmand, Herat, Nimrouz, Balkh, Khost and Paktia. The nine are in addition to the three major US military bases already installed in the wake of its occupation of Afghanistan in winter of 2001-2002, ostensibly to isolate and eliminate the terror threat of Osama bin Laden.

The Pentagon built its first three bases at Bagram Air Field north of Kabul, the US' main military logistics center; Kandahar Air Field, in southern Afghanistan; and Shindand Air Field in the western province of Herat. Shindand, the largest US base in Afghanistan, was constructed a mere 100 kilometers from the border of Iran, and within striking distance of Russia as well as China.

Afghanistan has historically been the heartland for the British-Russia Great Game, the struggle for control of Central Asia during the 19th and early 20th Centuries. British strategy then was to prevent Russia at all costs from controlling Afghanistan and thereby threatening Britain's imperial crown jewel, India.

Afghanistan is similarly regarded by Pentagon planners as highly strategic. It is a platform from which US military power could directly threaten Russia and China, as well as Iran and other oil-rich Middle East lands. Little has changed geopolitically over more than a century of wars.

Afghanistan is in an extremely vital location, straddling South Asia, Central Asia, and the Middle East. Afghanistan also lies along a proposed oil pipeline route from the Caspian Sea oil fields to the Indian Ocean, where the US oil company, Unocal, along with Enron and Cheney's Halliburton, had been in negotiations for exclusive pipeline rights to bring natural gas from Turkmenistan across Afghanistan and Pakistan to Enron's huge natural gas power plant at Dabhol near Mumbai. Karzai, before becoming puppet US president, had been a Unocal lobbyist.

Al Qaeda doesn't exist as a threat

The truth of all this deception around the real purpose in Afghanistan becomes clear on a closer look at the alleged "Al Qaeda" threat in Afghanistan. According to author Erik Margolis, prior to the September 11, 2001 attacks, US intelligence was giving aid and support both to the Taliban and to Al Qaeda. Margolis claims that "The CIA was planning to use Osama bin Laden's Al Qaeda to stir up Muslim Uighurs against Chinese rule, and Taliban against Russia's Central Asian allies."

The US clearly found other means of stirring up Muslim Uighurs against Beijing last July via its support for the World Uighur Congress. But the Al Qaeda "threat" remains the lynchpin of Obama US justification for his Afghan war buildup.

Now, however, the National Security Adviser to President Obama, former Marine Gen. James Jones has made a statement, conveniently buried by the friendly US media, about the estimated size of the present Al Qaeda danger in Afghanistan. Jones told Congress, “The al-Qaeda presence is very diminished. The maximum estimate is less than 100 operating in the country, no bases, no ability to launch attacks on either us or our allies.”

That means that Al-Qaeda, for all practical purposes, does not exist in Afghanistan. Oops...

Even in neighboring Pakistan, the remnants of Al-Qaeda are scarcely to be found. The Wall Street Journal reports, “Hunted by US drones, beset by money problems and finding it tougher to lure young Arabs to the bleak mountains of Pakistan, al Qaeda is seeing its role shrink there and in Afghanistan, according to intelligence reports and Pakistan and U.S. officials. For Arab youths who are al Qaeda’s primary recruits, ‘it’s not romantic to be cold and hungry and hiding,’ said a senior U.S. official in South Asia.”

If we follow the statement to its logical consequence we must conclude then that the reason German soldiers are dying along with other NATO youth in the mountains of Afghanistan has nothing to do with “winning a war against terrorism.” Conveniently most media chooses to forget the fact that Al Qaeda to the extent it ever existed, was a creation in the 1980’s of the CIA, who recruited and trained radical muslims from across the Islamic world to wage war against Russian troops in Afghanistan as part of a strategy developed by Reagan’s CIA head Bill Casey and others to create a “new Vietnam” for the Soviet Union which would lead to a humiliating defeat for the Red Army and the ultimate collapse of the Soviet Union.

Now US NSC head Jones admits there is essentially no Al Qaeda anymore in Afghanistan. Perhaps it is time for a more honest debate from our political leaders about the true purpose of sending more young to die protecting the opium harvests of Afghanistan.

F. William Engdahl is author of Full Spectrum Dominance: Totalitarian Democracy in the New World Order. He may be reached via his website at www.engdahl.oilgeopolitics.net.

If there are any rogue nations out there still defying our export of our "democracy" (capitalism), please call the PentaCON at once and drop a dime. For they will see to it that they dispatch the CIA to that country to build a local terrorist network (does not matter what they eventually name the group) that will overthrow that pacifist hippy peace loving government. They will freely distribute guns, ammo and rockets at will to add “stability” to the once conflict free region. The CIA will teach those evil bastard countries that refuse to not allow our banks, cars, soda, Exxon, and all our other merchandise into their countries! How dare they refuse to sell their mineral rights and farm lands to our corporations! We will force our "democracy" (capitalism) down their throats!... in the name of peace, of course.

It has been said that America is actually a Thug State. It’s military and the corresponding budget is larger than all the militaries of all the countries on the planet combined. We have bases in almost every country on the planet. In essence we went globetrotting bent on conquest under the pretext of “spreading democracy.” In all actuality what we brought the host countries was ravishing debt centered capitalism whose central function is essentially that of an insatiable beast who ravishes all their resources in the name of Return On Investment. We give power to the beast that enslaves nations by straddling them with debt. Today it seems as if our country is on a massive invasion blitz, as it looms ever closer to bankruptcy it must find new lands to invade and loot their resources in order to continue to pay off their shylocks.

Deesillustration.com

Our country always claims to be the nation of peace, yet rarely has a single day passed over the last 5 decades that we have not been at war in once conflict or another attacking some country or another for whatever excuse. One must never forget that the President of the United States is in reality no different than the CEO of any large corporation. They have everything in common, for they must both answer to the REAL OWNERS whom are in control. This is where the presidents of all organizations get their marching orders. The president is the ultimate public relations figure head. Obama glided into office on top of promises to end the wars, period. Of course like every other president that preceded him, he lied his way into office, for he has done nothing more than to escalate the wars. But what is important here is that you firmly understand that Obama is taking his orders from the true rulers/owners of the U.S. Inc. Below is an extremely relevant article clearly demonstrating the dichotomy of war and peace that the ruling elite are feeding us:

“War Is Peace”

By: M.J. Harris, December 12, 2009

Barack Obama received his Nobel peace prize just days after announcing his decision to escalate the war in Afghanistan.

Obama started off his acceptance speech with a lengthy dissertation on the history of war and peace. However Obama’s words seemed to tie together two polar opposite concepts, war and peace.

How can you be at peace, while being at war.

He spent a great amount of effort defending the US wars, and making sure that people knew that OUR WARS were justified.

Barack Obama is a master of George Orwell’s “doublethink”.

Doublethink is a word described in the fictional language of Newspeak and the act of simultaneously accepting as correct two mutually contradictory beliefs.

We will seek peace, by going to war.

We will end the war, by sending more troops.

We will reduce the budget, by spending more money.

Obama’s adept use of the English language paints beautiful imagery around his contradictory ideals. An average person will accept what he says as fact, because he can so easily create confusion and eloquence at the same time.

To know and not to know, to be conscious of complete truthfulness while telling carefully constructed lies, to hold simultaneously two opinions which canceled out, knowing them to be contradictory and believing in both of them, to use logic against logic, to repudiate morality while laying claim to it, to believe that democracy was impossible and that the Party was the guardian of democracy, to forget, whatever it was necessary to forget, then to draw it back into memory again at the moment when it was needed, and then promptly to forget it again, and above all, to apply the same process to the process itself — that was the ultimate subtlety; consciously to induce unconsciousness, and then, once again, to become unconscious of the act of hypnosis you had just performed. Even to understand the word ‘doublethink’ involved the use of doublethink. -1984

Review the audience at any of Barack Obama’s recent speeches. Without doubt the people sit in their chairs with blank stares on their face, because their minds does not know what to think. His words neither challenge you to think, as he never takes a firm position one way or the other, nor do they ever please you, as he argues both sides expertly. However he has the ability of inducing a hypnotic trance with his carefully crafted wording. The power to believe in two opposing lies and to use logic and against his own logic.

Do not be fooled, his words are always carefully chosen. He chooses to name leaders from each party, he chooses role models from every race and creed. People on every side of every issue. All in an effort to gain your confidence. Ghandi and the Soviet Union. Ronald Reagan and labor party leaders. JFK and “An Sang Ku Chi”. Martin Luther King and then Mao in the next sentence. Surely if he can draw connections between two opposing figures then he can draw consensus among two opposing ideas.

“I understand why war is not popular, but the belief that peace is desirable is rarely enough to achieve it”

Because Obama has no intention of ending perpetual war, he must convince you that for peace there must be war.

“That’s why we honor those who return home from peace keeping, we honor them not as makers of war, but as wagers of peace.”

“Clear eyed we can understand that there will be war and still strive for peace”

Obama’s Exercise In Hypocrisy

“I understand why war is not popular, but the belief that peace is desirable is rarely enough to achieve it - The words of the international community must mean something. - Those regimes that break the rules must be held accountable. - Sanctions must exact a real price. Intransigence must be met with real pressure. - That pressure exists only when the world stands together as one. - There must be consequences - Yes there will be engagement - Yes there will be diplomacy - But there must be consequences.”

Sanctions are an act of war. What hypocrisy to decry your enemies with threats of sanctions are war during the acceptance of the worlds highest award for peace.

Obama continued on seemingly to tell stories of other nations struggles, but in fact did more to detail the hypocrisy that runs rampant throughout the United States.

“Some where today in this world A young protester awaits the brutality of her government But has the courage to march on. I believe that peace is unstable Where citizens are denied the right to speak freely Or the right to worship as they please. Choose their own leaders or assemble without fear. Pent up greivances fester And the oppresion of religiuous identity can lead to violence.”

The protester Obama is referring to was a university of Pittsburgh student who was standing outside her dormitory on the night of the G20.

The place were citizens are denied the right to speak freely is right outside my front door. I have not chosen a single person who works in Washington dc, nor has any of Obama’s czars been elected by a vote determined by the citizens.

If we assemble peacefully we will surely face police brutality, tasers, and tear gas, and then we will be put on secretive government lists. No one to stand witness either for or against you, you do not have the right to face your accuser. You’re either on the list or your not on the list. Once you are on it, there is justification to remove from you all rights that have been endowed by your government. That list however is not open to the public scrutiny.

The oppression of religious identity is underway every single day, because we are no longer a Christian nation, Christians are denied the right to practice any form of religion in public.

The pent up grievances of the American people have been festering for a long time. Taxes, fines, regulations, and registrations, have become a burden on the will of the people.

Our grievances will continue to fester until our "President" stops being the President of the World, and starts being the President of America.

America has gone from being the shining beacon of light to the entire world, to the bastard nation seen by the entire world as corrupt and evil transgressors. If you analyze it in the right light and angle it can be clearly seen as a "multi-headed beast." We are quickly becoming the single most hated country in the world. Gone are the days with masses of immigrants scrambling head over heels to get into our country for "freedom of religion". Since those days our country is fast becoming a gay and transvestite "Godless nation" where God is forbidden just about everywhere, but homosexuality, decadence and immorality is perfectly ok in his place in all venues where he is prohibited to even be discussed. Today there is just one group left still trying to get in, and those are the Mexicans that have it so bad in Mexico, that a job "under the table" in our country paying what is equivalent to third world slave labor is actually an upgrade from what is available in Mexico. Where did America go wrong? When did it all change from the God centered nation, the land of freedom?

First of all you must acknowledge and truly understand that our "Democracy" has been overtaken by Capitalism many, many decades ago. America went from a Democratic centered society to a Capitalistic centered society. Take a look at what we still refer to as our democracy: This is the nation where our elected leaders routinely completely ignore all the polls of the vast majorities' wishes and still go forth to do whatever they want anyway. Our so called "democracy" has been owned a long time ago by special interests. For decades, our government has been run "by the corporations for the corporations", face it, "we the people" are just an afterthought the politicians must put up with and fallaciously pamper to, throwing the citizenry a bone here and there to keep us happy. For they must still work to keep up that illusion of freedom.

Understand this: Many generations ago the Zionist Jew cartel became the masters of international finance, aka: masters and founders of world capitalism... capitalism is none other than the life blood of Zionism. Again I must reiterate: Never forget that communism was also a strategic Jewish invention for ushering in their worldwide rule. This is the system they hoped to rule the world, but the masses rebelled to hard against this tyrannical form of governance, thus the Zionists basically had little choice but to pursue their quest of world rule the hard way: via "Democracy" where they must continually maintain the illusion of a government for and by the people.

When children play with toy soldiers, they move them around on the floor playing make believe, moving the toy pieces around, pretending the green plastic ones fighting the brown plastic ones, the child moves the pieces of both sides as he delights in his childhood war games... well, when you are the worlds puppet masters, you graduate to real armies and real war games. This is completely the same scenario of the world ruling elite, the same as children playing with their toys moving both sides of the game, the ruling elite maneuver BOTH SIDES of every conflict to achieve their interests... One must never forget this most important of truths.

The larger picture here though is how amazingly the Zionist Jew puppeteers pitted THEIR communist blocks against THEIR democratic world blocks... Very, very interesting... Classic DIVIDE AND CONQUER.

Who is funding the Afghan Taliban? You don't want to know

KABUL — It is the open secret no one wants to talk about, the unwelcome truth that most prefer to hide. In Afghanistan, one of the richest sources of Taliban funding is the foreign assistance coming into the country.

Virtually every major project includes a healthy cut for the insurgents. Call it protection money, call it extortion, or, as the Taliban themselves prefer to term it, “spoils of war,” the fact remains that international donors, primarily the United States, are to a large extent financing their own enemy.

“Everyone knows this is going on,” said one U.S. Embassy official, speaking privately.

It is almost impossible to determine how much the insurgents are spending, making it difficult to pinpoint the sources of the funds.

Up until quite recently, most experts thought that drug money accounted for the bulk of Taliban funding. But even here opinion was divided on actual amounts. Some reports gauged the total annual income at about $100 million, while others placed the figure as high as $300 million — still a small fraction of the $4 billion poppy industry. [thats because the CIA is the one running the lion’s share of the drug industry. My note]

Now administration officials have launched a search for Taliban sponsors. Richard Holbrooke, U.S. special envoy for Afghanistan and Pakistan, told a press conference in Islamabad last month that drugs accounted for less of a share of Taliban coffers than was previously thought.

“In the past there was a kind of feeling that the money all came from drugs in Afghanistan,” said Holbrooke, according to media reports. “That is simply not true.”

That is just the beginning, I have neither the time nor space to cover this topic adequately, so if you doubt for even one second the true historical purveyors behind communism were the Zionist Jew cartel, then you owe it to yourself to fire up your Google search engine and hit the library to start researching on your own. Oh, all those “American” text books published by those Zionist mega media baron publishing houses have all been sanitized of true history long ago... Remember this: mainstream press equals: mass conditioning, mass dissemination of propaganda, thus to find the truth and get to the bottom of ANYTHING you must leave the mainstream and head off to obscure little known paths and sources, for the powers that be have been waging war on the truth for eons and have tried their best to eliminate all works that reveal the truth and or oppose them and their narrative in any way... they have done so in many ways, one of which some call “revisionism.”

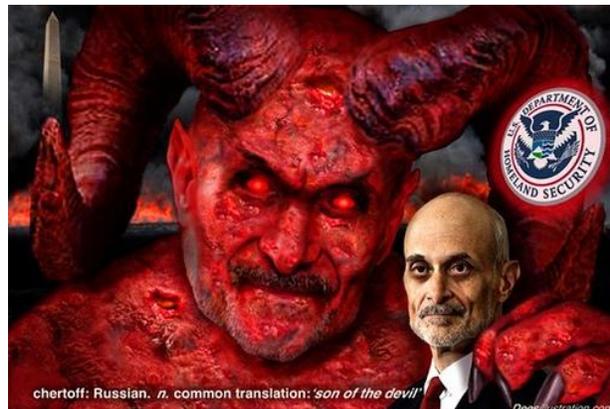

Again I find it my duty to inform you of some ugly facts. Look at key people’s names within our national security/world conquest apparatus we call the military. Surely the Zionist Jews haven’t taken over our military right? LOL. Bin there done that. Most of the key players and decision makers are..... drum roll..... Talmudic Zionist Jews! Duh! Not only that, most of whom actually hold dual citizenship! What we have in many instances is Zionist Jews in our military and government making decisions for our country but still hold citizenship in their own country!!!!

For instance, Michael Chertoff? Is a bonafide Zionist Jew Israeli citizen running OUR Homeland Security!

Doh! No other country has this bizarre setup with America other than Israel, go figure, connect the dots sheeple!!!

Paul A. Schneider, this Zionist Jew is the Deputy of Secretary of US Homeland Security, Fred L. Schwien, this Jew is the Secretary of Operations of US Homeland Security, Jay M. Cohen is the Jewish Secretary for Technology of US Homeland Security. This is JUST the Dept. of Homeland Security people!!!! WAKE UP!!!

Our country has slowly and steadily been overtaken and ruled by proxy by another sovereign nation’s people!!!

Perhaps one of the most famous Zionist Jews to have infiltrated out United States Inc in the past century was Henry Kissinger, the weight he held in our past administrations and military is legendary. I mention Kissinger to highlight the point that the Zionist Jews have been heavily embedded and involved in our so called democracy for many decades. Come on now, do some searching yourself, you will be amazed to see who is Jewish and all the important key positions these Jews are holding. There are untold numbers of Israeli Jewish citizens who have been running OUR country... running OUR military... deciding what, when, where and how on all sorts of matters of national security, yet they still bow to their masters in their home country of Israel. Is it any wonder why some of the most notorious spies in history to have been caught were Jews in our government working for apartheid Israel? See short outdated incomplete list here. To get a mere GLIMPS into the extent of Israeli spying network being conducted against our nation just go to chapter in the addendum section titled: "The Israeli Spy Juggernaut" on page 505.

Shouldn't it be like illegal for citizens of other countries to hold key positions in our government and military? Hello... Conflict of interests? Only the Zionist Jews have the distinction of holding dual citizenship... go figure. Gee whiz, oh well let me take a nap right over here... sleep... sleep... sleep...

Why we fight - Video

We have been conditioned to believe that our military is here as "our benevolent protectors of our freedoms." This may have an inkling of truth, but what I'm trying to point out is the fact that this rigid monolithic apparatus only operates in a far away reality vortex devoid of many positive traits of common humanity. They breed cold hard killers, the chain of command is absolute and unchanging authoritarian, no flexibility, no room for logic, rationality or common sense. This is a alternate reality world that co-exists alongside ours where only the objective, the goals, the mission at hand matters. Where only BLIND execution of orders is supreme. Where the ends justify the means. Where the overall benefit of mankind or God, be damned, and is rarely if ever taken into account.

A New World War for a New World Order:

Excerpt from www.globalresearch.ca

All that is required for a new major world war is just one spark: whether it comes in the form of a war between Pakistan and India, or a military strike on Iran, in which case China and Russia would not sit idly by as they did with Iraq. A strike on Iran, particularly with nuclear missiles, as is proposed, would result in World War III. So why does strategy on the part of the US and NATO continue to push in this direction? [hint: Israel & the Zionists, duh]

As George Orwell once wrote:

The war is not meant to be won, it is meant to be continuous. Hierarchical society is only possible on the basis of poverty and ignorance. This new version is the past and no different past can ever have existed. In principle the war effort is always planned to keep society on the brink of starvation. The war is waged by the ruling group against its own subjects and its object is not the victory over either Eurasia or East Asia, but to keep the very structure of society intact.

A New World War would be a global war waged by a global ruling class against the citizens of the world, with the aim of maintaining and reshaping hierarchical society to serve their own interests. It would indeed symbolize a New World War for a New World Order. In a globalized world, all conflict has global implications; the task at hand is whether the people can realize that war is not waged against a "distant" or "foreign" enemy, but against all people of the world.

Herman Goering, Hitler's second in command, explained the concept of war when he was standing trial at the Nuremberg Trials for war crimes, when he stated, "Why, of course, the people don't want war," and that, "Naturally, the common people don't want war; neither in Russia nor in England nor in America, nor for that matter in Germany. That is understood. But, after all, it is the leaders of the country who determine the policy and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a democracy or a fascist dictatorship or a Parliament or a Communist dictatorship." When Goering was corrected that in a democracy, "the people have some say in the matter through their elected representatives," Goering responded:

*Oh, that is all well and good, but, voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All you have to do is tell them they are being attacked and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger. It works the same way in any country.

What is fundamentally wrong at the core of the military industrial complex anyway? Could it be that this series of entities we refer to as the military are the ones whose entire being closely resembles the "beast" who's essence resembles that of a cold hard satanic killer more than anything else?

I really don't want to come across as anti-American, for I love my country dearly. This is why I am here before you documenting all that ails it, in hopes that some day we can somehow perform a miracle and save this country from the fascist extremist hell bent agents who have been working endlessly to destroy it. The simple fact that I am trying to point out here in this section is that our military hypothetical exists for the purpose of DEFENDING OUR COUNTRY from attack. Yet over the decades it has been transformed into a conquest machine, converted into some strange crazy multi-headed beast with tentacles all over the planet on a quest of invasion and occupation. And central to allowing these defense agencies to become easily manipulated monsters is the absolute "just follow orders" protocols that breeds and hides all the nasty evil that lays beyond your perception.

Wired.com Headline: "Pentagon calls for Office of Strategic Deception"

The Lying Game

By John Pilger

September 30, 2009 "Information Clearing House" -- In 2001, the Observer in London published a series of reports that claimed an "Iraqi connection" to al-Qaeda, even describing the base in Iraq where the training of terrorists took place and a facility where anthrax was being manufactured as a weapon of mass destruction. It was all false. Supplied by US intelligence and Iraqi exiles, planted stories in the British and US media helped George Bush and Tony Blair to launch an illegal invasion which caused, according to the most recent study, 1.3 million deaths. [Number of U.S. Military Personnel Sacrificed (Officially acknowledged) In America's War On Iraq: 4,662]

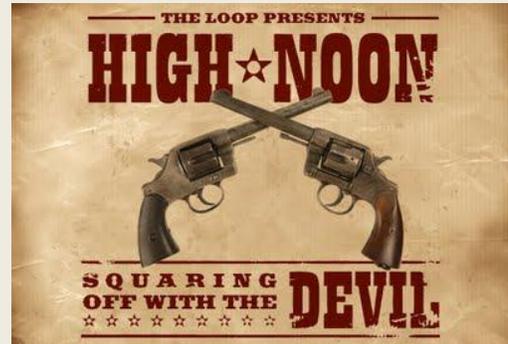

Something similar is happening over Iran: the same syncopation of government and media "revelations", the same manufacture of a sense of crisis. "Showdown looms with Iran over secret nuclear plant", declared the Guardian on 26 September. "Showdown" is the theme. High noon. The clock ticking. Good versus evil. Add a smooth new US president who has "put paid to the Bush years". An immediate echo is the notorious Guardian front page of 22 May 2007: "Iran's secret plan for summer offensive to force US out of Iraq". Based on unsubstantiated claims by the Pentagon, the writer Simon Tisdall presented as fact an Iranian "plan" to wage war on, and defeat, US forces in Iraq by September of that year – a demonstrable falsehood for which there has been no retraction.

The official jargon for this kind of propaganda is "psy-ops", the military term for psychological operations. In the Pentagon and Whitehall, it has become a critical component of a diplomatic and military campaign to blockade, isolate and weaken Iran by hyping its "nuclear threat": a phrase now used incessantly by Barack Obama and Gordon Brown, and parroted by the BBC and other broadcasters as objective news. And it is fake. On 16 September, Newsweek disclosed that the major US intelligence agencies had reported to the White House that Iran's "nuclear status" had not changed since the National Intelligence Estimate of November 2007, which stated with "high confidence" that Iran had halted in 2003 the programme it was alleged to have developed. The International Atomic Energy Agency has backed this, time and again.

The current propaganda-as-news derives from Obama's announcement that the US is scrapping missiles stationed on Russia's border. This serves to cover the fact that the number of US missile sites is actually expanding in Europe and the "redundant" missiles are being redeployed on ships. The game is to mollify Russia into joining, or not obstructing, the US campaign against Iran. "President Bush was right," said Obama, "that Iran's ballistic missile programme poses a significant threat [to Europe and the US]."

That Iran would contemplate a suicidal attack on the US is preposterous. The threat, as ever, is one-way, with the world's superpower virtually ensconced on Iran's borders.

IRAN'S CRIME IS ITS INDEPENDENCE. Having thrown out America's favourite tyrant, Shah Reza Pahlavi, Iran remains the only resource-rich Muslim state beyond US control. As only Israel has a "right to exist" in the Middle East, the US goal is to cripple the Islamic Republic. This will allow Israel to divide and dominate the region on Washington's behalf, undeterred by a confident neighbour. If any country in the world has been handed urgent cause to develop a nuclear "deterrence", it is Iran.

As one of the original signatories of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, Iran has been a consistent advocate of a nuclear-free zone in the Middle East. In contrast, Israel has never agreed to an IAEA inspection, and its nuclear weapons plant at Dimona remains an open secret. Armed with as many as 200 active nuclear warheads, Israel "deplores" UN resolutions calling on it to sign the NPT, just as it deplored the recent UN report charging it with crimes against humanity in Gaza, just as it maintains a world record for violations of international law. It gets away with this because great power grants it immunity.

Obama's "showdown" with Iran has another agenda. On both sides of the Atlantic the media have been tasked with preparing the public for endless war. The US/Nato commander General Stanley McChrystal says 500,000 troops will be required in Afghanistan over five years, according to America's NBC. The goal is control of the "strategic prize" of the gas and oilfields of the Caspian Sea, central Asia, the Gulf and Iran – in other words, Eurasia. But the war is opposed by 69 per cent of the British public, 57 per cent of the US public and almost every other human being. Convincing "us" that Iran is the new demon will not be easy. McChrystal's spurious claim that Iran "is reportedly training fighters for certain Taliban groups" is as desperate as Brown's pathetic echo of "a line in the sand".

During the Bush years, according to the great whistleblower Daniel Ellsberg, a military coup took place in the US, and the Pentagon is now ascendant in every area of American foreign policy. A measure of its control is the number of wars of aggression being waged simultaneously and the adoption of a "first-strike" doctrine that has lowered the threshold on nuclear weapons, together with the blurring of the distinction between nuclear and conventional weapons.

All this mocks Obama's media rhetoric about "a world without nuclear weapons". In fact, he is the Pentagon's most important acquisition. His acquiescence with its demand that he keep on Bush's secretary of "defence" and arch war-maker, Robert Gates, is unique in US history. He has proved his worth with escalated wars from south Asia to the Horn of Africa. Like Bush's America, Obama's America is run by some very dangerous people. We have a right to be warned. When will those paid to keep the record straight do their job?

More military veterans make up the largest segment of homeless, disabled, medically needy and mentally disturbed, their statistics are larger than ANY other group of troubled people in America, so much so that all military veterans as a whole are the most the single most dysfunctional and distressed segment of the population, far larger than ALL other groups and races combined...

This led me to the observation I have been making since I was a child and personally witnessed a multitude of “ex” military personnel ALL come back home to essentially be “discarded” by the establishment that promised them everything. This is not the exception, it is by and far, the norm. What perplexed me most as a child was what it seemed to me a lose – lose proposition of joining the military. It seemed that only complete idiots would sacrifice their lives to fight some bullshit conflict in some other part of the world where our corporate masters would like to become the dominant players, once our soldiers fulfill their tours of duty they are all unanimously rewarded with nothing but indifference and disenfranchisement, let alone having to deal with the myriad of medical and mental conditions that follow them for the rest of their lives.

In the end all the promises they received were just that, bullshit promises. They were all part of the murder and mayhem system while they were all serving their time, a system we have all been trained to think, accept and regard as a system of “PEACE.” Once they left the blood and destruction system, the general order of the day from their former masters of war has always been: “good luck and good riddance... seeee yaaaaahhhhhh.”

The broken minds and bodies are soon quickly replaced by new gullible recruits willing to sacrifice their lives “for freedom.” Doh! At which point the recruiters and their advertisements target fresh naïve minds (aka: new meat) to perpetuate their system of rule and global imperialism which according to the established pretext and officially sponsored narratives, HYPE requires NOT peace, forgiveness, empathy and so forth, but instead it’s ugly counterpart: war, killing, blood, division and hate. THIS is what the ruling powers have the masses believing is justified.... Is part of being on the “good” side....

The poor fools who readily give up their lives do so believing in the LIE. How many have given their lives for the sake of invading countless small innocent countries in order to change the sovereignty of those targeted nations to a state sponsored and controlled puppet regime?

Only the spiritually gifted and learned folks see through this most obvious ruse of the SATANIC RULE ON EARTH via his physical manifestation on earth: the Military Industrial Complex. For only the Luciferian rulers walk the path of lies, deceit, conflict, invasion, occupation, murder and war... they know only one route to achieve their goals: the path of lies, deceit, fear, pain and blood. Only the indoctrinated cattle come forward to sacrifice themselves for the grand lies. Those who possess an ounce of critical thinking abilities understand and KNOW that the way of God is firmly in walking the path of PEACE, forgiveness, empathy, understanding, cooperation, sharing, LOVE of thy fellow man, and so forth. Those who only TALK about said attributes but do so by the sword, gun and bombs, swimming in the blood of innocent victims are nothing but evil imposters who perpetrate the fraud of making believe they are the “good guys” for the sake of global economic colonization and world governance.

"Nobel Peace Prize Winner Barack Obama, is Preparing for War in South America"; Interview with Eva Golinger

by Mike Whitney, Global Research, December 18, 2009

Mike Whitney---The US media is very critical of Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez. He's frequently denounced as "anti-American", a "leftist strongman", and a dictator. Can you briefly summarize some of the positive social, economic and judicial changes for which Chavez is mainly responsible?

Eva Golinger---The first and foremost important achievement during the Chávez administration is the 1999 Constitution, which, although not written nor decreed by Chávez himself, was created through his vision of change for Venezuela. The 1999 Constitution was, in fact, drafted - written - by the people of Venezuela in one of the most participatory examples of nation building, and then was ratified through popular national referendum by 75% of Venezuelans. The 1999 Constitution is one of the most advanced in the world in the area of human rights. It guarantees the rights to housing, education, healthcare, food, indigenous lands, languages, women's rights, worker's rights, living wages and a whole host of other rights that few other countries recognize on a national level. My favorite right in the Venezuelan Constitution is the right to a dignified life. That pretty much sums up all the others. Laws to implement these rights began to surface in 2001, with land reform, oil industry redistribution, tax laws and the creation of more than a dozen social programs - called missions - dedicated to addressing the basic needs of Venezuela's poor majority. In 2003, the first missions were directed at education and healthcare. Within two years, illiteracy was eradicated in the country and Venezuela was certified by UNESCO as a nation free of illiteracy. This was done with the help of a successful Cuban literacy program called "Yo si puedo" (Yes I can). Further educational missions were created to provide free universal education from primary to doctoral levels throughout the country. Today, Venezuela's population is much more educated than before, and adults who previously had no high school education now are encouraged to not only go through a secondary school program, but also university and graduate school.

The healthcare program, called "Barrio Adentro", has not only provided preventive healthcare to all Venezuelans - many who never had access to a doctor before - but also has guaranteed universal, free access to medical attention at the most advanced levels. MRIs, heart surgery, lab work, cancer treatments, are all provided free of cost to anyone (including foreigners) in need. Some of the most modern clinics, diagnostic treatment centers and hospitals have been built in the past five years under this program, placing Venezuela at the forefront of medical technology.

Other programs providing subsidized food and consumer products (Mercal, Pdval), job training (Mission Vuelvan Caras), subsidies to poor, single mothers (Madres del Barrio), attention to indigents and drug addicts (Mission Negra Hipolita) have reduced extreme poverty by 50% and raised Venezuelans standard of living and quality of life. While nothing is perfect, these changes are extraordinary and have transformed Venezuela into a nation far different from what it looked like 10 years ago. In fact, the most important achievement that Hugo Chávez himself is directly responsible for is the level of participation in the political process. Today, millions of Venezuelans previously invisible and excluded are visible and included. Those who were always marginalized and ignored in Venezuela by prior governments today have a voice, are seen and heard, and are actively participating in the building of a new economic, political and social model in their country.

MW--On Monday, President Chavez threw a Venezuelan judge in jail on charges of abuse of power for freeing a high-profile banker. Do you think he overstepped his authority as executive or violated the principle of separation of powers? What does this say about Chavez's resolve to fight corruption?

Eva Golinger---President Chávez did not put anyone in jail. Venezuela has an Attorney General and an independent branch of government in charge of public prosecutions. Chávez did publicly accuse the judge of corruption and violating the law because that judge overstepped her authority by releasing an individual charged with corruption and other criminal acts from detention, despite the fact that a previous court had not granted conditional freedom or bail to the suspect. And, the judge released the suspect in a very irregular way, without the presence of the prosecutor, and through a back door. The suspect then fled the country.

This is part of Venezuela's fight against corruption. Unfortunately - as in a lot of countries - corruption is deeply rooted in the culture. The struggle to eradicate corruption is probably the most difficult of all and will probably not be achieved until new generations have grown up with different values and education. In the meantime, the Chávez administration is trying hard to ensure that corrupt public officials pay the consequences. That judge, for example, engaged in an act of corruption and abuse of authority by illegally releasing a suspect and therefore was charged by the Public Prosecutor's office and will be tried. It has nothing to do with what Chávez said or didn't say, it has to do with enforcing the law.

MW---Why is the United States building military bases in Colombia? Do they pose a threat to Chavez or the Bolivarian Revolution?

Eva Golinger---On October 30th, the US formally entered into an agreement with the Colombian government to allow US access to seven military bases in Colombia and unlimited use of Colombian territory for military operations. The agreement itself is purported to be directed at counter-narcotics operations and counter-terrorism. But a US Air Force document released earlier this year discussing the need for a stronger US military presence in Colombia revealed the true intentions behind the military agreement. The document stated that the US military presence was necessary to combat the "constant threat from anti-US governments in the region". Clearly, that is a reference to Venezuela, and probably Bolivia, maybe Ecuador. It's no secret that Washington considers the Venezuelan government anti-US, though it's not true. Venezuela is anti-imperialist, but not anti-US. The US Air Force document also stated that the Colombian bases would be used to engage in "full spectrum military operations" throughout South America, and even talked about surveillance, intelligence and reconnaissance missions, and improving the capacity of US forces to execute "expeditionary warfare" in Latin America.

Clearly, this is a threat to the peoples of Latin America and particularly those nations targeted, such as Venezuela. Most people in the US don't know about this military agreement, but if they did, they should question why their government, led by Nobel Peace Prize winner Barack Obama, is preparing for war in South America. And, in the midst of an economic crisis with millions of people in the US losing jobs and homes, why are millions of dollars being spent on military bases in Colombia? The US Congress already approved $46 million for one of the bases in Colombia. And surely more funds will be supplied in the future.

MW---What is ALBA? Is it a viable alternative to the "free trade" blocs promoted by the US?

Eva Golinger---The Bolivarian Alliance of the Americas - Trade Agreement for the People, is a regional agreement created five years ago between Venezuela and Cuba, and now has 9 members: Bolivia, Cuba, Ecuador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Venezuela, Antigua and Barbuda, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, and Dominica. ALBA is a trade agreement based on integration, cooperation and solidarity, contrary to US trade agreements which are based on competition and exploitation. It promotes a way of trading between nations that assures mutual benefits. For example, Venezuela sells oil to Cuba and Cuba pays with services - doctors, educators and technological experts that help to improve Venezuela's industries. Venezuela sells oil to Nicaragua and Nicaragua pays with food products, agricultural technology and aide to build Venezuela's own agricultural industry, which long ago was abandoned by prior governments only interested in the rich oil industry. ALBA seeks to not just provide economic benefits to its member nations, but also social and cultural advances. The idea is to find ways to help members develop and progress in all aspects of society. ALBA recently created a new currency, the SUCRE, which will be used as a form of exchange between member nations, eliminating the US dollar as the standard for trade.

MW---Are US NGO's and intelligence agents still trying to foment political instability in Venezuela or have those operations ceased since the failed coup?

Eva Golinger---In fact, the funding of political groups in Venezuela, and others throughout Latin America that promote US agenda, has increased since the April 2002 coup against President Chávez. Through two principal Department of State agencies, USAID and the National Endowment for Democracy (NED), the US government has channeled more than $50 million to opposition groups in Venezuela since 2002. The USAID/NED budget to fund groups in Venezuela in 2010 is nearly $15 million, doubled from last year's $7 million. This is a state policy of Washington, which the Obama Administration plans to amp up. They call it "democracy promotion", but it's really democracy subversion and destabilization. Funding political groups favorable to Empire, equipping them with resources, strategizing to help formulate political platforms and campaigns - all geared towards regime change - is a new form of invasion, a silent invasion. Through USAID and NED, and their "partner NGOs" and contractors, such as Freedom House, International Republican Institute, National Democratic Institute, Pan-American Development Foundation and Development Alternatives, Inc., hundreds of political groups, parties and programs are presently being funded in Venezuela to promote regime change against the Chávez government. US taxpayer dollars are being squandered on these efforts to overthrow a democratically elected government that simply isn't convenient for Washington. Remember, Venezuela has 24% of world oil reserves. That's a lot!

MW---How hard has Venezuela been hit by the economic crisis? Do the people understand Wall Street's role in the meltdown?

Eva Golinger---Actually, the Chávez government has taken important steps to shelter Venezuela from the financial crisis. People here in Venezuela absolutely understand Wall Street's role in the crisis and know that the US capitalist-consumerist system is principally responsible for causing the financial crisis, but also the climate crisis that the world is facing. The Venezuelan government took preventive steps against the financial crisis, such as withdrawing Venezuela's reserves from US banks two years ago, creating cushion funds to ensure social programs would not be cut and diversifying Venezuela's oil clientele so as not to be dependent solely on US clients. Recently, several banks have been nationalized by the Venezuelan government and others have been liquidated. But this was more due to the mismanagement and internal corruption within those banks. The Venezuelan government reacted quickly to take over the banks and guarantee customers' savings would not be lost. In fact, it's the first time in Venezuela's history that no customers have lost any of their money during a bank liquidation or takeover. This is part of the Chávez Administration's policy of prioritizing social needs over economic gain.

MW---Here's an excerpt from a special weekend report by Bloomberg News:

"Americans have grown gloomier about both the economy and the nation's direction over the past three months even as the U.S. shows signs of moving from recession to recovery. Almost half the people now feel less financially secure than when President Barack Obama took office in January...Fewer than 1 in 3 Americans think the economy will improve in the next six months...Only 32 percent of poll respondents believe the country is headed in the right direction, down from 40 percent who said so in September." (Bloomberg)

The frustration and disillusionment with the US political/economic system has never been greater in my lifetime. Do you think people in the United States are ready for their own Bolivarian Revolution and steps towards a more progressive, socialistic model of government?

Eva Golinger---The rise of Barack Obama neutralized a growing sentiment for profound change inside the US. Hopefully, the slowdown in US activism will only be temporary. South of the border, there is tremendous change taking place. New social, political and economic models are being built by popular grassroots movements in Venezuela, Bolivia and other Latin American nations that seek economic and social justice. I believe strongly that models in process, like the Bolivarian Revolution, provide inspiration and hope to those in the US and around the world that alternatives to US capitalism do exist and can be successful.

The US has a rich history of revolution. There are many groups inside the US dedicated to building a better, more humanist system. Unity and a collective vision are essential aspects of building a strong movement capable of moving forward. Every nation has its moment in history. This is the time of Latin America. But there is great hope that the people of the US will soon unite with their brothers and sisters south of the border to bring down Empire and help build a true world community based on social and economic justice for all.

Here is an interesting story in hopes that you may get just a itty bitty tiny glimpse of the multitude of things that are so wrong with this inhuman MONSTROUSITY we call our military:

The Death Dealers took my life!

By Mark Benjamin and Michael de Yoanna Feb. 9, 2009 | Salon.com

The day before Halloween 2008, Army Pvt. Adam Lieberman swallowed handfuls of prescription pain pills and psychotropic drugs. Then he picked up a can of black paint and smeared onto the wall of his room in the Fort Carson barracks what he thought would be his last words to the world.

"I FACED THE ENEMY AND LIVED!" Lieberman painted on the wall in big, black letters. "IT WAS THE DEATH DEALERS THAT TOOK MY LIFE!"

Soldiers called Lieberman's unit, the 1st Battalion, 67th Armored Regiment, the Death Dealers. Adam suffered serious mental health problems after a year of combat in Iraq. The Army, however, blamed his problems on a personality disorder, anxiety disorder or alcohol abuse -- anything but the war. Instead of receiving treatment from the Army for his war-related problems, Adam faced something more akin to harassment. He was punished and demoted for his bad behavior, but not treated effectively for its cause. The Army's fervent tough-guy atmosphere discouraged Adam from seeking help. Eventually he saw no other way out. Now, in what was to be his last message, he pointed the finger at the Army for his death.

It would be a voice from beyond the grave, he thought, screaming in uppercase letters. The last words, "THAT TOOK MY LIFE!" tilted down the wall in a slur, as the concoction of drugs seeped into Adam's brain.

Late last month the Army released figures showing the highest suicide rate among soldiers in three decades. The Army says 128 soldiers committed suicide in 2008 with another 15 still under investigation. "Why do the numbers keep going up?" Army Secretary Pete Geren said at a Pentagon news conference Jan. 29. "We can't tell you." The Army announced a $50 million study to figure it out.

It is not just the suicides spiraling out of control. Salon assembled a sample of 25 cases of suicide, prescription drug overdoses or murder involving Fort Carson soldiers over the past four years, by no means a comprehensive list. In-depth study of 10 of those cases revealed a pattern of preventable deaths. In most cases, the deaths seemed avoidable if the Army had better handled garden-variety combat stress reactions.

Interviews, Army documents and medical records suggest that Adam might not have attempted suicide if he had received a proper diagnosis and treatment. His suicide attempt seems avoidable. But the Army's mistreatment extended well into its aftermath. At the last minute on Oct. 30, Lieberman stumbled out of his room and dialed 911. He lived.

Five days later Adam's mother, Heidi Lieberman, sat opposite the desk of Lieberman's battalion commander, Lt. Col. Lance Kohler, at Fort Carson. Nobody from the Army had bothered to call her in Rochester, N.Y., to tell her about Adam's suicide attempt. There was no requirement to alert parents of an attempt, the Army said, only a successful suicide.

Heidi had watched her son's mental health deteriorate precipitously after he returned from Iraq in late 2006. He had suffered from a laundry list of symptoms typical of post-traumatic stress disorder, including insomnia, depression, panic attacks and flashes of violent anger.

Two days after he swallowed the pills, Adam called his mother himself from the hospital. Still slurring his words from the effect of the meds, Heidi could barely understand her son. When Heidi asked him where he was, Adam had to ask someone. Sitting across from the lieutenant colonel's desk, Heidi wanted to know why the Army had not moved her son into a unit supposedly dedicated to healthcare where he might get better treatment.

"Well, he has legals," Kohler told her. Legal trouble. She knew Adam was struggling. Mostly Adam had been silencing his demons with 30 beers a day plus some Jameson. He'd puke in a bucket and start over. Mental health professionals call it self-medicating when a soldier comes back from war and turns to booze when he can't get help, another typical reaction. Just as predictable is the bad behavior that comes with it.

To Heidi, Kohler's response showed that the Army considered Adam a discipline problem, but didn't seem particularly concerned about why. "What legals?" Heidi asked.

Adam had broken into a candy machine, so petty larceny. He had also gone AWOL for a short time to say goodbye to an Army buddy in Texas headed off to a second tour in Iraq. The Army denied Adam's request for leave. He went anyway.

"And defacing government property," Kohler added to the list. "When did he do this?" "Within the last couple of days," Kohler responded, staring. Heidi thought. No. Couldn't be. "What did he deface?" Kohler stared. "The wall in his bedroom." Heidi met his stare, exasperated. "You mean his suicide note?" Kohler just looked at her. The next day Heidi called Adam's company commander, Capt. Phelps.

"You know," Heidi fired at Phelps, "I still have a hard time wrapping my mind around the fact that my son is being charged with defacing government property and you people are more concerned about your wall than my son," she stammered. Then she threatened, half jokingly, "I will paint that wall and make this stupidity go away."

A pause, and then Phelps snapped, "We'll contact supply and have them bring you the matching paint."

And so, the Army allowed a mother to paint over her son's suicide note. Heidi's handicapped sister helped.

"I was kind of surprised that they took me up on that," she said late last year sitting at her dining room table in her home in Rochester, N.Y. Heidi's sister took photos of her, paint roller in hand, erasing what was supposed to be her son's last message. "He agreed that if I painted that wall that charge would go away," she recalled about her talk with Adam's captain. "It didn't."

Just before Christmas, MPs fingerprinted and booked Adam for defacing government property.

There you have it, a picture perfect candid look at how our benevolent military entity functions, right down to the core. There are so many points and observations that can be made just out of this short story. How cruel, insensitive, cold hearted and inhumane our essentially is military is. But I will point out yet another less obvious factor that slips the ordinary citizens mind:

Once you join any branch of military "YOU BECOME THE PROPERTY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA" are the exact words that came out of the mouth of the commander the day I was sworn in for military service. I have never forgotten those spine shilling words. THE PROPERTY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. It haunted me for years. He went on to say "you will be issued a number and you are to memorize your number" You are OWNED, you have ceased to exist as an individual. You are just another inventory item, a strategic commodity, blah, blah, blah. The next following years ahead are then devoted to the most thorough sanctioned brain washing and indoctrination program ever to exist on the planet earth "cleansing the mind" and reprogramming. YES SIR!!! SIR!!! YES SIR!!!

Behold: for those who have just been ~~enlisted~~ ENSLAVED to become an obedient servant for your military. Like the hundreds of millions that were brainwashed and enslaved before you. Don't worry, the day will come when they set you lose back into society as a mere shadow of your once proud personality, stripped of all innocence, sense of self, dreams and what is good in life. You will then go forth and try to integrate with your people, yet never again to be a normal free spirited human being... A full one third of the decrepit lost souls who return will be like aliens in their own land, they will roam the streets, destitute and homeless trying in vain to find themselves, for they were all stripped of their essential divine God given sense of self. How my heart breaks to see my fallen brothers whom I stare into their eyes and see a bottomless abyss, devoid of fundamental elements of their original life. Instead of warm caring individuals stand cold hard robotic shells of what used to be a decent human being, whom have been mind raped so severely and thoroughly that it renders many of them incapable of returning back to "normal" life. To thee my prayers are with you, as the beast you once served spits you out onto the streets, naked to fend for yourself, when you seek their assistance they "deny, deny until you die." Yet you are not alone, there is only one path to find deliverance, seek and ye shall find.

Conscription = Communism

by William Norman Grigg, May 31, 2005

The theme of Woodrow Wilson's 1916 re-election campaign was: "He kept us out of the war." Numerous historians, both partisans and detractors of the wretched Wilson, have documented that the slogan was a cynical lie. The same was true of Wilson's repeated public statements in opposition to the restoration of the draft, which had been discontinued at the end of the War Between the States.

In his April 2, 1917 address to Congress seeking a declaration of war against Germany, Wilson approached the subject of conscription from an oblique angle, stating that the war would "involve the immediate addition to the armed forces of the United States ... at least 500,000 men, who should, in my opinion, be chosen upon the principle of universal liability to service..." (Emphasis added.)

Observes Thomas Fleming in his invaluable book Illusion of Victory: "These words were an uplifting way of saying conscription, a draft." Significantly, Wilson's words were also a close paraphrase of a line from the eighth plank of the Communist Manifesto dictating an "equal liability of all to labor" in tasks ordained by the state. This implicit kinship was made more overt in Wilson's May 28 proclamation implementing the conscription law that had been passed by Congress ten days earlier.

"The nation needs all men," decreed Wilson, "but it needs each man not in the field that will most pleasure him, but in the endeavor that will best serve the common good.... To this end, Congress has provided that the nation shall be organized for war by selection; that each man shall be classified for service in the place to which it shall best serve the general good to call him."

"The significance of this cannot be overstated," continued Wilson. "It is a new thing in our history and a landmark in our progress." Although Wilson's conscription measure did represent a landmark in America's descent into militarist collectivism, it was hardly the "new thing" he claimed it to be. While the Constitution did not provide for federal conscription, both the Union and Confederacy implemented the draft during the War Between the States. And in both cases, the draft was the keystone in a system described by historian Jeffrey Rogers Hummel as "war socialism."

Der Staat Über Alles

The fundamental premise of the draft is that people exist to serve and protect the State, and can be used as seen fit by those who control it. This was expressed with astonishing bluntness in a July 13, 1863 New York Times house editorial entitled "The Conscription a Great National Benefit."

"It is a national blessing that the Conscription has been imposed," declared this hymn to the almighty State. "It is a matter of prime concern that it should now be settled, once for all, whether this Government is or is not strong enough to compel military service in its defense." Up until then, continued the Times, "the popular mind had scarcely bethought itself for a moment that the power of an unlimited Conscription was ... one of the living powers of the government in time of war. The general notion was that Conscription was a feature that belonged exclusively to despotic Governments...."

But such notions must now be suppressed, insisted the editorial, since "not only the property, but the personal military service of every able-bodied citizen is at the command of the national authorities, constitutionally exercised.... The Government is the people's Government.... When it is once understood that our national authority has the right under the Constitution, to every dollar and every right arm in the country for its protection, and that the great people recognize and stand by that right, thenceforward, for all time to come, this Republic will command a respect, both at home and abroad, far beyond any ever accorded to it before." (Emphasis added.)

The Times published those words as New York City succumbed to four days of violent anti-draft riots – the worst civic disturbance in U.S. history to that point. In the aftermath, the London Times ran a house editorial about the draft riots in which that British periodical expressed a sounder grasp of American constitutional tradition than had our own "paper of record": "It would have been strange, indeed, if the American people had submitted to a measure which is a distinctive mark of the most despotic governments of the Continent."

In order to enforce the conscription law, the Lincoln regime emulated – and built upon – precedents set by despotic European governments. As documented by Mark Neely in The Fate of Liberty, his Pulitzer-winning 1991 account of civil liberties under Lincoln, the period following enactment of conscription in 1863 was "the lowest point for civil liberties in U.S. history to that time, and one of the lowest for civil liberties in all of American history." Enforcement of conscription led to nation-wide suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus, and East German-style efforts to seal the border to keep draft-age men from fleeing the country. Hundreds were imprisoned for either seeking to avoid the draft, or even for publicly condemning it.

While the draft was abolished at war's end, the notion that the federal government had the right "to every dollar and every right arm in the country for its protection" was not. Journalist Joel Tyler Headley, in his 1873 account The Great Riots of New York 1712–1873, prefaced his treatment of the draft riots with a brief theodicy defending the almighty State's use of the draft.

"[W]e do not believe there is a sounder principle, or one that every unbiased mind does not concede with readiness that it does an axiom, that, if necessary to protect and save itself, a government may not only order a draft, but call out every able-bodied man in the nation," lectured Headley. "If this right does not inhere in our government, it is built on a foundation of sand, and the sooner it is abandoned the better."

Unlike orthodox Communists, Headley defended the division of labor, at least as applied to the Civil War draft, in which wealthy draft-age men could hire a substitute.

"The objection that a rich man, if drafted, can buy a substitute, while the poor man, with a large family depending upon him, must go, if of any weight at all, lies against the whole structure of society, which gives the rich man at every step immunities over the poor man," wrote Headley. "When society gets in that happy state, that the rich man has no advantages over the poor, there will be no need either of drafting or volunteering. Yet, after all, it is not so unequal as it at first sight appears. War must have money as well as men, and the former the rich have to furnish; and if they do this, it is but fair that they should be allowed to furnish with it also the men to do their fighting. Besides, there must be some rule that would exempt the men that carry on the business of the country."

Headley's perspective was warmly embraced roughly a century later by late-blooming war hawks like George W. Bush, Dick Cheney, and scores of others who avoided Vietnam in order to pursue (in Cheney's words) "other priorities." In this, as in so much else, neo-con "chickenhawks" are guided by Lincoln's example. Notes Michael Lind in his new book, What Lincoln Believed: "Lincoln, while sending the sons of other men to their deaths, ensured that his own adult son Robert would avoid combat, first as a student at Harvard College and then as a member of the staff of General Ulysses S. Grant."

Another notable figure of the era who avoided conscription – albeit in his native Prussia – was Simon Baruch.

who enlisted in the Confederate military after settling in South Carolina. His son Bernard would become an immensely powerful financier and – more importantly – head of the War Industries Board under Wilson, which would implement the Wilson regime’s system of War Communism.

Wilson’s War Communism

When Wilson re-instated conscription in his May 28, 1917 decree, he described it as "a new manner of accepting and vitalizing our duty to give ourselves without thoughtful devotion to the common purpose of all. It is in no sense a conscription of the unwilling; it is, rather, selection from a nation which has volunteered in mass. It is no more a choosing of those who shall march with the colors than it is a selection of those who shall serve an equally necessary and devoted purpose in the industries that lie behind the battle line."

All men between the ages of 21 and 30 were ordered to muster at local registration sites on June 5, a date Wilson described as "a great day of patriotic devotion and obligation" on which "the name of every male person of the designated ages is written on these lists of honor."

Despite Wilson’s resounding claim that the nation had "volunteered in mass" for the war, the public wasn’t noticeably eager to take the yoke of the warfare state. In a note to "Colonel" Edward Mandell House, Wilson’s intimate confidant, Wilson’s secretary Joe Tumulty fretted that "the people’s ‘righteous wrath’ seems not to have been aroused."

To arouse the public, the administration turned to propagandist George Creel, head of the quasi-governmental Committee for Public Information. Creel deployed an army of orators called the "Four Minute Men," who bullied their way into local theaters, civic clubs, churches, chambers of commerce, and other public settings to deliver "patriotic" speeches extolling the administration’s war aims.

The purpose of this pestilential horde of herd-poisoners, Creel explained, was to build a "war will" in the American public. Between May 12 and 21, Creel’s cadres harangued the public on the subject, "Universal Service by Selective Draft." Writes Fleming: "As often as possible, the word ‘service’ was substituted for the harsher ‘conscription.’ It was a word that blended nicely with the ideals of progressive reform that had swept the nation in the decade before the war."

But the public still refused to embrace the war. "There is evidence that in many localities the people have only entered the war with reluctance and with a feeling of inevitability rather than with any enthusiasm," reported the British government’s American Press Resume on May 23. Thus the administration unsheathed what Fleming calls "the mailed fist" – targeted arrests of draft resisters and critics. Amid claims of a widespread conspiracy to "resist the draft by force," federal officials jailed anti-draft protesters and pamphleteers in Texas, California, Ohio, and New York. The dragnet against "violent" and "lawless" draft opponents snagged two Missouri men who sought a court order to prevent enforcement of the draft decree.

As counter-point to the crackdown, a May 25 Los Angeles Times headline warned: "Death for Treason Awaits Anti-Draft Plotters." A week later, the paper reported that the nation’s ports were being kept under surveillance to prevent draft-age men from fleeing the country. This "mixture of exhortation and intimidation" turned the tide in the PR battle, Fleming writes: "In most towns and cities, almost 10 million men registered without a murmur of protest." Many Americans embraced the idea that Universal Service would be a healthy thing for undisciplined youth and unruly elements. "I’d rather have my son go to heaven in France than to hell in America!" exclaimed one dutiful Texas father. The New York Times opined that "The Selective Service Draft gives a long and sorely needed means of disciplining a certain rather insolent foreign element in this nation."

Once it was widely accepted that the State could force men to take up arms in its defense (as opposed to volunteering to defend their homes and communities), it was relatively easy for the Wilson regime to regiment the industrial economy. That task was assigned to Bernard Baruch – the son, once again, of a man who had dodged the draft in Germany.

The concept of the "Nation in Arms," Baruch wrote in a post-war report, meant that "in war, her entire resources of men, money and things should suddenly become a compact instrument of destruction.... [T]he entire population must suddenly cease to be a congeries of individuals, each following a self-appointed course, and become a vast unitary mechanism."

Nor is it enough that government conscript industry and transmute the productive sector into an engine of mass destruction; it must also claim the power to set all prices by fiat – in order to "support the troops," of course. Baruch theatrically lamented the destruction of "domestic morale through a just and bitter resentment by soldiers, their families, and indeed all persons of fixed income, at the spectacle of grotesquely exaggerated profits and income to those engaged in trade or in services for sale in competitive markets and the constantly increasing burden of bare existence to all those who are not so engaged."

The "just and bitter resentment" of conscripts, Baruch continued, can be assuaged "by simple proclamation to decree that every price in the whole national pattern as of that determined date shall be the maximum that may thenceforth be charged for anything.... In modern war, administrative control must replace the law of supply and demand."

"Administrative control" of necessity meant State control over the labor market, as well as goods and services. This was accomplished, in part, through the "Work or Fight" directive, through which men qualifying for a draft deferment were required to labor at State-approved jobs or face military conscription. Explained Baruch: "The Work or Fight order merely said to these men: 'No matter what the grounds for your deferment may be, unless you are faithfully, continuously and usefully employed in a capacity and for an enterprise determined by the Government to be essential to the prosecution of the war, your deferment will be cancelled and you will immediately be called for service with the colors.'"

And why wouldn't this be the case, given that the draft is based on the assumption that the State has a right "to every dollar and every right arm in the country for its protection"?

Interestingly, while Baruch he stoutly defended the military draft, he opposed conscription of labor as a violation of the 13th Amendment's prohibition on "involuntary servitude." Baruch, in a fashion typical of Communists of all varieties, believed the private sector alone could be guilty of that offense. From the Communist perspective, the earth is the State's, and everything in it – so when the State imposes involuntary servitude on its subjects, it's merely exercising its sovereign right.

"A soldier serves the nation directly," Baruch wrote, dishonestly treating the "nation" and the "State" as the same entity. "There is but one master in the case and that master is America. He serves to profit no one but the country as a whole.... His entry is not contractual. He is clothed, fed, housed, and attended." However, insisted Baruch, "Enforced and involuntary service for a private master is and has been clearly and repeatedly defined by our Supreme Court as slavery inhibited [actually, prohibited] by the Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.... All this does not say, however, that men not under military discipline are free agents in war. The Government cannot say, 'Work here. Work there,' or 'Work for Mr. A.' But it can say – as it did say in 1918: 'Work or Fight!'" (Emphasis added.)

All Good Things...

Writing in 1941, shortly after the FDR regime had re-instated conscription in preparation for U.S. entry into the Second World War, Baruch fondly remembered the success of the Wilson regime's efforts to collectivize the country.

"As if by common consent," Baruch recalled, "every war administration adopted the policy of decentralization, reliance on unofficial civilian co-operation, public education as to necessity, and – to put it frankly – universal and highly organized propaganda. Thus the draft – instead of being enforced by soldiers carrying bayonets as in the Civil War – was turned over to small boards of local civilians who were given almost unlimited and final authority. Largely they served without compensation and at great sacrifice. Much was made of the service of these men and conscription took on the aspect of a great spontaneous levee en masse. But there was a provision in the Selective Service Act under which, if any member of these draft boards had refused that duty, he could have been sent to jail."

Among Baruch's few regrets was the fact that the war had ended before the nation had been transformed into a collectivist utopia: "Had the war gone on another year, our whole civil population would have gradually emerged (as wardrobes and inventories became exhausted) in cheap but serviceable uniform. Types of shoes were to be reduced to two or three. The manufacture of pleasure automobiles was to cease. Flaps from pockets and unnecessary trim in clothing would have disappeared. Steel had already been taken out of women's corsets."

Ah, well – other opportunities for remaking American through war would come, as even more ruthless ruling elites – such as those arising after WWI in Germany and Russia – seized on the Wilson regime's example. Of Germany's National Socialist regime, Baruch proudly observed in 1941: "German military experts have said, 'Except for a few minor changes, the German economic mobilization system was conscientiously built in imitation of the similar American system.'" Which is to say that the Wilson/Baruch model for war mobilization was the first draft of Hitler's warfare State.

General Hugh S. Johnson, who had commanded the Blue Eagle storm troopers during the early years of the New Deal, also took pride in the tribute paid to Wilson's regime by German rulers. In mobilizing for the coming war, wrote Johnson in 1941, "we should merit for industrial America something of what Field Marshal von Hindenburg in his retrospect of the World War had to say of its efforts in 1918: 'Her brilliant, if pitiless, war industry had entered the service of patriotism and had not failed it. Under the compulsion of military necessity a ruthless autocracy was at work and rightly, even in this land at the portals of which the Statue of Liberty flashes its blinding light across the seas. They understood war.'"

Those of us who love liberty and peace should also understand war: It is the State reduced to its essential functions – destruction, regimentation, pitiless violence. Similarly, we must understand that conscription indisputably rests on the assumption that each individual is the State's property, to be sacrificed when those controlling the State deem it necessary for their protection.

The inimitable William Lind pointed to the recent spectacle of panic-crazed politicians and bureaucrats fleeing the Capitol when a Cessna strayed into "secure airspace" as an example of "the crisis of legitimacy of the State." "When the same people who have sent our kids to die in Iraq and left our borders wide open run in panic because of a Cessna, the American people get the message: Washington is 'them,' not 'us,'" he pointed out.

Thousands of Americans, both young and not-so-young, have been left dead, limbless, sightless, or mindless because of the actions of soft-handed, soft-bellied servants of the State. That same ruling elite is quietly preparing to re-instate the draft, now that the pool of willing enlistees is drying up. Just as it happened almost a century ago, the drive to re-institute conscription – which is to say, War Communism – is shielded by a curtain of blasé assurances from the political class, and pseudo-populist rhetoric from George Creel's contemporary disciples.

While the children of the poor and working class are the ones who make up the grunts who come back in body bags, the children of the rich and powerful rarely ever join the military, and those very, very few who do have their paths greased for them, they go directly to positions of leadership miles out of harms way. These are the ones who come home to heroes welcomes and go on to hold public office and other important positions.

"The Army/Marines don't send in helicopters anymore (although I guess that would have been the Air Force), they send in race cars. Earlier this semester they parked a "real" Nascar car in the parking lot of my school, and teachers were forced to let students out of class if they requested to leave. Basically, everyone who wanted to skip class got to ask the teachers to leave, and was able to skip as long as they skipped in the parking lot around the car.

They gave out free t-shirts and wrist bands and whatnot to people if they played some game, or did a certain amount of push-ups/pull-ups. They also conveniently had contracts to sign up all the JROTC kids who hadn't already signed up, and anyone dumb enough to not realize what it was but sign it anyway.

Anyway, the point is, we were supposed to be so impressed by getting to sit in the driver's seat of a "real" Nascar car that we would sign up for active duty... and the schools forced it on us.

Later they sent people to each class room with little sheets of paper and all of us students were supposed to fill out contact information so the army could call us up, and e-mail us, and send us letters asking us whether we would be interested in joining the army (which kind of defeats the purpose of signing up for selective service when you are 18, since that is usually when you get phone calls from recruiters). I filled out the card with no information (for instance; NAME: My Friends call me , BIRTHDAY: already had it, TELEPHONE #: I don't give it out to strangers)."

The Crux of our Endless War on Terror

By Glenn Greenwald

As I wrote last week, the Obama administration finally purported to defend its presidential assassination program aimed at American citizens, when Obama's Director of the National Counterterrorism Center, Michael Leiter, offered patently misleading claims to justify it. Yesterday, Newsweek's Michael Isikoff posed several good questions to Leiter about this program and the "War on Terror" generally -- several of which are themes raised often here -- and Leiter's responses compellingly illustrate the utter illogic and counter-productive nature of our Terrorism and war policies.

First, Isikoff noted that CIA Director Leon Panetta said that there are at most 100 Al Qaeda members in Afghanistan -- which led Fareed Zakaria, with great understatement, to suggest that our nine-year war there seemed "disproportionate" to the ostensible problem -- and then asked Leiter how many Al Qaeda members are in Pakistan:

Leiter: I think [CIA director] Leon Panetta said on Sunday, and I agree with him, that in Afghanistan, you have a certain number, a relatively small number, 50 to 100. I think we have in Pakistan a larger number.

Q: How many?

Leiter: Upwards --more than 300, I would say.

So between Afghanistan and Paksitan combined, there are a few hundred Al Qeada members total. All of this ongoing war and those hundreds of billions of dollars spent and those deaths and the decade of occupation, and those bombings and shootings and drone attacks and lawless prisons and habeas-stripping court precedents: it's all (ostensibly) for a few hundred extremists total hiding in remote tribal areas. A few hundred. Making matters so much worse is this:

Q: Isn't it true that in almost every one of the big cases where there's been attempted attacks on the U.S., the individuals involved -- Faisal Shahzad, Najibullah Zazi -- have said they were motivated to go abroad to learn how to attack the United States by the [military] actions we are taking now in Afghanistan and in Pakistan to try to defeat Al Qaeda there?

Leiter: Well I certainly will not try to argue that some of our actions have not led to some people being radicalized. I think that's a given . . . That doesn't mean you don't do it. That means you craft a fuller strategy to explain why you're doing that and try to minimize the likelihood that individuals are going to be radicalized.

Actually, the recent attempted Terrorists referenced by Isikoff have said they were motivated by more than just our actions in Pakistan and Afghanistan; several have cited our attack on Iraq, our support for Israeli aggression, lawless prisons and torture. Still, not only are we engaged in a nine-year-and-counting, highly destructive war and bombing campaign in that region all for a few hundred fighters, but Leiter concedes (as has been recognized by the U.S. Government for years) that those actions have the opposite effect of what is supposedly intended: namely, these actions are what motivate so much of the very Terrorism (especially the recent Terrorism) that is cited to justify those policies.

Worse still, not only is our policy of endless war wildly disproportionate and counter-productive, but it provides the pretext for endless civil liberties abuses. Here is what Leiter boasts after being asked about the Obama administration's targeting of U.S. citizens for assassination who have been charged with nothing: "Just to be clear, the U.S. government through the Department of Defense goes out and attempts to target and kill people, a lot of people, who haven't been indicted." Indeed it does. And then Isikoff asked him about the extreme contradiction of the Democratic Party which I've raised over and over in every forum I could:

Q. When the Bush administration declared Jose Padilla, a U.S. citizen, an enemy combatant, stripped him of all his legal rights, and threw him in a military brig, there was an enormous outcry from the civil liberties community. Here, the Obama administration is going one better than that; they're saying, "We can kill this guy. We can take him out." And there's been very little public debate about how that decision was made. Doesn't the government at least owe a [fuller] explanation of how it's reaching these decisions?

Leiter: I absolutely agree with you. These are tough issues that require a full and open debate. That may not mean there's a full and open debate about an individual . . . because there are sensitive sources and methods involved. . . . But I will tell you from my perspective as director of the National Counterterrorism Center, if someone like Anwar al-Awlaki is responsible for part of an operation to kill more than 300 people over the city of Detroit, I think it would be wholly irresponsible . . . not to at least think about and potentially direct all elements of national power to try to defend the American people.

In other words: when we decide that an American citizen is Guilty of Terrorism, there is no need for a trial, or due process, or even any public presentment of evidence. It suffices that we have concluded this in secret, with no checks or external review. Once we decide that, the death penalty is imposed and we will execute it ourselves. We are literally Judge, Jury and Executioner. And, despite the fact that we have been continuously wrong in our accusations of Terrorism and have even knowingly imprisoned innocent people, you'll just take our word for it, on blind faith, that the citizen we want to kill is really an Evil Terrorist. Yes, it's true that you refused to accept that same rationale when the Bush administration used it merely to eavesdrop on or detain American citizens -- in fact, you screeched that those less extreme policies were tyranny and a shredding of the Constitution when they did it -- but you should nonetheless accept this mentality when we use it to murder your fellow citizens who have never even been charged with any crime.

And that seems to be fine with our political class. All because there are a few hundred people hiding in caves in remote tribal areas who are really, really Scary: who will get you if don't acquiesce to endless war, the transfer of enormous amounts of money to fight those wars, and the most unlimited and unchecked government powers imaginable. And even when they come right out and say that this is all about nothing more than a few hundred people -- many of whom are motivated by the very violence we're perpetrating -- it changes very little. Fear is an extremely potent motivating force, overwhelming all reason and skepticism of power. That's why political leaders -- in all eras and all places -- like it and use it so much.

Last but not least: Actually, probably the most important clue that reveals the true evil behind the military is the fact that the PENTAGON, the CENTER of our military industrial complex was designed, built and centered upon the basis of the center of a SATANIC PENTAGRAM. Making the Pentagon building a PERFECT occult portal to the underworld, a perfect gateway for Satan's direct influence.

Symbolism is a key part of the satanic occult, symbolism is a key component of their occult magick rituals and practices. The true rulers of this world are Luciferian agents here on earth who keep this world flowing in blood baths of conflicts, invasion, occupation, and wars all the while proclaiming to do so in the name of "peace" are the wolves in sheep's clothing. The alleged ministries of "peace" are actually satan's vehicles of death and destruction here on earth.

THE MEDICAL CARTEL INDUSTRIAL MATRIX:

BIG PHARMAKEIA - SATAN'S SORCERERS

THE TRUSTED OVERLORDS OF YOUR HEALTH WHO POISON YOUR MIND

"There will be in the next generation or so a pharmacological method of making people love their servitude and producing dictatorship without tears so to speak. Producing a kind of painless concentration camp for entire societies so that people will in fact have their liberties taken away from them, but will rather enjoy it, because they will be distracted from any desire to rebel by propoganda, or brainwashing, or brainwashing enhanced by pharmacological methods. And this seems to be the final revolution." - Aldous Huxley, Tavistock Group, California Medical School, 1961

I will begin this chapter exposing this section of the Matrix with a sort of forward. Here is an excerpt from Trudeau's book that I feel compelled to include here due to its honest relevant intro to this sector:

My contention is that there are all-natural cures for virtually every disease and ailment. These cures are being suppressed and hidden from you by the pharmaceutical industry, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Federal Trade Commission, as well as other groups. The question that arises most often when I make these statements is, "What is the motive for such a thing to occur?" The answer is simple: money and power. Most people have no idea just how powerful a motivating force money and power can be. Money does indeed make the world go round. The love of money, which is the definition of greed, is in fact the root of all evil. Think about some obvious facts. Ninety percent of all people in prison today are there because of a money-related crime. Interesting, isn't it? Money is such a powerful force people will risk going to jail for it. Seventy-five percent of all murders are committed for money. People's insatiable desire to have money actually drives them to kill another human being!

All publicly traded corporations have a legal responsibility to increase profits, it's the law! Think about it: With rare exception, every single business has one objective – to make more profits. The only way companies make more profits is by producing their product at the lowest possible cost, selling it at the highest possible price, and selling as much as they can. Every decision a company makes is to increase profits.

Companies, however, are run by people. People have two motivations –first, to make more money for themselves personally; and, second, to increase their power, prestige, or influence. Therefore, the individuals who run companies will always make decisions based on what can personally enrich themselves. Very few individuals are concerned about the good of mankind, the environment, or achieving some spiritual nirvana. To varying degrees, decisions are based on the answer to the question, "What's in it for me?"

In business, is everything always about the money? Yes. Throughout the history of big business, planned obsolescence has been standard operating procedure. This is when a product is manufactured in such a way so that it will wear out or need to be replaced. The product could have been made to last a very long time; but in order for the company to ensure future profits, it knowingly manufactured an item that was inherently flawed. Thus it planned for the product's obsolescence, all in the name of the profit.

In today's business environment, companies only do things that either increase sales, decrease the cost of the product, or guarantee a higher price for the product. A simplified example of this can be seen with restaurants that are located in airports. The restaurant has a monopoly, there is no competition. Since the restaurant has a monopoly has no competition, it does not have to give good-quality food, good service, or a fair price. Have you ever gotten a great meal with service at a great price at an airport restaurant? I sure haven't. Why? Because they don't have to. Giving good service and a good product at a fair price will not increase profit at an airport restaurant because they are not relying on repeat customers. Another example is outsourcing. Why are hundreds of companies laying off millions of American workers and outsourcing this work to people in other countries? Because it's cheaper! Remember the corporate officers and directors of publicly traded companies have a legal responsibility to increase profits. If they don't they will lose their jobs. Big business will always make decisions based on profit, not what is good for the employees, what is good for the customer, what is good for the environment, what is good for society or what is good for mankind.

Let's look at the drug industry. Let's say you sell insulin to diabetics. Would you be happy if someone discovered an herb that when taken cured a person's diabetes so they never needed insulin again? Of course not. You would be out of business. As an interesting note, there is such a cure for diabetes. The person who discovered it was offered over $30 million by a major pharmaceutical company not to market it! It's all about the money.

Health care, defined as the treatment, prevention, and diagnosis of disease, is the most profitable industry in the world. As long as people are sick, billions and billions of dollars in profit are made every year. Think about it. There are enormous amounts of money to be made as long as people stay sick. A healthy person, on the other hand, doesn't spend any money on the health-care industry. A healthy person does not need to buy drugs, does not get medical treatment, and is a liability to the corporations involved in health care. If every person was healthy and disease-free, the drug companies and virtually the entire health-care industry would be out of business. To the drug companies and virtually all the corporations involved in health care, you are nothing more than a customer. As long as you are sick you are potentially a good customer. There is no financial incentive for the health-care industry in having people live disease-free. There is no financial incentive to prevent or cure disease. Rather, the entire health-care industry is driven by one overshadowing motive: to make money! The entire health-care industry is run by individual people in the form of officers and directors of the publicly traded corporations that make up the industry. These people are, with rare exception, some of the most ruthless, wealthiest, and greediest people on the planet. Is this true? Let's examine a fictitious—or maybe not so fictitious—scenario.

Imagine there is a scientist working in a lab somewhere. He makes a breakthrough discovery: A small plant is found in the Amazon that, when made into a tea and consumed, eliminates all cancer in the body within one week. Imagine this researcher proclaiming that he has given this tea to one thousand cancer patients and that every single one of them, within one week and without having undergone surgery, was found to have absolutely no cancer in their body. Eureka! A cure for cancer! A simple, inexpensive, all-natural cure with no side effects. Just a simple that you make into tea and drink. It has absolutely no side effects at all. It's pure, all-natural, and costs just pennies.

Imagine this scientist announcing his discovery to the world. Certainly he would win a Nobel Prize. Certainly the world medical community would be rejoicing. No more cancer! Every cancer patient could drink this tea and in one week be free of all their cancer. Every person who lives with the fear of getting cancer could now know that they could simply drink a few cups of this tea, which costs them only a few pennies, and they could avoid ever getting cancer. My, my, the world would be a better place.

Unfortunately, you'll never hear this story. Not because the story is not true, but because if this simple herbal tea which cures all cancer was allowed to be sold, there would be no need for the American Cancer Society. There would be no need for any of the drug companies that are manufacturing and selling cancer drugs. There would be no need for any additional cancer research funding. Cancer clinics around the world will close, hundreds of thousands of people would be put out of work, entire industries would shut down overnight and billions and billions and billions of dollars in profit would no longer be funneling in to the kingpins who control the cancer industry.

So when this person makes this discovery, what happens? In some cases these people simply vanished. In other cases these people were given hundreds of millions of dollars for their research. In still other cases the federal government raided these researchers' offices, confiscated the data, and jailed the researchers for practicing medicine without a license. Is this fantasy or is this the truth? Well, the health-care industry has a dirty little secret, and I am blowing the whistle on it.

The conversations I've heard, the meetings I have attended, the papers that I've read, and the inside information that I have received about the health-care fraud going on in this world has made me mad as hell—and I'm not going to take it anymore. I've been dubbed "The Whistleblower" because I am blowing the whistle on the most profitable industry in the world: health care. I'm exposing the lies, the frauds, the scams. I'm letting the cat out of the bag.

Like other industries, once the truth has been made known, things begin to change.

Is it true that the health-care industry is holding back natural inexpensive cures for disease and illness? Could it be true that the only motivation in health care is profits? Let's just look at recent history.

We've all heard the stories of the inventors who had carburetors that would make automobiles run a thousand miles to a gallon of gasoline. We've heard that the automobile industry paid off those inventors with millions of dollars to secure the patents and then buried those patents and never used that technology. Why? Because it would cost the automotive industry billions of dollars in profits

We all know the story of how the big three automobile manufacturers purchased the Redline Train System in California, only to dismantle it to make sure that more automobiles were sold. Most people don't know that a lawsuit was filed regarding this obvious antitrust issue and the "big three" were found guilty! Corruption runs deep. In this case it was evidenced by the judge awarding the plaintiffs an insulting $1 in damages! That's right, just $1! The big three automakers obviously paid off the right people to make sure that there was no consequences to their illegal actions

Most recently, many of you have seen the movie The Insider or read the book about how for years the tobacco industry lied about their knowledge that the ingredients in cigarettes were highly addictive. Finally, an insider blew the whistle and told the truth. He exposed, finally, what we assumed was true, that the research was conclusive, cigarettes are addictive, and that the manufacturers of cigarettes knew this for years and years and years but lied before Congress and said that they "have no knowledge" or "credible scientific evidence" that cigarettes are addictive. It was a flat-out lie. Why did they lie? Money. It's all about the money!

I happen to be a capitalist and an entrepreneur. Throughout my life I have been motivated to make money. Money itself is not bad. Making money and profits is not bad. It becomes bad when it becomes greed. Making money becomes very bad when you "love money." Making money and profits is very bad when you hurt your employees, lie and deceive your customers, destroy the environment, exploit workers, illegally drive competitors out of business, and purposely sell inferior products and services. When you put money above everything else, that is when making money is a problem. Money should be used and people loved. The problem is that money is loved and people used!

We have heard the phrase, "The love of money is the root of all evil." The more multimillionaires I talk to, the more billionaires I talk to, the more Wall Street insiders I talk to, the more CEOs of major corporations I talk to, the more big business corporation directors I talk to, the more politicians I talk to, the more I believe that the love of money is indeed the root of all evil. I can tell you from firsthand experience that the majority of officers and directors of major publicly traded corporations are greedy beyond belief and corrupt beyond belief! Making money becomes an addiction. Making more money becomes the all-consuming compulsive motivator of these people. Making money becomes the most important in these people's lives. Making money and doing whatever it takes to make more money becomes the chief motivation in virtually all their decisions and actions. If making more money means breaking the laws, destroying the environment, or seeing other people suffer, it's okay. Don't believe me? Let me point out a few examples.

There is something deeply wrong and profoundly troubling about an industry that markets itself as existing for YOUR best interests yet virtually EVERYTHING they do and all their corporate decisions are PROFIT/GREED MOTIVATED. The bottom line with ALL FOR PROFIT MEDICAL COMPANIES is that they are just that: profit seeking corporations with stock holders who all expect great profits year after year after year. Thus they have all fallen into the same protocol as all for profit enterprises: by law making more money and PROFITS is THE MOST IMPORTANT GOAL and REASON OF EXISTENCE in the first place. If any industry should wholly be converted to non-profit class overnight, this one would be it.

20 Signs That The Health Care Industry Has Become All About Making As Much Money As Possible

Once upon a time in America, people became doctors and nurses because they wanted to help people, building hospitals was a labor of love, lawyers didn't chase ambulances, health insurance companies did not openly abuse their customers and greedy pharmaceutical companies did not dominate the entire health care industry. But today all of that has changed. Why do most people choose a career in the health care industry today? It is because they want to make a lot of money and live a comfortable lifestyle. Why do most health facilities get built today? They get built because someone is hoping to make a huge profit. Why do so many lawyers specialize in medical malpractice? Here's a hint - it is not because they want to make life better for people. Why do health insurance companies keep raising premiums even while they are making record profits? It is because they can and because they are greedy. Why are pharmaceutical corporations some of the most profitable companies on the face of the earth even though their products are harming tens of millions of people? It is because our health care system has become wildly corrupt and is now about making as much money as possible.

Not that everyone in the health care industry is motivated by greed. Some doctors and nurses volunteer a ton of their time to assist the poor and the needy. Others use their vacation time to go overseas and provide free medical care in third world nations. Many religious groups and non-profit organizations build hospitals and clinics because they are truly trying to help people. And there are a few health insurance companies that are trying to play the game honestly.

But unfortunately, those with noble intentions in the health care industry are the exception rather than the rule. Overall, the health care industry in America is all about the money, and it is about time that we quit pretending otherwise.

The following are 20 signs that the health care industry in the United States has become all about making as much money as possible....

- 1 - Even as the rest of the U.S. economy deeply struggles, America's health insurance companies increased their profits by 56 percent in 2009.
- 2 - According to a report by Health Care for America Now, America's five biggest for-profit health insurers ended 2009 with a combined profit of $12.2 billion.
- 3 - The top executives at the five largest for-profit health insurance companies in the United States received nearly $200 million in total compensation in 2009.
- 4 - According to an article on the Mother Jones website, health insurance premiums for small employers in the United States increased 180% between 1999 and 2009.
- 5 - Health insurance premium increases are getting totally out of control. For example, the 39% increase in health insurance premiums that Anthem Blue Cross imposed on some California customers last year was so obscene that it made national headlines.
- 6 - Since 2003, health insurance companies have shelled out more than $42 million in state-level campaign contributions.

7 - There were more than two dozen pharmaceutical companies that made over a billion dollars in profits in 2008.

8 - Each year, tens of billions of dollars is spent on pharmaceutical marketing in the United States alone.

9 - Nearly half of all Americans now use prescription drugs on a regular basis according to a CDC report that was just released. According to the report, approximately one-third of all Americans use two or more pharmaceutical drugs, and more than ten percent of all Americans use five or more prescription drugs on a regular basis.

10 - According to the CDC, approximately three quarters of a million people a year are rushed to emergency rooms in the United States because of adverse reactions to pharmaceutical drugs.

11 - According to a very surprising new study, 85 percent of new pharmaceutical drugs are "lemons" and pose serious health risks to their users.

12 - The Food and Drug Administration reported 1,742 prescription drug recalls in 2009, which was a gigantic increase from 426 drug recalls in 2008.

13 - Shocking new research has found that expectant mothers taking antidepressants have an astounding 68 percent increase in the overall risk of miscarriage. Yet the pharmaceutical companies are essentially doing nothing to stop this.

14 - The use of psychiatric medications among 18 to 34 year old members of the U.S. military and their wives increased by 42 percent between 2005 and 2009.

15 - There are some disturbing new medical studies that suggest that many of the most popular anti-depressant drugs are no more effective than a placebo.

16 - Pharmaceutical companies continue to rake in billions of dollars from selling vaccines and are encouraging even pregnant women to take them, even though there is mounting evidence that taking vaccines while pregnant dramatically increases the rate of miscarriage.

17 - One woman in New Hampshire is seeking more than $24 million in damages from the manufacturer of a prescription drug that she took for shoulder pain. It turns out that as a result of taking the drug, she is now blind and has been left scarred by internal and external burns.

18 - According to one stunning new study, the medical liability system in the United States added approximately $55.6 billion to the cost of health care in 2008.

19 - Pharmaceutical companies have become so greedy that now they are even attempting to patent our genes. It is being reported that over three million gene patent applications have been filed with the U.S. government so far. Tens of thousands of gene patents have already been granted at this point. It is estimated that companies hold approximately 40,000 patents on sections of the human genome right now. Those patents cover approximately 20% of our genes.

20 - According to a recent report, Americans spend about twice as much as residents of other developed countries on health care, but get much lower quality and far less efficiency in return.

Here is a perfect example of how the pharmaceutical conglomerates are routinely RAPING the people and this country:

$928 for a Bag of Salt: How Drugmakers Rip Off Taxpayers

By Jim Edwards | November 2, 2010

The most surprising thing about Louisiana's new drug pricing lawsuit is the allegation, buried on page 12, that Baxter International (BAX) sold salt and sugar to Medicaid for $928 a bag. That fact alone tells you all you need to know about why healthcare costs in the U.S. are going up when they could be coming down: The law allows drug companies to rook state Medicaid and federal Medicare programs by preventing the agencies from negotiating drug prices:

Instead, both institutions must take a price based on the "average wholesale price" of a drug. Naturally, drug companies have developed a number of complicated schemes to make sure that the reported AWP is as high as possible while the actual price is made much lower, usually through a series of rebates. Medicaid and Medicare reimburse at the high rate and wholesalers pocket the difference. Drug companies strategize around that difference so that it functions like a kickback to wholesalers.

Baxter was probably selling saline solution and dextrose solution, in intravenous drip bags. They're a little more difficult to produce and package than tabletop salt and sugar, but not much. The AWP of saline (to rehydrate patients) and dextrose (for acute hypoglycemia) is just $1.71 to $2.75 a bag. That's a 41,000 percent markup, Louisiana claims.

It's also interesting to note that Baxter was one of at least three generic drug makers named as defendants in the suit. (Among the others were Watson (WPI) and Ranbaxy.) Usually it's the large, branded drugmakers who bear the brunt of pricing litigation. This time it's the generic makers, whose products are often sold at pennies per pill. Even the discount sellers can allegedly play this game, it seems.

Louisiana spends $850 million a year on Medicaid. It would cost taxpayers nothing if the law was changed to allow states and the federal government to negotiate more aggressively. It would only lead to savings and lowered public spending on healthcare. Washington, unfortunately, is so broken that there is bipartisan agreement that such a change will never be made, which is why healthcare reform was passed without such a provision.

My research into this area of the matrix began by accident, or as I prefer to think of it: God lead me down this path... My entire life I trusted my doctors, with, umm, well: with my life. I was already questioning many aspects of what I know refer to as the matrix, but never in my wildest dreams did I even think that even this sector was sold-out. Never once did I ever question a doctor's authority, knowledge, diagnosis or what they told me to take or do. It wasn't until one fateful day that I had to go to my doctors to "have something taken care of" (sorry but again I cannot get into real details for there are people out there trying to figure out my real identity so that they can have me "neutralized"). Well this doctor did some tests and a week later he told me I was in critical condition and I was going to DIE! Wow! I had a condition that millions upon millions of people have, I would also have to get surgery to fix one of the things that were wrong, he also gave me about half a dozen prescriptions that I was supposed to take "for the rest of my life" and scheduled a bunch of tests with specialists.

This is where things began to get interesting... I began to take the medicine and was transformed into what I like to call a walking talking zombie. The medication put me into a deep stupor, my mind was in a constant fog, where I would be walking toward the kitchen like a zombie, forget what I went to the kitchen for, turn around back to the living room and forget what I was watching on TV. I would often sit there thinking "this is not right" I couldn't remember anything. Some of those pills tasted so bad I remember thinking "this stuff tastes like poison." I had to FIGHT real hard to formulate cohesive thoughts. After a week living in "la la land" one day I woke up and decided I rather die than continue living this way. I was going to stop taking those drugs and live my life to the fullest enjoying my "last days." So I took all my medication, all $500 worth (oh yes, I was supposed to now afford coming up with an extra $500 every month to zombify myself) and threw them in the garbage. For months prior to this point in time I kept seeing this stupid annoying infomercial guy on TV appearing every single night hawking some book about "Natural Cures they Don't Want You to Know About." I thought he was an idiot, but on the same night after ceasing to take the ~~poisons~~ ummm, “medication”, I saw the infomercial again, I thought “hey let me type the title of that book into my Google search engine and let’s see what kind of natural cures might be out there, I research everything else on the planet using the internet, why not this? That is the day my entire life changed yet again.

I found many websites discussing natural remedies and supplements. I did my research and developed my own NATURAL SUPPLIMENT regiment to replace the poisons my doctor prescribed. The natural supplements cost a mere fraction of the drugs I was told to take for the rest of my life. The natural supplements did have one MAJOR side effect: I awoke everyday full of energy I hadn’t felt in years! I had pep back in my life I never realized I lost until it was back! A month later I was required to return for follow up visits and took more tests... this time my vitals were back to almost normal levels... I will never forget when my doctor asked me if I was still taking the medication, I smiled and said “sure doc.”

This life threatening episode was the catalyst initiating my research into the medical field and natural remedies. Low and behold, the more I researched, the more I realized that the medical field was ALSO a key element of a major world level “matrix” of corporations running our lives. Gosh, there had to be a name for all these people, corporations, institutions and entities who collectively own control and decide what has been, what is, is not, and will be. It was as if all of them co-existed in some type of intricate strategic MATRIX... Thus the notion of, and my research into this “matrix” began to take shape.

We live in the most technologically advanced society ever on the planet earth. Our country stands at the forefront of many medical advancements. Yet our society is ever increasingly plagued by millions upon millions of people becoming sick with stranger and stranger illnesses eventually becoming in dire need of medical help! Then on the other hand millions of them end up in the dilemma of not being able to afford treatment as the icing on the cake. In some form or another, a major portion of our civilization has some sort of ailment. And of course our “benevolent” profit driven medical establishment is there to provide us with literally thousands of different expensive patented drugs for each one of those ailments. It will cost you though. Empty your bank account and they can fix you right up (as long as you don’t stop taking their “medications” i.e.: drugs, i.e.: poisons). “Take this or that drug for the rest of your life and you should be fine.” (not to mention the fact that every drug in existence creates side effects that require medicating yourself with more drugs in a never ending cycle).

If I Were Satan

by Jim Lynn

If you were Satan and your goal is to destroy as many lives as you could, what are the two institutions you could attack that would destroy more lives than wars and natural disasters combined? Here's what I would do:

Phase One: Medicine

If I were Satan, I would capture the medical industry and make it mine. For what other of man's institutions could potentially inflict more harm?

I would infiltrate medical colleges and teach students to treat disease symptoms, rather than teach them how to heal the sick.

I would teach medical students that chronic disease is the result of natural manifestation, and disclaim any correlation between disease and one's spiritual state of being.

I would create chemical drugs with lethal side effects, and tell medical students they must use only my drugs to treat their patients disease symptoms. I would tell students that natural substances can be harmful to the body and should not be used or trusted for treatment of the sick.

I would find greedy men who could care less about the well-being of people, and set up a drug enterprise designed to keep sick people sick. I would advertise my drugs on TV so people will ask their doctors to prescribe them.

I would take natural body conditions like pregnancy, acid reflux, hormonal imbalance, sinus infections, high blood pressure, digestive disorders, osteoporosis, diabetes and make them a disease. That way, I could find more uses for my drugs.

I would be clever when using medical terms, so people will begin to believe their body cannot be trusted. I would use terms like, heart attack, spastic colon, and kidney failure.

Next I would mislead patients into believing they have a disease discovered through diagnosis; when in truth all they received is a specific diagnosis with a name. This will make it sound like the doctor has found a disease, and people can be "diagnosed" just in time to take a new drug of mine for the rest of their life.

Next I would use man's government to protect my medical interests and drug industry. I would set up a Food and Drug Administration, and use it to deny citizens any form of real healing. I would use this FDA to my advantage by making it unlawful for anyone to make health claims without scientific proof. Of course, I would also control the researchers, and medical doctors who publish results of research, so results are kept in my favor.

I would refuse my agents to investigate any claims that suggest a correlation between vaccines and disease and death rates.

Phase Two: Church

If I were Satan, I would fill pulpits in churches with pastors who teach that God no longer heals the sick like people read about in the Bible. I would have these pastors teach that healing must be instantaneous to be called a miracle.

I would disguise the original meanings of the words "heal," and "save" recorded in the Bible, so their full, true meaning and application is not understood.

I would put fear of persecution and public ridicule in the hearts of church leaders were they to teach that God actively intervenes in this physical world.

In this way I can deny God's glory of healing by those who bear the mark of His Spirit and wear the name of His Son.

Over time, there will be very little knowledgeable and effective spiritual resistance to my induced sicknesses and disease. People will come to put more faith in medical knowledge than in the God of knowledge.

In this way, I can kill many millions of people because most people are raised up to respect the word and advise of medical doctors and preachers.

If I were Satan and wanted to destroy as many lives as I could, this is what I would do and how I would do it.

The ultimate epitome of irony in this society is the externally seemingly largely acceptable norm of cigarette smoking and its draconian world leading SERIAL KILLER industry that has co-existed alongside legit forms of industry. On one hand our society battles death and disease while on the other hand they fully embrace the BEAST of BEASTS who is allowed to legally run rampant murdering MILLIONS UPON MILLIONS of victims annually, in broad daylight, in your face.

According to the British Medical Journal, Ron Law of New Zealand's Ministry of Health Working Group stated, "Put another way, more than 5 million people have been killed by Western medical practice in the past decade (Europe, USA, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand) and 20 million permanently maimed." Mr. Law also asked the question, "Sounds like a war zone doesn't it?"

The American Medical Association, which for almost 150 years has sought to institutionalize a rip-off and to keep sick people and their families oblivious to it. Thanks to this central committee of the medical cartel, the number of medical schools and medical students is drastically restricted, state licensure further obstructs the supply of doctors, fees are largely secret and controlled across the industry, alternative treatments and practitioners are outlawed, pharmacists and nurses are hamstrung, and the mystique of the profession rivals the priesthood, although priests have a somewhat lower income...

...The American Medical Association, organized in New York in 1848, advanced two seemingly innocent propositions in its early days: that all doctors should have a "suitable education" and that a "uniform elevated standard of requirements for the degree of M.D. should be adopted by all medical schools in the U.S." These were part of the AMA's real program, which was openly discussed at its conventions and in the medical journals: to secure a government-enforced medical monopoly and high incomes for mainstream doctors....

...To help bring about a higher-paid profession, the AMA in 1904 created the Council on Medical Education, which sought to shut down more than half the existing medical schools by rating them on a scale of A to C. In cooperation with state medical boards composed of what Arthur Dean Boran, head of the council, called the "right sort of men," the AMA succeeded in cutting the number of schools to 131 by 1910, from a high of 166.

Then the council's secretary N.P. Colwell helped plan (and some say write) the famous 1910 report by Abraham Flexner. Flexner, the owner of a bankrupt prep school, had the good fortune to have a brother, Simon, who was director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. At his brother's suggestion, Abraham Flexner was hired by the Rockefeller-allied Carnegie Foundation so that the report would not be seen as a Rockefeller initiative. And Carnegie, whose main goal was to "rationalize" higher education, that is, replace religion with science, saw the AMA cartelization drive as useful. Claiming to have investigated nearly every school in the country, Flexner rated them on suitability. Schools he praised received lush grants from the Rockefeller and associated foundations, and almost all the medical schools he condemned were shut down, especially the "commercial" institutions. AMA-dominated state medical boards ruled that in order to practice medicine, a doctor had to graduate from an approved school. Post-Flexner, a school could not be approved if it taught alternative therapies, didn't restrict the number of students, or made profits based on student fees.

Why the opposition to for-profit schools? If an institution were supported by student fees rather than philanthropic donations, it could be independent of the foundations. The Rockefeller family had invested heavily in allopathic drug companies and wanted doctors to use their products...

...With its monopoly, the AMA sought to fix prices. Early on, the AMA had come to the conclusion that it was "unethical" for the consumer to have any say over what he paid. Common prices were transmuted into professional "fees," and the AMA sought to make them uniform across the profession. Lowering fees and advertising them were the worst violations of medical ethics and were made illegal. When fees were raised across the board, as they frequently could be with decreased competition, it was done in secret. [Excerpts from Medical Control, Medical Corruption]

This industry is a poster child example of the corrupt immoral sick twisted policies governing our once great nation. Bottom-line is the only reason that the medical industry is allowed to even exist in it's current form is multipronged: 1) it is a highly profitable multi-billion dollar revenue stream. 2) Run by the elite brethren who seek to CULL the goyim population anyway. 3) The millions upon millions of sick and dying then become central CUSTOMERS to the even bigger treatment scams such as the Cancer Treatment Racket. The PROFIT$ from this union made in hell are astronomical.

When you sit down and really contemplate the dynamics of the very existence of the tobacco industry, one of sound mind cannot help but be totally flabbergasted at the outright defiance of all logic, reason and laws of defense of precious life. Study the tobacco industry and you will find THE ROSETTA STONE on conning the world. The massive and intricate networks of reputable SCIENTISTS and DOCTORS who've sold their souls and pounded out thousands of "scientific studies and reports" in support of the serial killer tobacco industry PROVES that if you throw enough money at anything, no matter how illogical, how evil and against every law of science, even supporting the most blatantly evil killers, you can make it out to be a gift from heaven.

The modern for profit enterprises of the ruling elite have been corrupting the very nature of science itself when they routinely conduct biased predisposed studies and present their "findings" as truth to lend credence to false realities being hyped to justify whatever new program, agenda or item it is they are currently pushing on the gullible unsuspecting public.

Below are a couple sample articles (out of thousands) about on just one of the large pharma corporate serial killers:

Pfizer: The Drug Giant That Makes Bank from Drugs That Can Kill You

To say that Pfizer has been accused of wrongdoing is like saying BP had an oil spill.

By Martha Rosenberg, July 10, 2010

The drug company Pfizer is best known for Lipitor, a drug that brings cholesterol down and Viagra, a drug that brings other things up.

But the "world's largest research-based pharmaceutical company" which sits between Goldman Sachs and Marathon Oil on the Fortune 500, is also closely associated with a seemingly never-ending series of scandals.

To say Pfizer's been accused of wrongdoing is like saying BP had an oil spill. Other drug companies have a portfolio of products, Pfizer has a portfolio of scandals including, but not limited to, Chantix, Lipitor, Viagra, Geodon, Trovan, Bextra, Celebrex, Lyrica, Zoloft, Halcion and drugs for osteoarthritis, Parkinson's disease, kidney transplants and leukemia.

During one week in June Pfizer 1) agreed to pull its 10-year-old leukemia drug Mylotarg from the market because it caused more, not less patient deaths 2) Suspended pediatric trials of Geodon two months after the FDA said children were being overdosed 3) Suspended trials of tanezumab, an osteoarthritis pain drug, because patients got worse not better, some needing joint replacements (pattern, anyone?) 4) Was investigated by the House for off-label marketing of kidney transplant drug Rapamune and targeting African-Americans 5) Saw a researcher who helped established its Bextra, Celebrex and Lyrica as effective pain meds, Scott S Reuben, MD, trotted off to prison for research fraud 6) was sued by Blue Cross Blue Shield to recoup money it overpaid for Bextra and other drugs 7) received a letter from Sen. Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) requesting its whistleblower policy and 8) had its appeal to end lawsuits by Nigerian families who accuse it of illegal trials of the antibiotic Trovan in which 11 children died, rejected by the Supreme Court. And how was your week?

Nor does Pfizer back down when faced with legal troubles.

Even as it was under the probation of a 5-year Corporate Integrity Agreement (CIA) with Health and Human Services for withholding $20 million in Lipitor rebates owed to Medicaid in 2002, it off-label marketed its seizure drug Neurontin and entered into another CIA in 2004.

Worse, it bought Warner-Lambert in 2000, which made Neurontin, knowing the drug's marketing practices were under criminal investigation. (And knowing its Rezulin had been withdrawn.)

And even as it entered into its 2004 CIA for Neurontin, it was off-label marketing the seizure drug Lyrica, called Son of Neurontin, and three other meds, and had to enter into a third CIA, last year's $2.3 billion Bextra settlement which was the largest health care fraud settlement in US history.

The same day the settlement news broke, Pfizer announced it bought the drug giant Wyeth despite its thicket of Fen-Phen heart valve suits and Prempro cancer suits.

And there was more "bring 'em on" chutzpah.

After Vioxx and Pfizer's Bextra were withdrawn from the market for cardiovascular risks, Pfizer sought FDA approval for its Celebrex, the last legal COX-2 inhibitor, also suspected of cardiovascular risks, for use in children as young as two.

And in June, days before Pfizer suspended development of the osteoarthritis drug tanezumab for worsening joints, it touted the drug as "well-tolerated."

As a company, Pfizer, based in New York City with research headquarters in Groton, CT, looks better from the outside than the inside. Its Pac-Man like acquisition of drug companies, Warner-Lambert, Pharmacia (Searle, Upjohn), SUGEN, Vicuron, Rinat and Wyeth (also creating the world's biggest animal drug company) has created a silo structure in which the company's 90,000 employees in 90 countries feel unconnected to a corporate heartbeat. Loyalty is rare as employees in absorbed companies bought for their products alone fear getting pfired and 14,000 scientists bemoan that the company's biggies like Lipitor, Celebrex, Neurontin, Zithromax, Zyrtec and now Wyeth's Prempro weren't created inhouse.

Despite flying doctors to Caribbean resorts to attend drug pitches (by other paid doctors) and bestowing four figure honorariums on them, and Enron moments like a Bextra sales extravaganza with acrobats, dancers and gigantic "fist" logo, Pfizer's Midtown Manhattan offices consist of unimpressive cubes.

After becoming the world's biggest drug company in 2000, Henry A. McKinnell, former Pfizer CEO and a Bushmate (replaced by less conservative Jeffrey B. Kindler) vowed to make Pfizer the "the world's most valued company to patients, to customers, to business partners, to colleagues, and to communities where we work and live." But thanks to the parade of damaging safety and ethics scandals, Esprit de corps is lacking except in some sales units.

"Pfizer is a black hole," Peter Rost, MD, author of The Whistleblower: Confessions of a Healthcare Hitman and probably Pfizer's most famous former employee told AlterNet. "It is nothing but a maze of cobbled together drug companies that aggressively markets drugs it didn't create in a military-like command structure."

Still, Pfizer's vast product line, its $50 billion a year revenues -- exceeding some states' entire budgets -- and reputation for having the best trained sales reps make it the team to beat for competing salesmen and examples of Pfizer envy dot Cafepharma, the drug industry chatroom considered pharma's washroom wall.

"Glad they did it," wrote a poster about last year's Department of Justice (DOJ) Bextra settlement. "Pfizer is only sticking it to the American person when they perpetrate a fraud (sic) of this magnitude. The rest of you who sat by and said nothing are no better than a bunch of crooks. My father always said, 'you lie, you cheat, you steal; you can't do one without doing them all'. You must be so proud...I would take that name badge off when I walk into an office if I were you."

"If you think that Pfizer is the only drug company that has dealt with off-label promotion issues you are sadly (sic) mistaken," perpetrated the next poster.

"You are so right. All the other companies are doing it, so we did too. Waaah, waaah, waaaaah! (stomping my foot). It's not fair! It made us so much money! Patients don't matter, money does," wrote the next poster.

Characterizations about wives and mothers followed.

Patients also resent Pfizer and have sued over Chantix, Lipitor, Celebrex, Bextra, Neurontin, Lyrica, Viagra, Zolof and other drugs. Pfizer downplayed Lipitor's "serious and irreversible side effects" says Mark Jay Krum, an attorney representing plaintiffs in a class-action suit, and "is willing to promote the drug at any cost." Say that.

Even the DOJ calls Pfizer incorrigible. "...illegal conduct was pervasive throughout the company and stemmed from messages created at high levels within the national marketing team," it wrote in the Bextra sentencing memo. "Employees, including district managers, explained that they did not question their supervisors about the illegal conduct that they were being instructed to carry out, because to do so would be considered a 'CLM' or 'Career Limiting Move.'"

Still the FDA needs to take some blame for waving iffy Pfizer drugs through, especially under the 1992 Prescription Drug User Fee Act (PDUFA) in which drug companies "buy" accelerated approvals.

Why did the FDA allow Pfizer to make money for ten years on the leukemia drug Mylotarg, which was given an accelerated approval, and allow people to take it as guinea pigs for ten years while "confirmatory" studies establishing its safety and efficacy were still outstanding? Patients who took Mylotarg while on chemotherapy had more deaths than those just on chemotherapy in a clear example of the lethal metrics of rushed through drugs.

Why was Pfizer's pain drug tanezumab, an injected monoclonal antibody made from bio-engineered immune cells, even considered for knee pain except for the profits in such Frakendrugs?

Why was Pfizer allowed to continue clinical trials on children, or anyone, after the FDA found Geodon overdoses in April -- and why is Geodon, rejected once by the FDA and promoted by Richard Borison MD who is in Hancock State Prison for research fraud -- hello -- on the market? Obama appointees Commissioner Margaret Hamburg, MD and principal deputy commissioner Joshua Sharfstein, MD come from public health backgrounds but it will be hard to turn the FDA ship around.

And speaking of dangerous drugs, what's up with Pfizer's anti-smoking drug Chantix?

In 2007, Texas musician Carter Albrecht, who played with Sorta and Edie Brickell & New Bohemians, became a poster boy for Chantix' unpredictable mental effects when he was fatally shot trying to kick in a neighbor's door. In 2008, with 988 adverse effects reported including seizures, heart trouble and suicides, the FDA banned airline pilots and air traffic controllers from taking it. Thanks for that. Last year it gave Chantix a black box warning to "highlight the risk of serious mental health events including changes in behavior, depressed mood, hostility, and suicidal thoughts when taking these drugs."

Most pharma watchers agree that financial penalties, including last year's $2.3 billion Bextra settlement, won't upend Pfizer whose one year budget for R & D alone is in the billions. Yet the DOJ repeatedly lets Pfizer pawn off guilty pleas to the False Claims Act (which include a ban on Medicare, Medicaid and VA eligibility) on its shell companies and keep doing business with the government. Why?

"Pfizer is the largest drug company in the world and if you include its generics unit it makes literally hundreds of different drugs. Getting tough would mean no Lipitor, no Viagra, no Bacitracin, no Cipro, no Zithromax, no Sutent, et cetera," says Jim Edwards, a pharmaceutical reporter on Bnet and former managing editor of Adweek. "The government is not really in a position to be cutting itself off from all that medicine."

"So many Medicaid, Medicare and VA drugs come from Pfizer, the government would never convict them," agrees Peter Rost. "It would stop the drug flow."

And then there's lobby power.

Just as former Louisiana Republican representative Billy Tauzin left the House Committee on Energy and Commerce which oversees the drug industry and resurfaced as head of PhRMA, Pfizer recently hired Gregory Simon who served on Obama's transition team and as chief domestic policy advisor to Vice President Gore to head its "global policy effort." Its senior corporate counsel until 2008, Arnold Friede, had an FDA background and Pfizer's former senior vice president for worldwide public affairs, Richard Bagger, has re-emerged as New Jersey Governor Christopher Christie's chief of staff. Hey, you guys look familiar!

Even the Bextra settlement arouses cynicism since $102 million of it went to a doctor and five former Pfizer reps who served as whistleblowers on the case, one getting $51 million.

Isn't making big money off pharma how the trouble started?

Modern medicine, i.e.: drugs are THE NUMBER ONE KILLER on the planet. More people die, develop all sorts of new conditions, get sick and have adverse reactions from Pharma industrial complex drugs than from any other means known to man... This is well documented FACT, due to limited space I can not provide the thousands of links to cases.

The tobacco racketeering gangsters are given the green light to kill millions without so much as batting an eye while on the other hand there are thousands of examples where the death of just a few people or even just ONE SINGLE PERSON is ROUTINELY USED AS PRETEXT TO INITIATE ALL SORTS OF MIND BOGGLING RESTRICTIVE LEGISLATION. Most laws and acts resulting from such limited events more often than not end up restricting the 99% of the population, evermore tightening the bondages that bind the feeble minded enslaved mortals.

The “Hazardous-Nutritional-Supplements” = Target of FDA Police Raids... yet:

Annual Deaths From:

FDA-Approved Drugs (1).....	60,000 - 140,000
Food Contamination (2).....	9,100
Aspirin (3).....	90
All vitamins (4).	0
Uncontaminated amino acids (4).....	0
Commercial herbs (4).....	0

FDA Barring Food Makers from Advertising Products as GMO-Free:

The FDA meanwhile appears to be enforcing a policy of barring food producers from trumpeting that their products don't contain genetically modified ingredients. According to the Washington Post, the FDA has sent a "flurry of enforcement letters" to companies that have advertised GMO-free products on their labels. The warnings come on top of existing policy not to require food makers to disclose if their products do contain GMOs. Congress member Dennis Kucinich said, "This, to me, raises questions about whose interest the FDA is protecting. They are clearly protecting industry, and not the public." – [\[source link\]](#)

These are just a couple examples out of literally THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS of documented cases that clearly reveal that the medical establishment is nothing what they pretend to be. If one were to compile a book with all the crazy and deadly things the medical establishment have done one of sound mind could only come up with one logical conclusion: the medical establishment is actually a satanic FRONT that is purposely poisoning the masses ever so subtly, little by little all under the guise that they are here to “help” you, “trust me” is their operational motto for you have been trained you entire life to never doubt or question the ~~witeh~~ doctors. Of course they save thousands of lives all the time, this is what adds the illusion of legitimacy to their racket and builds up unequivocal trust in them.

Prescription narcotics cause more deaths than both heroin and cocaine

by Mike Adams, the Health Ranger, Editor of NaturalNews.com, December 23, 2009

(NaturalNews) On the heels of the sudden death of celebrity actress Brittany Murphy people are once again raising the question of just how dangerous prescription drugs might really be.

Some are arguing, however, that street drugs are the real danger, not prescription drugs. But the following study demonstrates why prescription drugs are far more dangerous than illegal recreational drugs.

According to a new study conducted by physicians at St. Michael's Hospital and the Institute for Clinical Evaluative Sciences (ICES) in Toronto, the number of deaths due to prescription opioid use has doubled between 1991 and 2004. Following the introduction of oxycodone into Toronto's drug formulary in 2000, there has been a 500% increase in deaths due to the drugs.

Researchers reviewed over 7,000 files from the Office of the Chief Coroner in Ontario and found that between the years of 1991 and 2004, oxycodone prescriptions increased by more than 850 percent, representing about one-third of the opioid prescriptions given in 2006. (This is the largest prescription increase among all opioid drugs.)

Following the addition of this drug into the provincial drug benefit plan in 2000, deaths from opioid usage rose by 41 percent. Shockingly, deaths from prescription opioids like oxycodone were far greater than deaths from heroin. The vast majority of people who died from opioids had visited their doctor and received a prescription for the drug within a month of their death.

The total number of opioid-related deaths in Toronto in 2004 is estimated to be 27.2 per million people. Study authors said they hope to shed light on the tremendous dangers associated with prescription opioid drugs.

Coked up on prescription smack

It's the dirty little secret of the pharmaceutical industry: More people are killed by prescription opioids than all those killed by heroin and cocaine combined. And that probably even includes all the shootings of gang bangers in northern Mexico.

Prescription drug abuse is now more common than street drug abuse -- by far! And yet Big Pharma rakes in huge profits from all the patient addictions to their opioids. And by "opioids", what I mean is narcotics. They are, in fact, one and the same.

So of all the drug addicts in America today, you can divide them into two camps:

- 1) People addicted to street drugs.
- 2) People addicted to prescription drugs.

The people in group #1 (street drugs) are taken to jail where they are given prison sentences. People in group #2 (prescription drugs) are taken to their doctor where they are given prescription refills. It's all really the same narcotics, it's just that one group is legal and the other is illegal.

And what really determines whether a particular narcotic is legal or illegal? Whether or not Big Pharma profits from it. If Big Pharma makes money off the narcotics, they're considered legal.

Big Pharma, you see, earns tens of billions of dollars each year from drug addicts. And just by coincidence, it turns out that their prescription narcotics are extremely addicting, guaranteeing repeat business. The business model is so dang lucrative, you might think they were drug dealers...

Defying all logic of laws of continued existence the tobacco industry is THE preeminent case study that reveals a stunning lucid glimpse into the realm and inner workings of the ruling elite, exposing a myriad of their modus operandi, how they omit, misinform, lie, cheat, manipulate, deceive and murder by the MILLIONS yet walk away scot free, never prosecuted for their crimes, but instead go on to co-exist in high society and be protected by the very constituents they are murdering, laughing all the way to the bank. This must be one of the great dichotomies of the 20th century.

Sure they sometimes get slaps on the wrists to appease the unruly gentiles, more often than not they pay out a few billion here and there, drops in the bucket of the hundreds of billions of yearly profits. At the moment these words are being written I read a headline "Big Tobacco wants a deal." The story goes on: Tobacco industry lawyers met secretly with Solicitor General Elena Kagan in an effort to avoid the government's last-ditch attempt to extract billions from companies that illegally concealed the dangers of cigarette smoking, The Associated Press has learned... blah, blah, blah.

Of course this is all bullshit, because, just as the past is a wonderful indicator, nothing serious will ever befall these serial killer enterprises. Let's study this slap on the wrist discipline dog and pony show:

The first item that caught my eye was the name Elena Kagan, another devout Zionist Jew, Harvard and Oxford educated (studying her allegiances, alliances and connections, most definitely an elite insider) operative inside the Obama syndicate. The other name that shouted "Google me!" was the Judge presiding over this charade; U.S. District Judge Gladys Kessler, golly gee whiz, another devout Harvard educated Zionist crypto Jew (one time assistant to convicted Abscam scandal accomplice), her Jewish roots, like many key public Jewish leaders, was carefully hidden on the web, tracks erased, but I eventually found the missing links (her husband Arthur M. Mackwell, graduated from Zionist Jew Ivy league Zeta Beta Tau) that lead me directly to their Zionist Jewish roots. Knowing how these people roll, the article is not worth the paper it is written on, in the end, no matter what dog and pony show these agents produce for public consumption, entertainment and appeasement, the tobacco serial killers will get a public scolding and a nice photo op slap on the wrist, then the perps will be allowed to continue their merry ways unabated to slaughter ever more innocent victims. For even as some doors might have to be closed here in the states, twice as many more open doors in gullible countries. With open arms they receive the advances and millions of dollars of investments in their countries in return for SELLING THEIR SOULS and their fellow countrymen to the grim reapers. Thus the wheels and mighty webs of the ruling elite weave keep turning, unabated. "NEXT CUSTOMER VICTIM!" Here is a perfect example of how the true ruling elite of the medical industrial complex think:

In 1931, Dr. Cornelius (that's right, Cornelius) Rhoads was sponsored by the Rockefeller Institute to conduct experiments in Puerto Rico. He infected Puerto Rican citizens with cancer cells, presumably to study the effects. Thirteen of them died.

What's most striking is that the accusations stem from a note he allegedly wrote:

“The Porto Ricans (sic) are the dirtiest, laziest, most degenerate and thievish race of men ever to inhabit this sphere... I have done my best to further the process of extermination by killing off eight and transplanting cancer into several more... All physicians take delight in the abuse and torture of the unfortunate subjects.”

A man that seems to be hell-bent on killing Puerto Rico through a cancer infestation would not seem a suitable candidate to be elected by the US to be in charge of chemical warfare projects and receive a seat on the United States Atomic Energy Commission, right?

But that's exactly what happened. He also became vice-president of the American Cancer Society.

Any shocking documentation that would have happened during his chemical warfare period would probably have been destroyed by now. – Excerpt from The 13 Most Evil U.S. Government Experiments on Humans

ENTER THE REALM OF PHARMAKEIA:

You have been conditioned, taught, actually group brainwashed into believing that surely we have the “best medical system in the world.” The 50 million Americans with no medical coverage is not even the point here. Those figures are trivial when faced with the knowledge gained from cracking open Pandora's box. What we have to reveal here is so alarming, so frightening that again, as with other areas of the matrix, most people cannot even entertain the real TRUTH of the matter.

First of all the medical industrial complex is COMPLETELY built upon and encompassed by patented drugs. Those drugs are commonly referred to as “medications.” It is absolute fact that the FDA (which is an integral part of the medical industrial complex) has RULED that “only drugs can cure” therefore you have no other option available to you and the entire world is lead down this sole path. Those sole officially sanctioned drugs are commonly referred to in the industry as “pharmaceuticals.” The drugs that are THE ONLY SANCTIONED FORM OF TREATMENT available to people are made by the big pharmaceutical corporations, aka: BIG PHARMA. Their drugs are commonly dispensed by their agents, local businesses that are commonly referred to as “pharmacies.”

FYI: The main and central symbol used throughout the world by the medical industrial complex is beyond a doubt the Caduces. The staff carried by Hermes in Greek mythology, he was the messenger of the gods and guide to the Underworld. The same staff was also held by Iris, the messenger of Hera. It is a short staff entwined by two serpents, sometimes surmounted by wings. In Roman iconography was often depicted being carried in the left hand of Mercury, the messenger of the gods, guide of the dead and protector of merchants, shepherds, gamblers, liars and thieves. As a symbolic object it represents Hermes (or the Roman Mercury), and by extension trades, occupations or undertakings associated with the pagan gods.

That is just the beginning, what is NOT readily known by the lemming population at large is the true meaning of “pharmaceuticals” which was derived from the Greek word: Pharmakeia. Pharmakeia appears several times in the New Testament, including the Epistle to the Galatians and the Book of Revelation. Behold for Pharmakeia is literally translated as "witchcraft" or "sorcery". Is this not enough to stop you right there in your tracks to think and wonder? I don't make this stuff up, this is cold hard hidden in plain view facts.

The number one representative of the Pharmakeia industry are the local doctors who are all diligently TRAINED by the Pharmakeia Industrial Matrix. Training and indoctrinating of doctors into the realm of Pharmakeia drug sorcery takes years of mental programming where the future doctors are NEVER taught about nutrition, vitamins and other vital NATURAL life supporting supplements that the human body simply can't exist without. Instead, ALL the doctors are ceaselessly trained to become dispensers of PERSCRIPTIONS... that are for all intents and purposes: POTIONS!

After all the years of intellectual brain washing devoid of learning the actual CAUSES OF ILLNESS, they graduate without knowing anything about imperative nutrition and the natural elements to sustain healthy life. In the end, the doctors have no clue that THEY were indoctrinated to become the world's largest group of legalized DRUG DEALERS and that they are in fact witch doctors serving a wolf in sheeps clothing sinister master. Those who challenge or oppose their Pharmakeia system are labeled and treated as heretics.

The doctors and nurses are NOT willing participants of the Luciferian cabal, the doctors have been TRAINED to dispense the toxic substances... they have been conditioned and brainwashed for years by the Medical Industrial Complex and must pass myriad number of exams proving that they have absorbed the indoctrination and are one with their system. When they graduate they are full-fledged members of the system, conditioned in the realm of science they were non-stop taught, thus when they treat you, the doctors ACTUALLY THINK and TRULY BELIEVE THEY ARE HELPING YOU. For the most part of their lives as doctors they do actually save peoples lives thus they can't readily see out of the forest. Being completely immersed in the medical system they cannot see that the part which they are servants to a hidden master is in the pharmaceutical area, where they dispense potions, i.e.: drugs.

Clues are scattered everywhere for those enlightened enough to find. The realm of the rulers of this world symbolism is not just significant; it is imperative key to their occult activities. It also allows for the easy identification of likeminded allies of their system from all over the world.

One important symbol that you have seen throughout your entire lives has been the medicine symbol. Unbeknownst to the uninitiated, the very same "medicine symbol" is a central component of Satanic worship... It consists of a rod with two serpents winding around it... Hello, is anyone home? How much more obvious can the clues be?

BEHOLD: The "medicine symbol" is often depicted protruding out of the sexual organ area of Baphomet (a pagan deity that is common in Satanism, is one of satan's representatives. The Baphomet is also an idol adored by the high grades of masonry) or out of the Satanic goat head as seen in these pictures. These are clear clues and undeniable indicators of who/what is behind modern medicine and Big Pharm... aka: Pharmakeia. Thus when one begins to see through the well conjured pharmaceutical illusion one's eyes will begin to "open" seeing and understanding who/what is truly behind most major medicine. The nurses and doctors of the world have no clue that they are actually practicing witches and warlocks... WITCH DOCTORS. For one does not need to know that they are in reality actually dispensing evil potions and spells and are part of a coven. The real reason that doctors must undergo so many years of "training" is because it is actually years of methodic immersion, PROGRAMMING and INDOCTRINATION that they undergo, by means of many years of literal brainwashing, total immersion in Pharmakeia logic, thought and reason. Once they graduate they have proven they are completely programmed and never question or doubt the system they were TRAINED to follow, conduct, uphold, and perpetuate.

This information should not be so difficult to comprehend under the light that it has been clearly prophesized the “SATAN IS THE RULER OF THIS WORLD.” Thus of course this world has known nothing other than bloodshed, wars, invasions, hate, murder, crimes, animosity and so forth, for these are all PROOF of his rule here on earth.

If one truly understands that Satan was cast out of Heaven and hurled down to earth and was given authority over man for a period of time until the coming of the Messiah, the redeemer of man, then why is it so difficult for man to comprehend that it has been in Satan’s best interests to keep mankind incapacitated to the fullest extent possible. One of his main ways of doing just that has been in poisoning and intoxicating man’s minds, thus altering his abilities to see and perceive his own awful predicament and that of his fellow man.

Satan rules over mankind via his agents who do his will here on earth. Yes regular people dressed in suit and ties, and all sorts of uniforms. They look and speak like you for many don’t even know they are being used. Some though, know full well who their master is, these congregate with their own kind and actively worship their master in occult rituals. These representatives of Satan also look like charming wonderful people when they are out in public, only in the movies do Satan’s minions look like evil monsters...

Never forget these mind blowing revelations, I know it is very hard to swallow for you have been indoctrinated you entire life to trust the system. You must fully understand here and now the fact that the Luciferian rulers of mankind have been and are now ramping up their use of drugs and “medicine” to drug, make docile, impair, subjugate, oppress and enslave mankind.

“Diets, injections and injunctions will combine from a very early age, to produce the sort of character the authorities consider desirable.” - Bertrand Russell, The Impact of Science on Society, 1953

It is so significant, imperative and vital that I will again quote renowned author, leader of modern thought and intellectual of the highest rank Aldous Huxley most candid and revealing statement:

“There will be in the next generation or so a pharmacological method of making people love their servitude and producing dictatorship without tears so to speak. Producing a kind of painless concentration camp for entire societies so that people will in fact have their liberties taken away from them, but will rather enjoy it, because they will be distracted from any desire to rebel by propaganda, or brainwashing, or brainwashing enhanced by pharmacological methods. And this seems to be the final revolution.”

Pharmacies were they dispense their drugs to the masses is derived from the word Pharmakeia which literally means witchcraft and sorcery. The logo for “medicine” is the exact same key symbol in Satanism... If you cannot begin to read the clues and begin to see the larger picture then I don’t know what else to say. The more you dig into the realm of Medical Industrial Complex of the ruling elite, the more damning evidence you will find.

As you continue reading the material provided in this section of the matrix, please keep the above revelations in mind. I will proceed to provide many articles relating to this segment of the matrix in hopes of providing a better picture of it. The problem is that there are literally tens of thousands of cases and examples to choose from, I will try to pick articles that help open your eyes and contain the most revelations.

The Spiritual Nature of Prescription Drugs

By Jim Lynn, Copyrighted 2007

“Just say no to drugs.” How many times have people heard this advice, yet still think nothing of going to the local pharmacy to pick up their drug prescriptions?

Drugs have become so mainstream; North America is awash in a sea of drugs, both legal and illegal. Prescription drugs have become so prevalent; traces of them are now showing up in the food chain and in our drinking water.¹

What perhaps is most astounding is the number of people who die every year from adverse reactions to prescription drugs. The tally is so high, USA Today listed adverse drug reactions as the 4th leading cause of mortality on their list of Top Ten Killers in the USA.²

With such a record, the pharmaceutical industry (and the medical profession which prescribes drugs) would be considered criminal by any other civilized standard. However, prescription drugs are not only legal, they are encouraged by both modern medicine, and the Christian Church in the U.S.A.

That’s interesting because the Bible, the standard by which Christians live their lives, condemns the everyday use of any kind of drugs, potions, or spells, as well as poisoning or witchcraft. It’s called Pharmakeia in the original text and can be found in Galatians 5:19-21.

When confronted with the teaching that God condemns Pharmakeia, most Christians believe the Apostle Paul had to be referring to illegal drugs (like marijuana and heroin), when he wrote his letter to the Church at Galatia, surely not prescription drugs. They are at least right about the first part.

Narcotics and hallucinogenic drugs were not uncommon in 1st century AD. For instance, the Oracles of Delphi apparently used Datura, a kind of Jimson plant that contained powerful alkaloids, during their quests for visions.

So Christians have no trouble in defining pharmakeia within the parameter of mind altering or hallucinogenic drugs. It’s with the legal drugs that many Christians fail to see a dangerous and sinister spiritual connection.

In fact: If Christians were as much concerned about taking prescription drugs as they are about their children getting involved with illegal drugs, there would be far fewer deaths. That’s because deaths from adverse prescription drug reactions are many times greater than deaths caused by illegal drugs. As a matter of fact, deaths caused by illegal drugs did not muster up the numbers even to make the top ten killers list from USA Today. Yet many Christians fret over the latter (as though they are a scourge, and they are), while overlooking the physical and spiritual danger of the former.

Many Christians think legal drugs are different because they are part of our medical system. Simply said, they trust anyone wearing white robes to prescribe and dispense drugs. They do so without understanding that everything about the pharmaceutical industry violates the spiritual foundational truth and teaching of God.

There are many reasons why God condemns pharmakeia. Perhaps the primary reason is that God calls Himself Jehovah-rapha, God our Healer (Exodus 15:26). He wants us to look to Him for healing (to make us whole), because only He and what He has provided to us for healing can heal. King David acknowledged this foundational truth when he wrote:

Praise the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits-- who forgives all your sins and heals all your diseases, who redeems your life from the pit and crowns you with love and compassion...Psalm 103:2-4

When Christians place dependency on drugs, they unknowingly deny God the glory and the ability to heal them. I know this is a hard word of knowledge for many to accept, because many Christians depend on drugs. But they do so only because they do not see God in their heart and mind as their Healer. They think the age of divine healing is over, so their faith for healing is now bound to a lie (a work of the flesh) called pharmakeia.

God is a jealous God. So when we place our dependency in anything other than in God, we are in effect, turning our backs to Him. We are saying, “God is not sufficient for me. He cannot or will not heal me.”

That’s not to say we shouldn’t seek medical help from a physician. The problem, however, is most physicians are secular and know only pharmakeia, surgery and radiation. They do not know Yehovah-rapha or the healing provision He placed in the plant kingdom for our health and well-being. But in most cases it’s not the physician’s fault. Physicians only know to treat patients according to the modality they were taught.

God’s Word tells us, “Do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits” (I John 4:1). And again, “Test everything. Hold on to the good. Avoid every kind of evil” (I Thessalonians 5:21-22)

If drugs actually worked and healed people, without killing or hospitalizing many of those who take them, you wouldn’t be reading this article. But drugs do not heal. They at best only suppress symptoms. At their worst they hospitalize over two million people and kill hundreds of thousands more every year.³ Does this sound like a good spirit (good medicine) to you?

We all should understand there is both good and bad medicine. The difference between the two is that good medicine only heals and never harms. Bad medicine never heals and kills. Drugs that kill in the name of healing are not from God. They belong to Satan.

God cannot embrace any medicine that kills or maims in the name of healing. Such a modality stands opposed to everything God stands for. God receives no glory in death. God receives glory in healing the sick!

The pharmaceutical industry has no interest in healing the sick. Its only interest is in selling more drugs, and getting as many people as it can started on drugs and keeping them there for the rest of their lives.⁴

That last sentence, “keeping them there for the rest of their lives,” plays a big role over what God is concerned with. When you read Galatians 5:21, you will see the following text: “Those who live like this will not inherit the kingdom of God.” The word “live” refers to everyday use, to be dependent upon, to make routine. In other words: To live by.

This brings us to the role drugs play in hospital emergency rooms and ICU’s. Drugs used here are used primarily on a temporary basis to stabilize patients for medical procedures and control of pain. Without question, when used in this manner, drugs have saved many lives. This is good!

People whose lives are saved in this manner do not normally stay on those drugs that saved them. It’s the people who “live” and stay on drugs to “manage” their lives that creates the spiritual dynamic opposed to God.

Today one can be prescribed drugs for almost any physical, lifestyle or emotional complaint: Male impotency, baldness, lack of sleep, arthritis, depression, pre and post menopause, acid reflux, anxiety, osteoporosis, acne, A.D.D., constipation and diabetes to name a few.

Drugs for these and many others of life's complaints confuse us by counterfeiting the will of God in our lives. By creating alternative realities, the spirit behind these drugs can move us away from God's will into an illusion, a false reality of truth.

God's Word lists pharmakeia as a work of the flesh, because those who turn to drugs (and those who encourage their use) place dependency on a false reality (an illusion) instead of in God our Healer. It is an insidious scheme, one that has kept millions from knowing the power of healing afforded to them by God.

Healing of disease is one of God's blessings to mankind. He never intended one should have to spend half their income on a man-made drug to live. He never intended that medicine should come at the price of "acceptable risk." That's why God created provisions for our well-being and placed those provisions in the plant kingdom for the generations of mankind to come (Genesis 1:29).

It is only the greed in man that creates a man-made substitute from those provisions and then foists them on an ignorant people as the latest miracle drug. The truth is all man-made drugs are far inferior to the real thing. They are but one reason why God calls us to be sober and avoid attacks from Satan (I Peter 5:8).

But God didn't place every provision for healing in the plant kingdom. For He knew there would also be illnesses and disease visited on man through man's sins of the heart. These sins include fear, worry, jealousy, hatred, guilt and the like. The spiritual root cause causing these certain diseases require a cleansing of the heart only God can reach for healing to become reality.

As long as mankind looks to itself for answers to life's problems, there will always be confusion, human suffering and unnecessary deaths. God alone holds the answer to life's issues, including the well being of our bodies and heart. He is our creator. He knows you and I as individuals like no one else can. He is our all in all, Our God, Our Savior, Our Provider, Our Healer. He alone is Yehovah-rapha.

Not only is our medical industry completely unequivocally owned and operated by greedy MAKE A PROFIT BUSINESS PHARMAKEIA

CORPORATIONS, whose SOLE purpose of existence is to: MAKE PROFITS. This is why health costs are so astronomically high in this country. The public's best interests come into the picture way down the totem pole of priorities of the money making enterprises that we all depend on for our medical and health care. THIS is the crucial central root bottom-line FACT at the heart of all that is wrong with this system. Big Medical and Big Pharma's partners in crime are the insurance industry where the rates to get health insurance are insanely high for what little they cover when they are not busy denying you coverage.

I will explain the new health care bill that the Obama Administration is being forced by his masters to cram down our throats in one simple sentence: The Health Care Bill will mean is that every single person in this country will be mandated to have health coverage just like you have CAR INSURANCE. That is all. YOU will be REQUIRED to pay for it, not your employer; YOU will be fined or imprisoned if you don't have it. So who does this benefit? The insurance companies will make billions more profits, the medical cartel and big pharma corps will all make huge profits. Regular corporations will no longer be required to provide health insurance for their employees therefore expect them all to, slowly, little by little drop this practice (thus raising their profit margins), in the end there will be just one victim left holding the bag, while all the vampires suck the remaining pennies from their already minuscule amount left of their hard earned wages, that poor sap is YOU the average Joe Shmoe.

Maddow Explains our Health Care System - video

The truth is difficult for most people to accept because "modern medicine" is a major social institution which we have all come to TRUST WITH OUR LIVES since childhood. We all naturally assume to be directed by the human values of "honesty", "decency", and "a sincere intention to help". Sadly, this is just not the way it is. It hasn't been that way for at least 100 years. You must fully understand that doctors whom have all undergone upto 12 years of constant indoctrinization have all been brainwashed into thinking that the ONLY thing that can help their fellow human beings are DRUGS. Thus They blindly go forth doing what they were TRAINED to do: write thousands upon thousands of PERSCRIPTIONS. Today the majority of today's doctors are nothing more than DRUG DEALERS pushing the PRODUCTS of their kingpins, big pharma mafia.

Below is an article that highlights the effects of prescription writing machines, the "pushers" (doctors) have literally become:

Big pharma bankrupting US health care system

by Evelyn Pringle | September 2, 2006

Big Pharma is bankrupting the nation's health care system by convincing prescribing doctors to over-medicate patients with expensive psychiatric drugs and then send the bills to government programs like Medicaid and Medicare.

The peddling of the new generation of psychiatric drugs that include the selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors antidepressants (SSRIs), and atypical antipsychotics that began arriving on the market in the late 1980s, has become a cottage industry in the US.

Between 1986 and 2004, the sale of antidepressants went from $240 million to $11.2 billion and the sale of antipsychotic drugs rose from $263 million in 1986 to $8.6 billion in 2004.

These two classes of drugs combined went from $500 million to nearly $20 billion in 2004, which translates to a 40-fold increase, according to award winning journalist, Robert Whitaker, author of Mad In America.

A University of Georgia study published in the June 2006 issue of Journal of Clinical Psychiatry, found that three-quarters of people prescribed antidepressant drugs receive the medications for a reason not approved by the federal FDA.

The researchers reviewed records on drugs prescribed to 107,000 Georgia Medicaid recipients in 2001. The researchers used Medicaid data because it is comprehensive and easily accessible, and said the results are likely to be comparable in other states.

The study examined rates of off-label prescribing for drugs that act on the central nervous system and found that 75% of antidepressant recipients and 64% of antipsychotic recipients these received the drugs off-label.

While study authors Dr Hua Chen and Professor Jack Fincham acknowledged that there are legitimate uses for off-label prescribing, they said that in many cases doctors write off-label prescriptions based on limited or anecdotal evidence.

"Most off-label drug mentions have little or no scientific support," said study co-author Jack Fincham, Professor of Pharmacy Care at the University of Georgia College of Pharmacy to Doctor's Guide News on July 25, 2006. "And when I say most," he said, "it's like 70% to 75%."

"Many patients," he noted, "have no idea that this goes on and just assume that the physician is writing a prescription for their indication."

"Physicians have the right to prescribe any medication off label," Dr Chen said, "but they also have the responsibility to inform patients that this medication is being used off label."

Study leader, Dr Chen, an assistant professor at the University of Houston, said the findings reveal a significant gap in the nation's drug safety system. The FDA approval process is widely regarded as the world's most rigorous, she noted, but said off-label prescribing regularly exposes consumers to drugs that are untested for their condition.

"There's a big gap between this very strict approval process and this very liberal utilization practice," Chen said. "Something must be done to fill this gap."

Professor Fincham, author of the book, "Taking Your Medicine: A Guide to Medication Regimens and Compliance for Patients and Caregivers," told Doctor's Guide that considering the aging population and the increasing likelihood of off-label prescribing with age, the number of people receiving off-label drugs will likely increase in the coming years.

According to Dr Chen and Professor Fincham, the off-label use of central nervous system drugs can account from anywhere from 25% to 80% of a drug's annual sales.

Drug makers have found ways to influence prescribers who tend to the elderly in nursing homes to funnel

Medicare funds to Big Pharma through senior citizens. In one 2003 study published in the Archives of Internal Medicine, researchers found that 75% of long-term care elderly residents were receiving psychotropic medications.

Another study published in the August 2004 Archives of Internal Medicine, noted that 41% of prescriptions, for 765,423 people over age 65, were for psychotropic medications.

A more recent June 13, 2005, study in the Archives examined the quality of antipsychotic prescriptions in nursing home for approximately 2.5 million Medicaid beneficiaries and found that over half (58.2%), • received drugs that exceeded the maximum recommended dosage, received duplicate therapy, or under the guidelines, had inappropriate conditions for the medications to begin with. The study determined that more than 200,000 residents received antipsychotic therapy but had appropriate indications for use. •

On April 11, 2005, the FDA may have plugged a hole in the dike for the river of Medicare funding flowing from the nursing home industry when it announced that elderly patients with dementia who were given antipsychotic drugs were far more likely to die prematurely than those given placebos and also announced the addition of black box warnings about the increased risk of death on the labels of Zyprexa (Eli Lilly) Risperdal (Johnson & Johnson) Abilify (Bristol-Myers Squibb), Clozril (Novartis), and Geodon (Pfizer).

On May 1, 2006, the London Free Press reported a study by Toronto's Institute for Clinical Evaluative Sciences that showed seniors who were prescribed the new SSRIs such as Prozac, Paxil and Zoloft were nearly 5 times more likely to commit suicide during the first month on the drugs than those patients given the older class of medications used to treat depression.

In conducting the study, the researchers used Ontario coroners' reports, prescription records and hospital data, and identified 1,142 suicides among older Ontarians, 66 and up, from 1992 to 2000, and determined whether they had been prescribed antidepressants in the 6 months before their deaths.

Among those patients who were, the risk of suicide in the first month for those taking an SSRI was nearly 5 times higher than for patients on the older antidepressants, such as Elavil.

The study also found that SSRIs were associated with more violent means of committing suicide, such as the use of firearms, or jumping from heights and hanging, Dr David Juurlink, the study's lead author told the London Free Press.

While studies have found an increased risk of suicidal thoughts and behaviors among children taking SSRIs, up until now, little research has been done on their link to suicide in aging patients.

Big Pharma has found ways to influence doctors within the Veteran Administration's hospital system to convince them to prescribe the new expensive psychiatric drugs rather than the older, cheaper and equally effective medications.

Dr Robert Rosenheck, a Director with the Department of Veterans Affairs, reviewed the prescribing records for schizophrenic patients in the VA system and found that more than 80% are now on the new antipsychotics.

In 2003, he calculated that the VA spent more than $208 million on antipsychotic drugs, with over $106 million going for Zyprexa alone.

A government funded study conducted by the National Institute of Mental Health compared four new generation antipsychotics against an older medication, perphenazine and only one, Zyprexa, worked any better at all, and then the difference was minimal.

However, Zyprexa also carried the most serious risk of side effects and was found to be far more likely to cause severe weight gain and diabetes than the other drugs. The NIMH study also determined that over 18 months, nearly 75% of the patients had quit taking their assigned drugs, signaling a high level of dissatisfaction with the medications.

According to the November 24, 2005, Providence Journal, the four new antipsychotics studied soak up about $10 billion a year, depending on the dosage, and can cost up to 10 times more than the older generic and the Medicaid population alone spends an estimated $3 billion a year for these antipsychotic medications.

Big Pharma has known that the new antipsychotics were ineffective for years. A review of 52 studies involving 12,649 patients published in the December 2000 British Journal of Psychiatry reported: "There is no clear evidence that the atypical antipsychotics are more effective or better tolerated than conventional antipsychotics."

In 2003, an outright bribery scheme was discovered at a hospital in Massachusetts where doctors were found to have changed the medication of 4 patients for non-medical reasons. The November 10, 2003, Boston Globe, reported that the patients were switched to Risperdal, without consent or medical necessity, to make them eligible for a clinical trial sponsored by Janssen Pharmaceuticals.

After uninvolved staff members complained, the situation was investigated and the trial was stopped. As a result, all state hospital doctors were required to undergo re-certification in the ethics of medical research and the hospital's director, Dr Douglas Hughes, resigned after it was revealed that in the same year, he had received $30,000 in speakers fees from Janssen.

In recent years the nation's children have become a major target for the pharmaceutical industry. The new antipsychotics are not approved to treat any condition in children but studies of children in Medicaid programs and HMOs have found a drastic increase in the use of the drugs with children, particularly for behavioral disorders, according to research published in the March/April 2006 Journal of Ambulatory Pediatrics.

Researchers lead by Dr William Cooper at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, TN, evaluated data drawn from the National Ambulatory Medical Care Survey and the National Hospital Ambulatory Medical Care Survey, which are national samples of health care services rendered to the US population and conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics.

Between 1995 - 2002, the study found that there were 5,762,193 outpatient visits to health care providers by children between the ages of 2 - 18 years-old, during which an antipsychotic was prescribed.

The study shows that Big Pharma has doctors in every setting prescribing these drugs to kids. Nearly 80% of the visits occurred in physicians offices, 14% in outpatient clinics, and 9% occurred in emergency departments. According to the study, 32% of the nearly 6 million prescriptions were written during visits to pediatricians, family physicians, emergency department physicians, or other types of providers.

According to Doctor Cooper, these antipsychotic medications have been studied in only a few controlled trials in children, and have not been studied at all for many behavioral diagnoses. But yet, the most common diagnosis for children prescribed an antipsychotic was attention deficit hyperactivity disorder or conduct disorder, accounting for 29.0% of all antipsychotic visits.

Affective disorders such as bipolar disorder or depression accounted for 23.6% of the visits so that together, behavioral and affective disorders represented more than half of the prescriptions during the study period. According to the authors, there is no evidence from controlled studies that supports the use of antipsychotics for behavioral conditions.

The report states that over 50% of the prescriptions were for a diagnosis for which antipsychotics have not been studied in children and that there is little recognized benefits to these medications in many of the children receiving them.

"Thus," the report notes, "the increasing prescribing of antipsychotic medications in children for behavioral indications is concerning given the paucity of information on the overall benefits and risks of this class of medications in children."

A finding in the study that demonstrates the ability of Big Pharma to successfully market drugs off-label to children is that the increased prescribing of antipsychotics for behavioral disorders coincided with the introduction of new atypical antipsychotic medications.

The study also explained that there has been no increase in mental health disorders such as schizophrenia that would account for the increases "as recent studies do not suggest significant increases in the incidence of schizophrenia," it concluded.

"In addition," the researchers explained, "schizophrenia and psychosis accounted for only 13.5% of the total antipsychotic visits during the study period, so this diagnosis alone could not explain the increase."

"Therefore, the most likely explanation for the study results is that similar to our findings in the Tennessee Medicaid population," the authors said, "there was a substantial increase in physician prescribing of antipsychotics during the study period."

The mass drugging of children on Medicaid is happening all over the country. In 2001, psychiatrist, Dr Stefan Kruszewski, was hired to review psychiatric care provided by government-funded agencies in Pennsylvania to identify fraud, waste, and abuse, and found cases of what he refers to as "insane polypharmacy," where children were placed in state-run treatment facilities and over-medicated with the new antipsychotics and anticonvulsants sometimes for years.

Over the past decade since the new antipsychotics came on the market, they have been linked to serious side effects, that include the risk of substantial weight gain, diabetes, and cardiac dysrhythmias, and according to Dr Copper's report, preliminary studies suggest that side effects may occur more commonly and be more severe in children than in adults.

This assertion is proving to be true. The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia recently found that 19% of newly diagnosed Type 2 diabetic children were being treated with the new antipsychotic drugs, all of which are now required to carry a black box warning to alert doctors about the dangers of diabetes associated with the drugs.

A recent analysis by USA TODAY of the FDA adverse event reporting system between 2000 and 2004, found at least 45 deaths of children where the "primary suspect" was an atypical antipsychotic. USA also discovered more than 1,300 cases of serious side effects, including some that were life threatening, such as convulsions and a low white blood cell count.

However, critics of regulatory officials are quick to point out that the FDA has known about the dangers of these drugs long before now. For instance, in the fall of 2001, a paper published in the Journal of Clinical Psychiatry said the FDA had been alerted to 19 cases of diabetes associated with Zyprexa and one patient died.

Of the 19 patients, the paper said, seven had newly diagnosed hyperglycemia and in 2 cases, the sugar disorder developed within one week of taking Zyprexa, and developed within six months for the other 8 patients.

The most studied adverse effect has been their association with hyperglycemia, in some cases leading to ketoacidosis, coma, or death. But nonetheless, even though Risperdal was recently refused FDA approval for treating autism, this class of drugs are increasingly being used off-label to treat behavior problems in children on the autism spectrum.

As for treating children who are diagnosed with schizophrenia, the results of a study published in August 2006, by the New York Psychiatric Institute found that the older antipsychotics work much better than the new. The average response rate in children to medication among 8 studies employing the new antipsychotics was 55.7%, compared to a 72.3% response rate among children in 13 studies employing older drugs.

The study also found that the average weight gain in patients treated with the older drugs was much lower and the sedation side effect was more common with the new drugs. The authors noted that the FDA "has not approved any antipsychotic drugs for treating childhood schizophrenia; yet, clinicians routinely use medications for this disorder."

However, there are signs that Big Pharma's ability to use children as funnels to drain tax dollars from government health care programs might be waning. On August 16, 2006, the Houston Chronicle reported that 5 doctors who treat poor children in Texas were notified that they need to return Medicaid money used to pay for psychiatric drugs to that state.

This latest move, newspaper said, is part of a 2-year effort to better regulate how children on Medicaid are prescribed psychiatric drugs.

Two years ago, Brian Flood, the Texas Health and Human Services' Inspector General, and Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn, began reviewing information on how doctors were prescribing stimulants, antidepressants and antipsychotics to children on Medicaid.

The studies revealed that children were being prescribed multiple psychiatric drugs and some children as young as 3 were taking the mood-altering medications.

Ms Strayhorn's study found a case where one child had 14 prescriptions for 11 different medications, at a cost of $1,088 a month.

Mr. Flood's review of a two-month period of Medicaid records determined that 63,118 children were on stimulants, antidepressants or antipsychotics, with nearly one-third of the kids taking drugs from more than one of the 3 classes of drugs at the same time.

The review of records found that doctors had filed 114,315 claims amounting to more than $17 million for the children.

As a result of the studies, last year, the Texas Health and Human Services Commission established strict guidelines for prescribing psychiatric drugs for children on Medicaid and the state has seen a dramatic reduction in multiple prescriptions.

The really good news is that a great number of Texas children are apparently cured of their mental illnesses because an analysis of the data taken last year shows that within 5 months after the new rules were in place, the number of foster care children prescribed five or more psychiatric drugs fell by 31%.

There are about 1.9 million Texas children on Medicaid, according to the Chronicle.

Many states are going after the drug makers to retrieve the money spent on illegal off-label prescriptions. In July, 2006, Mississippi filed a lawsuit against Eli Lilly with allegations that the company improperly marketed Zyprexa for "off-label" uses and defrauded the state Medicaid program out of millions of dollars, according to the July 27, 2006, Jackson Clarion Ledger.

The lawsuit alleges that Lilly sales representatives convinced Mississippi doctors to prescribe the Zyprexa to patients who suffered from anxiety, mood swings and disturbed sleep when the drug was only FDA approved for the treatment of adults with bipolar disorder or schizophrenia.

The suit also alleges that Lilly did not properly emphasize the dangers of the drug, such as an increased risk of diabetes, and that treating Medicaid patients who became ill from the drug has increased Medicaid costs.

Experts in the medical profession who have not been compromised by the drug companies are furious over the practice of drugging kids with dangerous psychiatric drugs for profit.

For instance, Pediatrician, Dr Lawrence Diller, author of the book, "Should I Medicate My Child," testified before an FDA advisory committee in September 2004, on the rampant off-label prescribing of SSRI drugs to children after learning about 8 previously undisclosed studies that proved the drug makers knew all the long that SSRIs were linked to suicide in children but kept the findings hidden from doctors who were prescribing the drugs.

Dr Diller said the "final blow" was learning of these 8 studies and that the loss of credibility within the medical profession extended beyond psychiatry into all of medicine and ended his testimony by stating:

"The blame is clear: The money, power and influence of the pharmaceutical industry corrupt all. The pervasive control that the drug companies have over medial research, publications, professional organizations, doctors' practices, Congress, and yes, even agencies like the FDA, is the American equivalent of a drug cartel."

In the medical world EVERYTHING is promoted, studied, reviewed and approved by "scientific studies." The inherent problem with this method is that the process is completely totally and unequivocally corrupt to the core. For instance I will give you just one perfect example out of thousands of examples available within the medical community, I pick this one for today it is totally obviously undeniable even to its detractors:

The tobacco industry spent over $220 million funding over 1,500 scientific studies, yet not a single one of those studies could find a relationship between tobacco and lung cancer, heart disease, etc.!!! Thousands of "scientific studies" and NOT EVEN ONE sole called "scientist" found a SINGLE relationship between tobacco and cancer? Even a group of high school students with a phone book could prove a relationship between tobacco and lung cancer. My point to mentioning this fact was that scientists are more than willing to accept money to do bogus scientific studies. This practice is not only acceptably common, it is rampant in the prostitutish scientific study community.

In fact you can almost always predict what conclusions a "scientific" study will come to by knowing just one key fact: "who funded the study." The entity that funded the study will always get the conclusion they want. People who loosely call themselves "scientists" will always make sure of that.

The pharmaceutical industry, with their total control over the National Institutes of Health (NIH), National Cancer Institute (NCI), Food and Drug Administration (FDA), etc. have also funded many, many millions of dollars of bogus scientific studies. In fact, their budget is in the billions of dollars every year!! Couple this with their Zionist collaborator's control of the media and you have the situation we are in today.

Comments by Mike Adams, the Health Ranger

I find it fascinating that the FDA is opening "safety" offices around the world, and yet at the same time it refuses to even conduct safety testing of pharmaceuticals right here in the USA.

Did you know that the FDA conducts NO tests whatsoever on the drugs it approves? Instead, it relies on drug companies to conduct their own clinical trials, and then the FDA just believes whatever the drug companies say.

So why not do the same thing with food? Don't test anything yourself, but rely on the food companies to test all their own food while automatically believing their results...

The reason this isn't done is because companies tend to lie about the results of their own testing. They obviously have a financial incentive to find no problems. This is true with food companies and it's just as true with drug companies, which is why there's so much fraud in Big Pharma's clinical trials.

But when it comes to pharmaceuticals, the FDA isn't really interested in safety. It's only interested in promoting more drugs and boosting the revenues of the drug companies. That's why the FDA doesn't even bother to test drugs in the first place.

It is the Prime Directive of medical research to do two things: First, make it appear there is "scientific evidence" for such as orthodox cancer treatments, orthodox heart disease prevention treatments, etc., and Second, make it appear there is "no scientific evidence" for alternative cancer treatments, alternative heart disease prevention treatments, and so on.

The entire medical industrial matrix is similar to the military industrial matrix in that if peace were achieved, then they would all become bankrupt. Likewise, it is NOT in the best interests of the medical cartel to actually CURE anyone of anything, instead they focus all research and development into PRODUCTS (hello, all entities in medical field are nothing more than big billion dollar BUSINESS) designed to just keep the goyim people alive, creating the perfect loyal dependant CUSTOMERS for rest of their lives.

But then that is just one fragment of the medical cartel's agenda. The other, even more sinister is the fact that for decades many of those pharma giants have been purposely concocting illnesses, deadly viruses and diseases. The overwhelming, undeniable fact is that many, many viruses and diseases have entered the mainstream directly or indirectly through the medical cartel industrial matrix... Again just as the other major segments within the matrix network of corporations and organizations, the medical industry was infiltrated and eventually completely dominated by the secretive "illuminati" agents (such as the most benevolent wonderful Rockefellers) who run the organizations that have become the leaders and major players in the field guiding standards, policies, agendas, knowledge, and so forth. In a nutshell:

The medical field has been playing a key integral part of the "illuminati" quest of subjugating and controlling mankind by medicating them to zombie like cattle condition and ENSLAVING MANKIND with drugs.

Behold: for in just a few paragraphs I have revealed to you and exposed the essence of the medical company's quest... their secret agenda, and inner modus operandi. Believe it or not the devil does exist; his goal hasn't changed in thousands of years: his life mission is to corrupt, oppress, punish, enslave, poison and kill man. He has been heavily infiltrating the minds and hearts of the CEOs and presidents of Big Pharma to accomplish just this. As 1 Corinthians 3:16 states, you are the TEMPLE of God. It has been God's full intention to dwell as one with man, his children. The devil must defile mankind destroy God's temple, thus he uses POISONS disguised as "medicine" to impair and damage man's mind and body, to render him utterly handicapped and broken down.

The medical cartel industrial matrix is the gate keeper. Many of their “medicines” are nothing more than carefully contrived POISONS to make you sick and need more medical attention from the side effects but mainly to POISON your minds. The two snakes in the age old medical symbol depict it all, it is with POISONS, their VENOM that the medical industrial complex treats people with. You will NEVER see them pushing and prescribing perfectly functional non harmful natural remedies. Absolutely unequivocally NOT. NEVER. EVER.

The secret to good health is in what you eat, what you put into your body in the first place. Doctors, Big Pharma, the medical industrial complex NEVER focuses on the fact that it is DIETARY habits that make people sick. The medical industrial complex only focuses on manufacturing, promoting and sale of DRUGS to the sick. Below is just one example article out of hundreds one can find supporting and exemplifying the fact that the absolute solution to most medical problems is directly connected to your DIET:

What You Eat Could Kill You!

By Dr. Jon Walker

Dietary Inflammation

To discover how to regain control of your diet, it is important to understand the common thread amongst nearly all chronic disease processes known as silent inflammation. This phenomenon made big news several years ago when it was featured on the cover of the February 2004 issue of Time Magazine. It has been the subject, directly or indirectly, of thousands of scientific articles in some of the most prestigious scientific journals in the world. The vast majority of the research is pointing towards silent inflammation as the cause of diseases ranging from heart disease to Alzheimer’s to many types of cancer. We will touch on the causes of silent inflammation, its impacts, and what you can do to reverse it before it’s too late. The best resource to understand silent inflammation and how to reverse it is The Anti-Inflammation Zone, by Dr. Barry Sears. This book was written for the public, not for doctors, and will give you knowledge of the topic that exceeds many physicians!

> Two of the major essential fatty acids in the body are omega-6 fats and omega-3 fats. Omega-3 fatty acids are found primarily in cold water fish and grass-fed meats, while grains and seed oils, such as corn oil, soybean oil, and safflower oil are rich sources of omega-6 fatty acids. Research indicates that our bodies are designed to optimally function with a ratio of omega-3 to omega-6 somewhere in the neighborhood of 1:1 to 1:4. This means for every milligram of omega-3 fat you eat, you should eat one to four milligrams of omega-6 fats. Unfortunately, the average American diet has an omega-3 to omega-6 ratio of around 1:25!

> How does this cause silent inflammation? Your immune system causes any inflammation, whether acute, in the case of a sprained ankle swelling, or silent. Molecules called eicosanoids are like the generals of the immune system. Pro-inflammatory eicosanoids coordinate the bodies’ response to injury, resulting in inflammation. They control molecules called macrophages, that gobble up invading tissue as well as molecules called cytokines that signal for more immune cells to move to a specific area. During the inflammatory phase of an injury, these molecules cause the tissue to become swollen and painful. This is the bodies’ way of guarding against further injury to the area, such as keeping you from placing pressure on a sprained ankle. In the case of acute inflammation, this is a wonderful, albeit sometimes painful process to speed the healing of an injury and repair the tissue.

> Eventually, however, the repair and remodeling of the area is completed, and anti-inflammatory eicosanoids take over. These signal the body to halt the inflammatory response, and cause the body to proceed to the next phase of the healing process. To stay healthy, your body must maintain balance between pro and anti-inflammatory eicosanoids. If the balance is upset with too many pro-inflammatory molecules silent inflammation sets in, causing a host of health problems.

> The traditional medical path for dealing with inflammation is one you are probably already familiar with. Anti-inflammatory drugs, such as aspirin, Advil, Alleve, or Tylenol cause the body to stop the production of the pain-causing eicosanoids. Unfortunately, these medications do not distinguish between the pro and anti-inflammatory eicosanoids, but decrease both. This leads to problems in the immune system ranging from stomach ulcers to even death. Over 20,000 people a year in the United States die from the recommended use of anti-inflammatory drugs! Clearly, medications are not a good long-term solution for stopping silent inflammation.

> If you wrapped a rubber band tightly around your finger, you would experience immediate throbbing pain, swelling, and eventually might even lose circulation in the finger. Medications exist that are strong enough to block the pain, but wouldn't removing the rubber band that is causing the problem in the first place be a wiser solution? By eliminating or at least drastically reducing the causes of chronic inflammation in your diet you are able to live longer, feel better, and look younger without drugs or surgery! Does this sound too good to be true? It's not!

> As mentioned before, omega-6 and omega-3 fatty acids both are building blocks of eicosanoid production. However, it is crucial to remember that omega-6 fats lead to pro-inflammatory eicosanoids while omega-3 fats are the precursors to powerful anti-inflammatory eicosanoids. The imbalance of omega-6 to omega-3 fats in the typical American diet has led to flawed immune systems that are causing silent inflammation. We are literally eating ourselves to death!

> Virtually all chronic disease processes are now thought to be in some way due to silent inflammation. For years doctors have thought heart disease was merely a problem of fat from the diet clogging the arteries, causing heart disease. The plague that builds up in the arteries is rich with cholesterol, so it was believed that high cholesterol lead to heart attacks by choking off blood to the heart. The trouble with this theory is that 50 percent of all heart attacks occur in people with normal cholesterol. Another problem with this model is that as Americans steadily reduced their cholesterol intake throughout the twentieth century, heart disease not only did not decrease, it became much more prevalent!

> Type II diabetes is another disease epidemic that is rooted in silent inflammation. At its most basic level this disease, also known as non-insulin dependent diabetes mellitus (NIDDM), is caused when your cells become less responsive to the actions of the hormone insulin. Insulin is produced in the pancreas and helps glucose from the blood make its way into the cells. It is an anabolic hormone, meaning it promotes the buildup of tissue, most notably fat. So when the cells become insulin resistant and the body produces more insulin, more fat is stored. So what causes cells to become resistant to the effects of insulin? The best current research indicates that silent inflammation causes damage to the specific cells that insulin acts on to allow glucose into the cells. A study done at LouisianaStateUniversity showed that giving anti-inflammatory eicosanoids to overweight patients decreased insulin resistance by 70 percent!

> After spending over $30 billion dollars on the war on cancer, our government still has not found any reliable way to prevent the disease from occurring in the first place. Any form of cancer occurs when cells in the body mutate, causing them to rapidly divide and spread. As you have learned, silent inflammation increases insulin levels in the body, which act as a fuel to spread cancer cells. This process is known as metastasis, and it is also aided by pro-inflammatory eicosanoids found in the typical American diet.

Well meaning idealistic caring people enter the field of medicine to save peoples lives, yet little do they know they enter into the den of vipers medical education complex where they are literally ~~taught~~ indoctrinated, programed, brainwashed for an entire twelve as in 12 whole years on what is acceptable, what is reality, what is good, what is bad and so forth. At the end of 12 years of MEMORIZING every single thing that was taught as in programmed into their minds, these caring doctors are released to practice the MEDICAL CARTEL INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX approved and sanctioned brand and style of medicine.

Today's modern medicine industrial complex has come about due to the concerted efforts and guidance of one of the great American illuminati families: The Rockefellers. (several elite families of the time such as the Carnegies and others were also part of many Rockefeller programs) The amount of philanthropist organizations the Rockefellers erected in the area of education and medicine boggles the mind. After conquering the oil empires and becoming a major banking force, after amassing one (if not the) largest fortune in American history, they put on a new and improved humanitarian disguise and redirected all that wealth to their "philanthropic" endeavours, where they focused mainly on how to best subdue and conquer society at large. The two main areas of focus for these monopolists was education and the realm of medicine. Both were ripe and ready for takeover, subjugation, conquest, new directions and higher agendas.

The Rockefellers proceeded to enter the realms of education and medicine with the zest, zeal and tyrannical monopolistic force that they used to conquer and dominate the entire oil industry. In 1908 with the national medical field in complete disarray their "philanthropic" foundations took over AMA's Council on Medical Education (among many other organizations that were sucked in, bribed, bought off or founded). In no time at all Rockefeller ideologies and agendas took hold and dominated all of education and medicine. Never forgetting that for practitioners to get licenced in medicine they have to go through higher education, the Rockefellers knew in order to fully dominate the realm of medicine, they would also have to do the same for education. (Note: refer to the Education Industrial Matrix section of this report.)

Here was the classical "philanthropic formula" at work again. Have others pay a major portion of the bill (the AMA had already done most of the work. The total Carnegie investment was only 10,000 grand), reap a large bonus from public opinion (isn't it wonderful that these robber barons of industry are taking an interest in upgrading medical education!), and gain an opportunity to control a large and vital sphere of American life.

Simple example of the impact and importance of controlling education: When rosy eyed ideologically well meaning students decide to enter the realm of medicine "to save peoples lives" they basically intend and have their hearts set on doing just that. Well it is in school where they learn what is acceptable... what "works", what doesn't, what is the norm, what is right and wrong, and so forth. Therefore to control the schools is to control and dictate what is all the above... Truth be damned.

For instance, if the education industrial complex says madly expensive chemotherapy is the ONLY way to treat cancer (despite chemo killing more people then it saves), then that IS the accepted "TRUTH." It thus becomes the defacto accepted: "FACT." When you study any medical subject you must memorize the material masquerading as FACTS and wholly accept it as such. Then you take tests that gauge your ability to comprehend and retain the subject matter that is never portrayed in any other light other than as "FACTS." This process is the process of indoctrination and brainwashing at its most elemental form. By the time those well meaning students spent 12 years of constant bombardment of delusionary medical industrial complex agenda material, having proven to have been fully indoctrinated, they are then released on the public to practice what they were taught, what they learned, what they were indoctrinated in, what they have been trained to do, what they were effectively brainwashed to practice.

You do NOT pass and graduate high school or college by bucking the system! You only get passing grades and a degree by memorizing and consistently repeating what they portray and present as truth... This is the crux of their successful indoctrination system! For the moldable minds are NOT allowed to "pass" and enter society until they have fully conformed and demonstrated that they fully comprehend and have adopted the subject matter (i.e. indoctrination) and repeatedly proven it by successfully engaging in class and passing tests. Those who fully immersed themselves in the subject matters and fully adopted the indoctrinative training prove so by separating themselves from the rest of the herd and graduating with honors.

Society is full of tens of thousands if not millions of examples of students being flunked because they bucked the system and didn't abide by the line of thought being programmed. One recent example of this is the college daughter who was flunked for doubting global warming. Do you honestly think for a single moment that even the most brilliant genius student who makes a stand against, for instance, the current radiation cancer treatment method and expounds about a myriad of successful natural alternatives has a fat chance in hell of graduating?

The Rockefeller cabal bought up, funded, founded, consolidated all areas of medicine. They knew from prior monopolist practices that by controlling the regulatory gatekeepers they could control the curriculums, agendas, and dictate the accepted "truth." The Association of American Medical Colleges has been one of the principal vehicles of foundation and cartel control over medical education in the United States and Canada. First organized in 1876, it serves the function of setting a wide range of standards for all medical schools. It determines the criteria for selecting medical students, for curriculum development, for programs of continuing medical education after graduation, and for communication within the profession as well as to the general public. The Association of American Medical Colleges, from its inception, has been funded and dominated by the Rockefellers and their elite comrades in arms.

Doctors are forced to spend the major part of the education, hundreds of hours studying the names and actions of all kinds of man-made drugs, they are lucky if they receive even a portion of a single course on basic nutrition, (the "secret" KEY to good health). Many have none at all. The result is that the average doctor's wife or secretary knows more about practical nutrition than he does. The knowledge of natural cures and remedies is STRICTLY forbidden, on campus or anywhere in the professional medical arena.

Weiner: GOP Is 'Wholly Owned Subsidiary Of The Insurance Industry'

The Republican Party is "a wholly owned subsidiary of the insurance industry," Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-N.Y.) charged on the House floor. When Republican Rep. Dan Lungren (Calif.) objected to the accusation and took the extraordinary step of asking that Weiner's "words be taken down," Weiner pushed back.

"You really don't want to go here, Mr. Lungren," Weiner said. Asking that words be taken down is a move on the House floor that is rarely made and carries great weight.

Weiner, after a pause, asked to have his words withdrawn and said he'd substitute new ones. "Make no mistake about it. Every single Republican I have ever met in my entire life is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the insurance industry," Weiner clarified.

Somehow, that failed to satisfy Lungren, who asked that those too be taken down. After a long pause, before the chair ruled, Lungren withdrew his request.

The House was debating a bill to repeal the insurance industry's exemption from antitrust laws, which passed overwhelmingly. Nineteen Republicans opposed it, including House Minority Leader John Boehner (R-Ohio). Lungren supported it.

The cartel's influence over the field of orthodox medicine is felt far beyond the medical schools. After the doctor has struggled his way through twelve years of learning what the medical cartels have decided is best for him to learn, he then goes out into the world of medical practice and immediately is embraced by the other arms of cartel control, such as the American Medical Association.

The American Medical Association is the union for the medical establishment, but more than that, it primarily acts as a prostitute for the major drug companies. Truth, workability, effectiveness and health are not what it is concerned with. The AMA profits largely if the drug companies profit. A large percentage of the income of the AMA derives from drug company advertizing in it's journal.

The AMA has acted ruthlessly to destroy and silence alternative therapies and practices which threaten the traditional medical establishment - it's all about power and money and to hell with the health of the public. This has been it's modus operandi since it was created.

The American Medical Association (AMA) has a long history of corruption. Its most infamous leader was Zionist Jew Morris Fishbein who reigned from 1924 until 1949. Fishbein supported drugs but adamantly opposed any food or natural remedies. He had failed anatomy in medical school and had never practiced medicine a day in his life, but during his years in power he was recognized as the virtual dictator of American medicine. Journalist and scholar Ruth Mulvey Harmer, Ph.D. characterized Fishbein as having the "ruthlessness of a shark" and concluded that he "managed to hold back the twentieth century for 50 years for the benefit of organized medicine" (American Medical Avarice, 1975).

Those who paid large advertising sums to the AMA Journal were given the AMA "seal of approval" for their products, despite the lack of any benefit, while those who wouldn't pay the advertising tax often had their products labeled as worthless. It was essentially a lucrative blackmail scheme.

EXERTING GREAT INFLUENCE ON AMERICAN MEDICINE: Morris Fishbein behaving like a good Jewish slave, did excellent work for his master overlords. He successfully weakened and crippled every American by suppressing every form of healing that doesn't require drugs. Now the nation will be weak and tired, the people sick and miserable. But they will work for us and die for us because they do not have the energy at the end of the day to shake off their parasitic invaders...

Evidence cited by Eustace Mullins in his 1988 book, Murder by Injection, suggests that Fishbein ignored medical documentation to the effect that products promoted by the AMA were dangerous. According to Mullins, one such product caused blindness in a number of people. Another quietly killed people in their sleep. Another was so poisonous that it eventually caused the deaths of many, many people.

Another of Fishbein's primary interests was his attempt to corner the rights on promising cancer treatments, or insure that any cancer treatment which threatened AMA financial interests was kept from the public. In collaboration with the government and private interests within the cancer industry, Fishbein and his successors have left a history of illegal acts, bribery, conspiracy against medical innovation, monopolistic suppression of competitors and contributing to the physical mutilation and death of patients and consumers.

When scientists or doctors who opposed the AMA or whose discoveries threatened the AMA's financial gains were "burned out," or arrested on trumped-up charges, or died mysteriously. Howard Beard, Ph.D., Director of Biochemistry at LSU Medical School and developer of a urine test for determining cancer, recalled:

"Early one morning in 1946, our lab was mysteriously destroyed by fire. . . . We then established a lab at our present location. Then again one morning in 1947 this lab was set on fire and completely destroyed."

Dr. William F. Koch, the inventor of Glyoxylide, was a particular target of Fishbein and the AMA. So were the doctors who supported him and used the cancer serum Dr. Koch invented.

"One doctor . . . J. W. Kannel, saved a young girl . . . She had hopeless cancer of the spleen. . . . One shot of Glyoxylide, and she became well (in 1943 and was still alive in 1983). Kannel was barred from all hospitals in Fort Wayne."

"One death from poisoning, and one from being run down by an automobile, both victims being physicians of distinction and prominent in the advocacy of the Koch treatment . . . Dr. Koch himself was the target of at least 13 unsuccessful attempts on his life."

These accounts are but a drop in the bucket, examples of corruption and subversions to the highest degree just within the American Medical Association. Many books exist with hundreds of pages documenting jaw dropping transgression after transgression, I can only give you the summary of just a few cases due to the fact that this report is ballooning to over 700 pages as is.

The October 2009 edition of the American Journal of Pharmacology tells of a shocking program that is currently being developed by a giant drug company, Ely Lilly & Co. It is the plan to include antipsychotic drugs in infant formulas as a kind of "immunization" to help prevent episodes of ADHD in children as they age. The spokesman for Ely Lilly said the following: "There will be ethical issues of course but with ethical control over the drug and with reassurance of its safety, I'm sure objections can be overcome. We predict in five years, 1 in 3 children over 4 will be on antipsychotics as a matter of course...." It is obvious that the children are being targeted in many ways to program them as forthcoming planetary citizens of the New World Order...

But then there is the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), surely THEY would NEVER allow such corruption and blatant crimes against humanity to exist, for their mission is to keep the bad guys in check and bring order, right? Sorry Dorothy, but you are no longer in Kansas anymore... and you were just beginning to comprehend that the AMA was bad?:

The FDA is a government agency whose supposed job is to "protect" the public from dangerous drugs, foods, medicines, toxins, and medical procedures. In fact, the FDA is a gestapo-type organization only serving the interests of the major drug companies and medical establishment. The various senior members of the FDA rotate lucrative positions on the boards of major drug companies and other key organizations. Members of the FDA have been found to have severe conflicts of interest, often owning stocks in the very companies they are supposed to to "monitoring, policing and controlling".

This is not some paranoid conspiracy delusion. This is exactly what they do. They protect the interests of the drug companies by 1) ensuring important drugs get swift approval despite dangers or ineffectiveness, and 2) monitor and act to eradicate threatening competition from alternative or "non-team player" individuals and organizations.

I have been quoting Barry Lynes of www.sntp.com throughout the beginning of this chapter. I think it best to just include his whole summary of the FDA here for he just about covers all the same points I want to say:

"People think the FDA is protecting them - it isn't. What the FDA is doing and what people think it's doing are as different as night and day." - Herbert L. Ley, Jr., M. D., former Commissioner of the FDA

"The hearings have revealed police state tactics . . . possibly perjured testimony to gain a conviction . . . intimidation and gross disregard for Constitutional Rights." - Senator Edward Long, U.S. Senate hearings on the FDA (This is taken from Chapter 2 of Barry Lynes's book, The Healing of Cancer: The Cures the Cover-Ups and the Solution Now!)

The cancer conspiracy is led by the FDA-NCI-AMA-ACS hierarchy. The initials stand for the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the American Medical Association (AMA), and the American Cancer Society (ACS). The cancer conspiracy also includes the large pharmaceutical companies and key research centers such as the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City and selected university research labs. The key personnel move in and out of official positions within these organizations, sit on common boards or investigation committees, and have both formal and informal networks. When a researcher or alternative medicine advocate is identified as a threat to the power or even the official views put out by the ruling hierarchy, the maverick is placed on various published and unpublished blacklists. Funding is stopped, legal harassment often begins, public denunciation as a quack frequently follows, and if the outsider persists in offering or advocating a non sanctioned treatment, then rougher, clandestine methods can be employed.

It would take thousands of pages to describe various individuals who have fought the cancer conspiracy and how their threat to the ruling powers was neutralized. These pages can only summarize some of the more famous cases and facts which reveal how the cancer conspiracy functions, but those who wish to know more can pursue the details on their own, using the names and references offered here as a starting point. The people and procedures described in these pages are by no means inclusive, only the most notable or most promising.

The FDA (Food and Drug Administration) is the government police force which approves experimental studies for those it favors and hinders approval for those it dislikes.

It conducts semi-legal break-ins (constitutional procedures are often ignored), confiscates records so that critical documentation is often lost or at least unavailable for months and years, and at times has interfered with constitutional protections through conspiratorial relationships with private organizations who share the same suppressive goals. New medical breakthroughs that threaten the sanctioned and financially lucrative treatments are ignored or "studied" for years. The FDA thus frequently subverts its legislated purpose which is to promote and protect the public health. Having lived in Washington, D.C., I know that the FDA is regarded by many astute civil servants as the federal agency with the lowest morale. A dark cloud of oppressive inertia, corruption and bureaucratic sloth pervades its corridors.

Dr. J. Richard Crout, test director at the FDA Bureau of Drugs beginning in 1971, described the agency's agony in Congressional testimony on April 19, 1976 as follows:

"There was open drunkenness by several employees which went on for months ... crippled by what some people called the worst personnel in government. There was intimidation internally by people . . . People, I'm talking about division directors and their staff, would engage in a kind of behavior that invited . . . insubordination - people tittering in comers, throwing spitballs; I am describing physicians, people who would . . . slouch down in a chair, not respond to questions, moan and groan with sweeping gestures, a kind of behavior I have not seen in any other institution as a grown man . . . Prior to 1974, not one scientific officer in our place knew his work assignments, nor did any manager know the work assignment of the people under him."

In 1967, FDA stopped the use of an experimental cancer vaccine which was producing significant results. It was developed by H. James Rand, inventor of the heart defibrillator. J. Ernest Ayre, an internationally recognized cancer specialist (co-developer of the PAP test) and Dr. Norbert Czajkowski of Detroit, Michigan assisted Rand. Treating only terminal cancer patients, the Rand vaccine produced objective improvement in 35% of 600 patients while another 30% demonstrated subjective improvement. "One 65 year old woman with spreading tumor" was "completely cured in 4 months." Another woman with extensive breast cancer was cured in 6 months. The FDA stopped the vaccine's use in a federal court hearing where neither the cancer patients nor their doctors were allowed to testify. When U.S. Senator Stephen Young of Ohio protested, it was to no avail. Senator Young could get nowhere with FDA Commissioner James L. Goddard. Senator Young recalled:

"I could not move them. They would not even agree to a modification of the ruling (banning the Rand vaccine), which would at least allow the 100 (cancer) patients at Richmond Heights (Ohio) to complete their injections. The Justice Department was prepared to go along, but the FDA Commissioner, Dr. James Goddard, was adamant, even belligerent. It's wrong of the government to snatch away this hope when there is no evidence against its use offered in court. It's damnably wrong."

It is known that when FDA Commissioner Goddard's own wife had serious health problems and orthodox medicine could not help her, Goddard contacted alternative health practitioners who quietly healed his wife. But for the suffering victims of cancer who needed the Rand vaccine or some other nontraditional treatment, Goddard lowered the boom, using the federal courts to enforce his dictum. Such are the ways of the FDA.

Goddard's greatest disservice to the American people was his persecution of DMSO, a simple molecule which often brought miraculous pain relief and offered numerous possibilities for medical advancement in other areas, including cancer. One respected science writer suggested that Goddard crushed DMSO research in order to gain increased police powers from Congress. The FDA has never admitted its errors regarding DMSO although the positive studies from qualified scientists number over a thousand while the FDA's criticisms have been shown to be almost completely based on lies or unsubstantiated rumors. Yet by the late 1980s, twenty years later, the FDA continues to imprison DMSO advocates. The malignity of Goddard's arbitrary and conscienceless acts in 1966-1968 against reputable scientists, dedicated doctors and the public good is one of the darkest chapters of FDA history.

No one is sure of the real reasons why it happened and why it continues to be covered up twenty years later. It has been suggested that one or more drug companies sabotaged DMSO because it threatened so many of their profitable products. One drug company executive reportedly told the leading DMSO researcher:

"I don't care if it is the major drug of our century - and we all know it is - it isn't worth it to us."

Who had the power to keep such a miraculous drug off the shelves? Surely not just an FDA Commissioner flexing his muscle. Was it a combination of drug companies whose individual profits were threatened by the miracle drug's possibilities?

"(It is) not our (FDA) policy to jeopardize the financial interests of the pharmaceutical companies." - from testimony before Congress of Dr. Charles C. Edwards, at the time Commissioner of the FDA

It has also been surmised that FDA Commissioner Goddard used DMSO in 1966 in an attempt to become the medical dictator of America. In the years that followed, FDA officials simply refused to expose the agency's "dirty laundry." Hence the on-going suppression of what many recognize as "the major drug of the century."

In any case, Goddard instilled fear into honest researchers and physicians as no previous FDA Commissioner had done. He ruined careers. He introduced an intensified police force mentality into FDA with his emphasis on hiring ex T-men and G-men. He consciously blacklisted scientists as punishment for opposing him. And members of his agency, either with his encouragement or his acquiescence, openly began ignoring the Constitution for the sake of promotions and power.

Pat McGrady, Sr.'s book, The Persecuted Drug: The Story of DMSO, detailed what Goddard's FDA did. McGrady described "the no-knock system, the photocopying of private papers, bugging, punitive investigations, slander and libel, character assassination, forgery, lying and blackmail."

One scientist declared to McGrady:

"For the first time in my life I know fear. I'm afraid for my family and myself. I'm afraid for doctors and scientists. And I'm more afraid for our country. I can't believe these things are happening in the United States."

Another noted researcher maligned by Goddard's FDA observed:

"The academic community and industry are so completely intimidated that one cannot look for any leadership to counteract some of the punitive actions of the FDA. . . . I am very pessimistic concerning the future status of medical research unless a mood arises to combat overzealous bureaucratic authority."

Dr. Walter Modell of Cornell University Medical College finally warned in a published article ("FDA Censorship" in Clinical Pharmacology and Therapeutics):

"When the non-expert ingroup of the FDA threatens to become the dictator of American medicine we believe it will lead medicine from its respected eminence to its ultimate decline."

A few years after the DMSO suppression, one of Goddard's top aides, Billy Goodrich, left the FDA with his pension and became president of a food association regulated by the FDA. A personal friend who had been president of the food association took over Billy Goodrich's position at FDA. They simply switched jobs! Congressmen screamed in protest. It was such a blatant demonstration of the "musical shuffle" (which Congress had previously observed but ignored) that they had to make noise this time in order to avert public wrath. Still, after all the sound and fury, nothing happened.

Goddard himself became Chairman of the Board of Ormont Drug and Chemical Company a few years after leaving FDA.

A study conducted by the U.S. Congress in 1969 revealed that 37 of 49 top officials of the FDA who left the agency moved into high corporate positions with the large companies they had regulated. A General Accounting Office (GAO) study of FDA in 1975 revealed that 150 FDA officials owned stock in the companies they were supposed to regulate. The record of "conflict of interest" (or worse) within the FDA is deep and extensive.

In 1976, Dr. J. Richard Crout of the FDA admitted that "endless questions" was a favored technique within the agency to discourage any researcher who sought approval for an unorthodox cancer therapy. Bureaucratic obstruction is a weapon as deadly as a gun when the lives of innocent millions are at stake. It is a delusion to consider such institutionalized, orchestrated conduct, consciously chosen either because of orders from above or personal inclination, as anything other than white collar murder. It closely resembles the role carried out by the bureaucrats who pushed the paper in Nazi Germany. The policymakers may not fully perceive the effect of their actions, but the horror has gone on for too many decades to allow a plea of ignorance to be totally convincing.

In 1972, Dean Burk, Ph.D. of the National Cancer Institute (head of their cytochemistry section and a veteran of 32 years at the agency) declared in a letter to a member of Congress that high officials of the FDA, AMA, ACS and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (now Health and Human Services or HHS) were deliberately falsifying information, literally lying, committing unconstitutional acts and in other ways thwarting potential cancer cures to which they were opposed.

Dr. Burk's famous May 30, 1972 letter to Congressman Louis Frey, Jr. dealt with the issue of why FDA had revoked an Investigative New Drug (IND) application. The IND application, according to Dr. Burk, was superior to many routinely approved. But it involved testing laetrile, a controversial, nonpatentable product opposed by the California Medical Association (CMA). FDA approved the original application, then rescinded the license, apparently because of pressure from the surgeon general, a member of the CMA and a laetrile foe.

Dr. Burk was not an advocate of laetrile. He was however in favor of fair testing. He was totally opposed to what he bluntly called "misleading and indeed fraudulent" FDA reports. In his correspondence with Congress, he openly referred to the "FDA corruption."

Corruption indeed. It takes several forms. Refusing to allow investigation of a non-toxic compound which might help cancer patients is one. Failing to assert itself when a drug tested on human beings was determined to cause cancer is another. Here are the facts of such a case:

In August 1969 it was learned that a drug called Cinanserin, produced by E. R. Squibb and Sons, Princeton, New Jersey, caused tumors in the livers of rats. Human testing of the drug was thus stopped. But Squibb's executives did not want to do follow-ups on the humans who had taken Cinanserim.

For three years, FDA tried to persuade Squibb to do followup studies. (Compare this approach with what FDA does to alternative cancer treatments which work - raids, confiscation of documents, jail, etc. With the large drug companies, FDA tries persuasion!)

Finally, in 1972, FDA and the National Academy of Sciences set up a committee to examine procedures on follow-ups when a drug was found to be dangerous. Who was appointed to head the committee? The vice-president of Squibb whom the FDA had tried for 3 years to persuade to do follow-ups on those people who had been given the cancer-causing drug !

FDA has a long history of ignoring dangerous drugs and chemical additives marketed by the big drug companies while using bureaucratic delays, legal harassment, unconstitutional procedures, and even falsified evidence to stop unorthodox cancer treatments. In 1964, FDA initiated a multimillion dollar prosecution of Andrew Ivy, Vice-President and professor of physiology at the University of Illinois. Ivy was former chairman of the National Cancer Institute's National Advisory Council on Cancer. He was an internationally recognized scholar and a prolific author of scientific papers.

His sin was that he supported a cancer-curing serum called Krebiozen. Over 20,000 cancer patients had supposedly benefited from Krebiozen. One United States Senate Committee lawyer personally assessed 530 cases and concluded that Krebiozen was effective.

Among the doctors who supported it was US Air Force Major General Wallace H. Graham, Physician to the President of the United States:

"I have had some . . . unusually good results with Krebiozen."

It made no difference.

According to David Rorvik:

"Despite the government's (FDA's) multi-million dollar prosecution, which lasted 289 days and included falsified testimony, later confessed by the government, the four defendants (including Ivy) were acquitted on all 240 counts brought against them. The jury went to the extraordinary length, moreover, of saying that it believed Krebiozen had merit and should be tested, on the basis of positive, often well-documented testimony it had heard."

Krebiozen has never been tested objectively. FDA used illegal methods to stop it, methods which have been part of a conscious goal at FDA to dictate what medicine a citizen is permitted to use and what he may not use. Combined with the questionable behavior of FDA officials, the stock links to the large drug companies, and the testimony of FDA employees that conscious cover-ups were common, the intention of FDA to dictate individual medicine has to be recognized as one of the most dangerous threats to freedom that has ever existed.

Peter Temin, a professor at MIT, carefully studied FDA history and policy for his 1980 book, Taking Your Medicine: Drug Regulation in the United States. His conclusion, based on a very careful, close look at FDA is frightening:

"The most important facet of FDA regulation is the agency's expression of its conviction that individuals - both doctors and consumers - cannot make reasonable choices among drugs."

"The agency tried with increasing success to deny drug prescribers and users the option of taking 'innocuous' drugs, that is, to force them to use drugs the FDA regards as appropriate for their condition."

Despite evidence which extends for decades, revealing criminal behavior in the one agency that holds the power to permit tests of alternative cures for cancer, Congress has done nothing. One night in Washington, D.C., I found out why. I was introduced to the aide of one of the most powerful U.S. Representatives in Congress. His boss had been in Washington for many years. Yet, despite the Congressman's powerful committee position and ranking status in the majority party, he was unable to do anything with the health officials at FDA or NCI. After a number of drinks, this Congressman's aide told me that FDA and NCI were protected fiefdoms. They wrote their own legislation, permitting only minor changes by Congress. They ignored Congressional complaints. They were extensively tied to the big drug companies. They "know no one controls them. No one is able to take a sword and tell them where to go," the aide said. He leaned across the table and whispered, "Only national security procedures are as tightly controlled, without outside examination. Only national security. Does that tell you something?"

It told me that the monster was real and dangerous if some of the most powerful men in the U.S. Congress, with their massive egos and independent political bases, were afraid of it.

G. E. Griffin, author of World Without Cancer, made explicit the fundamental, systematic wrong which has emerged out of the various crosscurrents that make up FDA - underpaid civil servants playing it safe, drug companies and their Washington lawyers putting unending pressure on the bureaucrats, academic medicos controlling the approval process and restricting the individual doctor's choice, revolving door employment between FDA and universities/drug companies, and behind-the-scenes political deals. According to Griffin, FDA did two things: (1) they "protected" the big drug companies and were subsequently rewarded; and (2) they attacked - using the government's police powers - those who threatened the big drug companies, be it a young company with a new product, a breakthrough miracle drug such as DMSO, or natural health store products such as food, vitamins, minerals or other self-healing (non-drug, non-doctor) methods.

Griffin wrote the following about FDA:

"First, it is providing a means whereby key individuals on its payroll are able to obtain both power and wealth through granting special favors to certain politically influential groups that are subject to its regulation. This activity is similar to the 'protection racket' of organized crime: for a price, one can induce FDA administrators to provide 'protection' from the FDA itself.

"Secondly, as a result of this political favoritism, the FDA has become a primary factor in that formula whereby cartel-oriented companies in the food and drug industry are able to use the police powers of government to harass or destroy their free-market competitors.

"And thirdly, the FDA occasionally does some genuine public good with whatever energies it has left over after serving the vested political and commercial interest of its first two activities."

There is only one solution. No reform will work. REPEAT: NO REFORM WILL WORK. No changing of personnel will have any long term effect. No new laws dealing with regulations. Only one solution.

It was provided by a southern doctor now living in New York City who has observed the monster in action for many years. Raymond Keith Brown, M.D. outlined the solution in his book, Cancer, AIDS and the Medical Establishment. He described how the power which FDA has to approve drugs and technology has to be eliminated and replaced with the solitary role of testing for effectiveness and safety, the results being the basis for FDA labeling. The individual physician and individual patient would regain the responsibility to use or not use a given drug or technology.

Dr. Brown recommended:

"The FDA should follow a simple rating system for effectiveness and safety. Effectiveness would fall into one of three categories 'Effectiveness Unconditionally Proved', 'Effectiveness Conditionally Demonstrated', and 'Effectiveness Undetermined.' Safety could also be categorized in the same manner and the appropriate designation then affixed to all products or containers. Judgment of the effectiveness of any medical product or device should not be vested in any governmental agency or institutions, but should be returned to the province of the individual physician. Freedom of choice for medical materials, therapy and methods must be put on the same footing as civil liberties and as vigorously protected."

One of the better scholars in this field - Robert G. Houston - says simply:

"There should be curbs on the FDA - on its powers to intrude into the private practice of medicine . . . FDA should not be dictating to doctors what they can and cannot do."

Richard Ericson, a dedicated husband of a cancer victim, eloquently concurred (Cancer Treatment: Why So Many Failures?):

"A physician should be able to prescribe any type of cancer treatment that he considers best for the patient, with the patient's consent and knowledge, without stringent governmental regulations that are now in force. Congress should consider such problems when new guidelines are enacted."

Only when FDA concentrates on the blatant health menaces such as overtly misleading health product claims or drugs shown to cause death and injury; only when FDA ceases to be the bully boy for the big drug companies and other vested interests; and only when FDA again allows physicians, nonconventional healers and their patients some choice of therapeutic treatments . . . will it regain its legitimate government function. In its present form, it is like a malignant beast harming society rather than serving it.

Drugs, FDA, Corporate & Government Collusion

The Healing of Cancer: The Cures the Cover-Ups and the Solution Now! by Barry Lynes - Read how the American Cancer Society misleads the American public and collects over 350 million dollars a year in contributions, and how part of the money is used against innovative cancer researchers, how the FDA conspires to stop promising treatments, and how so many victims undergo torture because of medical profiteering, outmoded thinking and a corrupt politics.

The Cancer Cure That Worked: 50 Years of Suppression by Barry Lynes - Office of Alter. Medicine in Wash,D.C. knows about Royal Rife. They continue to ignore - while 10,000 Americans die of cancer every week! Murder by bureaucratic autocracy and inertia. National Cancer Institute and FDA are equally aware and continue to lie about Rife and his remarkable cancer-curing approach. Shame on all the so-called "experts" keeping their heads in the sand in order to protect their privileges and outdated chemo-drug-surgery "culture."

World Without Cancer: The Story of Vitamin B17 by G. Edward Griffin - Provides an excellent exposé of an alternative natural way to prevent and cure cancer through nutrition, and the forces in government and in large pharmaceutical firms that are fighting to keep the secret from us. This book serves as an eye opener to anybody who has ever wondered why there has been so little progress in the fight against cancer, despite the vast sums of money being invested.

The Cancer Industry: The Classic Expose on the Cancer Establishment by Ralph W. Moss - An ex-cancer insider at the Sloan Kettering institute details all of the alternative therapies which have been railroaded by the cancer establishment. An interesting read for anyone who has the nagging feeling that the cancer war is being lost because pharmaceutical companies are avoiding possible natural, non patentable cures.

Oh, you are going to die if you don't get this or that operation? No money, no insurance? "Sorry, can't help you, but can you please sign this paper giving us the rights to harvest your organs when you die? You see, my employer XYZ Good Samaritan Medical Center is a corporation and exists like all other corporations, to make a profit and we must answer to our shareholders, there are many of filthy rich wealthy people out there that can afford life saving procedures, im so sorry you poor sap but we can't do anything for you; but we do need are the spare parts that you can provide from your sad and unfortunate demise"... You know this is true.

What is worse are the poor more unfortunate goyim cattle who get kidnapped, murdered and have their organs harvested by Jewish mobsters ... (the link provided here is just one out of many such cases by the same group of people). Ok here is another: Israeli army admits stealing organs. And another: Israel Harvested Organs Without Families' Permission. How about this one: New York police arrest Jewish gang trafficking organs of Algerian children. Oh heres another: New Jewish organ theft gang busted.

Documentary: Big Bucks Big Pharma - Video

Go ahead; call me cynical, I'm just getting started. Is there not one single area of our society that is NOT being manipulated by mega conglomerates and their illuminati agents that directly and indirectly control the entire industry? Evidently: NOT!

We have massive hospitals and medical centers, and it costs a lot of money to staff them and operate them. It is simply a matter of economics. If enough people don't get sick, you have to make them sick. One way of doing this is with the use of BPA, or Bisphenol-A. Recent tests have proven that nine of ten babies in the United States are born with BPA in their systems. In addition to that, of all Americans of any age that were tested, it was found that 93% of them had BPA in their urine. The substance BPA was developed as a synthetic estrogen. It is produced by condensation of acetone, which produces two equivalents of phenol when catalyzed by hydrochloric acid. It is used to make polycarbonate plastics and epoxy resins. It is used as a lining for nearly all food and beverage cans and as a coating for carbonless paper receipts. Six billion pounds of BPA are used per year, even though it has been linked to breast cancer, prostate cancer, reproductive failures, heart disease, diabetes, asthma, obesity, and behavioral problems. The Federal Food and Drug Administration declared BPA to be safe for all uses, and they based their decision on two studies that were both done by the chemical industry that produces the BPA product! What a clever scheme to induce disease and feed the financial needs of the medical and drug industries! How much diabetes is there in our country? How about breast and prostate cancer? Where is it all coming from? Remember when years ago almost everything was packaged in real glass bottles, jars, and containers? There was far less disease in those days!

The entire medical industry is such a sham that I truly get saddened to my very core. I have witnessed firsthand on literally hundreds of occasions the cold hard realities of this industry. Yet I must state that I have met some of the warmest, caring doctors and nurses who are also another part of this industry. The evil exists not at the personal level of the medical professionals. For those who chose to pursue a career in medical care profession more often than not do so because they truly care about people. I therefore accuse not one doctor or nurse that are in practice, saving people's lives. The key is in that doctors were all trained like parrots to repeat what they were taught and force fed by the complicit medical establishment schools whose curriculums and agendas are all laid by the big pharma industry. Polly want a cracker?

Students only get a passing grade when they MEMORIZE and REPEAT over and over again what they are told. When the days come for taking those exams you put the answers that you were TRAINED, conditioned, programmed to remember. It is the way the system works, it is the only way to get a passing grade that will get you into a wealthy doctors job and have those long sought after initials after your name.

I looked up some definitions, another word for "teach" and "taught" is "trained." Yes, this might be a perfect word for this analogy: Doctors are TRAINED very much the same way DOGS are TRAINED, by repetition, "go fetch, do this, do that, good boy." Then comes the rewards, once the program is over, your fully TRAINED subject is ready to perform like a loyal obedient servant he was TRAINED to be... there is no room for independent thought, they all do as they have been TRAINED.

Over 780,000 Americans are killed each year by conventional medicine and FDA-approved prescription drugs, costing our nation $282 billion in economic losses. This is not conjecture or conspiracy theories, these are FACTS not bullshit conspiracy "theories."

The problem, as with almost all other industries lays in the boardrooms and stockholders' best interests of the massive medical establishments, all of which are none other than profit seeking organizations, big business. They ultimately answer to one master: their shareholders. What do the shareholders always want? Returns on investments! MONEY! MONEY!, MO MONEY! Who are the majority of shareholders worldwide? Financial institutions, investment funds, big corporations, immensely wealthy individuals, and so forth, and who are the chief controllers of said financial industries? Doh! The Zionists! Hello, I don't make this stuff up, I just tell it like it is. Then there are the evil principals who are part of the grand illuminati cartel that expertly weave their web and lead entire industries by the collar.

It Doesn't Get Any Worse Than This!

On October 22nd, the United States Senate was voting on whether or not to ban partial birth abortion. I and two others stood at the steps of the Senate and prayed, and the Senate did vote to ban the murderous procedure. President Clinton promptly said he would veto the ban and keep the murders going. Clinton vetoed the measure twice before (28), and if he does it again, I pray to God that it's "three strikes and you're out!"

Subsequently, I have learned why this butchery of killing a baby while it is being born is so protected, and nobody can seem to do anything about it. In a shocking article by Mona Charen, a nationally known journalist, whose article appeared in the Oshkosh Northwestern newspaper, the story is told of the marketing of body parts from these helpless infants. The story tells of a woman who had worked for a firm that marketed the body parts of the babies, such as the blood, eyes, livers, brains, thymuses and other things. (29) The parts would be sold to tissue researchers, pharmaceutical companies, and universities. (30) One such company that deals in the body parts of late term babies is Opening Lines Inc. In a brochure prepared for abortionists this company says, "Turn your patient's decision into something wonderful." Open Lines then offers its customers, "The freshest tissue prepared to your specifications and delivered in the quantities you need, when you need it." Eyes and ears go for $75 and brains for $999. An "intact trunk" fetches $500 and a whole liver $150. The woman who revealed all of this also stated that when she worked in harvesting such parts, she knew that there are 1,500 babies killed daily and parts are harvested from them every day throughout the United States. The U.S. Government refuses to enforce any laws pertaining to this. (30) The woman quit working for the company after she saw a beautiful pair of twins come in that were still alive, and she refused to kill them. She watched in horror as the doctor put them in a pan and drowned them, and then the parts were harvested. (31) She also said that doctors who see that babies are still alive commonly beat them to death with tongs. (32) There is much more that happens, but I am honestly getting sick as I write this, though I feel that the word must get out. How could our government ever blame Hitler or Stalin? When I think of what is happening in our land and the smirking face of our President, I am ashamed to be called an American, as our country stands today. It is not the land that I was born and raised in. It has gone to the devil! I will continue to pray, and I urge you to help me. – source: [Last Trumpet Newsletter]

The medical industry collectively has a massively powerful lobbying group that pushes not only congressional policy but also formulates public opinion. The stranglehold of the medical establishment is an amazing study into the magic of it basically formulating its own oversight. (Please bear with me, I am in no way a medical expert, yet will try to articulate the realities). The one governing body that overlooks the entire medical field is what? The FDA. That stands for: Food and Drug Administration. Why do I bother spelling it out? Ah, why are 2 seemingly completely different sectors of industries grouped into one overseeing agency would be a much better question! What does food have to do with drugs? Is there something that they know that we don't?

One of my first eye opening glimpses into this realm was from Kevin Trudeau's "Natural Cures They Don't Want You To Know About" book that was lent to me by a friend. I don't know if this guy is a crackpot or genuine, I always base my unbiased findings on TRUTH. His Natural Cures books do in fact point out a myriad of important facts, issues and information that has been purposely hidden and is not commonly known, while also exposing many evils of the medical establishment. Despite what the criminal organization that is the FDA has to say about Kevin or how badly they have gone out of their way to discredit this man, one thing does not change, it is the FACT that his book DOES reveal some of the well hidden obscured natural remedies and cures they don't want you to know about.

The reason for the dual nature of the Food and Drug Administration is because your food is FULL of chemicals and drugs! Artificial this and artificial that, laboratory chemicals are rampant in our foods, even poisons, most food today is devoid of the basic fundamental nutrients that our bodies need to operate at its full potential. Walk into your kitchen, open the cabinets, pick up any random item in a box and read the ingredients. Almost everything we devour in our lifetime has been treated/manipulated/modified with some sort of weird named additives. Even a simple apple from the fruit section will have traces of pesticides still on it. And those ingredients on all that junk food we eat, only God knows what how they ultimately affect us. Folks, we are being poisoned ever so slightly here and there. The connection between the foods we eat and the disorders we develop throughout life are ABSOLUTELY one billion percent connected. Evidently some people figured this out long ago prior to the founding of the FDA. Yet the same institution that supposedly exists to "protect the consumer" is for all intents and purposes being run by the medical establishment itself. This is an un-disputed FACT. CEOs of major pharma conglomerates are routinely appointed to lead this agency as if conflict of interest were a cartoon figment of the imagination.

So what do we have here? A perplexing situation where the agency that is supposedly there to "protect" us, (classic wolf guarding the hen house) is in the very midst of literally thousands of conflict of interest scenarios being perpetrated by the people who are out to subjugate mankind.

They routinely approve "ingredients" in our foods that in turn produce certain side effects... certain side effects require certain drugs to rectify. Sounds more like a scam to me. All the while many age old safe and proven "organic" remedies and cures are being systematically assaulted, banished and OUTLAWED by the FDA and other agencies. The FDA BANNED over the counter sales in the US of any natural product claiming to have therapeutic value, health benefits, or making any medical claims, unless it is a DRUG! Let me repeat: according to the FDA nothing on this planet can cure you unless it is a: DRUG!!!! Sanctioned and approved by the industry rubber stamp lap dog, the FDA!

The Big Pharma industrial complex is constantly denigrating, slandering and miss-labeling the natural supplements and vitamins sector as “unsafe” and “useless”, all the while the real matter of the fact is the exact opposite. This false and misleading information fear mongering is what rules the information waves disguised as gospel scientific “truth.” Here is just one recent example (out of a pool of thousands of blatantly false/misleading stories circulated to mislead the masses), this example came from Big Pharma whore “Next Generation Pharmaceutical”:

NGP prostitute Devin wrote:

“While many people opt to take a regimen of herbs, supplements and vitamins to help them feel a little better, new evidence reveals that not all supplements are good for you.

People's trust in their doctors can be rocked for a variety of reasons, which often lead people to explore "natural" healers. However, for some people, just knowing that you're doing something a little extra to feel better can pit a spring in your step.

But despite this, new reports out today suggest something quite disconcerting about the reality behind health supplements. The reports have surfaced after one New Yorkers discovery that the supplements she had taken had led to her experiencing numbness in her legs. The reason? Too much vitamin B6 in the woman's blood.

Sadly the case isn't that uncommon, with experts suggesting that its actually quite easy to get in trouble with herbs, supplements and vitamins simply because they're less cautious with something that's natural than they would be with a drug. In fact, certain herbs and supplements that are taken in the wrong way (either in high doses or in combination with certain drugs or before surgery) can lead to significantly dangerous side effects.

Take fish oil, for instance. While fish oil is a very safe supplement to increase your intake of heart-healthy fat, high doses can lead to excessive bleeding. And, according to German-based pharmaceutical giant Bayer, more than five grams of fish oil a day is just too much.

The list of side effects is quite shocking.”

Look at NGP’s sponsors list and it’s a who’s who of the medical industrial complex. There are numerous relationships and connections between the drug companies (both national and international), IG Farben (a mammoth German drug company with numerous cartel agreements throughout the world), the FDA (Food and Drug Administration), the AMA (American Medical Association), the APA (American Psychiatric Association), various "professional" journals and publications, research companies and organizations, philanthropic foundations, government organizations (NIMH - National Institutes of Mental Health), international organizations (WHO - World Health Organization) and the medical schools. The common factor in each is the presence of representatives of the "drug" approach to handling "illness". The drug companies are at the "top" of the hierarchy and they call the shots. Why? Because they are the source of the funding in all cases.

There you have it folks, the wolves that are watching over the hen house have long ago BANNED natural remedies and cures that have worked for eons! We therefore have virtually no official funding and therefore no research at all into healing with natural sources. If this is not proof positive that the FDA is just a sinister entity whose sole purpose is to DRUG mankind, instrumental in creating and maintaining the perfect servant class in society: the sheeple. I don’t know what else to say. If you possess one ounce of doubt in what I am disclosing, then just go right back to sleep, yes, sleep, sleep, sleep, everything is going to be A ok, trust your masters...

The numbers of people and situations that have been forcefully buried over the decades that the FDA has been "protecting" us from is astronomical. The hundreds or thousands of cases, proof, are just so many that it is completely out of scope (at the moment of writing this draft) of this report. Get off your lazy ass and look stuff up on the net! Look into the FDA deeply enough and you will come to only one conclusion. One undeniable truth. The reality that the FDA WAS FOUNDED TO PROTECT THE DRUG INDUSTRY! The proverbial Fox watching over the hen house. They pretend to exist for the wellbeing of the consumer, but this is the biggest crock of bull shit farce ever, for the FDA is nothing other than a FRONT and cover to lend credibility to PHARMACROOKS who RUN the medical industrial complex.

FACT: The FDA has conducted multiple ARMED RAIDS on VITAMIN SHOPS AND HEALTH CLINICS...

Our modern elite rulers have advanced well beyond the capabilities of the past tyrannies of Attila the Hun, Mussolini, Napoleon, Stalin, the Pharos, rulers, kings who all lacked the ability to harness the power of DRUGS to overpower their constituents and servants thus greatly facilitating the difficult task of getting the unruly mobs all under control.

For instance, it is common knowledge that the first evil ruler to utilize drugs on people was Nazi Germany's Hitler use of FLUORIDE in drinking water in the concentration camps to "sterilize humans and help control the masses into calm submission". What is it that they discovered about this poison?

“Repeated doses of infinitesimal amount of fluoride will in time reduce an individual’s power to resist domination, by slowly poisoning and narcotizing a certain area of the brain, thus making him submissive to the will of those who wish to govern him.”

Alex Jones: Question Your Reality - Video

Fluoride is also one of the basic ingredients in both PROZAC (FLUoxetine Hydrochloride) and SARIN GAS (Isopropyl-Methyl-Phosphoryl FLUoride). Fluoride is a poisonous chemical, and today has been BANNED from being used in the water supply throughout almost all of Europe, yet here in Amerika, its “ok”, “don’t worry about it, stop being paranoid, now go on and mind your own business.” The problem all tyrannical regimes have always had was that mad citizens often became tired of being enslaved, therefore rebellions would eventually become common place throughout history and often lead to the downfall of nations. Our new improved modernized New World Order elite have been ingeniously, quietly immunizing and medicating their citizens in the doctor’s offices and through their drinking water, reducing the resistance of the masses to domination and control and loss of liberty, turning them into docile humble followers and servants. BaaaaHaaaaaHaaaaaa... Sheeple. Yes, sleep, sleep, sleep... oh, look over there! Its Paris Hilton! Watch dancing with the stars! Here is another credit card, go shopping! Yaaayyyy!

Sodium Fluoride, a hazardous waste by product from the manufacture of aluminum, is a common ingredient in rat and cockroach poisons, anesthetics, psychiatric drugs, and military nerve gas. Many independent studies have been done by researchers, but as you can probably guess, they were all silenced in one way or another. What they have found of Fluoride, the “golden child” of the dental professionals around the world, is that Fluoride apparently has the ability to cause DNA damage and even “cell death” in human cells (Dr. C.D. Anuradha). Independent scientific evidence repeatedly showing up over the past 50 years reveals that fluoride shortens our life span, promotes cancer and various mental disturbances, accelerates osteoporosis and broken hips in old folks, and makes us stupid, docile, and subservient, all in one package.

Fluoride in our Water – The Truth?

Fluoride is the name given to a group of compounds that are composed of the naturally occurring element fluorine and one or more other elements. Both organic and inorganic compounds containing the element fluorine are sometimes called fluorides. Fluorides are present naturally in water and soil. (1)

Fluoride is to be added to the water supply of Southampton, U.K. – the first city in 40 years to adopt the policy. (2)

Recently, MP John Denham, Southampton Itchen, has written to Health Secretary Andrew Lansley to ask for clarification of the coalition government's policy on the potential fluoridation of Southampton's water supplies.

Mass Medication

In the past, water companies were reluctant to fluoridate for fear of being sued. However, in 2003, new legislation was brought in by the government which gives the 28 strategic health authorities the power to compel water companies, which will be compensated if any legal liabilities occur, to put fluoride in the mains supply and enforce mass medication.(3)

In the early 1940's, scientists discovered that people who lived where drinking water supplies had naturally occurring fluoride levels of approximately 1 part fluoride per million parts water (ppm), or 1 milligram fluoride per liter of water (mg/L), had fewer dental cavities. (4)

In 1945, Grand Rapids, Michigan, adjusted the fluoride content of its water supply to 1.0 ppm and thus became the first city to implement community water fluoridation. By 1992, more than 60 percent of the U.S. population served by public water systems had access to water fluoridated at approximately 1.0 ppm.

Phosphate Fertilizer Industry

Whilst the fluoride was naturally (organic) occurring in the cited initial study in 1940, the fluoride added to water is not natural (inorganic). The chemical added to our water is a fluorine compound called hexafluorosilicic acid and its salt, sodium hexafluorosilicate that is created as a by-product from the phosphate fertilizer industry as well as in the manufacturing of steel, aluminum, glass, and cement. (5)

Previously, the lack of government regulation allowed gaseous fluoride to move through factory smokestacks and straight into the atmosphere. Now, environmental regulations require giant filtration systems called "scrubbers" atop the stacks to keep these toxic chemicals from escaping into the air. (6)

Fluorosilicic acid is then extracted from these "scrubbers" and condensed to a water-based solution which is packaged unpurified and sold to city governments for the purpose of water fluoridation.

By selling the fluoride byproducts for this purpose, companies avoid the huge cost of disposing of these chemicals in the environment safely, and according to regulation.

Toxicity

In 1933, a toxicology report by the United States Department of Agriculture \(USDA\) warned of fluoride's toxicity singling out the aluminum industry as the biggest culprit. The new potential of legal liability due to the exposure of workers and communities to industrial fluoride scared corporations such as Monsanto, U.S. Steel, Union Carbide, and Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA), the leading producer of aluminum.

Knowing that disposing of industrial fluoride waste safely was expensive, ALCOA employed biochemist Gerald Cox in 1936, to argue for fluoride's dental benefits through experimentation on rats. Cox, neither a doctor nor a dentist, concluded that fluoride strengthened and protected teeth against decay and began to tour the country promoting water fluoridation on behalf of his employers.

In 1944, the Journal of the American Dental Association published the following statement:

“We do know that the use of drinking water containing as little as 1.2 to 3.0 parts per million of fluoride will cause such developmental disturbances as osteosclerosis, spondylosis, and osteopetrosis, and we cannot afford to run the risk of producing such serious systemic disturbances...”

Intelligence

These systemic disturbances would also seem to involve levels of intelligence.

A Chinese study looked at two sites in Shanxi Province – Sima Village and Xinghua Village.

In Sima

- 86 percent of the population have clearly evident dental fluorosis, and
- 9 percent have clinically diagnosed skeletal fluorosis.
- the average fluoride content of the drinking water is 4.12 mg/L.

In Xinghua

- the dental fluorosis rate is 14 percent, and
- the bone fluorosis rate is 0 percent.
- the fluoride content of the drinking water is 0.91 mg/L

The occupations, living standards, and social customs of the residents in the two villages are similar.

Only children, whose mothers lived in the survey location while pregnant, were included for testing. A total of 160 children, age 7 to 14, half male and half female, were randomly selected from each village. Official intelligence quotient (IQ) tests lasting 40 minutes were taken by each child in groups of 20. Besides this common parameter, the educational level of the parents of each child was also recorded. (7)

In the high-fluoride village of Sima, the number of children with IQ of 69 or below, was six times that in the healthier low-fluoride village of Xinghua. Moreover, the fact that the IQ scores increased more slowly with age in Sima than in Xinghua, supports the view that exposure to high levels of fluoride in utero exerts a cumulative adverse effect that is not overcome with increasing age in a high-fluoride community. The authors of the study remarked; results of this study indicate that intake of high-fluoride drinking water from before birth has a significant deleterious influence on children's IQ in one of two similar villages.

Breast Cancer

Fluoride may be responsible for increased rates of breast cancer by raising levels of a hormone called insulin-like growth factor (IGF-1). Though useful for a number of metabolic functions, when IGF-1 levels are raised, there is an increased risk of cancer. Premenopausal women with the highest levels of IGF-1 in their blood have shown a sevenfold increase in the risk of breast cancer. (9)

Much of the fluoride added to municipal water supplies across the U.S. is imported from China and is contaminated with heavy metals, according to a warning by Bernard Miltenberger, president of the Pure Water Committee of Western Maryland.

In a letter published in the Cumberland Times-News, Miltenberger notes that he first became aware of the issue in an engineering report for the city of Boulder, Colo. The report noted that the fluoridation chemicals used for the city's water had been evaluated and were found to contain lead levels of 40 milligrams per bag and arsenic levels of 50 milligrams per bag. The bags were being imported from China under no regulatory monitoring of acid or salt content.

The controversy occurs mainly in English-speaking countries. Water fluoridation is used in the United States, United Kingdom, Ireland, Canada, and Australia, and a handful of other countries.

Banned

In the late 1970's and early 1980's, Denmark and Sweden banned fluoridation when government panels found insufficient evidence of safety, and the Netherlands banned water fluoridation when "a group of medical practitioners presented evidence" that it caused negative effects in a percentage of the population. (10)

The following developed nations previously fluoridated their water, but stopped the practice. (11)

- Federal Republic of Germany (1952–1971)
- Sweden (1952–1971)
- Netherlands (1953–1976)
- Czechoslovakia (1955–1990)
- German Democratic Republic (1959–1990)
- Soviet Union (1960–1990)
- Finland (1959–1993)
- Japan (1952–1972)

In 1986, the journal Nature had a commentary;

"Large temporal reductions in tooth decay, which cannot be attributed to fluoridation, have been observed in both nonfluoridated and fluoridated areas of at least eight developed countries." (12)

Scotland

This is borne out by recent events in Scotland. Levels of tooth decay among primary one pupils in Scotland are falling, according to new figures. The figures showed that 54 percent of Primary One pupils had no sign of tooth decay. That is the best level since monitoring began in 1987. (13)

I am really encouraged that children's oral health is improving so rapidly says Lewis Macdonald, the deputy health minister.

It compared with 51 percent in 2004, and 45 percent in 2003.

The executive said the statistics were proof that tooth brushing schemes and education programs in Scotland's nurseries and primary schools were working.

He said more than 100,000 children across Scotland take part in a daily tooth brushing scheme at nursery and primary school and that the executive was planning to roll the scheme out to more schools.

This is also supported by a report on 12 Jul 2010, which claimed Glasgow is turning around the city's poor record on children's dental health. For the first time in decades figures show the majority of youngsters across the city have no tooth decay. This has been achieved with a £7 million investment in oral hygiene and has helped see almost 60 percent of 11-year-olds given a clean bill of health during dental check-ups – 2,500 more than in 2005, a 19 percent improvement.⁽¹⁴⁾

Mandatory tooth brushing sessions in the city's nurseries and schools and a fluoride varnishing program have been cited as the main reasons for the drop in tooth decay.

Glasgow has historically been cited as having the worst oral health record in Western Europe, with large numbers of young children having their milk teeth removed in hospital at a very early age because they are so badly decayed.

Ray McAndrew, clinical director of community dental services for NHSGGC, said:

Dental decay is 100% preventable, unlike other diseases that we treat.

We are absolutely delighted that, for the first time since we began compiling dental health records, the majority of children have no dental decay.

Dentists blame poor diet, especially sugary drinks in feeding bottles, and said it was not uncommon to see children under the age of two with decay or youngsters arriving at nursery who had never seen a toothbrush before.

Kevin Hill, director of oral health for NHSGGC, said;

“Dental extraction is the number one reason for hospital admissions in children.”

The health board is in favor of adding fluoride to the city's water supply but have not pursued a campaign to persuade government bodies to adopt the controversial policy since 2006.

Mr Hill says the next priority is an ante-natal program to encourage mums-to-be to take care of their children's teeth.

- 97% of 549 nurseries offer daily tooth brushing to 34,184 children.
- 94% of primary one and two classes – 17,600 children – are involved in daily tooth brushing.
- More than 1,000 primary one and two children have completed a fluoride varnishing program provided by staff since March this year. The overall aim is to apply fluoride varnish twice per year to every primary one and two child in the most deprived areas throughout the health board region.
- Upon completion, more than 5,000 children will have participated in the first round of the program.
- More than 135,600 oral health promotion packs are distributed each year through health visitors, nurseries, schools and healthy initiative events.

“If you start off with good habits, they will stay with you for the rest of your life”.

Do we really need mass medication with fluoride in our water, or is it just a case of mass education?

How can one of sound mind ever discount tons of evidence and documented TESTAMONIES by well known and highly regarded authorities?

Sodium Fluoride: the Obedience Drug

by Stephan Cooter, Ph.D.

Calcium fluoride and fluorine are nature's mineral salts as found in some natural waters, in tea, and other foods. But sodium fluoride comes from aluminum ore, and it is a byproduct of the modern aluminum industry. Unfortunately, sodium fluoride interferes with one of our most important neurotransmitters, acetylcholine. (See "Fluoride: Governmentally Approved Poison," <http://www.arthritis-trust.org>. Ed.)

Acetylcholine signals the [alleged] sodium pump in our bodies and turns the electrical current on; choline turns it off. (See "Correcting an Inaccurate Paradigm on Cellular Functions -- Lay Version," or "Correcting an Inaccurate Paradigm on Cellular Functions – Technical Version," <http://www.arthritis-trust.org>. Ed.)

On, our brains think and our muscles contract; off, we can rest and relax.

Both choline and acetylcholine are derived from a cholesterolcholine-fatty acid compound. If the body produces enough cholesterol-choline compound on its own or you take enough in the diet, you have plenty of choline for relaxing muscles, plenty of inositol for muscle sugar, plenty of fatty acids for fuel to power the muscles, plenty of acetylcholine for concentration. Acetylcholine is one of the neurotransmitters necessary for the brain to think properly and make muscles work. Without it, we become weak intellectually and physically.

The cholinergic system cooperates with salt to make the bodyelectric work. Acetylcholine controls the show: it regulates concentration and filters out distracting noises and other stimuli. Without it, we can't think clearly: we'd be flooded with a million different sources of stimulation. We wouldn't be able to sleep either, and we would be wakened by the noise of every creak and bump in the night.

At least one of civilization's manufactured salts wrecks the process. Sodium fluoride is a byproduct of aluminum ore extraction. Ironically, the EPA monitors industry dumping its sodium fluoride garbage into rivers because it can kill fish, but the EPA approves of it as a salt added to our drinking water. In our drinking water, fluoride messes up the thinking process by interfering with acetylcholine synthesis. Dr. Richard Murray has pointed out that only 1 part per million of sodium fluoride in the water we drink or canned food we take in that came from a fluoridated source can inhibit acetylcholine synthesis 61%. When it comes to a related brain sugar that assists acetylcholine, the neurotransmitter, glutamine, 1 ppm of sodium fluoride inhibits glutamine synthesis 100%.

In “Neurophysiology and Aluminum³⁷,” Dr. Murray demonstrated how we are setting up Alzheimer’s and Parkinson’s in many of us who think we are trying to strengthen tooth enamel.

Added supplemental choline and food consumed with drinking water may help bind up the negative effects of fluoride salts and prevent this from happening. Avoidance of fluoridated water is a good idea for other reasons, not the least of which is to avoid brittle bones and hip fractures in old age. In Utah, where fluoridation went into the water supply, bone fractures went up with the fluoride concentration in the water.

But that’s not the worst of it. During wartime, both the Germans and Russians added sodium fluoride to the water of prisoners of war. Were they interested in preventing tooth decay? According to the documentation of the Australian Ian E. Stephen (1987), both Germans and Russians used fluoridation because they had discovered that it made their prisoners “stupid and docile” (Well Mind Association²²). Eustace Mullins in *Murder by Injection*³⁶, claimed that the originators of fluoridation in the United States were informed about the Soviet uses of fluoride salts to induce sheeplike, obedient, unthinking behavior, not only in prisoners, but in the general population at large.

This “human” experiment was not original. Apparently, the obedience drug-like effect was borrowed from animal studies that showed that breeders of intractable bulls had routinely used sodium fluoride to successfully tranquilize bulls for easier handling. Since the 1940s, the prison camps in the Gulag Archipelago in the Soviet Union were experimental laboratories for discovering just how much sodium fluoride was necessary for producing an easily managed, obedient human population.

Using Dr. Murray’s figures, it only takes a concentration of 1 part per million of fluoride to significantly impair acetylcholine synthesis in the body. In Salem, Oregon, the water supply has .4 parts per million, considerably under the 1-4 parts per million considered effective to prevent tooth decay through sugar-sucking adolescence. But at 1-4 parts per million, declining Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores, the stupidity of senators who can’t balance check books or national budgets, and the tyranny of dullness that controls our political and regulatory agencies’ thinking takes on an insidious dimension.

Acetylcholine is the brain chemical that allows clear thinking and concentration. It allows us to sort out the important and distinguish from the trivial. We are left to wonder how much of our leadership [in Washington] is drinking tap water!!! If we care about ourselves, we better turn off the tap.

It was in the 1940s that sodium fluoride first began to be added to the U.S. water supply. If we can believe Mullins (and dozen upon dozens of authorities on this matter), U.S. bureaucrats not only knew about the Soviet use of fluoride, but envied what it did for controlling a population’s behavior.

Documentary: Vaccination The Hidden Truth – Video

I included these two reports about Fluoride in order to more adequately substantiate the very crucial point I am trying to illustrate here. And that is simply: Our “wonderful benevolent, most caring” government has been not just involved in, but actually spearheading practices and policies they know ARE HAVING HORRENDOUS IMPACTS ON ITS CITIZENS. The information provided by just these two articles should clearly articulate just how bad Fluoride is and the fact that our government KNOWS IT. They are purposely behind it. They KNOW it helps make not only animals, but people dumb and docile, for this IS the result they want to achieve, otherwise this TOXIC poison would NEVER in a million years be allowed to be used in humans.

The Truth About 'Fluoride'

(or what every Mother should know)

by A. True Ott

tott@mountainwest.net © August 2000

Fluoride used by Nazis to sterilize inmates and make them docile. Fluoride a key dumbing down ingredient of Prozac and Sarin nerve gas -- poisons of choice for tyrant rats.

First of all, it needs to be stated that the 'substance' referred to as 'Fluoride' is a misnomer - there is no such substance listed in the periodic chart of the elements, nor in the prestigious CRC handbook, nor in the sacred 'bible' of the pharmaceutical industry - the illustrious 'Merck Index'. Instead, we find a GAS called Fluorine - and from the use of this gas in various industries such as aluminum manufacturing and the nuclear industry - certain toxic byproducts are created which have 'captured' fluorine molecules. One such toxic, poisonous 'byproduct' is called sodium Fluoride - which according to the Merck Index is primarily used as rat and cockroach poison and is also the active ingredient in most toothpastes and as an "additive to drinking water". But sadly, there is much more to this sordid tale.

Did you know that sodium Fluoride is also one of the basic ingredients in both PROZAC (FLUoxetine Hydrochloride) and Sarin Nerve Gas (Isopropyl-Methyl-Phosphoryl FLUORIDE) - (Yes, folks the same Sarin Nerve Gas that terrorists released on a crowded Japanese subway train!). Let me repeat: the truth the American public needs to understand is the fact that Sodium Fluoride is nothing more (or less) than a hazardous waste by-product of the nuclear and aluminum industries. In addition to being the primary ingredient in rat and cockroach poisons, it is also a main ingredient in anesthetic, hypnotic, and psychiatric drugs as well as military NERVE GAS! Why, oh why then is it allowed to be added to the toothpastes and drinking water of the American people?

Historically, this substance was quite expensive for the worlds' premier chemical companies to dispose of - but in the 50's and 60's - Alcoa and the entire aluminum industry - with a vast overabundance of the toxic waste - SOMEHOW sold the FDA and our government on the insane (but highly profitable) idea of buying this poison at a 20,000% markup and then injecting it into our water supply as well as into the nation's toothpastes and dental rinse. Yes that's right folks, a 20,000% markup. Consider also that when sodium Fluoride is injected into our drinking water, its level is approximately 1 part-per-million (ppm), but since we only drink ½ of one percent of the total water supply, the hazardous chemical literally 'goes down the drain' and voila - the chemical industry has not only a free hazardous waste disposal system - but we have also PAID them handsomely in the process!!

Independent scientific evidence over the past 50 plus years has shown that sodium fluoride shortens our life span, promotes various cancers and mental disturbances, and most importantly, makes humans stupid, docile, and subservient, all in one neat little package. There is increasing evidence that aluminum in the brain is a causative factor in Alzheimer's Disease, and evidence points towards sodium fluoride's strong affinity to 'bond' with this dangerous aluminum (remember it is a byproduct of aluminum manufacturing) and also it has the ability to 'trick' the blood-brain barrier by imitating the hydrogen ion thus allowing this chemical access to brain tissue.

Honest scientists who have attempted to blow the whistle on sodium fluoride's mega-bucks propaganda campaign have consistently been given a large dose of professional 'black-listing' and thus their valid points disputing the current vested interests never have received the ink they deserve in the national press. Just follow the money to find the 'control' and you will find prominent American families to be prominent 'players' in the scandal. In 1952 a slick PR campaign rammed the concept of 'fluoridation' through our Public Health departments and various dental organizations. This slick campaign was more akin to a highly emotional "beer salesman convention" instead of the objective, scientifically researched program that it should have been. It has continued in the same vein right up to the present day - and now sodium fluoride use has now become 'usual and customary'.

To illustrate the emotional vs. the scientific nature of this issue, just look at the response given by people (perhaps yourself included?) when the subject of fluoridation comes up. You need to ask yourself, "Is this particular response based on EMOTIONS born of TRADITION, or is it truly unbiased and based instead on thoroughly researched objectivity?" There is a tremendous amount of emotional, highly unscientific "know-it-all" emotions attached to the topic of 'sodium fluoride' usage -but I personally have yet to find even ONE objective, double blind study that even remotely links sodium fluoride to healthy teeth at ANY AGE. Instead, I hear and read such blather as "9 out of 10 DENTISTS recommend 'fluoride' toothpaste" etc. etc. etc. Let me reiterate: truly independent (unattached to moneyed vested interest groups) scientists who've spent a large portion of their lives studying and working with this subject have been hit with a surprising amount of unfair character assassinations from strong vested-interest groups who reap grand profits from the public's ignorance as well as from their illnesses. (Just follow the money!)

Do you have diabetes and/or kidney disease? There are reportedly more than 11 million Americans with diabetes. If it is true that diabetics drink more liquids than other people, then according to the Physicians Desk Reference these 11 million people are at much higher risk drinking fluoridated water because they will receive a much deadlier dose because of their need for higher than normal water consumption. Kidney disease, by definition, lowers the efficiency of the kidneys, which of course is the primary means in which fluoride (or any other toxic chemical) is eliminated from the body. Does it not make sense that these people shouldn't drink fluoridated water at all? Cases are on record (Annapolis, Maryland, 1979) where ill kidney patients on dialysis machines died because they ingested relatively small amounts of SODIUM FLUORIDE from unwittingly drinking the 'fluoridated' city water supply? Will adequate warnings be given to people with weak kidneys, or will the real cause of such deaths be 'covered up' in the name of 'domestic tranquility'?

Concerning the 'practice' of putting sodium fluoride into drinking water, where did this insanity begin and WHO tried it first? From personal research, the very first occurrence of purposefully putting sodium fluoride into drinking water was in the German ghettos and in Nazi Germany's infamous prison camps. The Gestapo you see had little concern about sodium fluoride's 'supposed' effect on children's teeth; instead, their reason for mass-medicating water with sodium fluoride was to STERILIZE HUMANS and force the people in their concentration camps into calm, bovine, submission. (See for reference: "The Crime and Punishment of I.G. Farben" written by Joseph Borkin.) Kind of shocking isn't it folks!! Ah, but it gets even better.

The following letter was received by the Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research, Milwaukee Wisconsin, on 2 October 1954, from a research chemist by the name of Charles Perkins. He writes:

"I have your letter of September 29 asking for further documentation regarding a statement made in my book, "The Truth about Water Fluoridation", to the effect that the idea of water fluoridation was brought to England from Russia by the Russian Communist Kreminoff. In the 1930's Hitler and the German Nazis envisioned a world to be dominated and controlled by a Nazi philosophy of pan-Germanism. The German chemists worked out a very ingenious and far-reaching plan of mass-control which was submitted to and adopted by the German General Staff. This plan was to control the population in any given area through mass medication of drinking water supplies. By this method they could control the population in whole areas, reduce population by water medication that would produce sterility in women, and so on. In this scheme of mass-control, sodium fluoride occupied a prominent place.

"Repeated doses of infinitesimal amounts of fluoride will in time reduce an individual's power to resist domination, by slowly poisoning and narcotizing a certain area of the brain, thus making him submissive to the will of those who wish to govern him. [A convenient and cost-effective light lobotomy? --- Ott].

"The real reason behind water fluoridation is not to benefit children's teeth. If this were the real reason there are many ways in which it could be done that are much easier, cheaper, and far more effective. The real purpose behind water fluoridation is to reduce the resistance of the masses to domination and control and loss of liberty."

"When the Nazis under Hitler decided to go to Poland, both the German General Staff and the Russian General Staff exchanged scientific and military ideas, plans, and personnel, and the scheme of mass control through water medication was seized upon by the Russian Communists because it fitted ideally into their plans to communize the world."

"I was told of this entire scheme by a German chemist who was an official of the great I.G. Farben chemical industries and was also prominent in the Nazi movement at the time. I say this with all the earnestness and sincerity of a scientist who has spent nearly 20 years' research into the chemistry, biochemistry, physiology and pathology of fluorine --- any person who drinks artificially fluorinated water for a period of one year or more will never again be the same person mentally or physically."

Signed: CHARLES E. PERKINS, Chemist, 2 October, 1954.

Another letter needs to be quoted at length as well to help corroborate Mr. Perkin's testimony. This letter was written by a brilliant (and objectively honest) scientist named Dr. E.H. Bronner. Dr. Bronner was a nephew of the great Albert Einstein, served time in a WWII prison camp and wrote the following letter printed in the Catholic Mirror, Springfield, MA, January 1952:

"It appears that the citizens of Massachusetts are among the 'next' on the agenda of the water poisoners.

"There is a sinister network of subversive agents, Godless intellectual parasites, working in our country today whose ramifications grow more extensive, more successful and more alarming each new year and whose true objective is to demoralize, paralyze and destroy our great Republic ---- from within if they can, according to their plan --- for their own possession."

"The tragic success they have already attained in their long siege to destroy the moral fiber of American life is now one of their most potent footholds towards their own ultimate victory over us."

"Fluoridation of our community water systems can well become their most subtle weapon for our sure physical and mental deterioration. As a research chemist of established standing, I built within the past 22 years 3 American chemical plants and licensed 6 of my 53 patents. Based on my years of practical experience in the health food and chemical field, let me warn: fluoridation of drinking water is criminal insanity, sure national suicide. DON'T DO IT!!"

"Even in very small quantities, sodium fluoride is a deadly poison to which no effective antidote has been found. Every exterminator knows that it is the most effective rat-killer. Sodium Fluoride is entirely different from organic calcium-fluoro-phosphate needed by our bodies and provided by nature, in God's great providence and love, to build and strengthen our bones and our teeth. This organic calcium-fluoro-phosphate, derived from proper foods, is an edible organic salt, insoluble in water and assimilable by the human body; whereas the non-organic sodium fluoride used in fluoridating water is instant poison to the body and fully water soluble. The body refuses to assimilate it."

"Careful, bonafide laboratory experimentation by conscientious, patriotic research chemists, and actual medical experience, have both revealed that instead of preserving or promoting 'dental health', fluoridated drinking water destroys teeth before adulthood and after, by the destructive mottling and other pathological conditions it actually causes in them, and also creates many other very grave pathological conditions in the internal organisms of bodies consuming it. How then can it be called a 'health plan'? What's behind it?"

"That any so-called 'Doctors' would persuade a civilized nation to add voluntarily a deadly poison to its drinking water systems is unbelievable. It is the height of criminal insanity!"

"No wonder Hitler and Stalin fully believed and agreed from 1939 to 1941 that, quoting from both Lenin's 'Last Will' and Hitler's Mein Kampf: "America we shall demoralize, divide, and destroy from within."

"Are our Civil Defense organizations and agencies awake to the perils of water poisoning by fluoridation? Its use has been recorded in other countries. Sodium Fluoride water solutions are the cheapest and most effective rat killers known to chemists: colorless, odorless, tasteless; no antidote, no remedy, no hope: Instant and complete extermination of rats."

"Fluoridation of water systems can be slow national suicide, or quick national liquidation. It is criminal insanity ----- treason!!"

Signed: Dr. E.H. Bronner, Research Chemist, Los Angeles

Apparently, the public outcry by Dr. Bronner and others precluded the fluoridation of public water systems for a season - but soon thereafter, the Food and Drug Administration allowed this deadly poison to be put in 'toothpaste', and our dentists were systematically brainwashed into providing 'fluoride treatments' to their many patients. Of course, today many major metropolitan areas have a minimum of 1 parts per million sodium fluoride systematically added to their water supply and more areas are seeking to add this poison every year. Add to this the fact that bottling companies (soft drinks, juices, etc.) use fluoridated water to make their products - is it any wonder that people can no longer think clearly and ask pertinent questions of their elected and ecclesiastical leaders? Is it also a mystery why so many top Nazi mind control scientists were brought to America by the CIA and their infamous 'Operation Paper Clip'?

If you believe all of this is 'just a coincidence' - go ahead and keep brushing your teeth with your 'fluoride' toothpaste and sucking on your sodium fluoride enhanced Coke or Pepsi product - for ignorance truly is bliss and you truly deserve what you get.

Mothers, if your little ones are having trouble concentrating at home or in school, or have been diagnosed as 'attention deficit' - perhaps you would be well advised to look for the culprit (and the solution to the problem) no further than your home medicine cabinet (your tube of toothpaste) and your friendly neighborhood school's water fountain!!

✪ Sukel.com - The Fluoride Controversy - synopsis of both sides.

The entire realm of diseases and viruses is dominated by secretive military and CIA skunkworks labs (or trusted contractor organizations and or fronts) who solely exist to dream up new and more effective BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS. Many, if not most of the new viruses that have been introduced in the past several decades have been painstakingly researched and traced back to the biological laboratories who concocted them. One very good work out there delving into this very topic is a video called “In Lies We Trust, The CIA, Hollywood and Bioterrorism,” (you can find this and most videos mentioned in this report by Googling the title).

The scary part is that our government (not to mention the many other “evil” regimes) have been behind massive biological weapons manufacturing for decades and has even been exporting biological weapons to many other countries such as Uncle Sam’s old pal: Saddam Hussein... whom they sold tons of biological weapons of mass destruction to... Ah, the mighty web that they weave. The real scary part is that it seems to be part of the Zionist lucifarian illuminati elite’s plan to take out massive portions of the world population, and I along with many other researchers believe that these people have been unleashing PLAGUES (Swine flu, Bird flu, AIDs, etc.) and will someday soon unleash even more deadly ones... Of course the medical conglomerates are in the thick of this. They profit handsomely in the midst of all the carnage.

Then there are the bogeymen terrorists we are being taught to FEAR... According to official fairytale propaganda reports being circulated ad nauseam, al-CIA-da is purportedly working hard to hit “free” societies with bioterrorism... /sigh/ Fear for your lives you pathetic goyim cattle for the days of reckoning are at hand and the enemy is none other than your loving caring benevolent rulers.

Once the “evil al-CIA-da bogeymen” unleash their bio-terror or nuclear weapon on you and or the illuminati’s Big Pharma complex unleashes one of their new improved plagues of biblical Armageddon proportions then all hell will break loose. Directly to quarantine (concentration camps) centers millions will be shipped off to... And if its not some bogus al-CIA-da biological attack, it WILL be a meticulously planned and executed pandemic such as the one that is currently being promoted to the ends of the earth:

Behold the Swine Flu cometh... engineered in a laboratory by splitting genes of several other flu viruses then repackaged as a new improved, more deadly flu virus. Foul play is a most reasonable explanation, especially since this unique virus held genes from avian, swine, Spanish, and regular flu strains!!! – “Totally unprecedented in the history of “natural selection” health science addressing evolution of the species.” Is what several highly respected medical experts all agree on.

On Friday, October 23rd, 2009, Barack Obama declared a national health emergency regarding the H1N1 influenza virus... why did Obama refuse to have his own daughters immunized as reported by the Fox News White House Blog?

THREE MONTHS AGO, Joseph Moshe, Israeli Microbiologist, called into an LA talk show to warn people Baxter Intl's Ukraine Lab was, in fact, producing a bioweapon disguised as a flu vaccine. He was quickly chased, gassed, tasered and taken away by LAPD SWAT Teams.

The medical mafia, the government and the media are trying their hardest to stir up MASS HYSTERIA fear mongering with constant dramatically over hyped onslaught of nonstop coverage. But did you know the actual figures involved? As of this writing the numbers are: "Swine flu has sickened about 22 million Americans since April, by comparison estimates of deaths caused by the swine flu have grown to nearly 4,000 since April... According to my dime store calculator the Swine flu kills 0.00018% of those it sickens... (data source) There goes your mythical pandemic. You have a better statistical chance of dying while taking a shower than dying from the swine flu. The whole swine flu "pandemic" hoax was designed to get the masses scared shitless and beg for not one, but several "flu" shots. The bottom line is ITS ALL ABOUT THE VACCINES. This is what it's all about! For some ulterior reason they want everyone to get the toxic flu shots. Roll up your sleeves you bunch of cattle, we will take good care of you. We gona fix you right up real good. Here you go. Good boy, now run along.

The kicker? The vaccines that are quickly becoming mandatory are the ones that will cripple you or even kill you, for these designer vaccs have been devised to neuter you in the brain. Once people begin to get "immunizations" en mass, watch as it will be, and only after that, will the Swine Flu really take off, due to the fact that it will be injected into the lemming population and the idiots lining up for shots will all become willing carriers. Once the outbreak reaches critical mass, do expect and prepare for the possibility of massive quarantines... Never to worry, FEMA has been busy bees, if this thing gets out of hand, and they are preying it will, they have ~~concentration camps~~, ummm, "nice outdoor facilities" ready just for this type of scenario... Note: if this does not occur during this "pandemic" it will happen eventually in the upcoming near future with another planned outbreak, for it might be that this "pandemic" might just be a trial priming run, to get the population psychologically primed and ready for the big one: the Armageddon Flu!

No sooner than I wrote that last sentence above then the next day I run into several disturbing news headlines: "British scientists testing Ukrainian 'super flu' that has killed 189 people," 'MILLION HIT BY 'PLAGUE WORSE THAN SWINE FLU'

"A cocktail of three flu viruses are reported to have mutated into a single pneumonic plague, which it is believed may be far more dangerous than swine flu. The death toll has reached 189 and more than 1 million people have been infected, most of them in the nine regions of Western Ukraine. [my trusty calculator says that translates to a measly 0.000189 infection/death ratio] President Yushchenko said: "People are dying. The epidemic is killing doctors. This is absolutely inconceivable in the 21st Century. Blah, blah, blah" People, I will reiterate: they WILL eventually produce a sheeple herd culling strain of some sort of virus... The bullshit premise that is presented with this "new strain" of combined "mutated" viruses is that it somehow magically appeared as in fairytale land. BULLSHIT. These strains ARE being engineered in freaking laboratories and purposely spread. Coming soon to a town near you: The ARMAGEDDON FLU!

Another take on this new outbreak strain from birdflupandemic.com is:

Just what in the world is going on?

Virus samples taken from patients in Ukraine by the WHO are being tested at the Medical Research council labs in Mill Hill North London. But apparently they do not want to tell us what is going on either. Another major U.K. news source, Daily Express, quotes a spokesman as saying the following about the testing of the samples.....

"We do not have a time scale for the results of the tests, although some preliminary results have been obtained. I cannot tell you what they are."

"We did not have enough of the virus samples so we will have to grow some more before we can come to a conclusive decision about its nature." What in the world? They have some "preliminary results" but they cannot tell us what they are? The Daily Express is calling it a "plague worse than swine flu" and the WHO "cannot" tell us anything about what we are facing.

Something does not smell right.

Meanwhile, disturbing new reports are coming in from Poland that airplanes carrying out aerosol spraying have been flying in the middle of the night. In addition, reports are coming out of Austria of similar spraying taking place there.

So why are those reports troubling? Well, because there were reports of airplanes carrying out aerosol spraying in Ukraine about the time when this new outbreak began there.

So what in the world is going on?

Volumes of books exist in print that delve into the myriad of dubious acts of the medical industrial complex, so much so that this report can never hope to cover all the bases. Can you sit there and still think even for a moment that the MEDICAL INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX is different from all other corrupt greedy businesses? All we can hope to do is hope to open your eyes to the fact that the entire medical industry is just another sinister tentacle of the Matrix and is purely composed of morally devoid FOR PROFIT CORPORATIONS who's first and foremost and ONLY priority is: MAKE MO MONEY for the shareholders, as in "I don't care how you do it, MAKE MORE MONEY each and every accounting quarter, its all about ROI, the Return On Investment baby. Taking a more detailed look into this industry reveals the same corruption, maneuvering and practices of all the other major industries. What makes the "sins" of the medical industrial matrix so much more painful is the fact that this industry fleeces the poor, weak, sick and elderly alike. Actually there are many clues that when revealed and viewed in a correct frame of light would point to a startling conclusion that the medical establishment is out to create perfect SHEEPLE.

What's more, I recently decided to check and see who where the key figures running the CDC (Center for Disease Control), I wanted to know who was the person at the top knowingly rubber stamping and approving the toxic vaccines and purposely shoving them down the public's throat. Well, I look under that stone, low and behold, as in 9 out of 10 instances in my research, I find more Zionist Jews running the show. I don't make this up folks! Upon seeing that the current Director of the CDC was a Jew by the name of Dr. Thomas R. Frieden, next to his name was his predecessor Julie Gerberding, yet another Zionist Jew.

When she took over the CDC she completely restructured the CDC and centralized control, according to dozens of complaints from senior CDC scientists she drove away the agencies best scientists and embittered many of its 7,000 employees. In the midst of the mercury in vaccine controversy and alleged cover-up, Gerberding took the immunization program into her own office (how convenient) away from prying eyes, where she could closely direct its development and guard its sinister secrets. Today Frieden continues the Zionist eugenic agenda of sterilizing the minds of the people, in essence performing chemical lobotomies for the purpose of converting the population into walking talking docile zombies through vaccination.

"Putting vaccine safety into Gerberding's office seems to have largely crushed it, rather than increasing its independence, Davis said. "They fought tooth and nail to keep the Immunization Safety Office in the CDC," he said, "but in retrospect, because of the desire to control the message, the ISO's independence has been suffocated.” Davis complained that his superiors were overly meddling in setting the agenda of his office.”

European Parliament to Investigate WHO and “Pandemic” Scandal

By F. William Engdahl, Center for Research on Globalization - www.globalresearch.ca

The Council of Europe member states will launch an inquiry in January 2010 on the influence of the pharmaceutical companies on the global swine flu campaign, focusing especially on extent of the pharma’s industry’s influence on WHO. The Health Committee of the EU Parliament has unanimously passed a resolution calling for the inquiry. The step is a long-overdue move to public transparency of a “Golden Triangle” of drug corruption between WHO, the pharma industry and academic scientists that has permanently damaged the lives of millions and even caused death.

The parliament motion was introduced by Dr. Wolfgang Wodarg, former SPD Member of the German Bundestag and now Chairman of the European Parliament Health Committee. Wodarg is a medical doctor and epidemiologist, a specialist in lung disease and environmental medicine, who considers the current “pandemic” Swine Flu campaign of the WHO to be “one of the greatest medicine scandals of the Century.”[1]

The text of the resolution just passed by a sufficient number in the Council of Europe Parliament says among other things, “In order to promote their patented drugs and vaccines against flu, pharmaceutical companies influenced scientists and official agencies, responsible for public health standards to alarm governments worldwide and make them squander tight health resources for inefficient vaccine strategies and needlessly expose millions of healthy people to the risk of an unknown amount of side-effects of insufficiently tested vaccines. The “bird-flu”-campaign (2005/06) combined with the “swine-flu”-campaign seem to have caused a great deal of damage not only to some vaccinated patients and to public health-budgets, but to the credibility and accountability of important international health-agencies.”[2]

The Parliamentary inquiry will look into the issue of „falsified pandemic“ that was declared by WHO in June 2009 on the advice of its group of academic experts, SAGE, many of whose members have been documented to have intense financial ties to the same pharmaceutical giants such as GlaxoSmithKline, Roche, Novartis, who benefit from the production of drugs and untested H1N1 vaccines. They will investigate the influence of the pharma industry in creation of a worldwide campaign against the so-called H5N1 “Avian Flu” and H1N1 Swine Flu. The inquiry will be given “urgent” priority in the general assembly of the parliament.

In his official statement to the Committee, Wodarg criticized the influence of the pharma industry on scientists and officials of WHO, stating that it has led to the situation where “unnecessarily millions of healthy people are exposed to the risk of poorly tested vaccines,” and that, for a flu strain that is “vastly less harmful” than all previous flu epidemics.

Wodarg says the role of the WHO and its the pandemic emergency declaration in June needs to be the special focus of the European Parliamentary inquiry. For the first time, the WHO criteria for a pandemic was changed in April 2009 as the first Mexico cases were reported, to make not the actual risk of a disease but the number of cases of the disease basis to declare “Pandemic.” By classifying the swine flu as pandemic, nations were compelled to implement pandemic plans and also the purchase swine flu vaccines. Because WHO is not subject to any parliamentary control, Wodarg argues it is necessary for governments to insist on accountability. The inquiry will also to look at the role of the two critical agencies in Germany issuing guidelines on the pandemic, the Paul-Ehrlich and the Robert-Koch Institute.

Still skeptical? /sigh/ How about Aspartame? The shocking truth of Aspartame is that it was once on a list of Pentagon possible biochemical WEAPONS! Yet somehow today it is perfectly ok to use it as sweetener for your coffee and all sorts of yummy low fat products designed specifically for all you goyim sheeple consumption. “Don’t worry, it’s good for you, just like Fluoride is good for you... trust us, we know what’s best for you.” Excerpt from The Ecologist, By Pat Thomas, Sept, 2005: (you have to read this incredible eye opening report to believe it). Conditions mimicked by Aspartame toxicity: Multiple sclerosis, Parkinson’s disease, Alzheimer’s disease, Fibromyalgia, Arthritis, Multiple chemical sensitivity, Chronic fatigue syndrome, ADD, Panic disorder depression and other psychological disorders, Lupus diabetes and diabetic complications, Birth defects, Lymphoma, Lyme disease and Hypothyroidism.

So go ahead and drink gallons upon gallons of your favorite ZERO Calories drinks. Your most wonderful benevolent mega conglomerates Coca Cola and Pepsi manufactures put tons of Aspartame in their soft drinks to help you lose weight! Gee how nice of them! After a prolonged diet of this stuff, you will look nice and thin while also “mysteriously” developing the need to make regular visits to your doctors for an assortment of weird conditions that will spring up on you down the road. Enjoy!!!

Recently our most loving caring and benevolent FDA has reversed its own declared facts that Melamine is a toxic poison, that “absolutely no amount should be in our foods.” That was yesterday, today the FDA is now allowing Melamine even in BABY FOOD. Nothing to see here folks, now run along. The examples of these types of ridiculous acts can take up volumes.

Folks, herin lays the reason that we have the FDA “Food and Drug Administration as one single entity. The common denominator found (as in put there) within food and drugs is: chemicals. Almost all the foods you purchase at the local mega grocery store is laced with batshit insane amounts of CHEMICALS!!! I don’t make this stuff up folks. Read the ingredients to Twinkies for instance, its not even a food item, its pure 100% chemical mixture, and that is just ONE example out of literally thousands and thousands. Even basic food items are laced with all sorts of chemecals, nothing is sacred or safe out there. Some of the very same chemicles found in cleaning solutions, solvents, pesticides and industrial applications! Even fresh fruits and vegetables are laced with insecticides. You owe it to yourself to take the time and do your own research to find some good health food information sources to help guide you through the nutritional health hell that is out there. The “secret” to a healthy life is nutrition. Its what you put INTO your body that causes illness, and they (the ones who are poisoning you) have known this for over a century.

First the Super Size Me Food Industrial complex obliterates the foods with careful supervision and guides of the FDA death squads who then turn around and rubber stamp approve the chemical cocktails for you, everyone consumes the toxic poison laced foods and drinks, once your bodies break down from toxic consumption then you are transferred to the drug Medical Industrial Complex where they will take good care of you... and pump you up with even more pure chemical laden drugs directly into your system. Oh how wonderful and benevolent is the Food and Drug Matrix!

Now that you have eaten and drank your way into the emergency room. You have no health care? Or been denied this and that procedure again? Sorry but the obscenely expensive treatments won't be available to you, have a nice day now. You my dear friend are just goyim cattle.

Vaccinate your children or go to jail (just the beginning) -
Video

Mother jailed, put on trial for curing her son of Melanoma. Loving parents are now increasingly pressured to give their children potentially dangerous vaccines or the option of going to jail. Unless you are among those that are among the fortunate upper "leading class" or can afford to put your children in expensive private schools and synagogues, your offspring is destined to be "neutered in the brain", prepared for life in the sheeple lane by the medical establishment.

What's in almost all vaccines anyway? Regardless of what the level of protection actually is from getting a flu shot, there are dangerous ingredients included in the vaccines, including the one for the swine flu or the H1N1 virus. Besides toxins like squalene and thimerosal, a key ingredient in vaccines for the flu is the "diseased flesh of African Green Monkeys." Yes, ingredients in the vaccine come from the kidneys of these monkeys, who have been injected with the virus so as to deliberately make them sick with the flu so the virus can be incubated in their kidneys. Then they are killed so the virus can be harvested from their kidneys and used in the vaccine.

Behold for the very institutions that you trust to heal you are the ones that are poisoning you: In addition to the viral and bacterial RNA or DNA that is part of many vaccines, here are some of the fillers your most loving benevolent medical industrial complex regularly uses:

- Aluminum: directly linked to Alzheimer's Disease
- Ammonium Sulfate: an inorganic chemical used as fertilizer and "protein purifier"; known to cause kidney & liver damage.
- Amphoteric B: an "antifungal disinfectant", damages the urinary tract, bowels, and heart functions.
- Re-cycled fetal and animal tissue: used in manufacturing of vaccines, the building blocks of Mad Cow Disease.
- Formaldehyde: used as "preservative & disinfectant", known to cause cancer and chronic bronchitis eye irritation when exposed to the body's immune system.
- MSG: now known to cause cancer in humans, also linked to obesity.
- Phenol: a highly toxic disinfectant dye, attributed to liver, kidney, heart & respiratory damage.
- Antifreeze: proven to have extreme neurotoxic side effects.
- Thimerisol: a mercury-containing compound used as a local antibacterial agent in the form of the tincture. Used also as a preservative in pharmaceutical preparations. Known as Merthiolate.
- Mercury: a neurotoxin linked to psychological, neurological & immunological problems. Nervous system damage, kidney disease, birth defects, dental problems, mood swings, mental changes, hallucinations, memory loss, nerve damage and inability to concentrate can occur. Symptoms also include tremors, loss of dermal sensitivity, slurred speech and in rare cases even death and paralysis. This additive alone was the catalyst for another recent Class Action Lawsuit organized by mothers of children born with Autism & the many related behavioral disorders associated with it. Autism is now occurring at levels never seen before in history, 1 in 67

Population Reduction – Take your medicine and shots - video

Bill Gates: Use Vaccines To Lower Population

Microsoft chief echoes John P. Holdren’s call for massive sterilization program, wants CO2 tax

Paul Joseph Watson, PrisonPlanet.com

Microsoft founder Bill Gates told a recent TED conference, an organization which is sponsored by one of the largest toxic waste polluters on the planet, that vaccines need to be used to reduce world population figures in order to solve global warming and lower CO2 emissions.

Stating that the global population was heading towards 9 billion, Gates said, “If we do a really great job on new vaccines, health care, reproductive health services (abortion), we could lower that by perhaps 10 or 15 per cent.”

Quite how an improvement in health care and vaccines that supposedly save lives would lead to a lowering in global population is an oxymoron, unless Gates is referring to vaccines that sterilize people, which is precisely the same method advocated in White House science advisor John P. Holdren’s 1977 textbook Ecoscience, which calls for a dictatorial “planetary regime” to enforce draconian measures of population reduction via all manner of oppressive techniques, including sterilization.

“I’m not sure what the nothing-to-see-here explanation is for Bill Gates’ theory that “new vaccines” can help lower the population of the world,” points out the Cryptogon blog, “But I thought about the incidents from the 1990s where the World Health Organization was providing a “tetanus vaccine” to poor girls and women (and just poor girls and women) that contained human chorionic gonadotrophin (hCG). For those who don’t want to delve into that, in short, it was a World Health Organization experiment; a test of a vaccine against pregnancy.”

After presenting an equation that included the number of people on the planet and CO2 emissions, Gates said, “Probably one of these numbers is going to get pretty near to zero.”

Later in the presentation, Gates mentions picking a vaccine, “which is something I love,” that would be used to lower global CO2 emissions.

He also advocates pouring more money into the global warming scam by way of the United Nations, as well as a “CO2 tax” and cap and trade, while making it clear that the developed world would have to reduce its living standards by cutting back on essential services that generate CO2.

Gates said that a 20 per cent reduction in CO2 emissions was necessary by 2020, a 50 per cent reduction by 2050, and ultimately that there had to be zero CO2 emissions globally, a measure that would completely reverse hundreds of years of technological progress and return man to the agrarian age, all in the name of preventing an alleged miniscule temperature increase that has been proven to be based on fraudulent data models in light of the Climategate scandal.

One of Gates' proposals for reducing CO2 emissions is the use of biofuels, which as a new report highlights, has resulted in millions of acres of forests being destroyed, which ultimately means a net increase in CO2 emissions from biofuels when compared to fossil fuels, not to mention the massive devastation caused to wildlife.

As we have documented, a CO2 reduction of 50-80 per cent, not to mention 100 per cent, would inflict a new great depression in the United States, reducing GDP by 6.9 percent – a figure comparable with the economic meltdown of 1929 and 1930.

Additionally, the “post-industrial revolution” being proposed by Gates and his ilk would lead to massive job losses.

The implementation of so-called “green jobs” in other countries has devastated economies and cost millions of jobs. As the Seattle Times reported back in June, Spain's staggering unemployment rate of over 18 per cent was partly down to massive job losses as a result of attempts to replace existing industry with wind farms and other forms of alternative energy.

In a so-called “green economy,” “Each new job entails the loss of 2.2 other jobs that are either lost or not created in other industries because of the political allocation — sub-optimum in terms of economic efficiency — of capital,” states the report.

The fact that Gates would be so open in his call to use vaccines to lower global population (without a word as to the human rights considerations), probably has a lot to do with the audience attending his speech.

The TED organization admits that it is elitist, “in a good way,” and charges a whopping $6,000 dollars membership fee which must be paid by conference attendees. TED also charges nearly $1,000 just for its live conference web stream. The organization's sponsors include IBM and military-industrial complex kingpin General Electric, which has a notorious history of environmental misdeeds, being ranked fourth-largest corporate producer of air pollution in the United States, with more than 4.4 million pounds per year (2,000 Tonnes) of toxic chemicals released into the air. GE is also a major contributor to the toxic waste problem, rendering its sponsorship of an organization that claims to be seeking solutions to environmental problems completely hypocritical.

Watch Gates' speech here: <http://www.ted.com/talks/view/id/767>

I know how hard it is to even THINK about the plausibility that the same people that we regularly depended upon for our entire lives for intimate health care, are in fact some sick horror movie evil mad scientists out to incapacitate or even kill us. The thought is just completely in-comprehensible... But when you seek out and find the mountain of damning evidence and facts littered through the decades of all insane practices and products of the medical/big pharma industrial complex... one is left with no choice but to realize and confront the true reality.

Deadly Immunity

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. investigates the government cover-up of a mercury/autism scandal

ROBERT F. KENNEDY JR. Posted Jun 20, 2005 Salon.com & RollingStone

In June 2000, a group of top government scientists and health officials gathered for a meeting at the isolated Simpsonwood conference center in Norcross, Georgia. Convened by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the meeting was held at this Methodist retreat center, nestled in wooded farmland next to the Chattahoochee River, to ensure complete secrecy. The agency had issued no public announcement of the session -- only private invitations to fifty-two attendees. There were high-level officials from the CDC and the Food and Drug Administration, the top vaccine specialist from the World Health Organization in Geneva and representatives of every major vaccine manufacturer, including GlaxoSmithKline, Merck, Wyeth and Aventis Pasteur. All of the scientific data under discussion, CDC officials repeatedly reminded the participants, was strictly "embargoed." There would be no making photocopies of documents, no taking papers with them when they left.

The federal officials and industry representatives had assembled to discuss a disturbing new study that raised alarming questions about the safety of a host of common childhood vaccines administered to infants and young children. According to a CDC epidemiologist named Tom Verstraeten, who had analyzed the agency's massive database containing the medical records of 100,000 children, a mercury-based preservative in the vaccines -- thimerosal -- appeared to be responsible for a dramatic increase in autism and a host of other neurological disorders among children. "I was actually stunned by what I saw," Verstraeten told those assembled at Simpsonwood, citing the staggering number of earlier studies that indicate a link between thimerosal and speech delays, attention-deficit disorder, hyperactivity and autism. Since 1991, when the CDC and the FDA had recommended that three additional vaccines laced with the preservative be given to extremely young infants -- in one case, within hours of birth -- the estimated number of cases of autism had increased fifteenfold, from one in every 2,500 children to one in 166 children.

Even for scientists and doctors accustomed to confronting issues of life and death, the findings were frightening. "You can play with this all you want," Dr. Bill Weil, a consultant for the American Academy of Pediatrics, told the group. The results "are statistically significant." Dr. Richard Johnston, an immunologist and pediatrician from the University of Colorado whose grandson had been born early on the morning of the meeting's first day, was even more alarmed. "My gut feeling?" he said. "Forgive this personal comment -- I do not want my grandson to get a thimerosal-containing vaccine until we know better what is going on."

But instead of taking immediate steps to alert the public and rid the vaccine supply of thimerosal, the officials and executives at Simpsonwood spent most of the next two days discussing how to cover up the damaging data. According to transcripts obtained under the Freedom of Information Act, many at the meeting were concerned about how the damaging revelations about thimerosal would affect the vaccine industry's bottom line. "We are in a bad position from the standpoint of defending any lawsuits," said Dr. Robert Brent, a pediatrician at the Alfred I. duPont Hospital for Children in Delaware. "This will be a resource to our very busy plaintiff attorneys in this country." Dr. Bob Chen, head of vaccine safety for the CDC, expressed relief that "given the sensitivity of the information, we have been able to keep it out of the hands of, let's say, less responsible hands." Dr. John Clements, vaccines advisor at the World Health Organization, declared that "perhaps this study should not have been done at all." He added that "the research results have to be handled," warning that the study "will be taken by others and will be used in other ways beyond the control of this group."

In fact, the government has proved to be far more adept at handling the damage than at protecting children's health. The CDC paid the Institute of Medicine to conduct a new study to whitewash the risks of thimerosal, ordering researchers to "rule out" the chemical's link to autism. It withheld Verstraeten's findings, even though they had been slated for immediate publication, and told other scientists that his original data had been "lost" and could not be replicated. And to thwart the Freedom of Information Act, it handed its giant database of vaccine records over to a private company, declaring it off-limits to researchers. By the time Verstraeten finally published his study in 2003, he had gone to work for GlaxoSmithKline and reworked his data to bury the link between thimerosal and autism.

Vaccine manufacturers had already begun to phase thimerosal out of injections given to American infants -- but they continued to sell off their mercury-based supplies of vaccines until last year. The CDC and FDA gave them a hand, buying up the tainted vaccines for export to developing countries and allowing drug companies to continue using the preservative in some American vaccines -- including several pediatric flu shots as well as tetanus boosters routinely given to eleven-year-olds.

The drug companies are also getting help from powerful lawmakers in Washington. Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, who has received $873,000 in contributions from the pharmaceutical industry, has been working to immunize vaccine makers from liability in 4,200 lawsuits that have been filed by the parents of injured children. On five separate occasions, Frist has tried to seal all of the government's vaccine-related documents -- including the Simpsonwood transcripts -- and shield Eli Lilly, the developer of thimerosal, from subpoenas. In 2002, the day after Frist quietly slipped a rider known as the "Eli Lilly Protection Act" into a homeland security bill, the company contributed $10,000 to his campaign and bought 5,000 copies of his book on bioterrorism. The measure was repealed by Congress in 2003 -- but earlier this year, Frist slipped another provision into an anti-terrorism bill that would deny compensation to children suffering from vaccine-related brain disorders. "The lawsuits are of such magnitude that they could put vaccine producers out of business and limit our capacity to deal with a biological attack by terrorists," says Dean Rosen, health policy adviser to Frist.

Even many conservatives are shocked by the government's effort to cover up the dangers of thimerosal. Rep. Dan Burton, a Republican from Indiana, oversaw a three-year investigation of thimerosal after his grandson was diagnosed with autism. "Thimerosal used as a preservative in vaccines is directly related to the autism epidemic," his House Government Reform Committee concluded in its final report. "This epidemic in all probability may have been prevented or curtailed had the FDA not been asleep at the switch regarding a lack of safety data regarding injected thimerosal, a known neurotoxin." The FDA and other public-health agencies failed to act, the committee added, out of "institutional malfeasance for self protection" and "misplaced protectionism of the pharmaceutical industry."

The story of how government health agencies colluded with Big Pharma to hide the risks of thimerosal from the public is a chilling case study of institutional arrogance, power and greed. I was drawn into the controversy only reluctantly. As an attorney and environmentalist who has spent years working on issues of mercury toxicity, I frequently met mothers of autistic children who were absolutely convinced that their kids had been injured by vaccines. Privately, I was skeptical.

I doubted that autism could be blamed on a single source, and I certainly understood the government's need to reassure parents that vaccinations are safe; the eradication of deadly childhood diseases depends on it. I tended to agree with skeptics like Rep. Henry Waxman, a Democrat from California, who criticized his colleagues on the House Government Reform Committee for leaping to conclusions about autism and vaccinations. "Why should we scare people about immunization," Waxman pointed out at one hearing, "until we know the facts?"

It was only after reading the Simpsonwood transcripts, studying the leading scientific research and talking with many of the nation's pre-eminent authorities on mercury that I became convinced that the link between thimerosal and the epidemic of childhood neurological disorders is real. Five of my own children are members of the Thimerosal Generation -- those born between 1989 and 2003 -- who received heavy doses of mercury from vaccines. "The elementary grades are overwhelmed with children who have symptoms of neurological or immune-system damage," Patti White, a school nurse, told the House Government Reform Committee in 1999. "Vaccines are supposed to be making us healthier; however, in twenty-five years of nursing I have never seen so many damaged, sick kids. Something very, very wrong is happening to our children."

More than 500,000 kids currently suffer from autism, and pediatricians diagnose more than 40,000 new cases every year. The disease was unknown until 1943, when it was identified and diagnosed among eleven children born in the months after thimerosal was first added to baby vaccines in 1931.

Some skeptics dispute that the rise in autism is caused by thimerosal-tainted vaccinations. They argue that the increase is a result of better diagnosis -- a theory that seems questionable at best, given that most of the new cases of autism are clustered within a single generation of children. "If the epidemic is truly an artifact of poor diagnosis," scoffs Dr. Boyd Haley, one of the world's authorities on mercury toxicity, "then where are all the twenty-year-old autistics?" Other researchers point out that Americans are exposed to a greater cumulative "load" of mercury than ever before, from contaminated fish to dental fillings, and suggest that thimerosal in vaccines may be only part of a much larger problem. It's a concern that certainly deserves far more attention than it has received -- but it overlooks the fact that the mercury concentrations in vaccines dwarf other sources of exposure to our children.

What is most striking is the lengths to which many of the leading detectives have gone to ignore -- and cover up -- the evidence against thimerosal. From the very beginning, the scientific case against the mercury additive has been overwhelming. The preservative, which is used to stem fungi and bacterial growth in vaccines, contains ethylmercury, a potent neurotoxin. Truckloads of studies have shown that mercury tends to accumulate in the brains of primates and other animals after they are injected with vaccines -- and that the developing brains of infants are particularly susceptible. In 1977, a Russian study found that adults exposed to much lower concentrations of ethylmercury than those given to American children still suffered brain damage years later. Russia banned thimerosal from children's vaccines twenty years ago, and Denmark, Austria, Japan, Great Britain and all the Scandinavian countries have since followed suit.

"You couldn't even construct a study that shows thimerosal is safe," says Haley, who heads the chemistry department at the University of Kentucky. "It's just too darn toxic. If you inject thimerosal into an animal, its brain will sicken. If you apply it to living tissue, the cells die. If you put it in a petri dish, the culture dies. Knowing these things, it would be shocking if one could inject it into an infant without causing damage."

Internal documents reveal that Eli Lilly, which first developed thimerosal, knew from the start that its product could cause damage -- and even death -- in both animals and humans. In 1930, the company tested thimerosal by administering it to twenty-two patients with terminal meningitis, all of whom died within weeks of being injected -- a fact Lilly didn't bother to report in its study declaring thimerosal safe. In 1935, researchers at another vaccine manufacturer, Pittman-Moore, warned Lilly that its claims about thimerosal's safety "did not check with ours." Half the dogs Pittman injected with thimerosal-based vaccines became sick, leading researchers there to declare the preservative "unsatisfactory as a serum intended for use on dogs."

In the decades that followed, the evidence against thimerosal continued to mount. During the Second World War, when the Department of Defense used the preservative in vaccines on soldiers, it required Lilly to label it "poison." In 1967, a study in Applied Microbiology found that thimerosal killed mice when added to injected vaccines. Four years later, Lilly's own studies discerned that thimerosal was "toxic to tissue cells" in concentrations as low as one part per million -- 100 times weaker than the concentration in a typical vaccine. Even so, the company continued to promote thimerosal as "nontoxic" and also incorporated it into topical disinfectants. In 1977, ten babies at a Toronto hospital died when an antiseptic preserved with thimerosal was dabbed onto their umbilical cords.

In 1982, the FDA proposed a ban on over-the-counter products that contained thimerosal, and in 1991 the agency considered banning it from animal vaccines. But tragically, that same year, the CDC recommended that infants be injected with a series of mercury-laced vaccines. Newborns would be vaccinated for hepatitis B within twenty-four hours of birth, and two-month-old infants would be immunized for haemophilus influenzae B and diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis.

The drug industry knew the additional vaccines posed a danger. The same year that the CDC approved the new vaccines, Dr. Maurice Hilleman, one of the fathers of Merck's vaccine programs, warned the company that six-month-olds who were administered the shots would suffer dangerous exposure to mercury. He recommended that thimerosal be discontinued, "especially when used on infants and children," noting that the industry knew of nontoxic alternatives. "The best way to go," he added, "is to switch to dispensing the actual vaccines without adding preservatives."

For Merck and other drug companies, however, the obstacle was money. Thimerosal enables the pharmaceutical industry to package vaccines in vials that contain multiple doses, which require additional protection because they are more easily contaminated by multiple needle entries. The larger vials cost half as much to produce as smaller, single-dose vials, making it cheaper for international agencies to distribute them to impoverished regions at risk of epidemics. Faced with this "cost consideration," Merck ignored Hilleman's warnings, and government officials continued to push more and more thimerosal-based vaccines for children. Before 1989, American preschoolers received eleven vaccinations -- for polio, diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis and measles-mumps-rubella. A decade later, thanks to federal recommendations, children were receiving a total of twenty-two immunizations by the time they reached first grade.

As the number of vaccines increased, the rate of autism among children exploded. During the 1990s, 40 million children were injected with thimerosal-based vaccines, receiving unprecedented levels of mercury during a period critical for brain development. Despite the well-documented dangers of thimerosal, it appears that no one bothered to add up the cumulative dose of mercury that children would receive from the mandated vaccines. "What took the FDA so long to do the calculations?" Peter Patriarca, director of viral products for the agency, asked in an e-mail to the CDC in 1999. "Why didn't CDC and the advisory bodies do these calculations when they rapidly expanded the childhood immunization schedule?"

But by that time, the damage was done. At two months, when the infant brain is still at a critical stage of development, infants routinely received three inoculations that contained a total of 62.5 micrograms of ethylmercury -- a level 99 times greater than the EPA's limit for daily exposure to methylmercury, a related neurotoxin. Although the vaccine industry insists that ethylmercury poses little danger because it breaks down rapidly and is removed by the body, several studies -- including one published in April by the National Institutes of Health -- suggest that ethylmercury is actually more toxic to developing brains and stays in the brain longer than methylmercury.

Officials responsible for childhood immunizations insist that the additional vaccines were necessary to protect infants from disease and that thimerosal is still essential in developing nations, which, they often claim, cannot afford the single-dose vials that don't require a preservative. Dr. Paul Offit, one of CDC's top vaccine advisers, told me, "I think if we really have an influenza pandemic -- and certainly we will in the next twenty years, because we always do -- there's no way on God's earth that we immunize 280 million people with single-dose vials. There has to be multidose vials."

But while public-health officials may have been well-intentioned, many of those on the CDC advisory committee who backed the additional vaccines had close ties to the industry. Dr. Sam Katz, the committee's chair, was a paid consultant for most of the major vaccine makers and was part of a team that developed the measles vaccine and brought it to licensure in 1963. Dr. Neal Halsey, another committee member, worked as a researcher for the vaccine companies and received honoraria from Abbott Labs for his research on the hepatitis B vaccine.

Indeed, in the tight circle of scientists who work on vaccines, such conflicts of interest are common. Rep. Burton says that the CDC "routinely allows scientists with blatant conflicts of interest to serve on intellectual advisory committees that make recommendations on new vaccines," even though they have "interests in the products and companies for which they are supposed to be providing unbiased oversight." The House Government Reform Committee discovered that four of the eight CDC advisers who approved guidelines for a rotavirus vaccine "had financial ties to the pharmaceutical companies that were developing different versions of the vaccine."

Offit, who shares a patent on one of the vaccines, acknowledged to me that he "would make money" if his vote eventually leads to a marketable product. But he dismissed my suggestion that a scientist's direct financial stake in CDC approval might bias his judgment. "It provides no conflict for me," he insists. "I have simply been informed by the process, not corrupted by it. When I sat around that table, my sole intent was trying to make recommendations that best benefited the children in this country. It's offensive to say that physicians and public-health people are in the pocket of industry and thus are making decisions that they know are unsafe for children. It's just not the way it works."

Other vaccine scientists and regulators gave me similar assurances. Like Offit, they view themselves as enlightened guardians of children's health, proud of their "partnerships" with pharmaceutical companies, immune to the seductions of personal profit, besieged by irrational activists whose anti-vaccine campaigns are endangering children's health. They are often resentful of questioning. "Science," says Offit, "is best left to scientists."

Still, some government officials were alarmed by the apparent conflicts of interest. In his e-mail to CDC administrators in 1999, Paul Patriarca of the FDA blasted federal regulators for failing to adequately scrutinize the danger posed by the added baby vaccines. "I'm not sure there will be an easy way out of the potential perception that the FDA, CDC and immunization-policy bodies may have been asleep at the switch re: thimerosal until now," Patriarca wrote. The close ties between regulatory officials and the pharmaceutical industry, he added, "will also raise questions about various advisory bodies regarding aggressive recommendations for use" of thimerosal in child vaccines.

If federal regulators and government scientists failed to grasp the potential risks of thimerosal over the years, no one could claim ignorance after the secret meeting at Simpsonwood. But rather than conduct more studies to test the link to autism and other forms of brain damage, the CDC placed politics over science. The agency turned its database on childhood vaccines -- which had been developed largely at taxpayer expense -- over to a private agency, America's Health Insurance Plans, ensuring that it could not be used for additional research. It also instructed the Institute of Medicine, an advisory organization that is part of the National Academy of Sciences, to produce a study debunking the link between thimerosal and brain disorders. The CDC "wants us to declare, well, that these things are pretty safe," Dr. Marie McCormick, who chaired the IOM's Immunization Safety Review Committee, told her fellow researchers when they first met in January 2001. "We are not ever going to come down that [autism] is a true side effect" of thimerosal exposure. According to transcripts of the meeting, the committee's chief staffer, Kathleen Stratton, predicted that the IOM would conclude that the evidence was "inadequate to accept or reject a causal relation" between thimerosal and autism. That, she added, was the result "Walt wants" -- a reference to Dr. Walter Orenstein, director of the National Immunization Program for the CDC.

For those who had devoted their lives to promoting vaccination, the revelations about thimerosal threatened to undermine everything they had worked for. "We've got a dragon by the tail here," said Dr. Michael Kaback, another committee member. "The more negative that [our] presentation is, the less likely people are to use vaccination, immunization -- and we know what the results of that will be. We are kind of caught in a trap. How we work our way out of the trap, I think is the charge."

Even in public, federal officials made it clear that their primary goal in studying thimerosal was to dispel doubts about vaccines. "Four current studies are taking place to rule out the proposed link between autism and thimerosal," Dr. Gordon Douglas, then-director of strategic planning for vaccine research at the National Institutes of Health, assured a Princeton University gathering in May 2001. "In order to undo the harmful effects of research claiming to link the [measles] vaccine to an elevated risk of autism, we need to conduct and publicize additional studies to assure parents of safety." Douglas formerly served as president of vaccinations for Merck, where he ignored warnings about thimerosal's risks.

In May of last year, the Institute of Medicine issued its final report. Its conclusion: There is no proven link between autism and thimerosal in vaccines. Rather than reviewing the large body of literature describing the toxicity of thimerosal, the report relied on four disastrously flawed epidemiological studies examining European countries, where children received much smaller doses of thimerosal than American kids. It also cited a new version of the Verstraeten study, published in the journal Pediatrics, that had been reworked to reduce the link between thimerosal and autism. The new study included children too young to have been diagnosed with autism and overlooked others who showed signs of the disease. The IOM declared the case closed and -- in a startling position for a scientific body -- recommended that no further research be conducted.

The report may have satisfied the CDC, but it convinced no one. Rep. David Weldon, a Republican physician from Florida who serves on the House Government Reform Committee, attacked the Institute of Medicine, saying it relied on a handful of studies that were "fatally flawed" by "poor design" and failed to represent "all the available scientific and medical research." CDC officials are not interested in an honest search for the truth, Weldon told me, because "an association between vaccines and autism would force them to admit that their policies irreparably damaged thousands of children. Who would want to make that conclusion about themselves?"

Under pressure from Congress and parents, the Institute of Medicine convened another panel to address continuing concerns about the Vaccine Safety Datalink Data Sharing program. In February, the new panel, composed of different scientists, criticized the way the VSD had been used in the Verstraeten study, and urged the CDC to make its vaccine database available to the public.

So far, though, only two scientists have managed to gain access. Dr. Mark Geier, president of the Genetics Center of America, and his son, David, spent a year battling to obtain the medical records from the CDC. Since August 2002, when members of Congress pressured the agency to turn over the data, the Geiers have completed six studies that demonstrate a powerful correlation between thimerosal and neurological damage in children. One study, which compares the cumulative dose of mercury received by children born between 1981 and 1985 with those born between 1990 and 1996, found a "very significant relationship" between autism and vaccines. Another study of educational performance found that kids who received higher doses of thimerosal in vaccines were nearly three times as likely to be diagnosed with autism and more than three times as likely to suffer from speech disorders and mental retardation. Another soon-to-be published study shows that autism rates are in decline following the recent elimination of thimerosal from most vaccines.

As the federal government worked to prevent scientists from studying vaccines, others have stepped in to study the link to autism. In April, reporter Dan Olmsted of UPI undertook one of the more interesting studies himself. Searching for children who had not been exposed to mercury in vaccines -- the kind of population that scientists typically use as a "control" in experiments -- Olmsted scoured the Amish of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, who refuse to immunize their infants. Given the national rate of autism, Olmsted calculated that there should be 130 autistics among the Amish. He found only four. One had been exposed to high levels of mercury from a power plant. The other three -- including one child adopted from outside the Amish community -- had received their vaccines.

At the state level, many officials have also conducted in-depth reviews of thimerosal. While the Institute of Medicine was busy whitewashing the risks, the Iowa legislature was carefully combing through all of the available scientific and biological data. "After three years of review, I became convinced there was sufficient credible research to show a link between mercury and the increased incidences in autism," says state Sen. Ken Veenstra, a Republican who oversaw the investigation. "The fact that Iowa's 700 percent increase in autism began in the 1990s, right after more and more vaccines were added to the children's vaccine schedules, is solid evidence alone." Last year, Iowa became the first state to ban mercury in vaccines, followed by California. Similar bans are now under consideration in thirty-two other states.

But instead of following suit, the FDA continues to allow manufacturers to include thimerosal in scores of over-the-counter medications as well as steroids and injected collagen. Even more alarming, the government continues to ship vaccines preserved with thimerosal to developing countries -- some of which are now experiencing a sudden explosion in autism rates. In China, where the disease was virtually unknown prior to the introduction of thimerosal by U.S. drug manufacturers in 1999, news reports indicate that there are now more than 1.8 million autistics. Although reliable numbers are hard to come by, autistic disorders also appear to be soaring in India, Argentina, Nicaragua and other developing countries that are now using thimerosal-laced vaccines. The World Health Organization continues to insist thimerosal is safe, but it promises to keep the possibility that it is linked to neurological disorders "under review."

I devoted time to study this issue because I believe that this is a moral crisis that must be addressed. If, as the evidence suggests, our public-health authorities knowingly allowed the pharmaceutical industry to poison an entire generation of American children, their actions arguably constitute one of the biggest scandals in the annals of American medicine. "The CDC is guilty of incompetence and gross negligence," says Mark Blaxill, vice president of Safe Minds, a nonprofit organization concerned about the role of mercury in medicines. "The damage caused by vaccine exposure is massive. It's bigger than asbestos, bigger than tobacco, bigger than anything you've ever seen."

It's hard to calculate the damage to our country -- and to the international efforts to eradicate epidemic diseases - - if Third World nations come to believe that America's most heralded foreign-aid initiative is poisoning their children. It's not difficult to predict how this scenario will be interpreted by America's enemies abroad. The scientists and researchers -- many of them sincere, even idealistic -- who are participating in efforts to hide the science on thimerosal claim that they are trying to advance the lofty goal of protecting children in developing nations from disease pandemics. They are badly misguided. Their failure to come clean on thimerosal will come back horribly to haunt our country and the world's poorest populations.

If the above article does not convince you that something is categorically amiss then all the vaccines and fluoridated water you have ingested your entire life are doing their jobs very well. This article definitively reveals the clear and present danger of not only the drug companies but also the 100% complicit so called "watch dog" agencies and our dear loving government that sits back and makes believe that everything is fine and just hunky dory. What more damning evidence do you need if you are not convinced that there is something sinister is deeply embedded and something is categorically wrong in our medical field?

The article quoted above made such a controversial splash that the powers that be went all out on damage control and massive disinformation campaign; completely burying Robert Kennedy Jr's highly researched credible work. Here is a glimpse of the massive coordinated counter attack that followed, not only by the medical industrial complex but of their Matrix blood brothers assistance in the media industrial complex whom picked up the ball and ran with the blatant lies and willfully participated in the disinformation and cover-up.

Kennedy Report Sparks Controversy

Intense reaction from medical establishment and leading news organizations

THE EDITORS Posted Jul 14, 2005

"Deadly Immunity," our story about the link between mercury in vaccines and the dramatic rise in autism among children [RS 977/978], sparked intense reaction from the medical establishment and several leading news organizations. The story, by Robert F. Kennedy Jr. - part of an ongoing collaboration with Salon.com -- documented the government's efforts to conceal alarming data about the dangers of vaccines.

What is most striking is the lengths to which major media outlets have gone to disparage the story and to calm public fears -- even in the face of the questionable science on the subject. In a segment on World News Tonight titled "A Closer Look," ABC pointed out that Kennedy is "not a scientist or a doctor" and dismissed his extensive evidence as nothing more than "a few scientific studies." The network also trotted out its medical editor, Dr. Timothy Johnson, to praise the "impeccably impartial Institute of Medicine" and to again state that Kennedy is not a scientist.

The New York Times, in a front-page story on the subject, devoted only one line to Kennedy's article, which it said accused public-health officials and drugmakers of "conspiring" to hide the data on autism -- a word that our story neither used nor implied. (The Wall Street Journal, in an op-ed attacking the article, was even more misleading, using the word "conspiracy" four times.) The Times then went on, for more than a full page, to portray concerns over vaccines as nothing more than the misguided fears of parents who suffer from "scientific illiteracy," unable to understand the medical studies that prove immunizations to be safe. It depicted studies reviewed by the Institute of Medicine as definitive without even bothering to address the host of serious questions raised about their validity: conflicting diagnoses of autism, mixed-up data from HMOs and research skewed to exclude many sick kids.

Rolling Stone and Salon fact-checked the article thoroughly before publication, insisting on primary documentation for every statement in the story, and posted links to the most significant materials online to enable readers to judge for themselves. The final article contained six errors. These ranged from inadvertently transposing a quote and confusing a drug license for a patent to relying on a figure that incorrectly calculated an infant's exposure to mercury over six months, rather than citing the even more dangerous amount injected on a single day. (The mistakes were corrected online as soon as they were discovered and can be viewed in detail at both RollingStone.com and Salon.com.)

It is important to note, however, that none of the mistakes weaken the primary point of the story. The government's own records show that it has failed to do the science necessary to put to rest reasonable concerns about vaccines. If the scientists had simply done their job rather than covering their tracks, there would be no controversy today. Instead, the government cannot even provide a definitive figure of the number of cases of autism among American children -- a number obviously critical to any serious scientific investigation -- and yet expects the public to believe that it has ruled out any link between vaccines and an illness it does not even track.

"Science," as one doctor in our story insisted, "is best left to scientists." But when the scientists fail to do their job, resorting to closed-door meetings and rigged studies, others in society have not only a right but a moral obligation to question their work. In the coming years, further research may indeed demonstrate that mercury in vaccines is not responsible for the rise in autism. For now, though, we can only raise a very real and legitimate alarm -- and hope that the government's well-documented mishandling of its own research did not needlessly jeopardize the health of hundreds of thousands of children.

The above case is amazing in that we have clear proof of the modus operandi of the ruling elite caught in action, and documented. It is a truly profound case in that you can readily see how what outwardly seems like unrelated entities and industries with now apparent ties, come out of the woodworks and chime in covering up and defending the lies of another industrial matrix partner with even more blatant lies and deceit. But folks, it doesn't stop there, for as I have been stating throughout this report, all industries are connected in a cohesive matrix which is ultimately run by a secret network of connected elite rulers whom all are part of the same cartel and all possess the same ultimate goals.

One of their favorite testing grounds for vaccines too controversial to be tested on the public is to utilize the massive pool of volunteer patriot soldiers as silent Guiney pigs. Thousands upon thousands of soldiers are basically human Guiney pigs inside the military industrial matrix. Once they join the armed services they give up all individual rights, millions of soldiers have been treated with bizarre experimental vaccines, only to later end up pushing up daises or coming down with equally bizarre illnesses that never existed before such as "gulf war syndrome." After getting tons of vaccinations, neutered in the brain and mentally raped with the military industrial complex's doctrine, they are all released back into the population at large. This information is not new, I am just touching the tip of the iceberg here. This report cannot possibly cover every single topic, case and situation. Research these facts and more, for only then will you begin to understand the true nature of the beast.

This Matrix report does NOT deal in silly conspiracies, I only reveal COLD HARD REALITY, THE FACTS.

I believe that at some point the US will eventually offer some type of "socialized healthcare" as they call it in the campaign of convincing the population that universal no strings attached healthcare is "bad." Oh gosh! We can't have that! They will eventually offer up some sort of plan, but with certain stipulations, as in maybe you must get RFID chipped in order to participate in the program! The perfect setup for the NWO crowd to put into effect their long awaited human chip program. (BTW: the lead company working on the RFID chip is none other than VeriChip who is run by Zionist Jew Scott R. Silverman). FYI: Buried deep within the pages in a "non-discussed" section of this infernal Health Care Bill, in subtitle C-11, section 2521, is the provision regarding implantable radio frequency identification devices.

The Five Best Anti-Viral Products to Beat Influenza, Swine Flu, Bird Flu and

SARS

A NaturalNews Special Report by Mike Adams

(NaturalNews) This is a special report the FDA doesn't want you to read. In fact, this is the story that the corporate "leaders" of the natural health products industry don't want you to read, either. Why? Because they've all been hijacked by Big Pharma interests, and they no longer represent real natural medicine like the kind revealed in this story. Read more about this consumer betrayal by the natural products industry leaders here:

<http://www.naturalnews.com/026215.html>

When it comes to H1N1 influenza (Swine Flu), all the "authority" institutions in America agree on one thing: Keep the American people ignorant! Don't allow people to learn the truth about the anti-viral properties of herbs, superfoods and dietary supplements.

Knowledge is a dangerous thing. It gives people options. It allows people to be independent from the government and independent from the medical system. It gives people control over their own lives, and in a police state society that seeks to dominate the health decisions of every citizen (<http://www.naturalnews.com/026305.html>), giving people control over their own lives simply cannot be tolerated.

That's why this article will be blasted as "irresponsible" by health authorities. It will be portrayed as "dangerous" by pharmaceutical pushers. If the FDA could ban this website, this article would be precisely the kind of content they would target for censorship.

And what's so dangerous about this article? It dares to advocate specific anti-viral products as protection against the H1N1 swine flu.

Big Pharma Profits

Knowledge of natural anti-viral products is, of course, a huge threat to the profits of Big Pharma -- an industry that just received a whopping one billion dollars to make useless swine flu vaccines (<http://www.usatoday.com/news/health...>).

When I say "useless," I mean that quite seriously. Vaccines are only useful against the specific viral strain that was available at the time of their manufacture. But influenza viruses mutate quickly, and as the WHO has already said, the real concern with H1N1 swine flu is that it will combine with seasonal flu in the Fall, creating a new, deadly strain that will of course be immune to all available vaccines.

Antiviral herbs suffer from no such limitations. Because they contain literally thousands of different medicinal compounds, they are able to attack viruses with a full spectrum of synergistic natural medicines. Thus, even mutating viruses find themselves unable to escape the multifaceted medicinal cocktail of antiviral plants.

That's why this special report lists the top five anti-viral products I currently recommend. I have no financial relationships with any of these companies, nor do I earn any profits from the sale of these products. These are 100% independent recommendations offered under the Free Speech protections of the United States Constitution. I will not remove this article, and I will not be intimidated by health authorities wishing to see this information censored. The People have a right to know about natural medicine, and NaturalNews will continue to bring you this information regardless of the false authorities who attempt to deny the People the right to know this kind of information.

Dumbing Down

What the pro-pharma health authorities are really seeking is mandatory ignorance of herbs, foods and natural medicine. They want to cleanse the minds of the public from any knowledge of medicinal herbs. This "information cleansing" is much like ethnic cleansing -- except they don't kill you directly; they just wait for the influenza virus to kill you instead.

In the next great pandemic (which might only be months away), people will die from ignorance. They will die from misplaced trust in western medicine and government health authorities. They will die while waiting for that dose of Tamiflu that never arrives, even after receiving that Big Pharma influenza vaccine shot that doesn't work.

People will die even while the very herbs that could save them are growing in their own back yards. Mere meters away from their death beds, Mother Nature is quietly manufacturing the natural antiviral medicines that can save lives and end suffering. Yet the FDA and the health industry trade groups have sought to disconnect people from the plants of the Earth; to dissuade people from growing their own medicine, and to strike fear into the minds of those who dare take responsibility for their own health (or survival).

As the editor of NaturalNews, I stand against that ignorance, against the chemical profit agenda of Big Pharma and against the vaccine profits reaped by drug companies at the expense of taxpayers.

I stand in favor of personal health freedom and personal responsibility; for connection with the astounding biodiversity found in our natural environment; for the embracing of natural medicine created by Mother Nature; and for the nutritional education of the People.

In the rest of this special report, you'll find two lists: First, five things that CAUSE susceptibility to influenza infections, followed by the FIVE products I recommend as a defense against swine flu.

Things That Can Kill You

#1 Thing that can kill you: Arsenic

As revealed in a recent story on NaturalNews (<http://www.naturalnews.com/026307.html>), drinking well water contaminated with arsenic greatly increases susceptibility to H1N1 influenza infections. Arsenic is present in the water supply of tens of millions of people across the United States right now (now to mention the citizens of Canada, the UK, Australia and other countries). Low levels of arsenic are even "approved" by the EPA!

#2 Thing that can kill you: Antibiotics

Taking antibiotics before a swine flu infection greatly increases your risk of being killed by swine flu. How do we know that? Because antibiotics wipe out the friendly flora that have been scientifically proven to boost the body's defenses against influenza (<http://www.naturalnews.com/026265.html>).

This is why, during any pandemic, doctors must exercise extreme caution when handing out antibiotics. While antibiotics can be extremely helpful during the pneumonia phase of a viral infection (when bacteria invade the lungs), they can be deadly if given to patients too soon (during the pre-pneumonia phase).

In addition, there's the whole concern over antibiotics abuse creating yet more dangerous superbugs in hospitals. Imagine the combination assault of a deadly new strain of the H1N1 influenza virus plus an antibiotic-resistant superbug sweeping through the hospitals of the world...

That's a very dangerous combination indeed!

#3 Thing that can kill you: Lack of sleep

Getting fewer than six hours of sleep each night increases your risk of contracting colds (such as influenza) by a whopping 300 percent! Read more in this NaturalNews article: http://www.naturalnews.com/News_000...

Eight hours of sleep each night will substantially boost your immune function, giving you the metabolic tools you need to fight off potentially deadly influenza infections.

More Deadly Things

#4 Thing that can kill you: Lack of vitamin D

Virtually everyone living in the U.S., Canada and the U.K. is chronically deficient in Vitamin D. Those living in Australia are usually better off, as there's more of a sunshine culture there, but even Aussies can find themselves vitamin D deficient if they live their lives indoors and don't venture into the real world to catch some healthy rays.

Vitamin D deficiency is, without question, one of the primary causes of influenza susceptibility (<http://www.naturalnews.com/021229.html>). Having sufficient vitamin D circulating in your blood is one of the best defenses against infection (<http://www.naturalnews.com/024982.html>).

Health authorities in the U.S. and other western nations are currently engaged in a campaign to keep the population vitamin D deficient. This is achieved by brainwashing people into thinking sunlight alone causes skin cancer. That's a big medical lie, of course. Even the Journal of the National Cancer Institute has published scientific research showing that sunlight exposure reduces the risk of skin cancer (<http://www.naturalnews.com/007632.html>).

The American Cancer Society, of course, spreads extremely dangerous disinformation about sunlight exposure, seeking to make sure that no ray of sun ever touches the skin of any person. This "darkness" campaign will soon be exposed as a death sentence for the People as the next pandemic takes the lives of those stupid enough to believe that moderate sunlight exposure is bad for their health.

In the next great pandemic, when the hospital beds are overflowing with the dead, and school gymnasiums are taken over as holding cells for the constant stream of incoming body bags, the dead will consist almost entirely of those who believed the lies of the American Cancer Society and the disinformation of the FDA and Big Pharma. This is one case in which misplaced faith in a corporate-controlled medical monstrosity can literally cost you your life.

Click the link below for a picture from the 1918 Spanish Flu that may give you some idea of what to expect during the next great pandemic: <http://graphics8.nytimes.com/images...>

(What's missing from this photo, of course, are the armed military personnel, toting automatic rifles, who will shoot any infected person who attempts to escape the facility.)

#5: Thing that can kill you: Antacid drugs like Prilosec, Nexium and Prevacid

In a pandemic, use of these popular antacid drugs can actually lead to your death. How? A study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) concludes that these PPI drugs significantly increase the risk of deadly pneumonia.

Read the full story here: http://www.naturalnews.com/026361_d...

These acid-suppressing medications, it turns out, are linked to a 30 percent increase in the risk of acquired pneumonia. And if you're suffering from something like the swine flu, pneumonia is the most common cause of death. It's the secondary bacterial infections, after all, that killed most people in 1918, and that's what's likely to cause the greatest number of fatalities in the next great pandemic as well.

If you want to protect yourself from influenza, avoid taking antacid drugs (including over-the-counter antacids).

Natural Anti-Virals

Now let's get to the good news. The good news is that natural medicine can save your life. If a pandemic strikes, Tamiflu supplies will be tightly controlled. Unless you're an emergency worker or a health care worker, your chances of ever being given Tamiflu are rather slim. Vaccines, of course, will be utterly useless once the influenza virus mutates, so even receiving a vaccine shot offers no protection other than what's available through the placebo effect.

This leaves natural medicine and the world of anti-viral plants.

Due to the mass brainwashing of the public by pro-Pharma health authorities, most people have no awareness whatsoever of the fact that plants manufacture their own anti-viral medicines.

In fact, there's no such thing as a plant that does not contain anti-viral medicine. EVERY plant on our planet manufactures at least one anti-viral medicine in its own cells.

Did you ever wonder why? It's because plants are under constant attack by viruses, too. And if they don't create their own internal mechanisms for dealing with viruses, they will not survive.

This is especially true with plant roots, which are immersed in soil that's rich with both bacteria and viruses. If those roots do not possess anti-viral and anti-bacterial defenses, they will quickly be consumed and destroyed, killing the plant.

Thus, in virtually all plants, the manufacture of anti-viral medicines is the most natural thing in the world. It happens from day one of the plant sprouting, and it continues through the entire life of the plant.

Simply eating grass (or better yet, juicing grass) is, all by itself, an empowered act of medical self treatment. Grass contains anti-viral compounds, chlorophyll, vitamins, minerals and hundreds of other health-enhancing phytochemicals. (Don't juice grass treated with pesticides, obviously.)

There are other plants, of course, with far greater anti-viral potential than grass. I merely mention this to point out the utter simplicity of finding and consuming anti-viral medicine: If you have a lawn, you have a pharmacy in your yard! (Even better if you have dandelions and other "weeds.")

Wild foods offer the strongest anti-viral medicine. That's a whole different area of expertise, of course, and if you want to learn more about wild foods, I have two sources to suggest:

- Peter Ragnar - www.RoaringLionPublishing.com
- Daniel Vitalis - www.Surthrival.com (his website is currently sparse, but look for upcoming announcements on seminars and teleconference events from Daniel Vitalis...)

Top Five Anti-Virals

Anti-Viral #1 - Super ViraGon

My favorite liquid anti-viral product remains Jon Barron's Super ViraGon - a potent combination of garlic, olive leaf extract (a powerful anti-viral!), onion, ginger, zinc and other nutrients. I keep this in my own emergency supply of natural medicine.

It's available from www.BaselineNutritionals.com for a very fair price (order five for the best discount).

Anti-Viral #2 - Fitura PowerImmune

The PowerImmune anti-viral tincture offered by Fitura (www.Fitura.com) combines organic Echinacea, Cat's Claw, Shiitake Mushroom, Olive Leaf and many other ingredients (all organic). This is another "medicine chest" product I keep in good supply. It's also good to travel with. I personally take a dropper full of this product each time I board an airplane.

Living in Ecuador, this is also a "first aid" product I keep with me in the Valley of Longevity. Of course, if a pandemic were to strike, I would just go to my garden and eat all the natural anti-virals located there, but if I'm caught traveling -- or I need an extra boost of herbal concentrates, PowerImmune is one of my top choices.

Anti-Viral #3 - Lomatium Dissectum

This product is the "secret" anti-influenza herb that very few people know about, even in the natural health industry. The root of the Lomatium is perhaps Mother Nature's "perfect" anti-influenza herb because its anti-viral action is combined with a respiratory clearing action that's especially useful for dealing with the secondary infections caused by many strains of influenza.

The indigenous American Indians grew Lomatium and used it as medicine. If you live in the American Southwest (or other dry, hot climates), you can probably grow this medicine, too. It might be one of the best investments you can make in your own health defense, because herbs that are growing in your yard are always more potent than herbs found in bottles.

If you can't grow it, of course, you'll need to buy it. Here's one recommendation of an existing Lomatium tincture:

Nature's Answer has a 1-ounce tincture that's available at Vitacost.com for a ridiculously good price (<http://www.vitacost.com/Natures-Ans...>). This product will probably be wiped out of inventory shortly after this special report goes public, so get some of this quickly if you want it in your natural medicine chest.

Anti-Viral #4 - HerbPharm Virattack Compound

Speaking of Lomatium, HerbPharm offers an herbal tincture that combines it with St. John's Wort (also a powerful anti-viral), lemon balm, olive leaf and other powerful anti-viral herbs.

This is a superb combination. It's really, really powerful in defending against influenza infections. Vitacost offers it at nearly half off the retail price (<http://www.vitacost.com/Herb-Pharm-...>).

I definitely recommend getting some of this. You might also wish to check your local health food stores to see what they have in stock. During a pandemic, I can practically guarantee you won't be able to find any of these medicines, because people will engage in "panic buying" of these natural anti-virals. It's smart to have a few on hand now, before the next pandemic strikes.

Anti-Viral #5 - Olive Leaf Extract

One taste of real olive leaf extract and you'll be convinced: This is powerful stuff! The best-known phytochemical in olive leaves is oleuropein, a very potent antimicrobial medicine that also has natural anti-viral properties.

Your best value on a standardized extract, in supplement form, is the NSI brand from VitaCost (<http://www.vitacost.com/NSI-Olive-L...>). I personally like the liquids better (<http://www.vitacost.com/Natures-Ans...>), but the taste is a big turn off for most consumers. If you're not into chugging really bizarre-tasting liquids, go with the capsules instead.

Ideally, your best way to have this medicine nearby is to grow your own olive trees. To make the medicine, just gather leaves from the trees, wash them, add them to a large container of water and boil it into a concentrate. This liquid can be consumed internally or used topically. Seek the direction of a naturopathic physician, of course, before consuming this internally, and be especially cautious if you are pregnant.

The shelf life of most of these natural medicine products is about 1-2 years. That can be roughly doubled by refrigerating the products (highly recommended).

More Anti-Virals

Honorable mention anti-virals

In addition to the top five I've already mentioned here, there are other antiviral products and nutrients worth mentioning:

- Nascent Iodine - (www.IntegratedHealth.com) - Offers additional protection against infectious disease while supporting your thyroid gland.
- Amazon Herbs - The Amazon Herb Company's numerous products from the Amazon rainforest are also, in their own ways, powerful anti-virals. Even their Zamu juice is a good choice (as it contains Sangre de Drago) for protection against infectious disease. Cat's Claw (Una de Gato) is also a powerful antiviral, and it's available in numerous Amazon Herb products.
- Probiotics - Virtually all probiotics will boost your defenses against infectious disease. Scientific research has even shown that probiotics directly reduce the risk of contracting H1N1 swine flu. You can find probiotics at your local health food store. Read more here: <http://www.naturalnews.com/026265.html>
- Wildcrafted oregano oil - (www.P-73.com) or (<http://www.vitacost.com/productResu...>) - This is a phenomenal wildcrafted oil with too many health benefits to mention here. It's extremely useful as a first aid product, too, and can help your body heal more quickly. (It's also known to be very useful for topically treating spider bites and insect bites.)

A related product, also available from Vitacost.com, is called OregaRESP (<http://www.vitacost.com/North-Ameri...>), which is an extremely potent encapsulated form of oregano oil. (Just open this bottle and inhale, you'll be flooded!)

Stay Alive

Hopefully what you've noticed in all this is a very important pattern: If you stay informed, you will stay alive!

The No. 1 killer of people in the next great pandemic will be, without question, ignorance of natural medicine. Those who don't know about these natural anti-virals will literally die of ignorance, while those who understand the incredible healing power of Mother Nature's medicine are far more likely to survive.

But it's about more than survival: It's also about independence. When you use natural medicine to boost your defenses, you are no longer dependant on doctors, hospitals and conventional medicine to provide you with medicine. So instead of being a victim to the military medical establishment (because the military will be involved in the distribution of vaccines, trust me...), you can instead remain independent and self-reliant.

It is this self-reliance that scares the power mongers who run our world. The last thing they want is citizens taking charge of their own health and refusing to function as slaves to Big Pharma.

I hope you found this report informative and valuable. Stay informed and you'll stay alive during the next pandemic.

Is AIDS a Man-Made Disease?

From Cal Steinberger:

Back in 1976, the following ad began appearing in New York newspapers:

Last Chance for gay men to join the Hepatitis B* Vaccine Program!

*A sexually transmitted disease. Enrollment closes in June, after which the vaccine may not be available for several years. Take the FREE blood test to determine your HEPATITIS B status and eligibility for the program.

Over 1000 gay men took the free vaccination at a time when there was no such disease as AIDS. Then, by 1978 the infection began popping up all over the gay community. Strangely enough, it was predominate among the volunteers who had taken the free Hepatitis B vaccine. Within 5 years, 60 % of these men were infected with HIV.

[Ed. It goes without saying that you should avoid ANY government sponsored vaccine program, no matter how noble the cause may seem].

The program had been repeated the next year in San Francisco and Los Angeles, and as in New York, shortly after the vaccination for Hepatitis B, the west coast volunteers also began presenting with symptoms of AIDS.

In Africa, in 1977, a free vaccination against Smallpox was offered to the Black citizens of the countries with "population problems". The cost was borne by the United States Health Agencies as a "humanitarian gesture". Again, within 5 years, over 60 % of the recipients presented with the HIV virus, and, today well over 20 million face death from AIDS.

There are some who say, that the AIDS virus originated from the Hilleman green monkeys of Africa. Of course, there is never any explanation as to how the virus then got from these damn little green monkeys in Africa into the blood of the East and West Coast gay males. And, no word as to what the supposedly AIDS-infected monkeys were doing between 1960 and 1978 (?). Their kidneys were were being used for "vaccine manufacture"...where in the world did the AIDS virus hide all during that time?

Now, with that as "background information", let me now present what I said in my report about AIDS back in 1988.

"With regard to some of the techniques of "Biological Warfare", the AIDS virus may be seen as a possible case in point. An epidemic disease of this magnitude that coincides with a nationwide civil emergency as herein described, will certainly have to be dealt with. For the protection of all military, police, and Civil Defense personnel, it is important that the following FACTS about AIDS be understood.

HcG Vaccine for Population Control

Philippine Medical Association study indicates that women were injected with contaminated tetanus vaccine

FRONT ROYAL, VA Have women in the Philippines, and possibly elsewhere, surreptitiously been used as guinea pigs in an international anti-fertility campaign?

A new medical study in the Philippines suggests that may well be the case.

A recent study conducted by the Philippine Medical Association on behalf of the Philippine Department of Health revealed that almost 20 percent of the tetanus vaccine sampled positive for the hormone human chorionic gonadotrophin (hCG), according to Human Life International. Vaccines containing the hormone immunize women not only against tetanus but also against pregnancy by inducing the body's immune system to attack the hormone needed to bring an unborn child to term.

"This study lends credence to what Human Life International (HLI) and some other groups have suspected all along," said Father Matthew Habiger, president of the international pro-life/family organization. "We first began to hear reports last year about tetanus vaccination campaigns in the developing world that targeted only women of child-bearing or pre-child bearing years, and that they required multiple injections. The vaccination program is sponsored by the World Health Organization, an agency with a 20-year history of researching anti-fertility vaccines," Fr. Habiger said. "We brought our suspicions to the world's attention. This new study greatly heightens our concerns."

The WHO and certain feminist organizations that claim to care about the health of women publicly attacked HLI after it called for an investigation of the widespread allegations about contaminated vaccine. "In light of the new Philippine study, it appears that these groups have squandered their credibility," Fr. Habiger said.

The Philippine Medical Association reported that nine of the 47 vaccine samples tested were found to contain hCG, and released a letter signed by the three Philippine physicians who actually tested the vaccines. The PMA president attested to the veracity of the letter and the testing process. All the vaccines sampled were taken from various health centers in Luzon and Mindanao. Almost all of them were labeled by one of two Canadian firms, Connaught or Intervax. All the samples were tested with an immunoassay-based method developed by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The Philippine Medical Association report closes the first stage of a two-part investigation of contaminated vaccines in the Philippines. The protocol for the second stage of the test testing the women vaccinated for antibodies to hCG has been submitted the Philippine Department of Health and is awaiting funding.

In a letter to the Philippine Department of Health, HLI urged immediate approval of the second stage to uncover the full dimensions of this scandal.

The tetanus vaccine tested in the Philippines was imported as part of a program against neonatal tetanus sponsored by the WHO. Similar vaccination protocols have also been observed in WHO programs administered in Mexico and Nicaragua. Tests of the vaccine in Mexico yielded similar results but none of those tests was performed as part of an actual investigation into the contamination.

"We view the adulteration of tetanus vaccine with hCG to be a matter of grave concern," said Fr. Habiger. "It is absolutely essential that any country which has this program in place begin testing the vaccines for contamination."

Noting that it is unlikely contaminated vaccine would still be in circulation after public concerns were raised last year, Fr. Habiger suggested that researchers attempt to focus on acquiring and testing unused vaccines distributed prior the public outcry over vaccine contamination. He said it is even more important that women who previously received the vaccine be tested for the telltale presence of hCG antibodies in their bloodstream and that the numbers of miscarriages experienced by vaccinated women be tabulated.

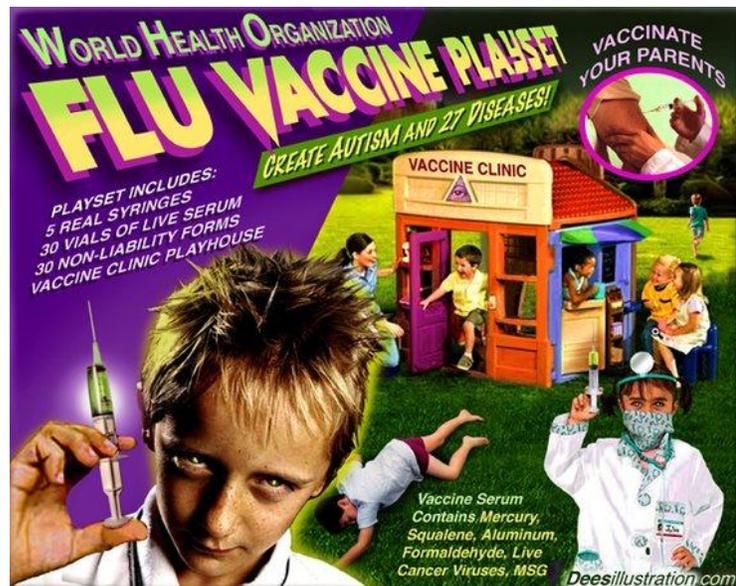

"We are not making any accusations at this stage," Fr. Habiger said. "But we strongly suspect something is seriously amiss. And public confidence in these kinds of vaccination campaigns has been critically eroded in several developing nations. Only an objective, scientifically valid study of this matter will lay public concerns to rest."

Human Life International is the world's largest international pro-life and family human rights organization providing service, education and advocacy in 84 nations.

Even NWO shill Michael Moore put together a convincing award winning documentary that has been prepping and getting the population ready to accept the new health care program to be revealed in 2010? Look for it for it is coming, and once the Universal Healthcare Acts pass, watch as they use what ever program is unveiled, to better, more tightly control the population.

I must state that the "establishment" often uses "shills" to steer potentially chaotic situations into the route that is in line with their NWO plans. So mind you, that their "shills" will always be in the midst of the genuine truthers and chanting along side with them, some shills take lead roles in the OPPOSITION movements as champions for the downtrodden masses. Thus the ruling elite ingeniously steer even the opposition's focus and dialog.

In Fahrenheit 9/11 they gave Moore his marching orders and he jumped into the midst of the 911 "tin-foil hat brigade", in Bowling for Columbine Moore took his best shot at demonizing legal gun ownership that was guaranteed us by our founding fathers, but must be outlawed for the NWO police state to one day be able to clamp down and move around freely without opposition. Then he made Slacker Uprising, and gave it away for free. Then Sicko, where he does a pretty good job of revealing to the sheeple (as has been so obvious to many of us truthers for decades) the diabolical state of the US medical care industry, thus helping his masters to prepare the multitudes for the next phase of new world order plans... Oh, now his masters gave him a blank check to make yet another new documentary about capitalism, focusing on revealing what they want known of the financial chaos, again laying the groundwork for the next phase of their plans which will be the total revamping of America's and worldwide monetary system... in their favor, of course. Folks, this is a perfect example how your ruling masters steer even the "opposition's attacks" right down the path they choose to meticulously lead world events in their favor. For they own and finance ALL SIDES of every debate!

"The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves." – Vladimir Ilyich Lenin

They are still working on changing the entire medical scene at the same time they are changing the world of finance. Thank you Moore for your playing right into their agendas and playing right into their gambit for you have just set the stage for the gullible "must be told what the fuck is happening" crowd, umm, what is kind of happening. By the time they get the message, will be just in time for them to be lead into the next door, on stage right: Geuss what? Our monetary system is bankrupt. So we will need to join some sort of international consortium based Zionist system... (this is discussed in the financial industrial matrix section).

Throughout this Matrix Report we reveal how each and every sector of society and commerce is tightly woven, spun guided and controlled by the ruling elites. The one factor that makes this Medical Industrial Matrix so sinister is the fact that THEY KNOW (the "enlightened ones") the secret of health is in what you eat and put inside your bodies. Have you not EVER wondered WHY the most discerning Jewish people refuse to even enter our super markets and eat the same garbage that we are marketed and consume on a daily basis?

Behold! Herein is one of the biggest clues! Or a monument coincidence? The garbage that you, the Goyim call "food" is laced with toxic chemicals and poisons! Oh what a mighty web they weave. Some of the stuff you consume is even blatantly referred to and classified "junk food" yet everyone obliviously munches down. The poisons in your bodies accumulate throughout the years, until finally your bodies begin to give up and start breaking down from the accumulated toxins. At which point your slavery is then transferred to and hosted by the medical establishment department. Yes, once your body has been subjugated by the poisons and toxins you ate throughout your life, you then spend the rest of your Goyim lives as willing slaves and Ginny pigs to the medical cartel matrix! Go ahead, hate the truth biatches!

In your desperate attempt to prolong your pathetic sheeple goyim lives you will submit to all sorts of medical tests, policies and regiments. You will, till your last dying days willingly conform, submit to, and eagerly anticipate your subjugation in your selfish quest to prolong life. Your later days in life will be to serve your medical masters who dispense all sorts of obscenely expensive drugs, all of which bring forth all sorts of more side effects, further breaking down your system and intellectual abilities, your ability to reason, your ability to utilize your cognitive functions to the fullest, finally your ability to stand up and fight.

Most drugs having the side effect of creating a host of new ailments and problems! Doh! Oh what a sad crime, for in the later days of life when one should be at one's peak of wisdom, minds as sharp as whips, from all the experience in life, the goyim sheeple instead lose all cognitive abilities, becoming perfected ultra dependant docile servant sheeple. Never again to formulate sustained cohesive rational thoughts about this chaotic world, let alone commit thoughts to memory, to utilize their once bright minds and energies to confront their captors, nor share their testimony about those who conspire to enslave the mankind.

Here is just one recent example of usual business practices of the big pharma industrial complex out of thousands of examples we could dig up:

Gardasil Researcher Drops A Bombshell

Harper: Controversial Drug Will Do Little To Reduce Cervical Cancer Rates

By Susan Brinkmann, For The Bulletin Sunday, October 25, 2009

Dr. Diane Harper, lead researcher in the development of two human papilloma virus vaccines, Gardasil and Cervarix, said the controversial drugs will do little to reduce cervical cancer rates and, even though they're being recommended for girls as young as nine, there have been no efficacy trials in children under the age of 15.

Dr. Harper, director of the Gynecologic Cancer Prevention Research Group at the University of Missouri, made these remarks during an address at the 4th International Public Conference on Vaccination which took place in Reston, Virginia on Oct. 2-4. Although her talk was intended to promote the vaccine, participants said they came away convinced the vaccine should not be received.

"I came away from the talk with the perception that the risk of adverse side effects is so much greater than the risk of cervical cancer, I couldn't help but question why we need the vaccine at all," said Joan Robinson, Assistant Editor at the Population Research Institute.

Dr. Harper began her remarks by explaining that 70 percent of all HPV infections resolve themselves without treatment within a year. Within two years, the number climbs to 90 percent. Of the remaining 10 percent of HPV infections, only half will develop into cervical cancer, which leaves little need for the vaccine.

She went on to surprise the audience by stating that the incidence of cervical cancer in the U.S. is already so low that "even if we get the vaccine and continue PAP screening, we will not lower the rate of cervical cancer in the US."

There will be no decrease in cervical cancer until at least 70 percent of the population is vaccinated, and even then, the decrease will be minimal.

Apparently, conventional treatment and preventative measures are already cutting the cervical cancer rate by four percent a year. At this rate, in 60 years, there will be a 91.4 percent decline just with current treatment. Even if 70 percent of women get the shot and required boosters over the same time period, which is highly unlikely, Harper says Gardasil still could not claim to do as much as traditional care is already doing.

Dr. Harper, who also serves as a consultant to the World Health Organization, further undercut the case for mass vaccination by saying that "four out of five women with cervical cancer are in developing countries."

Ms. Robinson said she could not help but wonder, "If this is the case, then why vaccinate at all? But from the murmurs of the doctors in the audience, it was apparent that the same thought was occurring to them."

However, at this point, Dr. Harper dropped an even bigger bombshell on the audience when she announced that, "There have been no efficacy trials in girls under 15 years."

Merck, the manufacturer of Gardasil, studied only a small group of girls under 16 who had been vaccinated, but did not follow them long enough to conclude sufficient presence of effective HPV antibodies.

This is not the first time Dr. Harper revealed the fact that Merck never tested Gardasil for safety in young girls. During a 2007 interview with KPC News.com, she said giving the vaccine to girls as young as 11 years-old "is a great big public health experiment."

At the time, which was at the height of Merck's controversial drive to have the vaccine MANDATED in schools, Dr. Harper remained steadfastly opposed to the idea and said she had been trying for months to convince major television and print media about her concerns, "but no one will print it."

"It is silly to mandate vaccination of 11 to 12 year old girls," she said at the time. "There also is not enough evidence gathered on side effects to know that safety is not an issue.”

When asked why she was speaking out, she said: “I want to be able to sleep with myself when I go to bed at night.”

Since the drug’s introduction in 2006, the public has been learning many of these facts the hard way. To date, 15,037 girls have officially reported adverse side effects from Gardasil to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS). These adverse reactions include Guilliane Barre, lupus, seizures, paralysis, blood clots, brain inflammation and many others. The CDC acknowledges that there have been 44 reported deaths.

Dr. Harper also participated in the research on Glaxo-Smith-Kline’s version of the drug, Cervarix, currently in use in the UK but not yet approved here. Since the government began administering the vaccine to school-aged girls last year, more than 2,000 patients reported some kind of adverse reaction including nausea, dizziness, blurred vision, convulsions, seizures and hyperventilation. Several reported multiple reactions, with 4,602 suspected side-effects recorded in total. The most tragic case involved a 14 year-old girl who dropped dead in the corridor of her school an hour after receiving the vaccination.

The outspoken researcher also weighed in last month on a report published in the Journal of the American Medical Association that raised questions about the safety of the vaccine, saying bluntly: “The rate of serious adverse events is greater than the incidence rate of cervical cancer.”

Ms. Robinson said she respects Dr. Harper’s candor. “I think she’s a scientist, a researcher, and she’s genuine enough a scientist to be open about the risks. I respect that in her.”

However, she failed to make the case for Gardasil. “For me, it was hard to resist the conclusion that Gardasil does almost nothing for the health of American women.”

Upon reviewing this section I realized I could not publish this report without also revealing the truth about the NATURAL CURES THEY DON’T WANT YOU TO KNOW ABOUT. I can’t get into details of all the amazing remedies, cures, suppliments, due to space constraints. But I attempt to make and include a summarized list of MUST HAVE suppliments listed at the end of this chapter. The bottom line here is to give you leads as to where to focus your energies in search of true healing thus avoiding the butchers.

Here is some important information about cancer, one of the most despicable scams of the entire medical industrial complex. Billions of dollars vanish into cancer “research” yet nothing is actually ever researched, the establishment never seriously looks into all the alternatives. They just continue their massively expensive big pharma billion dollar industrial chemo apparatus system where more people die of chemo than are actually saved. Business as usual.

About Alternative Cancer Treatments

from www.cancertutor.com

Did you know that many people have absolutely no fear of cancer? Some people, if they were diagnosed with cancer, would be no more concerned than if they got the common cold.

So why do some people have a great fear of cancer and others consider cancer to be nothing more than a minor nuisance?

The answer to this phenomenon is information. Some people have good information about cancer and others have bad information about cancer. It is the bad information which causes great fear.

Every human being has cancer cells in their body. Most people don't even know they have cancer cells because their immune system safely and easily kills their cancer cells as they form. In fact, as long as there is a balance between the number of new cancer cells in their body, and the strength of their immune system, they will never "get cancer."

Cancer is caused by an imbalance between the number of cancer cells in the body and the strength of the immune system. Either there are more cancer cells than there should be or the immune system is too weak, or both. This imbalance allows the cancer cells to spread enough to be noticed and be dangerous.

Natural cancer treatments, also known as "alternative cancer treatments," do three things:

First, they safely get rid of cancer cells by gently killing the cancer cells.

Second, they strengthen the immune system.

Third, they fix the "inner terrain" of the body to make the body hostile to cancer cells.

Mission accomplished, the person has their balance restored and they are "cured" of their cancer.

These people have received good information and they have been cured of their cancer.

Now let us talk about the orthodox cancer treatments of chemotherapy, radiation and surgery.

Chemotherapy destroys a person's immune system because the immune system has many fast-growing cells. Chemotherapy also kills many fast-growing cells in the stomach and colon, making it difficult for the cancer patient to properly digest healthy foods.

Furthermore, chemotherapy is so toxic that if a person used enough chemotherapy to kill all of their cancer cells, the patient would die long before all of their cancer cells died.

Thus, chemotherapy makes both sides of the equation worse. Not only is the immune system damaged, but there are lots of cancer cells leftover. The person becomes dependent on chemotherapy for life because they have no immune system, assuming they live very long.

One of the great deceptions of orthodox medicine is that they can put people into "remission." You can rest assured when a person's immune system has been destroyed, and many, many cancer cells have survived the treatment, a cancer patient can never be truly in "remission." Their cancer will always come back because the balance has not been restored.

In addition, radiation and surgery also kill many healthy cells, meaning non-cancerous cells. Surgery is also hard on the immune system.

In short, orthodox cancer treatments convert a cancer patient (for as long as they live) into a chronic patient, meaning a long term profit center.

Orthodox medicine hates the term "cure" because they have no desire to "cure" cancer by restoring the balance between new cancer cells and the immune system.

All of this is why alternative cancer treatments can have a 30 times higher true cure rate than orthodox cancer treatments. Alternative cancer treatments TARGET cancer cells or they do no harm to non-cancerous cells. Thus, alternative cancer treatments can be used in much, much higher doses than orthodox cancer treatments and thus they can be far more effective.

Mother Nature knows how to CURE cancer (i.e. restore the balance)!! In fact, Mother Nature has put more than 400 different ways to cure cancer on this planet!!

That is precisely why many people have no fear of cancer. They know exactly what to do if they get cancer.

In fact, scientific studies have shown that a person who does nothing will live much longer than a person who uses orthodox cancer treatments. Yet medical doctors are constantly telling patients that "with chemotherapy you will live 4 months longer." This is typical of unscientific statements made by medical doctors.

In addition, two-time Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling, PhD, and Dr. Ewan Cameron, M.D., demonstrated that a person who uses 10 grams of vitamin C a day, by I.V., will live ten times longer than a person who avoids all orthodox cancer treatments (though orthodox treatments are occasionally necessary to deal with emergencies, such as brain swelling or tumors pressing on the bile duct, etc.).

But there are far better alternative cancer treatments than even the Vitamin C protocol of Dr. Pauling and Dr. Cameron.

Thus, newly diagnosed cancer patients have several choices when they are diagnosed with cancer:

- 1) They can die quickly, be in incredible pain, and go bankrupt, by using orthodox treatments,
- 2) They can live longer and be in less pain by doing nothing,
- 3) They can extend their life by 10 times or more by using 10 grams of vitamin C by I.V. daily,
- 4) They can cure their cancer by rebuilding their immune system and safely killing all their cancer cells.

It is people who know all of these things who have no fear of cancer!!

So why haven't you learned all of these things in the media? Why hasn't the media ever told the truth about these 400 cures for cancer? Can you spell: "m-o-n-e-y."

The media makes many billions of dollars every year for providing intentionally deceptive information about cancer. It is this vast fortune that drives the media to intentionally provide totally false information about cancer to the general public. In fact, the truth about alternative cancer treatments is totally blacklisted!!

Most people assume, without thinking, that business executives have integrity. This is not true. Business executives are chosen because they are interested in saving profits, not saving humanity. Think of the tobacco industry. Now think about the pharmaceutical industry and the media. All of these are corporations which are only interested in profits (i.e. "earnings per share").

The pharmaceutical industry, which makes highly profitable chemotherapy drugs, pumps many billions of dollars a year into television advertising. These billions of dollars a year are more important to the owners of the pharmaceutical industry and media than human life. Yes, not everyone cares about human life.

This discussion about information explains why, in spite of the vast superiority of alternative cancer treatments, more than 99% of newly diagnosed cancer patients begin their cancer treatment with orthodox cancer treatments!!!

This quote about World War II explains how the media convinces people to avoid alternative cancer treatments in favor of the deadly orthodox cancer treatments:

- "No one understood better than Stalin that the true object of propaganda is neither to convince nor even to persuade, but to produce a uniform pattern of public utterance in which the first trace of unorthodox thought immediately reveals itself as a jarring dissonance."

Alan Bullock, Hitler and Stalin: Parallel Lives

It is the "uniform pattern of public utterance" which convinces people to use chemotherapy, radiation and surgery at their first sign of cancer. It is the "jarring dissonance" which drives people away from alternative cancer treatments.

Curing cancer with alternative cancer treatments is fairly easy for those who are recently diagnosed and do not have a particularly vicious type of cancer. It must be kept in mind, however, that cancer can be relentless, so the cancer should never be taken lightly!

Cancer patients who have had extensive chemotherapy, radiation and surgery, on the other hand, not only have a great deal of physical damage and many cancer cells, but they have lost many months of treatment time. Treating these kinds of cancer patients can be very complex.

Can alternative cancer treatments cure someone who has already had massive amounts of orthodox cancer treatments? The answer to that question, in fact, is why this website exists. No, we cannot tell everyone how to cure their cancer, but many people have cured their cancer with alternative cancer treatments after being sent home to die by orthodox medicine (Note: Over 15% of cancer patients who die of cancer are still on chemotherapy at the time they die, thus they are never sent home to die.).

So far this discussion has discussed cancer in about the same level of detail as describing the space shuttle as a "big tube with wings."

The Cancer Tutor website is one of the premiere websites on the Internet on the subject of alternative cancer treatments. There are more than 150 articles/chapters on cancer on this website!!

One of the unique things about this website is that it "rates" the strength of alternative cancer treatments. This is so that an advanced cancer patient does not choose a treatment which is too weak for their situation (see the next section).

If you are not sure whether orthodox cancer treatments or alternative cancer treatments are superior, you need to stop what you are doing and read this small, free online eBook:

Introduction to Alternative Cancer Treatments \(in English\)

by R. Webster Kehr,

Independent Cancer Research Foundation, Inc.

Free eBook

There are two major kinds of cancer treatments. The most popular kind of cancer treatments are called "orthodox cancer treatments" and include chemotherapy, radiation and surgery.

The second kind of cancer treatments, which are rarely used, are called "natural cancer treatments" or more often: "alternative cancer treatments."

The average person in America thinks that orthodox cancer treatments are the best cancer treatments on earth and that alternative cancer treatments are largely worthless.

The evidence for this statement is obvious: over 99% of all newly diagnosed cancer patients start their cancer treatment with orthodox cancer treatments.

Obviously, there is a reason that people start their cancer treatment with orthodox cancer treatments. The reason is that they have been taught in the media, in school, by their medical doctors, etc. that there is only one kind of viable cancer treatment and that is orthodox cancer treatments.

Let's look at two quick facts.

Fact #1: Using definitions of "cancer" and "cure rate" of the 1950s, the true "cure rate" of orthodox cancer treatments is less than 3% (and even that is being generous). And that 3% figure is the result of 100 years of "diligently looking for a cure for cancer."

However, rather than curing cancer, the orthodox community has carefully changed the definitions of the 1950s and replaced them with highly deceptive definitions which make the cure rate of orthodox treatments look far higher than they really are. Furthermore, there is a massive amount of deceptive information on television. Because of these things, and others, the general public thinks that the cure rate of orthodox medicine is over 40%.

Something is wrong with this picture. If the cure rate of orthodox medicine has climbed to over 40%, why have cancer deaths grown to the point that cancer will soon be the leading cause of death in America?

The fact is that if you get cancer, and you use orthodox cancer treatments, you will almost certainly die of cancer, or at best spend the rest of your life on chemotherapy.

Fact #2: Let us look at alternative cancer treatments. The late Dr. William D. Kelley, a dentist by training, treated over 33,000 cancer patients with his version of alternative cancer treatments. His cure rate, using the definitions of the 1950s, on cancer patients who went to him first (as opposed to using orthodox cancer treatments first), was about 90%.

Thus, comparing orthodox cancer treatment to alternative cancer treatments is like comparing a 3% cure rate to a 90% cure rate.

If these things are true, and they are historically true, why do over 99% of all cancer patients start their cancer treatment with orthodox cancer treatments?

Understanding the answer to this question could save your life or the life of a loved one!! And answering that very question is the purpose of this free eBook.

Have you ever noticed that NOT ONE of the worlds true ruling elite EVER, EVER, EVER died of cancer? Interesting eh? Or just coincidence... I don't think so.

The reality is very profound in that mankind has been successfully using natural cures for eons and it has only been in recent history, since the founding of the sinister FDA that natural cures have been BANNED and some even outlawed. The FDA in the all powerful position as absolute industry judge, jury, police and executioner has officially deemed and proclaimed LAW that "only drugs can cure disease" and have made it an imprisoning offense to claim otherwise. Thus we see manufactures of natural medices and suppliments being forced to NOT disclose in any way shape or form the many benefits of their products. And for added insult they all must a disclaimer on all their labels that states: "This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure or prevent any disease." Another common disclaimer used is: "It is unlawful to represent in any way that this product is useful or safe for medicinal purposes."

Introduction to the Politics of Cancer

By R. Webster Kehr,
Chairman, Independent Cancer Research Foundation, Inc.

Every year hundreds of thousands of people are diagnosed with cancer. To almost all of these people, the diagnosis of cancer is considered to be a guarantee of massive amounts of pain followed by almost certain death.

But such a diagnosis does not have to lead to any pain or even death. Some people, when they are diagnosed with cancer, have no fear of cancer and only consider cancer to be a minor nuisance!!

Why is it that some people greatly fear cancer and others consider cancer to be only a minor nuisance? The answer is information. Some people have good information about cancer and others have intentionally bad information about cancer and cancer treatments.

How can you tell whether you have good information or bad information? Consider the source of the information and study the claims. There is almost always an inverse relationship between money and truth. In other words, the more money an organization has, the less likely you will get any truth out of that organization, in almost all cases.

For example, the mass media receives many billions of dollars every year from the pharmaceutical industry in advertising revenues. Anyone who has not been living in a cave all their life knows that the media are very loyal to their major advertisers.

Both the media and the pharmaceutical industry are worth massive billions of dollars. Can you expect any truth from either industry?

Both groups are interested in money and the media is more than willing to increase their fortunes by "jumping in bed" with Big Pharma. Thus, while you may think that everything you know about cancer comes from the media, in fact, everything you hear from the media about cancer actually comes from the pharmaceutical industry.

For example, the mass media tells everyone that there is no cure for cancer. The mass media also tells everyone that cancer is so complex that it will take many decades to find a cure for cancer.

Big Pharma supposedly has been "looking" for a cure for cancer for more than 100 years. But for some strange reason they act like it will be another hundred years before a cure is found. During these 200 years (actually it is a "carrot and stick" trick and there will never be a general cure for cancer from Big Pharma) both Big Pharma and Big Medicine will rake in many trillions of dollars!!!

The claims of Big Pharma are nonsense. These are not the claims of people who are experts in cancer, these claims come from businessmen who are only interested in money. The media is nothing but a mouthpiece for Big Pharma because it is more profitable to sell your soul than to tell the truth and help people!!!

Also, you probably think that the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is diligently seeking your best interests. Did it ever occur to you that what you hear about the FDA comes from the media. Because everything you hear from the media comes from the pharmaceutical industry, you can rest assured everything you hear about the FDA also comes from the pharmaceutical industry.

The pharmaceutical industry loves the FDA because in 1910 Congress assigned the FDA to be the police force of Big Pharma. Actually, the FDA is more like a mafia than a police force. But you will never hear anything bad about the FDA or the pharmaceutical industry in the media.

The prime purpose of the FDA is to shut down competitors of Big Pharma. But the media tells you that the prime purpose of the FDA is to shut down scam artists. Yes, there are scam artists among the competitors of Big Pharma, but there are also people who know how to cure cancer who are also shut down by the FDA!!

In other words, the FDA does not care whether someone knows how to cure cancer, the FDA shuts down everyone who cuts into the profits of the pharmaceutical industry, even if they know how to cure cancer.

Congress, the media, the FDA and Big Pharma (and many, many others) are in the same bed. The media is telling everyone that both the pharmaceutical industry and the FDA are watching out for your health. Hogwash. What they are doing is looking out for their profits. When a top executive of the FDA retires it is almost certain they will soon be millionaires working for a company who works for Big Pharma.

The Two Worlds

The fact is that cancer is easy to cure, especially for newly diagnosed cancer patients. The concept that there is no cure for cancer and that a cure for cancer is decades away are both totally false and are driven by the lust for money of the pharmaceutical industry and their friends.

There are, in fact, two totally different worlds of information. These two different worlds of information might as well be on different planets because there is zero overlap in information between the two worlds. One world of information is owned and controlled by Big Business. The other world of information is controlled by people who are outside of Big Business and who care about other people.

In one world, cancer is easy to cure. In the other world, cancer is impossible to cure and it will be many decades before there is even a partial cure for cancer. In this world, everyone is told that cancer is a chronic disease because there is no cure.

The media, Congress and the FDA (and the American Cancer Society, which is controlled by oncologists, and almost all other non-profit "cancer research" organizations which are in bed with some organization in Big Pharma or Big Medicine) are all on the world of the pharmaceutical industry. It is a fantasy world which was created by the media. The Savior of the world would refer to their world as a "whited sepulcher" (see Matthew 23:27-33)."

People have been so brainwashed by the world which includes Congress and the media that when they hear something from the second world they don't believe a word of it.

Here is a famous quote about brainwashing the reader should read 10 times and memorize, because it is the essence of what brainwashing is all about. The quote is a reference to the brainwashing in World War II:

- "No one understood better than Stalin that the true object of propaganda is neither to convince nor even to persuade, but to produce a uniform pattern of public utterance in which the first trace of unorthodox thought immediately reveals itself as a jarring dissonance."
Alan Bullock, Hitler and Stalin: Parallel Lives

The purpose of brainwashing is not to convince people; it is to make them into mindless and obedient sheep. Once they are mindless and obedient sheep the slightest indication that someone is thinking "outside the box" immediately brings a massive retaliation either in the form of violence or ridicule.

The "uniform pattern of public utterance" is exactly what our media today has achieved with regards to cancer and all other diseases. Whenever I tell someone I know how to cure cancer, as fast as possible they retreat away from me as if I had some deadly, contagious disease. The "uniform pattern" is working well for Big Media.

It gets worse. In fact, there is a strange paradox in medicine. If you do not fully understand the concept of brainwashing and the concept of this paradox, you will almost certainly die from your cancer!!!

The Deadly Paradox in Medicine

The typical cancer patient who uses orthodox cancer treatments will spend about $350,000 for their treatment and will die. Orthodox cancer treatments are very, very profitable to medical doctors, hospitals, the pharmaceutical industry, the "health" insurance companies, the politicians (e.g. government agencies), the media, etc.

In other words, the corporations and individuals who are leading orthodox medicine are extremely wealthy. They have more money than most people can even dream about having.

Orthodox cancer treatments are designed to make a cancer patient a "long term profit center," meaning cancer treatments are designed not to treat cancer, but to turn cancer into yet another "chronic disease." Their goal is to turn every cancer patient into a lifelong user of chemotherapy.

But the key entity which makes massive amounts of money on cancer patients is the pharmaceutical industry. It is this industry which uses their money to "buy" the favors of the media and many, many other entities. The most important use of this money is to gain the favors of the media (to control information in the media) and to gain the favors of the government agencies (which suppress information outside of the media and harass or arrest those who know how to cure disease). The FDA, like most government agencies, is nothing but the police force of a corporate cartel (i.e. the large pharmaceutical companies - Big Pharma). The FDA is the way Congress pays Big Pharma for their bribes - a free police force paid for by the taxpayers.

Patients who make cancer treatment decisions do so on the basis of what they have heard (or not heard) in the mass media. It is the mass media which controls, directly and indirectly, the information people use to choose between orthodox cancer treatments or alternative cancer treatments.

The primary reason, by a wide margin, that the media glorifies ineffective orthodox cancer treatments is because of a paradox in medicine. This paradox is a direct result of two key facts.

Fact #1: Cancer is a trillion dollar disease to modern medicine because there is a great deal of money in treating cancer as a chronic disease while they pretend there are no cures for cancer and they pretend to be looking for a cure for cancer.

Therefore, those people who have no interest in curing cancer, because curing cancer would cut into their profits, have many, many, many billions of dollars to control the White House (e.g. the FDA, FTC, FCC, etc. appointments), Congress, buy the loyalty of the mass media, etc. etc. For example, any presidential candidate who is not acceptable to the corporate cartels is effectively blacklisted by the media to insure they are not elected (the media itself is a giant cartel which has its own police force - the FCC).

Fact #2: There is very little money in curing cancer with alternative cancer treatments, and there is even less money in telling people how to cure their cancer at home. Thus, there are very few people who know how to cure cancer and most of them make very little money curing cancer, thus this group has a pathetically small amount of money compared to how much money Big Medicine and Big Pharma have!!

While all of this is interesting, the deadly paradox in medicine results from these two facts.

The Deadly Paradox in Medicine:

Because the media are whores who sell-out to the highest bidder; the information that is heard by the general public is totally controlled by the people with the most money and the people with the most money have the most money because they have the least concern for human life. Thus, all of the information you hear about cancer comes from those who love your money but have absolutely no concern for your life!!

If you do not clearly understand this paradox you will have almost no chance of surviving your cancer because you will continue to believe what you hear in the media and you will continue to use orthodox cancer treatments!! Understanding this paradox is the first step in the healing process and has been the first step for many decades.

This paradox is why, when you watch television, you see medical doctor shows (by deifying medical doctors they are glorifying drugs), hospital shows, pharmaceutical ads, etc. every time you turn on your television. That is why the vast majority of people have no clue that alternative cancer treatments are far superior to orthodox cancer treatments.

In a nutshell, everything you hear from the media and our government is the result of a bidding process and Big Pharma and Big Medicine can outbid alternative medicine by a factor of about a million to one because they have zero concern for YOUR LIFE!!!

What is the significance of this paradox? The significance is that cancer will always be a chronic disease and there will never be any new cures for cancer found (by orthodox medicine) because it would cut into their vast fortunes to actually cure cancer.

The money received by pretending there is no cure for cancer is why the oncologist-controlled American Cancer Society has a billion dollars of funds to convince people to send them money so they can divert money from people who know how to cure cancer and who are looking for even more effective cures for cancer.

That is why organizations like the American Cancer Society count their contributions in the hundreds of millions of dollars and why organizations like the ICRF count their contributions in the hundreds of dollars.

One of the things we want to do at the ICRF is have staff to answer emails of cancer patients to give them suggestions on which alternative cancer treatment is best for their situation. But the ICRF does not even have enough money to hire a single part-time staff member to answer emails.

Don't ever forget there is very little money in curing cancer and thus the media will never say anything good about effective alternative cancer treatments. If you don't understand this paradox it could cost you your life or the life of a loved one!!

The deadly paradox is real and actually applies to many diseases for which there are already cures.

These are just the FACTS. Due to the limited amount of space I have to cover the many sectors of the illuminati matrix I can't discuss each and every illness and their corresponding natural cures, therefore I have chosen to highlight the great grand daddy of them all, cancer. And as you can plainly see by now, it is all a bogus scam perpetrated by big pharma medical industrial mafia.

Do check out the links provided throughout this chapter for more information, and as I keep reiterating: please fire up your search engines and look up anything and everything I say here in this report, as I did, double, triple checking everything before including it in this report. While still on the topic of cancer, we have to at least include just a few remedies, but I must, again remind you that I only covered just a very few supplements and cures, there exists a wealth of sources and information out there waiting for you to discover. Here is a quote from Kevin Trudeau's book:

More Natural Cures They Don't Want You To Know About

Eating Fast Food Causes Cancer, Diabetes, Heart Disease, and Dozens of Other Illnesses

My independent observations have shown that eating fast food causes disease in the same manner that smoking cigarettes causes lung cancer. You are reading this right. The fast food restaurants totally disagree with my conclusions and state emphatically that there is no evidence supporting my claims. I disagree with them 100 percent. Let's look at the facts. McDonald's say if you eat in their restaurants once a week, you are a "heavy user." People however, do not frequently just one fast food restaurant. I asked people who eat fast food at least three times a week consistently, ninety percent had heart disease or high risks of heart disease. Ninety-two percent had pre-diabetes or diabetes. Ninety-five percent were overweight. Eighty-five percent had food and/or environmental allergies. Ninety-one percent had an acidic pH, which means, according to Dr. Mörter, they are prone to get cancer. The list goes on.

The question is why does fast food apparently cause so much disease and illness? There are many factors. I believe the most important factor, which is overlooked and virtually never discuss, is that fast food is loaded with CHEMICALS! Any time you talk to a doctor about fast food they talk about calories, sodium, carbohydrates, fats, proteins, and the like. Doctor never mention the chemical poisons used in the producing of the food, the chemicals used in the processing of the food, the microwaving and irradiation of the food causing it to be energetic toxic, the growth hormones and antibiotics used in the meat and dairy and other environmental toxins that get into the food in the cooking, sodium, proteins, and fats being in an abnormally proportioned state, I believe the most important reason that eating fast food causes disease are the CHEMICALS AND POISONS in the food.

Let's take it a step further. I went and interviewed 100 cancer patients. All of them, 100 percent, in the last year averaged three fast food or chain restaurant meals per week. I interviewed a little over 100 diabetics and found the same thing. The same thing occurred with patients with heart disease, allergies, constipation, Fibromyalgia, fatigue, obesity, arthritis, and MS. Virtually every one of those people that I talked to that had these diseases ate in fast food or chain restaurants at least three meals per week. Those that didn't ate processed food from publicly traded corporations at least three times or more per week! People disagree with my conclusions, but it seems to be pretty obvious to me. Eating fast food and eating processed food sold by publicly traded corporation's causes disease.

How bad is fast food? How could they say their processing methods and sanitary? It's impossible. Did you know that even the government in reviewing the safety and sanitary regulations at fast food restaurants find violations EVERY SINGLE TIME AND INSPECTION IS DONE! That's right; every single time a food inspection is done at fast food or chain restaurant serious health violations are found in sanitation. This means the food is poisoned. This means the food is not safe to eat, yet we eat it almost every single day. Did you know that health violations occur in the processing plants of virtually every publically traded corporation making your favorite brand name food? This means the food is not safe to eat. This means the food is causing disease and illness. This is why eating 100 percent organic food is causing disease and illness. This is why eating 100 percent organic food from small companies is a must. I continue to get thousands of e-mails a week from people who tell me why they are amazed on how their health has dramatically changed after they stopped eating fast food and processed food, and simply changed to 100 percent food. When you stop putting all the poisons and chemicals in your body you can see dramatic health changes.

Causes of Diseases

In my book I mentioned that I was treated by Dr. Tang at the Century Clinic in Reno, Nevada. The clinic is now called Sierra Integrated Health, and the medical director is Dr. Tang's son. I was recently at Sierra Integrated Health and had a chance to visit with the patients and healthcare providers. It was interesting to note some of the statistics being shared. Did you know virtually every person who is sick has major food and environmental allergies and doesn't even know it?

Most people think of allergies as coughing, sneezing, wheezing, watery eyes, and things of this nature. This is not the case. When you are allergic to something, all it means is your body reacts negatively to that particular substance, whether it is something you smell, something you eat, or something in your environment, perhaps a toxin in some soap, cleaning fluids, paint, or chemicals in food. When your body reacts negatively (an allergic reaction) it doesn't mean you will sneeze nor have a runny nose or watery eyes. It means something in your body is not going to act correctly. It virtually means a suppression of your immune system or a part of your body's function that stops operating optimally. This opens the door for illness and disease. It can make you fatigued, tired, irritable, grumpy, etc. Most people in testing are found to have environmental and food allergies. It is believed that this is caused by Candida, as well as all of the poisons and toxins being put in our food supply today, our water supply, and the air. It is highly suggested and recommended that your address food and environmental allergies. When you do, your body can go back to normal and you are more prone to heal quicker from any disease or ailments you have and prevent sickness from ever occurring.

It is also important to note that a common ailment that is present in people who are sick is Lyme disease is very rarely diagnosed properly. People who have symptoms of MS, Fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue, etc. are never diagnosed as having Lyme disease. Lyme disease is prevalent in person after person after person. The percent-age is outrageously high to the point of being epidemic. If you are sick I would highly encourage you to check to see if you have Lyme Disease. If you do, the standard protocol that a medical doctor would give you is a round of antibiotics. I would highly recommend against this. Go to a clinic that uses no drugs and surgery and you can be treated with homeopathics, herbs, nutritional supplements, DMSO, hydrogen peroxide, and things of this nature that have been found to be very effective at treating Lyme. As always I encourage you to get treatment from a licensed healthcare practitioner who does not use drugs and surgery.

Vitamin E Cures Cancer!

This should be the headline, but you will probably never see it. Why? Because all-natural vitamin E is such a powerful health enhancing supplement that the drug companies are trying to discredit it every way they can. Here is an article by Dr. Jeff McCombs, the author of the book Lifeforce. It describes the most recent "study" and report on vitamin E. This explains and exposes how "studies" are really nothing more than fraudulent reports bought and paid for by the pharmaceutical industry to either falsely make you believe that their drugs are effective and safe or falsely make you believe that all natural remedies are ineffective and dangerous.

Vitamin E by Dr. McCombs. In the movie, Dorothy and her companions shudder in fear when they first confront the great and powerful "Wizard of Oz." Only later do they discover that he's a fake, and that he's been deceiving people for years.

Today, the same scene is used over and over again by companies and agencies who attempt to control others for their own personal gain. Many, once reputable and reliable, companies now use the public perception of themselves to control others and profit from deception, lies, and misinformation. A government that once stood for the people is now being sold over and over again to some of the most powerful and influential money interests on the planet. Four of the top 10 Fortune 500 companies are pharmaceutical companies. They have a lobbyist for every state representative and senators in Washington, with some extras assigned to the public committees of the House and Senate. Your health is being sold on a daily basis by every representative and senator who takes their money as long as there is something written down on paper. It doesn't matter if it's true or not, just as long as the pharmaceutical companies say it is.

Let's analyze a recent example. You may have heard of a study indicating that vitamin E is bad for you. The name of this study is HOPE-TOO (Heart Outcomes Prevention Evaluation--The Ongoing Outcomes) and is an "extension" of an earlier study on vitamin E, called HOPE. The names seem to indicate an innocence and hopefulness about it. This couldn't be further from the truth.

When I first read the HOPE-TOO report, I wondered who had performed it for what purpose. The best way to discover this information is by looking at the original study and see what took place. The newspaper, magazines, and journals will report whatever is fed to them, so they are unreliable when it comes to discovering the truth.

The first question is who funded by pharmaceutical companies. You may recognize some of the following names: Aventis, King Pharmaceuticals, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Bayer, GlaxoSmithKline, Novartis, Pfizer, Roche, Abbott Laboratories, Genentech, Pharmacia, AstraZeneca, Natural-Source Vitamin E Association, and several others. These are the same companies that produce drugs that kill hundreds of thousands of people each year. Only these companies have the type of money that could fund such a study, representing their own interests, and not the public's.

The next question is for what purpose was this study funded? The main player in these studies is a pharmaceutical giant called Aventis. Closer examination reveals that the timing of the end of the first study (1993-1999) coincided with the release of a drug aimed at helping to prevent heart failure. This was an Aventis drug called Rimipril, also known as Altace. The ending of the second study (1999-2003) doesn't coincide with anything. However, the second study results weren't released until March 15, 2005, which coincides with the release of another Aventis drug aimed at heart failure, Plavix on March 10, 2005. If the study was an important study of vitamin E, shouldn't the results have been made public in May of 2003 when it was finished? YES. The study however, wasn't being done for that purpose. These pharmaceutical giants weren't doing a study to discover the importance of vitamin E. They do not sell vitamin E, they sell drugs. Why do so many pharmaceutical companies invest so much money to study on vitamin E? Is vitamin E that big of a threat to them? YES.

When you read the HOPE-TOO study, you see that "The authors note that the adverse effect of vitamin E was unexpected and UNCONFIRMED the other trials." What do the other trials say? Let's look at a few:

Cambridge Heart Antioxidant study reported 77 percent lower risk of heart attack with vitamin E.

Finnish study reports reduced risk of prostate cancers in male smokers.

Columbia University study reports vitamin E slows progression of Alzheimer's disease when used in high doses.

Animal studies report vitamin E protects against cataracts.

Other studies show that it protects against colon cancer, cystic breasts, etc.

In other words, Vitamin E is a better choice than drugs for many conditions. As a matter of fact, when you read the HOPE and HOPE-TOO studies, you'll note that the authors didn't compare vitamin E to their drugs, they compare vitamin E to a placebo. In other words, some people were given vitamin E and others were given something that they were told was vitamin E, but it wasn't. This way, only the researchers know who is talking what. Since I've been talking about looking at the results of the study, it's time that we did. There were 4 main results.

1. Cancer incidence was less in the vitamin E group.
2. Prostate cancer was less in the vitamin E group.
3. Cancer deaths were less in the vitamin E group.
4. Major cardiovascular events were 1 percent greater in the vitamin E group.

If you read the results, you'll see that the headlines should have read, "Vitamin E cures cancer." Instead, what you read is that vitamin E is bad for you. What you should have read is that the TYPE of vitamin E used in this study created a 1 percent increase in cardio vascular events. The researchers do not explain cardio vascular events, so that leaves it up to companies who funded the study to interpret it however they choose to.

Let's look at the TYPE of vitamin E that was used in the study. This is perhaps one of the most important considerations of these studies that one addresses. If you refer back to the list of funding agencies, you'll see the Natural-Source Vitamin E Association. Nobody can seem to find this company, however. I've checked many resources, and it doesn't seem to exist. All that I'm able to determine is that they are listed in every Aventis pharmaceutical study on Vitamin E. They are listed as the Natural-Source Vitamin E association of Washington, DC, but seem to be more closely tied to Ontario, Canada, home of Aventis. Nobody in the supplement industry has ever heard of them outside of these studies. It's important here because it is this "association's" definition of natural vitamin E that forms the basis of the few negative studies done on vitamin E. The Natural-Source Vitamin E Association states that natural vitamin E can only exist in a chemically altered, esterified, form. It is this chemically altered form of natural vitamin E that is used in their studies. This form of vitamin E is known to have no antioxidant function in the body. This is not the form to use when testing the effectiveness of vitamin E. The best and most active form of vitamin E is the un-esterified, all-natural mixed tocopherol form, consisting of alpha, beta gamma, and delta tocopherols. This is also the un-esterified version doesn't exist, but it does.

In the scientific community, the HOPE and HOPE-TOO studies are being cited as examples of bad research. There are many questions about who was excluded along the way and for what reason. The study itself proves that synthetic, chemically altered form of vitamin E can produce a very slight 1 percent increase in cardiovascular events, while also decreasing certain cancers and death due to cancer

A better designed study would be to compare all-natural, un-esterified mixed tocopherols to Aventis drugs. If we use current information about Rimipril and Plavix, we see that can cease:

Abdominal hemorrhage, pain, gastritis, and constipation; peptic and duodenal ULCER; rash and skin disorders; anxiety; insomnia; arthritis; gout; CATARACTS; anemia; edema; eczema; pneumonia; cystitis; allergies; fatty liver and hepatitis infections; LEUKEMIA; fetus death; dizziness; low blood pressure; dehydration; vomiting; kidney disease; pancreatitis; death of skin tissue; hearing loss; tremor; tinnitus; vision disturbances; fever; impotence; weight gain; possible death; and amnesia.

All-natural, un-esterified vitamin E does none of the above and in many cases, according to previous studies; it may help to reverse the above symptom and conditions.

Now, do you think that you'll ever see a study funded by Aventis comparing their drugs to all-natural, un-esterified vitamin E? NEVER.

So, next time the great powerful Oz decides to scare you with his façade and hype, just pull back the curtain to see the truth for yourself. I'll take my vitamin E any and every day.

Miracle Product

Allicin comes from raw garlic. It is antiviral, antibacterial, anti-inflammatory, and simulates and boosts the immune system. There are many products on the market that contain high amounts Allicin. In my opinion, this is a “natural cure” that they don’t want you about. Why? As with most natural cures, this natural cure is better than virtually any drug or surgery. In my opinion, you should have some Allicin in your home at all times. At the first sign of a cold or flu, or and pain or inflammation, start taking some Allicin, it should knock it out.

The Natural Way to Cure Cancer

If you are not concerned about cancer you should be. In America more people are being diagnosed with cancer than ever before in history. If you get cancer you have a higher chance of dying of cancer than ever before in history. Cancer rates continue to rise. Cancer fatalities continue to rise. The war on cancer has been a dismal failure. Over $250 billion has been spent on trying to allegedly prevent and cure cancer. How in the world can $250 billion be spent, yet cancer rates and fatalities continue to rise? The answer, in my opinion, is cancer is an industry. Billions of dollars in profits are made in the treatment and testing of cancer. In my opinion, the pharmaceutical industry simply does not want cancer to prevented or cured. The evidence of this goes back over fifty years when Jonas Salk cured polio. Let’s think for a moment about how many diseases had been cured in the last fifty years. The answer is no disease has been cured! Every single disease is on the increase. The last disease that was ever cured was polio. How did it get cured? Well, at the time polio was a billion dollar a year business. The treatment of polio was very profitable. The pharmaceutical industry continued to state that they working on a cure for this dreaded disease. Billions of dollars were being funneled into pharmaceutical companies’ coffer by foundations and government, all trying to research and come up with a way to prevent and cure the disease of polio.

As I have stated before, any time a pharmaceutical company does research, it is simply conducting research to try to find a patentable drug that can sell and make millions of dollars. It does not want to cure disease or prevent disease; doing so would put the companies out of business. This was the case with polio. It wasn’t until Jonas Salk’s wife developed polio that a cure was developed. Jonas Salk simply said enough was enough. He went into a laboratory and within six months developed the cure for polio. He never made a penny on his discovery. Polio was cured, never to be the horrible menace it once was. People would no longer fear getting polio and suffering a lifetime of illness due to the horrible disease. The problem was the polio industry virtually went bankrupt overnight. At that time, a secret meeting was held with the heads of major pharmaceutical companies, the American Medical Association, and past commissioners of FDA. This “cartel” discussed the financial implications of curing a disease was unprofitable and it would not be tolerated. That is why there was never been a cure for any disease since that time. The decision was simply made to convince people that “We are so close to finding a cure.” when nothing could be further from the truth.

The fact is there are ways to prevent disease, and there are ways to cure disease with natural means. The most important thing for you to consider is the pharmaceutical cartel wants more people to get cancer. Cancer is the most profitable industry in the entire field of medicine and health. There are major financial incentives to increase the percentage of people getting cancer. In my opinion, this cartel is knowingly producing products that give us cancer, therefore increasing their profits. This cartel has been incredibly aggressive at trying to discredit and wipe out any person who exposes the causes of cancer and educates people on ways to prevent and cure cancer. This is not new. Back in 1972, a book was written call Cancer: Causes, Prevention and Treatment by Paavo Airola. In his introduction Paavo Airola states “First, I want to make it perfectly clear that I do not offer a cure for cancer. I only report how cancer is successfully treated in several of the biological clinics in Europe. I do this mainly to protect myself against prosecution by the overzealous government agencies who, in the name of protecting the public, mercilessly attack anyone who not only dares to advise but even to report on unorthodox cancer therapies work.”

The causes of cancer are known yet suppressed. If you ask anyone what causes cancer, no one knows! Ask a man

“What is the cause of prostate cancer?” No one knows. Ask a woman “What is the cause of breast cancer?” No one knows. Ask anyone “What is the cause of liver cancer, lymphatic cancer, or stomach cancer?” No one knows. The reason no one knows is the pharmaceutical industry continues to state the lie that the cause of cancer is not known. This is a lie. The cause of cancer is simply stop doing the things that are causing cancer! This is an oversimplification, but the fact is that there are clinics around the world that cure cancer in virtually 100 percent of the cases without chemotherapy, radiation, drugs, or surgery. Unfortunately, in many states in America it is a criminal offense to cure someone of cancer without using chemotherapy, radiation, drugs, and surgery. There are doctors In America who are being imprisoned for committing the crime of curing a patient of cancer without using chemotherapy, drugs, radiation, and surgery. How insane. What causes cancer? Here are the basic causes of cancer:

1. Toxins. As mentioned in the Natural Cures book, the number one reason people get sick or have any disease is too many toxins in the body. Toxins are the number one cause of cancer as well. The basic or main toxins that cause cancer include:
 - a. Smoking
 - b. Mechanical, physical, and chemical irritation.
 - c. Food additives, such as DES, or diethylstilbestrol, which is used in food production-primarily in meat products. Eight-five percent of all meat in the United States contain dangerous residual amounts of poison. This is why many countries around the world refuse to import American meat. This particular food additive also speeds up sexual maturity in young women.
 - d. Artificial sweeteners, such as saccharine and aspartame
 - e. Nitrites used in processed meat products
 - f. Hexachlorophene, which is used in many cosmetics, soap, and deodorants
 - g. Food dyes
 - h. Non-prescription and prescription drugs
 - i. Almost all oil used in cooking in restaurants because is rancid
 - j. Chemicals used in cleaning products.
 - k. And many other types of toxins.

So the number one reason you have cancer is the toxins that are purposely being put in our food, our water, our air, our cosmetics, soaps, and cleaning supplies that all wind up in our bodies.

2. Nutritional Deficiencies. The second cause of all cancers is nutritional deficiencies. Even the U.S. Government states that at least one-half of all Americans suffer from varying degrees of nutritional deficiency that even a deficiency in just one vitamin or mineral, or other nutritive substance lowers resistance to infection and disease, and increases risk of cancer. From these studies it states that:
 - Even a mild deficiency of choline produces cancer of the liver.
 - Vitamin E deficiency increases the risk of leukemia
 - Iodine deficiency leads to cancer of the thyroid
 - Deficiencies of various B vitamins results in liver damage, as well as cancers
 - Deficiencies in zinc lead to cancer of prostate
 - Vitamin A deficiencies lead to tumor developments
 - And on, and on, and on
3. Electromagnetic Chaos. The next cause of all cancers is electromagnetic chaos. I have mentioned this in previous newsletters, cell phones, microwaves, high-definition TVs, laptops computers, and any and all wireless devices categorically, 100 percent lead to and cause the body to be susceptible and prone to developing cancer.
4. Emotional Stress. The last reason people develop cancer is emotional stress, which makes the body turn acidic, creating an environment where cancer can develop rapidly.

The natural cure for all disease is simply to stop toxins in the body, and cleanse the toxins that are in your body out of the body; handle any nutritional deficiencies you have; eliminate, neutralize, or reduce electromagnetic chaos; and reduce emotional stress. When you do these things the body comes back into balance and you virtually can never be sick.

I want to talk here specifically about some of the toxins that specifically relate to cancer. In my book I mentioned that if you can't eat it, you shouldn't put it on your skin. This is something that many people blow off as not that important or significant, but I want you to reevaluate this. Many of the products used in cosmetics, skin care, soaps, detergents, shampoos, etc. contain ingredients that are categorically cancer causing. Here are a couple examples, DEA, or diethanolamine. This particular ingredient had been found in over 600 home and personal care products. These products include shampoos, conditioners, bubble bath, lotions, cosmetics, soap, laundry and dishwashing detergents. It is just one of an estimated 125 ingredients used in home and personal care products have been proven to cause cancer. Dr. Samuel Epstein, author of The Safe Shopper's Bible, and founder of the American Coalition to Prevent Cancer, is considered the world's leading authority on toxicology. He believes that DEA categorically causes cancer. Yet even though the FDA knows that this ingredient, as well as many others, leads to cancer, it remains in the products you buy. Why? Because the multinational conglomerates that own these companies want you to get cancer. They need to make their products as cheaply as possible to increase their profits and they know that if you use their products cancer rates will continue to rise and they will make billions more on all the cancer treatments that they have a monopoly on.

Consider this: propylene glycol is the main ingredient in antifreeze, yet go into your household cabinets and look at your toothpaste, underarm deodorant, shampoo, conditioner, lotions, soaps, or what have you and you will be amazed when you see propylene glycol. Propylene glycol is everywhere, yet it gives you cancer! It is a colorless, viscous liquid used in antifreeze solutions and hydraulic fluids, and as a solvent. It is not only used to break and hydraulic fluids, paints and coatings, floor wax, pet food, tobacco products, and laundry detergents, but also in cosmetics, toothpastes, shampoos, deodorants, lotions, and processed foods. You will even find it in baby wipes. Check the labels, you will be amazed. This is why pets are getting more cancer than ever before. Pet food companies are using it in pet food. This is why children are getting cancer at a higher rate than ever before. In addition to causing cancer, propylene glycol also causes dermatitis, kidney damage, and liver abnormalities. It can cause skin rashes, dry skin, and skin damages. It is a major irritant to the skin. It also can cause nausea, headaches, vomiting, depression, and gastrointestinal disturbances. The other big problem with propylene glycol is that it doesn't leave your body. It stays in the tissues and continues to build up, causing more and more damage down the road. Keep in mind that there had never been any long-range testing on the effects of those types of toxins used in various products.

The same holds true with the toxic ingredient sodium lauryl sulfate, or SLS. This is another cancer-causing agent. Go look and find it in the products in your cupboard. Not only does it cause cancer, it can change the genetic structure of cells. It induces mutations in the cells. It irritates skin cells, and impairs ability for hair to grow. It had adverse affects on the heart, liver, and brain. It affects eyes; damages the immune system; and causes inflammation of the skin. All of these problems arise simply by putting this on the skin because once you put it on the skin; it gets absorbed into the body. This also is a toxic substance that does not leave the body, but continues to build up residual effects. It's in your toothpaste, your shampoo, and your soaps. This is just the tip of the iceberg. Ingredients, after ingredient, after ingredient that is commonly used in not only foods that you eat, but in the lotions, shampoos, soaps, toothpastes, deodorants, etc. categorically causes cancer and suppress your immune system, causing all types of other disease.

One of the reasons why we are sicker today than ever before is that the use of these toxic chemicals is increasing at an astounding rate. We put more poisons in our body than ever before in history. Some researchers suggest that people today are putting ten times more toxins in their body than they were just ten years ago, and the rate continues to go up. This is why if you want to be healthy, you absolutely must understand that you are loaded with toxins, and that you must clean these toxins out. You must do a colon cleanse, a liver/gallbladder cleanse, a kidney/bladder cleanse, a Candida cleanse, a parasite cleanse, a heavy metal cleanse, and a full body cleanse-it is imperative. I say this to you again; if you want to be healthy, do not buy products from publicly traded companies. Do not buy brand name products. You can buy shampoos and conditioners, and soaps, toothpastes, antiperspirants, moisturizers, lotions, cosmetics, and skin care products without all of the toxins. They are available. I am looking at a hand soap right now that says right on the label "no lauryl sulfates." It is all-natural and mostly organic. I am looking at a skin moisturizer made with natural oils and emollients. This product is great, it will not give you cancer, and it will not make you sick. If you want to be healthy, stop putting toxins in your body. Read the labels of the food you eat and everything you put on your skin.

New Cancer Cures

In America the new media is trying to brainwash us into believing that only the "medical doctors" using chemotherapy, drugs, and radiation can cure cancer. We are being led to believe that only the M.D.s who receive their M.D. title after being trained by the drug industry are the only people qualified to give us advice or information about cancer or our health. We are being led to believe that only chemotherapy, drugs, and radiation, and those things produced by the pharmaceutical industry in America, are the only things that can treat, prevent, or cure cancer. This is being pounded into our heads by the FDA, other governmental agencies, and the news media. This is a great lie. This is fraud. This is arrogance. Consider the hundreds of thousands of DOCTORS around the world who are not members of the American Medical Association. Consider the hundreds of thousands of healthcare providers who treat patients on a regular basis all around the world who were not trained by the American drug industry. Consider the hundreds of thousands of hospitals and clinics around the world that treat patients who have cancer with methods other than chemotherapy, radiation, and drugs. Consider the fact that these alternative treatments have the same or better cure rate than chemotherapy, surgery, radiation, or drugs.

Why is this information being hidden from us? The answer is very simple. The news media today is controlled by the board of directors, officers and shareholders. The people on the boards of the major media, the officers and the shareholders have major financial ties to the oil industry, the pharmaceutical industry, and the fast food industry. They are using the media, including the news, to increase their wealth by brainwashing us into believing that only those products produced by the pharmaceutical industry, to which they have financial ties, can treat, prevent, and cure diseases like cancer. This is a big lie. We live in America, we watch the TV and read the newspaper, and we are being simply fed propaganda line that both the government and the multinational corporations want us to hear. We think we live in a free society with the free flow of information and ideas. We used to laugh at the Soviet Union or Nazi Germany or Red China and how the government would lie to its people through the news media. We used to think that America was transparent in the free flow of information. This is categorically untrue. When you travel to other parts of the world people in other countries know that Americans are in fact being lied to through the media. What you see on TV, what you hear about in the news, is not the truth. The lies and misinformation are a combination of flagrant, blatant, and purposely delivered untruths, half truths, lies, deceptions, and misleading information combined with a lack of fact checking. The other element is the fact that the producers and newsmen have no real desire to put out true information. Their desire is simply to appear to have exclusive breaking information and produce a controversial news segment or show that will get great ratings and get the producers and news people involved accolades, thus increasing their power, their position, their influence, and their salaries. All these people are simply looking to produce pieces that will get them promoted. They are not looking to share with you truthful information. They have a conflict of interest. If you read my book in its entirety and you listen to anything I say in these newsletters, the bottom line is when there is a conflict of interest, and specifically when that conflict is monetary, you can be assured that people will succumb to greed, therefore compromising the free flow of truthful information.

However, that blanket statement does not take into account how far along your cancer is, and other factors in your life which may impede the healing process. One new specific cancer cause, which is a nontoxic breakthrough in cancer, as well as stroke, endometriosis, and psoriasis, with no side effects and no contraindications, is a complex of mineral, vitamin, and amino acid known as palladium lipoic complex (LAPd). The FTC prohibits me from mentioning the trade name for this complex, but there are over 2000 articles written about LAPd that you can find on the internet. More information about this is at www.centurywellness.com Dr James Forsythe, a board certified oncologist, has just completed a twenty-three month study utilizing this complex. All patients enrolled in this retrospective outcome-based study were stage four cancer patients. As the study progressed and the data began to unfold, Dr Forsythe presented interim results at the following three enrollment points: 104 patients, 160 patients, and 209 patients. The reported results are so extraordinary that we believe the word spectacular accurately conveys the great promise this protocol holds for millions of cancer patients. The most recent report is available at www.centurywellness.com.

The FDA has been trying for years to stonewall studies on LAPd. They have resorted to the intimidation tactics that they have been employing for the past 50 years. First they try to destroy the product with fabricated accusations in an all-out effort to undermine any research that may support the effectiveness of such a product. If the attempt to destroy the product is not successful, they then resort to attacking the researcher. They use smear campaigns, black PR, false and misleading press releases, and Gestapo-like tactics scaring doctors and patients. They use the media to put forth their false propaganda. They do they do this? The FDA, as I mentioned to you before, is nothing more than a front for the pharmaceutical industry. The revolving door between people involved in the FDA and the pharmaceutical industry is an absolute joke. The people who run the FDA are paid by the pharmaceutical companies. The drug industry owns the FDA. The drug industry owns the politicians who control the FDA. The FDA does what the drug industry wants. It's all about making money for the drug industry; it's not about protecting consumers, and it's not about curing disease.

Breast Cancer Curse

Millions of women are frightened about the prospects of breast cancer. Breast cancer is becoming epidemic. The first question that is never addressed is what is causing such an increase in breast cancer. I can assure you that there is study after study after study from healthcare providers around the world that suggest that one of the causes of breast cancer is stress and toxins accumulating in the fatty tissue in the breast. These toxins could include aluminum used in the underarm antiperspirants, as well as herbicides, pesticides, and various chemicals used in our food productions; cell phone and laptop computers also could be a cause. No one knows or is exactly sure what the cause of breast cancer is. However, if a person were doing the things in Chapter 6, it is my firm belief that the likelihood of you coming down with breast cancer is virtually nil.

One potential way to prevent or reverse cancer is reduction of stress. There are many theories of why stress-reducing techniques reverse cancer. One was discussed in the book Anatomy of an Illness. In this book, laughing appeared to put cancer in remission. What are the reasons that reducing stress and laughing can cure cancer? There are many theories.

One of the most promising treatments for breast cancer, and all cancers, seems to be linseed oil, which is flaxseed oil. Canadian researchers gave woman with breast cancer one muffin a day with contained linseed oil. Cancers were reduced by over 42 percent. It appeared to work even more effectively than any form of radiation or chemotherapy. This outrage is why isn't more research being done on linseed and flaxseed oils? The answer is obvious.

As I have mentioned to you before, little if any research is ever conducted as a non-patentable substance. Linseed oil and flaxseed oil cannot be patented; therefore no drug company will invest any money. When research is allegedly conducted on all-natural non-patentable products, ask yourself who is conducting the research. Who is funding it, and what is the purpose of the researcher? I can assure you and I can prove that virtually every study done on an “all-natural” product was funded in some way by a pharmaceutical company. The reason the research was conducted was to prove that the natural substance did not work—that was the objective and goal. The studies are set up to prove that fact. The way this is achieved first and foremost is actually changing the definition of the natural product. This was done in the vitamin E study. The organization that conducted the study was owned many times removed, at the end of the day, in effect, by the pharmaceutical companies that sold a drug that competed with vitamin E. The “all-natural” vitamin E that was used in the study was a synthetic form of vitamin E. It was called “all-natural” because the foundation that was doing the study changed the definition of what all-natural vitamin E was. It wasn’t all natural vitamin E at all. This happens all the time. The studies are set up to prove that the natural substances do not work.

If you are concerned about breast cancer or any cancer, or any cancer, I would highly recommend that you reduce stress, use various stress reducing as described in the Natural Cures book. This also can prevent all types of disease from developing. I would also encourage you to add linseed or flaxseed oil in your diet. Go to your local health food store and enquire. There are many easy ways to include linseed and flaxseed oil in your diet. One particular observation was that when all-natural, not GMO-produced soy protein was added in flaxseed oil and consumed, some cancerous tumors shrunk dramatically.

Additional research has suggested that shark cartilage also would shrink cancers. More research needs to be done. When I make statements like this, many times I was attacked. People say that studies on shark cartilage do not prove that they shrunk cancers. The response is simple: the studies that were done with an inferior grade of shark cartilage produced in a way so that it becomes non-effective. This is done purposely by drug companies to discredit the natural products. The bottom line is there are non-surgical, all natural ways to cure and prevent cancer; new methods are being developed every day. The key is finding healthcare practitioners who are working with cancer patients on a regular basis, finding out what works and what doesn’t work, and are developing the protocols. These doctors are not publishing the information, they are not trying to get on television explaining the truth about this because they know they will be attacked, and they will be in many cases jailed for curing cancer without chemotherapy, drugs, and radiation.

The national media continues to attack me and all those people who are trying to get the truth exposed. It drives me crazy when I see news from people who say that natural methods don’t work. Where are the news reports talking about the hundreds of thousands of people last year that got chemotherapy, drugs, radiation, and surgery trying to cure their cancer, but died anyway?! How come no one is talking about the hundreds of thousands of people that go to medical doctors and are given drugs or surgical procedures to “cure simply ailments” who wind up dead?! How come those stories aren’t behind made headline news!? How come we are not hearing about the hundreds of thousands of people in China and India who are given herbs and using ayurvedic medicine, or herbal medicine, or traditional Chinese medicine and being cured if ask their diseases without drugs or surgery of any kind? How come we are not hearing the stories of millions of people throughout South America who are using plants and traditional Amazon medicine and curing their disease without any pharmaceutical drugs or surgery? Again, there absolutely is a place for rugs and surgery. The problem in the conflict of interest that the drug companies have. They only want to sell drugs, they do not cure disease, and they can only sell drugs that are patentable. This is why they are hell-bent on hiding the truth about non patentable, inexpensive, non-drug, and non-surgical ways to cure and prevent disease.

Vitamin D Cuts Cancer Risk in Half Studies Say

The headlines should read “Revealed-The Pill That Prevents Cancer” and “News Flash-CNN Reports That a Multi-Year Medical Study on 2,300,000 People Shows That Vitamin D Reduces Cancer by 50 Percent.” The research is in and of course the news media doesn’t report it. When I say it I’m called a liar and promoting quackery, but how can you disagree with the research? Scientists at the University of California found that the natural form of Vitamin D, which comes from the sun, dramatically reduces the chance of developing of breast, ovarian, and colon cancer. Report after report after report is now coming in, stating the truth about the benefits of getting natural sunlight. This is a natural cure they don’t want you to know about. It’s amazing that I am called a person who promotes quackery when I make statements such as natural sunlight is beneficial to your health. I’ve been called a promoter of quackery because I say eat more organically grown fruits and vegetables. I’ve been called a promoter of quackery by saying reduce stress, exercise, clean your colon, drink pure water without fluoride and chlorine... all these things I say are promoting quackery. The fact is what I expose in the book Natural Cures is in fact what millions of people and hundreds of thousands of “doctors” in many disciplines believe, use, and adhere to. These things are in many cases beyond theory and have been “proven” throughout the years of observation.

At one point it was considered quackery to suggest that nutrition played any role in preventing or curing or disease. It was said that washing your hands before surgery was quackery. It was said that NOT doing bloodletting was quackery. Think of all the things we’ve done over the years accepting medical practice. Think of all the drugs that were commonly used that are now off the market because they have been proven to be ineffective and dangerous. Throughout medical history, those people who rocket the boat about the medical profession, those people who suggested that the status quo needed to be changed, and those people who suggested something that was outside the profitability range of the medical industry were called promoters of quackery. Chiropractors were called quacks, acupuncturists were called quacks, homeopaths were called quacks, massage therapists were called quacks, and even those who prayed were called quacks. Now we know all of those therapies have been scientifically proven beyond any doubt to be in fact workable, effective solutions to disease. The suggestion that exercise was important for health was called quackery. Losing weight to promote health was called quackery. Not smoking for health is called quackery. The list goes on and on.

Chelation Cure Heart Disease and Other Diseases

There are two types of chelation, oral chelation, and intravenous chelation. Oral chelation can be done at home. There are many oral chelation products on the market. You can go to the internet and search under “oral chelation” and see a host of various products; they are very good. If you want faster results, find a healthcare practitioner in your area that does intravenous chelation. When you do chelation you are putting natural substances into your body that chemically bond with toxic materials that are in your body such as minerals, metals, and chemicals. The chelating agents in either the oral formulation you are taking or the intravenous chelation formula encircle the toxic mineral or metal and carry it from the body via the urine and feces. There are several books written on chelation. Chelation is an inexpensive natural treatment that can cure and prevent disease. It is a natural cure they don’t want you to know about. The drug companies cannot make money on oral chelation products or intravenous chelation. It is all natural and can cause spectacular results. When you chelate the toxins out of your body the most common benefit is opening up the arteries. If you are concerned about blockages in your arteries, chelation is can be answer. You don’t need angioplasty or bypass surgery if you do chelation early enough. The increased circulation means you have tremendous other health benefits. Men will not need Viagra in many cases since blood flow throughout the body is dramatically increased. When blood flow is dramatically increased because all the arteries are open, you get more oxygen to the blood, which means your alkalinity pH level goes up, which means you are less prone to cancer or other degenerative diseases. You have more energy. People’s skin, hair, and nails look much better and healthier. Wrinkles can go away. You look younger. You become more flexible. All of your organs start becoming more vibrant and alive-younger and healthier. It is a tremendous practice that I do myself.

If you are seriously considering purchasing any vitamins and supplements, be forewarned that most of the junk they mass produce, sell and pass off as the real McCoy in most major retail outlets are in all actuality mere shadows of the real thing. Most are watered down versions. Many “vitamins” are not even natural at all! That are in fact artificial synthetically made in laboratories! The powers that be will never allow their subjects to easily break free from their chains, thus opening the door to determining what is what. For the day that your minds and bodies cease to be oppressed, the clouded thinking process will one day clear up restoring one’s reasoning, rationalization and critical thinking abilities to their original God given potential. If that happens on a mass scale, then they have a problem.

Here is a just a small sample partial starter list of must have supplements the FDA, medical, big pharma industrial cartel complex absolutely does NOT want you to know about:

- Hydrogen Peroxide
- Colloidal Silver
- Camu-camu
- DMSO
- EDTA
- Chlorella
- CoQ
- Detoxification
- Natural Organic derived Vitamins
- MSM
- DHLA
- Coral Calcium
- Allicin
- All the natural vitamins from A through Zinc, etc., etc.

These are but a few of the many natural substances and supplements that have amazing benefits when taken properly. For more information and leads as to the real way to begin taking care of yourself start researching here: www.cancertutor.com, www.altmedangel.com, www.doctoryourself.com, www.naturalnews.com, www.vitaminstuff.com, www.earthclinic.com, www.ecoviva.com. These are just a few places to begin learning of the crucial life changing information. Remember, the time to start natural regimens is BEFORE you are broken down by the system, as in once you develop life threatening diseases, then it becomes even harder to combat them. In some cases, even full blow outbreaks of various types can still be successfully treated with natural non harmful sources. Even CANCER has and still is being naturally CURED to this very day, but the medical industrial complex has outlawed all alternative forms of treatment here in America due to the fact that those non-profitable options.

Interesting in that America is the ONLY country in the industrialized world which does not provide universal health care. As in: this nation’s leaders and the corporations that endlessly lobby and push policies for ever more profits thus leaving 40+ million poor and unfortunate people on the streets begging for medical help. Yet another important fact is that we pay more for drugs and medical care than ANY country on the planet. There is a perfectly logical reason for these facts, it lays squarely on the basis that our medical industrial complex is THE world’s most corrupt, selfish, greedy, self-centered, compassionless, fraudulent, profit driven evil medical apparatus in the world. Is that clear enough? Yet this is just the tip of the iceberg. The insurance industry is one of their partners in crime.

While you mere mortals must make due with the average lacking run of the mill medical coverage that routinely denies you of the most fundamental procedures, the folks in the Senate and Congress have the BEST carte blanche most exclusive ivy league medical insurance on the planet. The kicker is that they don’t even have to pay a penny, its gratis, for your tax dollars pay for every cent. And their coverage never expires, even after they leave public office. Is it any wonder they could care less or havn’t a clue about the plight of you mere mortals?

At the time this is being written your most wonderful benevolent kind government career politicians mentioned above are hammering out a 2,000+ page health care bill that is being paraded to the lemming cattle as the answer to all their prayers. The hype puts this bill as a big win for consumers when in all reality what this Trojan horse bill is nothing more than going to usher in the next phase of oppression and enslavement of the working class lemming as the medical establishment is raised in prominence and power to proportions never before imagined. Only one person in the mainstream media has waved a caution flag:

Olbermann: 'Not health, not care, not reform'

By Diana Sweet, Thursday, December 17th, 2009

Clearly as disappointed in the resulting Senate healthcare bill as many progressives are today, MSNBC's Keith Olbermann gave a preview of his 'Special Comment' that aired on Countdown Wednesday evening in a diary at Daily Kos, " There could not be a finer line between the words compromise and compromised and tonight, with the greatest possible reluctance, I believe I have to go on the air and state my opinion that the Senate bill in its current form has clearly crossed that line and, as currently constituted, cannot be passed."

Taking the same stance as former Gov. Howard Dean, that the current version of the Senate healthcare bill should be scrapped, Olbermann slams Senator Harry Reid (D-NV) for the resulting version of health care reform, "Seeking the least common denominator, Sen. Reid has found it, especially the "least" part. This is not health, this is not care, this is certainly not reform."

The liberal host's wrath doesn't spare anyone as he continues with a slam for the entire Senate, "They must now not make the defeat worse by passing a hollow shell of a bill just for the sake of a big-stage signing ceremony. This bill, slowly bled to death by the political equivalent of the leeches that were once thought state-of-the-art-medicine, is now little more than a series of microscopically minor tweaks of a system which is the real-life, here-and-now version, of the malarkey of the Town Hallers. The American Insurance Cartel is the Death Panel, and this Senate bill does nothing to destroy it. Nor even to satiate it."

"It merely decrees that our underprivileged, our sick, our elderly, our middle class, can be fed into it, as human sacrifices to the great maw of corporate voraciousness, at a profit per victim of 10 cents on the dollar instead of the current 20. Even before the support columns of reform were knocked down, one by one, with the kind of passive defense that would embarrass a touch-football player - single-payer, the public option, the Medicare Buy-In - before they vanished, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that the part of this bill that would require you to buy insurance unless you could prove you could not afford it, would cost a family of four with a household income of 54-thousand dollars a year, 17 percent of that income. Nine thousand dollars a year. Just for the insurance," he exclaims.

"That was with a public option," Olbermann continues. "That was with some kind of check on the insurance companies. That was before — as Howard Dean pointed out — the revelation that the cartel will still be able to charge older people more than others; will — at the least — now be able to charge much more, maybe 50 percent more, for people with pre-existing conditions — pre-existing conditions; you know, like being alive."

Then after calling out Senators Lieberman, Grassley, DeMint, Baucus, and Nelson for their roles in the healthcare bill, Mr. Olbermann then speaks directly to President Obama, "Sir, your hands-off approach, while nobly intended and perhaps yet some day applicable to the reality of an improved version of our nation, enabled the national humiliation that was the Town Halls and the insufferable Neanderthalian stupidity of Congressman Wilson and the street-walking of Mr. Lieberman."

"Instead of continuing this snipe-hunt for the endangered and possibly extinct creature "bipartisanship," you need to push the Republicans around or cut them out or both," Olbermann advises. "You need to threaten Democrats like Baucus and the others with the ends of their careers in the party. Instead, those Democrats have threatened you, and the Republicans have pushed you and cut you out."

Mr. Olbermann continues to speak directly to President Obama, and includes a few notes for Senator Reid, as well. "This provision must go," he says speaking of the mandate that requires the purchase of insurance. "It is, above all else, immoral and a betrayal of the people who elected you, Sir. You must now announce that you will veto any bill lacking an option or buy-in, but containing a mandate."

"And Sen. Reid, put the public option back in, or the Medicare Buy-In, or both. Or single-payer," he pleads. "Let Lieberman and Ben Nelson and Baucus and the Republicans vote their lack-of-conscience and preclude 60 "ayes." Let them commit political suicide instead of you."

"Let Mr. Lieberman kill the bill — then turn to his Republican friends only to find out they hate him more than the Democrats do. Let him stagger off the public stage, to go work for the insurance industry. As if he is not doing that now," says Olbermann taking one last jab at Senator Lieberman of Connecticut.

But wait, the democraps are now ushering in the age of healthcare for all! Yaaaaayyyy! Stop right there, because like everything else, it is pure BULLSHIT. As God is my witness, the end product will be yet another blood sucking initiative embedded to our already overburdened, over staffed, overgrown government, all designed to encroach on what little liberties you have left. Watch, and mark my words, for the only people who will truly benefit from universal healthcare will be the medical industrial complex, period.

As the corrupt sold out Democratic prostitutes who run our government are busy trying to fool us into believing that Universal Health Care package is going to be great, the corrupt sold out Republican prostitutes are busy viciously gutting out any leftover good aspects of the bill, obliterating the package and adding thousands of perks and conditions for their big pharma comrades. In the next election cycle they will take credit for opposing this massive colossal failure of a bill they helped become so by their relentless ravaging.

To get a glimpse of the REAL TRUE STORY one needs look no further than Wall Street where the stocks of all major medical corporations are currently at a 52 week high and climbing fast... all the while everyone is crying out loud how this bill is "going to cripple the medical and insurance industry" LOL: Bullshit. The next bubble is going to be in the medical industrial complex as they take their turn to ride the lemming public.

Get ready to bend over on all fours and take it like cattle... for you will have no voice, no choice in the matter, the long awaited "universal health care system" is about to become reality! Oh, did I mention that NOTHING comes for FREE? Under the standard modus operandi guise of "helping the public," you are all going to get the royal shagging of the century. As much as I hate quoting political propaganda because, first of all, everything they put out is agenda driven hype and secondly, both parties are members of the same political mafia crime syndicate, but here is one scary news release that is based on fact, (granted the below piece is probably skewed since it came from the Republican camp):

BREAKING NEWS!
UNIVERSAL HEALTH CARE SOLVED!:
Buy a $15,000 Policy Or Go To Jail

From the House Ways and Means Republicans Nov. 6, 2009

Today, Ranking Member of the House Ways and Means Committee Dave Camp (R-MI) released a letter from the non-partisan Joint Committee on Taxation (JCT) confirming that the failure to comply with the individual mandate to buy health insurance contained in the Pelosi health care bill (H.R. 3962, as amended) could land people in jail. The JCT letter makes clear that Americans who do not maintain "acceptable health insurance coverage" and who choose not to pay the bill's new individual mandate tax (generally 2.5% of income), are subject to numerous civil and criminal penalties, including criminal fines of up to $250,000 and imprisonment of up to five years.

In response to the JCT letter, Camp said: "This is the ultimate example of the Democrats' command-and-control style of governing – buy what we tell you or go to jail. It is outrageous and it should be stopped immediately.”

Key excerpts from the JCT letter appear below:

“H.R. 3962 provides that an individual (or a husband and wife in the case of a joint return) who does not, at any time during the taxable year, maintain acceptable health insurance coverage for himself or herself and each of his or her qualifying children is subject to an additional tax.” [page 1]

“If the government determines that the taxpayer’s unpaid tax liability results from willful behavior, the following penalties could apply...” [page 2]

“Criminal penalties

Prosecution is authorized under the Code for a variety of offenses. Depending on the level of the noncompliance, the following penalties could apply to an individual:

- Section 7203 – misdemeanor willful failure to pay is punishable by a fine of up to $25,000 and/or imprisonment of up to one year.
- Section 7201 – felony willful evasion is punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and/or imprisonment of up to five years.” [page 3]

When confronted with this same issue during its consideration of a similar individual mandate tax, the Senate Finance Committee worked on a bipartisan basis to include language in its bill that shielded Americans from civil and criminal penalties. The Pelosi bill, however, contains no similar language protecting American citizens from civil and criminal tax penalties that could include a $250,000 fine and five years in jail.

“The Senate Finance Committee had the good sense to eliminate the extreme penalty of incarceration. Speaker Pelosi’s decision to leave in the jail time provision is a threat to every family who cannot afford the $15,000 premium her plan creates. Fortunately, Republicans have an alternative that will lower health insurance costs without raising taxes or cutting Medicare,” said Camp.

According to the Congressional Budget Office the lowest cost family non-group plan under the Speaker’s bill would cost $15,000 in 2016.

So there you have it, socialized healthcare WILL be mandatory for all the goyim in America! With just a small tiny stipulation: you must pay your way or get fined or go to jail. Nice... isn't it wonderful to live in a free and wonderful country? The health care bill hasn't been finalized as of this writing so the actual details may vary, but the spirit of the bill will remain the same. What will be the sacrifice of the insurance and medical fields? Nada. Big insurance and big pharm just got 31+ million new customers! More profits! Pass the champaign! Party on!!!!

BEHOLD FOR I SAY TO THEE:

Understand this and understand it well: For the next “Holocaust” is not going to be conducted in gulags with blood pouring all over the streets. The ruling elite are trying their best to avoid all out military genocide to eliminate a major portions of the world’s population. The public relations nightmare, the baggage and consequences associated with having to somehow justify and explain the horrendous slaughter of HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS of innocent people of some trumped up “war” to the remaining survivors... As past records have clearly shown, genocide is quite unpopular with the ~~sheep~~ herds masses. It is my firm belief that the ruling elite have a totally different strategy for WORLD WAR III and that is to systematically wipe out hundreds of millions with bio weapons (i.e., manmade and engineered virus outbreaks). But world war is absolutely still very much on the table though, for you must fully comprehend that these are not rational God loving people who are at the helm of the military industrial complex and our governments. These are charismatic well groomed and educated spiritually deprived, technical psychopaths at the helm who are for all intents and purposes governed by their master: the lord of the underworld. As the bible states this being to be: “the ruler of this world.” Your wonderful benevolent leaders who constantly screw the common folk and instead do his will are in fact his agents, his physical representatives on this earth.

This may seem and sound farfetched to some, but after carefully studying their GOALS, past tactics and strategies, along with what they have been currently working on the past couple decades. It is becoming increasingly clear that the ruling elite aim to conduct a major population reduction. The question is not IF but WHEN will they initiate the population reduction operation. Understand this: when the day arrives that they do commence the turn of events that will bring about a biblical population culling, the mass media, governments, the entire establishment apparatuses will all respond in a coordinated unison symphony to “to protect you” (but of course) from the mysterious plague (or terrorist strikes) sweeping the country(s). In the midst of this epidemic will be the grand cleanup operation where they will literally eliminate the riff raff and their detractors for good measure. There will be no forensics done on individuals due to the fact that millions of contaminated/contagious bodies will have to be quickly disposed of, so we will have to just trust our most wonderful benevolent leaders with whatever it is they tell us and just humbly obey and just do as we are told until order is restored... DARE and doubt that this very real nightmare is waiting for its opportunity to be launched...

AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRIAL MATRIX

THE GLOBAL FOOD ENSLAVEMENT

"If people let government decide what foods they eat, their bodies will soon be in sorry a state as are the souls of those who live under tyranny." – Thomas Jefferson

"The two enemies of the people are criminals and government, so let's tie the second down with the chains of the constitution so the second will not become the legalized version of the first." – Thomas Jefferson, President United States

Our entire world is under direct assault from all flanks. Seems like there is a massive program to get all third world countries along with others to stop local farming and have it replaced by the giant conglomerate farming corporations. The more this practice is accomplished, performed, enforced the more all local economies will become DEPENDANT on the large multinational corporations for their food needs and supplies.

Our food supply is increasingly in the hands of larger and larger companies, which wield enormous power in our political process. As with the food industry, so, too, is it with oil and with banks: Giant corporations, some with budgets larger than most nations, are controlling our health, our environment, our economy and increasingly, our elections.

Again, we are witnessing the total subjugation of the world, in this area it is with total domination of world food supplies. For once everyone surrenders their farming capabilities to the multinational corporations they will be totally hopeless without them, left as mere beggars waiting for hand outs from their most wonderful benevolent overlords. If we leave it to the conglomerates, surely we will all be slowly handicapped, starved and or poisoned in the lands our ancestors once walked freely in...

As the case was made in the previous chapter on the Medical Industrial Matrix, so the horror stories continue and actually ORIGINATE within this realm. For the secret to understanding why people get sick in the first place is directly connected and rooted in what we consume. Our food supply has been subject to none stop contamination, manipulation and deliberate application of toxic chemicals. Often explained to the sheeple masses as “benevolent breakthroughs for the sake of humanity.” The extent of insidious practices of food and drug matrix is often beyond belief. For in many cases the practices are SO blatantly batshit insanely ridiculous many people refuse to believe they are actually really happening in the first place. Again, I would love to give you hundreds upon hundreds of examples of wrong doing, but documenting all these is not the purpose of this report, I am here to provide you with the whole lurid framework and makeup of the entire matrix, thus limited to summing up the individual sectors. With that said and done, here is just one example of the blatant idiocy of purposely corrupting the food supply:

“FDA urged to ban feeding of chicken feces to cattle” Food and consumer groups say the practice increases the risk of cattle becoming infected with mad cow disease. A beef industry trade group say a ban isn't needed (Check out the link provided above for more information). Now I am not a farmer nor a rocket scientist, but who the fuck decided it was a good idea to feed cattle CHICKEN SHIT and have the entire industry go along with that absurd practice! Taken individually, to the normal person would seem as just some sort of weird practice that somehow by accident got approved. NOPE. Once you understand WHO is controlling what and why, you begin to put the pieces of the puzzle together. What you have here is a blatant attempt to contaminate the food supply with the hopes of ultimately affecting the population whom eat the contaminated foods, whom eventually become sickened, lowering their functioning abilities and ultimately needing to be referred to the medical industrial matrix, and then you will be taken care of real well once you are in their care.

Just as in other industries, the agriculture industry has also been subject to consolidation and takeover by large industrial corporations. Every year consolidation continues to the point were most of the production is owned and controlled by massive conglomerates that dictate the course of the industry. Presidents, CEOs, board members serving on one another's boards, intricately intertwined are their agendas. In this insane system we currently have, it is perfectly ok for the past presidents, owners and CEOs of corporations to run the FCC, USDA and FDA and other “regulatory” agencies.

A perfect example is how we have witnessed past and present CEOs of the evil genetically engineered Monsanto monster serve as the head of the FDA! Doh! Conflicts of interests? No way! It's called business as usual. Dwell on that fact for just a moment, only in the land of Washingtonites is it perfectly ok for the CEOs of corporations with vested interests in their field to regulate their own industries! In this case out of hundreds I single out as perfect example we witness Obama hire Mr. Monsanto, Michael Taylor to head his new Food Safety Working Group.

People, I can only conclude that we are all hopelessly DOOMED. Everywhere I look, I see them positioning the foxes to guard the hen houses. In this case, give it a few more years and everything that will be sold to us and presented as food and drink will be some sort of genetically modified stuff with tons of artificial stuff that slowly impairs your mental abilities, slowly initiates a host of illnesses and slowly kills you. As if that were not already the case...

These commonly accepted practices throughout our government and society have become customary, as corrupt politicians and their partners in crime are able to basically report on the legitimacy of their own conduct. This can be likened to figures such as Al Capone being appointed to head the FBI.

Food Inc – Documentary (trailer)

The Future of Food - Documentary

Most of the foods we purchase at the local mega supermarket are literally saturated with all sorts of chemicals, yet on the other hand an alarming trend exists by the medical establishment along with the nutritional establishment to literally OUTLAW NATURAL SUPPLEMENTS. When I first heard about this, my first reaction was complete disbelief, yet the more I looked into the matter, the more heartbreaking I experienced. Is there not one single area in life that is not subject to full all out attack by sinister forces? Obviously not.

There is a mountain of evidence confirming that the globalists are cynical eugenicists. They are now using food as a soft kill weapon to reduce the population of the planet.

Again, I must point out the fact that this Matrix Report is a summary of many different segments that make up the entire “matrix” so I urge all who read this report to realize that every single paragraph and sentence can and SHOULD be looked into further, (Google everything I say) for in many instances I do not have the time nor space in this current edition to get into elaborate details, such is the case with this issue at hand. Suffice to say that it seems that our rulers are hell bent on literally slowly poisoning us all, robbing us of vital nutrients so that we are weakened in mind, body and spirit. Soon many key supplements that our “loving caring” pharmaceutical conglomerates want outlawed will no longer be available, because they have wonderful expensive highly toxic artificial substitutes they will make them billion$ in pushing down your throats. The key word here is Codex Alimentarius.

The first blaring clue of its intent is clearly visible in its name “Codex Alimentarius.” As with all laws of the land, the ruling elite follow in the steps of the Roman Empire whose LAW terminology always included the word “CODEX.” The Roman system of LAWS was commonly adopted throughout Europe and here in America, thus you will find that “Roman Codices” are central component of all our LAWS. In ancient Roman Empire the word CODEX means: LAW, thus the translation of Codex Alimentarius is: LAWS OF NUTRITION. The important point I am trying to express is that Codex Alimentarius will someday be made into LAW of the lands.

The FDA is the major player sanctioning the forcing of Pharma poisons on the gullible sheeple and shamelessly giving green lights on all types of sick demented ~~drugs~~ poisons. Issuing green lights for all sorts of insane chemical additives in your food. Not to mention the fact that they are increasingly not even using natural vitamins. Believe it or not, even vitamins are now ARTIFICIALLY made in laboratories! Synthesized garbage is what many of you are taking in your multivitamins, don't even mention what is really in your food. Nothing is sacred anymore. Yet I am barely just scratching the tip of the iceberg here. Yet there is also another entity on the world level that is jockeying into position to control what you can or cannot consume. Get ready to welcome and have to obey your masters of Codex Alimentarius...

The more you dig and research this industry the more alarming data seems to appear all over the place. Take for example the ongoing assault on all natural crops, you would think that was the entire scope, NOPE. That is just the beginning. The genetic engineering assault also encompasses privatizing and patenting livestock is well underway, cattle, sheep, pigs you name it, they are busy genetically engineering "superior" strains then patenting them. God forbid if you break any of the mounting list of bizarre conditions that are being made-up and enforced on an almost daily basis, for the penalties mean up to hundreds of thousands of dollars in draconian fines on the little farmers.

Bottom-line is: soon the day will come when no farmer will be permitted to plant crops or raise livestock that are not genetically sanctioned and "APPROVED" of by your loving caring most benevolent government that will never do anything that is against the people's best interest... /sarcasm/ Your benevolent caring government is also busy implementing NAIS (National Animal Identification System) to track every single animal and livestock in the nation. In other words, soon the day is advancing where no one will be able to grow crops or livestock without government approval and surveillance.

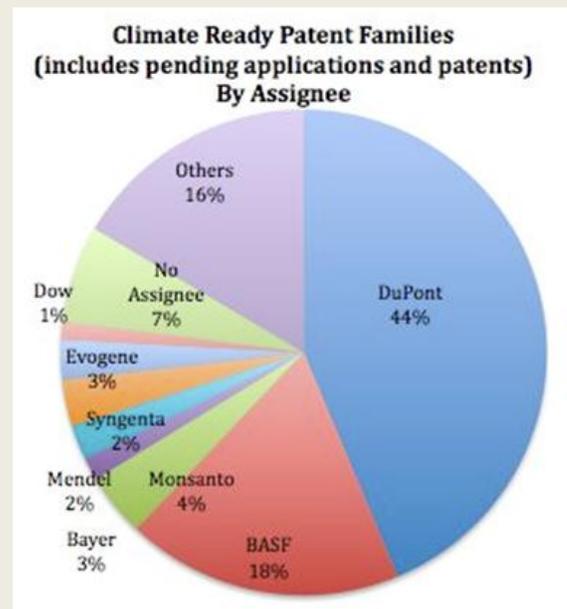

Patent grab threatens biodiversity and food sovereignty

Hope Shand, 2010-11-11, Issue 504

'Under the guise of developing "climate-ready" crops, the world's largest seed and agrochemical corporations are pressuring governments to allow what could become the broadest and most dangerous patent claims in intellectual property history.' Hope Shand unpacks the findings of ETC Group's new report into patent claims on 'genes, plants and technologies that will supposedly allow biotech crops to tolerate drought and other environmental stresses'.

Under the guise of developing 'climate-ready' crops, the world's largest seed and agrochemical corporations are pressuring governments to allow what could become the broadest and most dangerous patent claims in intellectual property history. A new report by ETC Group[1] reveals a dramatic upsurge in the number of patent claims on 'climate-ready' genes, plants and technologies that will supposedly allow biotech crops to tolerate drought and other environmental stresses (i.e. abiotic stresses) associated with climate change. The patent grab threatens to put a monopoly choke-hold on the world's biomass and our future food supply, warns ETC Group. In many cases, a single patent or patent application claims ownership of engineered gene sequences that could be deployed in virtually all major crops – as well as the processed food and feed products derived from them.

The patent grab on 'climate-ready' crops is a bid to control not only the world's food security but also the world's yet-to-be commodified biomass. In the fog of climate chaos, the 'Gene Giants' hope to ease public acceptance of genetically engineered crops and make the patent grab more palatable. It's a fresh twist on a stale theme: Crops engineered with 'climate-ready' genes will increase production and feed the world, we're told. Plants that are engineered to grow on poor soils, with less rain and less fertiliser will mean the difference between starvation and survival for the poorest farmers.

To gain moral legitimacy, the Gene Giants are teaming up with high-profile philanthro-capitalists (Gates and Buffett Foundations), big governments like the USA and UK and big-box breeders (Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research) to donate royalty-free genes and technologies to resource-poor farmers – especially in sub-Saharan Africa. The quid pro quo is that African governments must ‘ease the regulatory burden’ that might hinder the commercial release of transgenic crops and embrace biotech-friendly intellectual property laws.

CLIMATE-READY PATENT CLAIMS

ETC Group’s report identifies 262 patent families (subsuming 1663 patent documents worldwide) published between June 2008 and June 2010 that make specific claims to abiotic stress tolerance (such as drought, heat, flood, cold and salt-tolerance) in plants. Just six corporations (DuPont, BASF, Monsanto, Syngenta, Bayer and Dow) and their biotech partners (Mendel Biotechnology and Evogene) control 201 or 77 per cent of the 262 patent families (both issued patents and applications). Three companies – DuPont, BASF, Monsanto – account for 173 or 66 per cent. The public sector has only 9 per cent. A detailed list of the patent documents is available here \(see Appendix A\).

WHAT IS A ‘PATENT FAMILY’?

A patent family contains a set of related patent applications and/or issued patents that are published in more than one country or patent office (including national and regional patent jurisdictions). Issued patents and/or applications that belong to the same family have the same inventor and they refer to the same ‘invention.’

In a recent interview with Business Week, Syngenta’s CEO, Michael Mack, explains the corporate grab on climate-ready traits: ‘Farmers around the world are going to pay hundreds of millions of dollars to technology providers in order to have this feature [drought-tolerant maize].’^[2] The global market for drought tolerance in just one crop – maize – is an estimated US$2.7 billion, but the US Department of Agriculture predicts that the global bio-based market for chemicals and plastics alone will top US$500 billion per year by 2025. For the Gene Giants, the goal is to become the world’s ‘biomassters.’ The aim of corporate plant breeding is no longer to feed people, but to maximize biomass.

WHAT IS BIOMASS?

The term refers to material derived from living or recently-living biological organisms: including all plants and trees, microbes, as well as by-products such as organic waste from livestock, food processing and garbage. ETC Group warns that the bio-economy is a catalyst for the corporate grab on all plant matter and the destruction of biodiversity on a massive scale. An estimated 86 per cent of global biomass is located in the tropics and subtropics. With extreme genetic engineering, the world’s largest corporations are poised to manufacture industrial compounds – fuel, food, energy, plastics and more – using biomass as the critical feedstock.

PROFILE OF MAJOR PLAYERS

The patent grab on climate ready crops is not limited to food and feed crops – the major players also support research related to biofuels and industrial feedstocks (i.e. biomass).

In 2007 BASF and Monsanto initiated the world’s largest agricultural research collaboration, jointly investing US$1.5 billion to develop stress-tolerant maize (corn), soybean, cotton and canola crops. In July 2010 BASF and Monsanto announced an additional investment of US$1 billion – which now extends to abiotic stress tolerance in wheat – the world’s second most valuable crop commodity after maize. Monsanto and BASF claim that the world’s first-ever genetically engineered, drought-tolerant maize variety will be the first product to emerge from their joint pipeline – scheduled for commercial release around 2012. Monsanto also is engineering drought tolerant cotton, wheat and sugar cane.

In January 2010 BASF announced a new collaboration with KWS (Germany-based, top 10 seed company) to develop sugar beets with improved drought tolerance and 15 per cent higher yield. Agrofuels – including genetically modified trees – are one of the big targets: BASF also collaborates with Brazil's Centro de Tecnologia Canavieira (CTC) to develop sugarcane with better drought tolerance and 25% higher yield.[3]

Mendel Biotechnology, collaborating with Monsanto since 1997, is a major player in climate-ready crop genes. Monsanto has exclusive royalty-bearing licenses to Mendel technology in certain crops and vegetables. Mendel also partners with BP and Bayer. Since 2007, Mendel has been working with BP on second-generation biofuels.

DuPont (Pioneer Hi-Bred) refers to its work on drought tolerance technologies as 'the next great wave of agricultural innovation.' Pioneer focuses on both conventional breeding as well as transgenics. Pioneer also collaborates with Israeli biotech company, Evogene, on maize and soybean drought stress and with Arcadia Biosciences.[4] In August 2010 Evogene revealed its 'Athlete 3.0' – a proprietary computational technology for 'cross-species discovery of genes, based on genomic data of over 130 plant species.'[5] The company claims it holds over 1,500 novel genes for key plant traits.

Arcadia Biosciences (Davis, California), founded in 2002, is collaborating with some of the world's largest seed companies to develop genetically engineered, stress-tolerant crops. Although Arcadia is privately held, BASF's venture capital fund has invested in the company since 2005. In 2009, Arcadia entered a partnership with Vilmorin (world's fourth largest seed company, owned by Groupe Limagrain) for the development of nitrogen use efficient wheat. Arcadia has agreements with Monsanto, DuPont, Vilmorin, Advanta (India) and the US Agency for International Development (USAID) on projects related to nitrogen use efficiency, drought and salinity tolerance.

Syngenta unveiled its first generation drought-tolerant maize ('water optimized hybrids') in July 2010 – the result of conventional breeding (non-transgenic). According to Syngenta, the product offers the 'potential to deliver 15% yield preservation under drought stress.' Syngenta predicts that its second-generation maize hybrids – genetically engineered for drought tolerance – will be available post-2015.

MULTI-GENOME PATENT CLAIMS... AND BEYOND

Many patent claims related to climate-ready DNA are sweeping in scope. Most of the Gene Giants are staking claims on key nucleotide sequences – trying to convince patent examiners that the same bits of DNA identified in one plant are responsible for endowing similar traits across other plant genomes (known as homologous DNA). Because of the similarity in DNA sequences between individuals of the same species or among different species – 'homologous sequences' – the companies seek monopoly protection that extends not just to stress tolerance in a single engineered plant species, but also to a substantially similar genetic sequence in virtually all transformed plants. Armed with genomic information, Gene Giants are making claims across species, genera and classes.

The patent grab on key gene sequences in the world's major crops is neither trivial nor theoretical. A decade ago, genomic companies and Gene Giants were routinely filing 'bulk' claims on huge numbers of DNA and amino acid (i.e. protein) sequences – over 100,000 in some cases – without specific knowledge of their function.

In 2002, rice (Oryza sativa) became the second plant genome to be published, and the first major crop genome to be fully sequenced; it quickly became the target of monopoly claims. In 2006, Cambia, an independent non-profit that promotes transparency in intellectual property, used its 'Patent Lens' project to conduct an in-depth analysis of US patents and patent applications that make claims on the rice genome. Patent Lens revealed that, by 2006, roughly 74 per cent of the rice genome (Oryza sativa) was named in the claims of US patent applications – due, in large part, to bulk sequence applications. They discovered that every segment of the rice genome's 12 chromosomes was recited in patent applications – including many overlapping claims. Patent Lens' remarkable visual display is available here.

Fortunately, Cambia's 2006 analysis concluded that the corporate quest to win monopoly patents on molecular-level chunks of the world's most important food crop had only partially succeeded – so far – and that most of the rice genome remains in the public domain. That's due, in part, to recent decisions (by courts and patent offices) that attempt to restrict the number of DNA sequences claimed in a single patent application. – continues [here]

You think my imagination has gone wild? Just because the farming industry news rarely ever makes the mass media headlines does not mean events are not quietly happening all over the place without your slightest clue. While you and everyone else is asleep at the wheel watching “who wants to be a millionaire” Homeland Security and USDA are busy planning attacks against natural livestock and then some. Please do go to that link just provided and follow the many more links that website provides to get an alarming glimpse of what the future holds in store for us.

The “Bird-Flu” scare? Oh you haven’t heard the last of this yet. As with all the Problem –Reaction - Solution paradigms, get ready for all the worlds chickens to be mandatorily replaced by none other than genetically modified chickens who are immune to the bird-flu. Chicken production is essentially being consolidated and narrowed down to just a handful of monster international conglomerates. Golly gee whiz, how nice and caring of them. Soon the day will come when you will be an outlaw if you have your own natural chickens. /sigh/ Oh, the market for chickens? Of course it will be dominated by one or two giant monolithic patent holding corporations, the little pesky farmers can all go find real jobs. All those annoying little farmers shall all be liquidated.

Thousands of Indian farmers are committing suicide after using genetically modified crops. Here is a bleak true story of what is happening at this very moment around the world. How an evil entity such as the Monsantos of the world cheerfully portraying itself to be the next best thing to sainthood is actually ravaging the planet.

How about the GROWTH HARMONES that everyone KNOWS that the Agri-conglomerates have been routinely dispensing to all their livestock? Surely there is a massive connection between the growth harmones given to animals that we later consume, especially the side products that they produce while they are still alive and under the growth hormone treatment such as milk and eggs...

Growing Up Too Soon? Puberty Strikes 7-Year-Old Girls

Study in 3 major cities finds precocious puberty rising among 2nd graders

By Linda Carroll, msnbc.com contributor 8/9/2010

The changes in Kiera’s body scared her parents. Though the 8-year-old seemed her usual chipper self, she’d started to develop headaches and acne. More alarming to her mom, Sharon, were the budding breasts on Kiera’s thin little chest.

“I thought, she’s too young,” remembers the Pittsburgh mom. “She’s still fearful about sleeping by herself. An 8-year-old just isn’t mature enough to handle this.”

For Kiera, whose last name is being withheld to protect her privacy, it was all so embarrassing. None of her friends seemed to be experiencing what she was. When they asked about the acne and her expanding chest, Kiera was evasive. “I didn’t want to tell them what was going on,” says the Pittsburgh girl, now age 9. “So I had to kind of lie to them.”

When Kiera’s parents took their daughter to the doctor, he assured them that nothing was wrong with the girl. Kiera was simply starting puberty early.

As it turns out, puberty at age 7 or 8 isn’t so unusual these days. A new study, published Monday in the journal Pediatrics, shows that more American girls are maturing earlier and earlier. Typically, U.S. girls hit puberty around age 10 or 11.

Exactly what this shift means for girls isn’t clear yet — either on a group or individual level. But there are budding concerns. For instance, studies have linked an early start to menstruation with an elevated risk of breast cancer. And other research has shown that girls who go through puberty early tend to have lower self-esteem and a poor body image. They are also more likely to engage in risky behaviors which can result in unplanned pregnancies, experts say.

The possible link to breast cancer was what sparked the new study. To take a long-term look at the impact of puberty and other factors on breast cancer, researchers enrolled 1,239 girls between the ages of 6 and 8 from three sites in the U.S.: New York's East Harlem, the greater Cincinnati metropolitan area and the San Francisco Bay area.

The study revealed a surprisingly large bump in the number of girls going through puberty between the ages of 7 and 8. For example, the researchers found that 10 percent of 7-year-old white girls had some breast development as compared to 5 percent in a study published in 1997. Similarly, 23 percent of the 7-year-old black girls had started puberty as compared to 15 percent in the 1997 study.

Nobody's sure what is driving the declining age of puberty. But the rise in obesity could be at least partly to blame, says the study's lead author, Dr. Frank Biro, director of adolescent medicine at Cincinnati Children's Hospital.

That makes a lot of sense to Dr. Luigi Garibaldi, a professor of pediatrics and clinical director of pediatric endocrinology at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

Back in the 1700s, girls didn't start to menstruate till they were 17 or 18, Garibaldi says. That had a lot to do with malnutrition. The assumption is that the steady decline in age since then has to do with more abundant food.

There may be other environmental factors at work, too, says Dr. Stanley Korenman, an endocrinologist at the University of California, Los Angeles.

For example, Korenman says, environmental exposure to estrogens in plastics, chemicals and foods has been going up. "And estrogens do stimulate breast development," he adds.

Until we know what the cause is, the best way to slow puberty may be to "start living green," says Biro. "It may help for families eat together and to consume well-balanced diets. Regular physical activity may help, too."

Another finding from the study may back that concept up. The rate of early puberty was much lower in the San Francisco group: 7 percent among white 7-year-olds from northern California versus 14 percent among Ohioans of the same age. Among black 7-year olds, 27 percent of Californians hit puberty early as compared to 31 percent of the New Yorkers. Northern California's temperate climate fosters more outdoor activities and the emphasis on healthy foods results in a better diet.

Why all the fuss about early puberty?

Beyond the possible breast cancer connection, there's also the issue of emotional maturity, Biro says. "Just because a girl has matured physically, doesn't mean she's socially or psychologically mature," he explains.

There's also the issue of stature. There are some studies, Biro says, that show that kids who mature early don't grow as tall.

As part of her work-up, Kiera had a bone exam. Doctors concluded that at age 8 she had the bone development of a 10 year old, which meant her growth might be stunted.

I was stunned, completely floored to find out that the boogeyman... (aka al-CIAda according to our most humble loving caring ruling Washingtonites who would never lie to us)... is hiding around the corners of your local farms!!! Sinisterly, ever so deviantly awaiting for their opportunity to blow up your local farms!!! The bogeymen BIOTERRORISTS are out to get you!!! Run for your lives! Seriously though, I can barely contain my composure in finding out about the Bioterrorism Act of 2002 along with the most draconian set of laws that accompany it. I am rarely surprised by anything, but this Act has me completely in despair. Where is the HOPE in our future? For everywhere I look we are being caged in and surrounded, flanked on all sides by evil government entities getting ready to pull the trigger on us all.

I could not read the whole Bioterrorism Act, due to the mind fuck was too much to bear. The Fact Sheet cuts to the chase and sums it all up: Anyone can have their property stormed and seized without notice. “Bioterrorism” claim has now moved control over normal food even more tightly into the hands of government and corporate agencies, giving them national reach, crushing regulations for farmers, immense policing power over food, and the use of any “emergency” to be able to seize and destroy anything they choose. Even your personal food hoarding will be subject to search and seizure once a national emergency is called.

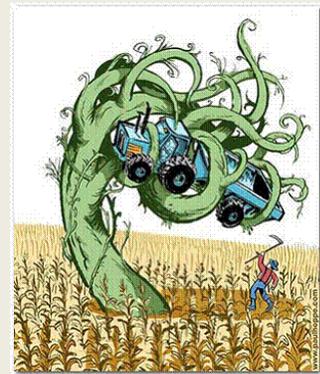

In essence the entire agricultural industry is entering a Gestapo era never before seen in this nation. The groundwork, plans, the web has all been laid out. The days will come where only officially sanctioned farmers can operate and only officially sanctioned “food” can be consumed. Sold by officially sanctioned sources. Forget about “evil” vitamins and supplements.. they are now BAD for you! The FDA says it, so it must be true!

One of the most alarming organizations that flat out rightfully puts fear into many people’s hearts is called MONSANTO. This corporation has been developing patented genetically engineered plants. They have basically cornered the market with their terminator seeds, known as such because they have been designed to grow the host plant for one season and never produce more working seeds, therefore enslaving the farmers with no choice but to perpetually buy the terminator seeds, fertilizer and weed killer each and every year. There are a host of problems and inherent risks that go along with genetically engineering our food supply. For instance, even in China, scientists are warning that genetically modified rice may potentially cause very serious public health and environmental problems.

Genetically Manipulated Crops: The GMO Catastrophe in the USA. A Lesson for the World

by F. William Engdahl, Global Research, August 18, 2010

Recently the unelected potentates of the EU Commission in Brussels have sought to override what has repeatedly been shown to be the overwhelming opposition of the European Union population to the spread of Genetically Modified Organisms (GMO) in EU agriculture. EU Commission President now has a Maltese accountant as health and environment Commissioner to rubber stamp the adoption of GMO. The former EU Environment Commissioner from Greece was a ferocious GMO opponent. As well, the Chinese government has indicated it may approve a variety of GMO rice. Before things get too far along, they would do well to take a closer look at the world GMO test lab, the USA. There GMO crops are anything but beneficial. Just the opposite.

What is carefully kept out of the Monsanto and other agribusiness propaganda in promoting genetically manipulated crops as an alternative to conventional is the fact that in the entire world until the present, all GMO crops have been manipulated and patented for only two things—to be resistant or “tolerant” to the patented highly toxic herbicide glyphosate chemicals that Monsanto and the others force farmers to buy as condition for buying their patented GMO seeds. The second trait is GMO seeds that have been engineered genetically to resist specific insects. Contrary to public relations myths promoted by the agribusiness giants in their own self-interest, there exists not one single GMO seed that provides a greater harvest yield than conventional, nor one that requires less toxic chemical herbicides. That is for the simple reason there is no profit to be made in such.

Giant super-weeds plague

As prominent GMO opponent and biologist, Dr Mae-Wan Ho of the Institute of Science in London has noted, companies such as Monsanto build into their seeds herbicide-tolerance (HT) due to glyphosate-insensitive form of the gene coding for the enzyme targeted by the herbicide. The enzyme is derived from soil bacterium Agrobacterium tumefaciens. Insect-resistance is due to one or more toxin genes derived from the soil bacterium Bt (Bacillus thuringiensis). The United States began large scale commercial planting of GMO plants, mainly soybeans and corn and cotton around 1997. By now, GM crops have taken over between 85 percent to 91 percent of the areas planted with the three major crops, soybean, corn and cotton in the US, on nearly 171 million acres.

The ecological time-bomb that came with the GMO according to Ho, is about to explode. Over several years of constant application of patented glyphosate herbicides such as Monsanto's famous and highly Roundup, new herbicide-resistant "super-weeds" have evolved, nature's response to man-made attempts to violate it. The super-weeds require significantly more not less herbicide to control.

ABC Television, a major US national network, made a recent documentary about the super-weeds under the rubric, "super weeds that can't be killed."[\[1\]](#)

They interviewed farmers and scientists across Arkansas who described fields overrun with giant pigweed plants that can withstand as much glyphosate as farmers are able to spray. They interviewed one farmer who spent almost €400000 in only three months in a failed attempt to kill the new super-weeds.

The new super-weeds are so robust that harvester combines are unable to harvest the fields and hand tools break trying to cut them down. At least 400000 hectares of soybean and cotton in Arkansas alone have become invested with this new mutant biological plague. Detailed data on other agricultural regions is not available but believed similar. The pro-GMO and pro-agribusiness US Department of Agriculture has been reported lying about the true state of US crop harvest partly to hide the grim reality and to prevent an explosive revolt against GMO in the world's largest GMO market.

Superweed

One variety of super-weed, palmer pigweed can grow up to 2.4 meters high, withstands severe heat and prolonged droughts, and produces thousands of seeds with a root system that drains nutrients away from crops. If left unchecked, it takes over an entire field in a year. Some farmers have been forced to abandon their land. To date palmer pigweed infestation in GMO crop regions has been identified in addition to Arkansas, also in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, New Mexico, Mississippi and most recently, Alabama and Missouri.

Weed scientists at the University of Georgia estimate that just two palmer pigweed plants in every 6 meter length of cotton row can reduce yield by at least 23 percent. A single weed plant can produce 450 000 seeds. [\[2\]](#)

Roundup toxic danger being covered-up

Glyphosate is the most widely used herbicide in the US and the world at large. Patented and sold by Monsanto since the 1970s under the trade name Roundup, it is a mandatory component of buying GMO seeds from Monsanto. Just go to your local garden store and ask for it and read the label carefully.

As I detail in my book, Seeds of Destruction: The Hidden Agenda of Genetic Manipulation, GMO crops and patented seeds were developed in the 1970's with significant financial support from the pro-eugenics Rockefeller Foundation, by what were essentially chemical companies—Monsanto Chemicals, DuPont and Dow Chemicals. All three were involved in the scandal of the highly toxic Agent Orange used in Vietnam, as well as Dioxin in the 1970's, and lied to cover up the true damage to its own employees as well as to civilian and military populations exposed.

Their patented GMO seeds were seen as a clever way to force increased purchase of their agricultural chemicals such as Roundup. Farmers must sign a legal contract with Monsanto in which it stipulates that only Monsanto Roundup pesticide may be used. Farmers are thus trapped both in buying new seeds from Monsanto each harvest and buying the toxic glyphosate.

France's University of Caen, in a team led by molecular biologist, Gilles-Eric Seralini, did a study that showed Roundup contained one specific inert ingredient, polyethoxylated tallowamine, or POEA. Seralini's team demonstrated that POEA in Roundup was more deadly to human embryonic, placental and umbilical cord cells than even the glyphosate itself. Monsanto refuses to release details of the contents of its Roundup other than glyphosate, calling it "proprietary." [3]

The Seralini study found that Roundup's inert ingredients amplified the toxic effect on human cells—even at concentrations much more diluted than those used on farms and lawns! The French team studied multiple concentrations of Roundup, from the typical agricultural or lawn dose down to concentrations 100,000 times more dilute than the products sold on shelves. The researchers saw cell damage at all concentrations.

Glyphosate and Roundup are advertised as "less toxic to us than table salt" in a pamphlet from the Biotechnology Institute promoting GMO crops as 'Weed Warrior.' Thirteen years of GMO crops in the USA has increased overall pesticide use by 318 million pounds, not decreased as promised by the Four Horsemen of the GMO Apocalypse. The extra disease burden on the nation from that alone is considerable.

Nonetheless after introduction of Monsanto GMO seeds commercially in the USA, use of glyphosate has risen more than 1500% between 1994 and 2005. In the USA some 100 million pounds of glyphosate are used on lawns and farms every year, and over the last 13 years, it has been applied to more than a billion acres. When questioned, Monsanto's technical development manager, Rick Cole, reportedly said the problems were "manageable." He advised farmers to alternate crops and use different makes of herbicides produced by Monsanto. Monsanto is encouraging farmers to mix glyphosate with its older herbicides such as 2,4-D, banned in Sweden, Denmark and Norway for links to cancer and reproductive and neurological damage. 2,4-D is a component of Agent Orange, produced by Monsanto for use in Vietnam in the 1960s.

US Farmers turn to organics

Farmers across the United States are reported to be going back to conventional non-GMO crops instead. According to a new report from the US Department of Agriculture, retail sales of organic food went up to $21.1 billion in 2008 from $3.6 billion in 1997. [4] The market is so active that organic farms have struggled at times to produce sufficient supply to keep up with the rapid growth in consumer demand, leading to periodic shortages of organic products.

The new UK Conservative-Liberal coalition government is strongly backing lifting a de facto ban on GMO in that country. UK Chief Scientific Adviser, Prof. John Beddington, recently wrote an article in which he misleadingly claimed "The next decade will see the development of combinations of desirable traits and the introduction of new traits such as drought tolerance. By mid-century much more radical options involving highly polygenic traits may be feasible." He went on to promise "cloned animals with engineered innate immunity to diseases" and more. I think we can pass that one up, thank you.

A recent study by Iowa State University and the US Department of Agriculture assessing the performance of farms during the three-year transition it takes to switch from conventional to certified organic production showed notable advantages of organic farming over GMO or even conventional non-GMO crops. In an experiment lasting four years—three years transition and first year organic—the study showed that although yields dropped initially, they equalized in the third year, and by the fourth year, the organic yields were ahead of the conventional for both soybean and corn.

As well, the International Assessment of Agricultural Knowledge, Science and Technology for Development (IAASTD) has recently been published, the result of three-year deliberation by 400 participating scientists and non-government representatives from 110 countries around the world. It came to the conclusion that small scale organic agriculture is the way ahead for coping with hunger, social inequities and environmental disasters. [5] As Dr Ho argues, a fundamental shift in farming practice is needed urgently, before the agricultural catastrophe spreads further across Germany and the EU to the rest of the world. [6]

F. William Engdahl is the author of Seeds of Destruction: The Hidden Agenda of Genetic Manipulation

Dr. Mercola from his www.mercola.com website has obviously researched these issues and is an expert in his field, here is some of what he has to say:

“There is a reason why I believe Monsanto to be one of the most evil companies on the planet, and this is in large part due to its activities relating to controlling food production through controlling the seeds to produce it.

For nearly all of its history the United States Patent and Trademark Office refused to grant patents on seeds, viewing them as life-forms with too many variables to be patented. But in 1980 the U.S. Supreme Court allowed for seed patents in a five-to-four decision, laying the groundwork for a handful of corporations to begin taking control of the world's food supply.

Since the 1980s, Monsanto has become the world leader in genetic modification of seeds and has won at least 674 biotechnology patents, more than any other company.

This is not surprising, considering they invest over $2 million a day on research and development!

But Monsanto is not only patenting their own GMO seeds. They have also succeeded in slapping patents on a huge number of crop seeds, patenting life forms for the first time -- again without a vote of the people or Congress. By doing this, Monsanto becomes sole owner of the very seeds necessary to support the world's food supply ... an incredibly powerful position that no for-profit company should ever hold.

How do they defend this blatant attempt to control the food supply? They write on MonsantoToday.com: "Patent protection allows companies to see a return on their investment which enables further investment in R-and-D and product development. This profit-investment cycle drives product innovation that is responsive to farmer needs."

Farmers' needs?

Farmers who buy Monsanto's GM seeds are required to sign an agreement promising not to save the seeds or sell them to other farmers. The result? Farmers must buy new seeds every year, and they must buy them from Monsanto.

Meanwhile, these same farmers who Monsanto is claiming to help are being aggressively targeted and pursued for outrageous patent infringements on these same seeds.

The "Seed Police" Monsanto employs an arsenal of private investigators and agents who secretly videotape farmers, snatch crop samples from their land and even fly helicopters overhead to spy -- all to catch farmers saving or sharing seeds.

As of 2005 Monsanto had 75 employees and a $10-million budget solely to investigate and prosecute farmers for patent infringement.

And until recently, Monsanto has even been known to sue farmers for GM crops growing on their land that got there via cross-contamination. In other words, a neighboring farm's GM seeds blew over onto their land, and Monsanto slaps them with a lawsuit.

I realize this seems incredible, but it is true.

Have You Heard of Terminator Seeds? Creating and promoting GM crops is, in my opinion, a major threat to public health. Patenting those same seeds takes it to an even higher level of evil. But there is another reason why I don't believe for one second that Monsanto has the virtuous intentions they claim: terminator seeds.

Monsanto is considering using what's known as terminator technology on a wide-scale basis. These are seeds that have been genetically modified to "self-destruct." In other words, the seeds (and the forthcoming crops) are sterile, which means farmers must buy them again each year.

This solves their problem of needing "seed police," but they are obviously looking the other way when it comes to the implications that terminator seeds could have on the world's food supply: the traits from genetically engineered crops can get passed on to other crops, and often do.

Once the terminator seeds are released into a region, the trait of seed sterility could be passed to other non-genetically-engineered crops, making most or all of the seeds in the region sterile.

Not only would this mean that every farm in the world could come to rely on Monsanto for their seed supply, but if the GM traits spread it could destroy agriculture as we now know it.

Monsanto's Many Attempts to Destroy All Seeds but Their Own:

Some say that if farmers don't want problems from Monsanto, they simply shouldn't buy Monsanto's GMO seeds. But it isn't quite that simple. Monsanto contaminates the fields, trespasses onto the land taking seeds, seedling samples, and then sues, saying they own the crop.

Meanwhile, Monsanto is taking many other steps to keep farmers and everyone else from having any access at all to buying, collecting, and saving of normal seeds:

1. They've bought up the seed companies across the Midwest.
2. They've written Monsanto seed laws and gotten legislators to put them through, that make cleaning, collecting and storing of seeds so onerous in terms of fees and paperwork that having normal seed becomes almost impossible.
3. Monsanto is pushing laws that ensure farmers and citizens can't block the planting of GMO crops even if they can contaminate other crops.
4. There are Monsanto regulations buried in the FDA rules that make a farmer's seed cleaning equipment illegal because it's now considered a "source of seed contamination."

Monsanto has sued more than 1,500 farmers whose fields had simply been contaminated by GM crops."

That's just the beginning, for they have been real busy working overtime putting as many small time farmers out of business as they can keep up with. They are literally changing the entire agricultural landscape as NEVER seen in the history of mankind. The entire realm of agriculture will soon to become completely dominated by one entity just as in some demented sci-fi horror movie.

Monsanto's GMO Corn Linked To Organ Failure, Study Reveals

Huffington Post | Katherine Goldstein/Gazelle Emami

In a study released by the International Journal of Biological Sciences, analyzing the effects of genetically modified foods on mammalian health, researchers found that agricultural giant Monsanto's GM corn is linked to organ damage in rats.

According to the study, which was summarized by Adam Shake at Twilight Earth, "Three varieties of Monsanto's GM corn - Mon 863, insecticide-producing Mon 810, and Roundup® herbicide-absorbing NK 603 - were approved for consumption by US, European and several other national food safety authorities."

Monsanto gathered its own crude statistical data after conducting a 90-day study, even though chronic problems can rarely be found after 90 days, and concluded that the corn was safe for consumption. The stamp of approval may have been premature, however.

In the conclusion of the IJBS study, researchers wrote:

"Effects were mostly concentrated in kidney and liver function, the two major diet detoxification organs, but in detail differed with each GM type. In addition, some effects on heart, adrenal, spleen and blood cells were also frequently noted. As there normally exists sex differences in liver and kidney metabolism, the highly statistically significant disturbances in the function of these organs, seen between male and female rats, cannot be dismissed as biologically insignificant as has been proposed by others. We therefore conclude that our data strongly suggests that these GM maize varieties induce a state of hepatorenal toxicity....These substances have never before been an integral part of the human or animal diet and therefore their health consequences for those who consume them, especially over long time periods are currently unknown."

Monsanto has immediately responded to the study, stating that the research is "based on faulty analytical methods and reasoning and do not call into question the safety findings for these products."

The IJBS study's author Gilles-Eric Séralini responded to the Monsanto statement on the blog, Food Freedom, "Our study contradicts Monsanto conclusions because Monsanto systematically neglects significant health effects in mammals that are different in males and females eating GMOs, or not proportional to the dose. This is a very serious mistake, dramatic for public health. This is the major conclusion revealed by our work, the only careful reanalysis of Monsanto crude statistical data."

I urge you to do more research and read the work of others in this field have done a great job cataloging and discussing the sins of Monsanto. I will just copy and paste a couple eye opening articles I quickly found here:

"The World According to Monsanto" Expose Disappears from the internet!

By Barbara Peterson

The excellent French documentary titled "The World According to Monsanto – A documentary that Americans won't ever see," is evidently living up to its name. When I first became aware of this movie, I immediately watched it, then placed it on my websites. Today I checked the link, and found that the video is gone. In fact, when I typed the title "The World According to Monsanto" into the Google search engine, I couldn't find the full video anywhere.

This is a call for action. If you find this video anywhere on the Internet, please let me know. If you haven't seen it, you need to. If you have seen it, you know what a powerful video it is for exposing the corruption of Monsanto and the U.S. government. If Google Video has removed this documentary in acquiescence to the U.S. government or Monsanto, then that is testimony to the power and corruption behind the massive corporate movement to wage war on the environment and all living things in the pursuit of profit and power, the people be damned.

Siv O'Neal states:

The gospel according to Monsanto is that their patented GM seeds and their bovine growth hormone (BGH) will increase worldwide production of agricultural, dairy and meat products and Bt cotton to the extent that worldwide hunger and poverty will be eradicated.

The actual truth is rather the opposite. GMOs are creating serious damage all over the world and artificial BGH injection in cows cause numerous health problems, and even death.

Monsanto is not held back by any considerations of ethics and it hides the reality of its sordid machinations behind a wall of secrecy. Everything Monsanto does is exclusively with the intent of increasing its own profit – everything else be damned. (2008)

This is an information war, and it is highly possible that either Google Video is doing its part to help the corporate giant pull the wool over the public's eyes so it can poison the planet with impunity, or has been threatened. Fight back! Spread the word and try to find a source for this extremely important expose' about collusion between the U.S. government and Monsanto. It is too important to put off. Our planet is in imminent peril because of the machinations of this evil corporation.

If left to its own devices it (Monsanto) will most certainly destroy the livelihood of millions of farmers – a process begun a decade ago in India and certainly in many other countries as well. The planet's ecosystems will be seriously threatened by unnatural ways of changing agricultural patterns. The dangers of GMO cultivation to the environment come in many forms:

- Switching from age-old biodiverse crops that can tolerate low-level amounts of water to industrial monocultures of crops such as GM soya, cotton, sugarcane, etc. that require large amounts of irrigation.
- Inundating cultivated lands with toxic herbicides, in particular the dangerous Monsanto product Roundup, to which the GMO seeds have been made biomechanically resistant. Any other growth should succumb to Roundup, were it not for the fact that weeds to a very large extent become Roundup resistant.
- Putting an end to biological farming and poisoning non GM cultures through pollenization from GM crops and accidental exposure to Roundup herbicide.
- Deforestation to make more land available for the culture of the GM seeds Monsanto sells at high prices to poor farmers. (O'Neal, 2008)

This issue is too important to put off. Please, try to find the video. People need to have this information. "The World According to Monsanto" is one of the most important videos I have ever seen. Help expose Monsanto!

I saw a News Hour piece on Maharashtra, India, about farmers committing suicide. Monsanto, a US agricultural giant, hired Bollywood actors for ads telling illiterate farmers they could get rich (by their standards) from big yields with Monsanto's Bt (genetically engineered) cotton seeds. The expensive seeds needed expensive fertilizer and pesticides (Monsanto, again) and irrigation. There is no irrigation there. Crops failed. Farmers had larger debt than they'd ever experienced

And farmers couldn't collect seeds from their own fields to try again (true since time immemorial). Monsanto "patents" their DNA-altered seeds as "intellectual property." They have a $10 million budget and a staff of 75 devoted solely to prosecuting farmers. <http://www.grist.org/comments/food/2008/01/17/>). Since the late 1990s (about when industrial agriculture took hold in India), 166,000 Indian farmers have committed suicide and 8 million have left the land.

A snap shot of our food:

Oils: Sheep died in India after feeding on Bt cotton fields. We feed our children Bt cotton, as cottonseed oil in peanut butter and cookies.

Grains: 49% of US corn acreage was planted in Bt corn in 2007. A French study proved Monsanto's GMO corn causes kidney and liver toxicity.

Soft drinks and candy have highly concentrated Bt corn, in the form of high fructose Bt corn syrup. The US food system depends most on two crops, soy (90% GMO, 90% of traits owned by Monsanto) and corn, the largest crop (60% GMO, nearly 100% Monsanto traits). "[E]ssentially our entire food supply is genetically modified, to the benefit of one company." The Grocery Manufacturers of America in 2000 estimated that 70 percent of US food contains GM traits.

Meat: Steroids bulk up athletes. Monsanto steroids bulk up animals - more weight, more profit. We feed our children steroids in meats. Is this why our children are fattening, like Hansel and Gretel?

Poultry: Bill's USDA weakened chicken waste and contamination standards and attempted to allow sewage sludge as fertilize crops. I will say more about disease from industrialized poultry farms waste, at the end of this letter.

Milk: Over 30 scientific publications have shown increased levels of IGF-1 in milk with rBGH increases risks of breast cancer by up to seven-fold, also increasing colon and prostate cancers risks. Canada, 29 European nations, Norway, Switzerland, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, and South Africa ban U.S. RBGH dairy products. Bill's USFDA put no restrictions, no warning labels (not allowing labels at all).

By and far, Monsanto is not the only sinister being in this industry. The farm industry's goliath is the privately owned infamous Cargill monster who rake in over $110 billion a year. Followed closely by the Zionist private $98 billion behemoth goes by the name of Koch Industries, they are into exploiting everything, you name it, fertilizers, chemicals, energy, forest products, fibers, and so on. Koch loves ecology so much that stripping the forests of its trees isn't good enough, their biggest preference is to dump toxic waste in the likes of 91 metric tons into your backyard. They've only been caught red handed in just 315 acts of pollution.

"So what" - "Monsanto is not an evil corporation, they are doing good things for us" is the reply by many of the blind masses. The problem resides squarely on the fact that our benevolent most caring government is hell bent on creating a "food police", criminalizing organic farming and the backyard gardener, along with trashing the 10th amendment. Behold, for a bill sitting in committee called HR 875 is looking to lay the foundation to completely change that landscape of farming as we know it. The Monsantos of the world will rule the food production realm with fists of iron.

I found this info at Campaign For Liberty website, in reference to HR 875:

HR875 The Food Police, criminalizing organic farming and the backyard gardner, and violation of the 10th amendment

HR 875 <http://thomas.loc.gov/cgi-bin/query/F?c111:1:./temp/~c1112RD9bb:e11439:>

This bill is sitting in committee and I am not sure when it is going to hit the floor. One thing I do know is that very few of the Representatives have read it. As usual they will vote on this based on what someone else is saying. Urge your members to read the legislation and ask for opposition to this devastating legislation.

Devastating for everyday folks but great for factory farming ops like Monsanto, ADM, Sodexo and Tyson to name a few.

I have no doubt that this legislation was heavily influenced by lobbyists from huge food producers. This legislation is so broad based that technically someone with a little backyard garden could get fined and have their property siezed. It will affect anyone who produces food even if they do not sell but only consume it. It will literally put all independent farmers and food producers out of business due to the huge amounts of money it will take to conform to factory farming methods. If people choose to farm without industry standards such as chemical pesticides and fertilizers they will be subject to a vareity of harassment from this completely new agency that has never before existed. That's right, a whole new government agency is being created just to police food, for our own protection of course.

DO NOT TAKE MY WORD FOR IT, READ THIS LEGISLATION FOR YOURSELF. The more people who read this legislation the more insight we are going to get and be able to share. Post your observations and insights below. Urge your members to read this legislation and to oppose the passage of this legislation.

Pay special attention to

- Section 3 which is the definitions portion of the bill-read in it's entirety.
- section 103, 206 and 207- read in it's entirety.

Red flags I found and I am sure there are more.....

- Legally binds state agriculture depts to enforcing federal guidelines effectively taking away the states power to do anything other than being food police for the federal dept.
- Effectively criminalizes organic farming but doesn't actually use the word organic.
- Affects anyone growing food even if they are not selling it but consuming it.
- Affects anyone producing meat of any kind including the processing wild game for personal consumption.
- Legislation is so broad based that every aspect of growing or producing food can be made illegal. There are no specifics which is bizarre considering how long the legislation is.
- Section 103 is almost entirely about the administrative aspect of the legislation. It will allow the appointing of officials from the factory farming corporations and lobbyists and classify them as experts and allow them to determine and interpret the legislation. Who do you think they are going to side with?
- Section 206 defines what will be considered a food production facility and what will be enforced up all food production facilities. The wording is so broad based that a backyard gardener could be fined and more.
- Section 207 requires that the state's agriculture dept act as the food police and enforce the federal requirements. This takes away the states power and is in violation of the 10th amendment.
- There are many more but by the time I got this far in the legislation I was so alarmed that I wanted to bring someone's attention to it. (to the one person who reads my blog)

Didn't Stalin nationalize farming methods that enabled his administration to gain control over the food supply?
Didn't Stalin use the food to control the people?

Last word..... Legislate religion and enforce gag orders on ministers on what can and can't be said in the pulpit, instituting regulations forcing people to rely solely on the government, control the money and the food. What is that called? It is on the tip of my tongue.....

The entire farming industry has been under attack for decades. Our loving government has interfered with regulations and manipulation on mind boggling level at times. Little family farmers have been slowly "weeded out" and regulated out of the business. Of course, as usual, most rulings and polices are made to benefit the large corporate agro businesses. Today for example we are witnessing the totally ridiculous and batshit INSANE concept called BioFuel.

In a nutshell: there are literally billions of people in the world DYING OF STARVATION, yet the mad men running our country are having farmers grow crops to turn into fuel. There are so many fundamentally wrong dynamics to this insane concept. Oh by the way, once you get the entire system hook on and geared up for this BioFuel thing, what happens when natural disasters or other ecological event completely ruins your crops? Duh! These biofuels are already pushing the prices of everything in the food chain up, up and up. Chickens need corn, cows, etc, everything goes up in price due to the fact that our brain dead elected officials sold their souls to the highest bidders then proceeded to sell us all out.

Go ahead rape our lands, when we no longer have anything left, go finish your suicide mission of cutting down the entire rain forests! There are still billions and billions of bucks to be made there! Industry just keeps poisoning our lands, skies, lakes, oceans and rivers to no end in sight. This will not end until we have a collective catastrophic retribution from mother earth. For our elected leaders have proven over and over again that they don't really give a damn about our natural resources we call earth as they continue to rubber stamp the greedy corporate rape and pillage mother earth until she lays barren, only then will they look around and say "oh shit."

Obama Appoints Monsanto Man as FDA Food Safety Czar

An error occurred while setting up video display. samantha420 added this Taylor is a familiar figure at the FDA. He began his career as a staff attorney at the agency in 1976. Then he worked for a decade at King & Spaulding, which represented Monsanto Corp., the agribusiness giant that developed genetically engineered corn, soybeans and bovine growth hormone.

He returned to the FDA in 1991 as deputy commissioner for policy and pushed through requirements that producers of seafood and juices adopt measures to prevent bacterial contamination. During the same period, the FDA approved Monsanto's bovine growth hormone, and Taylor was partly responsible for a controversial policy that said milk from BGH-treated cows did not have to be labeled as such. (read the entire article at here)

I barely touched upon the iceberg that makes up this sector of the Matrix empire. I find this writing about this segment heart wrenching and will try to revisit it in the future to try and better articulate and cover this area better. Please do follow the few links I have provided and research these facts for yourself. You will have no choice but to realize that YES there exists a grand scheme that is methodically clamping down ever so surely. Cherish your freedoms and what is soon to be the good ole days while you still have them.

Feds moove against farmer – for having cows!

Government complains: 'You produce food for human consumption'

By Bob Unruh, 2010 WorldNetDaily

U.S. Food and Drug Administration agents have demanded to inspect a Pennsylvania farm described by its owner as private, arguing, "You have cows. You produce food for human consumption."

The confrontation developed just days ago at a farm near Kinzers, Pa., belonging to Amish farmer Dan Allgyer.

According to a report from the National Independent Consumers and Farmers Association, the agents were Joshua Schafer and Deborah Haney from the federal government agency's Delaware office.

The agents "drove past Allgyer's 'No Trespassing' signs and up his driveway almost to his barn, where Allgyer happened to be outside," the report said. "Allgyer approached the car, the agents got out and Allgyer asked them why they were there. They produced a piece of paper, asked Allgyer if he was Dan Allgyer, which Allgyer confirmed, asked him his middle initial and phone number, entered the information on the paper, told Allgyer they were there to do an inspection."

The report from NICFA, which was based on information provided by Allgyer, said the agents then "started reading the paper to him, saying it gave them jurisdiction to be there."

"You produce food for human consumption," an agent stated, according to the report. "You have cows. You cannot be consuming all the milk you produce. If you get a milk truck in to move all this milk you sell milk to the public, therefore we have jurisdiction."

After Allgyer said, "This is a private farm, I do not sell anything to the public," the agents accused him of refusing an inspection.

A spokeswoman for the FDA's Philadelphia office, which has jurisdiction over the region, confirmed the incident occurred, although she did not have details.

"An attempt of an inspection was made, and he refused to allow the inspection to take place," she told WND.

A spokeswoman for NICFA told WND she documented the situation when she spoke with Allgyer shortly after the Feb. 4 encounter.

The FDA spokeswoman said she did not know if there had been an attempt at a followup inspection or if anything further had developed in the case.

WND reported a few weeks ago on a court victory in Canada in which Michael Schmidt was found not guilty of accusations he sold raw milk to members of a cow-sharing consortium.

According to natural foods blogger Kimberly Hartke, the judge "found that Michael had done his due diligence, developed a proper contract, and that everyone was informed. The judge went on to say that Michael met a need for the people."

And in a previous U.S. case, Mennonite farmer Mark Nolt of Maryland had his farm raided by SWAT-type agents. He was fined more than $4,000 and had his equipment confiscated for providing raw – or unpasteurized – milk to participants in his program.

In the Ontario case, the ruling from the Newmarket justice of the peace found the cow-sharing operation Schmidt runs out of his Durham farm does not violate milk-marketing and public-health regulations.

The ruling, concluding a three-year war over his business, meant his milk legally could be distributed to consumers who have purchased "cow shares" in exchange for access to the milk.

Drinking raw milk in Canada is not banned, but other laws require pasteurization on most commercial milk products. According to a report in the Toronto Globe and Mail, 10 U.S. states – including California, Maine, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and New Mexico – allow licensed farmers to sell raw milk with a warning label at grocery stores.

Advocates say raw milk is healthier. Hartke reports Kevin Trudeau touts raw milk in his New York Times best-seller "Natural Cures They Don't Want You to Know About," and Sally Fallon Morell's cookbook, "Nourishing Traditions," which has sold 350,000 copies, recommends it.

But government agencies tasked with making sure health products are safe argue unpasteurized products can carry harmful pathogens such as listeria.

As the confrontation between FDA agents and Allgyer advanced, the NICFA report said, the agents refused to talk with the farmer's lawyer and then told him he was refusing an inspection even if he did not say so.

The agents eventually left the farm, parked on a neighbor's property and began watching Allgyer.

When a visitor who had been on the farm left shortly thereafter, the FDA agents followed him to the point he became concerned and called 911, reporting the tailing episode.

On a forum page at Chronwatch-America.com, a participant concluded, "The food produced on that farm is probably far safer than anything you get at the grocery store."

If you understand half of what we are trying to convey here, then you can evidently see that our world is being taken over and transformed in so many ways that it really resembles a fictional horror movie. Wake up Dorothy, we are not in Kansas anymore... You better soon begin to make serious plans on how to deal with daily life in the oncoming new world order. I suggest that you begin studying in places like: True Food Network, Mercola.com, Organic Consumers Association for info on unadulterated food, it would not hurt to check into survivalist websites, stock up on at least one year's supply of food, you know, so you won't get caught with your thumb up your ass when and if the shit ever hits the fan. Hey, if nothing happens you can use the food before it goes bad in a couple years anyway when the prices are way higher anyway, it's a nothing to lose proposition. I would buy a new case of whatever to replace any old case I will consume... My motto: be ready, be prepared for anything. When the next "Katrina" or "unforeseen" national disaster happens. While everyone is running around rioting and begging for food, I will be quietly sitting at my window documenting the carnage.

S510 -- Illegal to Grow, Share, Trade, Sell Homegrown Food

SB S510 Will Allow Government To Put You In Jail

By Steve Green 8-6-10

S510, the Food Safety Modernization Act of 2010, may be the most dangerous bill in the history of the US. (<http://www.govtrack.us/congress/bill.xpd?bill=s111-510>) "

If accepted [S 510] would preclude the public's right to grow, own, trade, transport, share, feed and eat each and every food that nature makes. It will become the most offensive authority against the cultivation, trade and consumption of food and agricultural products of one's choice. It will be unconstitutional and contrary to natural law or, if you like, the will of God." It is similar to what India faced with imposition of the salt tax during British rule, only S 510 extends control over all food in the US, violating the fundamental human right to food." ~ Dr. Shiv Chopra, Canada Health whistleblower.

Monsanto says it has no interest in the bill and would not benefit from it, but Monsanto's Michael Taylor who gave us rBGH and unregulated genetically modified (GM) organisms, appears to have designed it and is waiting as an appointed Food Czar to the FDA (a position unapproved by Congress) to administer the agency it would create without judicial review if it passes.

S 510 would give Monsanto unlimited power over all US seed, food supplements, food AND FARMING.

History

In the 1990s, Bill Clinton introduced HACCP (Hazardous Analysis Critical Control Points) purportedly to deal with contamination in the meat industry. Clinton's HACCP delighted the offending corporate (World Trade Organization "WTO") meat packers since it allowed them to inspect themselves, eliminated thousands of local food processors (with no history of contamination), and centralized meat into their control. Monsanto promoted HACCP.

In 2008, Hillary Clinton, urged a powerful centralized food safety agency as part of her campaign for president. Her advisor was Mark Penn, CEO of Burson Marsteller*, a giant PR firm representing Monsanto. Clinton lost, but Clinton friends such as Rosa DeLauro, whose husband's firm lists Monsanto as a progressive client and globalization as an area of expertise, introduced early versions of S 510.

S 510 fails on moral, social, economic, political, constitutional, and human survival grounds.

1. It puts all US food and all US farms under Homeland Security and the Department of Defense, in the event of contamination or an ill-defined emergency. It resembles the Kissinger Plan.

2. It would end US sovereignty over its own food supply by insisting on compliance with the WTO, thus threatening national security. It would end the Uruguay Round Agreement Act of 1994, which put US sovereignty and US law under perfect protection. Instead, S 510 says:

COMPLIANCE WITH INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS.

Nothing in this Act (or an amendment made by this Act) shall be construed in a manner inconsistent with the agreement establishing the World Trade Organization or any other treaty or international agreement to which the United States is a party.

3. It would allow the government, under Maritime Law, to define the introduction of any food into commerce (even direct sales between individuals) as smuggling into "the United States." Since under that law, the US is a corporate entity and not a location, "entry of food into the US" covers food produced anywhere within the land mass of this country and "entering into" it by virtue of being produced.

4. It imposes Codex Alimentarius on the US, a global system of control over food. It allows the United Nations (UN), World Health Organization (WHO), UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), and the WTO to take control of every food on earth and remove access to natural food supplements. Its bizarre history and its expected impact in limiting access to adequate nutrition (while mandating GM food, GM animals, pesticides, hormones, irradiation of food, etc.) threatens all safe and organic food and health itself, since the world knows now it needs vitamins to survive, not just to treat illnesses.

5. It would remove the right to clean, store and thus own seed in the US, putting control of seeds in the hands of Monsanto and other multinationals, threatening US security. See Seeds - How to criminalize them, for more details.

6. It includes NAIS, an animal traceability program that threatens all small farmers and ranchers raising animals. The UN is participating through the WHO, FAO, WTO, and World Organization for Animal Health (OIE) in allowing mass slaughter of even heritage breeds of animals and without proof of disease. Biodiversity in farm animals is being wiped out to substitute genetically engineered animals on which corporations hold patents. Animal diseases can be falsely declared. S 510 includes the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), despite its corrupt involvement in the H1N1 scandal, which is now said to have been concocted by the corporations.

7. It extends a failed and destructive HACCP to all food, thus threatening to do to all local food production and farming what HACCP did to meat production - put it in corporate hands and worsen food safety.

8. It deconstructs what is left of the American economy. It takes agriculture and food, which are the cornerstone of all economies, out of the hands of the citizenry, and puts them under the total control of multinational corporations influencing the UN, WHO, FAO and WTO, with HHS, and CDC, acting as agents, with Homeland Security as the enforcer. The chance to rebuild the economy based on farming, ranching, gardens, food production, natural health, and all the jobs, tools and connected occupations would be eliminated.

9. It would allow the government to mandate antibiotics, hormones, slaughterhouse waste, pesticides and GMOs. This would industrialize every farm in the US, eliminate local organic farming, greatly increase global warming from increased use of oil-based products and long-distance delivery of foods, and make food even more unsafe. The five items listed the Five Pillars of Food Safety are precisely the items in the food supply which are the primary source of its danger.

10. It uses food crimes as the entry into police state power and control. The bill postpones defining all the regulations to be imposed; postpones defining crimes to be punished, postpones defining penalties to be applied. It removes fundamental constitutional protections from all citizens in the country, making them subject to a corporate tribunal with unlimited power and penalties, and without judicial review.

Dad Arrested For Sharing Food With His Neighbor

This Could be a Headline if S510 Passes

By Wally Paul, Republic Defiance, August 27, 2010

Senate Bill S510 - Total Full Spectrum Dominance From The Global Mafia

Senate Bill S510 makes it illegal to grow, share, trade or sell homegrown food. This is so far beyond tyranny it makes Hitler seem sane. People are already being arrested for buying and selling raw milk. Do I still have life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness in a world where I cannot grow my own food?

I asked my 91 year old mother the other day about what it was like living during the great depression. She said she was not aware of it at the time because they lived on a self-sustained farm.

The real reason of course for this bill is the all mighty Global Mafia agenda. You will eat the genetically modified food. You will get sick. You will get cancer. You will die and you will do this for the almighty glory of the Global Mafia.

I seem to vacillate on what to call this sinister, evil, diabolical group of criminals at the top. I was speaking with someone the other day and they referred to these wretched souls as the Global Mafia. This made sense to me. They are organized crime. They are psychopaths and they hate humans. Maybe they are another species because they have such hatred for Homo sapiens.

You humans will eat the genetically modified chicken breasts. Look how big they are. Big is good. Look at the giant perfectly shaped apples. Your ancestors ate apples with worms.

The other day I was at my friend's house. It seemed real natural when Jim went into his garden, gathered up some corn and gave me some to take home. Jim has never broken a law in his life. Under S510, Jim will be a criminal. He can only grow it for his own consumption. He can't share with his friend, Wally. When you commit a crime does it not feel like you are doing something bad? I felt just fine taking Jim's corn home to eat. It did have some worms. The government would not like that. We have big ears of corn, with huge kernels. Every ear of corn is the same. Perfect.

I just heard Alex Jones in my head say, "Jim are you with al-Qaeda. You can't give that corn to Wally. I am gonna call the police. In five minutes a S.W.A.T. team will encircle your house. They will bust down your door and kill you deader than a hammer, Jim. Don't grow your own food you terrorist!"

Sorry. Enough of that. Little Alex Jones get out of my head. Whew. That was scary.

Getting serious, the summary of S. 510: FDA Food Safety Modernization Act, ensures that a factory "Animal Farm" is on the horizon for your local area.

Food Freedom warns about the consequences from this bill.

The final conclusion: "It removes fundamental constitutional protections from all citizens in the country, making them subject to a corporate tribunal with unlimited power and penalties, and without judicial review".

"If people let the government decide what foods they eat and what medicines they take, their bodies will soon be in as sorry a state as are the souls of those who live under tyranny."

Thomas Jefferson

They say "no person's life, property or liberties are safe when Congress is in session..." To this we must add, "Nor is our right to grow and use our own food, as families and communities". We are happy to report that some of our friends in the Freedom Movement, including Citizens for Health and Downsize DC have joined in S.510 Push Back, and have also set S.510 Action Items urging their supporters to message the US Senate. We applaud their efforts and remind everyone that we need hundreds of thousands of emails flooding the Senate if we are to keep our Food Freedom! Please help by widely circulating this information and Dr. Rima's hard-hitting S.510 video.

Let's look at who supports the bill. According to maplight.org, huge corporations like General Mills, Kraft Foods North America, National Association of Manufacturers and 25 more organizations support this bill. In opposition: American Grassfed Association, Family Farm Defenders, Small Farms Conservancy 93 others in an open letter to address the Senate Bill S510.

This bill proves yet again that the Global Mafia is bound and determined to control "their" herd of human resources, i.e. - US - We the People.

Senate Votes Cloture on S 510 - the $1.6 billion price tag for S 510 will stop food smuggling in the United States

Source: Food Freedom

By a vote of 74 to 25, at noon today, the U.S. Senate voted for cloture on S 510, the Food Safety Modernization Act, which means it must now be voted on in the full Senate within 60 days. All amendments to the controversial food control bill must be completed by that time.

One of S 510's supporters, Saxby Chambliss of Georgia, opposed cloture because modifications to the bill do not reflect its original intent, he said on C-SPAN. Chambliss fully supports giving the FDA more power over the US food supply, but is unhappy with the Manager's Amendment submitted in August.

He objects to the small farm exclusion on the grounds that the $500,000 annual gross revenue limit is an arbitrary number that is too quickly reached by small farms. He called for numerous amendments to the bill as it appears today.

Senator Sherrod Brown of Ohio supports S 510, and called out the statistics by the Centers for Disease Control that report there are 76 million foodborne illnesses a year, with 5,000 resulting in death. What Brown did not say was that the FDA — the very agency further empowered by S 510 — is responsible for the approval of pharmaceutical drugs that result in 100,000 deaths a year.

None of the supporters of S 510 will acknowledge the corrupt nature of the Food and Drug Administration. Monsanto executives now work at the FDA or on President's Obama's Food Safety Task Force.

What legislators continue to ignore from the public is that we do not support giving federal agencies even more power — especially over something as inherently private as food choices.

None of the legislators will discuss the FDA raids on natural food operations which sickened no one, while it allowed Wright County Egg to sicken people for decades before finally taking action.

Yesterday, Senator Bob Casey informed his Pennsylvania constituents that the \$1.6 billion price tag for S 510 will stop food smuggling in the United States. I kid you not:

“These provisions add personnel to detect, track and remove smuggled food and call for the development and implementation of strategies to stop food from being smuggled into the United States.”

Is food smuggling a problem in the United States? Well, the “biggest food smuggling case in the history of the U.S.” busted wide open in September. Eleven Chinese and German executives were indicted for bringing in $40 million worth of commercial grade honey over a five year period, reportedly to avoid paying $80 million in import fees. (No wonder they tried smuggling.)

That amounts to 3 percent of the 1.35 billion-dollar honey market over a five-year period.

Since that was the biggest food smuggling bust, food smuggling is not the problem. Clearly. It hardly seems worth it for the US taxpayer to cough up $1.6 billion so the FDA can stop such illegal activities, especially in our current economic recession.

Blogger Steve Green interprets the S 510 smuggling language to mean:

“It would allow the government, under Maritime Law, to define the introduction of any food into commerce (even direct sales between individuals) as smuggling into “the United States.” Since under that law, the US is a corporate entity and not a location, “entry of food into the US” covers food produced anywhere within the land mass of this country and “entering into” it by virtue of being produced.”

§309 defines it as:

“In this subsection, the term ‘smuggled food’ means any food that a person introduces into the United States through fraudulent means or with the intent to defraud or mislead.”

Although only 150 new hires will be responsible for food smuggling under S 510, the total number of new hires sought is at least 18,000 employees.

This is absurd. Food smuggling is not the problem with food safety. Tainted food comes from monopoly operations in a highly centralized food system. Break up the monopolies and revert to localized food systems to ensure food safety. Let local authorities control local food safety.

Last but not least. What? You thought I would finish this chapter without ripping into the Zionist Jew’s world conquest in the name of their GOD agenda? I don’t like getting into “maybe” and “ifs” and conjecture, for I like to stay on the trail of cold hard facts as I have been doing for this entire report. But, but... for just this one case, I have to share a gut wrenching thought: Kosher.

The New Politics Of Starvation And Weaponized Food

By Michael Vail, Chief Editor of BlacklistedNews Published on 11-22-2010

“We may find in the long run that tinned(canned) food is a deadlier weapon than the machine-gun.” -- George Orwell

“If starvation is cheap and requires low levels of technology, why not always use it?” --Michelle Jurkovich(GWU)

Food and its production has been a principle concern since the beginning of time. Governments monitor the food supply very carefully for the sake of national security. The fluctuation in the price of core goods can make life very hard for everyone. The poorest people in Haiti resorted to eating mud cookies and in Ireland the government is handing out free cheese as their economy crumbles under the burden of debt. Give us our daily bread because a hungry citizenry can bring a nation to ruin.

“The aim of Operation Vegetarian was to wipe out the German beef and dairy herds and then see the bacterium spread to the human population. With people then having no access to antibiotics, this would have caused many thousands -- perhaps even millions -- of German men, women and children to suffer awful deaths.” --The Herald

“The anthrax cakes were tested on Gruinard Island, off Wester Ross, which was finally cleared of contamination in 1990. Operation VEGETARIAN was planned for the summer of 1944 but, in the event, it was abandoned as the Allies’ Normandy invasion progressed successfully.” --The Herald

It is not a secret that many nations and paramilitary groups have used food as a weapon. What could be more formidable? Hitler, Stalin, Herbert Hoover and many others have used this tactic. Researchers and university professors have written on the subject incessantly. They prattle on about the best ways to wipe out populations and the most cost-efficient way. Why waste bullets when you can bring a nation to its knees by starvation and disease?

“A basic weapon of the capitalists in their struggle for life as a social class will be the control of food.

American – and to a degree British – capitalists will brandish this weapon over Europe, Asia and Africa. The famished and starved revolutionary masses, the capitalists hope, are to be brought to their knees by the weapon of food.” --The Imperial Strategy of Food

“They will also attempt to use food to secure from the governing regime of the USSR ever greater economic and political concessions aiming at the eventual restoration of capitalism in the Soviet Union. The USSR is considered by the imperialists to be in the category of “unfinished business.” --The Imperial Strategy of Food

“At Home & Abroad. Both Stalin and Hitler use food to destroy internal opposition, reward accomplishment, punish failure, establish the class distinctions of their “new orders.” In Germany the “warrior caste” of the armed forces gets the fattest ration cards, skilled and essential workmen the next. Down at the bottom come prisoners, the insane, the Jews. Ration cards giving the owner right to more food are used to give workmen incentives to seek promotion, to increase their output. Supplies are suddenly cut down (regardless of the amount stored) to scare the population into believing the situation serious, or extra rations are suddenly granted to boost morale in a bad time. Food statistics are guarded like bomber planes. To the Nazis, food is “a beautiful instrument . . . for maneuvering and disciplining the masses.” --Food: A Weapon

Most people don’t even know who is responsible for their food supply. They don’t know the names of the companies who put food on their table. The steak was bought at Walmart and that is all that is needed to know. The supply chains and the global cartels who run them are never mentioned. Companies like Cargill, ConAgra, Tyson, Kraft, DuPont and Monsanto want to rob you of the ability to grow and/or sell you’re own food. Legislation like S.510 , the ‘food safety’ bill have been crafted by former Monsanto employees and lobbyists to ensure that you get your food from their sources and not from any local small farmers, friends and neighbors who may offer cheaper and better products. Resource monopolization is taking place at this very moment in time!

“Anyone for a hepatitis B banana nr some cholera Aalfalfa sprouts? Biotech corporations have expanded on their scientific experiments with our fund by creating edible vaccines and pharmaceutical crops, Over 400 genetically altered “functional foods” are in development by twenty biotech corporations from around the world. These scored generation biotech crops are the biotech industry's hope for public acceptance of biotech foods by offering more consumer benefits, such as edible vaccinations and low cost medicinal drugs.” --Brave New Food: Biotech Vaccines in Our Corn and Greens

“Other food crops are being used to grow pharmaceutical drugs for diseases from diabetes to heart disease. Common genetically engineered pharmaceutical crops include corn, rice, wheat, and barley A French biotech corporation has contracted with a cooperative of 76 Iowa farmers to grow pharmaceutical corn. Several thousand acres will be needed to grow genetically engineered pharmaceutical corn for a drug to treat cystic fibrosis. Dow AgroSciences will also be genetically engineering corn to grow drugs for cancer, cardiovascular diseases its well as infections and autoimmune diseases.” --Brave New Food: Biotech Vaccines in Our Corn and Greens

Speaking of food as a weapon, consider the genetic experimentation on our food supply. Recently many biotech start up groups had been putting Cholera vaccines in rice and using Africans as lab rats. Who wants to eat a t-bone steak when the cow is cloned or genetically modified to give you your yearly vaccinations? I won’t delve into the details of this as others have done a great job in bringing this information to daylight.

"The world food market is still "seriously exposed" to speculators artificially driving up prices and worsening the risks of malnutrition, according to one of the world's leading agricultural researchers." --Food supply at risk from speculation, warns experts

"When food supply is at risk, speculators are attracted, especially when trade barriers are put in place," he warned. Exchanges in India and China were closed down to prevent similar speculative attacks." --Food supply at risk from speculation, warns experts

"Owing to the limitations of the ASEAN, East Asia and SAARC food security reserves, we recommend that a global food reserve be established. Unlike the three existing reserve schemes, which focused on the use of reserves exclusively for emergency responses and humanitarian assistance but failed to include price stabilization as one of its major objectives, the proposed global food reserve would have a two-pronged objective. First, to stabilize food prices, especially rice, in the world market by using the stockpile to defend a price band (i.e. lower and upper limits); and second, to provide immediate assistance to countries encountering calamities. When prices are falling, the low end of the price band would serve as a safety net for farmers in exporting countries. Conversely, the high end would protect consumers in food-deficit or importing countries from the adverse effects of high food prices in the world market." --The United Nations Must Manage A Global Food Reserve

"Achieving the goals of environmental quality and sustainable development will require efficiency in production and changes in consumption patterns in order to emphasize optimization of resource use and minimization of waste. In many instances, this will require reorientation of existing production and consumption patterns that have developed in industrial societies and are in turn emulated in much of the world." --Agenda 21

"Current lifestyles and consumption patterns of the affluent middle class - involving high meat intake, use of fossil fuels, appliances, air-conditioning, and suburban housing - are not sustainable." -- Maurice Strong, Rio Earth Summit

Because of speculators and humanitarian needs the UN wants to create a global food reserve, this has a nasty Hegelian rationale to it. It is true that speculators are driving up the price of food and oil. This is merely a tool by the global elite to force us on 'sustainable' consumption patterns. It is hypocritical to tell us to change the way we live for the sake of Mother Gaia and at the same time witness resource wars and monopolies run by the same people.

"A cancer is an uncontrolled multiplication of cells; the population explosion is an uncontrolled multiplication of people. We must shift our efforts from the treatment of the symptoms to the cutting out of the cancer. The operation will demand many apparently brutal and heartless decisions."-- Paul Ehrlich, The Population Bomb

Don't forget that weaponized genetically engineered food and food without nutrients are both weapons for a silent war. We are all being judged as either useless eaters or useful idiots. Do you want to live as a cog in the wheel or a thorn in their side? I choose to live as I see fit and I will ensure my survival and you should as well.

Before finishing up this chapter I feel compelled to stir up deep seated beliefs and assumptions. In my mind nothing, no topic or rational is off limits in the never ending search for truth. So let's go "there":

Someone please come forward and prove to me that the Jews who are eating their own special organic food supplies they substantiate through exclusive religious rights and doctrines are not in fact POISONING the rest of the world with the heavily contaminated, irradiated, toxin enriched, chemical laden, nutrition stripped, etc. food!

They refer to their special, “cleansed” and exclusive food supplies as “Kosher” which you Goyim cattle gentiles are forbidden to partake in...

Yes! I went there! I haven’t fully researched this, I am just an speculating at this point... But, this hypothesis has very real serious veracity and ramifications given the fact on how far the Zionist Jew juggernaut has gone in their hell bent quest for worldwide domination, globalization and control while systematically destroying everyone and everything that stands in their way.

Sue my cyber ghost shadow for self-hating Jew anti-Semitism biatch! What is to say that these people, hell bent on world conquest and domination who have a strangle hold on our governments, finance and media are not also lacing our food supplies with deadly toxins and chemicals to slowly destroy us while they “for religious reasons” /cough/ eat from their own clean unadulterated food supply?

You want to know what? I don’t know about you, but I will be shopping at my local Kosher store from now on! Shalom baby! Now where did I leave my beanie cap? Go ahead, hate the TRUTH biatches!

THE ENVIROMENT MATRIX

ENVIROMENT IN CHAOS

The Pillaging of the Worlds Resources whilst Systematic Destruction of Our Environment

ENTER THE CARBON ENSLAVEMENT SCHEME

“The Climate Conference in Copenhagen is another step forward towards the global management of our planet...” - New and first president of the European Union, Herman Van Rompuy quoted at Copenhagen

“Governments need armies to protect them from their enslaved and oppressed subjects.” - Tolstoy

The first time I was ever interviewed by a newspaper was well over a decade ago. Not a clue was lingering in the public conscience about the dreaded “global warming” issue back then. But what was my response at that time? “Take care of the environment and it will take care of you.” I advocated against poisoning and destroying the environment and straying away from gas guzzlers and instead focus on neutral, clean energy. What is truly interesting is seeing my words and actions back then within the backdrop of what is happening today. It seemed as if I was some sort of wingnut in preaching the virtues of NATURE. Today we have Green Peace and a host of other organizations and programs, many of which are shill programs, but then, what is genuine anymore anyways? Let me just summarize the fact that WAY BEFORE it was politically correct, there were people out there that werer champions for the ENVIROMENT... so called “tree huggers.” Way before “global warming” or “climate change” even appeared on the radar. The concept and principles are very simple: One must exist in harmony with all of creation. In the bible it was said: “go forth and have dominion of all that exists” this was stated in Genesis. Mankind was to be the true benevolent custodians of everything on this planet. Instead we have built a world of capitalism where money - debt and selfish greed rules above all else... even reigning supreme over all logic and common sense, for example:

Has it ever not occurred to anyone that centuries ago many barren desolate locations around the world at one time or another had vast forests? Yes, it has been scientifically proven many areas we modern 20th century man know as vast barren lands used to be lush forests. What happened to them? Very simple: man kept cutting down the trees for firewood, housing, and everything on the planet, without so much as any consideration about the future. They just kept cutting down more and more trees to satisfy their insatiable demand until one day someone woke up and realized, “golly gee whiz, there are no more trees for hundreds of miles.” At which point those ancient societies had no choice but to abandon their dwellings and search for new lands to inhabit. What we observe today as miles of treeless barren lands in many places were just busy metropolises in ancient times. It has been written “he who chooses to ignore the lessons of the past is bound to repeat them.” This time around, our civilization is so massively technologically advanced that it is totally within our means to turn the entire planet into a vast wasteland...

The entire Global Warming issue has recently become one of the hottest debated topics worldwide. On one side you have special interest funded world scientists claiming that the world is warming out of control. On the other side of the debate you have scientists funded directly or indirectly by the energy corporation cartels and the government who state: "everything is fine and dandy, don't pay any attention to those other dim wits". We are not going to sit here and pretend to be experts in this field and deal with the tons of reports. As is the whole purpose of the Matrix Report, we are going to get right to the nitty gritty.

First of all, I believe that the real issue is not “climate change” but instead poisoning the planet with tons of toxins and pollutants and the wanton rape and pillaging of the planet.

"Every time weaker nations have attempted to reallocate their resources and undertake land reform to feed starving populations, powerful interests emanating from the rich world and its multilateral bodies have thwarted their efforts." - Susan George

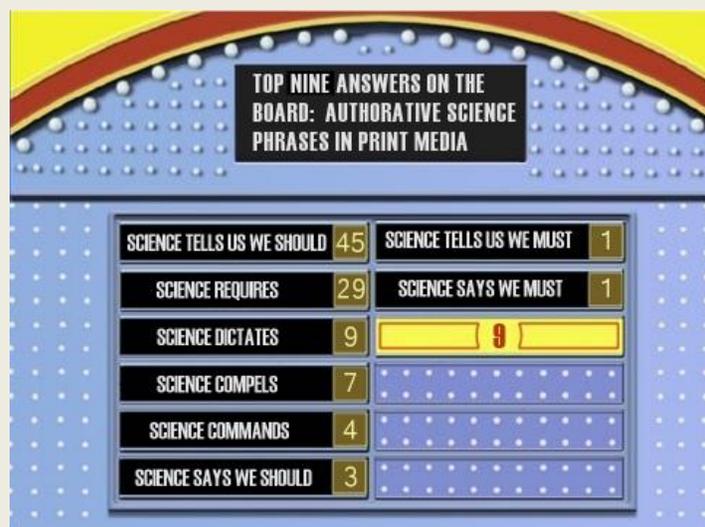

"Africa is extremely rich in many resources, from agriculture to oil, minerals, and a huge variety of other resources used all around the world. If African nations were able to develop their own economies, use their own resources, and create their own industries and businesses, they could become self-sufficient at first, and then may become a force of great competition for the established industries and elites around the world. After all, Europe does not have much to offer in terms of resources, as the continent's wealth has largely come from plundering the resources of regions like Africa, and in becoming captains of monetary manipulation. A revitalized, vibrant, economically independent and successful Africa could spell the end of Western financial dominance." - Andrew Gavin Marshall

Science Turns Authoritarian

Science is losing its credibility because it has adopted an authoritarian tone, and has let itself be co-opted by politics.

By Kenneth P. Green and Hiwa Alaghebandian, Tuesday, July 27, 2010

In a Wired article published at the end of May, writer Erin Biba bemoans the fact that “science” is losing its credibility with the public. The plunge in the public’s belief in catastrophic climate change is her primary example. Biba wonders whether the loss of credibility might be due to the malfeasance unearthed by the leak of emails from the Climatic Research Unit at the University of East Anglia in the United Kingdom, but comes to the conclusion that malfeasance isn't the cause of the public's disaffection. No, people have turned against science simply because it lacks a good public relations outfit. Biba quotes Kelly Bush, head of a major PR firm, on the point:

Bush says researchers need a campaign that inundates the public with the message of science: Assemble two groups of spokespeople, one made up of scientists and the other of celebrity ambassadors. Then deploy them to reach the public wherever they are, from online social networks to "The Today Show." Researchers need to tell personal stories, tug at the heartstrings of people who don't have PhD's. And the celebrities can go on "Oprah" to describe how climate change is affecting them—and by extension, Oprah's legions of viewers.

"They need to make people answer the questions, What's in it for me? How does it affect my daily life? What can I do that will make a difference? Answering these questions is what's going to start a conversation," Bush says. "The messaging up to this point has been 'Here are our findings. Read it and believe.' The deniers are convincing people that the science is propaganda."

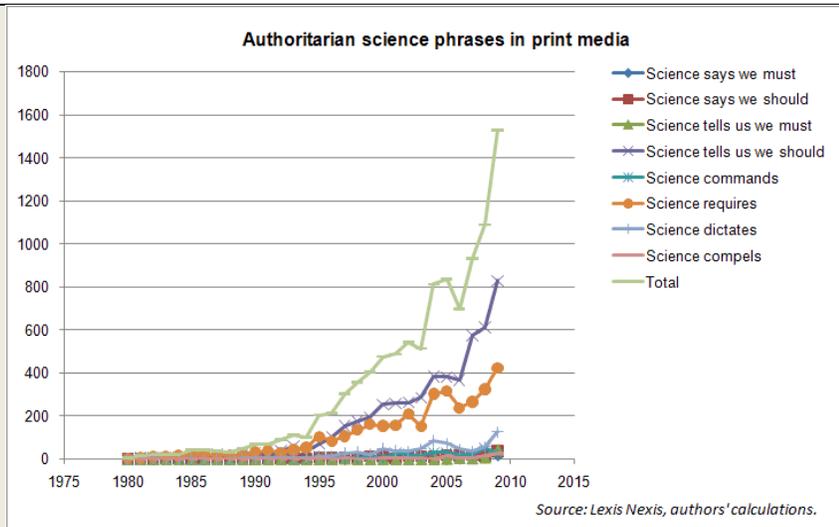

While nobody would dispute the value of a good PR department, we doubted that bad or insufficient PR was the primary reason for the public's declining trust in scientific pronouncements. Our theory is that science is not losing its credibility because people no longer like or believe in the idea of scientific discovery, but because science has taken on an authoritarian tone, and has let itself be co-opted by pressure groups who want the government to force people to change their behavior.

We decided to do a bit of informal research, checking Lexis Nexis for the growth in the use of what we characterize as 'authoritarian' phrasing when it comes to scientific findings. In the past, scientists were generally neutral on questions of what to do. Instead, they just told people what they found, such as "we have discovered that smoking vastly increases your risk of lung cancer" or "we have discovered that some people will have adverse health effects from consuming high levels of salt." Or "we have found that obesity increases your risk of coronary heart disease." Those were simply neutral observations that people could find empowering, useful, interesting, etc., but did not place demands on them. In fact, this kind of objectivity was the entire basis for trusting scientific claims.

But along the way, an assortment of publicity-seeking, and often socially activist, scientists stopped saying, "Here are our findings. Read it and believe." Instead, activist scientists such as NASA's James Hansen, heads of quasi-scientific governmental organizations such as the UN Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, editors of major scientific journals, and heads of the various national scientific academies are more inclined to say, "Here are our findings, and those findings say that you must change your life in this way, that way, or the other way."

So, objective statements about smoking risk morphed into statements like "science tells us we must end the use of tobacco products." A finding of elevated risk of stroke from excess salt ingestion leads to: "The science tells us we must cut salt consumption in half by 2030." Findings that obesity carries health risks lead to a "war on obesity." And yes, a finding that we may be causing the climate to change morphed into "the science says we must radically restructure our economy and way of life to cut greenhouse gas emissions radically by 2050."

'Here are our findings, and those findings say that you must change your life in this way, that way, or the other way.' To see if our suspicions were correct, we decided to do a bit of informal research, checking Lexis Nexis for growth in the use of what we would categorize as "authoritarian" phrasing when it comes to scientific findings. We searched Nexis for the following phrases to see how their use has changed over the last 30 years: "science says we must," "science says we should," "science tells us we must," "science tells us we should," "science commands," "science requires," "science dictates," and "science compels."

What we found surprised us. One phrase, in particular, has become dramatically more frequent in recent years: “Science tells us we should.” Increased usage of this phrase leads to a chart resembling a steep mountain climb (or, for those with a mischievous bent, a “hockey stick”). The use of the phrase “science requires” also increases sharply over time. The chart (below) vividly shows the increasing use of those particular phrases. Some of this may simply reflect the general growth of media output and the growth of new media, but if that were the case, we would expect all of the terms to have shown similar growth, which they do not.

In other words, around the end of the 1980s, science (at least science reporting) took on a distinctly authoritarian tone. Whether because of funding availability or a desire by some senior academics for greater relevance, or just the spread of activism through the university, scientists stopped speaking objectively and started telling people what to do. And people don’t take well to that, particularly when they’re unable to evaluate the information that supposedly requires them to give up their SUV, their celebratory cigar, or their chicken nuggets.

The public’s trust is further undermined by scientific scandals, such as the recent ClimateGate affair, when it became apparent that climate scientists, if not overtly cooking their books, were behaving as partisans out to create a unified perception of the climate in order to advance a policy agenda. The climate community is probably the biggest user of the authoritarian voice, with frequent pronouncements that “the science says we must limit atmospheric carbon dioxide concentrations to 350 parts per million,” or some dire outcome will eventuate. Friends of the Earth writes, “For example, science tells us we must reduce our global greenhouse gas emissions to prevent dangerous climate change.” America’s climate change negotiator in Copenhagen is quoted by World Wildlife Fund as saying, “China must do significantly more if we are to have a chance to solve the problem and to arrive at an international agreement that achieves what science tells us we must.” Science as dictator—not a pretty sight.

If science wants to redeem itself and regain its place with the public’s affection, scientists need to come out every time some politician says, “The science says we must...” and reply, “Science only tells us what is. It does not, and can never tell us what we should or must do.” If they say that often enough, and loudly enough, they might be able to reclaim the mantle of objectivity that they’ve given up over the last 40 years by letting themselves become the regulatory state’s ultimate appeal to authority. Hey, you know, perhaps Biba has something there—maybe science does need better PR!

Kenneth P. Green is a resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute, where Hiwa Alaghebadian is an energy and environment research assistant.

Though I tend to lean toward the argument that global warming is in fact happening, no matter who, why, when where, or what the cause. It is possibly the result of natural cyclical fluctuations or manmade, who really knows with so much confusion surrounding the issue? There are some very convincing rebuttals out there. Then there is the rampant FRAUD FACTOR. “Climategate” is a perfect example of how private industry has been paying off, bribing, financing, promoting scientists that come up with data and studies which support their pre-determined standpoint. The very nature of statistics and raw data is that they are often open to “interpretation” and easily “fudged” to mean whatever you want them to. The breaking “Climategate” scandal where scientist’s emails were hacked is now all the frenzy as it is focusing the people’s attention into the dark world of sponsored - bought and paid for scientific fraud.

The hacked global warming emails reveal the tip of the iceberg of scientific fraud, not just about climate change data, but also serves to reveal the fact that the practice of rampant corporate sponsored fraud is in fact happening in all scientific circles. Climate scientists, medical scientists, etc., essentially all scientific circles are commonly, routinely, purposely sponsored and financed by corporate interests to produce biased, prejudiced data. Their highly biased skewed data is then USED by their corporate sponsors to validate, confirm, legitimize, endorse, emphasize, justify their position/agenda in order to build and make the case for this or that product, defense for their actions, inactions and so forth, basically to support whatever the current agenda may be.

Behold for the bottom line is: It does not matter if global warming is or is not happening! The global warming hysteria is ultimately just another vehicle of your ruling masters to enslave mankind and is being used as a catalyst for implementing an entire host of hidden agendas and insane restrictions, taxes, clamp down on the sheeple and just another front for wealth and power redistribution... [stop] Now do you really understand what was just said?... This is the core reality behind the global warming chaos.

ENTER THE CARBON CREDITS ENSLAVEMENT DECEPTION AND THE WORLD BANK...

The climate change saga is being used right now in your face to help usher in the new world order systems. The Carbon Credit schema is essentially a scam of epic proportions to take the enslavement of the poor and working class to the next level of enslavement that would never be accepted or possible if done via a direct traditional authoritarian tyrannical form. The bottom line of the Carbon Credits scam is that polluting conglomerates can continue to do so while utilizing the Carbon Credits of the people to do so. It is basically a disguised worldwide tax on the peasants.

The introduction of Carbon Credits as another financial instrument is just starters. Overall living costs will rise dramatically directly due to climate change policies, enforcement and most importantly the coming wave of taxation on the back of global warming. Global Governance and global agreements are being hastily ushered in on the coat tails of the climate change saga, will come the global bureaucrats who will control our nations.

The entire CARBON CREDITS program is just a massive world level bullshit farce of epic proportions. You must understand that this entire Carbon Credit and Cap and Trade baloney is nothing more than one of the biggest world conquest and CONTROL programs to have ever been perpetrated on the entire world. Here is a recent article I found at www.projectcensored.org that barely scrapes the top of this global warming iceberg:

“The World Bank and Climate Change: Sustainability or Exploitation?”

Author: Mary Tharin, Student Researchers: Victoria Masucci and Christine Wilson
Faculty Evaluator: Elaine Wellin, PhD, Sonoma State University

In the name of environmental protection, the World Bank is brokering carbon emission trading arrangements that destroy indigenous farmlands around the world. The effort to coordinate global action to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions began with the Kyoto Protocol, which was adopted in 1997 and now has been ratified by 183 nations. While many of the strategies established in the protocol are encouraging, some are proving to have fatal flaws. One such program, known as Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) investment, has become a means by which industrialized countries avoid reducing their own emissions through the implementation of “emissions reduction” projects in developing nations.

In accordance with the Kyoto Protocol, many governments have established “caps,” or limits, on the greenhouse gas emissions that can be produced in their countries. Industries can respond to these government-imposed limits by responsibly reducing their emissions, or they can bypass this process entirely by purchasing “carbon credits” from other industries in other parts of the world who, through CDM investment brokered by the World Bank, trade emission reduction “credits” in order to “offset” excessive emissions. Joris den Blanken, a climate change specialist with Greenpeace, says, “Offsetting means exporting responsibilities to the developing world and removes the incentive for industry to improve efficiency or to invest in renewable energy.”

While the World Bank claims that this system “supports sustainable development . . . and benefits the poorer communities of the developing world,” the program in reality has become little more than a corporate profit-boosting enterprise. In fact, many transnational corporations are using cap and trade programs not only to avoid emissions responsibility, but to further profit by developing environmentally and socially destructive industries in less developed countries.

In Latin America, where a long history of corporate exploitation has already taken a steep toll, environmentalists and indigenous communities are beginning to speak out about the dangers of the CDM. Because of a myopic focus on greenhouse gas reduction only, and a lack of accountability to local communities, many projects are producing other environmental and social ills that are diametrically opposed to the program’s stated objectives.

Nevertheless, the United Nations Environmental Program reports that, to date, 4,364 projects have been approved for CDM funding, and the movement continues to gain momentum. According to the World Wildlife Fund, the number of new project proposals has risen drastically in just a few years, from less than ten per month in early 2005 to about 100 per month in 2007.

Wood and pulp industries have shown great interest in harnessing the carbon market to justify and finance projects that involve expropriating indigenous farm and grazing land for planting of enormous monospecific plantations. These plantations threaten the area’s biodiversity and can severely deplete water resources. Author Mary Tharin warns, “From an ecological standpoint, planting large-scale plantations of non-native species in this area is clearly a step in the wrong direction. From a societal standpoint, this could spell cultural genocide.”

According to a 2008 report by Japan Overseas Plantation for Pulpwood (JOPP), entitled “Feasibility Study of Afforestation CDM for Community Development in Extensive Grazing Lands in Uruguay,” the land that would be used for the JOPP’s “afforestation projects,” is currently used for “extensive grazing” of cattle and sheep. The report, which elaborates on “land eligibility,” makes no mention of the people who own, live on, or make a living from the use of the land in question. The only allusion to this issue is the brief assurance that all displaced cattle would be “sold on the open market.” Despite the fact that “cattle and sheep production has been the traditional rural activity in the project area and all the surrounding regions since the 17th Century,” the report contends that the establishment of plantations would be a more cost-effective use for the land than pasture. The question then becomes: cost-effective for whom?

The World Bank touts the CDM as an “integral part of the Bank’s mission to reduce poverty through its environment and energy strategies.” However, in Latin America as in other parts of the developing world, the global carbon market is proving to be largely detrimental to the indigenous and the poor. With little or no input on how a project is conducted, local communities have virtually no control over how their land, water, and resources will be affected.

In a recent documentary by Carbon Trade Watch, villagers explained that the massive plantations—which cover about 100,000 acres—are diverting water from local streams, causing a sharp decrease in fishing and killing off medicinal plants. In an interview, one local woman lamented that corporate plantations “continue destroying our community, destroying our citizens, destroying our fauna, destroying our flora, and nobody does anything.”

Lack of accountability to local populations is a fundamental flaw in the way CDM projects are presented, evaluated and implemented. The official “Project Design Document Form”—which the CDM Executive Board uses to approve or deny funding—largely disregards the impact of projects on local communities. The document contains no binding legal language, asking only for a “report on how due account was taken of any comments received” by local stakeholders. In their assessment of four CDM projects carried out in Brazil and Bolivia, the EEP found that “participation of local community members was found to be limited.”

While the World Bank pays constant lip service to the importance of sustainability and poverty alleviation in the CDM, it continually fails to deliver positive results for either the environment or disadvantaged communities in the developing world. The global carbon market is proving to be simply another weapon used by multinational corporations to accelerate their incursion on the rights of indigenous peoples and small-scale landholders in Latin America.

The irony of this situation takes on an especially tragic hue since many of the communities at risk have been living in a sustainable manner for centuries and thus should be seen as models in the fight against environmental degradation and climate change. Instead, the World Bank has adopted a system that inadequately addresses one pressing environmental hazard at the expense of other important environmental issues and the wellbeing of the world’s most vulnerable, and often most knowledgeable, of populations.

Janet Redman at the Institute for Policy Studies says, “Farmers [in the global south] are trading communal land rights and their ability to feed themselves for the whims and price fluctuations of the international carbon market.”

Update by Mary Therin:

As governments, environmentalists, and industry leaders gear up for UN Climate Change Conference this December in Copenhagen, the debate over carbon offsets has taken center stage. Groups including the European Commission have acknowledged the many shortcomings of the Clean Development Mechanism and are calling for reform. In late April 2009, delegates from all over the world attended the Indigenous People’s Global Summit on Climate Change, producing a declaration which called on governments to abandon “false solutions to climate change that negatively impact Indigenous Peoples’ rights . . . such as carbon trading, the Clean Development Mechanism, and forest offsets.”

Unfortunately, the CDM Executive Board, instead of addressing issues of transparency and accountability, has proposed an expansion of some of the carbon offset scheme’s most problematic aspects. The board has put forth plans to expand its forestry mechanism and ease the funding application process. According to Oscar Reyes of Carbon Trade Watch, these reforms would drastically expand CDM while “lowering the already inadequate checks on environmental sustainability and social justice.”

Meanwhile, the Clean Development Mechanism continues to expand. In May 2009 alone, 132 new CDM projects were submitted for approval, marking an all-time high in the application process. At the same time, more evidence is cropping up all over the globe that many “emissions reduction” projects in the developing world are doing more harm than good. In June 2009, the UK-based Daily Mail published an exposé on a UN-funded chemical plant that has poisoned the local water supply in Gujarat, India. According to Eva Filzmoser of CDM Watch, large hydro and gas projects are the most damaging receivers of CDM funding. These projects, she argues, rarely save additional emissions and in fact provide perverse incentives to expand environmentally degrading industries.

In the United States, debate over carbon offsets and cap and trade schemes has erupted since the American Clean Energy and Security Act, also known as the Waxman-Markey bill, was passed by the House Energy Committee in May 2009. While many environmentalist groups are heralding the bill as a huge step toward reducing greenhouse gas emissions in the United States, others point to the prominence of carbon offsetting in the bill as a way for corporations to skirt any real commitment to emissions reductions. According to the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS), up to 2 billion tons of carbon (about 30 percent of current US emissions) could be purchased as offsets under the legislation, half of which would come from developing countries through programs like the Clean Development Mechanism.

While most of the mainstream media and many environmental groups have jumped on the cap and trade bandwagon, organizations such as the Institute for Public Studies, Carbon Trade Watch, and CDM Watch continue to boost public awareness on the dangers of cap and trade. A number of voices, including The Economist, have come out in favor of a Carbon Tax as a more effective way to motivate emissions reductions. These groups are calling for people in the developed world to take the lead by shrinking our own carbon footprints, and demanding a real solution to climate change that starts at home.

Upon reflecting on the dismal track record of how career bureaucrats listen to their constituents today as opposed to following the wishes of their lobbyist pimps and corporate masters, one can easily deduce that the day global governance comes to be, your vote, your voice, your concerns will amount to a miniscule grain of sand in an endless desert searing in the heat of a god forsaken blistering desolate wasteland.

Among the PATRON SAINTS of the global warming new world order religion is the David de Rothschild who's life seems to be fashioned around this global warming ecology theme... Then there is this guy by the name of Maurice Strong. What is completely flabbergasting about this is the fact that he is one of THE major players in the world polluting BIG OIL CARTEL! He has spent his entire life in the energy sector working for the likes of Power Corporation of Canada, Petro Canada, Ontario Hydro, Molten Metals Technology and Cordex Petroleum. If there ever was an Oscar awards for "Fox in sheep's clothing" this guy would be its poster child. Maurice Strong was one of the commissioners of the World Commission on Environment and Development, set up as an independent body by the United Nations in 1983. While serving as an UN envoy he was caught in UN oil-for-food scandal corruption whereupon he immediately packed his bags and moved to China! He somehow lead a double life as he managed to on one hand become a convincing award receiving champion of the same environment his energy corporations and his comrades destroy with the other hand. I wonder who helped fudge the eco-system narrative in favor of big oil.

“Isn’t the only hope of the planet that the industrialized civilizations collapse? – Isn’t it our responsibility to bring that about?” – Maurice Strong, Opening Speech, Rio Earth Summit, 1992

Strong is among the global energy sector’s champions of “carbon offset credits” a bullshit SCHEME that went mainstream worldwide. A carbon offset definition reveals that these are vehicles to allow individuals or organizations to purchase reductions in greenhouse gas emissions. In the voluntary market, these offsets are actively traded back and forth, while the pollution continues unabated and is ingeniously turned into a PROFITABLE REVENUE CENTER! An official MARKET for pollution now exists were the polluters, trade, buys and sells unused pollution capacity. Behold: the twisted genius of CAPITALIST SOCIETY in action.

Climategate: You should be steamed

By NEIL FRANK, HOUSTON CHRONICLE - Jan. 2, 2010

Now that Copenhagen is past history, what is the next step in the man-made global warming controversy? Without question, there should be an immediate and thorough investigation of the scientific debauchery revealed by “Climategate.”

If you have not heard, hackers penetrated the computers of the Climate Research Unit, or CRU, of the United Kingdom's University of East Anglia, exposing thousands of e-mails and other documents. CRU is one of the top climate research centers in the world. Many of the exchanges were between top mainstream climate scientists in Britain and the U.S. who are closely associated with the authoritative (albeit controversial) Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. Among the more troubling revelations were data adjustments enhancing the perception that man is causing global warming through the release of carbon dioxide (CO₂) and other atmospheric greenhouse gases.

Particularly disturbing was the way the core IPCC scientists (the believers) marginalized the skeptics of the theory that man-made global warming is large and potentially catastrophic. The e-mails document that the attack on the skeptics was twofold. First, the believers gained control of the main climate-profession journals. This allowed them to block publication of papers written by the skeptics and prohibit unfriendly peer review of their own papers. Second, the skeptics were demonized through false labeling and false accusations.

Climate alarmists would like you to believe the science has been settled and all respectable atmospheric scientists support their position. The believers also would like you to believe the skeptics are involved only because of the support of Big Oil and that they are few in number with minimal qualifications.

But who are the skeptics? A few examples reveal that they are numerous and well-qualified. Several years ago two scientists at the University of Oregon became so concerned about the overemphasis on man-made global warming that they put a statement on their Web site and asked for people's endorsement; 32,000 have signed the petition, including more than 9,000 PhDs. More than 700 scientists have endorsed a 231-page Senate minority report that questions man-made global warming. The Heartland Institute has recently sponsored three international meetings for skeptics. More than 800 scientists heard 80 presentations in March. They endorsed an 881-page document, created by 40 authors with outstanding academic credentials, that challenges the most recent publication by the IPCC. The IPCC panel's report strongly concludes that man is causing global warming through the release of carbon dioxide.

Last year 60 German scientists sent a letter to Chancellor Angela Merkel urging her to “strongly reconsider” her position supporting man-made global warming. Sixty scientists in Canada took similar action. Recently, when the American Physical Society published its support for man-made global warming, 200 of its members objected and demanded that the membership be polled to determine the APS' true position.

What do the skeptics believe? First, they concur with the believers that the Earth has been warming since the end of a Little Ice Age around 1850. The cause of this warming is the question. Believers think the warming is man-made, while the skeptics believe the warming is natural and contributions from man are minimal and certainly not potentially catastrophic. — la Al Gore.

Second, skeptics argue that CO₂ is not a pollutant but vital for plant life. Numerous field experiments have confirmed that higher levels of CO₂ are positive for agricultural productivity. Furthermore, carbon dioxide is a very minor greenhouse gas. More than 90 percent of the warming from greenhouse gases is caused by water vapor. If you are going to change the temperature of the globe, it must involve water vapor.

Third, and most important, skeptics believe that climate models are grossly overpredicting future warming from rising concentrations of carbon dioxide. We are being told that numerical models that cannot make accurate 5- to 10-day forecasts can be simplified and run forward for 100 years with results so reliable you can impose an economic disaster on the U.S. and the world.

The revelation of ClimateGate occurs at a time when the accuracy of the climate models is being seriously questioned. Over the last decade Earth's temperature has not warmed, yet every model (there are many) predicted a significant increase in global temperatures for that time period. If the climate models cannot get it right for the past 10 years, why should we trust them for the next century?

Climategate reveals how predetermined political agendas shaped science rather than the other way around. It is high time to question the true agenda of the scientists now on the hot seat and to bring skeptics back into the public debate.

Neil Frank, who holds a Ph.D. from Florida State University in meteorology, was director of the National Hurricane Center (1974–87) and chief meteorologist at KHOU (Channel 11) until his retirement in 2008.

Climate fraud Climategate - Video

With the that said and done. No matter how you look at it, all the worlds ice covered regions ARE IN FACT MELTING! This is an absolutely irrefutable FACT. But the real climate scientists believe this is due to natural cycles or is the effects from the sun.

I care not who is responsible or if it is a natural process caused by the sun spot cycles, cows farting or dodo birds. While the government is busy trying to make you believe that everything is fine, just go on your merry way, shop till you drop! Every major northern country is currently busy staking out claims in the melting polar regions! While you are under a deep slumber, they are busy dividing the pieces of the new pie. The U.S., Canada, Russia, Norway and other European countries are currently investing BILLIONS of dollars to survey the arctic and in preparation to begin new operations to exploit the vast untapped natural resource there. The main point here is that all these countries know the obvious fact that the ice is melting so fast that they will, within just a few more years time, be able to actually stand on dry land and get to work on exploiting it!

But nothing here is cut and dry. The entire realm of climate change/global warming is firmly embedded in one of the largest scandalous tumultuous chaotic hotly debated air of arguments ever witnessed. What is up is down, what is hot is cold, what is black is white, the confusion, deceit, disinfo, misinformation, omission, and erroneous information is so rampant that it is truly hard to tell, well, heads from “tales.”

Sean Hannity's Bogus Russian Climate Scandal

By Josh Harkinson, Tue Dec. 22, 2009

Late last week, Fox's Sean Hannity sent global warming skeptics into their biggest tizzy since ClimateGate when he announced that "a major Russian climate change organization dropped a bombshell:

The Institute of Economic Analysis now claims that much of its climate data was tampered with by a leading British research center. In fact, they say that any of their data that could help disprove global warming was simply ignored. Not exactly the news that all the alarmists in Copenhagen were now hoping for.

The conservative media has seized upon Hannity's "bombshell" as apparent confirmation that ClimateGate was but the tip of a solidly frozen iceberg. "Climategate goes SERIAL," crowed a blogger for the UK Telegraph, joining a chorus of triumphant skeptics in the Washington Times, the Investors Business Daily, and the Examiner.com, which described the IEA as a "key Russian ministry." What none of them mentioned is that the IEA is actually a libertarian think tank that has no scientific expertise in climatology but numerous ties to industry-backed climate change denial groups in the United States. (Needless to say, British scientists never tampered with the IEA's "data" or any other climate data)

As Media Matters first noted, IEA president Andrei Illarionov is a fellow at the US-based Cato Institute, a champion of climate change skepticism. The IEA is itself a member of the Civil Society Coalition on Climate Change, a group formed by the ExxonMobil-backed International Policy Network "as a response to the many biased and alarmist claims about human-induced climate change;" the DC-based Atlas Economic Research Foundation's Freedom To Trade Campaign, which circulated a "Petition Against Green Protectionism" in advance of the Copenhagen talks; and a network of global warming denying think tanks overseen by Canada's Fraser Institute, which is in turn backed by ExxonMobil and the oil-funded Koch family foundations. Illarionov has a long history of parroting the fossil fuel industry's climate claims. In 2004, he told the Moscow Times that the Kyoto Treaty will kill off the European economy like "an international Auschwitz."

Illarionov isn't alone. The IEA is part of a loose network of some 500 similar organizations in dozens of countries that are often bankrolled by American foundations that are, in turn, backed by carbon-spewing American industries. For a complete take on how they're working to end the modest progress made in Copenhagen, read today's story, Deniers Without Borders.

Serious negotiations are currently underway at this very moment, as our government is busy telling us that there is no such thing as global warming, but like true schizophrenics they are contemplating "green taxes" and are simultaneously trying to figure out how to divide the arctic with the other northern countries that want a piece of the pie. The race to secure subsurface rights to the Arctic seabed heated up when Russia sent two small submarines to plant a tiny flag under the North Pole... Folks, this is not made up. Think about it, even though those areas are currently under massive ice sheets, they are all in the process of drawing up plans and preparing to begin major operations (roads and all) in the ARCTIC within just a few years time!

The people at the center of the global warming chaos are none other than the multinational energy corporations. Much in the same way that the big cigarette companies denied that smoking was bad for you decades ago then fought tooth and nail for years, funding their medical "experts" and all sorts of entities to "prove" smoking was ok. So has the energy sector been following that exact same tactic to the letter! And again, the government who is easily swayed by the most powerful lobbyist groups on the planet, who's industry is the world's single most largest powerful industry worldwide, who just happen to have hundreds of key allies and ex executives running the government.

The monolithic trillion dollar energy corporations are the ones behind the cover up because their industry (and products) ARE the number one CONTRIBUTOR of GLOBAL POLLUTION. But why have they chosen to ignore (or buy then lock away in a bank vault) every single fossil fuel free inventions and discoveries of the past decades that could have avoided the sure catastrophe that our world will now face?

There are several reasons. One is pure greed. Just a handful of corporations control the entire energy sector. Among themselves they have a pure monopoly on the worlds energy. The big oil companies are singlehandedly guilty of massive choreographed practice of stifling, interrupting, buying, violently opposing and doing everything in their powers to stop any and every marvelous invention or discovery that poses a threat to their cash cow fossil fuel monopoly. Again, we don't come here to just make vague claims. This is not only proven irrefutable FACT, it is their basic "M.O". We will cover this in more detail later.

But why would these people purposely continue to shove down our throats an antiquated fossil energy that they KNOW is DESTROYING our planet? Ah, now we are asking the right questions. Again, the trail leads right back to the Zionist, Masonic and Jesuit societies that are working behind the scenes and control all the major corporations! An integral part of subduing the world's population is dependent upon: First of all keeping everyone on the planet enslaved to the gas pump, you cannot go anywhere without saying filler up and PAYING to get from point A to point B. Everyone on the planet is DEPENDANT on the oil companies, being "dependant" putting an entirely new spin on the saying "who's your daddy?" The oil companies are your daddy. By keeping the global economy hooked on oil this should help accelerate the decline of mankind, indirectly helping reducing the unwieldy large 6 billion+ population to a more manageable size. Once the ice caps truly start melting at an alarming rate and coastal cities are inundated, they will have THE MOST PERFECT absolutely ideal scenario to truly begin to implement their massive global coup d'état, in the history of mankind. Countries will declare national emergencies on the scale never seen before, declaring martial law due to the incredible upheavals of biblical proportions.

Another alarming RED FLAG moment recently came to light when it became known that the CIA had gotten involved in the global warming clusterfuck. "Late in 2009, the CIA began collaborating with scientists and using intelligence and spy technologies to gather information on climate change developments." As history has clearly documented and proven: The moment the freaking CIA gets involved in ANYTHING you KNOW that clandestine, deceitful secret operations are involved. PERIOD. That's not all...

Now even the PentaCON is getting involved! "In an attempt to declare climate change a security threat, the Pentagon is reportedly stepping up to designate it a "destabilizing force" that can exacerbate conflict in a strategy review to be presented to Congress Monday. "While climate change alone does not cause conflict, it may act as an accelerant of instability or conflict, placing a burden on civilian institutions and militaries around the world," read a draft version obtained by The Guardian. The writing is all over the walls, prepare for the days of upheaval and the ruling elite go for their end game juggernaut.

'Global' thinking won't necessarily solve the world's problems

By Janet Daley, Published: Dec 2009 in The Telegraph

There is scope for debate – and innumerable newspaper quizzes – about who was the most influential public figure of the year, or which the most significant event. But there can be little doubt which word won the prize for most important adjective. 2009 was the year in which "global" swept the rest of the political lexicon into obscurity. There were "global crises" and "global challenges", the only possible resolution to which lay in "global solutions" necessitating "global agreements". Gordon Brown actually suggested something called a "global alliance" in response to climate change. (Would this be an alliance against the Axis of Extra-Terrestrials?)

Some of this was sheer hokum: when uttered by Gordon Brown, the word "global", as in "global economic crisis", meant: "It's not my fault". To the extent that the word had intelligible meaning, it also had political ramifications that were scarcely examined by those who bandied it about with such ponderous self-importance. The mere utterance of it was assumed to sweep away any consideration of what was once assumed to be the most basic principle of modern democracy: that elected national governments are responsible to their own people – that the right to govern derives from the consent of the electorate.

The dangerous idea that the democratic accountability of national governments should simply be dispensed with in favour of "global agreements" reached after closed negotiations between world leaders never, so far as I recall, entered into the arena of public discussion. Except in the United States, where it became a very contentious talking point, the US still holding firmly to the 18th-century idea that power should lie with the will of the people.

Nor was much consideration given to the logical conclusion of all this grandiose talk of global consensus as unquestionably desirable: if there was no popular choice about approving supranational "legally binding agreements", what would happen to dissenters who did not accept their premises (on climate change, for example) when there was no possibility of fleeing to another country in protest? Was this to be regarded as the emergence of world government? And would it have powers of policing and enforcement that would supersede the authority of elected national governments? In effect, this was the infamous "democratic deficit" of the European Union elevated on to a planetary scale. And if the EU model is anything to go by, then the agencies of global authority will involve vast tracts of power being handed to unelected officials. Forget the relatively petty irritations of Euro bureaucracy: welcome to the era of Earth-bureaucracy, when there will be literally nowhere to run.

But, you may say, however dire the political consequences, surely there is something in this obsession with global dilemmas. Economics is now based on a world market, and if the planet really is facing some sort of man-made climate crisis, then that too is a problem that transcends national boundaries. Surely, if our problems are universal the solutions must be as well.

Well, yes and no. Calling a problem "global" is meant to imply three different things: that it is the result of the actions of people in different countries; that those actions have impacted on the lives of everyone in the world; and that the remedy must involve pretty much identical responses or correctives to those actions. These are separate premises, any of which might be true without the rest of them necessarily being so. The banking crisis certainly had its roots in the international nature of finance, but the way it affected countries and peoples varied considerably according to the differences in their internal arrangements. Britain suffered particularly badly because of its addiction to public and private debt, whereas Australia escaped relatively unscathed.

That a problem is international in its roots does not necessarily imply that the solution must involve the hammering out of a uniform global prescription: in fact, given the differences in effects and consequences for individual countries, the attempt to do such hammering might be a huge waste of time and resources that could be put to better use devising national remedies. France and Germany seem to have pulled themselves out of recession over the past year (and the US may be about to do so) while Britain has not. These variations owe almost nothing to the pompous, overblown attempts to find global solutions: they are largely to do with individual countries, under the pressure of democratic accountability, doing what they decide is best for their own people.

This is not what Mr Brown calls "narrow self-interest", or "beggar my neighbour" ruthlessness. It is the proper business of elected national leaders to make judgments that are appropriate for the conditions of their own populations. It is also right that heads of nations refuse to sign up to "legally binding" global agreements which would disadvantage their own people. The resistance of the developing nations to a climate change pact that would deny them the kind of economic growth and mass prosperity to which advanced countries have become accustomed is not mindless selfishness: it is proper regard for the welfare of their own citizens.

The word "global" has taken on sacred connotations. Any action taken in its name must be inherently virtuous, whereas the decisions of individual countries are necessarily "narrow" and self-serving. (Never mind that a "global agreement" will almost certainly be disproportionately influenced by the most powerful nations.) Nor is our era so utterly unlike previous ones, for all its technological sophistication. We have always needed multilateral agreements, whether about trade, organised crime, border controls, or mutual defence.

If the impact of our behavior on humanity at large is much greater or more rapid than ever before then we shall have to find ways of dealing with that which do not involve sacrificing the most enlightened form of government ever devised. There is a whiff of totalitarianism about this new theology, in which the risks are described in such cosmic terms that everything else must give way. "Globalism" is another form of the internationalism that has been a core belief of the Left: a commitment to class rather than country seemed an admirable antidote to the "blood and soil" nationalism that gave rise to fascism.

The nation-state has never quite recovered from the bad name it acquired in the last century as the progenitor of world war. But if it is to be relegated to the dustbin of history then we had better come up with new mechanisms for allowing people to have a say in how they are governed. Maybe that could be next year's global challenge.

New Orleans was just a giant real world martial law "practice drill." CIA black ops team blew up those levees on purpose! (Operation Noah's Flood) Our wonderful loving government would have us believe they had "no clue" what was going on down there for several days, meanwhile everyone on the planet was watching the horrible news in real time 24/7 and our benevolent most wonderful government had no clue people were stranded and dieing? Pure bull. Government intelligence agencies WERE watching intensively, as a research and real world drill, taking very serious notes and collecting data. Only after holding out as long as they possible could, having studied how the citizens reacted when left to defend themselves on their own under the suffering a REAL world massive natural disaster under REAL circumstances, did they finally go in... it should also be noted that they waited until the public outcry DEMANDED the MILITARY to step in, thus opening the door for military ops within our nation. Goodbye Posse Comitatus Act. When they finally came in, they did so as a real live "drill" to real world test their computer models.

Don't you find it a bit perplexing that instead of the national guard they sent in the Military? Now they have real live data on what type of reactions to expect from the citizens, they have worked out real live responses, they have worked out strategic coordination's between agencies and so forth. Most importantly was having a real world practice of FEMA's new role as NATIONAL POLICE FORCE. Did you ever notice or find out that once the military finally arrived in Louisiana one of the very first items on their "to do list" was: DISS-ARM ALL THE LAW ABIDING CITIZENS! Yep. Riots and looters all over the place and the police went home to home taking away the only protection law abiding home owners had! DOH! "There you go, we have done our best to 'help' you, have a nice day, good luck defending yourself from the crazy looters." (it's actually part of their final plan, to remove all guns from the citizens so they will not be able to revolt from the coming police state takeover)

Our government has been preparing for "national emergencies" like you would never believe. FEMA has already been reorganized to assume the role of main law enforcement agency in the US. They have concentration camps in almost every state, facilities, plans, millions of plastic coffins waiting for victims are in plain sight storage facilities, practice drills, executive orders paving the way, allocation of powers, the complete list and the accelerated pace of how they are preparing is just frightening. The next scheduled national emergency: CIA/Mossad false flag terrorist attack(s) on major cities. Finally they will pull out their new and improved "national emergency along with martial law, then kiss your freedom goodbye plan"... hello New World Order.

You know that the entire realm of climate change is completely screwed up and plagued when you see the CIA shows up to the party! Now the CIA is "sharing data with climate scientists." Great, now everything is going to be completely clusterfucked by the CIA on top of the fact that it is extremely difficult to make heads from TALES in the climate realm. Everyone that has been bought and sold out to the ruling elite globalists are advocating all sorts of climate change schemes. The one factor they all have in common is that all the schemes being introduced introduce all sorts of restrictions, regulations and taxes of some sort on individuals (further enslaving the poor and working populations) who have minimal impact while they literally all give the massive global polluting corporations carte blanch waivers.

The ruling elite even have Osama Bin Mossaden boogeyman advocating the climate change agenda! Lol. The latest campaigner to come out promoting the climate change itinerary with a Zionist agenda pushing twist has been ruling elite member Mayer Bloomberg:

Bloomberg Calls for Carbon Tax as a Way to Fight Terrorists

New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg spoke today before the Wall Street Journal CEO Council annual conference. According to WSJ, he told attendees that the U.S. needs to reduce its dependence on foreign oil, if "you want to stop sending your money to ... terrorists."

The answer, he said: "We need a carbon tax."

Al Gore, among others, has been promoting a carbon tax based on bogus data showing carbon causes golbal warming. To my knowledge, Bloomberg is the first person to suggest a carbon tax as a way to battle terrorists.

Bloomberg, a billionaire, got his start by gaining access to the "inside quote" that Primary Dealers used who traded with the Federal Reserve. He sold his quote machines to bond dealers with this quote. The quote was extremely valuable in providing bond traders with insight on Fed trading activities. It is not publicly known why Bloomberg was given access to this quote. Other quote providers who requested to publish the quote were denied access. In short, it was a billion dollar gift to Bloomberg.

Many view a Cap and Trade carbon tax as a gift to Wall Street firms such as Goldman Sachs, who are gung ho about trading carbon credits.

"What in the World are They Spraying?" - Official Trailer - video

Then there is the HAARP factor. Who knows what potential ramification if, as some researchers claim, HAARP is a secret weather control machine that creates climate change. Can it actually be a real government climate control machine? Even the government admits that HAARP is "an ionosphere heating machine" and the fact that the entire super secret project is located northern Alaska, as in close to the arctic where the polar cap just happens to be melting... Not to mention its other alleged purposes.

The raping of the earth has gone unimpeded for decades on end. The energy cartel are not the only evil doers. The "deforestation industry" has been running in high gear for over a century. I believe it was in elementary class when we learned that trees were good. They help get rid of carbon dioxide and are a critical element of the ecosystem, to the survival of all species here on earth. The greed of the logging industry is unforgivable. Why can't they just plant a tree or two for every tree they take down? Problem solved. This is just too simple, it makes just too much sense. The forestry industry is run by the same type of soulless sleazebags that dump the hundreds of tons of toxins from industries into the atmosphere and waters! Greed, simply put, has been at the forefront of destroying our ONLY planet.

Actually to all you do-gooder environmentalists out there, I hear you, I know you all have the best of intentions for the environment. Organizations such as Green Peace are doing their best to stop the mad gang rape of our planet, but the true patriots everywhere have NO CLUE who the real villain central figures are! They battle in one sector of the Matrix and yet they don't even know that "the Matrix" exists! They target individual companies yet have no clue it is the Zionist/Masonic elites calling the shots. Their failure to identify the true evil masters, in effect, renders the activist's attacks for justice akin to attacking the great wall of China with a tooth pick.

There is a little secret I must share with you all: THE ENVIROMENT IS ALREADY SCREWED (but yes, please keep up the good fight up until the end), as in, there just might be no turning back the clock, as in global warming is a freight train doing 500mph with no breaks, I believe that NOTHING you do now will have any real impact on the course of severe turmoil we are headed in (I truly hope that I am wrong on this one). I also ~~believe~~ KNOW that NO ONE will dare take on the capitalist illuminati masters running the Matrixes, so the alarming trends of rampant harvesting, destruction, rape of the lands and pollution will only accelerate. Therefore, I say to thee: heed my words and PREPAIR for the worst while your fellow man is busy being entertained by Paris Hilton, Britney, sports, mass media, etc., while merrily going on his way to the disaster.

"Order Out Of Chaos" is the illuminati-Freemasonry-Mossad motto. "By way of deception they shall wage war." For in conjuring up and instilling an environment of chaos, confusion, despair, and peril they can easily usher in acts, policies, laws, situations and circumstances that would otherwise NEVER be allowed to exist. Through the "desperate times call for desperate measures" stratagem.

Many of you who truly understand will try to warn your loved ones and friends only to be ridiculed, you silly space cadets! Your path will be a lonely one of preparing for the upcoming "perfect storm." Emergency supplies, check, food, check, move to safer areas, check, dump worthless paper money buy gold and silver, check... Behold: you have been forewarned of what is to come what you do now is up to you.

THE ENERGY CARTEL MATRIX

“Electric power is everywhere present in unlimited quantities and can drive the world’s machinery without the need of coal, gas, or any other of the common fuels.” – Nikola Tesla

“Free energy does not mean perpetual motion. Extracting power from the vast sea of energy that surrounds us is no more perpetual motion than a photovoltaic cell. It does not violate the second law of thermodynamics. It is a conversion of energy from one form into another form that is usable – not the creation of energy out of nothing.” – Sterling D. Allan

It seems as if there exists no sector of society that is not under the rule of the elitist special agendas. It is no secret that the one of the single LARGEST most POWERFUL industry's on the PLANET is the oil/energy industry. Look what corporations are always on the top of the Fortune 100 lists and see for yourself if you doubt that fact for even one moment. Interesting note in that at one point in time not very long ago, the entire oil and energy industry was predominantly controlled by one person: John D. Rockefeller, who along with his family has been involved up to their necks in almost every elitist agenda existing in our society...

What you, and millions of others around the world do not know is the fact that from the days of Nicholas Tesla, major oil companies have for decades been QUIETLY BUYING UP all sorts of PATENTS, control of products and inventions that can give us virtually FREE energy. Over the past decades virtually ZERO dollars have been spent on serious research by the large multinational energy corporations. They spend hundreds of million dollars into developing more fossil fuel sources and into developing other "constant revenue producing energy alternatives" (such as bio fuels and hydrogen) that will continue to provide them with constant non-stop inflow of sales revenue and keep you enslaved to “the pump”. "Free" energy such as solar and electric battery power is simply a disastrous long term financial route for all the monolithic energy conglomerates.

The fact of the matter is that technologies very similar to “perpetual energy” are so close to reality that it really boggles the mind how the “establishment” has managed to suffocate all inquiries into the matter. The number one censorship tactic has been “peer review” by sold out, indoctrinated and fully owned scientists whom immediately jump on the bandwagon to systematically discredit and destroy ANY report of clean energy production, most of promising world changing concepts are in the magnetic/electrics field. Of which the internet is full of “crack pot” scientists who manage to build actual working magnetic electric motors that: work. The censorship, blacklisting, stifling and undermining of these people, concepts and technologies is so intense that it warrants a massive investigation into the matter.

Imagine for just one moment if you take the electric motor being fed by batteries that also integrates the magnetic propulsion model AND integrates ongoing solar charging AND integrates onboard generators that harness the motion of the drive shaft that is powered by the electric motor thus helping recharge the batteries while in motion! The possibilities are endless! Another twist would be to have two sets of on board batteries, while the vehicle/item is being run by one set of batteries the corresponding motion of the motor could be used to recharge the other set of batteries, while simultaneously integrating other charging solutions such as a solar charge add-on, and so forth. Once you FREE YOUR MINDS from the prison that it has been BOXED into by the ESTABLISHMENT, the possibilities are truly endless.

Suppression of Energy Technologies

by Christopher Walter

Time magazine August 17 July 1995 (p.46) rounds up some future technologies that are going to dramatically change the world as we know it.

They correctly point out that a change in the usage of energy would have a massive impact, but then go on to say that "The first company to design an affordable car that doesn't foul the atmosphere will race past it's competitors."

Not only are they totally wrong, but they're probably lying. It's a simple fact that the technology has been with us for most of this past century, but there are those who don't want this and if we could utilize these technologies, we'd be free from enslavement by oil companies, government and those who control them.

My story began late one night driving home listening to talk radio, when somebody piped up that they'd been working on a solar-powered car out at the local airport, and it was ready to go and as cheap and as safe as an average family car - except that you would only need about five dollars worth of fuel per year to get it started. The startled D. J. then asked when were we likely to see it in the market place, and the engineer coolly replied "probably never, I'd say the oil companies will buy us out in a flash." I nearly crashed my car- what on earth was going on here?

The next day I rang the airport to find out who was doing the testing only to find out from an assertive voice, "there are no automobiles being tested here and there never have been." Fine, the dead end proved to be the spark of determination to send me on my investigative way.

The next encounter was about a year later involving a friend who knew a guy who invented a lawn mower that ran on water. Skeptical but excited, I said I wanted to meet the man and she came back a few days later quite upset to find he'd recently opened his front door to a shot gun blast in the face, the dead inventor had been solidly drinking for the past six months since he came home with a million or so dollars and word to the family that he didn't want to discuss his engines again. O.K. - that one seemed weird, maybe he was some dodgy businessman or something. I still needed more.

More came in the form of an article in the Melbourne Age (13/7/93 p.5) introducing the "ozone safe induction" system, a little black box that was added to your engine that cut fuel usage by up to two-thirds with a corresponding reduction in pollution. Oz Smart Technologies was the name of the firm, and Mike Holland the inventor that I talked to about his supposed breakthrough.

"Yeah, the U.S. military just flew out some Generals and stuff and they want to buy it, and Nissan just offered me five million dollars but I want to develop it in Australia." Yeah but, does it work? Apparently it did, the E.P.A. told him off the record, that it was the best design of it's kind they'd ever seen, along with a bunch of techies from Swinburne University who'd done all the testing, but the media continued to consider the device a bit of a hoax and the company simply does not exist anymore - yep they just disappeared (again).

My research today tells me that Mike Holland's invention was probably of the "Improved fuel efficiency" variety simply burning fuel in a more efficient manner, nothing terribly difficult. Other well known developments are of the "car running on water" kind, usually involving electrical current running through the water to extract and then burn the hydrogen. Some of the more interesting involve the use of magnets, sometimes tuned to exact frequencies that take energy from the ambient atmosphere.

Since meeting Mike Holland I have managed to collect quite a list of energy inventions that have somehow avoided being utilized in the market place. You may not believe they all work, but it would be very difficult to claim that all of them are fabrications, still the evidence is here - you decide yourself.

Hydrogen Power

Yul Brown - from Sydney Australia developed a method of extracting hydrogen from water in 1978 and utilizing it as a car fuel and fuel for cutting steel and brazing. After much publicity (see The Bulletin (Aust) Aug 22, 1989) he had managed to raise over 2 million dollars.... UCSA offers this technology for cutting and brazing steel.

See Stanley Meyer's Water Powered Car:

It was estimated that Stanley's water powered car (which you can see on this website on the video page would have been able to go from California to New York using about 28 gallons of Water. Stanly was subsequently conscripted to work for the Pentagon and then was murdered by poison after hoisting a toast to success powering Army Tanks using the hydrogen in water.

See Stanley Meyer's Water Powered Car
Broadband Dialup

Francisco Pacheco - an inventor from Bolivia created the "Pacheco Bi-Polar Auto electric Hydrogen Generator" (US PAT #5,089,107) which separates hydrogen from seawater. He has built successful prototypes that have fueled a car, a motorcycle, a lawn mower, a torch, a boat, and most recently in 1990 he energized an entire home in West Milford. After many conferences (including U.N.) and public exhibitions proving the inventions worth, the wider community is still unable to utilize this technology.

Edward Estevel - from Spain developed a classic 'water to auto engine' system in the late 1960's extracting the hydrogen out of water to use as fuel. This system was highly heralded, then sank among other such 'high hope' hydrogen systems amid rumors of foul play.

Sam Leach - of Los Angeles developed a revolutionary hydrogen extraction process during the mid seventies. The unit easily extracted free hydrogen from water and was small enough to fit under the hood of automobiles. In 1976 two independent labs in LA tested this generator with perfect results. Mr. M.J. Mirkin who began the Budget car rental system purchased the rights to the device from the inventor who was said to be very concerned about his personal security.

Rodger Billings - of Provo, Utah headed a group of inventors that developed a system converting ordinary cars to run on Hydrogen. Instead of using heavy hydrogen tanks, he used metal alloys called Hydrides, to store vast amounts of hydrogen. When hot exhaust gases passed through these Hydride containers it released the gas to burn in the standard engines. Billings estimated the conversion would cost around US$500 and greatly improve fuel consumption.

Archie Blue - an inventor from Christchurch, New Zealand developed a car that runs purely on water by the extraction of hydrogen. An alleged offer of 500 million dollars from "Arab interests" was not enough to convince him to sell but never-the-less he has been unable to take his engine to the market place.

Electric Engines

Wayne Henthron - from Los Angeles built an "Electrometric Auto" in 1976 that managed to regenerate its own electricity. In normal stop and go driving it gave several hundred miles of service between recharges. The system worked by the wiring of the batteries to act as capacitors once the car was moving along with four standard auto alternators acting to keep the batteries charged. With little official interest in his system the inventor resolved to make the car available to the public to do so, is now involved with the World Federation of Science and Engineering - 15532 Computer Lane, Huntington Beach, CA, 92649.

Joseph R. Zubris - developed in 1969 an electric car circuit design (US PAT #3,809,978) that he estimated cost him $100 a year to operate. Using an old ten horse electric truck motor, he worked out a unique system to get peak performance from his old 1961 Mercury engine that he ran from this power plant. The device actually cut energy drain on electric car starting by 75%, and by weakening excitation after getting started, produced a 100% mileage gain over conventional electric motors. The inventor was shocked to find the lack of reaction from larger business interests, and so in the early seventies began selling licenses to interested smaller concerns for $500. Last known address was Zubris Electrical Company, 1320 Dorchester Ave, Boston, Ma, 02122.

Richard Diggs - developed at an inventors workshop (I.W. international) his "Liquid Electricity Engine" that he believed could power a large truck for 25,000 miles from a single portable unit of his electrical fuel. Liquid electricity violated a number of the well known physical laws that the inventor pointed out. The inventor was also aware of the profound impact the invention could have upon the world's economy - if it could be developed.

B. Von Platen - a 65 year old Swedish inventor made a major breakthrough in the field of Thermo-electric engines with his "Hot and Cold Engine" - based on the fact that wires of different metals produce electricity if they are joined and heated, the inventors secret breakthrough is said to give more than 30% more efficiency than regular motors, and with a radioactive isotope for power (hmmm?!) it could be completely free from oil. Volvo of Sweden bought the rights to this in 1975.

Steam Engines

Oliver Yunick - developed a super efficient steam engine in 1970 (Pop.Sci. Dec.1970) able to compete admirably with combustion engines. DuPont Laboratories - built one of the most advanced steam engines in late 1971 using a recyclable fluid of the freon family. It is assumed to contain no need for an external condenser, valves, or tubes. (Pop.Sci.Jan 1972)

William Bolon - from Rialto, California, developed an unusual steam engine design in 1971, that was said to get up to 50 miles to the gallon. The engine used only 17 moving parts and weighed less than 50 pounds and eliminated the usual transmission and drive train in an automatic. After much publicity, the inventors factory was fire bombed with damages totaling $600,000 . Letters to the Whitehouse were ignored so the inventor finally gave up and let Indonesian interests have the design.

Air Power

Roy J. Meyers - from LA built an air powered car in 1931. (air has been used for years to power localized underground mine engines) Myers, an engineer, built a 114lb, 6 cylinder radial air engine that produced over 180 HP. Newspaper articles at the time reported that the vehicle could cruise several hundred miles at low speeds.

Vittorio Sorgato - of Milan, Italy also created a very impressive air powered vehicle in the 70's using compressed air stored as a liquid. After a great deal of initial interest from Italian sources his invention is now all but forgotten.

Robert Alexander - from Montebello, Ca. spent 45 days and around $500 to put together a car (US PAT #3913004) based on a small 7/8ths 12 v-motor that provided the initial power. Once going, a hydraulic and air system took over and recharged the small electric energy drain. The inventor and his partner were determined that the auto industry would not bury their "super power" system. To no avail.

Joseph P Troyan - designed an air powered flywheel that could propel an automobile for 2c a mile. Using a principle of "ratio amplification of motion" in a closed system, the Troyan motor (US PAT #040011) was easily attached to electric generators for pollution-free variable power systems.

David McClintock - created his free energy device known as the "McClintock Air Motor" (US PAT #2,982,26100) which is a cross between a diesel engine with three cylinders with a compression ratio of 27 to 1, and a rotary engine with solar and plenary gears. It burns no fuel, but becomes self-running by driving it's own air compressor.

Magnetic Energy

John W. Keeley - developed a car in the 1920's using principles similar to Nikola Tesla's, drawing harmonic magnetic energies from the planet itself. The electric car ran from high frequency electricity that was received when he simply broadcast the re-radiated atmospheric energy from a unit on his house roof. GM and the other Detroit oil "powers" offered the inventor 35 million dollars which was turned down when they would not guarantee to market the engine. Henry Ford - later bought and successfully shelved the invention.

John W Kelley died in the later part of the 1890's from pneumonia. We was not able to perfect his vibratory motor for the auto in the 1920's. When he died most of his research notes and motors disappeared never to be seen again. Chris Sproles

Harold Adams - of Lake Isabella, California, worked out a motor thought to be similar to Keeley's. It was demonstrated for many persons, including Naval scientists around the late 1940's before it too "disappeared" from our history.

Dr Keith E. Kenyon - of Van Nuys, California discovered a discrepancy in long accepted laws relating to electric motor magnets, and so built a radically different motor that could theoretically run a car on a very small amount of electrical current. When demonstrated to physicists and engineers in 1976 those present admitted that it worked remarkably well but because it was beyond the 'accepted' laws of physics they chose to ignore it.

Bob Teal - of Madison, Florida was a retired electronics engineer when he invented his Magna-Pulsion Engine which ran by means of six tiny electromagnets and a secret timing device. Requiring no fuel, the engine emitted no gases. It was so simple in design it required very little maintenance and a small motorcycle battery was enough power to get it started. The engine has been met with little else but skepticism.

Lester J. Hendershot - built his Hendershot Generator in the late 1920's largely through trial and error. He wove together a number of flat coils of wire and placed stainless steel rings, sticks of carbon and permanent magnets in various positions as an experiment. To his surprise it actually produced current. The generator raised considerable attention at the time.

Howard Johnson - developed a motor that's power is generated purely by magnetism. It took six years of legal hassles to patent his design (US PAT #4,151,431) - more information is available from the "Permanent Magnet Research Institute" P.O. Box 199, Blacksburg, Virginia 24063. He is currently offering licensing rights.

Edwin V. Gray - developed in the early seventies an engine that uses no fuel and produces no waste, The engine that runs itself is U.S. Pat #3,890,548.

Petroleum Additives

Guido Franch - from Michigan U.S.A. began demonstrating in the mid seventies his "water-to-gas miracle" a fuel he created by adding to water a small quantity of "conversion powder" which was easily processed from coal. He claimed it could be processed for a few cents per gallon if mass produced. The fuel was tested by Chemists at Havoline Chemical of Michigan and the local University, and both concluded it worked more efficiently than gasoline. Franch continued to put on demonstrations for years but said the auto manufacturers, Government, and private companies just weren't interested in his revolutionary fuel.

Dr Alfred R. Globus - working for United International Research developed a Hydro-fuel mixture around the mid-seventies. The fuel was a mixture of 45% gasoline, 50% or more of water, and small percentages of United's "Hydrelate" which acted as a bonding agent. It was estimated that a hundred million gallons of fuel could be saved per day if this fuel were utilized but alas nobody seemed interested.

John Andrews - a Portuguese chemist who in 1974 developed a fuel additive that enabled ordinary gasoline to be mixed with water reducing fuel costs down to 2c a gallon. After successfully demonstrating the substance, impressed Navy officials when going to negotiate for the formula found the inventor missing and his lab ransacked.

Water and Alcohol Motor - Jean Chambrin, an engineer in Paris ran his private cars on a mixture of denatured alcohol and water. The inventor / mechanical engineer claimed his motor design could be mass produced at a fraction of the cost of present engines. He received nothing but publicity that led him to take great precautions in regard to his personnel security.

Mavrin D. Martin - from the University of Arizona developed in 1977 a "fuel reformer" catalytic reactor that was estimated to double mileage. The device was designed to cut exhaust emissions by mixing water with Hydro-carbon fuels to produce an efficient Hydrogen, Methane, Carbon-Monoxide fuel.

Improving Fuel Efficiency

Edward La Force - from Vermont U.S.A. designed with his brother Robert, a highly efficient engine that burnt all the usually wasted heavier gasoline molecules. The 'Los Angeles Examiner' (Dec. 29, 1974) reported that the cams, timing and so on were altered on stock Detroit engines. These modifications not only eliminated most of the pollution from the motor but by completely burning all the fuel, the mileage was usually doubled. After much publicity the US EPA examined the cars and found the motor designs were not good enough. Few people believed the EPA including a number of Senators who brought up the matter in a Congressional hearing in March 1975. The result was still silence.

Eric Cottell - was one of the pioneers of ultrasonic fuel systems. This involved using sonic transducers to 'vibrate' existing fuels down to much smaller particles, making it burn up to 20% more efficiently. Cottell then went on to discover that super fine S-ionized water could be mixed perfectly with up to 70% oil or gas in these systems, this was followed by much publicity (e.g. Newsweek, June 17, 1974) and then, once again - silence.

L. Mills. Beam - had his super-mileage carburetor bought out in the 1920's. In the late 60's he worked out a catalytic vegetable compound that produced the same super mileage results. In principle it was nothing more than a method of using the hot exhaust gases of an engine to vaporize the liquid gas being burned. By rearranging the molecules of gas and diesel, he was able to triple mileage rates, while obtaining better combustion, mileage and emission control.

He was refused and rejected by U.S. State and Federal Air Pollution and Environmental Pollution agencies and was finally forced to sell his formula abroad in the mid-seventies just to survive.

John W. Gulley - of Gratz Kentucky managed 115 mpg from his 8 cylinder Buick using a similar vaporizing method as that employed by L.M. Beam. "Detroit interests" bought and suppressed the device in 1950.

SHELL research of London - produced a 'Vapipe' unit in the early seventies that also vaporized the petroleum at around 40 degrees centigrade, and used a sophisticated pressure loss reduction system, but alas was not marketed because it did not meet Federal emission standards.

Russell Bourke - designed an engine in 1932 with only two moving parts. He connected two pistons to a refined "Scotch Yoke" crankshaft and came up with an engine that was superior in most respects to any competitive engine. His design burned any cheap carbon based fuel and delivered great mileage and performance. Article after article was published acclaiming his engine but once again, to no avail. "The Bourke Engine Documentary" is the revealing book the inventor assembled just before his death.

New Fuels

Clayton J. Querles - from Lucerne Valley, California took a 10,000 mile trip across the country in his 1949 Buick on $10 worth of carbide by building a simple carbide generator which worked on the order of a miners lamp. He claimed that half a pound of acetylene pressure was sufficient to keep his car running, but because acetylene was dangerous, he put a safety valve on his generator and ran the outlet gas through water to ensure there would be no 'blow back'.

The inventor also toyed successfully with methods of fuel vaporization. (see Sun-Telegram 11/2/74.)

Joseph Papp - built the highly regarded Papp engine in the 60's that could run on a 15 cents an hour secret combination of expandable gases. Instead of burning fuel, this engine used electricity to expand the gas in hermetically sealed cylinders.

The first prototype was a simple ninety horsepower Volvo engine with upper end modifications. Attaching the Volvo pistons to pistons fitting the sealed cylinders, the engine worked perfectly with an output of three hundred horsepower.

The inventor claimed it would cost about twenty five dollars to charge each cylinder every sixty thousand miles. The idea has gotten nowhere amid accusations of suppression by the media.

Carburetors

G.A. Moore. - one of the most productive inventors of carburetors, he held some 17,000 patents of which 250 were related to the automobile and it's carburetion. Industry today relies on his air brakes and fuel injection systems, it continues to completely ignore his systems for reducing pollution, gaining more mileage and improving overall engine efficiency. More info from "The Works of George Arlington Moore" published by the Madison Company. (See US PAT #'s 1,633,791 to 2,123,485 for 17 interesting developments.)

Joseph Bascle - created the Bascle carburetor in the mid 50's. The carburetor raised mileage by 25% and reduced pollution by 45%. It's inventor, a well known Baton Rouge researcher remobilized every carburetor in the local Yellow Cab fleet, shortly after his arrival there.

Kendig Carburetors - were originally hand made for racing cars by a small group of mechanics in Los Angeles in the early seventies under the title of Variable Venture Carburetors. Eventually a young college student bought one of their less sophisticated prototypes for his old Mercury "gas hog", when he entered it in a Californian air pollution run - he won easily - not only did the carburetor reduce pollution, it gave almost twice the mileage. Within a week the student was told to remove the carburetor as it was not approved by the Air Resources Board. The simpler Kendig model was due for production in 1975 but has yet to be produced.

C.N. Pogue - from Winnipeg, Canada, developed a carburetor (US PAT# 2,026,789) in the late 1930's that used superheated steam in it's system and managed at least 200 miles per gallon. Much local interest, including threats from professional thieves, was not enough publicity to see this invention through to the market place.

John R. Fish - developed his "Fish" carburetor in the early 1940's that was tested by Ford who admitted that the invention was a third more efficient than theirs. The design can also be easily switched to alcohol. Nevertheless the inventor was hindered from manufacture and distribution in almost every possible way, he once even resorted to selling by mail order, only to be stopped by the Post Office. The device can be currently bought from "Fuel systems of America" Box 9333, Tacoma, Washington 98401 - U.S. ph:(206) 922-2228. (US PAT's 2,214,273 and 2,236,595 and 2,775,818.)

The Dresserator - was created around the early 70's in Santa Ana, California by Lester Berriman. It was based on a super-accurate mixture control using greatly enhanced airflow, and could run a car on up to a 22-to-1 fuel mixture. Test cars passed the pollution control standards with ease and managed up to an 18% mileage gain. Although Holley Carburetor and Ford signed agreements to manufacture the design in 1974, nothing has been heard of since.

Mark J. Meierbachtol - from San Bernardino, California patented a carburetor (U.S. Patent # 3,432,281 March, 11, 69) that managed significantly greater mileage than was usual.

Much of this list is borrowed heavily from the book "Suppressed Inventions and other Discoveries" by Brian O'Leary, Christopher Bird, Jeanne Manning, and Barry Lynes, Auckland Institute of Technology Press, Private bag 92006, Auckland, New Zealand. The topic of how the world is under a massive spell of fossil fuel energy dependency is so colossal I cannot possibly hope to cover the vastness of this very real energy conspiracy. For the purpose of demonstrating the absolute fact that our energy sector in cahoots with other large corporations (such as the automotive industry) who are in fact seriously obstructing the development and spread of cheap, clean alternatives. For the sake of keeping this topic simple, I will focus on just ONE example: the electric car:

Fisker Electric Car

Before I do so, I just want to point out yet again that this is not just “another hair brained conspiracy theory”. ALL the info that follows are undisputed FACTS. And it is a fact that once and if new, cheap, free technology makes it into the mainstream, the entire multi-trillion dollar oil/energy industry and the hundreds of other dependant businesses that survive along with those markets would VANISH OVERNIGHT. Powerful millionaires & billionaires would be bankrupted. The destruction of the monolithic antiquated fossil fuel industry could trigger a massive financial catastrophe that would have devastating repercussions throughout the world.

Thus, any and all cheap alternatives that eliminate and or break up the "energy status quo" have been deliberately sabotaged, taken over, eliminated, phased out, attacked, mocked and finally, some of those innovative inventors have even met with strange and abrupt endings to their lives...

Imagine for just one moment, if the REAL electric car industry took off and everyone owned an electric car. Exxon, Mobil, Chevron, Shell, Texaco, etc would lose over 60 billion dollars of revenue each and every WEEK. Thousands of gasoline stations would have to be closed down, losses in the billions. The automotive companies would also lose billions in some departments. Hundreds of thousands combustible engines, car parts and the parts industry would be virtually obsolete, not only that, the engine manufacturers would also have virtually no products to make. Resulting in billions upon billions of dollars lost. The brake maintenance billion dollar industry would vanish due to the fact that electric vehicles have advanced braking systems. Entire businesses and industries gone overnight. Millions of people unemployed. Raving mad stock holders, fortunes lost. Get the picture?

On the other hand. It would also open up tons of new opportunities. Entirely new industries would flourish. Millions of new jobs created. New parts companies, etc. The general public would save thousands of dollars for each and every vehicle they own by not having to spend money on gas. That money would make it into the economy in the form of extra spending money on other goods and services. The planet would be rid of billions on top of billions of cubic meters of pollutants.

The advantages far outweigh the disadvantages and the “pains” of a major economic revenue shift. But, as is to be expected. Those who stand to lose the most will fight the hardest to keep the old ways, and their established sources of revenue instead of embracing the new technology and even becoming leaders in those fields, thereby not losing much in the process besides seeing billions of dollars of their hard made investments on old infrastructure disappear. They know this, so they will try and milk the oil cow until its dry. Then and only then will you see real advances in the realms of alternative energies.

One of the main problems that confronts the introduction of radical consumer benefiting products lays firmly in the fact that given a choice of making a product that produces more profits or one that benefits the customer, the corporations will ALWAYS choose profits, for that is their ONLY purpose of existence of all corporations. Likewise we are dealing here with the same car companies that pioneered "planned obsolescence" a documented operations policy in which cars stop working after a few years so customers have to buy a new one. This is how they roll. Like all other companies in existence in the entire planet, everything is about making the most money, operations have absolutely NOTHING to do with WHAT IS BEST for the consumer.

To what extent does the Oil Industrial Complex go to keep us HOOKED on gas and oil? We are now going to take a more in-depth look at what has been going on with the electric car fiasco. Where the main power source are simple batteries that you could just plug into a wall outlet and bypass the gasoline stations and the oil corporations, FOR EVER.

Tesla Motors Electric Car

Did you even know that there have been quality, fully functional electric cars available? 99 people out of a 100 have no clue. There never were any real attempts to advertise and sell them. The ones we did see advertised were designed so ugly and stupid looking most of us would not be caught dead driving one. It's almost as if it were a secret they even existed. Mind you, even though the automobile industry might seem independent of the oil industry. They are related, like brothers in arms, since one needs the other and vice versa. They are completely dependent upon one another in their current form of existence. So in order as to not step on their “brother's” toes and harm their affiliates, no real attempt was made to market the cars.

If you look at the data, it's clear that an electric car is the cleanest and most efficient kind of car in existence. The data is undeniable. It seems that electric cars have been designed by people who thought we shouldn't be driving at all, but if we must, we should suffer every minute of it. Electric cars have had terrible range and embarrassing styling. For those that say that “electric cars have been tried and failed”: That is exactly what the "establishment" wants you to think. Of course electric cars will never catch on if you make them so limited, featureless, ugly, expensive, and with such limited driving range no one would want them! DUH!

Documentary – “Who Killed The Electric Car” -Video

100 years ago there were MORE electric cars on the roads than gasoline cars! Check out the timeline at: <http://www.sonyclassics.com/whokilledtheelectriccar/electric.html> So what happened? The oil companies pushed hard for the use of gas instead of batteries, and the rest is history.

In 1976 congress passed the Electric and Hybrid Vehicle Research and Development Act over protests from automakers and President Fords veto.

In 1995 California Air Resources Board (CARB) adopts the Zero Emission Vehicle (ZEV) mandate, requiring that automakers make a small percentage (2% by 1998, 5% by 2001 and 10% by 2003) of ZEVs available to the public.

In 1996 General Motors makes the battery powered EV1 electric car ONLY available for consumer lease at $400 – 500 a month.

In 2000 GM decides to stop making its EV1 cars and shifts production to gasoline powered cars like the gas guzzling Hummer. (little wonder that electric vehicles are abandoned as soon as good ole oil men Bush & Cheney get in office?) In 2001 GM begins laying off its EV1 sales team, starting with its most successful sales men! In 2002 GM, Chrysler and some auto dealerships sue CARB to repeal the ZEV mandate. Later that year the U.S. dept of Justice steps in and sides with the automakers. 2003 Bush signs the Hydrogen Fuel Initiative providing billions of dollars, for hydrogen research and development, completely ignoring the cheaper, cleaner and available ‘now” electric car!.. Do you understand what was going on here? They completely crushed the long available, reliable, working electric cars that used up ZERO fuel of any kind and spent billions to develop one that will use a form of fuel you will have to buy to fill up your tank. Do you understand? It could not be more clear than this.

Also in 2003 the California Air Resources Board folds its hands and gives up, no longer requiring automakers to make electric cars. Then GM announces it will not renew EV1 leases and dispatches tow trucks to impound the vehicles from happy customers that still wanted them, and proceeded to CRUSH each and every perfectly good EV1 vehicle they ever made. Mind you that no car company has ever done this before or since. The car companies have always been more than happy to sell their lease vehicles. Not in this case, they DESTROYED every electric car, shelved the entire project, then focused on making gas guzzling Hummers!!!! They also somehow bamboozled their way into getting Hummer owners massive tax deductions, much greater than the tax deductions for owning a non polluting electric car!!!

The entire time since the CARB mandate was issued, the automotive and oil industry lobbyists fought tooth and nail against the development of battery powered Electric cars. They virtually never even tried to market the cars. The people that leased them found out about the cars by word of mouth. In 1993 the Western States Petroleum Association hired a PR firm to drum up public opposition to the EVs! The oil industry spent millions upon millions fighting the electric car movement. Mobil Oil even took out ads in Time Magazine, USA Today and Newsweek to argue against electric cars and the ZEV mandate.

Here is the kicker: Ovonic Battery Company developed a proprietary NiMH battery. What turned out at the time to be the best batteries for an electric car. Making it possible to drive a lot further between recharging. General Motors had bought up a 60% share in Ovonic. In 2001 it sold its 60% share to Texaco, yes! The oil conglomerate! What is Texaco doing with batteries? Absolutely nothing. They have just been sitting on the technology and trying their best to hide its revolutionary potential.

Toyota Rav4 R.I.P.

They then turned around and issued cease and desist orders then SUED each and every car maker! They sued Matsushita Battery, Panasonic EV Energy, and Toyota for patent infringement, those cases were settled in 2004 and the settlement terms were kept confidential, with no party admitting liability. In 2004 Toyota stopped production of its electric car the RAV4 EV. I wonder why? (points at the lawsuit). HmMMM, 2004 was also the year GM destroyed all its EV1 line of vehicles. Chrysler, Ford, Honda and Nissan also all jumped ship and stopped their EV productions. Interesting. Texaco has taken a superior product done a good job of moth balling it and making the Ovonic NiMH battery very scarce, today they have only ONE customer, GM (source).

This sort of strategy is not new. The automotive industry bought out all the Trolleys way back when they were everywhere and was the main source of transportation in urban areas. Why? So people would have to buy cars!!!! This is well documented and known fact, a.k.a. modous of operandi. This is now history.

By the way: in 2005 alone Exxon posted the largest profit ever of any company of $36 billion dollars. This is just one year, and just one oil company. They along with the other multi-billion dollar energy corporations will allow us to have clean, pollution free, fossil fuel free electric vehicles to the masses over their dead bodies.

There is a documentary with many of the facts I discussed above. The central mystery of the new movie “Who Killed the Electric Car?” is why General Motors created a dynamic battery powered auto that drivers loved, only to crush it to smithereens. The auto industry once prodded to pursue – only to sabotage covertly – a cleaner future.

The Hydrogen Illusion Myth:

First of all. Who are the key players behind the hydrogen car scheme? The Oil industry. The one and only reason they want us all to go to hydrogen is because they are in the perfect position to reap massive profits off of it. The infrastructure required for the delivery hydrogen to the consumer is not much different that gas. And all they have to do is revamp all their gasoline stations with new hydrogen pumps, then presto! The drunken party continues! The most important factor is that they intend to keep us all HOOKED like drug addicts to their gas stations. The plan to shift us from the gas drug to the hydrogen drug. It will be more expensive. Harder to make, and most hydrogen today is made by using fossil fuels.

The oil companies are also behind the Ethanol and Bio Fuels JOKE. Actually, it is very far from being a joke. More akin to wildly delirious fantasy. Ramblings from those in an insane asylum! Only a bunch of brain dead idiots from Washington can actually back that foolhardy idea in the first place, then actually follow through and force unimaginable inflation upon us. Ok, in their twisted reality, they expect us to plant and produce an impossible to maintain in the long term, MILLIONS OF MILES OF CORN or whatever plant to power all the cars? Meanwhile our food prices and everything along the food chain are starting to skyrocket due to the fact that there will be less corn. The prices of eggs, chickens, beef, etc., etc are all being affected. Many farmers have stopped growing food items, to plant more profitable Bio Fuels harvests. And what happens when there WILL be major droughts? Floods? Freezes? Where entire harvests are lost? DUH! Someone please take away the crack cocaine from those Washington law makers!

Here is a perfect example of what to expect in relying on crops as fuel instead of what God meant them to be food:

Food price fears as US warns on crop yields

By Gregory Meyer in New York, Jack Farchy in London and Javier Blas in Geneva
Financial Times November 9 2010

The spectre of inflation loomed over agricultural markets after the US slashed key crop forecasts and warned of shortfalls in grains.

The agriculture department on Tuesday cut estimates of US corn yields for a third successive month, forecast record soyabean exports to China and warned of the slimmest cotton stocks since 1925.

“The combined production shortfalls and dramatic potential stock drawdowns mean a much tighter supply picture than just a few months ago,” the agency said in a separate grains report.

Benchmark Chicago corn futures soared above $6 a bushel for the first time since August 2008, before ending lower. Soyabeans rose 4.3 per cent and New York cotton futures posted a record above $1.51 a pound. The price rises have revived fears of a repeat of the global food crisis of 2007-08.

In Europe, milling wheat surpassed a peak reached after Russia banned grain exports in August in response to a devastating drought.

Abdolreza Abbassian, senior grains economist at the UN’s Food and Agriculture Organisation in Rome, said the report was “alarming”.

“It reiterates the tightening of the overall situation as we go into 2011, which means eventually even those basic food commodities that haven’t risen so much could be influenced,” he said. The FAO food price index is nearing the highs set in mid-2008.

The price gains will benefit farmers, who the USDA said would earn record amounts for corn this season. But consumers could face pain. Carlsberg, the brewer, on Tuesday warned of price increases as costs swelled for malt and barley. As northern hemisphere farmers contemplate next year’s crop plans, surging prices could generate a so-called battle for acreage among different crops.

Dan Basse, president of AgResource, a Chicago crop forecaster, said: “The world cannot afford to lose any more crop production going forward.”

Ricardo Leiman, chief executive of Noble, the trading house that is one of the top oilseed processors in China, cited “enormous demand” there because of “stronger economy, stronger habits, very strong feed milling margins and very strong prices domestically”.

The USDA said corn yields in the US, the world’s largest grower and exporter, would be 154.3 bushels per acre, down 1.5 bushels from an October forecast that was also a sharp downward revision. At 827m bushels, stocks left over from this year’s harvest would be the lowest in 15 years. Record US ethanol production has added to demand.

China’s surging demand looms large in cotton. The USDA took the rare step of lowering estimates of China’s 2010 supply cushion, citing “shortages in mill inventories”.

The USDA reduced its cotton demand estimate because of “supplies insufficient to meet demand”.

Mike Stevens, a veteran Louisiana cotton broker, said: “The report is the most bullish in our lifetime.”

Food price inflation rose at an annual rate of 8 per cent in China in September, according to USDA, whilst food inflation in the US has so far been tame, with the food index rising 1.4 per cent over the past 12 months.

Advisers scrambled to come to grips with the latest report, whose monthly appearance has caused big swings in agricultural markets.

So we see that Bio-fuels is in reality a ridiculous solution coming from the same folks that are desperately trying to have us develop hydrogen as a “viable” gas alternative. What is the common denominator? The gasoline station. The oil companies have a delivery infrastructure based on the gasoline station. Bypass the gasoline station, no matter what other liquid based fuel they have, and you bypass the oil companies. Plain and simple.

Political leaders who are forever under pressure from the oil/energy industry and their lobbyists, proudly tout the virtues of hydrogen, in doing so they give the general public the ILLUSION that they value innovation and conservation while promoting the interests of their lobbies.

It seems that just last week, Our dear president Bush single handedly discovered global warming! After years of denying that global warming even existed, and after being battered over the head with overwhelming evidence. President Bush announced a $1.2 billion hydrogen fuel initiative. Washington COMPLETELY ignores the obviously superior electric car sector, with small operations consisting of ordinary people and companies actually building working electric cars... today! I’m sorry, that’s a misstatement, Bush did not just “ignore” the successfully operating electric vehicles in circulation, he and his administration was INSTRUMENTAL in killing them.

In his infinite wisdom Pres Bush has officially declared that our government is going to fund the hydrogen gasoline station into existence. Sorry folks, no free rides for any of you with cheap battery powered cars! That solution is just way too simple and makes way too much common sense! And we surely don’t want to see our beloved OIL companies lose trillions in revenues due to mass adoption of electric vehicles! Read all about the Whitehouse plans for your hydrogen powered future here.

Meanwhile electric cars are currently out there now, today with virtually no publicity. One place to start your own research is a web site called Autobloggreen.com, chuck full of all sorts of interesting fossil fuel alternative info and EVworld.com and EAA PHEV. There are kits available to convert any car to electric. And there is one very interesting company called Tesla Motors that makes an electric car that goes from 0 to 60 in just 4 seconds! (faster than Porsche, Corvette and others!) This car goes for over 200 miles per charge But how did Tesla manage to build a viable electric vehicle without the Ovonic/Texaco batteries? It’s a good thing technology never stands still. They are using Li-ion batteries! Thereby bypassing the Texaco roadblock. Fisker Automotive is coming out with a car they claim gets 100mpg. Another small unknown company that makes electric vehicles is Phoenix Motorcars, they have been around since 2001. Have you heard of a company called AC Propulsion? They are yet another creative electric car company, Tom Hanks drives one of their tricked out Scion conversions. Have you heard of the Venturi Fetish production electric car that can smoke any Ferrari with 3.9 seconds 0-60 and travel 250 miles on a single charge? How about the Spyder and COM-V3 made by Universal Electric Vehicle Corp? Ok, did I make a point here yet? Washington burns 1.2 BILLION DOLLARS away in some ridiculous hydrogen bullshit scheme while electric vehicles are the OBVIOUS no brainier route to go on. Many people, organizations and companies have PROVEN BEYOND A SHADOW OF A DOUBT as not only highly superior, but actually DO-ABLE, as in they are making it happen YESTERDAY and TODAY! Imagine if the big automotive giants are ALLOWED to mass produce these electric cars! They could easily ramp up production into the millions of cars for each model and the prices of electric cars would sky dive down to extremely affordable levels overnight. BUT... BUT... mind you, that key word you passed by a couple seconds ago: IF they were "ALLOWED" to make those EV cars in mass production... Sorry but your Zionist masters have other plans Bubba.

Out of the 16 EV (electric vehicle) companies (yes there are 16 small companies making electric cars, yet Detroit somehow lost the plans to their working electric cars and forgot make them?) I am watching, I'm keeping an eye on Tesla Motors. This new revolutionary company has NO ties with the established automakers or the oil industry. The proverbial David vs. Goliath. I can only hope that GM, Ford, Exxon, Chevron, Texaco or some other illuminati company does not buy them out just to phase it out, never to be seen or heard of again just like they did with the EV1 and others. Maybe this time some other oil conglomerate will buy the patents for Li-ion batteries and sue Tesla, issuing a Cease and Desist order? I am also hoping there will be no industrial sabotage or something of the sort. But don't be surprised if "something happens" to them and they end up having to close their doors... Update: I have yet to release this report and sure enough Tesla is up to its neck in troubles... how did I know this?

I can only react in utter dismay at how small little companies out of nowhere with a tiny fraction of budget and resources that the big automakers have, can somehow produce highly efficient, superior cars and the GIANT CAR CORPORATIONS WITH BILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN RESOURCES HAVE NO CLUE!! ? How can hobbyists convert regular cars to electric and get up to 300 miles per charge yet the giant automakers cant? Plain and simple: THEY DON'T WANT TO ! (and/or are being heavily forced not to) Meanwhile guys like Jonathan Goodwin can easily convert a full sized Hummer into a hybrid and get 60 MILES PER GALLON! You can even buy kits to convert hybrids into full electric vehicles at places like: <http://www.electroauto.com/> The potential in electric cars is phenomenal to say the least, just look at ways to extend the capabilities, like adding solar roofs. Another interesting product is the Hymotion hybrid car Battery Range Extender Module. These are just a couple examples in the realm of electric & hybrid cars, do a search on the net and find more similar advances being made, all the while the major auto makers are STILL pushing 30-50 year old technology and fuel standards, wondering why they are losing sales and market shares.

Bottom line is: Today the major shift in Detroit seems to be "hybrid" cars that run on gas and electric, still emits carbon dioxide, still not solving our oil dependency problems, just postpones them, with the run of the mill current hybrids getting ridiculously low average MPG compared to what we see private small time operators getting in their garage operations. The automakers and the oil men came to some sort of agreement behind closed doors. The oil companies are somewhat happy because they can still have us all visit the gasoline station and pay your dues, the automakers get to put in their combustible fossil fuel engines into the cars, and their car parts divisions are happy, they can continue as they were.

Throughout history we can see that the car industry and the oil industry (gas) sustain one another. So what has been bad for one, has been bad for the other. The auto industry could make a clean break from big oil and produce electric cars, but the repercussions and backlash from big oil seems to have ALL the major car makers scared to do so. No one, no car company, no politician, no one dares take on the big oil conglomerates. If they say you will be driving a hybrid as an option today, then that is the way it is, if they say the fuel of tomorrow is hydrogen, then you must just shut up, bow your head and accept it. Reason and logic have nothing to do with it. You must come to grips with the reality of the fact that the oil industry has been steering our nation in the directions it so chooses, many times seemingly at will.

The question is: what are YOU going to do about it? You have read this far, you now know more about this situation than the average person. What are you going to do about it? If you choose to keep quiet and not share this information with anyone and just ignore it, so be it. You won't be alone in line waiting to pay up the nose for that next fill up at the gas/hydrogen station. I for one will try my best to champion the virtues of the humble battery powered electric car and try my best to get my hands on one of those electric conversion kits, just so I can "stick it to the man" and drive right by every gas station I see for the rest of my life. Please email this to everyone you know, pass it on, download it and re-publish it, whatever, just don't sit there and pretend that everything is hunky doory. Do you honestly believe that the big oil corporations only exist to look out for YOUR best interests? Singing Christmas carols, like angels, forever making sure you are ok? DOH! Wake up and smell the OIL. They could ALL care less about YOU and your well being. The only thing the care about is that you pull up to their gasoline pump (soon to be hydrogen station) and fill-err up!

Wake up America! DEMAND fully electric vehicles from the automakers. Eventually if enough people find out about the fact that these vehicles can be made today, and ARE being made today by little mom and pop shops, the establishment will have no choice but to eventually listen. The only problem with this scenario is that it is a David vs. Goliath battle to make happen. We all know the media remains silent because they are just another sector of the Matrix. Electric vehicles WOULD SOLVE THE ENTIRE WORLD ENERGY CRISIS OVERNIGHT AND SERIOUSLY BANKRUPT MANY OIL CORPORATIONS! Therefore they want nothing to do with it.

There is no need for those with the financial means to wait for anyone. If you are one of the fortunate ones that can afford an electric vehicle or have a full conversion done on your own vehicle, then you can be among the privileged first group to SET YOURSELF FREE from the bonds of slavery of the gas pump and the ruling elite that keep you enslaved to the pump, cut the chains and shackles of oppression that the oil corporations have imposed on you. You would literally be FREE to go where ever you want whenever you want without having to say "filler up" and PAY the "fossil fuel travel tariffs" (gas) at the local gasoline station. Imagine a world without gasoline stations... imagine yourself FREE to ignore irrelevant issues such as the price of gas, since it would have no effect on your mode of transportation... Imagine a world where soulless colossal corporations no longer roam the planet raping the environment in their quest to suck it dry of oil and gas.

It is up to YOU to make YOUR move, don't wait for Washington, the energy cartels or anyone to tell you when it's ok for you to have your FREEDOM to travel for FREE. Take back your freedom to travel yourself, emancipate yourself from oil/gas slavery, vote with your wallet NOW, buy ELECTRIC vehicles and go solar at home and stick it to those who wish to oppress us all. The more people with the means to go electric early, and do so, will not just create further demand and fund the technology, but will help push the whole ELECTRIC VEHICLE industry into the spot light where the mainstream media cannot continue to bypass and ignore it forever as it has been for years.

Today we sit and watch as the big three automakers are severely hurting, begging congress for money and receiving multi-billions of fund only to come back several months later saying we need more or we will still go bankrupt. Decades of ignoring the market, decades of making grossly inferior products, decades of designing ugly vehicles, decades of big gas guzzlers, decades of being out of touch dinosaurs. They had their chance in the 1970s to get their act together when faced by the superior Japanese vehicles. Instead they chose to continue their arrogant ways. Earlier this decade they produced working electric vehicles, and basically kept it one of the best kept secrets from the public.

As of this writing it is only a mystery what was going on in the boardrooms of the big three automakers that all had reliable working electric vehicles up until 2004, only to then mysteriously turn around and crushed them all, got rid of all the evidence and now today are making believe they have no clue and are researching how to make electric vehicles. The big push has been to make hybrids instead of making the superior all electric vehicles, this makes no sense (unless you are a trillion dollar oil conglomerate). They tell us maybe by the year 2012 we can have electric vehicles that will go up to 50 miles per charge, so they will need an engine also. Bullshit stories such as that are rampant.

You know what... I am glad that the big three auto makers are on their death bed, I hope that they all go bankrupt, they deserve nothing more than that for their constant betrayal and disregard for the best interests of the American people. For we don't need their kind in this country, hopefully truly innovative independent companies can manage to overcome all the obstacles and obstructions to fill in the void and come out with truly great electric vehicles that free us from the enslavement to the gasoline pump and big oil. At this very moment there does exist a fledgling truly innovative automobile company right here in America called Tesla Motors that truly deserves all those billions Washington is flushing down the bottomless pit of obsolete dinosaurs called the Detroit Three.

Tesla Motors is one of America's shining examples of what can be.... Just imagine the possibilities if Washington would do what is right, rational, logical and brain dead simple, actually put a few of those billions to REAL use and deliver a truck load of stimulus funds to Tesla, Fisker and others instead of GM and Chrysler!

P. S.

Anyone who can stand up and try to deny even 1% of the facts listed here must

- A) need serious psychological help
- B) must be completely hopelessly brainwashed (and brain dead)
- C) are being paid off by (or part of) the oil/energy and/or Zionist sectors to discredit these truths.

I cannot finalize this section without touching on science of perpetual energy. The realm of science has also been no different than any of the other subjects that people are TRAINED, PROGRAMMED, and taught: what is and is not possible. Just as in the ancient days when accepted scientific "FACT" determined that the earth was "FLAT" so the norms continue to this very day. Collective scientific community states that perpetual energy is NOT possible, yet evidence of perpetual energy is all around us!!!!

The earth, the sun, the planets all spin around for EONS on end to such an extent that CLOCKS are configured to their accuracy. This is perpetual energy in motion. The ocean waves come and go, never ending; this is perpetual energy in motion. The tides come and go, this is perpetual energy in motion. Don't bother patronizing me with "oh, but there is some energy source here or there", the fundamental source of "energy" of all these perpetual motion examples are all MAGNETIC ENERGIES, that are not being fed by EXXON or any other accepted, cleared, approved, sanctioned source of energy.

You are standing on the planet earth due to its PERPETUAL magnetic energy field that holds everything down. You don't float off into space due to the magnetic field. The north and south poles are determined as such by MAGNETIC means.

Behold for: I will right here and now proclaim to the world that perpetual motion and energy are not only real, it is all around you. They can also be replicated and mass produced. The key is in understanding MAGNETIC energy. The simple product of plus and minus effects interacting against each other producing propulsion. Look on the internet, there are many people that have made WORKING prototypes of magnetic motors that operate indefinitely. Yet the forces that be, continue to censor, ridicule and/or not even acknowledge the amazing world changing earth shattering truth. No you are not allowed to believe in these "silly tinfoil hat fairy-tales" for the powers that be have sectioned off this entire area as OFF LIMITS.

When you sit back and think about it, unlimited magnetic energy realm is so downright simple and common sense just as the earth being round was several hundred years ago... I care not who profits from this... I am only here as a messenger, take it or leave it, I come forth with only the TRUTH. But before I close this chapter, keep I mind that clean, perpetual energy is not only real and available, you are NOT to even consider its existence. You must fall in line and continue to feed the meglomolithic energy conglomerates with ever more money for prehistoric fossil fuels... when the day comes, and yes it will come soon, that fossil fuels are completely depleted, then... and ONLY then will the powers that be allow the introduction of "new" forms of energy... bio fuels, hybrids, nitrogen... but NOT electric or magnetic energy, because, hello! They are FREE.

Thus you have been schooled, your entire life, you have been educated, as all the scientists in the world by a well established authority who chooses what is and is not. They have called and firmly correlated the "fact" that perpetual free energy is a figment of your imagination, if that is what you accept to be truth, so it is.

I come forth breaking all barriers of what truly was, is and can be. You only need to unplug from the matrix to begin freeing your mind, opening the doors to understanding. To begin to unplug one must start at willful non-compliance of the system. Start by not participating in their system, stick it to the banks and declare bankruptcy, never again to become a willing debt slave for starters. Emancipation from mental slavery is your quest, free your mind and liberate your sovereign divine being that has been enslaved since the days you were born...

“None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free”

"he who has an ear, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see"

..:EMANCIPATE YOURSELF FROM MENTAL SLAVERY:..

For it is written: "the truth shall set you free"

"By their fruits ye shall know them."

THE EDUCATION INDUSTRIAL MATRIX

FYI: THE LIFE INDOCTRINATION COMPLEX

“The surest way to corrupt a youth is to instruct him to hold in higher esteem those who think alike over those who think differently.” – Nietzsche centuries old slogan: You keep'm stupid, and I'll keep'm poor...

“The erroneous assumption is to the effort that the aim of public education is to fill the young of the species with knowledge and awaken their intelligence... Nothing could be further from the truth. The aim of public education is not to spread enlightenment at all; it is simply to reduce as many individuals as possible to the same safe level, to breed and train a standardized citizenry, to put down dissent and originality. That is its aim in the United States, whatever the pretensions of politicians, pedagogues and other such mountebanks, and that is its aim everywhere else.” H.L. Mencken, journalist

Today America is the most powerful nation on the planet. Yet its public educational system is rated right there somewhere around 26th place worldwide, (that of Russia no less) just above third world countries' education levels! We have a nation of 40 million functionally illiterate adults. That's 40 million adults who cannot read and write over a 4th grade level... and probably another 40 million who can read at a 4th grade level but cannot comprehend what they are reading... Have you not ever wondered how this came to be? How is that even possible? Why is it so easy for our benevolent government to constantly send out countless BILLIONS of dollars to other countries each and every year, yet on the other hand systematically disseminate our education system, often just giving our educational system only lip service? The Washingtonites more often than not have been treating our school system like a bunch of leper beggars, and just give the absolute minimum to keep it just barely going. This folks is nothing more than an unspoken Zionist policy being enforced. Keep the masses stupid, dumbnifying the masses is critical aspect of the illuminati quest for global rule. For they must have a docile obedient constituents who do not possess the fundamental cognitive abilities to oppose them. They are creating citizens who cannot rationalize and reason thus question the actions of their rulers. They are creating perfect servant class people who do not know how to THINK for themselves, who must be told what is, is not, and what will be, who do not possess critical thinking abilities.

For what is being perpetrated on colossal scales is none other than self censorship at the level of the mind... This is the main reason that all education had to be institutionalized, to coordinate mass hypnotic indoctrination programming on massive scales never before seen in human history.

Point Blank: Again, the ultimate truth of the matter goes all the way up to the Zionist, Masonic & Jesuit rulers of society. The masses of this country MUST be kept illiterate to the lowest degree in order to facilitate the management of this once great country. God forbid that this country would have a massive well informed intelligent society! If that were the case, they know that the end of their hidden agendas would come crumbling down. They prey upon and count on the masses of dumb Americans that go along with just about anything they are told by figures in authority. For stupid people are much easier to handle and led astray than pesky smart inquisitive ones.

There is no limit to the agencies, professionals, and bureaucrats which exist solely to dictate how we ought to live our lives. Teachers, doctors, government, ministers, and bankers spend time, funds, and effort intending to convince children up to the main population what to think. First on the agenda of indoctrinating your children is tearing down all concepts relating to God the creator, this is done by constantly forcing them to abandon belief in God and their inherent divine nature as children of God. This operation is surgically performed by endlessly teaching DARWINISM in our schools. A place where you can get fined up to $100,000 and two years in prison for praying in school. Yes, the same place you leave your children all alone five days a week to be taught whatever it is THEY feel fit for your children to learn. While God, the bible and religion is off the table, it is becoming increasingly mandatory to instruct your children that HOMOSEXUALITY is perfectly ok, normal and in some cases it seems to be fostered. THIS is the sad, but very true state of our national public education system. But this is just the beginning...

Elementary school is where they are implanted with the cleansed fairy tale version of history and are taught what are "accepted norms", how our society works. This is not conjecture. It has been scientifically proven that children MUST be reached by certain ages and taught as in programmed with information they will retain for life.

Ever since you were a little kid with an easily molded sponge of a mind you have been constantly conditioned and taught that evil and corruption come from just a very few sinister looking types and that our politicians are our loving benevolent custodians of government who wake up in the morning just exploding with the utmost concern and care for your well being. So that later in life to even dare entertain the thought of your government (and for that matter, religious leaders) being totally corrupt becomes incomprehensible. They implant the illusion that our social system is not only sound and normal but that there are "just a very few" scattered deviant, corrupt and criminal types out there. They prepare you for entering pre defined segments of society with all their extracurricular activities such as drama, sports, wood shop and so forth.

John Taylor Gatto - State Controlled Consciousness - video

The public school systems are nothing more than indoctrination camps where the young are institutionalized and pre conditioned for later release into society, to fulfill their part in society as conformed "sheeple". Think about it. One of the basic brain washing techniques is the strategic utilization of insufficient sleep, they make the children wake up and be in school at incredibly early hours. This is where you are trained to abide by rigid schedules, taught, programmed, trained to obey orders of the appointed overseers, the masters those in authority roles, comply with sirens, whistles and bells. You must OBEY your masters OBEY.... OBEY....

We the Children Become We the People: We the Children are taught to give our minds and power away to external authority and institutions. We the Children give our power away and become slaves to the social and political manipulators, whether State or biological parents.

So when you see your kids being trained to stand in line and march down the halls in single file, so cute and well behaved, remember it was me who revealed to you that your kids are being primed, trained to become accustomed to the concept of MARCHING for the military industrial matrix. Is it any wonder why the children of the masses are the ones who fill all the dangerous combat positions in the military while the privileged elite's children rarely ever serve, and the ones that do enter the military industrial complex go directly to nice cozy strategic managerial positions far from the bombs, bullets and toxins.

While your children are busy being indoctrinated into unquestioning devout patriotic citizen group think above critical thinking, the children of the Zionist elite are undergoing advanced sheeple management classes, advanced math and financial management classes, advanced economics, advanced social sciences, all the while your children are rarely taught the intricacies of and the connections of the real world financial systems. The ruling elites children's education into the world of real applied financial management mathematics begins in grade school. Here they teach a biased portrayal of history that is taught is glaringly devoid of REAL history, and only focuses on the NARRATIVES the ruling elite want to program into the public conscience, for it is from the foundation of our recollection of history that we formulate and understand the present...

Our modern educational system as we know it today is in large part if not completely, due to the strategic endeavours of Rockefeller family, (financed in large part by your friendly neighborhood Zionists such as Rothschilds and Warburgs) who over the years sought out larger and more effective ways of investing the "Rockefeller" fortune toward, in Fosdick's words, "this goal of social control." These men, it can safely be said, conspired to control American education while defending the Rockefeller fortune against all attacks, ensuring that their autocratic views would prevail. With the Rockefeller founded General Education Board, the take over of the Council on Medical Education, and so on, Rockefeller's "education trust," a virtually unlimited source of funds was to be made available to the Wundtian psychologists' ambitious designs on American education. The real motivation behind the General Education Board, however, was perhaps best expressed in the Board's Occasional Letter No. 1, written by Gates (one of Rockefeller's lieutenants):

"In our dreams, we have limitless resources and the people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding bands. The present education conventions fade from their minds, and unhampered by tradition, we work our own good will upon a grateful and responsive rural folk. We shall not try to make these people or any of their children into philosophers or men of learning, or men of science. We have not to raise up from among them authors, editors, poets or men of letters. We shall not search for embryo great artists, painters, musicians nor lawyers, doctors, preachers, politicians, statesmen, of whom we have an ample supply."

The aim at "social control" was clear and no attempt was made to conceal it. They have since modified their approach in public dissemination and hide this viewpoint. The aim of "education" was not intellectual or to make someone the best they could be. The aim is social manipulation and control. That has continued to be the aim of "public education". The Rockefellers became THE preeminent founders and financers of general educational, medical education and medical organizations in this country, they single handedly changed the entire course of education and medicine in this country and thus worldwide.

Modern psychology, psychiatry, medical approaches such as surgery and drugs, cancer treatments, and educational methods largely exist because there was an almost unlimited amount of money to support their promotion and expansion. Their existence today has VERY LITTLE to do with truth, legitimate "science", any actual inherent validity or effectiveness to the theories and methods involved. This is sad, but very true.

By controlling the education component they then by default control what is acceptable truth and practice. For instance, you only get a passing grade when you memorize ad nauseam what you are told and is presented to you as “truth.” In order for you to get your degree you MUST memorize what they want you to memorize, you must fully become one with the agenda, in this case “curriculum” as they are training you, if you don’t, you fail the exams. Only those who have successfully memorized and adopted the subject matters as they were presented get honored and promoted. Yes there have been few who have tried to stand up and say _____ and _____ is pure bullshit, the results have always been unanimous: F or expulsion. Do not pass Go, do not collect degree, thrown out on the cold hard streets.

It is not incorrect to say that a major segment of today's modern institutions exist, NOT because of honest study and concern for the truth in the respective fields, but because Rockefeller's money was available at their inception to fund incredible PR campaigns, establish "professional" publications and societies, steam roller over any competition (regardless of their legitimacy or value), and continue selling the ideas until accepted and institutionalized within the basic fabric of society. This is the true origin of most of modern medicine, psychology, psychiatry, sociology, banking, education, educational research foundations, politics, political research foundations, and on and on.

Most of the subversive takeover and infiltration of key areas of society has come from the united coordinated penetration through the thousands of “wonderful giving, caring” philanthropic organizations of the ruling elite. For once they make their fortunes in what ever area of commerce they then funnel those riches (very much like money laundering) through their centrally coordinated philanthropies to further influence and manipulate society.

School and universities exist solely to prepare the people to take part of the SYSTEM. Nothing more, nothing less. Your schooling exists to indoctrinate, program and train you to become PART OF THE MATERIAL WORLD SYSTEM. Those who come from select families, groups, background are trained to BECOME PART OF THE ESTABLISHMENT. The world we live in today was established by the "ruler of this world" who has been positively identified numerous times in the Holy Bible as Satan, Lucifer, the Devil. Therefore, the establishment, society, the world has been fashioned after HIS ideals. Where is God? God has been working for thousands of years to BRING THE MESSIAH... THE SAVIOR OF MANKIND who is to come to this world and attend your schools and learn your material world ways? Get a degree then go job hunting in the grossly selfish and biased capitalist “Democratic” system? NOT!! He will come to CHANGE IT. He comes to destroy the system and the evil one's dominion and all that he established. Thus, I pose to you a very profound question: Do you think that Jesus upon his return will be impressed by your university degrees in LUCIFER'S SYSTEM? Lucifer's establishment? Satan's status quo? NEVER, for the Savior of mankind comes to destroy all the selfish self centered world and build a NEW SYSTEM, a NEW WORLD centered on GOD, compassion, love, forgiveness, righteousness, giving and so on. He comes to institute a NEW VALUE SYSTEM based on love, righteousness and compassion. Therefore I say to thee: Take pride in your long sought after degrees and your ivy league status here and now, for when the time comes you shall stand before your judge on the same level of disadvantage that the down trodden of this material world system stand before their masters...

In 1953, Representative B. Carroll Reese of Tennessee received the authority of Congress to establish a special committee to investigate the power and influence of tax-exempt foundations. The committee never got very far off the ground due to mounting political pressure from multiple sources high within government itself and, eventually, Reese was forced to terminate the committee's work. During its short period of existence, however, many interesting and highly revealing facts were brought to light. Norman Dodd, who was the committee's director of research, and probably one of the country's most knowledgeable authorities on foundations, testified during the hearings and told the committee:

“The result of the development and operation of the network in which the foundations (by their support and encouragement) have played such a significant role, seems to have provided this country with what is tantamount to a national system of education under the tight control of organizations and persons little known to the American public... The curriculum in this tightly controlled scheme of education is designed to indoctrinate the American student from matriculation to the consummation of his education.”

I don't make this stuff up people. All these words are not mine; they are gleaned from hundreds of verified sources, professionals who have spent their lives researching these things. The Rockefellers have for all intents and purposes, beyond oil also monopolized the world of education beyond belief, for no other reason than to direct it, manipulate it and control access to higher knowledge... to control the masses. I have neither the space nor time to cover the vast Rockefeller conquest of the educational industrial complex other than to try my best to sum it up for you here. Again, I must ask those who want to know more and you should look into this further into their forays into this realm, for this segment is pivotal to the conditioning of young minds, establishing the foundations of thought and belief systems thus pivotal in leading the masses astray, please research the matrix of education in more depth, for it is the only way you will understand the depth of the monumental subjugation of youth's minds by the entire education system.

I was recently given some hope for the future in that at least not all the goyim kids out there are being completely indoctrinated without having a clue, yes some do have a clue what is going on. I was surprised how well she articulated and summed up the entire educational system so lucidly, especially for a teenager who has yet to meet the real world of hard knocks. Here is a video and corresponding transcript from a high school valedictorian's graduation speech... just brilliant:

Epic Valedictorian Speech Against Schooling, Yes it is EPIC!

Youtube video “Valedictorian Speaks Out Against Schooling:”

Erica Goldson graduated from Coxsackie-Athens High School (Coxsackie, NY). Like a very few others, she got an opportunity to make a valedictorian speech. She understood the power of the opportunity in front of her and made a fabulous speech — filled with passion, lashing the whip against the whole educational system, which is a fine mess. Here is the full transcript:

Here I stand

There is a story of a young, but earnest Zen student who approached his teacher, and asked the Master, “If I work very hard and diligently, how long will it take for me to find Zen? The Master thought about this, then replied, “Ten years.” The student then said, “But what if I work very, very hard and really apply myself to learn fast – How long then?” Replied the Master, “Well, twenty years.” “But, if I really, really work at it, how long then?” asked the student. “Thirty years,” replied the Master. “But, I do not understand,” said the disappointed student. “At each time that I say I will work harder, you say it will take me longer. Why do you say that?” Replied the Master, “When you have one eye on the goal, you only have one eye on the path.”

This is the dilemma I've faced within the American education system. We are so focused on a goal, whether it be passing a test, or graduating as first in the class. However, in this way, we do not really learn. We do whatever it takes to achieve our original objective.

Some of you may be thinking, “Well, if you pass a test, or become valedictorian, didn't you learn something? Well, yes, you learned something, but not all that you could have. Perhaps, you only learned how to memorize names, places, and dates to later on forget in order to clear your mind for the next test. School is not all that it can be. Right now, it is a place for most people to determine that their goal is to get out as soon as possible.

I am now accomplishing that goal. I am graduating. I should look at this as a positive experience, especially being at the top of my class. However, in retrospect, I cannot say that I am any more intelligent than my peers. I can attest that I am only the best at doing what I am told and working the system. Yet, here I stand, and I am supposed to be proud that I have completed this period of indoctrination. I will leave in the fall to go on to the next phase expected of me, in order to receive a paper document that certifies that I am capable of work. But I contend that I am a human being, a thinker, an adventurer – not a worker. A worker is someone who is trapped within repetition – a slave of the system set up before him. But now, I have successfully shown that I was the best slave. I did what I was told to the extreme. While others sat in class and doodled to later become great artists, I sat in class to take notes and become a great test-taker. While others would come to class without their homework done because they were reading about an interest of theirs, I never missed an assignment. While others were creating music and writing lyrics, I decided to do extra credit, even though I never needed it. So, I wonder, why did I even want this position? Sure, I earned it, but what will come of it? When I leave educational institutionalism, will I be successful or forever lost? I have no clue about what I want to do with my life; I have no interests because I saw every subject of study as work, and I excelled at every subject just for the purpose of excelling, not learning. And quite frankly, now I'm scared.

John Taylor Gatto, a retired school teacher and activist critical of compulsory schooling, asserts, “We could encourage the best qualities of youthfulness – curiosity, adventure, resilience, the capacity for surprising insight simply by being more flexible about time, texts, and tests, by introducing kids into truly competent adults, and by giving each student what autonomy he or she needs in order to take a risk every now and then. But we don't do that.” Between these cinderblock walls, we are all expected to be the same. We are trained to ace every standardized test, and those who deviate and see light through a different lens are worthless to the scheme of public education, and therefore viewed with contempt.

H. L. Mencken wrote in The American Mercury for April 1924 that the aim of public education is NOT:

“to fill the young of the species with knowledge and awaken their intelligence. ... Nothing could be further from the truth. The aim ... is simply to reduce as many individuals as possible to the same safe level, to breed and train a standardized citizenry, to put down dissent and originality. That is its aim in the United States.”

To illustrate this idea, doesn't it perturb you to learn about the idea of “critical thinking?” Is there really such a thing as “uncritically thinking?” To think is to process information in order to form an opinion. But if we are not critical when processing this information, are we really thinking? Or are we mindlessly accepting other opinions as truth?

This was happening to me, and if it wasn't for the rare occurrence of an avant-garde tenth grade English teacher, Donna Bryan, who allowed me to open my mind and ask questions before accepting textbook doctrine, I would have been doomed. I am now enlightened, but my mind still feels disabled. I must retrain myself and constantly remember how insane this ostensibly sane place really is.

And now here I am in a world guided by fear, a world suppressing the uniqueness that lies inside each of us, a world where we can either acquiesce to the inhuman nonsense of corporatism and materialism or insist on change. We are not enlivened by an educational system that clandestinely sets us up for jobs that could be automated, for work that need not be done, for enslavement without fervency for meaningful achievement. We have no choices in life when money is our motivational force. Our motivational force ought to be passion, but this is lost from the moment we step into a system that trains us, rather than inspires us.

We are more than robotic bookshelves, conditioned to blurt out facts we were taught in school. We are all very special, every human on this planet is so special, so aren't we all deserving of something better, of using our minds for innovation, rather than memorization, for creativity, rather than futile activity, for rumination rather than stagnation? We are not here to get a degree, to then get a job, so we can consume industry-approved placation after placation. There is more, and more still.

The saddest part is that the majority of students don't have the opportunity to reflect as I did. The majority of students are put through the same brainwashing techniques in order to create a complacent labor force working in the interests of large corporations and secretive government, and worst of all, they are completely unaware of it. I will never be able to turn back these 18 years. I can't run away to another country with an education system meant to enlighten rather than condition. This part of my life is over, and I want to make sure that no other child will have his or her potential suppressed by powers meant to exploit and control. We are human beings. We are thinkers, dreamers, explorers, artists, writers, engineers. We are anything we want to be – but only if we have an educational system that supports us rather than holds us down. A tree can grow, but only if its roots are given a healthy foundation.

For those of you out there that must continue to sit in desks and yield to the authoritarian ideologies of instructors, do not be disheartened. You still have the opportunity to stand up, ask questions, be critical, and create your own perspective. Demand a setting that will provide you with intellectual capabilities that allow you to expand your mind instead of directing it. Demand that you be interested in class. Demand that the excuse, “You have to learn this for the test” is not good enough for you. Education is an excellent tool, if used properly, but focus more on learning rather than getting good grades.

For those of you that work within the system that I am condemning, I do not mean to insult; I intend to motivate. You have the power to change the incompetencies of this system. I know that you did not become a teacher or administrator to see your students bored. You cannot accept the authority of the governing bodies that tell you what to teach, how to teach it, and that you will be punished if you do not comply. Our potential is at stake.

For those of you that are now leaving this establishment, I say, do not forget what went on in these classrooms. Do not abandon those that come after you. We are the new future and we are not going to let tradition stand. We will break down the walls of corruption to let a garden of knowledge grow throughout America. Once educated properly, we will have the power to do anything, and best of all, we will only use that power for good, for we will be cultivated and wise. We will not accept anything at face value. We will ask questions, and will demand truth.

So, here I stand. I am not standing here as valedictorian by myself. I was molded by my environment, by all of my peers who are sitting here watching me. I couldn't have accomplished this without all of you. It was all of you who truly made me the person I am today. It was all of you who were my competition, yet my backbone. In that way, we are all valedictorians.

I am now supposed to say farewell to this institution, those who maintain it, and those who stand with me and behind me, but I hope this farewell is more of a “see you later” when we are all working together to rear a pedagogic movement. But first, let's go get those pieces of paper that tell us that we're smart enough to do so!

While your children are busy being indoctrinated in the public school system being prepped for introduction into the system, some graduate to then go onto the college level indoctrination complex. The children of the most elite of society attend special universities, special classes, special instruction, special programs, not meant for the ordinary folks, that's why they raise the bar of entry into the stratosphere. Ever tried to get into Yale, Harvard recently? Let alone the exclusive programs and fraternities? In the poor neighborhoods, no matter how bright and promising a young student may be, most are so inundated with meer SURVIVAL and meeting basic living needs that the quest for higher education is completely out of question, a dream.

The Zionists Jews for example have their very own educational system where no gentile is allowed to enter. The most sacred teaching of the Zionist ruling elite above of all is the most sacred and central study of the Talmud you can [read 'cleansed' online version of Talmud here]. Did you know that it is forbidden of goyim sheeple such as yourself to be caught reading the Talmud? Yes, under Talmud it is a grave sin for you and all gentiles to read it... under penalty of DEATH!.... so read the Talmud at your own risk! Yikes! I'm so scared! Lol. Behold for we now live in the age of the power of instant access to the hidden secrets age! You can also download the Talmud text here: Scribd.com, and here: Complete Soncino English Translation of the Babylonian Talmud, and a whole bunch over here: Talmud PDF search.

You will learn fascinating tidbits like why the gentile goyim people are the scum of the earth to be treated like cattle by the more highly advanced Jew race. And wonderful facts like it is perfectly ok for Jews to kill any offending goyim for the smallest of offenses. Such are the ways the Zionist educate their own. Advanced students of the Talmud “graduate” and go on to higher level studies known as the illuminati black magic Kabbalah.

Here are some joyful excerpts (please note that only some CLEANSED versions of the Talmud are directed to the goyim sheeple to ‘quote check’ thus of course you won’t find the hard core teachings in the CLEANSED censored sheeple versions) from the Talmud:

“A Jew may rob a goy – that is, he may cheat him in a bill, if unlikely to be perceived by him.” “How to interpret the word ‘robbery.’ A goy is forbidden to steal, rob or take women slaves, etc., from a goy or Jew. But the Jew is NOT forbidden to do all this to a goy.”

“All vows, oaths, promises, engagements, and swearing, which, beginning this very day of reconciliation, we intend to vow, promise, swear, and bind ourselves to fulfill, we repent of beforehand; let them be illegalized, acquitted, annihilated, abolished, valueless, unimportant. Our vows shall be no vows, and our oaths no oaths at all.”

If you really want to get a quick concise glimpse into the teachings of the “sacred” Talmud for what it really is... you MUST check out: Truth about the Talmud: Racist, Rabbinic Hate Literature by foremost scholar of Judaism in the English-speaking world, (a fellow Jew just telling the unadulterated truth), Michael Hoffman. This Jewish author has often been attacked by the Zionists for his highly researched, unbiased and accurate works. With that said and done, you should also check out his book “Judaism Discovered: A Desideratum.” Find out more at his website: www.revisionisthistory.org.

Never forget that: it is in the public schools where every single year since elementary that the young pliable minds of your children are mandated to MEMORIZE the official sanctified revisionist version of history... It is their mission to embed the “official sanctified state belief system” into the minds and hearts of all the citizens.

THE SEIZURE OF THE MINDS OF AMERICAN INFANTS is about to take place in a Barack Obama presidency. This will occur in Obama’s Early Childhood Proposals in a subheading which he calls the Zero To Five plan. Here is what our coming Big Brother, Barack Obama, has to say about this plan:

“The Zero To Five plan places a key emphasis on early care and education for infants. This is essential for children to be ready to enter kindergarten.

I will create Early Learning Challenge Grants to promote state Zero To Five efforts to help states move toward voluntary, universal pre-school.” View Entire Plan Here.

These few sentences from the mouth of Obama are loaded with Big Brother invasive plans for our lives and culture.

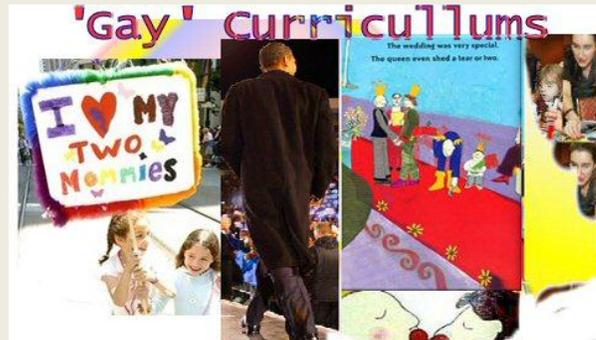

A SOCIAL ENGINEERING HOOK

OBAMA'S SEIZURE OF THE MINDS of American infants is loaded with Big Brother invasive plans that will take us a giant step away from private freedoms.

First of all, Obama is calling for “early care” of America’s infants. This is an obvious “hook” for parents to unload their children into the arms of Big Brother for relief from the burden of oversight.

Because of rapid inflation due to the takeover of our monetary system by the Zionist Jews of the Federal Reserve Bank, both parents of “zero to five” aged children are now forced to work full time jobs. Thus Obama’s Zero To Five plan will be looked upon as a godsend by working mothers — a free “baby-sitting” service provided by the Federal Government. But Obama’s baby-sitting service will be nothing less than a “social-engineering” program.

Secondly, an “education” for infants & toddlers will be at the hands of the Federal Government, a “secularized” and “Anti-Christian” entity. What will the Federal Government poison infants aged “zero to five” with? We all know the answer.

Young impressionable minds will be taught vis a vis children’s picture books, “same sex relations,” “obedience to authorities,” (not parents, but government authorities), and “political correctness.” Young children will be taught that freedom of speech does not include criticizing the conduct of a person or group whose religion, color, or sexual orientation is different from the majority.

Thirdly, with Obama’s Early Learning Challenge Grants to the states, we will be witnessing the final takeover of state independence by a central authority, the Federal Government. This central authority will be run by a sociopath in the presidency with no moral compass & with greater powers, namely, the psychologically impaired, Barack Obama.

ZIONIST JEWS DOMINATE THE TEACHING PROFESSION

ZIONIST JEWISH TEACHERS will be the beneficiaries of grants to develop teachers as recommended in Obama’s Zero To Five plan.

At present, the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) is dominated by Zionist Jews, all who have an “Anti-Christian” bent. The current president of the AFT is the Zionist Jew, Mss Randi Weingarten. This Zionist Jew from New York City is the overseer of the more than 1.4-million-member American Federation of Teachers.

Weingarten took over the presidency of the AFT in 2005, from her successor, the Zionist Jew, Sandra Feldman of New York City, (born Sandra Abramowitz). Indeed, the Zionist-Jewish center of the world, New York City, with its multitude of Zionist Jewish teachers, has the power and control of the AFT.

The Zionist-Jewish roots of the AFT began in the Jewish world of New York City. In 1941, a pro-communist entity based in Brooklyn, known as the Teachers Guild, initiated the early growth of a teachers labor union which eventuated into the American Federation of Teachers. The founders and presidents of the Teachers Guild were two Zionist Jews, Albert Shanker & Charles Cogen.

Shanker emerged as the dominant leader of the Teachers Guild, growing it into the United Federation of Teachers in 1960 & merging in 1961 with a struggling labor union, the American Federation of Teachers. By 1974, Shanker had insinuated himself through a fierce power-struggle as president of the AFT. Shanker died of brain cancer in 1997. He was succeeded by his protege, the Zionist Jew, Sandra Feldman, who died of cancer in 2005. She in turn was succeeded by the current president of the AFT, the Zionist Jew, Randi Weingarten.

Already, the AFT has an Early Childhood Educators Agenda in preparation for a Big Brother policy designed to seize the minds of American infants.

And who will our American infants learn from? Whose curriculum will our American infants be brainwashed with in Obama's Zero To Five plan? Zionist Jews, that's who.

Have you ever noticed that a large percentage of the most revered, popularized and promoted famous people are Jews? We are being PRIMED, programmed, indoctrinated to recognize the Jewish people as superior to all others in every way, shape and form, in every sector of society. We already see that the names of ALL the top prominent people of the financial world all have Jewish names, you cannot watch a major movie without seeing the names of prominent Jewish producers in the credits, a large percentage of Hollywood stars are Jewish, and so on. Every segment of society has there Jewish heroes that the Jewish owned media and publishing cartel publicize and promote every chance they get. It would be impossible for me to list and analyze each and every case for that would require its own 1,000 page book. But it is clear to me since I have been proactively paying attention to the names that repeatedly appear before us through the media.

One example out of the thousands to choose from that depicts a Jewish person as among the very top of their fields is Einstein. The Jewish owned media has built a genius shrine around this man and placed him on a pedestal like no other. So much so that Einstein was made synonymous with pure genius. Look up genius in any dictionary and there is Einstein's picture. The Jewish press and media's quest to portray this Jew as the MOST SUPERIOR HUMAN SPECIMINE all others are to revere and hold in high esteem is part of their master plan to position their race as the commonly acknowledged and accepted superior race and leaders of mankind.

What makes the case of Einstein so interesting is the fact that he was never a true or real genius his Jewish media and the Jewish press have conditioned us all to believe. Do a search on the net such as "is Einstein a true genius" and you will find tons of evidence that he wasn't. Most people think Einstein was a genius don't even have a clue he did poorly in school, it is generally assumed that Einstein became a genius later on.

It's also widely believed that he used superior intellect and complex mathematical reasoning to finally arrive at $E=MC^2$. The truth about Einstein is altogether different. Even though he was pretty smart, his accomplishments didn't come from a wildly superior intellect. It is common knowledge that he didn't arrive at his famous equation by complex mathematical reasoning. In fact, he didn't use mathematical or scientific reasoning at all! It is widely agreed that at best he stumbled onto it...

A Theory of Einstein the Irrational Plagiarist

Christopher Jon Bjerknes – The Canberra Times September 19, 2006

The name "Einstein" evokes images of a good-humored genius, who revolutionized our concepts of space, time, energy, mass and motion. Time named Albert Einstein "person of the century". The language itself has incorporated "Einstein" into our common vocabulary as a synonym for extraordinary brilliance. Many consider Einstein to have been the finest mind in recorded human history.

That is the popular image, fostered by textbooks, the media, and hero worshiping physicists and historians. However, when one reads the scientific literature written by Einstein's contemporaries, a quite different picture emerges: one of an irrational plagiarist, who manipulated credit for their work.

Einstein is perhaps most famous for the special theory of relativity, published in 1905 in the German physics journal, Annalen der Physik. The paper was devoid of references, a fact that Einstein's friend and Nobel prize winner for physics, Max Born, found troubling.

"The striking point is that it contains not a single reference to previous literature," Born stated in 1955, before the International Relativity Conference in Bern. "It gives you the impression of quite a new venture. But that is, of course, as I have tried to explain, not true."

Though Einstein's 1905 article contained no references, it was so strikingly similar to a paper written by Hendrik Lorentz the previous year, that Walter Kaufmann and Max Planck felt a need to publicly point out that Einstein had merely provided a metaphysical reinterpretation and generalisation of Lorentz' scientific theory, a metaphysical reinterpretation and generalisation Henri Poincare had already published.

As Charles Nordmann, astronomer to the Paris Observatory, pointed out: "It is really to Henri Poincare, the great Frenchman whose death has left a void that will never be filled, that we must accord the merit of having first proved, with the greatest lucidity and the most prudent audacity, that time and space, as we know them, can only be relative. A few quotations from his works will not be out of place. They will show that the credit for most of the things which are currently attributed to Einstein is, in reality, due to Poincare."

Einstein acknowledged the fact, but justified his plagiarism in a cavalier fashion in Annalen der Physik in 1907. "It appears to me that it is the nature of the business that what follows has already been partly solved by other authors. Despite that fact, since the issues of concern are here addressed from a new point of view, I believe I am entitled to leave out a thoroughly pedantic survey of the literature, all the more so because it is hoped that these gaps will yet be filled by other authors, as has already happened with my first work on the principle of relativity through the commendable efforts of Mr. Planck and Mr. Kaufmann."

The completed field equations of the general theory of relativity were first deduced by David Hilbert, a fact Einstein was forced to acknowledge in 1916, after he had plagiarized them from Hilbert in late 1915. Paul Gerber solved the problem of the perihelion of Mercury in 1898. Physicist Ernst Gehrcke gave a lecture on the theory of relativity in the Berlin Philharmonic on August 24, 1920, and publicly confronted Einstein, who was in attendance, with Einstein's plagiarism of Lorentz' mathematical formalisms of the special theory of relativity, Palagyi's space-time concepts, Varicak's non-Euclidean geometry and of the plagiarism of the mathematical solution of the problem of the perihelion of Mercury first arrived at by Gerber. Gehrcke addressed Einstein to his face and told the crowd that the emperor had no clothes.

This was Einstein's response published in the Berliner Tageblatt und Handels-Zeitung on August 27, 1920, translated into English in the book Albert Einstein's Theory of General Relativity edited by Gerald E. Tauber: ". . . Gerber, who has given the correct formula for the perihelion motion of Mercury before I did. The experts are not only in agreement that Gerber's derivation is wrong through and through, but the formula cannot be obtained as a consequence of the main assumption made by Gerber. Mr Gerber's work is therefore completely useless, an unsuccessful and erroneous theoretical attempt.

"I maintain that the theory of general relativity has provided the first real explanation of the perihelion motion of mercury. I have not mentioned the work by Gerber originally, because I did not know it when I wrote my work on the perihelion motion of Mercury; even if I had been aware of it, I would not have had any reason to mention it."

The fact that Einstein was a plagiarist is common knowledge in the physics community. What isn't so well-known is that the sources Einstein parroted were also largely unoriginal. In 1919, writing in the Philosophical Magazine Harry Bateman, a British mathematician and physicist who had emigrated to the United States, unsuccessfully sought acknowledgment of his work.

"The appearance of Dr Silberstein's recent article on General Relativity without the Equivalence Hypothesis encourages me to restate my own views on the subject," Bateman wrote.

"I am perhaps entitled to do this as my work on the subject of general relativity was published before that of Einstein and Kottler, and appears to have been overlooked by recent writers."

My book is a documentation of Einstein's plagiarism of the theory of relativity. It discloses his method for manipulating credit for the work of his contemporaries, reprints the prior works he parroted, and demonstrates that he could not have drawn his conclusions without prior knowledge of the works he copied but failed to reference.

Numerous republished quotations from Einstein's contemporaries prove that they were aware of his plagiarism. Side-by-side comparisons of Einstein's words juxtaposed to those of his predecessors prove the almost verbatim repetition. There is even substantial evidence presented in the book that Einstein plagiarized the work of his first wife, Mileva Maric, who had plagiarized others.

Mr Bjercknes, an American historian of science, has authored six books on Einstein and the theory of relativity. Albert Einstein: The Incurable Plagiarist (ISBN 0971962987)

When I first found out the truth about Einstein long ago I was shocked but never thought twice about it, until now that I have been connecting all the dots. Upon reviewing all the evidence it seems that everyone's most dear famous "genius" was nothing more than just another Jewish fraud perpetrated on the public to further their agendas and instill upon the goyim minds the concept that the Jewish people are truly superior to all.

Have you even noticed the ongoing assault on parental rights? Today it is all too common and accepted practice for the state to walk into a families' living room and take away their children for a whole array of different excuses, some going as far as imprisoning parents. The establishment always intervenes in all aspects of life under the pretense of protecting the rights of the people, "for your best interests and for your protection" but in the vast majority of cases nothing could be further from the truth.

We have been witnessing the rise of "basic human rights" for children, all the while constantly eroding and destroying parental rights to raise their children as they choose. To the uninitiated, the "blind" masses that have no clue about the goals and wishes of the worlds ruling elite never connect the dots. On one hand you see the elite leaders "championing for the family values", while on the other hand they enact legislation that hampers and tears families apart, ever so slightly, just a little here and there. You must understand it is NOT in the best interests of the ruling masters for there to be peace, love and harmony within the common family. The onslaught of the family comes from every single direction you can imagine, with their favorite mode of infiltration is creeping in the front door of your educational institutions where they teach your children whatever they please, indoctrinating them behind your back while you are busy trudging along 9 to 5 day after day out there making money to give to your banker slave masters.

What kind of “change” has your savior the Obaminator brought to the table? His appointment for “Safe Schools Czar” says it all: He appointed Kevin Jennings, who is a former schoolteacher who has advocated promoting homosexuality in schools, written about his past drug abuse, expressed his contempt for religion and detailed an incident in which he did not report an underage student who told him he was having sex with older men. In 1990, as a teacher in Massachusetts, he founded the Gay, Lesbian and Straight Education Network (GLSEN), which now has over 40 chapters at schools nationwide. He has also published six books on gay rights and education, including one that describes his own experiences as a closeted gay student. Don’t you feel so secure knowing that your children’s minds are in the hands of such wonderful caring people?

So how far into the stratosphere are they convoluting your parental rights? According to the Parental Rights website the CRC (U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Child) will dictate:

- 1- The best interest of the child principle would give the government the ability to OVERRIDE every decision made by every parent of a government worker disagreed with the parent’s decision.
- 2- A child’s “right to be heard” would allow him (or her) to seek government review of every parental decision with which the child disagreed!
- 3- Child would acquire a LEGALLY ENFORCABLE right to leisure.
- 4- Allowing parents to opt their children out of sex education has been held to be out of compliance with the CRC.
- 5- Children would have the right to reproductive health information and services, including abortion, WITHOUT parental knowledge or consent.

The government would decide what is in the best of interest of a children in every case, and the CRC would be considered superior to state laws. Parents could be treated like criminals for making every-day decisions about their children’s lives... This is where your ruling elite masters are taking your parental rights to.

Behold; For you must understand, that in their eyes YOUR CHILDREN BELONG TO YOUR RULING MASTERS. When you go off to work every day and turn over THEIR children to their indoctrination complex all the way up until they graduate high school, they will be taught what THEY want THEIR children to learn. Is it any wonder why all children by the time they become teens rebel against their parents? Savor this statement, digest it well.

Another very sad fact about our society is the massive educational system inequality. From the beginning of the establishing of our school system there has always been schools for the "haves and have not's". Wealth is the overall single factor in determining the quality of one’s education. Of course we have the people that will deny this simple fact. Their rational is: Well there are many good public schools out there, there are also many grants and student loans available. Though this statement is true. It by and large does NOT apply to the majority or entire public at large. When you study the statistics you will see that only a small percentile of the public has access to such "luxuries".

In the first rule of money Robert Kiyosaki (of Rich Dad Poor Dad) introduces the ‘conspiracy against our education.’ He writes ‘it is a crime that in America our real estate taxes determine the quality of education a child receives. Schools in poor neighborhoods receive less tax money than schools in rich neighborhoods. Talk about a conspiracy of the rich!’ I think the bottom line of the first new rule of money is that we need to first educate ourselves to be financially literate, and then our children, because as we know when we look at the output of the educational system, they are not receiving financial education at school no matter what neighborhood they live in.

The offspring of the elite in society who grow up in lives of social and economic privilege more often than not have their entire education planned in advance. Groomed from birth for success. They automatically go to the best ivy league schools around the world then later in life join exclusive secret "fraternities" such as "Skull & Bones" (just to name one). They are ones groomed for top leadership posts. Granted, this does not come automatically, they still must prove their loyalty and devotion to their handlers and "the cause" of that particular segment of the Matrix.

Let it be perfectly understood that the breeding ground for identifying, selecting and grooming administrators for the ruling elite is the university system. The people who are carefully selected are those who demonstrate the most intellectual potential but most importantly the propensity to totally submit to the will of the elite faction who have a presence and represented in all major universities as "fraternities." It is here that their loyalty, commitment and dedication to the group is fomented, fostered, reinforced, tested and confirmed. This is also where life long "connections" are formed. You only need review the references of all elected officials for instance and you will notice an amazing pattern of most leaders having been members of this or that fraternity, many of which a graduate with some sort of honors. Thus having been prominent members of some key fraternities is somewhat like possessing a membership card that opens doors to exclusive places and positions.

The ingenious fraternity system was established long ago to discover and segregate the best of the best most promising leadership candidates from the riff raft. A system of exclusivity was established were those whom were deemed as special like minded people of potential could join an exclusive "brotherhood," were they could be singled out and groomed as loyal servants and for inclusion within the ruling elite network. Thus the exclusive secretive FRATERNITY system was born. All these fraternities were established under ancient pagan Greek mythical themes, thus the rampant use of the Greek alphabet and naming conventions. The connected fraternities are basically recruitment subsidiaries, spin-offs from Masonic offspring, as their Masonic brethren, they too become immersed in pagan (occult) rituals, this level is often where it all begins for many innocent developing minds who's souls are won over, subjugated and subsequently conquered. Thus it is an integral characteristic for the malevolent centered fraternities to use occult objects in their rituals such as skulls and bones. What is so sad, due to the lack of proper knowledge, 99% of the population does not comprehend that those silly rituals are in fact very powerful mediums in conjuring and channeling evil spirit world to take over their minds, hearts and lives.

Pic of top Jewish fraternity is eerily similar to the Skull & Bones fraternity:

Fraternity crests reveal a lot. Notice that many include traditional and important illuminati, Freemasonry, wicca, Luciferian symbols such as the all seeing eye, the pyramid, the owl, fascia, maltese cross, etc. I don't have the time and luxury of cataloging the founding, purposes, practices and so forth of all the fraternities, I will leave that up some inquisitive researcher who stumbled onto this report. But I will say that the last crest on the bottom right is from the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity founded at Yale in 1845, their official symbol is the phoenix, their motto translated: "The cause is hidden, the results well-known."

The development of Freemasonry in the early 1700s became a watershed moment in fraternal organization, and there have been hundreds of varieties of Freemasonry, and thousands of closely parallel organizations since then. Virtually all fraternal organizations today bear some debt to the models of organization first worked out in Masonic lodges. Not all fraternities are "connected" part of the ruling elite grooming network. (Note: for those not as privileged to have been able to attend prestigious universities, there is another avenue into the ruling elite realm, and that is through military enlistment. Here again, those whom show the most potential are often sought out and groomed for future roles. Review their references and you can readily see that thousands of politicians also come from this avenue. An important observation of those whom go that path is that the military trains them to be perfect mind slaves and obedient loyal servants of those who are their superiors, thus grooming perfect political figures whom answer NOT to the public, but to their ruling masters).

Below are a few random fraternity crests... note the traditional ruling elite symbolism, they hide in plain site:

Behold: For yet another crucial clue is revealed about the secretive elite, exhibit A, shown above clearly unequivocally demonstrates the ruling elite's hand that dominates ALL the halls of higher education. Again we see another case of rampant use of symbolism by the ruling elite in use in these crests. Most importantly though is the paramount understanding that the university system is THEIR prime training and indoctrination system. It is here were they pinpoint future leaders who are then recruited from the crème de la crème to be groomed for illuminati managerial positions.

Meanwhile “the great college hoax” of equality is perpetrated on the rest of the working class commoners. The “establishment” has seared into everyone's minds that the playing field is “equal”... this is the biggest crock of shit lie. Reality is nothing close to that statement. The children of the rich go to universities with ALL their finances completely taken care of and graduate without one single cent in debt. Meanwhile the working class commoners must mortgage their homes! Take out obscene loans, work part time to help cover the expenses, by the time the poor kids graduate they are all up to the necks embroiled in DEBT... their first steps into financial enslavement. It is common to graduate with $60,000 to $100,000 in debt. Then they get a job, finance a car and add those payments to the mix, soon they fall in love and plunge head first into the American Dream of the white picket fence and add several more hundreds of thousands more to their debt load. Before they know it, without their slightest clue, they melded right in, assumed their rightful place in society as just another perpetual debtor. Effectively enslaved yet believing they are free.

Schools ‘Groom Kids for Surveillance State’?

BlackListedNews.com, 8-29-2010

Schools are increasingly invading student privacy both in school and outside of school. Are schools grooming youth to passively accept a surveillance state where they have no expectation of privacy anywhere? A PogoWasRight.org commentary.

The increasing use of student surveillance and intrusion of school districts into students' extra-curricular conduct should alarm us all. Whether it is a district surveilling students in their bedrooms via webcam, conducting random drug or locker searches, strip-searching students, lowering the standard for searching students to “reasonable suspicion” from “probable cause,” disciplining students for conduct outside of school hours, searching their cellphones and text messages, or allegedly forcing them to undergo pregnancy testing, student privacy is under increasing threat.

The other day I mentioned a Connecticut school district that wanted to require students to carry an ID card with an RFID chip so that they could track their location. The surveillance capability included locating the student if they were off school premises and in town. Today, I came across another news story from earlier this month that also involves tracking students. KTVU in California reported that the Contra Costa County School District began introducing a tracking system for preschool students that would alert staff when a student leaves school premises. In order to accomplish that, students will reportedly be required to wear a jersey that contains the RFID tag that uses Wi-Fi to send signals to sensors located throughout the school.

I realize that some might argue that these are just little pre-schoolers and of course, we want to protect their safety, etc., but keep in mind that one of the major justifications for the program is to save staff time in terms of having to manually record attendance, etc. In exchange for that time and cost-saving, what price do we pay psychologically as a society? It strikes me that schools are grooming our youth to simply accept being tracked and monitored wherever they go and that anything they do, anywhere, can be used against them in school or elsewhere.

Is this really how we want to raise our children? To be sheep who accept being tracked and who have little sense of privacy or entitlement to privacy?

A study released last year by Fordham Law's Center on Law and Information Privacy found that the education sector was not doing enough to protect the privacy of student information. It did not, however, look at the question of whether schools were actually invading student privacy and systematically eroding student privacy rights and autonomy. It's time for a national dialogue about student privacy, while there are still some remnants of it left.

The intelligent ones from the "pheasants" of society who attend the public school system and climb their ways up the educational chain distinguishing themselves with their higher IQs. These superior intellectual ones are often singled out somewhere along their route and converted into believers and true followers of "the system" in whatever segment they are ultimately gifted at. They are then immersed in the "group think" of their industry segment. This conditioning begins in the universities. Special "head hunters" whose job it is to identify those gifted ones, often keep tabs on them, waiting for graduation day where they are chosen to join whatever segment has best use for this new talent pool. After joining the elite business, government, organizations, etc., they are carefully monitored by top brass. Those who prove loyal to "the cause", mission, establishment, etc., are promoted and groomed for higher level positions. Only after demonstrating absolute loyalty and trust, to their masters, will they, little by little be given key positions where their work is to perpetuate and advance whatever agenda or "system" that they are placed in.

In corporations, they call it climbing "the corporate ladder". In government they start out at lower echelons and after years of brown nosing and demonstrating absolute loyalty, they begin to rise with the blessings of the insiders and old timers, the "good ole boys," they are shown the ropes of the system, until they ultimately become fully fledged in the Matrix, becoming "made men." These are easy to find for they are the ones that hold all positions of power and are the ones you will find listed on the membership roles of all secret organizations such as CFR, Bildebergers, Trilateral Commission, Club of Rome, Committee of 300, CIA, Mossad, Central Banks, etc. Look at their lists of directorships and employment history portfolio, you will then easily see who is "connected."

The interesting segment is the religious chain. Advancement works in principle as the schooling system described above. But here is where fanatical religious, emotional and spiritual emphasis takes key roles. The Jesuits have the largest network of educational systems around the world. Follow the educational trail of the elite in society and it will reveal untold core beliefs of the individual and his alliances. Remember: the world is ultimately controlled by the Zionist, Masonic and Jesuit Factions. Schools of higher learning are their recruiting and grooming grounds. Some who graduate from religious universities go into the public sector and some go into the religious sector, the key is that most of the important indoctrination happens within the educational system, beginning within the classrooms and formulating key lifelong allegiances in the exclusive fraternities. Potential future leaders whatever height they might reach, are more often than not identified early on by "sponsors" and receive special guidance and training. They forge alliances with their peers and mentors, alliances that often last a lifetime.

All the while your children get to go to community college if they are so lucky to have not been among the 40 million who cannot even read, among the other 40 million who cannot comprehend what they read, among the 50 million living in dire poverty in this country, and last but not least, if you or they can actually afford higher education in the first place.

Your children are being bombarded by all sorts of mental and social conditioning, many so cleverly disguised and seemingly benign that most people never notice. Take for example Barbie, the world's preeminent leader in providing little girls with their first toys to play "house" and make believe life with. Forever embedding the young moldable minds with their initial concepts and solid hollow materialistic values, reference points, aspirations and ideals to pursue later on in life. Firmly and forever establishing in the young moldable minds THE MUST HAVE THINGS IN LIFE like the Barbie house, the car, the clothes, hair styles, accessories etc. They have been trained to value the material things in life and become the perfect consumers by the time they reach adolescence.

Who was behind the entire Barbie empire? It was built from the ground up by Zionist Jews, the founder being Ruth and Elliot Handler (Jews) who built the Mattel empire that is still being run by a majority of Zionists to this day. Mattel has since become an industry leading colossus and been at the forefront of providing young moldable minds with all sorts of fun "toys" to guide the direction and development of your children.

Finally I must touch upon the destructive programming of the likes of MTV and VH1. These two Zionist media outlets are single handedly corrupting our youth by a magnitude that is completely unfathomable. They are single handedly completely irreversibly destroying our youth's minds and moral fabric. Almost EVERY single PROGRAM that they air is full of foul immoral and decadent content. The Luciferian elite have been completely thoroughly corrupting your childrens hearts and minds, is it any wonder why the majority of them don't even want to get a higher education?

McDaniel

Every indicator and form of computing growth known to man has shown that America has been on a downward SPIRAL for decades now. Forget the bullshit data that is spewed out on Wall Street, these indicators are completely skewed, unreliable and downright misleading for the performance of all those MULTI-NATIONAL corporations stocks DO NOT reveal how AMERICA is doing. At the core of the decline of America has been a sinister stratagem to ship ALL THE JOBS THAT MADE AMERICA GREAT overseas to other countries in conjunction with the economic rape and enslavement of our country. This policy has been going on since the 1970s, today almost ALL our core production facilities and related jobs have all been eliminated and shipped to other countries. It is that simple.

This did NOT occur in a vacuum by chance... it has been a well thought out plan and policy to cut off our own legs so to speak and purposely decapitate ourselves by shipping all our jobs to other nations. The proof that this sinister suicidal stratagem has been premeditated and purposeful is in reviewing the hundreds of thousands of cases were the corporations ACTUALLY GET TAX INCENTIVES FROM OUR GOVERNMENT TO SHIP THEIR JOBS OVERSEAS!!!

Compared to the overtaxed, overregulated society that is America today, the America of the 19th century was one of astounding liberty and prosperity. Today we stand as a meer hollow shadow of our once great self. Slowly without anyone taking notice due to the fact that the entire process has been conducted in stages, one generation at a time, our country has been invaded by a secretive cartel and conquered from within and her wealth and greatness decimated and sent to all corners of the world. It has been under constant attack from within, an insidious invisible war waged on every element of our country...

While her once great wealth was being plundered and shipped overseas, the onslaught continued and also encompassed a direct frontal attack on America's collective moral standards that was once legendary up until the 20th century. The moral decay of our once great nation has been spearheaded by our wonderful Zionist media conglomerates. While on the other hand. The great industries that once made America the world's foremost economic power and provided working people a decent standard of living have ALL been shipped overseas, along with the technologies and know-how that made them such powerhouses.

Then there is the often overlooked dynamics of the colossal selling out of our major companies to foreign investors. In other words, what we have not literally shipped overseas we are selling to foreigners anyway. Our nation's so called elected leaders consists of some of the most highly educated people on the planet. Harvard, Yale, etc., the best of the best, collectively they are the smartest and the brightest our education system puts out. This is the "Brain Trust" of America. Yet these Ivy League over educated leaders more often than not enact the stupidest, insane, laws and policies that one has ever seen. How can such "smart educated people" make so many suicidal decisions leading to our eventual decline and destruction? These "highly educated" people are the people whom have consistently led our country into the abyss. All the economic and financial master degrees on the planet and yet they cannot manage to balance our nation's checkbook?

NO THIS IS NOT ACCIDENTAL. THE PLUNDERING OUR NATION HAS BEEN PURPOSEFUL AND DELIBERATE... they have been and are all busy gutting out and looting our nation's wealth. Period.

When corporations do move their operations overseas, they are given major tax reductions and other incentives on both sides. They are rewarded for stepping outside the American economy. They are rewarded for abandoning American workers. They are rewarded by the taxpayers—the very people who are destroyed by these types of actions. America no longer practices many forms of protectionism, but has essentially let all of her guards down. It's a fire sale and everything has to go. The country and its people are being bankrupted by design for nefarious purposes.

Behold: For I hereby proclaim to thee... the monetary crisis this nation is experiencing are purposely engineered, Economic Mass Destruction, our nation is systematically being gutted out. Prepare, for the days of woe are at your doorstep, here cometh the decent into the abyss. The multinational corporations who are most influential in directing America policy are no longer truly "American" companies, therefore they could care less about the long term survival of America, for in their eyes, it is just another MARKET, and a declining one at that. They have all already pulled out of our country and dug in roots all around the world, especially up and coming countries, thus the fall of America will not affect them nearly as deeply as it will the poor saps, the citizens of perdition.

What we are witnessing is nothing other than the: "convulsions of a decadent nation on the precipice of total collapse."

The Bankruptcy of the United States

By Porter Stansberry via Kitco, h/t: Jim Sinclair

It's one of those numbers that's so unbelievable you have to actually think about it for a while...

Within the next 12 months, the U.S. Treasury will have to refinance $2 trillion in short-term debt. And that's not counting any additional deficit spending, which is estimated to be around $1.5 trillion.

Put the two numbers together. Then ask yourself, how in the world can the Treasury borrow $3.5 trillion in only one year? That's an amount equal to nearly 30% of our entire GDP. And we're the world's biggest economy. Where will the money come from?

How did we end up with so much short-term debt? Like most entities that have far too much debt – whether subprime borrowers, GM, Fannie, or GE – the U.S. Treasury has tried to minimize its interest burden by borrowing for short durations and then "rolling over" the loans when they come due. As they say on Wall Street, "a rolling debt collects no moss."

What they mean is, as long as you can extend the debt, you have no problem. Unfortunately, that leads folks to take on ever greater amounts of debt... at ever shorter durations... at ever lower interest rates. Sooner or later, the creditors wake up and ask themselves: What are the chances I will ever actually be repaid? And that's when the trouble starts. Interest rates go up dramatically. Funding costs soar. The party is over. Bankruptcy is next.

When governments go bankrupt, it's called a "default." Currency speculators figured out how to accurately predict when a country would default. Two well-known economists – Alan Greenspan and Pablo Guidotti – published the secret formula in a 1999 academic paper. The formula is called the Greenspan-Guidotti rule.

The rule states: To avoid a default, countries should maintain hard currency reserves equal to at least 100% of their short-term foreign debt maturities. The world's largest money-management firm, PIMCO, explains the rule this way: "The minimum benchmark of reserves equal to at least 100% of short-term external debt is known as the Greenspan-Guidotti rule. Greenspan-Guidotti is perhaps the single concept of reserve adequacy that has the most adherents and empirical support."

The principle behind the rule is simple. If you can't pay off all of your foreign debts in the next 12 months, you're a terrible credit risk. Speculators are going to target your bonds and your currency, making it impossible to refinance your debts. A default is assured.

So how does America rank on the Greenspan-Guidotti scale? It's a guaranteed default.

The U.S. holds gold, oil, and foreign currency in reserve. It has 8,133.5 metric tonnes of gold (it is the world's largest holder). At current dollar values, it's worth around $300 billion. The U.S. strategic petroleum reserve shows a current total position of 725 million barrels. At current dollar prices, that's roughly $58 billion worth of oil. And according to the IMF, the U.S. has $136 billion in foreign currency reserves. So altogether... that's around $500 billion of reserves. Our short-term foreign debts are far bigger.

According to the U.S. Treasury, $2 trillion worth of debt will mature in the next 12 months. So looking only at short-term debt, we know the Treasury will have to finance at least $2 trillion worth of maturing debt in the next 12 months. That might not cause a crisis if we were still funding our national debt internally. But since 1985, we've been a net debtor to the world. Today, foreigners own 44% of all our debts, which means we owe foreign creditors at least $880 billion in the next 12 months – an amount far larger than our reserves.

Keep in mind, this only covers our existing debts. The Office of Management and Budget is predicting a $1.5 trillion budget deficit over the next year. That puts our total funding requirements on the order of $3.5 trillion over the next 12 months.

So... where will the money come from? Total domestic savings in the U.S. are only around $600 billion annually. Even if we all put every penny of our savings into U.S. Treasury debt, we're still going to come up nearly $3 trillion short. That's an annual funding requirement equal to roughly 40% of GDP.

Where is the money going to come from? From our foreign creditors? Not according to Greenspan-Guidotti. And not according to the Indian or Russian central banks, which have stopped buying Treasury bills and begun to buy enormous amounts of gold. The Indians bought 200 metric tonnes this month. Sources in Russia say the central bank there will double its gold reserves.

So where will the money come from? The printing press. [Other options - none pretty.] The Federal Reserve has already monetized nearly $2 trillion worth of Treasury debt and mortgage debt. This weakens the value of the dollar and devalues our existing Treasury bonds. Sooner or later, our creditors will face a stark choice: Hold our bonds and continue to see the value diminish slowly, or try to escape to gold and see the value of their U.S. bonds plummet.

One thing they're not going to do is buy more of our debt. Which central banks will abandon the dollar next? Brazil, Korea, and Chile. These are the three largest central banks that own the least amount of gold. None owns even 1% of its total reserves in gold.

I examined these issues in much greater detail in the most recent issue of my newsletter, Porter Stansberry's Investment Advisory [1]. Coincidentally, the New York Times repeated my warnings – nearly word for word – a few weeks ago. They didn't mention Greenspan-Guidotti, however... It's a real secret of international speculators.

My readers know that Greenspan-Guidotti means the U.S. is likely to have a severe currency crisis within the next two years. How high will gold go during this crisis? Nobody can say for sure. We've never been in the situation we are now. The numbers have never been so large and dangerous. But I wouldn't be surprised at all to see gold at $10,000 an ounce by 2012. Make sure you own some.

The day Bush and Cheney took office, they SWORE on the bible, the same oath of office as every elected leader of these United States that came before them. The solemn oath of office of the land states: "I swear to serve and protect the CONSTITUTION of the United States of America..." well; several years have since transpired only to witness Bush and Cheney hacking away at the very pillars of foundations our great nation was established upon. Even referring to the constitution "as just a god dam piece of paper." Those two criminals holding the highest offices in our land have trashed the constitution in the most devastating assault EVER in the history of the United States. So much so that there is no other solution, Bush and Cheney MUST be tried for TREASON. For this special occasion America must bring back the gallows for this one occasion then keep the gallows open just for our public servants who betray the public trust. They, along with all their co-conspirators deserve nothing less than to face a grand jury, be indicted and hung for treason. Only then will those who seek to continue to lead our once great country astray will realize that WE THE PEOPLE will no longer allow our country to be led astray and taken over by agents working for special interests.

The matter of fact is that our country has been (engineered) morphing into a DYSTOPIAN SOCIETY. This has been necessary for the ruling elite to engineer dystopia in order to break down this once great powerful independent nation into a frail, needy, dependant, vulnerable one that can be easily controlled and manipulated.

Dystopia

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

This article is about the philosophical concept and literary form. For other uses, see Dystopia (disambiguation).

A dystopia (from Ancient Greek: δυσ-: bad-, ill- and Ancient Greek: τόπος: place, landscape) (alternatively, cacotopia,[1] or anti-utopia) is, in literature, an often futuristic society that has degraded into a repressive and controlled state, often under the guise of being utopian. Dystopian literature has underlying cautionary tones, warning society that if we continue to live how we do, this will be the consequence. A dystopia, thus, is regarded as a sort of negative utopia and is often characterized by an authoritarian or totalitarian form of government. Dystopias usually feature different kinds of repressive social control systems, a lack or total absence of individual freedoms and expressions and constant states of warfare or violence. Dystopias often explore the concept of technology going "too far" and how humans individually and en masse use technology. A dystopian society is also often characterized by mass poverty for most of its inhabitants and a large military-like police force.

The decline in America’s wealth and world power status is directly tied to the moving of major industries off shore to other countries such as China and India. Removing untold billions of dollars of revenue that used to be generated HERE in the United States. Now China is on the verge of overtaking the U.S. not only in gross national product, but also as the world’s leading industrial power. Not only are major corporations moving ALL manufacturing out of the U.S. Bush’s policies actually REWARD companies for moving their operations out of the U.S. with tax incentives!!!! The ONLY ones profiting hand over fist from this ARE THE BANKS AND INVESTMENT HOUSES. They are THE central engineers manipulating all political decisions, business movements and strategies, the international bankers who are not beholden to any one nation (hello, they are “internat ional”) profit from the rise and fall of nations.

America has been placed on a suicidal path to self destruction for decades. No one has done more than us to export all our jobs and manufacturing overseas, in the process, propping up communist China as the new worlds number one producer while our county is steadily sliding into an abyss. The result of the massive de-industrialization of our country and shipping all our jobs overseas has been devastating to this country, today we have record numbers of unemployed. To make matters worse 11% of US workforce is made up of TEMP workers, up 23% from July. This is no conspiracy theory folks! I just call out the FACTS and state things the way they are, revealing TRUE REALITY.

You would think that the policies of exporting all our jobs overseas would have stopped by now that we are under the most obvious economic predicaments right? LOL, no, the rulers that run this nation have yet to finish sinking this ship, Bush and Co Crime Syndicate took the off shoring our economy into stratosphere, the finishing touches of shipping off of the remaining jobs is now being made by the Obama Crime Syndicate. Here is a peek at the tip of the iceberg:

U.S. Subsidizes Outsourcing Industry in Armenia, Bosnia-Herzegovina

Rob Sanchez, VDARE August 13, 2010

Several days ago I wrote about the outsourcing of jobs to Sri Lanka and how the U.S. government is subsidizing the process. That trend continues, but this time it's Armenia that is being showered with U.S. dollars.

News that the U.S. intended to fund high-tech outsourcing in Armenia was released in early August by USAID:

USAID Deputy Assistant Administrator for Europe & Eurasia Jonathan Hale met with Armenian Minister of Economy Nerses Yeritsyan on August 2, 2010 to discuss potential collaboration with the private sector on Information Technology (IT) projects.

PUBLIC-PRIVATE ALLIANCES IN EUROPE AND EURASIA LEVERAGE U.S. RESOURCES IN PURSUIT OF DEVELOPMENT GOALS in Private Sector, USAID, 08/03/2010

The term "private sector" is an important one. In this context it's used when government bureaucrats refer to programs that subsidize private companies with public money. Last week an article by InformationWeek was published that gave us a glimpse of who that "private sector" beneficiary in Armenia might be:

Jonathan Hale, USAID deputy assistant administrator for Europe & Eurasia, is on a four-day trip to Armenia to meet with government and private industry leaders in the country. On his agenda is a meeting with Armenian economic minister Nerses Yeritsyan.

"We look forward to partnering with USAID on the IT sector, which has great potential as Armenia has an advantage in this sector," Yeritsyan said in a statement released by USAID. "We want companies to come to Armenia and create their innovative environments," Yeritsyan said.

Among other things, Armenia is looking to establish itself as a center for low-cost IT and engineering work outsourced from the U.S. and other Western countries.

Now it's Armenia: USAID Funds IT In Eurasia, by Paul McDougall, InformationWeek, August 5, 2010

Economic minister Yeritsyan is expecting money to help the outsourcing industry in Armenia. Nothing was said about what the U.S. wants in return but it's been a standard diplomatic policy of the U.S. to use American jobs as a bargaining chip for any manner of concessions with other countries. Yeritsyan wants to set up business processing outsource (BPO) centers that are staffed by low cost IT/computer and engineering workers and in this case the U.S. seems more than willing to help Armenia to defray the costs of doing so.

Sri Lanka doesn't seem to be the only country where Microsoft is reaping the benefits of subsidies (read the following excerpt closely). In the case of Armenia it is easy to see who is at the other end of the pig trough: Oracle/Sun Microsystems, who has been very active in funding training for technical workers for their Armenian operations.

Yerevan, Armenia - At an official ceremony held in the Republic of Armenia Ministry of Economy on August 6, 2010, Minister of Economy Nerses Yeritsyan, U.S. Ambassador to Armenia Marie L. Yovanovitch and USAID/Armenia Mission Director Jatinder Cheema signed two Assistance Agreements under which the U.S. Government will provide up to $50 million to the Government of Armenia for the period of 2010-2013 in support of the country's economic development and health and social services reform.

USAID AND ARMENIAN MINISTRY OF ECONOMY SIGN TWO ASSISTANCE AGREEMENTS TO FOSTER ARMENIA'S ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AND HEALTH AND SOCIAL REFORM, USAID, 08/06/2010

The USAID envoy went to Armenia and delivered the goods. In summary here is the deal with Armenia:

- $20 million for the period of 2010-2013 to assist Armenia in upgrading its healthcare program. Maybe this should be called something like Arbamacare.
- $30 million will go to help companies in Armenia to upgrade their technologies so that they will be more capable of winning jobs from U.S. companies. Infrastructure improvements and technical training will increase incentives for companies to outsource more jobs to Armenia.

The following USAID announcement is very revealing because they talk about plans to set up JAVA training centers in Armenia. It appears that the U.S. government has decided to help Sun Microsystems to move its advanced web programming capabilities overseas, or perhaps there is a new policy to move all high-tech engineering overseas.

Technology and Innovation: USAID partnered with Sun Microsystems to establish JAVA Teaching Laboratories in three major Armenian universities to train students in web-based software and to establish a Solution Development Center for IT companies, institutions, and individuals to test and develop integrated computer applications. The mission also partnered with Microsoft RA to establish a Microsoft Innovation Center to assist Small- and Medium-Sized Enterprises (SMEs) and professionals create innovative new products and services, bring those products and services to market, and build well-managed competitive businesses. Fact Sheet, USAID, August 3, 2010

No specifics have been announced about direct aid to Bosnia-Herzegovina but USAID did put this small news blip on their website that would indicate there is an agreement to dole out money in partnership with CISCO:

IT Improvements in Bosnia-Herzegovina: USAID/Bosnia-Herzegovina partnered with CISCO Systems and a local IT company to promote e-government in Srebrenica and Bratunac municipalities. As a result, municipal institutions can provide information on pension payments, healthcare, education, business services, and other social benefits and residents can communicate with other people and institutions in distant areas. Fact Sheet, USAID, August 3, 2010

In order to conclude this blog on a happy note read the following news clip from an Armenian webzine. They offer assurances that despite appearances to the contrary, American information technology (IT) workers have nothing to worry about. Whew!

The United States Agency for International Development, or USAID, has decided to fund the development of outsourcing industry in Armenia.

The USAID announced on August 5 of implementing the development program in Armenia with Oracle's Sun Microsystems unit as one of its participants. The USAID did not disclose the sum to be allocated to the Armenian program, but hinted that the goal was to establish Armenia as an outsourcing hub in the information technology sphere.

USAID's moves to help bolster the outsourcing industry in Asia and Eurasia have sparked anger among Americans who say the US labor force is being displaced in favor of cheaper work-force abroad. A USAID spokesperson said however, that the program "will not displace American IT workers."

The outsourcing industry meanwhile, specifically Indian companies, may find the new initiative advantageous because it will allow them to open new centers in the developing countries, rather than in India, where the cost would be higher.

U.S. Taxpayers to Fund Job Training in Sri Lanka

Rob Sanchez, VDARE August 5, 2010

President Obama has said many times that he will eliminate tax loopholes to companies that outsource jobs to other countries. It appears that he has solved the problem — instead of giving tax deductions to companies he is going to give them taxpayer money in order to subsidize the offshoring of jobs to Sri Lanka.

Despite President Obama's pledge to retain more hi-tech jobs in the U.S., a federal agency run by a hand-picked Obama appointee has launched a $22 million program to train workers, including 3,000 specialists in IT and related functions, in South Asia.

U.S. To Train 3,000 Offshore IT Workers, by Paul McDougall, InformationWeek, August 3, 2010

The Obama administration will spend up to $22 million to train 3,000 high-tech workers in Sri Lanka. According to a press release by the Sri Lankan Embassy the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) will establish seven mobile training centers in order to train unemployed and underemployed Sri Lankan students in skills that will help U.S. companies to offshore jobs there. Training will be provided at no charge — compliments of United States taxpayers.

USAID will provide the students courses in Business Process Outsourcing (BPO), advanced computer programming skills such as enterprise level Java, and English language skills. They will also get on-the-job training with American companies who are looking to take advantage of the Asian subcontinent's low labor costs.

In addition USAID will provide training and logistics for another 10,000 workers to provide labor for garment industries such as Tommy Hilfiger, Polo Ralph Lauren, Columbia Sportswear, Next, Tesco, and Burberry. Emphasis will be placed on training widows, single mothers, and families with disabled members.

The training and funding of offshore workers stands in great contrast to statements Obama has made on the subject. Here are a few choice quotes:

Instead of giving tax breaks to corporations that ship jobs overseas, we want to give tax breaks to small-business owners who are creating jobs right here in America. Already, we've given small businesses eight new tax cuts, and have expanded lending to more than 60,000 small-business owners. - Weekly remarks: President Obama on Wall Street reform, LA Times, July 24, 2010

"It's a tax code full of corporate loopholes that makes it perfectly legal for companies to avoid paying their fair share. It's a tax code that makes it all too easy for a number — a small number of individuals and companies to abuse overseas tax havens to avoid paying any taxes at all," the president said. "And it's a tax code that says you should pay lower taxes if you create a job in Bangalore, India, than if you create one in Buffalo, New York. - Obama Calls for Curbs on Offshore Tax Havens, New York Times, 2009

Right now, we have a tax code that gives incentives for companies to move offshore. Instead, we must have a tax code that rewards companies that are doing the right thing by investing in American workers. Our government has to be looking out for these people who are working hard every day trying to make ends meet and right now we've got a set of policies that are not reflective of that. - "Creating Jobs in America" , 2004, Barack Obama in His Own Words, By Lisa Rogak

The project will be managed by Rajiv Shah who was appointed as director of USAID by President Obama. To read more about Rajiv Shah go to his USAID bio and profile. Rajiv was born in Ann Arbor, Michigan in 1973 to Indian immigrants. Shah grew up in the Detroit area. His father, Janardan Shah, worked for Ford Motor Company and his mother, Rena Shah, ran a Montessori school.

Shah earned a B.S.E. in economics at the University of Michigan in 1995. At the University of Pennsylvania, in 2002, he gained an M.B.A. from the Wharton and an M.D from the medical school.

Hopefully Rajiv Shah and President Obama will receive a lot of heat for supporting the subsidization of vocational training in Sri Lanka but this has been going on well before Rajiv Shah and Barack Obama. A USAID paper indicates that U.S. funding of training of high-tech workers was ongoing in 1996 during the Bush era. They recognized that outsourcing was a growing trend and for political reasons wanted to accelerate it by using taxpayers money.

Jobs for the 21st Century: Sri Lanka Assessment

Prepared for USAID, Asia and Near East Bureau, Jobs for the 21st Century Initiative, Sri Lanka | May 2006 | Final REPORT

Page 78: Business process outsourcing is growing in Sri Lanka.

Page 93: Description High-level IT

The RITC program is designed to rapidly convert unemployed non-IT university graduates into technicians ready for entry-level employment in IT. Program was implemented in 2005 by the Moratuwa University and The Competitiveness Program, a USAID-funded program.

Evidence shows that the types of job training that is going on in Sri Lanka goes far beyond training farmers how to grow crops more efficiently — high and low level technical educations are given so that workers can take jobs for industries that have been offshored. I haven't researched all the companies that benefit from the training but one of them is Microsoft:

Microsoft is a key driver of the local IT industry and takes ICT knowledge to all parts of Sri Lanka. Microsoft serves the needs of the Sri Lankan IT industry, providing many opportunities in bridging the digital divide and making technology more readily available to everyone. Microsoft has supported the development of industry specific ICT Courses, tailor made for four key industries. This is envisioned to make thousands of young people employable in the mentioned industries.

Unlimited Potential Partnership' Unveiled by Microsoft, USAID & Infoshare, 2008

Perhaps it's a coincidence, or maybe another example of the revolving door in Washington DC, but Rajiv Shah worked at the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation as Director of Agricultural Development and Director of Financial Services. The foundation wrote a recommendation letter to the Obama administration:

Statement on Dr. Rajiv Shah, USAID Administrator-Designate

The selection of Dr. Rajiv Shah as the next administrator of the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) demonstrates a commitment to providing strong, evidence-based, effective U.S. foreign assistance. We have worked closely with Raj for several years and know he will bring the same commitment, intelligence and visionary management style to USAID.

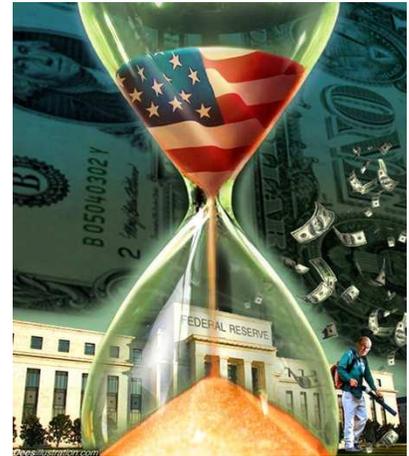

"Statement on Dr. Rajiv Shah, USAID Administrator-Designate", Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, November 19, 2009

In conclusion more research needs to be done to see how involved the U.S. government is in directly subsidizing the training of workers in foreign countries. It isn't far fetched to believe that Sri Lanka isn't the only place this is happening.

Americans, a bunch of mindless idiots: - Video (removed from youtube)

While our country has steadily been deteriorating and being flushed down the toilet, America has been busy becoming the king of waging bogus wars, spending hundreds of billions of dollars, while alienating so many countries, making untold life term enemies of the U.S.. Have they not learned a single lesson from Vietnam and other blusterous region attacks we have made all over the globe over the past half dozen decades?

Seems like we are always attacking some poor ole country because they won't let U.S. multinational corporations to economically colonize their countries and run their BANKS, OIL, LANDS, etc. The moment any country rejects our CAPITALISTIC endeavors, they are toast! In reality America could care less if any country be communist, socialist, or democratic! All we care about is that whatever country it is, import our products, let us buy and run their lands, let us install our banks, let us run their businesses, etc., Hey, it is only "fair", their mineral rights BELONG TO US! We could care less if they be a communist country like China, as long as they do multibillion dollar deals in our favor. When they allow our takeovers, no problem, they are now our trading buddies. Hey stupid, it's NOT about exporting "democracy" it's all about exporting our CAPITALISM and shoving it down everyone's throats. Cuba is a sinister evil country were Castro drinks the blood of children because he kicked out our banks, took OUR land away from us, giving it back to the local dumb starving peasants and won't even allow us to sell a Coca Cola there!

Of course, should any county resist our gracious efforts to control your vast resources and sell you all our products, we have another industry that is always looking for an itch to scratch. Our CIA and mighty military industrial complex might just have to go pay your country a visit to straighten things out. You know, wink/ in the name of "democracy" and stability. Heck, all the military contractors the entire multibillion dollar industry that exists solely by selling arms would cease to exist and go bankrupt if there were no conflicts for any long term amount of time! Simply put: the chaos & conflict military and defense industry can make NO PROFITS when peace exists! So go ahead, make our day! Hand over the deeds or we'll blow you and your momma to smithereens!

In all actuality you must understand that there exists a reason to the madness. If you truly comprehend how deeply the Zionist/Masonic illuminati is embedded in our country and if you have done your homework, you would realize that the world headquarters of the Zionist/illuminati has always been in Europe (of course Israel is now the center of the universe). Sit back, digest this most important fact and you will realize just how much fun they must be having plundering our once great nation. The elite masters pimp out our country and do all their dirty deeds and heavy lifting by using our prostitute government as its agent, running their operations from our shores. Meanwhile the real puppet masters keep their hands clean, hiding in their control rooms overseas. Behold sheeple for I hereto expose one of the mysteries of the two headed beast.

Headline: "The Rise and Fall of the U.S.S.A.?"

We sit back in pure bewilderment as we witness our country giving away billions upon billions of dollars in foreign aid to already well off countries for no real reason while the problems here at home just continue to build up. So what, that our country has one of the worst educational systems in the world? So what, the poor children in this country are being denied health insurance, like Bush just vetoed, heck, we need those billions of dollars to send to apartheid Israel and other well off countries. So what, our infrastructure is crumbling all around us, let's spend another $400 billion a year attacking other countries, it's more fun.

Giving carte blanche freedom for insurance companies to fleece the American people while all the while taking their monies. No need to look further than what happened with Katrina and the hundreds of thousands of people who had insurance coverage yet were all denied claims. Yet, didn't Washington pump, what, a staggering 130 Billion dollars(!) in disaster funds for Katrina? Who got all this money? Definitely NOT the people who needed it most, not the poor helpless victims! they only got a small fraction of 1% of those funds. Where did the money go, as is always the case when money gets pumped into any situation. It went directly into the pockets of the ruling elite's good ole boys network as just another cash infusion for their own.

Buy, Buy American Pie - video

In this case the evidence is overwhelming, for you need look no further than the entire 9th Ward (where all the poor lived). You tell me that you claim to have spent over 130 billion dollars yet virtually absolutely nothing was accomplished to restore virtually nothing? Meanwhile the insurance companies that were crying bloody murder while denying EVERYONE'S claims, made out like bandits with historical profits that year and the next. Folks, this is not conspiracy theory, this is pure plain ordinary FACTS, this is how our system is rigged. The cards are always stacked in favor of the ruling elite's business interests while the poor and working class get empty promises, lip service, the shaft and eventually the benefit of picking up the tab.

A Demon-Possessed Economy!

On February 1st, 2010, the Associated Press reported that the national budget set up by Barack Obama contained both record spending and a record deficit. (12) Obama is planning to spend 3.8 trillion dollars that our country does not have. The ceiling on the national debt is being raised continually, and by the end of February 2010, the current debt ceiling of 14.3 trillion dollars will likely be reached. (13) This number is difficult for the human mind to comprehend, but the spending goes on at breakneck speed like a car with its accelerator stuck. A crash is inevitable under these circumstances. The average American does not understand how their economy works, and like the children of Israel, they are dancing naked around a golden calf. In the frenzy of their idolatry, there is nothing but apathy toward truth as they eat and drink and rise up to play. We do not have a literal golden calf near Wall Street, but we do have a bronze bull in New York City, the city also known as "the naked city." (14)

We have now reached another milestone of decline in our country's history. It is now mathematically impossible to pay off the U.S. National Debt! This was verified in a recent report from Reuters News Service. (15) The sad fact is that if the U.S. Government took every penny from every bank, business, and person in America, it would not be enough to pay off the national debt. This is true because of the way the system operates. The money in our U.S. economy is not put into circulation, it is borrowed into circulation. The Federal Government must borrow the money from the private entity known as the Federal Reserve. U.S. Treasury bonds are given to the Federal Reserve in exchange for the green paper, known as Federal Reserve Notes. The Federal Reserve either keeps the Treasury Bonds or sells them. Every time the Government goes to the Federal Reserve, the debt and interest become bigger! Do we really owe beyond our ability to pay?

There are several money supply indexes. One is the M0 index, which is the total of all actual cash. This amount is just over 900 billion dollars. Next is the M1 index, which includes all actual cash and everything held in checking accounts. That amount is about 1.7 trillion dollars. The next index is the M2, which includes all of the above amounts in the M0 and M1 indexes, plus all funds held in certificates of deposit, money market funds, mutual funds, and so on. This amount is about 8.5 trillion dollars. Finally, there is the M3 index, which includes everything in the M0, M1, and M2 indexes, plus large time deposits, institutional money market, mutual funds, deposits of euro dollars, and repurchase agreements. This brings the total to nearly 14 trillion dollars, although the Federal Reserve has stopped keeping track of the M3 index. There is one more thing we must understand, and I remember this from my studies of economics in technical college and subsequent research. Most of the money in the M2 and M3 indexes does not exist. This is true because of the fact that our banks operate on the principle of fractional reserve lending. This simply means that when you deposit ten dollars the bank pays you almost nothing for interest, but it is able to lend out $100.00 on that ten dollars and collect interest on the ninety dollars that doesn't truly exist. The bank is required to keep only one dollar of your ten dollar deposit in reserve, and the other nine dollars can be loaned out. When you realize that this same procedure holds true for thousands and even millions of dollars, the amounts of phantom money becomes breathtaking. Thus, most of the money in our economy isn't really there except on record without substance. Increasing the money supply is not the answer because the only way to do that is to borrow more from Benjamin Shalom Bernanke and his Federal Reserve. (15) The whole system is crooked and is designed to perpetuate heavy and impossible debt for the Federal Government and the people of the nation. Incidentally, the Federal Reserve does demand collateral for the transactions it makes with the Federal Government. The only collateral the Federal Government can give to the Federal Reserve is the taxing power it has over the people!

The Scripture warned us long ago in James 5:3-6 about the fraudulent money system of the last days. "Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days. Behold, the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sabaoth. Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter. Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you."

These certainly are times of great trouble, and much of this trouble exists because we have a government that is so incredibly out-of-touch with the people. Near the end of last year, the Associated Press reported that one of every seven homes in America struggled to put enough food on the table. Thus, forty-nine million Americans were to some degree in a state of food deprivation. (16) With that in mind, how can the Sleazer of the House, Nancy Pelosi, justify spending $101,000.00 on liquor in the past two years while flying in Air Force jets? This is an average of $1,000.00 per week. Official receipts reveal that this money was used by Pelosi and her staff while flying, and it includes the following purchases: "Maker's Mark whiskey, Courvoisier cognac, Johnny Walker Red scotch, Grey Goose vodka, E&J brandy, Bailey's Irish Crème, Bacardi Light rum, Jim Beam whiskey, Beefeater gin, Dewars scotch, Bombay Sapphire gin, Jack Daniels whiskey, and Corona beer." (17) In short, these official flights were nothing more than wild parties in an airborne saloon! – source: <http://lasttrumpetnewsletter.org>

Recent headline, Business Insider: How American Stimulus Creates Jobs In China Rather Than America:

“Essentially, the world is too globalized today, whereby demand remains local but 'supply is global'.

In the past, when a government stimulated demand within a country, such as the U.S., this stimulated an investment expansion within the U.S.. Companies invested in domestic expansion in order to increase their product supply and meet stimulated American demand. This domestic investment expansion adds jobs, which sets off a cycle of economic expansion.

Yet in today's globalized world, companies don't need to expand within the U.S. in order to meet stimulated U.S. demand. They can expand their facilities in other countries, say China, in order to meet stimulated American demand. Thus American stimulus doesn't create a sustainable cycle of economic expansion within the U.S. as it used to -- it creates jobs in places like China rather!”

The Coming Fury of an Angry America

Written by Aetius Romulus

A tiny part of a tiny part of the population of the earth will set the terms for the future of all humans. A tiny part that is broken, spent out, and increasingly disillusioned. That sliver of humanity is the broken, spent out, and increasingly disillusioned American middle class, burdened with the task of spending all America out of catastrophe. When they break under the weight of desperate impossibility, how will the heartlands good citizens react, and what will they do?

According to the World Bank, there are about 6,692,030,277 human beings on the earth. 308,108,741 of them live in the United States, about 4.6% of the total. Of these fortunate Americans, about 231,000,000 are of voting age. In general elections in history's greatest democracy, about half those eligible to vote actually do...115 million people. History's greatest democracy has only two options every election, a choice between two almost similar positions, and the winning option typically enjoys the support of only half of those who choose, approximately 60 million individuals.

For a scant 90 years, America has been the wealthiest, most powerful group of humans in all 20,000 years of recorded civilization. Decisions made by Americans can and do affect the lives of every other human on the planet, often for both present and future, good and bad. By brute force of American economics alone, a single, small 0.9% of the 6.6 billion people who call earth home set the agenda for each and every one of all the rest of us. Not even by force of arms has there ever been a time in glorious history when so few people dominated so many in so complete a way.

Centuries from now, historians will want to know whom these few people were, if only to understand how they lived and thought, and better know the cause of global events that shaped the world they live in. As we in our time grapple to understand who the powers were that made a Roman, a Roman, future thinkers will want to dissect the condition of the less than one per cent of all humanity who call themselves American, and who alone make America, America... and the earth, American as well.

It cost 1 billion dollars and four years to have .9% of the earth elect the President of the United States in 2008. It took a similar amount of time and money to be the guy that lost. Hundreds of millions more are expended to elect the 535 people who make up the United States Congress. No statistical analysis is required to understand that these are among the wealthiest and most privileged humans in all of history. A tiny fraction of a tiny fraction of a tiny fraction of the population of the planet. This, we are led to believe is democracy, and so this small sliver is at least nominally responsible to those few who elected them, and nobody else.

Like all great empires, America has a well-defined class structure. As a fedora on a table, at one brim is the thin cruel line of poverty and disenfranchisement, at the other brim another thin line of luxury and excess, and a middle where the head goes which has historically been the big, fat, American middle class. The middle class sets the agenda by dearth of weight, the luxury class promoting the agenda where and when it suits them. The lower class don't matter at all.

The great American middle class, then, at least nominally controls the fate of the planet. They do so by electing wealthy folks who pander to their interests, those wealthy folks whose interpretations of the middle class becomes policy. Future folks will want to understand how representative those interpretations were, and will want to see if changes in the middle class over time were responsible for changes in American policy towards the world.

If anything defines the great American middle class, it is the concept of the American Dream. The basic building block of the American Dream is the family - mom, dad, 2.4 kids and a dog. The "dream" part is the very American right to economic freedom, freedom to accumulate stuff. A box on a postage stamp in a sea of urban sprawl called home, a couple of cars, a good education for the kids, and unrestricted ability to consume as much surplus crap as possible. Americans define success completely in economic terms and then attach the flag, religion, and everything else to it. Without this absolute right to consume hordes of junk, there is no American Dream, and no middle class. There is left only a lower class, (whatever that is), and a powerful capitalist class existing as it always has throughout time, changing flags and philosophy depending on how the winds blow. Caesar, Czar, King, or CEO of Goldman Sachs.

The rise of the middle class at the end of the 19th century tracks the rise of wealth and power for most western, industrialized nations. Production, trade, and consumption of machine made goods became a near universal indicator of the rise of modern civilization. However, 40 years of crushing war amongst European powers stalled the growth for most, but emerging America remained unscathed, benefiting from the misdemeanours of a now dead age. History will fix the date of the birth of absolute America to the year 1914, the dawn of the American age to 1945, and no doubt, the golden era to the short period that began to erode in 1971. Of the time since, we the generation here and now and in the teeth of it, can only speculate.

In the summer of 1914, America was an outlier in a world of teetering monarchies, festering colonial empires, and rancid landed aristocracies. While the rest of the world fed its gold and its young to the insatiable maw of industrial war, Americans were building a dream from limitless resources and the economic opportunities of a conflict that left America unspoiled and prosperous. By the close of hostilities in 1945, with the capital of the planet spent and exhausted, America burst from the ruins to begin the greatest run of prosperity and innovation of all time. The American middle class exploded, living the dream so thoughtfully given to them over a generation of global war.

Powerhouse America imposed its vision of a liberal, free market democracy on the "free world" through the Bretton Woods agreement of 1944. The United States became the world's greatest manufacturer of goods, trader of goods, and consumer of goods. Rebuilding the planet became a God given mission, the profits manna from heaven. The American dollar became the world's dollar. Freedom and cash registers rang.

But with the US greenback backed by gold, American economic expansion was limited to the bullion it hoarded. Wars in Korea and Viet Nam, and the massive expansion of "entitlements" with Social Security and Medicare among others, began to strain the American Dream. By the early 1970's the US had ceased to be an exporter of stuff, and the middle class began to buy increasingly cheaper stuff from abroad - at the expense of their own manufacturing and jobs. Given that the dream of freewheeling consumption was the bedrock of the burgeoning, voting middle class, politics insisted on a populist solution to the increasingly broke US economy. In 1971, Richard Nixon elected to abandon Bretton Woods, leave the gold standard, and America was free to print its way out of deficit and keep the dream alive.

At the same time as the US set the world awash in USD's, untold wealth and prosperity inflated its way through the massive baby boomer cohort. Women were entering the workforce in exponential numbers, soaking up inflated dollars with double incomes, and less kids. American politics became a contest of pandering to the hedonistic desires of the American household, boom times embraced and fuelled by lax regulation and credit, busts fought off with the simple printing of even more money. Good times.

The American household saved 11% of its income in 1970, and had only 1.4% of their cash going to newfangled credit cards and auto loans. Everything else exchanged for clothes, appliances, food, houses, and shiny happy stuff, increasingly from overseas. Unknown to all, it was to be the high water mark for the middle class of America.

In 1971, American imports exceeded exports for the first time in modern history, by 2.6 billion dollars. At a time when a billion was a lot, America began paying to simply exist. Gross Public Debt had grown from 43 billion in 1940, to 381 billion by 1970. Within a single generation - the age of narcissism, the computer age, the age of globalization - the baby boomers of the American middle class had tilted the entire planet's resources towards an unsustainable consumer culture. No longer living the dream, those alive just moments before Lehman Brothers listed over, rolled under, and disappeared below the waves of history, were fighting simply to keep the stuff they had.

The future had evaporated right before their shuttered eyes, and for over forty years.

The current version of the American middle class bears no resemblance at all to that of the end of the golden era in 1970. Forty years ago, Americans saved 11% of their earnings - which had evaporated by 2005, reaching the oxymoron of negative savings. Credit card debt shot from 1.4% to 15%. In the space of a generation, a single income family flush with cash, savings, and dreams had become a double income nightmare staggered with debt.

In 2008, there were more household bankruptcies than divorces.

The cost of crap fell and Wal Mart rose. Debt enslaved suburbanites now spend 32% less on clothing than they did a generation ago. 18% less on food, 52% less on appliances, and 24% less on cars. The middle class is consuming as voraciously as it ever has, however they have replaced sturdy $400.00 American Lawn Boy lawn mowers with $99.00 tin cans from China, and buy it now on credit. Some call that progress, others, value. In reality, it's inflation. The simple fact of the matter is Americans no longer have the disposable income to consume their way out of trouble, and that trouble lies in why it is the American middle class is broke, struggling, and increasingly angry.

At the same time that consumables were falling in price, the fixed portions of the American Dream began an exponential increase. Two incomes meant two cars - or three, or four - and despite the fact that cars were cheaper, the cost of cars to the two-income family rose by 52%. Houses got bigger, and mortgages increased 76% - with 10 million of them in various states of distress and foreclosure. Health insurance rose 76%, taxes 25%. Childcare was an expense nobody had a generation ago, but one that became essential with two adults working. The cost of education had increased - as did the length of time necessary to obtain that education. A ticket to the middle class that cost 12 years of school - grade one through high school - now includes daycare, preschool, grade school, high school, and then college. Americans must now pay for the additional time.

In 2005, that .09% of the earth that set the agenda for the planet was spending over 66% of its income on the fixed costs of the American dream alone, where it once spent less than a third. Or, to frame it in a way that defines the great problem, the American system that depends on rabid consumerism has left its heartland with exponentially decreasing amounts of disposable income, falling from 66% to 33% in a single lifetime. When George W Bush implored the middle class to spend its way out of the 9/11 chaos, in stunned and terrified whispers the American middle class muttered, "With what?"

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country"- Edward Bernays, 1928

"Our enormously productive economy...demands that we make consumption our way of life, that we convert the buying and use of goods into rituals, that we seek our spiritual satisfaction, our ego satisfaction, in consumption.... We need things consumed, burned up, replaced and discarded at an ever-accelerating rate"- Victor Lebeau, 1947

"Too much consumption and too little investment, too many imports and too few exports. We have not been on a sustainable economic track and that has to be changed. But those changes don't come overnight, they don't come in a quarter, they don't come in a year. You can begin them but that is a process that takes time. If we don't make that adjustment and if we again pump up consumption, we will just walk into another crisis."- Paul Volker, 2009

"If you look around, you see how many people is out of work, number one, and you see how many people is in foreclosure or lost their homes or in default because they've lost their jobs, that tells you right there what the economy is doing." - Middle Class American, 2009

A tiny part of a tiny part of the population of the earth had constructed a global economic architecture that sustained it in wealth and excess, security and predictability. In a scant forty years that wealth, excess, security, and predictability have proved to be entirely unsustainable. The approaching political climate of the American middle class will reflect the shock and desperation that may now be starting to manifest itself. How Americans react to their fast changing circumstance and what they will do about it will deeply affect the 95% of the earth's humans who are really only along for the ride.

In 2008, America gambled on hope, as hope is all it had. A new administration faced the growing catastrophe in the only way it could understand, frantically pumping in dollars to resuscitate a prostrate consumerism. An insane amount of debt piled up, the annual deficit soaring through $1,000,000,000,000.00. One trillion dollars. Absolutely none of it was used to purchase plasma TV's, hot tubs, or bling. The richest of Americans - as they always have - prospered along Wall Street and summered in the Hamptons while the drought stricken middle class waited for a rain that will never fall.

The American middle class will not spend its way out of disaster, if only because it can't. There are no savings. The house is worthless. The credit cards are gone. Jobs are disappearing. Today is bad and tomorrow looks worse. People are nervous, frightened, worried. They are behind in the mortgage, and struggle to make health insurance payments. All the while, they watch the stock market explode, the bonuses arrogantly roll on, and their government lie to their faces that the "recovery" is underway. China is booming, so is India and Brazil. Beneath the hope, patriotism, and the flag, the American middle class can feel it all slipping away.

In a nation consumed by politics, where pandering and lobbying are two sides of the same platitude, what will the increasingly angry gentle folks of Ohio, Iowa, and Florida demand of their philandering representatives in Washington? What form of instant remedy will some baseless political hack come to offer them as the snake oil for what ails them? How will those decisions come to dominate the lives of those in Canada, Ecuador, and Ghana?

In the distant future, historians will consider the rise, fall, and collapse of the great American Dream and conclude that was the cause of all that followed. None will be surprised at the all too human response of anger, frustration, and action in the teeth of injustice and inequality. After all, history is full of angry people who just weren't going to take it anymore. They will wonder only how it was we could not see it coming - how we could be so stupid to have blown it.

The coming fury of angry America is as palpable as it is silent. What will that tiny part of a tiny part of the earth's population do when the utter hopelessness of the situation washes over them and the tides of history curl around and bear them, inexorably, into the past?

What will they do?

The Revolution Begins - Ron Paul - Video

It is neither my intent nor purpose to dwell on rumors or hearsay. But at this point I can only wonder about some reports I read online where they claim that Washington, FEMA and the Pentagon knew the hurricane was headed straight for New Orleans with a high probability of a major catastrophe. It seems they purposely sat back and watched, analyzing how the citizens reacted left alone under a major massive widespread emergency. As the world stood in awe wondering when our government would finally get off their rear ends and get into action. I just cannot fathom what took them so long to respond! They try and have us believe that even though every single news media was giving 24/7 coverage of the disaster, they had NO CLUE how bad it was? No clue what was going on until 4 days later? No, something was up. From my observation of this government over the years, I choose to believe that they took this opportunity to study the results of its citizens under a major national emergency. More of which they believe will happen in the future, under their own false flag ops or not. One interesting thing is how the government eventually responded: they brought in the MILITARY... (under Posse Comitatus Act, our military is not supposed to be used in U.S. soil), then they proceeded to go house to house then strip all the legal law abiding citizens of their guns! Wow, ok, so we have a city in chaos with hundreds of gangs and criminals going nuts and the legal, law abiding home owners have their only protection taken from them? DOH!

The entire "truther" movement has been and is currently being labeled and manipulated as a liberal left wing mental brigade as part of the official orchestrated truther propaganda rebuttal policy. Ok, lump everyone all under the same label, but actually I had been a lifelong republican, a diehard CONSERVATIVE! I believe in God and know he plays a key part in not only our lives but worldwide. I believe that homosexuality is most definitely a sin. We firmly believe that the ruling elite have been purposely inundating our society with sick media in their efforts to mold our world into a more easily managed hedonistic society, constantly eroding our moral values. America is ground zero in the war of spreading hedonism. The goal is none other than to continually erode the hearts, minds and souls of the masses through mass entertainment, free sex and the unrelenting promotion of gayism. Many of us are in fact true conservatives, yet in their efforts to divide and conquer, they MUST label us with whatever derogatory term to instill fear and doubt in people's minds and keep them all divided and fighting amongst each other rather than UNITING and thus achieving critical mass and common purpose of combating the real culprits.

At this very moment the masters of the illuminati are well under control of a major portion of the "truther movement. They have been ingeniously TAKEN OVER the TRUTHER MOVEMENT. They and their corporate America have been planning, funding, sponsoring, strategizing, promoting and holding REBELLION MARCHES across America!!! All those Tea Parties and organized protests are nothing more that illuminati engineered CORPORATE productions! They have tapped into the despair, disillusion and anger of the populace and have literally HIJACKED the entire movement!!! The elite rulers are holding rebellion marches against themselves! Well, not really for they are practicing the age old art of misdirection, carefully channeling the public's frustration and anger against "the system."

Fox spent weeks promoting apparent tea party scam

by Matt Gertz, Media Matters

TPM Media's Zachary Roth reported earlier in the week that the political action committee that organized the Tea Party Express -- Our Country Deserves Better PAC -- funneled almost two-thirds of its spending from July to November back to the political consulting firm from which it was spawned, Russo, Marsh, and Associates. More than $850,000 of the money the supposedly grassroots PAC collected went to the firm of GOP political operatives who ran it.

For those who may have forgotten, the Tea Party Express was the faux-grassroots operation that Fox News hopped aboard in late August, after the network's promotion of the health care town hall meeting disruptions but before they started flogging the 9-12 protest. (It's so hard to keep Fox's political activism straight!) It was a nationwide bus tour organized by a political action committee whose mission is to oppose President Obama and other Democrats; with a pedigree like that, how could Fox resist?

Fox News heavily promoted the Tea Party Express; the Our Country Deserves Better PAC even used Fox's promotion in a fundraising email. Then Fox's Griff Jenkins hit the trail with the Express, following that bus around the country, throwing journalistic integrity aside as he declared its riders "the America that Washington forgot."

But somehow, Jenkins missed out on the real story: how loyal tea-party-goers were separated from their hard-earned cash, which was funneled to fat cat Republican political consultants. Russo, Marsh, and Associates salutes you, Fox News. They could have scammed the tea partiers without you, but it probably wouldn't have been nearly as lucrative.

Notice how not one single arrest is being made. Notice that not one single riot squad is out there with tear gas or anything? If any one of those marches and protests were about, say umm, "9/11 was an inside job", or any topic that hits close to the ruling elites turf, the event would have been SQUASHED so quick with riot police, it would not be funny. Just Google search all the marches and events that riot police were there arresting people and you quickly get an idea of the REAL issues protesters piss them off about, because they are rallying around were the truth is and are too close. Thus the riot police are sent in to stop them.

Don't you find it odd that THOSE protesters, marchers and activists crying out for justice and truth about true matters that are being concealed are the ones being labeled as terrorists while these tea bagging, government opposing, racist, Obama insulting, hate promoting, leftwing despising contingency are fine to go about their business? Some tea baggers have even shown up ARMED to the teeth, no tasers, no beat downs by the police, just an orderly interview then ok, go by your business! Every time I see "news" coverage, of tea bagger's protests it seems as if they are covering some sort of American as apple pie festival. That's because the whole thing has long ago been cleared and given the green light by the powers that be. Why even many elected republican officials have been showing up and speaking at these corporate/republican sponsored rallies, protests and marches. This entire movement is working in THEIR FAVOR, directing everything in the paths they want it all to follow. The tea baggers movement was HIJACKED by the republican party long ago, today they are nothing more than TOOLS.

For instance, when Bush Jr & Co. were out there systematically tearing apart the constitution, the bill of rights, waging false wars, committing war crimes, lying to the public, holding false flag attacks on American citizens, etc., etc., anytime during anyone of these events, when people organized and tried to hold a march, protest, event or whatever, you name it, the riot police were dispatched and waiting for them. The FACT that you have corporate organized, promoted and funded silly Tea Parties and marches with no police brutality, as if the whole even were a national holiday with thousands celebrating, with the big media outlets on hand to promote the shit out of it with their own kiosks and so forth... come on! If you believe this is real ground roots movement, you are surely in a deep stupor.

Are Americans a Broken People? Why We've Stopped Fighting Back Against the Forces of Oppression

By Bruce E. Levine, AlterNet. Posted December 11, 2009.

A psychologist asks: Have consumerism, suburbanization and a malevolent corporate-government partnership so beaten us down that we no longer have the will to save ourselves?

Can people become so broken that truths of how they are being screwed do not "set them free" but instead further demoralize them? Has such a demoralization happened in the United States?

Do some totalitarians actually want us to hear how we have been screwed because they know that humiliating passivity in the face of obvious oppression will demoralize us even further?

What forces have created a demoralized, passive, dis-couraged U.S. population?

Can anything be done to turn this around?

Can people become so broken that truths of how they are being screwed do not "set them free" but instead further demoralize them?

Yes. It is called the "abuse syndrome." How do abusive pimps, spouses, bosses, corporations, and governments stay in control? They shove lies, emotional and physical abuses, and injustices in their victims' faces, and when victims are afraid to exit from these relationships, they get weaker. So the abuser then makes their victims eat even more lies, abuses, and injustices, resulting in victims even weaker as they remain in these relationships.

Does knowing the truth of their abuse set people free when they are deep in these abuse syndromes?

No. For victims of the abuse syndrome, the truth of their passive submission to humiliating oppression is more than embarrassing; it can feel shameful -- and there is nothing more painful than shame. When one already feels beaten down and demoralized, the likely response to the pain of shame is not constructive action, but more attempts to shut down or divert oneself from this pain. It is not likely that the truth of one's humiliating oppression is going to energize one to constructive actions.

Has such a demoralization happened in the U.S.?

In the United States, 47 million people are without health insurance, and many millions more are underinsured or a job layoff away from losing their coverage. But despite the current sellout by their elected officials to the insurance industry, there is no outpouring of millions of U.S. citizens on the streets of Washington, D.C., protesting this betrayal.

Polls show that the majority of Americans oppose U.S. wars in Afghanistan and Iraq as well as the taxpayer bailout of the financial industry, yet only a handful of U.S. citizens have protested these circumstances.

Remember the 2000 U.S. presidential election? That's the one in which Al Gore received 500,000 more votes than George W. Bush. That's also the one that the Florida Supreme Court's order for a recount of the disputed Florida vote was overruled by the U.S. Supreme Court in a politicized 5-4 decision, of which dissenting Justice John Paul Stevens remarked: "Although we may never know with complete certainty the identity of the winner of this year's presidential election, the identity of the loser is perfectly clear. It is the nation's confidence in the judge as an impartial guardian of the rule of law." Yet, even this provoked few demonstrators.

When people become broken, they cannot act on truths of injustice. Furthermore, when people have become broken, more truths about how they have been victimized can lead to shame about how they have allowed it. And shame, like fear, is one more way we become even more psychologically broken.

U.S. citizens do not actively protest obvious injustices for the same reasons that people cannot leave their abusive spouses: They feel helpless to effect change. The more we don't act, the weaker we get. And ultimately to deal with the painful humiliation over inaction in the face of an oppressor, we move to shut-down mode and use escape strategies such as depression, substance abuse, and other diversions, which further keep us from acting. This is the vicious cycle of all abuse syndromes.

Do some totalitarians actually want us to hear how we have been screwed because they know that humiliating passivity in the face of obvious oppression will demoralize us even further?

Maybe.

Shortly before the 2000 U.S. presidential election, millions of Americans saw a clip of George W. Bush joking to a wealthy group of people, "What a crowd tonight: the haves and the haves-more. Some people call you the elite; I call you my base." Yet, even with these kind of inflammatory remarks, the tens of millions of U.S. citizens who had come to despise Bush and his arrogance remained passive in the face of the 2000 non-democratic presidential elections.

Perhaps the "political genius" of the Bush-Cheney regime was in their full realization that Americans were so broken that the regime could get away with damn near anything. And the more people did nothing about the boot slamming on their faces, the weaker people became.

What forces have created a demoralized, passive, dis-couraged U.S. population?

The U.S. government-corporate partnership has used its share of guns and terror to break Native Americans, labor union organizers, and other dissidents and activists. But today, most U.S. citizens are broken by financial fears. There is potential legal debt if we speak out against a powerful authority, and all kinds of other debt if we do not comply on the job. Young people are broken by college-loan debts and fear of having no health insurance.

The U.S. population is increasingly broken by the social isolation created by corporate-governmental policies. A 2006 American Sociological Review study ("Social Isolation in America: Changes in Core Discussion Networks over Two Decades") reported that, in 2004, 25 percent of Americans did not have a single confidant. (In 1985, 10 percent of Americans reported not having a single confidant.) Sociologist Robert Putnam, in his 2000 book, Bowling Alone, describes how social connectedness is disappearing in virtually every aspect of U.S. life. For example, there has been a significant decrease in face-to-face contact with neighbors and friends due to suburbanization, commuting, electronic entertainment, time and money pressures and other variables created by governmental-corporate policies. And union activities and other formal or informal ways that people give each other the support necessary to resist oppression have also decreased.

We are also broken by a corporate-government partnership that has rendered most of us out of control when it comes to the basic necessities of life, including our food supply. And we, like many other people in the world, are broken by socializing institutions that alienate us from our basic humanity. A few examples:

Schools and Universities: Do most schools teach young people to be action-oriented -- or to be passive? Do most schools teach young people that they can affect their surroundings -- or not to bother? Do schools provide examples of democratic institutions -- or examples of authoritarian ones?

A long list of school critics from Henry David Thoreau to John Dewey, John Holt, Paul Goodman, Jonathan Kozol, Alfie Kohn, Ivan Illich, and John Taylor Gatto have pointed out that a school is nothing less than a miniature society: what young people experience in schools is the chief means of creating our future society. Schools are routinely places where kids -- through fear -- learn to comply to authorities for whom they often have no respect, and to regurgitate material they often find meaningless. These are great ways of breaking someone.

Today, U.S. colleges and universities have increasingly become places where young people are merely acquiring degree credentials -- badges of compliance for corporate employers -- in exchange for learning to accept bureaucratic domination and enslaving debt.

Mental Health Institutions: Aldous Huxley predicted today's pharmaceutical societyl "[I]t seems to me perfectly in the cards," he said, "that there will be within the next generation or so a pharmacological method of making people love their servitude."

Today, increasing numbers of people in the U.S. who do not comply with authority are being diagnosed with mental illnesses and medicated with psychiatric drugs that make them less pained about their boredom, resentments, and other negative emotions, thus rendering them more compliant and manageable.

Oppositional defiant disorder (ODD) is an increasingly popular diagnosis for children and teenagers. The official symptoms of ODD include, "often actively defies or refuses to comply with adult requests or rules," and "often argues with adults." An even more common reaction to oppressive authorities than the overt defiance of ODD is some type of passive defiance -- for example, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). Studies show that virtually all children diagnosed with ADHD will pay attention to activities that they actually enjoy or that they have chosen. In other words, when ADHD-labeled kids are having a good time and in control, the "disease" goes away.

When human beings feel too terrified and broken to actively protest, they may stage a "passive-aggressive revolution" by simply getting depressed, staying drunk, and not doing anything -- this is one reason why the Soviet empire crumbled. However, the diseasing/medicalizing of rebellion and drug "treatments" have weakened the power of even this passive-aggressive revolution.

Television: In his book Four Arguments for the Elimination of Television (1978), Jerry Mander (after reviewing totalitarian critics such as George Orwell, Aldous Huxley, Jacques Ellul, and Ivan Illich) compiled a list of the "Eight Ideal Conditions for the Flowering of Autocracy."

Mander claimed that television helps create all eight conditions for breaking a population. Television, he explained, (1) occupies people so that they don't know themselves -- and what a human being is; (2) separates people from one another; (3) creates sensory deprivation; (4) occupies the mind and fills the brain with rearranged experience and thought; (5) encourages drug use to dampen dissatisfaction (while TV itself produces a drug-like effect, this was compounded in 1997 the U.S. Food and Drug Administration relaxing the rules of prescription-drug advertising); (6) centralizes knowledge and information; (7) eliminates or "museumize" other cultures to eliminate comparisons; and (8) redefines happiness and the meaning of life.

Commericalism of Damn Near Everything: While spirituality, music, and cinema can be revolutionary forces, the gross commercialization of all of these has deadened their capacity to energize rebellion. So now, damn near everything -- not just organized religion -- has become "opiates of the masses."

The primary societal role of U.S. citizens is no longer that of "citizen" but that of "consumer." While citizens know that buying and selling within community strengthens that community and that this strengthens democracy, consumers care only about the best deal. While citizens understand that dependency on an impersonal creditor is a kind of slavery, consumers get excited with credit cards that offer a temporarily low APR.

Consumerism breaks people by devaluing human connectedness, socializing self-absorption, obliterating self-reliance, alienating people from normal human emotional reactions, and by selling the idea that purchased products -- not themselves and their community -- are their salvation.

Can anything be done to turn this around?

When people get caught up in humiliating abuse syndromes, more truths about their oppressive humiliations don't set them free. What sets them free is morale.

What gives people morale? Encouragement. Small victories. Models of courageous behaviors. And anything that helps them break out of the vicious cycle of pain, shut down, immobilization, shame over immobilization, more pain, and more shut down.

The last people I would turn to for help in remobilizing a demoralized population are mental health professionals -- at least those who have not rebelled against their professional socialization. Much of the craft of relighting the pilot light requires talents that mental health professionals simply are not selected for nor are they trained in. Specifically, the talents required are a fearlessness around image, spontaneity, and definitely anti-authoritarianism. But these are not the traits that medical schools or graduate schools select for or encourage.

Mental health professionals' focus on symptoms and feelings often create patients who take themselves and their moods far too seriously. In contrast, people talented in the craft of maintaining morale resist this kind of self-absorption. For example, in the question-and-answer session that followed a Noam Chomsky talk (reported in Understanding Power: The Indispensable Chomsky, 2002), a somewhat demoralized man in the audience asked Chomsky if he too ever went through a phase of hopelessness. Chomsky responded, "Yeah, every evening . . ."

If you want to feel hopeless, there are a lot of things you could feel hopeless about. If you want to sort of work out objectively what's the chance that the human species will survive for another century, probably not very high.

But I mean, what's the point? . . . First of all, those predictions don't mean anything -- they're more just a reflection of your mood or your personality than anything else. And if you act on that assumption, then you're guaranteeing that'll happen. If you act on the assumption that things can change, well, maybe they will. Okay, the only rational choice, given those alternatives, is to forget pessimism."

A major component of the craft of maintaining morale is not taking the advertised reality too seriously. In the early 1960s, when the overwhelming majority in the U.S. supported military intervention in Vietnam, Chomsky was one of a minority of U.S. citizens actively opposing it. Looking back at this era, Chomsky reflected, "When I got involved in the anti-Vietnam War movement, it seemed to me impossible that we would ever have any effect. . . . So looking back, I think my evaluation of the 'hope' was much too pessimistic: it was based on a complete misunderstanding. I was sort of believing what I read."

An elitist assumption is that people don't change because they are either ignorant of their problems or ignorant of solutions. Elitist "helpers" think they have done something useful by informing overweight people that they are obese and that they must reduce their caloric intake and increase exercise. An elitist who has never been broken by his or her circumstances does not know that people who have become demoralized do not need analyses and pontifications. Rather the immobilized need a shot of morale.

The people and activists are being whipped up into frenzy by the corporate news shows, and Fox News is in the forefront of this propaganda circus with their corporate shill fruit cake Glenn Beck. They are strategically and ever so amazingly re-routing the people's anger towards Washington and redirecting it towards Obama/Democrats and away from the Republican Party that STARTED THE WHOLE FINANCIAL MESS AND WARS TO BEGIN WITH. But most importantly, is the fact that they are turning up the heat of left vs. right stratagem into almost WAR like proportions.

Much though I loathe seeing such a moron as Glen Beck attributed with such importance, I have to admit it's probably true. It's his rants that are galvanizing the militias of the gullible, the uninitiated, the illiterate and drawing the lone kooks out of their bunkers. America is sick to its core. It's so sad. The marching/protesting goyim USEFUL IDIOT cattle have no clue who the REAL ENEMIES are and are being lead by Glenn, the corporate shill and Fox News to fulfill a predesigned agenda that is none other than engineering a controlled uprising of the useful idiots... the bogus corporat choreographed uprising will be billed and presented to all as: The New American Revolution... That will usher in the ruling elite's complete takeover...

"The best way to control opposition is to lead it ourselves." – Vladimir Ilyich Lenin

Glen beck is the elites best effort in STEERING and GUIDING the disillusioned distraught population's resentment in directions the elite wish, in sort of "controlled chaos" and "controlled implosions" where they limit the damage that would otherwise occur if they did not become proactive in providing "dissenting talking heads" such as Beck who strategically say what his handlers allow him in order to, again: STEER and preemptively control the dissention.

The corporate news titans are riding their PAWN Glenn Beck in a rodeo roundup. They are preemptively corralling the disenfranchised uninitiated naïve public who know that our government is in total shambles but don't yet have a full grasp of the ruling elite matrix and the extent to which this country has been corrupted by sinister entities. Thus Fox, Beck and company are spearheading an engineered controlled dissent of the tea bagging masses

Behold: You will witness the ruling elite use and lead the brain dead marching rally holding citizens to open the doors to the next phases of the illuminati agendas... paving the road to their own deeper enslavement as they cry out for relief from "Obama's" evil Nazi socialist government, the ruling elite will play out of the smoke and mirrors Tea Parties and mass marches will come their agenda of fascist corporate illuminati rule, further tightening their chokehold death grip around America's throat. [see Adendum section Manufacturing Dissent for more info]

As if the above scenarios were not enough, an increasingly alarming practice of our government is that of actively promoting Bio fuels such as Ethanol. This whole ethanol issue is one of the most dangerous and downright stupid ideas ever. First of all, the farm lands that once used to exist to grow FOOD are now being converted to grow food that is just processed and converted to fuel and or fuel additives. Thereby making prices of many food items unfairly rise, shortages happen, then prices go skyrocketing, not to mention that they are foolishly messing around with our FOOD supplies. DOH! And the domino effect is being felt in other sectors of society. This is absolute lunacy! What is this country trying to do? America is slowly destroying itself with absurd policies such as this.

These are just a few examples. There are so many an encyclopedia can be written on how our elected leaders policies and decisions are actually leading this once great nation to complete and utter DESTRUCTION.

Batten Down the Hatches

We're Screwed!

By Phil Maymin, Fairfield County Weekly

ShadowStats.com founder John Williams explains the risk of hyperinflation. Worst-case scenario? Rioting in the streets and devolution to a bartering system.

Do you believe everything the government tells you? Economist and statistician John Williams sure doesn't. Williams, who has consulted for individuals and Fortune 500 companies, now uncovers the truth behind the U.S. government's economic numbers on his Web site at ShadowStats.com. Williams says, over the last several decades, the feds have been infusing their data with optimistic biases to make the economy seem far rosier than it really is. His site reruns the numbers using the original methodology. What he found was not good.

Maymin: So we are technically bankrupt?

Williams: Yes, and when countries are in that state, what they usually do is rev up the printing presses and print the money they need to meet their obligations. And that creates inflation, hyperinflation, and makes the currency worthless.

Obama says America will go bankrupt if Congress doesn't pass the health care bill.

Well, it's going to go bankrupt if they do pass the health care bill, too, but at least he's thinking about it. He talks about it publicly, which is one thing prior administrations refused to do. Give him credit for that. But what he's setting up with this health care system will just accelerate the process.

Where are we right now?

In terms of the GDP, we are about halfway to depression level. If you look at retail sales, industrial production, we are already well into depressionary. If you look at things such as the housing industry, the new orders for durable goods we are in Great Depression territory. If we have hyperinflation, which I see coming not too far down the road, that would be so disruptive to our system that it would result in the cessation of many levels of normal economic commerce, and that would throw us into a great depression, and one worse than was seen in the 1930s.

What kind of hyperinflation are we talking about?

I am talking something like you saw with the Weimar Republic of the 1930s. There the currency became worthless enough that people used it actually as toilet paper or wallpaper. You could go to a fine restaurant and have an expensive dinner and order an expensive bottle of wine. The next morning that empty bottle of wine is worth more as scrap glass than it had been the night before filled with expensive wine.

We just saw an extreme example in Zimbabwe. ... Probably the most extreme hyperinflation that anyone has ever seen. At the same time, you still had a functioning, albeit troubled, Zimbabwe economy. How could that be? They had a workable backup system of a black market in U.S. dollars. We don't have a backup system of anything. Our system, with its heavy dependence on electronic currency, in a hyperinflation would not do well. It would probably cease to function very quickly. You could have disruptions in supply chains to food stores. The economy would devolve into something like a barter system until they came up with a replacement global currency.

What can we do to avoid hyperinflation? What if we just shut down the Fed or something like that?

We can't. The actions have already been taken to put us in it. It's beyond control. The government does put out financial statements usually in December using generally accepted accounting principles, where unfunded liabilities like Medicare and Social Security are included in the same way as corporations account for their employee pension liabilities. And in 2008, for example, the one-year deficit was $5.1 trillion dollars. And that's instead of the $450 billion, plus or minus, that was officially reported.

Wow.

These numbers are beyond containment. Even the 2008 numbers, you can take 100 percent of people's income and corporate profit and you'd still be in deficit. There's no way you can raise enough money in taxes.

What about spending?

If you eliminated all federal expenditures except for Medicare and Social Security, you'd still be in deficit. You have to slash Social Security and Medicare. But I don't see any political will to rein in the costs the way they have to be reined in. There's just no way it can be contained. The total federal debt and net present value of the unfunded liabilities right now totals about $75 trillion. That's five times the level of GDP.

What can we, the people, do to stop the government from, you know, taking all our money?

We should have acted 20 years ago. There's not much you can do at this point to prevent the eventual debasement of the dollar. This involves both sides of the political spectrum. It's not limited to the Republicans or the Democrats. They've both been very active in setting this up.

What can individuals do?

The only thing individuals can do now is look to protect themselves. I wish I could see a way, but shy of severe slashing of the social programs that is so politically reprehensible and would create such problems and social unrest, I don't see that as a practical solution.

If you're a young 20- or 25-year-old guy or gal, would you move to another country? What would you do?

We still have a great country. We're going through a period of economic pain. It's happened before. This is the kind of thing that's taken us decades to get into and it will take us decades to get out. Although the hyperinflation is going to be limited largely to the U.S., the economic downturn will affect things globally. I can't tell you how things will go with a hyperinflationary Great Depression, which is where I see things going.

It's the type of thing that will tend to lead to significant political change. People tend to vote their pocketbooks. You could have the rise of a third party. You could even have rioting in the streets. I'm not formally predicting that — anyone can run these different scenarios. For the individual, what you need to do, from an investment standpoint, look to preserve your wealth and assets. Don't worry about the day-to-day fluctuations in the markets. What I'm talking about here is over the long haul...

[Gold is] going to be highly volatile, as will the dollar, over the near term, but longer term, physical gold I would look at as a primary hedge for preserving the purchasing power of your wealth and assets. Maybe some physical silver. Get some assets outside the U.S. dollar. I might even look to move some assets physically outside the United States. The key here is to look at a longer range survival package, battening down the hatches, and preserving your wealth and assets during a very difficult time. Once you're through that, you'll have some extraordinary investment opportunities, and I can't tell you what it's going to be like on the other side of this crisis.

The orchestrated global warming hoax (or maybe it's a double sided strategy?) along with its systematic denial of existence of global warming, the continuing business as usual will eventually lead this nation head first into unforeseen dire circumstances we have yet to encounter. All we hear from our benevolent loving government is "everyone not need worry, continue as you are, and ignore all the tinfoil hat environmental, economic and government conspiracy "alarmists". Meanwhile our most benevolent wonderful leaders are busy in the back rooms figuring out how to tax us to death and usher in the next phases of oppression in the name of climate change. What gives? Know one knows what is up or down anymore. We are firmly in the middle of a massive lies and deceit fog so immense no one really knows whats going on with our environment.

Naomi Wolf Warns Americans - Video

What I find not only insanely alarming but downright extremely depressing is the fact that the majority of Americans continue to live blindly ignorant of the wholesale, in your face destruction of our nation. Look at this clip below from a TV show, the elite bastards that are taking over this country know that they can do and say anything they want even to the point of clearly telling it to the nation on TV, in the news, on the internet and they know that NO ONE will do a thing to stop the madness. Everything they are doing is being hidden in plain view!

Here is truly revealing piece of satire I found recently that is all too TRUE:

Sometime this year, we taxpayers may again receive an Economic Stimulus payment. This is an exciting program. I'll explain it using the Q and A format:

Q. What is an Economic Stimulus payment?

A. It is money that the federal government will send the taxpayers.

Q. Where will the government get this money?

A. From taxpayers.

Q. So the government is giving me back my own money?

A. Only a smidgen

Q. What is the purpose of this payment?

A. The plan is for you to use the money to purchase a high-definition TV set, thus stimulating the economy.

Q. But isn't that stimulating the economy of CHINA?

A. Shut up.

The following is some helpful advice on how to best help the U.S. economy by spending your stimulus check wisely:

If you spend the stimulus money at Wal-Mart, the money will go to China.

If you spend it on gasoline, your money will go to the Arabs.
 If you purchase a computer, it will go to India.
 If you purchase fruit and vegetables, it will go to Mexico, Honduras and Guatemala.
 If you buy a car, it will go to Japan or Korea.
 If you purchase useless stuff, it will go to Taiwan.
 If you pay your credit cards off, or buy stock, it will go to management bonuses and they will hide offshore.

Instead, keep the money in America by:

1. Spending it at yard sales, or
2. Going to ball games, or
3. Spending it on hookers, or
4. Beer, or
5. Tattoos

(These are the ONLY American businesses still operating in the U.S.)

Conclusion:

You can help America by going to a ball game and drinking beer all day with a tattooed hooker you met at a yard sale...

O'Meara believes that the people will come forth to stop the tyranny. I wish he were right. But I am afraid it is too late for stopping the 1,000 mph freight train that is circling the earth. The time for "men ready for the heroic life" came and went. Call me cynical, but I think it's just too late; all the pieces to world enslavement are in place. The individual countries have all been primed and ready for the next phases of enslavement to be introduced. These will come as the stage has been set in the midst of the engineered chaos of Economic Mass Destruction, the introduction of new virus pandemics, global warming fear, war, terrorism, alien invasions (from other countries) and the usual myriad of embedded distractions upon distractions that are a fact of everyday life.

The fact of the matter is that Europe, lead by England is at the forefront of ushering in the virtual police state rule as they are the world's leaders in surveillance society. Their populations have been under extreme surveillance for years now and are getting quite used to it. They are routinely investigated and stopped for no apparent reason. Their populations are being subjected to ever more draconian police state practices yet I have yet to see or hear of a massive outcry. The list of what they are going through is amazing, take the recent story of parents in (I believe it was) England being restricted from entering the playgrounds with their children because... (and folks, as always the truth is usually stranger than fiction)... now get this: All parents are potential pedophiles! Thus are banned from entering playgrounds unless they go through a full criminal background check and obtain clearance!

The reason I mention this case is because England and Europe are far way at the forefront of police state society. What you see happening over there will soon become reality over here. Our world has been transforming right before our very eyes. The world we once knew as an innocent place where things just randomly happen is no longer, the more you sit back, observe and study everything, the more you will realize that nothing ever just happens to become reality by happenstance, it is usually lobbied for, championed for, instigated and put into effect by others. Thus burrowing us into further enslavement and destruction of our beloved country and world.

We are living in a time that is unique in our nation's history, and very few people are taking notice. The United States of America was founded by men and women that wanted to escape oppression and to be free, and great effort was exerted to gain that freedom. We now live in the dark reality of a strong-armed and oppressive federalism that has all of the characteristics and potential of imperial Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome. Indeed, we are on the very brink of dictatorship in a new world order, just as predicted in various places in the Scriptures. How can this be happening here? Just one generation ago, it would not have been believed to be possible. I was born in the year 1950 and have lived in Wisconsin all of my life. I can truly say that this country is no longer the one in which I was born. We are living in a time when people want to be slaves of a government that will feed them, medicate them, entertain them, indoctrinate them, confiscate the fruit of their labors, and bury them.

We know from reading the Scripture how it angered the Almighty God when Israel complained in the wilderness and wanted to go back and be slaves in Egypt. Instead of seeking the Lord's help, they were so ready to give up their freedom and liberty for the so-called social security benefits of Egypt. It is the same in America today. Where is the dignity, integrity, and honor that was once so important to free men and women?

Behold, for: Despite my most pessimistic confidence in a majority of mankind to wake up, a fundamental truth is that no matter how bad things may look, we MUST NEVER GIVE UP. Yes a majority of the population will NEVER wakeup until it is too late. But that means more than ever we must try even harder, smarter, more creatively, think outside of the box to emancipate our fellow man. For it is written: it is darkest right before the dawn. Never surrender, never relent, never give up. The TRUTH is our neutron bomb weapon, the more people we reveal the truth to, the more people that are expose the ruling elite agenda, by simply removing the peoples blinders, breaking the brainwashing and showing them the TRUTH we will defeat the enemy of man who has been working for eons to enslave mankind. THE TRUTH WILL SET EVERYONE FREE. For that to happen you must become a truth warrior in ushering in the great awakening.

“None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free”

“he who has an ear, let him hear, he who has eyes, let him see”

..:EMANCIPATE YOURSELF FROM MENTAL SLAVERY:..

For it is written: “the TRUTH shall set you free”

“By their fruits ye shall know them.”

THE MORAL CORRUPTION OF NATIONS

Babylon The Great – The New Sodom and Gomorrah

“The Jews energetically reject the idea of fusion with the other nationalities and cling firmly to their historical hope of world empire...” - Max Mandelstam, World Zionist Congress, July 1898.

“Jerusalem is not the capitol of Israel and world Jewry: it aspires to become the spiritual center of the world...” - David Ben-Gurion, Jewish Chronicle, London, Dec. 16, 1949

“In Jerusalem, the United Nations (a truly United Nations) will build a Shrine of the Prophets to serve the federated union of all continents; this will be the seat of the Supreme Court of Mankind, to settle all controversies among the federated continents, as prophesied by Isaiah...” - David Ben-Burion, Look Magazine, Jan. 16, 1962

“The Jewish people cannot ever be destroyed, but rather they and their G-d of History will emerge in days to come triumphant over the evils and the foolishness of all other nations. Zion will and must emerge as the mount to which all other peoples turn.” - Rabbi Meir Kahane, Jewish Press, Brooklyn, New York, Nov. 9, 1973.

At this stage of the Matrix Report I find myself compelled to add this new section for I kept running into a problem of where to add pertinent info on the ruling elite's efforts to push our youth and world into skin crawling decadence in order to create a sinful Satanic Hell on earth to the liking of their master. But there is also a strategic rational tangible reason for their wanting the masses to become soulless, boozing, party animals devoid of critical thought with the priorities of just have a good time and not bother with the dull boring things such as government rule over them...

The early 1960's was the pivotal moment in history where America went spiraling down the deep end. Actually, I dare put an exact date: November 22, 1963. That was the pivotal moment America lost its innocence, that was the day the entire nation was mentally raped and the fallout began... The sixties was the pivotal moment in history where AMERICA'S NATIONAL SOUL WAS SEIZED AND POSSESSED BY EVIL DEMONS. It was immediately after the coup d'état execution of one of America's most beloved presidents that the masses soon began to rebel against the system. The Warren Commission was an obvious cover-up farce and millions of Americans new it. They silenced everyone, hid all the evidence and sealed everything in vaults for a hundred years that was their answer to the biggest crime of the century. Once JFK and his brother were gone, all the other politicians FEARED the power of the "hidden masters" so much so that no one dared to utter a word above a whisper in condemnation of them. Thus giving them carte blanche to do as they wished in the coming years.

With their new agent in place as president, one that was sympathetic to their agendas, they proceeded to conduct an all out mass transformation of this country. They immediately began to flood the nation with drugs in order to subjugate the millions of rebelling youth so the entire rebellious movement took a drastic turn off the deep end with everyone stoned out of their minds on acid, lsd, pot and so forth. The flood gates of drugs was colossal. Well it worked, the ruling elite managed to gain control the millions of rebelling youth by poisoning their brains, leaving them all stoned out of their minds wandering around forgetting what it was they were even rebelling about in the first place. Oh yeah, peace baby peace...back to sleep, sleep children.... Sleep.... Thus was the pivotal turning point of a nation.

America 1950 Vs. America 2010

1950: The total U.S. national debt is about 257 million dollars.

2010: The U.S. national debt is increasing by over 4 billion dollars per day.

1950: If a member of Congress doesn't tell the truth it is a felony.

2010: If a member of Congress doesn't tell the truth they are just playing politics.

1950: Americans dress up in suits and dresses to get on an airplane.

2010: Americans are forced to walk through full body security scanners that give gawking security workers a clear view of their naked bodies before they can get on an airplane.

1950: American schoolchildren openly read the Word of God and pray in public schools.

2010: Attempting to read your Bible or pray in a public school will get you slapped with a lawsuit by the ACLU.

1950: Wealth redistribution is considered communist and anti-American.

2010: Wealth redistribution is the official policy of the U.S. government.

1950: The U.S. Constitution is deeply loved and highly revered.

2010: Federal authorities are instructed to be on the lookout for anyone who talks about the U.S. Constitution too much because they might be a domestic terrorist.

1950: Mass murderers are executed and unborn babies are protected by law.

2010: Unborn babies are being mass murdered and mass murderers are protected by law from being executed in many states.

1950: We mobilize the entire U.S. military to protect the borders of South Korea.

Once their prey is completely subjugated with wonton plentiful adulterated entertainment and pleasure with their senses maxed out to the extreme on 24/7 entertainment, trivial bullshit and the pursuit of immoral happiness the rulers of man can go forth on their quest of world dominion unhindered by the morally enslaved public. The devil's number one ace up his sleeve is: FUN and excitement.

Let there be no doubt in your mind what are the objectives and goals of Lucifer/Satan/the Devil: To break man down into an animal is foremost in his relentless assaults. Satan's ENEMY #1 IS THE FAMILY. He has been working relentlessly throughout this century to destroy the family. His ace up his sleeve has been in convincing the world that he and God does not exist. Thus facilitating his efforts of turning mankind into a hedonistic society where decadence and immorality are fun and the norm. As the decades tick by the bar is raised (or should I say "lowered") for each subsequent generation, for when they were young they became accustomed to the new level of allowable customs, which become the new norms. Central to modern societies alarming fast plunge into the abyss has been the mass media with its hypnotic hold over the minds and hearts of man.

Many people understand that Hollywood, MTV, VH1, Hip Hop and Rock and Roll are THE main corruptors of moral values in the world. It seems as if the programming that comes out of these entities is deliberately designed to propagate and make decadence and immorality hip and cool. The FACT that these media companies are THE CENTRAL PUSHERS of immoral content is not even open to debate for it is a given. As I have been reiterating over and over again, there is no liberal media or conservative (right vs. left) because they are both owned and run by the SAME entities. For instance the stance Republican media corporation known as Fox ALSO is one of the most notorious purveyors of the most immoral and decadent liberal shows. The same goes for all the other media conglomerates. The entire leftwing vs. rightwing, liberal media vs. conservative media is just a bunch of bullshit fodder for the clueless masses and useful idiots.

"The prevalence of sex in the mainstream media has led many researchers to study its effect on impressionable adolescents. Many published, peer-reviewed studies have indicated that there is a link between exposure to sex in the media and the early onset of sexual activity among teens."

What the people DO NOT KNOW is WHO the puppet masters behind the curtains are. Again I have to admit, I am heartbroken and sadden to have to admit and reveal that the biggest purveyors of sin are also my Jewish brethren.

The Zionist agenda to corrupt the very fabric of Christian and Muslim worlds is clearly stated in the manifesto of the Learned Elders of Zion. Their modern Zionist Jew descendents have been accomplishing EVERY SINGLE agenda written in that ancient text to perfection. This is not coincidence, the world's greatest mathematicians would surely be stumped in trying to figure the mathematical odds of some ancient text that its people "claim" is false yet EVERY SINGLE entry has come to fruition exactly as predicated in the Learned Elders of Zion manifesto.

MTV Exposed – part 1, part 2, part 3, part 4 (must see!)

One of their goals is to immerse our world in total decadence so that we would all become like animals then their supremacy would surely shine, with the masses inundated in immorality, stupidified and broken down to their most primal form the CHOSEN ONES, the sons of Israel whom in this case are the wolves in sheep's clothing better known as the Zionist Synagogue of Satan can rule over the fallen.

I feel no need to re-invent the wheel, others have come before me and conducted plenty of research on this topic, here are some of their findings:

Humanity Under Attack: The Tactics Of Social Engineering

By Daniel Taylor, Old-thinker news | Feb. 27, 2007

Comment: The social engineering tactics mentioned in this article are but a few of many. Further independent research into each area will reveal many more details not mentioned here. I encourage you to reflect on this information and relate it to what you have already observed in your own life.

The history of humanity has been one long stream of free human beings fighting against despotic tyrants; the tribe, and the families within it defending themselves against oppression. Today, the western world is falling into the depths of tyranny mirroring Orwell's 1984, and a predatory system is being erected. In the event that you, your friends, family, and the rest of the general population are successfully convinced that selfish needs outweigh those of others, are robbed of individuality, passion, empathy and principle, the fabric of society disintegrates. In this social climate, the perfect environment is created for predators from within our own species to misdirect and finally enslave the distracted, decadent population. Corrupt politicians are venerated, celebrity worshipped, and security outweighs the desire for liberty. Mindless worship of power, support of dictators and their atrocities, general degradation of society, loss of liberty; it all stems from you not respecting yourself, not retaining your sense of individuality, and in turn the fire that beats in your breast for FREEDOM.

Contrary to what many believe, there currently exists an elite on this planet, a ruthless, cunning elite that seeks to dominate free human beings the world over, and humanity as a whole, as a tribe, is threatened by them. They make no secret about their plans, and little attempt to hide their intentions. Honor is their enemy, courage their foe, and they dread the thought of free, informed human beings armed with the truth, - and a passion for it - standing in opposition to them and their programs of domination. In ancient times, the family, the tribe, and the protection of both from harm were priorities, that if ignored would lead to the destruction of both family and tribe. Fundamental drives, instincts, and other aspects of humanity are today manipulated, controlled, and redirected by social engineers.

I see too many of my peers emulating their favorite TV personalities, and dressing like rap stars, amounting to an amalgamation of different characters into one individual who hasn't a clue who they are or what they stand for. Individuality is often cast aside in order to win the favor of the group, which sees the trinkets and symbols of popularity as keys to acceptance, in place of the true substance of the person. Electronic gadgets which seem to fill up every second of our free time distract us from doing any kind of introspection, which may result in the questioning of ourselves, and eventually our entire society.

Fulfillment, we are so often told, is found in superficial, material objects which bear no true significance to ourselves, others, or our eternal soul. Some wear the symbols of power, of success; status symbols which we're sold on believing that they somehow elevate us to a higher level. The search for meaning and fulfillment must start with you examining your own heart, a recognition of your own imperfections, a development of respect for yourself, and in turn, others.

Your individuality, self respect, and strong character are powerful defenses against the many social engineering practices that will be detailed.

With this in mind, read on, and ask yourself these fundamental questions; Who are you? What do you stand for?

Manipulation of the public mind

“If we understand the mechanism and motives of the group mind, is it not possible to control and regiment the masses according to our will without their knowing about it?”

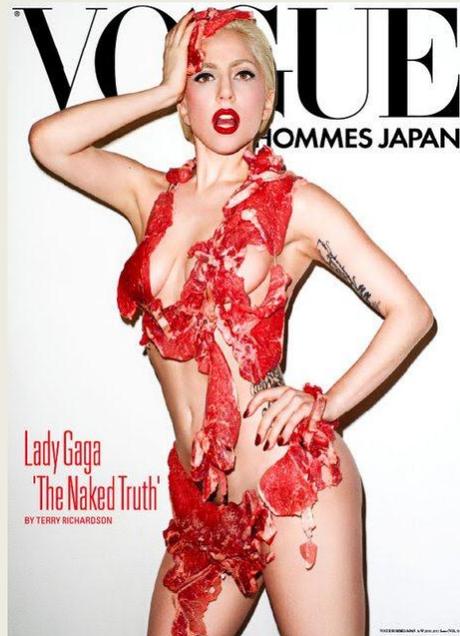

This was the question posed by the father of modern propaganda and public relations, Edward Bernays, who consulted with businesses, corporations, and even the U.S. military on multiple occasions. Bernays illustrates in his book “Propaganda” (1928) the technique of the manipulation of the public mind.

“The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country... We are governed, our minds are molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of.”

One of the many successful propaganda campaigns that Bernays launched involved the dramatic changing of the perception of women towards smoking. In just a matter of days the once taboo and unhealthy act of women smoking – which was previously a strictly masculine habit – became a “liberating” experience, and was portrayed as being an “alternative” to sweets. The success of this campaign illustrates the relative ease which human beings can be manipulated.

In response to seeing drops in the tobacco market, George Washington Hill, the president of American Tobacco asked Ed Bernays to help him. In 1929, Bernays saw an opportunity that he could not pass. Women were in the crosshairs for the next marketing campaign. He hired young, beautiful models to pose as members of the women’s suffrage movement, and to be part of New York’s Easter parade. The models lit up cigarettes while wearing banners proudly displaying the words “torch of liberty.” The press took photos which appeared in newspapers and popular magazines across the country. Suddenly the perception of women, after seeing their peers who were elevated to celebrity status in taking the bold step in “liberating” themselves with a puff of smoke, changed forever.

In the past, as with the example of Ed Bernays, those who wished to deceive and manipulate large groups of people were limited by the technological constraints of their time. Today, the human mind itself is accessible and can be infiltrated through technological means in a manner which cannot not be achieved through letters in a newspaper, photographs, or commentators over the radio. Television is one such technology. In The Perfect Machine: TV and the Nuclear Age, Joyce Nelson cites a very important study regarding Television. In 1969, a researcher named Herbert Krugman conducted a study of the effects of TV viewing on the brain. What Krugman found was that the left hemisphere of the brain, the analytical, critically thinking side of the brain is tuned out while watching TV. The right hemisphere, which is the emotional, non critical side continues to function unaltered. Krugman concluded his study by saying that, “...the mode of response to television is more or less constant and very different from the response to print.” Krugman continues,

“[Television is] a communication medium that effortlessly transmits huge quantities of information not thought about at the time of exposure.” (Nelson, p 69-70)

Social engineering is not a strategy that is restricted to extravagant marketing ploys aimed at consumers. Governments also seek control over target populations, and the maneuvering of the target towards a desired goal through various techniques and strategies. While not all negative social trends are directly instigated by individuals, organizations or governments plotting for greater control, these trends, in the end, serve the same goal.

In the first publication of the General Education Board, dated 1904, Fred Gates, one of the creators of the foundation boasts of an arrogant, elitist agenda. This agenda does not aim to aid in the progress of humanity, but to maintain the status quo in order to create a more easily controlled population. Gates says,

“In our dreams, we have limitless resources and the people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding hands. The present educational conventions fade from our minds, and unhampered by traditions, we work our own good will upon a grateful and responsive rural folk!

“We shall not try to make these people or any of their children into Philosophers or men of learning, or men of science. We have not to raise up from among them authors, editors, poets or men of letters. We shall not search for embryo great artists, painters, musicians nor lawyers, doctors, preachers, politicians, statesmen, of whom we have an ample supply.”

The family under attack

One of the main obstructions to negative social and political change, and the general march towards tyranny has been the strong family unit. Strong families pass down tradition, teach right from wrong, and provide a foundation upon which developing girls and boys grow. Warren Bennis and Philip Slater detail in their book, “The Temporary Society” (1968) the manner in which youth of any society can be misdirected, and influenced to rebel against their families, fall into the hands of the state, be indoctrinated with new ideas, and in turn become future enforcers or servants of a tyrannical system.

“One cannot permit submission to parental authority if one wishes to bring about profound social change...In order to effect rapid changes, any such centralized regime must mount a vigorous attack on the family lest the traditions of present generations be preserved. It is necessary, in other words, artificially to create an experiential chasm between parents and children to insulate the latter in order that they can more easily be indoctrinated with new ideas. The desire may be to cause an even more total submission to the state, but if one wishes to mold children in order to achieve some future goal, one must begin to view them as superior, inasmuch as they are closer to this future goal. One must also study their needs with care in order to achieve this difficult preparation for the future. One must teach them not to respect their tradition-bound elders, who are tied to the past and know only what is irrelevant.”

Brock Chisholm, the first Director-General of the World Health Organization, wrote in the February 1946 issue of PSYCHIATRY that, “To achieve world government, it is necessary to remove from the minds of men their individualism, loyalty to family tradition, national patriotism, and religious dogmas...”

The feminist women’s liberation movement has been criticized by many as being a major factor in the weakening of the family unit. It is of interest that the CIA was indirectly involved with the funding and popularization of this movement. Whether or not it was the intention of the CIA to accomplish the goal of weakening the family cannot be proven. However, the fruits of the movement have led to this end. The movement’s goals seem noble. Aaron Russo, a famous Hollywood producer and documentary film maker recently spoke of conversations with his former friend Nick Rockefeller, who told him that the Rockefeller family funded women’s liberation. “What do you think women’s liberation was about?” Rockefeller asked Russo. “I said I think women ought to have the right to work, get equal pay with men, just like they won the right to vote. He said ‘you’re an idiot’ and I said why am I an idiot? He said... we the Rockefeller’s funded that, we funded women’s lib, we’re the one’s who got all of the newspapers and television – the Rockefeller Foundation.” Gloria Steinem, one of the most prominent voices in the early stages of the women’s liberation movement was recruited by the CIA in 1958. CIA colleague Clay Felker became an editor of the Esquire magazine in the 1960's and published Steinem's articles, which aided in the establishment of Steinem as a leading voice.

Decadent culture, conquered men

Culture is a vastly important influence in the shaping of any society. It too is vulnerable to manipulation and negative influence. Amongst the plethora of examples, one in particular can be found in the transformation of the hip-hop music genre into the form which we see it today. This phenomenon was highlighted recently by film maker Byron Hurt. In his film, "Beyond Beats and Rhymes", Hurt criticizes the modern image and lyrics of hip hop and its negative influences on young black men and women, which portrays masculinity in a disproportionate and destructive way. "I sometimes feel bad for criticizing hip-hop, but I guess what I'm trying to do is to get us men to just take a hard look at ourselves," says Hurt. Masculinity is a primary target of those who wish to dominate any society. The most desirable situation is one in which it can be destroyed outright, but it can also be misdirected. If the base desires of masculinity over-ride the drives to nurture, to lay down one's life in protection of the tribe, the family and children, a society is malleable, submissive, and in the end conquered.

In the past, African American music promoted a positive message of love, and unity; spiritual songs which were meant to uplift and carry downtrodden slaves through the trying years of slavery. Hip hop carried on this tradition through the 70's and into the 80's for a time, until it began to change. Corporations took note of the growing potential market – and they know what sells. Turn on MTV today and you'll most likely catch a glimpse of a rap video displaying a black man with beautiful women writhing around him caressing his body, singing of his immense material wealth while he throws money at the camera. Byron Hurt comments on this modern hip-hop culture; the cage in which certain social parameters are expected and self enforced. "You're like in this box... in order to be in that box you have to be strong you have to be tough, you have to have a lot of girls, you gotta have money, you gotta to be a player, or a pimp... you know you gotta be in control... dominate other men, other people.. if you're not any of those things people call you soft, or weak... or a chump... so everybody stays inside the box."

The distortion of masculinity is not limited to boundaries of race. All are vulnerable. "Little men" as Wilhelm Reich calls them, are found everywhere in a society which undermines the true characteristics of manhood and replaces them with a mere facade. They don't respect themselves, in fact many hate themselves. For this reason they attack everything that is good and pure in others. They hide behind masks of power and strength, behind which lays a coward. Wilhelm Reich describes these little men in his book "Listen Little Man!",

"You differ from a great man in only one respect: the great man was once a very little man, but he developed one important quality: he recognized the smallness and narrowness of his thoughts and actions. Under the pressure of some task which meant a great deal to him, he learned to see how his smallness, his pettiness, endangered his happiness. In other words, a great man knows when and in what way he is a little man. A little man does not know he is little and is afraid to know. He hides his pettiness and narrowness behind illusions of strength and greatness, someone else's strength and greatness. He's proud of his great generals but not of himself. He admires an idea he has not had, not one he has had. The less he understands something, the more firmly he believes in it. And the better he understands an idea, the less he believes in it."

Divide and rule

Divide et impera (Divide and rule). These words are attributed to Philip II, king of Macedon (382-336 BC), who employed this strategy to rule the Greek city-states. Thought it may be an old tactic, its effectiveness has not worn over the ages. Military strategists in ancient Rome used it to cause chaos and confusion amongst tribes and in turn conquer them with little or no force. Governments today use it to distract people from prescient issues by focusing on ones of lesser or petty significance. The strategy is quite simple; by dividing large groups of individuals into smaller ones, a potentially threatening force is broken. Morale is stifled, unity non-existent, and instead of the people focusing their anger and resentment toward their true oppressors, they fight amongst themselves.

In America, the two party system is divided into two main camps; Republicans and Democrats. Today, many naturally assume that both parties strive to achieve separate goals and often oppose each other on important issues. However, an observation of the actions of the two parties in the past several years reveals that, while on the surface we see quarrels between them, when it comes to the foundational issues of the Constitution and Bill of Rights, they find common ground in their often outright attacks on liberty. The result: a gradual and incremental degradation of liberty, with both political parties – believing they are furthering the cause of their side – cheering on the destruction of their freedom.

Carroll Quigley, mentor to Bill Clinton and professor at both Princeton and Harvard, wrote in his book “Tragedy and Hope: A History of the World in Our Time” that,

“The argument that the two parties should represent opposed ideals and policies, one, perhaps, of the Right and the other of the Left, is a foolish idea acceptable only to the doctrinaire and academic thinkers. Instead, the two parties should be almost identical, so that the American people can “throw the rascals out” at any election without leading to any profound or extreme shifts in policy...”

Destruction of history

The disconnect between a people and their history is a vital step in the domination of any society. If a people loses its ancestral memory of the choking tyranny that it fought in times past, what is left to encourage them to oppose it in the future? As George Orwell stated so succinctly, “He who controls the present, controls the past. He who controls the past, controls the future.”

This principle has not been lost on China’s government, which has recently moved to completely remove any reference to the brutal dictator, Mao Tse-tung from its history books. Newsmax reported on the development:

“Mao Tse-tung, one of history’s greatest mass murderers, and the tyrant who ruled China with an iron fist for 27 years, has all but vanished from China’s newest history books. According to Friday’s New York Times, China’s new standard world history text eliminates mentions of “wars, dynasties and Communist revolutions in favor of colorful tutorials on economics, technology, social customs and globalization.”

The history book’s authors, who were brutally honest as to their intentions, told the New York Times that the new book is intended to promote “a more stable, less violent view of Chinese history that serves today’s economic and political goals.”

Today, the Chinese government is exercising horrendous tyranny over its people. Massive land grabbing is happening all across the land, as organs are being harvested from prisoners, who are often innocent. Public executions and “mobile death vans” are the norm. This Sky news video shows broken individuals who have lost their homes and are living on the streets. One Chinese man, Xue Xiangbiao, recently threatened to set himself on fire in defense of his home, which has been passed down through his family for around 50 years. A video obtained by the Washington post in 2005 shows a brutal attack on Chinese farmers in Shengyou, China who are defending their land from a state land grab with axes and shovels against men with guns and other ordinances.

“...they will tear you to pieces”

George Orwell penned a vivid scene in his book “1984” in which the main character, Winston, has been captured, and is being tortured into compliance. Winston and his torturer, O’Brien exchange these words:

“As usual, the voice had battered Winston into helplessness. Moreover he was in dread that if he persisted in his disagreement O’Brien would twist the dial again. And yet he could not keep silent. Feebly, without arguments, with nothing to support him except his inarticulate horror of what O’Brien had said, he returned to the attack.

‘I don’t know – I don’t care. Somehow you will fail. Something will defeat you. Life will defeat you.’

‘We control life, Winston, at all its levels. You are imagining that there is something called human nature which will be outraged by what we do and will turn against us. But we create human nature. Men are infinitely malleable. Or perhaps you have returned to your old idea that the proletarians or the slaves will arise and overthrow us. Put it out of your mind. They are helpless, like the animals. Humanity is the Party. The others are outside – irrelevant.’

‘I don’t care. In the end they will beat you. Sooner or later they will see you for what you are, and then they will tear you to pieces.’

‘Do you see any evidence that that is happening? Or any reason why it should?’

‘No. I believe it. I know that you will fail. There is something in the universe – I don’t know, some spirit, some principle – that you will never overcome.’”

Individuality, the free human spirit, its un-wavering stance in the face of overwhelming odds, its defense of everything that is good and just is the thorn in the side of every would be dictator that has ever lived and ever will live.

With God’s help, brothers and sisters, we will beat them! Take back your soul, step up to the plate and fight the New World Order!

The enemies of this nation had vowed to “destroy us from within”...

The brake down of the family is the way to conquer a Country. The family Unit is the basis for every Government when it goes so does all the other things that weld a society together. Those who preach and maintain family values and set examples of Moral fortitude as targets for those would be conquerors. They cannot have those who would stabilize the country and make it strong with values and Morals and Unity since this would make the Country impenetrable. So the test of ridding the Country and the World of such people. Start by making false statement about them be it their religion or their way of life, if they are a different color than the main stream use this a means of a divisor draw a comparison make it seem that they are of an inferior stock no matter what lie or what you have to do you must rid yourself of these who would thwart your plans for National and global Domination. Keep the Country busy with these things you have contrived and if you have kill a few thousands to sway the Country so be it. Play on their Patriotism even through you yourselves cause the desolation that has caused such agony for many. You must weaken their armies all the while playing up the fact that they must build up the Armies divert the money to other projects that further your cause. Take out as many of their soldiers as possible through war or experimental testing on them under the guise of war. Never let the public be able to think for themselves you control their point of view threw preconceived propaganda because you control the Media, nothing on Main stream Media will be seeing or reported unless you sanction it. Do away with all Civil Rights Advocates or Activists groups or single individuals by buying them out because they will be too afraid to oppose you in fear of their funding being cut off. Single individuals that won't go along with the program set them up, make them seem they are an enemy of the state if they question your methods. Use whatever method you need to discredit and destroy them. Under the guise of Protecting the Country Jail them, jail their children, anything to keep them shut up. Do not let them have any contact with the Media or any means for their Stories to be told to the populace of America this could be deadly for your plans of Conquest. Destroy them financially so they will have no means of rallying any one because it takes money to get heard in America. American's love the Rich and The Famous even though they are the ones that are defrauding them of everything and now the final conquest: take over their actual will.

Children 'at risk from pop charts porn': Top producer Mike Stock blasts his own industry

By Ben Todd, 11th August 2010

The man who helped launch the career of Kylie Minogue yesterday condemned modern pop culture for 'sexualizing' youngsters.

Mike Stock, one third of the legendary pop factory Stock, Aitken and Waterman, said: 'The music industry has gone too far. It's not about me being old fashioned. It's about keeping values that are important in the modern world.'

'These days you can't watch modern stars - like Britney Spears or Lady Gaga - with a two-year-old.'

'Not suitable for children': Lady Gaga in concert in St. Louis, Missouri, last month

'Ninety-nine per cent of the charts is R 'n' B and 99 per cent of that is soft pornography.'

He continued: 'Kids are being forced to grow up too young. Look at the videos. I wouldn't necessarily want my young kids to watch them.'

'I would certainly be embarrassed to sit there with my mum.'

Mr Stock, 58, pictured below, was behind the rise of Miss Minogue in the late 1980s when she stormed the charts with I Should Be So Lucky.

In the accompanying video, she wore a simple black cocktail dress. The lyrics were similarly innocent.

In contrast, 24-year-old Lady Gaga, who burst on to the scene two years ago, has regularly used crude metaphors in her lyrics as well as posing in revealing outfits.

Mr Stock believes that today's children are being 'sexualized' as a result of images put out by the pop industry of stars such as Lady Gaga.

He said: 'Mothers of young children are worried because you can't control the TV remote control.'

'Before children even step into school, they have all these images - the pop videos and computer games like Grand Theft Auto - confronting them and the parents can't control it. Talking to mothers' groups, they were saying that even they have lost faith in brands like Disney.'

At risk: Mike Stock from famous 1980s production team Stock, Aitken and Waterman says children are now being 'sexualized' by pop

'They were quite happy to put their kids in front of the telly to watch Hannah Montana but recently Miley Cyrus [who played Montana] has shown off her maturing body.'

He also attacked the launch last week of the Material Girl clothes range by Madonna's 13-year-old daughter Lourdes, which features short skirts and slashed tops.

'I'm being told by mothers of young kids they're worried by the pressure on them for their children to wear clothes and make-up at a young age.'

'Lourdes is a 13-year-old girl. Madonna may have been happy but I bet about 90 per cent of parents wouldn't be happy with that.'

As a result of these concerns, Stock has written and produced a new musical, called The Go! Go! Go! Show, which is playing in London.

He said: 'It's born out of my frustration with the way the music industry has gone.'

'We've written a family-orientated show. They [the mothers' groups] have been telling me what they want - and we have been trying to deliver it.'

I am totally flabbergasted that extremely few people connect the dots concerning the rampant MEDIA CARTEL overt corruption of our society. NO OTHER ENTITY OR FACTOR is more culpable for leading this world into immoral abyss other than the MEDIA INDUSTRIAL MATRIX. Period. Leftwing/rightwing? It doesn't mean shit, because every network broadcasts BOTH types of PROGRAMMING. For instance you see Fox Brainwashing Network proudly proclaiming they are "conservative channel" and actively push the conservative political agenda, meanwhile Fox routinely airs some of the most cutting edge liberal decadent shows on a daily basis. The hype is just bullshit, it is sad indeed that no one sees through this common double speak.

The media world consists of TV, news, Hollywood, music, entertainment, magazines and books, and this ENTIRE realm is owned/controlled like an iron fist almost entirely by the Zionist cartel. When will you goyim cattle ever figure it all out? These are your masters who decide what to air on TV, news, music, Hollywood and so on.

The programming that is offered up for your daily consumption is premeditatedly brought to you by your Zionist cartel overlords... Hate the truth if you like, not message or the messenger. Awaken ye death dumb and blind cattle.

"The Illuminati use artists to program people. Music artists are used as a tool to spread hate, violence and all sorts of other evils through their music. They are very good at corrupting the minds of children and teenagers to give them the belief that life is all about having money, fame and sex. And this is what most mainstream artists sing about these days." - The Music Industry Exposed

The Pied Piper of the Godless Music Industry - The Domination of Our Youth

The Ignorant Fishermen, July 13, 2010

Wherever one goes today, multitudes of teens and young children can be seen avidly imitating and idolizing the vast array of musicians and their decadent, chic culture and lifestyle. Television, satellite radio, iPods and the internet have revolutionized and intensified the accessibility to this hypnotic, godless spirit (2 Cor. 4:3-4; Eph. 2:1-2). America's youth in particular are being intoxicated and brainwashed at an exponential rate with Lucifer's subtle and godless message of "Do as Thou wilt."
